

Bequest of

Rev. Ib. C. Scadding, D.D.

to the Library of the University of Toronto

The First Bdition of Shakespeare.

THE WORKS

OF

VILLIAM SHAKESPEARE

IN REDUCED FACSIMILE

FROM THE FAMOUS FIRST FOLIO EDITION OF 1623.

WITH AN INTRODUCTION

By J. O. HALLIWELL-PHILLIPPS.

53 089 2

Hondon:
CHATTO AND WINDUS, PICCADILLY.
1876.

PR 2751 A15 1876

PREFACE.

IT may be safely asserted, without fear of the writer being accused of exaggeration, that the First Folio Edition of Shakespeare is the most interesting and valuable book in the whole range of English literature. There is no work in that literature at all approaching near to it in critical value. When it is mentioned that this volume is the sole authority for the texts of such masterpieces as the Tempest, Macbeth, Twelfth Night, Measure for Measure, Coriolanus, Julius Cæsar, Timon of Athens, Antony and Cleopatra, Cymbeline, As you Like It, and The Winter's Tale—were the rest of the book wastepaper, enough will have been said to confirm its unrivalled importance. And its value increases every day, for day by day it is more clearly ascertained that many of the subtler meanings of passages in the works of Shakespeare depend upon minute indications and peculiarities which are alone to be traced in the original printed text.

A few of the dramas in the First Folio were possibly edited from Shakespeare's original manuscripts. This may be conjectured to have been probably the case with some of the author's latest productions, single copies of which might have sufficed for some years for the necessities of the theatres; but there can be no doubt that most of the autographs of the plays had been lost some time before the writer's decease, many possibly having been destroyed by the fire at the Globe Theatre in the year 1613. The editors of the Folio, however, boldly assert that they "have published them as where before you were abused with divers stolen and surreptitious copies, maimed and deformed by the frauds and stealths of injurious impostors that exposed them, even those are now offered to your view cured and perfect of their limbs, and all the rest absolute in their numbers as he conceived them; who, as he was a happy imitator of nature, was a most gentle expresser of it; his mind and hand went together, and what he thought he uttered with that easiness that we have scarce received from him a blot in his papers." This evidently is meant to imply that the whole of the volume was carefully edited from the author's manuscripts, whereas it is certain that in several instances Heminge and Condell used printed copies of the old quarto editions, in which were certain manuscript alterations, some of the latter being valuable, but others the reverse. Horne Tooke, indeed, inconsiderately followed by numerous others, goes so far as to say that "the First Folio is the only edition worth regarding;" adding, -"it is much to be wished that an edition of Shakespeare were given literatim according to the First Folio, which is now become so scarce and dear that few persons can obtain it; for, by the presumptuous license of the dwarfish commentators, we risk the loss of Shakespeare's genuine text which that Folio assuredly contains, notwithstanding some few slight errors of the press." Horne Tooke was not so well read as were the commentators, none of whom could have exhibited such an entire ignorance of the value of the Quartos. Every one, however, who has really studied the question, must admit that his opinion is correct in regard to no inconsiderable portion of the Folio volume, and that, even in those cases in which the texts of the Quartos are on the whole to be preferred, no student of Shakespeare could possibly dispense with incessant references to the collective edition. The value of the First Folio is so unequivocal, that there is no necessity for its wildest partizan to resort to exaggeration.

The reader will more readily understand the purport of these observations, if we add a list of the plays in the order in which they are here printed, with observations on the relative authorities of the texts. It will, of course, be understood that the mention of the circumstance of any drama in this volume being a first edition, conveys also the fact that it is the only authoritative text:—1. The Tempest. First edition. Perhaps edited from the author's own manuscript, which we know was not amongst those destroyed in the fire at the Globe Theatre. 2. The Two Gentlemen of Verona. First edition. 3. The Merry Wives of Windsor. First edition of the play in its complete state. A surreptitious quarto appeared in 1602, but it is merely an imperfect copy of the author's first sketch of the comedy. 4. Measure for Measure. First edition. 5. Comedy of Errors. First edition. 6. Much Ado about Nothing. Printed from a quarto edition which appeared in 1600, with a few omissions and variations. 7. Love's Labour's Lost. Printed from a quarto edition published in 1598, with a few alterations of slight consequence. 8. A Midsummer Night's Dream.

Printed from Roberts's quarto edition of 1600. The Merchant of Venice. Printed from Heyes's quarto of 1600, with a number of variations and corrections. 10. As You Like It. First edition. 11. The Taming of the Shrew. First edition. 12. All's Well that Ends Well. First edition. 13. Twelfth Night. First edition. 14. The Winter's Tale. First edition. 15. King John. First edition. 16. Richard the Second. Mainly printed from the quarto edition of 1615. 17. First Part of Henry the Fourth. Chiefly taken from the quarto edition of 1613. 18. Second Part of Henry the Fourth. There was a quarto edition issued in 1600, but the editors of the Folio appear to have used a manuscript playhouse transcript of the comedy. 19. Henry the Fifth. First complete edition. The earlier quartos were surreptitiously printed, and are very imperfect. 20. First Part of Henry the Sixth. First edition. This play could not have been written by Shakespeare, though he may possibly have added a few touches to it. 21. The Second Part of Henry the Sixth. First edition. It is an alteration of an older play called the "First part of the Contention betwixt the Two Famous Houses of York and Lancaster, with the Death of the good Duke Humphrey," 1594. 22. The Third Part of Henry the Sixth. First edition.

It is an alteration of the "True Tragedy of Richard Duke of York, and the Death of good King Henry the Sixth, with the whole Contention between the two Houses, Lancaster and York," 1595. 23. Richard the Third. Edited from a playhouse copy of the quarto edition of 1602, which must, however, have had numerous manuscript alterations and additions. 24. Henry the Eighth. First edition. 25. Troilus and Cressida. Printed from the quarto of 1609, with certain omissions and some valuable additions. 26. Coriolanus. First edition. 27. Titus Andronicus. Edited from a playhouse transcript. It is nearly impossible to believe that this drama could have been written by Shakespeare, and I rather incline to conjecture that the editors of the First Folio inserted the older play on the subject, first printed in 1594, through either mistake or ignorance, knowing that Shakespeare had written a drama on the same theme, and finding no other version of it in their collection of plays. 28. Romeo and Juliet. Edited from a playhouse copy of the quarto edition of 1609. 29. Timon of Athens. First edition. 30. Julius Casar. First edition. 31. Macbeth. First edition. 32. Hamlet. Edited from a playhouse transcript. King Lear. Edited from a playhouse transcript, certainly not from the author's manuscript. 34. Othello. Edited from a playhouse transcript. 35. Antony and Cleopatra. First edition. 36. Cymbeline. First edition.

The First Folio was originally issued at the selling price of twenty shillings. The present average value of a perfect copy is £500, and one very fine example in the possession of Lady Burdett-Coutts cost that lady, at the Daniel sale, no less a sum than £714. There is no doubt that these prices will be largely exceeded in the future. It is scarcely necessary to say that the volume has been for generations the almost exclusive property of wealthy collectors, and a sealed book to the generality of readers and students. the aid of modern science it is now placed in a conveniently reduced form within the reach of all. It is not of course pretended that any facsimile of any old book will in all cases of minute research entirely supersede the necessity of a reference to copies of the ancient impression, but for all usual practical objects of study this cheap reproduction will place its owner on a level with the envied possessors of the far-famed original.

J. O. HALLIWELL-PHILLIPPS.

SHAKESPEARE:

THE FIRST FOLIO.

[1623.]

A Reduced Facsimile.

To the Reader.

This Figure, that thou here seest put,
It was for gentle Shakespeare cut:
Wherein the Grauer hada strife with Nature, to out doo the life:
O, could he but have drawne his wit
As well in brasse, as he hath hit
Hisface, the Print would then surpasse
All, that was ever writin brasse.
But, since he cannot, Reader, looke
Not on his Picture, but his Booke.

B. I.

SHAKESPEARES.

COMEDIES, & HISTORIES, & TRAGEDIES.

Published according to the True Originall Copies.

LONDON
Printed by Mac laggard, and Ed. Blount. 1623.

TO THE MOST NOBLE

AND INCOMPARABLE PAIRE OF BRETHREN.

WILLIAM

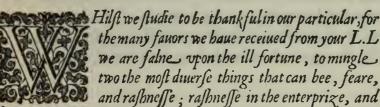

Earleof Pembroke, &c. Lord Chamberlaine to the Kings most Excellent Maiesty.

AND

PHILIP

Earle of Montgomery, &c. Gentleman of his Maiestics Bed-Chamber. Both Knights of the most Noble Order of the Garter, and our fingular good LORDS.

Right Honourable,

feare of the successe. For, when we valew the places your H.H.

sustaine, we cannot but know their dignity greater, then to descend to the reading of these trisles: and, while we name them trisles, we have deprived our selves of the defence of our Dedication. But since your L.L. have beene pleased to thinke these trisles some-thing, hecretofore; and have prosequited both them, and their Authour living, with so much favour: we hope, that (they out-living him, and he not having the sate, common with some, to be exequitor to his owne writings) you will use the like indulgence toward them, you have done

The Epistle Dedicatorie.

unto their parent. There is a great difference, vohether any Booke choose his Patrones, or finde them : This hath done both. For, so much were your L L. likings of the severall parts, when they were acted, as before they were published, the Volume ask'd to be yours. We have but collected them, and done an office to the dead, to procure his Orphanes, Guardians; without ambition either of selfe-profit, or fame: onely to keepe the memory of so worthy a Friend, & Fellow alive, as was our SHAKESPEARE, by humble offer of his playes, to your most noble patronage. Wherein, as we have iustly observed, no man to come neere your L.L. but worth a kind of religious addresse; it bath bin the height of our care, woho are the Presenters, to make the present worthy of your H. H. by the perfection. But, there we must also crave our abilities to be considerd, my Lords. We cannot go beyond our owne powers. Country hands reach foorth milke, creame, fruites, or what they have : and many Nations (we have heard) that had not gummes & incense, obtained their requests with a leauened Cake. It was no fault to approch their Gods, by what meanes they could: And the most, though meanest, of things are made more precious, when they are dedicated to Temples. In that name therefore, we most humbly consecrate to your H. H. these remaines of your servant Shakespeare; that what delight is in them, may be ever your L.L. the reputation his, the faults ours, if any be committed, by a payre so carefull to Them their gratitude both to the liung, and the dead, as is

Your Lordshippes most bounden, loun Heninge.

Henry Condect.

To the great Variety of Readers.

Rom the most able, to him that can but spell: There you are number'd. We had rather you were weighd. Especially, when the fate of all Bookes depends vpon your capacities: and not of your heads alone, but of your purses. Well! It is now publique, & you wil stand for your priviledges weeknow: to read, and censure. Do so, but buy it first. That doth best commend a Booke, the Stationer faies. Then, how odde foeuer your braines be, or your wisedomes, make your licence the same, and spare not. Iudge your sixe-pen'orth, your shillings worth, your fiue shillings worth at a time, or higher, so you rise to the just rates, and welcome. But, what euer you do, Buy. Censure will not driue a Trade, or make the lacke go. And though you be a Magistrate of wit, and sit on the Stage at Black-Friers, or the Cock-pit, to arraigne Playes dailie, know, these Playes haue had their trial alreadie, and stood out all Appeales; and do now come forth quitted rather by a Decree of Court, then any purchas'd Letters of commendation.

It had bene a thing, we confesse, worthie to have bene wished, that the Author himselfe had liu'd to have set forth, and overseen his owne writings; But fince it hath bin ordain'd otherwise, and he by death de. parted from that right, we pray you do not envie his Friends, the office of their care, and paine, to have collected & publish'd them; and so to have publish'd them, as where (before) you were abus'd with diverse stolne, and surreptitious copies, maimed, and deformed by the frauds and stealthes of injurious impostors, that expos'd them: even those, are now offer'd to your view cur'd, and perfect of their limbes; and all the rest, absolute in their numbers, as he conceived the. Who, as he was a happie imitator of Nature, was a most gentle expresser of it. His mind and hand went together: And what he thought, he vttered with that easinesse, that wee haue scarse received from him a blot in his papers. But it is not our prouince, who onely gather his works, and give them you, to praise him. It is yours that reade him. And there we hope, to your divers capacities, you will finde enough, both to draw, and hold you: for his wit can no more lie hid, then it could be lost. Reade him, therefore; and againe, and againe: And if then you doe not like him, furely you are in some manifest danger, not to understand him. And so we leave you to other of his Friends, whom if you need, can bee your guides: if you neede them not, you can leade your selues, and others. And fuch Readers we wish him.

To the memory of my beloued, The AVTHOR

MR. WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE:
AND

what he hath left vs.

O draw no enuy (Shakespeare) on thy name, Am I thus ample to thy Booke, and Fame: While I confesse thy writings to be such, As neither Man, nor Muse, can praise too much. 'Tis true, and all mens suffrage. But these wayes were not the paths I meant unto thy praise: For seeliest Ignorance on these may light, Which, when it founds at best, but eccho's right; Or blinde Affection, which doth ne're advance The truth, but gropes, and orgeth all by chance. Or crafty Malice, might pretend this praise, And thinke to ruine, where it seem'd to raise. These are, as some infamous Band, or whore. Should praise a Matron. What could hurt her more? But thou art proofe against them, and indeed About th'ill fortune of them, or the need. 1, therefore will begin. Soule of the Age! The applause! delight! the wonder of our Stage! My Shakespeare, rife; I will not ladge thee by Chaucer, or Spenser, or bid Beaumont lye A little further, to make thee a roome: Thou art a Moniment, without a tombe, And art alive fill, while thy Booke doth live. And we have wits to read, and praise to grue. That I not mixe thee fo, my braine excuses; I meane with great, but disproportion'd Muses For, if I thought my judgement were of yeares, I should commit thee surely with thy peeres, And tell, bow farre thou didstst our Lily out-shine, Or sporting Kid, or Marlowes mighty line. And though thou hadft small Latine, and lesse Greeke, From thence to bonour thee, I would not feeke For names; but call forth thund ring Æichilus, Euripides, and Sophocles to vs, Paccinius, Accius, him of Cordona dead, .To life againe, to beare thy Buskin tread, And shake a Stage: Or, when thy Sockes were on, Leave thee alone, for the comparison

Of all, that infolent Greece, or haughtie Rome fent forth, or since did from their ashes come. Triumph, my Britaine, thou hast one to showe, To whom all scenes of Europe homage one. He was not of an age, but for all time! And all the Muses still were in their prime, when like Apollo he came forth to warme Our eares, or like a Mercury to charme! Nature her felfe was proud of his designes. Anding' dto weare the dressing of his lines! which were so richly spun, and woven so fit, As, since, the will vouch fafe no other Wit. The merry Greeke, tart Aristophanes, Neat Terence, witty Plautus, now not please; But antiquated, and deferted lye As they were not of Natures family. Tet must I not give Nature all: Thy Art, My gentle Shakespeare, must enioy a part. For though the Poets matter, Nature be, His Art doth give the fashion. And, that he, Who casts to write a living line, must fiveat, (such as thine are) and strike the second heat Vpon the Muses anusle: turne the same, (And himselfe with it) that he thinkes to frame; Or for the lawrell, he may gaine a scorne, For a good Poct's made, as well as borne. And such wert thou. Looke how the fathers face Liues in his issue, even so, the race Of Shakespeares minde, and manners brightly bines In his well torned, and true filed lines: In each of which, he seemes to shake a Lance, As brandish't at the eyes of Ignorance. Sweet Swan of Auon! what a fight it were To ses thee in our waters yet appeare, And make those flights upon the bankes of Thames, That so did take Eliza, and our lames! But stay, I fee thee in the Hemisphere Aduanc'd, and made a Constellation there! Shine forth, thou Starre of Poets, and with rege, Or influence, chide, or cheere the droping Stage; Which, fince thy flight fro hence, bath mourn'd like night, And despaires day, but for thy Volumes light.

BEN: IONSON.

Vpon the Lines and Life of the Famous Scenicke Poet, Master VILLIAM SHAKESPEARE.

Hose hands, which you so claps, go now, and wring You Britaines braue; for done are Shakespeares dayes: His dayes are done, that made the dainty Playes, Which made the Globe of heavin and earth to ring. Dry de is that veine, dry'd is the Thespian Spring,

Turn'd all to teares, and Phabus clouds his rayes:
That corp's, that coffin now besticke those bayes,
Which crown'd him Poet sirst, then Poets King.
If Tragedies might any Prologue have,
All those he made, would scarse make one to this:
Where Fame, now that he gone is to the grave
(Deaths publique tyring house) the Nuncius is.
For though his line of life went soone about.
The life yet of his lines shall never out.

BYGH HOLLAND.

TO THE MEMORIE

of the deceased Authour Maister W. Shakespeare.

Hake-speare, at length thy pious fellowes give The world thy Workes: thy Workes, by which, out-line Thy Tombe, thy name must when that stone is rent, And Time dissolues thy Stratford Moniment, Here we alive shall view thee still. This Booke, When Brasse and Marble fade, shall make thee looke Fresh to all Ages: when Posteritie Shall loath what's new, thinke all is prodegie That is not Shake-speares; eury Line, each Verse Here shall reviue, redeeme thee from thy Herse. Nor Fire, nor cankring Age, as Nalo said, Of his, thy wit-fraught Booke shall once inuade. Nor shall I e're beleeue, or thinke thee dead (Though mist) untill our bankrout Stage be sped (Impossible) with some new straine t'out-do Passions of Iuliet, and her Romeo: Or till I heare a Scene more nobly take, Then when thy half-Sword parlying Romans spake. Till these, till any of thy Volumes rest Shall with more fire, more feeling be exprest, Be sure, our Shake speare, thou canst never dye, But crown'd with Lawrell, live eternally.

L. Digges.

To the memorie of M. W. Shake-speare.

VV E E wondred (Shake-speare) that thou went's so soone
From the Worlds-Stage, to the Graues-Tyring-roome.
Wee thought thee dead, but this thy printed worth,
Tels thy Spectators, that thou went's but forth
To enter with applause. An Actors Art,
(an dye, and live, to acte a second part.
That's but an Exit of Mortalitie;
This, a Re-entrance to a Plaudite.

The Workes of William Shakespeare, containing all his Comedies, Histories, and Tragedies: Truely set forth, according to their first ORJGJNALL.

The Names of the Principall Actors in all these Playes.

Illiam Shakespeare.

Richard Burbadge.

John Hemmings.

Augustine Phillips

William Kempt.

Thomas Poope.

George Bryan.

Henry Condell.

William Slye.

Richard Cowly.

Fobn Lowine.

Samuell Croffe.

Alexander Cooke.

Samuel Gilburne.

Robert Armin.

William Ostler.

Nathan Field.

Fohn Underwood.

Nicholas Tooley.

William Ecclestone.

Foseph Taylor.

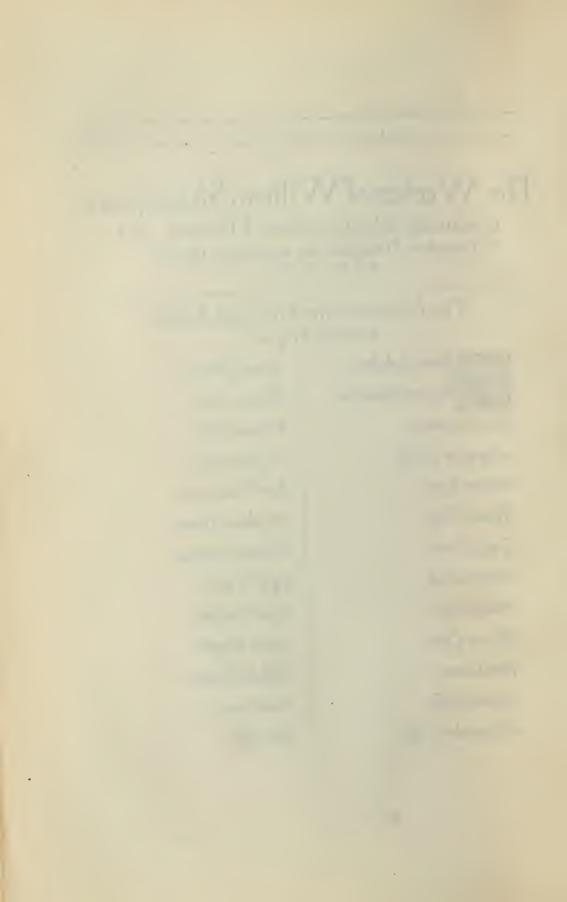

Robert Benfield.

Robert Goughe.

Richard Robinson.

Iohn Shancke.

John Rice.

ACATALOGVE

of the seuerall Comedies, Histories, and Tragedies contained in this Volume.

COMEDIES.

He Tempest.	Folio 1.
The two Gentlemen of Veron	2. 20
The Merry Wives of Windsor.	38
Measure for Measure.	61
The Comedy of Errours.	85
Much adoo about Nothing.	101
Loues Labour lost.	122
Midsommer Nights Dreame.	145
The Merchant of Venice.	163
As you Like it.	185
The Taming of the Shrew.	208
All is well, that Ends well.	230
Twelfe-Night, or what you will.	255
The Winters Tale.	304

HISTORIES.

The Life and Death of King John.	Fol.	1.
The Life & death of Richard the secon	d. :	23

The First part of King Henry the fourth.	46
The Second part of K. Henry the fourth.	74
The Life of King Henry the Fift.	69
The First part of King Henry the Sixt.	96
The Second part of King Hen. the Sixt.	120
The Third part of King Henry the Sixt.
The Life & Death of Richard the Third.
make a color of a color of a	205
TRAGEDIES.

TRAGEDIES.
The Tragedy of Coriolanus.	·Fol.1.
Titus Andronicus.	31
Romeo and Juliet.	53
Timon of Athens.	85
The Life and death of Julius Cafar.	109
The Tragedy of Macheth.	131
The Tragedy of Hambet.	152
King Lear.	283
Othello, the Moore of Venice.	310
Anthony and Cleopater	246

369

Cymbeline King of Britaine.

TEMPEST.

A Ausprimus, Scena prima.

Atempelluous noise of Thunder and Lightning heard: Enter a Ship-master, and a Boteswaine.

Master. Ore-Iwaine.

Botef. Heere Maller : What cheere? Mast. Good: Speake to th' Mariners: fall too'r, yarely, or we run our selues a ground, befürre, bestirre.

Enter Mariners.

Botef. Heigh my hearts, cheerely, cheerely my harts: yare, yare : Take in the toppe-fale : Tend to th'Masters whistle: Blow till thou burst thy winde, if roome e nough.

Enter Alonfo, Sebastian, Amhonio, Ferdinando, Gonzalo, and others, Alors. Good Botefwalne have care: where's the Mafter? Play the men.

Botef. I pray now keepe below.
Amb. Where is the Master, Boson?

Botef. Do you not heare him? you marre out labour, Keepe your Cabines: you do assist the storme.

Conz. Nay, good be patient.

Botef. When the Sea is: hence, what cares thefe roarers for the name of King ? to Cabine; filence : trouble

Gon. Good, yet remember whom thou hall aboord. Beref. None that I more loue then my felfe. You are a Counfellor, if you can command thefe Elements to filence, and works the peace of the present, wee will not hand a rope more, vie your authoritie: If you cannot, glue shankes you have liv'd fo long, and make your felfe readie in your Cabine for the milchance of the houre, if it to hap. Cheerely good hearts: out of our way I fay. Exit.

Gas. I have great comfort from this fellow:methinks he hath no drowning marke vpon him, his complexion is perfect Gallowes : standfast good Fate to his hanging, make the rope of his destiny our cable, for our owns doth little advantage: The be not borne to bee hang'd, our cafe is miferable.

Emer Boteswaine.

Bosef. Downe with the top-Maft : yare, lower, lower, bring her to Try with Maine-course. A plegue Enter Sebaftion, Anthonio & Gonzalo.

vpon this howling: they are lowder then the weather, or our office; yet againe? What do you heere? Shal we give ore and drowne, have you a minde to finke?

Schaf. A poxe o'your throat, you bawling, blasphe-mous incharitable Dog.

Botef. Worke you then.

Anth. Hang cur, hang, you whorefon insolent Noysemaker, we are lelle afraid to be drownde, then thou art.

Gonz. He warrant him for drowning, shough the Ship were no Arongerthen a Nutt-shell, and as leaky as an vnstanched wench.

Boref. Lay her a hold, a hold, fet her two courses off to Sea againe, lay her off, Enter Mariners wet.

Mari All lost, to prayers, to prayers, all lost, Basef. What must out mouths be cold? Gonz, The King, and Prince, at prayers, let's affift them, for our case is as theirs.

Sebaf. I'am out of patience. An. We are meerly chested of our lives by drunkards, This wide-chopt-rascall, would thou might stye drowning the washing of ten Tides.

Conz. Hee'l be hang'd yer,

Though enery drop of water (weare against it. And gape at width to glue him. A confused noyse within. Mercy on vs.

We split, we split, Farewell my wife and children, Farewell brother: we split, we split, we split.

Amh. Let's all finke with King Seb. Let's take leave of him.

Gonz. Now would I give a thousand furlongs of Sea, for an Acre of barren ground: Long heath, Browne firrs, any thing; the wills about be done, but I would faine dyea dry death.

Scena Secunda.

Enter Prospero and Miranda. Mira. If by your Art (my deereft father) you have Put the wild waters in this Rore; alsy thema The skye it feemes would powre down stinking pitch, But that the Sea, mounting to th' welkins cheeke, Dashes the fire out. Oh! I have suffered Wich those that I law suffer: A brave vessell

(Who

(Who had no doubt fome noble creature in her)
Dash'd all to peeces: Othe cry did knocke
Against my very heart spoore soules, they perish'd.
Had I byn any God of power, I would Haue suncke the Sea within the Earth, or ere
It should the good Ship so have swallow'd, and
The fraughting Soules within her.

Prof. Be collected,
No more areazement: Tell your pincous heart
there's no harme done.

Mura. O woe, the day. Prof. No harme:

Thau edone nothing, but in care of thee
(Of thee my decre one; thee my daughter) who Art ignorant of what thou art, naught knowing
Of whence I am; too that I am more better
Then Profpero, Master of a full poece cell,
And thy no greater Father,

Mira, Mere to know

Odira. More to know
Did never medle with my thoughts.

Frof. "Tis time
I thould informe thee farther: Lend thy hand
And plucke my Magick garment from me: So,
Lye there my Art: wipe thou thine eyes, have comfort,
The direfull spectacle of the wracke which touch'd
The very vertue of compation in thee:
I have with such provision in mine Art
So safely ordered, that there is no soule
No not so much perdition as an hayre
Bettld to any creature in the vessell
Which thou heardst crypt sphich thou saw'st sinke: Sit
For thou must now know farther.

[downe,

Mira. You have often
Begun to tell the what I am, but flopt
And left me to a booteleffe Inquisition,
Concluding, flaye not yet.

Pref. The howe's now come
The very minute by ds thee ope thine care,
Obey, and be attentine. Canft thou remember
A time before we came vnto this Cell?
I doe not thinke thou canft for then thou was't not

Out three yeeres old.
Mes. Certainely Sir, I con.

Prof. By what? by any other house, or person?
Of any thing the Image, tell me, that
Hath kept with thy remembrance.

Mira. The farre off:
And rather like a dreame, then an affurance
That my remembrance warrants: Had I not
Fowre, or five women once, that tended me?

Prof. Thou hadft; and more Miranda: But bow is it That this lives in thy minde? What feeft thou els In the dark-backward and Abilme of Time? Yf thou remembrest oughtere thou camble here, How thou cam's here thou maist.

Mira. But that I doe not.

Prof. Twelve yere fance (Miranda) twicking yere fince, Thy father was the Duke of Millane and A Prince of power.

Mins. Str, are not you my Father?

Pref. Thy Motherwas a peace of vertue, and
She faid thou wast my daughter; and thy father
Was Duke of Millains, and his onely heire,
And Printesse; no worse lifted.

Mira. O the heavens, What fowle play had we, that we cambfrom thence?

Or bleffed was't we did?

Prof: Both, both my Girle,

By fowle-play (as thou fast) were we hear'd thence.

But blessedly nolpe hither.

Mera, Omy beart bleeder

To thinke oth teene that I have turn'd you to,
Which is from my remembrance, please you farther;

Prof. My brother and thy encle, call'd Authoris: I pray thee marke me, that a brother should Be to perfidious: he, whom next thy selfe Of all the world I lou'd, and to him put The mannage of my state, as at that time Through all the signories it was the first, And Profess, the prime Duke, being so reputed In dignity; and for the liberall Artes, Without a paralell; those being all my studie, The Gopernment I cast you my brother, And to my State grew stranger, being transported Andrapt in secret studies, thy sale ynche

Mira Sir, most heedefully.

Pref. Being once perfected how to graunt fuites, how to deny them: who t'aduance, and who To trash for ouer-topping; new created The creatures that were mine, I say, or chang'd 'em, Or els new form'd 'em; hauing both the key, Of Officer, and office, fet all hearts i'th state To what tune pleas'd his eare, that now he was The Iuy which had hid my princely Trunck, And suckt my verdure out on't: Thou attend's not?

Mira. Ogood Sir, Idoe. Prof. I pray thee marke me: I thus neglecting worldly ends all dedicated. To closenes, and the bettering of my mind with that, which but by being fo retir'd Ore-priz'd all popular rate:in my false brother Awak'd so cuill nature, and my troft Like a good parent, did beget of him A failehood in it's contrarie, as great As my trust was, which had indeede no limit, A confidence fans bound. He being thus Lorded, Not onely with what my revene w yeelded, But what my power might els exact. Like one Who having into truth by telling of it, Made fuch a fynner of his memorie To credite his owne lie, he did beleeve He was indeed the Duke, out o'th' Subflication And executing th'outward face of Roialtie With all prerogative: hence his Ambition growing: Do'fttbon heare?

Mira. Your tale, Sir, would cure deafenefie.

Pro/To base no Schreene between this past he plaid,
And him he plaid it for he needes will be Abfolute Millaine, Me (poore man) my Librarie
Was Dukedome large enough: of temporalizoalties
He thinks me now incapable. Confederates
(fo driche was for Sway) with King of Nepler
To glue him Annual tribute, doe him homage
Subied his Coronet, to his Crowne and bend
The Dukedom yet vabow'd (alas poore Millaine)
To most ignobie stooping.

Mira, Oh the heavens:

Prof. Marke his condition, and th'euent, then tell me If this might be a brother,

If this might be a brother,
Mire, I should finne
To thinke but Noblic of my Grand-mother,

Good

Good wombes have borne bad formes.

Pro. Now the Condition. This King of Naples being an Enemy Tome inucterate, hearkens my Brothers fuit. Which was, That he in lieu o'th premises, Of homage, and I know not how much Tribute, Should prefently extirpate me and mine Out of the Dukedome, and confer faire Millaine With all the Honors, on my brother: Whereon A treacherous Armie leuied, one mid-night Fated to th' purpofe, did Anthonio open The gates of Millaine, and ith' dead of darkeneffe The ministers for th' purpose hurried thence

Me, and thy ctying felfe.

Mir. Alack, for pitty: Inot remembring how I cride out then Will cry It ore againe: it is a hint

That wrings mine eyes too't.

Pro. Heare a little further, And then I'le bring thee to the prefent bulinesse Which now's vpon's: without the which, this Story Were most impercinent.

Mir. Wherefore did they not That howre destroy vs?

Pro. Well demanded, wench : My Tale provokes that question : Deare, they durst not, So deare the love my people bore me : nor fet A marke to bloudy on the bulineffe; but With colours fairer, painted their foule ends. Infew, they hurried vs a-boord a Barke, Bore vs some Leagues to Sea, where they prepared A rotten carkaffe of a Butt, not tigg'd, Nor tackle, fayle, nor mast, the very rats Inflin Rively have quit it : There they hoyft vs To cry to th' Sea, that roard to vs; to figh To th' windes, whose pitty lighing backe againe Did vs but loning wrong.

Mir. Alack, what trouble

Was I then to you?

Pro. O, & Cherubin Thou was't that did preserve me; Thou didst smile, Infused with a fortifude from heaven, When I have deck'd the sea with drops full falt, Vnder my burthen groan'd, which rais'd in me An vndergoing flomacke, to beare vp Against what should ensue.

Mir. How came we a shore? Pro. By prouidence divine, Some food, we had, and some fresh water, that Anoble Neepolitan Genzalo Out of his Charity, (who being then appointed Master of this designe) did give vs, with Rich garments, linnens, stuffs, and necessaries Which fince have steeded much, so of his gentlenesse Knowing I lou'd my bookes, he furnishd me From mine owne Library, with volumes, that I prize aboue my Dukedome.

Mer. Would I might But euer fee that man.

Pro. Now I arise, Sit fill, and heate the last of our sea-forrow: Heere in this Iland we arrived, and heere Have I, thy Schoolemaster, made thee more profit Then other Princesse can, that have more time For vainer howres; and Tutors, not fo earefull. Mir. Heuens thank you for't. And now I pray you Sir,

For Rill'tis beating in my minde; your reason For rayling this Sea-storme?

Pro. Know thus far forth, By accident moft strange, bountifull Fortune (Now my deere Lady) hath mine enemies Brought to this shore : And by my prescience I finde my Zenith doth depend vpon A most auspitious starre, whose influence If now I court not, but omit; my fortunes Will euer after droope : Heare ceafe more queffions, Thou art inclinde to sleepe: 'tis a good dulnesse, And glue it way : I know thou canft not chufe : Come away, Settiant, come; Lam ready now, Approach my Ariel. Come. Enter Ariel. Ari. All haile, great Master, grave Sir, haile: I come

To answer thy best pleasure; be't to fly, To fwim, to dive into the fire: to ride On the curld clowds: to thy (trong bidding, taske Ariel, and all his Qualitie.

Pro. Haft thou, Spirit,

Performd to point, the Tempest that I bad ther.

Ar. To every Article. I boorded the Kings Ship : now on the Beake, Now in the Waste, the Decke, in every Cabyn, I flam'd amazement, fometime I'ld divide And burne in many places; on the Top-mast The Yards and Bore-spritt, would I flame distinctly, Then meete, and ioyne. Jours Lightning, the precurfers O'th dreadfull Thunder-cleps more momentarie And fight out running were not; the fire, and cracks Of fulphurous roaring, the most mighty Neptune Sceme to beliege, and make his bold waves tremble, Yea, his dread Trident shake.

Pro: My braue Spirit, Who was so firme, so constant, that this coyle Would not infect his reason?

Ar. Not a foule But felt a Feauer of the madde, and plaid Some tricks of desperation; all but Mariners Plung'd in the forming bryne, and quit the veffell; Then all a fire with me the Kings fonne Ferdinand With hanc vp-staring (then like reeds, not haire) Was the first man that leapt; cride hell is empty. And all the Diuels are heere

Pro. Why that's my spirit : But was not this nye shore? Ar. Close by, my Master. Pro. But are they (Ariell) fale?

Ar. Not a haire perishd: On their sustaining garments not a blemish, But fresher then before : and as thou badst me, In troops I have dispersed them bout the Isle: The Kings forme have I landed by himfelfe, Whom I left cooling of the Ayre with fighes, In an odde Angle of the Ifle, and fitting His armes in this fad knot, Pro. Of the Kings ship, The Marriners, fay how thou hast disposd, And all the rest of the Fleece?

Ar. Safely in harbour Is the Kings shippe, in the deepe Nooke, where once Thou calldft me vp at midnight to fetch dewe From the Aill-yext Bermoothes, there she's hid; The Marriners all under hatches stowed, Who, with a Charme joynd to their suffred labour I have left afleep: and for the rest o'th' Fleet

Which

(Which I dispers'd) they all have met againe, And are upon the Mediterranean Flore Bound fauly home for Naples, Supposing that they saw the Kings thip wrackt, And his presuperion perifh.

Pro Ariel, thy charge

Exactly is performid; but there's more worke t What is the time o'th'day?

Ar. Paft the mid feafon.

Pro. At least two Glaffes: the time twist he & now Mull by vs both be spent most preciously.

Ar. Is there more toyle? Since y doll give me pains, Let me remember thee what thou hast promis'd, Which is not yet perform'd me.

Pro. Hownow? moodie? What is't thou canst demand?

Ar. My Libertie.

Pro. Before the time be out? no more;

Ar. I prethee,

Remember I have done thee worthy feruice, Told thee no lyes, made thee no millakings, ferv'd Without or grudge, or grumblings; thou did promife To bate me a full yeere.

Pro. Do'll thou forget

From what a toment I did free thee? Ar. No. Pro. Thou do'ft: & thinkft it much to tread & Ooze

Of the falt deepe; To run ypon the sharpe winde of the North, To doe me bufinesse in the veines o'th' earth

When it is bak'd with froft.

Ar. I doenot Sir.

Pro. Thou lieft, malignant Thing : haft thou forgot The fowle Witch Sycorar, who with Age and Enuy Was growne into a hoope? haft thou forgother?

Ar. No Sir.
Pro. Thou hast: where was she born? speakatell me: Ar. Sir, in Arguer,

Pro. Oh, was she fo: I must

Once in a moneth recount what thou hast bin, Which thou forgetft. This damn'd Witch Sycorax For mischieses manifold, and forceries terrible To enter humanc hearing, from Argier
Thou know it was banish'd: for one thing she did

They wold not take her life: Is not this true ! Ar.I, Sir. Pro. This blew cy'd hag, was hither brought with And here was left by th' Saylors; thou my flaue, (child, As thou reportif thy felfe, was then her feruant, And for thou wast a Spirit too delicate

To act her earthy, and abhord commands, Refusing her grand hefts, she did confine thee By helpe of her more potent Ministers, And in her most vnmittigable rage, Into a clouen Pyne, within which rift Imprison'd, thou didst paincfully remaine A dozen yeeres : within which space she di'd, And lest thee there: where thou didst vent thy groanes As fast as Mill-wheeles strike: Then was this Island

(Sauc for the Son, that he did littour heere, A frekelld whelpe, hag-borne) not honour d with

A humane shape. Ar. Yes: Caliban her sonne.

Pro Dull thing, I lay lo: he, that Caliban Whom now I keepe in feruice, thou belt know's What torment I did finde the in; thy grones Did make wolves howle, and penetrate the breaks Of ever-angry Bearcs; it was a torment

To lay upon the damm'd, which Sycorax Could not againe vidoe; it was mine Att. When I arrived, and heard thee, that made gape The Pyne, and let thee out.

Ar. I chanke thee Mafter.

Pro. If thou more murmur'ff, I will rend an Oake And peg-thee in his knotty entrai'es, till Thou half howl'd away twelve winters.

I will be correspondent to command And doe my fpryting, gently. Pre Doefo: and after modaies

Ar. Pardon, Mafter,

I will discharge thee.

Ar. That's my noble Master:

What shall I doe? fay what? what shall I doe?

Pro, Goemake thy felfelike a Nymph o'th' Sea, Be subject to no fight but thine, and mine : inuifible To every eye-ball elfe : goe take this fape And hither come in't : goe : hence With diligence. Exit.

Pro. Awake, deere hart awake, thou haft flept well,

Mir. The strangenes of your story, put Heauinesse in me.

Pro. Sliake it off: Come on. Wee'il visit Caliban, my slaue, who never Yeelds vs kinde answere.

Mr 'Tisavillaine Sir, I doenot loue to looke on.
Pro. Butas'tis

We cannot mille him: he do's make our fire, Fetch in our wood, and ferues in Offices That profit vs : What hoa : flaue : Calibar : Thou Earth, thou: fpeake.

Cal, within. There's wood enough within.

Pro. Come forth I fay, there's other bufines for thee: Come thou Tottoys, when? Enter Arullice a weter-Fine apparition: my queint Ariel, Hearke in thine eare.

Ar. My Lord, it shall be done. Pro. Thou poylonous flave, got by & divell himfelle Vpon thy wicked Dam; come forth. Enter Caliban

Cal. As wicked dewe, as ere my mother brush'd With Rauens feather from vnwholesome Fen Drop on you both: A Southwest blow on yee, And blifter you all ore.

Pro. For this be fure, to night thou shalt have cramps, Side-stitches, that shall pen thy breath up, Veclins Shall for that vast of night, that they may worke All exercise on thee : thou shalt be pinch'd As thicke as hony-combe, each pinch more flinging Then Bees that made em,

Cal. I must eat my dinner: This Island's mine by Sycorax my mother, Which thou tak' ft from me: when thou cam'ft first Thou ftroakft me, & made much of me: wouldft give me Water with berries in't : and teach me how To name the bigger Light, and how the leffe That burne by day, and night : and then I lou'd thee And thew'd thez all the qualities o'th' Ifle . The fresh Springs, Brine-pits; barren place and fertill, Curs'd be I that did fo : All the Charmes Of Sycorax: Toades, Beetles, Batts light on you: For I am all the Subjects that you have, Which first was min owne King : and bere you sty-me In this hard Rocke, whiles you doe keepe from me The rest o'th' Island.

Fro. They

. Pro. Thou most lying flaue, Whom stripes may moue, not kindnes: I have vs'd thee (Filth as thou art) with humane care, and lodg'd thee In mine owne Cell, till thou didft feeke to violate The honor of my childe.

Cal. Oh ho, oh ho, would't had bene done: Thou didst preuent me, I had peopel'd else

This Ifle with Calibans.

Mira. Abhorred Slave, Which any print of goodnesse wilt not take, Being capable of all ill : I pittied thee, Took pains to make thee speak, taught thee each houte One thing or other: when thou didft not (Sauage) Know thine owne meaning; but wouldit gabble, like A thing most brutish, I endow'd thy purpoles With words that made them knowner. But thy vild race (Tho thou didft learn) had that in't, which good natures Could not abide to be with; therefore wast thou Deservedly confin'd into this Rocke, who hadft Descru'd more then a prison.

(al. You taught me Language, and my profit on't Is, I know how to curfe: the red-plague rid you

For learning me your language.

Prof. Hag-feed, hence: Fetch vs in Fewell, and be quicke thou et bell To answer other businesse: (hrug'st thou (Malice) If thou neglectit, or dost vinwillingly
What I command, lie racke thee with old Crampes, Fill all thy bones with Aches, make thee rore, That beafts thall tremble at thy dyn.

Cal. No, pray thec. I must obey, his Art is of such pow'r, It would controll my Dams god Serebor, And make a vassaile of him.

Pro. So flaue, hence Exit Cal. Enter Ferdinand & Artel, invisible playing & singing. Ariel Song. Come unto these yellow sands, and then take hands : Curt fied when you have, and hift the wilde wanes whist:

Foote it featly beere, and there, and sweete Sprights beare the burthen. Burthen dispersedly. Harke, harke, bough wangh : the watch-Dogges barke, bomgh-mangh

Ar. Herk, bank, I heare, the straine of strutting Chanticlere ory cockadidle dowe, Fer. Where shold this Musick be? I'th aire, or th'earth? It founds no more: and fure it waytes vpou Some God 'oth' Iland, sitting on a banke, Weeping againe the King my Fathers wracke, This Musicke crept by me vpon the waters, Allaying both their fury, and my passion With it's sweet ayre : thence I have follow'd it Or it hath drawne me rather) but 'tis gone.

No, it begins againc.

Artell Song. Full fadom fine thy Father lies, Of his bones are Corrall made: This care pearles that were his ciet, Nothing of him that doth fade, But doth Suffer a Sea-change Into formething rich, & firange: Sea: Nimphe hourly ring his knell. Burthen: ding dong.

Harkenow I beare them, ding-dong bell. For. The Ditty do's remember my drown'd father, This is no mortall busines, not no found

That the earth owes: I heare it now about me.

Pre. The fringed Curtaines of thine eye aduance; And fay what thou fee'st youd.

Mira. What is't a Spitit?

Lord, how it lookes about : Beleeue me fir, le carries a braue forme. But'tis a spirit.

Pro. No wench, it eats, and fleeps, & hath fuch fenfes As we have: such. This Gallant which thou feest Was in the wracke t and but hee's fomething stain'd With greefe (that's beauties canker) y might'ft call him A goodly person; he hath lost his fellowes, And strayes about to finde'em.

Mir. I might call him A thing divine, for nothing naturall

I euer faw fo Noble.

Pro. It goes on I fee As my foule prompts it: Spirit, fine spirit, Ile free thee Within two dayes for this.

Fer. Most sure the Goddelle

On whom these syses attend: Vouchsafe my pray's May know if you remaine upon this Island, And that you will fome good instruction give How I may beare me heere : my prime request (Which I do last pronounce) is (O you wonder) If you be Mayd, or no?

Mir. No wonder Sir,

But certainly a Mayd,
Fer. My Language? Heavens: I am the best of them that speake this speech, Were I but where 'ris spoken.

Pro. How? the best?

What wer't thou if the King of Naples heard thee? Fer. A fingle thing, as I am now, that wonders To heare thee speake of Naples: he do's heare me, And that he do's, I weepe : my felfe am Naples, Who, with mine eyes (neuer fince at ebbe) beheld The King my Father wrack'e.

Mir. Alacke, for mercy. Fer. Yes faith, & all his Lords, the Duke of Millaine And his brave fonne, being twaine.

Pro. The Duke of Millaine And his more brauer daughter, could controll thea If now 'cwere fit to do't : At the first fight They have chang'd eyes : Delicate Ariel, He fer thee free for this. A word good Sir, I feare you have done your selfe some wrong: A word.

Mir. Why speakes my father so vngently? This Is the third mantbatere I faw : the first That ere I figh'd for : pitty moue my father To be enclin'd my way,

Fer. O, if a Virgin,

And your affection not gone forth, He make you The Queene of Naples.

Pra. Soft fir, one word more. They are both in eythers pow'rs: But this fwift busines I must vneasie make, least too light winning Make the prize light. One word more: I charge thee That thou attend me: Thou do'ft heere vsurpe The name thou ow'ft not, and haft put thy felfe Vponthis Island, at a spy, to win it From me, the Lord on't.

Fer. No, as I am a man. Mir. Ther's nothing ill, can dwell in such a Temple If the ill-spirit haue so fayre a bouse, Good things will ftrue to dwell with't Pro. Follow me.

Prof. Speaks not you for him : hee's a Traisor come. He manacle thy necke and feete together: Sca water shalt thou drinke : thy food shall be The fresh-brooke Mussels, wither'd roots, and buskes Wherein the Acorne cradled . Follow.

Fer. No. I will rebit fuch entertainment, till

Mine enemy ha's more pow'r.

He drames, and is charmed from moving.

Mira O deere Father. Make not too rash a triall of him, for Hee's gentle, and not fearfull,

Prof. What I fay,

My foote my Tutor? Put thy fword vp Traitor, Who mak'ft a shew but dar'ft not ftrikethy conscience Is to possest with guilt : Come from thy ward. For I can heere difarme thee with this sticke. And make thy weapon drop.

Mira. Beleech you Father.

Prof. Hence: hang not on my garments.

Mira. Sie haue picy,

He be his furery.

Prof. Silence: One word more Shall make me chide thee, if not hate thee : What,

An advocate for an Impostor? Hush; Thou think'ft there is no more fuch shapes as he,

(Having seene but him and Calibar:) Foolish wench, To th'most of men, this is a Caliban,

And they to him are Angels. Mira. My affections

Are then most humble: I have no ambition

To fee a goodlier man. Prof. Come on, chey: Thy Norues are in their Infancy agains.

And have no vigour in them.

Fer. So chey are: My spirits, as in a dreame, are all bound vp : My Fathers lolle, the weaknesse which I feele, The wracke of all my friends, nor this mans threats, To whom I am subdade, are but light to me, Might I but through my prison once a day Beholdebis Mayd: all camers else o'th'Earth Let liberty make vie of: space enough Haue I in fuch aprison.

Prof. It workes : Come on. Thou hast done well, fine Ariel : follow me, Harke what thou elfe shalt do mee.

Mira. Be of comfort, My Fathers of abetter nature (Sir) Then he appeares by speech: this is vawoneed Which now came from him.

Prof. Thou shalt be as free As mountaine windes; but then exactly do All points of my command.

esriel. To th'syllable.

Prof. Come follow: spezkenor for him. Exempl.

Actus Secundus. Scana Prima.

Enter Alonfa, Sebafilan, Anthonio, Gennalo, Adrian, Francesco, and esters.

Genz. Beleech you Sir, be merry ; you have caule, (So have we all) of ioy; for our escape

Is much beyond our loffe; our hint of wee Is common, every day, force Saylors wife, The Masters of some Merchane, and the Merchane Haue juft our Theame of woe: But for the miracle. (I meane out preservation) few in millions Can speake like vs : then wisely (good Sir)weigh Our forrow, with our comfort. Alonf. Prethee peace.

Sib. He receives comfort like cold porredge.

Ast. The Visitor will not give him are so. Seb. Looke, hee's winding up the watch of his wir, By and by it will Arike.

Gon Sir.

Seb. One: Tell.

Gon. When every greefe is entertaind, That's offer'd comes to th'entertainer.

Seb. Adollor.

Gon. Delour comes to him indeed, you have speken truer therryou purpos'd.

Seb. You haue taken it wiselier then I meant you Charld

Con. Therefore my Lord.

Ant. Fie, what a spend-thrift is he of his tongue.

Alon. I pre-thee fpare.

Gon. Well, I have done: But yet Sch. He will be talking.

Ant. Which, of he, or Adrian, for a good wager, Fielt begins to crow? Seb. The old Cocke. Ant. The Cockrell. Seb. Done: The wager? Ant. A Laughter.

Ses. A match. Adr. Though this Island seeme to be desert. Seb. Ha, ha, ha.

Am. So: you's paid. Adr. Vninhabitable, and aknoù inaccessible. Seb. Yet

Adr. Yet

Ant. He could not mifie't.

Adr. Is must needs be of subtle, tender, and delicate comperance.

Aut. Temperance was a delicate weach,

Se. I,and a subtle, as he most learnedly deliver'd. Adr. The syre breather upon vs here mon fweetly.

Seb. As if it had Lungs, and cotten ones. Jat. Or, as 'twere perfum'd by a Fen.

Gez, Heere is every thing advantageous to life.

Aut. True, saue meanes to live. Seb. Of that there's none, or little.

Gon. How luth and lefty the graffe lookes? How greene?

Ant. The ground indeed is towny.

Seb. With an eye of greene in's, Ant. He milles not much.

Seb. No: be doth but mistake the truth totally. Gon. But she rariety of it is, which is indeed almost beyond credit.

Seb. As many vouche rarieties are.

Gen. That our Germents being (as they were) drencht in the Ses, hold not withfranding their freshmesse and glosses, being rather saw dy'de then fain'd with lake

Ant. If but one of his porkets could speake, would it not lay he iyes?

Seb. I, or very fallely packet vp his report.

Gua.

Gen. Me thinkes our garments are now as fresh as when we put them on first in Affricke, at the matriage of the kings faire daughter Claribel to the king of Tunis. Seb. Twas a sweet marriage, and we prosper well in Adri. Tunis was neuer grac'd before with such a Paragon to their Queene.

Gon, Not fince widdow Dido's time.

Ant. Widow? A pox o'that : how came that Widdow in? Widdow Dido!

Seb. What if he had said Widdower Emas too?

Good Lord, how you take it?

Adri. Widdow Dido said you? You make me study of that: She was of Carthage, not of Tanis.

Gon. This Twee Sir was Carthage.

Gon. I affure you Carrbage. Adri. Caribage? Ant. His word is more then the miraculous Harpe. Seb, He hath rais'd the wall, and houses too.

Ant. What impossible matter wil he make easy next? Seb. I thinke hee will carry this Island home in his pocker, and give it his sonne for an Apple.

Ant. And lowing the kernels of it in the Sea, bring forth more Islands.

GON. 1. Ant. Why in good time. Gon. Sir, we were talking, that our garments feeme now as fresh as when we were at Tunis at the marriage of your daughter, who is now Queene.

Ant. And the rateff that ere came there. Seb. Bate (Ibeleech you) widdow Dido Ant. O Widdow Dido? I, Widdow Dido.

Gon. Is not Sir my doublet as fresh as the first day I woreit : I meane in a fort

Ant. That fort was well fish'd for.

Gon. When I wore it at your daughters marriage. Alon. You cram these words into mine eares, against the stomacke of my sense: would I had never Married my daughter there: For comming thence My fonne is loft, and (in my rate) fhe too, Who is so farre from Italy removed, Inere againe shall see her : O thou mine heire Of Naples and of Millaine, what strange fish Hath made his meale on thee?

Fran. Sirhemay live, I saw him beate the surges under him, And ride upon their backes; he trod the water Whole enmity he flung afide: and brefted The furge most swolne that met him: his bold head Boue the contentious waves he kept, and oared Himselfe with his good armes in lusty stroke To th'shore; that ore his wave-worne basis bowed As stooping to releeve him: I not doubt He came slive to Land.

Alon. No, no, hee's gone. .

Seb. Sir you may thank your felfe for this great loffe, That would not bleffe our Europe with your daughter, But rather loose her to an Affrican, Where the at least, is banish'd from your eye,

Who hath cause to wet the greefe on't.

Alon. Pre-thee peace. Seb. You were kneel'd too, & importun'd otherwise By all of vs: and the faire foule her felfe Waigh'd betweene loathnesse, and obedience, at Which end o'th'beame (hould bows we have loft your I feare for ever: Milleine and Naples have Mo widdowes in them of this bulineffe making, Then we bring men to comfort them:

The faults your owne.

Alon. So is the deer foth losse

Gon. My Lord Sebaffian, The truth you speake doth lacke some gentlenesse, And time to speake it in : you rub the fore, When you should bring the plaister.

Seb. Very well. Ant. And most Chirurgeonly. Con. It is foule weather in vs all, good Sir,

When you are cloudy. Seb. Fowle weather? Ant. Very foule. Gon. Had I plantation of this Isle my Lord.

Ant. Hee'd fow't vvith Nettle-feed.

Seb. Ordockes, or Mallowes.

Gon. And were the King on'r, what would I do?

Seb. Scape being drunke, for want of Wine. Con. Ich'Commonwealth I vyould (by contractes) Execute all things: For no kinde of Trafficke

Would I admit: No name of Magistrates Letters should nor be knowne: Riches, pourty, And vie of feruice, none : Contract, Succession, Borne, bound of Land, Tilth, Vineyard none; No vie of Mettall, Corne, or Wine, or Oyle: No occupation, all men idle, all:

And Women too, but innocent and pure:

No Soueraignty.

Seb. Yet he would be King on't.

Aut. The latter end of his Common-wealth forgets

Gon. All things in common Nature should produce Without sweat or endeuour : Treason, fellony Sword, Pike, Knife, Gun, or neede of any Engine Would I not have : but Nature should bring forth Of it owne kinde, all foyzon, all abundance To feed my innocent people.

Seb. No marrying mong his subjects?

Ant. None (man) all idle; Whores and knames, Gon. I vvould vvith such perfection gouerne Sir :

T'Excell the Golden Age. Seb. 'Saue his Maierry. Ant. Longline Gonzalo. Gon. And do you marke me, Sir?

Alon. Pre-thee no more: thou dost talke nothing to Gon. Ido vvell beleeue your Highnesse, and did it to minister occasion to these Gentlemen, who are of fuch sensible and nimble Lungs, that they alwayes vse to laugh at nothing.

Ant. 'Twas you we laugh'd at.

Gon. Who, in this kind of merry fooling am nothing to you: fo you may continue, and laugh at nothing Hill.

Ant. What a blow was there given? Seb. And it had not falne flat-long.

Gon. You are Gentlemen of braue mettal: you would lift the Moone out of her spheare, if she would continue in it flue weekes without changing.

Enter Ariell playing folemne Musiche, Seb. We would so, and then go a Bat-fowling.

Ant. Nay good my Lord, be not angry.

Gon. No I warrant you, I will not adventure my discretion so weakly: Will you laugh me assespe, for I am very heauy

Ant. Go seepe, and heare vs.

Ales. What, all so soone asteeped with mine eyes Would (with themselves) shut vp my thoughts, I finde they are inclin'd to do fo.

Seb. Please you Sir,

Do not omit the heavy offer of it:

It fildome vifits forcow, when it doth, it is a Comforter,

Are, We two my Lord, will guard your person, While you take your roft, and watch your lafery, Alon, Thanke you: Wondrous hours, Seb. What a strange drownues possesses them? Ans. It is the quality o'th'Clymate.

Seb. Why

Doth it not then our eye-lids finke? I finde

Not my felfe dispos'd to steep. Ast. Nor I, my (pivits are nimble: They feil together all, as by confent They drope, as by a Thunder-ftroker what might Worthy Schallan? O, what might? no more: And yet, me thinkes I fee it in thy face, What thou should'ft be! th'occasion speaks thee, and My floong imagination fee's a Crowne Dropping vpon thy head.

Seb. What art thou waking?

Aw. Do you not beare meleeake? Seb. I do, and furely

It is a fleepy Language; and thou speak'st Ont of thy fleepe: What is it thou didft say? This is a ftrange repose, to be affeepe With eyes wide open: flanding, speaking, moving: And yet lo fast afleepe.

Ant. Noble Sebaffian, Thou let'ft thy fortune fleepe: die rather : wink'ft Whiles thou art walting.

S.S. Thou do'A more diffinally.

There's meaning in thy fnores. Ant. I am more ferious then my custome : you Must be fo too, if heed me: which to do,

Trebbles thee o'se. Seb. Well: 1 sm flanding water. Ant. He reach you how to flow:

Seb. Do lo: to ebbe Hereditary Sloth infleuer me.

If you but knew how you the purpole cherish Whiles thus you macke it : how in flripping it You more investite cubing men, indeed (Most ofern) do so neere the bottome run By their owne feare, or floth.

Sab. Pre-thee say on, The fetting of thine eye, and cheeke proclaime A matter from thee; and a birth, indeed. Which throwes thee much to yeeld.

Ant. Thus Sir : Although this Lord of weake remembrance; this Who shall be of as little memory When he is earth'd, hath here almost perswaded (For hee's a Spirit of persuation, onely Prosesses persuade) the sting his some's alive, "Tis as impossible that hee's undrown'd, As he that sleepes heere, frins.

Seb, I have no hope That hee's vndrovm'd.

Am. O, out of that no hape, What great hopo have you? No hope that way, Is Another way so high a hope, that euch Ambition cannot pierce a within beyond firt doubt discovery there. Will you grant with me That Fordinard is drown'd.

Sd. He's gone. And. Then tell me, who's the next heire of Naples? Seb. Claribell.

dod. She that is Quetne of Tanis: the that deres

Ten leagues beyond mans life ; the that from Natus Can have no note, valeffe the Sun were post it The Man i'th Moone's too flow, till new-borne chimeer Be rough, and Razor-able: She that from whom We all were fea-fwallow'd, though fome cast againe. (And by that defliny) to performe an act
Whereof, what's palt is Prologue; what to come In yours, and my discharge.

Seb. What stuffe is this? How say you? Tis true my brothers daughter's Queene of Timis, So is the heyre of Naples, ewixe which Regions

Seemes to cry out, how shall that Claribe?

There is some space. Ans. A space, whose en'ry cubit

Messure vs backe to Naplas? keepe in Twii, And let Schaftian wake. Say, this were death That now hath feiz'd them, why they were no worfe Then now they are ! There he that can rale Neeles As well as he that fleepes : Lords, that can prate As amply, and ennecessarily As this Gonzallo: I my felfe could make A Chough of as deepe chat : O, that you bore The minde that I do; what a fleepe were this For your advancement? Do you understand me?

Seb. Methinkes I da ...

Am. And how do's your centent Tender your owne good forume? Set. I remember

You did Supplant your Brothet Profecto. Aut. Trucs

And looke how well my Garments fit ypon me, Much seater then before : My Brothers servants Were then my fellowes, now they are my men.

Seb. But for your conscience. Ans. I Sir : where lies that? If 'twere a kybe Twould put me to my flipper: But I feele not This Deity in my bolome: Twentie consciences That fland 'twist me, and Millaine, candied be they,

And melt ere they molloft: Heere lies your Brother, No better then the earth he lies vpon, If he were that which now bee's like (that's dead) Whom I with this obedient steele (three inches of it) Can lay to bed for ever; whiles you doing thus, To the perpetuall winke for eye might pus This ancient morfell: this Sir Prudence, who Should not vpbraid our course: for all the raft

They's take suggestion, as a Cat laps milke, They i vell the clocke, to any bulineffe that

We for befits the boure.

Seb. Thy case, deere Friend

Shall be my prefident: As then got'A Millaine, He come by Neples : Drew thy fword, one firoke Shall free thee from the tribute which thou paielt. And I the King shall love thee.

Ant. Draw together: And when I reare my hand, do you the like To fall it on Gove alo

Ses. O, but one word.

Enter Aries with Odesficke and Song. Arid. My Mafter through his Art forefees the danger That you (his friend) are in, and fends me forth (For elfe his project dies) to keepe them lining. Singriz Genzalozs arre.

Whis you bere do successive lie, Open-ey'd Cought asis His time doth take:

If of Life you keepe a care, Stake off flumber and boware. Awake, awake.

Ans. Then let vs both be sodzine. Gow. Now, good Angels preserue the King.

Ale. Why how now hos; awake? why are you drawn? Wherefore this ghaftly looking?

Gov. What's the matter ?

Seb. Whiles we stood here seening your repose, (Euen now) we heard a hollow burft of bellowing Like Buls, or rather Lyons, did'e not wake you? It strooke mine eare most terribly.

Ale. I heard nothing.

Ant. O, twasa din to fright a Monsters eare; To make an earthquake: fure it was the roate Of a whole heard of Lyons.

Alo. Heard you this Gonzalo?

Gen. Vpon mine honour, Sir, I heard a humming. (And that a strange one too) which did awake me: I (hak'd you Sir, and cride: as mine eyes opend, I faw their weapons drawne : there was a noyfe, That's verily: 'tis best we stand vpon our guard; Or that we quit this place : let's draw our weapons.

Alo. Lead off this ground & let's make further fearch

For my poore sonne.

Gon. Heavens keepe him from thele Beafts:

For he is fure i'th Island,

Alo. Lead away. (done. Arsell. Profeero my Lord, shall know what I have So (King) goe fafely on to feeke thy Son.

Scæna Secunda.

Encer Caliban, with a burthen of Wood (a noyfe of Thunder beard)

Cal. All the infections that the Sunne fuckes vp From Bogs, Fens, Flats, on Profper fall, and make him By ynch-meale a difease : his Spirits heare me, And yet I needes must eurse. But they'll nor pinch, Fright me with Vrchyn-shewes, pitch me i'th inice, Norlead melike a fire-brand, in the darke Out of my way, vnleffe he bid em; but For every tride, are they fet vpon me, Sometime like Apes, that moe and chatter at me, And after bite me : then like Hedg-hogs, which Lye rumbling in my bare-foote way, and mount Their pricks at my foot-fall; fometime om I All wound with Adders, who with clouen tongues Dochisse meinto madnelle : Lo, now Lo, Here comes a Spirit of his, and to comment me Trocalo. For bringing wood in flowly: I'le fall flat, Perchance be will not minde me.

Tri. Heres neither buih, nor fhrub to beare off any weather at all: and another Storme brewing, Theare it fing ith winde: yand fame blacke cloud, youd huge one, lookes like a foul bumbard that would shed his licquor: if it should thunder, as it did before, I know not where to hide my head: youd fame cloud cannot choose but fall by paile-fuls. What have we here, a man, or a fifth? dead or aliue? a fifth, hee fmels like a fifth: a very ancient and fish-like smell: a kinde of, not of the newest poore-John: a strange fills: were I in England now (as once I was) and had but this fish painted; not a holiday-foole there but would give a peece of filver: there, would this Monster, make a man: any strange beast there, makes a man i when they will not give a doit to relieue a lame Begger, they will lay out ten to fee a dead Indian: Leg'd like a man; and his Finnes like Armes: warme o' my troth : I doe now let loofe my opinion; hold it no longer; this is no fish, but an Islander, that hath lately suffered by a Thunderbolt : Alas, the florme is come againe; my best way is to creepe vnder his Gaberdine : there is no other flielter hereabout : Misery acquaints a man with strange bedsellower: I will here throwd till the dregges of the forme be past.

Enter Stepheno singing. See. I shall no more to sea, to sea, here shall I dye ashore. This is a very feuruy tune to fing at a mans Funerall: well, here's my comfort.

Sings. The Master, the Swabber, the Boate-swaine & I; The Gunner, and his Male Lou'd Mall, Meg. and Alarrian, and Margeris, Bus none of ws car'd for Kate.

For she had a tongue with a sang, Would cry to a Sailor goe hang:

She lon'd not the sanour of Tarnor of Pitch, Tet a Tailor might fcratch ber where ere she did iteb.

Then to Sea Boyes, and let ber goe havy. This is a feuruy tune too:

But here's my comfort.

Cal. Doe not torment me : oh.

Ste. What's the matter? Haue we druels here?

Doe you put trickes vpon's with Saluages, and Men of Inde? ha? I have not scap'd drowning, to be afeard now of your foure legges: for it hath bin faid; as proper a man as euer went on foure legs, cannot make him gine ground: and it shall be said so againe, while Stephare breathes at' nostrils.

Cal. The Spirit torments me : oh.

See. This is some Monster of the Isle, with sourc legs; who hath got (as I take it) an Ague: where the diuell should be learne our language? I will give him some reliefe if it be but for that : if I can recouer him, and keepe him tame, and get to Naples with him, he's a Prefent for any Emperour that eucr trod on Neates-leather.

Cel. Doe not torment me 'prethee: I'le bring my wood home faster.

Ste. He's in his fit now; and doe's not talke after the wischt: lice shall taste of my Bottle: if hee have never drunke wine afore, it will goe neere to remove his Fit : If I can recouer him, and keepe him tame, I will not take too much for him; hee shall pay for him that hath him. and that foundly.

Cal. Thou do'ft me yet but little hurt; thou wilt 2non, I know it by thy trembling: Now Prosper workes

Sie. Come on your wayes. open your mouth : here is that which will give language to you Cat; open your mouth; this will shake your shaking, I can tell you, and that foundly: you cannot tell who's your friend; open your chaps againe.

Tri. I should know that voyce:

It Chould be,

But hee is dround; and these are divels; O defend nie.

Ste. Foorelegges and two voyces; a most delicate Monster: his forward voyce now is to speake well of his friend: his backward voice, is to viter foule speeches, and to detract ; If all the wine in my bottle will recover him. I will helpe his Ague: Come: Amen, I will poure fome to thy other mouth.

Tn. Snphano.

Ste. Doth thy other mouth call me? Mercy mercy : This is a diuell, and no Monfter: I will leave him, I haue no long Spoone.

Tri. Stephino: if thou beeft Stephano touch me, and speake to me; for I am Trinculo; be not ascard, thy good friend Trinculo.

See. If thou bee'll Trmealo: come foorth: I'le pull thee by the leffer legges: if any be Trinculo's legges, thefearethey: Thou are very Trincula indeede i how cam'il chou to be the fiege of this Moone-calle? Can he vent Trinculo's?

Trs. I tooke him to be kil'd with a thunder-frok; but att thou not dround Sighano: I hope now thou art not dround: Is the Storme over-blowne: I hid mee under the dead Moone-Calfes Gaberdine, for feare of the Storme: And art thou living Stephano? O Stephano, two Neapolitanes scap'd?

Sie. Prethee doe not turne me about, my flomacke

Cal. Thele be fine things, and if they be not sprights: that's a braue God, and beares Celeftiall liquor : I will' kneele to him.

Sie. How did'ft thou fcape?

How eam'st thou hither?.

Sweare by this Bottle how thou cam'ft hither: I elcsp'd rpon a But of Sacke, which the Saylors heaved o'ceboord, by this Bottle which I made of the barke of a Tree, with mine owne hands, fince I was cast a shore.

Cal. 17e sweare upon that Bottle, to be thy true subiect, fortheliquorisnot earthly.

St. Heere: Iweare then how thou escap'dft.

Tri. Swoin aftore (man) like a Ducke: I can fwim like a Ducke i'le be sworne.

Sre. Here, kille the Booke.

Though thou canst swim like a Ducke, thou art made like a Goofe.

Ir:. O Stepbano, ha'ft any more of this?

Sie. The whole But (man) my Cellar is in a rocke by th'fea-fide, where my Wine is hid: How now Moone-Calfe, how do's thine Ague?

Cal. Ha'ft thou not dropt from heauen?

Ste. Out o'th Moone I doe affure thee. I was the Man ith' Moone, when time was.

Cal Thane seene thee in her: and I doe adore thee: My Mistris shew'd me thee, and thy Dog, and thy Bush.

Ste. Come, sweare to that : kiffe the Booke : I will furnish it anon with new Contents : Sweare.

Tri. By this good light, this is a very shallow Monfter: I afeard of him? a very weake Monfter: The Manith Moone?

A most poore creadulous Monster:

Well drawne Monfter, in good footh.

Cal. He shew thee every fertill ynch oth Island: and I will kille thy foote. I pretheebe my god.

Tri. By this light, a most perfidious, and deunken Monster, when's god's a sleepe he'll rob his Bottle.

Cal. He kille thy foot. He fweare my felfe thy Subject. Sie. Come on then : downs and fweare.

Tri. I shall laugh my selfe to death at this puppi-headed Monfier: a most service Monfier: I could finde us my heart to beate him.

Ste. Come, kille.

Tri. But that the poote Monster's in drinke:

Anabhominable Monfer.

Cal. I'le show thee the best Springs : I'le plucke thee Bernes: l'le fish for thee; and get thee wood enough. A plague vpon the Tyrant that I ferue; I'le beare him no more Stickes, but follow thee, thou wondrous man.

Tri. A most rediculous Monster, to make a wonder of a poore drankard.

Cal. I'prethee let me bring thee where Crabs grow; and I with my long nayles will digge thee pig-nots; show thee a layer nest, and instruct thee how to snare the nimble Marmazet: I'le bring thee to clustring Philbirts, and sometimes I'le get thee young Scamels from the Rocke: Wilt thou goe with me?

Ste. I pre'thee now lead the way without any more talking. Trincule, the King, and all our company elfe being dround, wee will inherit here: Here; beare my Boule: Fellow Trusculo; we'll fill him by and by a-Caliban Sings drunbenly. Farewell Malter; farewell, farewell.

Tri, Ahowling Montter : a drunken Monfter, Cal. No more dams I'le make for fifb, Nor fetch in firmy, at requiring, Nor scrape trenchering, nor wash dush,

Ban' ban' Casal, ban

Has anew Mafter, get a new Man. Freedome, high-day, high-day freedome, freedome highday, freedome. Exempt.

Sie. O braue Monster; lead the way.

Actus Tertius. Scana Prima.

Enter Ferdinand (bearing a Log.)

Fer. There be some Sports are painfull; & their labor Delight in them fet off : Some kindes of balenesse Are nobly vadergon; and most poore matters Point to rich ends: this my meane Taske Would be as heavy to me, as odious, but The Mistris which I serue, quickens what's dead, And makes my labours, pleasures : O She is Ten times more gentle, then her Father's crabbed; And he's compos'd of harthnesse. I must remoue Some thousands of these Logs, and pile them vp, Vpon a lore inimation; my lweet Miftris Weepes when she sees me worke, & saies, such basenes Had neuer like Executor : I forget : But these sweet thoughts, doe euen refresh my labours, Most busie lest, when I doe it. Enter Mirands

Alir. Alas, now pray you and Profero, Worke oct so hard : I would the lightning had Burnt vp those Logs that you are enjoyed to pile: Pray fet it downe, and reft you: when this burnes T will weepe for having wearied you : my Father Is hard at findy; pray now reft your felfe,

He's

Hee's fafe for thefe three houres.

Fer. O most deere Mistris,

The Sun will fet before I fhall discharge What I must striue to do.

Mir. If you'l fit downe He beare your Logges the while: pray give me that,

He carry it to the pile.

Fer. No precious Creature, I had rather éracke my sinewes, breake my backe, Then you should such dishonor undergoe,

While I fit lazy by.

Mir. It would become me As well as it do's you; and I should do it With much more ease: for my good will is to it, And yours it is againft.

Pro. Poore worme shou art infected,

This visitation shewes it.

Mir. You looke wearily.

Fer. No, noble Mistres, 'tis fresh morning with me When you are by at night: I do beseech you Cheefely, that I might fet it in my prayers What is your name?

Mir. Miranda, Omy Father, I haue broke your hest to say so.

Fer. Admir'd Miranda, Indeede the top of Admiration, worth What's deerest to the world: full many a Lady I have ey'd with best regard, and many a time Th'harmony of their tongues, liath into bondage Brought my too diligent eate : for feuerall vertues Haue I lik'd feuerall women, neuer any VVith fo full foule, but some defect in her Did quarrell with the noblest grace she ow'd, And put it to the foile. But you, O you, So perfect, and so peerlesse, are created Ofeuerie Creatures best. Mir. I do not know

One of my fexe; no womans face remember, Saue from my glaffe, mine owne: Nor have I feene More that I may call men, then you good friend, And my decre Father : how features are abroad I am skillesse of; but by my modestie (The iewell in my dower) I would not wish Any Companion in the world but you: Nor can imagination forme a shape Befides your selfe, to like of: but I prattle Something too wildely, and my Fathers precepts I therein do forget.

Per. I am, in my condition A Prince (Mirenda) I dozhinke a King (I would not fo) and would no more endure This wodden flauerie, then to fuffer The flesh-flie blow my mouth : heare my soule speake. The verie instant that I saw you, did My heart flie to your seruice, there resides To make me flaue to it, and for your fake Am I this patient Logge-man.

Mir. Do you loue me?

Fer. Oheauen; Oearth, beare witnes to this found, And crowne what I professe with kinde event If I speake true : if hollowly, inuert VVhat best is boaded me, to mischiese: I, Beyond all limit of what else i'th world Do loue, prize, honor you.

Mir. Iam a foole To weepe at what I am glad of. Pro. Faire encounter

Of two most rare affections : heavens raine grace On that which breeds betweene 'em.

Fer. VVherefore weepe you?

Mir. At mine vnwortlinesse, that darenot offer What I delire to give; and much leffe take VVhat I shall die to want : But this Is trifling, And all the more it seekes to hide it selse, The bigger bulke it shewes. Hence bashfull cunning, And prompt me plaine and holy innocence. I am your wife, if you will marrie me; If not, Ile die your maid : to be your fellow You may denie me, but He be your seruant VV hether you will or no.

For. My Mistris (dceres) And I thus humble cuer.

Mr. My busband then?

Fer. 1, with a heart as willing As bondage ere of freedome : heere's my hand.

Mir. And mine, with my heart in't; and now farewel Till halfe an houre hence,

Fer. A thousand, thousand.

Exeum.

Pro. So glad of this as they I cannot be, VVho are furprized with all; but my revoyeing At nothing can be more: lle to my booke, For yet ere supper time, must I performe Much bufinesse appertaining.

Exit.

Scæna Secunda

Ester Caliban, Stephano, and Trinculo.

Ste. Tell not me, when the But is out we will drinke warer, not a drop before; therefore beare vp, & boord em' Seruant Monster, drinke to me.

Trin, Servant Monster? the folly of this lland, they fay there's but flue voon this lile; we are three of them, if th'other two be brain'd like vs, the State totters.

Sie. Drinke seruant Monster when I bid thee, thy eies are almost set in thy head.

Trin. VVhere should they bee set else? hee were a braue Monster indeede it they were set in his taile.

Sie. My man-Monster hath drown'd his tongue in facke: for my part the Sea cannot drowne mee, I fwam ere I could recover the shore, fine and thirtie Leagues off and on, by this light thou shalt becomy Lieutenant Monster, or my Staudard.

Trin. Your Lieurenant if you lift, hee's no standard.

Ste, VV cel not run Monfieur Monfier.

Trm. Nor go neither : but you'l lie like dogs, and yet fay nothing neither.

Ste. Moone-calfe, speak once in thy life, if thou beeft a good Moone-calfe.

Cal. How does thy honour? Let me licke thy shooe: He not fesue him, he is not valiant,

Trin. Thou lieft most ignorant Monster, I am in case to iustle a Constable: why, thou debosh'd Fish thou, was there ever man a Coward, that hath drunk so much Sacke as I to day? wilt thou tell a monstrous lie, being but halfe a Fish, and halfe a Monster?

(al. Loe, how he mockes me, wilt thou let him my Lord?

Cal

Trin. Lord, quoth he? that a Monster should be such a Naturall?

Cal. Loe, loe againe : bite him to death I prethee. See. Trinento, keepe a good tongue in your head: If you proue a mutincere, the next Tree the poore Monfter's my subject, and he shall nonsuffer indignity.

Cal. I thanke my noble Lord. Wilt thou be pleas'd to hearken once againe to the furte I made to thee?

Ste. Marry will I : kneele, and repeate it, I will fland, and fo finall Trinculo.

Enter Ariell inmifible.

Cal. As I told thee before, I am subieft to a Tirant, A Sorcerer, that by his cunning hath cheated me Of the Illand.

Ariell. Thou lyell.

Cal. Thou lyeft, thou iesting Monkey thou: I would my valiant Master would destroy thee, I do not lye.

Ste. Trineale, if you trouble him any more in's tale, By this hand, I will supplant some of your teeth.

Trin. Why, I faid nothing.

Ste. Munithen, and no more : proceed. Cal. I say by Sorcery he got this Ine From me, he got it. If thy Greatnesse will Revenge it on him, (for I know thou dar'ft) But this Thing dare not.

Ste. That's most certaine.

C.al. Thou fhalt be Lord of it, and lle ferue thee.

See. How now shall this be compass?

Canst thou bring me to the party? Cal. Yea, yea my Lord, lle yeeld him thee alleepe,

Where thou maist knocke a naile into his head.

Ariell. Thou heft, thou canft not.

Cal. What a py de Ninnie's this? Thou scuruy parch: I do befeech thy Greatnesse give him blowes, And take his bottle from him: When that's gone, He shall drinke nought but brine, for lle not shew him Where the quicke Freshes are.

Ste. Trinculo, run into no further danger : Interrupt the Monster one word further, and by this hand, lie turne my mercie out o'doores, and make a Stockfish of thee

Trin. Why, what did I? I did nothing: Ile go farther off.

Sie. Didft thou not fay he lyed?

Ariell. Thou lieft.

Ste. Do I fo? Take thou that,

As you like this, give me the lye another time.

Trin. Idid not give the lie: Out o'yout wittes, and hearing too? A pox o'your bottle, this can Sacke and drinking doo:

A murren on your Monster, and the divell take your fingers.

Cal. Ha, ha, ha.

Ste. Now forward with your Tale: prethee fland further off.

Cal. Beate him enough : after a little time lle beate him too.

Ste. Stand farther : Come proceede.

Cal. Why, as I told thee, 'tis a custome with him I'th afternoone to fleepe: there thou maift braine him, Having first feiz'd his bookes : Or with a logge Batter his skull, or paunch him with a flake Or cut his wexand with thy knife. Remember First to possesselis Bookes; for without there Hee's but a Sot, as I am; no: hash oot One Spirit to command; they all do have him As rousedly as I. Rume but his Bookes . a He has braue Veenfils (for fo he calles them) Which when he ha's a hoofe, hee'l decke without And that most deeply to consider, is The beautie of his daughter . he himfelfe Cals her a non-pareill : I neuer fawa woman But onely Sycorax my Dam, and the: But the as face furpaffeth Sremar. As great'll do's leafr.

Sie. Isit fo braue a Laffe ?

Cal. 1 Lord, the will become thy bed, I warrant, And bring thee forth brave brood.

Ste. Monster, I will kill this man: his daughter and I will be King and Queene, faue our Graces : and Irmcale and thy felfe shall be Vice-royes : Doft thou like the plot Trunculo?

Trin. Excellent.

Sie. Giue me thy hand, I am forry I beate thee! But while thou liu'ft keepe a good tongue in thy head. Cal. Within this halfe houre will he be alleepe, Wilc thou destroy him then?

Sie. I on mine honour.

Ariell. This will I cell my Mafter.

Cal. Thou mak'ft me merry; I am full of pleasure, Let vs be rocond. Will you troule the Carch You taught me but whileare?

Sie. At thy request Monster, I will do reason, Any reason: Come on Trincule, let vs fing.

Sings. Flort em, and cont em : and seems em, and flors em, Thought is free.

Cal That's not the tune.

Ariell plaies the sume on a Taber and Pope.

See. What is this fame?

Trin. This is the tune of our Catch, plaid by the pieture of No-body.

See. If thou beeft a man, shew thy felfe in thy likenes: If thou beeft a divell, take't as thou lift.

Trin. O forgive me my finnes.

Sie. He that dies payes all debts: I defie thee; Mercy vpon vs.

Cal. Arethou affeard? Ste. No Monfter, not 1.

Cal. Benot affeard, the Isle is full of noyfes, Sounds, and sweet aires, that give delight and hutt not: Sometimes a thouland twangling Instruments Will hum about mine eares; and sometime voices, That if I then had wak'd after long fleepe, Will make me sleepe againe, and then in dreaming, The clouds methought would open, and thew siches

Ready to drop vpon me, that when I wak'd I cri'de to dreame againe. Ste. This will proue a braue kingdome to me,

Where I shall have my Musicke for nothing. Cal. When Profpers is destroy'd.
Sit. That shall be by and by:

I remember the storie.

Tris. The found is going away. Lets follow it, and after do our worke.

Sre. Leade Monster, Wee'l follow: I would I could fee this Taberer, He layes it on.

Trin. Wilt come? Ile follow Stephano.

Freday Scena

Scena Tertia.

Enter Alonfo Schaftian, Anthonio, Gonzado, Adream, Francisco, &c.

Gon. By'r lakin, I can goe no further, Sir, My old bones akes: here's a maze trod indeede Through fourth rights, & Meanders : by your patience I needes must reft me.

Al. Old Lord, I connot blame thee, Who, am my felfe attach'd with wearineffe To th'dulling of my spirits : Sit downe, and rest t Euen here I will put off my hope, and keepe it No longer for my Flatterer : he is droun'd Whom thus we stray to finde, and the Sea mocks Our fruftrate fearch on land : well, let him'goc.

Ant. I am right glad, that he's fo out of hope : Doe not for one repulle forgoe the purpole

That you resolu'd t'effect.

Seb. The next advantage will we take throughly. Ant. Let it be tonight,

For now they are oppress'd with trausile, they Will not, not cannot vie such vigilance

As when they are frefly.

Solemne and france Musicke : and Prosper on the sop (innifible:) Enser fesser all frange shapes , bringing in a Banket; and dance about it with genile altions of falutations, and muiting the Kingatre to ease, they depart. Seb. I fay to night : no more.

Al. What harmony is this? my good friends, harke. Gon. Maruellous (weet Muficke.

Alo, Giue vs kind keepers, heaues: what were thefe?

Seb. A living Drderie: now I will beleeve That there are Vincoines; that in Arabia There is one Tree, the Phænix throne, one Phænix At this house reigning there.

Ant. lie beleeue both : And what do's elfe want credit, come to me

And Hebesworne 'tis true: Travellers nere didlye, Though fooles at home condemne cm.

Gon. If in Naples

I should report this naw, would they beleeve me? If I flould fay I faw fuch Islands; (For certes, thele are people of the Island) Who though they are of monstrous shape, yet note Their manners are more gentle, kinde then of Our humaine generation you shall finde Many, nay almost any.

Pro. Honest Lord, Thou hast said well: for some of you there present;

Are worse then diuels.

Al. I cannot too much muse Such Chapes, such gesture, and such sound expressing (Although they want the vie of tongue) a kinde Of excellent dumbe discourse.

Pro. Praile in departing. Fr. They vanish'd strangely.

(macks. Seb. Nomatter, fince They have left their Viands behinde; for wee have sto-Wilt please you taste of what is here!

Alo. Not I. Gon. Faith Sir, you neede not feare: when wee were Who would believe that there were Mountaynecres, Dew-lapt, like Buls, whose throats had hanging at'em Wallets of fielh? or that there were fuch men Whose heads stood in their brests? which now we finde Each putter out of five for one, will bring vs Good warrant of.

Al. I will fland to, and feede, Although my last, no matter, fince I feele The best is past : brother : my Lord, the Duke, Stand too, and doe as we.

Thunder and Lightning, Enter Ariell (like a Harpey) claps his wings open the Table, and with a quient denice the Banquet vanishes.

Ar. You are three men of finne, whom deftiny That hath to instrument this lower world, And what is in't : the never furfeired Sea, Hath caus'd to belch vp you; and on this Island, Where man doth not inhabit, you mongst men. Being most vnfit to live : I have made you mad; And even with fuch like valour, men hang, and drowne Their proper selves : you sooles, I and my sellowes Are ministers of Fate, the Elements Of whom your fwords are temper'd, may as well Wound the loud windes, or with bemockt-at-Stabs Kill the ftill clofing waters, as diminish One dowle that's in my plumbe: My fellow miniflers Are like-invulnerable: if you could hurt, Your fwords are now too maffie for your strengths, And will not be vplifted : But remember (For that's my businesse to you) that you three From Millaine did Supplant good Prospero. Expos'd vnto the Sea (which hath requit it) Him, and his innocent childe : for which foule deed, The Powres, delaying (not forgetting) have Incens'd the Seas, and Shores; yea, all the Creatures Against your peace: Thee of thy Sonne, Alonfo They have bereft; and doe pronounce by me Lingring perdition (worfe then any death Can be at once) shall step, by step at tend You, and your wayes, whole wraths to guard you from, Which here, in this most desolate Isle, else fals V pon your heads, is nothing but hearts-fortow, And a cleere life enfuing.

He vanishes in Thunder : then (so soft Musicke.) Enter the Shapes againe, and dannee (with mockes and morres) and carrying om the Table.

Pro. Brauely the figure of this Harpie, half thou Perform'd(my Ariell)a grace it had devouring: Of my Instruction, hast thou nothing bated In what thou had'ft to fay : fo with good life, And observation strange, my meaner ministers Their feuerall kindes have done: my high charmes work, And these (mine enemies) are all knit vp In their diffractions: they now are in my powre; And in these fits, I leave them, while I visit Yong Ferdinand (whom they suppose is droun'd) And his, and mine lou'd darling.

Gon. I'th name of something holy, Sir, why stand you In this strange stare?

Al. O,it is monftrous: monstrous: Me thought the billowes spoke, and told me of it, The windes did fing it to me : and the Thunder (That deepe and dreadfull Organ-Pipe) pronounc'd The name of Profper: it did base my Trespasse, Therefore my Sonne ith Ooze is bedded; and I'le feeke him deeper then ere plummet founded, And with him there lye mudded.

Seb. But one feend at a time, He fight their Legions ore.

Ant. He be thy Second.

Gon. All three of them are desperate: their great guilt (Like poylon given to worke a great time after)
Now gins to bite the (pirits: I doe befeech you (That are of suppler soynts) follow them swiftly, And hinder them from what this extalie May now prouoke them to.

Ad. Follow, I pray you.

Execut ommes,

Actus Quartus. Scena Prima.

Enter Prospero, Ferdinand, and Miranda. Pro. If I have too austerely punish'd you, Your compensation makes amends, for I Haue given you here, a third of mine owne life, Or that for which I live: who, once againe I render to thy hand: All thy vexations Were but my trials of thy love, and thou Halt strangely stood the test : here afore heaven I ratifie this my rich guift : O Ferdinand, Doe not smile at me, that I boast her of, For thou shalt finde the will out-strip all praise And make it halt behinde her.

Fer. I doe beleeue it

Against an Oracle. Pro. Then, as my guest, and thine owne acquistion Worthily purchas'd, take my daughter But If thou do'ft breake her Virgin-knot, before All fanctimonious ceremonies may With full and holy right, be minifred, No sweet aspersion shall the heavens let fall To make this contract grow; but barraine hate, Sower-ey'd disdaine, and discord shall bestrew The vnion of your bed, with weedes fo loathly That you shall hate it both : Therefore take heede, As Hymens Lamps shall light you.

Fer. As I hope For quier dayes, faire Islue, and long life, With fuch loue, 25 tis now the murkiest den, The most opportune place, the strongst suggestion, Our worfer Genisu can, shall neuer melt Mine honor into lust, to take away The edge of that dayes celebration, When I shall thinke, or Phabas Steeds are founderd. Or Night kept chain'd below.

Pro. Fairely Spoke ;

Sit then, and talke with her, the is thine owne; What Arieli, my industrious servat Ariell. Enter Ariell.

Ar. What would my potent mafter ? here I am. Pro. Thou, and thy meaner fellowes, your last feruice Did worthily performe: and I must vie you In fuch another tricke : goe bring the rabble (Ore whom I give thee powre) here, to this place: Incite them to quicke motion, for I must Bestow upon the eyes of this yong couple Some vanity of mine Art : it is my promile, And they expect it from me.

Pro. 1: with a twincke.

Ar. Before you can fay come, and goe, And breathe twice; and cry, fo, fo: Each one tripping on his Toe, Will be here with mop, and mowe. Doe you love me Master? no?

Pro. Dearely, my delicate Ariell: doe not approach Till thou do'ft heare me call.

Ar. Well: I conceive.

Pro. Looke thou be true: doe not give dessirance Too much the raigne : the flrongest oathes, are fraw To th'fire ith' blood : be more abstenious, Or elfe good night your vow.

Fer. I warrant you, Sir, The white cold virgin Snow, vpon my heart Abates the ardour of my Liner.

Pro. Well.

Now come my Arull, bring a Corossy, Rather then want a Spirit; appear, & portly. Sofe mufick No tongue : all eyes ; be filent.

Ir. Ceres, most bounceous Lady, thy rich Leas Of Wheate, Rye, Barley, Fetches, Oates and Peafe; Thy Turphie-Mountaines, where live nibling Sheepe, And flat Medes thetchd with Scouer them to keepe: Thy bankes with proned, and twilled brans Which spungie Aprill at thy heft betrime; To make cold Nymphes chaft crownes; & thy brooms-Whole shadow the dismissed Batchelor loues, (groves; Being laffe-lorne: thy pole-clipt vineyard, And thy Sea-marge flittile, and tockey-hard, Where thou thy felte do'll ayre, the Queene o'th Skie, Whole watty Arch, and meffenger, am 1. Bids thee leave thefe, & with her foueraigne grace, Imo Here on this graffe-plot, in this very place
To coine, and sport: here Peacocks stye amaine: Approach, rich Ceres, her to entertaine. Enter Cers.

Cer. Haile, many-coloured Mellenger, that nere Do'ft disobey the wife of sup iter: Who, with thy faffron wings, spon my flowtes Diffusest hony drops, refreshing showres, And with each end of thy blew bowe do'ft crowne My boskie acres, and my vnshrubd downe, Rich fearph to my proud earth; why hath thy Queene Summond me hither, to this short gras'd Greene?

Ir. A contrast of true Love, to celebrate, And some donation freely to estate On the bles'd Lovers.

Cer. Tell me heavenly Bowe, If Vewse or her Sonne, as thou do'it know, Doe now attend the Queene? fince they did plos Themeanes, that duskie Du, my daughter got, Her, and her blind-Boyes scandald company, I have for fwome.

Ir. Of her locietie

Be not afraid : I met her deitie Cutting the clouds towards Paper: and her Son Doue drawn with her: here thought they to have done Some wanton charme, vpon this Man and Maide, Whose vowes are, that no bed-right shall be paid Till Hymen: Torch be lighted : but in vaine, Marfes hot Minion is returnd againe, Her waspish headed some, has broke his arrowes, Swears he will shoote no more, but play with Sparrows,

And be a Boy right out.
Cer. Highest Queene of State, Great lune comes, I know her by her gate.

Iu. How do's my bounteous lifter? goe with me To bleffe this twaine, that they may prosperous be, They Sing . And honourd in their I five.

> In Honor, riches, marriage, bleffing, Long continuance, and encreasing, Housely injes, be ft. Il upon you,

Lanc

Iuno fingt her bloffingt on you.
Earths increase, for your plentie,
Earths, and Carners, never empty.
Venes, with clustring bunches growing,
Plants, with goodly burthen bowing:
Spring come toyou at the farthest,
In the very end of Harnost.
Scarcity and want shall shun you,
Cetes bloffing so in you.

Fer. This is a most maiesticke wision, and Harmonious charmingly: may 1 be bold

To thinke thefe spirits?

Pro. Spirits, which by mine Art
I have from their confines call'd to ena fr

My present fancies.

Fer. Let meliue here euer,

So rarea wondred Father, and a wife
Makes this place Paradife.

Pro. Sweet now, filence:

Tuno and Ceres whisperseriously,

Juno and Ceres whilper leriously,
There's something else to doe: hush, and be mute
Or else our spell is mar'd.

Iuno and Ceres whifter, and fend iris on employment.

Iris. You Nimphs cald Nazades of y windring brooks,
With your fedged crownes, and euer. harmeleffe lookes,
Leave your crifpe channels, and on this greene-Land
Answere your fummons. Inno do's command.
Come temperate Nimphes, and helpe to celebrate
A Contract of true Loue: be not too late.

You Sun-buen'd Sicklemen of August weary, Come hether from the furrow, and be merry, Make holly day: your Rye-straw hats put on, And these first Nimphes encounter every one In Country sooting.

Enter certaine Reapers (properly habited:) they some with the Nimphes in a gracefull dance cowards the end whereof, Ptospeto starts sodainly and speakes, after which to a strange bollow and confused noyse, they beautly varish.

Pro. I had forgot that foule conspiracy
Of the beast Callibra, and his consederates
Against my life: the minute of their plot
Is almost come: Well done, avoid: no more.

Fer. This is strange: your fathers in some passion.
That workes him strongly.

Mir. Neuer till this day

Saw I him touch'd with anger, fo diffemper'd. Pro. You doe looke (my fon) in a mou'd fort, As if you were dismaid: be cheerefull Sir, Our Reuels now are ended : These our actors . (As I foretold you) were all Spirits, and Are melted into Ayre, into thin Ayre, And like the bafeleffe fabricke of this vision The Clowd-capt Towres, the gorgeous Pallaces. The folemne Temples, the great Globe it felfe. Yea, all which it inherit, flial' diffolue, And like this infubflantiall Pageant faded Leave not a racke behinde : we are such stuffe As dreames are made on; and our little life Is rounded with a fleepe : Sit, I am vext, Beare with my weakenesse, my old braine is troubled: Be not disturb'd with my infirmitie, If you be pleas'd, retire into my Cell, And there repose, a turne or two, Ile walke

For. Mer. We wish your peace.

To still my beating minde.

Pro. Come with a thought; I thank thee Arett: come.

Ar. Thy thoughts I cleane to, what's thy pleafure?
Pro. Spirit: We must prepare to meet with Caliban.
Ar. I my Commander, when I prefented Cores

Ar. I my Commander, when I prefented Ceres
I thought to have told thee of it, but I feat'd

Least I might anger thee.

Pro. Sayagain, where didft thou leave these varlots?

Ar. I told you Sir, they were red-hot with drinking,
So full of valout, that they smote the agree
For breathing in their saces: beate the ground
For kissing of their feete; yet alwaies bending
Towards their project: then I beate my Tabor,
At which like vnback't colts they priekt their eares,
Aduanc'd their eye-lids, listed vp their noses
Aa they smelt musicke, so I charm'd their eares
That Calse-like, they my lowing follow'd, through Tooth'd briars, sharpe firzes, pricking gosse, & thorns,
Which entred their sraile shins: at last 1 left them
I'th' filty manded poole beyond your Cell,
There dancing up to th'chins, that the sowle Lake
Ore-stunck their see.

Pro. This was well done (my bird)
Thy shape invisible retaine thou still:
The trumpery in my house, goe bring it hither
For stale to eatch these theeves. Ar. I go, I goe. Ext.

Pro. A Deuill, a borne-Deuill, on whose nature Nutture can neuer sticke: on whom my paines Humanely taken, all, all lost, quite lost, And, as with age, his body ouglier growes, So his minde cankers: I will plague them all, Euen to roaring: Come, hang on them this line.

Enter Ariell, loaden with glistering apparell, Gc. Enter Caliban, Stephano, and Trineulo, all wet. Cal. Pray you tread softly, that the blinde Mole may not heare a foot fall: we now are neere his Cell.

Sr. Monster, your Fairy, wyou say is a harmles Fairy,
Has done lively become then playd the Jacks with the

Has done little better then plaid the lacke with vs.

Trin. Monster, I do smell all horse-pisse, at which
My nose is in great indignation.

See. Sois mine. Do you heare Monster! If I should Take a displeasure against you: Looke you.

Trim. Thou wert but a lost Monster.

Cal. Goodmy Lord, give me thy favour stil,

Bepatient, for the prize lie bring thee too Shall hudwinke this mifehance: therefore speake foftly, All's husht as midnight yet.

Trin. I, but to look our bottles in the Poole.

Ste, There is not onely diffrace and diffonorin that Monster, but an infinite losse.

Tr. That's more to me then my wetting: Yet this is your harmlesse Fairy, Monster. See, I will fetch off my bottle,

Though I be o're eares for my labour.

Cal. Pre-thee (my King) be quiet. Seeft thou heere This is the mouth o'th Cell: no noife, and enter: Do that good mischeese, which may make this Island Thine owne for ever, and I thy Caliben For aye thy foot-licker.

See. Giuc me thy hand,

Exit.

I do begin to have bloody thoughts.

Trin. O King Stephano, O Peere: O worthy Stephano, Looke what a wardrobe heere is for thee.

Cal. Let it alone thou foole, it is but trash.

Tri. Oh, ho, Monster: weeknow what belongs to a frippery, O King Stephana.

B 2

Sie. Put off that gowne (Tranculo) by this hand He have that gowne.

Tre. Thy grace shall have it. (meane Cal. The dropsic drowne this soole, what doe you To doate this on such luggage flee's alone And doe the murther first; if he awake, From too to crowne hee'l fill our skins with pinches,

Make vs frange fluffe.

Ste. Be you quiet (Monfler) Miffris line, in not this my Jerkin? now is the Jerkin under the line: now lerkin you are like to lofe your haire, Exproue a bald lerkin.

Trem Doe, doe; we steale by lyne and levell, and's like your grace.

Sie. I thank thee for that iest; heer's a garment for't:
Wit shall not goe vn-tewarded while I am King of this Country: Steale by line and levell, is an excellent passe of pate: there's another garment for't.

Tri. Monster, come put some Linie vpon your fin - gers, and away with the reft.

Cal. I will have none on't : we shall loose our time, And all be turn'd to Barnaeles, or to Apes With foreheads villanous low.

Ste. Moniter, lay to your furgers: helpe to beare this away, where my hoghead of wine is, or lleturne you out of my kingdome: goe to, carry this.

Tri. And this.

Sie. 1, and this.

A norfe of Husters' beard. Enter disers Sprits in shape of Dogs and Hounds, husting them about , Prospero and Ariel setting them on.

Pro. Hey Mountaine, hey.

Ari. Suner : there it goes, Suber.

Pro. Fury, Fury: there Tytont, there: harke, herke. Goe, charge my Goblins that they grinde their toynts With dry Convultions, shorten vp their sinewes With aged Cramps, & more pinch-spotted make them, Then Pard, or Car o' Mountaine.

Ari. Harke, they rore.

Pro. Let them be hunted foundly: At this houre Lies at my mercy all mine enemies:
Shortly shall all my labouts end, and thou Shalt have the ayre at freedome: for a little Follow, and doe me service.

Exems.

Actus quintus: Scæna Prima.

Enter Prospero (mhis Mogickerobes) and Ariel

Pro. Now do's my Proic & gather to a head: My charmes cracke not: my Spirits obey, and Time. Goes vpright with his carriage show's the day?

Ar. On the fixt hower, at which time, my Lord

You faid our worke should cease.

Pro. Idid fay fo, When first Irais'd the Tempost: fay my Spirit, How fares the King, and's followers?

Ar. Confin'd together
In the same sashion, as you gaue in charge,
Inthe say you left them; all prisoners Sit
In the Line-grow which weather-sends your Cell,
They cannot boudge till your release: The King,
His Brother, and yours, abide all three distracted,
And the remainder mourning ouer them,
Brim full of sorrow, and dismay i but chiefly

Him that you term'd Sir, the good old Lord Gonzale, His teares runs downe his beard like winters drops From caues of reeds r your charm for frongly works 'em That if you now beheld them, your affections Would become tender.

Pro. Dost thou thinke so, Spirit?
Ar. Mine would, Sit, were I humane.

Pro. And mine shall

Hast thou (which art but nire) a touch, a feeling
Of their afflictions, and shall not my feife,
One of their kinde, that rellish all as snarpely,
Passion as they, be kindlier mou'd then thou art?
Thogh with their high wrongs I am strook to th'quick,
Yer, with my nobler reason, gainst my surre
Doel take part: the rarer Action is
In vertue, then in vengeance: they, being penitent,
The sole drift of my purpose doth extend
Not a frowne surrher: Goe, telease them Ares,
My Charmes I le breake, their sences the refore,
And they shall be themselues.

Ar. He fetch them, Sir. Pro. Ye Elucs ofhils, brooks, flading lakes & groves, And ye, that on the fands with princleffe foore Doe chase the ebbing-Neptune, and doe fite him When he comes backe : you demy-Poppers, that By Moone-snine doe the greene sowre Ringless make, Whereof the Ewe not bites : and you, whole passime Is to make midnight-Mushrumps, that reloyee To heare the folemine Curfewe, by whose ayde (Weake Massers though ye be) I have bedymn'd The Noone-tide Sun, call'd forth the mutenous windes, And twixt the greene Sea, and the azur'd vault Set rosting warre: To the dread rathing Thuader Haue I given fire, and rifted Imer flowt Oke With his owne Bolt: The ftrong bals'd promontorie Haue I made Chake, and by the Spurs pluckt vp The Pyne, and Cedar. Graues at my command Haue wak'd their neepers, op'd, and let 'em forth By my fo potent Art. But this rough Magicke I heere absure : and when I have requir'd Some heavenly Musicke (which even now I do) To worke mine end vpon their Sences, that This Ayrie-charme is for, I'le breake my staffe, Bury it certaine fadomes in the earth, And deeper then did euer Plummet found Solemne min liche. Ile drowne my booke.

Heere enters Aticl before: Then Alonso with a franticke gefiere, attended by Gonzalo. Sebastian and Anthonio on the manner attended by Adrian and Francisco: They all enter the circle which Ptospero had made, and there frand charm'd: which Ptospero observing, frakes.

A folemne Ayre, and the best comforter,
To an vusetled fancie, Cure thy braines
(Now vestelsses) boile within thy skull: there stand
For you are Spell-stope.
Holy Genzale, Honourable man,
Mine eyes evin sociable to the shew of thine
Fall sellowly drops: The charme dissolutes apace,
And as the morning steales upon the night
(Melting the darkenesses) so their rising sences
Begin to chase the ignorant sumes that mantle
Their cleerer reason. O good Genzale
My true preserver, and a loyall Sir,
To him thou follow's; I will pay thy graces
Flow both in word, and deede: Most cruelly

Dida

Did thou Alonfo, vie me, and my daughter: Thy brother was a furtherer in the Act Thou art pinch'd for't now Sebaftian. Flesh, and bloud, You, brother mine, that entertaine ambition, Expelld remorfe, and nature, whom, with Sebaftian (Whose inward pinches therefore are most strong)
Would heere have kill'd your King: I do forgive thee,
Vonaturall though thou art: Their understanding Begins to swell, and the approching tide Will shorely fill the ressonable shore That now ly foule, and muddy a not one of them That yet lookes on me, or would know me: Anell, Fetch me the Hat, and Rapier in my Cell, I will discase me, and my selfe present As I was formetime Millame: quickly Spirit, Thou shalt ere long be free

Ariell fugs, and helps to attire brow.
Where the Bee fucks, there fuck I,
In a Comflips bell, I lie. There I coweb when Owles doe cree, On the Batts backe I doe flie after Sommer marrely. Merrely, merrely, Shall I live now. Vader the blossom that bangs on the Bow

Pro. Why that's my dainty . Ariel : I shall misse Thee, but yer thou shalt have freedome : so, so, so, To the Kings ship, invisible as thou art, There shalt thou finde the Marriners afleepe Vinder the Hatches: the Master and the Boot-swaine Being swake, enforce them to this place; And presently, I pre thee.

Ar. I drinke the aire before me, and returne Or ere your pulle twice beate.

Gow. All torment, trouble, wonder, and amazement Inhabits heere: fome heavenly power guide vs Out of this fearefull Country.

Pro. Behold Sir King
The wronged Duke of Millsine, Prospers: For more affurance that a buing Prince Do's now speake to thee, I embrace thy body, And to thee, and thy Company, I bid A hearty welcome.

Alo. Where thou bee'st he or no. Or some inchanted triflle to abuse me, (As late I have beene) I not know: thy Palle Bests as of flesh, and blood: and fince I faw thee, Th's ffliction of my minde amends, with which I feare a madnesse held me: this must craue (And if this be at all) a most strange story. Thy Dukedome I refigne, and doe entrest Thou perdon me my wrongs : But how shold Profpere Beliuing, and be heere?

Pro. First, noble Frend,

Let me embrace thine age, whose honor cannot Be measur'd, or consin'd.

Gove. Whether this be, Or be not, I'le not fweare. Pro. You doe yet tafte

Some subtleties o'th'lste, that will not let you Belceue things certaine : Wellcome, my friends all, But you, my brace of Lords, were I fo minded I beere could plucke his Highneffe frowne vpon you And lustifie you Traitors : at this time I will tell no tales.

Sed. The Divell speakes in bim: Pra No:

For you (most wicked Sir) whom to call brother Would even infect my mouth, I do forgive Thy rankaft fault ; all of them : and require My Dukedome of thee, which, perforce I know Thou must restore.

Alo, If thou beeft Profeers Give vs particulars of thy preservation, How thou hast met vs heere, whom three howres fince Were wrackt vpon this shore? where I have lost (How tharp the point of this remembrance is) My deere loune Ferdinand.

Pro. I am woe for't, Sir,

Alo. Irreparable is the lotte, and patience Saies, it is past her cure.

Pro. Liather thinke

You naue not fought her helpe, of whose soft grace For the like lolle, I have her loveraigne zid, And rest my felfe content.

Ale. You the like loffe?

Pro As great to me, as late, and supportable To make the deere loffe, have I meanes much weaker Then you may call to comfort you; for I Haue lost my daughter.

Ale. A daughter?

Oh heaucus, that they were living both in Nalpes The King and Queene there, that they were, I wish My selfe were mudded in that oo-zie bed Where my fonne lies: when did you lose your daughter?

Pro. In this last Tempest. I perceiue these Lords At this encounter doe so much admire, That they devoure their reason, and scarce thinke Their eies doe offices of Truth: Their words Are naturall breath: but how foeu'r you have Beene juftled from your fences, know for certain That I am Profess, and that very Duke Which was thrust forth of Milleme, who most strangely Vpon this shore (where you were wrackt) was landed To be the Lord on't: No more yet of this, For 'cis a Chronicle of day by day, Not a relation for a break-fast, nor Befiring this first meeting : Welcome, Sir; This Cell's my Court : heere have I few acrendances, And Subjects none abroads pray you looke in: My Dukedonie fince you have given me againe, I will require you with as good a thing, At least bring forth a wonder, to content ye As much, as me my Dukedome.

Here Profess descouers Ferdinand and Meranda, play mg as Chesse.

Mir. Sweet Lord, you play me falle.

Fa. No my dearest loue, I would not for the world.

(wrangle, Mir. Yes, for a score of Kingdomes, you should And I would call it faire play.

Alo. If this proue A vision of the Island, one deere Sonne

Shall I twice loofe.

Set. A most high miracle.

Fer. Though the Seas threaten they are mercifull. I have curs'd them without cause.

Ale. Now all the bleffings Of a glad father, compatte thee about: Arise, and say how thou cam'st heere.

Mir. O wonder!

How many goodly creatures are there heere? How beauteous mankinde is? O braue new world

That has fuch people in's.

Pro. 'Tis new to thee. (play?

Ale. What is this Maid, with whom thou was tak Your eld it acquaintance cannot be three houres: Is the the goddeffe that hath lever d vs,

And brought vs thus together:

Fer. Sif, the is morrall;
But by immorrall providence, the smine;
I chose her when I could not taske my Father
For his aduse: not thought I had one: She
Is daughter to this famous Duke of Millains,
Of whom, so often I have heard renowne,
But never saw before: of whom I have Received a second hile; and second Father
This Lady makes him to me.

Alo. I am hers.

But O, how odly will it found, that I Must aske my childe for givenesse?

Fro. There Sir Rop.

Let vs not burthen our remembrances, with

A heavinesse that's gon.
Gen. I have inly wept.

Or should have spoke ere this: looke downe you gods And on this couple drop a blessed crowne; For it is you, that have chalk'd forth the way Which brought vs hither.

Alo. I (ay Amen, Gonzallo.

Gon. Was Millame thrust from Millaine, that his Issue Should become Kings of Naples? O reloyce Beyond a common loy, and feest downe With gold on lasting Pillers: In one voyage Did Claribellher husband finde at Tunus, And Ferdinand her brother, found a wife, Where he himselfe was lost: Prospero, his Dukedome In a poore Isle: and all of vs., our felues, When no man was his owne.

Alo. Give me your hands; Let griefe and forrow fill embrace his hears, That doth not with you loy.

Gen. Beit fo. Amen.

Enter Ariell, with the Master and Boatswaine amazedly following.

O looke Sir, looke Sir, here is more of vs:
I prophefi'd, if a Gallowes were on Land
This fellow could not drowne: Now blassphemy,
That swear's Grace ore-boord, not an oath on shore.
Hast thou no mouth by land?
What is the newes?

Bot. The best newes is, that we have safely found Our King, and company: The next: our Ship. Which but three glasses since, we gave out split, Istyte, and yare, and bravely rig'd, as when We first put out to Sea.

Ar. Sir, all this service Have I done since I went Pro. My tricksey Spirit.

Alo. Thefe are not naturall euens, they ftrengthen

From strange, to stranger: say, how came you hither?

Bot. If I did thinke, Sir, I were well awake,
I'ld striue to tell you: we were dead of sleepe,
And show we know not) all clapt under hatches,
Where, but cuen now, with strange, and several noyses
Of roring, shreeking, howling, gingling chaines,
And mo diversitie of sounds, all horrible.
We were awak'd: straight way, at liberty;
Where we, in all our crim, freshly beheld

Our royall, good, and gallant Ship our Master Capting to eye here on a trice, so please you, Euen In a dreame, were we divided from them, And were brought moaping hither.

Ar. Was't well done?

Pro. Brauely (my diligence) rhou finale be free
Alo. This is as fittinge a Maze, as ero mentrod,
And there is in this bufineffe, more then nature
Was ever conduct of a forme Oracle
Must rectific our knowledge.

Pro. Sir, my Leige,

Doe not infest your minde, with beating on The strangenesse of this businesse, at pickt leisure (Which shall be shortly single) I'le resolve you, (Which shall be shortly single) I'le resolve you, (Which to you shall seeme probable) of every These happend accidents rill when, be cheerefull and thinke of each thing well: Come hither Spirit, Set Caliban, and his companions free: Vntye the Spell: How sares my grecious Sit? There are yet missing of your Companie

Some few odde Lads, that you remember not Enter Ariell, driving in Caliban, Sciphano, and Trinculo in their foline Apparell.

Ste. Every man shift for all the rest, and let No man take care for himselfe; for all is But fortune: Coragio Bully-Monster Corasio. Tre. If these be true spies which I weare in my head, here's a goodly fight.

Cal. O Screber, these be braue Spirits indeede How fine my Master is? I am afraid He will chaltise me.

Seb. Ha, ha 1

Whatthings are thefe, my Lord Anthonio? Will money buy em!

Am. Very like : one of them

Is a plaine Fish, and no doubt marketable.

200. Marke butthe badges of these men, my Lords.

Then say if they be true: This mishapen knaue;
His Mother was a Witch, and one so strong
That could controle the Moone; make flowes, and ebs
And deale in her command, without her power:
These three haue robd me, and this demy-divell;
(For he's a bastard one) had plotted with them
To take my life: two of these Fellowes, you Must know, and owne, this Thing of darkenesse, I Acknowledge mine.

Cal. I shall bepincht to death.

Alo. Is not this Stepbano, my drunken Butlet? Seb. He is drunke now;

Where had he wine?

Alo. And Trinculo Is recling ripe: where should they Finde this grand Liquor that hath gilded 'em? How cam'st thou in this pickle?

Tri. I have bin in such a pickle since I saw you last, That I feare me will never out of my bones: I shall not seare sty-blowing.

Seb. Who how now Stephano?

Ste. O touch me not, I am not Stephens, but a Cramp.

Pro. You'ld be King o'the Isle, Sisha? Src. I should have bin a fore one then.

Alo. This is a firange thing as ere I look'don.
Pro. Heisas disproportion'd in his Manners

As in his shape: Goe Sirha, to my Cell, Take with you your Companions: as you looke To have my pardon, trim it handsomely.

Cal. I that I will; and lie be wife hereafter,

And

And feeke for grace: what a thrice double Affe Was I to take this drunkard for a god !

And worship this dull foole?

Pro. Goeto, away.

Alo. Hence, and bestow your luggage where you

Seb. Or sole it rather.

Pro. Sir, I inute your Highnesse, and your traine To my poore Cell: where you shall take your rest. For this one night, which part of it, He waste With such discourse, as I not doubt, shall make it Goe quicke away: The flosty of my life, And the particular accidents, gon by Since I came to this Isle: And in the morne I'le bring you to your ship, and so to Naples,

Where I have hope to fee the nuptiall Or the feour decre-belou'd, folemnized, And thence retire me to my Millaine, where Every third thought shall be my grave.

Ale. I long
To heare the flory of your life; which must Take the eare starngely.

Pro. I'le deliuer all,
And promife you came Seas, auspicious gales,
And faile, so expedicious, that shall catch
Your Royall fleete farreoff: My Ariel; chicko
That is thy charge: Then to the Elements
Be free, and fare thou well: please you draw neerel
Execut omnes.

EPILOGVE,

spoken by Prospero.

Nowmy Charmes are all oro-throwne, And what strength I have's mine owne. Which is most faint: now'tis true I must be beere confinde by you, Or fent to Naples, Let menot Since I baue my Dukedome got, And pardon'd the deceiver, dwell Insbis bare Island, by your Spell, Bus release me from my bands with the helpe of your good bands: Gentle breath of yours, my Sailes Must fill, or elfe my proiect failes, which was to please: Now I want Spirits to enforce: Art to inchant, And my ending is despaire, Vnlessel be relieu'd by praier Which pierces fo, that it affaults Mercy it felfe, and frees all faults. As you from crimes would pardon'd be, Let your Indulgence fer me free.

The Scene, an vn-inhabited Island

Names of the Allors.

Alonfo, K. of Naples: Sebastian his Brother. Prospero, the right Duke of Millsine. Anthonio his brother, the wfurping Duke of Millaine Ferdinand, Son to the King of Naples. Gonzale, an honest old Councellor. Adrian, & Francisco, Lords. Caliban, a Saluage and deformed Saue. Trinculo, a lester. Stephano, a drunken Butler. Master of a Ship. Hoate-Swaine Marriners. Miranda, daughter to Profeeto. Arsell, anayrie spiris. Ceres luno Spirits. Nymphes

FINIS.

Reapers

THE

THE Two Gentlemen of Verona.

A Elus primus, Scena prima.

Valentine: Prothems, and Speed

Valentina. Bale to perswade, my lopine Prothem: Home-keeping-youth, have ever homely wits, Wer't not affection chaines thy tender dayes To the sweet glaunces of thy honour'd Loue,

I rather would entrest thy company, To fee the wonders of the world abroad. Then (living dully fluggardiz'd at home) Weare out thy youth with shapelesse idlenesse. But fince thou lou'ft , love fill, and thrive therein. Even as I would, when I to loue begin.

Pro. Wilt thou be gone? Sweet Valentine adew. Thinke on thy Prothers, when thou(hap'ly) (ceft Somerare note-worthy obieft in thy trausile. Wish me partaker in thy happinesse, When thou do'st meet good hap; and in thy danger, (If ever danger doe environ thee)
Commend thy grievance to my holy prayers, For I will be thy beadef-man, Valentine,

Val. And on a love-booke pray for my fuccesse? Pro. Vpon some booke I love, I'le pray for thee. Val. That's on some shallow Stone of deepeloue. How yong Leander croft the Hellesport.

Pro. That's a deepe Storie, of a deeper love, For he was more then over-shooes in love

Val. 'Tistrue; for you are over-bootes in love, And yet you never fwom the Helefont

Pro. Ouer the Bootes? nay give me not the Boots. Val. No, I will not; for it boots thee not.

Pro. What? (grones: Val. To be in love; where scome is bought with Coylooks, with hart-fore fighes: one fading moments With twenty watchfull, weary, tedious nights; (mirth, Ifhap'ly won, perhaps a hapleffe gaine, If loft, why then a grievous labour won,

How ever : but a folly bought with wit, Or elfe a wit, by folly vanquished

Pro. So, by your circumstance, you call me foole. Val. So, by your circumftance, I feare you'll proue

Pro. Tis Loue you cavillat, I am not Loue. Val. Loue is your master, for he masters you; And he that is so yoked by a foole, Me thinkes should not be chronicled for wife.

Pro. Yet Writers fay; as in the fweeteft Bud, The eating Canker dwels; fo eating Loue Inhabits in the finest wits of all.

Val. And Writers say; as the most forward Bud

Is eaten by the Canker ere It blow, Euen fo by Loue, the yong, and tender wit Is turn'd to folly, blaffing in the Bud. Loofing his verdure, even in the prime. And all the faire effects of future hopes But wherefore waste I time to counsaile thee That art a votary to fond defire? Once more adieu: my Parher at the Road Expects my comming, there to fee me ship'd.

Pro And thither will I bring thee Volentme. Val. Sweet Prothem, no: Now let vs take out leave: To Millame let me heare from thee by Letters Of thy successe in love; and what newes else Betideth here in absence of thy Friend: And I likewise will rifite thee with mine.

Pro. All happinesse bechance to thee in Millsin. Val. As much to you at home; and so farewell. Ext.

Pro. He after Honout hunts, lafter Loue : He leaves his friends, to dignifie them more; I love my felfe, my friends, and all for love ? Thou Inlin thou hast meramorphis'd me: Made me neglect my Studies, loose my time; Warre with good counsaile, fet the world at nought; Made Wit with muling, weake; hart fick with thought.

Sp. Sit Prothem : 'faue you : faw you my Mafter ? Pro. But now he patted hence to embarque for Millan.

Twenty to one then, he is fnip'd already, And I have plaid the Sheepe in looking him. Pro. Indeede a Sheepe doth very often firay,

And if the Shepheard be swhile away.

Sp. You conclude that my Master is a Shepheard then, and I Sheepe &

Pro, I doe.

Sp. Why then my hornes are his hornes, whether I wake or fleepe.

Fro. A filly answere, and fitting well a Sheepe.

Sp. This proues me still a Sheepe. Pro. True: and thy Master a Sheep True : and thy Master a Shepheard.

Sp. Nay, that I can deny by a circumstance. Pro. It shall goehard but ile proue it by another.

Sp. The Shepheard seekes the Sheepe, and not the Sheepe the Shepheard; but I feeke my Mafter, and my Mafter feekes not me: therefore 1 am no Sheepe

Pro. The Sheepe for fodder follow the Sheepheard, the Sheepe at hou for wages followest thy Master, thy Master for wages followes not thee: therefore thou art a Sheepe.

Sp. Such another proofe will make me cry baa. Pro. But do'ft thou heare gou'ft thou my Letter to Inlia?

50.1

Sp. I Sir: I (2 lost-Mutton) gave your Letter to her (alac'd-Mutton) and the (alac'd-Mutton) gaue mee (a lost-Mutton) nothing for my labour.

Pro. Here's too small a Pasture for such store of Sp. If the ground be ouer-charg'd, you were best Ricke her.

Pro. Nay, in that you are aftray: 'twere best pound

Sp. Nay Sir, leffe then a pound shall serve me for carrying your Letter.

Pro. You mistake ; I meane the pound, a Pinfold. Sp. From a pound to a pin? fold it over and over. Tis threefold too little for carrying a letter to your louer Pro. But what faid fhe ?

Sp. 1.

Pro. Nod-L why that's noddy.

Sp. You mistooke Sir: I say she did nod; And you aske me if the did nod, and I fay I.

Pro. And that fet together is noddy. Sp. Now you have raken the paines to fet it togs ther take it for your paines.

Pro. No, no, you shall have it for bearing the letter Sp. Well, I percejue I must be faine to beare with you Pro. Why Sir, how doe you beare with me? Sp. Marry Sir, the letter very orderly, Hauing nothing but the word noddy for my palness .

Pro. Beshrew me, but yon haue a quicke wie. Sp. And yet it cannot ouer-take your flow parfe. Pro. Come, come, open the matter in briefe; what faid she. Sp. Open your purse, that the money, and the matter may be both at once delivered. Pro. Well Sir: here is for your paines: what faid the?

Sa Truely Sir, I thinke you'll hardly win her.
Pro. Why? could'ft thou perceive so much from her?

Sp. Sir, I could perceive nothing at all from her; No, not fo much as a ducket for delivering your letter: And being so hard to me, that brought your minde; I feare she'll prone as hard to you in telling your minde. Gine her no token bur stones, for she's as hard as stecle.

Pro. What faid the, nothing ? Sp. No, not so much as take this for thy pains: (me; To testifie your bounty, I thank you, you have cestern'd In requital whereof, henceforth, carry your letters your felfe; And fo Sir, I'le commend you to my Master.

Pro. Go, go, be gone to faue your Ship from wrack; Which cannot perish having thee aboarde, Being deftin'd to a drier death on shore? I must goe send some better Meffenger I feare my Inlia would not daigne my lines Receiving them from such a worthlesse post

Scana Secunda.

Enter Iulia and Lantta.

Inl. But lay Lucetta (now we are alone) Would'A thou then counfaile me to fall in loss? Luc. I Madam, so you sumble not unbocdfully Int. Of all the faire refore of Gentlemens That every day with parle encounter me,

In thy opinion which is worthieft love? Lu. Please you repeat their names, ile show my minne, According to my shallow simple skill.

In. What thinkit thou of the faire fir Eglamenre? Lu. As of a Knight, well-spoken, neat, and fune; But were I you he never should bernine.

In. What think'st thou of the rich Mercatio? Lu. Well of his wealth; but of himselfe, so, so, In. What think's thou of the gentle Prothern?

La. Lord, Lord: to fee what folly raignes in vs.

In. How now? what meanes this passion at his name? Lu. Pardon deare Madam, tis a passing shame, That I (voworthy body as I am)

Should centure thus on lovely Gentlemen

In. Why not on Prothers, as of all the reft?

Lu. Then thus : of many good, Ithinke him belt.

Int. Your reason?

Lw. I have no other but a womans reason? I thinke him fo, because I thinke him so.

Jul. And would'st thou have me cast my love on him? Zw. I: if you thought your love not cast away.

Inl. Why he, of all the rest, hath neuer mou'd me. Lm. Yet he, of all the rest, I thinke best loues ye.

Inl. His little speaking, shewes his love but small. La. Fire that's closest kept, burnes most of all.

Iel. They doe not love, that doe not shew their love.

Las. Oh, they love leaft, that let men know their love. Int. I would I knew his minde.

Ls. Peruse this paper Madarn. Isl. To Islia: say, from whom?

La. That the Contents will shew. Inl. Say, say: who gave it thee ?

La. Sir Valentines page: & fent I think from Prothers; He would have given it you, but I being in the way, Did in your name receive it : pardon the fault I pray.

Int. Now (by my modesty) a goodly Broker: Dare you presume to harbour wanton lines? To whilper, and conspire against my youth? Now trust me, 'tis an office of great worth, And you an officer fit for the place : There : take the paper : fee it be return'd, Or elle teturne no more into my light.

Lu. To plead for loue, deserues more see, then hate. Ich Will ye be gon?

La. That you may suminate. Int. And yet I would I had ore-look'd the Letter;

It were a shame to call her backe againe, And pray her to a fault, for which I chid her. What foole is the, that knowes I am a Maid. And would not force the letter to my view? Stace Maides, in modesty, say no to that, Which they would have the profferer construe, I. He, fie : how way-ward is this foolish love; That (like a teffie Babe) will scratch the Nutle, And presently, all humbled kisse the Rod? How churlishly, I chid Lucetta hence, When willingly, I would have had her here? How angerly I taught my brow to frowne When inward toy enfored my beart to fmile? My pennance is, to call Lucetta backe And aske remillion, for my folly past.

What hoe: Lucetta. Ln. What would your Ladiship Int. Is't neere dinner time?

La. I would it were, That you might kill your from acke on your meat,

And not your Maid. In. What is't that you

Tooke up to gingerly?

In. Why didft thou floope then?

Lw. To take a paper vp, that I let falls Ind. And is that paper nothing?

Lu. Nothing concerning me.
Iul. Then let it lye, for those this it concernes. Lw. Madam, it will not lye where it concernes, Voleffe it haue a falfe Interpreter.

Inl. Some lone of yours, hach writ to you in Rime.

LN. That I might fing it (Madam) to a tune : Giue me a Note, your Ladiflip can fet

Int. As little by fuch toyes, as may be possible:

Best sing it to the tune of Light O, Low.

Lin. It is too heavy for so light a tune.

In. Heavy? belike it hath some burden then?

Lu. I : and metodious were it, would you fing it,

In. And why not you?

Lw. I cannot reach fo high.

In. Let's fee your Song

How now Minion?

Lu. Keepe tune there ftill; fo you will fing it out : And yet me thinkes I do not like this tune.

In You doe not?

Ly. No (Madam) tis too shame In. You (Minion) are too faucie.

Lu. Nay, now you are too flat; And matre the concord, with too harfh a descant: There wanteth but a Meane to fill your Song.

Is. The meane is dround with you vnruly bale.

La. Indcede I bid the bafe fur Protbern. In. This babble fhall not henceforth trouble me ; Here is a coile with protestation :

Goe, get you gone: and let the papers iye: You would be fingring them, to anger me.

Las. She makes it fliage, but the would be beft pleas'd

To be so angred with another Letter.

In. Nay, would I were so angred with the same: Oh hatefull hands, to teare fuch louing words ; Injurious Walpes, to feede on fuch iweethony, And kill the Bees that yeelde it, with your flings; lle kisse each seuerall paper, for amends:
Looke, here is writ, kinde sulia: unkinde sulia, As in revenge of thy ingraticude, I throw thy name against the bruzing-flones, Trampling contemptuously on thy disdaine. And here is writ, Lone wounded Prothess. Poore wounded name: my bosome, as a bed, Shall lodge thee till thy wound be throughly heal'd; And thus I fearch it with a foueraigne kiffe. Buttwice, or thrice, was Prothers written downe: Be calme (good winde) blow not a word away, Till I have found each letter, in the Letter, Except mine own name: That, some whirle-winde beare Vnto a ragged, fearefull, hanging Rocke, And throw it thence into the raying Sea. Loe, here'in one line is his name twice writ. Poore for lorse Prothens, passionate Prothens: To the sweet Inlia: that ile teare away: And yet I will not, fith so prettily He couples it, to his complaining Names; Thus will I fold them, one vpon another; Now kiffe, embrace, contend, doe what you will.

Lu. Madam : dinner is ready . and your feeber flaies.

In. Well, let vs goe.
Lu. What, shall these papers lye, like Tel-tales bore? In. If you respect them; best to take them vo.

Lu. Nay, I was taken vp, for laying them dowee. Yet here they shall not lye, for catching cold.

In. I fee you have a months minde to them. Lu I (Madam) you may fay what fights you fee;

I fee things too, although you judge I winke In, Come, come, will please you poe.

Scana Tertia

Enter Antonio and Parthing, Prothem.

Aut. Tell me Panthino, what fad talke was that, Wherewith my brother held you in the Cloyfier?

Pan. Twas of his Nephew Prothem, your Sonnes

Ant. Why: what of him?
P.m. He wondred that your Lordship Would suffer him, to spend his youth as home, While other men, of slender reputation Put forin their Sonnes, to feeke preferment out. Some to the warres, to try their fortune there; Some, to discover Islands farre away : Some, to the Audious V niverfities; For any, or for all these exercises, He faid, that Prothem, your fonne, was meet: And did request me, to importune you To let him ipend his time no more at home; Which would be great impeachment to his age, In having knowne no eravaile in his youth.

Am. Nor need'il thou much important me to that Whereon, this month I have bin hamering. I have confider d well, his loffe of time. And how he cannot be a perfect race, Not being tryed, and sutord in the world: Experience is by industry archieu'd, And perfected by the swift course of time: Then tell me, whether were I best to fend him?

Par. I thinke your Lordship is not ignorant How his companion, youthfull Valentine, Attends the Emperous in his royall Court.

Ant. I know it well. (thinker, Pan. Twere good, I thinker, your Lordhip feathing There shall be precific Tiles, and Turnaments; Heare sweet discourse, converse with Noble-men,

And be in eye of every Exercise Worthy his youth, and nobleneffe of birth.

Ant. I like thy counsaile: well hast thou aduis d: And that thou maift perceive how well I like it, The execution of it shall make knowne; Euen with the speediest expedition,

I will dispatch him to the Emperors Court.

Pan. To morrow, may it please you Don Appropr, With other Gentlemen of good effective

Are iournying, to falute the Emperor, And to commend their feruice to his will.

Ant. Good company: with them shall Prethow go: And in good time: now will we breake with him.

Pro. Sweet Loue, sweet lines, sweet life, Here is her hand, the agent of her heart; Here is her oath for love, her honors paune; O that out Fathers would applaud our loues To feale our happinesse with their consents.

Pro. Oh heauenly Inlin.

Ant. How now? What Letter are you reading there?

Pro. May't please your Lordship, 'tis a word or two
Of commendations sent from Valorine;
Deliuet'd by a friend, that came from him.

Am. Lendme the Letter: Let me fee what newes.

Pro. There is no newes (my Lord) but that he writes
How happily he lives, how well-belou'd,

And daily graced by the Emperor;

Wishing me with him, partner of his fortune.

Am. And how stand you affected to his wish?

Pro. As one relying on your Lordships will,

And not depending on his friendly wish.

Ant. My will is fomething forced with his wish to Muse not that I thus sodainly proceed; For what I will, I will, and there an end:
I am resolu'd, that thou shalt spend some time With Valcations, in the Emperors Court:
What maintenance he from his friends receives, Like exhibition thou shalt have from me,
To morrow be in readinesse, to goe,
Excuse it not: for I am peremptory.

Pro. My Lord I cannot be fo soone provided,

Please you deliberate a day or two.

Ant. Look what thou want's shalle sent after thee:
No more of stay: to morrow thou must goe;
Come on Panthmo; you shall be imployed,
To hasten on his Expedition.

Pro. Thus have I shund the fire, for seare of burning And drench'd me in the sea, where I am drown'd.

I fear'd to shew my Father Iuliae Letter,
Least he should take exceptions to my love,

And with the vantage of mine owne excuse
Hath he excepted most against my loue.
Oh, how this spring of loue resembleth
The vaccetaine glory of an Aprill day,
Which now shewes all the beauty of the Sun,

And by and by a clowd takes all away.

Pan. Sir Protheus, your Fathers call's for you,

Heisin haft, therefore I pray you go.

Pro. Why this it is : my heart accords thereto,

And yet a thousand times it answer's no.

Exempt. Finis.

A Etus secundus: Scana Prima.

Enter Valentine, Speed, Silvia.

Speed. Sir, your Glove.

Valen. Not mine: my Gloues are on,

Sp. Why then this may be yours: for this is but one Val. Ha? Let me see: I, give it me, it's mine:

Sweet Ornament, that deckes a thing divine, Ah Silnia, Silnia.

Speed, Madam Silnia: Madam Silnia, Val. How now Sirha?

Speed. Shee is not within hearing Sir.
Val. Why fir, who bad you call her?
Speed. Your worthip fir, or elfe I mistooke.

Val. Well: you'llfill be too forward.

Speed. And yet I was last chidden for being too slow.

Val. Goeto, fir, tell me:do you know Madam Silnia? Speed, Shee that your worship loues?

Val. Why, how know you that I am in loue?

Speed. Marry by these speciall markes: first, you have learn'd (like Sir Protheus) to wreath your Armes like a Male-content: to rellish a Loue-song, like a Rohm-red-breast: to walke alone like one that had the pessionered to sigh, like a Schoole-boy that had lost his A. B. C. to weep like a yong wench that had buried her Grandam: to fast, like one that takes diet: to watch, like one that feares robbing: to speake puling, like a beggar at Hallow-Masse: You were wont, when you laughed, to crow like a cocke; when you walk'd, to walke like one of the Lions: when you safted, it was presently after dinner: when you look'd sally, it was for want of money: And now you are Metamorphis'd with a Missis, that when I looke on you, I can hardly thinke you my Masser.

Val. Are all thefe things perceiu'd in me? Speed. They are all perceiu'd without ye.

Val. Without me? they cannot.

Speed. Without you Inay, that's certaine: for without you were to limple, none ellewould: but you are to without thele follies, that thelefollies are within you, and thine through you like the water in an Vrinall: that not an eye that lees you, but is a Phylician to comment on your Malady.

Val. But tell me:do'A thou know my Lady Silnia?

Speed. Shee that you gaze on fo, as the fits et supper?

Val. Hast thou obseru'd that? euen the I meane.

Speed. Why fir, I know her not.

Val. Do'ft thou know her by my gazing on her, and yet know'ft her not?

Speed. Is the not hard-fauour'd, fir? Val. Not so faire (boy) as well sauour'd. Speed. Sir, I know that well enough.

Val. What dost thou know?

Speed. That shee is not so faire, as (of you) well-fa-

Val. Imeane that her beauty is exquisite, But her sauour infinite.

Speed. That's because the one is painted, and the other out of all count.

Val. How painted? and how out of count?

Speed. Marry fir, so painted to make her faire, that no man counts of her beauty.

Val. How efterm's thou me? I account of her beauty, Speed. You never law her fince the was deform'd.

Val. How long hath the beene deform'd? Speed. Euer fince you lou'd her.

Val. I haue lou'd her euer fince I faw her,

And full I fee her beautifull.

Speed, If you love her, you cannot fee her.

Speed. Because Loue is blinde: O that you had mine eyes, or your owne eyes had the lights they were wont to have, when you chidde at Sir Prothem, for going vngarter'd.

Val. What should I fee then?

Speed. Your owne present solly, and her pessing deformitie: for hee beeing in loue, could not see to garter his hose; and you, beeing in loue, cannot see to put on your hose. (ning

Val. Belike (boy) then you are in loue, for last mor-

You could not fee to wipe my shooes.

Speed. True fir: I was in loue with my Bed. I thanke you, you fwing d me for my loue, which makes mee the bolder

bolder to chide you, for yours.

Val. In conclusion, I frend affected to her,

Speed. I would you were let, to your affection would cease.

Val. Last night she enioyn'd me, To write some lines to one she loues.

Speed, And have you?

Val. I have.

Spread. Are they not lamely writt?

Val. No (Boy) but as well as I can do them.

Peace, here she comes.

Spord. Oh excellent motion; oh exceeding Pupper: Now will be interpret to her.

Val. Madam & Miftres, a thousand good-morrows, Speed. Oh, "give ye-good-ev"n: heer's a million of Sil. Sit Valentine, and forwart, to you two thousend.

Speed. He should give her interest: & she gives it him.

Val. As you intoyed me; I have writ your Letter

Vato the fecret, nameles friend of yours: Which I was much vawilling to proceed in, But for my duty to your Ladiship.

Sil. I chanke you (gentle Servant) 'tis very Clerkly-Val. Now trust me (Madam) it came hardly-off:

For being ignorant to whom it goes, I writ at randome, very doubtfully.

Sil. Perchance you think too much of fo much pains?

Val. No(Madam) fo it fleed you. I will write (Pleafeyou command) a thouland times as much;

Sil. A pretty period: well: I gheffe the fequell;
And yet I will not name it; and yet I care not.
And yet, take this againe: and yet I thanke you;
Meaning henceforth to trouble you no mote.

Spead, And yet you will: and yet, another yet,

Vel. What meanes your Ladiship?

Sil. Yes, yes: the lines are very queintly writ.
But (fince vinwillingly) take them againe.
Nay, take them.

Val. Madam, they are for you.

Silw. 1, 1: you writ them Sir. at my request, But I will none of them: they are for you: I would have had them writ more movingly:

Val. Please you, lie write your Ladiship another.
Sil. And when it's writ; for my sake read it ouer,

And if it please you, so : if not : why so :

Val. If it pleafe me, (Madam?) what then?

Sil. Why if it please you, take it for your labour;
And so good-morrow Servant.

Exil. Sil.

Speed. Oh left unfeene: inferutible: inuifible,
As a note on a mans face, or a Wether cocke on a fleeple:
My Master sues to her: and the bath taught her Sutor,
He being her Pupill, to become her Tutor.
Oh excellent deuise, was there ever heard a better?
That my master being scribe,

To himselfe should write the Letter?

Val. How now Sir?

What are you reasoning with your selfe?

Speed, Nay: I was riming: 'tis you' have the reason.

Val. To doe what?

Speed. To be a Spokef-man from Madam Silnia.

Val. To whom?

Speed. To your felfe: why, the woes you by a figure.
Val. What figure?

Speed. By a Letter, I should say

Ual. Why she hash not writ to me?
Speed. What need she,

When shee hath made you write to your leffe? Why, doe you not perceive the jest?

Val. No, beleeve me,

Speed. No believing you indeed for; But did you perceive her earnest?

Ual. She gaue menone, except an angry word.

Speed, Why she hatb given you a Letter.

Val. That's the Letter I writ to ber friend.

Speed. And I letter hath she deliver'd, at there are end.

Val. I would it were no worse.

Speed He warrant you, 'tis as well:

For often have you writ to her: and the in modefly, Or elfe for want of idle time, could not against reply, Or fearing els fowe meffeger, might her mind discover Herfelfhath taught her Loue himfelf, to write vnto her All this I foak in print, for in print I found it. (lovers Why muse you fir, 'tis dinner time.

Ud. I have dyn'd.

(done.

Speed. I, but hearken fir: though the Cameleon Loue can feed on the ayre, I am one that am nourish'd by my victuals: and would fame have meate: oh bee not like your Mistreffe, be moved, be moved.

Expert.

Scæna secunda.

Enter Prothem , Inlia, Partinen.

Pro. Haue patience, gentle Iulia:

Ind. I must where is no remedy.

Pro. When possibly I can, I will returne.
Isl. If you turne not: you will return the sooner:

Keepe this remembrance for thy Inlin's fake.

Pro. Why then wee'll make exchange; Here, take you this.

Isl. And scale the bargaine with a holy kiffe.

Pro. Here is my hand, for my true constancie:
And when that howre ore-slips me in the day,
Wherein I sigh not (Islie) for thy sake,
The next ensuing howre, some foule mischance
Torment me for my Loues forgetfulnesse:
My father staics my comming: answerenot:
The tide is now; ney, not thy tide of teares,
That tide will stay me longer then I should,
Iulia, farewell: what, gon without a word?
I, so true loue should doe: it cannot speake,
For truth hath better deeds, then words to grace it-

Panh. Sir Prothem: you are flaid for. Pro. Goe: I come, I come

Alas, this parting strikes poore Louers dumbe.

Exper

Scana Tertia.

Enter Lesone, Parthien.

Launce. Nay, 'twill beethis howre ere I have done weeping: all the kinde of the Launcer, have this very fault: I have received my proportion, like the prodigious forme.

Sonne, and am going with Sir Problem to the Imperialls Court : I thinke Crab my dog, be the fowrest natured dogge that lives : My Mother weeping : my Father wayling: my Sifter crying : our Maid howling : our Catte weinging her hands, and all our house in a great perplexitie, yet did not this cruell-hearted Curje shedde one teare : he is a stone, avery pibble stone, and has no more pitty in him then a dogge :a Iew would have wept to have feene our parting: why my Grandam having no eyes, looke you, wept her felfe blinde at my parting: nay, He shew you the manner of it. This shoce is my father : no, this left shooe is my father; no, no, this left shooe is my mother : nay, that cannot bee fo neyther: yes; it is fo, it is fo : it hath the worler fole : this shooe with the hole in it, is my mother : and this my father : a veng'ance on't, there tis a Now fit, this staffe is my fifter: for, looke you, the is as white as a lilly, and as fmall as a wand a thus hat is Nan our maid: I am the dogge: no, the dogge is himfelfe, and I am the dogge: oh, the dogge is me, and I am my felfe': I; fo, fo: now come I to my Father; Father, your bleffing : now should not the shooe speake a word for weeping: now should I kissemy Father; well, hee weepes on: Now come I to my Mother: Ohthat she could speake now, like a would-woman : well, I kisse her : why there'sis; heere's my mothers breath vp and downe: Now come I to my lifter; marke the moane the makes: now the dogge all this while sheds not a teare . nor fpeakes a word : but see how I lay the dust with my testes.

Panth. I. aunce, away, away: a Boord: thy Master is thip'd, and thou are to post after with oares; what's the matter? why weep'st thou man? away asse, you I loose the Tide, if you tarry any longer.

Law. It is no matter if the tide were loft, for it is the unkindest Tide, that ever any man tide.

Panth. What's the vnkindest tide?

Lau. Why, he that's tide here, Crab my dog.
Part. Tut, man: I meane thou'lt loofe the flood, and in loofing the flood, loofe thy voyage, and in loofing thy voyage, loofe thy Mafter, and in loofing thy Mafter, loofe thy icruice, and in loofing thy feruice : doft thou flop my mouth?

Lann. For feare thou shouldst loose thy tongue.

Fanth. Where should I loofe my tongue?

Lann. In thy Tale.

Pauth. In thy Taile.
Laun. Loofe the Tide, and the voyage, and the Mafter, and the Seruice, and the tide: why man, if the River were drie, I am able to fill it with my teares : if the winde were downe, I could drive the boate with my fighes, Panth. Come: come away man, I was sent to call

I.an. Sir : call me what thou dar's.

Pant. Wilt thou goe?

Lun. Well, I will goc.

Farence.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Valentine, Silmia, Thuria, Spead, Duhe, Prochees.

Sil. Scruent.

Val. Miftris.

Spee. Master, Six Thuis frownes on you.

Val. 1 Boy, it's for love.

Spin. Not of you, Val. Of my Mistressethen. Spin. Twere good you knockt him.

Sil. Seruant, you are fad.

Val. Indeed, Madam, I seeme so.

Thu. Seeme you that you are not?

Val. Hap'ly I doe.

The. So doe Counterfeyes. Val. So doe you

Thu. What seeme I that Lem nos?

Val. Wife.

The. What instance of the contrary?

Val. Your folly.

Thu. And how quost you my folly?

Val. I quostit in your lerkin.

Thu. My Ierkin is a doublet.

Val. Well then, lle double your folly.

Thu. How?

Sil. What, angry, Sir Thurio, do you change colour? Val. Give him leave, Madam, he is a kind of Camelion.

The That hath more minde to feed on your bloud, then live in your ayre.

Val. You have said Sir.

Thu. I Sir, and done too for this time.

Val. 1 know it wel fir, you alwaies end ere you begin. Sil. A fine volly of words, gentleme, & quickly thot off

Val. Tis indeed, Madam, we thank the giver.

Sil. Who is that Servant?

Val. Yourselfe (sweet Lady) for you gaue the fire, Sir Therie borrows his wit from your Ladiships lookes, And spends what he borrowes kindly in your company.

The. Sir, if you fpend word for word with me, I shall make your wit bankrupt.

Val. I know it well fir : you have an Exchequer of And I thinke, no other treasure to give your followers: For it appeares by their bare Liucries That they live by your bare words.

Sil. No more, gentlemen, no more:

Here comes my father.

Duk. Now, daughter Silvia, you are hard befet. Sit Valentine, your father is in good health, What fay you to a Letter from your friends Of much good newes?

Val. My Lord, I will be thankfull,

To any happy mellenger from thence. Duk. Know ye Don Autonio, your Countriman? Val. I,my good Lord, I know the Gentleman

To be of worth, and worthy estimation And not without defert fo well reputed.

Dwk, Hath henot a Sonne?

Val. I, my good Lord, a Son, that well deserves The honor, and regard of fuch a father.

Duk, You know him well ?

Val. I knew him as my felfe : for from our Infancie We have converst, and spent our howres together, And though my selfe have beene an idle Trewant, Omitting the fweet benefit of time To closth mine age with Angel-like perfection: Yet hath Sir Prothem (for that's his name) Made vie, and fairo aduantage of his daies: His yeares but yong, but his experience old. His head vn-mellowed, but his Judgement ripe And in a word (for far behinde his worth Comes all the praises that I now bestow.)

He is compleat in feature, and in minde, With all good grace, to grace a Gentleman. Did. Beshrew me sir, but if he make this good He is as worthy for an Empresse loue,

As meet to be an Emperora Councellor t Well, Sir : this Gentleman is come to me With Commendation from great Potentates, And heere he meanes to fpend his time a while, I thinke 'tis no vn-welcome newes to you.

Val. Should I have wish'd a thing, it had beene he. Dak. Welcome him then according to his worth?

Silnia, I speake to you, and you Sir Thurio, For Valentine, I need not cite him to it, I will fend him hirher to you prefently.

Val. This is the Gentleman I told your Ladiship Had come along with me, but that his Mistresse Did hold his eyes, lockt in her Christall lookes.

Sil. Be-like that now she hath enfranchis'd them Vpon some other pawne for sealty.

Val. Nay fure, I thinke the holds them prisoners fill. Sil. Nay then he should be blind, and being blind

How could he fee his way to feeke out you? Val. Why Lady, Loue hath twenty paire of eyes. Thur. They say that Loue hath not an eye at all. Val. To see such Louers, Thuria, as your selfe, Vpon a homely obiect, Loue can winke.

Sil. Haue done, haue done : here comes y gentleman. Val. Welcome, deer Prothem : Mistris, I beseech you Confirme his welcome, with some special fauor.

Sil. His worth is warrant for his welcome hether, If this be he you oft have wish'd to heare from.

Val. Mistris, it is : sweet Lady, entertaine him To be my fellow-feruant to your Ladiship.

Sil. Too low a Mistres for so high a servance Pro. Not fo, sweet Lady, but too meane a servant To haue a looke of fuch a worthy a Mistresse.

Val. Leaue off discourse of disabilitie: Sweet Lady, entertaine him for your Servant. Pro. My dutie will I boaft of, nothing elfe-

Sil. And dutie neuer yet did want his meed. Seroant, you are welcome to a worthlesse Mistresse.

Pro. Ile die on him that saies so but your selfe. Sil. That you are welcome?

Pro. That you are worthlesse. (you. Ther. Madam, my Lord your father wold speak with Sd. I wait vpon his pleasure : Come Sir Tharie, Goe with me : once more, new Servant welcome;

He leave you to confer of home affaires, When you have done, we looke too heare from you.

Pro. Wee'll both attend vpon yout Ladiship. Val. Now tell me: how do al from whence you came? Pro. Your frends are wel, & have the much comended.

Val. And how doe yours: Pro. I left them all in health.

Fal. How does your Lady? & how thrives your love?

Pro. My tales of Loue were wont to weary you, I know you toy not in a Loue-discourse

Val. 1 Prothem, but that life is alter'd now, I have done pennance for contemning Love, Whose high emperious thoughts have punish'd me With bitter fasts, with penitentiall grones, With nightly teares, and daily hart-fore lighes, For in sevenge of my contempt of loue, Loue hath chas'd steepe from my enthralled eyes, And made them watchers of mine owne hearts forrow. O gentle Prothesu, Loue's a mighty Lord,

And hath so humbled me, as I confesse There is no woe to his correction, Nor to his Service, no fuch loy on earth? Now, no discourse, except it be of love Now can I breake my fast, dine, sup, and sleepe, Vpon the very naked name of Loue.

Pro. Enough; I read your forcune in your eye : Was this the Idoll, that you worship for

Val. Even She ; and is the pot a heavenly Saint

Pra. No; But their an earthly Paragon. Val. Call her divine.

Pro. I will not flatter her.

Val. O flatter me: for Love delights in praises, Pre. When I was fick, you gaue me bitter pils,

And I must minister the like to you.

Val. Then speake the truth by her; if not divise, Yet let her be a principalitie, Soucraigne to all the Creatures on the earth,

Pra. Except my Mistresse. Val. Sweet: except not any Except thou will except against my Loue.

Pra. Have I not reason to prefer mine owne? Val. And I will help thee to prefer her to: Shee shall be dignified with this high bonout, To beare my Ladies traine, lest the base earth Should from her vesture chance to steale a kille, And of lo great a fauor growing proud, Disdaine to roote the Sommer-Iwelling flowre, And make rough winter everlastingly.

Pro. Why Dalmeine, what Bragadisme is this? Val. Pardon me (Prorbow) all I can is nothing, To her, whose worth, make other worthies nothing: Shee is alone.

Pro. Then let her alone.
Vel. Not for the world; why man, the is mine owne, And I as rich in having fuch a lewell As twenty Seas, if all their land were pearle, The water, Nectar, and the Rocks pure gold. Forgiue me that I doe not dreame on thee, Because thou seeft me doate vpon my loue: My foolish Riuall that her Father likes (Onely for his possessions are so huge) Is gone with her along, and I must after, For Loue (thou know'st is full of icalousie.)

Pro. But the loves you? (howre. Val. I, and we are betroathd : nay more, our mariage With all the cunning manner of our flight Determin'd of : how I must climbe her giadow, The Ladder made of Cords, and all the mesus Plotted, and 'greed on for my happineffe. Good Prothers goe with me to my chamber, In these affaires to aid me with thy counsaile.

Pro. Goe on before : I shall en quire you forth-I must vnto the Road, to dis-embarque Some necessaries, that I needs must vie,

And then Ile presently attend you. Val. Willyou makehaste?

Pro. I will. Euen as one heate, another heate expels, Or as one naile, by ftrength drives out another. So the remembrance of my-former Loue Is by a newer obied quite forgotten, It is mine, or Valentines praise? Her true perfection, or my falle transgrethon? That makes me reasonlesse, to reason thus? Shee is faire; and fo is Iulia that I love,

(That

Exit.

(That I did loue, for now my loue is thaw'd, Which like a waxen Image 'gainst aftire Beares no impression of the shing it wes.) Me thinkes my zealet of Valename is cold, And that Houe him neat as I-was wont:

O, but I love his Lady too-too much.
And that sibe reason Houe him so little. How shall hooste on her with more adurce, That thus without aduice begin to love her? 'Tis but her picture I bave yet beheld, And that hath daze'd ray reasons light: But when Hooke on her perietions, There is no reason, but I shall be blindes is cancheckomy exing love, I will, I snot, to compesse her I le vie my skill.

Spee. I tell thee, my Master is become a hot Louer,
Last. Why, I tell thee. I care not, though hee burne simfelfe in Loue. If thou wist goe with me to the Ale-himselfe in Loue. If thou wilt goe with me to the Alehouse: if not, thou are an Hebrew, a lew, and not worth the name of a Christian.

Spee. Why, thou whorson Asse, thou mistak's me, Law. Why Foole, I meant not thee, I meant thy Spee. Why?

Master.

Law Because thou hast not so much charity in thee as to goe to the Alewith a Christian : Will thou goe? Spee, At tny feruice.

Exessue

Exeunt.

Scena Quinta.

Enter Speed and Launce

Speed. Launce, by mine honesty-welcome to Padua.
Laun. Fortweare not thy selfe, sweet youth, for lam not welcome. I reckon this alwaies, that a man is never vindon till hee be hang'd, not never welcome to a place, till some certaine shot be paid, and the Hostesse say welcome.

Speed. Come-on you mad-cap: He to the Ale-house with you presently; where, for one shot of sine pence, thou shak have sive thousand welcomes: But sirks, how did thy Master part with Madam sulfa?

Last Marry after they cloas'd in earnest, they parted very fairely in ieft.

Spee: But shall she marry him?

Lan No.

sper. How then ? Itall he marry her?

Lan. No, neither.

Spee. What, are they broken?

Lan. No; they are both as whole as a fish

Sper. Why then, how stands the matter with them?

Lon. Marry thus, when it stands well with him, it Stands well with her.

Spec. What an affe art thou, I understand thee not, Law, What a blocke art thou, that thou canth not? My stasse understands me?

Spee. What thou fail?

Lass. I and what I do too : looke thee, He but leane, and my Raffe understands me.

Sper. It frands under thee indeed.

Las. Why frand-vnder: and vnder-stand is all one.

Spee. But tell me true, wil't be a match?

Law. Aske my dogge, if he fay I, st will i if hee fay no, it will: if hee fbake his taile, and fay nothing, it will.

Spec. The conclusion is then, that it will.

Lea. Theu shalt never get such a secret from me, but by a parable.

Spo. 'The well that I get it fo: but Lauren, how failt thou that their my mafter is become a notable Lour?' Lau, I neuer knew him otherwife.

Spee. Then how?

Lou. A notable Lubber : as thou reported him to Sciena Sexia.

Emer Protheus folm

Pro. To leave my Julia; shall I be for sworned To love faire Silma; shall I be forsworne? To wrong my friend, I And be much for fworne. And ev'n that Powre which gaue me first my oath Prouokes me to this three-fold periume. Loue bad mee fweare, and Loue bids me for fweare; O fweet-fuggesting Love, if thou hast fin'd, Teach me(thy tempred subject) to excuse it. At field I did adore a twinkling Starre, But now I worthip a celetiall Sunne Vn-heedfull vowes may heedfully be broken. And he wants wit, that wants refoluted will. To learne his wir, s'eachange the bad for better; Fie, fie, vnreuerend tong ve, to call her bad, Whose soucraignty so oft thou hast presend With twenty thousand soule-confirming oather, I cannot leave to love; and yet I doe : But there I leave to love, where I should love. Inlia 1 loofe, and Valentme 1 loofe, If I keepe them, I needs must loofe my felfe: If I loofe them, thus finde I by their loffe; For Valentone, my felfe : for Links, Sulma, I to my selfe am deerer then a friend, For Loue is full most precious in it selfe, And Silve (witneffe beauen that made her faire) Shewes fulia but a fwerthy Ethlope. I will forget that Julsa is alive . Remembring that my Loue to her is dead. And Valentine Ile hold an Enemie, Ayming at Silma as a Sweeter friend. I cannot now prove confrant to my felfe, Without some treachery vs'd to Valentime. This night he meaneth with a Corded-ladder To climbe celeftiall Silvia's chamber window . My felfe in countaile his competitor. Now prefently He give her father notice Of their difguing and pretended flight: Who (all inrag'd) will banish Falsmine. For Thurw he intends thall wed his daughter, But Valentive being gon, He quickely croffe
By forne flie tricke, blunt Thorne's dull proceeding. Love lend me wings, to make my purpole fwift As thou haft lent me wit to plot this drift.

Exit.

Scæna septima.

Enter Iulia and Lucetta.

Ind Countaile, Lucerra, gentle girle affift me, And cu'minkinde loue, I doe consure thee, Who strethe Table wherein all my thoughts Are vifibly Character'd, and engrau'd, To lefton me, and tell me fome good meane How with my honour I may undertake A sourney to my louing Prothems.

Luc. Alas, the way is wearifome and long ful. A true-deuoted Pilgrime is not weary
To measure Kingdomes with his feeble fleps.
Much leffe shall she that hath Loues wings to slie,
And when the flight is made to one so deere,
Of such divine perfection as Sir Prothew

Lut. Better forbeare, till Prothem make returne.

Int. Oh, know'ft y not, his looks are my foules food?

Pitty the dearth that I have pined in,

By longing for that food fo long a time.

Didft thou but know the inly touch of Loue,

Thou wouldft as foone goe kindle fire with fnow

As feeke to quench the fire of Loue with words.

LEC. I doe not feeke to quench your Loues hot fire, But qualifie the fires extreame rage Left it should burne about the bounds of reason.

Isl. The more thou dam'flit vp, the more it burnes:
The Current that with gentle murmure glides
(Thou know'fl) being flop'd, impatiently doth rage:
But when his faire courie is not hindered,
He makes fweet mulicke with th'ensmeld flones,
Giuing a gentle kiffe to every fedge
He-ouet-taketh in his pilgrimage,
And so by many winding nookes he firstes
With willing sport to the wilde Ocean.
Then let me goe, and hinder not my course.
He be as patient as a gentle streame,
And make a passime of each weary step,
Till the last step have brought me to my Loue,
And there lle rest, as after much turmoile
A blessed foule doth in Elszeness.

Luc, But in what habit will you goe along ?

[al. Not like a woman, for I would preuent
The loofe encounters of lafeturous men
Gentle Lucena, fit me with fuch weedes

As may befeeme fome well reputed Page.

Luc. Why then your Ladiship must cut your haire.

Luc. No girle, lie knit it vp in silken strings,

With twentie od-conceited true-loue knots:

To be fantastique, may become a youth

Of greater time then I shall shew to be.

(chess

Lee, What fashion (Madam) shall I make your breelul. That fits as well, as tell me (good my Lord) What compasse will you weare your Farthingale? Why eu'n what fashion thou best likes (Lucetta.)

Luc. You must needs have the with a cod-peece (Ma lul, Out, out, (Lucerta) that wilbe illsauourd. (dzm)
Luc. A round hose (Madam) now's not worth a pin Vnlesse you have a cod-peece to stick plns on.

Vhat thou think's meet, and is most mennerly.
But tell mc(wench) how will the world repute me
For undertaking so unstaid a journey?

I feare me it will make me feandalized.

Luc. If you thinke fo, then flay at home, and go bot.

Luc. Nay, that I will not.

Luc. Then never dreame on Infamy, but go :
If Prochow like your lourney, when you come,
No matter who's displeas'd, when you are gone:

I feare me he will fearee be pleas'd with all.

Inl. That is the least (Lucetta) of my feare a
A thousand oather, an Ocean of his teares,
And inflances of infinite of Loue,

Wattant me welcome to my Protosus.

Luc. All these are servants to deceitful men.

Jul. Base men, that we them to so base effect;

But truer starred did governe Protosus birth,

His words are bonds, his oathes are oracles,

His loue sincere, his thoughts immaculate,

His teares, pure messengers, sent from his heart,

His heart, as far from fraud, as heaven from earth.

Luc. Pray heavin he prove so when you come to him.

Int. Now, as thou lou'st me, do him not that wrong,
To be are a hard opinion of his truth:
Onely deserve my loue, by louing him,
And presently goe with me to my chamber
To take a note of what I stand in need of,
To sutnish me vpon my longing journey.
All that is mine I leave at thy dispose,
My good, my Lands, my reputation,
Onely, In lieu thereof, dispatch me hence:
Come; answere not: but to it presently,
I am impatient of my tarriance.

Exquest,

Allus Tertius, Scena Prima.

Emer Duke, Thazio, Prothens, V dentrus, Lounce, Speed.

Duke Sir Thurse, give vs leave (I pray) a while,
We have some seress to confer about.
Now tell me Prathets, what's your will with me?

Now tell me Procless, what's your will with me?
Pro. My gracious Lord, that which I wold discouer,
The Law of friendship bids me to conceale, But when I call to minde your gracious fauours Done to me (vndeferuing as I am) My dutie pricks me on to veter that Which elle, no worldly good should draw from me: Know (worthy Prince) Sir Valentme my friend This night intends to fleale away your daughter : My felfe am one made priuy to the plot. I know you have determin'd to bestow her On Thuris, whom your gentle daughter hates, And should she thus be stolne away from you, It would be much vexation to your age Thus (for my duties leke) I rather chole To crosse my friend in his intended drift, Then (by concealing it) heap on your head A pack of forrowes, which would preffe you downe (Being empreuented) to your timeleffe grave

Duke. Probem, I thank thee for thine honest care, Which to require, command me while I live. This love of theirs my felfe have often feene Haply when they have judg'd me fast afleepe, And oftentimes have purpos'd to forbid

Sir

Sir Valentine her companie, and my Court.
But fearing lest my lealous syme might erre,
And so (vnworthily) disgrace the man
(A rashnesse that I ever yet have shun'd)
I game him gentle lookes, thereby to finde
That which thy selfe hat now disclos'd to me.
And that thou maist perceive my feare of this,
Knowing that tender youth is soone suggested,
I nightly lodge her in an opper Towre,
The key whereos, my selfe have ever kept:
And thence she cannot be convay'd away.

Pro. Know (noble Lord) they have deuis'd a meane
How he her chambet-window will aftend,
And with a Corded-ladder fetch her downe:
For which, the youthfull Louer now is gone,
And this way comes he with It prefently.
Where (if it please you) you may intercept him.
But (good my Lord) doe it so cunningly.
That my discovery be not aimed at:
For, love of you, not hate vnto my friend,
Hath made me publisher of this pretence.

Duke. Vpon mine Honor, he shall never know That I had any light from thee of this.

Pro. Adiew, my Lord, Sit Valenthie is comming, Duk, Sit Valenthie, whether away to fall?
Val. Please it your Grace, there is a Messenger That stayes to beare my Letters to my friends,
And I am going to deliver them.

Dak. Be they of much import?

Val. The tenure of them doth but fignifie

My health, and happy being at your Court.

Duk. Nay then no matter: fray with me a while, I am to breake with thee of some affaires
That touch me neere: wherein thou must be secret.
Tis not vaknown to thee, that I have sought
To match my friend Sir Thanks, to my daughter.

Val. I know it well (my Lord) and fure the Match Were rich and honourable t besides, the gentleman Is full of Vertue, Bounty, Worth, and Qualities Beseeming such a Wise, as yout faire daughter: Cannot your Grace win het to sancie him?

Cannot your Grace win her to fancie him?

Duk No, trust me, She is yeeuish, fullen, froward,
Prowd, disobedient, stubborne, lacking duty,
Neither regarding that she is my childe,
Nor fearing me, as if I were her father:
And may I say to thee, this pride of hers
(Vpon aduice) hath drawne my loue from her,
And where I thought the reinnant of mine age
Should have beene cherish d by her child-like dutie,
I now am full resolud to take a wife,
And turne her out, to who will take her in:
Then let her beauty be her wedding dowre:
Forme, and my possessions she esteemes not.

Val. What would your Grace have me to do in this?

Duk. There is a Lady in Verona heere
Whom I affect: but the is nice, and coy,
And naught efteemes my aged eloquence.
Now therefore would I have thee to my Tutor
(For long agone I have forgot to court.
Ectides the fathion of the time is chang'd)
How, and which way I may beftow my felfe
To be regarded in her fun-bright eye.

Val. Win het with gifts, if the respect not words,

Dumbe I ewels often in their filent kinde
More then quicke words, doc moue a womans minde.

Dut, But the did fcome a prefent that I fent her,

Val. A woman forming froms what best counts her.
Send her another: neuer give her ore,
For scorne at first, makes after-love the more.
If she doe frowne, 'tis not in hate of you,
But rather to beget more love in you.
If she doe chide, 'tis not to have you gone,
For why, the fooles are mad, if lest alone.
Take no repulse, what ever she doth say,
For, get you gon, she doth not meane away.
Flatter, and praise, commend, extoll their graces:
Though nere so blacke, say they have Angells saces,
That man that hath a tongue, I say is no man,
If with his tongue he cannot wing worman,

Duk. But the I meane, is promised by her friends
Vato a youthfull Gentleman of worth,
And kept feuerely from refort of men,
That no man hath accesse by day so her.

Val. Why then I would refort to her by night.

Duk. I, but the doores be lockt, and keyes kept fafe,

That no man hath recourfe to her by night.

Ual. What letts but one may enter at her window?

Dut. Her chamber is aloft, far from the ground,

And built to theluing, that one cannot climbe it

Without opparant hazard of his life.

Ual. Why then a Ladder quaintly made of Cords
To cast up, with a paire of anchoring hookes,
Would serve to scale another Hero's towre,
So bold Leander would adventure it,

Duk. Now as thou are a Gentleman of blood Adulfe me, where I may have fuch a Ladder.

Val. When would you vieit? pray fir, tell me that.

Duk. This very night; for Loue it like a childe

That longs for every thing that he can come by.

Val. By feauen a clock, ile get you fuch a Ladder.

Duk But harke thee; I will goe to her slone,

How shell I best concey the Ladder thicker?

Val. It will be light (my Lord) that you may beare at

Val. It will be light (my Lord) that you may beare at Vadera cloake, that is of any length.

Duk A closke as long as thine will ferue the turne?

U.d. I my good Lord.

Duk Then let me fee thy closke.

Duk, Then let me see thy cloake, lle get me one of such another length.

Val. Why any cloake will forus the tum (my Lord)
Duk. How shall I sashion me to weare a cloake?

I pray thee let me seele thy cloake v pon me.
What Letter is this same? what's here? to Silma?
And heere an Engine fit for my proceeding,
Ile be so bold to breake the seale for once.

At thought to harbors with my Silvia nightly,
And flanet they are to ene, that fend them flying.
Oh, could their Master come, and goe as lightly,
Himselse would tadge where (senteles) they are lying.
My Herald Thoughts, in the purchession restriction,
Whilt I (their King) that thin her them importante
Doe curse the grace, that with such grace hash bless them,
Because my lesse doe want my servants forture.
I curse my selfe doe want my servants forture.
I curse my selfe, for they are sent by me,
That they should has bour where them Lord should be.

What's here? Sileia, this night I will enfrancisfe these. Tis so : and heere's the Ladder for the purpose. Why Phacton (for thou are Merop) sonne) Wilt thou aspire to guide the heavenly Car! And with thy daring folly burne the world? Wilt thou reach stars, because they shine on thee?

Goe

Goe bale Intruder, over-weening Slave. Beltow thy fawning fmiles on equall mates And thinke my patience, (more then thy defert) Is priviledge for thy departure hence, Thanke me for this, more then for all the favors Which (all too-souch) I have bestowed on thee. But if thou linger in my Territories Longer then fwiftell expedition Will give thee time to leave our royall Court. By heaven, my wrath shall farre exceed the lone I cuer bore my daughter, or thy felfe. Be gone, I will not heare thy vaine excuse, But as thou lou'ft thy life, make fored from bence.

Val. And why not death, rather then living tourness? To die, is to be banishe from my selse, And Salme is my felfe : banish'd from her Is felfe from felfe. A deadly benishment 1 What light, is light, if Silving be not feene? What ioy is joy, if Silvia be not by? Valeffe it be to thinke that the is by And feed upon the thadow of perfection. Except I be by Silvia in the night, There is no mulicke in the Nightingale. Voleffe I looke on Silous in the day. There is no day for me to looke voon. Sheeismy ellence, and I leave to be; If I be not by her faire influence Foster'd, illumio'd, cherish'd, kept alive. I flie noe death, to fire his deadly dooms, Tarry I heere, I but attend on death, But flie I hence, I flie away from life.

Pro. Run (boy) run, run, and seeke him out.

Las. So-hough, Soa hough Pro. What seeft thou? Lawr Him we goe to finde,

There's not a haire on's head, but i'is a Falorios,

Pro. Valentine Val No.

Pra Whothen? his Spirit?

Val Neither,

Pro. What then?

Val. Nothing
Law. Can nothing speake? Master, shall I strike!

Pro. Who wouldft thou ftrike?

Los. Nothing.

Pro. Villaine, forbeste.
Lus. Why Sir, lle strike nothing: 1 przy you. Pro. Sirha, I fay forbeare: friend Valentine, a word.

Val My eares are stope, & cannot hear good nevres, So much of bad already hath possess them.

Pro. Then in dumbe filence will I bury mine, For they are hatth, vn-suncable, and bad

Val. Is Silmia dead? Pre. No, Valentine.

Val. No Valentine indeed, for facted Silvia,

Hath the fortwome me? Pro. No, Valentine.

Val. No Valentine, if Silvis have for fwormense.

What is your newes?

Laz. Sir, there is a proct. restion, y you are vamilbed.

Pro. That shou art banish'as oh that's the newes, From hence, from Silvia, and from me thy friend, Val. Oh, I have fed upon this woe already,

And now excelle of it will make me furfer. Doth Silvie know that I am banish'd?

Pro. I, 1: and the hathoffsted to the doone

(Which you reger of france in effectuall force) A Sea of melung pearle, which some call searces Those as her fathers churlish force the rendered. With them you her knees, her humble felfe. Wringing her hands, whole whitenes to became them. As if but now they wased pale for woe; But neither bended knees, pure hands beld vp, Sad fighes, deepe groups, nor filmer-fleedding corres Could penetrate her vocompationate Sue 1 But Valence, if he be take, mult die, Belides, ber interceffion chaf d him fo When the for thy repeale was suppliant, That to close prilon be commanded her, With many butter threats of biding there.

Val. No more value the next word that thou foesk it Have some malignant power vpon my life : Iffo: I pray thee breath it in mine care,

As ending Antheme of my endlesse dolor.

Pra. Cease to lament for that thou canst not helpe. And fludy helpe for that which thou lament ft. Time is the Nurse, and breeder of all good; Here, if thou flay, thou canft not fee thy love ; Besides, thy staying will abridge thy life : Hope is a louers staffe, walke hence with that And manage it, against despairing thoughts: Thy letters may be here, though thou art bence, Which, being west to me, shall be deliner'd Even in the milke-white bosome of thy Loue. The time now ferves not to expostulate. Come, He convey thee through the City-gate. Andere I part with thee, confer at large Of all that may concerne thy Loso-affaires: As thou lou'l' Silsas (though not tor thy felfe) Regard thy danger, and along with me.

Val. I pray thee Launce, and if thou feeft my Boy

Bid him make hafte, and meet me at the North-gate. Fra. Goe firha, finde him out : Come Valentine.

Val. Oh my decre Sibna; hapleffe Valentone. Later. I am but a foole, looke you, and yet I have the witte thinke my Masteris a kinde of a kname: but that's all one, if he be but one kname: He lives not now that knowes me to be in love, yet I sm in love, but a Teeme of horse shall not plucke that from me : not who 'tis I lotte: and yet 'tis a woman; but what woman, I will not tell my felfe; and yet 'tis a Milke-maid: yet 'tis not a maid : for shee hath had Goffips : yet tis a maid, for the is her Masters-maid, and serves for wages. Shoe hath more qualities then a Water-Spaniell, which is much in a bare Christian: Heere is the Caro-log of ber Condition. Imprimire, Shee can fetch and carry; why aborfe can doe no more; may, a horfe-cannot fetch, but onely carry, therefore is thee better then a lade. Item. She can milke, looke you, a (weet vertue in a maid with Speed. How now Signler Lamer? what newes with your Mastership?

La With my Mastership? why, it is at Ses:

Sp. Well, your old vice ftill: mifrake the word: what newes then in your paper?

La. The black (toewer that ever thou heard?

Sp. Why man' how blacke?

La. Why, as blacke as Inka.

Sp. Let me read them? La. Fie on thee Iolahead, then can treed cleane hands.

So. Then lyeft: I can, La. I will try thee: tell me this: who begot thee? Sp. Marry, Sp. Marry, the fon of my Grand-father.

La. Oh illiterate loyterer; it was the some of thy Grand-mother; this proues that thou canst not read.

Sp. Come foole, come : try me in thy paper.
La. There: and S. Niebolas be thy speed.

Sp. Inprimis the can milke.

La I that the can.

Sp. Item, she brewes good Ale.

La. And thereof comes the proverbe: (Biffing of your heart, you brew good Ale.)

Sp. Item, the can lowe.

La. That's as much as to say (Con fbe fo?)

Sp. Item the ean knit.

La. What neede a man care for a flock with a wench, When the can knit him a flocke?

Sp. Item, the can wath and fcoure.

La. A speciall vertue: for thea shee neede not be wash'd, and seowe'd.

Sp. Item, she can spin.

La. Then may I fet the world on wheeles, when the can fpin for her living.

Sp. Item, the hath many namelelle vertues.

La. That's as much as to fay Baffard vertue: that indeede know not their fathers; and therefore have no names.

Sp. Herefollow her vices.

La. Close at the heeles of her vertues.

Sp. Item, thee is not to be falling in respect of her breath.

La. Well: that fault may be mended with a break-faft: read on.

Sp. Item, she hath a sweet mouth.

La. That makes amends for her foure breath.

Sp. Item, she doth talke in her sleepe.

La. It's no matter for that; so thee sleepe not in her alke.

Sp. Item, the is flow in words.

La. Oh villaine, that fet this downe among her vices; To be flow in words, is a womans onely vertue. I pray thee out with't, and place it for her chiefe vertue.

Sp. Item, the is proud.

La. Out with that too

It was Ener legacie, and cannot be t'ane from her.

Sp. Item, The hath no teeth.

La. I care not for that neither : because I loue crusts.

sp. Item, fhe is curft.

La. Well: the best is, she hath no teeth to bite.

Sp. Item, the will often praise her liquor.

La. If her liquor be good, the shall: if the will not, I will; for good things should be praised.

Sp. Item, she is too liberall.

La. Ofher tongue the cannot; for that's writ downe the is flow of: of her purfe, thee thall not, for that ile keepe that: Now, of another thing thee may, and that cannot I helpe. Well, proceede.

Sp. Item, thee hathmore haire then wit, and more faults then haires, and more wealth then faults.

La. Stop there: Ile haue her: the was mine, and not mine, twice or thrice in that last Article: rehearse that once more.

Sp. Item, the hath more haire then wit.

La. More haire then wit: it may be the prope it: The concer of the falt, hides the falt, and therefore it is more then the falt; the haire that couers the wit, is more then the wit; for the greater hides the leffe: What's next!

Sp. And more faults then haires.

La. That's monftrous : oh that that were our.

Sp. And more wealth then faults.

La. Why that word makes the faults gracious: Well, ile haue her: and if it be a march, as nothing is impossible.

Sp. What then?

La. Why then, will I tell thee, that thy Master flaies for thee at the North gate.

Sp. For me:

Li. For thee? I, who are though e hath stand for a better man then thee.

Sp. And must I goe to him?

La. Thou must run to him; for thou hast staid so long, that going will scarce serve the turne.

Sp. Why didft not tell me sooner? pox of your love

La. Now will he be fwing'd for reading my Letter; An unmannerly flaue, that will thrust himselfe into secrets: lle after, to resoyce in the boyes correctio. Exemn.

Scena Secunda.

Enter Duke, Thurio, Prosbers.

Du. Sir Thurio, feare not, but that the will love you Now Valentine is banish'd from her fight.

Tb. Since his exile the hath delpts'd me most. Forfworne my company, and rail'd at me, That I am desperate of obtaining her.

Du. This weake impresse of Loue, is as a figure
Trenched in ice, which with an houres heate
Dissolues to water, and doth loose his forme.
A little time will melt her frozen thoughts.
And worthlesse Valentine shall be forgot.
How now fir Prothem, is your countriman
(According to our Proclamation) gon?

Pre. Gon, my good Lord.

Dw. My daughter takes his going grieuously?
Pro. A little time (my Lord) will kill that griefe.

Dw. So I beleeve: but Thuriothinkes not so:
Prothem, the good conceit I hold of thee,
(For thou half showne some signe of good defert)
Makes me the better to confer with thee.

Pro. Longer then I proue loyall to your Grace, Let me not live, to looke vpon your Grace.

Du. Thou know it how willingly, I would effect The match betweene fir Thurso, and my daughter?

Pro. I doe my Lord.

Da. And alfo, I thinke, thou are not ignorant How the opposes her against my will?

Pro. She did my Lord, when Valentine was here.
Du. I, and peruerfly, the perfeuers to:

What might we doe to make the girle forges
The love of Valentme, and love fit Thuris?

Pro. The best way is, to slander Valentine, With falsehood, cowardize, and poore discent: Three things, that women highly hold in hous

Du. I, but she'll thinke, that it is spoke in hate.
Pro. I, if his enemy deliuer it.

Therefore it must with circumstance be spoken By one, whom she esteemeth as his friend.

Da. Then you must undertake to slander him.

Pro. And that (my Lord) I shall be louth to doe?
"Tis an ill office for a Gentleman,
Especially against his very friend,

Dr. Where your good word cannot advantage him, Your flander never can endamage him; Therefore the office is indifferent,

Being intreated to it by your friend.

Pro. You have prevail'd (my Lord) if I can doe it By ought that I can speake in his dispraise, She shall not long continue love to him: But say this weede her love from Valentme, It followes not that she will love fir Thurse.

Th. Therefore, as you wanted her love from him;
Leaft it should rauell, and be good to none,
You must provide to bottome it on me;
Which must be done, by praising me as much
As you, in worth dispraise, six Valentine.

Du. And Prosbew, we dare trust you in this kinde, Because we know (on Valentines report)
You are already loues firme votary,
And cannot soone reuols, and change your minde.
Vpon this warrant, shall you have accesse,
Where you, with Silvia, may conferre at large
For she is lumpish, heavy, mellancholly,
And (for your friends sike) will be glad of you;
Where you may temper her, by your perswasson,
To hate yong Valentine, and love my friend.

Pro. As much as I can doe, I will effect:
But you fix Thurio, are not sharpe enough:
You must lay Lime, to tangle ber defires
By walefull Sonnets, whose composed Rimes
Should be full fraught with seruiceable vowes.

Dw. I, much is the force of heaven-bred Poehe. Pro. Say that you the altar of her beauty You sacrifice your reares, your sighes, your heart: Write till your inke be dry: and with your teares Moift it againe: and frame some feeling line, That may discover such integrity: For Orphem Lute, was ftrung with Poets finewes, Whose golden touch could soften Reele and Rones; Make Tygers tame, and huge Leviathans Forfake vnfounded deeper, to dance on Sands. After your dire-lamenting Elegies, Visir by night your Ladies chamber-window With some sweet Consort; To their lastruments Tune a deploring dumpe : the nights dead filence Will well become such sweet complaining grievance: This, or else nothing, will inherit her.

De. This discipline, showes thou hast bin in love Tb. And thy aduice, this night, ile put in practise. Therefore, sweet Prochem, my direction-giver, Let va into the City presently To fort some Gentlemen, well skil'd in Musicke. I have a Sonner, that will serve the turne. To give the on-set to thy good aduise.

Dw. About it Gentlemen.

Pro. We'll wait upon your Grace, till after Supper,

And afterward determine our proceedings.

Dr. Euch now about it, I will pardon you. Exercis.

Adus Quartus. Scana Prima.

Enter Valentine, Speed, and certains Om-lawes. 1. One-L. Fellowes, franche fast: I see a passenger. 2 One. If there be sen, farinke not, but down with em.
3. Om. Stand fir, and throw with a you have about ye.
If not, we'll make you fit, and rifle you.

Sp. Sir we are undone; these are the Villaines
That all the Trausilers doe seare so much.

Val. My friends.

, Qui. That's not lo, fir : we are your enemes a.Out. Peace: we'll heare him.

3.0m. I by my beard will we: for he is a proper man.

Val. Then know that I have little wealth to looset
A man I am, croft'd with advertice:
My riches, are these poore babiliments,
Of which, if you should here dissurnish me,
You take the sum and substance that I have.

2.0m. Whether travell you?

Val. To Verma.

1.Om. Whence came you?

Val. From Millians.

3.0 Mt. Have you long forourn'd there! (flad, Val. Some fixteene moneths, and longer might have If crooked fortune had not thwarted me.

1. Out. What, were you banish'd thence?

Val. 1 4725.

2.Out. For what offence?

Val. For that which now torments me to rehearfe;
1kil'd a man, whose death I much repent,
But yet I slew him manfully, in fight,
Without false vantage, or basetreachery.
1.0x1. Why necesspent it, if it were done so;
But were you banisht for so small a fault?

Val. I was, and held me glad of fuch a doome,

2.0se. Haue you the Tongues?

Val. My youthfull trausile, therein made me happy, Or elfe I often had beene often miferable.

3.0 m. By the bare scalpe of Robin Hoods fat Fryer, This sellow were a King, for our wilde faction.

1.0mt. We'll have him: Sirs, a word. Sp. Master, be one of them:

It's an honourable kinde of theevery.

Val. Peace villaine.

2. Our. Tell vs this: have you any thing to take to?

Val. Nothing but my fortune.
3. Out. Know then, that fome of vs are Gentlemen,

Such as the fury of vngouern'd youth
Thrust from the company of awfull men.
My selfe was from Verena banished,
For practifing to steale away a Lady,
And heire and Neece, alide vnto the Duke.

a.Our. And I from Marina for a Gentleman, Who, in my moode, I stab'd vnto the heart.

r.Om. And l, for such like petty crimes as these
But to the purpose: for we cite our saults.
That they may hold excus dour lawlesse lives;
And partly seeing you are beautiside
With goodly shape; and by your owne report.
A Linguist, and a man of such perfection,
As we doe in our quality much want.

2.0 M. Indeede because you are a banish'd oran, Therefore, about the rest, we parley to you: Are you content to be our General!?

To make a vertue of necessity, And live as we doe in this wildernesse?

3.0 cm. What faift thou, wilt thou be of our confort?
Say I, and be the captaine of va all:
We'll doe thee homage, and be rul'd by thee,
Loue thee, as our Commander, and our King.

1.0m

I.Om. But if thou scorne out cutefie, thou dyest. 2. Out. Thou shale not live, po brag what we have of-Val. I take your offer, and will live with you, (fer'd. Provided that you do no outrages On filly women, or poore pallengers. 3.0m. No, we detelt luch vile bale practifes. Come, goe with vs, we'll bring thee to our Crewes, And show thee all the Treasure we have gor; Which, with our selves, all rest at thy dispose.

Scana Secunda.

Enter Prothess, Thurso, Iulia, Hoft, Musitian, Silvin.

Pro. Already have I bin falle to Valentine, And now I must be as vniust to Thuris, Vnder the colour of commending him, I have accesse my owne loue to prefer, But Silvia is too faire too true, too holy, To be corrupted with my worthlesse guifts; When I protest true loyalty to her, She twits me with my fallehood to my friend; When to her beauty I commend my vowes, She bids me thinke how I have bin forfwome In breaking faith with Iulia, whom I lou'd; And notwithstanding all her sodaine quips, The least whereof would quell a louers hope , Yet (Spaniel-like) the more the spurnes my loue, The more it growes, and fawneth on her still; But here comes Thuris; now must we to her window, And give some evening Musique to her eare.

Th. Hownow, fir Prothem, are you crept before vs? Pro. I gentle Thurio, for you know that loue

Will creepe in serulce, where it cannot goe.

Th. I.but I hope, Sir, that you love not here. Pro. Sir, but I doe: or elfe I would be hence.

Tb. Who, Silvia?

Pro. 1, Siluia, for your lake.

Th. I thanke you for your owne: Now Gentlemen Let's tune: and to o it lustily a while.

Ho. Now, my yong goeft; me thinks your' allycholly I pray you why is it?

In. Marry (mine Hoff) because I cannot be merry.

Ho. Come, we'll have you merry: ile bring you where you shall heare Musique, and see the Gentleman that you ask'd for.

In. Bueshall I bestehim soeake.

Ho. I that you shall.

In. That will be Mulique.

Ha. Harke, harke,

In. Is he among these?

He. I : but peace, let's heare'm.

Song. Who is Siluia? what is fle? That all our Swarnes commend ber? Holy faire and wife is fine. The beamen fuch grace did isnaber, that the might admired be. Is the kinde as the is faire? For beauty lines with kindus fe: Losse doth to ber eyes repaire To beho bies of bis blis deeffe :

And being belp'd, inhabits there. Then to Silma, let us fing, That Silvia is excelling; She excels each wortall thing Vpon the dull earth dwelling. To her let us Garlands bring.

Ho. How now? are you fadder then you were before; How doe you, man? the Mulicke likes you not.

In. You mistake : the Musitian likes me not.

Ho. Why, my pretty youth?

Ho. How, out of tune on the strings.
In. Not so; but yet

So false that he grieues my very heart-strings.

Ho. You have a quickeeare (heast. 14. 1,1 would I were deafe it makes me have a flow

Ho. I perceive you delight not in Mufique.

In. Not a whit, when it iars fo. Ho. Harke, what fine change is in the Mufique.

In. I : that change is the spight. Ho. You would have them alwaies play but one thing.

In. I would alwaies have one play but one thing. But Hoft doth this Sir Prothess, that we talke on, Often refort vnto this Gentlewoman?

Ho. I tell you what Launce his man told me; He lou'd her out of all nicke.

In. Where is Launce?

Ho. Gone to seeke his dog, which to morrow, by his Masters command, hee must carry for a present to his

In. Peace, Rand afide, the company parts. Pro. Sir Thurso, feare not you, I will fo pleade. That you shall fay, my cunning drift excels.

7b. Where meete we?

Pro. At Saint Gregories well.

Tb. Farewell.

Pro. Madam: good eu'n to your Ladiship, Sil. I thanke you for your Musique (Gentlemen) Who is that that spake?

Pro. One (Lady)if you knew his pure hearts truth, You would quickly learne to know him by his voice.

Sil. Sit Prothem, as I take it.

Pro. Sir Prothem (gentle Lady) and your Servant.

Sil. What's your will?

Pro. That I may compasse yours.

Sil. You have your wish my will is even this, That presently you hie you home to bed: Thou subtile, periur d, false, disloyals man: Think'st thou I am fo shallow, so conceitless, To be seduced by thy flattery, That has't deceiu'd fo many with thy vowes? Returne, returne and make thy loue amenda: For me(by this pale queene of night I (weare)
I am for farre from grantlog thy requeft, That I despise thee, for thy wrongfull suite, And by and by intend to chide my felfe,

Even for this time I frend in talking to thee, Pro. I grant (sweet love) that I did love a Lady,

But the is dead.

In. Twere falle, if I should speake it;

For I am fure she is not butled.

Sil. Say that she be : yet Valentine thy friend Survives; to whom (thy felfe are witnesse) am betroth'd; and art thou not asham'd To wrong him with thy importunacy?

Prv.

Pro. Ilikewise heare that Valentine is dead.

Sul. And fo suppose am I; for in her grave Affure thy felfe, my loue is buried

Pro. Sweet Lady, let me take it from the earth.

Sil Goe to thy Ladies grave and call hers thence, Or at the leaft, in hers, sepulcher thine

Int. He heard not that.

Pro. Madam: if your heart be fo obdurate : Vouchsase me yet your Picture for my loue, The Picture that is hanging in your chamber: To that ile speake, to that ile sigh and weepe: For fince the substance of your verscht selfe Is elfe devoted, I am but a shadow; And to your shadow, will I make true loue.

Int. If twere a fubstance you would fuce deceive it,

And make it but a fliadow, as I am.

Sel. I am very loath to be your IdoH Sir; But, fince your falsehood shall become you well To worship shadowes, and adore salse shapes, Send to me in the morning, and ile fend it: And lo, good reft.

Pro. As wretches have ore-night That wait for execution in the morne.

Iul. Hoft, will you goe?

Ho. By my hallidome, I was fast asseepe. Iul. Pray you, where lies Sir Prothew?

Ho. Marry, 20 my house: Truft me, I thinke 'tis almost day.

Int. Notfo: but it hath bin the longest night That ere I watch'd, and the most heaviest.

Scana Tertia.

Enter Eglamore, Silvia

Eg. This is the houre that Madam Silusa Encreated me to call, and know her minde Ther's some great matter she'ld employ me in. Madam, Madam.

Sil. Who cals?

Eg. Your feruant, and your friend;
One that attends your Ladiships command.

Sil, Sir Eglamore, a thousand times good morrow.

Eg. As many (worthy Lady) to your felfe: According to your Ladiships impose, I am thus early come, to know what feruice It is your pleasure to command me in.

Sil. Oh Eglameure, thou art a Gentleman: Thinke not I flatter (for I sweare I doe not) Valiant, wise, remorse-full, well accomplish'd. Thou art not ignorant what deere good will I beare unto the banish'd Valensinet Nor how my father would enforce me marry Vaine Thurw (whom my very foule abhor'd.) Thy felfe half lou'd, and I have heard thee fay No griefe did ever come fo necre thy heart, As when thy Lady, and thy true-love dide; Vpon whose Graue thou vow'dst pure chastitie; Sit Eglamoure: I would to Valentini To Manina, where I heare, he makes aboad; And for the waies are dangerous to palle, I doe defire thy worthy company,

Vpon whose faith and honor, I repuse. Vige not my fathers anger (Eglamours) But thinke vpon my griefe (a Ladies griefe)
And on the inflice of my flying hence, To keepe me from a most vinhely match, Which heaven and fortune fill rewards with plagues. I doe def re thee, even from a heart As full of forrowes, as the Sea of fands, To beare me company, and goe with me ? If not, to hide what I have faid to thee, That I may venture to depart alone.

Egh Madam, I puty much your grievenees, Which, fince I know they vertuoufly are placed, I give consent to goe along with you, Wreaking as little what betidethme, As much, I wish all good befortune you. When will you goe?

Sil. This evening comming. Eg. Where shall I meete you? Sil. At Frier Patrickes Cell, Where I intend holy Confession.

Eg. I will not faile your Ladiship : Good morrow (gentle Lady.)

Sil. Good morrow, kinde Sit Eglamoser. Excens.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Launce, Protheus, Inlia, Silvin.

Law When a mans fereint shall play the Curre with him (looke you) it goes hard; one that I brought up of a puppy : one that I lau'd from drowning, when three or foure of his blinde brothers and fifters went to it : I have taught him (even as one would say precisely, thus I would teach a dog) I was fent to deliver him, as a pre-fent to Millins Silvia, from my Malter; and I came no sooner into the dyning-chamber, but he steps me to her Trencher, and steales her Capons-leg: O, 'tis a soule thing, when a Cur cannot keepe bimselfe in all companies: I would have (as one should say) one that takes vpon him to be a dog indeede, to be, as it were, a dog at all things. If I had not had more wit then he, to take a fault vpon me that he did, I thinke verily hee had bin hang'd for't: fure as I live he had fuffer'd fort : you shall judge: Hee thrusts me himselfe into the company of three or foure gentleman-like-dogs, under the Dukes table : hee had not bin there (bleffe the marke) a piffing while, but all the chamber fmelt him : out with the dog (faces one) what cur is that (faies another) whip him out (faies the third) hang him vp (faies the Duke.) I having bin acquainted with the fruell before, knew it was Crab; and goes me to the fellow that whips the dogges : friend (quoth le) you meane to whip the dog: I marry doe I (quoth he) you doe him the more wrong (quoth I) twas I did the thing you wot of : he makes me no more adoe, but whips me out of the chamber : how many Mafters would doe this for his Servant ? nay, ile be fworne I have fac in the flockes, for puddings he hath floine, otherwise he had bin executed: I have flood on the Pillorie for Geele he hath kil'd, otherwise he had fufferd fort: thou think'st not of this now : nay, I remember the tricke you feru'd me, when I tooke my leave of Madam Silvia : did not I bid thee still marke me, and doe as I do; when did'st thou see me heave vp my leg, and make water against a Gentlewomans farthingale? did'st thou ever see me doe such a tricke?

Pro. Schefian is thy name: I like thee well, And will imploy thee in some service presently. In. In what you please, ile doe what I can.

Pro. Thope thou will.

How now you whor-fon pezant,

Where have you bin these two dayes loytering?

La. Marry Sir, I carried Miftris Siluna the dogge you bad me.

Pro. And what faies the to my little lewell?

Le. Warry she fares your dog was a cur, and tels you curriff thanks is good enough for such a present.

Pro. But fre receiu d my dog? La. No indeede did she not:

Herehaue ! brought him backe againe.

Pro. What, didit thou offer her this from me?

La. 1 Sir, the other Squirrill was floine from me

By the Hangmans boyes in the market place.
And then loffer d her mine owne, who is a dog
As big as ten of yours, & therefore the guitathe greater.

Pro. Goe, get thee hence, and finde my dog againe, Or nere returne againe into my fight. Away, I fay: flayeft thou to vexeme here;

A Slave, that Millan end, turnes me to thame ? Scheffran, I have corerrained thee,

Partly that I have neede of fuch a youth,
That can with forme diferetion doe my bufineffe a
For 'tisno trufting to yond foolish Lowt,

But chiefely, for thy face, and thy behaviour, Which (If my Augury deceme me not)

Witnesse good bringing vp, fortune, and truth :-Therefore know thee, for this I entertaine thee. Go presently, and take this Ring with thee

Deliuer it to Madam Silvia; She lou'd me well, deliuer'd it to me

Iul. It feemes you lou d not her, not leaucher token: She is dead belike?

Pro. Not fo: I thinke the lives,

Isl. Alas

Pro. Why do'ft thou cry alas?

Ist. I cannot choose but puty her.

Pro. Wherefore thould'ft thou purty her?

lul. Becaufe, enethinkes that the lou'd you as well As you dooloue your Lady Siluia

She dreames on him, that has for got her love,

You desto en her, that cares not for your loue. Tis pitty Loue, should be so contrary And thinking on st, makes macey alas.

Fro. Well: grue her that Ring, and the resultable.
This Letter: table her chamber: Tell my Lady,
I claime the promise for her heavenly Picture:
Your message done, hye home vote my chamber,

Where thou shale sinderne sad, and solitatio.

Let. How many women would doe such a message?

Alaspeore Problem, show hast ensement d

A Foxe, to be the Shepheard of thy Lambs,

Alespeore toole, why doe I putty him.

That with his very heart despiseth me?

Because he loves her, he despiseth me,

Because I love him, I must putty him.

This Ring I gaue him, when he parted from me, To binde him to remember my good will

And now am I (vnbappy Mellenger)

To plead for that, which I would not obtaine, To carry that, which I would have refus d To praife his faith, which I would have dilprais d. I am my Mathers true confirmed Loue, But cannot be true feruant to my Mather, Vnlesse I prove false traitor to my selfe Yet will I woe for him, but yet so coldly, As (heaven it knowes) I would not have him speed. Gentlewoman, good day. I pray you be my meane To bring me where to speake with Madam Silvie.

Sil. What would you with her, if that I be the ?

Int. If you be the, I doe intrest your patience
To heare me speake the message I am sene on.

Sil From whom?

Jul. From my Mafter, Sir Prothem Madam.

Sil. Ob: he fends you for a Picture?

Inl. I, Madam.

Sil. Vrfula, bring my Picture there, Goe, give your Matter this: tell him from me One Iulia, that his changing thoughts forget Would better fit his Chamber, then this Shadow.

ful. Madam, pleafe you perufe this Letter; Pardon me (Madam) I have vnadvis'd Deliver'd you a paper that I should not; This is the Letter to your Ladiship.

Sil. I pray thee les me looke on that againe.
Int. It may not be: good Madam pardon me.

Sil. There, hold:

I will not looke vpon your Mafters lines.
I know they are fluft with protestations,
And full of the provides they reliable will be

And full ofnew-found oathes, which he will breake As eafily as I due tearchis paper.

Inl. Madam, he fends your Ladiship this Ring.

Sil. The more shame for him, that he sends it me; For I have heard him say a shouland times, His Julia gaue it him, at his departure

Though his falle finger have prophan'd the Ring, Mine shall not doe his Iulia so much wrong.

lul. She thankes you.

Sil. What sai'st thou i

Iul. I thanke you Madam, that you tendet her: Poore Genriewoman, my Master wrongs her much.

Sil. Do'ft thou know her?

Ind. Almost as well as I doe know my selse. To thinke yoon her woes, I doe protest That I have wept a hundred severall times:

Sil. Belike the thinks that Protheus heth forfook her!
Iul. I thinke the doth: and that's her cause of forcow

Sd. Is the not paffing faire?

Ist. She hath bin fatter (Madam) then the is, When the did thinke my Mafter iou'd her well; She, in my independent, was as faire as you. But fince the did neglect her looking-glaffs, And threw het Sun-expelling Mafque away. The ayre bath flatu'd the rokes in her cheekes, And pinch'd the lilly-tincture of her face, That now the is become as blacke as I.

Sil How tall was the &

Iul. About my flature: for at Penteroft, When all our Pageants of delight were plaid, Our youth got me to play the womans part, And I was trim'd m Madam Iulia gowne, Which serued me as sic, by all mens judgements, As if the garment had bin made for me: Therefore I know she is about my height, And at that time I made her weepe a good,

Far

The imo Genilemen of Verona.

For I did play a lamentable part. (Madam) twas Ariadre, pattioning For Thefw periury, and voiult flight; Which I so lively acted with my ceares: That my poore Millers moved therewithall, Wept bitterly: and would I might be dead, If I in thought felt not her very forrow.

Sil. She is beholding to thee (gentle youth) Alas (poore Lady) defolace, and left; I weepe my felfe to thinke vpon thy words . Here youth: there is my purle; I give thee this For thy (weet Miffris take, because thou lou'll her. Fare-

Int. And the finall chanke you to 't, if ere you know A vertuous gentlewoman, milde, and beautifull. (her. I hope my Masters suit will be but cold, Since the respects my Mistris love so much. Alas, how loue can trifle with it felfe : Here is her Picture : let me lee, I thinke If I had fuch a Tyre, this face of :nine Were full as louely, as is this of hers: And yet the Painter flatter'd her a little, Vnlesse I flatter with my felfe too much, Her haite is Aburne, mine is perfect l'ellow, If that be all the difference in his love, Ile get me fuch a coulour'd Perrywig: Her eyes are grey as glasse, and to are muie: I, but her fore-head's low, and mine's as high; What should it be that he respects in her, But I can make respective in my selle! If this fond Loue, were not a blinded god. Come shadow, come, and take this shadow vp, For 'cis thy riuall: O thou sencelesse forme. Thou shale be worship'd, kis'd, lou'd, and ador'd; And were there sence in his Idolatry, My substance should be statue in thy stead. He vie thee kindly, for thy Mistris fake That vs'd me fo : or elfe by lone, I vow. I should have scratch'd out your vnseeing eyes, To make my Master out of love with thee. Exenut.

Adus Quintus. Scana Prima.

Enter Eglamoure, Siluia. Egl. The Sun begins to guild the westerne skie. And now it is about the very houre That Silvia, at Fryer Patricks Cell should meet me, She will not faile; for Louers breake not houres, Vnlesse it be to come besore their ume, So much they spur their expedition. See where the comes: Lady a happy evening.

Sil. Amen, Amen: goe on (good Eglamonre)

Out at the Posterne by the Abbey wall;

I feare I am attended by some Spies.

Egl. Feare not : the Forrest is not three leagues off,

If we recover that, we are fure enough.

Scana Secunda.

Enter Tharto, Protheus, Inlia, Dake, 76. Sit Prothem, what faies Silves to my fuit?

Pro. Oh Sir, I finde her milder theo the was And yet the takes exceptions at your person.

Thu. What I that my leg is too long? Pro. No, chat it is too little.

Thu. He weare a Boote, to make it somewhat roun-Fro. But love will not be spurd to what it loather.

The, What faces the to my face? Fre. She faies it is a faire one.

Thu. Nay then the wanton lyes: my face is blacke Pro. But Pearles are faire; and the old laying is, Blacke men are Pearles, in beaucous Ladies cycs.

Thu. 'Tis true, such Pearles as put our Ladies eyes, For I had rather winke, theo looke on them.

The Howlikes the my discourse: Pro. Ill, when you talke of war.

Thu. But well, when I discourse of loue and peace.

Jul. But better indeeile, when you hold you peace. Thu. What layes the to my valour?

Pro. Oh Sir, she makes no doubt of that.

Int. She needes not, when the knowes it cowardize. Ton. What faces the to my birth?

Pro. That you are well deriu'd.

Iul. True: from a Gentleman, to a foole.

Thu. Considers the my Pollettions ? Pro. Oh. I: and pitties them.

Thin, Wherefore?

Inl. That such an Asse should owe them.

Pro. That they are out by Lease. Inl. Here comes the Duke.

Dn. How now fir Prothem; how now Theris?

Which of you faw Eglamoure of late?

7bu. Not I. Pro. Norl.

Du. Saw you my daughter?

Pro. Neither.

Da. Why then

She's fled voto that pezant, Palentine, And Eglamoure Is in her Company; Tis true: for Frier Laurence met them both As he, in pennance wander'd through the Forrest: Him he knew well: and gueld that it was the, But being mask'd, he was not fure of it. Belides the did intend Confession At Paricks Cell this even, and there the was not. Thefe likelihoods confirme her flight from bence; Therefore I pray you frand, not to discourse, But mount you presently, and meete with me Vpon the rising of the Mountaine soote That leads toward Manua, whether they are Bed: Dispatch (sweet Gentlemen) and sollow me.

Thu. Why this it is, to be a pecuish Girle, That flies her fortune when it followes her: lle after; more to be reveng'd on Eglamoure, Then for the love of reck-leffe Silvia.

Pro. And I will follow, more for Salam love Then hate of Eglemenre that goes with her,

Int. And I will follow, more to croffe that love Then have for Silvis, that is gone for love. Exerge.

Scena Tertia.

Silver, Oct Laver. t.Om. Come, come be patient : We must bring you to our Captaine.

Sel. A thousand more mischances then this one Haue learn'd me how to brooke this patiently.

2 Out. Come, bring her away. 2 Out. Where is the Gentleman that was with her?

3 Ors. Being nimble footed, he hath out-run vs. But Moyfes and Valerius follow him: Goe thou with her to the West end of the wood, There is our Captaine: Wee'll follow him that's fled,

The Thicket is befet, he cannot scape. 1 Our. Come, I must bring you to our Captains caue. Feare not : he beares an honourable minde,

And will not vie a woman lawlelly

Sil. O Vadentine , this I endure for thee.

Exeunt.

Scæna Quarta.

Enter Valentine, Prothem, Silvia, Iulia, Duke, Thurio,

Val. How vie doth breed a habitin a man? This thedowy defert, unfrequenced woods
I better brooke then flourishing peopled Townes:
Herecan 1st alone, un-seene of any, And to the Nighting les complaining Notes Tune my distrestes, and record my woes. O thou that dost inhabit in my breft, Leaue not the Mansion so long Tenant-lesse, Less growing ruinous, the building fall, And lezue no memory of what it was, Repaire me, with thy presence, Silvia : Thou gentle Nimph, cherish thy for-lorne swaine. What hallowing, and what stir is this to day? These are my mates, that make their wills their Law, Haue some vnhappy passenger in chace; They love me well: yet I have much to doe To keepe them from vnciuill outrages. Withdraw thee Valentine: who's this comes heere?

Pre. Madam, this service I have done for you (Though you respect not aught your servant doth)
To hazard life, and reskew you from him. That would have forc'd your honour, and your love, Vouchsafe me sor my meed, but one faire looke: (A smaller boone then this I cannot beg, And leffe then this, I am fure you cannot give)

Usl. How like a dreame is this? I see, and heare: Lous, lend me patience to forbeare a while.

Sil. O miserable, vnhappy that I am.

Pro. Vnhappy were you (Madam) ere I came:
But by my comming, I have made you happy.
Sil. By thy approach thou mak'st me most vnhappy.

Ist. And me, when he approcheth to your presence.
Sil. Had I beene ceazed by a hungry Lion, I would have beene a break-fast to the Beast. Rather then have falle Prothem reskue me : Oh beauen be judge how I loue Valentine, Whose life's as tender to me as my soule, And full as much (for more there cannot be) Thordetell falle periur'd Proben: Therefore be gone, follicit me no more.

Pro. What dangerous action, stood it next to death Would I not undergoe, for one calme looke: Oh tis the curse in Loue, and still approu'd

When women cannot loue, where they're belou'd.

Sil. When Prothem cannot love, where he's belou'd: Read ouer Ialia's heart, (thy first best Loue)
For whose deare sake, thou didst then rend thy faith

Into a thousand oathes; and all those oathes,

Descended into periury, to love me, Thou hast no faith lest now, vnlesse thou dit two, And that's farre worse then none: better have none. Then plurall faith, which is too much by one:

Thou Counterfeyt, to thy true friend. Pre. In Loue,

Who respects friend? Sil. All men but Prothem.

Pro. Nay, if the gentle spirit of mouing words Can no way change you to a milder forme : lle wooe you like a Souldier, at armes end, And loue you gainst the nature of Loue: force ye. Sil. Oh heaven.

Pro. Ile force thee yeeld to my delire.

Val. Rushan: let goe that rude vocivill touch, Thou friend of an ill sashion.

Val. Thou comon friend, that's without faith or love, For such is a friend now: treacherous man. Thou hast beguil'd my hopes; nought but mine eye Could have perswaded me : now I dare not say I have one friend alive; thou wouldst disproveme: Who should be trusted, when ones right hand Is periured to the bosome? Prethem I am forry I must neuer trust thee more, But count the world a firanger for thy fake: The private wound is deepest : oh time, most accurst : 'Mongst all foes that a friend should be the worst?

Pro. My shame and guilt consounds me; Forgive me Valentine: if hearty forrow Be a sufficient Ramome for offence I tender't heere: I doc as truely suffer,

As ere I did commit.

Val. Then I am paid t And once againe, I doe receive thee honeft; Who by Repentance is not fatisfied, Is not of heaven, nor earth; for these are pleas'd: By Penitence th'Eternalls wrath's appear'd: And that my loue may appeare plaine and free, All that was mine, in Sduia, I give thee.

Inl. Oh mevnhappy.
Pro, Looke to the Boy.
Val. Why, Boy!

Pro. How?let me see.

Why wag:how now? what's the matter?look up: Speak. Iul. O good fir, my master charg'd me to deliver a ring to Madam Silvia: W (out of my neglect) was never done

Pro. Where is that ring?boy?
Ind. Heere tis a this is it.

Why this is the ring I gaue to Julia.

ful. Oh, ery you mercy fir, I have mistooke: This is the ring you fent to Siluie.

Pro. Buthow cam'it thou by this ring ?at my depart I gate this vnto Iulia.

Isl. And Iulia her felfe did giue it me, And Iulia her felfe hath brought it hither.

Pro. How? Inlia? Iul. Behold her, that gave syme to all thy oathes, And entertain'd'em deepely in her heart.

How oft hast thou with periury cleft the roote ? Oh Prothesse, let this habit make thee blush.

Be thou asham'd that I have tooke vpon me Such an immodell rayment , if thame live In a difguste of love? It is the leffer blot modefly findes,

Women to change their shapes, then men their minds. Pro. Then men their minds firs true; oh heuen, were man

But Constant, he were perfect ; that one error Fils him with faults: makes him run through all th'fins; Inconstancy falls-off, ere it begins

What is in Siluia's face, but I may fpie More fresh in Inlia's, with a constant eye?

Val. Come, come : a hand from either . Let me be bleft to make this happy close 'Twere pitty two luch friends should be long foes. Pro. Beare witnes (heaven) I have my wish for ever.

Int. And I mine.

Ont-l. A prize: 2 prize: 2 prize.

Val. Forbeare, sorbeare I say It is my Lord the Duice. Your Grace is welcome to a man difgrac'd,

Banished Valentine

Duke. Sic Valentine?
Thu. Yonder is Silvia: and Silvia: mine.

Val. Thurso give backe; or elfe embrace thy death: Come not within the measure of my wrath.

Doc not name Silvia thine: if once againe, Verena shall not hold thee : heere she stands, Take but possession of her, with a Touch. I date thee, but to breath upon my Lone,

Thur. Sir Valentine, I care not for her, I: I hold him but a foole that will endanger His Body, for a Girle that loues him not : I claime her not, and therefore the is thine.

Date. The more degenerate and base art thou To make such meanes for her, as thou hast done, And leave her on such flight conditions.

Now, by the honor of my Ancestry, I doe applaud thy fpirit, Valentine, And thinke thee worthy of an Emprelle loce 1 Know then, I heere forget all former greefes, Cancell all grudge, repeale thee home againe, Plead a new frace in thy vo-rival'd merit, To which I thus Subscribe : Sir Valentine, Thou art a Gentleman, and well deriu'd, Take thou thy Sunia, for thou half defend ther.

Val. I thank your Grace, 9 guft hath made me happy: I now befeech you (for your daughters fake) To grant one Boone that I shall aske of you.

Duke. I grant it (for thine owne) what ere it be.
Val. These banish'd men, that I have kept withall, Are men endu'd with worthy qualities. Forgive them what they have committed here, And let them be recall'd from their Exile . They are reformed, civill, full of good,

And fit for great employment (worthy Lord.)

Duke. Thou haft prevaild, I pardon them and thee: Dispose of them, as thou knows? their deserts. Come,let vs goe, we will include all iattes, With Triumphes, Mirth, and rare folemnity.

Val. And as we walke along, I dare be bold With our discourse, to make your Grace to smile.
What thinke you of this Page (my Lord?)
Dute. I think the Boy hath grace in him, he blushes.

Val. I warrant you (my Lord) more grace, then Boy. Date. What meane you by that faying?

Val. Please you, Ile tell you, as vie palle along, That you will wonder what hath fortuned: Come Pretheu, 'tis your pennance, but to heare The flory of your Loues difecuered, That done, our day of marriage shall be yours One Feaft, one house, one mutuall happineste. Excunt.

The names of all the Actors.

Duke: Father to Siluia Valentine. 3 the two Gentlemen. Anthones: father to Protheus. Thurio: a feelish rinall to Valentine.

Eglamoure: Agent for Silvia in her escape. Host: where Inlia lodges. Out-lawes with Valerine. Speed: a clownish servant to Valentine. Launce : the like to Proshem. Panihion: seruant to Antonio Iulia beloved of Protocus. Siluia: beloved of Valentize. Lucetta: marghring-woman to lulic.

FINIS.

THE Merry Wiues of Windsor.

Actus primus, Scena prima.

Enser Suffice Shallow, Slender, Sir Hugh Evans, Master Page, Falstoffe, Bardolph, Nym, Pistoll, Anne Page, Mistreffe Ford, Mistreffe Page, Simple.

Shallow.

For It Hugb, perswade me not: I will make a Star-So Chamber mattet of it, if hee were twenty Sir Iohn Falftoffs, he shall not abuse Robert Shallow Esquire. (Coram.

Slen. In the County of Glocester, Iustice of Peace and Shal. I (Colen Slender) and Cuft-alorum.

Slen. 1, and Rate lorum too; and a Gentleman borne (Master Parson) who writes himselse Armigero, in any Bill, Warrant, Quittance, or Obligation, Armigero.

Shal. I that I doe, and have done any time these three hundred yeeres.

Slen. All his successors (gone before him) hath don't: and all his Ancestors (that come after him) may : they may give the dozen white Luces in their Coate.

Shal. It is an olde Coate.

Exans. The dozen white Lowfes doe become an old Coat well : it agrees well passant: It is a familiar beast to man, and fignifies Loue.

Shal. The Lufe is the fresh fish, the falt-fish, is an old

Coate.

Slen. I may quarter (Coz).

Shal. You may, by marrying.
Eums. It is marring indeed, if he quarter it.

Shal. Not a whit.

Eum. Yes per-lady : if he ha's a quarter of your coat, there is but three Skires for your felfe, in my simple coniectures; but that is all one : if Sir John Falitaffe have committed disparagements vnto you, I amof the Church and will be glad to do my beneuolence, to make attonements and compremises betweene you.

Shal. The Councell shall heare it, it is a Riot.

Enan. It is not meet the Councell heare a Riot: there is no feare of Got in a Riot: The Councell (looke you) shall desire to heare the feare of Got, and not to heare a Riot: take your viza-ments in that.

Shal. Ha; o'my life, if I were you againe, the Iword Chould end ic.

Enang. It is petter that friends is the fword, and end it : and there is also another device in my praine, which peraduenture prings goot discretions with it. There is Aure Page, which is daughter to Master Thomas Page which is pretty virginity.

Sim Mistris Anse Paget the has browne haire, and

spe. es small like a woman.

Euans. It is that fetry person for all the orld, as just as you will defire, and seven hundred pounds of Moneyes, and Gold, and Silver, is her Grand-fire vpon his deathsbed, (Got deliuer to a loyfull refurrections) giue, when The is able to ouertake seuenteene yeeres old. It were a goot motion, if we leave our probbles and prabbles, and defire a marriage betweene Master Abraham, and Mistris Anne Page.

Slen. Did her Grand-sire leaue her seauen hundred pound?

Euan. I, and her father is make her a petter penny. Slon. Iknow the young Gentlewoman, she has good Enan. Seuen hundred pounds, and possibilities, is goot gifts.

Shal. Wel, let vs fee honest M' Page: is Falftaffe there? Euan. Shall I tell you alge? I doe despise a lyer, as 1 doe despise one that is falle, or as I despise one that is not true : the Knight Sir Iohn is there, and I beleech you be ruled by your well-willers: I will peat the doore for M.
Page. What hos? Got-pielle your house heere.

Mr. Page. Who's there?

Euan. Here is go't's pleffing and your friend, and Iu-Rice Shallow, and heere yong Mafter Stender: that peraduentures shall tell you another tale, if matters grow to your likings.

M. Page. 1 am glad to see your Worships well 1 I thanke you for my Venison Master Shallow.

Shal. Master Page, I am glad to see you: much good doe it your good heart: I wish'd your Venisan better, it was ill killd : how doth good Mittreffe Page? and I thank you alwaies with my heart, la: with my heart.

M. Page. Sir, I thanke you.

Shat. Sir, I thanke you by yea, and no I doe. M.Pe. I am glad to see you, good Master Stender. Slen. How do's your fallow Greyhound, Sir, I heard fay he was out-run on Cosfall.

M.Pa. It could not beindg'd, Sir.

Slen. You'll not confesse : you'll not confesse. Shal. That he will not, 'tis your fault,'tit your fault: 'tis a good dogge.

M.Pa. A Cur, Sir.

Shal. Sir : hee's a good dog, and a faire dog, can there bemore said? he is good, and faire. Is Sir Iohn Palstaffe heere?

M.Pa. Sir, hee is within: and I would I could doe a good office be tweene you.

Euan. It is spoke as a Christians ought to speake. Shal. He hath wrong'd me (Master Page.)

M.Pa. Sir, be doch in some sort confesse it.

Shal. If it be confessed, it is not redressed; Is not that so (M. Page?) he hath wrong'd me, indeed he hath, at a word he liath; beleeue me, Robers Shallow Efquire, faith he is wronged.

Ma.Pa. Here comes Sir lohn.

Fal. Now, Master Shallow, you'll complaine of me to the King?

Shal. Knight, you have beaten my men, kill'd my deere, and' .oke open my Lodge.

Fal. But not kils'd your Keepers daughter? Shal. Tur, a pin: this iliall be answer'd.

Fal. I will answere it frait, I have done all this: That is now answer'd.

Shal. The Councell shall know this.
Fal. 'Twere better for you if it were known in counrell: you'll be laugh'd at.

En. Pausaverba; (Sit lohn) good worts.

Fal. Good worts? good Cabidge; Slender, I broke your head: what matter have you against me?

Slew. Marry fir, I have matter in my head against you, and against your cony-catching Rascalls, Bardelf, Nym, and Piftoll.

Bar. You Banbery Cheele. Slen. I, it is no matter.

Pift. How now, Mephoftophilm?

Slen. I, it is no matter.

Nym, Slice, I say; panca.panca: Slice, that's my humor. Slen. Where's Simple my man? can you tell, Colen?

Ena, Peace, I pray you: now let vs vnderstand; there is three V mpires in this matter, as I understand; that is, Master Page (fidelicet Master Page,) & there is my selfe, (fidelicet my felfe) and the three party is (lastly , and finally) mine Host of the Gater.

Ma.Pa. We three to hear it, & end it between them. Enan. Ferry goo't, I will make a priese of it in my note-booke, and we wil afterwards othe vpon the cause, with as great discreetly as we can.

Fal. Piftol.

Pif. He heares with eares.

Exam. The Teuill and his Tam: what phrase is this? he heares with eare? why, it is affect ations.

Fal. Piftoll, did you picke M. Slenders parle?

Slow. I, by these gloves did hee, or I would I might neuer come in mine owne great chamber againe eife, of feauen groates in mill-fixpences, and two Edward Shouelboords, that cost me two shilling and two pence a peece of Tead Miller: by these gloves.

Fal. Is this true, Piffoll?

Eum. No, it is salfe, if it is a picke-purle.

Pift. Ha, thou mountaine Forreyner : Sir Iolm, and Master mine, I combat challenge of this Latine Bilboe: word of deniall in thy labras here; word of denial; froth, and foum thou lieft Slen. By these gloues, then 't was he.

Nym. Beauis'd fir, and passe good humours: I will fay marry trap with you, if you runne the nut-books humor on me, that is the very note of it.

Slen. By this hat, then he in the red face had it : for though I cannot remember what I did when you made me drunke, yet I am not altogether an affe.

Fal. What fay you Scarlet, and John?

Bar. Why fir, (for my part) I fay the Gentleman had drunke himselfe out of his fine sentences.

En. It is his five sences : fie, what the ignorance is. Bar. And being fap, fir, was(as they fay) casheerd : and so conclusions past the Car-eires.

Sien. I, you spake in Lattenthen to: but 'tis no matter; lle nere be drunk whilft I live againe, but in honest, ciuill, godly company for this tricke : if I be drunke, Ile be drunke with those that have the seare of God, and nor with drunken knaues.

Enan. So got udge me, that is a vertuons minde. Fal. You heare all these matters deni'd, Geottemen; you heate H.

M. Page. Nay daughter, carry the wine in, wee'll drinke within.

Sten. Oh heaven: This is Miltreffe Amo Page.

M. Page Hownow Millers Ford?

Fal. Mistris Ford, by my troth you are very wel met: by your leave good Mistris.

Mr. Page. Wife, bid thefe gentlemen welcome. come, we have a hot Venison pasty to dinner; Coine gentle-men, I hope we shall drinke downe all vikindnesse.

Slen. Thad rather then forty shillings I had my booke of Songs and Sonners heere : How now Simple, where haue you beene ? I must wait on my selfe, must I ? you haue not the booke of Riddles about you, haue you:

Sim. Booke of Riddles ? why did you not lend it to Alice Short-cake vpon Alhallowmas last, a fortaight afore Michaelmas

Shal. Come Coz, come Coz, we ftay for you: a word with you Coz: marry this, Coz: there is as twere a tender, a kinde of render, made a farre-off by Sir Hugh here: doe you underfland me?

Slow. Isir, you shall finde me reasonable; if it be so.

I shall doe that that is reason,

Shal. Nay, but vnderfland me.

Slow. So I doe Sir.

Euan. Ginceare to his motions; (Mr. Skender) I will description the matter to you, if you be capacity of le Slen. Nay, I will doe as my Cozen Shallow faies : I pray you pardon me, he's a Justice of Peace in his Countrie, simple though I stand here.

Enan. Butthatis not the question : the question is concerning your marriage.

Shal. I, there's the point Sir.

En. Marry is it: the very point of it, to Mi. An Page. Slew. Why if it be fog I will marry her vpon any reasonable demands.

Eu. But can you affection the 'o-man, let vs command to know that of your mouth, or of your lips : for divers Philosophers hold, that the lips is parcell of the mouth therfore precisely, ca you carry your good wil to maid?

Sh. Colen Abraham Slender, can you love her? Slew. I hope fir, I will do as it shall become one that

Ew. Nay, got's Lords, and his Ladies, you must speake possitable, if you can carry-her your desires towards ber.

Shal. That you must : Will you, (vpon good dowry) marry her?

Slen, I will doe a greater thing then that, vpon your request (Colen) in 2ny reason.

Shal. Nay conceiue me, conceiue mee. (sweet Coz):

what I doe is to pleasure you (Coz :) can you loue the maid ?

Slen. I will marry her (Sir) at your request; but if there bee no great loue in the beginning, yet Heauen may decrease it upon better acquaintance, when wee are married, and have more occasion to know one another: I hope upon familiarity will grow more content: but if you fay mary-her, I will mary-her, that I am freely dissoluted, and dissolutely.

Es. It

Eu. It is a fery discetion-answere; saue the fall is in the ord, dissolutely : the ort is (according to our meaning) resolutely : his meaning is good.

Sh. I: Ithinke my Colen meant well.

Sl. I, or elfe I would I might be hang'd (la.) Sh. Here comes faire Mistris Anne; would I were yong for your fake, Mistris Anne.

An. The dinner is on the Table, my Father desires your worships company.

Sh. I will wait on him, (faire Mistris Anne.)

Eu. Od's plessed-wil: I wil not be absece at the grace.

An. Wil't please your worship to come in, Sir? SI. No, I thank you for footh, hartely; I am very well.

An. The dinner attends you, Sir.

Sl. I am not a-hungry, I thanke you, for sooth: goe Sirha, foe all you are my man, goe wast vpon my Cofen Shallow: a lustice of peace sometime may be beholding to his friend, for a Man; I keepe but three Men, and a Boy yet, till my Mother be dead : but what though, yet Iliue like a poore Gentleman borne.

An. I may not goe in without your worship: they will not fit till you come.

St. I faith, ile eate nothing: I thanke you as much as though I did.

An. I pray you Sir walke in.

Sl. I had rather walke here (I thanke you) I bruiz'd my thin th'other day, with playing at Sword and Dagger with a Master of Fence (three veneys for a dish of sew'd Prunes) and by my troth, I cannot abide the small of hot meate since. Why doe your dogs barke so? be there Beares ith' Towne?

An. I thinke there are, Sir, I heard them talk'dof.

St. I loue the sport well, but I shall as soone quarrell at it, as any man in England : you are afraid if you fee the Beareloofe, are you not?

An. I indeede Sir.

SI. That's meate and drinke to me now: I have feene Sucker for loofe, twenty times, and have taken him by the Chaine: but (I warrant you) the women have so cride and shrekt at it, that it past : But women indeede, cannot abide'em, they are very ill-fauour'd rough things,

Ma.Pa.Come, gentle M. Slender, come; we stay for you.

SI. He eate nothing, I thanke you Sir.

Ma. Pa. By cocke and pie, you shall not choose, Sir come,come.

Sl. Nay, pray you lead the way. Ma.Pa. Come on, Sir.

St. Millris Anne: your felle shall goe first.

An. Not I Sir, pray you keepe on.

51. Trucky I will not goefirst: trucky-la: I will not doe you that wrong.

An. I pray you Sir.

SI. He rather be vnmannerly, then troublesome: you doe your felfe wrong indeede-la. Excunt.

Scena Secunda.

Enter Enans, and Simple.

En. Go your waies, and aske of Doctor Caine house, which is the way; and there dwels one Mistris Quickly; which is in the manner of his Nurle; or his dry-Nurle; or his Cooke; or his Laundry; his Walher, and his Ringer. Si, Well Sic.

En. Nay, it is petter yet : give her this letter; for it is a'oman that altogeathers acquaintace with Miltris Anne Page; and the Letter is to defire, and require her to folicite your Masters desires, to Misteis Anne Page: I pray you be gon: I will make an end of my dinner; ther's Pippins and Cheele to come.

Scena Tertia.

Enter Falstaffe, Host, Bardolfe, Nym, Pistoll, Page.

Fal. Mine Hoft of the Garrer!

Ho. What faies my Bully Rooke? Speake Schollerly, and wifely.

Fal. Truely mine Heft; I must turne away some of my sollowers.

Ho. Discard, (bully Herceles) coshecre; let them wag; trot, trot.

Fal. I sit at ten pounds a weeke.

Ho. Thou're an Emperor (Cefar, Keifer and Pheazar) I will entertaine Bardolfe; he shall draw; he shall tap; said 1 well (bully Heltor?)

Fa. Doe so (good mine Hoft.

Ho. I have spoke; let him follow: let me see thee froth, and line: I am at a word: follow.

Fal. Bardolfe, follow him: a Tapfter is a good trade. an old Cloake, makes a new Jerkin: a wither'd Seruingman, a fresh Tapster : goe, adew.

Ba. It is a life that I have defir'd : I will thrive.

Pift. O bale hungarian wight: wilt othe spigot wield NI. He was gotten in drink: is not the humor coceited? Fal. I am glad I am so acquit of this Tinderbox : his Thefts were too open: his filching was like an vnskilfull Singer, he kept not time.

Ni. The good humor is to feale at a minutes reft.

Pift. Conuay: the wife it call: Steale? foh: a fico for the phrase.

Fal. Well firs, I am almost out at heeles. Psst. Why then let Kibes ensue.

Fal. There is no remedy: I must conicatch, I must shift.

Puft. Yong Ravens must have foode.
Fal. Which of you know Ford of this Towne? Pift. I kenthe wight : he is of substance good.

Fal. My honest Lads, I will tell you what I am about.

Pift. Two yards, and more.

Fal. No quips now Piffoll: (Indeede I am in the waste two yards about : but I am now about no waste: I am about thrift) briefely: I doe meane to make love to Fords wife : I spie entertainment in her : shee discourses : shee carves: the gives the leere of invitation: I can construe the action of her familier stile, & the hardest voice of her behauior (to be english'd rightly) is, I am Sir lohn Falftafs.

Pift. He hath fludied her will; and translated her will:

out of honefty, into English.

Ni. The Anchor is deepe: will that humor passe?

Fal. Now, the report goes, the has all the rule of her husbands Purse: he hath a legend of Angels.

Pift. As many divels entertaine: and to her Boy fay I. Ni. The humor rifes; it is good; humor me the angels.

Fal. I have writime here a letter to her i & here another to Pages wife, who even now gave mee good eyes too; examind my parts with most judicious illiads: sometimes the beame of her view, guilded my foote: fometimes my portly belly.

DZ

Piff. Then did the Sun on dung-hill shine.

Ni. I thanke thee for that humour.

Fal. O fine did to course o're my exteriors with fuch a greedy intention, that the appetite of her eye, did feeme to scorch me vp like a burning-glasse: here's another letter to her: She beares the Purle too, She is a Region in Guiana; all gold, and bountie: I will be Cheaters to them both, and they shall be Exchequers to mee: they shall be my East and West Indies; and I will trade to them both : Goe, beare thou this Letter to Miltris Page; and thou this to Militis Ford; we will thriue (Lads) we will thrine.

P.A. Shall I Sir Pandarus of Troy become. And by my fide weare Steele? then Lucifer take all.

No. I will run no base humor: here take the humor-

Letter; I will keepe the hauior of reputation.

Fal. Hold Sirha, beare you thefe Letters tightly, Saile like my Pinnaffe to thefe golden fhores. hogues, hence, auaunt, vanish like haile-stones; goe, Trudge; plod away ith' hoofe : feeke shelter, packe . Falftaffe will learne the honor of the age, French-thrift, you Rogues, my felfe, and skirted Page.

Pift. Let Vultures gripe thy guts: for gourd, and Fullam holds: & high and low beguiles the rich & poore, Tester ile have in pouch when thou shalt lacke, Bale Phrygian Turke.

Ni. I have opperations. Which be humors of revenge.

Pift. Wilt thou revenge? Ni. By Welkin, and her Star. Peft. Withwit, or Steeles

Ni. With both the humors, I:

I will discusse the humour of this Loue to Ford.

Pift. And I to Page shall eke vnfold

How Falftaffe (verlet vile)

His Doue will proue: his gold will hold, And his fost couch defile.

Ni. My humour shall not coole: I will incense Ford to deale with poylon: I will possesse him with yellow -. nesse, for the revolt of mine is dangerous: that is my true humour.

Pife. Thouart the Mars of Malscontenss: I fecond thee: troope on.

Scæna Quarta.

Enter Miftris Quickly, Simple, John Rugby, Dollar, Cains, Fenton

Qu. What, John Rugby, I pray thee goe to the Calement and see if you can see my Master, Master Docter Caise comming : if he doe (l'faith) and finde any body in the house; here will be an old abusing of Gods patience, and the Kings English.

Ra, Ilegoe watch

Qu Goe, and we'll have a poffer for't foone at night, (in faith) at the latter end of a Sea-cole-fire: An honest willing, kinde fellow, as ever fervant shall come in boule withall: and I warrant you, no tel-tale, nor no breedebate: his worst fault is that he is given to prayer; hee is something pecuish that way : but no body but has his fault : but let that passe. Peter Simple, you say your name is?

Si. I: for fault of a better.

2x. And Maller Stender's your Maller?

Si. Iforfooth

Qu. Do'she not weare a great round Beard, like a Glovers pairing-knife?

Si. No forfooth : he hath but a little wee-face ; with a little yellow beard ta Caine colourd Beard.

Qu. A fofely-sprighted man, is he not?

Si. I forsooth: but he is as tall a man of his hands, as any is betweene this and his head; he hath fought with a Warrener.

Qu. How fay you : oh, I should remember him: do's he not hold up his head(as it were?) and first in his gaze?

Si. Yes indeede do's he.

2n. Well heaven fend Ame Page, no worle fortune: Tell Master Parson Eugns, I will doe what I can for your Master: Anne is a good girle, and I wish -

Ru. Out alas: here comes my Master.

Qu. We shall all be thent : Run in here good young man : goe into this Cloffet : he will not flay long : what John Rugby? John: what John I say? goe John, goe enquire for my Master, I doubt he be not well, that hee comes not home : (and downe downe adowne a. orc.

Ca. Vat is you fing? I doe not like des-toyes: pray you goe and vetch me in my Cloffet, vnboyteene verd: a Box, a greene-a-Box: do intend vat I speake? a greene-

2-Box.

Qu. I forfooth ile ferch it you : I am glad hee went not in himfelfe: If he had found the yong man he would have bin horne-mad Ca. Fe, fe, fe, mai foy, il fait for chando, le man voi a le Court Lagrand affaires.

Qu. Is it this Sit? Ca. Our mette le au mon pochet, de perch quickly: Vere is dat knaue Rugby?

Qu. What lohn Rugby, lohn:

Ru. Here Sir.

Ca. You are lobn Rugby, 22d you are lacke Rugby: Come, take-a-your Rapier, and come after my heele to

Ru. 'Tis ready Sir, here in the Porch.

Ca. By my trot: I tarry too long: od's-me: que a je oublie: dere is some Simples in my Closset, dat I villact for the varld I shall leave behinde.

Qu. Ay-me, he'll finde the yong man there, & be mad.

Ca. O Diable, Diable : vat is in my Closset?

Villanie, La-roone: Rugby, my Rapier.
24. Good Master be content.
Ca. Wherefore thall I be content-a?

Qu. The youg man is an honest man.

Ca. What shall de honest man do in my Closse: dere is no honest man dat shall come in my Closset.

Qu. I beseech you be not so flegmaticke: heare the truth of it. He came of an errand to mee, from Parson Hugh.

Ca. Vell.

Si. I forfooth: to defire her to -

Qu. Peace, I pray you.

Ca. Peace-a-your tongue: speake-2-your Tale.
Si. To desire this honest Gentlewoman (your Maid) to speake a good word to Mistris Arme Page, for my Mafer in the way of Marriage.

Qu. This is all indeedo-la: but ile nere puemy finger in the fire, and neede ast.

Ce. Sie Hugh lend-a you? Rughy, ballow mee fome paper: terry you alittell-a-while.

Qui. I am glad he is so quiet : if he had bin throughly moued, you should have heard him so loud, and so melancholly : but notwithstanding man, Ile doe you your Mafter what good I can: and the very yea, & the no is, $ French Doctor my Master, (I may call him my Master, looke you, for I keepe his house; and I wash, ring, brew, bake, feowze, dreffe meat and drinke, make the beds, and doe all my (elfe.)

Simp. Tis a great charge to come under one bodies hand.

Qui. Are you a-uis'd o'that? you shall finde it a great charge : and to be vp early, and down late: but notwithstanding, (to tell you in your eare, I wold have no words of it) my Mafter himselfe is in love with Miftris Anne Page: but notwithstanding that I know Am mind, that's neither heere nor there.

Cains. You, lack Nape : give- a this Letter to Sir Hagh, by gar it is a shallenge: I will cut his troat in de Parke, and I will teach a scuruy lack-a-nape Priest to meddle, or make : - you may be gon : it is not good you tarry here: by gar I will cut all his two stones 1 by gar, he Chall not have a stone to throw at his dogge.

Que. Alas: he speakes but for his friend.

Caiss. It is no mattet'a ver dat : do not you tell-a-me dat I shall haue Anne Page for my selfe ? by gar, I vill kill de Iack-Prieft; and I have appointed mine Host of de larteer to measure our weapon: by gar, I wil my selse have Anne Page.

Qui. Sir, the maid loues you, and all shall bee well:

We must give folkes leave to prate: what the good-ier.

Cases. Right, come to the Cours with me: by gar, if I have not Aune Page, I shall turne your head out of my dore: follow my heeles Rugby.

Qui. You shall have An-fooles head of your owne: No, I know Aw mind for that : neuer a woman in Windfor knowes more of Ass minde then I doe, nor can doe more then I doe with her, I thanke heaven.

Fenton. Who's with in there, hoa?

Qui. Who's there, I cros? Come nesse the house I bash kon.

Fin. How now (good woman) how doft thou ? 2si. The better that it pleases your good Worship

Em. Whatnewes? how do'e pretty Mistris Anne?

Qui. In truth Sir, and thee is pretty, and honest, and gentle, and one that is your friend, I can tell you that by the way, I praise heaven for it. Fon. Shall I doe any good thighest theu? Shall I not loefe my fuit?

Qui. Troth Sir, all is in his hands above; but notwithflanding (Master Person) He be sworne on a booke Live loves you : have not your Worthip a wart about your eye?

Fen. Yes marry have I, what of that?

Qui, Wei, thereby hangs a tale 1 goodfaith, it is such enother Max; (but (I detect) an honest maid as over broke bread: wee had an howres talke of that were ; X shall never laugh but in that maids company a but (indeed) thee is given too much so Allicholy and musing:

ney for thee: Let mee have thy voice in my behalfe : if thou feelkher beforeme, commend me

Ow. Will I? If sick that wee will: And I will tell your Worthip more of the Wort, the next time we have confidence, and of other woods.

Fox. Well, fare-well, I am in great hafte now. Que. Fare-well to your Worthip: truely an honest Gentleman: but Anne loues him not: for I know Ans minde as well as another do's : out vpon's : what have I

Actus Secundus. Scana Prima.

Ewter Mistru Page, Missiru Ford, Master Page, Master Ford, Piffoll, Nim, Quickly, Hoft, Shallow.

Mist Page. What, have scap'd Loue-lesters in the holly day-time of my beauty, and am I now a subject for them? let the fee?

Aske me no reason why I losse you, for though Loue wife Reason for bis precisian, bee admits bim not for bis Counsailour. you are not yong, no more am I: goe to then, there's simpathie: you are merry, fo am I: ha, ha, then there's more simpathie: on long facke, and fo do 1: would you defire better simparbie? Let it suffice thee (Mistres Page) at the teast of the Loue of Souldier can suffice, that I loue thee: I will not fay pitty mee, 'tis not a Souldier-like phrase; but I say, some me

By me, thine owne true Knight, by day or night; Or any hinde of light, with all he might, For ibec 10 fight. John Falftaffe.

What a Hered of Iurie is this? O wicked, wicked world: One that is well-nye worne to peeces with age

To thow himfelfe a yong Gallant? What an vnwaied Behausour hath this Flemish drunkard picke (with The Deuills name) out of my conversation, that he dares In this manner affay me? why, hee hath not beene thrice In my Company: what should I say to him? I was then Frugall of my mirth: (heaven forgive mee:) why Ile Exhibit a Bill in the Parliament for the putting downe of men : how shall I be reveng'd on him? for reveng'd I will be? as fure as his guts are made of puddings.

Mil Ford. Militu Page, trust me, I was going to your house

Mif. Page. And trust me, I was comming to you: you looke veryill.

Stif Ford. Nay, Henere beleeve that; I have to thew to the contrary.

Mif. Ford. Well : I doe then : yet I fay , " Juld fhew you to the contrary: O Mistris Page, give mee some counfails.

Mistage. What's the matter, woman?

Mi. Ford. O women r if it were not for one trifling tefpech, I could come to fuch honour.

Mi. Page. Hang the triffe (woman) take the nonour what is it? dispense with trifles : what is It?

Mi.Ford. If I would but goe to hell, for an eternall moment, or fo: I could be knighted.

Mi.Paga. Vihat thou lieft? Sir Alice Ford? thefe Knights will hacke, and so thou shouldst not alter the article of thy Gentry.

WilFord. Wee burne day-light: heere ; read, read ; perceive how I might bee knighted, I that thinks the worfe of fer men, as long as I have an eye to make differemote of massliking : and yet hee would not fweare ; praise womens modesty: and gaue such orderly and welbehaued reproofe to al vncomelinesse, that I would have fworne his disposition would have gone to the truth of his words: but they doe no more adhere and keep place together, then the hundred Pfalms to the tune of Green-Sceues: What tempest (I tros) threw this Whale, (with formany Tuns of oyle in his belly) a Thoare at Windfor? How shall I bee revenged on him? I thinke the best way were, to entertaine him with hope, till the wicked fire of lust have melted him in his owne greace : Did you euer heare the like?

Mis. Page. Letter for letter; but that the name of Page and Ford differs : to thy great comfort in this myflery of ill opinions, heere's the twyn-brother of thy Letter : but let thine inherit first, for I proiest mine neuer shall: I warrant he hath a thousand of these Letters, write with blancke-space for different names (sure more): and these are of the second edition: hee will print them out of doubt: for he cares not what hee puts into the presse, when he would put vs two : I had rather be a Giantelle, and lye under Mount Pelion: Well; I will find you twentie lasciulous Turtles ere one chaste man.

Mif. Ford. Why this is the very fame the very hand:

the very words : what doth he thinke of vs?

Mif. Page. Nay I know not: it makes me almost readie to wrangle with mine owne honesty: He entertaine my felfe like one that I am not acquainted withall : for sure vnlesse hee know some straine in mee, that I know not my selfe, hee would never have boorded me in this furie.

Ms. Ford. Boording, call you it? He bee sure to keepe him aboue decke.

Mi. Page. So will I: if hee come under my hatches, Ile neuer to Sea againe : Let's bee reveng'd on him : let's appoint him a meeting : give him a show of comfort in his Suit, and lead him on with a fine baited delay, till bee hath pawn'd his horses to mine Host of the Gartet.

Mi. Ford. Nay, I wil confent to act any villany against him, that may not fully the chatineffe of our honefty : oh that my husband faw this Letter : it would give eternall food to his jealouse.

Mif. Page. Why look where he comes; and my good man too: hee's as farre from lealoufie, as I am from giuing him cause, and that (I hope) is an vnmeasurable difrance

Mif. Ford. You are the happier woman.

Mis Page. Let's consult together against this greafie Knight: Conse hither.

Ford. Well: I hope, it be not fa.

Psft. Hopeis a curtall-dog in some affaires:

Sir John affects thy wife.

Ford. Why fir, my wife is not young.

Piff. He wooes both high and low, both rich & poor, both youg and old, one with another (Ford) he loves the Gally-mawfry (Ford) perpend.

Ford. Love my wife?

Pift. With liver, burning hot : prevent: Or goe thou like Sir Alleon he, with Ring-wood at thy heeles : O, odious is the name.

Ford. What name Sir?

Pift. The horne I fay : Farewell :

Take heed, have open eye, for theeves doe for by night, Take heed are former comes, or Cuckoo-birds do fing.

Away fir Corporall None

Beleeve it (Page) he speaker sence.

Ford I will be patient: I will find out this.

Nim. And this is true: I like not the humor oflying: heahath wronged mee in some humors: I should have borne the humour d Letter to her : but I have a fword : and it shall bite vpon my necessitie: he lours your wife; There's the short and the long: My name is Corporall Nim: Ifpeak, and I auouch; tis true 1 my name is Nim: and Fallaffe loves your wife : adieu, I love not the humour of bread and cheefe : adieu.

Page. The humour of it (quoth's?) heere's a fellow frights English out of his wits. Ford. I will leeke out Falflaffe.

Page. I neuer heard such a drawling-affecting rogue. Ford. If I doe finde it: well.

Page. I will not believe fuch a Casaran, though the Priest o'th Towne commended him for a true man, Ford. Twas a good fenfible fellow: well.

Page. How now Meg?

Mist. Page. Whether goe you (Georges) harke you.
Mist Ford, How now ((weet Frank) why are thou melancholy?

Ford I melancholy? I am not melancholy i

Get you home : goe.

Mif. Ford. Faith, thou hall some crochess in thy head,

Now: will you goe Mistris Page?
Mis. Page. Have with you you'll come to dinner George ? Looke who comes yonder · thee shall bee our Messenger to this paltne Knight.

Mif. Ford. Trust me, I thought on her: shee'li fit it.
Mif. Page. You are come to see my daughter Anne? Que. Iforfooth: and I pray how do's good Muftrelle Aune Mis Page. Go in with vs and see: we have an boures talke with you.

Page. How now Master Ford?
For. You heard what this knaue told me, did you not? Page. Yes, and you heard what the other told me?

Ford. Doe you thinke there is truth in them?

Pag. Hang em Saues : I doe not thinke the Knight would offer it : But thefe that accuse him to his intent towards our wives, are a yoake of his discarded men: very rogues, now they be out of feruice.
Ford. Were they his men?

Page. Marry were they.

Ford. I like it neuer the beter for that,

Do's he lye at the Garter?

Page. Imarry do's he: if hee should intend this voyage toward my wife, I would turne her loofe to him; and what hee gets more of her, then sharpe words, let it lye on my head.

Ford. I doe not mildoubt my wife : but I would bee losth to turns them together: a man may be too confident: I would have nothing lye on my head: I cannot be thus facisfied.

Pege. Looke where my ranung-Host of the Garter comes : there is eyther liquor in his pate, or mony in his purse, when hee lookes so mertily: How now mine Hof?

Hoft. Hownow Bully-Rooke: thou're a Gentleman

Caucleiro Iustice, I say

Shal. I follow, (mine Hoft) I follow. Good-even, and twenty (good Mafter Page,) Mafter Page, wil you go with vs? we have sport in hand.

Hoft. Tell him Caueleiro-Iuflice : rell him Bully-

Shall. Sir, there is a fray to be fought, betweene Sir Hugh the Welch Priest, and Casse the French Doctor.

Ford. Good

Ford. Good mine Holt o'th Garrer: 2 word with you.

Hoft. What faift thou, my Bully-Rooke?

Shal. Will you goe with vs to behold is? My merry Hoft heth had the measuring of their weapons; and (! thinke) hath appointed them contrary places: for (be-leeue mee) I heare the Parson is no Lester: hathe, I will tell you what our sport shall be.

Hoft. Haft thou no fuit against my Knightfmy guestshal. None, I protest : but sle give you a pottle of burn'd facke, to give me recourse to him, and tell him my name is Brooms: onely for a seft.

Caualeire?

Hoft. My hand, (Bully:) thou shalt have egresse and regresse, (said 1 well?) and thy name shall be Broome. Is is a merry Knight: will you goe An-heires?

Shal. Haue with you mine Hoft.

Page. I have heard the French-man hath good skill

In his Rapiet.
Shal. Tut fir: I could have told you more: In these times you fland on diffance: your Passes, Stoccado's, and I know not what : 'tis the heart (Mafter Page)' çis heere, 'tis heere : I have feene the time, with my long-fword, I would have made you fowre tall fellower skippelike Hoft. Heere boyes, heere, heere: shall we wag?

Page. Have with you : I had tather heare them feold, then fight.

Ford Though Page be a secure soole, and stands so firmely on his wiver frailty; yet, I cannot pur-off my o-pinion so easily: the was in his company as Pages house: and what they made there, I know not, Well, I wil looke further into't, and I have a disguise, to sound Falftaffe; if I finde her honest, I loose not my labor: if the be otherwife, 'tis labour well bestowed.

Scena Secunda.

Emer Falkaffe, Pistoll, Robin, Quickly, Bardolffe,

Fal. I will not lend thee a penny.

Poff. Why then the world's mine Oyster, which I,

with fword-will open.

Fal. Not a penny : I have beene content (Sir,) you thould lay my countenance to pawne: I have grated ypon my good friends for three Reprecues for you, and your Coach-fellow Nim; or elfe you had look'd through the grate, like a Geminy of Baboones : I am demn'd in hell, for swearing to Gentlemen my friends, you were good Souldiers, and tall-fellowes. And when Mistresse Briges loft the handle of her Fan, I took't vpon mine honour thou hadft it not

Piff. Didft not thou fhere? hadft thou not fifteene

Fal. Reason, you roague, reason ; thinkst thou Ile endanger ray foule, grath? at a word, hang no more about mee, I am no gibbet for you; goe, a short knife, and a throng, to your Mannor of Picks-basch; goe, you'll not beare a Letter for mee you roague? you stand upon your honor: why, (thou vaconfinable basenesse) it is as much as I can doe to keepe the termes of my hononor precise: I, I, I my felfe fometimes, leauling the feare of beauen on the left hand, and hiding mine honor in my necessity, am taine to shuffile : to hedge, and to lurch, and yet, you Rogue, will en-sconce your raggs; your Cat-a-Mountaine-lookes, your red-lattice phrases, and your boldbesting oathes, under the shelter of your bonor ? you will not doe it? you?

Piff. I doerelent: what would thou more of man? Ribin. Sir, here's a woman would speake with you.

Fal. Let her approach.

Qm. Giue your worthip good morrow.

Qui. Not so and't please your worthip.

Fal. Good maid then.

Qui. le be sworne,

As my mother was the first houre I was bome.

Fd. I doe beleeve the swearer; what with me? 200. Shall I vouch-safe your worship a word, or

Fal. Two thouland (faire woman) and the youthlafe thee the bearing.

Que. There is one Militelle Ford, (Sir) I pray come a little neerer this waies: I my felfe dwell with M. Doctor

Fal Well, on; Mistreffe Ford, you fay.

Qui. Your worship saies very true : I pray your worthip come a little neerer this waies,

Fal. I warrant thee, no-bodie heares: mine owne people, mine owar people.

Que Are they to? heaven-bleffe them, and make them his Serusnes

Fal. Well; Mistresse Ford, what of ber?

Qui. Why, Sir; shee's a good-creature; Lord, Lord, your Worthip's a wanton : well : heaven forg:ue you, and all of vs, I pray-

Fal. Mittrelle Ford : come, Mittrelle Ford

Qui. Marry this is the short, and the long of it : you have brought her into such a Canaries, as 'ris wonderfull: the best Courtier of them all (when the Court lay at Windfor) could never have brought her to fuch a Conarie: yet there has beene Knights, and Lords, and Genelemen, with their Coaches; I warrant you Coach afeer Coach, letter after letter, gift after gift, fmelling to sweet-ly; all Muske, and so rulhling, I warrant you, in sike and golde, and in such alligant termes, and in such wine and luger of the best, and the fairest, that would have wenne any womans heart: and I warrant you, they could neuer get an eye-winke of her: I had my felfe twensie Angels given me this morning, but I defie all Angels (in eny fuch fort, as they fay) but in the way of honesty : and I warrant you, they could never get her fo much as fippe on a cup with the prowdest of them all, and yet there has beene Earles: nay, (which is more) Pentioners, but I warrant you all is one with her.

Fal. But what fales shoe to mee? be briefe my good thee-Mereurie.

Que. Marry, the hath recelu'd your Letter ; for the which the thankes you a thousand times ; and the gives you to notifie, that her husband will be ablence from his house, betweene ten and eleven.

Fel. Ten, and eleven.

Qui. 1, for footh; and then you may come and fee the picture (the fayes) that you was of : Mafter Ford her hufband will be from home; alas, the fweet woman leades an ill life with him: hee's a very icaloufie-man; fne leads avery frampold life with him, 1900d hert.)

Fal. Ten, and eleven.

Woman

Woman, commend me to her, I will not faile her.

Que Why, you say well : But I have another mellenger to your worthip : Mistresse Page hath her beartie commendations to you to: and let mee tell you in your eare, thee's as fartuous a civil modest wife, and one (1 tell you) that will not misse you morning not evening prayer, as any is in Windfor, who ere beethe other: and thee bade me tell your worthip, that her husband is feldome from home, but the hopesthere will come a time. I neuer knew a woman so doate vpon a man; surely I thinke you have charmes, la : yes in truth.

Fal. Not I, I assure thee; setting the attraction of my good parts afide, I have no other charmes.

Qui. Bleffing on your heart foi's

Fal. But I pray thee tell me this : has Fords wife, and Pages wife acquainted each other, how they love me?

Qui. That were a iest indeed : they have not so little grace I hope, that were a tricke indeed . But Miltris Page would defire you to fend her your little Page ot al loues: her husband has a maruellous infectio to the little Page: and truely Master Page is an honest man . neuer a wife in Windfor leades a bester life, then the do's: doe what thee will, fay what the will, take all, pay all, goe to bed when the iift, rife when the lift, all is as the will : and truly the deserves it; for if there be akinde woman in Windfor, the is one: you must send her your Page, no remedie

Fal. Why, I will

Qn. Nay, but doe so then and looke you, hee may come and goe betweene you both: and in any cafe have a nay-word, that you may know one anothers minde, and the Boy never neede to vinderstand any thing ; for tis not good that children should know any wickednes; olde folkes you know, have discretion, 25 they say, and know the world.

Fal. Farethee-well, commend mee to them both: there's my purse, I am youthy debter . Boy, goe along with this woman, this newes diffracts me

Pift. This Punckers one of Capidi Carriers, Clap on more failes, puriee : vp with your fights: Gwe fire: fine is my prize, or Ocean whelme them all.

Fal. Saist thou so (old lacke) gothy wates: He make more of thy olde body then I have done : will they yet looke after thee? wilt thou after the expence of fo much money, be now a gamer ? good Body, I thanke thee : let them (ay'tis groffely done, fo it bee faitely done. no

Bar. Sir lebusthere's one Mafter Brame below would faine speake with you, and be at quainted with you; and hath ferriyour worthip a mornings draught of Sacke.

Fal. Brooms is his name?

Bar. I Sir.

Fal. Call him in : fuch Browner are welcome to mee, that ore' flowes such liquor: ah ha, Mistresse Pord and Mifireste Page, haue I encompass'd you? goe to, va.

Fal. And you fir would you speake with met Ford. I make bold, to presse, with so little preparation vpon you.

Fal. You'r welcome, what's your will ? give vs leave

Drawer.

Ford. Sir, I am a Gentleman that haue fpent mach, my name is Broome.

Fal. Good Mafter Broome, I desire more acquaintance

Ford. Good Sir John, I fue for yours . not to charge you, for I must let you vnderstand, I thinkemy selfe in better plight for a Lander, then you are the which hath famething embold ed me to this unlesfored introlion for they lay, it money goe before, all wases doclye

Fal. Money is a good Souldier (Sir) and will on.

Ford. Troth, and I have a bag of money herre troubles me : if you will helpe to beare it (Sit laba) take all, or halfe, for ealing me of the carriage,

Fal Sir, I know not how I may deserve to beeyour

Portet

Ford. I will tell you fir, if you will give mee the hes.

Fal. Speake (good Master Broom) Ishall be gladeo be your Seruant,

Ford. Sit, I heare you are a Scholler: (I will be briefe with you) and you have been a man long knowne to me, though I had never to good means as defire, to make my selfe acquainted with you. I shall discover athing to you, wherein I must very much lay open mine owne iniperfection : but (good Sir lon) 25 you have one eye vpon my follies, as you heare them untolded, turne another into the Register of your owne, that I may passe with a reproofe the easter, fith you your selfe know how eastett is to be fuch en offender.

Fal. Very well Sir, proceed.

Ford. There is a Gentlewoman in this Towne, her husbands name is Ford.

Fal. Well Sir

Ford. I have long lou'd her, and I protest to you, beflowed much on her : followed her with a dozting observance: Ingross'd opportunities to meete her : sec'd every flight occasion that could but nigardly give mee fight of her : not only bought many prefents to gine her, but have given largely to many, to know what shee would have given : briefly , I have pursu'd her, as Love hath purfued mee, which hath beene on the wing of all occasions: but whatsoever I have merited, either in my minde, or in my meanes, meede I am fure I have received none, vnlesse Experience bea lewell, that I haue purchasedatan infinite rate, and that hath taught mee to say chis,

"Loue like a shadew fles, when substance Loue par sues, " Pursung that that flies, and fising what pursues

Fal. Haue you receru'd no promise of satisfaction at her hands?

Ford, Never

Fel. Hane you importun'd her to fuch a purpose?

Fal. Of what qualitie was yout love then?

Ford. Like a fair house, built on another mans ground, so that I have lost my edifice, by mistaking the place, where I erecledit.

Fal. To what purpose have you unfolded this to me?
For. When I have told you that, I have told you all: Some fay, that though the appeare honeft to mee, yet in other places shee enlargeth her muth so farre, that there is snrewd construction made of her. Novi (Sir John) here is the heart of my purpole : you are a gentleman of eacellent breeding, admirable discourse, of great admit-tance, authenticke in your place and person, generally allow d for your many warslike, court-like, and learned preparations.

Fal. OSir.

Ford, Beleeueit, for you know it : there is money, spendit, spendit, spendmore; spendall I have, onely give me fo much of your time in enchange of it, as to lay an amiable fiege to the honesty of this Fords wife : vie your Art of wooing; win her to confent to you: if any man may, you may as foone as any. Fal. Would it apply well to the vehemency of your affection that I should win what you would enjoy? Methinkes you prescribe to your selfe very preposterously.

Ford. O, understand my drift: she dwells so securely on the excellency of her honor, that the folly of my foule dares not present it selfe : shee is too bright to be look'd against. Now, could I come to her with any detection in my hand; my desires had instance and argument to commend themselues, I could drive her then from the ward of her putity, her reputation, her marriage-vow, and a thousand other her defences, which now are too. too strongly embattaild against me: what say you too't,

Fal. Mafter Broome, I will first make bold with your money: next, giue mee your hand: and last, as I am a gentleman, you shall, if you will, enjoy Fords wife.

Ford. Ogood Sir. Fal. I szy you shall.

Ford. Want no money (Sir Iohn) you (hall want none.

Fal. Want no Mistreffe Ford (Master Broome) you shall want none: I shall be with her (I may tell you) by her owne appointment, euen as you came in to me, her affifant, or goe-betweene, parted from me: I fay I shall be with her betweene ten and eleuen : for at that time the iealious-rascally-knaue her husband will be forth: come you to me at night, you shall know how I speed.

Ford. I am bleft in your acquaintance: do you know

Ford Sit?

Fal. Hang him (poore Cuckoldly knaue) I know himnot : yet I wrong him to call him poore : They fay rheiealous wittolly-knaue hath masses of money, for the which his wife feemes to me well-fauourd: I will vie her as the key of the Cuckoldly-rogues Coffer, & ther's my haruest-home.

Ford. I would you knew Ford, fir, that you might a-uoid him, if you faw him.

Fal. Hang him, mechanicall-falt-hutter rogue; I wil flare him out of his wits : I will awe-him with my cudgell : it shall hang like a Meteor ore the Cuckolds homs: Master Broome, thou shalt know, I will predominate over the pezant, and thou shalt lye with his wife. Come to me foone at night : Ford's a knaue, and I will aggrauate his stife : thou (Master Broome) shalt know him for knaue, and Cuckold. Come to me soone at night.

Ford. What a damn'd Epicurian-Raseall is this? my heart is ready to cracke with impatience : who faies this is improvident lealousie emy wife hath fent to him, the howre is fixt, the match is made: would any man have thought this? fee the hell of having a falfe woman: my bed shall be abus'd, my Coffers ransack'd, my reputation gnawne at, and I shall not onely receive this villanous wrong, but fland under the adoption of abhominable termes, and by him that does mee this wrong: Termes, names : Amaimon founds well : Lucifer, well : Barbafon, well : yet they are Diuels additions, the names of fiends: But Cuckold, Wittoll, Cuckold? the Divellhimselse hath not such a name. Page is an Asse, a secure Asse; hee will trust his wife, hee will not be ieslous: I will rather trust a Florning with my butter, Parson Hugh the Welsh-man with my Cheese, an Irosh-man with my Aqua-vitabottle, or s Theefe to walke my ambling gelding, then my wife with her selfe. Then she plots, then shee rumi-uates, then thee deuises: and what they thinke in their hearts they may effect; they will breake their hearts but they will effect. Heaven bee prais'd for my jealousie: eleuen o' clocke the howre, I will preuent this, detect my wife, bee reueng'd on Falftaffe, and laugh at Page. I will about it, better three houres too foone, then a mynute too late : he, fie, he : Cuckold, Cuckold, Cuckold.

Sceng Tertia.

Enter Cains, Rugby. Page, Shallow, Stender, Hoft. Cains. Inche Rugby.

Rug. Sir.

Caims. Varis the clocke, Iack Rug. 'Tis past the howre(Sir) that Sir Hugh promis'd to meer, Cai. By gar, he has faue his foule, dat he is no-come: hee has pray his Pible well, dat he is no-come: by gar (lack Rugby) he is dead already, if he be come.

Rug. Hee is wife Sir: hee knew your worship would kill him if he came.

Cai. By gar, de herring is no dead, fo as I vill kill him: take your Rapier, (lacke) I vill tell you how I vill

Rug. Alas fir, I cannot fence. Cai. Villanie, take your Rapier.

Rug. Forbeste: heet's company.

Hoft. Bleffe thee, bully-Doctor.

Shal. 'Saue you Mr. Doctor Cains.

Page. Now, good Mr. Doctors

Sim. 'Giue you good-morrow, fir.

Caise. Vat be all you one, two, tree, fowre, come for? Hoft. To fee thee fight, to fee thee forgne, to fee thee trauerse, to see thee heere, to see thee there, to see thee palle thy puncto, thy flock, thy reverle, thy diffance, thy montent: Is he dead, my Ethiopian? Is he dead, my Francisco? haBully? what saies my Esculapius? my Galzen?my heart of Elder? ha? is he dead bully-Stale? is he dead?

Can. By gar, he is de Coward-lack-Priest of de vorld:

he is not flow his face.

Hoft. Thou are a Castalion king-Vrinall : Helter of Greece (my Boy)

Cai. I pray you beare witnesse, that me haue stay, fixe or feuen, two tree howres for him, and hee is no-

Shal. He is the wifer man (M. Docto) the is a cuter of foules, and you a curer of bodies: If you should fight, you goe again the haire of your professions : is it not true, Mafter Page?

Page. Master Shallow; you have your selse beene a great fighter, though now a man of peace.

Shal. Body-kins M. Page, though I now be old, and of the peace; if I fee a fword out, my finger itches to make one: though wee are Iustices, and Doctors, and Churchemen (M. Page) wee have some salt of our youth in vs, we are the fons of women (M. Page.)

Page. 'Tistrue, Mr. Shallow.

Shal. It wil be found fo, (M. Page:) M. Doctor Caius, I am come to fetch you home : I am fworn of the peace: you have show'd your selfe a wife Physician, and Sir Hugh hath showne himselse a wife and patient Churchman: you must goe with me, M. Doctor.

Hoft. Par-

Hoft. Pardon, Guest-Iustice; a Mounseur Mocke-

Cal. Mock-vater? vat is dat?

Hoft. Mock-water, in our English tongue, is Valour

Cal. By gar, then I hane as much Mock-vater as da Englishman: scuruy-lack-dog-Priest: by gar, mee vill cut his eares.

Hoft. He will Clapper-claw thee tightly (Bully.)
Cai. Clapper-de-claw? vat is dat?

Hoft. That is, he will make thee amends.

Cai. By-gar, me doe looke hee shall clapper-de-claw me, for by-gar, me vill haue it.

Hoft. And I will prouoke him to't, or let him wag.

Cai. Me tanck you for dat.

Hoft. And moreover, (Bully) but first, Mr. Ghuest, and M. Page, & ceke Cavaleiro Sleader, goe you through the Towne to Frogmore.

Page. Sir Hugh is there, is he?

Hoft. He is there, see what humor he is in 1 and I will bring the Doctor about by the Fields; will it doe well? Shal. We will doe it.

All. Adieu, good M. Doctor.

Cai. By-gar, me vill kill de Priest, for he speake for a lack-sri-Ape to Anne Page.

Hoft. Let him die: theath thy impatience: throw cold water on thy Choller: goe about the fields with mee through Progmere, I will bring thee where Miltris Anne Page is, at a Farm-house a Feating; and thou shale wood he r : Cride-game, faid I well?

Cai. By-gar, mee dancke you vor dat : by gar I loue you : and I thall procure's you de good Gueft : de Earle, de Knight, de Lords, de Gentlemen, my patients.

Hoff. For the which, I will be thy aductfary toward Ame Page: Said I well?

Cai. By-gar, 'tis good: vell faid. Hoft. Let vs wag then.

Cal Come at my heeles, lack Rugh.

Excust.

Adus Tertius. Scana Prima.

Enter Enans, Simple, Page, Shallow, Slender, Host, Cains, Rugby.

Easts, I pray you now, good Master Stenders serving-man, and friend Simple by your name; which way have you look d for Master Caise, that calls himselfe Doctor

Sim. Marry Sir, the pittie-ward, the Parke-ward: every way : olde Windfor way, and every way but the Towne-way.

Enan. Imost schemently desire you, you will also looke that way

Sim. I will Er.

Eur, 'Pleffe my foule: how full of Chollors I am, and trempling of minde: I shall be glad if he have deceived me: how melancholies I sm? I will knog bis Vrinalis about his knaues costard, when I have good oportunities for the orke: Plesse my soule: To see Maiers to whose sails: melodious Birds sings Madrigalls: There will me make our Peds of Roses: and a shoosfond fragrant passes. To state lew: 'Mercie on mee, I have a great dispositions to cry, Melodiona bords fing Madrigals . - When as I fat is Pa bilon : and a thousand vagram Posies. To Shalow, coc.

Sim. Youder he is comming, this way, Sir High. Enan. Hee's welcome: Tofballow Rouers, to whofe fals:

Heaven prosper the right : what weapons is he? Sim. No wespons, Sirs there comes my Master, Mr.

Shallow, and another Gentleman ; from Frogmere, ouer the file, this way.

Enan. Pray you give mee my gowne, or else keepe it in your armes.

Shall How now Master Parson? good morrow good Sir Hugh: keepe a Gamester from the dice, and a good Studient from his booke, and it is wonderfull.

Sien. Ab sweet Anne Page.
Page. 'Saucyou, good Sur Hugh.
Enan. Plesse you from his mercy-fake, all of you.

Shal. What? the Sword, and the Word? Doe you fludy them both, M'. Parlon?

Page. And youthfull full, in your doublet and hofe, this raw-rumaticke day?

Euan. There is reasons, and causes for it.

Page. We are come to you, to doe a good office. Mr. Parlon, Euan, Fery-well: what is it?

Page. Yonder is a most reverend Gentleman; who (be-like) having received wrong by some person, is at most odds with his owne granity and patience, that ever

Shal. I have lived foure-score yeeres, and vp ward : I neuer heard a man of his place, gravity, and learning, fo wide of his owne respect.

Enan. What is he?
Page. I thinke you know him: Mr. Dodor Caise the renowned French Phylician.

Enor. Got's-will, and his passion of my heart: I had as lief you would tell me of a melle of porredge.

Page. Why?

Eura. He has no more knowledge in Hibertures and Galen, and hee is a knaue befides : a cowardly knaue, as you would defires to be acquainted withall.

Page. I warrant you, hee's the man should fight with him

Slen. Ofweet Ame Page.

Shal. It appeares so by his weapons: keepe them afunder : here comes Doctor Caim.

Page. Nay good Mr. Parson, keepe in your weapon.

Shal Sodoe you, good Mr. Doctor.

Hoft. Disarme them, and let them question : let them keepe their limbs whole, and back our English.

Cai. I pray you let a mee speake a word with your eare; wherefore vill you not meet-a me?

Enan. Pray you vie your patience in good time.

Cai. By-gar, you are de Coward : de lack dog : John Enes. Pray you let ve not be laughing-Rocks to other mens humors : I defire you in friendship, and I will one vey or other make you amend: I will knog your Vrinal about your knaues Cogs-combe.

Cai. Diable: lack Rugby: mine Hoft de larter: have ! not fray for him, to kill him i have I not at deplace I did Eugh. As I am a Christians-foute, now looke you: this is the place appointed, He bee judgement by mine Hoft of the Garter.

Hoft. Peace, I lay, Gallia and Gaule, Fruich & Welch, Soule-Curer, and Body-Curer.

Cai. 1,

Cal. I, dat is very good, excellant

Hoft. Peace, I fay : heare mine Hoft of the Gatter, Am I politicke? Am I fubtle? Am I a Machioell? Shall Iloofe my Doctor? No, hee gives me the Potions and the Motious. Shall I loofe my Parfon? my Priet?
my Sir Hugh? No, he gives me the Ptoverbes, and the
No-verbes. Give me thy hand (Celeftall) fo Boyes of Art, I haue deceiu'd you both . I haue directed you to wrong places: your hearts are mighty, your skinnes are whole, and let burn'd Sacke be the iffue: Come, lay their fwords to pawne: Follow me, Lad of peace, follow, follow, follow

Shal, Truft me, a mad Hoft : follow Gentlemen, ful-

Slen. O Sweet Anne Paye.

Cas. Ha'do I perceiue dai? Haue you make-a-de-fot ofvs, ha, ha?

Ena. This is well, he has made vs his vlowting-flog: I defire you that we may be friends : and let vs knog out praines together to be revenge on this fame scall-scuray-cogging-companion the Hoft of the Garter

Cas. By gar, with all my heart : he promsse to bring me where is Anne Page: by gar he deceive me too.

Enan. Well, I will smite his noddles: pray you follow.

Scena Secunda.

Mist Page, Robin, Ford, Page, Shallow, Stender, Host, ENAMS, CAIM.

Mift. Page. Nay keepe your way (little Gallant) you were wont to be a follower, but now you are a Leader: whether had you rather lead mine eyes, or eye your ma-

Rob. I had rather (forfooth) go before you like a man, then follow him like a dwarfe. (Courner.

M.Pa.O you are a flattering boy, now I fee you'l be a Ford. Well met mistris Page, whether go you M.Pa. Truly Sir, to sce your wife, is she at home?

Ford. 1, and as idle as the may hang together for want of company. I thinke if your husbands were dead, you two would marry. M.Pa. Be fure of that, two other husbands.

Ford. Where had you this pretty weather-cocke?

M.Pa. Icannot tell what (the dickens) his name is my husband had him of, what do you cal your Knights name Rob. Sir Iobn Falftaffe.

Ford. Six John Falstaffe.

M.Pa.He, he, I can neuer hit on's name; there is fuch a league betweene my goodman, and he : 15 your Wife at Ford Indeed the is. (home indeed) M.Pa. By your leave fir, I am ficke till I fee her.

Ford. Has Page any braines? Hath he any eres? Hath he any thinking? Sure they fleepe, he hath no vie of them: why this boy will carrie a letter ewentie mile as easie, as a Canon will shoot point-blanke twelve score : hee peeces out his wives inclination : he gives her folly motion and aduantage: and now the's going to my wife, & Falfraffer boy with her: A man may heare this showre sing in the winde; and Falstaffer boy with her: good plots, they are laide, and our revolted wives share damnation together. Well, I will take him, then tortute my wife, plucke the borrowed vaile of modestie from the fo-feeming Mist. Page, divulge Page himselfe for a secure and wilfull Alteon, and to these violent proceedings all my neighbors shall cry aime. The clocke gives me my Qu, and my affurance bids me fearch, there I shall finde Falstaffe: I shall be rather praised for this, then mock'd, for it is as possitiue, as the earth is firme, that Falstaffe is there : I will go.

Shal. Page, tre. Well met M. Ford.

Forda Trust me, a good knotte; I have good cheere at home, and I pray you all go with me.

Shal. I must excuse my selfe M' Ford

Slen. And fo must I Sir,

We have appointed to dine with Miltris Anne, And I would not breake with her for more mony Then Ile speake of.

Shal. We have linger'd about a march betweene An Page, and my cozen Slender, and this day wee shall have our answer.

Slen. I hope I have your good will Father Page. Pag. You have Mr Stender, I stand wholly for you, But my wife (M' Doctor) is for you altogether.

Cas I be-gar, and de Maid is loue-a-me. my nursh.

a-Quickly tell me so mush,

Host. What say you to yong M' Fenton? He capers, he dances, he has eics of youth: he writes verses, hee speakes holliday, he smels April and May, he wil carry to he will carry't, 'tis in his buttons, he will carry't, Page. Not by my consent I promise you. The Gentleman is of no having, hee kept companie with the wilde Prince, and Power: he is of too high a Region, he knows too much : no, hee shall not knit a knot in his fortunes, with the finger of my substance: if he take her, let him take her simply : the wealth I have waits on my confect, and my confent goes nor that way.

Ford. I befeech you heartily, some of you goe home with me to dinner : befides your cheere you shall have sport, I will shew you a monster: M. Doctor, you shall go, so shall you Mr Page, and you Sir Hugh.

Shal. Well, fare you well:

We shall have the freet woing at Mr Pager.

Cas. Go home lobn Rugby, I come anon.

Host. Farewell my hearts, I will to my honest Knight Falstaffe, and drinke Canarie with him.

Ford. I thinke I shall drinke in Pipe-wine first with him, Ilemake him dance. Will you go, Gentles?

All. Haue with you, to see this Monster.

Scena Tertia.

Encer M. Ford, M. Page, Seruants, Robin, Falftaffe, Ford, Page, Caimi, Enant.

Mift. Ford. What lohn, what Robert.

M. Page. Quickly, quickly: Is the Buck-basket-

Mif Ford. I warrant. What Robin I fay

Mif. Page. Come, come, come.

Mift. Ford. Heere, set it downe.

M. Pag. Giue your men the charge, we must be belefe. M. Ford. Marrie, as I cold you before (lahn & Rabert) be ready here hard-by in the Brew-houle, & when I fo-dainly call you, come forth, and (without any paule, or flaggering)take this basket on your houlders: o done, trudge with it in all haft, and carry it among the Whitefters in Dorcher Mead, and there empty it in the muddle ditch, close by the Thames side.
M.Page. You will do it?

(direction. M. Ford. I ha told them over and over, they lacke no

Be gone, and come when you are call'd.

(with you? M. Paga. Here comes little Robin. Mill. Ford How now my Eyas-Musker, what newes Rob My M. Sir Jobn 11 come in at your backe doore (Mist. Ford, and requests your company,

M. Page You litte lack-a-lent, have you bin true to ve Reb. 1, He be sworner my Master knower not of your being heere send hath threatned to put me into everlafling liberty, if I cell you of it : for he (weares he'll turne

Mift. Pag. Thou et a good boy: shis lecrecy of thine shall be a Tailor to thee, and shal make thee a new doublet and hose. He go hide me.

Mi. Ford. Do so 1 go tell thy Master, I am alone 1 Mi-

Arts Page, remember you your Qn.
Mift Pag A warrant three, if I do not sa it, hille me. Mift. Ford. Go-too then : we'l vie this vnwholfome humidity, this groffe-watry Pumpion; we'll teach him to know Turtles from layes.

Fal. Have I caught thee, my heavenly lewell? Why now let me die , for I have liu'd long enough : This is the period of my ambition: O this bleffed boure.

Mif. Ford. Ofweet Six loha.

.Fal. Miltis Ford, I cannot cog, I cannot prate (Mift. Ford) now thall I fin in my with; I would thy Husband were dead, lle speakent before the best Lord, I would make thee my Lady.

Miff. Ford. I your Lady Sir Ioba? Alas, I should bee e pittifull Lady.

Fal. Let the Court of France shew me fuch mother: I see how thine eye would emulate the Diamond: Thou haft the right arched-beauty of the brow, that becomes the Ship-tyre, the Tyre-valiant, or any Tire of Venetisa

Mft. Ford. A plaine Kerchlefe, Sir labn:

My browes become nothing elfe, nor that well neither. Ful. Thou are a tyrant to lay fo : thou wouldft make an absolute Courtier, and the firme fixture of thy soote, would give an excellent motion to thy gate, in a femicircled Farthingale. Ifee what thou west if Fostune thy foe, were not Nature thy friend : Come, thou canst not hide it.

Mil. Ford. Beleeue me, thei's no fuch thing in me.

F.d. Whatmade meloue thee? Let that perswade thee. Ther's something extraordinary in thee : Come, I cannot cog, and say thou art this and that, like 2-manic of these lisping-hauthorne buds, that come like women in mens apparrell, and smell like. Bucklers-berry in fimple time : I cannot, but I love thee, none but thee; and thou deferu Alt.

M. Ford. Do not berray me fir, I fear you love M. Page. Fal. Thou might it as well fay, I louc to walke by the Counter-gate, which is as hatefull to me, as the recke of a Lime-kill.

Mif Ford. Well, heaven knowes how I love you,

And you shall one day finde it.

Fel. Keepe in thet minde, Ile deferueit. Mift Perd. Nay, I must rell you, so you doe; Or elle I could not be in that minde.

Rob. Miftris Ford, Miftris Ford , heere's Miftris Poge et the doore, swesting, and blowing and looking wildely, and would needs speake with you presently.

Fal. She shall not feame, I will ensconce mer behinde the Arras.

M. Ford. Pray you do fo, the's a very failing woman. Whats thematter? How now?

Mift . Page . O militis Ford what have you done ? You'r sham'd, y'are ouesthrowne, y'are undone for ever. M. Ford What's the matter, good militin Page!

M Page. O weladay, mil Ford, having an hooeft man to your husband, to give bim luch caule of suspition.

M. Ford. What cause of suspicion?

M. Page. What cause of suspition? Out vpon you: How am I mistooke in you?

M. Ford, Why (alas) what's the matter?

M. Page. Your husband's comming becker (Woman) with all the Officers in Windfor, to for a Gentle man, that he fayes is heere now in the house; by your confent to take an ill advantage of his absence you are vadone.

M.Ford Tis not lo, I hope.

M. Page. Pray heaven it be not fo, that you have fuch a man heere; but 'tis most certaine your husband's comming, with halfe Windfor at his heeles, to ferch for fuch a one, I come before to tell you: If you know your felfe cleere, why I am glad of it : but if you have a friend bere, convey, convey him out. Be not amaz'd, call all your fenfes to you, defend your reputation, or bid farwell to your good life for euer.

M.Ford. What shall I do? There is a Gentlemen my deere friend: and I fewe not mine owne fhame fo much, as his perill. I had rather thema thousand pound he were out of the house.

M. Page. For shame, never land (you had rather, and you had rather:) your busband's beere at hand, bethinke you of some conveyance: in the house you cannot hide him. Oh, bow have you decrived me i Looke, heere is a basket, if he be of any reasonable flature, he may creepe in heere, and throw sowle linnen spon him, as if it were going to bucking : Or it is whiting time, fend him by your two men to Darcher Meade.

M.Ford, He s too big to go in there: what shall do? Fat. Let me fee't, let me fee't, O let me fee't:

He in. He in : Follow your friends counsell, He in. M. Page. What Sir John Fastaffe ? Are thele your Letters, Knight?

Fal. I loue thee, helpe mee away : lerme creepe in heere : ile never-

M. Page. Helpe to couer yourmaster (Boy:) Call your men (Mist. Ford.) You distembling Knight.

M.Ford. What Isha, Rabort, Isha; Go, take up these cloathes heere, quickly I What's the Cowle-staffe! Look how you drumble? Carry them to the Landrelle in Dat cher mezd : quickly, come.

Ford. Pray you come neresif I susped without cause, Why then make sport at me, then let me be your iest, I deserve it: How now? Whether beare you this?

Ser. To the Landreffe for looch?

M. Ford. Why, what have you to doe whether they beare it? You were best meddle with bock-washing.

Ford. Buckel would I could wash my selfe of & Bucks Bucke, bucke, bucke, I bucke : I warrant you Bucke, And of the feafoutoo; it shall appeare.

Gentlemen, I have dream'd ro night, Ile cell you my dreame: heere, heere, heere bee my keyes, alcend my Chambers, search, seeke, finde out : He warrant wee'le vakennell the Pox. Let me flop this way firlt: 10,000

Page. Good mafter Ford, be contented:

You wrong your felfe too much.

Ford True (meller Page) vp Gentlemen. You shall see sport anon:

Follow

Follow me Gentlemen.

Enans. This is fery fantasticall humors and icalousies.

Caim. By gar, 'tis no-the fashion of France:

It is not icalous in France.

Page. Nay follow him (Gentlemen) fee the yffue of his fearch.

Mist. Pagels there not a double excellency in this? Mift. Ford. I know not which pleases me better, That my husband is deceived, or Sir lobn.

Mift. Page. What a taking was hee in, when your husband askt who was in the basket?

Mift. Ford. I am halfe affraid he will haue neede of washing: so throwing him into the water, will doe him a benefit.

Mist. Page. Hang him dishonest rascall : I would all of the same straine, were in the same distresse.

Mist. Ford. I thinke my husband hath some speciall suspition of Falft affs being heere : for I never faw him so große in his iezlousie till now.

Mift. Page. I will lay a plot to try that, and wee will yet have more trickes with Falftaffe : his dissolute difeafe will fearfe obey this medicine.

Mif Pord Shall we fend that foolishion Carion, Mill. Queckly to him, and excuse his throwing into the water, and give him another hope, to betray him to another punishment?

Mill Page. We will do it : let him be fent for to motrow eight a clocke to have amends.

Ford. I cannot finde him: may be the knaue bragg'd of that he could not compasse.

Mif. Page. Heard you that?
Mif. Ford. You vie me well, M. Ford? Do you? Ford, I, I do la.

M. Ford, Heaven make you better then your thoghts Ford. Imen.

Mi.Page. You do your selfe mighty wrong (M.Ford)
Ford. 1,1: I must be are it. Em Is there be any body in the house, &c in the chambers, and in the coffers, and in the presses : heaven forgive my fins at the day of judgement

Casus. Be gar, nor Itoo . there is no-bodies

Page Fy, fy, M. Ford, are you not asham'd; What spicit, what divell suggests this imagination? I wold not ha your diffemper in this kind, for f welch of windsor castle.

Ford. Tis my fault (M. Page) l fuffer for it.

Enens. You luffer for a pad conscience : your wife is as honest a o'mans, as I will desures among five thoufand, and five hundred too.

Cas. By gar, I fee 'tis an honest woman.
Ford. Well, I promised you a dinner:come,come, walk in the Parke, I pray you pardon me: I wil hereafter make knowne to you why I have done this. Come wife, come Mi. Page, I pray you pardon me. Pray harrly pardon me.

Page. Let's go in Gentlemen, but (trust me) we'l mock him: I doe inuite you to morrow morning to my house to breakfast: after we'll a Birding together, Ihaue a fine

Hawke for the bulh. Shall it be fo :

Ford. Any thing.

Es. If there is one, I shall make two in the Companie Calf there be one, or two. I shall make-a-theturd. Ford. Pray you go, M. Page.

Ena. I pray you now temembrance to motrow on the lowfie knaue, mine Hoft,

Cas. Dat is good by gar, withall my heart.

Ena. A lowfie knaue, to have his gibes, and his mockeries, Exempt.

Scæna Quarta.

Enter Fenton, Anne, Page, Shallow, Slender,

Quickly, Page, Mist. Page. Fen: I see I cannot get thy Fathers loue, Therefore no more turne me to him (fweet Nan.) Anne. Alas, how then !

Fen. Why thou must be thy selfe, He doth obie&, I am too great of birth, And that my flate being gall'd with my expence, I feeke to heale it onely by his wealth. Besides these, other barres he layes before me, My Riots past, my wilde Societies,

And tels me 'tis a thing impossible I should love thee, but as a property.

An. May be he rels you true FenNo, heaven fo speed me in my time to come, Albeit I will confesse, thy Fathers wealth Was the first motive that I woo'd thee (Anne:) Yet wooing thee, I found thee of more valew Then flampes in Gold, or fummes in fealed bagges, And 'us the very riches of thy felfe,

That now I ayme at.

An Genile M. Fenton, Ye: seeke my Fathers lone, still feeke it fir, If opportunity and humblest suite Cannot attaine it, why then harke you hither. Shal. Breake their talke Mistris Quickly, My Kinfman shall speake for himselfe.

Slen. He make a shaft or a bolt on't, sud, tis but ventu-Shal. Benot dismaid. (ring.

Sken. No, she shall not dismay me :

I care not for that, but that I am affeard.

Qui.Hark ye, M. Sleuder would speak a word with you An. I come to him. This is my Fathers choice: O what a world of vilde ill-fauour'd faults

Lookes handsome in three hundred pounds a yeere?

Que. And how do's good Mafter Fenson? Pray you a word with you.

Shal. Shee's comming; to her Coz: Oboy, thou hadft a father.

Slen. I had a father (M An) my vncle can tel you good refis of him : pray you Vncle, tel Mift. Anne the reft how my Father stole two Geese out of a Pen, good Vnckle.

Shal. Miltris Anne, my Cozen loues you.

Slen. I that I do, as well as I loue any woman in Glocestershire.

Shal, He will maintaine you like a Gentlewoman. Slew. I that I will, come cut and long-taile, under the degree of a Squire.

Shal. He will make you a hundred and fiftie pounds joynture.

Anne. Good Maister Shallow let him woo for himfelfe.

Shal. Marrie I thanke you for it: I thanke you for that good comfort : the cals you (Coz) lle leane you.

Anne. Now Master Stender. Slen. Now good Mistris Anne.

Anne. What is your will?

Sless. My will ? Odd's-hart-lings, that's a prettie iest indeede : I ne're made my Will yet (I thanke Hesuen:) I am not such a sickely creature, I giue Heauen

An.

Anne. I meane (M. Slender) what wold you with me? Slen. Truely, for mine owne part, I would little or nothing with you : your father and my vncle hath made motion: if it be my lucke, fo ; it not, happy man bee his dole, they can tell you how things go, better then I can: you may aske yout father, heere he comes.

Page. Now M. Slender; Lone bim daughter Anne. Why how now? What does Mr Fonter here ? You wrong me Sir, thus ftill to haunt my house.

I told you Sir, my daughter is disposd of. Fen. Nay Mr Page, be not impatient.

Milt. Page. Good M. Penten.comenor to my child.

Fen. Sir, will you heare me? Page. No, good M. Fenten.

Come M. Shallow: Come sonne Stender, in ;

Knowing my minde, you wrong me (M. Fenton.) Qui. Speake to Mistris Page. Fen, Good Mist. Page, for that I loue your daughter

In fach a righteous fashion as I do. Perforce, against all checkes, rebukes, and manners, I must advance the colours of my love,

And not retire. Let me have your good will

An. Good mother, do not marry me to youd foole. Mift. Page. I meane it not, I fecke you a better hufband

Qui That's my maffer, M. Dollor.

An. Alas I had rather be fet quick i'ch eerth,

And bowl deo death with Turnips.

Mift. Page. Come, trouble not your selfe good M. Fenton, I will not be your friend, nor enemy: My daughter will I question how the loues you, And as I finde her, fo am I affected : Till then, farewell Sir, the must needs go in, Her father will be angry.

Fen. Farewell gentle Miftris : farewell Nan. Qui. This is my doing now: Nay, saide I, will you cast away your childe on a Foole, and a Physitian: Looke on M. Ferren, this is my doing.

Fen. I thanke thee : and I pray thee once to night, Give my fweet Nan this Ring: there's for thy paines.

Qui. Nove heaven send thee good fortune, a kinde heart he hath: a woman would run through fire & water for such a kinde heart. But yet, I would my Maister had Mistis Anne, or I would M. Slender had her: or (in footh) I would M. Fenton had her; I will do what I can for them all three, for fo I have promifd, and Ile bee as good as my word, but speciously for M. Fenten. Well, I must of another estand to Sir lehn Falltaffe frem my two Mistresses: what a beast am I to slacke it.

Scena Quinta.

Enter Falftaffe, Bardolfe, Quickly, Ford. Fal. Bardolfe I fay.

Bar. Heere Sir.

Fal. Go, fetch me a quart of Sacke, put a toft in't. Haue I liu'd to be carried in a Basket like a barrow of butchers Offall? and to be throwne in the Thames? Wel, if I be feru'd such another tricke, Ile have my braines tane out and butter'd, and give them to a dogge for a New-yeares gift. The rogues flighted me into the river with as little remorfe, as they would have drown'de a blinde bitches Puppies, friteene i'th litter and you may know by my fize, that I have a kinde of alacrity in finking : if the bottome were as deepe as hell, I shold down. I had beene drown'd, but hat the shore was shelvy and shallow: a death that I abhorte t for the water swelles a man; and what a thing should I have beene, when I had beene (wel'd? I should have beene a Mountaine of Mummic.

Bar. Here's M. Qmoth Sireo Speake with you.

Fal. Come, let me poure in some Sack to the Thames water: for my bellies as cold as if I had [wallow'd foowbals, for pilles to coole the ternes. Cali her in.

Bar. Come in woman.

Qni. By your leave: I cry you mercy? Giuc your worship good morrow.

Fal. Take away these Challices 1 Go, brew me a pottle of Sacke finely. Bard. With Egges, Sir?

Fal. Simple of it selfe : lie no Pullet-Spersme in my brewage. Hownow?

Que, Marry Sir, I come to your worthip from M. Ford. Fal, Mift. Ford! I have had Ford enough. I was thrown into the Ford; I have my belly full of Ford.

Qui. Alas the day, (good-heart) that was not her fault : the do's to take on with her men ; they mistooke their erection. promise

Fal. So did I mine, to build vpon a foolish Womens Qui. Well, the laments Sir for it, that it would yern your heart to fee it : her husband goes this morning a birding; she desires you once more to come to her, betweene eight and nine: I must carry her word quickely, the'll make you amends I warrant you.

Fal. Well, I will visit her, tell her so : and bidde her thinke what a man is: Let ber confider his freilety, and then judge of my merit.

Qwi. I will tell her.

Fal. Do so. Betweene nine and ten saift thou?

Qui. Eight and nine Sit.

Fal. Well, be gone: I will not miffe her.

Qui. Peace be with you Sir.

Fal. I meruaile I heare not of M' Broom: he lent me word to flay within: I like his money well. Oh, heere be comes.

Ferd. Blesse you Sir. What hath past betweene me, and Fords wife,

Ford That indeed (Sir loba) is my bufineffe.

Fal. M. Broome I will not lye to you, I was at her house the houre the appointed me.

Ford. And sped you Sir?
Fal. very ill-fauouredly M. Brooms.

Ford. How so fir, did she change her determination? Fal. No (M. Brooms) but the peaking Curnuto her hufband (M. Broome) dwelling in a continual larum of ielousie, coms me in the instant of our encounter, after we had embrast, kist, protested, & (as it were) spoke the prologue of our Comedy 1 and at his heeles, a rabble of his companions, thither provoked and infligated by his difference, and (forfooth) to ferch his boule for his wives Love.

Ford What? While you were there?

Fal. While I was there.

For. And did he fearch for you, & could not find you? Fal. You shall heate. As good lucke would have it, comes in one Mift. Page, gives intelligence of Fords approch : and in her invention, and Fords wives diffraction, they convey'd me into a bucke basket.

Ford

Ford. A Buck-basket? Fal Yes: a Buck-basket: ram'd mee in with foule Shirts and Smockes, Socks, Soule Stockings, greafie Napkins, that (Mafter Broome) there was the rankest compound of vilianous smell, that ever offended no-

Ford. And how long lay you there?,
Fal. Nay, you shall heare (Master Broome) what I have suffered, to bring this woman to cuill, for your good: Being thus cram'd in the Basker, a couple of Fords knaues, his Hindes, were cald forth by their Miffris, to carry mee in the name of foule Cloathes to Datchet-lane: they tooke me on their shoulders: met the icalous knaue their Master in the doore; who ask'd them once or twice what they had in their Basket? I quak'd for feare least the Lunatique Knaue would have fearch'dit : but Fate (ordaining he should be a Cuckold) held his hand: well, on went hee, for a fearch, and away went 1 for foule Cloathes: But marke the fequell (Mafter Broome) I suffered the pangs of three severall deaths: First, an incollerable fright, to be detected with a lealious rotten Bell-weather: Next to be compass'd like a good Bilbo in the circumference of a Pecke, hilt to point, heele to head. And then to be flopt in like a ftrong distillation with flinking Cloathes, that fretted in their owne greafe: thinke of that, a man of my Kidney; thinke of that, that am as subject to heate as butter; a man of continuall dissolution, and thaw: it was a miracle to scape suffocation. And in the height of this Bath (when I was more then halfe stew'd in grease (like a Dutchdish) to be throwne into the Thames, and coold, glowing-hot, in that ferge like a Horse-shoo; thinke of that; histing hot : thinke of that (Master Broome.)

Ford. In good sadnesse Sir, I am forry, that for my sake you have sufferd all this.

My suite then is desperate: You'll vndertake her no

Fal. Master Broome: I will be throwne into Etna, as I have beene into Thames, ere I will leave her thus; her Husband is this morning gone a Birding: I haue received from her another ambassie of meeting: 'twist eight and nine is the houre (Master Broome.)

Ford. 'Tis past eight already Sir.

Fal. Isit? I will then addresse mee to my appointment: Come to mee at your convenient leisure, and you shall know how I speede: and the conclusion shall be crowned with your enjoying her: adiew: you shall haue her (Master Broome) Master Broome, you shall cuckold Ford.

Ford. Hum: ha? Is this a vision? Is this a dreame? doe I scepe? Master Ford awake, awake Master Ford: ther's a hole made in your best coate (Master Ford:) this 'tisto be married; this 'tisto haue Lynnen, and Buckbaskets: Well, I will proclaime my selfe what I am: I will now take the Leacher: hee is at my house: hee cannot scape me : 'tis impossible hee should: hee cannot creepe into a halfe-penny purle, nor into a Pepper-Boxe: But least the Divell that guides him, should aide him, I will search impossible places: though what I am, I cannot avoide; yet to be what I would not, shall not make me tame: If I have hornes, to make one mad, let the prouerbe goe with me, lle be horne-

Allus Quartus. Scana Prima.

Enter Mistria Page, Quickly, William Euans. Mist. Pag. 1s he at M. Fords already think'st thou?

Qui. Sure he is by this; or will be presently; but truely he is very couragious mad, about his throwing into the water. Mistris Ford desires you to come so-

Mift. Pag. le be with her by and by : le but bring my yong-man here to Schoole: looke where his Mafter comes; 'tis a playing day I fee: how now Sir Hugh, no

Schoole to day?

Ena. No: Master Slender is let the Boyes leaue to play.

Qui 'Bleffing of his heart.

Mist Pag. Sir Hugh, my husband faies my fonne profits nothing in the world at his Booke: I pray you aske him fome questions in his Accidence.

Eu. Come hither William; hold vp your head; come. Mist. Pag. Come-on Sirha; hold vp your head; answere your Master, be not afraid.

Ena. William, how many Numbers is in Nownes?

W.B. Two.

Qui. Truely, I thought there had bin one Number more, because they say od's-Nownes.

Ena. Peace, your tatlings. What is (Faire) William? Will. Pulcher.

Qu. Powlcats? there are fairer things then Powlcats, fure.

Euas You are a very simplicity o'man: I pray you peace. What is (Lapis) William?

Will. A Stone.

Eua. And what is a Stone (William?)

Will. A Peeble.

Ena. No; it is Lapis: I pray you remember in your

Will. Lapis.

Eua. That is a good William; what is he (William) that do's lend Articles.

Will. Articles are borrowed of the Pronoune; and be thus declined. Singulariter nominatino hie hac, boc.

Eua. Nominatino hig ,bag ,bog : pray you marke : genitino hum: Well . what is your Accufatine-case?

Will. Accufauno hinc.

Ena. I pray you have your remembrance (childe) Accusation bing, hang, bog.

Qu. Hang-hog, is latten for Bacon, I warrant you. Ena. Leaue your prables (o'man) What is the Facaline case (William?)

Will. O, Vocasino, O.

Eus. Remember William, Focarme, is caret.

Qu, And that's a good roote.

Eua. O'man, forbearc.

Mist. Pag. Peace.

Eua: What is your Gentsine cafe plur all (William?) Will. Genitine case?

Will. Genitue horum, harum, horum.
Qu. 'Vengeance of Ginyes cale; fie on her; neuer name her (childe) if the be a whore.

Ena. For shame o'man.

Qu. You doe ill to reach the childe fuch words : hee teaches him to hic, and to hae; which they'll doe fast enough of themselves, and to call borum; sie vpon you.

Ena. Oman

Eugni. O'inan, art thou Lungties ? Haft thou no vnderftandinge for thy Cafes, & the sumbers of the Genders? Thou are as foolish Chushian creatures, as I would defires.

Mi. Page. Pre thee hold thy peace.

Eu. Shewmenow (William, some declensions of your will. Forfooth, I have forgot.

En. Icis Qui, que, qued ; if you forget your Quies, your Ques, and your Queds you must be preeches: Goe your waies and play, go.

M Pag. He is a better scholler then I thought he was. En. He is a good (prag-memory: Estewel Mis. Page.

Mis. Page. Adieu good Sir Hugh: Get you home boy, Come we say too long. Exquat.

Scena Secunda.

Liner Falfloffe, Mift. Ford, Mift. Page, Servants, Ford, Page, Caim, Euans, Shallow.

Fal. Mi. Ford, Your forrow hath eaten vp my fufferance; I fee you are obsequious in your loue, and I profeffe requitall. to a haires bredth, not onely Mift. Ford, in the simple office of loue, but in all the accustrement, complement, and cereinony of it : But sreyou fure of your husband now?

Mif. Ford. Hee's a birding (Sweet Sir lohn.)

Mif. Page. Whathos, goffip Ford: what hos.

Mif. Page. How now (sweete heart) whose at home belides your felfe ?

Mif Ford Why none but mine owne people,

Mis Page, Indeed? Mis Ford. No certainly: Speake louder.

Mift. Pag. Truly, Lam fo glad you have no body here.

Mif. Fard. Why?
Mif Page. Why woman, your husband is in his olde lines againe: he so takes on yonder with my husband, so railes against all married mankinde ; so curses all Eses daughters, of what complexion foeuer ; and fo buffettes himselfe on the for-head : crying peere-out, peere-out, that any madnesse I euer yet beheld, feem'd but tamenesse, ciuility, and patience to this his distemper he is in now : I am glad the fat Knight is not heete,

Mift. Ford. Why, do's he talke of him? Mift. Page. Of none but him, and sweates he was caried out the laft time hee fearch'd for him, in a Basket: Protests to my husband he is now heere, & hath drawne him and the rest of their company from their sport, to make another experiment of his suspition: But I am glad the Knight is not heere ; now he shall see his owne foo. leric.

Mift. Ford. How neere is he Mistris Paget Mift. Pag. Hard by, at freet end; he wil be here anon. Mift. Ford. I am vndone, the Knight is heere.

Mift. Page. Why then you are veterly fham'd, & hee's but a dead man. What a woman are you? Away with him, away with him : Better Chame, then murther.

Mif. Ford. Which way should be go? How should I beflow him ? Shall I put him into the basket againe?. F.d. No, Ile come no more i'th Basket;

May I not go out ere he come?

Off. Page. Alas : three of M. Fords brothers watch the doore with Piftols, that none shall iffue out : otherwife you might flip away ere hee came : But what make you heer :

Fal. What shall I do ? lie creepe vp into the chimney. Mist Ford. There they alwales vie to discharge their Birding-peeces: creepe into the Kill-hole.

Mill Ford, He will sceke thereon my word: Neyther Presse, Coffer, Chest, T. unke, Well, Vaulr, but he hath an abstract for the remembrance of such places, and goes to them by his Note : There is no hiding you in the house.

Fal. lle go out then.

Mift. Ford. If you goe out in your owne femblance, you die Sir John, voleffe you go out disguis'd.

Mist. Ford. How might we disguise him?

Mill Page. Alas the day I knownot, there is no womans gowne bigge enough for him : otherwise he might put on a hat, a muffler, and a kerchiefe, and so escape.

Fal. Good hearts, devile fomething: noy extremitte, rather then a mischiese.

Mist. Ford. My Maids Aunt the fat woman of Brain-ford.has a gowne about.

moft. Page. On my word it will ferue him: shee's as big as he is : and there's her thrum'd hat, and her muffler too: run vp Sir lohn.

Mift. Ford. Go, go, Sweet Sir lobn : Miftrin Page and

I will looke some linnen for your head.

Mist Page. Quicke, quicke, wee'le come dresse you

Araight: put on the gowne the while.

Mist. Ford. I would my husband would meete him in this shape; he cannot abide the old woman of Brainford; he sweares she's a witch, forbad her my house, and hath threatned to beare her.

Mist. Page. Heaven guide him to thy husbands cudgell: and the divell guide his cudgell afterwards.

Mift Ford. But is my husband comming?

Mift. Page. I in good sadnesse is he, and calkes of the basket too, howfoeuer he hath had intelligence.

Mist. Ford. Wee'l try that: for Ile appoint my men to carry the basket againe, to mette him at the doore with it, as they did laft time.

Mist. Page. Nay, but hee'l be heere presently:let's go dresse him like the witch of Brainford.

Mift. Ford. He first dited direct my men, what they shall doe with the basket: Goe vp, Ile bring linnen for him ftraight.

Mift. Page Hang him dishonest Varlet, We cannot misuse enough:

We'll leave a proofe by that which we will doo, Wives may be merry, and yet honest too: We do not afte that often, ieft, and laugh,

Tis old, but true, Still Swine cats all the draugh. Mift. Ford. Go Sirs, take the basket againe on your shoulders: your Master is hard at doore: if hee bid you fet it downe, obey him : quickly, dispatch. 1 Ser. Come, come, take it vp

3 Ser. Pray heaven it be not full of Knight againe.

1 Ser. I hope not, I had liefe as beare fo much lead. Ford. I, but if it proue true (Mr. Page) have you any way then to vafoole me againe. Set downe the basket villaine: some body call my wife: Youth in a basket: Oh you Panderly Rascais, there's a knot : a gin, a packe, a conspiracie against me: Now shall the divel be sham'd. What wife I say: Come, come forth: behold what ho.

neA

nest cloathes you fend forth to bleaching,

Page. Why, this paffes M. Ford: you are not to goe loofe any longer, you must be pinnion'd.

Euans. Why, this is Lunaticks : this is madde, as a mad dogge.

Shall. Indeed M. Ford, thi is not well indeed.

Ford. So say I too Sir, come hither Mistris Ford, Miftris Ford, the honest woman, the modest wife, the vertuous creature, that hath the jealious foole to her husband: I suspect without cause (Mistris) do 1?

Mift. Ford Heaven be my witnesse you doe, if you suspect me in any dishonesty.

Ford. Well said Brazon-face, hold it out: Come forth firrah.

Page. This passes.

Mist. Ford. Are you not asham'd, let the eloths alone.

Ford. I shall finde you anon.

Ena. Tis vnreasonable; will you take vp your wines cloathes? Come, away.

Ford. Empty the basket I fay. M. Ford. Why man, why !

Ford. Master Page, as I am a man, there was one conuay'd out of my house yesterday in this basket : why may not he be there againe, in my house I am sure he is: my Intelligence is true, my icalouse is reasonable, pluck me out all the linnen.

Mist. Ford. If you find a man there, he shall dye a Fleas death.

Page. Heer's no man.

Shal. By my fidelity this is not well Mr. Ford: This wrongs you. Euans, Mr Ford, you must pray, and not follow the imaginations of your owne heart: this is realousies. Ford. Well, hee's not heere I seeke for.

Page. No, nor no where else but in your braine. Ford. Helpe to fearch my house this one time:if I find not what I feeke, shew no colour for my extremity: Let me for euer be your Table-sport : Let them say of me, as icalous as Ford, that fearch'd a hollow Wall-nut for his wives Lemman. Satisfie me once more, once more ferch with me.

M. Ford. What hos (Mistris Page,) come you and the old woman downe: my husband will come into the Chamber

Ford. Old woman? what old womans that?

M. Ford. Why it is my maids Aunt of Brainford.

Ford. A witch, a Queane, an olde couzening queane: Haue I not forbid her my house. She comes of errands do's she? We are simple men, wee doe not know what's brought to passe under the profession of Fortune-telling. She workes by Charmes, by Spels, by th'Figure, & fuch dawbry as this is, beyond our Element: wee know nothing. Come downe you Witch, you Hagge you, come downe I fay.

Mist. Ford. Nay, good (weet husband, good Gentlemen, let him strike the old woman.

Mist. Page. Come mother Prat, Come giue me your hand. Ford. Ile Prat-her: Out of my doore, you Witch, you Ragge, you Baggage, you Poulcat, you Runnion, out, out : Ile coniure you, Ile fortune-tell you.

Mist. Page. Are you not asham'd? I thinke you have kill'd the poore woman.

Mift. Ford. Nay he will do it, 'cis a goodly credite for you

Ford. Hang her witch.

Eua. By yea, and no, I thinke the o'man is a witch indeede: I like not when a o'man has a great peard; I spie a great peard under his musser.

Ford. Will you follow Gentlemen, I befeech you follow . fee but the issue of my lealousie : If I cry out thus vpon no traile, neuer truit me when I open againe.

Page. Let's obey his humour a little further:

Come Gentlemen.

Mist. Page. Trust me he beate him most pittifully.
Mist. Ford. Nay by th' Masse that he did not: he beate him most vapittifully, me thought.

Mist. Page. Ile have the cudgell hallow'd, and hung ore the Altar, it hath done meritorious service.

Mift Ford. What thinke you? May we with the warrant of woman hood, and the witnesse of a good conscience, pursue him with any further revenge

M. Page. The spirit of wantonnesse is sure scar'd out of him, if the divell have him not m fee-simple, with fine and recouery, he will neuer (I thinke) in the way of waste, attempt vs againe.

Mist. Pord. Shall we tell our husbands how wee have Mift. Page. Yes, by all meanes: if it be but to ferape the figures out of your husbands braines: if they can find in their hearts, the poore vnuertuous fat Knight shall be any further afflicted, wee two will still bee the mini-

Mist. Ford. He warrant, they'l have him publiquely fham'd, and methinkes there would be no period to the ieft, should he not be publikely sham'd.

Mist. Page. Come, to the Forge with it, then shape it: I would not have things coole.

Scena Tertia.

Enter Hoft and Bardolfe.

Bar. Sir, the Germane defires to have three of your horses: the Duke himselse will be to morrow at Court, and they are going to meet him.

Hoft. What Duke should that be comes so secretly? I heare not of him in the Court : let mee speake with the Gentlemen, they speake English? Bar. I Sir? He call him to you.

Hoft. They shall have my horses, but He make them pay: He fauce them, they have had my houses a week at commaund : I have turn'd a way my other guefts, they must come off, lle sawce them, come.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Page, Ford, Mistris Page, Mistris Ford, and Enans.

Eua. Tis one of the best discretions of a o'man as euer I did looke vpon.

Page. And did he send you both these Letters at an instant?

Mist. Page. VVithin a quarter of an houre.

Ford. Pardon me (wife) henceforth do what wilt: I rather will suspect the Sunne with gold,

Then thee with wantonnes: Now doth thy honor stand

(In him that was of late an Heretike). As firme as faith,

Page. Tis well, 'tis well, no more: Be not as extreme in submission, as in offence, But let out plot go forward: Let our wives Yet once againe (to make vs publike (port) Appoint a meeting with this old fat-fellow, Where we may take him, and disgrace him for it.

Ford. There is no better way then that they fpoke of. Page. Howe to fend him word they'll meete him in the Parke at midnight? Fie, fie, he'll neuer come.

En. You say he has bin throwne in the Rivers : and has bin greeuously peaten, as an old o'man: me-thinkes there (hould be terrors in him, that he (hould not come: Me-thinkes his flesh is punish'd, hee shall have no de-

Page. So thinke I too.

M. Ford. Deuise but how you'l vse him whe he comes,

And let vs two deuise to bring him thether.

Mis Page. There is an old rale goes, that Horne the Hunter (sometime a keeper heere in Windsor Forrest) Dothall the winter time, at fill midnight Walke round about an Oake, with great rag'd-hornes, And there he blafts the tree, and takes the cattle, And make milch-kine yeeld blood, and shakes a chaine In a most hideous and dreadfull manner. You have heard of fuch a Spirit, and well you know The superstitious idle-headed-Eld Receiv'd, and did deliver to our age This tale of Herme the Hunter, for a truth.

Page. Why yet there want not many that do feare In deepe of night to walke by this Hernes Oake:

But what of this?

Mist. Ford. Marry this is our deuise, That Faistaffe at that Oake shall meete with vs.

Page. Well, let it not be doubted but he'll come, And in this shape, when you have brought him thether, What shall be done with him? What is your plot?

Miff. Pa. That like wife have we thought vpon: & thus: Nan Page (my daughter) and my little fonne, And three or foure more of their growth, wee'l dreffe Like Vrchins, Ouphes, and Fairies, greene and white, With rounds of waxen Tapers on their heads, And rattles in their hands; vpon a fodaine, As Falftaffe, flie, and I, are newly mer, I et them from forth a faw-pit rush at once With some diffused long: V pon their sight Weswo, in great amazednesse will flye : Then let them all encircle him about, And Fairy-like to pinch the vncleane Knight ; And aske him why that houre of Fairy Reuell, In their fo facred pathes, he dares to tread In shape prophane.

Ford. And till he tell the truth, Let the supposed Fairies pinch him, sound, And burne him with their Tapers.

Mift. Page. The truth being knowne, We'll all present our selves; dis horne the spirit, And mocke him home to Windfor,

Ford. The children must Be practis'd well to this, or they'il neu'r doo't.

Ena. I will teach the children their behaviours: and I will be like a lacke-an-Apes also, to burne the Knight with my Taber.
Ford. That will be excellent,

He go buy them vizards.

Mish. Page. My Nau shall be the Queene of all the Fairies, finely attired in a robe of white.

Tage. That filke will I go buy, and in that time Shall M. Slender steale my Nan away,

And marry her at Earon : go, fend to Faly affe flraight. Ford Nay, He to him agains in name of Brooms, Hee'l tellme all his purpose: sure hee'l come.

Mif. Page. Feare not you that : Go get vi properties And tricking for our Fayries.

Enani. Let ve about it,

It is admirable pleasures, and ferry honest knaueries. Mis. Page Go Mist. Ford. Send quickly to Sir John, to know his minde s

Ile to the Doctor, he hath my good will, And none but he to marry with Nan Page That Slender (though well landed) is an ideot: And he, my husband best of all affects: The Doctor is well monied, and his friends Potem at Court : he, none but he shall haucher, Though twenty thousand worthier come to craucher.

Scena Quinta.

Enter Hoft, Simple, Faiftaffe, Bardolfe, Enans, Caire, Quickly.

Hoff What wouldst thou have? (Boore) what? (thick skin) fpeake, breathe, difcuffe : breefe, fnort, quicke,

Simp. Marry Sir, I come to speake with Sir Iohn Fal-

Staffe from M. Slender.

Hoft. There's his Chamber, his House, his Castle, his flanding-bed and truckle-bed : 'ri: painted about with the story of the Prodigall, steft and new go, knock and call : hee'l speake like an Anthropophaginian vinto thee : Knocke I fay.

Simp. There's an olde woman, a fat woman gone vp into his chamber: He be fo bold as fray Sir till the come downe : I come to speake with her indeed.

Hoft. Ha? A fat woman? The Knight may be robb'd: Ile call. Bully-Knight, Bully Sir John: Speake from thy Lungs Military: Art thou there? It is thine Hoft, thine Ephelian cals.

Fal: How now, mine Hoft?

Holl. Here's a Bohemian-Tarrar taries the comming downe of thy fat-woman : Let her descend (Bully) let her descend : my Chambers are honourable : Fie, priva-

Fal. There was (mine Hoft) an old-fat-woman euen now with me, but the's gone.

Simp. Pray you Sir, was't not the Wife-woman of Brainford?

Fal. I marry was it (Mussel-shell) what would you with her?

Simp. My Master (Sir) my master Stender, sent to her feelug her go thorough the ffreets to know (Sir) whether one Nim (Sir) that beguil'd him of a chaine, had the chaine, or no.

Fal. I spake with the old woman about it.

Sim. And what fayes the, I pray Sir?
Fal. Marry thee fayes, that the very fame than that beguil'd Master Slender of his Chaine, cozon'd him of it. Simp. I would I could have spoken with the Woman ber

her felfe, I had other things to have spoken with her too, from him.

Fal. What are they flet vs know

Hoft. 1: come: quicke. Fal. I may not conceale them (Sir.) Hoff. Conceale them, or shou di'ft.

Sim. Why fir, they were nothing but about Mistris Anne Page, to know if it were my Masters fortune to haue her, or no.

Fal. 'Tis,'tis his fortune.

Sim. What Sir? Fal. To haue her, or no: goe; fay the woman told me fo.

Sim. May I bisbold to fay fo Sir? Fal. 1 Sir: like who more bold.

Sim. I thanke your worship: I shall make my Master glad with these tydings.

Host. Thou are clearly thou are clearly (Sir John) was there a wife woman with thee?

Fal. I that there was (mine Hoft) one that hath taught me more wir, then cuer I learn'd before in my life : and I paid nothing for it neither, but was paid for my lear-

Bar. Out alas (Sir) cozonage: meere cozonage.
Hoft. Where berry horfest speake well of them varletto.

Bar, Run away with the cozoners: for so soone às I came beyond Eaten, they threw me off, from behinde one of them, in a flough of myre; and fet spurres, and away; like three Germane-diuels; three Dollor Fass-

Hoff. They are gone but to meete the Duke (villaine) doe not fay they be fled : Germanes are honest men, Exon. Where is mine Hoft? Hoft. What is the matter Sir?

Euan. Haue a care of your entertainments : there is a friend of mine come to Towne, tels mee there is three Cozen-Jermans, that has cozend all the Hofts of Readins, of Maidenhead; of Cole-brooke, of horses and money : I tell you for good will (looke you) you are wife, and full of gibes, and viouting-stocks: and 'tis not conucnient you should be cozoned. Fare you well.

Cai. Vet'is mine Hoft de l'arteere? Hoft. Here (Master Dottor) in perplexitie, and doubt-

Cai. I cannot tell vat is dat : but it is tell-a-me, dat you make grand preparation for a Duke de Immanie: by my trot: der isno Duke that the Courcis know, to come : I cell you for good will : adicu.

Hoft. Huy and cry, (villaine) goe : affift me Knight, ! am vndone: fly, run: huy, and cry (villaine) I am vndone.

Fal. I would all the world might be cozond, for I have beene cozond and beaten too: if it should come to the eare of the Court, how I have beene transformed; and how my transformation hath beene washed, and cudgeld, they would mele mee out of my fat drop by drop, and liquor Fishermens-boots with me: I warrant they would whip me with their fine wits, till I were as crest-falne as a dride-peare : I neuer prosper'd, since I forswore my selfe at Primero: well, if my winde were busiong enough; I would repent: Now? Whence come MON ?

Qui. From the two parties for footh.

Fal. The Diuelt take one partie, and his Dam the other: and so they shall be both bestowed; I have suffer'd more for their fakes; more then the villanous inconstancy of mane disposition is able to beare.

Qui. And have not they fuffer'd? Yes, I warrantsfeeciously one of them; Mistris Ford (good heart) is beaten blacke and blew, that you cannot fee a white spot about

Fal. What tell'st thou mee of blacke, and blew? I was beaten my felte into all the colours of the Rainebow: and I was like to be apprehended for the Witch of Braineford, but that my admirable dexteritie of wir. my counterfeiting the action of an old woman deliuer'd me, the knaue Constable had set me ith' Stocks, ith' common Stocks, for a Witch.

Qu, Sir : let me speake with you in your Chamber, you shall heare how things goe, and (I warrant) to your content: here is a Letter will fay somewhat ! (goodhearts) what a-doe here is to bring you together? Sure, one of you do's not ferue heaven well, that you are fo

Fal. Come vp into my Chamber.

Exemms.

Scena Sexta.

Enter Fenton, Hoft.

Hoft. Master Fenton, talke not to mee, my minde is heauy: I will give over all,

Fen. Yet heare me speake : assist me in my purpose, And (as I am a gentleman) ile give thee A hundred pound in gold, more then your loffe.

Hoft. I will heare you (Mafter Fenton) and I will (at the least) keepe your counsell.

Fen. From time to time, I have acquainted you With the deare love I beare to faire Anne Page, Who, mutually, hath answer'd my affection, (So farce forth, as her selfe might be her chooser) Even to my wish; I have a letter from her Of fuch contents, as you will wonder at; The mirth whereof, to larded with my matter, That neither (fingly) can be manifefied Without the thew of both : fat Falft affe Hath a great Scene; the image of the iest lle show you here at large (harke good mine Host:)
To night at Hernes-Oke, just 'twixt twelve and one, Must my sweet Nan present the Faeris- Queene; The purpole why, is here : in which difguife VVhile other lefts are something ranke on foote, Her father hash commanded her to flip Away with Stender, and with him, at Eaton Immediately to Marry : She hath confented : Now Sir, Her Mother, (euen strong against that match And firme for Doctor Caius) hath appointed That he shall likewise shuffle her away, While other sports are tasking of their mindes, And at the Dearry, where a Prioft attenda Strait marry her: to this her Mothers ploc She seemingly obedient) likewise hath Made promile to the Doller : Now, thus it refts, Her Father meanes she shall be all in white; And in that habit, when Slender fees his time To take her by the hand, and hid her goe, She shall goe with him: her Mothet hath intended (The better to devote her to the Doller; For they must all be mask'd, and vizarded)

That

That quaint in greene, the shall be loose en-roab'd, With Ribonds-pendant, flating bout her head; And when the Doctor spies his vantage ripe. To pinch her by the hand, and on that token, The maid hath given content to go with him.

Hoff. Which meaner the to deceive? Father, or Mo-

Fen. Both (my good Hoft) to go slong with mc: And heere it refts, that you'l procure the Vicar To flay for me at Church, twiat twelue, and one, And in the law full name of marrying, To give our hearts waited teremony.

Hoft. Well, husband your device; lle to the Vicar, Bring you the Maid, you shall not lacke a Priest.

Fen. So shall I enermore be bound to thee; Besides, lle make a present recompence. Exemp Allus Quintus. Scana Prima.

Enter Falfroffe, Quickly, and Ford

Fal. Prethee no more practing : go, He hold, this is the third time: I hope good lucke lies in odde numbers: Away, go, they say there is Divinity in odde Numbers, either in natinity, chance; or death: away.

Qui. lle prouide you a chaine, and lle do what I can to get you a paire of hornes.

Fall. Away I say, time weares, hold up your head & mince. How now M. Braome ! Maker Brooms, the matter will be knowne to night, or never. Bee you in the Parke about midnight, at Hernes-Oake, and you shail see wonders.

Ford. Went you not to her gesterday (Sir) as you told me you had appointed?

Fal. I went to her (Master Breense) as you fee, like a poore-old-man, but I came from her (Mafter Brooms) like a poore-old-woman; that fame knaue (Ford hir hufband) hath the finest mad divell of lealouse in him (Ma-(tet Broome) that ever govern'd Frensie. I will tell you, he beate me greeuoully, in the chape of a woman: (for in the shape of Man (Master Broome) I feare not Goliah with a Weauers beame, because I know also, life is a Shuttle) I am in haft, go along with mee, Ile tell you all (Master Broome:) since I pluckt Geele, plaide Trewant, and whipt Top, I knew not what 'twas to be beaten, till lately. Follow mee, Ile tell you ftrange things of this knaue Ford, on whom to night I will be revenged, and I will deliuer his wife into your hand . Follow, ftraunge things in hand (M. Broome) follow.

Scena Secunda.

Enter Page, Shallow, Sleuder.

Page. Come, come : wee'll couch i'th Cafile-dirch, till we fee the light of our Fairies. Remember fon Slender, my Slen. I forfooth, I have spoke with her, & we have anay-word, how to know one another. I come to her in white, and cry Mum; the cries Budget, and by that Shal. That's good too ! But whatteder cither your Mum, or her Budget? The white will decipher her wall enough. It hath Prooketen a clocke.

Page. The night is darke, Light and Spirits will become it well: Heaven profeer our sport. No man means euill but the deuill, and we shal know him by his horner. Lets away : follow me.

Scena Terria.

Exter Mift. Page, M. A. Ford, Cours.

Mist. Page. Mr Doctor, my daughter is in green, when you fee your time, take her by the hand, away with her to the Desnerie, and dispatchis quickly : go beforeinto the Parker we two must go together.

Car. I know yat I haue to do, adieu.

Mist Page, Fare you well (Sir.) my husband will not reioyce so much at the abuse of Fall affe, as he will chase at the Doctors marrying my daughter : But 'tis no matter; better a little chiding, then a great deale of heartbreake.

Mist. Ford. Where is Nor now? and her troop of Far-ries? and the Welch-deuill Herne?

Mill. Page. They are all couch'd in a pit hard by Herces Oake, with object'd Lights; which at the very inflant of Faiftaffes and our meeting they will at once display to Mift. Ford. That eannot choose but amaze him.

Mist. Page. If he be not amaz'd he will be mock'd: If he be amaz'd, he will every way be mock'd.

Mist. Ford. Wee'll betray him finely.

Mist. Page. Against such Lewdsters, and their lecbery, Those that betray them, do no treachery.

Mif. Ford. The house drawes-on : to the Oake, to the Oake. Exeums.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Enans and Fairies.

Emans. Trib, trib Fairies: Come, and remember your parts: be pold (I pray you) follow me into the pit, and when I give the watch-ords, do as I pid you : Come, come, trib, trib. Excent:

Scena Quinta.

Enter Falfaffe, Miftris Page, Mittris Ford, Essu, Anne Page, Fairies, Page, Ford, Quitty, Slender, Fenton, Carne, Pistoll.

Fal. The Windfor-bell hath stroke twelve: the Minute drawes-on: Now the hot-bloodied-Gods affift me: Remember love, thou was't a Bull for thy Europa, Loue fet on thy hornes. O powerfull Love. that in some respects makes a Beast a Man : in som other, a Man a beast. You were also (Iupiter) a Swan, for the love of Leda: O omnipotent

omnipotent Loue, how nere the God drew to the complexion of a Goole: a fault done first in the forme of : beaft, (O loue, a beaftly fault:) and then another fault in the lemblance of a Fowle, thinke on't (Ioue) a fowlefault. When Gods haue hot backes, what shall poore men do? For me, I am heere a Windfor Stagge, and the fattelt (I thinke) i'th Fortelt. Send me a coole tut-time (Iouc) or who can blame me to pisse my Tallow? Who comes heere? my Doe?

CM. Ford Sir lobu? Art thou there (my Decre?)

My male-Deere?

Fal. My Doe, with the blacke Scut? Let the skie raine Potatoes : let it thunder, to the tune of Greenefleeves, haile-kiffing Comfits, and fnow Eringoes: Ler there come a tempest of provocation, I will shelter mee

M. Ford. Mistrls Page is come with me (sweet hart.) Fal. Diulde me like a brib'd-Bucke, each a Haunch : I will keepe my fides to my felfe, my shoulders for the fellow of this walke; and my hornes I bequeath your husbands: Am I a Woodman, ha? Speake I like Herne the Hunter? Why, now is Cupid a child of conscience, he makes restitution. As I am a true spirit, welcome.

M. Page. Alas, what noise?

M. Ford. Heaven forglue out sinnes. Fal. What should this be?

M. Ford. M. Page. Away, away.
Fal. I thinke the divell wil not have medamn'd, Least the oyle that's in me should fer hell on fire; He would neuer else crosse me thus. Enter Fairies.

Qui. Pairies blacke, gray, greene, and white, You Moone - shine reuellers, and shades of night. You Orphan helres of fixed destiny, Attend your office, and your quality.

Crier Hob-goblyn, make the Pairy Oyes.

Pift. Elues, lift your names : Silence you alery toyes Cricket, to Windfor-chimnies shalt thou leape Where fires thou find'st vprak'd, and hearths vnswept, There pinch the Maids as blew as Bill-berry, Our radiant Queene, hates Sluts, and Sluttery.

Fal. They are Fairies, he that speaks to them shall die, Ile winke, and couch: No man their workes must eie.

En. Wher's Bede? Go you, and where you find a maid That ere the fleepe has thrice her prayers faid, Ralle vp the Organs of her fantalie, Sleepe the as found as earcleffe infancie, But those as sleepe, and thinke not on their fins, Pineh them armes, legs, backes, shoulders, sides, & shins.

Qu. About, about Search Windfor Castle (Elues) within, and out. Strew good lucke (Ouphes) on every facred roome, That it may stand till the perpetuall doome, In stare as wholsome, as in state 'tis fit, Worthy the Owner, and the Owner it. The feuerall Chaires of Order, looke you fcowre With luyce of Balme; and enery precious flowre, Each faire Instalment, Coate, and seu'rall Crest, Withloyall Blazon, euermore be bleft. And Nightly-meadow-Fairies, looke you fing Like to the Garters-Compasse, in a ring, Th'expressure that it beares: Greene let It be, More fertile-fresh then all the Field to see: And, Hony Soit Qui Mal-y. Pence, write In Emrold-tuffes, Flowres purple, blew, and white, Like Saphire-pearle, and rich embroiderie, Buckled below faire Knight-hoods bending kneed Fairies vse Flowres for their characterie. Away, disperse: But till 'tis one a clocke, Our Dance of Custome, round about the Oke Of Home the Hunter, let vs not forget.

Enan. Pray you lock hand in hand: your feldes in order And twenty glow-wormes shall our Lanthornes bee To guide our Measure round about the Tree. Eut flay, I fmell a man of middle earth.

Fal. Heeuens defend me from that Welfh Fairy, Least he transforme me to a peece of Cheese.

Pift. Vilde worme, thou wast ore-look'd even in thy

Qu. With Triall-fire touch me his finger end; If he be chafte, the flame will backe descend And turne him to no paine : but if he ftart, It is the flesh of a corrupted hart.

Pift. A triall, come.

Eua. Come: will this wood take fire? Fal. Oh, oh, oh.

Qui. Corrupt, corrupt, and tainted in delire. About him (Fairies) fing a fcornfull rime, And as you trip, still pinch him to your time.

The Song. Fix on sinnefull phaneasie: Fie on Lust, and Luxurie: Lust us but a bloudy fire, kindled with enchaste defire;

Fed in heart whose stames affire, As thoughts do blow them higher and higher. Pinch him (Farries) musually : Pinch him for his villanie. Pinch him, and burne bim, and turne him about, Till Candles, & Star-light, & Moone-Shine be out.

Page. Nay do not flye, I thinke we have watcht you VVill none but Herne the Hunter serue your now: turne?

M. Page. I pray you come, hold vp the iest no highes. Now (good Sir John) how like you windfor wives? See you these husband? Do not these faire yoakes Become the Forrest better then the Towne?

Ford. Now Sir, whose & Cuckold now? M. Broome, Falstaffes a Knaue, a Cuckoldly knaue, Heere are his hornes Master Broome: And Mafter Broome, he hath enjoyed nothing of Forels, but his Buck-basket, his cudgell, and twenty pounds of money, which must be paid to Mr Brooms, his horses are arrested for it. M. Broome. M. Ford. Six lobn, we have had ill lucke : wee could neuer meete: I will neuertake you for my Loue againe, but I will alwayes count you my Deere.

Fal. I do begin to perceive that I am made an Asse. Fard. 1, and an Oxe too: both the proofes are ex-

Fal. And these are not Fairles:

I was three or foure times in the thought they were not Fairies, and yet the guiltinesse of my minde, the sodaine surprize of my powers, droue the groffenesse of the foppery Into a receiu'd beleefe, in despight of the reeth of all rime and reason, that they were Fairies. See now how wit may be made a lacke-a-Lent, when 'tis vpon ill imployment.

Euant. Sit Iohn Falstaffe, serue Got, and leave your desires, and Fairies will not pinse you.

Ford. VVell faid Fairy Hugh.

Enans. And leave you your lealouzies too, 1 pray

Ford

Ford I will never mistrust my wife againe, till those art able to woo her In good English.

Fal. Have I laid my braine in the Sun, and dri'de it, that it wants matter to prouent fo groffe ore-reaching as this? Am Tridden with a Welch Goate too! Shal I have a Coxcombe of Frize? Tis time I were chosk'd with a peece of toalled Cheele.

En. Scele is not good to grue putter; your belly is al

Fal. Seele, and Putter? Haue Iliu'd to fand at the taunt of one that makes Fritters of English ? This is enough to be the decay of lust and late-walking through the Realme.

Mist. Page. Why Sie loka, do you thinke though wee would have thrust vertue out of our hearts by the head end shoulders, and have given our felues without seruple to hell, that ever the deuill could have made you our Ford. What, a hodge-pudding? A bag of fiex?

Mift. Page. A pufumon?

Page. Old, cold. wither'd, and of intollerable en-

Forde And one that is as flanderous as Sathan?

Page. And as poore as lob?

Ford. And as wicked as his wife?

Eurn. And given to Fornications, and to Tauernes, and Sacke, and Wine, and Metheglins, and to drinkings and Iwearings, and Starings? Pribles and prables?

Fal. Woll, I am your Theame : you have the flart of me, I am deiected : I am not able to answer the Welch Flannell , Ignorance it selfe is a plummet ore me, vie me as you will. Ford. Marry Sir, weel bring you to Windforto one Mr Browne, that you have cozon'd of money, to whom you should have bin a Pander : ouer and about that you haue fuffer'd, I thinke, to repay that money will be a biting affliction.

Page. Yet be cheerefoll Knight: thou shalt est a poffee to night at my house, wher I will defire thee to laugh at my wife, that now laugher at thee : Tell her M. Sleader hath married her daughter.

Mif. Page. Doctors doubt that ; If Aune Page be my daughter, she is (by this) Doctour Cause wife.

Slen. Whos hoe, hoe, Father Page.

Page. Sonne? How now? How now Sonne,

Haue you dispatch'd?

Slew. Disparch'd? He make the best in Glostershire know on'c: would I were hang'd la, else.

Page. Of what fonne?
Shun. I came yonder at Easter to marry Mistris Anne Page, and the's a great lubberly boy. If it had not bene i'th Church, I would have fwing'd him, or hee should haue swing'd me. If I did not thinke it had beene Anne Page, would I might neuer stirre, and 'tis a Post-masters Boy.

Page. Vpon my life then, you tooke the wrong. Sim. What neede you tell me that? I think to, when I tooke a Boy for a Girle: If I had bene married to him, (for all he was in womans apparrell) I would not have had him.

Fage. Why this is your owne felly,

Did not I tell you how you should know my daughter, By her garments?

Sten. I went to her in greene, and cried Mum, and The cride budget, as Ame and I had appointed, and yes it was not Ame, but a Post-masters boy Mill Page. Good George be not angry , I knew of your purpole : euen'd my daughter muo where, and indeede the is now with the Doctor at the Deantie, and there married.

Cas. Ver is Mistris Page: by gar I am cozoned. I ha married oon Garloon, a boy; our pelant, by gar. A boy, it is not An Page, by gar, I am cozened.

M. Page, VVby? did you cake her in white?

Cai. I bee gar, and 'tisa boy: be gar, Ile raile all Windsor.

Ford. This is strange: Who hath got the right Aent? Page. My heart milgiues me, here comes M' Fraton. How now M' Fenton?

Ame Pardon good father, good my mother pardon Page. Now Millers:

How chance you went not with Mr Skender?

M. Page. Why went you not with Mr Doctor, maid?

Fm. You do amaze her: heare the truth of it.

You would have married her most shamefully, Where there was no proportion held in loue: The cruth is, the and I (long fince contracted) Are now to forether nothing can diffolue vs Th'offence is holy, that she hath committed, And this deceit looses the name of crafts Of disobedience, or vaduteous title. Since therein the doth enitate and thun A thousand irreligious curled houres

Which forced marriage would have brought spouher. Ford. Stand not amaz'd, here is no zemedie: In Love, the heavens themselves do guide the state, Money buyes Landa, and wives are fold by fate.

Fal. I am glad, though you have tane a special stand to frike at me, that your Arrow hath glane'd Page. Well, what remedy? Fenton, heaven grue thee ioy, what caonot be eschew'd, must be embrac'd.

Fal. When night-dogges run, all forts of Decre are chae'd.

Mift Page. Well, I will muse no forther : M' Featon, Heauen give you many, many merry dayes: Good husband, let vs every one go home, And laugh this sport ore by a Countrie fire Sir lobe and all.

Pord. Let it be fo (Sit lebri)

To Master Broome, you yet shall hold your word, For he, to night, shall lye with Mistris Ford. Extent MEASVRE, For Measure.

A Elus primus, Scena prima.

Enter Duke, Efcalus, Lords.

Duke.

Scalu.

Efc. My Lord. (fold,

Duk. Of Gouernment, the properties to vnWould sceme in me t'affect speec. & discourse,

Since I am put to know, that your owne Science Exceedes (in that) the lifts of all advice My firength can give you: Then no more remaines But that, to your sufficiency, as your worth is able, And let them worke : The nature of our People, Our Cities Institutions, and the Termes For Common Iustice, y'are as pregnant in As Art, and practife, hath inriched any That we remember : There is our Commission, From which, we would not have you warpe; call hither, I fay, bid come before vs Angelo : What figure of vs thinke you, he will beare. For you must know, we have with speciall soule Elected him our absence to supply; Lent him our terror, dreft him with our loue, And given his Deputation all the Organs Of our owne powre: What thinke you of it? Esc. If any in Vienna be of worth

To vindetgoe such ample grace, and honour, It is Lord Angelo.

Enter Angelo.

Duk. Looke where he comes.

Ang. Alwayes obedient to your Graces will,
I come to know your pleafure.

Duke. Angelo:
There is a kinde of Character in thy life,
That to th'observer, doth thy history
Fully vnfold: Thy selfe, and thy belongings
Are not thine owne so proper, as to waste
Thy selfe vpon thy vertues; they on thee.
Heaven doth with vs, as we, with Torches doe,
Not light them for themselves: For if our vertues
Did not goe forth of vs, 'twere all alike
As if we had them not i Spirits are not finely tonch'd
But to sinciflues: nor nature never lends
The smallest scruple of her excellence,
But like athrifty goddesse, the determines
Her selfe the glory of a creditour,
Both thanks, and vse; but I do bend my speech

To one that can my part in him aductife; Hold therefore Angelo:
In our remoue, be thou at full, our felfe:
Mortallitie and Mercie in Vienna
Liue in thy tongue, and heart: Old Efealue
Though first in question, is thy secondary.
Take thy Commission.

Ang. Now good my Lord
Let there be fome more test, made of my mettle,
Before so noble, and so great a figure
Be stamp't upon it.

Dak. No more euasion:
We have with a leaven'd, and prepated choice
Proceeded to you; therefore take your honors:
Our haste from hence is of so quicke condition,
That it prefers is felse, and leaves vnquestion'd
Matters of needfull value: We shall write to you
Assime, and our concernings shall Importune,
How it goes with vs, and doe looke to know
What doth befall you here. So fare you well;
To th' hopefull execution doe I leave you,
Of your Commissions.

Of your Commissions,

Ang. Yet give leave (my Lord,)

That we may bring you something on the way.

Duk, My hastemay not admit it,
Nor neede you (on mine honor) haue to doe
With any scruple: your scope is as mine owne,
So to inforce, or qualifie the Lawes
As to your soule seemes good: Giue me your hand,
Ile priusly away: I loue the people,
But doe not like to stage me to their eyes:
Though it doe well, I doe not rellish well
Their lowd applause, and Aues vehement:
Nor doe I thinke the man of safe discretion
That do's affect it. Once more fare you well.

Ang. The heavens give safety to your purposes.

Esc. Lead forth, and bring you backe in happinesse.

Exis.

Duk. I thanke you, fare you well, Esc. I shall defire you, Sir, to give me leave To have free speech with you; and it concernes me To looke into the bottome of my place: A powre I have, but of what strength and nature, I am not yet instructed.

Ang. Tis so with me: Let vs with-draw together,
And we may soone our satisfaction have Touching that point,

Esc. Ile wait vpon yout honor.

Exeunt.
Scana

Scena Secunda.

Enter Lucio, and two other Gentlemen.

Luc. If the Duke, with the other Dukes, come not to composition with the King of Hungary, why then all the Dukes fall vpon the King.

1. Gent. Heauen grant vaits peace, but not the King of Hungaries.

2.Gent. Amen.

Luc. Thou conclud'st like the Sanctimonious Pirat, that went to sea with the ten Commandements, but scrap'd one out of the Table.

2. Gent. Thou shalt not Steale?

Luc. 1, that he raz'd.

1. Gent. Why? ewas a commandement, to command the Captaine and all the rest from their functions: they put forth to ficale: There's not a Souldier of vsall, that in the thanki-giving before meate, do rallish the petition well, that praies for peace.

2. Gent. I neuer heard any Souldier diflike it.

Lwc. I beleeue thee : for I thinke thou never was't where Grace was faid.

2. Gent. No? a dozen times at least.

I. Gent. What ? In meeter?

Luc. In any proportion, or in any language.

1. Genr. Ithinke, or in any Religion.

Luc. I, why not ? Grace, is Grace, despight of all controugelie: as for example; Thou thy felle are a wicked villaine, despight of all Grace.

1. Gent. Well: there went but apaire of Theeres betweenevs.

Luc. I grant: as there may betweene the Lists, and the Veluet. Thou art the Lift.

1. Gen:. And thou the Veluet; thou are good veluct; thou'rt a three pild-peece I warrant thee : I had as liefe be a Lyst of an English Kersey, as be pil'd, as thou art pil'd, for a French Veluet. Do I speake feelingly now!

Luc. I thinke thou do'ft : and indeed with most painfull feeling of thy speech : I will, out of thine owne confession, leame to begin thy health; bur, while I live forget to drinke after thee.

1. Gen. I think I have done my felfe wrong, have I not? 2. Gent. Yes, that thou half; whether thou are tainted, or free. Enter Bawde

Luc, Behold, behold, where Madam Mitigation comes, I have purchas d as many diseases vader her Roofe. Ascemeto

2. Gent. To what, I pray?

Luc. Iudge.

2. Gent. To three thousand Dollours a yeare,

I.Gent. I, and more.

Lsc. A French crowne more.

I. Gost. Thou are alwayes figuring difeafes in me; but thou art full of error, lam found.

Luc. Nay, not (as one would fay) healthy: but fo found, as things that are hollow; thy bones are hollow; Impiety has made a feast of thee.

1. Gent. How now, which of your hips has the mest

Band. Well, well: there's one yonder arrefled, and carried to prilon, was worth fine thousand of you all.

2. Gent. Who's that I pray thee?

Barrd. Marry Sir, that's Claudio, Signior Claudio.

s. Gent. Claudio to prison ? tis not lo.

Board. Nay, but I know 'tis fo : I faw him arrested: faw him carried away , and which is more, within thefe three daies his head to be chop'd off.

Luc. But, after all this fooling, I would not have it for Att thou fure of this?

Band, I am too fure of it: and it is for getting Medem Julierra with childe.

Luc. Beleeve me this may be the promised to meete me two howtes fince, and he was ever precile in promile

2. Cent. Besides you know, it drawes somthing neese to the speech we had to such a purpose.

1. Gent. But most of all agreeing with the proclamatio. Luc. Aways let's goe learne the truth of ir. Band. Thus, what with the war; what with the Iwest, what with the gallowes, and what with pouerty, I am Custom-shrunke. Hownow? what's the newes with Enter Clowne.

Clo. Yonder man is carried to prilon.

Bay. Well: what has he done?

Clo. A Woman.

Baw. But what's his offence?

Clo. Groping for Trowts, in a peculiar River. Baw. What? is there a maid with child by him?

Clo. No : but there's a woman with maid by him: you have not heard of the proclamation, have you?

Baw. What proclamation, man?

Clow. All howses in the Suburbs of Firms mult bee pluck'd downe.

Band, And what shall become of chose in the Citie? Clow. They shall stand for seed they had gon down to, but that a wife Burger put in for them

Band. But shall all our bouses of resort in the Suburbs be puld downe?

Clow. To the ground, Miffris.

Band. Why heere's a change indeed in the Commonwealth; what shall become of me?

Clow. Come : seare not you: good Counsellets lacke no Clients: though you change your place, you neede not change your Trade: Ile bee your Tapster still; courage, there will bee pitty taken on you; you that have worne your eyes almost out in the service, you will bee considered.

Bawd What's to doe heere, Thomas Papster i let's withdraw?

Clo. Here comes Signior Claudio, led by the Prouoft to prison: and there's Madam Iulier. Exount.

Scena Tertia.

Enter Prouost, Claudie, Iulier, Officers, Lucio & 2. Gent. Cla. Fellow, why do'ft thou fnow me thus to th'world Beare me to prison, where I am committed.

Pro. I do it not in euill disposition,

But from Lord Angelo by speciall charge. Clau, Thus can the demy-god (Authority) Make vs pay downe, for our offence, by waight The words of heaven; on whom it will, it will,

On whom it will not (soe) yet fill tis inft. (straint, Luc, Why how now Claudio t whence comes this tecls. From too much liberty, (my L cio) Liberty As surfet is the father of much fart,

So every Scope by the immoderate vie Turnes to refersint : Our Natures dee pursue

Like

Like Rats that rauyn downe their proper Bane, A thirfly cuill, and when we drinke, we die.

Luc. If I could speake so wisely under an arrest, I would send for certaine of my Creditors: and yet, to say the truth, I had as lief haue the soppery of freedome, as the mortality of imprisonment: what's thy offence, Claudio?

(la. What (but to speake of) would offend againe.

Luc. What, is't murder?

Cla. No.

Luc. Lecherie?

Cla. Call it fo,

Pro. Away, Sit, you must goe.

Cla. One word, good friend

Lucio, a word with you. Luc. A hundred:

If they'll doe you any good: Is Lechery to look'd after?
Cla. Thus stands it with me: vpop a true contract

Cla. Thus stands it with me: vpon a true control of the post of the post of the control of the post of the control of the post of the control of the control

Luc. With childe, perhaps?
Cla. Vnhappely, euen fo.
And the new Deputie, now for the Duke,
Whether it be the fault and glimpfe of newnes
Or whether that the body publique, be
A horse whereon the Gouernot doth ride,
Who newly in the Seate, that it may know
He can command; lets it strait seele the spur:
Whether the Tirranny be in his place,
Or in his Eminence that fills it vp
Istagger in: But this new Gouernor
Awakes me all the inrolled penalties
Which haue (like vn-scowr'd Armor) hung by th'wall
So long, that ninteene Zodiacks have gone round,
And none of them beene worne; and for a name

Now puts the drowfie and neglected Act

Freshly on me: 'tis surely for a name.

LNG. I warrant it is: And thy head flands so tickle on thy shoulders, that a milke-maid, if she be in lone, may sight to ff: Send after the Duke, and appeale to him.

Cla. I have done fo, but hee's not to be found.

I pre'mee (Lucio) doe me this kinde feruice:
This day, my fifter should the Cloyster enter.
And there receive her approbation.

Acquaint her with the danger of my state,
Implore her, in my voice, that the make friends
To the strict deputie: bid her felse as y him,
I have great hope in that: for in her youth
There is a prone and speechlesse diales,
Such as move men: beside, she hath prosperous Are
When she will play with reason, and discourse,
And well she can perswade.

I'm. I pray thee may; as well for the encouragement of the like, which else would ftand under greenous imposition: as for the enioying of thy life, who I would be forty should be thus foolishly loft, at a game of ticketacke: Ile to her.

Cla. I thanke you good friend Lucio.

Luc. Within two houres.

Exempt.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Duke and Frier Thomas.

Duk: No: holy Father, throw away that thought, Beleeue not that the dribling dart of Loue

Can pierce a compleat bosome: why, I desire thee

To give meseret harbour, hath a purpose

More grave, and wrinkled, then the aimes, and ends

Of burning youth.

Fri. May your Grace speake of it?

Duh, My holy Sir, none better knowes then you
How I have ever lov'd the life removed
And held in idle price, to havne affemblica
Where youth, and cost, whilesse bravery keepes.
I have delivered to Lord Angelo
(A man of stricture and sirme abstinence)
My absolute power, and place here in Vienna,
And he supposes me travaild to Poland,
(For so I have strewd it in the common ease)
And so it is received. Now (pious Sir)
You will demand of me, why I do this.

Tri. Gladly, my Lord.

Duk. We have strict Statutes, and most biting Laws, (The needfull bits and curbes to headstrong weedes,) Which for this foureteene yeares, we have let slip Even like an ore-growne Lyon in a Cave That goes not out to prey: Now, as fond Fathers, Having bound vp the threatning twigs of birch, Onely to sticke it in their childrens fight For terror, not to vse: in time the rod More mock'd, then sear'd: so our Decrees, Dead to institution, to themselves are dead.

And libertie, plucks Instice by the nose; The Baby beates the Nurse, and quite ashware Goes all decours.

Fri. It rested in your Grace
To valoose this tyde-vp Iustice, when you pleased:
And it in you more dreadfull would have seem'd
Then in Lord Angelo.

Dak. I doe feare : too dreadfull : Sith'twas my fault, to give the people scope, 'T would be my tirrany to firike and gall them, For what I bid them doe: For, we bid this be done When euill deedes have their permissive passe, And not the punishment : therefore indeede (my father) I have on Angelo impos'd the office, Who may in th'ambush of my name, firike home, And yet, my nature neuer in the fight Todo in flander: And to behold his fway I will, as 'twere a brother of your Order, Visit both Prince, and People: Therefore I pre'thee Supply me with the habit, and inftruct me How I may formally in person beare Like a true Frier: Moe reasons for this action At our more leyfure, shall I render you; Onely, this one : Lord Angelo is precise, Stands at a guard with Enuie : scarce confesses That his blood flowes: or that his appetite Is more to bread then stone a hence shall we see If power change purpole: what our Seemers be,

EXIV. Scona

E.

Scena Quinta.

Enter Isabell and Francisco a Nun.

Ifa. And have you News no farther priviledges? Num. Are not thefe large enough?

1/a. Yes truely; I speake not as deliring more, But rather wishing a more strick restraine Vpon the Sifterstood, the Votarists of Saint Clare. Lucio wither.

Luc. Hos? peace be in the place. Ifa: Who's that which cals?

Nun. It is a mans voice : gentle Isabella Turne you the key, and know his bufinesse of him; You may; I may not : you are yet vn fworne; When you have vowd, you must not speake with men, But in the presence of the Prioreste; Then If you speake, you must not show your face, Or if you show your face, you must not speake: He cals againe: I pray you auswere him.

If a. Peace and prosperitie: who is'e that cals?

Lue. Haile Virgin, (if you be) as those cheeke-Roses Proclaime you are no lesse: can you so steed me. As bring me to the light of Ifabella, A Nouice of this place, and the faire Sifter To her unhappie brother Claudo?

114. Why ber vahappy Brother Let me aske, The rather for I now must make you know I am that Ifabella, and his Silter.

Luc. Gentle & faire: your Brother kindly greete you; Not to be westy with you; he's imprison.

Ifa Woeme; for what?

Luc. For that, which if my felfe might be his ludge, He should receive his punishment, in thankes: He hash got his friend with childe.

1/4 Sir, make me not your forie. Lier. Tis true; I would not, though tis my familiar fin, With Maids to feeme the Lapwing, and to left Tongue, far from heart; play with all Virgins for I hold you as a thing co-skied, and Isinted, By your renouncement, an imortall spirit And to be talk'd with in fincerity, As with a Saint.

Ifa. You doe blaspheme the good, in mocking me. Lie. Doe not beleeue it : fewner, and truth; tis thus, Your brother, and his louer have embrac'd; As those that feed, grow full as blossoming Time That from the Redues, the bare fallow brings To seeming foyfon: even to her plenteous wombe Expresses his full Tilth, and husbandry.

If a. Some one wish childe by him? my colen lelin?

Low Is the your colen?

Ifa. Adoptedly, as schoole-maids change their names By vaine, though apt affection.

Lec. Sheirs. Isa Oh, let him marry her. Lue. This is the point.

The Duke is very firangely gone from hence; Bore many gendemen (my felfe being one) In hand, and hope of a ction: but we doe learne, By those that know the very Nerves of State, His giving-out, were of an infinite diffance From his true meant deligne: vpon his place,

(And with full line of his sothocury) Governes Lord Angelo; Amen, whole blood Is very know-broth some, who never feeles The wanton flugs, and motions of the fence; But doth rebate, and blunt his parutall edge With profits of the minde . Studie, and fait He (to give feare to vie and libertie,
Which have, for long, run- by the hideous law,
As Myce, by Lyons) hath pickt out an act.
Vinder whole heavy fence, your brothers life
Falsinto forfest: he arrests him on it. And follower close the rigor of the Statute To make him an example : all hope is gone, Vnlesse you have the grace, by your faire praier To fosten Angelo: And that's my puth of busineste Twixt you, and your poore brother.

Isa Doth he lo, Steke his hie?

Luc. Has census'd him stready, And as I heare, the Prouott bath a warrant For's execution

Ifa. Alss: what poore Abilitie's in me, to doe him good. Luc. Allay the powre you have. Ifa. My power? alas, I doubt. Luc. Our doubts are traitors

And makes va loose the good we oft might wic, By fearing to attempt: Goe to Lord Angelo And let bim learne to know, when Maidens fue Men give like gods: but when they weepe and kneele, All their petitions, are as freely theirs As they themselves would owe them.

Ifa. Ile fee what I can doe. Luc Butspeedily. No longer staying, but to give the Mother Notice of my affaire: I humbly thanke you : Commend me to my brother : foone at night He fend him certaine word of my facceste, Luc. I take my leave of you. Isa. Good fir, adieu.

Exten

Adus Secundus. Scana Prima.

Enter Angelo, Escalsu, and servents, luftice. Ang. We must not make a scar-crow of the Law, Setting u vp to feare the Birds of prey, And let it keepe one shape, till custome make is Their pearch, and not their terror.

Esc. 1, but yet

Let vs be keene, and rather cut a little Then fall, and bruise to death: alas, this gentleman Whom I would faue, had a most noble father, Let but your bonout know (Whom I beleeve to be most firait in vertue) That in the working of your owne affections, Had time coheard with Place, or place with wishing, Or that the resolute acting of our blood Could have attaind th'effect of your owne purpose, Whether you had not sometime in your life. Er'd in this point, which now you censure him, And puld the Law vpon you,

Ang. Tis one thing to be tempted (Efacter)

Another

Another thing to tall : I not deny The Iury passing on the Prisoners life May in the sworne-twelue have a thiefe, or two Guiltler then him they try; what's open made to lustice, That Iustice ceizes; What knowes the Lawes That theeues do paffe on theeues? Tis very pregnant, The Iewell that we finde, we floope, and take't, Because we see it; but what we doe not see. We tread vpon, and neuer thinke of it. Yournay not so extenuate his oftence, For I have liad fuch faults; but rather tell me When I, that censure him, do so offend, Let mine owne ludgement patterne out my death, And nothing come in partiall. Sir, he must dye. Enter Pronoft.

Efc. Beit as your wiscdome will. Ang. Where is the Pronoft? Pro. Here if it like your honour.

Ang. Seethar Claudio

Be executed by nine to morrow morning, Bring him his Confessor, let him be prepar'd, For that's the vimost of his pilgrimage.

Esc. Well: heaven forgive him; and forgive vs all: Some rife by finne, and fome by vertue fall: Some run from brakes of Ice, and answere none, And some condemned for a fault alone.

Enter Elbow, Froth, Clowne, Officers.

Elb. Come, bring them away : if these be good penple in a Common-weale, that doe nothing but vie their abuses in common houses, I know no law : bring them

Ang. How now Sir, what's your name? And what's

Elb. If it please your honour, I am the poure Dukes Constable, and my name is Elbow; I doe leane vpon lu-Rice Sir, and doe bring in here before your good honor, two notorious Benefactors.

Ang. Benefactors? Well: What Benefactors are they?

Are they nor Malcfactors?

Elb. If it please your honour, I know not well what they are: But precise villaines they are, that I am sure of. and void of all prophanation in the world, that good Christians ought to have.

Efc. This comes off well : here's a wife Officer.

Ang. Goeto: What quality are they of & Elbow is your name?
Why do Ribou not speake Eibow?

Clo. He cannot Sit: he's out at Elbow.

Ang. What are you Sir?

Elb. He Sir: a Tapster Sir: parcell Baud: one that ferues a bad woman: whose house Sir was (as they say) pluckt downe in the Suborbs: and now shee professes a hot-house; which, I thinke is a very ill house too.

Esc. How know you that?

Elb. My wife Sit? whom I detest before heaven, and your honour.

Elc. How? thy wife?

Elb. I Sir: whom I thanke heaven is an honelt wo-

Efc. Do'ft thou deteft her therefore?

Elb. I say fir, I will detest my selfe also, as well as she, that this house, if it be not a Bauds house, it is pitty of het life, for it is a naughty house.

Efe, How do'ft thou know that, Confiable?

Elb. Marry fir, by my wife, who, if the had bin a woman Cardinally given, might have bin accus'd in fornieation, adultery, and all vncleanlinesse there.

Efc. By the womans meanes?

Elb. I fir, by Mistris Ouer-dons meanes: but as she spit in his face, fo flie defide him.

Clo. Sir, if it please your honor, this is not so,

Elb. Proue it before these varlets here, thou honorable man, proue it.

Ffc. Doe you heare how he misplaces?

Clo. Sir, the came in great with childe: and longing (fauing your honors reverence) for stewd prewyns; fir, we had but two in the house, which at that very distant time flood, as it were in a fruit dish (a dish of some three pence; your honours have feene fuch diffies) they are not China-dishes, but very good dishes.

Efe. Go too : go too: no matter for the dish fir.

Clo. No indeede fir not of a pin; you are therein in the right: hut, to the point: As I fay, this Mistris Elban, being (as I say) with childe, and being great bellied, and longing (as I faid) for prewyns: and having but two in the difh (as I faid) Mafter Froth here, this very man; hauing eaten the refl(as I faid)&(as I fay) paying for them very honeftly: for, 25 you know Malter Froth, I could not give you three pence againe.

Fro. No indeede. Clo. Very well: you being then (if you be remembred) cracking the stones of the forefaid prewyns.

Fro. 1, so 1 did indeede.

Clo. Why, very well: I telling you then (if you be remembred) that fuch a one, and fuch a one, were pall cure of the thing you wot of, vnleffe they kept very good diet, as I told you.

Fro. All this is true.
Clo. Why very well then.

Esc. Come: you are a tedious foole: to the purpose: what was done to Elbowes wife, that hee hath cause to complaine of? Come me to what was done to her.

Co. Sir, your horfor cannot come to that yet.

Esc. No sir, nor I meane it not.

Clo. Sir, hot you shall come to it, by your honours leave: And I beseech you, looke into Masser Frash here fir, a man of foure score pound a yeare; whose father died at Hallowmas: Was't not at Hallowmas Maller Frosb?

Fro. Allhallond-Eue.

Clo. Why very well: I hope here be truthes: he Sir, fitting (as I fay) in a lower chaire, Sir. twas in the bunch of Grapes, where indeede you have a delight to fir, have you not?

Fro. I haue lo, because it is an open roome, and good for winter.

Clo. Why very well then : I hope here be truthes.

Ang. This will last out a night in Rassia When nights are longest there: He take my leave, And leave you to the hearing of the cause;

Hoping youle finde good cause to whip them all. Exa. Esc I thinke no lesse; good morrow to your Lord-Thip. Now Sir, come on: What was done to Elbowes wife, once more?

Clo. Once Sir? there was nothing done to her once. Elb. I befeech you Sir, aske him what this man did to

Clo. I befeech your honor, aske me.

Efe. Well fir, what did this Gentleman to her?

clo. I befeech you fir, looke in this Gentlemans face; good Master Frotb looke vpon his honor; "tis for a good purpole: doth your honor marke his face?

E/c. I

Esc. I fir, very well

(10. Nay, I befeech you marke it well.

Esc. Well, I doc so.

Clo. Doth your honor fee any harme in his face?

Esc. Why no.

Clo. Ilc be supposed vpon a booke, his face is the worst thing about him; good then; if his face be the worst thing about him, how could Master Freib doe the Conflables wife any harme? I would know that of your

Eft. He's in the right (Constable) what fay you to it? Elb. First, and it like you, the house is a respected house; next, this is a respected fellow; and his Mistris is a respected woinzn.

Clo. By this hand Sir, his wife is a more respected perfon then any of us all

216. Varlet, thou lyest thou lyest wicked varlet: the time is yet to come that shee was ever respected with man, woman, or childe.

Clo Sir, she was respected with him, before he married with her.

Ef.. Which is the wifer here; Inflice or Iniquitie? Is this true!

Elb. O thou caytiffe: O thou varlet: O thou wicked Hamiball; I respected with her, before I was married to her? If ever I was respected with her, or the with me, let not your worship thinke mee the poore Duker Officer : proue this, thou wicked Hamiball, or ile have mine action of battry on thee.

Efc. If he tooke you a box 'oth'eare, you might have your action of flander too.

Elb. Marry I thanke your good worship for it : what is't your Worships pleasure I shall doe with this wicked Caitiffe ?

Esc. Truly Officer, because he hath some offences in him, that thou wouldst discouer, if thou couldst, let him continue in his courses, till thou knowst what they are.

Elb. Marry I thanke your worship for it: Thouseest thou wicked varlet now, what's come vpon thee. Thou are to continue now thou Varlet, thou are to continue.

Esc. Where were you borne, friend?

Froth. Here in Vienna, Sir.

Efc. Are you of fourescore pounds a yeere?

Frotb. Yes, and 'c please you fir.

Efc. So: what trade are you of, fir?

Clo. A Tapster. a poore widdowes Tapster.

Esc. Your Millrisname?

Clo. Mistris Ouer-doz.

Efe. Hath the had any more then one busband?

Clo. Nine, fit : Oner-don by the laft.

Esc. Nine? come bether to me, Master Froth ; Master Froth, I would not have you acquainted with Tapfters; they will draw you Master Froth, and you wil hang them: get you gon, and let me heare no more of you. Fro. I thanke your worthip: for mine owne part, I neuer come into any roome in a Tap-boule, but I am drawne in.

Efe. Well : no more of it Master Froit : sareweil : Come you hether to me, Mr. Tapfter: what's your name Mr. Tapfter?

Clo. Pompey. Esc. What else?

Cle. Bum, Six.

Efe. Troth, and your burn is the greatest thing about you, fo that in the beafflieft sence, you are Fempey the great; Pomyey, you are partly a bawd, Pompey; howfaeuer you colour it in being a Tapfter are you now come, tell me true, it shall be the better for you.

Clo. Truly fir, I am a poore fellow that would live.

Esc. How would you live Pompey by being a best to what doe you thinke of the trade Pempey ? is it a lawfull

Clo. If the Law would allow it, fir.

Esc. But the Law will not allow it Pompey; nor is shall not be allowed in Ucona,

(10. Do's your Worthip means to geld and fplay all the youth of the City &

Esc. No, Pomy.7.

Cla. Truely Sir, in my poore opinica they will too't then: if your worthip will take order for the drabs and the knaues, you need not to feare the bawds.

Esc. There is pretty orders beginning I cantell your

It is but heading, and hanging.

Cle. If you bead, and hang all that offend that way but for ten yeare together; you'll be glad to give out a Commission for more heads t if this law hold in Victure ten yeare, ile rent the fairest bouse in it after three pence a Bay: If you live to fee this come to patte, lay Pompo told you lo.

Ele. Thanke you good Pompey; and in requirell of your prophetie, harke you : l'aduile you let me oor finde you before meagaine vpon any complaint whatfoeuer; no, not for dwelling where you doe: if I doe Pompey, I thail beat you to your Tent, and proue a finewed Cafer to you: in plaine dealing Pompey. I shall have you whipt; fo for this time, Pampey, fare you well.

Clo. I thanke your Worthip for your good counsell; but I shall follow it as the flesh and fortune shall better determine. Whip me? no, no, let Carman whip his Iade, The valiant heart's not whipt out of his trade.

Esc. Come hether to me, Master Elbow: come hither Master Constable show long have you bin in this place of Constable?

Elb. Seven yeere, and a halfe fit.

Efc. I thought by the readinesse in the office, rou had continued in it some time: you say sesuen yearestoge-

Elb. And a halfe fir.

Esc. Alas, it hath beene great paines to you: they do you wrong to put you to oft vpon's. Are there not men in your Ward sufficient to scree it?

Elb. Faith fir, few of any wit in fuch matters : 25 they are chosen, they are glad to choose me for them: I do it for some peece of money, and goe through with all.

Efc. Looke you bring mee in the names of forme fixe or feuen, the most sufficient of your perill.

Elb. To your World: pshoule fir?

Esc. To my bouse: fare you well: what's a clocke, thinke you?

Inst. Eleven, Sir.

Esc. I pray you home to dinner with me. Infr. I humbly thanke you.

Efc. It grieves me for the death of Classico But there's no remedie:

luft. Lord sugdo is fevere.

Esc. le is but needfull. Mercy is not it selfe, that oft lookes fo, Pardon is full the nurse of second woe: But yet, poote Claudio; these is no remedie. Come Sig.

Exam. Scana

Scena Secunda.

Enter Prouost, Sernant.

Ser. Hee's hearing of a Cause; he will come straight. I'le tell him of you.

Prp. Przy you doe; Ile know His pleasure, may be he will relent; alas He hath but as offended in a dreame, All Sects, all Ages smack of this vice, and he To die for't?

Emer Angelo.

Ang. Now, what's tho matter Prouoft? Pro. Is it your will Claudio shall die to morrow? Ang. Did not I tell thee year hadft thou not order?

Why do'ft thou aske againe? Pro. Left I might be too rash: Vnder your good correction, I have seene When after execution, Judgement hath Repented ore his doome.

.ing. Goe to; let that be mine, Doe you your office, or give vp your Place, And you shall well be spar'd.

Pro. I crave your Honours pardon: What shall be done Sir, with the groaning Iulies? Shee's very neere her howre.

Ang. Dispose of her To some more firter place; and that with speed. Ser. Here is the lifter of the man condemn'd, Defires accesse to you.

Ang. Hath he a Sister e Pro. I my good Lord, a very vertuous maid, And to be shortlie of a Sister-hood, If not alreadie.

Ang. Well: let her be admitted, See you the Fornicatresse be remou'd, Let her haue needfull, but not lauish meanes, There shall be order for't.

Enter Lucio and Isabella.

Pro. 'Sauc your Honour. (will: Ang. Stay a little while: y'are welcome: what's your Ifab. I am a wofull Sutor to your Honour, Please but your Honor heare me.

Ang. Well: what's your fuite.

If ab. There is a vice that most I doe abhorre, And most defire should meet the blow of Justice; For which I would not plead, but that I must, For which I must not plead, but that I am

At watte, twist will, and will not.

Ang. Well: the matter?

If the I have a brother is condemn'd to die, I doe befeech you let it be his fault,

And not my brother.

Pra Heauen give thee moving graces. Ang. Condemna the fault, and not the actor of it, Why every fault's condemnd ere it be done: Mine were the verie Cipher of a Function To fine the faults, whole fine stands in secord, And let goe by the Actor. Ifab. Oh just, but seuere Law :

I had a brother then; heaven keepe your honour.

Lee, Give 't not ore fo : to him againe, entreat him, Kneele dovine before him, hang vpon his govine, You are soo cold s if you fould need a pin,

You could not with more tame a tongue defire it: To him, I say.

Ifab. Mufthe needs die?

Ang. Maiden, no remedie. Ifab. Yes: I doe thinke that you might pardon him, And neither beauen, nor man grieve at the mercy.

Ang. I will not doe't.
Ifab. But can you if you would?

Ang. Looke what I will not, that I cannot doe.

1 fab. But might you doe't & do the world no wrong If so your heart were touch'd with that remorse, As mine is to him?

Ang Hee's sentenc'd, tis too late.
Luc. You are too cold.

Ifab. Too late? why no: I that doe speak a word May call it againe : well, beloeue this No ceremony that to great ones longs, Not the Kings Crowne; nor the deputed (word, The Marshalls Truncheon, nor the Judges Robe Become them with one halfe fo good a grace As mercie does: If he had bin as you, and you as he, You would have flipt like him, but he like you Would not have beene so sterne.

Ang. Pray you be gone.
Ifab. I would to heaven I had your potencie, And you were Ifabell : fhould it then be thus? No: I would tell what 'twere to be a ludge. And what a prisoner.

Luc. I. touch him: there's the vaine. Ang. Your Brother is a forfeit of the Law . And you but waste your words.

Ifab. Alm, alar:

Why all the foules that were, were forfeit once, And he that might the vantage best have tooke, Found out the remedie: how would you be, If he, which is the top of Judgement, should But indge you, as you are? Oh, thinke on that, And merete then will breathe within your lips Like men new made.

Ang. Beyou content, (faire Maid)
It is the Law, not I, condemne your brother, Were he my kiniman, brother, or my fonne, It should be thus with him : he must die to morrow.

Ifab. To morrow? oh, that's fodaine,

Spare him, spare him: Hee's not prepar'd for death; even for our kitchins We kill the fowle of leafon : shall we serve heaven With leffe respect then we doe minister To our groffe.felues? good, good my Lord, bethink you; Who is it that hath di'd for this oftence?

There's many have committed it.

Luc. I, well faid. Ang. The Law hath not bin dead, thogh it hath flept Those many had not dar'd to doe that cuill If the first, that did th' Edict infringe Had answer'd for his deed . Now 'tis awake, Takes note of what is done, and like a Prophet Lookes in a glaffe that shewes what future cuils Either now, or by remissenesse, new conceiu'd, And so in progresse to be hate'hd, and borne, Are now to have no fuccessive degrees, But here they live to end.

1726. Yet thew some pittie. Ang. I shew it most of all, when I show lustice; For then I pittie those I doe not know, Which a dismis'd offence, would after gaule

And

And doe him right, that answering one fouls wrong Lives not to act another. Be fatisfied; Your Brother dies to morrow; be content.

Ifab. So you must be of first that gives this sentence, And hee, that suffers Oh, it is excellent To have a Giants licength: but it is tyrannous To vie it like a Giant.

Luc. That's well faid.

15ab. Could great men thunder As love himfelfe do's, love would never be quiet . For every pelting petty Officer Would vie his heaven for thunder; Nothing but thunder : Mercifull hezuen, Thourather with thy fazrpe and fulpherous bott Splits the vn-wedgabl: and gnorled Oke, Then the foft Mertill : But man, proud man, Dreft in a little briefe authoritie Mostignorant of what he's most affur'd, (His glassie Essence) like an angry Ape

Plaies such phantastique tricks before high heaven, As makes the Angels weepe; who with our fpleenes, Would all themselves laugh mortall.

Luc. Oh, to him, to him wench: be will relent, Hee's comming : I perceive's.

Pro. Pray heaven the wio him.

Ifab. We cannot weigh our brother with our felfe, Great men may iest with Saints : tis wit in them, But in the leffe fowle prophanation.

Luc. Thou're i'th right (Girle) more o'that. Ifab. That in the Captaine's but a chollericke word,

Which in the Souldier is flat blafphemie. Luc. Art auis'do'that? more on't.

Ang. Why doe you put thele layings vpon me? Ifab. Because Authoritie, though it erre like others, Hath yet a kinde of medicine in it felfe That skins the vice o'th top; goe to your bosome, Knock there, and aske your heart what it doth know That's like my brothers fault: if it confesse A naturall guiltinesse, such as is his, Let it not found a thought vpon your tongue Against my brothers life.

Aug. Shee speakes, and 'cis such sence That my Sence breeds with it; fare you well.

Ifab. Gentle my Lord, turne backe. Ang. I will bethinke me; come againe to morrow.
If a. Hark, how liebrioe you: good my Lord turn back.

Ang. How? bribe me? If. I, with such gifes that heaven shall share with you.

Luc. You had mard all elfe.

Ifab. Not with fond Sickles of the teffed-gold, Or Stones, whose rate are either rich, or poore As fancie values them: but with true prayers, That shall be up at heaven, and enter there Ere Sunne rife: prayers from preferued foules, From fasting Maides whose mindes are dedicate

To nothing temporal!

Ang. Well: come to me to morrow. Luc. Goeto: 'tis well; away. Isab. Heauen keepe your honour safe. Ang. Amen. For I am that way going to temptation,

Where prayers croffe.

Ifab. At what hower to morrow, Shall I attend your Lordship? Ang. At any time fore-noone.

Ang. From thee : even from thy vertue. What's this? what's this is this ber fault, or mine? The Tempter, or the Tempted, who fins most i ha? Not the : nor doth the tempt : but it is I, That, lying by the Violet in the Sunne, Doe as the Carrion do's, not as the flowre, Corrupt with vertuous lesson : Can it be, That Modesty may more betray our Sence Then womans lightnesse? having waste ground enough, Shall we defire so raze the Sandwary And pitch our euils there? oh he, he, he: What doft thou? or what are thos Magdo? Dost thou defire her fowly for those things That make her good? oh, let her brother hue: Theeues for their robbery have suthority, When Iudges steale themselves : what, doe Houcher, That I defire to heare her speake againe? And feast upon her eyes? what is't I drozene on? Oh cunning enemy, that to catch a Saint, With Saints dost bait thy booke : most dangerous Is that temptation, that doth goad vi on-To finne, in louing vertue: never could the Strumper With all her double vigor, Art, and Neture

Scena Tertia.

When men were fond, I fmild, and wondred how. Exit,

Once fur my temper: but this vertuous Maid

Subdues me quite 1 Euer till now

Emer Duke and Pronoft. Duke. Haile to you, Prosoft, so I thinke you are. Pro. I am the Prouost : whats your will, good Frier?

Duke. Bound by my charity, and my oleft order, I come to visite the affliched spirits Here in the prison: doe me the common right

To let me fee them : and to make me know The nature of their crimes, that I may minister To them accordingly.

Pro. I would do more then that, if more were needfull Enter Isliet.

Looke here comes one: a Gentlewoman of mine, Who falling in the flawer of her owne youth, Hath blifterd her report: She is with childe, And he that got it, fentened: a young man, More fit to doe another fuch offence, Then dye for this.

Duk. When must be dye?
Pro. As I do thinke to morrow. I have provided for you, stay a while And you shall be conducted.

Duk. Repent you (faire one) of the fin you carry? Ist. I doe; and beare the shame most patiently. Dr. He teach you how you that areign your confeices

And try your penitence, if it be found, Or hollowly put on.

Inl. He gladly learns.

Date. Loue you the man that wrong'd you?
Int. Yes, as I loue the woman that wrong'd him. Dek. So then it feemes your most offenes full all

Was mutually committed.

Int. Mutually.

Duk, Then was your fin of heavier kinde then bis.
Int. I doe confeile it, and repent it (Fasher.)

Du Tie

Dut. Tismeet lo (daughter) but least you do repent As that the fin hath brought you to this fhame, Which forrow is alwaies toward our selves, not heaven, Showing we would not spare hezuen, as we love it, But as we frand in feare.

Isl. I doe repent me, as it is an cuill,

And take the shame with joy. Duke. There reft :

Your partner (45 I heare) must die to morrow, And I am going with inflruction to him: Grace goe with you, Benedicke.

IN. Must die to morrow? chiniurious Louc That respits me a life, whose very comfort

Is still a dying horror.
Pro. Tis pitty of him.

Excuse

Exis.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Angelo. An. When I would pray, & think, I thinke, and pray To leverall subjects: heaven hath my empty words, Whilft my Invention, hearing not my Tongue, Anchors on Ifabell: heaven in my mouth, as if I did but onely chew his name, And in my heart the firong and swelling euill Ofmy conception: the state whereon I studied Is like a good thing, being often read Growne feard, and redious: yea, my Grauitie Wherein (let no man heare me) I take pride, Could I, with boote, change for an idle plume Which the ayre bests for vame : oh place, oh forme, How often dost show with they case, thy habit Wrench awe from fooles, and tye the wifer foules To thy falfe feeming? Blood, thou art blood, Let's write good Angell on the Deuills horne Tis not the Deuills Craft: how now? who's there? Enter Sernact.

Ser. One Isabell, a Sister, defires accesse to you Ang. Teach her the way : oh, heavens Why doe's my bloud thus muster to my heart, Making both it vnable for it felfe, And dispossessing all my other parts Ofnecessary fitnelle? So play the foolish throngs with one that swounds, Come all to help him, and so stop the syre By which her thould revive : and even fo The general subject to a wel-wish King Quit their owne part, and in obsequious fondactie Crowd to his presence, where their va-taught love I full needs appear offence : how now faire Maid Emer Ifabella.

Ifab. I am come to know your pleasure, Ax. That you might know it, wold much better please Then to demand what tis : your Brother cannot live.

Ist. Even so: heaven keepe your Honor. Ang. Yet may be live a while : and it may be As long as you, or I : yet he must die.

154. Vnder your Sentence?

Ang. Yea.

Men, I befeech you: that in his Reprieue (Longer, or shorter) he may be so fitted That his foule ficken not

Ang. Ha? fie, thele filthy vices: It were at good

To pardon him, that hath from nature stolne A man already made, as to remit Their lawcie lweetnes, that do coyne heavens lenage In stamps that are forbid : "cis all as case, Fallely to take away a life true made, As to put mettle in restrained meanes To make a falle one.

Isb. Tis fet downe fo in heaven, bur not ja carch. dug. Say you forthen I shall poze you quickly. Which had you rather, shar the most just Law Now tooke your brothers life, and to redeeme him Give vp your body to such sweet vncleannelle As the that he hath fleind?

Ifab. Sir, beleeue this.

I had rather give my body, then my foule.

Ang. I talke not of your foule : our compel & fins Stand more for number, then for accompt.

1546. How fay you?

Ang. Nay Ile not warrant that: for I can speake Against the thing I say: Answere to this, I (now the voyce of the recorded Law) Pronounce a fentence on your Brothers life,. Might there not be a charitie in finne, To saue this Brothers life?

Iseb. Please you to doo's, He take it as a perill to my foule, It is no finne at all, but charitie.

Ang. Pleased you to doo't, at perill of your foule Were equall poize of finne, and charitie.

Isab. That I do beghis life,ifit be finne Heauen let me beare it: you granting of my fuit, If that be fin, He make it my blome-praier, To haue it added to the faults of mine, And nothing of your answere.

Ang. Nay, but heare me. Your lence purlues not mine: either you are ignorant, Or leeme lo crafty; and that's not good.

Ifab. Let be ignorant, and in nothing good, But graciously to know I am no better.

Ang. Thus wildome withes to appeare most bright, When it doth taxe it felfe: As their blacke Masques Proclaime an en-shield beauty cen times louder Then beauty could displaied: But marke me. To be received plaine, He fpeakemore groffe: Your Brother is to dyc.

Isab. So.

Ang. And his offence is fo, as it appeares, Accountant to the Law, vpon that paine. Isab. True.

Ang. Admit no other way to faue his life (As I lubscribe not that, nor any other, But in the loffe of question) that you his Sifter, Finding your felfe defir'd of fuch a person, Whole creadit with the Judge, or owne great place, Could fetch your Brother from the Manacles Of the all-building-Law: and that there were No earthly meane to faue him, but that either You must lay downe the tressures of your body, To this supposed, or else to let him suffer : What would you doe?

1946. As much for my poore Brother, as my felfe; That is : were I under the tearmes of death, Th'impression of keene whips, I'ld weare as Rubies, And strip my selfe to death, as to a bed, That longing have bin ficke forgere I'ld yeeld My body vp to theme.

Ang. Than

Ang. Then must your brother die. Ife. And twee the cheaper way: Better it were a brother dide at once, Then that a fifter, by redocming him Should die for ever.

Ang. Were not youther as cruell as the Semence,

That you have flander'd fo?

Ifa. Ignomic in ransome, and free pardon Are of two houses: lawfull mercie,

Is nothing him to fowle redemption,

Ang. You foun'd of late to make the Law a tirant, And rather prou'd the fliding of your brother

A merriment, then a vice.

1/a. Oh pardon me my lord, it of laks out To have, what we would have, We speake not what we meane; I lomething do excuse the thing I hate, For his advantage that I dearely love.

My. We are all frafie. Ifa Else ket my brocher die, If not a fedarie but onely he Owe, and forced thy weaknells.

Ang. Nay, women referre fraile too. Which are as easie broke as they make formes: Women? Helpe heauen; men their creation marre In profiting by them : Nay, call vs ten times fraile, For we are loft, as our complexions are,

And credulous to falle princs.

Ang. I thinke it well : And from this testimonie of your owne lex (Since I suppose we are made to be no ilronger Then faults may thake our frames) let me be bold; I doatrest your words. Be that you are, That is a woman; if you be more, you'r none. If you be one (as you are well express
By all externall warrants) shew it now, By putting on the destin'd Liverie.

Ifo. I have no tongue but one; gentle my Lord, Les me entreste you speake the former language.

Mag. Plainlie conceiue I loue you. And you tell me that he shall die for't

Ang. He shall not Ifabell if you give me love ! Ifa. I know your vertue hath a licence in's, Which feemes a little fouler then it is, To plucke on others.

Ang. Belceue ine on mine Honor, My words expresse my purpose.

Ifa. Hat Little honor, to be much beloeu d, And most pernicious purpose : Seeming, seeming. I will proclaime thee Angelo, looke for t. Signe me a present pardon for my brother, Or with an out-firetcht throate He tell the world aloud What man thou art.

Ang. Who will believe thee Isabell? My vnfoild name, th sufteereneffe of my life, My vouch against you, and my place ith State, Will so your accusation oues-weigh, That you shall stiffe in your owne report, And fmell of calumnie. I have begun, And now I give my fenfuall race, the reine, Fir thy confent to my flarpe appetite, Lay by all nicetic, and prolixious bluftes That banish what they see for : Redceme thy brother, By yeelding up thy bodie to my will,

Or elfe he must not onelie die the death, But thy unkindnesse shall his death draw out To linguing fufferance : Answer me to morrow, Or by the affection that now guides me most lleproue a Tirant to him. As for you,
Say what you can; my falle, ore-weighs your crue. Eart

Ifa. To whom should I complaine? Did I tell thus,

Who would believe me ? O perilous mouther That beare in them, one and the felfefame tongue, Either of condemnation, or approofe, Bidding the Law make curthe to their will, Hooking both right and wrong to th'appetite, To follow as it drawes. He to my brother, Though he hath falne by prompture of the blood, Yet hath he in him fuch a minde of Honor, That had he twentie heads to tender downer On twentie bloodic blockes, hee'ld yeeld them vp, Before his fuler should her bodie stoope To fuch abhord pollution. Then Wabellive chaste, and brother die: "More then our Brother, is our Chastitie. Ile tell him yet of Angelo's request,

Adus Tertius. Scena Prima.

And fit his minde to death, for his foules reft.

Enter Duke, Claudio, and Proveft. Du. So then you hope of perdon from Lord Antho? Cla. The milerable have no other medicine But onely hope: I'have hope to live, and am prepar'd to

Duke. Beabsolute for death reither death or life Shall thereby be the sweeter. Reason thus with life: If I do loofe thee, I do loofe a thing That none but fooles would keepe: a breath thou art, Servile to all the skyle_influences, That dost this habitation where thou keep it Hourely afflict: Meerely, shou art deaths foole, For him thou labourst by thy stight to shung And yet runst toward him still. Thou are not noble, For all th'accommodations that thou bearff, Are nurst by basenesse: Thou're by no meaner valiant, For thou doft feare the loft and tender forke Of a poore worme: thy heft of reft is fleepe, And that thou of prouoskit, yet groffelie fearit Thy death, which is no more. Thou art not thy felfe. For thou exists on manie a thousand graines. That issue out of dust. Happie shou are not, For what thou haft not, still thou striu'ft to get, And what thou half forgetst. Thou art not certaine, For thy complexion shifts to stronge effe as, After the Moone: If thou art rich, thou'rt peose, For like an Asse, whose backe with Ingots bowes; Thou bearst thy heavie riches but a journie, And death valoads thee; Friend hast thou none. For thine owne bowels which do call thee, fire The meere effusion of thy proper loiner Do curse the Gowt, Sapego, and the Rheume For ending thee no fooner. Thou halt nor youth, nor age But as it were an after-dinners fleepe Dreaming on both, for all thy bleffed youth Becomes as aged, and doth begge the almes Of palsied-Eld: and when thou art old, and rich

Thou

Exu.

Thou haft neither heate, aftection, limbe, nor beautie To make thy tiches pleasant: what's yet in this That beares the using of life? Yet in this life Lie hid moe thouland deaths; yet death we feare

That makes these oddes, all even.

Cle. I humblie thanke you.

Fo sue to live, I finde I seeke to dle, And lecking death, finde life : Let is come on. Esto Isabello.

lab. Whathout Peace heere; Grace, and good com-panie. Pro. Who sthere & Come in, the wish deferues a welcome.

Duke. Deere fir, ere long lie vifit you againe.

Cls. Most bolle Sir, I chanke you.

16a. My bufineffe is a word or two with Claudia Dre. And verte welcom : looke Signtor, here's your fifter.

Duke. Prouofi, a word with you. Pro. As manie as you please.

Date. Bring them to heare me speak, where I may be ronceal'd.

Cla. Now lifter, what's the comfort?

As all comforts are a most good, most good indeede, Lord Angele having affaires to heaven Intends you for his fwife Ambassador, Where you shall be an everlasting Leiger; Therefore your best appointment make with speed, To Morrow you fet on.

Class. Is there no remedie?

Ifa. None, but such remedie, as to sauca head To cleaue a heart in twaine:

Clan. But is there avie?

Ifa. Yes brother, you may live; There is a diuellila mercie in the ludge, If you'l imploreit, that will free your life. But fetter you till death.

Cla. Perpetuali durance?

1/2. I inft, perpetuall durance, a reftrance Through all the worlds valudatie you had To a determin'd fcope.

Chas. But in what nature?

Ifa. In fuch a one, as you conferring too t, Would barke your honor from that trunke you herre, And !caue you naked.

Class. Let me know the point.
16. Oh, I do feare thee Classic, and I quite, Leaft thou a feauorous life shoulds' entertaine, And fix or feuen winters more respect Then a perperuall Honor. Dar'st thon die; The sence of death is most in apprehension, And the poore Beerle that we weade upon In corporall fufferance, finds a pang as great As when a Giant dies.

Cla. Why give you me this hame! Thinke you I can a resolution fetch From flowrie rendernesse? If I must die, I will encounter darknesse as a bride,

And hugge icin mintarmes. If There space my brother : there my fathers grave Did vuer forth a voice. Yes, thou must die: Thou art too noble, to conferue a life In base appliances. This outward sainted Deputie, Whose setted visage, and deliberate word Nips youth i'th head, and follies doth emmew

As Falcon doth the Fowle, is yet-a diuell: His filth within being cast, he would appeare

A pond, as deepe as hell.

Cls. The prenzie, Longelo?

Is. Oh 'iis the cunning Liverie of hell, The damnest bodie to inuest, and couer In prenzie gardes; dost thou thinke Claudios If I would yeeld him my virginitie Thou might (tbe freed?

Cla. Oh heavens, is cannot be.

Ifa. Yes, he would glu't thee; from this rank offence
So to offend him fill. This night's the time That I should do what I abhorte to name, Or elfe thou dieft to morrow.

Claw. Thou shalt not do't,

Ifa. O, were it but my life, I'de throw it downe for your deliuerance

As frankely as a pin.

Clan. Thankes deere Ifabell.

Ifa. Be readie Claudes, for your death to morrow.

Class. Yes. Has he affections in him,

That thus can make him bite the Law by thinofe, When he would force it? Sure it Is no finne, Or of the deadly feven it is the leaft.

Ifa. Which is the leaft ?

Cls. If it were damnable, he being to wife, Why would he for the momentarie tricks Be perdurablie fin'de? Oh Ifabell

Ifa. What laies my brother? (In. Death is a fearefull thing. Ifa. And shamed life, a harefull

Cla. I, but to die, and go we know not where, To liz in cold obstruction, and to ror, This sensible warme motion, to become Aknesded clod; And the delighted fpirit To harb in fierie floods, or to recide In thrilling Region of thicke-ribbed Ice, To be imprison'd in the viewlesse winder And blowne with restlesse violence round about The pendant world : or to be worle then world Of those, that lawlesse and incertaine thoughts Imagine howling, ris too hornble. The weariest, and most loathed worldly life That Age, Ache, periury, and imprisonment Can lay on nature, is a Peradise To what we feare of death.

Isa. Alas, alas.

Cla. Sweet Sifter, let me line. What some you do, to save a brothers life, Nature dispenses with the deede to farre, Thas it becomes a vertue.

Ifa. Oh you beaft, Oh faitirleffe Coward, oh dilhoneft wretch, Wilt thou be made a man, out of my vice? Is't not a kinde of Incest, to take life From thine owne fifters shame? What should I thinke, Heaven shield my Mother plaid my Father faire : For fuch a warped flip of wildernelle Nere iffa'd from his blood. Take my defiance, Die, perish: Might but my beading downe Represent thee from thy face, it should proceede. He pray a thousand praises for thy death, No word to faue thee. Ch. Noy beare me Mabell.

Is. Oh fie, fie; fie: Thy find's not accidentall, but a Trade;

Mercie

Mercy to thee would proue it felfe a Bawd,

The best that thou diest quickly. Cla. Ohlierre me Ifabolla.

Duk. Vouchfase a word, yong fister, but one word.

Dak Might you differ fe with your leylure, I would by and by have forme speech with you i the satisfaction I would require, is likewife your owne benefit.

Ife. Thouse no superfluous leylure, my stay must be Aolen out of other effaires; but I will attend you while.

Dake Son, I have over-heard what hath past between you & your fifter. Augelo had never the purpose to corrupt her; onely he hath made an affay of her vertue, to praclife his judgement with the disposition of natures. She (having the truth of honour in her) hath made him that gracious deniall, which he is most glad to receive: I am Confessor to Angelo, and I know this to be true, therfore prepare your selfe to death : do not farisfie your tefolution with hopes that are fallible, to morrow you must die, goe to your knees, and make ready.

Cla. Let me ask my fifter pardon, I am fo out of love with life, that I will fue to be rid of it.

Dute. Hold youthere: farewell. Prouoff, a word with you.

Pro. What's your will (father?)

Duk. That now you are come, you wil be gone leave me a while with the Maid, my minde promifes with my habit, no losse shall touch her by my company.

Pro. In good time. Det The hand that hath made you faire, hath made you good: the goodnes that is chezpe in beauty, makes beauty briefe in goodnes; but grace being the foule of your complexion, shall keepe the body of it ever faire: the affault that sagels hath made to you, Fortune hath convaid to my understanding; and but that frallty hath examples for his falling, I should wonder at Angelo: how will you doe to content this Substitute, and to faue your Brother?

Jab. I am nove going to resolve him : I had rather my brother die by the Law, then my fome thould be vnlawfullie borne. But (oh) how much is-the good Duke decein'd in Angelo : if ever he returne, and I can fpeake to him, I will open my lips in vaine, or discouer his go-uernment.

Duke. That shall not be much smiffe: yet, as the matter now stands, he will avoid your acculation ; he made triall of you onelie. Therefore festen your eare on my aduitings, to the love I have in doing good; a remedie presents it selfe. I doe make my selfe beleeue that you may most vprighteously do a poor wronged Lady a metited benefit; redeem your brother from theangry Law; doe no staine to your owne gracious person, and much please the absent Duke, if peraduenture he shall euerreturne to have hearing of this bufineffe.

Ifab. Let me heare you speake farther; I haue spirit to do any thing that appeares not fowle in the truth of my Spirit.

Duke. Vertue is bold, and goodnes neuer fearefuil: Have you not heard speake of Mariana the fifter of Fredericke the great Souldier, who miscarried at Sea?

Ifa. I have heard of the Lady, and good words were with her name.

Duke. Shee should this Angelo have married : was affisnced to her outh, and the nuptiall appointed: between which time of the contract, and limit of the folemnitie, her brother Fredericke was wrackt at Sea, having in that perished vellell, the downy of his lifter i but marke how heatily this befell to the poore Gentlewomen, there the loft anoble and renowned brother, in his love toward her, ever most kinde and naturall a with him the portion and linew of her fortune, her marriage dowry; with both, her combynate-husband, this well-freming Angelo.

If ab. Canthin be for did Angelo to leave her?

Duke. Left her in her teases, & dried not one of them with his comfort : I wallowed his vowes whole, precending in her, discoveries of dishonor: in few, bestow'd her on her owne lamentation, which the yet weares for his fake; and he, a marble to her teases, is wellhed with them, but relents not.

Ifab. What a merit were it in death to take this poore maid from the world? what corruption in this life, that it will let this man line? But how out of this can thee a-

Duke. It is a rupture that you may exfuly healer and the cure of it not onely faues your brother, but keepes you from dishonor in doing it.

1 fab. Sheve me how (good Father.)

Dak. This fore-named Maid hath yet in her the continuance of her first affection : his voiust vokindenelle (that in all reason should have quenched her love) buth (like an impediment in the Current) made it more violent and voruly : Goe you to Angelo, answere his requiring with a plausible obedience, agree with his demands to the point: onely referre your felfe to this aduantage; first, that your flay with him may not be long : that the time may have all shadow, and silence in it and the place answere to conucuience : this being granted in course. and now followes all ; wee shall adule this wronged maid to fleed up your appointment, goe in your place: if the encounter acknowledge it felse hereafter, it may compell him to her recompence; and heere, by this is your brother faued, your honor untainted, the poere Mariana adustinged, and the corrupt Deputy scaled. The Maid will I frame, and trake fit for his attempt; if you thinke well to carry this as you may, the doublenes of the benefit defends the deceit from reproofe. VVbat thinke you of it?

1/26. The image of it gives me content already, and I trust it will grow to a most prosperous perfection.

Dak. It lies much in your holding vp: hafte you specdily to Angele, if for this night he intrest you to his bed, give him promise of fatisfaction: I will presently to S. Luker, there at the mosted-Grange recides this deie-Aed Mariera; at that place call vponme, and dispatch with Angele, that it may be quickly.

Ifit. I thank you for this comfort fare you well good father.

Enter Elbau, Clause, Officers.

8th. Nay, ifthere be no remedy for it, but that you will needer buy and fell men and women like beafts, we shall have all the world drinke browne & white bastard.

Duke Oh beauens, what fluffe is heere.

Cless. Twas never merry world fince of two viuries the merriest was put downe, and the worser allow'd by order of Law: a fur'd gowne to keepe him warme; and furd with Foxe and Lamb-skins too, to fignifie, that craft being richer then Innocency, stands for the facing

E.P. Come your way fir: 'bleffe you good Father

Duk, And you good Brother Father ; what offence hath this man made you, Sir?

Elb. Marry

Elb. Marry Sir, he hath offended the Lave; and Sir, we take him to be a Theefe too Sir . for wee have found vpon him Sir, a strange Pick-lock, which we have fent to the Deputie.

Deste. Fie, firrah, a Bawd, a wicked bawd, The entil that thou caufest to be done That is thy meanes to live. Do thou but thinke What 'cis to cram a maw, or cloath a backe From fuch a filthie vice : fay to thy felfe, From their abhominable and beaftly touches I drinke, I eate away my felfe, and live Canst thou believe thy living is a life, So ftinkingly depending & Go mend, go mend,

Clo. Indeed, it do's flinke in some fort, Sit

But yet Sir I would proue

Dube. Nay, if the divell have given thee proofs for fin Thou wilt proue his. Take him to prison Officer: Correction, and Instruction must both worke

Ere this rude beaft will profit.

Elb. He must before the Deputy Sir, he has given him warning : the Deputy cannot abide a Whore-mafter : ifhe be a Whore-monger, and comes before him, he were as good go a mile on his errand.

Duke. That we were all, as fome would feeme to bee

From our faults, as faults from feeining free.

Enter Lucio.

Elb His necke will come to your wast, a Cord sir. Clo. Ispy comfort, I cry baile: Here's a Gentleman, and a friend of mine.

Luc. How now noble Pompey? What, at the wheels of Cafer? Art thou led in triumph? What is there none of Pigmalions images newly made woman to bee had now, for putting the hand in the pocket, and extra ding elutch'de What reply? Ha? What faift thou to this Tune, Matter, and Methode Is't not drown'd i'th laft raine? Ha? What szift thou Trot? Is the world as it was Man? Which is the vvay? Is it fad, and few words? Or how? The tricke of it?

Dute. Still thus, and thus: Rill vvorle?

Luc. How doth my decre Morfell, thy Mistris? Procurcs the Rill? Ha !

Clo. Troth fir, thee hath esten vp all her beefe, and the is her felfe in the tub.

Lee. Why 'tis good: It is the right of it: it must be lo. Euer your fresh Whore, and your pouder'd Baud, an valun'd confequence, it must be fo. Art going to pri-Cla. Yesfeith fir.

Luc. Why 'tis not smille Pempey: farewell: goe fay I fent thee thether : for debt Pomper? Or how?

Elb, For being a baud, for being a baud.

Lac. Well, then imprison him: If imprisonment be the due of a baud, why tis his right. Baud is he doubt-leffe, and of antiquity too : Baud borne. Farwell good Pempey: Commend me to the prison Pempey, you will turne good husband now Pempey, you will keepe the house.

*Cle.I hope Sir, your good Worship wil bemy baile? Luc. No indeed will not Pompey, it is not the weat: I will pray (Powpey) to encrezse your bondsgeif you take it not patiently: Why, your mettle is the more: Adieu truftie Pompey. Bleffe you Friat.

Dake. And you.

Lac. Do's Bridges paint fill, Pempey ? Ha?

Els. Come your waies fir, come.

Clo. You will not baile me then Sir?

Line. Then Pompey, not now : what newes abroad Frier! What newes?

Elb. Come your waies fir, come.

Luc. Goe to kennell (Pempey) goe : What newes Frier of the Duke

Duke. I know none: can you tell me of any?

Luc. Some lay he is with the Emperor of Ruffin: other Some, he is in Rome : but where is he thinke you?

Duke. I know not where; but wheresoeuer, I wish

Luc. It was a mad fantesticall tricke of him to steale from the State, and vlurpe the beggerie hee was never borne to : Lord Angelo Dukes it well in his ablence : he puts transgression too't.

Duke. He do's well in't.

Luc. A little more lenitie to Lecherie would doe no harme in him . Something too crabbed that way, Proor.

Duk. It is too general a vice, and feueritie must cure is. Luc. Yes in good footh, the vice is of a great kindred; it is well allied, but it is impossible to extirpe it quite, Frier, till eating and drinking be put downe. They fay this Angelo was not made by Man and Woman, after this downe-right vvay of Creation: is it true, thinke you?

Date. How should he be made then?

Luc. Some report, a Sea-maid spawn'd him. Some, that he was begot betweene two Stock-fishes. But it is certaine, that when he makes water, his Vrine is congeal'd ice, that I know to bee true : and he is a motion generative, that's infallible, Dake. You are pleasant fir, and speake apace. Loc. Why, what a with leffe thing is this in him, for the rebellion of a Cod-peece, to eake away the life of a man? Would the Duke that is absent have done this? Ere he would have hang'd a man for the getting a hondred Bastards, he would have peide for the Nursing a thousand. He had some feeling of the sport, hee knew the service, and that instructed him to mercie.

Duke. I never heard the obsent Duke much derolled for Women, he was not enelin'd that wray.

Luc. Oh Sir, you are deceiu'd. Dake. 'Tis not possible.

Lnc. Who, not the Duke! Yes, your beggar of alig: and his wie was, to put a ducket in her Clack-dilh; the Duke had Crochets in him. Hee would be drunke too, that let me informe you.

Dake. You do him wrong, furely.
Luc. Sir, I was an inward of his; a fhis fellow wras the Duke, and I beleeve I know the cause of his worth-

Date. What (I prothee) might be the cause?

Luc. No, pardon: Tis a secret must bee lockt within the teethand the lippes; but this I can let you underfland, the greater file of the Subic & held the Duke to be vvile.

Date. Wifer Why no question bushe was.

Luc. A very superficiall, ignorant, vnweighing fellow Duke. Either this is Envie in you, Folly, or mistaking: The very streame of his life, and the businesse he heth helmed, must appon a warranted neede, giue him a better proclamation. Let him be but teftimonied in his owne bringings forth, and hee shall appeare to the enuious, a Scholler, a Statefman, and a Soldier : therefore you speake unskilfully : or, if your knowledge bee more, it is much darkned in your malice.

Zwe.

Lac. Sir,I know him, and I love him.

Date. Loue telkes with better knowledge, & knowledge with deare love.

Lac. Come Sir, I know what I know

Duke. I can hardly believe that, fince you know not what you speake. But if cuer the Duke returne (as our pralers are nemay) let mee defire you to make your an-fwer before him; If it bee honest you have spoke, you have courage to maintaine it; I am bound to call sppoo you, and I pray you your name?

Luc. Sir my name is Lucio, welknown to the Duke. Dake. He shall know you berrer Sir, if I may live to report you.

Luc. I feare you not

Duke. O you hope the Duke will return no more: or you imagine me to vnburtfull an opposite: but indeed I can doe you little harme : You'll for-sweare this againe?

Luc. He behang'dfirst . Thouart deceiu'd in mee Frier. But no more of this Canft thou tell if Claudio die to morrow, or no

Dute, Why should be die Sit?
Luc. Why? For filling a bottle with a Tunner dish: I would the Duke we talke of were return'd againe: this engenitur'd Agent will en-people the Province with Continencie. Sparrower must not build in his housecenes, because they are lecherous: The Duke yet would haue darke deeds darkelie answered, hee would never bring them to light: would hee were return'd. Martie this (Tendro is condemned for vntroffing Farwell good Friar, Iprethee przy for me : The Duke (1 fay to thee againe) would eate Muttoo on Fridales. He's now past it, yet (and I say to thee) hee would mouth with a beggar, though the smelt browne-bread and Garlicke: (ay that I faid fo : Farewell. Ext.

Duke. No might, nor greatnesse in mortality Can centure scape i Back wounding calumnie The whitest vertue strikes. What King so strong Can tie the gall vp in the landerous tong?

But who comes heere?

Emer Escales, Fronost, and Band. Efc. Go, away with her to prison.

Based. Good my Lord be good to mee, your Honor is accounted a mercifull man : good my Lord.

Efe. Double, and trebble admonition, and still forfeite in the same kinde? This would make mercy sweare and play the Tirant.

Pro. A Bawd of cleuen yeares continuance, may it please your Honor.

Band. My Lord, this is one Lucio's information againft me, Miftris Kaie Keipe-dowe was with childe by in in the Dukes time, he promis'd her marriage : his Childe is a yeere and a quarter olde come Philip and lacob: I have kept it my felfe; and fee how bee gives about to abuse me.

Ese. That fellow is a sellow of much License: Let him be call'd before vs, Away with her to prison : Goe too, no more words. Prouoft, my Brother Angelo will not be after'd, Clandio must die to mortow: Let himbe furnish'd with Divines, and have all charitable preparation. Ifmy brother wrought by my pitie, it should not be so with him.

Pro. Soplease you, this Friar hath beene with him, and aduis'd him for th'entertainment of death.

Efe. Good'enen, good Father Duke. Bliffe, and goodnesse on you. Est. Of whence are you?

Duke. Not of this Countrie, though my chance is now To vieit for my time: I am a brother Of gracious Order, late come from the Sea, In special businesse from his Holinesse, Efr. What newes abroad ith World?

Date. None, butthat there is so great a Featuor on goodnelle, that the diffolution of it must cure it, Noueltie is onely in request, and as it is as dangerous to be aged in any kinde of course, as it is vertuous to be conflant in any undertaking. There is featfe truth enough aliue to make Societies lecure, but Securitie enough to make Fellowships accurst: Much vpon this riddle runs the wifedome of the world: This newes is old enough, yet it is eueric daies newes. I pray you Sir, of what difposition was the Duke?

Esc. One, that about all other strifes, Contended especially to know himselfe. Duke. What pleasure was he given to?

Esc. Rather teroyeing to see another merry, then merrie at apie thing which profest to make him respice A Gentleman of all temperance. But leave wee him to his events, with a praier they may prove presperous, & let me delire to know, how you finde Claudio prepar'd? I am made to voderftand, that you have lent him vifita-

Duke. He professes to have received on sinifer measure from his ludge, but most willingly humbles himfelfe to the determination of Iuflice : yet had he framed to himfelfe (by the infiration of his frailty) manie deceyuing promises of life, which I (by my good leifure) have discredited to him, and now is he resolu'd to die.

Efc. You have paid the heavens your Function, and the prisoner the verie debt of your Calling. I have 19bour'd for the poore Gentleman, to the extremel faore of my modeflie, but my brother-Iuflice have I found fo scuere, that he bath forc d me to tell him, hee is indeede Iuffice.

Date. If his owne life, Answere the straintesse of his proceeding, It shall become him well: wherein if he chance to falle he hath fentene'd himfelfe.

Efc. I am going to visit the prilozer, Fare you well. Dake. Peace be with you, He who the fword of Heaven will bezre, Should be as holy, as feneare r Patterne to himselfe to know, Grace to fland, and Vertue go: More, nor leffe to others paying, Then by felfe-offences weighing. Sharne to him, whole cruell Briking, Kils for faules of his owne liking: Twing trebble theme on Angelo, To vec demy rice, and let his grow. Oh, what may Man within him hide, Though Angel on the outward fide? How may likenelle made in crimes, Making practife on the Times, To draw with yelle Spiders firings Most ponderous and subfantial things? Craft against vice, I must applie. With Argelo to night shall ive His old betroathed (but despited:) So disguise shall by th'disguised Per with falshood, false exacting, And performe an olde contracting.

Eig ARTE

Exu.

Alus Quartus. Scona Prima,

Enter Mariana, and Boy finging.

Song. Take, ob take those lips away, that fo fweetly were for fworne, And those eyes - the breake of any lights thes doe missead the Morne Bus my killes bring agasno, bring againe, Scales of love, bus feat d in vaine, feat d in vaine.

Enter Duke.

Mar. Breake off thy long, and hafte thee quick away, Here comes a man of comfort, whole aduice Hathoften still'd my brawling discontent. I ery you mercie, Sir, and well could with You had not found me here fo mulicall. Let me excuse me, and beleeue me so, 21 y mirth it much displeas d, but pleas d my woe

Dak. Tis good; though Musick oft hath such a charme To make bad, good; and good provoake to harme. I pray you tell me, hath any body enquir'd for mee here to day; much voon this time have I promis'd here to

Mer. Youhaue not bin enquir'd after . I have fat here all day

Enter Isabell

Dwk. I doe constantly believe you : the time is come euen now. I shall craue your forbearance alittle, may be I will call vpon you anone for some advantage to your Celfa

Mar. I am alwayes bound to you.

Note: Very well met, and well come:

What is the newes from this good Deputies Ifab. He hath a Garden circummur'd with Bricke, Whose westerne fide is with a Vineyard back't; And to that Vineyard is a planched gate, That makes his opening with this bigger Key This other doth command a little doore, Which from the Vineyard to the Garden leades,

There have I made my promise, upon the Heavy midle of the night, to call vpon him. Dat, But shall you on your knowledge find this way? Ifab. I have t'anea due, and wary note vpon't, With whispering, and most guiltie diligence,

The way twice ore.

In action all of precept, he did show me Duk. Are there no other tokens

Betweene you 'greed, concerning her observance? Isab. No : none but onely a repaire ith' darke. And that I have possess him, my most stay Can be but briefe: for I have made him know, I have a Servant comes with me along That flaies vpon me; whose perswasion is, I come about my Brother.

Dak. Tis well borne vp.

I have not yet made knowne to Mariana

Enter Mariona.

A word of this : what hos, within; come forth, I pray you be acquainted with this Maid, She comes to doe you good.

Ifab. I doe defire the like.

Dak, Do you perswade your selfe that I respect you?

Mar. Good Frier, I know you do, and have found it. Date. Take then this your companion by the hand

Who hath a florie readic for your care: I shall actend your leifure, but make haste The vaporous night approaches.

Mar. Wilt please you walke ande. Dute. Oh Place, and greatnes: millions of false eles Are stucke vpon thee: volumes of report Run with these false, and most contrarious Quest Vpon thy doings: thousand escapes of wit Make thee the father of their idle dreame, And racke thee in their fancies. Welcome, how agreed? Enter Marsana and Isabella.

Isab. Shee'll take the enterptrze vpon her father, If you aduite it.

Dake. It is not my consent, But my entreaty too.

Ma. Little haue you to fay When you depart from him, but fost and low, Remember now my brother.

Mar. Feare me not.

Dut. Not gentle daughter, feate you not at all: He is your husband on a pre-contract To bring you thus together 'tis no finne, Sith that the Juffice of your title to him Doth flourish the deceir . Come, let vs goc. Our Corne's to reape, for yet our Tithes to low. Exerni

Scena Secunda.

Enter Proxoft and Clambe.

Pro Come hicher fisha; can you cut off a mans head? Clo. If the man be a Bachelor Sir, I can. But if he be a married man, he's his wives head, And I can never cut off a womans head,

Pro. Come sir, leave me your snatches, and yeeld mee a direct answere. To morrow morning are to die Classdio and Barnardine: heere is in our prison a common executioner, who in his office lacks a helper, if you will take it on you to affift him, it shall redeeme you from your Gyues tif not, you shall have your full time of imprisonment, and your deliuerance with an unpittied whipping; for you have beene a notorious bawd.

Clo. Sir, I have beene an vnlawfull bawd, time out of minde, but yet I will bee content to be alswfull hangman: I would bee glad to receive some instruction from my fellow partner.

Pro. Whathos, Abborfon: where's Abborfon there? Enter Abborson.

Alh. Doe you call fir ?

Pro. Sirha, here's a fellow will helpe you to morrow In your execution : if you thinke it meet, compound with him by the yeere, and let him abide here with you, if not, wie him for the present, and dismisse him, hee cannot plead his estimation with you : he hath beene a Bawd.

Abb. A Bawd Sir? fie vpon him, he will discredit our mysterie.

Pro. Goe too Sir, you waigh equallie: a feather will turne the Scale.

Clo. Pray fir, by your good fauor . for furely fir, a good favor you have, but that you have a hanging look: Doe you call fir, your occupation a Mysterie?

Abh. L

Abb. ISir, a Mifterie.

clo. Painting Sir, I have heard fay, is a Misterie; and your Whores fir, being members of my occupation, vefing painting, do prove my Occupation, a Milteriesbut what Misterie there should be in hanging, if I should be hang'd, I cannot imagine.

Abb. Sie, u is a Mifterie.

Clo. Proofe.

Abh. Euerie true mans apparrell fits your Theefe. Clo. If it be too little for your theefe, your trae man thinkes it bigge enough. If it bee too bigge for your Theefe, your Theefe thinkes it little enough : So everie true mans appartell fits your Theefe.

Enter Procest.

Pro. Are youngreed?
Clo. Sir, I will feruehim: For I do finde your Hangman is a more penitent Trade then your Bawd: he doth ofiner aske forgivenelle.

Pro. You firsh, provide your blocke and your Aze to morrow, foure a clock.

Abb. Come on (Bawd) I will inftruct thee in my Trade : follow.

Clo. I do defire to learne fit : and I hope, if you have occasion to vie me for your ownernracy you thall finde me y'are. For truly fir, for your kindoeffe, I owe you a good turne.

Pro. Call hether Barnardine & Claudio: Th'one has my pitie; not a lot the other, Being a Murcherer, though be were my brother. Enter Claudio.

Looke, here's the Warrant Claudio, for thy death, Tis now dead midnight, and by eight to morrow
Thou must be made immortall. Where's Barrandine.

Cla. As fast lock'd vp in sleepe, 23 guiltlesse labour, When it lies starkely in the Trauellers bones,

He will not wake.

Pro. Who can do good on him? Well, go, prepare your selfe. But harke, what noise? Heaven give your spirits comfort: by, and by, Ihope it is some pardon, or repreeue For she most gentle Chudio. Welcome Father.

Enter Date.

Dake. The best, and wholsoms spirits of the night, Inuellop you, good Prouoft: who call'd heere of late?

Pro. None fince the Gurphew rung.

Duke. Not Isabell)

Pro. No.

Date. They will then ere be long Pro. What comfort is for Claudie? Duke. There's fome in hope. Pro. It is a bitter Deputie.

Duke. Not fo, not fo: his life is paralel d Buen with the firoke and line of his great luffice He doth with holie abstinence subdue That in himselse, which he spurres on his powre To qualifie in others : were he meal'd with that Which he corrects, then were he tirrannous, But this being fo, he's iust. Now are they come. This is a gentle Prouofi, fildome when The Reeled Gaoler is the friend of men: How now? what coile ? That foirir's possest with hast, That wounds th'validing Posterne with these strokes.

Pro. There he mus stay vouil the Officer Anse to let him in : he is call dvp.

Duke. Haue you no countermand for Claudio yet?

But he must die to morrow?

Fre. None Sir, nanc.

Dute. As pecre the dawning Prouoft as it is, You shall heare more ere Morning.

Pro. Happely

You fomething know : yet I beleeve there comes No countermand: no such example have vier Belides, vpon the verse fiege of luftice, Lord Angelo hath to the publike care Profest the contrarie.

Emer a Moffenger.

Daly. This is his Lords man.

Pro. And herre comes Claude's pardons Mef. My Lord hath fent you this note,

And by mee this further charge;

That you (were not from the smallest Article of it. Neither in time, matter, or other circumftance. Good morrow: for as I take it, it is almost day.

Pro. I shall obey him.

Duke. This is his Pardon purchas'd by Rich fin, For which the Pardoner himselfe is in : Hence hath offence his quicke celence. When it is borne in high Authority. When Vice makes Mercie; Mercie's fo exterided, That for the faults love, is th'offender friended.

Now Sir, what newes?

Pro. I told you: Lord Angelo (be-like) thinking me remisse In mine Office, a wakens mee

With this vinwonted putting on, methinks firangely. For he hath not vs'd it before.

Dick. Pray you leds heare.

The Laur.

What forcer you may be are to the contrary, let Cleadic be exocuted by fours of the clocke and in the afterzoone Bernatdroe: For my better fatufattion, let roce hove (Loudso) head for me by frue. Les ibu be duely perfor med wribe thought that more depends on at, then we must jet delwer. Thus faile not to doe your Office, as you will enfirere it &

What lay yo to this Sir?

Drive. What is that Barnarday, who is to be zecoted in th'afternoone?

Pro. A Bohemian borne: But here nurft vp & bred, One that is a prisoner nine yeeres old.

Duke. How came it, that the absent Duke had not eather deliver'd him to his libertie, or executed him! I haue beard it was ever his manner to do fo. Pro. His friends fill wrought Represent for him: And indeed his fact till now in the government of Lord Augelo, came not to an undoubtfull proofe.

Duke. It is now apparant?

Pra Most manifest, and not denied by himselfe. Date. Hath he borne himselfe pentendy in prison

How feemes he to be touch'd i Pro. A man that apprehends death no more dreadfully, but as a drunken fleepe, careleffe, wreakleffe, zad four eleffe of what's past, prefent, or to come: lafenfible of morrality, and desperarely morrall.

Duke. He wants advice.

Pro. He wil heare none: he hath euermore had the liberty of the prison: give him leave to efeape hence, hee would not. Drunke many times a day, if not many daies encirely drunke. We have verie oft awak't him, as if to carrie him to execution and haw'd him a feeming werrant for it, it hath not moved him at all.

Drieg.

Duke. More of him anon: There is written in your brow Prouoft, honefly and constancie; if I reade it not truly, my ancient skill beguiles me: but in the boldnes of my cunning; I will lay my selfe in hazard: Clandio, whom heere you have warrant to execute, is no greater furfeit to the Law, then Angelo who hath sentene'd him. To make you understand this in a manifested effect, I crave but soure daies respit; for the which, you are to do me both a present, and a dangerous courtesic.

Pro. Pray Sir, in what?
Duke. In the delaying death.

Pro. Alacke, how may I do it. Having the houre limited, and an expresse command, under penaltie, to deliver his head in the view of Angelo? I may make my case as Cleudio's, to crosse this in the smallest.

Duke. By the vow of mine Order, I warrant you, If my miltuctions may be your guide, Let this Barnardine be this morning executed,

And his head borne to Angelo.

Pro. Angelo hath feene them both,

And will discouer the fauour.

Duke. Oh, death's a great difguifer, and you may adde to it; Shaue the head, and fie the beard, and fay it was the defire of the penitent to be fo bat'de before his death; you know the course is common. If any thing fall to you vpon this, more then thankes and good fortune, by the Saint whom I professe, I will plead against it with my life.

Pro. Pardon me, good Father, it is against my oath. Dake. Were you sworne to the Duke, or to the De-

Pro. To him, and to his Substitutes.

Duke. You will thinke you have made no offence, if the Duke abouth the justice of your dealing?

Pro. But what likelihood is in that?

Duce. Not a refemblance, but a certainty; yet fince I fee you fearfull, that neither my coate, integrity, nor persuasion, can with ease attempt you, I wil go further then I meant, to plucke all seares out of you. Looke yousir, heere is the hand and Seale of the Duke: you know the Charracter I doubt not, and the Signet is not strange to you?

Pro. 1 know them both.

Duke: The Contents of this, is the returne of the Duke; you shall anon oner-reade it at your pleasure: where you shall finde within these two daies, he wil be heere. This is a thing that Angelo knowes not, for hee this very day receives letters of strange tenor, perchance of the Dukes death, perchance entering into some Monasterie, but by chance nothing of what is writ. Looke, th'unfolding Starre calles up the Shepheard; put not your selfe into amazement, how these things should be; all difficulties are but easise when they are knowne. Call your executioner, and off with Barnar durst head: I will give him a present shrift, and advise him for a better place. Yet you are amaz'd, but this shall absolutely resolve you: Come away, it is almost cleere dawne: Exit.

Scena Tertia.

Emer Clowne.

Clo. I am as well sequeinted heere, as I was in our house of profession: one would thinke it were Mistris Oner-dons owne house, for heere be manie of her olde Customers. First, here's yong Mr Rash, hee's in for a commoditie of browne paper, and olde Ginger, nine seore and seuencene pounds, of which hee made flue Markes readie money: marrie then, Ginger was not much in request, for the olde Women vvere all dead. Then is there heere one Mr Capper, at the suite of Master Three-Pile the Mercer, for some soure suites of Peach-colour'd Satten, which now peaches him a beggar. Then have ver heere, yong Dizze, and yong Mr Despevors, and Mr Cappersparre, and Mr Starve-Lacker the Rapper and dagger man, and yong Drop-beire that kild lustic Pudding, and Mr Fortblight the Tilter, and brave Mr Shootie the great Traveller, and wilde Hasse-Canne that stabb'd Pots, and I thinke fortle more, all great doers in our Trade, and are now so the Lords sake.

Enter Abborson.

Abb. Sirrah, bring Barnardice hether.

Clo. Mr. Barnardine, you thust rife and be hang'd, Mr Barnardine.

Abh. What hoa Barnardine.

Barvardine within.

Bar. A pox o'your throats: who makes that noyle there? What are you?

Cle. Your friends Sir, the Hangman!
You must be so good Sir to rise, and be put to death.

Bar. Away you Rogue, away, I am sleepie.

And that quickly too.

Clo: Pray Mafter Barnerdine, awake till you areex, ecuted, and sleepe afterwards.

Ab. Go in to him, and fetch him out.

Clo. He is comming Sir, he is comming: I heare his Straw ruffle.

Enter Barnardine.

Abb. Is the Axe vpon the blocke, firrah?

Cle. Verle readie Sir.

Ber. How now Abborfon?

What's the newes with you?

Abb. Truly Sir, I would defire you to clap into your prayers: for looke you, the Warrants come.

Ber. You Rogue, I have bin drinking all night,

I am not fitted for't.

Clo. Oh, the better Sir; for he that drinkes all night, and is hanged betimes in the morning, may fleepe the founder all the next day.

Enter Duke.

Abb. Looke you Sir, heere comes your ghostly Father: do weigh now thinke you?

Duke. Sir induced by my charitie, and hearing how hastily you are to depart, I am come to aduste you, Comfort you, and pray with you.

Bar. Friar, not I: I have bin drinking hard all night, and I will have more time to prepare mee, or they shall beat out my braines with billets: I will not consent to die this day, that's certaine.

Dake. Oh fir, you must: and therefore I befeech you Looke forward on the journie you shall go.

Bar. I sweare I will not die to day for anie mans perswasion.

Duke. But heare you:

Bar. Not a word: if you have anie thing to tay to me, corne to my Ward: for thence will not I to day.

Exit

Enter Prouest.

Dale. Vafit to lice, or die: oh gravell heart.

3

After

After him (Fellowes) bring him to the blocke.

Pro. Now Sir, how do you finde the prisoner? 'Duke. A creature vapre-par'd, vameet for death, And to transport him in the minde be us,

Were damnable,

Pro. Heere in the prison, Bather. There died this morning of a cruell Feavor, One Regozme, a most notorious Pirate, A man of Claudio's yeares; his beard, and head Iust of his colour. What if we do omit This Reprobate, til he were wel enelin'd, And facisfie the Deputie with the vilage Of Rapozune, more like to Claudio?

Duke. Oh, 'tis an accident that heaven provides . Dispatch sepresently, the house drawes on Prefixe by Angelo: See this be done, And fent according to command, whiles I Perfwade this rude wretch willingly to die.

Pro. This shall be done (good Father) presently: But Barnardine must die this afternoone, And how shall we continue Claudio, To saue me from the danger that might come,

If be were knownealiue

Duke. Let this be done, Put them in secret holds, both Barnardone and Claudio, Ere twice the Sun hath made his journall greeting To youd generation, you shall finds Your lafetie manifested.

Pro, I am your free dependant. Duke. Quicke, dispatch, and send the head to Angelo Now will write Letters to Angelo, (The Propost he shal beare them) whose contents Shal witnesse to him I am neere at home : And that by great Injunctions I am bound To enter publikely: him He defire To meet me at the confectated Fount, A League below the Citie; and from thenee, By cold gradation, and weale-ballanc'd forme.

We shal proceed with Angelo.

Enter Pronoft. Pro. Heere is the head, He earrie it my felfe. Dake. Convenient is it : Make a swift resurne, For I would commone with you of fuch things, That want no eare but yours.

Pro. Ilemake all speede.

I [abell within.

Ezir

Isa Peace boa, be heere.

Dake. The conque of Ifabell. She's come to know, If yet her brothers pardon be come hither: But I will keepe her ignorant of her good, To make her heavenly comforts of dispaire, When it is least expected.

Enter Isabella.

1/2. Hoa, by your leaue. Dake. Good morning to you, faire, and gracious daughter.

Ifa. The better given me by fo holy a man, Hath yet the Deputio fent my brothers pardou?

Duke. He hath released him, Ifabell, from the world, His head is off, and fent to Angelo.

Ifa. Nay, but it is not fo. Dake. It is no other,

Shew your wifedome daughter in your close parience. Isa. Oh, I wil to him, and plucke out his eies. Duk. You shal not be admitted to his fight. Isa. Vnhappie Claudio, wretched Isabell,

Injurious world, most damned Angelo

Dute. This nor hurts him, nor profits you a lot, Forbeare it therefore, give your cause to heaven, Marke what I say, which you shalfinde By eucry sillable a faithful veritie.

The Duke comes home to morrow: nay drie you: eyes, One of our Covent, and his Confessor

Grues methis instance : Already he hath carried

Notice to Escalus and Angels.

Who do prepare to weete him at the gres, There to give vp their powre: If you can pace your wif-In that good path that I would wish it go, And you shal have your bosome on this wretch, Grace of the Duke, revenges to your heart,

Ifa. I am directed by you.

And general Honor.

Dak. This Letter then to Friet Peter give. Tis that he fent me of the Dukes returne: Say, by this token, I defire his companie At Mariana's house to night. Her cause, and yours He perfect him withall, and he shall bring you Before the Duke; and to the head of Angelo Accuse him home and home. For my poore selle, I am combined by a facred Vow, And shall be absent Wend you with this Letter: Command thefe fretting waters from your eies With a light heart; trust not my holie Order If I peruert your courfe : whose heere?

Enser Lucia

Luc. Good reuen; Frier, where's the Prouoft? Dake. Not within Sir.

Luc. Oh prettie Isabella, I am pale as mine heart, to fee thine eyes fo red : thou must be patient; I am faine to dine and sup with water and bran : I dare not for my head fill my belly. One fruitful Meale would fet mec too't: but they say the Duke will be heere to Morrow. By my troth Ifabell I lou'd thy brother, if the olde fantaffical Duke of darke corners had bene at home, he had lined.

Duke. Sir, the Duke is marueilous little beholding to your reports, but the best is, he lives not in them.

Luc. Friar, thou knowest not the Duke so wel as I do : he's a better woodman then thou tak'ft him for.

Duke. Well: you'l answer this one day. Fare ye well.
Loc. Nay tartie, Ile go along with thee,

I can tel thee pretty tales of the Duke.

Dake. You have told me too many of him already fir if they be true: if not true, none were enough.

Lucio. I was once before him for getting a Weach with childe.

Dake. Did you such a thing?

Friar, I am a kind of Burre, I shal flicke

Luc. Yes marrie did I; but I was faine to forfwear it, They would elie have married me to the rotten Medler. Date. Sir your company is fairer then honeft, refl you well. Lucio. By my troth lie go with thee to the lanes end: if bandy talke offend you, we'el have very litle of it: nay

Scena Quarta.

Enter Angelo & Escalus. Efa. Every Letter he bath writ, hath difuouch'd other.

An. In most vneuen and distracted manner, his actions show much like to madnesse, pray heaven his wisedome bee not tainted : and why meet him at the gates and reliver ou rauthorities there?

Ese. Ighesse not.

Ang. And why should wee proclaime it in an howre before his entring, that if any craue redresse of iniustice, they should exhibit their petitions in the street?

Efc. He showeshis reason for that:to have a dispatch of Complaints, and to deliuer vs from deuices heereafter, which shall then have no power to stand against

Ang. Well: I befeech you let it bee proclaim'd betimes i'th' morne, lie call you at your house : give notice to fuch men of fort and fuite as ace to meete him.

Efc. I shall fir : farcyonwell.

Ang. Goodnight. This deede vnshapes me quite, makes me vapregnant And dull to all proceedings. A deflowred maid, And by an eminent body, that enfore d The Law against it? But that her render shame Will not proclaime against her maiden loffe, How might the tongue me? yet reason dares her no For my Authority beares of a credent bulke, That no particular scandall once can touch But it confounds the breather. He should have siu'd Saue that his riocous youth with dangerous fense Might in the times to come have ta'ne revenge By fo receiving a dishonor'd life With ransome of such shame: would yet he had lived Alack, when once out grace we have forgot Nothing goes right, we would, and we would not. Em.

Scena Quinta.

Enter Duhe and Frier Peter. Dake, Thefe Letters at fit time deliuer me. The Prouost knowes our purpose and our plot, The matter being a foote, keepe your instruction And hold you ever to our specials drift, Though sometimes you doe blench from this to that As caule doth minister : Goe call at Flania's house, And tell him where I stay a give the lake notice To Valencius, Rowland, and to Craffus, And bid them bring the Trumpets to the gate: But fend me Flaum firft.

Peter. It shall be speeded well. Enter Varrues.

Duke. I thank thee Variou, thou half made good half, Come, we will walke: There's other of our friends Will greet vs heere anon: my gentle Varrisu.

Scena Sexta.

Enter Isabella and Meriana. Ifab. To speak so indirectly I am loath, I would say the truth, but to accuse him so That is your part, yet I am aduis'd to dook . He faies, to vaile full purpole. Mar. Be rul'd by him.

Ifab. Befides he tells me, that if peradoenture He speake against me on the adverse side. I should not thinke it strange, for 'tis a physicke That's bitter, to sweet end.

Enter Peter.

Mar. I would Frier Pale Isab. Oh peace, the Frur is come.

Peter. Come I have found you out a stand most fit, Where you may have fuch vantage on the Date He shall not palle you:

Twice have the Trumpets founded.

The generous, and graueft Citizens Haue hent the gates, and very necre toon The Duke is entring :

Therefore hence away.

Excuest.

Actus Quintus. Scana Prima.

Emer Duke, Varriou, Lords, Angelo, Eferdes Lecto. Cuirens at fenoral doores.

Dak. My very worthy Colen, fairely met, Our old, and faithfull friend, we are glad to fee you Ang. Esc. Happy returne be to your royall grace

Duk. Many and harty thankings to you both: We have made enquiry of you, and we heare Such goodnelle of your luftice, that our foule Cannot but yeeld you forth to publique thankes Forerunning more requitall,

Ang. You make my bonds fill greater,

Dut Oh your defert speaks loud, &t I should wrong it

To locke it in the wards of cover bosome When it deserves with characters of braffe A forted residence 'gainst the tooth of time, And razure of oblinion : Gine we your hand And let the Subject fee, to make them know That outward curtefies would faine proclaime Fauours that keepe within : Come Escalea You must walke by vs, on our other band. And good supporters are you.

Enter Peter and Ifabella.

Peter. Now is your time Speake loud, and kneele before him.

Isab. Iustice, O royall Duke, vaile your regard Vpon a wrong'd (I would faine haue faid a Maid) Oh worthy Prince, dishonor not your eye By throwing it on any other obica, I ill you have heard me, in my true complaint, And given me luftice, luftice, luftice, luftice.

Dak. Relate your wrongs: In what, by whom? be briefe: Here is Lord Angelo shall gine you Iustice, Reucele your selfe to him.

Ifab. Oh worthy Duke, You bid me sceke redemption of the divell Heare me your selfe : for that which I must speake Must either punish me, not being beleeu'd, Or wring redreffe from you: Heare me : oh heare me, heere.

Ang. My Lord, her wits I feare me are not firme: She hath bin a fuitor to me, for her Brothes Cut off by course of Justice.

Ifab. By course of Justice.

Ang. And the will speake most bitterly, and firange. Ifat. Most Ifab. Most strange : but yet most truely wil I speake, That Angelo's fortworne, is it not ftrange? That Angelo's a murtherer, is't not ftrange? That Angelo is an adulterous thiefe, An hypocrite, a virgin violator, Is it not ftrange? and ftrange? Dute. Nay it is ten times frange?

Ifa. It is not trues he is Angelo. Then this is all as true, as it is strange; Nay, it is ten times true, for truth is truth To th'end of reckning.

Dake. Away with her : poore foule She speakes this in th'infirmity of sence.

1/4. Oh Prince, I consure thee as thou beleeu'st There is another comfort, then this world, That thou neglect me not, with that opinion Thus I am touch'd with madnesse: make not impossible That which but seemes valike, 'tis not impossible But one, the wickedft caitiffe on the ground May feeme as shie.as grave.as iust, as absolute : As Angelo, even to may Angelo In all his dreffings, caracts, ritles, formes, Be an arch-villaine : Beleeue it, royall Prince If he be leffe he's nothing, but he's more, Had I more name for badnesse. Duke. By mine honesty

If the be mad, as I beleeue no other, Her madnesse hath the oddest frame of sense, Such a dependancy of thing, on thing, As ere I heard in madneffe.

Ifab. Oh gracious Duke

Harpe not on that; not do not banish reason For inequality, but let your reason serue To make the truth appeare, where it seemes hid, And hide the falle feemes true.

Duk, Many that are not mad Haue fure more lacke of reason:

What would you fay?

Isab. I am the Sister of one Claudio, Condemnd upon the Act of Formication To locse his head, condemn'd by Angelo.

I, (in probation of a Sisterhood) Was fent to by my Brother; one Lucio

As then the Messenger. Luc. That's I, and't like your Grace: I came to her from Claudio, and defir'd her, To try her gracious fortune with Lord Angelo

For her poore Brothers pardon.

Ifab. That's he indeede. Duk. You were not bid to speake.

Nor wish'd to hold my peace. Duk. I wish you now then,

Pray you take note of it: and when you have A bulinesse for your selfe: pray heaven you then Be perfect.

Luc. I warrant your honor.

Date. The warrant's for your felfe: take heede to't. 1506. This Gentleman told somewhat of my Tale.

Lec. Right.

Dek. It may be right, but you are i'the wrong To speake before your time: proceed,

Isab. I went

To this pernicious Cairiffe Deputie. Dak. That's somewhat madly spoken.

Isab. Pardonit, The phrase is to the matter.

Diske. Monded againe : the matter : proceed.

Ifis. In briefe, to fet the needlesse processe by s How I perswaded, how I praid, and kneel'd, How he refeld me, and how I replide (For this was of much length) the vild conclusion I now begin with griefe, and shame to viter. He would not, but by gift of my chafte body To his concupifeible intemperate luft Release my brother; and after much debatement, My listerly remorfe, confutes mune honout, And I did yeeld to him : But the next mothe betimes, His purpole furfetting, he fends a warrant For my poore brothers head.

Dube. This is most likely.

Ifab. Oh that it were as like as it is true. (Speak'ft, One, By heaven (fond wretch) knowl not what thou Orelfe thou art fuborn'd against his honor In hatefull practife : first his Integritie Stands without blemish : next it imports no reason, That with such vehemency he should pursue Faults proper to himselfe; if he had so offended He would have waigh'd thy brother by himselfe, And not have cut him off: fome one hathfet you on: Confesse the truth, and say by whose advice Thou cam'st heere to complaine.

Ifab. And is this all? Then oh you bleffed Ministers above Keepe one in patience, and with ripened time Vnfold the euill, which is heere wrapt vp In countenance: hezuen shield your Grace from woe As I thus wrong'd, hence vnbeleaued goe.

Duke. I know you'ld saine be gone: An Officer: To prison with her: Shall we thus permit A blaffing and a scandalous breath to fall, On him to neere vs? This needs must be a practice: Who knew of your intent and comming hisher?

Ifa. One that I would were heere. Frier Laim ich. Duk. A ghostly Father, belike:

Who knowes that Lodowicke?

Luc. My Lord, I know him, tis a medling Fryer, I doe not like the man: had he been Lay my Lord, For certaine words he spake against your Grace In your retirment, I had fwing'd him foundly.

Duke. Words against mee? this 'a good Fryer belike And to fet on this wretched women here

Against our Substitute: Let this Fryer be found.

Luc. But yesternight my Lard, she and that Fryer I faw themat the prilon : a fawcy Fryar,

Is very scaruy fallow.

Peter. Bleffed be your Royal! Grace: I have flood by my Lord, and I have heard Your royall eare abus'd: first hath this woman Most wrongfully accus'd your Substitute, Who is as free from touch, or foyle with her As the from one vngot.

Dice. We did beleeve no leffe.

Know you that Frier Ladowark that the speakes of? Peter. I know him for a man divine and hely, Not scuruy, nor a temporary medler As he's reported by this Gentleman: And on my truft, a man that never yet
Did (as be vouches) mif-report your Grace.
Lee. My Lord, most villanously, beleeve it.

Peter. Well: he in time may come to cleere himleile: But at this instant be is ficke, my Lord:

Of

Of a ftrange Feauor : vpon his meere request Being come to knowledge, that there was complaint Intended gainst Lord Angelo, came I hether To speake as from his mouth, what he doth know Is true, and falle': And what he with his oath And all probation will make up full cleare Whenfoeuer he's convented : First for this woman, To suftifie this worthy Noble man-So vulgarly and personally accus'd, Her shall you heare disproued to her eyes, Till the her selfe confesse it. Duk. Good Frier, ler's heare it :

Doeyou not smile at this, Lord Angelo? Oh heauen, the vanity of wretched fooles. Give vs some seates, Come cosen Angelo, In this I'll be impartiall : be you Iudge Of your owne Caufe: Is this the Witnes Frier?

Enter Mariana.

First, let her shew your face, and after, speake. Mar. Pardon my Lord, I will not shew my face Vntill my husband bid me.

Duke. What, are you married?

Mar. No my Lord.

Duke. Areyous Maid?

Mar. No my Lord. Duk. A Widow then ?

Mar. Neither, my Lord.

Det. Why you are nothing then: neither Maid, Widow, nor Wife?

Luc. My Lord, the may be a Puncke : for many of them. are neither Maid, Widow, nor Wife. Duk, Silence that fellow: I would he had some cause to prattle for himfelfe.

Luc. Well my Lord.

Mar. My Lord, I doe confesse I nere was married, And I confesse besides, I am no Maid, I have known my husband, yet my husband

Knowes not, that ever he knew me.

Luc. He was drunk then, my Lord, it can be no better. Duk, For the benefit of filence, would thou wert fo to. Luc. Well, my Lord.

Duk. This is no witnesse for Lord Angelo.

Mar. Now I come to't, my Lord. Shee that Iccuses him of Fornication, In selfe-same manner, doth accuse my husband, And charges him, my Lord, with such a time, When I'le depose I had him in mine Armes With all th'effect of Loue, Ang. Charges the moe then me?

Mar. Not that I know.

Duk, No? you fay your husband

Mer. Why iuft, my Lord, and that is Angelo, Who thinkes he knowes, that he nere knew my body, But knows, he thinkes, that he knowes Ifabels.

Ang. This is a strange abuse: Let's see thy face. Mar. My husband bids me, now I will vnmaske. This is that face, thou cruell Angelo

Which once thou fworst, was worth the looking on: This is the hand, which with a vowd contract Was fast belockt in thine: This is the body That tooke away the match from I sabell,

And did supply thee at thy garden-house In her Imagin'd person.

Dake. Know you this woman? Luc. Carnallie she saies,

Dat Sirha, no more.

Lec. Enoug my Lotd.

Ang. My Lord, I must confesse, I know this woman, And five yeres fince there was some speech of marriage Betwixt my felfe, and her: which was broke off, Partly for that her promis'd proportions Came short of Composition: But in chiefe For that her reputation was dif-valued In leuitie: Since which time of five yeres I neuer spake with her, saw her, nor heard from her Vpon my faith, and honor, Mer. Noble Prince,

As there comes light from heaven, and words fro breath,

As there is sence in truth, and truth in vertue, I am affianced this mans wife, as firongly As words could make vp vowes: And my good Lord, But Tuesday night last gon, in's garden house, He knew meas a wife. As this is true, Let me in fafety raife me from my knees,

Or else for ever be confixed here A Marble Monument.

Ang. I did but smile till now, Now, good my Lord, give me the scope of suffice, My patience here is touch'd: I doe perceiue These poore informall women, are no more But instruments of some more mightier member That fets them on. Let me haue way, my Lord To finde this practife out.

Duke. I, with my heart, And punish them to your height of pleasure. Thou foolish Friet, and thou pernicious woman Compact with her that's gone: thinkst thou, thy oathes, Though they would swear downe each particular Saint, Were testimonies against his worth, and credit That's feald in approbation? you, Lord Efcolus Sit with my Cozen, lend him your kinde paines To finde out this abuse, whence 'tis deriu'd. There is another Frier that fet them on,

Let him be fent for. Peter. Would he were here, my Lord, for he indeed Hath fer the women on to this Complaint; Your Prouost knowes the place where he abides,

And he may fetch him.

Duke. Goe, doe it instantly: And you, my noble and well-warranted Cosen Whom it concernes to heare this matter forth, Doe with your injuries as feemes you best In any chastifement; I for a while Will leave you; but sir not you till you have Well determin'd vpon these Slanderers.

Exit. Esc. My Lord, wee'll doe it throughly : Signior Lucie, did not you fay you knew that Frier Lodowick to be a dishonest person?

Luc. Cucullus non facit Monachum, honest in nothing but in his Clothes, and one that hath fpoke most villanous speeches of the Duke.

Esc. We shall intreat you to abide heere till he come, and inforce them against him: we shall finde this Frier a notable fellow.

Luc. As any in Vienna, on my word.

Esc. Call that same Isabell here once againe, I would speake with her: pray you, my Lord, giue mee leaue to question, you shall see bow He handle her.

Luc. Not better then he, by her owne report.

Esc. Say you?

Lus. Marry fir, I thinke, if you handled her privately

She would fooner confesse, perchance publikely she'll be asham'd.

Enter Duke, Pronost, Isabella.

Esc. I will goe darkely to worke with her.

Luc. That's the way : for women are light at mid-

Efc. Come on Mistris, here's a Gentlewoman,

Denies all that you have faid.

Luc. My Lord, here comes the rascall I spoke of, Here, with the Promoft.

Esc. In very good time: speake not you to him, till we call vpon you.

Luc. Mum

Efc. Come Sir, did you fet these women on to flander Lord Angelo? they have confes'd you did.

Duk. Tisfalle.

E/c. How? Know you where you are?

Duk. Respect to your great place; and let the divell Be formetime honour'd, for his burning throne. Where is the Duke?'tis he should heare me speake.

Esc. The Duke's in vs : and we will heare you speake,

Looke you speake iustly.

Dut. Boldly, at leaft. But oh poore foules, Come you to fecke the Lamb here of the Fox ; Good night to your redresse: Is the Duke gone? Then is your cause gone too : The Dake's vniust, Thus to retort your manifest Appeale, And put your triall in the villsines mouth, Which here you come to accuse.

Luc. This is the rascall: this is he I spoke of.

Est. Why thou vareuerend, and vahallowed Fryer: Is't not enough thou halt fuborn'd these women. To accuse this worthy man? but in foule mouth, And in the winesse of his proper eare, To call him villaine; and then to glance from him, To th' Duke himselfe, to taxe him with Injustice? Take him hence; to th' racke with him : we'll towze you loynt by joynt, but we will know his purpofe:

What? vniuft?

Duk. Benot so hot : the Duke dare No more Aretch this finger of mine, then he Darerackehis owne; his Subject am I not, Nor here Provinciall: My businesse in this State Mademe a looker on here in Vienna, Where I have feene corruption boyle and bubble, Till it ore-run the Stew : Lawes, for all faults, But faults fo countenanc'd, that the strong Statutes Stand like the forfeites in a Barbers shop, As much in mocke, as marke.

· Efc. Slander to th' State: Away with him to prison.

Ang. What can you rouch against him Signios Lucio? Is this the man that you did tell vs of?

Luc. 'Tis he, my Lord: come hither goodman baldpare, doe you know me?

Duk. I remember you Sir, by the found of your voice, I metyou at the Prison, in the absence of the Duke.

Luc. Oh, did you so? and do you remember what you said of the Duke.

Duk. Most notedly Sir.

Luc. Do you lo Sir: And was the Duke a flesh-monger, a foole, and a coward, as you then reported him

Dak. You must (Sir) change persons with me, ere you make that my report : you indeede spoke so of him, and much more, much worle.

Luc. Oh thou damnable fellow i did not I plucke thee by the note, for thy speeches?

Duk, I protest, I love the Duke, as I love my selfe.

Ang. Harke how the villaine would close now, after his treasonable abuses.

Efc. Such a fellow is not to be talk d withall: Away with him to prison: Where is the Provost? avisy with him to prison . lay bolts enough vpon him: let him speak no more : away with those Giglets too, and with the other confederate companion.

Duk, Stay Sir, stay a while.

Ang. What, resists be? helpe him Lucio.

Luc. Come sir, come sir; so fish, why you bald-pated lying rascall-you mast be hooded must you? thow your knaues vilege with a poxe to you: show your sheepe-biting face, and be hang'd an houre: wall't

Duk, Thou art the first knaue, that ere mad it a Dube. First Prouest, let me bayle these gentle three : Sneake noraway Sir, for the Fryer, and you. Must have a word anon: lay hold on him.

Luc. This may prove worse then hanging.

Dat, What you have spoke, I pardon: fit you downe, We'll borrow place of him; Sir, by your leaue: Ha'ft thou or word, or wit, or impudence. That yet can doe thee office ? If thou ba'ft Rely vpon it, till my tale be heard, And hold no longer out, Ang. Oh, my dread Lord, I should be guiltire then my guiltinesse, To thinke I can be undiscerneable, When I perceiue your grace, like powre divine, Hath look'd vpon my paffes. Then good Prince, No longer Sellion hold vpon my fhame, But let my Triall, bemine owne Confession: Immediate sentence then, and sequent death, Is all the grace I beg.

Duk. Come hither Mariana,

Say: was't thou ere contracted to this woman?

Ang. I was my Lord.

Dak. Goe take her hence, and marry her instantly. Doe you the office (Fryer) which confummate, Returne him here againe: goe with him Prouoft. E. Efe. My Lord, I am more amaz'd at his dishonor.

Then at the Arangeneffe of it. Duk. Come hisher Ifabell,

Your Frur is now your Prince: As I was then Advertyfing, and holy to your bufineffe, (Not changing beart with habit) I am still, Atturnied at your feruice.

Isab. Oh give me pardon That I, your vassaile, have imploid, and pain'd

Your vnknowne Souerzigntie.

Duk, You are pardon'd Ifabel: And now, deere Maide, be you as free to vs. Your Brothers death I know firs at your heart: And you may maruaile, why I obscur'd my selfe, Labouring to faue his life : and would not rather Make rash remonstrance of my hidden powre, Then let him so be loft : oh most kinde Maid, It was the swift celeritie of his death, Which I did thinke, with flower foot came on, That brain'd my purpose: but peace be with him, That life is better life past fearing death, Then that which lives to feare: make it your comfort,

So happy is your Brother.

Enter Angelo, Maria, Peter, Prouost.

Isab. I doe my Lord.

Duk. For this new-maried man, approaching here, Whose falt imagination yet hath wrong'd Your well defended honor : you must pardon For Mariana's fake: But as he adjudg'd your Brother, Being criminall, in double violation Offacred Chastitie, and of promise-breach, Thereon dependant for your Brothers life, The very mercy of the Law cries out Most audible, euen from his proper tongue. An Angelo for Claudio, death for death. Hafte ftill paies hafte, and leafure, answers leafure; Like doth quit like, and Measure still for Measure : Then Angele, thy fault's thus manifested; Which though thou would'it deny, denies thee vantage. We doe condemne thee to the very Blocke Where Claudio Hoop'd to death, and with like hafte. Away with him.

Mar. Oh my most gracious Lord, I hope you will not mocke me with a husband?

Dak. It is your husband mock't you with a husband, Consenting to the safe-guard of your honor, I thought your marriage fit : elfe Imputation, For that he knew you, might teproach your life And chooke your good to come: For his Possessions, Although by consutation they are ours; We doe en-state, and widow you with all, To buy you abetter husband.

Mar. Oh my deere Lord, I craue no other, nor no beeter man.

Duke. Neuer craue him, we are definitiue.

Mar: Gentlerny Liege. Dube. You doe but lonse your labour. Away with him to death: Now Sir, to you.

Mer. Oh my good Lord, fweet ifabell, take my part, Lend me your knees, and all my life to come,

I'll lend you all my life to doe you feruice. Duke. Against all sence you doe importane her, Should she kacele downe, in mercie of this fact,

Her Brothers ghost, his paued bed would breake,

And take her bence in horror. Mar. Ifabell:

Sweet Ifabel, doe yet but kneele by me, Hold up your hands, fay nothing : I'll speake all. They say best men are moulded out of faults, And for the most, become much more the better For being a little bad: So may my husband. Oh Ifabel: will you not lend a knee?

Duke. He dies for Claudie's death.

Lookeifit please you, on this man condemn'd, As if my Brother liu'd : I partly thinke, A due sinceritic gouerned his deedes, Till he did looks on me: Since it is lo, Let him not die : my Brother had but lustice, In that he did the thing for which he dide. For Angelo, his A& di I not ore-take his bad intent, And must be buried but as an intent That perish'd by the way: thoughts are no subjects Intents, but meerely thoughts.

Mar. Meesely my Lord.
Dut. Your suite's vnprofitable: fland vp I say: I have bethoughe me of another fault.

Proxoft, how came it Claudio was beheaded

At an vnusuall howre?

Pro. It was commanded fo. Duke. Had you a speciall warrant for the deed?

Pro. No my good Lord: it was by private message.

Duk. For which I doe discharge you of your office,

Give vp your keyes.

Pro. Pardon me, noble Lord, I thought it was a fault, but knew it not, Yet did repent me after more aduice, For teltimony whereof, one in the prison That should by private order else have dide, I have referv'd alive.

Duk. What's he?
Pro. His name is Barnardine.

Duke. I would thou hadft done so by Clandio: Goe fetch him hither, let me looke vpon him.

Esc. I am forry, one so learned, and so wife As you, Lord Angelo, have stil appear'd, Should flip fo groffelie, both in the hear of bloud And lacke of temper'd judgement afterward.

Ang. I am forrie, that fuch forrow I procure, And so deepe sticks it in my penitent heart, That I crave death more willingly then mercy , 'Tismy deferring, and I doe entreat it.

Enter Barnardine and Fronost, Claudio, Iulietta.

Dake. Which is that Barnardine? Pro. This my Lord.

Dake. There was a Friar told me of this man. Sinha, thou are faid to have a stubborne foule That apprehends no further then this world, And fquar'ft thy life according : Thou're condemn'd, But for those earthly faults, I quit them all, And pray thee take this mercie to provide For better times to come: Frier advise him, I leave him to your hand . What muffeld fellow's that?

Pro. This is another prisoner that I sau'd, Who should have di'd when Clandio lost his head,

As like almost to Claudio, as himselfe.

Duke. If he be like your brother, for his fake Is he perdon'd, and for your louelie fake Give me your hand, and fay you will be mine, He is my brother too: But fitter time for that: By this Lord Angelo perceives he's fafe, Methinkes I fee a quickning in his eye: Well Angelo, your euill quits you well. Looke that you love your wife : her worth, worth yours I finde an apt remission in my selfe: And yet heere's one in place I cannot pardon, You firha, that knew me for a foole, a Coward, One all of Luxurie, an affe, a mad man: Wherein haue I fo deferu'd of you

That you extoll me thus? Luc. Faith my Lord, I spoke it but according to the trick : if you will hang me for it you may : but I had rather it would please yon, I might be winpt.

Dodg. Whipt first, sir, and hang'd after. Proclaime it Prouost round about the Citic; If any woman wrong'd by this lewd fellow (As I have heard him sweare himselfe there's one vokom he begot with childe) let her appeare, And he shall marry her : the nuptiell finish'd, Lea'alm be whipt and hang'd.

Lac. I befeech your Highnesse doe not marry me to a Whore: your Highnesse said ouen now I made you a Duke, good my Lord do not recumpence me, in making me a Cuckold.

Duk. Vpon

Measure for Measure.

Duke. Vpon mine honor thou Chalt marrie her. Thy flanders I forgive, and therewithall Remit thy other forfests : take him to prifon, And see our pleasure herein executed.

Luc. Marrying a punke my Lord, is prelling to death,

Whipping and hanging.

Duke. Slandering a Prince deserves it. She Claudio that you wrong'd, looke you restore. I oy to you Mariana, love her Angelo: I have confes'd her, and I know her vertue. Thanks good friend, Escalus, for thy much goodnelle, There's more behinde that is more grasulate. Thanks Prouoft for thy care, and secrecie, We shall imploy thee in a worthier place. Forgiue him Augelo, that brought you home The head of Ragozine for Claudio's, Th'offence pardons it felfe. Deere Ifabe 3, I have a motion much imports your good, Whereto if you'll a willing care incline; What's mine is yours, and what is yours is mine So bring vs to our Pallace, where wee'll show What's yet behinde, that meete you all should know.

The Scene Vienna.

The names of all the Actors.

Vincentio : the Duke. Angelo, the Deputte. Escalus, an aucient Lord. Claudio, a gong Gentleman. Lucio, a fantastique. 2. Other like Gentlemen. Prouoft.

Thomas. Elboro, a simple Constable. Froth, a foolifb Gentleman. Clowne. Abhorson, an Executioner. Barnardine, a dissolute prisoner. I sabella, sister to Claudio. Mariana, betrothed to Angelo Inlies, beloned of Claudio. Francisca, a Nun. Mistris Ouer-don, a Band.

FINIS.

The Comedie of Errors.

A Elus primus, Scena prima.

Enter the Duke of Ephelus, with the Merchant of Siracula, laylor, and other accendance.

Marchant.

Rocced Salinus to procure my fall,

And by the doome of deathend woes and all,

Duke. Merchant of Siracufa, plead no more.

I am not partiall to infringe our Lawes;

The enmity and discord which of late Sprung from the rancorous outrage of your Duke, To Merchants our well-dealing Countrimen, Who wanting gilders to redeeme their lines, Haue feal'd his rigorous statutes with their blouds, Excludes all pitty from our threatning lookes: For fince the mortall and intestine iatres Twixt thy feditious Countrimen and vs. It hath in folenne Synodes beene decreed, Both by the Siracufians and our felues,: To admit no trafficke to our adverse townes: Nay more, if any borne at Ephefus Be feene at any Siracufian Marts and Fayres : Againe, if any Stracusan borne Come to the Bay of Epbefus, he dies: His goods confiscate to the Dukes dispose, Vnlesse a thousand markes be levied To quit the penalty, and to ransome him : Thy fubitance, valued at the highest rate, Cannot amount vuto a hundred Markes, Therefore by Law thou are condemn'd to die. Mer. Yet this my comfort, when your words are done,

My woes end likewife with the evening Sonne.

Duk. Well Siracufian; fay in briefe the caufe
Why thou departed from thy native home?

And for what caufe thou cam's to Epbefus

Mer. A heuuler taske could not have beene imposid,
Then I to speake my griefes vnspeakeable:
Yet that the world may witnesse that my end
Was wrought by nature, not by vile offence,
Ile vtter what my forrow gives me leave.
In Swazusa was I bome, and wedde
Vnto a woman, happy but for me,
And by me; had not our hap beene bad:
With her I livid in ioy, our wealth increess
By prosperous voyages I often made
To Epidamium, till my sactors death,
And he great care of goods at randone left,
Drew me from kinde embracements of my spouse;
From whom my absence was no fixe moneths olde,
Besote her selfe (almost aefainting vnder

The pleasing punishment that women beare) Had made provision for her following me. And foone, and fafe, arrived where I was : There had the not beene long, but the became A toyfull mother of two goodly fornes: And, which was firange, the one so like the other, As could not be diffing wish'd but by names. That very howre, and in the felfe-fame Inne, A meane woman was delivered Of fuch a burthen Male, twins both alike : Those, for their parents were exceeding poore, bought, and brought vp to attend my fonnes. My wife, not meanely prowd of two fuch boyes, Made daily motions for our home returne: Vnwilling Tagreed, alas, too soone wee came aboord. A league from Epidamium had we faild Before the alwaies winde-obeying deepe Gaue any Tragicke Instance of our harme: But longer did we not retaine much hope; For what obscured lightshe heavens did grant, Did but conuay vnto our fearefull mindes A doubtfull warrant of immediate death, Which though my selfe would gladly have imbrac'd, Yer the incessant weepings of my wife, Weeping before for what the saw must come, And pitteous playnings of the prettie babes That mourn'd for fashion, ignorant what to feare, Forthme to feeke delayes for them and me, And this it was: (for other meanes was none) The Sailors fought for fafety by our boate, And left the ship then linking ripe to vs My wife, more carefull for the latter borne, Had fattned him vnto a small spare Mast, Such as lea-faring men prouide for stormes : To him one of the other twins was bound, Whil ft I had beene like heedfull of the other. The children thus dispos'd, my wife and I, Fixing our eyes on whom our care was fixt, Fastned our selves at eyther end the mast, And floating straight, obedient to the streame, Was carried towards Corintb, as we thought. At length the sonne gazing vpon the earth, Disperse those vapours that offended vs, And by the benefit of his wished light The feas waxt calme, and we discouered Two shippes from farre, making amaineto vs: Of Carines that, of Epidarus this, But ere they came, oh let me fay no more, Gather the sequell by that went before. Duk. Nay forward old man, dee not breake off fo,

For we may pitty, though not pardon thee. March. Oh had the gods done lo, I had not no n Worthily tearm'd their mercilette to vs : For ere the ships could more by twice five leagues, We were encountred by a mighty rocke, Which being violently borne vp, Our helpefull thip was splitted in the midft; So that in this valuat divorce of vs, Forcune had lefe to both of vs alike, What to delight in, what to forrow for, Her part, poore foule, feeming as burdened With leffer waight, but not with leffer woe, Was carried with more speed before the winde, And in our fight they three were taken vp By Fishermen of Coristo, as we thought. At length another thip had leiz'd on vs , And knowing whom it was their hap to faue, Gaue bealthfull welcome to their flup-wrackt gueffa, And would have refe the Fishers of their prey, Had not their backe beene very flow of faile; And therefore homeward did they bend their course. Thus have you heard me four'd from my bliffe, That by misfortunes was my life prolong'd, To tell fad ftories of my owne mishaps.

Dute. And for the take of them thou forrowest for Doe methe fauour to dilate at full,
What have befeloe of them and they till now.

Alerch. My yangele boy, and yet my eldelt care, At eighteene yeeres became inquisitive After his brother; and importund me That his attendant, fo his case was like, Reft of his brother, but retain'd his name Might beare him company in the quest of him: Whom whil fil laboured of a load to fee, I hazarded the loffe of whom I lou'd. Five Sommers have I spene in farthest Greeze, Roming cleane through the bounds of Afia, And coasting homeward, came to Ephesia Hopeleffe to finde, yet loth to leave vnfought Or that, or any place that harbours men : But heere must end the story of my life, And Imppy were I in my timelie death, Could all my travells warrant me they live.

Duke. Haplesse Egess whom the sales have trested To beare the extremitte of dire mishap:
Now trust the, were it not against our Lawes,
Against my Crowne, my oath, my dignity,
Which Princes would they msy not dispuill,
My soule should sue as adoptate for thee:
But though thou art adjudged to the death,
And passed sentence may not be reess?
But to our honours great disparagement:
Yes will I sauour thee in what I can;
Therefore Marchant, lie limit thee this day
To seeke thy helpe by beneficiall helpe,
Try all the friends thou hast in Ephasse,
Beg thou, or borrow, to make vp the summe,
And live: if no, then thou art doom'd to die:
Laylor, take him to thy custodie.

Itsler. I will my Lord.

Merch. Hopelesse and helpelesse doth Egean wend,
But to procrassinate his livelesse end.

Exeum

Enter Antipholo Erwei, a Marchant, and Department.

Mer. Therefore give out you are of Epidamismo,
Left that your goods too foone be conflicate:

This very day a Syrampian Marchant la apprenended for a rivall hore, And not being able to ony out his life, According to the flatute of the towne, Dies are the wearie funne for in the West: There is your mortic that I had to keepe.

Ane. Goe beare it to the Centance, where we hoft and flay there Dremo, till I come to thee; Within this houre it will be dinner time, Till that Ile view the memore of the towne, Perule the traders, gaze upon the buildings, And then returne and ficepe within mine Inne, For with long trausile I am fifte and viewie. Get thee away.

Dro. Many a man would take you at your worl, And goeindeed shauleg fo good emeane.

Exis Drosslu,

Ant. A truftie villaine fir, that very oft,
When I am dull with care and melencholly,
Lightens my humour with his merry lefts:
What will you walke with me about the towne,
And then goe to my Inne and diae with me?

E.Mar. Is mindred fir to certaine Marchants, Of whom I hope to make much benefit: I crave your pardon, foone at fine a clocke, Pleafe you, lie meete with you upon the Mart, And afterward confort you till bed time My prefent businesse cals me from you now.

Ant. Farewell till then: I will goe loofe my felfe, Andwander up and downe to view the Citie.

E. Mar. Sir, I commend you to your owne continu.

Ant. He that commends me to mine owne content,
Commends me to the thing I cannot get i
I to the world am like a drop of water,
That in the Ocean feekes another drop,
Who failing there to finde his fellow forth,
(Vnfeene, inquifitine) confounds himfelfe.
So I, to finde a Mother and a Brother,
In quest of them (vnheppies) loose my selfe.

Enter Dromie of Ephefies. Here comes the almanacke of my true date: What now? How chance thou an resum'd to form

E.Dro. Return'd fo foone, rather approacht too face:
The Capon burns, the Pig fals from the fpit;
The clocke hath frucken twelve upon the bell:
My Miffris made it one upon my cheake:
She is fo hot because the meate is colde:
The meatest colde, because you come not home:
You come not home, because you have no flormacke:
You have no flormacke, having broke your fast:
But we that know what this to fast and pray,
Are penitent for your default to day.

Ant. Sop in your winde fir, tell me this I pray?
Where have you left the many that I gaue you.
E.Dro. Oh fixe pence that I had a weniday lan,

To pay the Sadler for my Mistris crupper: The Sadler had it Sir, I kept it not.

Ast. I am not in a sporting histor now:
Tell me, and deliy not, where is the monie?
We being strangers here, bow dar'st thou trust
So great a charge from thine owne custodie.

E. Dro. I pray you iest fir as you fit at dinact:
I from my Mistris come to you in post:
If I returne I shall beposindeede.

For sheavill scoure your fault voon my page: Methinkes your maw, like mine, should be your cooke, And fizike you home without a messenger.

zint. Come Dramio, come, thefe iefts are out of feston, Referve them till a merrier hours then this:

Where is the gold I gaue in charge to thee?

E.Dro. To me fir? why you gaue no gold to me?

Ans. Come on fir knaue, have done your foolishnes,
And tell me how thou hast disposed thy charge.

E.Dro. My charge was but to fatch you so the Mart

Home to your house, the Phanix fir, to dinner;

My Mistris and her fifter staies for you.

Ant. Now & I sin a Christian answer me, In what fafe place you have bellow'd my monle; Or I shall breake that merrie sconce of yours That stands on tricks, when I am vndispas'd: Where is the thousand Markes thou hadil of me?

E.Dro. I have some markes of yours vpou my pate: Some of my Militis markes upon my shoulders: But not a thousand markes betweene you both. If I should pay your worship those againe, Perchance you will not beare them patiently.

Ant. Thy Mistris markes? what Mistris slave hast thou? E. Dro. Your wor ships wife, my Mistris at the Phanix; She that doth fast till you come home to dinner: And praies that you will hie you home to dinner.

Ans. What wilt thou flout me thus vuto my face

Being forbid? There take you that fir knaue. E. Dro. What meane you fir, for God sake hold your Nay, and you will not fir, lle take my heeles.

Execus Dromio Ep. Ant. Voon my life by some devile or other, The villaine is ore-wrought of all my monie.
They fay this towne is full of colenage: As nimble luglers that deceive the eie: Darke working Sorcerers that change the minde: Soule-killing Witches, that deforme the bodie: Difguiled Cheaters, prating Mountebankes; And manie such like liberties of sinne: If it prove fo, I will be gone the fooner: He to the Centaur to goe feeke this flaue, I greatly feare my monie is not fafe.

Exit.

Altus Secundus.

Enter Adriana, wife to Amirholis Screptus, with Luciana ber Sifter.

Adr. Neither my husband nor the flave return'd, That in such haste I fent to seeke his Master?

Sure Luciana it is two a clocke.

Luc. Perhaps some Merchant hath inuited him, And from the Mart be's formewhere gone to dinner? Good Sister let vs dine, and neuer fret; A man is Maker of his libertie : Time is their Master, and when they see time, They'll goe or come; if lo, be patient Sifter. Adr. Why should their libertle then ours be more? Luc. Because their bufinesse stull lies out soore.

Air. Looke when I serve him to, he takes it thus. Line. Oh, know he is the bridle of your will.

Adr. There's none but after will be bridled fo.

Lise. Why, headstrong liberty is lashe with woe There's nothing situate voder heavens eye, Luc hath his bound in earth, in fea, in skie. The beafts, the fifnes, and the winged fowles Are their males subjects, and at their controlles: Man more divine, the Master of all these, Lord of the wide world, and wilde watry feas, Indued with incellectuall fence and foules, Of more preheminence then fish and fowles Are massers to their females, and their Lords: Then let your will attend on their accords.

Adri. This feruitude makes you to keepe viswed. Luni. Not this, but troubles of the marriage bed. Ad, But were you wedded, you wold best fome fway Luc. Ere l'learne loue, Ile practise to obey.

Ad. How if your husband flart some other where? Luc. Till he come home 2 gaine, I would forbeare.

Adr. Patience vnmou'd, no maruel though fhe paule, They can be meeke, that have no other cause: A wretched foule bruis'd with aduerfitie, We bid be quiet when we heare it crie. But were we burdned with like waight of paine. As much, or more, we should our sclues complaint ? So thou that half no vakinde mate to greeue thee, With viging helpelelle patience would releeue and; But if thou live to fee like right bereft.

This foole-beg a patience in thee will be left.

Luci. Well I will many one day but to trie:

Heere comes your man, now is your husband nie,

Exter Dromio Eph.

Adr. Say, is your tardie mafter now as hand? E. Dro. Nay, hee's actoo hands with mee, and that my two eares can witnesse.

Adr. Say, didit thou speake with him? knowll thou his minde?

E. Dre. I,I,he cold his minde vpon mine eare, Beshrewhis hand, I scarce could understand it.

Lue. Spake hee fo doubtfully, thou couldst not feele his meaning.

E. Dro. Nay, hee strooke so plainly. I could too well feele his blowes; and withall so doubtfully, that I could fearce understand them.

Adri. But say, I prethee, is he comming home? It seemes he hash great care to please his wife.

E. Dro. Why Missresse, fure my Master is home mad. Adri. Plozne mad, chon villaine?

E.Dro. I meme not Cuckold mad.

But fure he is flarke med: When I defe'd him to come home to dinner, Heask'd me for a hundred markes in gold: 'Tiz dinner time, quoth I: my gold, quoth he:
Your mest doth burne, quoth I: my gold quoth he: Will you come, quoth I: my gold, quoth he; Where is the thousand markes I gave thee villaine? The Pigge quoth I, is burn'd: my gold, quoth be My mitterffe, fir, quoth I: hang vp thy Miftreffe: I know not thy miftreffe, out on thy miftreffe.

Luci. Quoth who?

E.Dr. Quoth my Mafter, 1 know quoth he, no house, no wife, no mistresse: so that my arrant due voto my tongue, I thanke him, I bare home vpon my shoulders for in conclusion, he did beat me there.

Adri. Go back againe, thou flave, & fetch him home. Dro. Goe backe againe, and be new beaten home e Por Gods fake fend some other messenger.

H S Adri. Backe

Adri. Backe flave, or I will breake thy pate a-croffe. Dro. And he will bleffe y croffe with other beating ? Betweene you, I shall have a holy head.

Adri. Hence prating pelant, etch thy Master home.
Dro. Am I foround with you, as you with me, That like a foot-ball you doe fourneme thus a You fourne me hence, and he will fourne me hither, If I last in this service, you must ease me in leather.

Last. Fie how impatience lowreth in your face. Adri. His company must do his minions grace, Whil'ft I at home starue for a metrie looke . Hath homelie age th'alluring beauty tooks From my poore cheeke? then he hash wasted it. Are my discourses dull? Barren my wit, If voluble and tharpe discourse be mar'd, Vakindnesse blunts it more then marble hard. Doe their gay vestments his affections baite? That's not my fault, hee's mafter of my flate. What ruines are in me that can be found, By him not ruin'd? Then is he the ground Of my defeatures. My decayed faire, A funnic looke of his, would foone repaire. But, too vnruly Deere, he breakes the pale, And feedes from home ; poore I am but his stale.

Luci. Selfe-harming fealousie; sie beat it hence. Ad. Vnfeeling fools can with fuch wrongs dispence :

I know his eye doth homage other-where, elfe, what lets it but he would be here? Sifter, you know he promis'd me a chaine, Would that alone, a loue he would detaine, So he would keepe faire quarter with his bed I fee the Iewell best enamaled Will loofe his beautie: yet the gold bides fill That others touch, and often touching will. Where gold and no man that hath's name, By falfhood and corruption doth it shame a Since that my beautie cannot please his eie, He weepe (what's left away) and weeping die.

Luci. How manie fond fooles ferue mad Jeloulie?

Enter Antipholis Errots.

Aut. The gold I game to Dromio is laid up Safe at the Centaur, and the heedfull flaue Is wandred forth in care to feeke me out By computation and mine hofts report. I could not speake with Dramo, fince at first I fent him from the Mart? fee here he comes. Enter Dromio Stracufia.

How now fir, is your merrie humor alter'd? As you love ftroakes, to ieft with me againe : You know no Centaur? you receiv'd no gold? Your Mistrelle sent to have me home to dinner? My house was at the Phanix? Wast thou mad, That thus fo madlie thou did didft answere me?

S.Dro. What answer fir ? when spake I such a word? E.Ant. Euen now, euen here, not halfe an howre fince. S. Dro. I did not see you fince you fent me hence Home to the Contact with the gold you gave ras.

Aut. Villaine, thou didft denie the golds receit, And toldit me of a Mistresse, and a dinner, For which I hope thou feltif I was displess'd.

S. Dro: I am glad to fee you in this merrie vaine, What meanes this iest, I pray you Master tell me? Aut. Yea, dost thou icere & flows me in the teeth? Thinkst I iest? hold, take thou that, & that. Beast Dro.

S.Dr. Hold fir, for Gods fake, now your iest is earnest,

Vpon what bargsine do you give it me?

Aurob. Because that I farmiliarle sometimes Doe vie you for my foole, and chat with you. Your fawcincile will iest upon my loue, And make a Common of my ferlous howres, When the funce shines, let foolish gnats make sport, But creepe in crannies, when he hides his bearnes: If you will iest with me, know my afred, And fashion your demeanor to my lookes, Or I will beat this method in your sconce.

S. Dro. Sconce call you stiff you would leave batte ring, I had rather have it a head, and you vie these blows long, I must get a sconce for my head, and Insconce it to, or elfe I shall feek my wit in my shoulders, but I pray fir, why am I beaten?

Am, Doft thou not know?

S. Dre, Nothing fir, but that I am besten.

Am. Shall I tell you why?

S. Dro. I fir, and wherefore; for they fay, every why hath a wherefore.

Am. Why first for flowing me, and then wherefore, for viging it the second time to me.

S. Dro. Was there ever anie man thus beaten out of lesson, when in the why and the wherefore, is ocitiver rime nor reason. Well fir, I thanke you.

Ant. Thanke me fit, for what?

S. Dra. Marry fit, for this something that you game me

Ant. He make you amends next, to give you nothing for fomething. But fay fit, is it dinner time?

S.Dro. No fir, I thinke the mean wants that I have

Am. In good time Ers wher's that?

S. Dro. Bafting.

Ant. Well fir, then 't will be drie.

S.Dro. If it be fir, I pray you can none of it.
Aut. Your reason?

S. Dro. Loft it make you chollericke, and purchase me another drie baffing.

Am. Well fir, learne to left in good time, there's a time for all things.

S.Dro. I durst have denied that before you vvere fo

Ams. By what rule fir?

S. Dro. Marry fir, by a releas plaine as the plaine bald pace of Fether time himselfe.

Am. Let's heare it.

S.Dro. There's no time for a man to recover his helre that growes bald by nature.

Ans. May he not doe it by fine and recouerie?

S. Dro. Yes, to pay a fine for a perewig, and recover the loft haire of another man.

Am. Why, is Time furth a niggard of haire, being (as it is) so plentifull an excrement?

S.Dro. Beczule it is a bleffing that hee bestower on beafts, and what he hath scanted there in haire, her hath ginen them in wit.

Aus. Why, but theres manie a man both more haire then wit.

S. Dre. Not a man of those but he hath the wit to lose

Am. Why thou didft conclude heiry men plain dezlers without wit.

S.Dro. The plainer dealer, the fooner loft; yet he loo-fesh it in a kinde of iollitie.

An. For what reason.

S. Dro. For two, and found ones to.

An. Ney

Au. Nay not found I pray you.

S. Dro. Sure ones then.

An. Nay, not fure in a thing falfing.

S.Dro. Certaine ones then.

An. Name them.

S. Dro. The one to faue the money that he spends in trying: the other, that at dinner they should not drop in his porrage.

An. You would all this time have prou'd, here is no time for all things.

S. Dro. Marry and did fir: namely, in no time to recover haire loft by Nature.

An. But your reason was not subfantiall, why there is no time to recover.

S.Dro. Thus I mend it : Time himselse is bald, and therefore to the worlds end, will have bald followers

An. I knew 'twould be a bald conclusion: but fost, who wafts vs yonder.

Exter Adriana and Luciana.

Adri. I, I. Antipholas, looke strange and frowne, Some other Mistreffe hath thy sweet aspects: I am not Adriana, nor thy wife. The time was once, when thou vn-vrg'd wouldst vow, That never words were mulicke to thine care, That never obiect pleasing in thine eye, That never touch well welcome to thy hand, That never meat sweet-sauour'd in thy taste. Vnlesse I spake, or look'd, or touch'd, or caru'd to thee. How comes it now, my Husband, oh how comes it, That thow are then estranged from thy selfe? Thy felfe I call it, being strange to me: That undividable Incorporate Am better then thy decre felfes better part. Ah doe not teare away thy felfe from me; For know my loue : as easie maist thou fall A drop of water in the breaking gulfe, And take vnmingled thence that drop againe Without addition or diminishing, As take from me thy felfe, and not me too. How deerely would it touch thee to the quicke, Shooldit thou but heare I were licencious? And that this body confectate to thee, By Ruffian Lust should be contaminate? Wouldit thou not spit at me, and spume at me, And hurle the name of husband in my face, And teare the stain'd skin of my Harlot brow, And from my falle hand cut the wedding ring, And breake it with a deepe-divorcing vow?
I know thou canft, and therefore fee thou doe it. I am possest with an adulterate blot, My bloud is mingled with the crime of lust: For if we two be one, and thou play falk, I doe digest the poison of thy flesh, Being strumpered by thy contagion Keepe then faire league and truce with thy true bed, I live distain'd, thou vndishonoured.

Antip. Pleadyou to me faire dame? I know you not: In Ephefau I am but two houres old As farange vnto your towne, as to your talke,

Who every word by all my wit being scan'd, Wants wit in all, one word to underfrand. Luci. Fie brother, how the world is chang'd with you:

When were you wont to vie my fifter thus? She sene for you by Dromio home to dinner.

Ant. By Dromio? Drom. By me.

Adr. By thee, and this thou didft returne from him. That he did buffet thee, and in his blowes, Denied my house for his, me for his wife.

Ant. Didyou connerse fir with this gentlewoman: What is the course and drift of your compact?

S.Dro. I sir? I neuer saw her till this time.
Ant. Villaine thou liest, for even her verie words,

Didft thou deliuer to me on the Mart.

S. Dro. I neuer spake with her in all my life. Ant How can she thus then call vs by our names?

Vnlesse it be by inspiration.

Adri. Howill agrees it with your grauitie, To counterfeit thus grofely with your flaue, Abetting him to thwatt me in my moode; Beirmy wrong, you are from me exempt, But wrong not that wrong with a more contempt. Come I will fasten on this sleeue of thine : Thou art an Elme my husband, I a Vine : Whose weaknesse married to thy stranger state, Makes me with thy firength to communicate: If ought possetse thee from me, it is drosse, Viurping luie, Brier, or idle Mosse, Who all for want of pruning, with intrusion, Infect thy fap, and live on thy confusion.

Ant. To mee shee speakes, shee moues mee for her theame;

What, was I married to her in my dreame? Or sleepe I now, and thinke I heare all this? What error drives our eies and cares amisse? Vntill I know this fure vncertaintie, He entertaine the free'd fa'lacie.

Luc. Dromio, goe bid the servants spred for dinner. S.Dre. Oh for my beads, I croffe me for a finner. This is the Fairie land, oh spight of spights, We talke with Goblins, Owles and Sprights; If we obay them not, this will infue: They'll sucke our breath, or pinch vs blacke and blow.

Lue. Why prat'st thou to thy felfe, and answer'st not? Dromie, thou Dromie, thou fnaile, thou flug, thou fot.

S.Dra. I am transformed Mafter, am I not? Ant. I thinke thou art in minde, and so am I.

S.Dro. Nay Master, both in minde, and in my shape. Mr. Thou hast thine owne forme.

S. Dro. No, I am an Ape. Luc. If thou are chang'd to ought, 'tis to an Affe. S.Dro. 'Tis true she rides me, and I long for grasse. Tis fo, lam an Affe, elfe it could never be. But I should know her as well as she knowes me.

Adr. Come, come, no longer will I be a foole, To put the finger in the eie and weepe; Whil'ft man and Mafter laughes my woes to fcome : Come fir to dinner, Dromlo keepe the gate : Husband Ile dine aboue with you to day, And shrive you of a thousand idle prankes: Sirra,ifany aske you for your Master, Say he dines forth, and let no creature enter: Come lifter, Dronnio play the Porter well.

Am I in earth, in heaven, or in hell? Sleeping or waking, mad or well aduifde: Knowne vmo these, and to my selfe disguisde: He fay as they fay, and perseuer so: And in this mist at all adventures go.

S.Dro. Mafter, shall I be Porter at the gate? Adr. I, and let none enter leaft I breake your pate Luc. Come, come, Antipholas, we dine to late.

Adus Tertius. Scena Prima.

Enter Antiphotos of Ephofose, bis men Dromo, Angelacks Goldfonth, and Balthefor the Merchant

E. Ants. Good fignior Angels you must excuse vs all, My wife is shrewish when I keepe not howes; Say that I lingerd with you at your shop. To see the making of her Cathanet. And that to morrow you will bring it home. But here's a villaine that would face me downe. He met me on the Mart, and that I beat him. And charg'd him with a thousand markes in gold. And that I did denie my wife and house;

Thou drunkard thou, what didft thou meane by this?

E. Dro. Say what you wil fit, but I know what I know.
That you beat me at the Mart I have your hand to fhow;
If $\overline{g}$ skin were parchment, & $\overline{g}$ blows you gave were ink.
Your owne hand-writing would tell you what I thinke.

E. Ant. I thinke thou art an affe. E. Dro. Marry fo it doth appeare

By the wrongs I fuffer, and the blowes I beare,
I should kicke being kicke, and being at the spalle,

You would keepe from my heeles, and beware of an alle, E. An. Y'are led fignior Balthazar, pray God our cheer May answer my good will, and your good welcom here. Ball hold your dainties cheap fur, & your welcom deer. E. An. Oh fignior Balthazer, either at fielh or fish.

A table full of welcome, makes scatce one dainty dish.

Bel. Good meat fir is comon that enery churle affords.

Aut. And welcome more common, for that's nothing but words.

Bul. Small cheere and great welcome, makes a mertic feaft.

Ants. I, to a niggardly Hoft, and more sparing guest:
But though my cates be meane, take them in good part,
Better cheere may you have, but not with better hard.
But soft, my doore is lockt; goe bid them let vs in.

E.Dro. Mand, Briget, Marian, Cifley, Cillian, Gina. S.Dro. Mome, Milthorfe, Capoo, Concombe, Idiot, Patch,

Either get thee from the dore, or he downe at the hatch:
Doft thou coniuse for wenches, that he calft for such fiore,
When one is one too many, goe get thee from the dore.
E.Dro. What patch is made our Porter? my Master flayes in the firect.

S.Dro. Let him walke from whence he came, left hee catch cold on's feet.

E. Ans. Who talks within there? hos, open the dore.

S. Dro. Right fit, He tell you when, and you'll tell me whetefore.

Ant. Wherefore? for my diener: I baue not din'd to day.

S Dro. Not to day here you must not come againe when you may.

Anti. What are thou that keep fit mee out from the howfe I owe?

S.Dro. The Porter for this time Sir, and my name is Dromeo.

E. Dro. O villaine, thou hast stolne both mine office and my name,

The one nere got me credit, the other mickle blame If thou hadft beene Dronus to day in my place,

Thos wouldn't have chang'd thy face for a name, or thy name for an alle.

Eno Lias.

Luce. What a coile is there Dranio? who are those at the gate?

E. Dro. Let my Mafter in Luce.

Luce Faith no, her cornestoo late, and forell your Mafter.

E. Dro. O Lord I must laugh, have at you with a Prouerbe.

Shall I fet in my flaffe.

Luce. Have at you with another, that's when f can you tell?

5. Dro. If thy name be called Luce, Luce thou hash an-(wer'd him well.

Auts. Doe you heare you minion, you'll let us in Arts. Doc you heare you minion, you'll let vs in I hope?

Luce. I thought to have askt you

S. Dra Andyou said no.

E.Dro. So come helpe, well ftrooke, there was blow for blow.

Anti. Thou baggage let me in. Luce. Can you tell for whose sake! E. Drom. Master, knocke the doore hard,

Luce. Let him knocke till it ake.

Anti. Youll crie for this minion, if I beat the doore downe.

Luce What needs all that, and a paire of flocks in the towner?

Erser Adriana.

Acr. Who is that at the doore & keeps all this noise to S.Dro. By my troth your towne is troubled with varuly boies.

Must. Are you there Wife? you might have come before.

Adn. Your wife fir knaue? go get you from the dore. E. Dre. If you went in paine Master, this know wold goe fore.

Angelo. Heere is neither cheere fir, nor welcome, we would faine have either.

Baliz. In debating which was best, wee shall part with neither.

E. Dro. They fland at the doore, Master, bid them welcome hither,

Mars. There is fomething in the winde, that we cannot get in.

E.Dro. You would say so Master, if your gamments were thin.

Your eake here is warme within: you fland here in the cold.

It would make a man mad as a Bucke to be so bought and fold.

Asr. Go fetch me femething, lie break ope the gate.

S. Dro. Breake any breaking here, and lie breake your knaues pate.

E.Drs. A man may breake a word with your fir, and words are but winde:

I and breake it in your face, so he break it not behinde.

S. Dro. It scemes thou want it breaking, out upon thee hinde.

E.Dre. Here's too much out vpon thee, I pray the s les me in.

S. Drs. I, when fewire have no feathers, and fifth issue

Au Well, Ile breeke in: go borrow me a crov. 6. Dre. A crow without feather, Mafter means you fo; For afish without a finne, ther's a fowle without afether, If a crow help vs in fires, wee'll placke a crow together.

Ans. Go, get thee gon, fetch me an iron Crow. Baleb. Haue patience fir, oh let is not be fo, Heerein you warre against your reputation, And draw within the compette of suspect Th'vnuiolated honor of your wife. Once this your long experience of your wisedome, Her fober vertue, yeares, and modeltie, Plead on your part force caufe to you waknowne; And doubt not fie, but the will well excuse Why at this time the dores are made against you. Be sul'd by me, depart in patience, And let vs to the Tyger all to dinner, And about evening come your felle alone. To know the reason of this strange restraint : If by firong hand you offer to breake in Now in the flirring paffage of the day, A vulgar comment will be made of it; And that supposed by the common rowt Against your yet ungalled estimation. That may with soule intrusion enter in, And dwell vpon your grave when you are dead; For flander lives vpon luccession;

For ever howe'd, where it gets possession.

Anti. You have prevail'd, will depart in quiet, And in despight of mirth meane to be merrie: I know a wench of excellent discourse, Prettie and wittie; wilde, and yet too gende; There will we dine : this woman that I meane My wife (but I protest without defert) Hath oftentimes vpotsided me withall : To her will we to dinner, get you home And fetch the chaine, by this I know 'tis made, Bring it I pray you to the Porpentine, For there's the house: That chains will I bestow (Be it for nothing but to spight my wife) Vpon mine hostesse there, good fir reake haste: Since mine owne doores resule to entertaine me, Ile knocke else-where, to see if they'll disdaine me. Ang. Hemeet you at that place some house hence.

Anti. Do fo, this iell shall coft me some expence.

Enter Iuliena, with Antipholom of Siracufia. Inila. And may it bothat you have quite for got A husbands office! Thall Antiphoku Eurn in the foring of Loue, thy Loue-springs rot?
Shall love in buildings grow so ruinate?
If you did wed my fifter for her wealth,
Theo for her wealths-sake vie her with more kindarile: Orifyculike elfe-where doch by ftealth, Mulite your falle lous with fome flow of blindnesse: Let not my lifter read it in your eye: Be not thy tongue thy owne shames Orstor: Looke sweet, speake faire, become disloyable: Apparell vice like vertues harbenger: Beare a faire presence, though your heart De tainted, Teach sinne the carriage of a holy Saint, Be fecret falle: what need the be acquainted? What simple thisse brage of his owne attaine? Tis double wrong to truene with your bed, And let her read it in thy lookes at boord s Shame hath a baftard fame, well managed, t brow live ne driv beldwob el ches bll Alar poore women, make vanot beleeve (Being compall of stedit) that you love vs,

Though others have the arme, shew vs the sleeve We in your motion turne, and you may moue vs. Then gentle brother get you in againe; Comfort my fifter, cheere her, cell her wife; Tis hely sport to be a listle vaine, When the forest breath of flatterle conquers firife. S. Ami. Sweete Mistris, what your name is else !

know not; Norby what wonder you do hit of mine: Leffe in your knowledge, and your grace you show not. Then our earths wonder, more then earth divine. Teach me deere creature how to thinke and speake t Lay open to my earthic groffe conceit Smothred in cerors, feeble, shallow, weake, The foulded meaning of your words deceit: Against my soules pure truth, why labour you, To make it wander in an vaknowne field? Are you a god? would you create me new? Transforme me then, and to your powre He geeld But if that I am I, then well I know, Your weeping fiftee is no wife of mine, Nor to her bed no homage doe I owe: Farre more, farre more, to you doe I decline: Oh traine me not fweet Mermaide with thy note, To drowne me in thy fifter floud of teares: Sing Siren for thy felfe, and I will dote: Spread ore the filter wates thy golden baises; And as a bud Ile take thee, and there lie: And in that glorious supposition thinke, He gaines by death, that hath fuch meanes to die: Let Love being light, be drowned If the finke.

Lac. What are you mad, that you do resson so? Ant. Not mad, but mated, how I doe not know. Luc. It is a fault that springeth from your eie.

Am. For gazing on your beames faire fun being by. Luc. Gaze when you should, and that will cleere your fight.

Ant. As good to winke fivees love, as looke on night. Luc. Why call you me love? Call my fifter fo.

Ant. Thy lifters lifter. Luc. That's my lifter.

Ant. No: it is thy felfe, mine owne felfes better part: Mine eies cleere eie, my deere hearts deerer heart; My foode, my fortune, and my fweet hopes aime; My fole earths heaven, and my heavens claime.

Luc. All this my lifter is or elfe should be. Art. Call thy felfe fifter fweet, for I em thee: Thee will I love, and with thee lead my life; Thou haft no husband yes, no: I no wife: Give me thy hand.

Luc. Oh fost fir, hold you fill: He ferch my fifter to get her good will.

Enter Dremio, Stracufia.

Am. Why how now Dromio, where run's thou fo fall?

S.Dro. Doeyouknow me fir? Am I Dromio? Am I your man? Am I my felfe?
Am. Thou are Dromie, thou are my man, thou are thy felfe.

Dro. I am an affe, I am a womens man, and befides my felfe.

Ans. What womans man? and how befides thy

Dro. Merrie fir, besider my felfe, I am due to a woman: One that claimes me, one that haunts me, one that will

Ans. What

Esvir.

Anti. What elaime laies fie to thee?

Dro. Marry fir, fuch claime as you would lay to your horse, and she would have me as a beast, not that I beeing a beaft the would have me, but that the being a verie beaftly creature layer claime to me.

Orte, What is the?
Dro, A very reuerent body: I such a one, as a man may not speake of, without he say he reuseence, I have but leane lucke in the match, and yet is the a wondrous Anti. How doll thou meane a fact marriage?

Dro. Marry fu, she's the Kitchin wench, & al greafe, and I know not what vie to put her too, but to make a Lampe of her, and run from her by her owne light. warrant, her ragges and the Tallow in them, will burne a Poland Winter: If the lives till doome fday, the's burne a weeke longer then the whole World

Anti. What complexion is the of?

Dro. Swart like my shoo, but her face nothing like fo cleane kept: for why? the Iweats a man may goe ouer-shooes in the grame of la

Anti. That's a fault that water will mend.

Dre. No fir, 'sis in graine, Noahs flood could not Auts. What's her name?

Dro. Nell Sir : but her neme la three quariers, that's an Ell and three quarters, will not measure her from hip to hip.

Ams. Then the beares forme hiedih?

Drs. No longer from head to foot, then from hippe to hippe: the is iphericall, like a globe: I could find our Countries in her.

Aste. In what part ofher body flands Ireland? Dro. Marry fir in her buttockes, I found it out by the bogges, Ant, Where Scotland?

Dro. I found it by the barrennesse, hard in the palme of the hand.

Am. Where France?

Dro. In her forhead, arm'd and reverted, making warre against her heire.

Ant. Where England?

Dro. Hook'd for the chalkle Cliffer, but I could find no whitenesse in them, But I guesse, it stood in her chin by the falt theume that ranne betweene France, and it.

Ant. Where Spaine

Dra. Faith I faw it not: but I felt it hot in her breth.

Ant. Where Anserica, the Indies?

Dro. Oh fir, vpon her nofe, all ore embellished with Rubies, Carbuncles, Saphites, declining their rich Afped to the hot breath of Spaine, who fent whole Armadoes of Carrects to be ballast at her nose.

Anta Where stood Belgia, the Neiberlande?

Dro. Oh fir I did not looke fo low. To conclude, this drudge or Diuiner layd claime to mee, call'd mee Drossio, [wore I was affur'd to her, told me what privie markes I had about mee, as the marke of my thoulder, the Mole in my necke, the great Wart on my left arme, that I amaz'd ranne from her as a witch. And I thinke, if my breft had not beene made of faith, and my heart of Recle, the had transform'd me to a Curaill dog, & made me turne i'th wheele.

Ani. Go hie thee presently post to the sode, And if the winde blow any way from there, I will not harbour in this Towne to night. If any Barks put forth, come to the Mart,

Where I will walke till thou returne to me t If everie one knowes vs, and we know nowe, Tistime I thinke to trudge, packe, and be pooe.

Dro. As from a Beare a man goodd run for life, So flie I from her that would be my wife.

Anti. There's none but Witches do inhabite heere, And therefore 'tis hie time that I were hence : She that doth call me busband, even my feule Doth for a wife abhorre. But her faire fifter Possest with such a gentle soucraigne years, Of fuch inchanting presence and discourse, Hath almost made me Traitor to my selfe: Bux least my selfe be guilty to selfe wrong, He stop mine esses against the Mermaids sone

Enter Angelowith the Chaire.

Ang. M. Antipholus.

Anti. I that's my name.

Ang. I know it well fir, loe here's the chaine, I thought to have tane you at the Porpentine, The chaine volinish'd made me flay thus long.

Anti What is your will that I shal do with this? Ang What please your selfe fir: I have madeit for Anie Madeit for me fir, I bespoke it not.

Mag. Not once, nor twice, but twentie times you haue:

Go home with it, and plezse your Wife withall, And forne at Supper time He vist you, And then receive my money for the chaine.

Ann. I pray you fir receive the money now, For feare vou ne're fee chaine, nor mony more.

Ang. You are a merry man fir, fare you well. E But this I thinke, there's no man is so vaine, That would refuse so faire an offer'd Chaine I fee : man heere needs not line by fhifts, When in the streets he meetes such Golden gifts : He to the Mart, and there for Dremis Rey, If any ship put out, then straightoway Ern

Actus Quartus. Scans Prima.

Ester a Merchant, Goldsmith, and an Officer.

Mer. You know fince Pentecoft the fum is due, And fince I have not much importun'd you, Nor now I had not, but that I am bound To Perfis, and want Gilders for my voyage Therefore make present fanisfaction, Or Heattach you by this Officer.

Gold. Even iust the sem that I do owe to you, Is growing to me by Amphine And in the instant that I mer with you, He had of me a Chaine, at fise a clock? I shall receive the money for the same. Pleafeth you walke with me downe so his houle, I will discharge my bond, and thanke you too

Inter Antiphelus Ephef. Dremio frenz the Continens. Offi. That labour may you faue: See where he comes.

And buy a ropes end, that will I beltow Among my wife, and their confederates, For locking me out of my doores by day : But foft I fee the Goldsmith; get thee gone, Buy thou a rope, and bring it home to me.

Dro. I buy a thousand pound a yeare, I buy a rope.

Eph. Aus. A man is well holpe up that trufts to you, I promifed your presence, and the Chaine, But neither Chaine nor Goldsmith came to me: Relike you thought our love would last too long If it were chain'd together : and therefore came not.

Gold. Satting your merrie humor : here's the note How much your Chaine weighs to the vtmost charect, The finenesse of the Gold, and chargefull fashion, Which doth amount to three odde Duckets more Then I stand debted to this Gentleman, I pray you fee him presently discharg'd, For he is bound to Sea, and stayes but for it.

Anti. I am not furnish'd with the present monie: Besides I have some businesse in the towne, Good Signior take the stranger to my house, And with you take the Chaine, and bidmy wife Disbutse the summe, on the receit thereof, Perchance I will be there as soone as you.

Gold Then you will bring the Chaine to her your Auri. No beare it with you, least I come not time ebough.

Gold Well fir, I will? Have you the Chaine about you?

Aut. Andif I have not fir, I hope you have:

Orelfe you may returne without your money Gold. Nay come I pray yon fir, give me the Chaine: Both winde and tide flayes for this Gentleman, And I too blame have held him heere too long.

Ami. Good Lord, you vie this dalliance to excuse Your breach of promise to the Porpenime, Lihould have chid you for not bringing it, Butlike sthrew you first begin to brawle.

Mar. The houre fleales on, I pray you fir dispatch.
Gold. You heate how he importunes me, the Chaine. Ant. Why give it to my wife, and fetch your mony. Gold Come, come, you know I gaue it you even now. Either fend the Chaine, or fend me by some token.

Am. Fie, now you run this humor out of breath, Come where's the Chaine, I pray you let me fee it.

Mer. My businesse cannot brooke this dallisnee,

Good fir fay, whe'r you lanswer me, or no:

If not, He leave him to the Officer.

Ash I answer you? What should I answer you. Gold. The monie that you owe me for the Chaine. Ant. Loweyou none, till I receive the Chaine.
Gold. You know I gave it you halfe an houre fince.

dar. You gave menone, you wrong mee much to lay fo.

Gold. You wrong me more fir in denying it.

Consider how it stands upon my credit. Mar. Well Officer, arrest him at my suite.

Offi. I do, and charge you in the Dukes name to obeyme

Gold. This touches me in reputation. Either conferr to pay this furn tor me, Or I attach you by this Officer.

Ant. Confent to pay thee that I never had : Arrelt mefaclish sellowifthoudar th.

Gold. Heere is thy fee, arrest him Officer. I would not spare my brother in this case, If he should scorne me so apparantly.

Offic. I do arrest you fir, you heare the suite.
Ant. I do obey thee, till I give thee balle. But firrah, you shall buy this sport as deere. As all the mettall in your shop will answer.

Gold. Sir, fir, I shall have Law in Ephofms. To your notorious shame, I doubt it not.

Enter Dramio Sira. from the Bay. Dro. Master, there's a Barke of Epidamiuns, That staies but till her Owner comes aboord, And then fie the beares away. Our fraughtage fir, I have convei'd aboord, and I have bought The Oyle, the Balfamum, and Aqua-vitz. The ship is ip her trim, the merrie winde Blowes faire from land : they flay for nought at all, But for their Owner, Master, and your selfe.

An. How nowe a Madman? Why thou pecuish theep

What Ship of Epidamium Staies for me.

S. Dro. A ship you sent me too, to hier wafrage Ast. Thou drunken flave, I fent ther for a rope, And told thee to what purpose, and what end. S.Dro. You fent me for 2 ropes end as soone.

You sent me to the Bay sir, for a Barke.

Aue. I will debate this matter at more leifore And teach your eares to lift me with more heedes To Adriana Villaine hie thee Araight: Giue her this key, and tell her in the Deske That's couer'd o're with Turkish Tapistrie, There is a purse of Duckers, let her lend it : Tell her, I am arrested in the streete, And that shall baile me : hie thee saue, be gone, On Officer to prison, till it come.

S. Dromio. To Adriana, that is where we din'd, Where Dowsaball did claime me for her husband, She is too bigge I hope for me to compasse, Thither I must, although against my will: For servants must their Masters mindes fulfill Exis Enter Adriana and Luciana.

Adr. Ah Luciana, did he tempt thee foe Might'st thou perceive austeerely in his eie, That he did plead in earnest, yea or no: Look'd he or red or pale, or fad or merrily? What observation mad'st thou in this cafe ? Oh, his hearts Meteors tilting in his face.

Luc. First he deni'de you had in him no right. Adr. He meant he did me none: the more my spight

Luc. Then swore he that he was a stranger heere. Adr. And true he swore, though yet forsworne hee

Luc. Then pleaded I for you.

Adr. And what faid he? Luc. That loue I begg'd for you, he begg'd of me. dar. With what perswasson did he tempt thy loue? Lac. With words, that in an honest suit might mouc.

First, he did praise my beautic, then my speech.
Adr. Did ft speake him faire?

Luc. Haue patience I beleech.

Adr. I cannot, nor I will not hold me fill. My congue, though not my heart, shall have his will. He is deformed, crooked, old, and sere, Ill-fac'd, worse bodied, shapelesse every where. Vicious, vngende, foolish, blunz, vnkinde,

Stigma-

Stigmsticallin making w orfe in minde.

Lie. Who would be ieslous then of fuch 2 one?

No euill loft is wail'd, when it is gone.

Adr. Ah but I thinke him better then I fay : And yet would licrein others eies were worfe: Farre from her nest the Lapwing cries away; My heart praies for him, though my tongue doe curse.

Enter S. Dromio.

Dro. Here goe: the deske, the purfe, sweet now make hafte.

Lec. How hast thou loft thy breath?

S. Dro. By running falt.

Adr. Where is thy Master Dromio? Is he well?

S. Dro. No, he's in Tattar limbo, worle then hell:

A divell in an everlasting garment hath him; On whose hard heart is button'd vp with steele.

A Feind, a Fairie, pictilesse and ruffe :

A Wolfe,nay worse, a sellow all in busse:

A back friend, a shoulder-clapper, one that countermads The passages of allies, creekes, and narrow lands:

A hound that runs Counter, and yet draws drifoot well, One that before the Iudgmet carries poore soules to hel.

Adr. Why man, what is the matter?

S Dro. I doe not know the matter, hee is rested on the cale.

Adr. What is he artested? tell me at whose suite?

S. Dro. I know not at whose svice he is arested well; but is in a fuite of buffe which rested him, that can I rell, will you fend him Mistris redemption, the monte in his deske.

Adr. Go fetchit Sister : this I wonder at.

Exit Luciana.

Thus he voknowne to me should be in debt :

Tell me, was he arested on a band? S.Dro. Not on a band, but on a stronger thing:

A chaine, a chaine, doe you not here it ring.

Adria. What, the chaine?

S. Dro. No, no, the bell, 'tis time that I were gone: It was two ere I left him, and now the clocke strikes one. Adr. The houres come backe, that did I neue here.

S. Dre. Ohyes, if any house meete a Scricant, a tumes backe for verie feare.

Adri. As if time were in debt: how foodly do'ft thou realor.?

S. Dro. Time is a verie bankerout, and owes more then he's worth to feafen.

Nay, he's a theefe too : have you not heard men fay, That time comes stealing on by night and day? If I be in debt and theft, and a Serieant in the way, Hath he uot reason to turne backean hours in a day?

Enter Luciana.

Adr. Go Dromio, there's the monie, beare it fireight, And bring thy Master home imediately. Come lifter, I am preft downe with conceiz: Conceit, my comfort and my inlurie. Exit.

Enter Antiphelia Siracufia. There's not a man I meete but doth falute me As if I were their well acquainted friend, And euerie one doth call me by my name : Some tender monie to me, some invite me; Some other give me thankes for kindnesses; Some offer me Commodities to buy. Euen now a tailor cal'd me in his shop,

And show'd me Silker that he had bought for me, And therewiths! tooke measure of my body Sure these are but imaginarie wiles, And lapland Sorcerers inhabite here.

Enter Dromos Sar.

S.Dro Mafter, here s the gold you fent me for : what haue you got the pidure of old Adam new apparel'd?

MAI What gold is this? What Adam do'ft thou meane?

S. Dro. Not that Adam that kept the Paradise: but that Adam that keepes the prison; hee that goes in the calues-skin, that was kil'd for the Prodigall: hee that came behinde you fir like an euill angel, and bid you forfake your libertie.

Ant. I understand thee not.

S. Dro. No? why 'tis a plaine case: he that went like a Bale. Viole in a cale of leather; the man fir, that when genilemen are tired gives them a fob, and refts them: he fir, that takes pittie on decaied men, and giver them suites of durance: he that fets vp his rest to doe mote exploits with his Mace, then a Moris Pike.

Mui. What thou mean'ft an officer?

S. Dro. I fir, the Serieant of the Band : he that brings any man to answer is that breakes his Band: one that thinkes a man alwaies going to bed, and faces, God give you good reit.

Ant. Well fir, there rest in your foolerie:

Is there any ships puts forth to night? may we be gone? S. Dro. Why fir, I brought you word an houre fince, that the Barke Expedicion put forth to night, and then were you hindred by the Serieant to terry for the Hoy Delay: Here are the angels that you fent for to delive:

Ans. The fellowis diffract, and fo am I, And here we wander in illusions : Some bleffed power deliver vs from hence.

Enter a Curtizan.

Cur. Well met, well met, Mafter Antipholis . I fee fir you have found the Gold-fmith now . Is that the chaine you promis'd me to day.

Ant. Sathan avoide, I charge thee tempt menor.

S. Dro. Mafter, is this Miftris Sabar?

Ant. It is the diueil.

S. Dro. Nay, theis worfe, theis the divels dam: And here the comes in the habit of a light wench, and thereof comes, that the wenches say God dam me, That's as much to fay, God make mealight wench: It is writcen, they appeare to men like angels of light, light is an effect of fire, and fire will burne : ergo, light wenches will burne, come not neere her.

Car. Your man and you are maruailous merrie fir.

Will you goe with me, wee'll mend our dinner here?
S.Dro. Master, if do expe@spoon-messe, or bespeake along spoone,

Am. Why Drona?

S. Dro. Marrie he must have a long spoose that must eare with the divell.

Am. Audid then frend, what rel'st thou one of sup-Thou art, as you are all a sorceresse: (ping) I conjure thee to leave me, and be gon.

Cur. Give me the ring of mine you had at dioner, Or for my Diamond the Chaine you promis'd, And He be gone fir, and not trouble you.

S.Dra. Some divels aske but the parings of ones raile, a rufn, a haire, a drop of blood, a pin, a nut, a cherriefone : but she more conetous, wold have a chaine: Mafter be wife, and if you give it her, the divell will hake her Chaine, and fright vs with it.

Cur. I pray you fir my Ring, or else the Chaine,

I hope you do not meane to cheate me fo?

Ant. Auant thou witch: Come Dromio let vs go. S. Dro. Flie pride faies the Pea-cocke, Mistris that

Cer. Now out of doubt Antipholos is mad, Else would he neuer so demeane himselse, ARmg he hath of mine worth force Duckets, And for the fame he promis'd me a Chaine, Both one and other he denies me now: The reason that I gather he is mad, Belides this present inflance of his rage, Is a mad tale he told to day at dinner, Of his owne doores being shut against his entrance. Belike his wife acquainted with his fits, On purpose shut the doores against his way: My way is now to hie home to his house, And tell his wife, that being Lunaticke, Heruth'd into my house, and tooke perforce My Ring away. This course I fittest choose, For fortie Duckets is too much to loose.

Enter Antipholus Ephof. with a lailor.

Ao. Feare me not than, I will not breake away, Ile give thee ere I leave thee fo much money To warrant thee as I am refled for. My wife is in a wayward moode to day, . And will not lightly truft the Mellenger, That I should be attach'd in Ephelis, I tell you 'twill found harffily in her eares.

Enser Dromio Eph.wish a repes end. Heere comes my Man, I thinke he brings the monie. How now fir? Have you that I fent you for?

E.Dro. Mere's that I warrant you will pay them all.

Ami. But where's the Money?

E. Dra. Why fir, I gave the Monie for the Rope.
Ast. Five hundred Duckets villaline for a rope? E. Dro. He serue you fir five hundred at the rate.

Ant. To what end did I bid thee hie thee home? E. Dre. To a ropes end fir, and to that end am Trerum'd

Ant. And to that end fir. I will welcome you.

Offi. Good fir be parient. E. Dro. Nay 'tis for meto be patient, I am in aduerlitie.

Offi. Good now hold thy tongue.

E. Dro. Nay, rather perswade him to hold his hands. Anti. Thou whoreson senselesse Villaine.

E. Dro. I would I were senselesse fir, that I might not feele your blowes Auti. Thou are sensible in nothing but blowes, and lo is an Affie.

E. Dro. I am an Affe indeede, you may prooue it by my long eares. I have ferned him from the houre of my Nativitie to this instant, and have nothing at his hands for my service but blowes. When I am cold, he heates me with beating: when I am warme, he cooles me with besting: I am wak'd with it when I fleepe, tais'd with it when I fit, driven our of doores with it when I got from home, welcom'd home with it when I teturne, nay I beare it on my shoulders, as a begger woont her brat: and I thinke when he hath lam'd me, I shall begge with it from doore to doore.

Emer Adriana, Luciana, Contrixan, and a Schoolmafter, call d Pinch.

Ant. Come goe along, my wife is comming you.

E. Dro. Mistris respice finem, respect your end, or ra. ther the prophesie like the Parrat, beware the ropes end.

Am. Wilt thou still talke? Beats Dro. Cart. How fay you now! Is not yout husband mad?

Adri. His inciuility confirmes no lesse: Good Doctor Pinch, you are a Conjurer, Establish him in his wue sence againe,

And I will please you what you will demand.

Luc. Alas how fiery, and how tharpe he lookes. Car. Marke, how he trembles in his extafie.

Prich. Give me your hand, and let mee feele your pulse.

Ast. There is my hand, and let it feele your eare. Pinch. I charge thee Sathan, hons'd within this man, To yeeld possession to my holie praires, And to thy state of darknesse bie thee Straight, I conjure thee by all the Saints in heaven.

Anti. Peace doting wizard, peace: I am not 182d. Adr. Oh that thou wet't not, poore diffressed soule. Anti. You Minion you, are these your Customers?

Did this Companion with the faffron face Reuell and feast it at my house to day, Whil'it vpon me the guiltie docres were shut,

And I denied to enter in my house. Adr. O husband, God doth know you din'd at home

Where would you had remain'd vntill this time, Free from these flanders, and this open shame.

Anri. Din'd at home? Thou Villaine, what foyest thou !

Dro. Sir footh to fay, you did not dine at home.

Ant. Were not my doores lockt vp, and I shut out? Dro. Perdie, your doores were lockt, and you shut

Am. And did not the her felfe reuile methere? Dro. Sans Fable, fhe her felfe renil'd you there.

Anti. Did nor her Kitchen maide raile, taunt, and (come me?

Dro. Certis fhe did, the kitchin veffall fcorn'd you. Ant. And did not I in rage depart from thence? Dro. In veritie you did, my bones beares witherle,

That fince have felt the vigor of his rage.

Adv. Is't good to footh him in these cronsraries? Pinch. It is no shame, the fellow finds his vaine,

And yeelding to him, humors well his frensie. Aw. Thou hast subborn'd the Goldsmith to atrest

Adr. Alas, I fent you Monie to redeeme you, By Drenn heere, who came in halt for it.

Dre. Monie by me? Heart and good will you might But furely Master not a ragge of Monie.

Am. Wentst not thou to her for a purse of Duckets. Adri. He came to me, and I deliver dit.

Luci. And I am witnesse with her that she did: Dre. God and the Rope-maker beare me witnesse,

That I was fent for nothing but a rope.

Pinch. Mistris, both Man and Master is possess, I know it by their pale and deadly lookes,

They

96

They must be bound and laide in some darke roome Aur. Say wherefore didft thou locke me forth to day,

And why dost thou denie the bagge of gold?

Adr. I did not gentle husband locke thee forth.

Dro. And gentle M' I receiu'd no gold : But I confesse fir, that we were lock'd out.

Adr. Dissembling Villain, thou speak'ft falle in both

Ant. Dissembling harlot, thou art false in all. And art consederate with a damned packe,

To make a loathsome abiect scorne of me But with these nailes, He plucke out these false eyes, That would behold in methis shamefull sport.

Enter three or foure, and offer to binde bim: Heestrines

Adr. Oh binde him, binde him, let him not come neere me.

Pinch. More company, the fiend is ftrong within him Luc. Aye me poore man, how pale and wan he looks. Ant. What will you murther me, thou failor thou? I am thy priloner, wilt thou fuffer them to make a ref-

Offi. Mafters let him go : he is my prisoner, and you shall not have him.

Purch. Go binde this man, for he is franticke too. Adr. What wilt thou do, thou peeuish Officer?

Halt thou delight to fee a wretched man Do outrage and displeasure to himselfer

Offi. He is my prisoner, if I let him go, The debt he owes will be requir'd of me.

Adr. I will discharge thee ere I go from thee, Beareme forthwith vnto his Creditor, And knowing how the debt growes I will pay it. Good Master Doctor sce him fafe convey'd Home to my house, oh most wnhappy day.

Ant. Oh most vnhappie strumpet. Dre. Mafter, I am heere entred in bond for you.

Aut. Out on thee Villaine, wherefore dost thou mad

Dre. Will you be bound for nothing, be mad good Master, cry the divell.

Luc. God helpe poore foules, how idlely doe they

Adr. Go beare him hence, fifter go you with me: Say now, whole fuite is he arrested at i Exernt. Manet Offic. Adri. Luci. Courtizan Off. One Angels a Goldsmith, do you know him?

Adv. 1 know the man: what is the fumme he owes?

Off. Two hundred Duckets.

Adr. Say, how growes it due.

Off. Due for a Chaine your husband had of him.

Adr. He did belpeake a Chain for me, but had it not. Cur. When as your husband all in rage to day Came to my house, and tooke awey my Ring, The Ring I faw vpon his finger now, Straight after did I meete him with a Chaine.

Adr. It may be fo, but I did neuer fee it. Come lailor, bring me where the Goldsmith is, I long to know the truth hecreof at large Enter Antipholus Stracufia with his Rapier drawne, and Dromio Sirac.

Luc. God for thy mercy, they are loofe agains. Adr. And come with naked swords, Let's call more helpe to have them bound againe. Runne all out. Of. Away, they I kill vs.

Exeuns omnes, as fast as may be, frighted. S. Ant. I fee these Witches are affraid of swords S. Dro. She that would be your wife, now ran from

Ant. Come to the Centaur, fetch out Auffe from thence :

I long that'we were fale and found aboord.

Dro. Faith flay heere this night, they will forely do vs no harme: you faw they speake vs faire, give vs goldme thinkes they are such a gentle Nation, that but for the Mountaine of mad flesh that claimes mariage of me, I could finde in my heart to flay heere still, and turne

Ant. I will not flay to night for all the Towne, Therefore away, to get our fluffe aboord.

Attus Quintus. Scana Prima.

Enter the Merchant and the Goldsmith.

Gold. I am forry Sir that I have hindred you, But I protest he had the Chaine of me, Though most dishonestly he doth denie it. Mar. How is the man esteem'd heere in the Citle?

Gold. Of very reverent reputation fix, Of credit infinite, highly belou'd, Second to none that lives heere in the Citie: His word might beare my wealth at any time.

Mer Speake foftly, yonder as I thinke he walkes.

Enter Antipholou and Dromio againe. Gold. Tis fo : and that felfe chaine about his necke, Which he forswore most monstrously to have. Good fir draw neere to me, lle speake to him: Signior Amipholus, I wonder much That you would put me to this shame and trouble, And not without some scandall to your selfe, With circumflance and oaths, so to denie This Chaine, which now you weare fo openly. Beside the charge, the shame, imprisonment, You have done wrong to this my honest friend, Who but for flaying on our Controverfie, Had hoisted saile, and put to sea to day: This Chaine you had of the, can you deny it? Aut. I thinke I had, I never did deny it.

Mar. Yes that you did fir, and forfwore it too. Ant. Who heard me to denie it or forsweare it? Mer. These eares of mine thou knowst did bezr thee:

Fie on thee wretch, 'tis pitty that thou liu'st To walke where any honest men resort. Act. Thou are a Villaine to impeach me thus,

He prove mine honor, and mine honeftie Against thee presently, if thou dar's Rand: Mir. I dare and do defie thee for a villaine.

They drew. Enter Adriana, Luciana, Courtezengt other: Ad. Hold, hurt him not for Godlake, he is mad, Some get within him, take his fword away: Binde Drangio too, and beare them to my house.

S.Dre. Runne mafter run, for Gods fate take a house, This is some Priorie, in, or we are spoyl'd.

Exami to the Priorie.

Enter

Erser Ladie Abbelle

Ab. Be quiet people; wherefore throng you hither?

Ad. To fetch my prote diffracted husband hence,

Let vs come in, that we may binde him fast,

And beare him home for his recoverie.

Cold. I knew he vvas not in his perfect wits.
Mar. I am forry now that I did draw on him.

Ab. How long hath this possession held the man.
Adr. This weeke he hath beene heavie, sower sad,

And much different from the man he was:

But till this afternoone his passion

Now here into astronomics of rause

Ne re brake into extretnity of rage.

Ab. Hath he not lost much wealth by wrack of sea, Buried some deere friend, hath not else his eye Stray'd his affection in valawfull love, A finne prevailing much in youshfull men, Who give their eies the liberty of gazing. Which of these sorrows is he subject 100?

Adv. To none of these, except in be the last,

Namely, some love that drew him oft from home.

Ab. You should for that have reprehended him.

Adr. Why fo I did.

Ab. I but not rough enough.

At. As roughly as my modeftie would let mi

At. And in assemblies 200.

At. I, but not enough.

Adv. It was the copie of our Conference, In bed he flept not for my vrging it, At boord he fed not for my vrging it: Alone, it was the subject of my Theame: In company I often glanced it:

Still did I tell him, it was vilde and bad.

Ab. And thereof came it, that the man was mad. The venome clamors of a lealous woman, Poisons more deadly then a mad dogges tooth. It feemes his sleepes were hindred by thy railing, And thereof comes it that his head is light. Thou failt his meate was fawe'd with thy vpbralding, Vuquiet meales make ill digestions, Thereof the raging fire of feauer bred, And what's a Feauer, but a fit of madneffe? Thou layest his sports were hindred by thy brailes Sweet recreation bart'd, what doth enfue But moodie and dull melancholly, Kinfman to grim and comfortleffe dispaire, And at her heeles a huge infectious troope Of pale diftemperatures, and foes to life? In food, in sport, and life-preserving rest To be difturb'd, would mad or man, or beaft: The consequence is then, thy lealous fits Hath feat'd thy husband from the vie of wits.

Luc. She never reprehended him but mildely.
When he demean'd himfelfe, rough, tude, and wildly,
Why beare you thefe rebukes, and answer not?

Adri. She did betray me to my owne reproofe, Good people enter, and lay hold on him.

Ab. No not a creature enters in my house.
Ad. Then let your fernants bring my husband forth
Ab. Neither: he tooke this place for fanctuary,

And it shall priviledge him from your hands.
Till I have brought him to his wits agains.
Orloofs my labour in affirming it.

Or loose my labout in affaying it.

Adr. I will arrend my husband, behis murle,

Diet his fickneffe, for it is my Office, And will have no atturney but my felfe, And therefore let me have him home with me.

A5. Be patient, for I will not let him firre, Till I haue vs'd the approoned memes I haue, With wholfome firrups, drugges, and holy prayers To make of hims formall man againe: It is a branch and parcell of nine oath, A charitable durie of my order, Therefore depart, and leave him heere with me.

Adr. I will not hence, and leave my husband heere: And ill it doth befeeme your holineffe

To separate the husband and the wife.

Ab. Bequiet and depart, thou shalt not have him.

Luc. Complaine vnto the Duke of this indignity

Adv. Come go, I will fall prostrate at his secte,

And never rise vntill my teares and prayers

And never rife yould my teares and prayers Haue won his grace to come in person hither, And take persoree my husband from the Abbesse.

Mar. By this I thinke the Diall points at flues
Anon I'me fure the Duke himfelfe in person
Comes this way to the metancholly vale;
The place of depth, and forrie execution,
Behinde the directes of the Abbey heere.

Gold. Vpon what cause?

Mar. To see a reverent Siracustam Merchant, Who put valuckily into this Bay Against the Lawes and Statutes of this Towne, Beheaded publikely for his offence.

Gold. See where they come, we wil bet old his death Luc. Kneele to the Duke before he passe the Abbey.

Enter the Duke of Ephefus, and the Merchant of Stracufe bare bead, with the Headfman, & other Officers.

Officers.

Duke. Yet once againe proclaime it publikely;
If any friend will pay the fumme for him,

He shall not die, so much we render him.

Adr. Iustice most facred Duke against the Abbesse

Duke. She is a vertuous and a reverend Lady,

It cannot be that the hath done thee wrong. Adr. May it please your Grace, Antiphola my husbad, Who I made Lord of me, and all I had, At your important Letters this ill day, A most ourragious fit of madnesse tooke him: That desp'rately he hurried through the streete, With him his bondman, all as mad as he, Doing displeasure to the Citizens, By rushing in their houses : bearing thence Rings, Iewels, any thing his rage didlike. Once did I get him bound, and fent him home, Whil'ft to take order for the wrongs I went, That heere and there his forie had committed, Anon I wotnot, by what strong escape He broke from those that had the goard of him, And with his mad attendant and himfelfe,

Each one with irefull passion, with drawne swords
Met vs againe, and madly pent on vs
Chac'd vs away: till raising of more aide
We came againe to binde them: then they fled
Into this Abbey, whether we pursu'd them,
And heere the Abbesse shutter the gates on vs,
And will not suffer vs to setch him out,

And will not futter ve to fetch him out,

Nor fend him forth, that we may beare him henre.

I Therefore

Therefore most gracious Duke with thy command, Let him be brought forth, and borne hence for helpe. Duke. Long lines thy husband feru'd me in my wars

Date. Long fince thy husband feru'd me in my wa And I to thee ingag'd a Princes word, When thou didt make him Mafter of thy bed, To do him all the grace and good I could. Go fome of you. Knocke at the Abbey gate, And but the Lady Abbeffe come to me: I will determine this before I flirre.

Oh Mistris, Mistris, shift and soue your selfe,
My Master and his man are both broke loose,
Beaten the Maids arow, and bound the Doctor,
Whose beard they have sinder of off with brands of fire,
And ever as it blaz'd, they threw on him
Great pailes of puddled myre to quench the haire;
My M' preaches patience to him, and the while
His man with Cizers nickes him like a soole:
And sure (vnlessey of send some present helpe)
Betweene them they will kill the Conturer.

Adr. Peace foole, thy Master and his man are here,

And that is falle thou doft report to vs.

Mess. Mistris, upon my life I tel you true,
I have not breath'd almost since I did see it.
He cries for you, and vowes if he can take you,
To scorch your face, and to dissignte you:
Cry within.

Harke, harke, i heare him Mistris: file, be gone.
Duly. Come fland by me, feare nothing: guard with Halberds.

Adr. Ay me, it is my husband: witherfe you, That he is borne about invisible, Even now we hous'd him in the Abbry heere. And now he's there, past thought of humane resson.

Enser Antipholus, and E. Dromicof Ephefas.

(flice, E. Ans. Inflice most gracious Duke, oh grant me iu-Euen for the service that long since I did thee, When I bestrid thee in the warres, and tooke Deepe scarres to save thy life; even for the blood That then I lost for thee, now grant me instice.

CHE, Far. Vilefle the feare of death doth make me dote, I fee my fonne Amphelia and Dromo.

E. Antifulfice ((weet Prince) against y Woman there:
She whom thou gau'il to me to be my wife;
That hath abused and dishonored me,

Even in the Arength and height of intuite:
Beyond imagination is the wrong

That the thir day both themeletic throwns on me.

Dide. Discour how, and thou that finde me ind.

E. Ant. This day (great Dake) the shut the doores

While the with Harlors feefted in my house.

Dade. A greenous fault: fay startan, didft thou fo?

Air. No my good Lead. My felfe, he, sad my fifter,
To day did dire together: fo befall my foule.
As this is fals he burthens me withall.

Luc. Nere may Hooke on day, nor fleepe on night, But the tels to your Highnesse simple truth.

Gold. O persur'd women! They are both feetworne,

In this the Medman inftly chargeth them.

E. Am. My Léege, I smaduifed what I fay,
Neither diffurbed with the effect of Wine,
Nor headie-rafh prouosk'd with raging ire,
Albeit my wrongs might make one wifer mad.

This woman lock dime out this day from dimer; That Goldfrich there, were he not pack'd with her, Could winesse it . for he was with me then, Who parted with me to go fetch a Chaine, Promifue to bring it to the Porpeoune, Where Balibafar and I did dine together. Our dinner done, and be not comming thither, I went to feeke him. In the freet I met him, And in his companie that Gentleman There did this penur'd Goldsmith sweeze me downe, That I this day of him recent'd the Chaine, Which God he knowes, I faw not. For the which, He did arrell me with an Office: did obey, and fent my Pelant home For certaine Duckers: he with none return d. Then fairely I bespoke the Officer To go in person with me to my house. By th' way, we met my wife, her fifter, and a rabble more Of vilde Confederates: Along with them They brought one Pinch, a hungry leane-fac'd Villaine; A meere Anatomie, a Mountebanke, A third-bare lugler, and a Fortune-teller, A needy-hollow-ey'd-fharpe-looking-wretch; A living dead man. This pernicious flave, Forfooth tooke on him as a Conjurer : And gazing in mice eyes, feeling my pulle, And with no-face (as 'twere) out-facing me, Cries out, I was polleft. Then altogether They fell upon me, bound me, bore me thence, Add in a darke and dankish vault at home These lest me and my man, both bound together, Till gnawing with my teeth my bondin funder, gain'd my ficedome; and immediately Ran hether to your Grace, whom I befeech To give me ample leusiaction For shele deeps shames, and great indignities.

Gold. My Lord, in truth, thus far I witnes with him:
That he divid not at home, but was lock'd one.

Duke. But had he fuch a Chaine of thee, or no? Gold. He had my Lord, 25d when he rea in heere, These people saw the Chaine about his necke.

Mar. Besides, I will be sworne these eares of mine, Heard you consesse you had the Chains of him. After you first for swore it on the short. And thereupon I drew my sword on you. And then you seed into this Abbey here. From whence I thinke you are come by Miracle.

E. Am. I neuel came within these Abbey wals, Nor ener dian thoudraw thy sword on me: I neuer saw the Chaine, so helpe me heaven: And this is false you burshen me withall.

Daly. Why what an latricate impeach is this? I thinke you all have drunke of Cares cup: If here you hous'd him, heere he would have bin. If he were mad, he would not pleade fo coldly: You say he dis'd at home, the Goddfmith heers Denies that saying. Sirra, what say you?

Denies that saying. Sirra, what say you? E. Dr. Sir he din'de with her there, at the Porpen-

Csv. He did, and from my finger fracht that Ring. E. Lett. The true (my Liege) this Ring I had of her. Dwig. Saw'st thou him enter at the Abbey heere? Cort. As fore (my Liege) as I do fee your Grace. Duks. Why this is strange: Go call the Abbessehie.

ther. I thinke you are all mated, or flathe mad.

Exic

Exic one to the Abbeffe.

Fa. Most mighty Duke, vouchsafe me speak a word: Haply I fee a friend will faue my life, And pay the fum that may deliver me.

Dide. Speake freely Stracefian what thou wile. Fath. Is not your name fir call'd Antipholus?

And is not that your bondman Dromio?

E. Dro. Within this houte I was his bondman fir, But he I thanke him gnaw'd in two my cords, Now am I Dromis, and his man, vnbound. Fath. I am sure you both of you remember me. Dro. Our selves we do remember sir by you:

For lately we were bound as you are now. You are not Pinches patient, ate you fit?

Farber. Why looke you frange on me? you know

E. Aut. I never faw you in my life till now. Fa.Oh! griefe hath chang'd me fince you faw me laft, And carefull houres with times deformed hand, Haue written ftrange defeatures in my face : But tell me yet, doft thounot know my voice? Aur. Neither.

Fat. Dromio, not thou? Dre. No truit me fir, nor 1. Fa. 1 am sure thou do??

E. Dromio. I fir, but I am sure I do not, and what soeuer a man denies, you are now bound to beleeue him.

Farb. Not know my voice, oh times e tremity Hast thou so crack'd and splitted my poore tongue In feuen short yeares, that heete my onely sonne Knowes not my feeble key of vntun'd cares? Though now this grained face of mine behid In fap-confuming Winters drizled fnow, And all the Conduits of my blood froze vp: Yet hath my night of life fome memorie: My wasting lampes some fading glimmer left; My dull deafe ezres a little vie to heare: All these old witnesses, I cannot erre Tell me, thou art my sonne Antipholms.

Ant. I never faw my Father in my life. Fs. But seuen yeares since, in Siracusa boy Thou know's we parted, but perhaps my sonne, Thou sham'st to acknowledge me in miserie.

Am. The Duke, and all that know me in the City, Can witheffe with me that it is not fo.

Ine'te law Scacufa in my life

Duke. I tell thee Stracustan, twentie yeares Have I bin Patron to Antipholas. During which time, he ne're faw Siracufa: I feethy age and dangers make thee dotz.

> Enter the Abboffe with Antipholus Siracufa, and Dromio Sir.

Abbesse. Most mightie Duke, behold amanmuch wrong'd.

All gather to sce them. Adr. I secewo husbands, or mine eyes deceive me Duke. One of these men is genius to the other: And so of these, which is the naturall man, And which the spirit? Who deciphers them?

S. Dromio. I Sit am Dromio, command him eway. E. Dro. 1 Sir am Dromio, pray let me fray.

S. Ans. Egemert thou not or elfe his ghoft.

S. Drom. On my olde Maffer; who hath bound him

Abb. Who everbound him, I will lose his bonds, And gaine a husband by his liberti e: Speake olde Egem, if thou bee'ff the man That hadft a wife once call'd Emilia, That bore thee at a burthen two faire sonnes? Oh if thou bee'ft the same Egeon, speake: And speake voto the fame Emilia

Duke. Why heere begins his Morning Rorleright: Thele two Ampholm, thele two lo like, And thefe two Dromie 1, one in femblance: Besides her vrging of her wracke at sea, Thefe are the parents to thefe children, Which accidentally are met together.

FA If I dreame nor, thou are Amilia. If thou art she, tell me, where is that sonne That floated with thee on the fatall rafte.

Abb. By men of Epidamium, he, and I, And the twin Dromes, all were taken up; But by and by, rude Fishermen of Corinib By force tooke Dromio, and my fonne from them, And me they left with those of Epidomium. What then became of them, I cannot tell: I, to this fortune that you fee mee in.

Duke. Aurphobuthou cam's from Corine fielt. S. Ant. No fir, not I, I came from Stracufe. Duke. Stay, stand apart, I know not which is which. E. Ant. I came from Cormib my most gracious Lord E.Dro. And I with him.

E. Ant. Brought to this Town by that most famous

Duke Menaphon, your most renowned Vnckle. Adr. Which of you two did dine with me to day? S. Ant. I, gentle Mistris.

Adr. And are not you my husband? E. Am. No, I say nay to that.

S. Ans. And so do I, yet did she call me so: And this faire Gentlewoman her fifter heere Did call me brother. What I told you then, I hope I shall have leisure to make good, If this be not a dreame I fee and heare.

Goldsmith. That is the Chaine fir, which you had of

S. Am. I thinke it be fir, I denie it not. E. Aut. And you fir for this Chaine arrested me. Gold. I thinke I did fir, I deny it not. Adr. I fent you monie fir to be your baile By Dromto, but I thinke he brought it not.

E. Dro No, none by me.

S. Ant. This purse of Duckets I receiu'd from you. And Drossio my man did bring them me: I fee we fill did meete each others man, And I was cane for him, and he for me, And therenpon their errors are arole.

E. Am. These Duckets pawne I for my father heere. Dake. It shall not neede, thy father hath his life. Car. Sir I must have that Diamond from you. E. Ant. There take it, and much thanks for my good checra

Abb. Renowned Duke, vouchfafe to take the paines To go with vs into the Abbey heere And heare at large discoursed all our fortunes And all that are affembled in this placer That by this simpachized one dates error Hous litter'd wrong, Goe, keepe vs companie,

100

The Comedie of Errors.

And we shall make so il satisfaction.
Thirtie three yeares have I but gone in travaile, Of you my sonnes, and cill this present houre. My heavie butthen are delivered.
The Duke my husband, and my children both, And you the Kalenders of their Nationry, Go to a Gossips seast, and go wishmee, After so long greese such Nationitie.

Duke With all my heart, lie Gossip at this seast.

Excust corners. Manet the two Dromio's and

S.Dre. Mast. shall I fetch your stuffe from shipbord? E A. Drezzio, what stuffe of mine hast thou imbarks S Dro. Your goods that lay at host fir in the Centaur. S.Am. Helpeakes to me, I am your master Drozzo. Come go with vs, wee'l looke to that anon, Embrace thy brother there, resource with him.

S. Dro. There is a fat friend at your mafters house,
That kitchin'd me for you to day at dianer:
She now shall be my fifter, not my wife,
E. D. Me thinks you are my glasse, not my brother:

E D Methinks you are my glaffe, & normy brocher: Ifee by you, I am a sweet-fac dyouth, Will you walke in to see their goshipping.

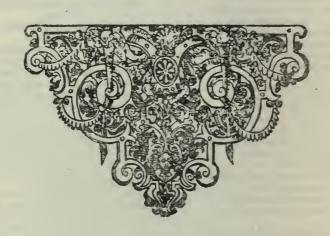

S. Dro Not I fit, you are my elder.

E. Dra. That's a question, how shall we trivia.

S. Dro. Weel draw Cuts for the Signior, till then, lead thou first

E.Dro. Nay then thus:
We came into the worldlike brother and brother:
And now let's go hand in hand, not one before another Execun

FINIS.

Much adoe about Nothing.

Actus primus, Scena prima.

Enter Leonato Governour of Messina, Innogen bis wife, Hero his daughter, and Beatrice his Neece, with a meffenger.

Leonato.

Learne in this Letter, that Don Peter of Arra-gon, comes this night to Messina. Mess. He is very necre by this: he was not three Leagues off when I lest him.

Leon. How many Gentlemen have you loft in this action?

Meff. But few of any fort, and none of name.

Leon. A victorie is twice it selfe, when the atchieuer brings home full numbers : I finde heere, that Don Peter hath bestowed much honor on a yong Florentine, called Claudio.

Meff. Much deseru'd on his part, and equally remembred by Don Pedro, he hath borne himselfe beyond the promise of his age, doing in the figure of a Lambe, the seats of a Lion, he hath indeede better bettred expectation, then you must expect of me to tell you how.

Leo. He hath an Vnckle beere in Messina, wil be very much glad of it.

Meff. I have alreadie delivered him letters, and there appeares much loy in him, even so much, that toy could not shew it selfe modest enough, without a badg of bitternesse.

Leo. Did he breake out into teares?

Meff. In great measure

Leo. A kinde ouerflow of kindnesse, there are no faces truer, then those that are so wash'd, how much better is it to weepe at ioy, then to ioy at weeping?

Bea. I pray you, is Signior Mountanto return'd from the warres, or no?

Meff. I know none of that name, Lady, there was none such in the armie of any fort.

Leon. What is he that you aske for Neece?

Hero. My cousin meanes Signior Benedick of Padua
Mess. Ohe's return'd, and as pleasant as euer he was.

Beat. He set vp his bils here in Messina, & challeog'd Cupid at the Flight: and my Vnckles foole reading the Challenge, subscrib'd for Cupid, and challeng'd him at the Burbolt. I pray you, how many hath hee kil'd and eaten in these warres? But how many hath he kil'd? for indeed, I promis'd to eate all of his killing.

Leon. 'Faith Neece, you taxe Signior Benedicke too much, but hee'l be meet with you, I doubt it not

Meff. He hath done good service Lady in these wars. Beat. You had musty victuall, and he hath holpe to ease it : he's a very valiant Trencher-man, hee hath an excellent Romacke.

Meff. And a good fouldier too Lady.

Beat. And a good fouldier to a Lady. But what is he Meff. A Lord to a Lord, a man to a man, fluft with all honourable vertues.

Best, It is fo indeed, he is no leffe then a stuft man:

but for the stuffing well, we are all mortall.

Leon. You must not (sir) mistake my Neece, there is akind of metry war betwixt Signior Benedick, & her : they never meet, but there's a skirmish of wit between them.

Bea. Alas, he gets nothing by that. In our last conflict, four of his five wits went halting off, and now is the whole man gouern'd with one : fo that if hee have wit enough to keepe himselse warme, let him beare it for a difference betweene himselfe and his horse: For it is all the wealth that he hath left, to be knowne a reafonable creature. Who is his companion now? He hath every month a new (worne brother.

Mess. Very easily possible: he weares his faith but as the fashion of his hat, it cuer changes with & next block.

Mef. I see (Lady) the Gentleman is not in your bookes.

Bea. No, and he were, I would burne my study. But I pray you, who is his companion? Is there no young squarer now, that will make a voyage with him to the diuell?

Mef. He is most in the company of the right noble

Beat. O Lord, he will hang upon him like a difeafe: he is sooner caught then the pestilence, and the taker runs presently mad. God helpe the noble Claudio, if hee have caught the Benedict, it will cost him a thousand pound ere he be cur'd Meff. I will hold friends with you Lady.

Bea. Do good friend.

Leo. You'l oe're run mad Neece.

Bea. No, not till a hot I anuary.

Mel. Don Pedro is approach'd.

Enter don Pedro, Claudio. Benedicke, Balthafar. and lobn the bastard.

Pedro. Good Signior Leonato, you are come to meet your trouble: the fashion of the world is to avoid cost, and you encounter it.

Leon. Neuer came trouble to my house in the likeness of your Grace: for trouble being gone, comfort should remaine: but when you depart from me, forrow abides, and happinesse takes his leave.

Pedro. Youembrace your charge too willingly: I thinke this is your daughter.

Leonare. Her mother hath many times told me fo.

Bened Were you in doubt that you askt her?

Leonato. Signior Benedicke, no, for then were you a childe.

Pedro. You have it full Benedicke, we may gheffe by this, what you are, being a man, truely the Lady fathers her felfe: be happie Lady, for you are like an honorable father.

Ben. If Signior Leonato be her father, the would not have his head on her thoulders for al Messina, as like him as the is.

Beas. I wonder that you will fill be talking, fignior Benedicke, no body markes you.

Ben. What my deere Ladie Difdaine ! ere you yet liuing?

Beat. Is it possible Disdaine should die, while shee hath such meete foode to seede it, 23 Signior Benedicke? Curresse it selse must convert to Disdaine, if you come in her presence.

Bene. Then Is curtefic a turne-coate, but it is certaine I am loued of all Ladies, onely you excepted: and I would I could finde in my heart that I had not a hard heart, for truely I loue none.

Beat. A deere happinesse to women, they would else haue beene troubled with a pernitious Surer, I thanke God and my cold blood, I am of your humour for that, I had rather heare my Dog batke at a Crow, than a man sweare he loues me.

Bens. God keepe your Ladiship still in that minde, so some Gentleman or other shall scape a predestinate Scratcht face.

Best. Scratching could not make it work, and twere fuch a face as yours were.

Bene. Well, you are a rare Parrat teacher.

Bea. A bird of my tongue, is better than 2 beaft of your.

Ben. I would my horse had the speed of your tongue, and so good a continuer, but keepe your way a Gods name, I have done.

Bent. You alwaies end with a ladestricke, I know ou of old.

Pedro. This is the fumme of all: Leonato, fignior Claudio, and fignior Benedicke; my deere friend Leonato, hath inuited you all, I tell him we shall stay here, at the least a moneth, and he heartily praies some occasion may detaine vs longer: I date sweare hee is no hypocrite, but praies from his heart.

Leon. If you sweare, my Lord, you shall not be forsworne, let mee bid you welcome, my Lord, being reconciled to the Prince your brother: I own you all ductie.

lobn. I thanke you, I am not of many words, but I chanke you.

Leon. Please it your grace leade on?

Pedro. Your hand Leonato, we will goe together.

Exeunt. Manet Benedicke and Claudio.

CLAL Benedicke, didft thon note the daughter of fig-

Bene. Inoted her not but I lookt on her.

Class. Is the not a modest yong Ladie?

Bine. Doe you question me ar an honest man should doe, for my simple true judgement? or would you have me speake after my custome, as being a professed tyrant to their sexe?

Clav. No, 1 pray thee speake in sober sudgement

Plane: Why yearth me thinks thee's too low for a hie praise, too browne for a faire praise, and too little for a great praise, onely this commendation I can affootd her, that were shee other then she is, the were vnbandsonse, and being no other, but as she is, I doe not like her.

Cleu. Thou think'ft I am in sport, I pray thee tell ine truely how thou lik's her.

Time. Would you buie her, that you enquier after her?

Clas. Can the world buie fuch a jewell?

Een. Yea, and a case to put it into, but speake you this with a sad brow? Or doe you play the flowting tacke, to tell vs Cupid is a good Hare-finder, and Vulcan a rare Carpenter: Come, in what key shall arran take you to goe in the song?

Class. In mine eie, the is the sweetest Ladie that ever Hookt on.

Bene. I can fee yet without spectacles, and I see no such matter: there's her cosin, and she were not possess with a surie, exceedes her as much in beautie, as the first of Maie doth the last of December: but I hope you have no intent to turne husband, have you?

Clau. I would scarce trust my selfe, though I bad sworne the contrarie, if Haro vould be my wife.

Bene. If come to this? in faith hath not the world one man but he will weare his cap with fulpition? Chall I neuer fee a batcheller of three foore againe? goe to yfaith, and thou will needes thruft thy necke into a yoke, weare, the print of it, and figh away fundaies: looke, den Padro is returned to feeke you.

Enter don Pedro, lohn the bastard

Pedr. What secret hathheld you here, that you followed not to Leonatoes?

Bened. I would your Grace would confiraine mee to tell.

Pedro. I charge thee on thy allegeance.

Een. You heare, Count Claudio, I can be fectet us a dumbeman, I would have you thinke so (but on my allegiance, marke you this, on my allegiance) here is in love, With who? now that is your Graces part: marke how short his answere is, with Hero, Leonatoes short daughter.

Clan. If this were fo, so were it vitted.

Bevel Like the old tale, my Lord, it is not fo, nor 'twas not fo: but indeede, God forbid it should be fo.

Class. If my possion change not shortly, God forbid it should be otherwise.

Pedro. Amen, if you love her, for the Ladie is verte well worthie.

Clan. You speake this to fetch me in, my Lord

Pedr. By my troth I speake my thought.

Clas. And in faith, my Lord, I spoke mine.
Bened. And by my two faiths and troths, my Lord, I pesse a. inc.

Clan. That I loue her, I feele, Pedr. That the is worthie, I know.

Bened. That I neither feele how thee should be loued, not know how shee should be worthie, it the opinion that fire cannot melt out of me. I will die in it at the stake.

Pedr. Thou wast ever an obstinate heretique in the despight of Beautie, Clue. And never could maintaine his part, but in the force of his will.

Bene. That

Ben. That a woman conceiled me, I thanke her: that fhe brought nice vp, Ilikewije gine her most humble thankes; but that I will have a rechate winded in my forehead, or hang my bugle in an inuifible baldricke, all women shall pardon me: because I will not do them the wrong to mithrust any, I will doe my felfe the right to trust none : and the fine is, (for the which I may goe the finer) I will live a Batchellor.

Pedro. Ishall see thee ere I die, looke pale with lone. Bene. With anger, with ficknesse, or with hunger, my Lord, not with love : prove the ever I loofe more blood with love, then I will get againe with drinking, picke out mine eyes with a Ballet-makers penne, and hang me vp as the doore of a brothel-house for the figne of blinde Cupid.

Pedro. Well, if ener thou dooft fall from this faith, thou wilt prone a notable argument.

Bene. If I do, hang me in a bottle like a Cat, & shoot at me, and he that hit's me, let him be clapt on the thoulder, and cal'd Adam

Pedra. Well, as time shall trie: In time the fsuage

Bull dorh heare the yoake.

Bene. The Lauge buil may, but if ever the fentible Benedicke beare it, plucke off the bulles hornes, and fer enem in my forchead, and let me be vildely painted, and infuch great Letters as they write. heere is good horfe to hire : let them fignifie under my figne, here you may fee Benedicke the married man.

Class. If this frould euer happen, thou wouldft bee horne mad.

Pedra. Nay, if Cupid have not spent all his Quiver in Venice, thou wilt quake for this Chorrly.

Bene. I looke for an earthquake too then.

Pedro. Well, you will temporize with the noures, in the meane time, good Signior Benedicke, repaire to Leomatoes, commend me to him, and tell him I will rot faile him at supper, for indeede ha hath made great prepara-

Bene. I have almost matter enough in me forfuch en

Emballage, and fo I commut you.

Class. To the tuition of God. From my house, if I had it

Pedro. The fixt of July. Your louing friend, lemedick. Bene. Nay mocke not, mockenot; the body of your discourse is sometime guarded with fragments, and the guardes are but flightly balted on neither, ere you flour old ends any further, examine your conscience, and so ! leave you

Chin, My Llege, your Highnesse naw may doe mos

Pedra. My love is thine to teach, teach ithus bow, And thou shalt see how apt it is to learne Any hard Leffon that may do thee good.

Class. Hath Leonate any fonne my Lord? Pedro. No childe but Hero, the's his oney heire.

Dost thou affect her Claudso?

Clau. Omy Lord, When you went onward on this ended action, I look a vpon her with a fouldiers eie, That lik'd, but had a rougher taske in hand Than to drive liking to the name of loss: Butnow I am return'd, and that warre-thoughts House left their places vacant: in their roomes Come thronging foft and delicate defires All prompting mee how faire yong Horais, Saying I lik'd her ere I went to warren

Pedro. Thou wilt be like a louer presently, And tire the hearer with a booke of words: Is thou dost love faire Hero, cherish it, And I will breake with her: wast not to this end, That thou beganft to twift fo fine a flory?

Class. How sweetly doe you minister to love, That know loues griefe by his complexion! But lest my liking might too fedaine feeme, I would have falu'd it with a longer treatife.

Ped. What need & bridge much broder then the flood? The fairest graunt is the necessitie: Looke what will ferue, is fir: 'tis once, thou lovelt.

And I will fit thee with the remedie, I know we shall have revelling to night,

I will assume thy part in some disguise. And tell faire Hero I am Claudio,

And in her bosome Ile vnclatpe my heart, And take her hearing prisoner with the force And strong incounter of my amorous tale:

Then after, to her father will I breake, And the conclusion is, thee shall be thine, In practife let vs put it prefently.

Enter Leonato and an old man brother to Leonato. Lee. How now brother, where is my colen your fon: bath he provided this muficke?

Old. He is very busic about It, but brother, I can tell you newes that you yet dreams not of.

Lo. Are they good!

Old, As the events framps them, but they have a good couer : they show well outward, the Prince and Count Claudio walking in a thick pleashed aliey in my orchard, were thus over-heard by a man of mine: the Prince difcovered to Claudio that hee loved my niece your doughter, and meent to acknowledge it this night in a dance, and if hee found her accordant, hee meant to take the present time by the top, and inflantly breake with you

Lie. Hath the follow any wit that told you this? Old. A good sharps fellow, I will fend for him, and question him your selfe.

Leo. No, no; wee will hold it at a dreame, till it ap. peare it felfe: but I will acquaint my daughter withall, that the may be the better prepared for an answer, if per adventure this beetrue: goe you and tell her of it: coo-lins, you know what you have to doe, O I crie you mercie friend, goe you with mee and I will vie your skill good cofin have a care this buferime. Enter Sir John the Baft and and Com ade his companion

Con. What the good yeeze my Lord, why aze you thus out of measure lad?

lob. There is no measure in the occasion that breeds therefore the fadnesse is without limms.

Con. You should heare reason.
Isha. And when I have heard it, what blessing brin geth it?

Con. If not a prefent remedy, yet a patient fufferance Ich. I wonder that thou (being as thou fairt thou are borne vnder Saturne) goeft about to apply a morall me dicine, to a mortifying mischiefe : I cannot hide what I am : I must bee fad when I have cause, and smile at no mansiefts, est when I have fromacke, and wait for no mant leifure: fleepe when I am drowfie, and tendon no mans bufineffe, laugh when I am merry, and claw no man in his humor.

Can. Yes, but you must not make the full how of this, till you may doe it without controllment, you have of late stood out against your brother, and hee hath tane you newly into his grace, where it is impossible you should take root, but by the faire weather that you make your felfe, it is needful that you frame the feafon for your owne harveft.

John. I had rather be a canker in a hedge, then a role in his grace, and it better fits my bloud to be disdain'd of all, then to fashion a carriage to tob loue from any: in this (though I cannot be faid to be a flattering honest man) It must not be defined but I am a plaine dealing villaine. I am trufted with a muffell, and enfranchifde with a clog, therefore I have decreed, not to fing in my cage: if I had my mouth, I would bite : if I had my liberty, I would do my liking in the means time, let me be that I am , sad feeke not to alter me.

Con. Can you make no vie of your discontent? John, I will make all vic of it, for I vicht onely. Who comes here? what newer Borachio?

Enter Borachie.

Bor. I came yonder from a great supper, the Prince your brother is royally entertained by Leonaro, and I can give you intelligence of an intended marriage.

Ishn. Will it serve for any Modell to build mischiese on 7 What is hee for a foole that betrothes mimfelfe to unquietnesse?

Bor. Mary it is your brothers right hand. John. Who, the most exquisite Clandio?

Bor. Euenhe!

John. A proper fquier, and who, and who, which way bookes he?

Bor. Mary on Horo, the daughter and Heire of Lee-

Jobn. A very forward March-chicke, how came you

Bor. Being entertain'd for a perfumer, as I was Imoaking a multy toome, comes me the Prince and Claudio, hand in hand in fad conference: I whipt behind the Ar ras, and there heard it agreed vpon, that the Prince fould wooe Hero for himselfe, sud hauing obtain'd her, gius her to Count Claudio.

John Come, come, let vs thither, this may prove food to my displeasure, that young statt-vp bath all the glorie of my ouerthrow: if I can crosse him any way, I blesse my feife every way, you are both fare, and will affift

Conr. To the death my Lord.

John. Let ve to the great supper, their cheere is the greater that I am subdued, would the Cooke were of my minde: shall we goe proue whats to be done?

Box. Wee'll wait vpon your Lordship.

Exempt.

A aus Secundus.

Enter Locusto, bis brother, bis wife, Hero bis daughter, and Beatrice bis nesse, and a kinfman.

Leonato. Was not Count I ohn here at supper? Brother. I law him not.

Beatrice. How tartly that Gentleman lookes, Inquer can fee him, but I am heart-burn'd an howre after. Hero. He is of a very melancholy disposition.

Beatrice. Hee were an excellent man that were made lust in the mid-way betweene him and Benedicks, the one is too like an image and fairs mething, and the other too like my Ladies eldest fonne, enermore tacling

Leon. Then halfe fignior Benedicks tongu: in Count Johns mouth, and halfe Count Johns metancholy in Sig-nior Benedicks face.

Beat. With a good legge, and a good foor vnckle, and money enough in his purie, fuch a man would winne any woman in the world, if he could get her good will.

Leon. By my troth Neece, thou wilt neve get thee a husband, if thou be fo shrewd of thy tongue.

Brother. Infaith shee's too curst.

Beat. Too curft is more then curst, I shall lessen Gods fending that ways for it is feid, God fender earst Cow thors hornes, but to a Cow too curst he fer ds none.

Lem. So, by being too curst, God will fend you no

Bear. Iust, if he fend me no husband, for the which bleffing, I am at him vpon my knees every morning and evening : Lord, I could not endure a busband with a beard on his face. I had rather lie in the woollen.

Lemate. You may light upon a husband that bath no beard.

Barries. What should I doe with him? decffe him in my apparell, and make him my waiting gentlewoman?he that hath a beard, is more then a youth : and he that hath no beard, is leffe then a man : and hee that is more then a youth, is not for mee: and he that is leffe then a man, I am not ferhim: therefore I will even take fix epence in ear nest of the Berrord, and leade his Apes into heli.

Lem Well then, goe you into hell.

Bear No, but to the gate, and there will the Devil meete mee like an old Cuckold wit homes on his head, and fay get you to heaven Beetrice, get you to heaven, heere's to place for you maids, so deliver I vp my Apes, and away to S. Peter: for the heavens, bee thewes mee where the Batchellers lit, and there live was as merry as the day slong.

Brother, Well neece, I trust you will be rul'd by your father.

Beatres. Yes faith, it is my colens dutie to make cun fie, and fry, as it please you: but yet for all that cofin, lex lum be chandlome fellow, or elle make an other curfic. and fay, ather, as it pleafe me.

Leonan. Well neece, I hope to fee you one day fitted with a hubond.

Beatrice Not till God make men of some other mertall then eath, would it not grieve a woman to be overmattred with a peece of vallant dust to make account of her life to adod of waiward marle? no vnckle, ile none: Adams sonnes are my brethren, and truly I hold it a sinne to match in my kinted.

Leon. Drughter, remember what I told you, if the Prince doe selicit you in that kinde, you know your en-fwere.

Beatries. The fault will be in the muficke cofin, if you be not woed a good time: if the Prince bee too impor. tant, tell him here is measure in every thing, & so dance out the answee, for heare me Haro, wooing, wedding, & repenting, is a Scorch ijgge, a measure, and a cinquepace: the first suite is hot and hasty like a Scotchingge (and full as fartasticall) the wedding manerly modelt, (as a measure) ull of state & sunchentry, and then comes repentance, and with his bad legs falls into the cinquepace faster and faster, till he finkes into his grave.

Lesnata. Colinyou apprehend palling farewdly. Bearrice. I have a good eye wackle, I can fee e Church by daylight.

Lean. The revellers are entring brother, make good

Enter Prince, Pedro, Claudio, and Benedecke, and Balthafar, or dumbe lobe. Maskers with a drum.

Pedro. Lady, will you walke about with your friend? Hera. So you walke fofily, and looke (weetly, and lay northing, I am yours for the waike, and especially when I walke away

Pedro. With me in your company. Hero. I may lay lo when I pleafe.

Pedro. And when please you to lay so?

Here. When I like your fauour, for God defend the Lute should be like the cafe.

Pedro My visor is Philemons tooke, within the bouse is Loue.

Here. Why then your vifor should be that the.

Fedro. Speake low if you speake Loud. Bene. Well, I would you didlike tre

Mar. So would not I for your owner fake, for I have mame ill qualities.

Bene. Which is one?

Mar. I lay my prayers alowd.

Ben. I love you the better, the hearers may cry Amen. Dier. God match me with a good dauncer.

Bait. Amen

Mar. And God keepe him out of my light when the daunce is done: answer Clarke.

Balt. No more words the Clarke is answered. Vrfula. I know you well enough, you are Signior Enebonio.

Anth Ataword, Iamnos

Vrsula. I know you by the wagling of your head.

Anth. To tell you true, I counserfet him.
Vrfu. You could neuer doe him to ill well, wheffe you were the very man: here s his dry hand vp & down, you are he, you are he.

Anth. Ar a word I am not.

Urfala. Come, come, doe you thinke I doe not know you by your excellent wit? can vertue hide it felfe ? goe to, mumme, you are be, graces will appeare, and there's an end.

Beat. Will you not tell me who told you so?

Bene. No, you shall pardon me.

Beat. Not will you not tell me who you are ?

Bened. Not now.

Beat. That I was disdainfull, and that I had my good wit out of the hundred merry tales : well, this was Signior Benedicke that faid fo.

Bene. What's he?
Bent. I am fure you know him well enough.

Bene. Not I, beleeue me.

Beat. Did he never make you laugh?

Bene. I pray you what is he?
Beat. Why he is the Princes leafter, a very dull foole, onely his gitt is, in deuiling impossible flanders, none but Libertines delight in him, and the commendation is not in his witte, but in his villanie, for hee both pleafeth men and angers them, and then they laugh at him, and beathim: I am fure he is in the Fleet, I would he had boorded and Bene. When I know the Gentleman, Ile rell him what you fay.

z. Do, do, beel but breake a companion or two on me, which peraduenture (not markt, or not laughtd at) strikes him into melanchoily, and then there's a Partridge wing fatted, for the foole will cate no supper that night. We must follow the Leaders.

Ben. In every good thing.
Bea. Nay, if they leade to any ill, I will leave them at the next turning.

Musicks for the dasse.

John Sure my brother is amorous on Hero, and bath withdrawne her father to breake with him about it: the Ladies follow her, and but one vifor remaines.

Borachio. And that is Claudes, I know him by his ben-sing.

John Are not you fignior Emedicket

Clan. You know me well, I am hee.

John. Signior, you are verie necre my Brother in his lone, he is ensmor d'on Here, I pray you dissivade him from her, the is no equall for his birth : you may do the part of an honest man in it.

Claudio. How know you he loves her?

lobs. I heard him (weare his affection.

Em. Sodid I too, and he swore he would marrie her to night.

Idm. Come, let vs to the banquet. Exment Clan.

Clau. Thus answere I in name of Benedicke But heare thefe ill newes with the eares of Claudio: Tis certaine to, the Prince woes for himfelfe: Friendship is constant in all other things, Sauc in the Office and affaires of love: Therefore all hearts in love vie their owne tongues. Let cuerie eye negotiare for it felfe, And trust no Agent : for beautic is a witch, Against whose charmes, faith melteth into blood ? This is an accident of housely proofe, Which I missrusted not. Farewell theretors Hero.

Enter Benedicke.

Ben. Count Claudie.

Class. Yea, the fame.

Ben. Come, will you go with me?

Class. Whither?

Ben. Even to the next Willow, about your own bafinesse, Count. What fashion will you weare the Gare land off? About your necke, like an V furers chaine? Or vader your arme, like a Lieutenants scarfe? You must weare it one way, for the Prince hash got your Hero.

Class: I wish him ioy of her.

Ben. Why that's spoken like an honest Drouier, so they fel Bullockes: but did you chinke the Prince wold have ferued you thus?

Class I pray you leave me.

Ben. Ho now you strike like the blindman, twas the boy that stole your meste, and you'l beat the post.

Class. If it will not be, Ilelezue you.

Ber. Alas poore hurt fowle, now will he creepe into sedges: But that my Ladie Beatrice should know me, & natknow me : the Princes foole! Hah? It may be I goe vndershattitle, because I am merrie: yea but so l'am ipt to do my selfe wrong: I sur not so reputed, it is the bale (though bitter) disposition of Beatrice, that putt's the world into her person, and so gives me our: well, lie be reuenged as I may.

Enter the Prince.

Pedro. Now Signior, where's the Count, did you

Bone. Troth my Lord, I have played the part of Lady Fame, I found him heere as melancholy as a Lodge in a Warren, I told him, and I thinke, told him true, that your grace had got the will of this young Lady, and I offered him my company to a willow tree, either to make him a garland, as being forlaken, or to binde him a rod, as being worthy to be whipt.

Pedro. To be whipt, what's his fault?

Bene. The flat transgression of a Schoole-boy, who being ouer-loyed with finding a birds neft, fliewes it his companion, and he steales it.

Pedro. Wilt thou make a trust, a transgression ? the transgression is in the stealer.

Ben. Yet it had not beene amiffe the rod had beene made, and the garland too, for the garland he might have worne himselfe, and the rod hee might have bestowed on you, who (as I take it) have folne his birds neft.

Pedro. I will but teach them to fing, and reftore them

Bene. If their finging answer your saying, by my faith you fay honestly.

Pedra. The Lady Beatrice hath a quarrell to you, the Gentleman that daunst with her, told her shet is much wrong'd by you.

Bene, O the misusde me past the indurance of a block; an oake but with one greene leafe on it, would have anfwered her: my very vifor began to assume life, and scold with her: free told mee, not thinking I had beene my felfe, that I was the Princes lefter, and that I was duller then a great thaw, hudling iest vpon iest, with such impossible conuciance vponme, that I food like a man at a marke, with a whole army shooting at me : shee speakes poynyards, and every word flabbes: if her breath were as terrible as terminations, there were no living neere her, the would infect to the north flatte ; I would not matry her, though she were indowed with all that Adam had left him before he transgrest, she would have made Hercules have turnd fpit, yea, and have cleft his club to make the fire too: come, talke not of her, you shall finde her the infernal! Ate in good apparell. I would to God some scholler would conjure her, for certainely while she is heere, a man may live as quiet in hell, as in a fan Quary, and people sinne upon purpose, because they would goe thither, lo indeed all disquiet, horror, and perturbation followes her.

Enter Claudis and Beatrice, Leonate, Hero.

Fedre. Looke heere the comes.

Bene. Will your Grace command mee any fervice to the worlds end? I will goe on the flightest arrand now to the Antypodes that you can devife to fend me on : I will feech you a tooth-picker now from the further inch of Alia: bring you the length of Prefter Ichns foot: fetch you a hayre of the great Chams beard: doe you any embaffage to the Pigmies, rather then hould three words conference, with this Harpy: you have no employment

Pedre. None, but to defire your good company. Bene. O God sir, heeres a dish I leve not, I cannot indure this Lady tongue.

Padr. Come Lady, come, you have loft the heart of Signior Benedicke. Brate. Indeed my Lord, hee lent it me ? while, and I gaue him vie for it, a double heart for a fingle one, marry once before he wonne it of mee, with faile dice, therefore your Grace may well fay I haue lost it.

Pedro. You have put him downs Lady, you have put him downe.

Beas. So I would not be should do me, my Lord, left I fhould prooue the mother of fooler : I have brought Count Claidie, whom you lent me to leeke.

Pedro. Why how now Count, wheefore are you said Cland. Not sad my Lord.

Pedro. How then? licke ! Claud. Neither, my Lord.

Bear. The Count is nelther lad, not licke, nor merry, nor well: but civili Count, civil as an Orange, and fomething of a lealous complexion.

Pedro. If sith Lady, I thinke your blezon to be true, though Ile be sworne, if hee be so, his conceit is falle: heere Cieudio, I have woord in thy name, and faire Hero is won, I have broke with her father, and his good will obtained, name the day of marriage, and God give Lesna. Count, take of me my daughter, and with her my fortunes: his grace hash made the match, & all grace fay, Amen to it.

Zeatr. Spezke Count, tis your Qu,

Cland. Silence is the perfecteft Herault of ioy, I were but little happy if I could fay, how much? Lady, as you are mine, I am yours, I give away my felfe for you, and dost vpon the exchange.

Beat. Speake cofin, or (if you cannot) frop his mouth with a kille, and let not him speake neither.

Pedro. Infaith Lady you have a merry heart.

Beatr. Yearny Lord Ithanke it, poore soole it keepes on the windy fide of Care, my coofin tells him in his eare that he is in my beatt, Clas. And to the doth coofin.

Bie. Good Lord for alliance : thus goes every one to the world but I, and I am fun-burn'd, I may fit in a corner and cry, heigh ho for a husband.

Pedro. Lady Beatrice, I will get you one.

Best. I would rather have one of your fathers getting: hath your Grace ne're a brother like you? your father got excellent husbands, if a maid could come by them.

Prince. Will you have me? Lady.

Beat. No, my Lord, valeffe I might have another for werking-daies, your Grace is too costly to weare everie day : but I bescech your Grace pardon mee, I was borne to speake all mirth, and no matter.

Prose. Your filence most offends me, and to be merry, best becomes you, for out of question, you were born in a merry hovere.

Beatr. No fure my Lord, my Mother cried, but then there was a flarre daunft, and under that was I borner cofine God give you loy.

Lemae. Neece, will you looke to these things I told you of?

Lest. I cry you mercy Vacle, by your Graces pardon. Exit Beatrice.

Prince. By my troth a pleasant spirited Lady.
Leon. There's little of the melantholy element in her my Lord, she is never sad, but when she sleepes, and not euer fad then: for I have heard my daughter fay, fhe hath often dreams of vahappinesse, and wakt her selfe with laughing.

Pedro. Shee cannot indute to heare tell of a husband. Lemate. O, by no meanes, she mocks all her woders out of fuite.

Prince. She were an excellent wife for Benedick, Leonato. O Lord, my Lord, if they were but a weeke married. merried, they would talke themfelues madde.

Prince. Counte Claudio, when meane you to goe to Church?

Class. To morrow my Lord, Time goes on crutches, till Loue have all his rites

Leonard. Not till monday, my deare sonne, which is hence a just feuen night, and a time too briefe too, to haue all things answerminde.

Prince. Come, you shake the head at so long a breathing, but I warrant thee Claudio, the time shall not goe dully by vs, I will in the interim, vndertake one of Hercules labors, which is, to bring Signior Benedicke and the Lady Beatrice into a mountaine of affection, th'one with th'other, I would faine haue it a match, and I doubt not but to fashion it, if you three will but minister such affistance as I shall give you direction.

Leonata, My Lord, I am for you, though it cost mee ten nights watchings,

Claud. And I my Lord.

Prin. And you to gentle Here?

Here. I will doe any modelt office, my Lord, to helpe my cona to a good husband.

Prin. And Benedick is not the vnhopefullest husband that I know: thus farre can I praise him, hee is of a noble straine, of approued valour, and confirm'd honesty, I will teach you how to humour your cofin, that thee shall fall In love with Benedisks, and I, with your two helpes, will so practise on Beredicke, that in despight of his quicke wit, and his queasie stomacke, hee fhall fall in loue with Beatrice: if wee can doe this, Cupid is no longer an Archer, his glory shall be ours, for wee are the onely lousgods, goe in with me, and I will tell you my drift. Exis.

Enter Ishn and Borachio.

lob. It is fo, the Count Claudio final marry the daugh-

Born. Yearny Lord, but I can croffe it.

Ichn. Any barre, any crosse, any impediment, will be medicinable to me, I am ficke in displeasure to him, and what focuer comes athwart his affection, ranges evenly with mine, how canst thou crosse this marriage?

Ber. Not honeftly my Lord, but so couertly, that no dishonesty shall appeare in me.

Iohn. Shew me breefely how.

Bor. I thinke I told your Lordship a yeere fince, how much I am in the favour of Margaret, the waiting gentlewoman to Here.

John. Iremember.

Bor. I can at any unscasonable instant of the night, appoint her to look out at her Ladies chamber window. John. What life is in that, to be the death of this marriage? Bor. The poylon of that lies in you to temper, goe you to the Prince your brother, sparenot to tell him, that hee hath wronged his Honor in marrying the renowned Ciardio, whose estimation do you mightily hold up, to a contaminated stale, such a one as Hero

John. What proofe shall I make of that?

Bor. Proofe enough, to misuse the Prince, to vexe Claudie, to vadoe Here, and kill Lemate, looke you for amy other iffue ?

John. Onely to despight them, I will endeauour any thing.

Bor. Goethen, finde me a meete howre, to draw on Pedro and the Count Claudio alone, tell them that you know that Here loues me, intend a kinde of zeale both to the Prince and Claudio (as in a love of your brothers honor who bethmade this match) and his friends reputation, who is thus like to be cofen'd with the femblance of a maid, that you have discover'd thus: they will scarcely beleeve this without triall: offer them instances which shall beare no lesse likelihood, than to see mee at her chamber window, heare me call Margaret, Here; heare Margaret terms me Claudio, and bring them to fee this the very night before the intended wedding, for in the mesnetime, I will so fashion the matter, that Hero shall be absent, and there shall appeare such seeming truths of Herses disloyaltie, that igalousie shall be cal'd assurance, and all the preparation ouesthrowne.

John. Grow this to what adverte iffue it can, I will put it in practife: be cunning in the working this, and thy fee is a thousand ducases.

Ber. Bethou conflant in the accusation, and my cunning shall not shame me.

Lobin. I will presentlie goe learne their day of marriage.

Enser Benedicke alone.

Bene. Boy.

Boy. Signior.

Bene. In my chamber window lies a booke, bring it hither to me in the orchard.

Boy. I am heere already fir.

Bene. I know that, but I would have thee hence, and heere againe. I doe much wonder, that one man feeing how much another man is a foole, when he dedicates his behaulours to love, will after hee hath laught at such shallow follies in others, become the argument of his owne scorne, by falling in love, & such a man is Claudio, I have known when there was no muficke with him but the drum and the fife, and now had hee rather heare the taber and the pipe: I have knowne when he would have walkt ten mile afoot, to fee a good armor, and now will he lie ten nights awake caruing the fashion of a new dublet: he was wont to speake plaine, & to the purpose (like an honest man & a souldier) and now is he turn'd orthography, his words are a very fantafficall banquet, iust fo many strange dishes: may I be so converted, & fee with thele eyes? I cannot tell, I thinke not : I will not bee fwome, but love may transforme me to an oyster, but He take my oath on it, till he have made an oyfter of me, he shall never make me such a foole; one woman is faire, yet I am well: another is wife, yet I am well: another vertuout, yet I am well : but till all graces be in one woman, one woman shall not come in my grace: rich shee shall be, that's certaine; wife, or He none : vertuous, or He neuer chespen her : faire, or Ile neuer looke on her : milde, or come not neere me: Noble, or not for an Angell : of good discourse :an excellent Musitian, and her haire shall be of what colour it please God, hah! the Prince and Monsieur Loue, I will hide me in the Arbor.

Enter Prince, Leonato, Claudio, and lacke Wilfers.

Prin. Come, shall we heare this musicke?

Claud. Yea my good Lord: how still the evening is,

As husht on purpose to grace harmonie.

Pris. See you where Benedicke hath hid himselfe?

Class. O very well my Lordithe muficke ended, Wee'll fit the kid-foxe with a penny worth.

Prince. Come Balthafar, wee'll heare that fong again. Balib. O good my Lord, taxe not so bad a voyce, To flander muficke any more then once.

Prin. It is the witnesse still of excellency,

Much adoe about Nothing.

To flander Musicke any more then once.

Prince. It is the witnesse fill of excellencie, To put a strange face on his owne perfection, I pray thee fing, and let me woe no more.

Balth. Because you talke of wooing, I will fing, Since many a wooer doth commence his fuit, To her he thinkes not worthy, yet he woods,

Yet will he fweare he loues. Prince. Nay pray thee come, Orlf thou wilt hold longer argument, Doeit in notes.

Balth. Note this before my notes, Theres not a note of mine that's worth the noting. Prince. Why these are very crotchets that he speaks,

Note notes for footh, and nothing.

Bene. Now divine sire, now is his foule ravishe, is it not strange that st.cepes guts should hale soules out of mens bodies? well, a home for my money when all's disce.

The Song.

Sighno more Ladies, figh no more, Men were deceivers ener, One foote in Sea, and one on fbere, To one thing constant never, Then figh not fo but let them goe, And be you blishe and bornie. Conserting all your founds of wee, Into bey nony mony.

Song no mere ditties, fing no mos, Of dumps fo dull and bear; The fraud of men were ener fo, Since summer first was leaving. Then figh not fo, Ac.

Prince. By my troth a good fong. Balth. And an ill finger, my Lord.

Prince. Ha, no, no faith, thou fingst well enough for a Shife.

Ben. And he had been a dog that should have nowld thus, they would have hang'd him, and I pray God his bad vovce bode no mischiefe, I had as liefe haue heard the night-tauen, come what plague could have come at-

Prince. Yearnarry, dost thou heare Batthafar? I pray thee get vs fome excellent mufick : for to morrow night we would have it at the Lady Heroes chamber window.

Balth. The best I can, my Lord. Ext Balthafar. Frince. Do so, farewell. Come hither Leonars, what was it you told me of to day, that your Nicce Beantee was in love with fignior Benedicke?

Cla. OI, stalke on, stalke on, the foule fits. I did neuer thinke that Lady would have loued any man.

Leon. No nor I neither, but most wonderful, that she should so dote on Sigmor Benedicke, whom shee hath in all outward behauiours feemed euer to abhorre.

Bone, 1s't possible? fits the winde in that corner? Leo. By my troth my Lord, I cannot tell what to thinke of it, but that the loves him with an inraged affe-Clions it to past the infinite of thought.

Prince .- May be the doth but counterfeit.

Claud. Faith like enough,

Lean. O God! connterfeit? there was neuer counterfeit of passion, came so neere the life of passion as the difcouers it.

Why what effects of passion shewes the Cland. Base the hooke well, this fift will becen

Leon What effects my Lord? Thee will fit you, you heard my daughter tell you how Class. She did indeed.

Prin. How, how I pray you ? you arnaze me, I would have thought her spirit had beene intincible against all allaults of affection.

Lea. I would have fwome It had my Lord, especially agains Benedicke.

Bene I should thinke this a gull, but that the whitebearded fellow speakes it : knapery cannot sure buce himfelfe in fuch reverence,

Cland He hath tane th'infestion, hold it vp.

Prince. Hath thee made her affection knows to Bear. diche !

Leonato. No, and sweares the neuet will, that a ber tomient.

Claud. Tis erve indeed, so yourdanghter laies : Iball I, faics the that have to oft encountred him with fcome, write to him that I love him?

Leo. This faies thee now when thee is beginning to write to him, for shee'll be vp twenty times a night, and there will the fix in her Imorke, till the have were a theest of paper: my daughter tells vs all.

Class. Now you talke of a freet of paper, I remember a pretty left your daughter told vs of

Leon, O when the had writ it, & was reading it ouer, We found Benedicke and Become borveene the Cheete.

Class That.

Leon. Ofhe tore the letter into a thousand halfpence, raild at her felf, that the should be so immodell to write, to one that shee knew would Bout her : I measure bim, faies the, by my owne spirit, for I should flout bim if bee writ to mee, yea though I love him. I should.

Class. Then downe upon her knees the falls, weepes, sobs, beates her heart, reares her hayre, praies, curles, O fweet Bexedicks, God give me parience.

Leon She doth indeed, my daughter faies fo, and the extafie hath fo much overborne her, that my daughter is formtime afeard the will doe a desperate out-rage to her felfe, it is very true.

Prine. It were good that Benedicke knew of it by fome other, if the will not discover it.

Class. To what end ! he would but make a sport of it, and torment the poote Lady worfe.

From And he should, it were an almes to hang him. Thee's an excellent tweet Lady, and (ont of all suspected.) the is vertuous.

Claudio. And the is exceeding wife.

Prince. In every thing, but in louing Benedicke.

Lean. Omy Lord, wiledome and bloud combating in so tender a body, we have ten proofes to one, that bloud hach the victory, I am forry for her, as I have suft cause being her Vncle, and her Guardian,

Prince. I would thee had bestowed this dougeon mee, I would have daft all other respects, and made her halfe my felfe: I przy you tell Eenedicke of ic, and heare what he will fay.

Lean. Were it good thinke you?

Class. Herothinkes furely the wil die, for the saies the will die, if hee loue her noe, and thee will die ere thee make her love knowne, and the will die if hee wood her, rather than thee will bate one breath of her accustomed croffeneffe.

Prin. She doth well, if the should make tender of her love.

love, 'tis very possible hee'l scorne it, for theman (as you know all) hath a contemptible spirit.

Clau. He is a very proper man.

Prin. He hath indeed a good outward happines. Class. 'Fore God, and in my minde very wife.

Prin. He doth indeed shew some sparkes that are like Lean. And I take him to be valiant.

Prin. As Heltor, I affure you, and in the managing of quarrels you may fee hee is wife, for either hee auoydes them with great discretion, or undertakes them with a Christian-like feare.

Less. If hee doe feare God, a must necessarilie keepe peace, if hee breake the peace, hee ought to enter into a quarrell with feare and trembling

Prin. And so will he doe, for the man doth fear God. howfoeuer it feemes not in him, by fome large leafts hee will make: well, I am forry for your niece, shall we goe fee Benedicke, and tell him of her love.

Claud. Neuer tell him, my Lord, let her weste it out with good counsell.

Leon. Nay that's impossible, she may weare her heart out first,

Prin Well, we will heare further of it by your daughter, let it coole the while, I loue Bonedicke well, and I could wish he would modefully examine himselfe, to see how much he is voworthy to have so good a Lady.

Leon. My Lord, will you walke? dinner is ready. Class. If he do not doat on her vpon this, I wil neuer trust my expectation.

Prin. Let there be the same Net spread for her, and that must your daughter and her gentlewoman carry: the sport will be, when they hold one an opinion of anothere dotage, and no fuch matter, that's the Scene that I would fee, which will be mecrely a dumbe fhew : let vs fend her to call him into dinner,

Bene. This can be no tricke, the conference was fadly borne, they have the truth of this from Hero, they feeme to pittie the Lady: it feemes her affections have the full bent : love me? why it must be required : I heare how I am cenfur'd, they fay I will beare my selfe proudly, if I perceive the love come from her : they fay too, that the will rather die than give any figne of affection: I did neuer thinke to marry, I must not seeme proud, happy are they that heare their detractions, and can put them to mending : they say the Lady is faire, 'tis a truth, I can beare them witnesse: and vertuous, tis so, I cannot reprooue it, and wife, but for louing me, by my troth it is no addition to her witte, nor no great argument of her folly; for I wil be horribly in love with her, I may chance baue some odde quirkes and remnants of witte broken on mee, because I hauerail'd so long against marriage: but doth not the appetite alter i a man loues the meat in his youth, that he cannot indure in his age. Shall quips and sentences, and these paper bullets of the braine awe a man from the careere of his humour ? No, the world must be peopled. When I said I would die a batcheler, I did not think I should live till I were maried, here comes Beatrice: by this day, shee's a faire Lady, I doe spie some markes of loue in her.

Enter Beatrice

Beat. Against my wil I am sent to bid you come in to dinner.

Bene. Faire Beatrice, I thanke you for your paines.

Reas. I tooke no more paines for those thankes, then you take paines to thanke me, if it had been painefull, I would not have come.

Bene. You take pleasure then in the message
Beat. Yea iust so much as you may take vpon a knives point, and thoake a daw withall : you have no stomacke fignior, fare you well.

Bone. Ha, against my will I am fent to bid you come into dinner: there's a double meaning in that: I tooke no more paines for those thankes then you tooke paines to thanke me, that's as much as to fay, any paines that I take for you is as easie as thankes : if I do not take pitty of her I am a villaine, if I doe not loue her I am a Iew, I will goe get her piaure.

Allus Tertius.

Enter Hero and two Gentlemen, Margaret, and Vrfula.

Here. Good Margaret tunne thee to the parlour, There shalt thou finde my Cofin Beatrite, Proposing with the Prince and Claudio Whilper her care, and tell het I and Prisla. Walke in the Orchard, and our whole discourse Is all of her, fay that thou over-heardft vs, And bidher Reale into the pleached bower, Where hony-suckles ripened by the sunne, Forbid the funne to enter : like fattourites , Made proud by Princes, that advance their pride, Against that power that bred it, there will she hide her To liften our purpose, this is thy office, Beare thee well in it, and leave vs alone.

Marg. He make her come I warrant you prefently. Here. Now Vrfula, when Bestrice doth come, As we do trace this alley vp and downe, Our talke must onely be of Benedicke, When I doe name him, let it be thy part, To praise him more then ever man did merit, My talke to thee must be how Benedicke Is ficke in love with Beatrice : of this matter, Is little Gupids crafty atrow made, That onely wounds by heare-fay: now begin, Enser Beatrice.

For looke where Beatrics like a Lapwing runs Close by the ground, to heare our conference.

The pleasant'it angling is to fee the fifth Cut with her golden ores the filuer streame, And greedily denoure the treacherous balte; So angle we for Bearrice, who even now, Is couched in the wood-bine coverture, Feare you not my part of the Dialogue.

Her. Then go we neare her that her care loofe nothing, Of the falle (weete baite that we lay for it a No truely Vrfula, the is too difdainfull, I know her spirits are as coy and wilde, As Haggerds of the rocke.

Orfula. But are you fure, That Benedicke loues Beatrice so intirely?

Her. So saies the Prince, and my new trothed Lord. Vrf. And did they bid you tell her of it, Madam ? Her. They did intreate me to acquaint her of it,

But I perswaded them, if they lou'd Benedicke, lo wish him wrastie with affection, And never to let Bearnes know of lt.

Vrfula. Why did you to, doth not the Gentleman Deferue as full as forcunaros bed,

As ever Bearies Thall couch upon?

Here. O God of loue! I know he doch deferue, As much as may be yeelded to a man . But Nature neuer fram d womans heart, Ofprowder ftuffe then that of Beatrice Disdaine and Scorneride sparkling in her eyes, Mif-prizing what they looke on, and her wit Values le selle so highly, that to her All matter elle fecmes weake: fhe cannot loue, Nor take no shape nor proced of affection, Shee is lo felfe indeared

Vrfula. Sure I thinke fo, And therefore certainely it were not good She knew his love, left the make sport at it

Hero. Why you speake truth, I never yet saw man, How wife, how noble, yong, how rarely teatur'd. But the would spell him backward: if faire fac'd She would sweare the gentleman should be her fifter If blacke, why Nature drawing of an anticke, Made a foule blot: if tall, a launce ill headed : Iflow, snagot very vildlie cut i If speaking, why a vane blowne with all windes. If filent, why a blocke moved with none So turnes the every man the wrong fide out, And neuer gives to Truth and Vertue, that Which simplenede and merit purchaseth.

Prfu. Sure, fure, such carping 18 110t commendable. 2010. No not to be so odde, and from all fashions, As Bestrees is, cannot be commendable, But who dare tell her fo ! if I should speake, She would mocke me into ayre, O the would laugh me Out of my felfe, presseme to death with wit, Therefore let Benedicke like couered fire, Consume away in lighes, waste inwardly. It were a better death, to die with mockes, Which is as bad as die with tickling.

Urfu. Yet tell her of it heare what shee will say. Here. No rather I will goe to Benedicke, And counsaile him to fight against his pastion, And truly Ile deuise some honest flanders, To staine my conn with, one doth not know, How much an ill word may imperson liking.

Urfa. O doe not doe your cofin fuch a wrong, She cannot be so much without true judgement, Having so swift and excellent a wit As the is prilde to have, as to refule So rare a Gentleman as figulor Benedicke.

Here. He is the onely man of Italy,

Alwaies excepted, my deare Clandio. Vrfu. I pray you be not angry with me, Madame, Speaking my fency: Signior Benedicke, For shape, for bearing argument and valour, Goes formost in report through Italy.

Here. Indeed he hath an excellent good name. Urfu. His excellence dideame it ere he had it:

When are you married Madame?

Hero. Why everie day to morrow, come goein, He show thee some attires, and have thy counsell, Which is the best to furnish me to morrow.

Vrfn. Shee's tane I warrant you, We have caught her Madame?

Here. If it proue fo, then louing goes by heps,

Some Capid kills with accowes, some with traps. Beat, What fire is ut mine earcs? can this be true? Stand I condemn d for pride and fcorne fo much? Contempt, stewell, and maiden pride, adew, No glory lives behinde the backe of fuch. And Benedicke, love on, I will require thee, Toming my wilde heart to thy louing hand i If thou doft loue, my kindszefie fhall incite thes To binde our loues up in a holy band For others fay thou dost deferue, and I Beleeue it better then reportingly. Exa.

Eurer Prince, Claudio, Benedichs, and Leonaro. Prince. I doe but flay till your marriage be contemmate, and then go I toward Arragon.

Class. He bring you chither my Lord, if you? rouchfafe me.

Prm. Nay, that would be as great a foyle in the new glosse of your marriage, as to show a childe his new cost and forbid him to weare it, I will onely bee bold with Benedicke for his companie, for from the crowne of his head, to the fole of his foot, he is all mirth, he hath twice or thrice cut Capids bow-firing, and the little hang-man dare not shoot at him, he hath a heart as found as a bell, and his congue is the clapper, for what his heart thinkes, his conque speakes.

Bene. Gallages, lam no: as I haue bin. Leo So say I, methinkes you are sadder

Claud. I hope he be in loue.

Prin. Hang him truant, there's no true drop of bloud in him to be truly toucht with love, if he be fad, hewarts money.

Bene. I have the tooth-sch.

Prin. Drawit.

Bene. Hangit.

Cloud. You must hang it first, and draw it afterwards. Prin. What? figh for the tooth-ach.

Lean. Where is but a humour or a worme.

Dene. Well, euery one cannot master a griefe, but bee that has it.

Clau. Yet say I, he is in loue.
Prov. There is no appearance of funcie in him, valesse it be a fancy that he hath to strange disguises as to bee a Detchman to day, a Frenchman to morrow: valeffe hee have a fancy to this foolery, as it appeares hee hath, hee is no fook for fancy, as you would have it to sppcare

Class. If he be not in love with some woman, there is no beloeving old figner, a brushes his has a mornings, What should that bode?

Priss. Hath any man feene him at the Barbers?

Class. No, but the Barbers man both beene feen with him, and the olde ornament of his checke hath alreadie Rufe tennis balls.

Lean Indeed belookes yonger than hee did, by the loTe of a beard.

Prin. Nay a rubs himselfe with Civit, can you smell him out by that?

Clau. That's as much as to fay, the fweet youth's io

Prom. The greatest note of it is his melancholy Class, And when wes he woose to weath his face?

Prin. Yea, or to paint himselfe? for the which I heare what they fay of him.

Clas. Nav, but his iesting spirit, which is now crept late a line firing, and now govern'd by floas.

Prince.

Prin. Indeed that tels a heavy tale for him: conclude,

Clan. Nay, but I know who loues him.

Prince. That would I know too, I warrant one that knowes him not.

Cla. Yes, and his ill conditions, and in despight of all, dies for him

Prin. Sheeshall be butied with her face vpwards.
Bene. Yet is this no charme for the tooth-ake, old fignior, walke aside with mee, I have studied eight or nine wife words to speake to you, which these hobby-horses must not heare.

Prin. For my life to breake with him about Beatrice: Class. 'Tis cuen fo, Isro and Margaret have by this played their parts with Beatrice; and then the two Beates will not bite one another when they meete.

Enter John the Bastard.

Baf. My Lord and brother, God faue you.

Prin. Good den brother.

Baft. If your leifure feru'd, I would speake with you.

Prince. Inprinate?

Baft. If it please you, yet Count Claudio may heare. for what I would speake of concernes him.

Prin What's the matter

Basta. Meanes your Lordship to be martied to mortow

Pris. You know he does.

Baff. I know not that when he knowes what I know. Claz, If there be any impediment, I pray you difeo-

Bast You may thinke I love you not, let that appeare herenfter, and syme better at me by that I now will manifest, for my brother (1 thinke, he holds you well, and in dearenelle of heart) hath holpe to effect your enfuing marriage: furely fute ill fpent, and labour ill bestowed.

Prim. Why, what's the metter?

Bastard. I came hither to tell you, and circumstances fnortned, (for the liath beene too long a talking of) the Lady is difloyall.

Clase, Who Here?

Baft. Even thee, Leevasces Hero, your Hero, every man's Hero

Class Duloyell?

Baft. The word is too good to paint out her wickednesse, I could say the were worse, thinke you of a worse title, and I will fit her to it : wonder not till further warcanta goe but with mee to night, you shal fee her chamber window entred, even the night before her wedding day, if you love her, then to morrow wed her : But it would better fit your honour to change your minde.

Cland. May this be fo? Prine. I will not thinke it.

Bast. If you dare not trust that you see, confessenot that you know : if you will follow mee, I will shew you enough, and when you have feene more, & heard more, proceed accordingly.

Clau. If I fee any thing to night, why I should not marry her to morrow in the congregation, where I shold wedde, there will I shame her.

Prin. And as I wood for thee to obtains her, I will ioyne with thee to difgrace her.

Baft. I will disparage her no farther, till you are my witnesses, beare it eaidly but till night, and let the issue thow it felfe

Prin. O day vintowerdly turned!

Claud. Omischiese ftrangelie thwarting!

Bastard. O plague right well preuented! so will you lay, when you have feene the fequele. Exit.

Enter Dogbery and his comparener with the wesch.

Dog. Are you good men and true?
Vag. Yes, or elfe it were pitty but they should suffer Caluation body and foule.

Dogb. Nay, that were a punishment too good for them, if they should have any allegizance in them, being chosen for the Princes watch.

Voges. Well, giue them their charge, neighbour

Dogbery.

Dog. First, who thinke you the most desartlesse man to be Constable?

Watch. 1 Hugh Ote-cake fix, or George Sea-toole, for they can write and reade.

Dogb. Come hither neighbour Sea-coale, God hath bleft you with a good name: to be a wel-fauoured man, is the gift of Fortune, but to write and reade, comes by Nature

Watch 2. Both which Master Constable

Dogb. You have: I knew it would be your answere . well, for your fauour fir, why give God thankes, & make no boast of it, and for your writing and reading, let that appeare when there is no need of fuch vanity, you are thought beere to be the most senslesse and fit man for the Constable of the watch : therefore beare you the Brithorne: this is your charge: You shall comprehend all vagrom men, you are to bid any man stand in the Prin-waich 2. How if a will not fland?

Dogb. Why then take no note of him, but let him go, and presently call the rest of the Watch together, and thanke God you are ridde of a knaue.

Verger. If he will not fland when he is bidden, her is none of the Princes subjects.

Dogb. True, and they are to meddle with none but the Princes Subjects : you shall also make no soile in the freetes: for, for the Watch to babble and talke, is most tollerable, and not to be indured.

Watch. We will rather sleepe than talke, wee know what belongs to a Watch.

Dog. Why you speake like an ancient and most quiet watchman, for I cannot fee how fleeping fould offend: only have a care that your bills be not folne; well, you are to call at all the Althouses, and bid them that are drunke get them to bed.

Watch. How If they will not?

Dogb. Why then let them along till they are fober, if they make you not then the better answere, you may say, they are not the men you tooke them for.

Wateb. Well fir. Dogo. If you meet a theefe, you may suspect him, by vettue of your office, to be no true man : and for such kinde of men, the leffe you meddle or make with them, why the more is for your honesty.

Watch. If wee know him to be a thiefe, shall wee not lay hands on him.

Dogb. Truly by your office you may, but I think they that touch pitch will be defil'd : the most peaceable way for you, if you doe take a threfe, Is, to let him show himfelfe what he is, and steale out of your company.

Ver. You have bin alwaies cal'd a mereiful ma partner. Dog. Truely I would not hang a dog by my will, much more a man who hath anie honestie in him.

Verges. If you heare a child crie in the night you must call to the nurse, and bid her fill it.

Watch. How if the nurse be affecpe and will not

Dog. Why then depart in peace, and let the childe wake her with crying, for the ewe that will not heare her Lambe when it baes, will neuer answere a calfe when he bleates.

Kerser Tis venetrue.

Dog. This is the end of the charge: you confiable are to present the Princes owne person, if you meete the Prince in the night, you may flaichim.

Verger. Nay birladie that I thinke a cannot.

Dog. Fine shillings to one on't with some man that knowes the Statues, he may staichim, marrienot without the prince be willing for indeed the watch ought to offend no man, and ic is an offence to flay a man against his will.

Verger. Birladie I thinke it be fo.

Dog. Ha,ah ha, well masters good night,and there be anie niatter of weight chances, call vp me, keepe your fellowes counfailes, and your owne, and good night, come neighbour

Wateb. Well masters, we heare our charge, let vs go fit here vpon the Church bench till two, and then all to

Dog. One word more, honest neighbors. I pray you watch about fignior Leonatoes doore, for the wedding being there to morrow, there is a great coyle to night, adiew.be vigitant I befeech you. Excust.

Enter Borachio and Conrade.

Bor What, Conrade?

Warch. Peace,fir not.

Bor. Conrade I lay.

Con. Here man, I am at thy elbow.

Ber. Mas and my elbowitcht, I thought there would a scabbe sollow.

Con, I will owe thee an answere for that, and now Forward with thy tale.

Bor. Stand thee close then under this penthouse, for it driffels raine, and I will, like a true drunkard, veter all to Watch. Some treason masters, yet stand close.

Bor. Therefore know, I have earned of Den John 3 thousand Duestes.

Con. Is it possible that anie villanic should be so deare? Bor. Thou hould'it rather aske if it were possible anie villanie should be so rich? for when rich villains have neede of poore ones, poore ones may make what price they will,

Con. I wonder atit.

Ror. That shewes thou art vnconfirm'd, thou knowest that the fashion of a doublet, or a hat, or a cloake, is nothing to a man.

Con. Yes, it is apparell. Bor. I meane the fathion.

Con. Yes the fashion is the fashion.

Bor. Tush, I may as well say the soole's the soole, but feelt thou not what a deformed theefe this fashion is?

Watch. I know that deformed, a has bin a vile theefe, this vii. yeares, a goes vp and downe like a gentle man: Lremember his name.

Bor. Did'st thou not heare some bodie? Con. No, twas the vaine on the house.

Bor Seest thou not (I say) what a deformed thiefe this fashion is, how giddly a turnes about all the Hota blouds, betweene source ene & fine & chirtie, sometimes fashioning them like Tharases fouldiours in the rechie painting, sometime like god Bels priefts in the old Charch window, sometime like the Shauen Hacules in the fmircht worm eaten tapeftrie, where his cod-peece feemes as maffie as his club.

Con All this I fee, and fee that the fashion weater out more apparrell then the man; but are not thou thy felfe giddle with the fashion too that thou hast shifted out of thy tale into telling me of the fashion?

Bor. Not so neither, but know that I have to night wood Margaret the Lady Heroes gentle-woman, by the name of Here, the leanes me out at her miltris chambe:vvindow, bids me a thousand times good night: I tell this tale vildly. I should first tell thee how the Prince Claudio and my Master planted, and placed, and possessed by my Master Don lobn, saw a far off in the Orchard this amiable incounter, Con. And thought thy Margaret was Hera?

Bor. Two of them did, the Prince and Claudio, but the diuell my Master knew the was Margaret and partly by his oather, which first possest them, partly by the darke night which did deceive them, but chiefely, by my villanie, which did confirme any flander that Don loba had made, away event Claudso enraged, swore hee would meete her as he was apointed next morning at the Temple, and there, before the whole congregation shame her with what he faw o're night, and fend her bome againe vvichout a husbaud.

Warch. 1. We charge you in the Princes name stand. Wareb. 2. Call vp the right master Constable, vve have here recovered the most dangerouspeece of lechery, that ever was knowne in the Common-wealth, Watch. 1. And one Deformed is one of them. I know him, a vveares a locke.

Conr. Masters, masters.

Wateb. 2. Youle be made bring deformed forth I warrant you,

Conr. Masters, neuer speake, Tve charge you, let vs obey you to goe with vs

Bor. We are like to proue a goodly commoditie, being taken vp of these mens bils.

Conr. A commoditie in question I warrant you, come vvcele obey you.

Enter Hero, and Margaret, and Urfula

Hero. Good Vrfula wake my cofin Beatrue, and defire her to rife ..

Urfn. I will Lady.

Her And bid her come hither.

Vrf. Well.

Mar. Troth I thinke your other rebato were better. Bero. No pray thee good Meg, Ile vveare this.

Marg. By my troth's not to good, and I vverrant your cofin will fay fo.

Bira. My cosin's 2 soole, and thou art another, ile vvearenone but this.

Mar. I like the new tire within excellently, if the haire were a thought browner : and your gown's a most rare fashion yfaith, I saw the Dutchesse of Millames gowne that they praise fo.

Bero. O that exceedes they fay.

Mar. By my troth's but a night-gowne in respect of yours, cloth a gold and cuts, and lac'd withfilter, set with pearles, downe fleeues, fide fleeues, and skirts, round vnderborn with a blewish tinsel, but for a fine queint gracefull and excellent fashion, yours is worth ten on'r.

Bero. God

Here. God give meetey to weste it, for my heart is exceeding heavy.

Alaga. Twill be heavier foone, by the walght of a man

Horo. Fie vponthee, are not alham'd?

Marg. Of what Lady? of speaking honourably? is not marriage honourable in a beggar? is not your Lord honourable without marriage? I thinke you would have me ley, fauing your reverence a husband : and bad thinking doe not wrest true speaking, He offend no body, is there any harme in the besuier for a husband? none I thinke, and it be the right husband, and the right wife, otherwise 'tis light and not heavy, aske my Lady Beasrice elfe, bere the comes.

Enter Bestrics.

Maro. Good morrow Coze.

Beat, Good morrow sweet Here.

Horo. Why how now? do you speake in the fick tune?

Bear. I am out of all other tune, me thinkes.

Mar. Claps into Light a loue, (that goes without a burden,) do you ling it and lledance it.

Beat. Ye Light aloue with your heeles, then if your husband have fisbles enough, you'll looke he fhall lacke no barnes.

210. O diegitimate construction! I scorne that with my heeles.

Best. Tis almost five a clocke cofin, 'tis time you were ready, by my troth I am exceeding ill, hey ho.

Mar. For a hauke, a horse, or a husband? Braz. For the letter that begins them ali, H.

Mar. Well, and you be not turn'd Turke, there's no more fayling by the starre, Beat. What meanes the foole trow?

Mar. Nothing I, but God fend every one their harts deine.

Hera. These gloves the Count sent mee, they are an excellent perfum

Best. I am fluft cofin, I cannot freell.

Mar. A maid and fluft! there's goodly catching of calde.

Beas. O Godhelpe me, God belp me, how long have you profest apprehension?

Idar. Ever fince you left it, doth not my wit become merarely? Esst. It is not feene enough, you should weare it in your cap, by my troth I am licke.

Mer. Get you some of this diffill'deardure benedittus end lay is to your heart, it is the onely thing for a qualnt. Mrs. There thou prickft her with a chillell

Bost. Basedilles, why benedilles? you have formemorall in this becediffing.

Mer. Morall? to by my troth, I have no morall meathing, I meant plaine holy thiffell, you may thinke perchance that I thinke you are in loue, nay birlady I am not fuch a foole to thinke what Ilift, nor Ilift not to thinke what I can, nor indeed I cannot thinke, if I would thinke my hart out of thinking, that you are in loue, or that you will be in love, or that you can be in love: yet Benedicks was fuch another, and now is he become a man, he fwere hee would never marry, and yes now in delpight of his beart be extes his meat without gradging, and how you may be conserted I know not but me thinkesyou looke with your eies as other women doe.

Boat. What pace is this that thy tongue keepes.

Mar. Not a falle gallop. Enter Vrfula.

Vrfula. Madam, withdraw, the Prince, the Count, fignice Benedicks, Don John, and all the gallants of the towne are come to fetch you to Church.

Hero. Helpe to drelle mee good coze, good Mez, good Vrfula.

Enter Leonato, and the Constable, and the Headbarangh. Leanato. What would you with mee, honest neigh-

Const. Dog. Mary fir I would have some confidence with you, that decemes you neately.

Leon. Briefe I pray you, for you fee it is a bufie tirue with me,

Conft. Dog. Mary this it is fir. Headb. Yes in truth it is fir.

Lewn. What is it my good friends?

Con. Do. Goodman Verges fir speakes a little of the matter, an old man sir, and his wits are not so blunt, as God helpe I would defire they were, but infaith honest as the skip betweene his browes.

ifeed. Yes I thank God, I am as honeft as any man liulog, that is an old man, and no honester then I.

Can. Dog. Comparisons are odorous, palabras, neighbour Verges.

Lean. Reighbours, you are tedious.

Con. Dog. It pleates your worthip to fay forbut we are the poore Dukes officers, but truely for mine owne part, if I were as redious as a King I could finde in my heart to besiow it all of your worship

Leon. All thy tediousuesses on me, sh?

Conf. Dog. Yes, and twere a thousand times more than tise for I heare as good exclamation on your Worthip as of any man in the Citie, and though I bee but a poore man, I am glad to beare it.

Head. And form I

Lem. I would faine know what you have to lay.

Marry fir our watch to night, excepting your worthips prefence, haus take a couple of as atrant knaues as any in Mcdina.

Con.Dog A good old man fir, hee will be talking as they fay, when the age is in the wit is out, God helpe vs, it is a world to fee : well faid yfaith neighbour Verges , well, God's a good man, and two men ride of a horfe, one must ride behinde, on honest toule yfaith fir, by my trath he is, as ever broke bread, but God is to bee worthipt, all men are not alike, alas good neighbour.

Leon. Indeed neighbour he comes too fhort of you.

Con. Do. Gifts that God gives.

Leon. I must leave you.

Con. Dog. One word fir , our warch fir have indeede comprenended two aspitious persons, & we would have them this morning examined before your worthip.

Leas. Take their examination your felfe, and bring it me, I am now in great hafte, as may appeare vnto you.

Couft. It shall be suffigance (Exte. Drinke some wine ere you goe : fare you well. Messinger. My Lord, they stay for you to give your daughter to her husband. Lem. He wait vponthem, I am ready.

Dogb. Goe good partner, goe get you to Francis Soaease, bid him bring his pen and inkehorne to the Gaode: we are now to examine those men.

Verges. And we must doe it wifely.

Dogb. Wee will spare for no witte I warrant you: K 3 heere's that shall drive some of them to a non-come, only get the learned writer to fet downe our excommunication, and meet me at the Iaile.

Allus Quartus.

Unter Prince, Bastard, Leonaso, Frier, Claudio, Benedicke Hero, and Beatrice.

Leonaro. Come Frier Francie, be briefe, onely to the plaine forme of marriage, and you shal recount their particular duries afterwards.

Fran. You come hither, my Lord, to marry this Lady.

Claw. No.

Leo. To be married to her : Frier, you come to mar-

Frier. Lady, you come hither to be married to this Count.

Hero. I doe.

Frier. If either of you know any inward impediment why you should not be conjoyned, I charge you on your Soules to vtter it.

Cland Know you anie, Hero? Hero. None my Lord.

Frier. Know you anie, Count?

Leon. I dare make his answer, None.

Cian. O what men date do ! what men may do! what men deily do!

Bene. How now ! interiections? why then, some be of laughing, as ha, ha,he.

Class. Stand thee by Frier, father, by your leave. Will you with free and vnconstrained soule Give me this maid your daughter?

Lear. As freely sonne as God did give her me. Cla. And what have I to give you back, whole worth

May counterpoile this rich and precious gift?

Prin. Nothing, valeffe you render her againe. Clen. Sweet Prince, you learn me noble thankfulnes: There Leonato, take her backe againe.

Giue not this rotten Orenge to your friend, Shee's but the figne and femblance of her honout: Behold how like a maid the blushes heere? O what authoritie and fnew of truth Can cunning finne couer it felfe withall! Comes not that bloud, as modelt evidence,

To withesse simple Vertue? would you not sweeze All you that fee her, that the were a maide, By these exterior shewes? But she is none: She knowes the heat of a luxurious bed: Her blush is guiltinesse, not modestie.

Leonate. What doe you meane, my Lord? Class. Not to be married,

Not to knit my foule to an approved wanton.

Leon. Deere my Lord, if you In your owne proofe, Have vanquishe the relistance of her youth,

And made defeat of her virginitie. (bes, Claw. I know what you would say: if I have knowne You will fay, she did imbrace me as a husband, And so extenuate the forehand sinne: No Leanure I never tempted her with word too large, But as a brother to his fifter, fbewed Bashfull finceritie and comely love.

Hero. And feem'd I ener otherwife to you?

Class. Out on thee feem ng, I will write against it. You seeme to me as Diane in her Orbe, As chaste as is the budde ere it be blowne But you are more intemperate in your blood, Than Venu, or those pampred animalia,

That roge in lauage sensualitie.

Hero. Is my Lord well, that he doth speake so wider Lean Sweete Prince, why speake not you?

Prm. What should I speake?

I ftand diffionour'd that have gone about, To linke my deare friend to a common stale.

Lean. Are these things spoken, or doe I but dreame? Bast. Sirthey are spoken, and these things are true. Bene. This lookes not like a nuptiall.

Hers. True, O God!

Clau. Leonato, Stand I here?

Is this the Prince? is this the Princes brother? Is this face Heroes? are our ever our owne?

Lean, All this is fo, but what of this my Lord?

Clau. Let me but move one question to your daugh-And by ther fatherly and kindly power, That you have in her, bid her answer truly.

Les I charge thee doe, as thou art my childe. Hero. OGod defend me how am I befet,

What kinde of catechizing call you this? Class. To make you answer truly to your name. Here, Is it not Here > who can blot that name

With any suft reproseh?

Claud. Marry that can Here, Heroit selfe can blot out Heroes vertue. What man was he, talkt with you yesternight, Out at your window betwitt twelve and one? Now if you are a maid, answer to this.

Here. Italks with no man at that howre my Lord Prince. Why then you are no maiden. Lemate, I am forry you must heare : vpon mine honor , My felfe, my brother, and this grieued Count Did fee her, heare her, at that howre last night, Talke with a ruffian at her chamber window, Who hash indeed most like a liberall vullaine, Confest the vile encounters they have had A thousand times in secret.

Ichn. Fie, fie, they are not to be named my Lord, Not to be spoken of,

There is not chastitie enough in language, Without offence to veter them: thus pretty Lady I am forry for thy much milgouernment.

Cland. O Hero! what a Hero hadft thou beene If halfethy outward graces had beene placed About thy thoughts and counsailes of thy heart? But fare thee well, most foule, most faire, farewell Thou pure implety, and implous puritic, For thee Helocke vpall the gates of Loue, And on my eje-lids shall Coniecture hang, To turne all beauty into thoughts of harme, And never shall it more be gracious.

Leon. Hath no mans dagger here a point for me?
Best. Why how now cofin, wherfore link you down? Baft. Come, let vs go: thefe things come thus to light, Smother her spirits vp.

Bess. How doth the Lady?

Beat. Dead I thinks, helpe vnole, Hero, why there Vacle, Signer Benedete, Frier. Leonard. O Fate! take not away thy heavy hand.

Death is the fairest cover for her shame That may be witht for.

Zia. How

Reatr. How now colin Hero? Fre. Have comfort Ladie. Loen. Doft thou looke vp?

Frier. You, wherefore thould the als?

Lam. Wherfore? Why doth not every earthly thing Cry shame upon her? Could she heere denie The storic that is princed in her blood? Do not live Hars, do not ope thine eyes: For did I thinke thou wouldft not quickly die, Thought I thy spirits were fronger then thy shames, My felfe would on the reward of reproaches Strike arthy life Grieu'd I, I had but one? Chid I, forthat at frugal Natures frame? O one too much by thee: why had I one? Why ever was't thou louelie in my cies? Why had Inot with charitable hand Tooke vp a beggars iffue at my gates, Who smeered thus, and mir'd with infamic, I might have faid, no part of it is mine ! This shame derives it selfe from vnknowne loines, But mine, and mine I tou'd, and mine I prais'd, And mine that I was proud on mine fo much, That I my felfe, was to my felfe not mine:

To her foule tainted flesh. Bea. Sir, fir, be patient : for my part, I am fo arthred in wonder, I know not what to fay.

Into apit of Inke, that the wide fea Hash drops too few to wash her cleans againe,

Valewing ofher, why the, O the is falne

And falt too little, which may feefon give

Bea. O on my foule my colin is belied. Ben. Ladie, were you her bedfellow last night? Bes. No truly : not although entill last night, I have this twelvemouth bin her bedfellow.

Leva. Confirm'd, confirm'd, O that is stronger made Which was before berr'd up with tibs of iron Would the Princes lie, and Claudio lie, Who lou'd ber fo, thee speaking of her foulnesse, Wash'd it with teares? Hence from her, let her die.

Fri. Heare me alittle, for I have onely bene filent fo long, and given way vnto this course of facture, by noting of the Ladie, I have markt.

A thousand blushing apparitions, To ftert into her face, a thousand innocent fhames, In Angel whiceneffe beare away those bluffers And in her cie there hath appear'd affre To burne the errors that these Princes hold Against her maiden truth. Call mea foole, Trust not my reading, nor my observations, Which with experimental feale doth warrang The tenure of my booke: trust not my age, My renerence, celling, nor diumitie, If this fweet Ladie ize not guildeffe heere, Vnder some biting error. Leo. Friar, it connot be: Thou feell that all the Grace that the hath left,

Is, that the wil not adde to her damnation, A frame of periury, the use denies it : Why feek'ft thou then to cover with excufe, That which appeares in proper nakednesse!

Fri. Ladie, what man is he you are accused of?
Hero. They know that do accuse me, I know none: If I know more of any man alise Then that which maiden modestie doth warrant,

Let all my finnes lacke mercy. Omy Father, Prove you that any man with me convert,

At houses vameete, or that I yesternight Maintain'd the change of words with any creature, Refuse me, hate me, torture me to death.

Fri. There is some Arange misprisson in the Princes. Ben. Two of them have the verie bent of honer, And if their wisedomes be missed in this:

The practife of it lives in lobe the baffard, Whole spirits toile in frame of villanies.

Leo. I know not : if they speake but truth ofher, These hands shall teere her: If they wrong her honour, The proudest of them shall wel heare of it. Time hath not yet to dried this bloud of mine, Norage lo este up my invention, Nor Fortune made fuch hauocke of my meaner, Normy bad life refi me fo much of friends, But they shall hade, awak'd in such a kinde, Both firength of limbe, and policie of minde, Ability in meaner, and cholfe of friends, To quitme of them throughly.

Fri. Pause awhile: And let my counfell fway you in this cafe, Your daughter heere the Princesse (lest for dead) Let her awhile be fecretly kept in, And publish it, that the is dead indeed: Maintaine a mourning oftentation, And on your Families old monument, Hang mournfull Epitaphes, and do all rives, That appensine vino a buriall.

What shall become of this? What wil this do? Fri. Marry this wel carried, shall on her behalfe, Change slander to remorfe, that is some good, But not for that dreame I on this strange course, But on this trausile looke for greater birth; She dying, as it must be so maintain'd, Vpon the instant that she was accus'd, Shal be Ismented, pittled, and excus d Of every heaser : for it fo fals out, That what we have, we prize not to the worth, Whiles we enloy it; but being lack'd and loff. Why then we racke the value, then we finde The versue that pollession would not thew vs Whiles it was ours, fo will st fare with Clardio: Whenhe that heare the dyed upon his words, This dea of her life shall weetly creepe Intohis fludy of imaginesion And every lovely Organ of her life, Shall come apparel'd in more precious habite: More moung delicate, and ful of life, Into the eye and prospect of his foule Then when the liu'd indeed : then that he mourne, If ever Love had interest in his Liver, And with he had not fo accused her: No, though he thought his accusation true: Let this be fo, and doubt not but successe Wil fashion the event in better shape, Then I can lay it downe in likelihood. But if all syme but this be levelld felfe, The Supposition of the Ladies death, Will quench the wonder of her infamie. And if it fort not well, you may conceale her, As best besits her wounded reputation, In forne reclusiue and religious life, Out of all eyes, tongnes, mindes and injuries, Bow. Signior Leonaro, let the Frier eduise you, And though you know my inwardnesse and love Is very much voto the Prince and Claudio.

Yes, by mine honor, I will deale in this. As fecretly and iuflie, as your foule Should with your bodie

Low. Being that I flow in greefe,

The finallest twine may lead me.

Frier. Tis well confented, prefently away, For to Arange fores, Arangely they Araine the cure. Come Lady, die to liue, this wedding day

Perhaps is but prolong'd, haue patience & endure. Exit Bene. Lady Bearries, haue you wept all this while?

Yes, and I will weepes while longer.

Bene. I will not defire that,

Beat. You have no reason, I doe it freely.

Bone. Surelie I do beleeue your fair cofin is wrong'd. Best. Ah, how much might the man deferue of mee that would right her!

Bene. Is there any way to thew forh friendthip?

Best. A verie euen way, but no such friend.

Bene. May a man doe it #

Beat. It is a mans office, but not yours.

Bene. I doe love nothing in the world fo well as you,

is not that ftrange;

Beat. As strange as the thing I know not, it were as possible for me to say, I loued nothing so well as you, but belieue me not, and yet I lie not, I confesse nothing, noe Ideny nothing, I am forry for my coulin.

Bers. By my fword Beatrice thou lou'st me.

Best. Doenot sweare by it and ear it.

Bone. I will sweare by it that you love mee, and I will makehim eat it that fayes I love not you.

Beat. Will you not eat your word?

Bene. With no lawce that can be deuiled to it, I protest I loue thee.

Bear. Why then God forgive me,

Best. What offence sweet Beatrice &

Best. You have stayed me in a happy howre, I was about to proteft I loved you.

Bene. And doe it with all thy heart.
Bent. I love you with so much of my heart, that none is left to proteft.

Bened. Come, bid me doe any thing for three.

Bess. Kill Claudia.

Bene. Ha, not for the wide world. Beat. You killime to denie, sareweil.
Bens. Tarrie sweet Beatrice.

Best. I am gone, though I am herre, there is no lowe in you, nay I pray you lee me got Bene. Leatrice.

Beas. Infaith I will goe.

Bene. Wee'll bestriends first Bees. You dare easter be friends with mee, than fight with mine enemy.

Bene. Is Claudio thine enemie?

Beat. Is a not approved in the height a villaine, that hath flandered, scorned, dishonoured my kinswoman? O that I were a man ! what, beare her in hand vertill they come to take hands, and then with publike accusation encouered flander, enmittigated rancour? O God that I were a man! I would ear his heart in the marker-place.

Bene. Heare me Bearice.

Seet. Talke with a man out at a window ; a proper

Bene. Nay but Beatrice.

Best. Sweet Hare, theis wrong'd, thee is flandered, the is vindone.

Bene. Best ?

Beat. Princes and Counties I farehe a Princely westsmonie, a goodly Count, Comfelt, a sweet Gallant surelie, Othar I were a man for his fake! or that I had any friend would be a man for my lake! But manbood is melted into curfics, valour into complement, and men are onelie turned into congue, and trim unca too . he is now as valiant as Herceles, that only tells a lie, and sweares it: I cannot be a man with withing therfore I will die a woman with gricuing.

Bene. Tarry good Beatrice, by this, hand I love thee.
Beat. Vie it for my love force other way then fwea-ring by it.

Bened. Thinke you in your louis the Count Clands hath wrong'd Here?

Beat. Yea, 25 fore 25 I have a thought, or a foule. Bene. Enough, I am engagde, I will challenge him, I will kiffe your hand, and fo leave you : by this band Clasdo shall render me a deere account : as you heare of me, to thinke of me . goe comfort your cooks, I must lay the is dead, and so farewell.

Enter the Conflables, Borachio, and the Towns Clothe in general.

Keeper, Is our whole diffembly appeard:

Couley. Os Roole and a cushion for the Sexton

Sexton. Which be the malefactors?

Andrew. Marry that am I, and my parmer.

Cowley. Nay that's certaine, wee have the exhibition

Sexten. But which are the offenders that are to be examined, let them come before mafter Confrable.

Kemp. Yes marry, let them come before mee, what is your name, friend?

Bor. Berachio.

Kew. Przy write downe Berachie. Yours fure.

Con. I am a Gentleman fir, and my name is Comrade. Ree. Write downe Master gentleman Conrade: mai-flers, doe you serve God: maisters, it is proved alreade: that you are little better than falle knaves, and it will goe neere to be thought fo thortly, how answer you for your Celues ?

Con. Marry fir, we say we are none.

Kemp. A maruellous witty fellow I affure you, ber I will goe about with him : come you hither fire, a word in your care fir, I lay to you, it is thought you are falle

Bor. Sir, I fay to you, we are none.

Kemp. Well, stand aside, fore God they are both in a tale : have you writ downe that they are none?

Sear. Mafter Conflable, you goe not the way to caamine, you must call forth the watch that are their se-

Kemp. Yearnarry, that's the efter way let the watch come forth : masters, I charge you in the Princes name, aceule thefe men.

Watch 1. This man faid fir, that Don loin the Princes brother was a villaine, Kemp. Write down, Prince lebe a villaine: why this la flat periurie, to call a Princes brother villaine.

Bora, Master Constable.

Kemp. Pray thee fellow peace, I do not like thy looke I promise thee.

Sexton. What heard you him fay elfe?

Watch a. Mary that he had received a thousand Dukates of Des John, for accusing the Lady Here wrongKoup. Flat Burglarie as ever was committed.

Sexson, What elfe fellow

Wach 1. And that Count Classis did means upon his words, to difgrace Here before the whole affembly, and not marry her.

Komp. O villainelthou wile be condemn'd into euerlasting redemption for this.

Section. What elfe? Watch. This is all.

Season. And this is more mafters then you can deny, Prince loba is this morning fecretly stolne away : Here was in this manner accused, in this very manner refused, and spon the griefe of this fodainely died : Master Con-Rable, let thele men be bound, and brought to Lavace, I will goe before, and shew him their examination.

Come, let them be opinion'd.

Sex. Let them be in the hands of Coxcambe. Kow. Gods my life, where's the Sexton let him write downertie Princes Officer Coxcombe: come, binde them thou naughty variet.

Cooley. Away, you are an affe, you are an affe.

Kemp. Doft thou not suspect my place? doft thou not suspecting yeares? Other hee were heare to write mee downe an affe! but mafters, temember that I am an affe: though it benot written down, yet forget not y I am an affer No thou villaine, y are full of piety as shall be proud vpon thee by good witnesse, I am a wife fellow, and which is more, an officer, and which is more, a honthoulder, and which is more, as pretty a peece of flesh as any in Messina, and one that knowes the Law, goe to, & a rich fellow enough, goe to, and a fellow that hath had loffes, and one that hath two nownes, and every thing handforme about him: bring him away: O that I had been write downe an affe!

Adus Quintus.

Erster Leonate and his brother.

Brester. If you goe on thus, you will kill your felfe, And 'tis not wifedome thus to lecond griefe,

Against your selfe

Loss, I pray thee ceafe thy counfails Which falls into mine earer as profidelle, As water in a frae: give not me countaile, Nor let no comfort delight mine care, But fuch a one whole wrongs doth face with mine. Bring me a father that so lou'd his childs, Whole loy of her is over-whelmed like mine, And hid him (peake of patience, Measure his woe the length and bredth of mine, And let it amswere every straine for straine, As thus for thus, and fuch a griefe for fuch, In every lineament, branch, shape, and forme a If fuch a one will smile and stroke his beard, And forrow, wagge, crie hem, when he should grone, Patch griefe with proverbs, make misfortune drunke, With candle-walters: bring him yet to me, And I of him will gather patience: But there is no fuch man, for brother, men Can countaile, and speake comfort to that griefe, Which they themselves not feele, but casting it, Their counsaile turnes to pession, which before,

Would glue preceptiall medicine to rage, Fetter frong madneffe in a filken thred Charme ache with ayre, and agony with words, No, no, tis all mens office, to speake patience To those that wring under the load of sorrow t Bot no mant vertue nor sufficiencie To be fo morall, when he shall endure The like himselfe : therefore glue me no counsaile, My griefs cry lowder then advertisement.

Broth. Therein do men from children nothing differ. Leonero. I pray thee peace, I will be flesh and bloud For there was never yer Philosopher, That could endure the tooth-ake patiently, How ever they have writ the flile of gods, And made a push at chance and sufferance.

Breeker. Yet bend not all the harme vpon your felie,

Make those that doe offend you, suffer too.

Leon There thou speak freeson, nay I will doe so. My foule doth tell me, Herois belied And that shall Claudso know, so shall the Prince, And all of them that thus dishonour her.

Enter Prince and Claudio.

Bras. Here comes the Prince and Claudeo haftily.

Prin. Good den, good den.

Class. Good day to both of you. Lean. Heare you my Lords?

Prin. We have forme hafte Leonoto.

Les. Some haste my Lord! wel, fareyouwel my Lord,

Are you to hafty now? well, all is one. Prin. Nay, do not quarrell with vs. good old man Brot. If he could rive himselfe with quarrelling,

Some of vs would lie low.

Cland. Who wrongs him? Less. Marry & dost wrong me, thou diffembler, thou: Nay, never lay thy hand upon thy (word,

I feare thee not. Claud Marry bestrew my hand, If It should give your age such cause of feare, Infaith my hand means nothing to my fword.

Leause. Tufh, tufh, man, neuer fleere and reft at me, I speake not like a dorard, nor a soole, As under priviledge of age to bragge, What I have done being youg, or what would doe, Were I not old, know Clandio to thy head, Thou halt so wrong'd my innocent childe and me, That I am forc'd to lay my reuerence by, And with grey baires and bruile of many dates, Doe challenge thee to triall of a man, I fay thou haft belied mine innocent childe Thy flander hath gone through and through her heart, And the lies bursed with her ancestors Oing tombe where never foundall fleps, Sawe this of hers, fram'd by thy villante. Clued My villany?

Leonato. Thine Claudes, thine I fay.

Prm. You say not right old man. Lean. My Lord, my Lord, He proue it on his body if he dare

Despight his nice fence, and his active practile, His Male of youth, and bloome of luftihood

Clesd. Away, I will not have to do with you.
Leo. Canft thou to daffe me? then haft kild my child,

If thou kilft me, boy, thou shalt kill a man.

Bro. He shall kill two of vs, and men indeed, But that's no matter, let him kill one first :

Win

Win me and weape me, let him answere me, Come follow me boy, come fir boy, come follow me Sir boy,ile whip you from your foynling fence, Nay, as I am a gentlemen, I will.

Leon. Brother.
Brot. Content your felf, God knows I lou'd my neece, And the is dead, flander d to death by villaines, That date as well answer a man indeede, As I d ate take a ferpent by the tougue, Boyes apes, braggarts, lackes, milke-fops.

Leen Brother Anthony.
Brot. Hold you content, what man I know them, yea And what they weigh, even to the vimoft feruple, Scambling, out-facing, falhian-monging boyes, That lye, and cog and flout, deprave, and flander, Goe antiquely anothow outward hidiousnesse, And speake of halfe a dozen dang rous words, How they might hurt their enemies, if they durk. And this is all.

Leon, But brother Authonie.

Ant. Come, us no matter,

Do not you meddle, let me deale in this.

Pri.Gentlemen both, we will not wake your patience My heart is forry for your daughters death: But on my honour she was charg'd with nothing Bue what was true, and very full of proofe.

Leon My Lord, my Lord. Prin. I will not heare you Enter Benedicke.

Les. No come brother, away at will be heard.

Excunt ambo.

Bro. And shall, or some of vs will finart for it. Prin. See, sec, here comes the man we went to feeke. Clau. Now fignior, what newes?

Dev. Good day my Lord.

Prin. Welcome fignior, you are almost come to part almost a fray.

Clas. Wee had like to have had out two notes frape off with two old men withoutteeth.

Prin. Leannie and his brother, what think's thoughad wee fought, I doubt we should have beene too youg for

Ben. In a false quarrell there is no true valour, I came to feeke you both

Class. We have beene up and downers feeke thee, for we are high proofe melancholly, and would faine have it besten away, wilt thou vic thy wit?

Ben. It is in my scabberd, shall I draw it? Prin. Doeft thou we see thy wit by thy fide?

Class, Neuer any did fo, though verie many have been beside their wit, I will bid theo drawe, as we do the mia-Arels, draw to pleasure vs.

Prin. As I am an houeft man he lookes pale, art thou ficke, or angrie?

Clan. What, courage man: what though carekil'd a cat, thou half mettle enough in thee to kill care.

Ben. Sir, I shall meete your wit in the careere, and you charge it against me, I pray you chuse another subiect.

Clau. Nay then give him another staffe, this last was broke crosse, Prin. By this light, he changes more and more, I thinke hebe angrie indeede.

Clas. If he be he knowes how to turne his girdle. Ben. Shall I speake a word in your care?

Clau. God bleffe me from a challenge.

Ein. You are a villaine, lieft not, I will make it good how you date, with what you dare, and when you date: dorne right, or I will proteft your cowardife: you have kill'da sweece Ladie, and her death shall fall heavie on you let me heare from you.

Clas. Well, I will meete you, fo I may bave good cheare.

Prin. What a feast a feast?

Clan. I faith I thanke him, he hath bid me to a calues head and a Capon, the which if I doe not carve most curioully, say my knife's naught, shall I not finde a woodcocketool

Ben Sir, your wit ambles well, it goes eafily.

Prom. He tell thee how Beatrice prais d thy wit the other day: I faid thou hadft a fine withrue faier fine, a fine little one : no faid I, a great wit . right faies face, a great groffe one: nay faid I, a good wit: luft faid the it horta no body : nay faid I, the gentleman is wife : certain faid fhe, a wife gentleman : nay faid I, be hath the tongues : that I beleeve faid thee, for hee fwore a thing to me on munday night, which he forfwore on tuelday morning: there's a double rongue, there's two tongues : thus did thee an howre together trans-shape thy particular verproprest man in Italie.

Cland. For the which the wept beartily, and faid thee

car'd not

Prin. Yea that the did, but yet for all that, and if thee did not hate him deadle, thee would love him dearely, the old mans daughter told vs all.

Class. All, all, and morecuer, God faw him when he was hid in the garden.

Frin, But when shall we fet the sausge Bulis homes on the fenfible Bouedicks head?

Class. Yes and text under-neath, heere dwells Bestdiety the married man.

Ben. Fareyou well, Boy, you know my minde, I will leave you now to your goffep-like humor, you breake teffs as braggards do their blades, which God be thank ed hurt not: my Lord, for your manie courteiles I thank you, I must discontinue your companie, your brother the Baftard is fled from Meffres : you have among you, kill'de sweet and innocent Ladie: for my Lord Lacke-beard there, he and I shall meete, and till then peace be with him.

Pein. He is in earneft.

Class. Io most profound earnest, and He warrant you, for the love of Bestrice.

Prin. And hath challeng'd thez.

Clas. Most fincarely.

Prox. What a prectie thing man is, when he goes in his doublet and hole, and leaves off his wit

Enter Conftable, Conrade, and Borachio.

Clau. He le then a Giant to an Ape, out then is an Ape a Doctor to fuch a man.

Pros. But fost you,let me be, plucke vp my heart, and be sad, did he not say my brother was fied?

Conft. Come you fir, if inflice cannot tame you, thee shall nere weigh more reasons in her beliance, pay, and for be a curfing hypocrite once, you must be look to.

Prin. How now, two of my brothers men bound? Be-

Cies. Harken after their offence my Lord, Pris. Officers, what offence have thefe men done Con Marrie

Couft. Mercie fir, they have committed falle report, moreover they have spoken vnerutha, secondarily they are Clanders, fixe and laftly, they have belyed a Ladio thirdly, they have verified vaius things, and so conclude they are lying knaues.

Prin. Piril 1 sake thee what they have done, thirdlie I eske thee vohat's their offence, first and lattlie why they are committed, and to conclude, what you lay to their Charge.

Ches. Rightlie reasoned, and In his owne division, and by my troth there's one meaning well futed.

Prim. Who have you offended mafters, that you are thus bound to your answer? this learned Constable is too cunning to be vaderflood, what a your offence?

Bor. Sweete Prince, let me go no fatther to mine anferere: do you heare me, and let this Count kill aice: I have decrived one your veriseies: what your wife-domes could not discover, these shallow sooles have brought to light, who in the night overheard me confelling to this man, how Don lolar your brother incenfed me to flander the Ladie Hero, how you were brought iato the Orchard, and faw me court Adorgares in Heroes germents, how you difgrac'd her when you should marrie her: my villanie they have voon record, which I had rather feale with my death, then repeate ouer to my fhame: the Ladie is dead upon mine and my masters falle acculation : and briefelie, I delice nothing but the surrard of a villaine.

Prise. Runs nor this speech like yron through your bloud?

Clau. I have drunke poison whiles he were'd le. Prin. But did my Brother fee thee on to this? Bor. Yez, and paid me richly for the practile of it. Prin. He is compos'd and fram'd of weacherie, And fled he is upon this villanie.

Class. Sweet Here, now thy smage doth appears

In the rare femblance that I lou'd it first.

Conft. Come, being away the plantiffes, by this time our Section hath reformed Seguest Leanato of the matter : end mafters, do not forget to specific when time & place thall ferue, that I am an Affe.

Con. 2. Here, here comes mafter Sogniar Leonato, and the Sexios too.

Enter Leonato.

Loon, Which is the villaine? let me fre his citt, That when I note mother man like him, I may swoide him: which af thefe is he?

Bor. If you would know your wronger, looke on we. haft kild mine innocent childe?

Bor. Yea,euen I alone.

Les. No not fovillaine, thou belieft thy felfe, Here fland a paire of honourable men, A third is fled that had a hand in it; Lihanke you Princes for my daughters death, Record it with your high and worthie deedes, Twee brausiy done, if you bethinks you of ic.

Cleu. I know not have to pray your patience, Yet I must speake, choose your revenge your felfe, Impole me to what penante your invention Can by upon my finne, you find I nos,

But in midaking.

Proc. By my foule nor I. Andyer to facisfie this good old man, I voould bend under anie heavie voaighe,

That heele enloyne me to.

Lean. I cannot bid you bid my daughter live. That were impossible, but I preie you beth, P'ellelle the people in Mefficishere. How innocent the died, and if your love Can labour aught in fad inuention, Hang her an epitaph vpen her toomb, And ling it to her bones, ling it to night: To morrow morning come you to my house, And fince you could not be my fonne in law, Be yet my Nephew : my brother hath a daughter, Almost the copie of my childe that's dead, And shealone is heire to both of ve, Give her the right you frould have gir'n her cofun-And so dies my reuenge. Class. O noble fir !

Your overkindnesse doth wring teares from me, I do embrace your offer, and dispose Lean. To morrow then I will expect your comming, To night I take my leave, this naughtie man Shall face to face be brought to Margaret, Who I beleeve was packe in all this wrong, Hired to it by your brothes.

Bor. No by my foule she was not, Plot knew not what the did when the spoke to me, But alwaies hath bin just and vertuous,

In anie thing that I do know by her.

For beneaforth of poore (lastic.

Conft. Moreover fir, which indeede is not under white and black, this plaintiffe here, the offendour did call mee aile, I befeech you let it be remembred in his punishmene, and also the watch heard them talke of one Deformed, they fay he weares a key in his eare and a lock hanging by it, and borrowes monie in Gods name, the which he hathys'd folong, and never peied, shat now men grow hard-harred and will lend nothing for Gods fake : prais gou examine him vpon that point.

Ecen. I thanke thee for thy care and honest paines. Conft. Your vvorship speakes like a most thankefull and reverend youth, and I praise God for you.

Leas. There's for thy paines.
Conft. God faue the foundation.

Leon. Goe, I discharge theo of thy prisoner, and I thanke thee.

Conf. I leave an arrant knaue with your worthip, which I befeech your worthip to correct your felfe, for the example of others: God keepe your worthip, I with your worthip evell, God reftere you to health, I humblis give you leave to depart, and if a merrie meeting may be wisht, God prohibite it a come neighbour.

Leon. Vnull to morrow morning, Lords, ferewell.

Brus, Ferewell my Lords, vve looke for you to mor-

Prin. We will not faile.

Clau. To nightile mourne with Hero:

Leon. Bring you thele fellowes on, weel talke with Asorgenet, how her acquaintance grew with this levid fellow.

Enter Benedicke and Morgaret.

Ben. Praie thee sweete Mistris Margaret, deserte well at my hands, by helping mee to the Tpeach of Bro.

Mar. Will

Mer. Will you then write me a Sonnet in praise of Bene. In so high a flile Margares, that no man living shall come ouer it, for in most cornely with thou defer-

Mar. To have no mais come over soe, why, shall lake wales keepe helow flaires?

Bene. Thy wit is as quicke as the grey-hounds mouth, it catches.

Mar. And yours, as blunt as the Fencers folles, which his, but hurt not.

Breez A most manly wit Margaret, it will not hust a woman : and fo I pray thee call Beatrice, I give thee the bucklers.

Mar. Give vs the (words, wee have bucklers of our

Bene. If you vie them Margaret, you must put in the plkes with a vice, and they are dangerous weapons for Maides.

Mar. Well, I will call Bearice to you, who I thinke hath legges. Exit Margarite.

Ben. And therefore will come. The God of loue that fits about, and knowes me, and knowes me, how pittifull I deserve. I meane in linging, but in louing, Leander the good swimmer, Troilous the first imploier of panders, and a whole booke full of these quondam carper-mongers, whose name yet runne smoothly in the euen rode of a blanke verfe, why they were never to truely turned over and over as my poore felfe in love : marrie I cannot shew it rime, I have tried, I can finde out no rime to Ladie but bable, an innocent rime: for scome, borne, a hard time : for schoole foole, a babling time: veric ominous endings, no, I was not borne under a riming Plannet, for I cannot wooe in sestiuall tearmes: Enter Beatrice.

sweete Beatrice would'it thou come when I cal'd thee?

Best. Yes Signior, and depart when you bid me.

Rene. O fray but till then.

Bear. Then, is spoken: fare you well now, and yet ere I goe, let me goe with that I came, which is, with knowing what hath past betweene you and Claudio.

Bone. Onely foule words, and thereupon I will kisse

thee

Beat. Foule words is but foule wind, and foule wind is but foule breath, and foule breath is notiome, therefore I will depart vnkift.

Bene. Thou hast frighted the word out of his right sence, so forcible is thywir, but I must tell thee plainely, Claudio undergoes my challenge, and either I must shorely heare from him, or I will subscribe him a coward, and I pray thee now tell me, for which of my bad parts didft thou first fall in love with me?

Beat. For them all together, which maintain'd fo politique a state of euill, that they will not admit any good part to intermingle with them: but for which of my good parts did you first suffer love for me?

Bene. Suffer loue! a good epithite, I do suffer loue in-deede, for I love thee against my will Beat. In fpight of your heart I think, 2las poore heart. If you spight it for my sake, I will spight it for yours, for I will neuer love that which my friend hates.

Bened. Thou and I are too wife to woos peaces-

Bea. It appeares not in this confession, there's not one wife man among twentie that will praise himselfe.

Bone, An old, an old infrance Bearice, that live in the time of good neighbours, if a man doe not ercel in this age his owne tombe ere he dies, hee shall leveno longer in monuments, then the Bels ring & the Widdow Wecpes.

Beat. And hove long is that thinke you

Ben. Question, why an hower in clamour and a quarter in the wine, therfore is it most expedient for the wife, il Don worme (his conscience) finde no impediment to the contratie, to be the trumpet of his owne vertues, as I am to my selfe so much for praising my selfe, who I my felfe will bezre witnesse is peule worthie, and now tell me, how doth your cofin ?

Best. Verieill. Bene. And how doe you? Beat, Verleill too.

Enter Urfula

Bem. Serue God, loue me, and mend, there will I leave you too, for here comes one in hafte.

Vrf. Madam, you must come to your Vacle, you ders old coile at home, it is proouted my Ladie Hero hath bin fallelie accuste, the Prince and Claudio mightilie abuste, and Don John is the author of all, who is fied and gone: will you come prefentlie?

Beat. Will you go heare this newer Signion?

Bene. I will live in thy heart, die in thy lap, and be buried in thy eies : and moreover, I will goe with thee 20 thy Vacles. Excuse.

Enter Claudio, Prince and three or foure with Tagers.

Class. Is this the monument of Leavers? Lord It is my Lord. Epriaph. Done to death by flanderous wagnes, Was the Hero that bere lies : Death in guerdan of ber mrong Gives ber fame which vener dies : So the life that died with Shame, Lives in death wuh glorious fame. Hang thou there upon the tambe, Praising her when I am dombe.

(12. Now mulick found & ling your folema hymne

Song. Pardon goddesse of the night, Those that stewards wirgin knight, For the which with fongs of wee, Round about her tombe they goe : Midnight affift our mone, belos ou to figh and grove. Heavily, beauty. Graves yamue and yeelde your dead, Till dearb be vitored, Heavenly, beavenly.

(this right. Lo. Now vnto thy bones good night, yeerely will I do Prin. Good morrow malters, put your Torches out, The wolves have prejed, and looke, the gentle day Before the wheeles of Phæbus, round about Dapples the drowfie East with spots of grey:

Thanks to you all, and leave vs, fare you well. Class. Good morrow mafters, each his feverall way. Prin. Come let vs hence, and put on other weedes,

And then to Lemmoes we will goe.

Clau, And Hymen now with luckier iffue speeds, Then Then this for whom we rendred up this woe. Enter Leonaso, Bene. Marg. Vrfula, old man, Frier, Hero. Prier. Did I not tell you fhe was innocent?

Lee. So are the Prince and Claudio who accus'd her, Vpon the errore that you heard debated: But Margaret was in some fault for this, Although against her will as it appeares, In the true course of all the question.

Old Well, I am glad that all things fort fo well. Bow. And fo am I, being elfe by faith enforc'd

To call young Chardio to a reckoning for it. Leo. Well daughter, and you gentlewomen all, Withdraw into a chamber by your felues, And when I fend for you, come hisher mask'd; The Prince and Claudie promis'd by this howre To vifit me, you know your office Brother,

You must be father to your brothers daughter, And gine her to young Claudio. Exems Ladies.
Old. Which I will doe with confirm'd countenance. Boss. Frier, I mult intreat your paines, I thinke.

Frier. To doe what Signior?

Pare. To binde me, or vadoe me, one of them: Signfor Leonato, truth it is good Signior, Your neece regards me with an eye of fauour.

Lee. That eye my daughter lem ber, 'tis most true.

Bose. And I doe with an eye of love require her.

Leo. The fight whereof I thinke you had from me, From Claudis, and the Prince, but what's your will?

Bened, Your answer fir is Enigmaticall, But for my will, my will is, your good will May fland with ours, this day to be conioyn'd, In the flate of honourable marriage, In which (good Frier) I shall defire your helpe.

Leon. My heart is with your liking.

Frier. And my helpe.

Enter Pemce and Clandio, with attendants. Prm. Good motrow to this faire affembly. Lee. Good morrow Prince, good morrow Clandie 1 We heere strend you, sre you yet determin'd, To day to marry with my brothers daughter? Claud. He hold my minde were she an Ethiope.

Lee. Coll her forth brother, heres the Frier ready. Prin. Good morrow Benedike, why what's the matter? That you have such a Februarie face,

So full of frost, of storme, and clowdinesse.

Cland. I thinke he thinkes vpon the fausge bull: Tuth, feare not man, wee'll tip thy homes with gold, And all Europa shall reioyce at thee,

As once Europa did at lufty lone

When he would play the noble beaft in love.

Ben. Bull Isne fir, had an amiable tow, And some such firange bull leapt your fathers Cow, A got a Calfe in that fame noble feat, Much like to you, for you have lust his bleat.

Enter brother, Hero, Beatrice, Margaret, Vefula. Cla. For this I owe youthere comes other recknings.

Which is the Lady I must seize vpon?

Les. This same is she, and I doe give you her. Cla. Why then the's mine, tweet let me fee your face. Lear. No that you shal not, till you take her hand, Before this Frier, and (weate to marry her.

Class. Giue me your hand before this holy Friez,

I am your husband if you like of me.

Here. And when I liu d I was your other wife, And when you lou'd, you were my other husband. Class. Another Here!

Here. Nothing certainer. One Here died, but I doeline, And furely as I liue, I am a maid.

Priv. The former Hero, Fiero that is dead.

Lean. Sheedied my Lord, but whiles her flander liv'd

Frier. All this amazement can I qualifie, When after that the holy rites are ended, He tell you largely of faire Herses death : Meane time let wonder seeme familiar, And eothe chappell let vs presently.

Ben. Soft and faire Frier, which is Beatrice? Beat. I answer to that name, what is your will?

Bese. Doonot you loue me?

Eeat. Why no no more then reason,

Bone. Why then your Vncle, and the Prince, & Classdie, have beene deceined, they Iwote you did.

Bost. Doenot you love mee?

Bene. Troth no, no more then resson.

Ecat. Why then my Cosin Margaret and Urfold

Are much deceived, for they did (weste you did.)

Bene. They fwore you were almost ficke for me. Bent. They swore you were wel-nye dead for me. Bene, 'Tis no matter, then you doe not love me?

Best. No truly, but in friendly recompenes.

Lean. Come Colin, I am fure you love the gentlema. (Lim. And Ile be sworne vpon's, that he loues her,

For heresa paper written in his hand, A halting former of his owne pure braine, Fashloned to Beetrice.

Hero. And heeres another, Writin my colins hand, solne from her pocket Containing her affection vnto Benedicke.

Bene. A miracle, here's our owne hands against our hearts : come I will have shee, but by this light I take thee for pittle.

Bear. I would not dente you, burby this good day, I reeld vpon great perswasion, & partly to saue your life, for I was told, you were in a confumption

Leon. Peace I will ftop your mouth.

Prin. How dost thou Benedicke the married man?

Bene. He tell thee what Prince 12 Colledge of wittecrackers cannot flout mee out of my humour, doft thou think I care for a Satyre or an Epigram? no, if a man will be beaten with braines, a shall weare nothing handsome about him: in briefe, since I do purpose to marry, I will thinke nothing to any purpose that the world can say a. gainst it, and therefore never flout at me, for I have faid against it: for manls a giddy thing, and this is my con-clusion: for thy part Glandie, I did thinke to have beaten thee, but in that thou art like to be my kinfman, live vnbruis'd, and love my coufin.

Cla. I had well hop'd y wouldft have denied Beatres, ? I might have cudgel d thre out of thy fingle life, to make thee a double dealer, which out of questio thou wilt be. if my Coula do not looke exceeding narrowly to thee.

Bene. Come, come, we are friends, let's have a dance ere we are married, that we may lighten our own hearts, and our wines heeles, Leon. Wee'll have dancing afterward.

Bene. First, of my vvord, therfore play mulick. Prince. thou art sad, get thee a vvise, get thee a vvise, there is no faff more reverend then one tipt with horn. Emer. Mef.

Meffen. My Lord, your brother folm is tane in flight, And brought with armed men backe to Meffine.

Bow. Thinke not on him till to morrow, ile denife thee braue punishments for him: Arike vp Pipers Dance L FINIS.

Loues Labour's lost.

Actus primus.

Enter Ferdinand King of Navarre, Berowne, Longasil, and

Ferdinand.

Et Fame, that all himeafter in their lives, Live registred spon our brazen Tombes, Live regitted spon our brizzen I ombes,

And then grace vs in the diffrace of death. when spight of cormorans deupuring Time, Th endeuour of this prefent breath may buy: That honour which shall bete his sythes keene edge, And make vs heyres of all eternitle Therefore braue Conquerours, for fo you are, That warre against your owne affections, And the huge Atmis of the worlds defires. Our late edict shall strongly stand in force, Natur fhall be the wonder of the world. . Our Court shall be a little Achademe, Still and contemplative in living Art You three, Berowne, Damaine, and Longavill, Haue swome for three yeeres terme, to live with me : My fellow Schollers, and to keepe those flatutes That are recorded in this scedule heere. Your oathes are past, and now subscribe your names: That his owne hand nray fitike his honour downe, That violaces the smallest branch heerein : If you are arm'd to doe, as Iwome to do.

Subscribe to your deepe oathes, and keepe it to, Longarik, I am resolu'd, 'tis but a three yeeres fast: The minde shall banquet, though the body pine, Fat paunches haue leane pates : and dainty bits, Make rich the ribs, but bankerout the wits.

Damane. My louing Lord, Dumme is mortified, The groffer manner of thele worlds delighes, He throwes vpon the groffe worlds bafer flaues. To loue, to wealth, to pompe, I pine and dic, With all the aliving in Philesophie.

Beronne. I can but say their protestation over, So much, deare Liege, I have already fwome, That is, to live and findy herre three years. But there are other firich observances : As not to fee a woman in that terme, Which I hope well is not enrolled there. And one day in a weeke to touch no foode: And but one meale on every day befide: The which I hope is not enrolled there And then to sleepe but three houses in the night, And not be seene to winke of all the day. When I was wont to thinke no harme all night, And make a darke night too of halfe the day:

Which I hope well it not enrolled there. O, these are borren taskes, too hard to keepe, Notco see Ladies, Rudy, faft, not Reepe.

Ford. Your oath is pall, to palle away from thefe. Berow. Let me fay no my Liedge, and if you pleafe, I onely fwere to fludy with your grace, And flay heere in your Court for three yeeres space.

Longa. You swore to that Brown, and to the reft.
Brow. By yea and nay fir, than I swore in left. What is the end of Audy, let me know ?

Fer. Why that to know which elfe wee should not

Ber. Things hid & berd (you meane) fro comon feufe Ferd. I, that is studies god-like recompence. Bera Come on then, I will sweare to fludie so, To know the thing I am forbid to know: As thus, to fludy where I well may dine, When I to fall expressely am forbid. Or Rudie where to meet some Mistrelle fine, When Mistrelles from common sense are hid. Or having swerne too harda keeping oath, Studie to breake it, and not breake my troth. If Rudies gaine be thus, and this be fo, Studie knowes that which yet it doth not know, Sweare me to this, and I will nere fay no

Ferd. These be the flops that hinder fludit quite, And traine our intellects to vaine delight, Ber. Why? all delights are vaine, and that most veine Which with paine purchas'd, doth inherit paine, As prinefully to poste vpon a Booke, To leeke the light of truth, while truth the while Doth failely blinde the eye-fight of his looke : Light freeking light, doth light of light beguile: So ere you finde where light in darkenelle lies, Your light growes darke by lofing of your eyes. Studie me how to please the eye indeede, By fixing it vpon a fairer eye Who dazling fo, that eye (hall be his heed, And give him light that it was blinded by. Studie is like the heavens glorious Sunne, The: will not be deepe fearch'd with fawcy lookes: Small have continuall plodders ever wonne, Saue base authoritie from others Bookes. These earthly Godsathers of heavens lights, That give a name to every fixed Statte, Have no more profit of their fhining nights, Then those that walke and wornot what they are. Too much to know is to know sought but lame: And every Godfother can give a name.

Fer. How well hee's read, to reason against reading.

Dum.

Dum. Proceeded well, to Rop all good preceeding. Lon. Hee weedes the corne, and still lets grow the weeding.

The Spring is neare when greene goeffe are a breeding.

Dum How followes that? Ber. Fit in his place and time.

Duxy Interson nothing. Ber. Something then in time.

Ferd. Berowne is like an envious fneaping Frost,

That bites the first borne infants of the Spring. Ber. Wel, saf I am, why should proud Summer boast, Before the Birds have any cause to sing? Why should I toy in any abortive birth? At Christmas I no more defire a Rofe, Then wish a Snow in Maves new fangled showers: But like of each thing that in season growes. So you to fludie now it is too late, That were to clymbe ore the house to valoske the gaze.

Fer. Well, he you out : go home Berowne : adus Ber. No my good Lord, I have sween to stay with you. And though ! have for barbariline spoke more, Then for that Angell knowledge you can fay, Yet confident Ile keepe what I have sworne, And bide the pennance of each three yeares day. Give me the paper, let me reade the same, And to the strictest decrees He write my name.

Fer. How well this yeelding rescues thee from shame. Ber. Isem. That no woman shall come within a mile of my Court

Hath this bin proclaimed? Low Foure dayes agoe.

Ber. Let's fee the penaltie. On pains of looking her tongue. Who douis'd this penaltie?

Lon. Marry that did I

Ber. Sweete Lord, and why?

Lon. To fright them hence with that dread penaltie,

A dangerous law against gentilitie. Atom, If any man be feene to talke with a woman within the tearme of three yeares, hee shall indure such publiqueshame as the rest of the Court shall possibly deuise.

Ber. This Article my Liedge your felfe must breshe, Por well you know here comes in Emballie The French Kings daughter, with your felfe to speake: A Maide of grace and complease maieflie, About surrender vp of Aquitaine.
To her decreps, sicke, and bed-rid Father Therefore this Article is made in vaine, Or vainly comes th'admired Princesse hither.

Fer. What fay you Lords? Why, this was quite forgot

Ber. So Studie cuermore is overshot, While it doth stedy to have what it would, It doth forget to dee the thing it should: And when it hath the thing it hunteth most, Tis won as townes with fire, fo won, fo loft.

For. We must of force dispense with this Decree, She must lye here on meere necessitie.

Ber. Necessity will make vs all forswome Three thousand times within this three yeeres space: For enery man with his affects is borne Not by might mastred, but by speciall grace.
If I breake faith, this word shall breake for me, I am forfwome on moere necessitie.

So to the Lawes at large I write my name, And he that breakes them in the least degree, Stands in attainder of eternall shame. Suggestions are to others as to me: But I beleeve although I feeme fo loth, I am the last that will last keepe his oth. But is there no quicke recreation granted?

Fer. I that there is, our Court you know is banted With a refined trauailer of Spaine, A manin all the worlds new fashion planted, That hath a mint of phrases in his breine : One, who the rausicke of his owne vaine tongue, Doth ranish like inchanting harmonie: A msn of complements whom tight and wrong Haue choic as empire of their mutinic. This childe of fancie that Armado hight, For intezim to our fludies shall relate, In high-borne words the worth of many a Knight. From tawnie Spaine lost in the worlds debate. How you delight my Lords, I know not I, But I protest I love to heare him lie, And I will wie him for my Minstrelfie.

Esro. Armado is a most illustrious wight, A man of fire, new words, fashions owne Knight. Low. Cefeard the swaine and he, shall be our sport, And to to Rudie, three yeeres is but fhort.

Emer a Confable with Costard with a Letter

Conft. Which is the Dukes owne person.

Com. I my selfe reprehend his owne person, for lam his graces Tharborough: But I would fee his own person in fielh and blood,

Ber. This is he.

Con. Signeor some, Arme commende you: Ther's villanie abroad this leaser will tell you more.

Clow. Sir the Contempts thereof are as touching diee

For. A letter from the magnificent Armado.

Ber. How low focuer the matter, I hope in God for high words.

Low. A high hope for a low heaven, God grant vs patience.

Ber. To heare, or forbeare hearing.

Lon. To heare meekely fir, and to laugh moderately, or to forbeare both.

Ber. Weil fir, be it as the Rile shall give ve cause to clime in the merrineffe.

Clo. The matter is to me fir, 25 concerning laquenella. The manner of it is, I was taken with the manner.

Ber. In what manner !

Clo. In manner and forme following fir all those three. I was seene with her in the Mannor house, sitting with her vpon the Forme, and taken following her into the Parke: which put to gether, is in manner and formle following. Now he for the manner; It is the manner of a man to speake to a woman, for the forme in some forme.

Ber. For the following fir.

Clo. As it shall follow in my correction, and God defeud the right.

Fer. Will you heare this Letter with attention?

Ber. As we would heare an Oracle.

clo. Such is the harplicitie of man to harken after the fless.

L 2

For. Great

Ferdinand

Rear Deputie, the Welkins Vicegorent, and fole born-Inger of Nauat, my fonder earthe God, and bodies fo-Bring patrone:

Coft. Not a word of Collardyet.

Ford. Sonu.

Coff. It may be lo. but if he fay it is fo, he is in telling true, but fo.

Claw. Be to me, and every man that dares not fight.

Ferd. No words,

Clow. Of other mens lecrets I beseech you.

Ferd. So it is belieged with fable coloured melantholie, I did commend the blacke oppressing bumour to the most whole-Some Phylicke of thy health-giwing agre : And as I am a Gentleman, betooks my folfo so walke: the time when? about the fixe boure, when bealt smoll grafe, birds beil pecke, and men fit downe to that nowilb ment which is called supper: So much for the time When. New for the ground which i which I meane I walkt upon, it is yellped, Thy Parke. Then for the place Where ? where I meane I did encounter that obscene and most preposterous enems that draweth from my snow-white pen the ebon coloured Inke, which beere show viewest, beholdest, surmayoft, or seeft But so the place Where ? It it andeth North North-cast and by East from the West corner of thy crarious knotted garden : There did I fee that low fori ted Swaine, that base Minow of thy myrth, (Clown Meet) that unletered small knowing soule, (Clow Met) that shallow vesfall (Clow. Still mee?) which as I remember, bigbe Coflatd, (Clow. O me) forted and conforted tontrary totby e-Stablished proclaymed Edia and Continet, Cannon : Which with, o with, but with the I passion to say wherewith:

Clo. With a Wench.

Ferd. With a childrof our Grandmother Eue, a female; or for thy more sweet understanding a woman: him, I (as my ener efteemed dutie prices me on have fent to thee, to receive the meed of punishment by the fivest Graces Officer Anthony Dulla man of good repute, carriage, bearing, or estimation. Anth. Me, an't shall please you? I am Anthony Dull.

Ford. For laquenesta (fo is the weater vessell called) which I apprehended with the aftrefaid Smaine, I keeper her as a vessell of thy Lawes surre, and shall at the least of thy sweet notice, bring ber to triall. Thine in all complements of denoted and beart burning best of dutie.

Don Adriana de Armado.

Ber. This is not so well as I looked for, but the best that ever I heard.

Fer Ithe beit, for the worlt But fiers, What fay you to this?

Clo. Sir I confesse the Wench

Fer. Did you heare the Proclamation?

Cle. I doe confesse much of the hearing it, but little of the marking of ir.

Fer. It was proclaimed a yeeres imprisoment to bee taken with a Wench.

Clow I was taken with none fir, I was taken with a

Fer. Well, it was proclaimed Damosell.
Clo. This was no Damosell neyther fir, shee was a

For It is so varried to, for it was proclaimed Virgin. Clo. If it were, I denie her Virginitie: I was taken with a Maide.

For. This Maid will not ferue your turne fir. ?

Clo. This Maide will fetue my turne fir.

Km. Sir I will pronounce your featence: You Chall fast a Weeke with Branne and water,

Cle. I had rather pray a Moneth with Mutton and Kin And Don Armado Shall be your keeper. My Lord Berowne, see him deliver'd ore, And goe we Lords to put in pradice that, Which each to other hath lo ftronghy fworne.

Bere. Ile lay my boad to any good mans bat, These pathes and lawes will proue an idle scorne Sirra, come on.

Clo. I fuffer for the truth fir : for true it is , 1 was tahen with laquenessa, and laquerressais a true girle, and therefore welcome the lovine cup of prosperitie, affbair on may one day smile againe, and vntill then fit downer forrow.

Enter Armsdo and Mabbin Page.

Arma. Boy, What signe is it when a man of great spirit growes melancholy?

Boy. A great ligne fir, that he will looke lad.

Brag. Why? sadoesse is one and the selfe-same thing

Boy. No no, O Lord fir no.

Brag. How canst thou part sadnesse and melancholy my tender Immenall?

Boy. By a familiar demonstration of the working pay tough figneur.

Erag. Why tough ingness? Why tender luneral?
Toy Why tender luneral? Why tender luneral? Why tough figneur? Why tough figneur?

Brag. Ispoke it tender lunerall, as a congruent apathaton, appertaining to thy young daies, which we may nominate tender.

Boy. And I tough figneur, as an appertinent title to your olde time, which we may name tough.

Brag. Pretty and apt.
Bey. How meane you fir, I pretty, and my faying apt? or I apt, and my faying prettie Brag. Thou preuy because little.

Boy. Little pretty, because little: wherefore apt?

Brag And therefore apr, because quicke. Boy. Speake you this in my praise Mafter?

Brag. In thy condigne praise. Boy. I will praise an Eele with the same praise.

Brag. What that an Eele is ingenuous.
Roy. That an Eeele is quicke.

Brag. I doe fay thou art quicke in answers. Thou heat'ff my bloud.

Boy. I am answer'd fur.

Brag. I loue not to be croft.

Boy. He speakes the meere contrary, croffes love not

Br. I haue promis'd to fludy in yeres with the Duke.

Boy. You may doe it in an houre fr.

Brag. Impossible.
Boy. How many is one thrice told?

Brs. I am ill at reckning it fits the spirit of a Tapster.

Boy, You are a gentleman and a gamester fir.
Brag. I confesse both, they are both the varnish of a complest man.

Boy. Then I am fure you know how much the groffe fumme of deuf-ace amounts to.

Brag. It doth smount to one more then two.
Boy. Which the base vulgas call three.

Br. True. Boy. Why fir is this fuch a peece of frady? Now here's three studied, ere you'll thrice wink, & how easie it is to put yeres to the word three, and study three yeeres in two words, the dancing horse will tell you.

Brag. A most fine Figure.

Bog. To proue you Cypher,
Brag. I will hecreupon confesse I am in love : and as it is bate for a Souldier to love; fo am I in love with a base wench. If drawing my sword against the humour of affection, would deliuer mee from the reprobate thought of it, I would take Defire prisoner, and ransome him to any French Courtier for a new deuis'd curtie. I thinke fcome to figh, me thinkes I should out-sweare Cupid. Comfort me Boy, What great men haue beene in loue?

Boy. Hercules Master.

Brag. Most sweete Hercules : more authority deare Boy, name more; and sweet my childe let thein be men of good repute and carriage.

Boy. Sampson Master, he was a man of good carriage, great carriage: for hee carried the Towne-gates on his backe like a Porter; and he was in loue.

Brag. O well-knit Sampson, strong joynted Sampson; I doe excell thee in my rapier as much as thou didft mee in carrying gates. I am in loue too. Who was Sampfons love my deare Moth?

Boy. A Woman, Master. Brag. Of what complexion.

Boy. Of all the foure, or the three, or the two, or one of the foure.

Brag. Tell me precisely of what complexion!
Boy. Of the sea-water Greene sir.

Brag. Is that one of the foure complexions?

Boy. As I have read fir, and the best of them too. Brog. Greene indeed is the colour of Louers: but to have a Love of that colour, methinkes Sampfon had small reason for it. He surely affected her for her wit.

Boy. It was to fir, for the had a greene wit. Brag. My Loue is most immaculate white and red. Boy. Most immaculate thoughts Master, are mask'd vnder luch colours.

Brag. Define, define, well educated infant.

Boy. My fathers witte, and my mothers tongue affift

Brog. Sweet innocation of a childe, most pretty and patheticall.

Boy. If shee bemade of white and red, Her faults will nere be knowne: For blush-in cheekes by faults are bred, And feares by pale white showne: Then if the feare, or be to blame, By this you shall not know, For fill her cheekes possesse the same, Which native the doth owe:

A dangerous time mafter against the reason of white and redde.

Brag. Is there not a ballet Boy, of the King and the Begger ?

Boy. The world was very gullty of fuch a Ballet fome three ages fince, but I thinke now tis not to be found or if it were, it would neither ferue for the writing, northe

Brag. I will have that subject newly writ ore, that I may example my digreffion by force mighty president. Boy, I doe love that Countrey girle that I tooke in the Parke with the rationall hinde Coffard: The descrues

Boy. To bee whip'd: and yet a better loue then my Mafter.

Brag. Sing Boy, my spirit grows heavy in ioue.

Boy. And that's great maruell, louing a light wench. Brag. I lay fing.

Boy. Forbeare till this company be past.

Enter Clowne, Constable, and Wench.

Couft. Sir, the Dukes pleasure, is that you keepe Costard (afe, and you must let him take no delight, not no penance, but hee must fast three daics a weeke: for this Damfell, I must keepe her at the Parke, shee is alowd for the Day-woman. Fare you well.

Brag. I do betray my felfe with blushing: Maide. Man.

Brag. I wil visit thee at the Lodge.

Maid. That's here by Brag. I know where it is fituate. Mai. Lord how wife you are !

Brag. I will tell thee wonders. Ma. With what face?

Brag. Houe thee.

Mai. So I heard you fay.

Brag. And so farewell.
Mai. Faire weather after you.

Clo. Come laquenetta, away.

Excust. Brag. Villaine, shou shalt fast for thy offences ere thou be pardoned.

Clo. Well fir, I hope when I doe it, I shall doe it on a full Romatke.

Brag. Thou shalt be heavily punished

Clo. I am more bound to you then your fellowes, for they are but lightly rewarded.

Clo. Takesway this villaine, thut him vo. Boy. Come you transgressing slave, away.

Clow. Let mee not bee pent vp fir, I will fest being

Boy. No fir, that were fast and loose : thou shalt to prison.

Clow. Well, if ever I do fee the merry dayes of defolation that I have feene, some shall fee.

Boy. What shall some fee?

Clow. Nay nothing, Master Moth . but what they looke vpon. It is not for prisoners to be Glent in their words, and therefore I will fay nothing : I thanke God, I haue as little patience as another man, and therefore J can be quiet.

Brag. I doe affect he very ground (which is bale, whereher shoop (which is baler) guided by her foote (which is baself) doth tread, I shall be fortworn (which is a great argument of falshood) if I love. And how can that be true love, which is fallly attempted? Love is a famuliar, Loue is a Diuell. There is no euill Angell but Loue, yet Sampson was so tempted, and he had an excel-lent strength: Yet was Salomon so seduced, and hee had a very good witte. Capids But Shaft is 100 hard for Hercules Clubbe, and therefore too much ods for a Spaniards Rapier: The first and second cause will not serue my tunie; the Passado hee respects not, the Duello he regards not; his difgrace is to be called Boy, but his glorie is to subdue men. Adue Valour, rust Rapier, bee fill Drum, for your manager is in love; yea hee loveth. Affish mesome extemporall god of Rime, for I am sure I shall turne Sonnet. Deutse Wit, write Pen, for I am for whole volumes in folio.

Finis Allas Prantes

Adus Secunda.

Enter the Princuffe of France with three attending Ladres and three Lords.

Boyet. Now Madans Summon up your dearest Spirits Confider who the King your father fends To whom he feeds, and what a his Emballie Your felfe, held precious in the worlds esteeme, To partee with the fole inheritour Of all perfections that a man may owe, Matchleffe Nauarre, the plea of no leffe weight Then Aquatame, 2 Downe for 2 Queene. Be now as prodigall of all deare grace, As Nature was in making Graces deare, When she did starue the generall world beside, And prodigally gave them all to you.

Queen. Good L. Boyes, my beauty though but mean. Needs not the painted flourish of your praise Beauty is bought by judgement of the eye, Not vetred by bafe fale of chapmens tongues I am leffe proud to heare you tell my worth, Then you much wiling to be counted wife, In spending your wit in the praise of mine, But now to taske the tasker, good Boyer, Prin You are not ignorant all-telling fame Doth noyle abroad Namar hath made a vow. Till painefull fludie shall out-weare three yeares, No woman may approach his filent Courts. Therefore to's feemeth it a needfull courfe, Before we enter his forbidden gares, To know his pleafure, and in that behalfe Bold of your worthinesse, we single you, As our best mouing faire soliciter Tell him, the daughter of the King of France, On serious bufinesse craning quicke dispatch, Importunes personall conference with his grace Hafte, fignific fo much while we attend, Like humble vilig'd fucers his high will.

Boy. Proud of imployment, willingly I goe Prin. All pride is willing pride, and yours is fo. Who are the Votaries my louing Lords, that are vow fellowes with this vertuous Duke?

Lor. Long avill is one.
Prine, Know you the man?

1 Lady. I know him Madame at a marriage feast, Betweene L. Perigort and the beautious heire Of lagues Fauconbridge folemnized. In Normandse faw I this Longanill, A man of soueraigne parts he is esteem'd: Well fitted in Arts, glorious in Armes: Nothing becomes him ill that he would well. The oncly loyle of his faire vertues gloffe, If vertues gloffe will flaine with any foile, Is a sharp wit match'd with too blunt a Will. Whole edge hath power to cut whole will fill wills, It should none spare that come within his power

Prin. Some merry mocking Lord belike, ift fo? Lad. 1. They say so most, that most his humors know. Prin. Such short liu'd wits do wither as they grow. Who are the rest?

2. Lad. The yong Damaine, 2 well eccomplisht youth,

Of all that Vertue love, for Vertue loved. Most power to doe most harme, least knowing Il 1 For he hash wit to make an Ill fnape good. And fospe to win grace though the had no will I faw him at the Duke Alanfors once. And much too little of that good I law, Is my report to his great worthinesse.

Roffa Another of thefe Students at that time, Was there with nim, as I have heard a cruth. Beraune they call him, but a merrier man, Within the limit of becomming mirth, I neuer fpent an houses talke withall. His eye begets occasion for his wit, For every objed that the one doth catch The other turnes to a mirth-moving tell Which his faire tongue (conceits expositor) Delivers in such aprand gracious words, That aged cares play creuant at his cales, And yonger hearings are quire rausshed. So sweet and voluble is his discourse

Frim. God bleffe my Ladies, are they all in love? That cuery one her owne hath gamished, With such bedecking ornaments of praise

Ala. Heere comes Bord

Enter Bojet.

Pris. Now, what admittance Lord? Bojet. Nauer had notice of your faire approach, And he and his competitors in oath, Were alladoren to meete you gentle Lady Before I came . Marrie thus much I have lrarnt, He rather meanes to lodge you in the field Like one that comes heere to befrege his Court, Therefecke a dispensation for his oath : To let you enter his Inpeopled house.

Enter Nauar, Longanill, Dumains, and Burgare.

Heere comes Navar

New. Faire Princeile, welcom to the Court of Navar Prm. Faire I give you backe againe, and welcome I have not yet : the roofe of this Court is too high to bee yours, and welcome to the wide fields, too bafe to be Nam You shall be welcome Modam to my Court. Prm. I wil be welcome then, Condu & me thicher. Nan Heare me deare Lady, I have fworne an oath.

Prin. Our Lady helps my Lord, he'll be for fworne. Nam Not for the world faire Madam, by my will. Prin. Why, will shall breake it will, and nothing els

Now. Your Ladiship is ignorant what it is. Prin. Were my Lord fo, his ignorance were wife, Where now his knowledge must prove ignorance. I heare your grace hath (wome our Houseekeeping: Tis deadly finne to keepe that oath my Lord, And finne to breake it: But pardon me, I am too fodaine bold, To reach's Teacher III befeemeth me. Youchfule to read the purpole of my comming.

And lodainly resolve me in my suite.

Now. Madam, I will, if sodainly I may.

Prin. You will the sooner that I were away, For you'll proupperior'd if you make me fray. Berew. Did not I dance with you in Brebent once? Rofa. Did not I dence with you in Brahast once?

Ber. Iknow you did.

Rofa. How needlesse was it then to ask the question?

Ber. You must not be so quicke.

Refa. Tis long of you y four me with fuch questions.
Ber. Your wit's too hot pe speeds too fast, 'twill tire.

Rosa. Not till it leave the Rider in the mire. Ber. What time a day? Rosa. The howre that fooles should aske.

Bir. Now faire befall your maske. Rofa. Faire fall the face it covers. Ber. And fend you many louers.

Rosa. Amen, lo you benone.

Rer. Nay then will I be gone.

Kim. Madame, your father heere doth incimate, The paiment of a hundred thousand Crownes, Being but th one halfe, of an intire fumme, Disburfed by my father in his warres. But fay that he, or we, as neither have Receiu'd that summe; yet there remaines vnpald A hundred thousand more : in surery of the which, Orie part of Aquitains is bound to vs, Although not valued to the moneys worth. If then the King your father will restore But that one halfe which is vnsatisfied, We will give up our right in Agait ame, And hold faire friendship with his Maiestie: But that it feemes he little purpofeth, For here he doth demand to have repaie, An hundred thousand Crownes, and not demands One paiment of a hundred thousand Crownes, To have his title live in Aquitame.
Which we much eather had depart withall, And have the money by our father lens, Then Aquisans, so guelded es it is.

Deare Princesse, were not his requells so farre From reasons yeelding, your faire selfe should make A yeelding gainst fome reason in my brest,
And goe well fatisfied to France agains.

Prin. You doe the King my Father too much wrong,

And wrong the repuzztion of your name,

In lo enfeeming to confesse receys Of that which hath fo faithfully beene paid.

Ein. I doe proteit Inever heard of it, And if you proue it, He repay it backe,

Or yeeld up Aquitaine.

Pris. We attell your word: Boyer, you can produce acquittances For fuch a lumme, from special Officers, Of Charles his Father.

Kin. Satisfie me lo.

Bojer. So pleuse your Grace, the packet is not come Where that and other specialities are bound,

To morrow you shall have a fight of them. Kin. Ichall fulficeme; at which enterview, All liberall reason would I yeeld unto: Meane time, receive fuch welcome at my hand, As Honour, without breach of Honour may Make tender of, to thy true worthineffe. You may not come faire Princeffe in my fates, But heere without you shall be fo received,

As you faall deeme your felfe lodg'd in say heart, Though to deni'd farther harbour in my house:

Your owne good thoughts excuse me, and sare well, To morrow we shall visit you againe.

Pros. Sweet health & faire defires confort your grace. Ris. Thy own with with I thee, in every place. Exit. Bey. Lady, I will commend you to my owne heart, La. Ro. Pray you doe my commendations,

I would be glad to fee it.

Boy. I would you heard it grone. La. Pe. Is the soule ficke?. Boy. Sicke at the heart.

Ia.Re. Alacke, let it bloud.

Boy. Would that doe it good? La.Ro. My Philicke friet I.

Boy. Will you prick't wish your eye. La Ro. No popm, with my knife. Boy. Now God faucthy life.

La.Ro. And yours from long living. Ber. I cannot flay thanks-giving.

Exit.

Enter Demane.

Dam. Sir, I pray you a word: Whee Lady is that fame? Boy. The heire of Alanfon, Refalin her name. Dum. A gallant Lady, Mounfier fare you well. Leag. I befeech you a words what is the in the white? Boy. A woman somtimes, if you law her in the light. Long. Perchance light in the light: I defire her name Boy. Shee hash but one for her felfe,

To define that wereas shome.

Long. Pray you fir, whole daughter? Boy. Her Mothers, I have heard. Long. Gods bleffing a your beard. Boy. Good fit be not offended, Shee is an heyre of Faulconbridge. Long. Nay, my choller is ended:

Shee is a molt sweet Lady. Boy. Not vnlike fir, that may be.

Exit Long.

Enter Beronne.

Bor. What's her dame in the cap.

Boy. Katherize by good hap. Esr. Is the wedded, or no.

Esy. To her will fix, or fo.
Bor. You are welcome fir, adiew.

Bey. Fare well to me fir, and welcome to you: Exit. La Ma. That lest is Bereisse, the mery madecap Lord.

Not a word with him, but a ieft.

Boy. And every refibure word.

Fri. It was well done of you to take him as his word.

Boy. I was as willing to grapple, as he was to boord La. Ma. Two hot Sheepes marie:

And wherefore not Ships? Boy. No Sheepe (fiveet Lamb) valeffe we feed on your La. You Sheep & I pasture : shall that finish the ies?

Boy. So you grant passure for me.
L4. Not so gentle beast.
My lips are no Common, though several they be. 80. Belonging to whom?

La To my fortunes and me.

Prim. Good wits withe langling but gentles agree. This civil warre of with were much better vied On Navar and his bookemen, for heere 'tis abus'd.

Be. If my observation (which very seldome lies By the hearts still shetorloke, disclosed with eyes) Deceiue me not now, Never it infected.

Prin. With what?

To. With that which we Loucisinvide affected.

Prin. Your reason.

Bo. Why all his behaviours doe make their retire, Bo. Why all his benzulouse got had defire.
To the court of his eye, peeping thorough defire.
His hart like an Agot with your print impressed, Proud

Loues Labour's lost.

Proud with his forme, in his eie pride expressed. His tongue all impatient to speake and not see. Did (lumble with hafte in his eie-fight to be, All sences to that sence did make their repaire, To feele onely looking on fairest of faire Me thought all his fences were locks in his eye, As Iewels in Christall for some Prince to buy. Who tendring their own worth from whence they were Did point out to buy them along as you past His faces owne margent did coare fuch amazes, That all eyes faw his eies inchanced with gazes. Ile give you Aquitaine, and all that is his,

And you give him for my fake but one louing Kiffe. Prin. Come to our Pauillion, Boyer is disposde Bro. But to speak that in words, which his cie hath dif-I onelie have made amouth of his eie,

By adding a tongue, which I know will not lie. Lad. Ro. Thou are an old Loue-monger, and speakest skilfully.

Lad. Ma. He is Capids Grandfather, and lezroes news of him.

Lad 2. Then was Venus like her mother, for hor father is but grim.

Boy. Do you heare my mad wenches?

Las. No.

Boy. What then, do you fee? Lad. 2. I, our way to be gone.

Boy. You are roo hard for me.

Exegnationnes

Ales Tertius.

Enter Broggart and Boy. Song.

Bie. Warble childe, make pallionate my fenfe of hearing

Boy. Concolinel.

Brag. Sweete Ayer, go tendernesse of yeares: take this Key, give enlargement to the fwaine, bring him festinatly hither: I must imploy him in a letter to my Loue.

Boy. Will you win your love with a French broule? Bra. How means ft thou, breuling in French?

Boy. No my complex master, but to ligge off a rune at the tongues end, caname to it with the facte, humour it with turning vp your ele: figh a note and fing a note, fometime through the throats: if you fwallowed love with finging, love forestime through: note as if you four typ love by finelling love with your hat penthouselike ore the shop of your cies, with your armes cross on your thinbellie doublet, like a Rabbet on a felt, ce your hands in your pocket, like a mon after the old painting, and keepe not too long in one tune, but a fnip and away: these are complements, these are humours, these betraie nice wenches that would be betraied without these, and make them men of note: do you note men that men are affected to thefe?

Brag. How hast thou purchased this experience?
Beg. By my penne of observation.

Brug. But O, but O.
Boy. The Hobbie-borfels forgot.

Brs. Cal fithou my loue Hobbi-herie.
Br. No Mafter, the Hobbie-herie is but & Ceit, and and your Loue perhaps, a Hacknie:

But have you forgot your Loue?

Brog. Almost I had.

Boy. Negligent student, learne her by been?

Brag. By heart, and in heart Boy.

Boy. And out of heart Mafter : ell those three I will Breg. What wilt thou proue?

Boy. A men, if I lut (and this) by in, and without, vpon the instant : by heart you love her, because your heart cannot come by her : in heart you love her, because your beart is in love with her : and out of beart you love her, being out of heart that you cannot enjoy ber.

Brag. I am all these three.

Boy. And three times as much more, and yet nothing

Brag. Fetch hither the Swaine, he must carrie mee a letter.

Boy. A mestage well simpathis'd, a Horse to be embasiadour for an Asse.

Brag. Ha, ha, What faiest thou?

Bey Marrie fir, you must fend the Affe vpon the Horse for he is verie flow gazed : but I zoe.

Brag. The way is but fhore, away.

Boy. As swift 25 Lead fie. Breg. Thy meaning prettie ingenious, it not Land enertall heavie, dull, and flow? Bey. Minnime boaest Master, or rather biefer and Brad. I lay Lead is flow.

Esy. You are too swift fir to say so. Le that Lead flow which is fir'd from a Gunne?

Brag. Sweete Imake of Rhetorike, He reputes me a Cannon, and the Buller that's he: I shoote thee at the Swaine, Boy. Thump then, and I flee.

Bra, A most scute luvenall, voluble and free of grace By thy favour fweet Welkin, I must figh to thy face. Most rude melancholie, Valour gives ther place. My Herald is return'd.

Enter Page and Clowne,

Pag. A wooder Mafter, bere's a Coffant broken in a Chin.

Ar. Some enigues, lone riddie, come, thy Lawy

Cis. No egma, no riddle, no lower, no falue, in thee male fir. Or fir, Plantan, a plaine Plantan : no lessey, no descry, no Salue fir, but a Plantan.

dr. By vertue thou inforcest laughter, thy fillie thought, my spleene, the heating of my lunges proubles me to rediculous laryling: O purden the my fiars, doth the inconfiderate take false for lang, and the word leseny for a false?

Pag. Doe the wife thinke them other, is not lossed 8 (plaine faline?

Ar. No Page, it is an epilogue er discourse to casks Same obscure precedence that hath tofore bin fains Now will I begin your morrall, and do you follow with my Loney.

The Foxe, the Ape, and the Humble-Bee, Were fill a oddes, being but three.

Arm. Vitill the Goose came out of doore, Staying the oddes by adding fours.

Pag. A good Lease, ending in the Goole: would you र्व अवकार अधिक Cla The Boy hath fold him a bargaine, a Goole, that's

1 25

Sir, your perny-worth is good, and your Goofe be fat To fell a bargaine well is as cunning as fast and loofe: Let me fee a fat Lenney, I that's a fat Goofe.

Ar. Comehitherscome hither : How did this argument begin?

Boy. By faying that a Cofford was broken in a thin.

Then cal'd you for the Lourey

Clow. True, and I for a Plantan :

Thus came your argument in Then the Boyes fat Liviney, the Goole that you bought, And he ended the market.

Ar. But tell me: How was there a Coftand broken in a fhiu?

Pag. I will tell you fencibly.
Clow, Thou halt no feeling of it Moth, I will speake that Leaney.

I Coftard running out, that was fafely within, Fell over the threshold, and broke my shin

Arm. We will talke no more of this matter Clow. Till there be more matter in the shin. Arm. Sirea Costard, I will infranchise thee.

Closs. O, marrie me to one Francu, I fmell forme Len-ney, some Goose in this.

Arm. By my sweete soule, I meane, setting thee at 11bertie. Enfreedoming thy person: thou wert emured, refrained, captivated, bound.

Clow. True, true, and now you will be my purgation, and let me loose

Arm. I give thee thy libertie, let thee from durance, and in lieu thereof, impole on thee nothing but this : Beare this fignificant to the countray Maide Lequenetta: there is remuneration, for the best ward of mine honours is rewarding my dependants. Mab, follow,

Pag. Like the fequell I.

Signeur Coftordadevi. Exis.
Clow. My sweets ounce of mans field, my in-conte

Icw . Now will I looke to his remuneration. Remuneration, O, that's the Laune word for three-farthings : Three-farthings remuration, What's the price of this yncle? i.d.no, lie give you a remuneration: Why? Is carries is remuneration: Why? Is Is a Birer name then a French-Crowne. I will never buy and fell out of this word.

Enter Beronne.

Ber. O my good knoue Coft and, exceedingly well met Clow. Pray you fir, How much Carnation Ribbon may a man buy for a remuneration?

Ber. What is a remuneration?

Coft. Marrie fir, halfe pennie farthing.

Zer. O. Why then threefarthings wo rih of Silke.

Coff. I thanke your worship, God be wy you. Ber. Oftay flaue, I must employ thee:

As thou wilt win my fauour, good my knaue. Doe one thing for ma that I shall intreate.

Clow. When would you have it dous fir? Bar. O this after-noone,

Clo. Well, I will doe it fir : Fare you walk

Ber. Othou knowest not what it is

Clo. I shall know fir, when I have done ic. Ber. Why villaine thou must know fit &.

Cla. I wil come to your worthing to morrow morning.

Ber. It must be done this after-noone.

Harke flaue, it is but this:

The Princesse comes to hunt here in the Parke,

And in her traine there is a genele Ladie : When tongues fpeak sweetly, then they name her name, And Rofatine they call her, ashe for her : And to her white hand fee thou do commend This seal'd-up counsaile. Ther's thy guerdon: goe. (16. Gardon, Olweste gardon, better then remune.

mtion, a leuenpence-farthing better : moft fweete gar. don. I will doe it fir in print : gardon, remunetation.

Ber. O, and I for footh in love, I that have beene loves whip? A verie Beadle to a humerous figh : A Criticke, Nay, s night-watch Constable, A domineering pedant ore the Boy, Then whom no mortall to meganicent. This wimpled, whyning, purblinde waiward Roy, This fignior lunies gyant drawfe, don Cupid, Regent of Loue-rimes, Lord of foldedormes, Th'annointed fourmigne of fights and groanes: Liedge of all loyterers and malecontents: Dread Prince of Placeats, King of Codpeeces Sole Emperator and great general! Of trotting Parrators (O my little heart.) And I to be a Corporall of his field, And weare his colours like a Tumblers hoope. What? I love, I fue, I feeke a wife, A woman that is like a Germane Cloake, Still a repairing a ever out of frame, And never going a right, being a Watch : Busbeing watche, that it may fill goe right. Nay, to be persurde, which is worst of all. And among three, to love the worst of all, whitly wanton, with a veluet brow. With two pitch bals stucke in her face for eyes. I,and by heaven, one that will doe the deede, Though Argue were her Eunuch and her gorde And I to figh for her, to warch for her, To pray for her, go to it is a plague That Curid will impose for my neglect, Of his alonghey dreadfull little might. Well, I will love, write, figh, pray, thue, grone, Some men multioue my Lady, and forme lone.

A dus Quarens.

Enser the Princelle, a Forsetter, her Ladies, and ber Lorde

Qu. Was that the King that spurd his horse so hard,

Against the steepe vprising of the hill?

Boy. I know not, but I thinke it was not he.

Qu, Who ere a was, a shew'd a mounting minder Well Lords, to day we shall have our dispatch, On Saterday we will return to France. Then Forrefter my filend, Where Is the Bulh That we must stand and play the murcherer in?

Fur Hereby vpon the edge of yonder Coppice, A Stand where you may make the fourest shoote.

Di. I thanke my beautie, I am faire that shoote, And thereupon thou speak si the fairest st free.

For. Pardon me Madam, for I meant . o.

Qu. What, what First praise me, & then again say no. O shore his a pride Not faire? alacke for woe

For. Yes

For. Yes Madam faire.

Qu. Nay, neuer paint me now, Where faire is not, praise cannot mend the brow. Here (good my glasse) take this for telling true: Faire paiment for foule words, is more then due.

For. Nothing but faire is that which you inherlt. Qu. See, fee, my beautie will be fau'd by merit, O herefie in faire, fit for thefe dayes, A giving hand, though foule, shall have faire praise. But come, the Bow : Now Mercie goes to kill, And shooting well, is then accounted ill: Thus will I faue my credit in the shoote, Not wounding, pittie would not let me do't: If wounding, then it was to shew my skill, That more for praise, then purpose meant to kill. And out of question, so it is sometimes : Glory growes guiltie of detelied crimes, When for Fames fake, for praise an outward part, We bend to that, the working of the hart.

The poore Deeres blood, that my heart meanes no ill. Boy. Do not curst wives hold that selfe-sougralgntie Onely for praile fake, when they striue to be Lords ore their Lords?

Qu. Onely for praise, and praise we may afford, To any Lady that subdewes a Lord.

Enter Clowne.

Boy. Here comes a member of the common-wealth. Clo. God dig-you-den all, pray you which is the head Lady?

Qu. Thou shalt know her sellow, by the rest that have no heads.

Clo. Which is the greatest Lady, the highest? Qu. The thickest, and the tallest.

As I for praise alone now seeke to spill

Clo. The thickest, & the tallest : it is so, truth is truth. And your waste Mistris, were as slender as my wir, One a these Maides girdles for your waste should be fit. Are not you the chiefe woma? You are the thickest here?

Qu. What's your will fir? What's your will? Clo. I have a Letter from Monfier Berowne,

To one Lady Rosaline.

Qu O thy letter, thy letter: He's a good friend of mine. Stand a fide good bearer.

Bojet, you can carue, Breake vp this Capon.

Boyer. I am bound to serue.

This Letter is mistooke : it importeth none here: It is writ to laquenetta.

Qu. We will reade it, I sweare.

Breake the necke of the Waxe, and every one give eare.

Boyet reades.

BY heaven, that thou are faire, is most infallible: true that thou are beauteous, truth it selfe that thou are louely : more fairer then faire, beautifull then beautious, truer then truth it selfe: have comiseration on thy heroicall Vassall. The magnanimous and most illustrate King Copherma fet eie vpon the pernicious and indubitate Begger Zenelophon: and he it was that might rightly fay, Veni, vidi, vici: Which to annothanize in the vulgar, O bale and obscure vulgar; videlifer, He came, See, and ouercame : hee came one; see, two; couercame three: Who came ? the King. Why did he come ? to fee. Why did hefee? to overcome. To whom came he? to the Begger. What saw he? the Begger. Who overcame he? the Begger. The conclusion is vidoric: On whose side? the King: the caption is inricht: On whose side? the Beggers. The catastrophe is a Nuprial!: on whose fide? the Kings: no, on both in one, or one in both. I am the King (for so stands the comparison) thou the Begger, for so witnesseth thy lowlinesse. Shall I commend thy loue? I may. Shall I enforce thy loue? I could. Shall I entreste thy loue? I will, What, Malt thou exchange for ragges, roabes: for tittles titles, for thy felfe mee. Thus expecting thy reply, I prophane my lips on thy foote, my eyes on thy picture, and my heart on thy cuerie part.

Thine in the dearest designa of industrie,

Don Adriana de Armatho.

Thus dost thou heare the Nemean Lion roare, Gainst thee thou Lambe, that standest as his pray: Submissiue fall his princely seeze before, And he from forrage will incline to play.

But if thou firine (poore foule) what art thou then? Foode for his rage, repasture for his den.

Qu. What plume of feathers is hee that Indited this Letter? What veine? What Wethercocke? Did you euer heare better !

Boy. I am much deceived, but I remember the file. Qu. Elic your memorie is bad, going ore it erewhile. Boy. This Armado is a Spanwad that keeps here in court A Phantalime, a Monarcho, and one that makes sport To the Prince and his Booke-mates.

Qu Thousellow, a word. Who gave thee this Letter?

Clove. I told you, my Lord.
Qu. To whom should st thou give it?

Clo. From my Lord to my Ledy. Qu. From which Lord, to which Lady?

Cle. From my Lord Berowne, a good master of mine,

To a Lady of France, that he call'd Refalme. Qu. Thon hast mistaken his letter. Come Lords away. Here sweete, put vp this, twill be thine another day.

Boy. Who is the shooter? Who is the shooter ?

Rosa, Shall I teach you to know. Boy. I my continent of beautie.

Rofa. Why the that beares the Bow. Finely put off. Bey. My Lady goes to kill hornes, but if thou marrie, Hang me by the necke, if hornes that yeare miscarrie. Finely put on.

Rosa. Well then, I am the shooter.

Boy. And who is your Deare?

Rofa. If we choose by the hornes, your selfe come not meate. Finely put on indeede.

Maria. You still wrangle with her Boyer, and shee Arikes at the brow.

Bojer. But she her selfe is hit lower :

Haue I hit her now.

Refa. Shall I come upon thee with an old faying that was a man when King Propin of France was a little boy, as touching the hit it.

Bojet. So I may answere thee with one as old that was a woman when Queene Gaineyer of Bristaine was a little wench, as touching the hit it.

Rosa. Thou

Rofa. Thou canft not his it, his it, his it, Thou can't not his is my good man.

Boy. I cannot, cannot, cannot:

And I cannor, another can. Clo. By my troth most pleasant, how both did fit It. Mar. A marke marueilous well shot, for they both did hit.

Boy. A mark, O marke but that marke : a marke faies my Lady.

Let the mark have a pricke in't, to mest at, if it may be. Mar. Wide a'th bow hand, yfaith your hand is out. Clo. Indeede a'must shoote nearer, or heele ne're hit the clout.

Boy. And if my hand be out, then belike your hand is in.

Cla Then will thee get the volhoot by cleaning the

Ma. Come, come, you talke greafely, your lips grow foule

Clo. She's too bard for you at pricks, fir challenge her to boule.

Beg. I feare too much rubbing : good night my good Oule.

Clo. By my foule a Swaine, a most simple Clowne. Lord, Lord, how the Ladies and I have put him downe. O my troth most sweete iests, most inconie vulgar wit, When it comes fo smoothly off, so obscenely, as it were, So fit.

Armather ath to the fide, O a most dainty man. To fee him walke before a Lady, and to beare her Fan. To see him kisse his hand, and how most sweetly a will (weate: And his Page atother fide, that handfull of wit, Ah heauens, it is most patheticali nit. Sowla, sowla.

Shoote within.

Enter Duli, Holofernes , the Pedant and Nathaniel.

Nas. Very reuerent sport truely, and done in the testimony of a good conscience.

Ped. The Deare was (25 you know) fanguis in blood, ripe as a Pornwater, who now hangeth like a lewell in the eare of Celo the Ikie; the welken the heaven, and snon falleth like a Crab on the face of Terra, the foyle, the land, the earth.

Curas. Nath. Truely M. Holoferner, the epythithes are fweetly varied like a scholler at the least: but fir I affure ye, it was a Bucke of the first bead.

Hol. Sir Nathoniel, hand credo. Dul. Twas not a hand credo, twas a Pricket.

Hal. Most barbarous intimation: yet a kinde of infinuation, as it were in via, in way of explication facere: as it were replication, or rather offenture, to show as it were his inclination after his vndreffed, vnpolished, vneducated, vnpruned, vntrained, or rather volettered, or ratherest unconfirmed fashion, to infert agains my band credo for a Deare.

Dul. I faid the Deare was not a boul credo, 'twas a

Hol. Twice fod simplicitie, bir collin, O thou monfler Ignorance, how deformed dooft thou looke.

Nath. Sir hee hath neuer fed of the dainties that are bredia a booke.

He hath not cate paper as it were: He hath not drunke inke.

His intellect is not replenished, hee is onely an animal! onely fensible in the duller parts: and such barren plants are fet before vs, that we thankfull should be : which we tafte and feeling, are for those parts that doe fruclifie in vs more then he

For as it would ill become me to be vaine, indiferect, or a foole;

So were there a patch fet on Learning, to fee him in a Schoole.

But omne bene fay I, being of an old Fathers minde, Many can brooke the weather, that love not the winde.

Disk. You two are book-men: Can you tell by your wit, What was a month old at Cains birth; that's not five weekes old as yet?

Hol. Distifima goodman Dull, distifima goodman

Dul. What is dillima?

Nath. A title to Phibe, to Luna, to the Moone. Hol. The Moone was a month old when Adam was (score.

And wrought not to five-weekes when he came to five-Th'allusion holds in the Exchange.

Dul. 'Tis true indeede, the Collusion holds in the Exchange.

Exeunt.

Hol. God comfort thy capacity, I fay th'allusion holds in the Exchange.

Dal. And I fay the polution holds in the Exchange: for the Moone is never but a month old : and I fay befide that, twas a Pricket that the Princefle kill'd.

Hol. Sit Nathaniel, will you heare an extemporall Epytaph on the death of the Deare, and to humour the ignorant call d the Deare, the Princesse kill'd a Pricket.

Nath. Perge, good M. Holefernes, perge, foit shall please you to abrogate scurilitie.

Hol I will something affect the letter, for it argues facilitie.

The prayfull Prince Se peoft and pricks a prettie pleasing Pricket, Some fay a Sore, but nos a fore, sill now made fore with shooting The Dogges did yell, put ell in Sore, then Sorell iumps from thicket: Or Pricket fore, or elfe Snrell, the people fall a boating.

If Sore be fore, then ell to Sore, makes fifsie fores O forell:

Of one fore I an hundred make by adding but one more L.

Nath. Attre talent.

Dul. If a talent be a claw, looke how he clawes him with a talent.

Nath. This is a gift that I have simple: simple, a foolish extrauagant spirit, full of formes, figures, shapes, obiects, Ideas, apprehensions, motions, revolutions. These are begot in the ventricle of memorie, nouritht in the wombe of primater, and delivered upon the mellowing of occasion: but the gift is good in those in whom it is acute, and I am thankfull for it.

Hol. Sir, I praise the Lord for you, and so may my parishioners, for their Sonnes are well tutor'd by you, and their Daughters profit very greatly under you: you are a good member of the common-wealth

Nath. Me berele, If their Sonnes be ingennous, they Shall Shall want no ir ilruction: If their Daughters be capable, I will put is to them. But Vir fept qui peuca logiutur, & loule Feminine Saluteth va.

Enter Laquemerta and the Clowne.

laqu. God glue you good morrow M. Perfon. Noth. Mafter Person, quasi Person And Mone sheuld be perft, Which is the one?

Clo Marry M. Schoolemafter, hee that is fikeft to a hogihead.

Nah. Ofperfing a Hogshead, 2 good luRer of cenceit in a turph of Earth, Fire enough for a Flint, Pearle enoughfora Swine it is pretrie, it is well.

Ingu. Good Master Passon be so good as seade mee this Letter, it was given mee by Coftord, and fent mee from Don Armatho . I befrech you reade it.

Nath, Facile precor gellide, quando pecas omnia fab umbrasuminas, and so forth. Ah good old Mestuan, I may speake of thee as the traveiler doth of Veuice, vemchie, vencha, que non se vude, que non seperreche. Old Manrum, old Muntum. Who understandesh thee not, ve ve follamifa: Vnder pardon fir, What erethe contents or rather as Horrace fayes in his, What my foule verses.

Hol. I fir, and very learned

Naib. Let me heare a ftaffe, a ftanze, a verle, Logo do-

If Loue make me for fwome, how shall I fweare to love? Ah neuer faith could hold, if not so beautie vowed. Though to my felfe for fwom, to thee Ile faithfull proue. Those thoughts to mee'were Okes, to theelike Ohers

Studie his byas leaves, and makes his booke thine eyes. Where all those pleasures live, that Art would compre-

If knowledge be the marke, to know thee shall suffice. Well learned is that tongue, that well can thee comend, All ignorant that foule, that fees thee without wonder. Which is to me fome praise; that I thy parts admire; Thy eye forms lightning beares, thy voyce his dreadfull thunder.

Which not to anger bent, is mafique, and fweet fire. Celeffiall as thou art, Oh pardon love this wrong, That fings heavens praise, with such an earthly tongue.

Ped You finde not the apostraphas, and so misse the accent. Let me supervise the cangenet.

Nath. Here are onely numbers ratified, but for the elegancy, facility, & golden cadence of poefie cares: O-widdies Nafe was the man. And why in deed Nafe, but for smelling out the odoriferous flowers of fancy? the ierkes of invention imitarie is nothing: So doth the Hound his master, the Ape his keeper, the tyred Horse his rider: But Damofella virgue, Was this directed to you?

lag. I he from one mountier Bername, one of the Arange Queenes Lords.

Nach. I will overglance the Superscript. To the frow-white hand of the most beautious Lady Rosaline. I will looke againe on the intellect of the Letter, for the nomination of the partie written to the person written vnto

Tour Ladiships in all desired imployment, Berowne.

Per. Six Holofernes, this Berowne is one of the Votaries with the King, and here he hath framed a Leiter to z fequent of the firanger Queenes: which accidentally, or by the way of progression, had miscarried. Trip and goemy (weets, deliver this Paper into the hand of the King it may concerne much after not thy complement, I lorgine thy deene, adve.
Maid. Good Coffard go with me:

Six God (sue your life.

Coff. Have with thee my girle. Hel. Sir you have done this in the leave of God very religiously rand as a certaine Father feith

Ped. Sir tell not me of the Father, I do feare colours. ble colours. But to returne to the Verlez, Did they please you he Nathaulel?

Nort. Meruellous well for the pen.

Peda. I do dine to day at the fathers of a certaine Pupill of mine, where if (being repett) is thall prease you to gratifie the table with a Grace-I will on my priviledge I have with the perents of the forestaid Childe or Pupill, undertake your bien venuro, where I will prove those Verses to be very unlearned, neither sawouring of Poetrie, Wit, nor Invention. I beforch your Societie.

Nat. And thanke you to: for locietie (faith the text) is the happinesse of life.

Peda. And certes the text most infallibly concludes it. Sir I do innite you too, you shall not say me ney : paces

Away, the gentles are at their game, and we will to out recreation. Exeunt.

Enter Berowne with a Paper in his hand, alone.

Bera. The King hels hunting the Deare, I am courfing my felfe.

They have pitcht a Toyle, I am toyling in a pytch, pitch that defiles; defile, a foule word: Well, fet thee downe forrow; for so they say the scole said, and so say I, and I the soole: Well proved wir. By the Lord this Loue is as madas Alax, it hils sheepe, it kils mee, I a theepe: Well proved agains a my lide. I will not love; If I do hang me : yfaith I will not. O but her eye : by this light, but for her eye, I would not love her; yes, for her two eyes. Well, I doe nothing in the world but lye, and lye in my throate. By heaven I doe lour, and it hath taught mee to Rume, and to be mallicholie: and here is part of my Rime, and heere my mellicholie. Well, the hath one a my Sonners already, the Clowne bore it, the Foole fent it, and the Lady hathit: fweet Clowne, fweeter Foole, sweetes Lady. By the world, I would not care a pin if the other three were in. Here comes one with a paper, God give him grace to grene.

He stands afide. The King entreit.

Kin. Aymee!

Ber. Shot by heautmproceede fireet Capid, then haft thumpt him with thy Birdbolt under the left papain faith

King. So (wester kille the golden Sunne gives not, To those fresh morning drops upon the Rose, As thy eye beames, when their fresh rayse have smor. The night of dew that on my cheekes downe flowes. Nor thines the filter Moone one halfe to bright; Through the transperent bosome of the despe As doth thy face through terres of mine give light: Thou shin'st in every tearethat I doe weepe, No drop, but as a Coach doth carry thee: So ridest thou triumphing in my woe. Do but behold the teares that swell in me, And they thy glory through my griefe will show:

Put

But doe not love thy felfe, then thou wilt keepe My teares for glaffes, and fill make me weepe. O Queene of Queenes, how farre dolt thou excell, No thought captininke, nor tongue of mortall tell. How shall she know my griefes? He drop the paper. Sweet leaves shade folly. Who is he comes heere?

Enter Longasile. The King Steps aside. What Longauill, and reading : liften eure.

Ber. Now in thy likenelle, one more foole appeare. Long. Ay me, I am forfworme.

Ber. Why he comes in like a perture, wearing papers.

Long. In loue I hope, fweet fellowship in shame.

Ber. One drunkard loues another of the mame.

Lon. Am I the first haue been periut'd fo? (know, Ber. I could put thee in comfort, not by two that I Thou makest the triumphery, the corner cap of societie,

The shape of Loves Tiburne, that hangs up simplicitie.

Low. I feare these stubborn lines lack power to move.

O (weet Maria, Empresse of my Loue, These numbers will I teare, and write in prose.

Ber. O Rimes are gards on wanton Cupids hole,

Disfigure not his Shop.

Lon. This same shall goe. He reades the Did not the beauenly Rhetoriche of thine spe. Hereades the Sonnet. Gainst whom the world cannot hold aroument Perfuade my heart to this false perinrie? Vowes for shee broke deserme not punishment. A Woman I for wore, but I will proue, Thou being a Goddeffe, I for swore not thee. My Vow was earthly, then a beauculy Lowe. Thy grace being gain'd, cures all diffrace in one. Vowes are but breath, and breath a vapour is. Then thou faire Sun, which on my earth doeft shine, Exhalest this vapor-vow, in thee is is: If broken then, it is no fault of mine : If by me broke, What foole is not fo wife To loofe an oath, to win a Paradife?

Ber. This is the liver veine, which makes flesh a detry. A greene Goole, a Coddelle, pure pure Idolatry. God amend vs, God amend, we are much out o'th'way.

Enter Dumanne.

Lon. By whom shall I fend this (company?) Stay. Bere. All hid, all hid, an old infant play, Like a demie God, here fit I in the skie, And wretched fooles fecrers heedfully ore-eye. More Sacks to the myll. O heattens I have my wish, Dumame transform'd, foure Woodcocks in a dish.

Dum. O most divine Kate.

Bere. Omost prophane concombe. Dum. By heaven the wonder of a mortall eye.

Berei By earth the is not corporall, there you lye. Dem. Her Amber haires for toule hath amber coted

Ber. An Amber coloured Rauen was well noted.

Dam. As vpright as the Cedar.

Ber. Stoope I say her shoulder is with-child.

Dum. As faire as day

Ber. I at some daies, but then no sume must shine.

Duin. O that I had my with?

Lan. And I had mine

Kin. And mine too good Lord.

Ber. Amen, fo I had mine : I a not that a good word? Dum. I would forget her, but a Feuer the Raignes in my bloud, and will remembred be. Ber. A Feuer in your bloud why then incision Would let her out in Sawcors, fweet misprision. Dum. Once more He read the Ode that I have writ. Ber. Once more Ile marke how Loue can varry Wit

Dumane roades his Sonnet.

On a day, alach the day: Love, whose Month is every May, Spied a blossome passing faire Playing in the wanton agre . Through the Veluet, loudes the woods. All unferne, can possage finde. That the Lover ficke to death Wilb birefelfe the beauens breath. Agre (quoth be) the cheekes may blowe, Ayre, would I might trisimph fo. But alacke my hand is fiverne, Nere to plucke thee from thy throne: Vow alacke for youth vimneete; Youth fo apt to plucke a sweet. Doe not call it finne in me That I am for sworme for thee. Then for whom Iou would fwente, Iuno bia an Ethiop were, And denie himfelfe for Love. Turning mortall for the Love.

This will I feed, and something else more plaine. That shall expresse my true-loues fastung paine. O would the King, Berowne and Longwill. Were Louers too, ill to example ill Would from my forehead wipe a periur d note: For none offend, where all alike doe done.

Lon. Dumanie, thy Loue is farre from charitie, That in Loues griefe desir's focietie: You may looke pale, but I should blush I know, To be ore-heard, and taken napping so.

Kin. Come sir, you blosh : as his, your case is such, You chide at him, offending twice as much. You doe not love Maria? Longande, Did never Sonnet for her lake compile; Nor never lay his wreathed armes athware His louing bosome, to keepe downe his heart, I have beene closely shrowded in this bush And marke you both, and for you both did blifh. I heard your guilty Rimes, of feru'd your fashion: Saw lighes reeke from you, noted well your pallion. Aye me, fayer one I O lowe, the other cries I On her haires were Gold, Christall the others eyes You would for Paradife breake Faith and troth, And love for your Loue would infringe an oath. What will Berowne fag when there he shall heare Faith infringed, which fuch zeale did sweare. How will he (come?how will he spend his wis? How will be triumph, leape, and laugh at it? For all the wealth that ever I did fee I would not have him know fo much by me.

Bers. Now step I forth to whip hypocrifie. Ah good my Lledge, I pray thee pardon me. Good heart, What grace haft thou thus to reprous These wormes for louing, that are most in loue? Your eyes doe make no couches in your teares. There is no certaine Princesse that appeares.
You'll not be perior'd, 'the hatefull thing a Tuth, none but Minstrels like of Sonnetting. But are you not asham'd? nay, are you not

All

All three of you, to be thus much ore shot i You found his Moth, the King your Moth did fee! But I a Beame doe finde in each of three. O what a Scene of fool'ry baue I feene, Of fighes, of grones, of forrow, and of teene: O me, with what ftrict patience haue I far, To fee a King transformed to a Gnat? To fee great Hercules whipping a Gigge, And profound Salomon tuning a lygge? And Neffer play at pulh-pin with the boyes . And Criticke Tymon laugh at idle toyes Where lies thy griefer O cell me good Dumaine; And gentle Long and, where lies thy paine? And where my Liedges ! all about the breft:

A Candlehoa!

Kin. Too bitter is thy left. Are wee betrayed thus to thy ouer-view?

Ber. Not you by me, but I betrayed to you. I that am honest, I that hold it finne To breake the vow I am ingaged in. I am betrayed by keeping company With men, like men of inconstancie. When shall you fee me write a thing in time? Or grone for loane? or fpend a minutes time, lu pruning mee, when shall you heare that I will praise a hand, a foor, a face, an eye : a gate, a flate, a brow, a breft, a waste, a legge, a limme.

Kon Soft, Whithera-way fo falt? A true man, or a theefe, that gallops fo. Ber. I post from Loue, good Louer let me go Enter laqueneta and Clowne.

14qu. God bleffe the King. Kin. What Present haft thou there? Cla. Some certaine treason. Kin. What makes treason heere?

Kiz. If it merre nothing neither, The treason and you goe in peace away together lagu. I befeech your Gracelet this Letter be read,

Our person mis-doubts it : it was treason he said. Kin. Berowne, read it ouer. He reades the Letter.

Kin. Where hadft thou it? Isqu. Of Coftard.

King. Where hadft thou it?
Cof. Of Dun Adramadio. Dun Adramadio.

Ken. How now, what is in you? why doft thou tear it? Ber. A toy my Liedge, a toy : your grace needes not feare it.

Long. It did move him to pession, and therefore let's

Dum. It is Berowns writing, and heere is his name. Ber. Ah you whorefon loggerhead, you were borne to doe me shame.

Guilty my Lord, guilty: I confesse, I confesse.

Kin. What:

Ber. That you three sooles, lackt mee soole, to make up the melie.

He, he, and you : and you my Liedge, and I. Are picke-purses in Loue, and we deserve to die. O dismisse this audience, and I shall tell you more.

Dum. Now the number is even

Berow True true, we are sowre : will these Turtles

Kin. Hence firs, away.

Cle. Walk afide the true folke, & let the traytors fray.

Bir. Sweet Lords, Sweet Louers, Olet Vs umbrace, As true we are as flesh and bloud can be, The Sea will ebbe and flow, heaven will thew his face: Young bloud doch not obey an old decree. We cannot croffe the cause why we are borne t Therefore of all hands must we be for fwome.

King. What, did thefe tent lines show some love of thine ! Polatra.

Ber. Did they, quoth you? Who fees the heavenly That , like a rude and fausge man of Inde.) At the first opening of the gorgeous East, Bowes not his vasfall head, and strooken blinde. Killer the bale ground with obedient breath What peremptory Eagle-fighted eye Dares looke vpon the heaven of her brow. That is not blinded by her maieflie!

Kin. What zeale, what furie, bath infpir'd thee now? My Loue(her Mistres) is a gracious Moone, Shee (an attending Starre) Carce feene a light

Ber. My ever are then no eyes, nor I Beroune O, but for my Loue, day would turne to night, Of all complexions the cul'd fourraignty, Doe meet as at a faire in her faire cheeke, Where feuerall Worthies make one dignity, Where nothing wents, that want it felle doth feeke. Lend me the flourish of all gentle tongues, Fie painted Rethoricke, Ofhenceds it not, To things of fale, a fellers praise belongs: She palles prayle, then prayle too thort doth blotwithered Hermite, finescore winters worde, Might shake off fiftie, looking to ber eye: Beauty doth varnish Age, as if new borne, And gives the Crutch the Cradles infancie. O'tis the Sunne that maketh all things thine.

King. By heaven, thy Loue is blacke as Ebonie. Berow. Is Ebonie like her? O word divine? A wife of fuch wood were felicitie. O who can give an oth? Where is a booke? That I may tweste Beauty doth beauty lacke, If that the learne not of her eye to looke a No face is faire that is not full fo blacke.

Kin O paradoxe, Blacke is the badge of hell, The hue of dungeons, and the Schoole of night: And beauties creft becomes the heavens well

Ber. Divels soonest tempt resembling spurits of light. O if in blacke my Ladies browes be deckt. It mournes, that painting viurping haire Should rauish doters with a falle aspect: And therfore is the berne to make blacke, faire. Her favour turnes the fashion of the dayes, For native bloud is counted painting now: And therefore red that would awayd dispraise, Paints it selfe blacke, to imitate her brow.

Dum. To look like her are Chimny-sweepers blacke. Lon. And fince her time, are Colliers counted bright. King. And Æthups of their sweet complexion crake. Dum. Dark needs no Candles now, for dark is light. Ber. Your mistresses dare neuer come in raine, For feare their colours (hould be washe away

Rim. Twere good yours did: for fir to tell you plaine.

He finde a fairer face not walkt to day.

Ber. He proue her faire, or talke till dooms-day here. Kin. No Divell will finght thee then so much as shee. Duma. I never knew man hold vile fluffe so deere. Las. Looke, heer's thy love, my foot and her face fee. Ber. Oil the streets were paued with thine eyes,

Her feet were much too dainty for fuch tread. Dumas O vile, then as the goes what vpward lyes? The freet fould fee as fhe walk'd over head. Kin. But what of this, are we not all in love? Ber. O nothing to fure, and thereby all forfwome. Km. Then leave this chet, & good Berown now prove Our louing lawfull, and our fayth not torne. Dum. I marie there, some flattery for this euill. Long. O fome authority how to proceed, Some tricks, some quillets, how to cheat the diuell. Dum. Some falue for periutle. Ber. O'ais more then neede. Haue ar you then affections men at armes, Confider what you first did sweare ento:
To fast, to study, and to see no woman:
Flat treason against the Kingly state of youthSay, Can you sast? your stomacke are too young: And abstinence ingenders maladics. And where that you have vow'd to fludie (Lords) In that each of you have for sworms his Booke. Can you fill dreame and pore, and thereon looke For when would you my Lord, or you, or you, Have found the ground of studies excellence, Without the beauty of a womans face ; From womens eyes this doctrine I derive, They are the Ground, the Bookes, the Achadems, From whence doth spring the true Promethean bres Why, vniuerfall plodding poylons vp The nimble spirits in the atteries, As motion and long during action tyres
The finnowy vigour of the trauailer. Now for not looking on a womans face, You have in that fortworne the vie of eyes i And studie too, the causer of your vow. For where is any Author in the world, Teaches such beauty as a womans eye: Learning is but on adjunct to our felfe, And where we are, our Learning like wife is; Then when our felues we fee in Ladies eyes, Wich our felues. Doe we not likewife fee our learning there? Owe have made a Vow to studie, Lords, And in that you we have for fwom a our Bookess For when would you (my Leege) or you, or you? In leaden contemplation have found out Such fiery Numbers as the prompting eyes, Of beauties rutors have inrich'd you with: Other flow Arts Intirely keepe the braine: And therefore finding barraine practizers. Scarce thew a haruest of their heavy toyle. But Love firft learned in a Ladies eyes, Lives not alone emured in the brains: But with the motion of all elements. Courfes as fwift as thought in every power, And gives to every power a double power. Aboue their functions and their offices. It addes a precious fesing to the eye: A Louers eyes will gaze an Eagle blinde. A Louers eare will heare the loweft found When the suspicious head of thest is sope Loues feeling is more for and fentible Then are the tender homes of Cockled Snayles. Loues tongue proues dainty, Bachus groue in tatie, For Valour, is not Loue a Hercules? Still climing trees in the Hefporides Subtill as Sphink, as fweet and musicall,

As bright Apollo's Luce, Arang with his haire. And when Loue fpeakes, the voyce of all the Gods, Make heaven drowfie with the harmonie. Neuer durst Poet touch a pen to write, Vntill his lake were tempred with Loues lighes: O then his lines would rauish sauage eares, And plant in Tyrants milde humilitie. From womens eyes this doctrine I derive They sparcle full the right promethean fire, They are the Booker, the Arta, the Achedemes. That shew, containe, and noutish all the world. Else none at all in ought proues excellent Then fooles you were these women to forsweare: Or keeping what is fworne, you will proue fooles, Por Wisedomes take, a word that all men loue: Or for Loues lake, a word that loues all men. Or for Mens Iske, the anthor of these Women. Or Womens fake, by whom women are Men. Let's once loofe our oathes to finde our felues, Or elfe we loofe our felues, to keepe our oathes t It is religion to be thus forfworne, For Charity it felfe fulfills the Law: And who can feuer love from Charity.

Kin, Saint Cupid then, and Souldiers to the field. Ber. Aduance your flandards, & vpon them Lords. Pell, mell, downe out them : but be first aduis'd, In conflict that you get the Sunne of them.

Long. Now to plaine dealing, Lay these glozes by, Shall we resolve to woe these girles of France? Kin. And winne them too, therefore let vs desife,

Some entertainment for them in their Tents.

Ber. First from the Park let vs conduct them thither, Then homeward every men accech the hand Of his faire Mistresse, in the asternoone We will with some strange passime solsce them : Such as the shortnesse of the time can shape, For Rouels, Dances, Maskes, and merry houres, Fore-runne faire Loue, Arewing her way with flowers.

Kin. Away away, no time thall be omitted,

Thet will be time, and may by va be fitted.

Ber. Alone, alone fowed Cockell, reap'd to Corne, And Inflice alwaies whitles in equal manure: Light Wenches may proue plagues tomen for sworae, If to, our Copper buyes no better tresfurc.

Actus Quartus.

Enter the Pedant, Circare and Dull.

Pedant. Savis quid fufficit.
Curat. I praile God for you fir, your reasons at dinner have beene therpe & sententious:pleasant without sourrillity, witry without effection, sudacious without impudency, learned without opinion, and firange without hereine: I did converse this quandum day with a companion of the trings, who is intiruled, nominated, or called,

Red. Non homorum tenquoin ie, His humour is losty, his discourse peremptorie: his longue filed, his eye ambitious, his gare maiesticall, and his generall behaviour vame ridiculous, and thrasonicall. He is too picked, too spruce, too effected, loo odde, as n were, too pere. grinat, as I may call it

Curat. A most lingular and choise Epichat,

Draw our his Telle-book.

Peda. He drawerh out the threed of his verbofitie, finer then the staple of his argument. I abhor such phanaticall phantalima, such insociable and poynt devide companions, such tackers of ortagriphie, as to speake dout fine, when he should sey doubt; det, when he shold pronounce debrid e be, not der the clepeth a Calf, Canfe: halfe, hauferneighbour vocatur nebourznelgh abreuisted ne: this is abhominable, which he would call abhominable it infinuareth me of infamie : we inteligu domine, to make franticke, lunaticke?

Cira. Laus deo, bene intelligo. Peda. Bome boen for boon preficier, a little scrutche, twil ferue.

Emer Brogert, Bey.

Gurns. Vides me quis venes?

Peda. Video, or gaudio.

Brog. Chirra.
Peda. Quari Chirra, not Sirra?

Brog. Men of peace well incountred. Ped. Most militarie in falutation.

Boy. They have beene at a great feast of Languages, and folne the ferape.

Clow. Othey have liu'd long on the almes-basket of words! I maruell thy M. hath not eaten thee for a word, for thou art not so long by the head as honorificabilitudinitatibus : Thon art eafier swallowed then a flapdra-

Page. Peace, the peale begins.

Breg. Mounfier, are you not lettred?
Page. Yes, yes, he reaches boyes the Home-booke: What is Ab feeld backward with the horn on his head?

Peda. Ba, pzerrota with a home added.
Pag. Ba most feely Sheepe, with a home a you besse his learning.

Peda. Quis quis, thou Confonant?

Pag. The last of the five Vowels if You repeat them, or the fift if I.

Peda. I will repest them: a e L.
Pag. The Sheepe, the other two concludes it a u.

Brag. Now by the Ble wave of the mediceranium fweet tutch, a quicke venc we of wit, Inip Inap, quick & home, it reioyceth my intelled, true wit.

Pege. Offered by a childe to an olde man: which is wir-old,

Peda What is the figure? What is the figure?

Page. Homes.

Peda. Thou disputes like an Infant : goe whip thy

Pag. Lend me your Horne to make one, and I will whip shows your Infamie vision cita's gigge of a Cuckolds horne.

Cine. And I had but one penny in the world, thou Mouldst have it to buy Ginger bread: Hold, there is the very Remuneration I had of thy Maister, thou halfpenny purse of wit, thou Pidgeon-eggeof discretion. O & the heavens were fo pleafed, that thou were but my Baffard; What a lovfull father would thou make mee? Goe to, thou hall it addungel, at the fingers ends, so they fay.

Peda. Oh I smell falle Latine, dought for enguern.
Brog. Artf-mangroumbular, we will bee singled from the barbarous. Do you not educate youth at the Chargboule on the top of the Mountaine?

Peda Or Mors the hitl.

Brag. At your sweet pleasure, for the Mountaine.

Peda. I doe for question.

Bra. Strit is the Kings most sweet pleasure and effection, to congressulate the Princeffe at her Paulion, la the pofferiors of this day, which the rude multistude call

Ped The posterior of the day, most generous le, is lisble, congruenz, and measurable for the after-noone: the word is well culd, chole, fweez, and spr I doe affure you fir, I doe affure.

Brag. Sir, the King is a noble Gentleman, and my familiar, I doe affure ye very good friend : for what is inward betweene vs, let it passe. I doe besoech thee remember thy currelie. I beleech thre apparell thy head t and among other importunate & most terious defignes, and of great import indeed too t but let that paffe, for I must cell thee it will please his Grace (by the world) fometime to leane vpon my poore shoulder, and with his royall finger thus callie with my excrement, with my mustachio: but sweet heart let that passe. By the world I recount no fable, some certaine special honours it pleaseth his greatnesse to impart to Armado a Souldier, a man of travell, that hath scene the world : but let that pade; the very all of all iss but fracet heart, I do implore fecrecie, that the King would have mee present the Princelle (Iweet chucke) with some delighafull oftencation, or show, or pageant, or anticke, or fire-worke: Now, anderstanding that the Curate and your sweet felf are good at fuch eruptions, and fod sine breaking out of myrth (25 it were) I have acquainted you withall, so the end to crave your allifonce.

Peda. Sir, you shall present before her the Nine Worthies. Sir Halofurus, as concerning some entertainment of time, some show in the posterior of this day, to bee rendred by our affistants the Kings command: and this most gallant, illustrate and learned Gentleman, before the Princesse: I say none so fit as to present the Nine Worthies.

Curat. Where will you finde men worthy enough to prefere them?

Pede. lofus, your felfe:my felfe, and this gallant gencleman Indas Machabetes; this Swaine (because of his great limme or ioynt) Thall paffe Pompey the great, the Page Hercules.

Brag. Pardon fir, error: He is not quantitie enough for that Worthies thumb, bee is not fo big as the end of Peda. Shall I have audience? he shall present Hereulee in minoritie; his enter and exit shall bee strangling a Snake; and I will have an Apologie for that purpofe.

Pag. An excellent deuice: foil any of the audience hisse, you may cry, Well done Harcules, now thou crutheft the Snake; that is the way to make an offence gra-Brag. For the rest of the Worthies?

Peda. I will play three my felfe.

Pag. Thrice worthy Gentleman.

Brag. Shall I tell you a thing?

Pedu, We attend.

Brag. We will have, if this fadge not, 20 Antique. I befeech you follow.

Ped. Viegood-med Dullythou hast spoken no victo all this while.

Drill. Nor vederstood none neither his.

Ped. Alone, we will employ thee.

Dull. He make one in a dence, or fo: es I will play on the taber to the Worthles, & let them dance the hey. Ped. Most Dulhhonest Dulhto our sport away. Exm.

Enter Lindies.

Qu. Sweet hearts we shall be rich ere we depart, If fairings come thus plentifully in. A Lady wal'd about with Diamonds: Lookyou, what I have from the louing King,

Rofe. Madam, came nothing elfesting with that?
Qu. Nothing but this: yes as much loue in Rime,

As would be cram'd up in a theet of paper Write on both fides the leafe, margent and all, That he was faine to scale on Supids name.

Rofa. That was the way to make his god-head wax : For he hath beene flue thouland yeeres a Boy.

Kath. I, and a farewed valappy gallowes too.
Rof. You'll note be friends with him, a kild your fifter. Kath. He made her melancholy, and, and heavy, and to the died : had the beens Light like you, of fuch a merele nimble fireing spirit she might a bin a Grandam ere the died. And to may you: Fore light heart liucs long.
Rof. What's your darke meaning moule, of this light word?

Kas. A light condition in a beauty darke.

Ref. We need more light to finde your meening out Kar, You'll marre the light by taking it in fnuffe: Therefore He darkely end the orgument.

Rof. Look what you doe, you doe it fill i'th darke. Ker. So do not you, for you are a light Wench. Rof. Indeed I waigh not you, and therefore light.

Ka. You waigh me not, O that's you care not for me. Rof. Great reason : for past care, is full past cure.

Qu. Well bandied both, a fet of Wit well played.

But Rosaline, you have a Favour too? Who sensit? and what is it?

Res, I would you knew.

And if my face were but as faire as yours. My Fanour were as great, be witnefferhis. Nay, i have Verfes too, I thanks Berowne, The numbers true, and were the numbring too I were the fairest goddesse on the ground. I am compard to twenty thousand fairs.

O he hash drawnemy picture in his letter

2. Any thing like?

Ros. Much in the letters, nothing in the praise Qu. Besutrous as Inche: a good conclusion.
Kac. Faire es a text B. In a Coppie booke.

Rof. Ware penfels. How? Let meuor die your debtor, My red Dominicall, my golden letter. Other your face were full of Ocs.

Qu. A Pox of charieft, and I beforew all Shrower. But Katherier, what was fent to you

From faire Dumama?

Kat, Madame, this Glove. Qu. Did he not fend you twaine: Kar. Yes Madame: and moreover,

Some thousand Vesses of a faithfull Louer. A huge translation of hypocrific Vildly compiled, profound simplicitie.

Mar. This, and these Pearls, to me sent Longawle.

The Letter 15 too long by halfe a mile.

24 I thinkeno leffe: Doft thou wish in heare The Chaine were longer, and the Letter short.

Mar. I, or I would these hands might never part.

Quee. We are wife girles to mocke our Louers fo. Ref. They are worle fooles to purchase mocking so. That fame Berowns le torturs ere I goe. O that I knew he were but in by th'weeke, How I would make him fawne, and begge, and feeke. And wait the fesion, and observe the times, And spend his prodigall with in booteles rimes. And these his feruice wholly to my deuice, And make him proud to make me proud that lefts. So persouns like would I o'resway his state, That he shold be my foole, and I his face.

Qu. None are so surely caught, when they are eatcht,
As Wit turn'd foole, foilie in Wisedome hetch'd a Hath wifedoms warrant, and the helpe of Schoole, And Wits owne grace to grace a learned Foole?

Rof. The bloud of youth burns not with fuch excelle,

As gravities revolt to wantons be.

Mar. Pollie in Fooles beares not fo frong a note, As fool'ry in the Wife, when Wit doth dote: Since all the power thereof is doch apply, To proue by Wit, worth in implicitie.

Enter Boyer.

Qu, Heere comes Boyer, and mirth in his face. Boy. OI am flab'd with laughter, Wher's her Grace?

y. Thy newes Royes ?

Arma Wenches arme, incounters mounted are, Againflyour Peace, Loue doth approach, difguis'd : Armed in orguments, you'll be furpria'd. Muster your Wits, stand in your owne desence, Or hide your heads like Cowards, and flie hence.

Qx. Saint Dennis to S, Cupids What are they, That charge their breath against vs? Say scout fav Boy. Vnder the coole shade of a Siccemore,

I thought to close mine eyes some halfe an houre: When lo to interrupt my purpos dreft, Toward that shade I might behold addrest, The King and his companions: warely I Role into a neighbour chicket by, And over-heard, what you shall over-heare: That by and by disgule'd they will be heere. Their Herald is a pretty knauish Page: That well by heart hash con'd his embaffage, Action and accent did they teach him there. Thus must thou speake, and thus thy body beare. And ever and anon they made a doubt, Prefence maiefricall would put him out a For quoth the King, an Angell shalt thou sees Yet feere not thou, but fpeake oudsciously. The Boy teply'd, An Angell is not evill:
I hould have fear'd her had the beene a deuill. With that all laugh'd, and dap'd him on the shoulder, Making the bold wage by their praifes bolder. One rub'd his elboe thus, and fleer'd, and fwore, A better speech was never spake before Another with his finger and his thumb, Cry'd vis, we will doo'c, come what will come. The third he caper'd and cried, All goes well The fourth turn'd on the toe, and down a he fell . With that they all did tumble on the ground, With fuch a zelous laughter fo profound,

That in this fpleene ridiculous appeares,
To cheeke their folly passions solemne teares.

Que. But what, but what, come they to visit vs?
Boy. They do, they do; and are appeared thus,
Like Musecunes, or Russians, as I gesse.

Their purpose is to parlec, to court, and dance, M 3

And

And every one his Love-feat will advance, Voto his feuerall Mistrelle: which they'll know By fauours seuerall, which they did bestow

Queen. And will they for the Gallants Mall be taskt; For Ladies; we will every one be masks, And not a man of chem shall have the grace Despight of lute, to fee a Ladies face. Hold Rofalme, this Favour thou shalt weare, And then the King will court thee for his Deare : Hold, take thou this my fweet, and give me thine, So shall Berowne take me for Refaline. And change your Fauours too, so shall your Loues Woo contrary, deceiu'd by these removes.

Rofa. Come on then, weare the fauours most in fight. Kash. But in this changing, What is your intent? Queen. The effect of my intent is to croffe theirs:

They doe it but in mocking merriment, And mocke for mocke is onely my intent. Their severall counsels they vnbosome shall, To Loues mistooke, and so be mockt withall. Vpon the next occasion that we meete, With Vilages displayd to talke and greete.

Rof. But shall we dance, if they delire vs too't? Quee. No, to the death we will not mous a foot, Nor to their pen'd speech render we no grace : But while'the spoke, each turne away his face.

Boy. Why that concempt will kill the keepers heart, And quite divorce his memory from his part

Quee. Therefore I doe it, and I make no doubt, The rest will ere come in, if he be out Theres no fuch sport, as sport by sport orethrowne: To make theirs ours, and ours none but our owne. So shall we stay mocking entended game, And they well mockt, depart away with shame. Sound

Boy. The Trompet founds, bemaske, the maskers

Enter Black moores with musicke, the Boy with a speech, and the rest of the Lords desquised

Page. All haile the richest Beauxies on the earth. Ber. Beauties no richer then rich Taffata. Pag. A bely parcell of the farrest dames that ever turn'd ther backes to mortall viewe

The Ladies turne their backes to him.

Ber. Their eyes villaine, their eyes.

Pag. That ener turn dibeir eyes to mortal viewes

Boy. True, out indeed Pag. One of your factours bearenly spirits wouch fafe Nos so beholde

Ber. Onceto behold, rogue Pag Once to behald with your Swine bearned eyes,

Wish your Sunne beamed eyes. Boy. They will not answer to that Epythite,

You were best cell it Daughter beamed eyes

Pag They do not marke me, and that brings me aut.

Bero Is this your perfectnesse? be gon you rogue.

Rofa What would these Arangers?

Know their mindes Bojet. If they doe speake our language, 'tis our will That fome plaine man recount their purpoles. Know what they would?

Boyer What would you with the Princes! Ber. Nothing but peace, and gentle vifitation.

Rof. What would they, fay they?

Boy. Nothing but peace, and gentle visitation. Rofa Why that they have, and bid therh to be gon.

Boy. She fates you have it, and you may be gon. Kin. Say to her we have meafur'd many miles ,

To tread a Measure with you on the grasie. Boy They lay that they have measur'd many amile

To tread a Measure with you on this graffe

Rofa. It is not fo. Aske them how many inches Is in one mile? If they have meafor d manie, The measure then of one is easilie told.

Boy. If to come hither, you have meafur'd miles, And many miles , the Princelle bids you tell, How many inches doth [1] vp one mile?

Ber. Tell her we meafure them by weary fleps.

Boy. She heares her feife Rosa. How manie weariesteps, Of many wearie miles you have ore-gone, Are numbred in the travell of one mile?

Bero. We number nothing that we spend for you. Our ducie is fo rich, fo infinite, That we may doe it full without accompt.

Vouchfafe to shew the funshine of your face, That we (like fausges) may worship it.

Rosa. My sace is but a Moone and clouded too. Km. Bleffed are clouds, to doe as fuch clouds do. Vouchsafe bright Moone, and these thy stars to shine, (Those clouds remooued) vpon our waterie eyne.

Rofa. Ovaine peticioner, beg a greater matter, Thou now requests but Mooneshine in the water.

Rm. Then in our messure, vouchfafe but one change. Thou bidft me begge, this begging is not ftrange.

Rofa. Play mulicke then: ney you must doe it soone. Not yet no dance: thus change: like the Moone.

Kin. Will you not dance? How come you thus e-Aranged?

Rofa. You tooke the Moone at full, but now Gree's changed?

Kin. Yet still she is the Moone, and I the Man. Rofa. The musick playes, vouchsafe some motion to it: Our eares vouchsafe it.

Kin. But your legger should doe is.

Rof. Since you are Arangers, & come here by chance. Wee'll not be nice, take hands, we will not dance.

Kin. Why take you hands then? Rofa. Onelie to part friends.

Curtie sweet hearts, and so the Measure ends. Kin. More measure of this measure benot nice.

Rofa. We can afford no more at such a price. Kin. Prife your selves: What buyes your companie?

Rofa. Your absence onelie Kin. That can neuer be,

Rofs. Then cannot we be bought and fo adue, Twice to your Visore, and halfe once to you.

Kin. If you denie to dance, let's hold more chat. Ref. In private then.

Kin. I am best pleas'd with that

Be. White handed Mistris, one sweet word with thee. Qu Hony, and Milke, and Suger: there is three.

Zer. Nay then two treyes, en if you grow lo nice Methegline, Wort, and Maintley; well runne dice: There's halfe a dozen fweets.

Qu Seventh (weet adve,fince you can cogg, Be play no more with you.

Ber. One word in ferret. Qu. Let it not be sweet. Ber Thou green'st my gall.

Queen.

Qu. Gall, bitter.

Ber. Therefore meete.

Du. Will you vouchfase with me to change a word?

Mar. Nameit.

Dum. Falze Ladie:

Mar. Say you lo ? Paire Lord : Take you that for your faire Lady.

Du. Please it you,

As much in prluace, and He bid adieu.

Mar. What, was your vizaed made without a tong?

Long. I know the reason Ladie why you aske Mar. O for your reason, quickly six, I long. Long. You have a double congue within your mask.

And would affoord my speechlesse vizard halfe.

Mar. Veale quoth the Dutcheman: is not Veale a Calfe?

Long. A Calfe faire Ladie] Mar. No, a faire Lord Calfe.

Long. Let's part the word. Mar. No, lie not be your balfe:

Take all and weane it, it may proue an Oxe.

Long. Looke how you but your felfe in thefe thespe

Will you give hornes chast Ladie? Donot so.
Mar. Then die a Calfe before your horns do grow. Lon. One word in private with you ere I die.

Mar. Bleat foftly then, the Butcher heares you cry-Bojet. The tongues of mocking wenches are as keen

As is the Razors edge, invilible: Cutting a smaller haire then may be seene,

Aboue the lense of sence so sensible:

Seemeth their conference, their conceits have wings, Fleeter then arrows, bullets wind, thoght, swifter things

Rofa. Not one word more my maides, breake off, breake off.

Ber. By heaven, all drie beaten with pure fcoffe. King. Farewell madde Wenches, you have simple

Qu. Twentie adieus my frozen Mulcouits. Are thefe the breed of wits fo wondred at?

Bojer. Tagers they ere, with your sweete breathes

Rofa. Wel-liking wits they have, groffe, groffe, fat, fat. Qu. O pouertie in wit, Kingly poore flout.
Will they not (thinke you) hang themselves to night?

Or ever but in vizards thew their faces: This pert Berowne was out of count'nance guite.

Rofa. They were all in lamentable cases.

The King was veceping ripe for a good word. Qu. Berowne did sweare himselfe out of all suite. Mar Dumaine was at my serutce, and his sword: No point (quoth I:) my feruant fraight was mute.

Ka. Lord Longavill faid I came ore his hare .

And trow you what he call'd me?

Qualme perhaps. Kat. Yes in good faith. Qu. Go fickneffe as thou art.

Rof. Well, better wits haue worne plain flature capa, But well you heare; the King is my loue sworne.

Qu. And quicke Berowne hath plighted faith to me,

Kai. And Long will was for my letuice borne. Mar. Dumaine is mine as sure as baske on tree. Boyer. Madam, and prettie mistresses giue care,

Immediately they will againe be heere In their owne shapes : for it can neuer be,

They will digen this harth indignitie.

Qu, Will they returne? Boy. They will they will, God knowes, And leape for loy, though they are tame with blower: Therefore change Fauours, and when they repaire, Blow like sweet Roses, in this summer aire.

2a. How blovv? how blovv? Speake to bee under-flood.

Boy. Paire Ladies maskt, are Roses in their bud: Dismaskt, their damaske sweet commixture showne, Are Angels vailing clouds, or Roses blowne.

Qu. Auant perplexitie: What shall we do. If they returne in their owne shapes to wo !

Roja. Good Madam, if by me you'l be aduls'd, Let's mocke them still as well knowne as disguis'd : Let we complaine to them what fooles were heare, Disguis dlike Muscouites in shapelesse geare : And wonder what they were, and to what end Their shallow showes, and Prologue vildely pan'd: And their rough carriage fo ridiculous, Should be presented at our Tent to ys.

Bajer. Ladies, withdraw : the gallants are at hand. Quee. Whip to our Tents, as Roes runnes ore Land.

Enter the King and the reft.

King. Faire fir, God faue you. Wher's the Princesse? Boy. Gone to her Tent.

Please it your Maiestie command me any service to her? King. That the vouchfafe me zudience for one word. Boy. I will, and so will she, I know my Lord. Exit. Ber. This fellow pickes up wit as Pigeons peafe, And veters it againe, when four doth pleafe. He is Wits Pedler, and retailes his Wares. At Wakes, and Wastels, Meetings, Markets, Faires. And we that fell by groffe, the Lord doth know, Haue not the grace to grace it with such show. This Gallant pins the Wenches on his sleeue. Had he bin Adam, he had tempted Eu. He can carue too, and lifpe: Why this is he. That kift away his hand in courtefie. This is the Ape of Forme, Monfieur the nice, That when he plaies at Tables, chides the Dice In honorable tearmes: Nay he can fing A meane most meanly, and in Vihering Mend him who can : the Ladies call him sweete. The staires as he treads on them kisse his feete. This is the flower that smiles on everie one. To shew his teeth as white as Whales bone. And consciences that wil not die in debt, Pay him the dutie of honie-tongued Boyes.

King. A blifter on his sweet tongue with my hars, That put Armothoes Page out of his part.

Exter the Ladies.

Ber. See where it comes. Behaulour what wer't thou, Till this madman (how'd thee? And what art thou now?

Ring. All haile sweet Madame, and faire time of day, Qu. Faire in all Haile is foule, as I conceiue.

King. Construe my speeches better, if you may.
On. Then wish me better, I wil give you leave. Kmg. We came to visit you, and purpose now To leade you to our Court, vouchsafe it than.

Qu. This field shall hold me, and so hold your vow: Nor God, nor I, delights in periur'd men.

King. Rebuke me not for that which you prouoke:

The vertue of your ere must breake my och. 2. You nickname vertue: vice you should have spoke: For vertues office neuer breakes men troch, Now by my maiden honor, yet as pure As the vofallied Lilly, I proteft, A world of totmeats though I should endure, I would not yetld to be your houses guest : So much I have a breaking cause to be

Of heaueoly oaths, vow d with integritie. Kin. O you have lin d in detalation heere. Valcene, vauisited, much to out shame.

Qu. Not formy Lord, it is not fo I sweare, We have had pastimes heere, and pleasant game. A melle of Ruffians left vs but of late.

Kin. How Madam? Rulsians?

Ou I in truth, my Lord.
Trim gallants, full of Courtship and of state. Rofa. Madem Speake true It is not formy Lord:

My Ladie (to the manner of the dates) In currefie gives undeferuing praife. We foure indeed confronted were with foure In Russia habit: Herrethey stayed an house, And talk'd apace . and in that house (my Lord) They did not bleffe vs with one happy word. I dare not call them fooles; but this I thinke, When they are thirfne, fooles would faine have drinke

Ber. This ieft is drie to me. Gentle sweete, Your wits makes wife things foolish when we greate With eies best feeing, heavens fierce eie; By light we loofe light ; your capacitie Is of that nature, that to your huge floore,

Wife things feeme foolish, and rich things but poore. Rof. This proues you wife and rich : for in my eie

Ber. I am a foole, and full of poucrtie. Rof. But that you take what doth to you belong,

It were a fault to fnatch words from my tongue. Ber. O, lam yours and all that I possesse.

Rof. All the foole mine.

Ber. I cannot give you leffe.
Ref. Which of the Vizards what it that you wore?

Ber. Where? when? What Vizard? Why demand you this?

Rof. There, then, that vizard, that superfluous case, That hid the worse, and shew'd the better face.

Km. We are discried, They'l macke vs now downeright.

Du. Let vs confesse. and turne it to a left.

Que. Amaz'd my Lord? Why lookes your Highnes (adde?

Rose Helpe hold his browes, hee'l sound: why looke you pale?

Sea-licke I thinke comming from Mulcouie. Ber. Thus poure the flars down plagues for periury. Can any face of braffe hold longer out? Heere fland I, Ladie dart thy skill arme, Bruile me with scorne, confound me with a flout. Thrust thy sharpe wit quite through my ignorance Cut me to peeces with thy keene conceit: And I will wish thee never more to dance, Nor never more in Russian habit waite. O! never will I trust to speeches pen'd, Nor to the motion of a Schoole-boses tongue Nor never come to vizate to my friend, Nor woo in rime like a blind-barpers fongue, Taffatz phrases, filken tearmes precise, Three-pil'd Hyperboles, spruce affection;

Figures pedanticall, thefe fummes fies, Haue blowne me full of maggot oftentation I do forsweare them, and I heere protest, By this white Glose (how white the hand God knows) Henceforth my woing minde shall be exprest In ruller year, and honeft kerfie noes. And to begin Wench, fo God helpe me lew, My love to thee is found for cracke or flan Rosa Sans. Sans, I pray you.

Ber. Yet I have a tricke Of the old rage : beare with me, I am ficke, lle leave it by degrees · foft, let vs fee Write Lordhaus mercu on vs. on those three, They are infected, in their hearrs it lies They have the plague, and caught it of your eyes: These Lords are visited, you are not free: For the Lords tokens on you do I fee.

Qu.No, they are free that gaue thefe tokens to vs. Br. Our flates are forfest, sceke not to vndo va. Rof. It is not fo; for how can this be true,

That you stand forfeit, being those that sue Ber. Peace, for I will not have to do with you. Ref. Nor shall not, if I do as I intend.

Ber. Speake for your felues, my wit is at an end. King. Teach vs fweete Madame, for our rude mani. greliion, some faire excuse.

2". The faitest is confession. Were you not heere but enen now, difguis'd?

Kin. Madam, I was. Qu. And were you well aduit'd? Bin. I was faire Madem.

Qu. When you then were heere,

What did you whilper in your Ladies eare :

King. That more then all the world I did respect her 2u. Wheo thee thall challenge this, you will reied King. Vpon mine Honor ao.

Qu. Peace pesce, forberre: your oath once broke, you force not to forfwere.

King. Despile me when I breake this outh of mine. Qu. I will, and therefore keepe is. Rofaline,

What did the Kulsian whilper in your eare? Ref Madam, he swore that he did hold me deare As precious eye-light, and did value me About this World: adding thereto moreover, That he would Wed me, or cife die my Lover.

Qu. God groe thee toy of him the Noble Lord Most honorably doth vphold his word.

King. What meane you Madame? By my life, my troth,

I never swore this Ladie such an oth.

Rof. By heaven you did, and to confirme it plaine, you gave me this : But take it fir againe.

King. My faith and this, the Princesse I did give, I knew her by this lewell on her sleeve.

Qu. Pardonme fir, this lewell did the weare, And Lord Berowne (I chanke him) is my deare What? Will you have me, or your Pearle againe?

Ber, Neither of either, I remit both twaine. I fee the tricke on't: Heere was a confent, Knowing aforehand of our merriment, To dash it like a Christmas Comedie. Some carry-tale, some please man, some slight Zante, Some mumble-newes, some treneber-knight, som Dick That smiles his checke in yearer and knowes the wick To make my Lady laugh, when the s dispos'd;

Told

Told our intents before : which once disclos'd, The Ladies did change Fauours; and then we Following the fignes, woo'd but the figne of the. Now to our periurie, to adde more terror, We are againe forfworne in will and error, Much vpon this tis; and might notyou Forestall our sport, to make vs thus vntrue? Do not you know my Ladies foot by th fquiet? And laugh vpon the apple of her eie And frand betweene her backe fir, and the fire, Holding a treucher, iesting metrilie? You put our Page out: go, you are alowd. Die when you will, a smocke shall be your shrowd. You leere vpon me, do you? There's an cie Wounds like a Leaden sword.

Boy. Full merrily hath this braue manager, this carreere bene run.

Ber. Loc, he is tilting straight. Peace, I haue don.

Enser Clowne.

Welcome pure wit, thou part'it a faire fray. Clo. O Lord fir, they would kno, Whether the three worthies shall come in or no. Ber. What, are there but three?

Cle. No fir, but it is vara fine,

For euctic one pursents three.

Ber. And three times thrice is nine.

Cle. Not fo fir, under correction fir, I hope it is not fo. You cannot beg vs fir, I can affure you fir, we know what weknow: I hope fir three times thrice fir.

Ba. Is not nine. Clo. Vader correction fit, weeknow where-vatill it doth amount.

Ber. By Ione, I alwaies tookethree threes for nine. Claw. O Lord fir, it were pittle you fhould get yout living by reckning fir.

Ber. How much is it?

Clo. O Lord fir, the parties themselves, the actors fir will thew where votill it doth amount : for mine owne part, Iam (as they fay, but to perfect one man in one poore man) Pompion the great fir.

Ber. Art thou one of the Worthies?

Clo. It pleased them to thinke me worthie of Pompey the great : for mine owne part, I know not the degree of the Worthie, but I am to fland for him.

Ber. Go, bid them prepare, Clo. We will turne it finely off fir, we wil take some King. Berowne, they will fhame us:

Let them not approach.

Ber. We are shame-proofe my Lord: and 'els some policie, to have one shew worse then the Kings and his companie.

Kin. I say they shall not come.

Qu. Nay my good Lord, let me ore-rule you now; That iport best pleases, that doth least know how. Where Zeale striues to content, and the contents Dies in the Zeale of that which it presents: Their forme confounded, makes most forme in mirth, When great things labouring perish in their birth. Ber. A tight description of our sport my Lord,

Enter Brazgart

Brag. Annointed, I implote so much expence of thy | queror: you will be scrap d our of the printed cloth for royall sweet breath, as will vitter a brace of words.

Qu. Doth this man setue God?

Ber. Why aske you?

Qu. He speak's not like a man of God's making.

Brag. That's all one my faire sweet honie Monarch: For I proteft, the Schoolmafter is exceeding fantafticall: Too too vaine, too too vaine. But we wil put it (as they fay) to Forsuna delaguar, I wish you the peace of minde most royall cupplement,

King, Here is like to be a good presence of Worthies;

He presents Hellor of Troy, the Swaine Pamper & great, the Parish Curate Alexander, Armadoes Page Hercules. the Pedant Indas Machabeiu: And if these foure Worthies in their first shew thrive, these foure will change habites, and present the other five.

Ber. There is five in the first shew. Kin. You are deceived, tis nor so.

Ber. The Pedant, the Braggart, the Hedge-Prieff, the Foole, and the Boy,

Abate throw at Novum, and the whole world againe, Cannot pricke out fine fuch, take each one in's vaine.

Kin. The thip is under faile, and here the coms amain.

Enter Pompey.

Clo. I Pompey am. Ber. You lie, you are not he.

Clo. I Pompey am. Boy. With Libbards head on knee.

Ber. Well faid old mocker,

I must needs be friends with thee, Clo. f Pompey am, Pompey furnam'd the big.

Du. The great.

Clo. It is great lis: Pompey furnam'd the great:

That oft in field, with Targe and Shield,

did make my foe to sweat :

And eranailing along thu coast, I heere am come by chance, And lay my Armes before the legs of this sweet Lasse of France.

If your Ladiship would say thankes Pompey, I had done.

La. Great thankes great Pompey Clo. Tis not fo much worth: but I hope I was perfect. I made a little fault in great.

Ber. My hat to a halfe-penie, Pompey produes the best Worthie.

Enter Curate for Alexander.

Curat. When in the world I livid, I was the worlder Com. mander:

By East, West, North, & South, I fred my conquering might My Scutcheon plaine declares that I am Alifander.

Boiet. Your nose saics no, you are not :

For it stands too right.

Ber, Your noie smels no, in this moft tender smelling Knight.

Qu. The Conqueror is dilmaid:

Proceede good Alexander.

Cur. When in the world I listed, I was the worldes Com. marder.

Boiet. Most true, 'tis sight: you were so Alisander. Ber. Pompcy the great.

Cle. your feruant and Cofford.

Ber. Take away the Conqueror, take away Alifandor Clo. O fir, you have over thrown Alifarder the con-this : your Lion that holds his Pollax fitting on a close Roole, will be guento Aisx. He will be the ninth worthie. A Conqueror, and affraid to speake? Runtie away for Chame Alifander There an't shall please you : a foolish milde man, an honest man, looke you, & foon dashr He is a marvellous good neighbour infooth, and a verie good Bowler but for Alifander, alas you fee, bow 'tis a little ere-parted But there are Worthier a comming, will speake their nunde in some other fort Qu. Stand afide good Pompey.

Enter Pedant for Indas, and the Boy for Hercules.

Ped. Great Hercules is presented by this Impe, Whose Club kil'd Corberus that three-headed Carm, And when he was ababe, a childe, a shrimpe, Thus did he strangle Serpents in his Manue Quoniam, he feemeth in uninoritie, Ergo, I come with this Apologie. Exil Boy

Keepe some flate in thy eait, and vanish. Ped. Iudas I am.

Dum Aludas? Ped Not Iscariot fir Iudas I am scliped Machabem.

Dum Indas Machaberu clipt, is plaine Iudas. Ber. A kilsing traitor. How art thou prou'd Indus?

Ped. Indas I am. Dum The more fhame for you Indu.

Ped What meane you fit? Bos. To make Indan hang himselfe.

Ped Begin fir, you are my elder. Ber. Well follow'd, Indas was hang'd on an Elder.

Ped. I will not be put out of countenance.

Ber. Because thou haft no face.

Ped What is this? Bor. A Citterne head.

Dum. The head of a bodkin.

Ber. A deaths face maring

Lon. The face of an old Roman coine, scarce seene

Bei. The pummell of Cofari Faulchion.
Dum. The caru'd-bone face on a Flaske.
Ber. S.Georges halfe cheeke in a brooch.

Dum. I, and in a brooch of Lead.

Ber. I, and worne in the cap of a Tooth-drawer And now forward, for we have put thee in countenance

Ped. You have put me out of countenance Ber. False, we have given thee faces. Ped. But you have out-fac'd them all. Ber. And thou wer't a Lion, we would do fo.

Boy. Therefore as he is, an Affe, let him go :

And so adieu sweet Inde. Nay, why dost thou stay?

Dum. For the latter end of his name. Ber. For the Affe to the lude : give it him. Isd-au T.

Ped, This is not generous, not gentle, not humble.

Boy. A light for monfieur Indu, it grower darke, he may Rumble.

Que. Alas poore Machabenu, how hath hee beene baired

Emer Braggart

Ber. Hide thy head Achilles, heere comes Hellor in Armes.

Dum. Though my mockes come home by me, I will now be prettra

King Holler was but a Troyan in respect of this.

Box But 10 this Hellor?

Kin I thinke Heller was not fo cleane timber'd

Len. His legge is too big for Hellor Dum. More Calfe certaine

Bos. No, he is best indued in the small

Ber This cannot be Hellor.

Dnm He's a God or a Painter, for he makes faces. Erag The Arcogotem Mary Launces the almoster, gane Heltor agife

Dam. Agilt Nutmegge.

Ber. A Lemmon.

Lon. Stucke with Cloues

Dum. No clouen.

Brag. The Armpotent Mari of Lannees the almighty. Gave Heltor a gift, the berre of Illion ,

A man so breashed, that certains he would fight. yea From morne tell night, out of his Pamillion

I am that Flower

Dum. That Mint

Long. That Cullambine.

Brag Sweet Lord Longmill relne thy tongue
Lon. I must rather give it the reine for it sunnes against Heller

Dum. I, and Heller's a Grey-hound

Brag. The fweet War-man is dead and rotten.

Sweet chuckes, beat not the bones of the buried But I will forward with my deurce; Sweet Royaltie bestow on me the fence of hearing.

Berowne Steppes forth.

Qu Speake braue Hector, we are much delighted

Brag. I do adore thy sweet Graces flipper. Boy. Loues her by the foor

Dum He may not by the yard

Brag. Thu Hector farre surmounted Harniball.

The parise is gone.
Clo Fellow Heller, the is gone; the is two moneths on her way.

Beag. Whet meanest thou?

Clo Faith villeste you play the horest Troyan, the poore Wench is cast away: the squick, the child brags in her belly alreadie : tis yours.

Brag. Dost thou infamonize me among Potentates?

Thou shalt die.

Clo. Then shall Hedor be whipe for laquenessa that is quicke by him, and hang'd for Pempey, that is dead by him

Dum. Most rate Pompey. Boi. Renowned Pompey

Ber. Greater then great, great, great, great Pompey: Pompey the huge.

Dum Hechprtrembles

Ber. Pempey is moved, more Arees more Arees sture them, or firre them on.

Dum. Hector will challenge him.

Ber. I, if a haue no more mans blood in shelly, then will fup a Flaa.

Breg. By the North-pole I do challenge thee Clo. I wil not fight with a pole like a Northern man; Ile flash, le do it by the sword: I pray you let mee horrow my Armesagaine, Tum. Roome for the incenfed Worthies.

Clo. He do it in my thirt

Dum Most resolute Pomocy.

Page. Master, let me take you a button hole lower ; Do you not lee hompey is uncaling for the combat what meme

mezne your you will lofe your reputation.

Breg. Gentlemen and Souldiers pardon me, 1 will not combat in my thirt.

Du. You may not denie it, Pompey hath made the challenge.

Brag. Sweet bloods, I both may, and will. Ber. What reason have you for t?

Brag. The naked truth of it is, I have no thirt,

I go woolward for penance.

Ber. True, and It was iniogned him in Rome for want of Linnen: fince when, He be sworne he wore none, but a dishelout of laquenetta, and that her weares next his heart for a fauour.

Enser a Messenger, Monsieur Marcade.

Mar. Godsaue you Madame.

Qu. Welcome Marcado, but that thou interruptest our merriment.

Marc. 1 am forrie Madam, for the newes I bring is heavie in my tongue. The King your father

Qu. Dead for my life.

Mar. Euen (o: My tale is told.
Ber. Worthics away, the Scene begins to cloud. Brag. For mine owne part, I breath free breath : have feene the day of wrong, through the little hole of discretion, and I will right my selfe like a Souldier. Exempt Worthies

Kin. How fare's your Maiestie?
Qu. Bojet prepair, I will away to night. Kin. Madame not fo, I do besceeb you stay. Qu. Preparel fay. I chanke you gracious Lords For all your faire endeuours and entreats: Out of a new lad-foule, that you vouchlafe. In your rich wisedome to excuse, or hide, The liberall opposition of our spirits, If ouer-boldly we have borne our felues,

In the converse of breath (your gentlenesse Was guiltie of it.) Farewell worthie Lord: A heavie heart beares not a humble tongue. Excuse me so, comming so short of thankes,

For my great fuite, so easily obtain'd.

Kin. The extreme parts of time, extremelie formes All causes to the purpose of his speed: And often at his verie loofe decides That, which long processe could not arbitrate. And though the mourning brow of progenie Forbid the smiling curtefie of Loue:
The holy suite which faine it would convince, Yet fince loues argument was first on foote, Let not the cloud of forrow iustle it From what it purpos'd: fince to waile friends loft, Is not by much so wholsome profitable, As to reioycear friends but newly found.

Ou. Ivnderstand you not, my greefes are double.

Ber. Honest plain words, best pierce the ears of griefe And by these badges understand the King, For your faire fakes have we neglected time, Plaid foule play with our oaths: your beautie Ladies Hath much deformed vs, fashioning our humors Even to the opposed end of our intents.
And what in vs hath seem'd ridiculous: As Loue is full of vnbefitting ftraines, All wanton as a childe, skipping end vaine. Porm'd by the ele, and therefore like the ele. Full of straying shapes, of habits, and of somes Varying in Subiects as the eiedoth roule, To everie varied obie a la his glance: Which partie-coated prefence of loofe loue Put on by vs, if in your heauenly eies, Haue misbecom'd our oathes and grauities. Those beautilie eies that looke into these faults Suggested vs to make: therefore Ladies Our loue being yours, the error that Loue makes Is likewise yours. We to our selues prouefalse, By being once falle, for cuer to be true To those that make vs both, faire Ladies you. And even that felshood in it felse a sinne, Thus purifies it felfe, and tumes to grace.

2u. We have receiv'd your Letters, full of Loue:

Your Fauours, the Ambastadors of Lone. And in our maiden counfaile rated them At courtship, pleasant iest, and curtefie, As bumbast and as lining to the time:
But more deuout then these are our respects Haue we not bene, and therefore met your loues In their owne fashion, like a merriment.

Du. Our letters Madam, shew'd much more then iest Lon. So did out lookes.

Rofa. Wedid not coat them fo.

Kin. Now at the latest minute of the houre,

Grant vs your loues.

Qu. A time me thinker too short, To make a world-without-end bargainein; No, no my Lord, your Grace is persur'd much, Full of deare guiltinesse, and therefore this: If for my Loue (as there is no fuch cause) You will do ought, this fhall you do for me. Your oth I will not trust: but go with speed To some fortome and naked Hermitage, Remote from all the pleasures of the world a There flay, vntill the twelue Celefhall Signes Haue brought about their annuall reckoning. If this auftere infociable life, Change not your offer made in heate of blood: If frofts, and fasts, hard lodging, and thin weeds Nip not the gaudie bloffomes of your Loue, But that it beare this triall, and last love: Then at the expiration of the yeare, Come challenge me, challenge me by these deserts. And by this Virgin palme, now kiffing thine, I will be thine : and till that inflant fhut My wofull felfe vp in a mourning houle, Raining the teares of lamentation, For the remembrance of my Fathers death. If this thou do denie, let our hands part, Neither intitled in the others hart.

Kin. If this or more then this, I would denie, To flatter up these powers of mine with refl, The fodaine hand of death close vp mine cle. Hence ever then, my heart is in thy breft.

Ber. And what to me my Loue? and what to me? Rof. You must be purged too, your fins are tack'd.
You are attaint with faults and periurie: Therefore if you my fauor meane to get, A tweluemonth thall you fpend, and neuer reft, But fecke the wearie beds of people ficke.

Da. But what to memy love? but what to me? Kes, A wife? a beard, faire health, and honestie, With three-fold lone, I wish you all these three.

De Ofhali I say, I thanke you gentle wife? Kes. Not so my Lord, a twelnemonth and a day, He marke no words that smoothfac'd wooers tay. Come when the King doth to my Ladie come s Then if I have much loue, He give you some,

Dum.' He ferue thee true and faithfully till then. Kath. Yet sweare not, least ye be for swome agen.

Mari. Arthe swelucasonths end, He change my blacke Gowne, for a faithfull friend. Len. He flay with patience i but the time is long. Mari. The liker you, few taller ere fo youg.

Ber. Studies my Ladie? Mistreffe, looke on me, Behald the window of my heart, mine eie: What humble fuite attends thy answer there, Impose some service on me for my loue.

Ref. Of have I heard of you my Lord Berowne, Before I faw your and the worlds large tongue Proclaimes you for a men repleate with mockes, Full of comparisons, and wounding floures: Which you on all estates will execute, That lie within the mercie of your wit. To weed this Wormewood from your fruitfull braine, And therewithall to win me, if you please, Without the which lamnot to be won: You shall this tweluemonth terms from day to day, Vifite the speechtelle sicke, and still converse With groaning wretches : and your taske shall be. With all the fierce endeuour of your wit,

To enforce the pained impotent to smile. Ber. To move wilde laughter in the throate of death?

It cannot be, it is impossible.

Mirth cannor mone a foule in agonie. Rof. Why that's the way to choke a gibing spirit, Whole influence is begot of the loofe grace, Which shallow laughing hearers give to fooles ; A iests prosperitie, lies in the eare Of him that heares it, never in the tongue Of him that makes it : then, if fickly cares, Deart with the clamors of their owne deare grones, Will heare your idle scorpes; continue theo, And I will have you, and that fault withall But if they will not throw away that fpirit, And I shal finde you emptie of that foult, Right joyfull of your reformation. Bor. A swellsemanth? Well: befall what will befall, Ile iest a tweluemonth in an Hospitall. Qu. I Iweet my Lord, and to Itake my leave.

King. No Madam, we will bring you on your way.
Ber. Our weing doth not end like an old Plays Iscke hath not Gill ishele Ladies courrefie Might wel have made out foor a Comedic. Km. Come fir, it wants a twelliemonth and a day,

And then 'twll end.

Ber. That's coolong for a play.

Enter Breggart. Brag. Sweet Maiesty vouchsaleme. Qu. Was norther Hector? Dam. The worthie Knight of Troy. Brag. I wil kille thy toyal finger, and take leave. I am a Vocarie, I have vow'd to laquenesta to holde the Plough for her sweet love three yeares. But most effecmed greatnesse, wil you heare the Dialogue that the two Learned men have compiled, in praise of the Owle and the Cuckowi It should have followed in the end of our Kin. Call them forth quickely, we will do lo. Broz Holla, Approach.

This fide is Hiers, Winter. This Ver, the Spring: the one maintained by the Owle, Th'other by the Cuckow. Ver, begin.

The Sony

When Dasses pied, and Violets blew, And Cuckow-buds of yellow hew: And Ladie-smocker all filuer white, Do paint the Medowes with delight. The Cuckow then on everie tree, Mockes married men, for thus lings he, Cuckow. Cuckow, Cuckow: O word of feare, Vaplesfing to a merried care.

When Shepheards pipe on Oaten Brawes, And merrie Larkes are Ploughmens clockes: When Tortles tread, and Rookes and Dawes, And Maidens bleach their fummer smockes . The Cuckow then on everie tree Mockes married men; for thus fings he. Cuckow. Cuckow, Cuckow 1 O word of feare. Vnplosting to a married care.

Winter.

When Ificles bang by the wall, And Dicke the Sphepheard blowes his naile: And Tombestes Logges into the hall, And Milke comes frozenhorm in paile: When blood is nipe, and waies be fowle, Then nightly fings the flaring Owle Tu-whit to-who.

A merrienote, While greafie Ione doth keele the pos

When all aloud the winde doth blow, And coffing drownes the Parlons law: And birds he besoding in the fnow, And Marrians note lookes red and raw: When roasted Crabs hiffe in the bowles Then nightly fings the staring Owle, Tu-whit to who !

A merrie note, While greafie Ione doth keele the pot,

Brog. The Words of Mureune, Are barth after the longs of Apollo: You that way; we this way;

Exeuncomnes

MIDSOMMER Nights Dreame.

Allus primus.

Enter Thefeut, Hoppolita, with others

The faut.

Ow faire Hippolita, our nuptiall houre

Drawes on space: four chappy daies bring in Another Moon: but oh, me thinkes, how flow

This old Moon wanes 3 She lingers my defices

Like to a Step-dame, or a Dowager,

Long withering out a yong man's reuemew.

Hip. Foure daies wil quickly fleep the felues in nights
Foure nights wil quickly dreame away the time:
And then the Moone, like to a filuer bow,
Now bent in heaven, that behold the night
Of our folemnizies.

The. Go Philostrate,
Stirre vp the Athenian youth to metriments,
Awake the pert and nimble spirit of mirth,
Turne melancholy forth to Funerals:
The pale companion is not for our pompe,
Hippolita, I woo'd thee with my sword,
And wonne thy loue, doing thee mirries.
But I will wed thee in another key,
With pompe, with triumph, and with rewelling.

Enter Egens and his danghter Herma, Lyforder, and Demetries.

Ego. Happy be Thefers, our renowned Duke.
The Thanks good Egras; what's the news with thee?
Ege. Full of vexation, come I, with complaint
Against my childe, my daughter Hermia.

Standforth Democrins.

My Noble Lord,

This man hath my confent to matrie her.

Stand forth Lyfander

And my gracious Duke,

This men hath bewitch'd the bosome of my childe.

Thou, thou Lyfander, thou hast given her rimes,

And interchang'd loue-tokens with my childe:
Thou haft by Moone-light at her window fung,
With faining voice, vertes of faining lous,
And stolne the impression of her santasie,
With bracelets of thy baite, tings, gawdes, conceits,
Knackes, trifles, Noie-gaies, sweet meast amellengtrs
Of strong prevailment in vinhardned youth)

With cunning hast thou filch'd my daughters heatt, Turn'd her obedience (which is due to me)
To stubborne harshnesse. And my gracious Duke, Be it so she will not heere before your Grace, Consent to marrie with Demetrias.
I beg the ancient priniledge of Athens;
As she is mine, I may dispose of her;
Which shall be either to this Gensleman,
Or to her death, according to out Law,
Immediately prouided in that case.

The. What say you Hermia? be adults'd faire Maide
To you your Father should be as a God;
One that compos'd your beauties; yea and one
To whom you are but as a forme in waxe
By him imprinted: and within his power,
To leave the figure, or disfigure it.

Demorration is a worthy Gentleman.

Fler. So is Lyfander.
The. In himselfe he is.

But in this kinde, wanting your fathers voyce. The other must be held the worthier.

Her. I would my father look'd but with my eyes.
The, Rather your eies must with his judgment looke.

Her. I do entreat your Grace to pardon me I know not by what power I am made bold, Nor how it may concerne my modeflie. In such a presence heere to pleade my thoughts: But I befeech your Grace, that I may know. The worst that may befall me in this case, if I refuse to wed Demetrians.

The Either to dye the death, or to abiure
For ever the fociety of men.
Therefore faire Hermia question your destres,
Know of your youth, examine well your blood,
Whether (If you yeeld not to your fathers choice)
You can endure the liverie of a Nunne,
For aye to be in shady Cloister mew'd,
To live a barren sister all your life,
Chanting faint hymnes to the cold fruitlesse Moone,
Thrice blessed they that master so their blood,
To ynder go such maiden pilgrimage,
But earthlier happie is the Rose distil'd,
Then that which withering on the virgin thome,
Growes, lives, and dies, in single blessednesse.

Iter So will I grow, follue, fo die my Lord, Ere I will yeeld my virgin Patent up Vnto his Lordship, whose vnwished yeake, My foule confents not to give foueraignty,

The Take time to paule, and by the next new Moon The sealing day betwixt my love and me, For everlafting bond of fellowship: Vpon that day either prepare to dye For disobedience to your fathers will, Or elfe to wed Demetrous as hee would, Or on Distraes Altar to protell For sie, austerity, and lingle life.

Dem. Relem sweet Hormin, and Lyfander, yeelde

Thy crazed title to my certaine right.

Lyf. You have her fathers love, Dernetrins : Let me have Hormiaes: do you marry him.

Egens. Scornfull Lyfander, true, he hath my Lone; Aud what is mine, my loue shall render him. And the is mine, and all my tight of her,

I do estate voto Demetriu.

Lyf. I am my Lord, as well deriu'd as he, As well possest: my loue is more then his : My fortunes enery way as fairely ranck'd (If not with vantage) as Demetrius: And (which is more then all these boasts can be) I am belou'd of beauteous Hermia. Why should not I then prosecute my right? Demetrius, Ile evouch it to his head, Made love to Nedars daughter, Helena, And wonherfoule , and the (fweet Ledie) dotes, Deuoutly dotes, doces in Idolatry, Vpon this sported and inconstant man.

The, I must confesse, that I have heard so much, And with Demorius thought to have spoke thereof: But being over-full of selfe-affaires, My minde did loss it. But Demorrius come, And come Egene, you shall go with me, I have some private schooling for you both. For you faire Hermis, looke you arme yout Glie, To fit your fancies to your Fathers will; Or elfe the Law of Athens yeelds you vp (Which by no meanes we may extenuate) To death, or to a vow of fingle life. Come my Pippolits, what cheare my love? Democrius and Egas go elong: I must imploy you in some businesse Against our nuptiell, and conferre with you Of formerhing, neerely that concernes your felues.

Ege. With dutie and defire we follow you. Exerns .Mane: Lyfander and Heronia.

Lyf. How now my loue? Why is your cheek to pale? How chance the Roles there do fade lo inf?

Her. Belike for want of raine, which I could well Beteeme them, from the tempest of mine eyes

Lyf. For ought that ever I could reade, Could euer heare by tale or historie, The course of true love never did run smooth, But either it was différent in blood.

Her. O croffel too high to be enthral'd to love. Lyf. Or elle milgraffed, in respect of yeares Her. O spight! too old to be ingag'd to yong

Lyf. Oreleinflood vpon the choise of merit. Her. Ohell ! to choose love by snothers eie. Lyf. Or if there were a simpathic in choile, Warre, death, or ficknesse, did by fiege to it;

Making it momentarie, as a found:

Swife as a shadow, shore as any dreame, Briefe as the lightning in the collied night, That (In a spleane) vasolds both hessen and earth; And ere a men hath power to fay, behald. The lawer of derknelle do devoure it vp: So quicke bright things come to confusion

Her. If then true Louers have beene ever croft, It flands as an edict in deffinie: Then let vs teach our trial patience, Because it is a customarie crosse, As due to love, as thoughts, and dreames, and figure, Wishes and reases; poore Fancies followers.

Lyf. A good perfusion; therefore herreme Herma, I have a Widdow Aunt, a dowager, Of great revennow, and the hath no childe, From Athem is her house remou'd seven les gues, And the respects me, as ber onely sonne : There gentle Hermia, may I marrie thee, And to that place, the therps Athenian Law Cannot pursue vs. If thou lou's me, then Steale forth thy fathers house to morrow night And in the wood, a league without the course. (Where I did meete thee once with Helena, To do observance for a morne of May) There will I flay for thee

Her. My good Lyfender, I weare to thee, by Capids ftrongest bow, By his best arrow with the golden hard, By the simplicitie of Venus Dones, By that which knitteth foules, and profpers lone, And by that fire which burn'd the Carthage Queene, When the false Troyan under saile was scene, By all the vowes that ever men have broke, (In number more then ever women spoke) In that same place thou hast appointed me, To morrow truly will I meete with thee.

Lyf. Keepe promise loue. looke here comes Helena.

Enter Helena.

Her. God specche faire Helien, whither away? Hel. Cal you me fairer the faire againe vnfay, Denserries loues you faire : O happie latre! Your eyes are loadstarres, and your tongues sweet ayre More tuneable then Larke to the pheards eare, When wheate is greene, when hauthorne buds appeare, Stekneffe is catching: O were favor lo, Your words I catch, faire Horminete I go, My eare should catch your voice, my eye, your eye, My tongue should catch your tongues sweet meladie, Were the world mine, Donestrins being bated, The rest He give to be to you translated O teach inc how you looke, and with what are you fway the motion of Demetrius hart,

Her. I frowne vpon him, yet he loves me ftill. Hel. O that your frownes would teach my smiles fuch skil.

Har. I glue him curfes, yet he glues me loue.

Hel. O that my prayers could luch affection encous.

Har. The more I hate, the more he followed me.

Hal. The more I loue, the more he hated me.

Her. His folly Helens is none of mine

Hiel. None but your beauty, wold that foult wermine Ha. Take comforts he no more shall fee my face, Listander and my lelse will flieshis place. Before the tune I did Listander see, Seem'd Athens like a Paradile to meeO then, what graces in my Loue do dwell, That he hath turn'd a heaven into hell.

Lyf. Helen, to you our mindes we will vnfold, To morrow night, when Phabe doth behold Her filner vilage, in the watry glaffe, Decking with liquid peatle, the bladed graffe (A time that Louers flights doth still conceale) Through Athews gates, have we devis'd so fteale.

Her. And in the wood, where often you and I, Vpon faint Primrose beds, were wont to lye, Emptying our bosomes, of their counsell sweld: There my Lyfasider, and my felfe thall meete, And thence from Athens turne away our eyes To feeke new friends and frange companions, Farwell fweet play-follow, pray thou for vs. And good lucke grant thee thy Demetries. Keepe word Lyfander we must starue our fight, From louers foode, till mortew deepe midnight.

Exit Hermia.

Lyf. I will my Hermis. Helma scieu, As you on him, Demetrius dates on you. Exit Lyfander. Hele. How happy some, ore othersome can be? Through Athens I am thought as faire as the. But what of that ? Demetring thinkes not fo : He will not know, what all, but he doth know. And as hee erres, doting on Hamies eyes; So I, admiring of his qualities: Things bale and vilde, holding no quantity. Loue can transpose to forme and dignity, Loue lookes not with the eyes, but with the minde, And therefore is wing'd Gupid painted blinde. Nor hath loues minde of any ludgement rafte: Wings and no eyes, figure, vnheedy hafte. And therefore is Loue faid to be a childe, Because in choise he is often beguil'd, As waggish boyes in game themselves for weeres So the hoy Lone is periur'd every where. For ere Demetria looks on Hermis cyne, He hail'd downe oathes that he was onely mine. And when this Haile some heat from Hermia felt, So he distolu'd, and showres of oathes did melt, Swill goe tell him of faite Hermias flight: Then to the wood will he, to morrow night Purfue her; and for his intelligence, If I have thankes, it is a deere expence: But heerein meane I to enrich my paine, To have his fight thither, and backe againe.

Enter Quince the Carpenter, Snug the loyner, Bottome the Weauer, Flute the bellower mender, Snout the Tinker, and Sterucling the Taylor.

Quent, Is all our company heere?

Bor. You were best to call them generally, man by man,according to the fcrip.

Qui. Here is the scrowle of every mans name, which is thought fit through all Arbens, to play in our Enterlude before the Duke and the Dutches, on his wedding day at night.

Bos. Firfigood Poter Quince lay what the play treats on : then read the names of the Actors : and lo grow on Quin. Marry our play is the most lamentable Comedy, and most cruell death of Pyramus and Thisbee.

Bot. A very good peece of worke I assure you, and a merry. Now good Peter Quies, call forth your Actors by the ferovite. Masters spread your selves.

Quince. Answere 1 call you. Nick Bettome the Weauer.

Betreme. Ready; name what part I am for, and proceed.

Quiere. You Nicke Bettome are fet downe for B. raneu.

Bot. What is Pyramu, a lover, or a tyrant?

Quin. A Louer that kills himfelfe most gallantly for

Bas. That will aske some teares in the true performing of it if I do it, let the audience looke to their eies: I will mooue stormes; I will condole in some measure. To the rest yet, my chiefe humour is for a tyram. I could play Ereles resely, or a part to teare a Cet in, to make all split the raging Rocks and shivering shocks shall break the locks of prison gates, and Phibbus carre shall shine from sarre, and make and morre the soolish Fates. This was lofty. Now name the rest of the Players. This is Ereles vaine, a tyranta vaine: a louer is more condo-

Quim Franco Flure the Bellowes-mender.

Fla. Heere Pour Quince.

Quin. You must take Thisbie on you. Flur What is Thisbie, a wandring Knight? Quin. It is the Lady that Pyramus must love.

Flut. Nay faith, let not mee play a woman, I have a beard comming.

Qui. That's all one, you shall play it in a Maske, and you may speake as small as you will.

Bor. And I may hide my face, let me play Thirbie too: lie speake in a moustrous little voyce; Thisne, Thisne, ah Pyramus my louer deare, thy Thubic deare, and Lady deare.

Quin. No no, you must play Pyramus, and Flute, you

Thuby.

Bot. Well, proceed.

Qu. Robin Starseling the Taylor.

Star. Heure Peter 2mince.

Quince. Robin Starneling, you must play Thisbies mother?

Tom Snowe the Tinker. Snows. Heere Peter Quince.

Quin. You, Pyramen father ; my felf, This bies father ; Surge the loyner, you the Lyons part : and I hope there is a play fitted.

Saug. Have you the Lions part written? pray you if be, give it me, for 1 am flow of fludie.

Quim. You may doe it extemporte, for it is nothing but roaring.

Ber. Let mee play the Lyon too, I will roare that I will doe any mans heart good to heare me. I will roate, that I will make the Duke Ley, Let him rosreagaine, let himrosre againe.

2001. If you should doe it too terribly, you would fright the Dutchesse and the Ledies, that they would thrike, and that were enough to hang vs all.

All. That would hang vs cuery mothers fonce. Bottome. I graunt you friends, if that you should fright the Ludies out of their Whites, they would have no more diferetion but to hang vs : but I will aggrauate my voyce fo, that I will toure you as gently as any fucking Doue; I will roare and 'twere any Nightin-

Quin. You can play no part but Paraman, for Pira-

I'm is a sweet-fac'd man, a proper man as one shall see in a summers day; a most lovely Gentleman-like man, therfore you must needs play Paramen.

Bot. Well, I will endertake it. What beard were I best to play it in?

Quin. Why, what you will.
Bot. I will discharge it, in either your straw-colour beard, your orange tawnie beard, your purple in graine beard, or your French-crowne colour'd beard, your per-fed yellow.

Quin. Some of your French Crownes have no haire at all, and then you will play bare-fac'd. But masters here are your parts, and I am to intreat you, request you, and defire you, to can them by too morrow night: and meet main the palace wood, a mile without the Towne, by Moone-light, there we will rehearle : for if we meete in the Citie, we shalbe dog'd with company, and our deuiles knowne. In the meane time, I wil draw a bil of properties, such as our play wants. I pray you faile me not,

Bottoms. We will meete, and there we may rehearfe more obscenely and coursgiously. Take paines, be perfect, adieu.

Quin. At the Dukes oake we meete. Bee. Enough, hold or cut bow-firings.

Exemps

A Elus Secundus.

Enter a Fairse at one doore, and Robin good. fellow 2: another.

Rob. How now spirit, whether wander you? Fee. Over hil, over dale, through buth, through brier, Over parke, over pale, through flood, through fire, I do wander everie where, swifter then & Moons sphere; And I ferue the Fairy Queeue, to dew her orbs vpon the The Cowflips tall, her penhoners bee, In their gold coats, spots you fee, Those he Rubies, Faire fauors, Inthole freckles, live their fauori, I must go fecke some dew drops heere, And hang a pearle in every cowflips care. Farewell thou Lob of spirits, He be gon, Our Queene and all her Elues come heere anon.

Rob. The King doth keepe his Reuels here to night, Take heed the Queene come not within his fight, For Oberon is passing fell and wrath, Because that the, as her attendant, hath A lovely boy stolne from an Indian King, She never had to fweet a changeling, And icalous Oberon would have the childe Knight of his traine, to trace the Forrests wilde. But The (perforce) with bolds the loved boy, Crownes him with flowers, and makes him all her isy. And now they never meere in grove, or greene, By fountaine cleere, or spangled star-light sheene, But they do square, that all their Elues for feate Creepe into Acorna cups and hide them there.

Fai, Either I miltake your shape and making quite, Or elfe you are that threw'd and knausth spirit Cal'd Robin Good-sellow. Are you not hee, That frights the maidens of the Villagree, Skim milke, and fometimes labour in the querne, And bootleffe make the breathleffe hulwite cherne, And Iometime make the drinke to beare no barme, Milleade aight-wanderers, laughing at their harme, Those that Hobgoblin call you, and sweet Pucke, You do their worke, and they shall have good lucke. Arenot you he?

Rob. Thou speak A arighe; am that merrie wanderes of the night i liest to Obrrow, and make him smile, When I a fat and beane fed horse beganle, Neighing in likeneffe of a filly foale, And fornetime lurke I in a Goffips bole, In very likenede of a roalled arab: And when the dilnkes, against her lips I bot, And on her withered dewlop poure the Ale. The wifest Aunt telling the laddest tale, Sometime for three-loot foole, mifisketh me, Then flip I from her born, downe copples the, And tailour cries, and fals into a coffe, And then the whole quire hold their hips, and loffe, And wazen in their mirth, and neeze, and (weate, A merrier houre yvas never wasted there. But roome Fairy, heere comes Oberen

Far. And heere my Millris: Would that he vyere gone.

Enter the King of Farries at one doors with his trans, and the Queene at another with hers

Ob. Ill mer by Moone-light, Proud Tylania.

Qu. What, icalous Oberone Fairy skip hence. I have for sworpe his bed and companie.

06. Tarrierash Wanton; am not I thy Lord? Qw. Then I must be thy Lady : but I know When thou weaft floine away from Fairy Land, And in the Shape of Corm face all day, Playing on pipes of Corne, and verting love To amotous Phillide. Why art thou heere Come from the farthest sleepe of India? But that forfooth the bouncing Amoren Your buskin'd Mistresse, and your Warrior love, To Thefew must be Wedded; and you come, To give their bed toy and prosperitie.

Ob. Howeard thou thus for thome Tylane, Glance at my credite, with Happolica? Knowing I know thy love to Theferal Didst thou not leade him through the glimmering night From Peregona, whom he rausshed? And make him with faire Eagles breake his faith

With Ariades, and Accopa?

Que. These are the sorgeries of icalouse, And never sace the middle Summers spring Met vve on hil, in dale, forrest, or mead, By psued fountaine, or by rushie brooke, Or in the beached margent of the lea, To dance our emgless to the whiftling Winde. But with thy braules thou haft diffurb'd our sport. Therefore the Windes, piping to vs in vaine, As in reuenge, have fack d vp from the fea Contagious fogges: Which falling in the Land, Hath everie petty River made so proud, That they have over-borne their Continents The Oxe hath therefore firetch'd his yoake in vaine, The Ploughman lost his sweat, and the greene Corne Hath rorted, ere his youth attain'd a beard The fold stands empty in the drowned field, And Crowes are fatted with the murtion focke,

The

The nine mens Morris is fild vp with mue, And the queint Mazes in the wanton greene, For lacke of tread are undiltinguishable. The humane mortals want their winter heers, No night is now with hyinno or caroli bleft; Therefore the Moone (the governesse of floods) Pale in her anger, washes all the aire; That Rheumaticke diseases doe abound. And through this distemperature, we see The feafons alter; hoared headed frofts Fall in the fresh lap of the crimion Role, And on old Hyems chinne and Icie crowne, An odorous Chaplet of Sweet Sommer buds! Is at in mockey fet. The Spring, the Sommer, The childing Aurumne, angry Winter change Their wonted Liveries, and the mazed world By their increase, now knowes not which is which a And this same progeny of euills, Comes from our debate, from our diffention, We are their parents and originall.

Ober. Do you smend it then, it hes in you, Why should Titania crosse her Oberon? I do but beg a little changeling, boy,

To be my Henchman

On. Ser your heart at reft, The Fairy land boyernot the childe of me, His mother was a Votrelle of my Order, And in the spiced Indian are, by night Full often hath the golfipt by my fide, And fat with me on Neptunes yellow fands, Marking thembarked traders on the flood, When we have laught to fee the failes conceive, And grow big bellied with the wanton winde: Which the with pretty and with fwimming gate, Following (her wombe then rich with my yong fquite) Would imitate, and faile upon the Land, To fetch me trifles, and tecume againe, As from a voyage, nich with merchandize. But the being mortall, of that boy did die, And for her fake I doe reare vp her boy, And for her fake I will not part with him.

Ob. How long within this wood intend you flay On. Perchance till after Thefou wedding day. If you will patiently dance in our Round, And fee our Moone-light reuelt, goe with vs; If not, thun me and I will fore your haunts.

Ob. Give me that boy and I will goe with thee. Qu. Not for thy Pairy Kingdome Fairies away : We shall chide downeright, if I longer stay.

Ob. Wel, go thy way: thou shalt not from this grove, Till I torment thee for this injury. My gentle Pucke come hither; thou remembrest Since once I fat vpon a promontory And heard a Meare-maide on a Dolphins backe Vicering such dulcet and harmonious breath, That the rude les grew chill at her long. And certaine starres shot madly flom their Spheares, To heare the Sea maids mulicke.

Pac. I remember.

Ob. That very time I fay (but thou could ?! not) Flying betweene the cold Moone and the earth, Cupid all arm'd; a certaine aime he rooke At a faire Vestall, throned by the West, And loos dhis love-shaft (martly from his bow As it should pierce a hundred thousand hearrs, But I might fee young Cupteds fiery shaft Quenche in the chafte beames of the watry Moone; And the imperiall Votreffe paffed on, In maiden meditation, fancy free. Yet markt I where the bolt of Capid fell. It fell vpon a little westerne flower : Before, milke-white; now purple with loues wound, And maidens call it, Loue in idlenesse. Fetch me that flower; the hearb I shew'd thee once, The luyce of it, on fleeping eye-lids laid, Will make or man or woman madly dote Vpon the next live creature that it fees. Ferch me this hearbe, and be thou heere againe, Eie the Lewiathen can (wim a league.

Packe lleput a girdle about the earth, in forty mi-

Ober. Hauing once this tuyce, He watch Tuania, when the is affeepe, And drop the liquor of it in her eyes The next thing when the waking lookes vpon. (Be it on Lyon, Beare, or Wolfe or Bull, On medling Monkey, or on bufie Ape) Shee shall pursue it, with the foule of love. And ere I take this charme off from her fight. (As I can take it with another hearbe) He make her render up her Page 10 me. But who comes heere? I am inuifible. And I will ouer-heare their conference.

Enter Demetrin, Helena following bim

Dame. I loue thee not, therefore pursue menot, Where is Lyfander, and faire Hermia? The one He Itay, the other stayeth me. Thou toldst me they were stolne into this wood; And heere am I, and wood within this wood, Because I cannot meet my Hermia..

Hence, get thee gone and follow meno more.

Hol. You draw me, you hard-hearted Adamant, But yet you draw not Iron, for my heart Is true as fleele. Leane you your power to draw, And I shall have no power to follow you.

Deme. Do I entice you? do I speake you faire? Or rather doe I not in plainest truth, Tell you I doe not, nor I cannot love you?

Hel. And even for that doe I love thee the more; I am your spaniell, and Demetries, The more you beat me, I will fawne on you. Vie me but 23 your spaniell; fourne me, firike me, Neglect me, lose me; onely give me leave (Vnworthy as I am) to follow you. What worler place can I beg in your love, (And yet a place of high respect with me) Then to be vied as you doe your dogge.

Dem. Tempt not too much the hatred of my fpirit, For I am ficke when I do looke on thee.

Hel. And I am ficke when I looke not on you Dem. You doe impeach your modesty too much, To leave the Citty, and commit your felfe Into the hands of one that loues you not, Totrus the opportunity of night, And the in counfell of a defert place,

With the rich worth of your virginity.

Hel. Your vertue is my priviledge: for that
It is not night when I doe fee your face. Therefore I thinke I am not in the night, Not doth this wood lacke worlds of company,

For you in my respect are all the world. Then how can it be fald I am alone, When all the world is heere to looke on me? Dem. He run from ther, and hide me in the brakes,

And leave thee to the mercy of wilde beefts.

Hel. The wildest hath not such a heart as you; Bunne when you will, the flory shall be chang'd : Apollo flies, and Daphne holds the chafe; The Doue partues the Griffin, the milde Hinde Makes speed to catch the Tyger. Bootlesse speede, When cowardife pursues, and valout flies.

Demet. I will not flay thy questions, let me go; Or if thou follow me, doe not beleeve, But I shall doe thee mischiefe in the wood.

Hel. I,in the Temple in the Towne, and Field You doe me mischiele. Fye Demetriu, Your wrongs doe fee a fcandall on my feze: We cannot fight for love, as men may doe; We should be woo'd, and were not made to woor. I follow thee, and make a heaven of hell, To die vpon the hand I loue so well.

Ob. Fare thee well Nymph, ere he do leave this grove, Thou shalt slie him, and he shall seeke thy loue. Haft thou the flower there? Welcome wandeter.

Enter Puche.

Puck, I, therett is Ob. I pray thee give it me. I know a banke where the wilde time blowes, Where Oxslips and the nodding Violet growes, Quite ouer-cannoped with luscious woodbine, With sweet muske roses, and with Eglantine; There sleepes Tyrania, sometime of the night, Lul'd in these flowers, with dances and delight And there the fnake throwes her enammel'd skinne, Weed wide enough to rap a Fairy in. And with the myce of this He fireake her eyes , And make her full of harefull fantafics Take thou some of it, and teek shrough this grove; A (weet Athenian Lady is in love With a disdaincfull youth : annoint his eyes, But doe it when the next thing he espies, May be the Lady. Thou shall know the man, By the Athenian garments he hath on. Effect it with some care, that he may prove More fond on her, then the vpon her loue; And looke thou meet me ere the first Cocke crow. Pu. Feare not my Lord, yout leruant fiall do fo. Exit.

Enter Queene of Fairies, with ber traine Queen. Come, now a Roundell, and a Fairy long; Then for the third part of a minute hence . Some to kill Cankers in the mu ke rose buds, Some warre with Reremise, for their leathern wings To make my small Elues coates, and some keepe backe The clamorous Owle that nightly hoors and wonders At our queint spirits : Sing me now afleepe. Then to your offices, and let me reft.

Farries Sing.

You foried Saches wish double congue, Thorny Hedgehogges be not feene, Newts and blinde wormes do no wrong, Come not necre our Fairy Queene. Philomele with restadie,

Sing in your firest Lullaby Lula Sulla Jullaby Julla Jullaby , Neuer harme , nor spell, nor charmo, Come our lously Lady nye. So good night with Lullaby. 2. Farry. Wearing Spiders come not beere, Heace you long leg d'Spinners hence. Beetles blacke approach not necre; Worms nor Snayle doe no offense. Philomele with melody, oc. 1. Fary. Hence amoy, now all is well: One alsofe, frank Consinell. Shoe Roger Enter Oberon. Ober. What thou feeld when thou doll wake, Doeit for thy true Love take: Loue and languish for his lake. Be it Ounce, or Catte, or Beare, Pard, or Boare with briffled haire, In thy eye that Shall appeare, When thou wak'ft, it is thy deare, Wake when some vile thing is neere.

Enter Lifander and Hermia.

Lif. Faire four, you faint with wandring in § woods And to speake troth I have forgot our way Wee'll test vs Hamin, if you thinke st good, And tarry for the comfort of the day.

Her. Beit fo Lyfander; finde you out a bed,

Por I vpon this banke will rest my head.

Lys. One turfe shall serue as pillow for va both, One heart, one bed, two bosomes, and one troth.

Her. Nay good Lyfander, for my lake my deere

Lie further off yet, doe not he fo neere Lyf. O take the sence sweet, of my innocence, Loue takes the meaning, in loues conference, I meane that my heart voto yours is knit, So that but one heart can you make of it.

Two bosomes interchanged with an oath, So then two bolomes, and a lingle troth. Then by your lide, no bed-roome me deny, For lying fo, Hamia, I doe not lye,

Her. Lyfander riddles very prettily; Now much beshrew my manners and my pride, If Hermia meant to lay, Liffander lied. But gentle friend, for love and courtefic Lie further off, in humane modefly Such separation, as may well be faid, Becomes a vertuous batchelour, and a maide, So farre be distant, and good night sweet friend; Thy love nere after, till thy sweet life end.

Lyf. Amen, amen, to that faire prayer, fay 1, And then end life, when I end loyalty: Heere is my bed, fleepe give thee all his reft.

Her. With halfe that wish, the wishers eyes be prest Enter Pucke Thy Sugar.

Puck Through the Forrest have I gone, But Athenian finde I none, One whose eyes I might approve This flowers force in flirring love. Night and filence: who is heere? Weedes of Athens he doth weste: This is he (my master faid) Despised the Athemon meide: And heere the maiden fleeping found,

On

On the danke and durty ground Presty foule, the durst not lye Neere this lacke-loue, this kill-curtefie. Churle, upon thy eyes I throw All the power this charme doth owes When thou was 'st, let loue forbid Sleepe his seste on thy eyes-lid. So awake when I am gones For I must now to Oberon.

Exit.

Enter Demetrius and Helena running.

Hel. Stay, though thou kill me, (weete Demetrum De. I charge the chence, and do not haunt me thus. Hel. O wilt thou darking leave me? do not fo. De. Stay on thy perill, I alone will goe.

Exit Dennitrini

Hel. Olamout of breath, in this fond chace,
The more my prayer, the lefter is my grace,
Happy is Hermia, wherefoere the lies;
For the hath bleffed and attractive eyes.
How came her eyes to bright? Nor with falt teares.
If to, my eyes are oftner washt then hers.
No, no, lamas velly as a Beare;
For beasts that meete me, runne away for feare,
Therefore no matualle, though Demetrius
Doe as a monster, slie my presence thus.
What wicked and dissembling glasse of mine,
Made me compate with Hermias sphery eyne?
But who is here? Listander on the ground;
Deade or asserber 1 fre no bloud, no wound,
Listander, if you live, good fit awake.

Lyf. And run through fire I will for thy fweet fake.
Transparent Helena, nature her shewes are,
That through thy bosomemakes me see thy heart.
Where is Demetrical on how fit a word
Is that vile name, to perish on my sword!

Hel. Do not say so Lylander, say not so:
What though he love your Hermia? Lord, what though?

Yet Hermia Itill loues you; then be content,

Lyf. Content with Hermia? Nosl do repent
The tedious minutes I with her haue fpent.

Not Hermia, but Helena now I loue;
Who will not change a Rauen for a Doue?
The will ofman is by his reafon fway'd:
And reafon fates you are the worthier Maide.
Things growing are not ripe vntill their feafon;
So I being yong, till now ripe not to reafon,
And touching now the point of humane skill,
Reafon becomes the Marshall to my will,
And leades me to your eyes, where I orelooke
Loues stories, written in Loues richest booke.

Hil. Wherefore was I to this keene mockery borne? When at your hands did I deferue this forme? If not enough, if not enough, yong man, That I did neuer, no nor neuer can, Deferue a liweete looke from Demetrius eye, But you must flour my infusficiency? Good troth you do me wrong (good-footh you do) In such distainfull manner, me to wooe. But fare you well; perforce I must confesse, I thought you Lord of more true gentlenesse. Oh, that a Lady of one man refus'd,

Should of another therefore be abus'd

Lyt. She lees not Herms; Hermia fleepe thou there,
And neuer maift thou come Lyfander neere;

For as a furfeit of the sweetest things
The deepest loathing to the stomacke brings
Ot as the herefies that men do leave,
At e bared most of those that did deceive
So thou, my surfeit, and my herefie,
Of all be hated; but the most of me;
And all my powers addresse your love and might,
To honout Helen, and to be her Knight,

Her. Helpe me Lyfander, helpe me; do thy best To pluckethis crawling serpent from my brest. Aye me, for pitty; what a dreame was here? Lyfander looke, how I do quake with seare. Mc-thought a serpent eate my heart away, And yet sat smiling at his cruell prey. Lyfander, what temoou'd? Lyfander, Lord, What, out of hearing, gone? No sound, no word? Alacke where are you? speake and if you heare? Speake of all loues; I sound almost with seare. No, then I well perceine you are not mye, Either death or you I se finde immediately, Êżn.

Adus Tertius.

Enter the Clownes.

Bot. Ate we all met?

Qum. Pat, pat, and here's a margailous convenient place for our rehearfall. This greene plot shall be our stage, this hauthorne brake our tyring house, and we will do it in action, as we will do it before the Duke.

Bot. Peter guinca?

Peter. What failt thou, bully Bottome?

Bot. There are things in this Comedy of Puramus and Thisby, that will never please. First Piramus must draw a sword to kill himselse; which the Ladies cannot abide. How answere you that?

Suont. Berlaken, a parlous feare.

Star. I beleeve we must leave the killing out, when all is done.

Bot. Not a whit, I have a device to make all well. Write me a Prologue, and let the Prologue feeme to fay, we will do no harme with our fwords, and that Pramu is not kill'd indeede: and for the more better affurance, tell them, that I Pramu am not Pramu, bus Bottome the Weaver, this will put them out of feare.

Quin. Well, we will have such a Prologue, and it shall be written in eight and fixe.

Bor. No, make it two more, let labe written in eight and eight.

Snows. Will not the Ladies be afear'd of the Lyon?

Star. I feate it, I promite you.

Bor. Masters, you ought to consider with your felues, to bring in (God shield vs) a Lyon among Ladies, is a most dreadfull thing. For there is not a more fearefull wilde foule then your Lyon living: and wee ought to looke to it.

Sness. Therefore another Prologue must tell he is oot a Lyon.

Bot. Nay, you must name his name, and halfe his face must be seene through the Lyons necke, and he himselfe must speake through, saving thus, or to the same defect; Ladies, or faire Ladies, I would wish you, or I would rough request you, or I would entreat you, not to feere, porto tramble: my life for yours. If you thinke I come hither as a Lyon, it were prety of my life. No, I am no such thing, I am a man as ether men ere; and there indeed lethim name his name, and tell him plainly hee is Song the joyner.

Quan. Well, it shall be so; but there is two hard things, that is, to bring the Moone-light into a chamber: for you know. Piramus and Thusby meete by Mooneught.

Sn. Doth the Moone fhine that night wee play our play?

Ber. A Calender, a Calender, looke in the Almanack, finde out Moone-shine, finde out Moone-shine.

Enter Puche.

Quen. Yes, it doth shine that night.

Bot Why then may you leave a calement of the great chamber window (where we play) open, and the Moone may thine in at the cafement.

Alin. I, or elso one must come in with a bush of thorns and a lauthorne, and say he comes to disfigure, or to prefent the person of Moone-shine. Then there is another thing, we must have a wall in the great Chambers for Pressus and Thusy (saies the story) did talke through the chinke of a wall.

Sn. You can never bring in a wall What fay you

Bottome c

Bos. Some man or other must present wall, and let him have some Plaster, or some Lome, or some rough cost about him to signific wall; or let him hold his fingers thus; and through that cranny, shall Piraman and Thuby whisper.

Quin. If that may be, then all is well. Come, fit downe every mothers some, and rehearse your parts. Presum, you begin; when year there spoken your speech, enter into that Brake, and so every one according to his cue.

Erser Robin.

Rob. What hempen home-spuns have we swaggeting here,

So neere the Cradle of the Faierie Queene? What, a Play toward? He be an auditor,

An Actor too perhaps, if I fee cause.

Quin. Speake Piranim Thirby stand forth.

Pir. Thuby, the slowers of odious sauors sweete.

Quin. Odours, odours.

Pir. Odours favors sweete, So hath thy breath, my dearest Thirty deare. But harke, a voyce: stay thou but here a while,

And by and by I will to thee appeare. Exi Fuck A stranger Pranua, then ere plaid bete.

This. Mult I (peake now?

Per. I marry must you. For you must understand he goes but to see a noyse that he heard, and is to come a-

Paine

Thy. Most radiant Prames, most Lilly white of hue, Of colour like the sed rose on triumphant bryer, Most brisky luuenall, and eke most louely lew, As true as truest horse, that yet would neuer tyre, lie meete thee Piramus, at Ninnes toombe.

Per. Nimus to ombe man: why, you must not speake that yet; that you answere to Piramus: you speake all your part at once, cues and all. Piramus enter; your care is past; it is never tyre.

Thyf. O, 25 true as trueft horse, that yet would never tyre:

Pr. Is were false, This y I were onely those.
Pr. O monthrous. O firange. We are hanted, pray matters, flye matters, helpe.

The Clores all Exit.

Pak, fle follow you, lie leade you about a Round,
Through bogge, through bulh, through brake, through Sometitic a horfe lie be, formetime a hound: (bryer,
And neigh, and barke, and grunt, and rore, and butne,
Like horfe, hound, hog, beare, fire, at every turne. Ext.

Enter Peramus with the Affe head.

Bot. Why do they run away? This is a knauery of them to make me afeard.

Enter Samot.

Su. O Bottom, thou art chang'd; What doe I fee on thee?

But. What do you fee? You fee an Affe-head of your owne, do you?

Emer Peter Quincs.

Por. Blesse thee Boumer, blesse thee thou art tracilated Exu.

Bot. I fee their knauery; this is to make an affe of me, to fright me if they could; but I will not firre from this place, do what they can, I will walke up and downe here, and I will fing that they shall heare I am not affeaid.

The Woofell cocke, so blacke of hew, With Orenge-tawny bill.
The Throftle, with his note so true, The Wren and little quill.

Tyle. What Angell wakes me from my flowry bed?

Bot. The Finch, the Sparrow, and the Larke, The plainfong Cuckow gray; Whose note full many a mandoth marke,

And dares not answere, nay.

For indeede, who would fet his wit to so south a bird? Who would give a bird the lye, though he cry Cuckow, never so?

Type. I pray thee gentle mortall, fing agains. Mine care is much enamored of thy note; On the first view to say, to sweare I love thee. So is mine eye enthralled to thy shape.

And thy faire vertues force (perforce) doth move me.

But. Me-thinkes misselfe, you should have little reason for that: and yet to say the truth, reason and love keepe little company together, now-adayes. The more the pittle, that some honest neighbours will not make them friends. Nay, I can gleeke upon occasion.

Tyta. Thou are as wife, as thou are beautifull,

Bot. Not so neither: but if I had wit enough to get out of this wood, I have enough to serve mine owne

Tyes. Out of this wood, do not defire to goe, Thou shalt remaine here, whether thou wilt or no I am a spirit of no common rate:

The Summer still doth tend vpon my state, And I doe loue thee; therefore goe with me, Ile giue thee Fatries to attend on thee; And they shall setch thee lewels from the deepe, And sing, while thou on pressed flowers dost sleepe. And I will purge thy mortall grossenesses for the they had I know that they had I will purge they mortall grossenesses.

Exter Peafe-Stafferre, Cobsolb, Maib, Muster defects, and four Fairus.

Fai. Ready; and Land I, and I. Where shall we go?

Tita Be

Tita. Be kinde and curteous to this Gentleman, Hop in his walkes, and gambole in his cies, Feedehim with Apricocks, and Develoreies, With purple Grapes, greene Figs, and Mulberries, The honic-bags Reale from the humble Bees, And for night-tapers crop their waxen thighes, And light them at the fierie-Glow-wormes eyes, To have my love to bed, and to arise And plucke the wings from painted Butterflies, To fan the Moone-beames from his sleeping eles Mod to him Elues, and doe him curtefies

I.Far. Haile mortall, haile.

2.Fai. Haile.

3. Pal. Haile.

Bot. I cry your worships mercy hartily; I beseech your worthips name.

Cob. Cobweb

Bot. I shall defire you of more acquaintance, good Master Cobweb: if I cut my finger, I shall make bold with you.

Your name honest Gentleman?

Peaf. Peafe bloffome.

Bor. I pray you commend mee to mistresse Squash, your mother, and to mafter Peufcod your father. Good mafter Peafe. bloffome, I shal delice of you more acquaintance to. Your name I befeech you fir ?

Mof. Mufterd-foeds. Peof. Peofe-bloffame.

Bot. Good mafter Mustard feede, I know your patience well: that same cowardly gyant-like Oxe beefe hath denoured many a gentleman of your house. I promile you, your Rindred hath made my eyes water ere now. I defire you more acquaintance, good Master Manfard-feeds.

Tira. Come waite vpon him, lead him to my bower. The Moone me-thinks, lookes with a watriceie, And when the weepes, weepe everie little flower, Lamenting some enforced chastitie. Tye vp my louers congue, bring bim filently. Escit.

Enter King of Pharies, Solus.

Ob. I wonder If Titania be awak't; Then what it was that next came in her eye, Which the must dote on, in extremitie.

Enser Pucke.

Here comes my messenger: how now mad spirit, What night-rule now about this gaunted groues Puck, My Miftris with a monifer is in loue, Neere to her close and confectated bower, While the was in her dull and fleeping hower, A crew of patches, rude Mcehanicals That worke for bread vpou Athenian fals, Were mer together to rehearle a Play, Intended for great Thefew nuptiall day : The shallowest thick-skin of that barren son, Who Piramus presented, in their sport, Forlooke his Scene, and entred in a brake, When I did him at this advantage take, An Asses note I fixed on his head. Anon his Thubie must be answered, And forth my Mimmick comes : when they him spie, As Wilde-geefe, that the creeping Fowler eye, Or rusted-pated choughes, many in fort (Rising and cawing at the guns teport)
Seuer themselves, and madly sweepe the skye:

So at his fight, away his fellowes flye, And at our stampe, here ore and ore one fals; He murther cries, and helpe from Athans cals. Their fenfe thus weake, loft with their fears thus ftrong, Made senselesse things begin to do them wrong. For briars and thornes at their apparell fratch, Some fleeves, fome hats, from yeelders all things catch, I led them on in this diffracted feare, And left fweete Piramus translated there: When in that moment (fo it came to passe)
Tyrania waked, and straightway lou'd an Asse. Ob. This fals our better then I could deuile: But hast thou yet lacht the Athenians eyes, With he love inyce, as I did bid thee doe?

Rob. I tooke him fleeping (that is finisht And the Athenian woman by his lide, That when he wak't, of force the must be eyde.

Enter Demetrius and Hermia.

Ob. Stand close, this is the lame Athenian. Rob. This is the woman, but not this the man. Dem. O why rebuke you him that loues you fo? Lay breath so bitter on your bitter foe.

Her. Now I but chide, but I should vie thee worfe. For thou (I feare) half given me cause to curse, If thou hall flame Lyfander in his fleepe. Being ore shooes in bloud, plunge in the deepe, and hill me too:

The Sunne was not fo true vnto the day, As he to me. Would he have stollen away, From fleeping Hermia? He beleeve as foone This whole earth may be bord, and that the Moone May through the Center creepe, and so displease Her brothers nooneride, with th' Antipodes. It cannot be but thou haft murdred him. So should a mutcherer looke, so dead, so grim.

Dem. So should the mutderer looke, and so should I, Pierft through the heart with your flearne cruelty . Yet you the murderer looks as bright as cleare,

As yonder Venus in her glimmering spheare.

Her What's this to my Lyfander? where is he? Ah good Demetrum, wilt thou give him me?

Dem. I'de rather gius his carkasse to my hounds. Her. Out dog, out cur thou driv'st me past the bounds Of maidens patience. Halt thou flaine him then? Henceforth beneuer numbred among men. Oh, once tell true, even for my lake, Durft thou a lookt vpon him, being awake? And haft thou kill'd him fleeping? Obrave tuteb: Could not a worme, an Adder do so much? An Adderdid it: for with doubler tongue Then thine (thou ferpent) never Adder flung.

Dem. You spend your passion on a smilprisd mood, I am not guiltie of Lyfanders blood:

Nor is he dead for ought that I can tell.

Her. I pray thee rell me then that he is well. Dom. And if I could, what should I get therefore?

Her. A priviledge, never to fee me more; And from thy hated prefence part I: feeme no more Whether he be dead or no.

Dem. There is no following her In this fierce vaine, Here therefore for a while [will remaine. So forrowes heavineffe doth heavier grows For debt that bankrout llip dorh forrow owe, Which now in fome flight measure it will pay,

If for his render here I make forme flay.

Ob. What hast thou done? Thou hast mistaken quite
And laid the loue juyce on some true loues fight:

Of thy misprisson, must perforce ensue

Some true loue turn'd, and not a false turn'd true.

Rob. Then fore ore-rules, that one man holding troth, A million faile, confounding oath on oath.

Ob. About the wood, goe fwifter then the winde,
And Helena of Athens looke thou finde.
All fancy licke the 1s, and pale of cheere,
With fighes of lone, that cofts the fresh bloud deere.
By some illusion see thou bring her heere,
Ile charme his eyes against the doth appeare.

Robin. 1 go, 1 go, 1 ooke how 1 goe,
Swifter then arrow from the Tartari bowe. Extr.

Ob. Flower of this purple die, Hit wish Capids archery, Sinke in apple of his eye, When his loue he doth espie, Let her shine as gloriously As the Venus of the sky, When thou was 'st if the be by, Beg of her for remedy.

Enter Proche.

Prock. Captaine of our Pairy band,

Helma is heere at hand,

And the yourh, miltooke by me,

Pleading for a Louers fee.

Shall we their fond Pageant fee?

Lord, what fooles these mortals be!

Ob. Stand alide: the noyle they make,

Will cause Democratue to awake.

Fuck. Then will two at once wood one,
That must needs be sport alone:
And those things doe ber please me,
That befull preposterously

Enter Lyfander and Helena.

Lyf. Why should you think § I should woos in scorn?

Scorne and derision neuer comes in teates:

Looke when I vow I weepe; and vowes so borne,

In their nativity all truth appeares.

How can these things in me, seeme scorne to you?

Bearing the badge of faith to prove them true.

Hel. You doe advance your couning more & more, When truth kils truth, O divelish holy fray! These yours are Hemsias. Will you give her ore? Weigh oath with oath, and you will nothing weigh. Your yowes to her, and me. (put in two scales) Will even weigh, and both as light as cales.

Lyf. I had no indgement, when to her I fwote, Hel. Nor none in my minde now you give het ore. Lyf. Democrature loves her, and he loves not you. And. Demo. O Helen, goddesse, nimph, perfect, civine, To what my love, shall I compare thine eyne. Christall is muddy, O how ripe m show, Thy lips, those kissing cherries, tempting growl That pure congealed white, high Tearms snow, Fan'd with the Easterne winde, turnes to a crow, When thou holdst vp thy hand. Olet me kisse This Princesse of pure white, this seale of blisse.

Hell. O fpight / O hell I free you are all bent To fet against me, for your merriment: If you were civill, and knew curteste, You would not doe me thus much injury. Can you not hate me, as I know you doe,
But you must soyne in soules to morke me to?
If you are men, as men you are in show,
You would not vie a gentle Lady so;
To vow, and sweare, and superpraise my parts,
When I am sure you hate me with your hearts.
You both are Riuals, and love Herming,
And now both Riuals to mocke Helena.
A trim exploit, a manly enterprize,
To consure teares vp in a poore mails eyes,
With your derision; none of noble fort,
Would so offend a Virgin, and extert
A poore soules patience, all to make you sport,
Lysa. You are vnkind Demetring; be not so,

For you love Hermin; this you know I know; And here with all good will, with all my heart, In Hermin; love I yeeld you up my part; And youts of Helma, to me bequeath, Whom I do love and will do to my death. Hel. Never did mockers wast more idle breth. Down. Lysander, keep thy Hermin, I will none: If fere I loved het, all that love is gone, My heart to her, but as guest-wise sorourn'd, And now to Helm it is home return'd,

There to remaine.

Lyf. It is not fo.

De. Disparage not the faith thou doft not know, Left to thy perill thou abide it deare. Looke where thy Loue comes, yonder is thy deare.

Enter Hermis.

Her. Datk night, that from the eye his function takes. The ease more quicke of apprehension makes. Wherein it doth impairs the feeing fense, Ir paies the hearing double recompence.

Thou art not by mine eye, Lyfander found, Mine ease (I thanke it) brought me to that found.

But why ankindly didst thou leave me so? (to go?

Lyfan. Why should hee slay whom Love doth presse Her. What love could presse Lyfander from my side? Lyf. Lyfanders love (that would not let him bide) Faire Helma; who more engilds the night, Then all you fierie oes, and eies of light. Why seek 's thou me? Could not this make thee know, The hate I bare thee, made me leave thee so?

Her. You speake not as you thinke; it cannot be. Hel. Loe, the is one of this confederacy, Now I perceive they have conjoyn'd all three, To fathion this falle fport in spight of me. Iniurious Hermia, most vngratefull maid, Have you conspir'd, have you with these contriu'd To brite me, with this foule derifion? Is all the counfell that we two have fhar'd, The fifters vowes, the houres that we have spene, When wee have chid the haffy fooced time, For parting vas O, is all forgot? All schooledairs friendship, child-hood innocence? We Hermis, like two Artificiall gods, Have with our needles, created both one flower, Both on one fampler, fitting on one cushion, Both warbling of one fong, both in one key; As if our hands, our fides, voices, and mindes Had beene incorporate. So we grew together, Like to a double cherry, feeming parted, But yet a vision in partition,

Two

Two louely berries molded on one stem, So with two feeming bodies, but one heart, Two of the first life coass in Heraldry, Due but to one and crowned with one croft. And will you rent our sncient love afunder, To loyne with men in fcorning your poore friend? It is not friendly, 'cis not maidenly. Our fexe as well as I, may chide you for is, Though I alone doe feele the iniurie.

Her. I am amazed at your passionate words,

Iscorne you not; It seemes that you scorne me,
Hel. Have you not set Lysander, as in scorne To follow me, and praise my eies and face? And made your other love, Demetring (Who even but now did spurne me with his foote) To call me goddeffe, nimph, divine, and tare. Precious, celestiall? Wherefore speakes hethis To her he hates? And wherefore doth Lyfander Denie your loue (forich within his foule) And tender me (forfoath) affection, But by your fetting on, by your confent? What though I benor so in grace as you, So hung vpon with love, so fortunate? (Butmiferable molt, to loue valou'd) This you should pittie, tather then despile.

Her. I vnderfland not what you meane by this. Hel. 1, doe, perseuer, counterfeit sad lookes, Make mouthes vpon me when I turne my backe, Winke each at other, hold the fweete ieft vp: This sport well carried, shall be chronicled. If you have any pittie, grace, or manners, You would not make me fuch an argument : But fare ye well, tis partly mine ownefault, Which death or absence soone shall remedie.

Lyf. Stay gentle Helena, heare my excuse, My loue, my life, my foule, faire Helena.

Hel. O excellent!

Her. Sweete, do not leorn her fo.

Dem. If the cannot entreate, I can compell.

Lyf. Thou can't compell no more then the entreate.

Thy threats have no more frength then her weak praise. Helan, I love thee, by my life I doe;

I (weare by that which I will lose for thee, To prous him falle, that faies I love thee not.

Dem. I say, loue thee more then he can do. Lyf. Ifthou say to, with-draw and proueit too.

Dem. Quick, come.

Her. Lyfunder, whereto tends all this?

Lyf. Away, you Ethiope.

Dem. No,no,Sir, seeme to breake loofe;

Take on as you would follow,

But yet come not: you are a tame man, go. Lyf. Hang off thou cat, thou bur; vile thing let loofe, Or I will shake thee from me like a serpent.

Her Why are you growne fo rude?

What change is this sweete Lone? Lyf. Thy love? our tawny Tarrar, out;

Out loathed medicine; O hated poison bence.

Her. Do younotieft?
Hel. Yes footh, and so do you,
Lys. Demetrics: I will keepe my word with thee.
Dem. I would I had yout bond: for I perceive A weake bondholds you; Henortruft your word-

Lyf. What, should I hutt her, strike her, kill ber dead i Although I have her, He not harme her fo.

Her, What, can you do me greater harme then hate?

Hateme, wherefore? Ome, what newes my Loue? Am not I Hermia? Ate not you Lyfander? I am as faire now, as I was ere while. Since night you lou'dme; yet fince night you left me. Why then you left me (Othe gods forbid Incarnelt, shall I say?

Lyf. I,by my life; And never did defire to fee thee more. Therefore be out of hope, of question, of doubt; Be certaine, nothing truer: tis no left,

That I doe hate thee, and love Helena.

Her. Ome, you lugler, you canker blofforne, You theefe of love; What, have you come by night, And stolne my loves heart from him?

Hel. Fine yfaith:

Haue you no modesty, no maiden shame, No touch of balhfulneffe! What, will you teare Impatient answers from my gentle tongue?

Fie, fie, you counterfeit, you puppet, you.

Her Pupper? why fo? I, that way goes the game.

Now I perceive that the hath made compare Betweene our flatures, the hath wrg'd her height, And with her personage, her tall personage, Her height (forfooth) the hath prevail'd with him. And are you growne to high in his effective, Because I am so dwarfish, and so low? How low am I, thou painted May-pole? Speake, How low am I? I amnot yet fo low But that my nailes can reach voto thine eyes.

Hel. I pray you though you mocke me, gentlemen, Let her not hurt me; I was neuer curft ; I have no gife at all in threwillineffe; I am a right maide for my cowardize; Let her not frike me : youpethaps may thinke, Because the is something lower then my selfe,

That I can match her.

Her. Lower? harke againe.

Hel. Good Hermia, do not be lo bitter with me, I evermore did loveyou Hermia, Did cuer keepe your counfels, neuer wronged you, Saue that in love vnto Demetrius, I told him of your Realth vnro this wood. He followed you, for louc I followed him, But he hath chid me hence, and threatned ine

To strike me, spurne me, nay to kill me too; And now, so you will let me quiet go, To Asbens will I beare my folly backe, And follow you no further. Let me go.

You fee how simple, and how fond I am. Her. Why get you gone: who ift that hinders you?

Hel. A foolish heart, that I leave here behinde.

Her. What, with Lyfander?

Her. With Demerrins.
Lyf. Be not afraid, the shall not harme thee Helena. Dom. No fir, the thall not, though you take her part.

Hel. O when the's angry, the is keene and threwd, She was a vixen when the went to fchoole,

And though the be but little, the is fierce. Hr. Little againe? Nothing but low and little? Why will you fuffer her to float me thus?

Let me come to her. Lyf. Get you gone you dwarfe,

You minimus, of hindring knot-graffe made,

You bead, you scorne.

Dem. You are too officious, In her behalfe that scornes your services. Let her alone, speake not of Heima, Take not her part. For if shou dost intend Neuer solittle shew of loue to her, Thoushalt abide it.

11f. Now the holds me not, Now follow if thou dar'ff, to try who fe right, Of thine or mine is most in Helena.

Dem. Follow! Nay, He goe with thee cheeke by towle Exil Lyfander and Demotricus.

Her. You Mistris, all this coyle is long of you.

Nay, goenoi backe.

Hel I will not truft you I,
Norlonger flay in your curft companie.
Your handa then mine, are quicker for a fray,
My legs are longer though to runne a way.

Enter Oberon and Pucke.

Cb. This is thy negligence, still thou mistak's, Or elfe committ'll thy knaueries willingly.

Puck. Beleeve me, King of shadowes, I mistoolee, Did not you tell me, I should know the man, By the Atbenian gatments he hath on? And so farre blamelesse proves my enterpize, That I have no inted an Athenians eies, And so farre am I glad, it so did fort, As this their iangling I esteeme a sport

Ob. Thou feeft thefe Lovers feeke a place to fight, He therefore Robin, overcast the night, The startie Welkin couer thou anon With drooping fogge as blacke as Acheron, And lead these testie Riuals so aftray, As one come not within anothers way Like to Lyfarder, sometime frame thy tongue, Then stirre Demetrine vp with bitter wrong; And sometime raile thou like Demetrius; And from each other looke thou leade them thus, Till ore their browes, death-counterfeiting, fleepe With leaden legs, and Battle-wings doch c reepe; Then crush this hear be into Lyfanders eie, Whose liquor hath this vertuous propertie, To take from thence all error, with his might,. And make his eie-bals role with wonted light. When they next wake, all this derision Shall feeme a dreame, and fruitleffe vision, And backe to Athens shall the Louers wend With league, whose date till death shall never end. Whiles I in this affaire do thee imply, He to my Queene, and beg her Indian Boy; And then I will her charmed eie releafe From monsters view, and all things shall be peace.

Preck, My Fairie Lord, this must be done with haste, For night-swift Dragons cut the Clouds full sast, and yonder shines Awaras harbinger. At whose approach Ghosts wandring here and there, Troope home to Church-yards; damned spirits all, That in crosse-vaies and should have buriall, Alreadie to their wormie beds are gone; For seare least day should looke their shames upon, They wilfully themselves daile from light, And must for aye consort with blacke browdnight.

Ob. But we are spirits of another fort:

I, with the mornings love have oft made sport,

And like a Forrester, the groves may tread,

Eventslithe Easterne gare all fieriered,

Opening on Neptume, with faire blessed beames,

Turnes into yellow gold, his salt greene streames.

But notwithstanding haste, make no delay. We may essed this businesse, yet ere day.

Puck. Vp and downe, vp and downe, I will leade them vp and downe. I am fear'd in field and covere. Goblin, lead them vp and downe: here comes one.

Enter Lyfander.
Lyf Where art thou, proud Demetrine?

Speake thou now.

Rob Here villame, drawne & readie. Where are chou? Lyf. I will be with thee freight.

Rob. Follow me then to plainer ground.

Erter Demetring.

Dave, Lyfunder, (peake againe; Thou runaway, thou toward, are thou fied? Speake in fome bush: Where dost thou hide thy head?

Reb. Thou coward, are thou bragging to the stars, Telling the bushes that thou look st for wars, And wilt not come? Come recreant, come thou ebilde, lie whip thee with a rod. He is defil'd

That drawes a fword on thee.

Dem, Yes, ant thou there?

Re. Follow my voice, we try no manhood here. Exit.

Lyf. He goes before me, and full dates me on,

When I come where he cala, then he's gone.

The villame is much lighter heel'd then 1:
I followed fast, but faster he did flye; Refring places
That fallen am I in darke when way,
And here wil rest me. Come thou gentle day: 190 dame
For if but once thou shew me thy gray light,

Ile finde Demetriu, and revenge this spight.
Enter Robm and Demetrius.

Rob. Ho,ho,ho; coward, why com'st thou not? Deor. Abide me, if thou dat'st. For well I wot, Thou runk before me, shifting every place, And dat'st not stand, nor looke me in the face Where art thou?

Rob. Come hither, I am here.
Dem Nay then thou mock's me; thou shalt buy this

Geere,
If over I thy face by day-light fee.
Now goe thy way: faintnefte confitaineth me,
To measure out my length on this cold bed,
By dates approach looke to be visited.

Enter Helena.

Hel. O weary night, O long and tedious night,
Abate thy houres, thine comforts from the East,
That I may backeto Athens by day-light,
From these that my poore companie detest;
And sleepe that sometime shuts up for owns eie.
Steale me a while from mine owne companie.

Sleepe.

Rob. Yet but three? Come one more, Two of both kindes makes yp foure. Here the comes, curft and fad, Copid is a knauith lad,

Thus to make poore females mad.

Her. Never to wearie never to in woe,
Bedabbled with the dew, and torne with briars,
I can no further crawle, no further goe;
My legs can keepe no pace with my defires.
Here will I reft me till the breake of day,
Heavens shield Lyforder, if they meane a fray.

Rob. On the ground fleepe found,
Me apply your eie gentle louer, remedy,
When thou wak'ft, thou tak'ft
True delught in the fight of the former Ladies eye,

And

And the Country Properb knowne, That every man should take his owne, In your waking shall be showne. lacke shall have lill, nought shall goe ill, The man thall have his Mare againe, and all thall bes

They flacpe all the All.

Adus Quartas.

Enter Queene of Fairies, and Clossese, and Fairies, and the King behinde them.

Tua. Come, fit thee downe vpon this flowry bed. While I thy amiable cheekes doe coy. And flicke muske roles in thy fleeke smoothe head, And kille thy faire large eares, my gentle toy.

Clow. Where's Peafe bloffome?

Peaf. Ready

Clow. Scratch my head, Peafo-bloffonse. Wher's Moun-Bruer Cobmeb.

Cob. Ready.

Clowns. Mounsieur Cobmeb, good Mounsier get your weapons in your hand, & kill me a red hipt humble-Bee, on the top of a thiftle; and good Mounfieur bring mee the hony bag. Doe not fret your felfe too much in the action, Mounfieur; and good Mounfieur haue a care the hony bag breake not, I would be loth to have you overflowne with a hony-bag fignious. Where's Mounfieur Muftardfeed?

MW Ready.

Clo. Giue me your nease, Mountieur Mustardseed. Pray you leave your courtefe good Mounfieur.

Adaf. What's your will?
Clo. Nothing good Mounfieur, but to help Caualery Cobroch to scratch, I must to the Barbers Mounsieur, for me-thinkes I am maruellous harry about the face. And I am fuch a tender affe, if my haire do but tickle me, I must ferarch,

Twa. What, will thou heare some musicke, my sweet love

Clow. I have a reasonable good care in musicke. Let vs have the tongs and the bones.

Musicke Tongs, Rurall Musicke.

Tien, Or lay sweete Loue, what thou desirest to eat.
Clowns. Truly a pecke of Prouender; I could munch wour good dey Oates. Me-thinkes I have a great defire to a boule of hay : good hay, fweete hay hath no fel-

Tita. I have a venturous Fairy, That shall feeke the Squirrels hoard, And fesch thee new Nuts.

Charge. I had rather have a handfull or two of dried peafe. But I pray you let none of your people ftirre me, I heue an exposition of sleepe come voon me.

Tyea. Sleepe thou, and I will winde thee in my estas, Fairies be gone, and be alwaies away. So doth the woodbine, the fweet Honifuckie, Gently entwist; she semale Juy so Enrings the barky fingers of the Elme.

O how I love thee I how I dote on thee !

Exter Robin goodfeling and Oberen. Ob. Welcome good Robin : Seeft thou this (weet fight? Her datage now I doe begin to pitty. For meeting her of late behinde the wood, Seeking (weer favors for this hatefull foole, I did vpbraid her, and fall out with her. For the his hairy temples then had rounded, With coronet of fresh and fragrant flowers. And that same dew which fomtime on the buds. Was wont to swell like round and orient pearles; Stood now within the pretty flouriets eyes, Like reares that did their owne difgrace bewaile. When I had at my pleasure taunted her, And the in milde termes beg'd my patience, I then did aske of her, her changeling childe, Which straight she gave me, and her Fairy sent To beare him to my Bower in Fairy Land. And now I have the Boy, I will vndoe This hatefull imperfection of her eyes. And gentle Pucke take this transformed scalpe, From off the head of this Athensan (waine ; That he awaking when the other doe, May all to Athens backe againe repaire, And thinke no more of this nights accidents. But as the fierce vezation of a dreame. But first I will release the Fairy Queene.

> Be those as thon wast wont to be: See as show wast wone to see. Dianitud, or Cupide flower. Hath such force and bleffed power

Now my Tuansa wake you my sweet Queene, Tita. My Oberon, what visions have I feene! Me-thought I was enamoured of an Affe.

06. There lies your love.

Tita. How came thefe things to paffe? Oh, how mine eyes doth loath this vilage now ! Ob. Silence a while. Robin take off his head : Titania orufick call, and frike more dead Then common fleepe; of all these, fine the sense Tita. Mulicke, ho mulicke, luch as charmeth fleepe.

Musick Still. Rob. When thou wak'ft, with thine owne fooles eies

Ob Sound mulick; come my Queen, take hands with And rocke the ground whereon these sleepers be Now thou and I are new in amity , And will to morrow midnight, folemnly Dance in Duke Thisew house triumphanily, And bleffe it to all faire posterity. There shall the paires of faithfull Louers ba Wedded. with Thefere, all in rollity.

Rob. Faire King attend, and marke, I doe heare the morning Larke.

Ob. Then my Queene in silence lad, Trip we after the nights shade; We the Globe can compaffe foone, Swifter then the wandring Moone

Tira Come my Lord, and in our flight, Tell me how it came this night That I fleeping heere was found,

Sleepers Lye fill

With

A Midsommernights Dreame.

With their mortals on the ground.

Winde Hornes,

Enter The set. Lacus, Hippoints and all bis traine.
Thef. Goe one of you finde out the Forrester,
For now our observation is performed;
And since we have the vaward of the day.
My Love shall heare the musicke of my hounds.
Vincouple in the Westerne valley, let them goe;
Dispatch I say, and sinde the Forrester,
We will saire Queene, up to the Mountaines top.
And marke the musicall consistion.

Hip. I was with Horeules and Cadonic once, When in a wood of Creese they bayed the Besse With hounds of Sparta; never did I heare Such gallant chiding. For besides the groves, The skies, the sountaines, every region neere, Seeme all one mutuall cry. I never heard So musicall a discord, such sweet thunder,

Thef. My hounds are bred out of the Spartan kinde, So flow'd, so fanded, and their heads are hung With exres that sweepe away the morning dew, Crooke kneed, and dow-lapt, like Thesadian Buls, Slow in pursuit, but match'd in mouth like bels, Each vader each. A cry more tuncable Was never hallowed to, nor cheer'd with home, In Creete, in Sparta, nor in Thesady;

Judge when you heare. But lost, what nimpha are these Egeus. My Lord, this is my daughter heare assept, And this Lifander, shis Demetries is, This Helma, olde Nedare Helena, I wonder of this being heere together.

The, No doubt they role up carly, to oblerue
The right of May; and hearing our intent,
Came heere in grace of our folemnity.
But speake Egens, is not this the day
That Herman should give answer of her choice?

Egens. It is, my Lord.
Thef. Goe bid the hants-men wake them with their horners.

Hornes and they wake. Shout within, they all flart up.

Thef. Good moreow friends: Saint Velentese is pall, Begin these wood birds but to couple novel

Lif. Pardon my Lord.
Thef. I prey you all fland vp.
I know you two are Rivall enemies.
How comes this gentle concord in the world,
That batred is is to farte from lealoufie.
To fleepe by hate, and feare no enmity.

Lyf. My Lord, I shall reply amazedly.
Halfe scepe, halfe waking. But as yet, I weare,
I cannot truly say how I came heere.
But as I thinke (for truly would I speake)
And now I doe bethinke me, so it is I came with Hernsia hither. Our intens
Was to be gone from Aibens, where we might be Without the perill of the Atbenian Lew.

Ege. Enough, enough, my Lord: you have enough; I be githe Law, the Law, vpon his head? They would have stolne away, they would Demetrias, Thereby to have deseated you and me: You of your wife, and me of my consent; Of my consent, that the should be your wife.

Dem. My Lord, faire Helm told me of their fleelth, Of this their purpose bither, to this wood, And I in furic higher followed them : Fatte Holena, in fancy followed me. But my good Lord, I wornor by what power, (But by some power it it) my love To Harmen (wched as the frow) Seems to me now as the remembrance of an idle gaude Which in my childehood I did dost vpon: And all the faith, the vertue of my heart, The object and the pleasure of minerye, Is oacly Helena Toher, my Lord, Was I berioth'd, ere I fee Homia, But like a fickenesse did I loath this ford, But as in health, come to my parurall taffe, Now doe I with it, loud it, long for it, And will for euermore be true to it. Thef. Faire Louers, you are fortunately met; Of this discourse we shall herre more snow

Thef. Faire Louers, you are fortunately met;
Of this discourse we shall heare more anon.

Egew, I will over-beare your will;
For in the Temple, by and by with es,
These couples shall eternally be knit.

And for the morning now is something worne,
Our purpos'd bunting shall be set asked.

Away, with valo Athers; three and three,
Wee'll hold a feast in great solemnine.

Come Hippoliue.

Exit Didg and Lorde.

Dom. These things seeme small & voditing unshable.

Dom. These things seeme small & vndssingus snable, Like farre off mountaines turned into Clouds.

Her. Me-thinks I see these things with parted eye, When every things seemes double.

Hel. Some-thinkes: And I have found Demetries, like a jewell, Mine owne, and not mine owne.

Dem. It feeines to mee,
That yet we fleepe, we dreame. Do not you thinke,
The Duke was heere, and bid vs follow him?

Her. Yea, and my Father. Hel. And Happelaa.

Lyf. And he bid vs tollow to the Temple.

Dow. Why then we are swake; lets followhim, and by the way let vs recount our dreames.

Bottoms water. Exa Lours. Clo. When my que comes, call me, and I will answer. My next 11, most faite Peramas. Hey ho Peter Waines? Flates the bellowes mender? Snows the tinker? Starueling? Gods my life I Stolne hence, and left me afleepe: I haue had a most race vision. I had a dreame, past the wit of man, to fay, what drenme it was. Man is but an Alle, if he goe about to expound this dreame. Me-thought I was, there is no man can tell what. Me-thought I was, and me-thought I had. But man is but a patch'd foole, If he will offer to fay, what me-thought I bad. The eye of man bath not heard, the care of man hath not feen, mans hand is not able to tafte, his tongue to concerue, nor his heart to report, what my dreame was. I will get Peter Quince to write a ballet of this dreame, it shall be called Bottomes Dream , because it hath no bottome; and I will fing it in the latter end of e play, before the Duke. Pereduenture, to make it the more gracious, I thell fing it at her death,

Eren Quinco, Fines, Thiche, Snort, and Storeding

Quen. Have you fent to Battemer house? Is he come home yet?

Stars. He cannot be beard of. Out of doubt her is transported.

This. If

Thif. If he come not, then the play is mar'd. It goes not forward, doth it?

Quin. It is not possible: you have not a man in all Athan, able to discharge Piramus but he.

This. No hee hath simply the best wit of any handyerafemanin Athens.

Quin. Yez, and the best person too, and hee is a very Paramour, for a sweet voyce.

This. You must say, Paragon. A Paramour is (God blesse vs.) a thing of nought.

Enter Sung the loyner.

Sang. Masters, the Duke is comming from the Temple, and there is two or three Lords& Ladies more married: If our sport had gone forward, we had all bin made

This. O sweet bully Bottome, thus hath he lost fixepence a day, during his life; he could not have scaped fixpence 3 day. And the Duke had not given him fixpence a day for playing Piramus, le be hang'd. He would have deserved it. Sixpence a day in Piramus, or nothing. Enter Bottome.

Bot. Where are these Lads? Where are these hearts? Quin. Betteme, o most couragious day! O most hap-pie houre !

Bor. Masters, I sm to discourse wonders; but ask me not what. For if I tell you, I am no true Athenian. I will tell you every thing as it fell out.

Qu. Let ys heare, (weet Bottome.

Bot. Not a word of metall that I will tell you, is, that the Duke hath dined. Get your apparell together, good trings to your beards, new ribbands to your pumps, meete presently at the Palace, every man looke ore his part : for the (hort and the long is, our play is preferred: In any case let Thisby have cleane linnen: and let not him that playes the Lion, paire his nailes, for they shall hang out for the Lions clawes. And most deare Actors, eate no Onions, nor Garlicke; for wee are to viter fweete breath, and I doe not doubt but to heare them fay, it is a fweet Comedy. No more words: sway, go away.

Actus Quintus.

Enter Thefens, Hippolita, Egens and his Lords.

Hip. Tis strange my Thefess, y chefe lovers speake of. The. More firange then true. I never may beleeue Thefe anticke fables, nor thefe Fairy toyes, Louers and mad men have fuch feething braines, Such shaping phantasies, that apprehend more Then coole reason euer comprehends. The Lunaticke, the Louer, and the Poet, Are of imagination all compact. One fees more divels then vafte hell can hold; That is the mad man. The Louer, all as franticke, Sees Helens beauty in a brow of Egipt. The Poets eye in a fine frenzy rolling, doth glance From heanen to earth, from earth to heauth. And as Imagination bodies forth the forms of things Vaknowne; the Poets pen turnes them to Inspes, And glues to aire nothing, a locall habitation, And a name. Such tricks hath strong imagination,

That if it would but apprehend fome ioy, It comprehends fome bringer of that ioy. Or in the night, imagining fome feare, How easie is a bush suppos'd a Beare?

Hip. But all the storie of the night told over-And all their minds transfigur'd so together, More witneffeth than fancies images, And growes to something of great constancie; But howfoeuer, strange, and admirable.

> Enter louers, Lyfander, Demetrina, Hermia, and Hilena.

The. Heere come the loners, full of ioy and mirth: Ioy, gentle friends, toy and fresh dayes Of loue accompany your hearts.

Lif. More then to vs, waite in your royall walkes, your boord; your bed.

The. Come now, what maskes, what dances shall

To weare away this long age of three houres, Between our after supper, and bed-time? Where is our viuall manager of mirth? What Revels are in hand? Is there no play. To eafe the anguish of a torturing houre? Call Egeus.

Ege. Heere mighty Thefem.

The. Say, what abridgement haue you for this eue-What maske? What mulicke? How shall we beguile

The lazie time, if not with fome delight? Ege. There is a breefe how many sports are rife:

Make choise of which your Highnesse will see fle A.

Lif. The battell with the Centaurs to be sung

By an Athenian Eunuch, to the Harpe.
The. Wee'l none of that. That have I told my Lone

In glory of my kiniman Hercules.

Lif. The riot of the tiplie Bachanals, Tearing the Thracian singer, in their rage? The. That is an old device, and it was plaid When I from Thebes came last a Conqueror.

Lif. The thrice three Mufes, mourning for the death of learning, late deceast in beggerie.

The. That is some Satire keene and criticall. Not forting with a nuptiall ceremonie.

Lif. A tedious breefe Scene of yong Piramus, And his love Thisby; very tragicall mirth.

The. Merry and tragicall? Tedious, and briefe? That is, hotice, and wondrous strange snow. How shall wee findethe concord of his difcord?

Ege. A play there is, my Lord, fome ren words long, Which is as breefe, as I have knowne a play; But by ten words, my Lord, it is too long; Which makes it tedious. For in all the play There is not one word apt, one Player fitred. And tragicall my noble Lord it is: for Paramese Therein doth kill himselfe. Which when I faw Rehearst, I must confesse, made mine eyes water : But more merrie teares, the pattion of loud laughter Never shed.

Thef. What are they that do play it?

Ege. Hard handed men, that worke in Athens heere, Which never labour'd in their mindes till now; And now have toyled their vnbreathed memories With this same play, against your nuptiall.
The. And we will heare it.

0 2

Phi. No, my noble Lord, it is not for you. I have heard It over, and it is nothing, nothing in the world; Valeffe you can finde sport in their intents, Extreamely Reercht, and cond with crue! paine, To doe you fecuice.

Thef. I will heare that play. For never any thing Can be anuffe, when simplemelle and duty tender k. Goz bring them in, and take your places, Ladies.

Hip. I loue not to fee wretchednesse orecharged; And duty in his feruice perishing.

Thef. Why gende (weet, you hall fee no fuch thing. Hip. He laics, they can doenothing in this kinde. Thef. I he kinder we, to give them thanks for nothing Our sport shall be, to take what they mistake;

And what pooreduty camoc doe, noble respect

Takes it in might, not metit. Whele I have come, great Clearkes have purpoled To greete me with premeditated welcomes; Where I have feene them thiner and looke pale, Make periods in the midft of fentences, Throtile their practiz'd accent in their feares, And in conclusion, dumbly have broke off, Not paying me a welcome. Trust me sweete, Out of this filente yet, Ipickt s-welcome: And in the modelly of fearefull duty, I read as much, as from the rathing tongue Of faucy and audacious eloquence. Loue therefore, and tongue-ride simpherty, In leaft, speake most, to my capacity.

Egeus So pleafe your Grace, the Prologue it address. Flon Trum.

Duke. Let bimapproach.

Enter the Pralogue. Pro. If we offead, it is with our good will. That you flould thinke, we some not to offend, But with good will. To Shew our himple skill, That is the true beginning of our end. Confider then, we come but in despight. We do not come, as minding to content you. Our true intent is, All for your delight, We are not heere. That you should here repent you, The Actors are at hand; and by their flow, You shall know all, that you are like to know.

Thef. This fellow doth not fland upon points Lyf. He hash rid his Prologue, like a rough Colt : he knowernor the stop, A good morall my Lord. It is not chough to fpeake, but to fpeake true.

Hip. Indeed hee hath plaid on his Prologue, like a childe on a Recorder, a found, but not in gouesnment Thef. His speech was like a rangled chaine: nothing impaired, but all disordered. Who is next? Tamper with a Trumici before them.

Enter Pyramus and Thusby, Wall, Moone frime, and Lyon. Prol. Gentles, perchance you wonder at this show, But wonder on, till truth make all things plaine. This man is Piramia, if you would know; This beauteous Lady, Thuby is certaine. This man, with lyme and rough-cast, doth present Wall, that vile wall, which did thele louers funder : And through walls chink (poor foules) they are content To whifper. At the which, let no man wonder. This man, with Lanthorne, dog, and bush of thorne, Presenteth moone-shine. For if you will know, By moone-shine did these Louers thinke no scome To meet at Nimu toombe, there, there to wose i

This grizy beaff (which Lyon hight by name) The trufty Thuly, comming first by right, Did scarre away, or rather did affright. And as she fied, her moutle she did fall; Which Lyon yile with bloody mouth cid time Anon comet Piramui, [weet youth and tall, And hades his Thubies Manuelaline ; Whereat, with blade, with bloody blamefull blade, He brauely broacht his boiling bloudy beenft, And Thub, tarrying in Mulberry Onade His dagger drew, and died. For all the reft, Let Lyon, Moone-foine Wall, and Louers twaine, At large discourse, while here they doe remaine.

Exu all bin wall. The I wonder if the Lion bo to Speake. Deme. No wonder, my Lord : one Lion may, when many Alles doe.

Exa Lyen, Therbie, and Moonesbons. Wall. In this fame Interlude, it doth befall, That I, one Sweet (byname) prefent a wall: And fuch a wall, as I would have you thinke, That had in it a crannied hole or chinke: Through which the Louers, Piramin and Thishin Did whilper often, very fecretly. This loanie, this rough-caft, and this Rone doth thew, That I sin that same Wall , the truth is fo. And this the crowny is, right and funfter, Through which the feeretull Louers are to whilpet.

Thef. Would you desire Lime and Hause to speake better ? ,

Demc. It is the writtiest partition, that ever I beard discourse, say Lord.

Thef. Tyramin drawes neere the Wallblence Enter Pgraussu.

Pm. O grim looktnight, onight with hue to blacke, Onight, which euer art, when day is not: Onight, ônight, slacke, slacke, alackr, I feare my Thubies promise is forgot And thou o vrall, thou fweet and louely well, That flands betweene her fathers ground and mine, Thou wall, o wall, o sweet and louely wall, Shew the thy clinke, to blinke through with misseine. Thankes courreous well. fore thield thee well for thes. But what fee !? No Thubu doe I fee. O wicked wall, through whom I fee no bliffe, Curft be thy ftones for thus decesuing mee. Thef. The wealt me-thinkes being fensible, should

Por. No in truth fir, he should not December ms,

Is Thisbes tue; the is to enter, and I am to fo Her through the wall. You hall fee it will fall.

Emer Thubis

Per as I told you; yonder the comes. This. O vvall, full often half thou heard my mones, For parting my faire Peramus, and me. My cherry lips have often kist thy stones; Thy stones with Lime and Haire knit vo in thee

Pyra. I fees voyce; now will I to the chinke, To Ipy and I can heate my Thubur face. Thisbe? This. My Loue thou art, my Loue I thinke.

Por. Thinke what thou wilt, I am thy Louers grace, And like Lorseeder am I trufty fill Toif. And like Helm till the Fates me 1511. Por. Not Shafalus to Procrus, was fo true. This. As Stafalus to Present, I to you.

Pir. O

Pir. Okisse me through the boic of this vile wall. This. I kille the wals hole, not your lips at all. Pir. Wilt thou at Nimier combe meete me ftreight

This. Tide life, tide death, I come without delay. Wall. Thus have I Wall, my part discharged so; And being done, thus Wall sway doth go. Exis Class. Dw. Now is the morall downe betweene the two Neighbors. Dem. No temedie my Lord, when Wals are so wil-full, to heare without warning

Dur. This is the fillieft fluffe that ere I heard.

Du. The best in this kind are but shadowes, and the work are no worfe, if imagination amend them.

Due. It must be your imagination then, & not theirs. Duk. If wee imagine no worke of them then they of themselves, they may passe for excellent men. Here com two noble beafts, in a man and a Lion,.

Enter Lyon and Moone-shine.

Lyon. You Ladies, you (whose gentle harts do feare The smallest monstrous mouse that creepes on floore) May now perchance, both quake and tremble heere, When Lion rough in wildelt rage doth roare. Then know that I, one Saug the loyner am A Lion fell, nor else no Lions dam For if I should as Lion come in strife Into this place, twere pittie of my life,

Du. A verie gentle beaft, and of a good conference.

Dom. The verie best at a beast, my Lord, y ere l'aw.

Dw. True, and a Goofe for his diferetion.

Dem, Not so my Lord: for bis valor cannot carrie his diferection, and the Fox carries the Goofe.

Du. His discretion I am sure cannot carrie his valor: for the Goofe carries not the Fox. It is well; leave it to his diferection, and let vs hearken to the Moone,

Moon. This Lanthorne doch the horned Moone pre-

De. He should have worne the homes on his head, Dw. Hee is no crescent, and his hornes are inusible, within the circumference.

Moon. This lanthorne doth the horned Moone prefent: My felle, the man i'th Moone doth feeme to be.

This is the greatest error of all the rest; the man should be put into the Lanthorne. How is it els the man i'th Moone?

Dem. He dares not come there for the candle. Por you fee, it is already in fouffe.

Dur. I am vvestie of this Moone; vvould he would

Du. It appeares by his smallight of discretion, that be is in the wane: but yet in courtefie, in all reason, we couft flay the time.

Lyf. Proceed Moone.

Moon. All that I have to fay, is to tell you, that the Lanthorne is the Moone; I, the man in the Moone; this thorne bushimy thome bush; and this dog, my dog.

Dem. Why all these should be in the Lanthome: for they are in the Moone. But silence, beere comes Thuby.

Enter Thisty.

This is old Nicones combe : where is my love? Lyon Oh.

The Lieu reaves, Thisby riess off. Dow. Wellcoard Lion.

Du. Well run Thuby.

Dur. Well thone Moone

Truly the Moone thines with a good grace

Du. Welmouz'd Lion.

Dem. And then came Piramus. Lyf. And so the Lion vanisht.

Enter Paramis.

Pyr. Sweet Moone, I thank thee for thy funny beames, I thanke thee Moone, for thining now to brights For by thy gracious, golden, glittering beames, I truff to tafte of trueft Thubies fight.

But flay : O spight ! but marke, poore Knight,

What dreadful dole is heere? Eyes do you fee! How can it be.

Odainty Ducke: O Deere:

Thy mantle good; what staind with blood!

Approch you Furies fell : O Fates! come, come : Cut thred and thrum, Quaile, cruth, conclude, and quell.

Du. This passion, and the death of a deare friend. Would go neere to make a man looke fad.

Dur. Beshrewmy heart, but I pittle the man.
Pir. O wherefore Nature, did ft thou Lions frame? Since Lion vilde hath heere deflour'd my deere:

Which is : no, no, which was the fairest Dame That liu'd, that lou'd, that lik'd, that look'd with cheere.

Come teares, confound: Out [word, and wound

The pap of Piramus:
1, that left pap, where heart doth hop;

Thus dye I, thus, thus, thus

Now am I dead, now am I fled, my foule is in the sky, Tongue lofe thy light, Moone take thy flight,

Now dye, dye, dye, dye, dye.

Dem. No Die, but an ace for him; for he is but one. Lif. Lesse then an ace man. For he is dead, he is no-

Du. With the helpe of a Surgeon, he might yet recouer, and proue an Affe.

Due. How chance Moone-shine is gone before? Thuby comes backe, and findes her Louer.

Enter Thuby.

Duke. She wil finde him by starre-light. Heere she comes, and her passion ends the play.

Dut. Me thinker shee should not vie a long one for fuch a Paramus: I hope the will be breefe.

Dem. A Moth wil turne the ballance, which Pirannus which Thuby is the better.

Lyf. She hath fpyed him already, with those sweete

Dem. And thus the meanes, videlicit,

This. Asseepe my Loue? What, dead my Doue? O Piramus arise:

Speake, Speake. Quito dumber Dead, dead? A tombe

Must cover thy sweet eyes. These Lilly Lips, this cherry nose,

These yellow Cowslip cheekes Are gone, are gone : Louers make mone :

His eyes were greene as Leekes.

O fifters three, come, come to mee, With hands as pale as Milke,

Lay them in gore, fince you have shore With theeres, his thred of filke.

Tongue not a word: Come trufty (word t Come blade, my breft imbrue:

And

And farwell friends, thus Thubic ends; Adieu, adieu, adieu.

Duk. Moon-shine & Lion ste lest to burie the dead. Deme. 1, and Wall too.

Bet. No, I affore you, the wall is downe, that parted their Pathers. Will it please you to fee the Epilogue, or to heare a Bergomask dance, betweene two of our company?

Duk, No Epilogue, I pray you; for your play needs no excuse. Neuer excuse ; for when the plaiers are all dead, there need none to be blamed. Marry, if hee that writ it had plaid Piramu, and hung himfelie in Thibus garrer, it would have beene a fine Tragedy : and fo it is truely, and very notably discharg'd. But come, your Burgomaske; let your Bpilogue alone. The iron tongue of midnight hath old twelve. Louers to bed, is almost Fairy time. I feare we shall out-sizepe the comming morne, As much as we this night have ouer-watcht. This palpable grofte play hath well beguild The heavy gate of night. Sweet friends to bed. A fortnight hold we this folenmiey. In nightly Reacls; and new tolline. Exempt.

Enter Puoke. Puck Now the hungry Lyons rores, And the Wolfe beholds the Moone: Whilest the heavy ploughman inores, All with weary taske forc-done. Now the wasted brands doe glow, Whil'sthe saitch-owle, saitching loud, Puts the wretch that Heain woe, In remembrance of a fhrowd; Mow it is the time of night. That the graves, all gaping wide, Every one less forth his spright, En the Church-way paths to glid: And we Fairies, that do runne, By the triple Hecates teame, From the presence of the Sunne, Following darkeneffe like a dreams, Now are frollicke; not a Moule Shall disturbe this hallowed house. I am fent with broome before, To sweep the dust behinde the doore.

Enter King and Queene of Fairies, with their trains.

By the dead and drowne her,
Euerie Elfe and Fairie spright,
Hop as light as bird from brier,
And this Dirty after me, sing and dance it teleplinglie,
Tita. First rehearse this song by roace,
To each words warbling note.
Hand in hand, with Fairie grace,
Will we sing and blesse this place.

Now will the breaks of day , Through this honge each Frity Stray. To the bost Bride - bed will vo. which by vs St. all bloffed be: And the office there create, Ever shall be fortunate: So Shall all the complex three, Ener true in longing be i And the blossed Natures bond Shall not on their iffur franch Netzremote barely nor feerre, Normarke prodigions, fuch as are Despised in Namitie, Shall epontheir children bo. With the field der conference, Every Fairy take his gate, And each senerall chamber bieffe . Through inis Pallace with sweet peace, Ener ficall in fafety righ, And the voner of a bleft. Trip away, make no fray; Meet one all by breaks of day.

Robin. If we shadowes have offended, Thinke but this (and all is mended) That you have but flumbred heers, While these visions did appeare. And this weake and tale theame, No more yeelding but a dreame, Centles, doe not reprehend. If you pardon, we will mend. And as I am an honest Puchy, If we have vnearned lucke, Now to fcape the Serpents tongue, We will make amends ere long: Elfe the Packetalyar call. So good night voto you all. Gine me your hands, if we be friences, And Robin Chall reftore amenda.

FINIS.

The Merchant of Venice.

Actus primus.

Enter Authonie, Salarine, and Salario.

Anthonio.

N footh I know not why I am fo fad,

the street wasties me: you fay it wearies you;

But how I caught it, found it, or came by it,

What fluffe tismade of, whereof it is borne,

I am to learne: and fuch a Want-wit fadnesse makes of

That I have much ado to know my felfe.

Sal. Your minde is tofsing on the Ocean
There where your Argofies with portly faile
I like Signiors and tich Burgers on the flood,
Or as it were the Pagcants of the fea,
Do over-peere the petue Traffiquers
That curtife to them, do them reverence
As they flye by them with their woven wings.

Salar. Beleeue me fir, had I fuch venture forth,
The better part of my affections, would
Be with my hopes abroad. I should be still Plucking the grasteto know where firs the winde,
Peering in Maps for ports, and peers, and rodes:
And every object that might make me feare
Missortune to my ventures, out of doubt
Would make me sate.

Sal. My winde cooling my broth, Would blow me to an Ague, when I thought What harme a winde too great might doe at fea. I should not see the sandie houre-graffe runne, But I should thinke of shallows, and of flats, And fee my wealthy Andrew docks in fand, Vailing her high top lower then her ribs To kille her buriall; should I goe to Church And see the holy edifice of stone, And not bethinke me straight of dangerous rocks, Which rouching but my gentle Vessels side Would scatter all her spices on the streame, Enrobe the roring waters with my filkes, And in a word, but even now worth this, And now worth nothing. Shall I have the thought To thinke on this, and shall I lacke the thought That fuch a thing bechaune'd would make me fed? But tell not me, I know Anthonio Is fad to thinke vpon his merchandize

Anh. Belecue me no, I thanke my fortune for it, My ventures are not in one bottome truffed, Nor to one place; nor is my whole chate Vpon the fortune of this present yeere:
Therefore my merchandize makes me not sad.
Sola. Why then you are in love.
Anth. Fic, sie.

Though Neftor (weare the ieft be laughable.

Anth. Fic, he,

Sola. Not in loue neither: then let va fay you are fad
Because you are not merry; and 'twere as easie
For you to laugh and leape, and say you are merry
Because you are not sad. Now by two-headed larms,
Nature hath fram'd strange sellowes in her time:
Some that will euermore peepe through their eyes,
And laugh like Parrats at a bag-piper.
And other of such vineger aspect,
That they ll not shew their teeth in way of smile,

Enter Daffanie, Lorenfo, and Grateano.

Sola. Hecre comes Baffanio,
Your most noble Kiniman,
Gratiano, and Lorenfo. Earyewell,
We leave you now with better company.
Sala. I would have stald till I had made you merry,
If worthier friends had not prevented me.

Ant. Your worth Is very deere in my regard,
I take it your owne busines calls on you,

And you embrace th'occasion to depare,

Sal. Good morrow my good Lords. (when?

Baff. Good figniors both, when shall we laughtlay,

Baff. Good figniors both, when shall we laughted
You grow exceeding strange: must it be so?
Sal. Wee'll make our leysures to attend on yours.
Exeum Salatino, and Solanio.

Lor. My Lord Baffanio, fince you have found Anthonio We two will leave you, but at dinner time I pray you have in minde where we must meete, Boff I will not faile you.

Grat. You looke not well fignior Anthonto,
You have too much respect you the world:
They loose it that doe buy it with much care,
Beleeve me you are marvellously chang'd.

Aur. I hold the world but as the world Gratiero, A flage, where every man must play a part, And mine a sad onc.

Gran. Let me play the foole,
With mirth and laughter let old wrinckles come;
And let my Liver rather heate with wine,
Then my heart coole with mortifying grones
Why thould a man who se bloud is warme within,
Sit like his Grandstre, cut in Alablaster?
Sleepe when he wakes I and creep into the Leuncles

The Merchant of Venice.

By being pecuish? I tell thee what Anthonso, Houe thee, end it is my love that speakes . There are a fort of men, whose vilages Do creame and mantle like a standing pond, And do a wilfull stilnesse entertaine, With purpose to be dreft in an opinion Of wiledome, grauity, profound conceit, As who should say, I am fir an Oracle, And when I ope my lips, let no dogge barke. O my Anthonio, I do know of thele That therefore onely are reputed wife, For faying nothing; when I am vene fore If they should speake, would almost dam those exres Which hearing them would call their brothers fooles: Ile tell thee more of this soother time. But fish not with this melancholly batte For this foole Gudgin, this opinion: Come good Lorenzo, faryewell a while, He end my exhortation after dinner.

Lor. Well, we will leave you then till dinner time. I must be one of these same dumbe wise men, Por Gratiano neuer let's me (peake.

Gra. Well, keepe me company but two yeares mo, Thou shalt not know the found of thine owne rongue.

Int. Far you well, He grow a talker for this geare. Gra Thankes ifauth for filence is onely commendable In a neats tongue dri'd, and a maid not vendible. Exil.

Ant. It is that any thing now.

Baf. Gratiano speakes an infinite deale of nothing, trore then any manin all Venice, his reasons are two graines of wheate hid in two bushels of chaffe, you shall seeke all day ere you finde them, & when you have them they are not worth the fearch.

An. Well: tel me now, what Lady is the same To whom you fwore a fectet Pilgrimage That you to day promis'd to tel me of?

Baf. Tis not vnknowne to you Authorio How much I have disabled mine estate, By fomething shewing a more swelling port Then my faint meanes would grant continuance: Nor do I now make mone co be abridg'd! From such a noble rate, but my cheese care Is to come fairely off from the great debts Wherein my time fomething too prodigall Hath left me gag'd: to you Ambonia. I owe the most in money, and in loue, And from your love I have a warrantie To enburthen all my plots and purpoles. How to get electe of all the debts I owe.

An. I pray you good Bassanio let me know it, And if it stand as you your selfestill do, Within the eye of honour, be affur'd My purfe, my person, my extresmest meanes Lye all valock'd to your occasions.

Baff. In my schoole dayes, when I had loft one that I shot his fellow of the felfelame flight The selfesame way, with more aduised watch To finde the other forth, and by adventuring both, I oft found both. I vrge this child-hoode proofe, Because what follower is pure innocence. I owe you much, and like a wilfull youth, That which I owe is loft : but if you please To shoote another arrow that selfe way Which you did shoot the first, I do not doubt, As I will watch the ayme: Or to finde both, Or bring your latter hazard backe againe,

And thankfully reft debter for the first An. You know me well, and herem spend but time To winde about my love with circumstance,

And out of doubt you doe more wrong In making question of my vetermost Then if you had made wafte of all I have : Then doe but fay to me what I should doe That in your knowledge may by me be done, And I am prest vaco it i therefore speake.

Baff. In Bolmons is a Lady richly left, And the is faire, and fairer then that word, Of wondrous vertues, sometimes from her eyes I did receive faire speechlesse messages Her name is Parsia, nothing undervallend To Cata's daughter, Brus us Portia, Nor is the wide world ignorant of her worth For the four e winder blow in from curry coafe Renowned futors, and her funny locks Hang on her temples like a golden fleece, Which makes her leat of Belmon Cholebes Strond, And many lafour come in quest of her. O my Anthonio, had I but the meanes To hold a riuall place with one of them, I have a minde prefages me fuch thrift, That I should questionlesse be fortunate.

Anth. Thou knows that all my fortunes are at lea , Neither have I money, our commodity To raile a present summe, therefore goe forth Try what my credit can in Venuce doe, That shall be rackt even to the vetermost, To furnish thee to Belmont to faire Portia. Goe presently enquire, and so will I Where money is, and I no question make To have it of my truft, or for my fake

Ester Portia wal her waiting woman Nerifa

Portia. By my troth Nerrifa, my little body is a wearie of this great world.

Ner. You would be sweet Madam, if your miseries were in the same abundance as your good fortunes are: and yet for ought I fee, they are as ficke that furfer with too much, as they that flarue with nothing; it is no fmal happinelle therefore to bee leated in the meane, superfluitie comes looner by white haires, but competencie lives longer.

Pertia. Good sentences, and well pronounc'd. Ner. They would be better if well followed.

Portia. If to doe were as easie as to know what wete good to doe, Chappels had beene Churches, and poore mens cottages Princes Pallacestit is a good Dinine that followes his owne instructions; I can easter teach rwentie what were good to be done, then be one of the twentie to follow mine owne teaching : the braine may deuise lawes for the blood, but a hot temper leapes ore a colde decree, such a hare is madnede the youth, to skip ore the methes of good countaile the cripple; but this reason is not in fashion to choose me a husband : O mee, the word choose, I may neither choose whom I would, not refule whom I dislike, so is the wil of a living daughter curb'd by the will of a dead father; it is not hard Norriffa, that I cannot choose one, nor refuse none.

Nor. Your father was ever vertuous, and holy men at their death have good inspirations, therefore the lotterie that hee hath deuised in these three chefts of gold, filuer, and leade, whereof who chooses his meaning, chooses you, wilno doubt never be chosen by any right-17, but one who you shall rightly loue: but what warmth is there in your affection sowards any of these Princely futers that are stready come?

Per. I pray thee over-name them, and as thou namelt them, I will describe them, and according to my description levell at my affection.

Ner. First there is the Neopolitane Prince.

Per. I that's a colt indeede, for he doth nothing but talke of his horse, and hee makes it a great appropriation to his owne good pares that he can thoo him himfelfe: Jammuch afraid my Ludie his mother plaid falfe with a Smyth.

Ner. Than is there the Countie Palentine.

Por. He dath nothing but frowne (as who should fay, and you will not have the choose : he heares merrie tales and fmiles pot, I feare hee will proue the weeping Phylosopher when he growes ald, being so full of vnmannerly fadnesse in his youth.) I had rather to be married to a deaths head with a bone in his mouth, then to either of thefe : God defend me from thefe two.

Nor. How lay you by the French Lord, Mountier

Le Bonne?

Pro. God made bim, and therefore let him paffe for a man, in truth I know it is a finne to be a mocker, but he, why he hath a horse better then the Neopolitans, a better bad habire of frowning then the Count Palentine, he is enery man in no man, if a Traffell fing, he fals straight a capring he will fence with his own fhadow-If I should marry him, I should marry twentie husbands : if hee would despite me, I would forgive him, for if he love me to madnelle. I hould never require him.

Ner. What lay you then to Faucoubridge, the yong

Baron of England?

Por. You know I fay pothing to him, for hee underflands not me, nor I him : he hath neither Latine, French, nor Italian, and you will come into the Court & Sweare that I have a poore pennie worth in the English . hee is a proper mans picture, but alas who can converse with a dumbe (how? how odly he is fuited, I thinke he bought his doublet in Italie, his round hole in France, his bonnet in Germanie, and his behaviour every where.

Ner. What thinke you of the other Lord his neighbour?

Per. That he hath a neighbourly charitie in him, for he borrowed a boxe of the eare of the Englishman, and Swore he would pay him againe when hee was able : I thinke the Frenchman became his suretie, and seald under for another.

Ner. How like you the yong Germaine, the Duke of Saxonies Nephew?

Per. Very vildely in the morning when hee is fober, and most vildely in the afternoone when hee is drunke: when he is best, he is a little worse then a man, and when he is worft he is little better then a beaft : and the worft fall that euer fell, I hope I shall make shift to goe without him.

Ner. If he should offer to choose, and choose the right Casker, you should refuse to performe your Fathers will, if you should refuse to accept him.

Por. Therefore for feare of the worst, I pray thee fet a deepe glasse of Reinish-wine on the contrary Casket, for if the divelt be within, and that temptation without I know he will choose is . I will doe any thing Norressa ere I will be matried to a fpunge.

Nor. You neede not feare Lady the having any of these Lords, they have acquainted me with their determinations, which is indeede to returne to their home, and to trouble you with no more furte, valeffe you may be won by some other fore then your Fathers imposition, depending on the Caskets.

Por. If I llue so be as olde as Sibilla, I will dye as chaste as Dianas valesse I be obtained by the manner of my Fathers will: I am glad this parcell of woocrs are so reasonable, for there is not one among them but I doate on his verie absence ; and I wish them a faire departure.

Ner. Doe you not remember Ladie in your Fathers time, a Venecian, a Scholler and a Souldior that came hither in companie of the Marquelle of Mountferrat ?

Por. Yes yes, it was Baffanio, as I thinke, fo was bee call'd.

Ner. True Madam, hee of all the men that ever my foolish eyes look'd vpon, was the best deserving a faire

Por. I tomember him well, and I remember him worthy of thy praise

Enter a Sorwingman.

Ser. The foure Strangers feeke you Madam to take their leave : and there is a fore-runner come from a fift, the Prince of Moroco, who brings word the Brince his Maifter will be here to night.

Por. If I could bid the fift welcome with to good heart as I can bid the other soure farewell; I should be glad of his approach : if he have the condition of a Saint, and the complexion of a divell, I had rather hee should fhrive me then wineme. Come Neriffa, firra go before; whiles wee thus the gate spon one wooer, another knocksat the doore.

Enter Baffanto with Shylocke the Icw.

Shy. Three thousand ducates, well.

Baff. His for three months.

Shy For three months, well

Baff. For the which, as I told you,

Anthonio (hall be bound.

Shy. Anthonie shall become bound, well.

Baff. May you fled me? Will you pleasure me? Shall I know your answere

Shy. Three thousand ducats for three months. and Anthonio bound.

Baff. Your answere to that.

Anthonio is a good man.

Buff. Have you heard any imputation to the con.

Shy. Hono,no.no,no: my meaning in faying he is a good man, is to have you voderstand me that he is suffient, yet his meanes are in supposition the hath an Argohe bound to Tripolis, another to the Indies, I vaderfrand moreoust vpon the Ryalta, he hath a third at Mexied, a fourth for England, and other ventures hee hath squandred abroad, but thips are but boords, Saylers but men, there be land rats, and water rats, water theeuns, and land theeues, I meane Pyrats, and then there is the perrill of waters, windes, and rocks : the man is notwithstanding sufficient, three thousand ducats, I thinke I may take his bond.

Baf. Be affured you may.

Inv. I will be affured I may: and that I may be affured, I will bethinke mee, may I (peake with Ambonio !

Baff. If it please you to dine with vs.

Iew. Yes, to smell porke, to eate of the habitation which your Prophet the Nazarite conjured the divell into 1 I will buy with you, fell with you, talke with you, walke with you, and so following ; but I will not eate with you, drinke with you, not pray with you. What newes on the Ryalta, who is he comes here?

Enter Anthonio

Baff. This is lignior Anthonie. lem. How like a fawning publican he lookes. I hate him for he is a Christian : But more, for that in low implicitie He lends out money gratis, and brings downe The rate of vlance here with vs in Venice. If I can catch him once vpon the hip, I will feede fat the ancient grudge I beare him. He hates our facted Nation, and he railes Euen there where Merchants most doe congregate On me, my bargaines, and my well-worne thrift, Which hacals interreft : Curled be my Trybe If I forgue him.

Beff. St; lock doe you heare. Sby. I am debating of my prefent flore, And by the neere geffe of my memorie I cannot infantly raise vo the groffe Offull three thouland discats : what of that? Tuballa wealthy Hebrew of my Tribe Will furnish me; but fost, how many months Doe you desire ? Rest you saire good signior, Your worship was the last man in our mouthes.

Aut. Shylocke, albeit I neither lend nor borrow By taking, nor by gluing of excesse, Yet to supply the ripe wants of my friend, He breake a custome : is he yet possest

How much he would?

Sby. I,I, three thousand ducats. Ant. And for three months.

shy. I had forgot, three months, you told me to. Well then, your bond : and let me fee, but heare you, Me thoughts you faid, you neither lend nor borrow Vpon aduantage.

Ant. I doe neuer vie it.

Sby. When lacob graz'd his Vncle Labans theepe, This lacob from our holy Abram was (As his wife mother wrought in his behalfe) The third possesser; I, he was the third.

Ans. And what of him, did he take interrest? Shy. No, not take interest, not as you would fay Directly interest, marke what lacob did, When Laban and himfelfe were compremyz'd That all the eanelings which were streakt and pied Should fall as laceb, hier, the Ewes being rancke, In end of Autumne turned to the Rammes, And when the worke of generation was Betweene these woolly breeders in the act, The skilfull shepheard pil'd me cereaine wands, And in the dooing of the deade of kinde, He Rucke them vp before the fulfome Ewes, Who then conceauing, did in eaning time Fall party-colour'd lambs, and those were laceba. This was a way to thrive, and he was bleft:

And thrift is bleffing if men flesle it not.

Ane. This was a venture for that lacob fere'd for. A thing not in his power to bring to peffe, But for sy'd and fathion'd by the hand of heaven. Was this inferred to make interrest good? Or is your gold and filuer Ewes and Roms e

Shy. I cannot tell, I make it breede as fall,

But note me fignior.

Ant. Marke you this Baffanto, The divell can cite Scripture for his purpose, An euill foule producing holy witnesse, Is like a villaine with a finiling checke, A goodly apple rotten at the heart. O what a goodly outlide fallehood hath.

Sby. Three thousand ducats, tis a good found sur. Three months from twelve, then let me fee the rete.

Ant. Well Stylocke, shall we be beholding to you? Shy. Signior Anthonio, many a time and of In the Ryalto you have rated me About my monies and my viances : Still have I borne it with a patient thrug, (For suffrance is the badge of all our Tribe.) You call me misbeleever, cut-throate dog. And fper vpon my lewish gaberdine, And all for vie of that which is mine owne. Well then, it now appearer you neede my helper Goe to then, you come to me, and you say, Sbylocke, we would have moneyer, you fay fo: You that did voide your rume vpon my beard, And foote me 23 you spurne 2 stranger curre Ouer your threshold, moneyes is your suite. What should I say to you? Should I not say, Hath a dog money? Is it possible A curre should lend three thousand ducats? or Shall I bendlow, and in a bond-mans key With bated breath, and whispring humblenesse, Say this: Faire fir, you fper on me on Wednelday last; You fourn'd me fuch a day; another time You cald me dog: and for these currelies He lend you thus much moneyes, Ans. I am as like to call thee fo againe, To spet on thee agains, to spurne thee too.

If thou wilt lend this money lend it not
As to thy friends, for when did friendship take A breede of barraine mettall of his friend? But lend it rather to thine enemie, Who if he breake, thou maist with better face

Exact the penalties.

Sby. Why looke you how you florme, I would be friends with you, and have your love, Forget the Chames that you have flaind me with, Supplie your present wants, and take no doite Of viance for my moneyes, and youle not heare me, This is kinde I offer.

Bef. This were kindseffe. Sby. This kindseffe will I showe, Goe with me to a Notarie, feale me there Your fingle bond, and in a merrie sport If you repair me not on such a day, In fuch a place, foch fum or fums as are Express in the condition, let the forfeite Be nominated for an equell pound Of your faire flesh, to be cut off and taken In what part of your bodie it pleafeth me.

Art. Content infaith, Ile feale to fuch a boad, And fay there is much kindneffe in the Iew.

B.G. You

Baff. You shall not seale to such a bond for me, He rethet dwell in my necessitie.

Aut. Why feare not man, I will not forfaite it.
Within the fetwo months, that's a month before
This bond capites, I doe expect returne
Of thrice three times the valew of this bond.

Shy. O father Abram, what these Christians are, Whose owne hard dealings reaches them suspect The thoughts of others: Praie you tell methis, Is the should breake his daie, what should I gaine By the exaction of the forfeiture? A pound of mans field taken from a man, I snot so estimable, profitable neither As flesh of Mutrons, Beefes, or Goates, I say To buy his saucurs! extend this friendship, Is the will take it, so: if not adiew, And for my love I praie you wrong menot.

Ant. Yes Shylocke, I will feale vito this bond.
Shy. Then meete me forthwith at the Notaries,
Giue him direction for this merrie bond,
And I will goe and purfe the ducats straite.
See to my house lest in the featefull gard
Of an vithristic knaue; and presentie
Ilebe with you.

Ant. Hie thee gentle Iew. This Hebrew will turne Christian, he growes kinde.

Baff. I like not faire teames, and a villaines minde.
Ant. Come on, in this there can be no difmate,
My Shippes come home a month before the date.

Exenns.

Actus Secundus.

Enter Morschus at awate Moore all in white, and three or foure followers accordingly, with Portia, Nerriffa, and their traine. Flo. Cornetts

Mor. Milikemenot for my complexion,
The shadowed lucric of the burnish clunne,
To whom I am a neighbour, and neere bred.
Bring me the fairest creature North-ward borne,
Where Phabus fire karce thawes the ysieles,
And let vs make incision for your loue,
To proue whose blood is reddest, his or mine.
I tell thee Ladie this aspect of mine
Hath search the valiant, (by my loue I sweare)
The best regarded Virgins of our Clyme
Hauelou'd it to: I would not change this hue,
Except to steale your thoughts my gentle Queene.

Por. In tearmes of choile I am not folic led
By nice direction of a maidens eies;
Befides, the lottric of my destenie
Bass me the right of voluntarie choosing;
But if my Father had not scanted me,
And hedg'd me by his wit to yeelde my selfe
His wife, who wins me by that meanes I told you,
Your selfe (renowned Prince) than stood as faire
As any commer I have look'd on yet
For my affection.

Mor. Enen for that I thankeyou, Therefore I pray you leade me to the Caskets To ttie my fortune: By this Symitare That flew the Sophie, and a Persian Prince
That won three fields of Sultan Solyman,
I would ore-stare the sterness eight shat looke:
Out-braue the heart most daring on the earth:
Plucke the yong sucking Cubs from the she Beate,
Yea, mocke the Lion when he rores for pray
To win the Ladie. But alas, the while
If Hercules and Lychas plaie at dice
Which is the better man, the greater throw
May turne by fortune from the weaker hand:
So is Alcides beaten by his rage,
And so may I, blinde fortune leading me
Misse that which one vnworthier may attaine,
And die with grieving.

Port - You must take your chance,
And either not attempt to choose at all,
Or sweare before you choose, if you choose wrong
Neuer to speake to Ladie afterward
In way of marriage, therefore be adult'd.

Mor. Nor will not, come bring me voto my chance.

Por. First forward to the temple, after dinner

Your hazard shall be made.

Mor. Good fortune then, Cornets.

To make me bleft or curfed ft among men. Exeum.

Enter the Clowne alone.

Clo. Certainely, my conscience will serue me to run from this Iew my Maister: the fiend is at mine elbow, and tempts me, saying to ma, lobbe, Launcelet lobbe, good Launcelet, or good lobbe, or good Launcelet lobbe, vie your legs, take the start, run awaic : my conscience faies no; take heede honest Launceler, take heed honest Jobbe, or as afore-said honest Launcelet lebbe, doe not runne, scorne running with thy heeles; well, the most coragious fiend bids me packe, fin faies the fiend, away faies the fiend, for the heavens rouse vp a brave minde faies the fiend, and run; well, my conscience hanging about the necke of my heart, faies verie wisely to me: my honest friend Launceler, being an honest mans sonne, or rather an honest womans sonne, for indeede my Father did fomething smack. something grow too; he had a kinde of talle; wel, my conscience saies Lancelet bouge not, bouge faics the fiend, bouge not faies myconfcience, confcience fay I you counfaile well, fiend fay I you counfaile well, to berul'd by my conscience I should stay with the lew my Malster, (who God blessethe marke) is a kinde of diuell; and to run away from the lew I flould be ruled by the fiend, who fauing your reuerence is the divell himfelfe: certainely the lew is the verie diuell incarnation, and in my conscience, my conscience is a kinde of hard conscience, to offer to counsaile me to stay with the lew; the fiend gives the more friendly counfaile: I will runne fiend, my heeles are at your commandement, I will Enter old Gobbo with a Bafker.

Gob. Maister yong-man, you I praie you, which is the

Ean. O heavens, this is my true begotten Father, who being more then fand-blinde, high gravel blinde, knows me not, I will trie confusions with him.

Geb. Maister yong Gentleman, I praie you which is the watero Maister Inner.

Lem. Turne vpon your right hand at the next turning, but at the next turning of all on your left; mattie at the verie next turning, turne of no hand, but turn down indirectic to the lewer house.

ពរែកខ្

Cob Be Gods fonties twill be a hard wate to hit, can you tell me whether one Launceles that dwels with him, dwell with him or no.

Lann. Talke you of yong Master Launcelet, marke menow, now will I raise the waters; talke you of yong Mailler Launceles?

Gob. No Maister sir, but a poore mans sonne, his Father though I fay't is an honest exceeding poore man, and God be thanked well to live.

Lan Well, let his Father be what a will, wee talke of yong Mailter Launceler

Gob. Your worthips friend and Lamcelet

Lans. But I praie you ergo old man, ergo I befeech you, talke you of yong Maifter Lanncelet

Gob. Of Laureler , ant please your maistership.

LanErge Maister Lauceles calke not of maister Lanceler Father, for the youg gentleman according to faces and definies, and fuch odde fayings, the lifters three, & fuch branches of learning, is indeede deceafed, or as you would fay in plaine tearmes, gone to heaven.

Gob. Marrie Godforbid, the boy was the verie faffe of my age, my veric prop.

Law Dollook like a sudgell or a houell-post, a staffe or a prop : doe you know me Father,

Gob Alacke the day, I know you not yong Geneleman, but I prate you tell me, is my boy God rest bis soule alive or dead.

Lan. Doe you not know me Father.

Gob Alacke fir 1 am fand blinde, I know you not.

Lan. Nay, indeede if you had your ever you might faile of the knowing me: it is a wife Father that knowes his owne childe. Well, old man, I will tell you newes of your fon, give me your bleffing, truth will come to light, morder cannot be hid long, a mans fonne may, but in the end truth will out.

Gob. Praie you sit stand vp, I am sure you are not Lanceles my boy.

Los Praie you let's have no more fooling about it, but give mee your bleffing : I am Lancelet your boy that was, your sonne that is, your childe that shall be,

Gob. I cannot thinke you are my fonne.

Lan. I know not what I shall thinke of that: but I am Lenceles the lewer man, and I am fure Margerse your wife is my mother.

Gob. Her name is Margerie indeede, Ile be sworne if thou be Lancelet, thouart mine owne flesh and blood: Lord worshipt might he be, what a beard hast thou got; thou hast got more haite on thy chin, then Dobbin my philhorich as on his taile

Les It should seeme then that Dobbins taile growes backeward. I am fure he had more baire of his taile then I have of my face when I loft faw him.

Gob. Lord how art thou chang'd: how dooft thou and thy Master agree, I have brought him a present; how gree you now?

Lan. Well, well, but for mine owne part, as I have fet vp my rest to run aware, so I will not rest till I haue run some ground: my Maister's a verie lew, giue him a prefent, give him a halter, I am famisht in his service. You may cell eueric finger I have with my ribs : Father I am glad you are come, give me your present to one Maister Baffanio, who indeede gives rare new Livories, if I ferue not him, I will run as far as Godhas anse ground O rate forsune, here comer the man, to him Father, for lama I'm if I ferue the I'm anie longer

Enter Baffanio mab a follower er too

Baff You may doe lo, but let it be lo hafted that Supper be readic at the farthest by five of the clocke fee thefe Letters delivered, put the Liveries to miking, and defire Grantow to come anone to my lodg.

Lan. Tohim Father.

Gob. God bleffe your worthup

Baff. Gramereie, would'it then ought with me.

Gob Here's my Conne fir, a poore boy

Law. Not a poore boy he, but the rich lower man thez would fir as my Father shall specifie

Gob. He hath a great infection fir, as one would by to ferue.

Lan. Indeede the short and the long is, I ferue the lew, and have a defire as my Father shall specifie Gob. His Maister and he (Tauring your worthups reverence) are fearce catertoins

Las. To be briefe, the verie truth is, that the les having done me wrong, doth cause me as my Facher being I hope an old man shall fruithe voto you

Gob. I have here a dish of Doves that I would beflow vpon your worthip, and my fuse is.

Low. In verte briefe, the futte to impertinent to my felfe, as your worthip thall know by this honeft old man, and though I say it, though old man, yet poore man my

Baff. One speake for both, what would you?

Las Serue you fir.

Gob That is the verie delect of the matter fu.

Baff. I know thee well, thou hast obtain'd thy suite, Stylockethy Maister Spoke with me this dais And hath prefer'd thee, if it be preferment To leave a rich lewer fervice, to become The follower of so poore a Gentleman.

Clo. The old prouerbe is verie well parted bet weene my Maister Shylocke and you fir, you have the grace of God fir, and he hath enough.

Baff. I hou speak'st it well; go Father with thy Son, Take leave of thy old Maister, and enquire

My lodging out, give him & Liveric More garded then his fellowes fee it done.

Cla, Father in, I cannot get a service, no, I have nere a conque in my head, well : if anie man in Itale haue a fairer table which doth offer to Iweare vpon a booke, I shall have good fortune; goe too, here's a simple line of life, here sa small trific of wives, alas, fifteene wives is nothing, a leuen widdowes and nine maides is a fimple comming in for one man, and then to scape drowning thrice, and to be in perill of my life with the edge of a featherbed, here are simple scapes : well, if Fortune be a woman, the aa good wench for this gere: Father come, le cake my leave of the lew in the twinkling.

Exit Clowne.

Baff. I praie thee good Lemardo thinke on this. Thefe things being bought and orderly bestowed Returne in haste, for I doe seast to night

My best esteemd acquaintance, hie thee goe

Leon. My best endeuors shall be done herem. Exil. Le. Exter Grasiano.

Gra. Where's your Maister.

Levs. Yander

Leon, Yonder fir he walkes,

Gra. Signior Baffanie.

Baf. Grasiano

Gra. I have a suce to you.

Bass. You have obtain'd it.

Gra. You must not denie me, I must goe with you to Belmont. Baff. Why then you must: but heare thee Gratiano,

Thou art to wilde, to rude, and bold of voyce, Parts that become thee happily enough, And in such eyes as ours appeare not faults; But where they are not knowne, why there they flow Something too liberall, pray thee take paine To allay with some cold drops of modelite Thy ikipping spirit, least through thy wilde behaulour I be misconsterd in the place I goe to,

And loofe my hopes,

Gra. Signor Baffanio, heare me. If I doe not put on a lober habite, Talke with respect, and sweare but now and than, Weare prayer bookes in my pocket, looke demutely, Nay more, while grace is faying hood mine eyes Thus with my hat, and figh and fay Amen: Vie all the observance of civillitie Like one well studied in a fad oftent

To please his Grandam, neuer trust me more.

Bas. Well, we shall see your bearing Gra. Nay but I barre to night, you shall not gage me By what we doe to night.

Baf. No that were pittie, would intreate you rather to put on Your boldest suite of mirth, for wa have friends That purpose merriment : but far you well, I have some businesse.

Gra. And I must to Lorenso and the rest, But we will vifite you at supper time.

Exa

Enter lessea and the Clowne.

lef. I am forry thou wilt leave my Father fo, Our house is hell and thou a merrie divell Did'it rob it of some tafte of rediousnesse; But far thee well, there is a ducat for thee, And Loncelet, soone at supper shale thou see Lorenzo, who is thy new Maisters guest, Giue him this Letter, doe it fectetly, And so farwell : I would nowhaue my Father See me talke with thee.

Clo. Adue, teares exhibit my tongue, most beautifull Pagan, most sweere lew, if a Christian doe not play the knaue and get thee, I am much deceived; but adve, thele foolish drops doe somewhat drowne my manly spirit.

lef. Farewell good Lancelet Alacke, what hainous finne is it in me To be ashamed to be my Fathers childe, But though I am a daughter to his blood, I am not to his manners : O Lorenzo. If thou keepe promise I shall end this strife. Become a Christian, and thy louing wife

Enter Grasiano, Lorenzo, Slatoro, and Salamo Lor. Nay, we will flinke away in supper time, Difguile vs at my lodging, and returne all in an houre.

Gra. We have not made good preparation. Sal. We have not spoke vi yet of Torch-bearers.

Sol. 'Tis vile vnlosse it may be quaintly ordered, And better in my minde not vndertooke.

Ler. Tis now but foure of clock, we have two houres To furnish vs; friend Lanceler what's the newes.

Enter Lancelet pub a Lettor.

Law. And it shall please you to breake up this, shall it leeme to lignifie.

Lor. I know the hand, in faith 'tis a faire hand And whiter then the paper it writ on, I the faire hand that writ.

Gra. Love newes in faith.

Lan. By your leave fir

Lor. Whither goeft thout

Ler. Marry fir to bid my old Mafter the Ten to fup to night with my new Master the Christian.

Lor. Holdhere, take this, tell gentle leffica will not faile her, speake it privately ,

Go Gentlemen, will you prepare you for this Maske to night,

I am provided of a Torch-bearer. Sal. I marry, ile be gone about it strait.

Sol. And fo will !

Lor. Meete me and Gratiano at Gratianos lodging Some houre hence.

Sal. Tis good we do fo.

Gra. Was not that Letter from faire Jeffica? Lor. I mult needes tell thee all, the hath directed How I shall take her from her Fathers house, What gold and rewels the is furnisht with, What Pages fuite the hath in readinesse. If ere the les her Father come to heaven, It will be for his gentle daughters fake; And neuer dare misfortune croffe her foote, Vnlesse she doe it under this excuse, That the is iffue to a faithleffe lew : Come goe with me, pervie this as thou goeff, Faire issua shall be my Torch bearer

Exit.

Exu. Clowne.

Enter les , and bu man ibas was the Clowne.

lew. Well, thou shall see, thy eyes shall be thy sudge, The difference of old Shylocky and Baffanie; What leffice, thou shalt not gurniandize As thou halt done with me : what leffica? And steepe, and snore, and rend apparrell out. Why Teffica I lay

Clo. Why leffica.

Sby. Who bids thee call? I do not bid thee call, Clo. Your worthip was wont to tell me I could doe nothing without bidding.

Enter lefica. lef. Callyou? what is your will? Shy. I am bid forth to supper leffice, There are my Keyes: but wherefore should I got I am not bid for love, they flatter me. But yet Ile goe in hate, to feede vpon The prodigall Christian. Irffica my girle, Looke to my house, I sm right loath to goe, There is forme ill a bruing towards my reft. For I did dreams of money bags to night.

Cle. I beseech you sir goe, my yong Master Doth expect your reproach.

Sby. So doe I his.

Cle. And they have conspired together, I will not say you shall see a Maske, but if you doe, then it was not for nothing that my nose fell a bleeding on blacke monday laft, at fix a clocke ith morning, falling out that yeers on ashweniday was foure yeere in th'afternoone

Sby. What atecheir maskes? heare you me loffica, Lock yp my doores, and when you heare the drain And the vile Iquealing of the wry-neckt Pife, Clamber not you up to the cafements then, Nor thrust your head into the publique streete To gaze on Christian fooles with varnisht faces: But stop my houses cares, I meane my casements, Let not the found of shallow fopperie enter My fober house. By lacobs staffe I sweare, I have no minde of feasting forth to night: But I will goe : goe you before me firra, Say I will come.

Clo. I will goe before fir Mistris looke out at window for all this; There will come a Christian by, Will be worth a lawes eye.

Shy. What fairs that foole of Hagars off-spring?

Isf. His words were farewell mistris, nothing else.
Sty. The parch is kinde enough, but a huge seeder: Snaile-flow in profit, but he fleepes by day More then the wilde-cat: drones hive not with me, Therefore I part with him, and part with him To one that I would have him helpe to waste His borrowed purle. Well leffun goe in, Perhaps I will returne immediately; Doe as I bid you, shut dores after you, fast binde, fast finde, A proverbe neuer stale in thriftle minde. Exit.

lef. Farewell, and if my fortune be not croft, Exit. Thaues Father, you a daughter loft.

Ester the Maskers, Gratiano and Salino.

Gra. This is the penthouse under which Lorenzo Defired vs to make a fland.

Sal. His houre is almost past.

Gra. And it is merusile he out-dwels his houte, Por louers ever run before the clocke.

Sal. Otentimes faster Venma Pidgions flye To steal, loues bonds new made, then they are wont

To keepe obliged faith unforfaited.

Gra. That ever holds, who eileth from a feast With that keene appetite that he fits downe? Where is the horfe that doth vntread agains. His tedious measures with the vnbated fire, That he did pace them first : all things that are, Are with more spirit chased then enioy'd How like a yonger or a prodigall
The skarfed barke puts from her native bay, Hudg'd and embraced by the ftrumpet winder How like a prodigall doth the returne With ouer-wither'd ribs andragged failes, Leane, rent, and begger'd by the ftrumpet winde?

Enter Lerenzo.

Salino. Heere comes Lorenzo, more of this here-

Lor. Sweete friends, your patience for my long s bode,

Not I, but my affaires have made you wait: When you shall please to play the thecues for wines He watch as long for you then approach

Here dwels my father lew. Hos, who's within?

lestus abone.

Ieff. Who are you'rell me for more certainty, Albeit He sweate that I do know your tongue.

Lor. Lorenzo, and thy Love.

lef. Lerenze certaine, and my loue indeed, For who love I fo much? and now who knowes But you Lorence, whether I am yours?

Ler. Heaven and thy thoughts are wieness that thou lef. Heere, earch this casker, it is worth the paines, I am glad 'tis night, you do not looke on me, For I am much afham'd of my exchange: But loue is blinde, and louers cannot fee The pretty follies that themselves commit. For if they could, Capid himselfe would blush To see me thus transformed to a boy

Lor. Descend, for you must be my torch-bearer 1af. What, must I hold a Candle to my shames? They in themselves goodsooth are too too light. Why, tis an office of discovery Love, And I should be obscur'd.

Lor. So you are [weet,

Euen in the lovely garnish of a boy: but come at once, For the close night doth play the run-away.

And we are staid for at Basene's feast.

lef. I will make fast the doores and guild my felfe With forme more ducats, and be with you firaight. Gra. Now by my hood, a gentle, and no lew.

Lar. Bestrew me but I love her heartily, For the is wife, if I can judge of her, And faire fhe is, If that mine eyes be true And true she is, as the hath prou'd her selfe : And therefore like ber felfe, wife, faire, and true, Shall the be placed in my confiant foule.

Emer leffica. What, are thou come? on gentlemen, 2827, Our masking mates by this time for va flay,

Exit.

Enter Amborio.

Aut, Who's there? Gra. Signior Anthonia!

Ant. Fie, fie, Gratiano, where are all the reft? Tis nine & clocke, our friends all flay for you, No maske to night, the winde is come about, Bassanio presently will goe aboord, I have fent twenty out to feeke for you.

Gra. Ism glad on't, I defite no more delight Then to be under faile, and gone to night.

Ester Portia with Morrocco, and both their traines.

Por. Goe, draw aside the curtaines, and discouer The severall Caskets to this noble Prince: Now make your choyle.

Mor. The first of gold, who this inscription beares, Who chooleth me, shall gaine what men defire, The second filter, which this promise carries Who choofeth me, shall get as much as he deserves. This third, dull lead, with warning all as blunt, Who chooseth me, must give and hazard all he hath, How fall I know if I doe choose the right?

Por. The

How shall I know if I doe choose the right.

Por. The one of them container my picture Prince, If you choose that, then I am yours withall

Mor. Some God direct my judgement, let me fee, I will furuay the inferiptions, backe againe:

What faies this leaden casket?

Who chooseth mo, must give and hazard all be hath. Must give, for what? for lead, hazard for lead?

This casket threatens men that hazard all

Doe it in hope of faire aduantages:
A golden minde stoopes not to showes of droste, He then nor give nor hazard ought for lead. What faies the Siluer with her virgin hue? Who chooseth me, shall get as much as he deserves.

As much as he deserves; pause there Morocho, And weigh thy value with an euen hand, If thou beeft rated by thy estimation Thou dooft deserve enough, and yet enough

May not extend fo farre as to the Ladie : And yet to be aleard of my deferuing Were but a weake Hisabling of my felfe.

As much as I deferue, why that's the Lady. I doe in birth deserve her, and in sortunes, In graces, and in qualities of breeding : But more then thefe, in love I doe descrue.

What if I frai'd no farther, but chose here? Let's fee once more this faying grau'd in gold. Who choolethme shall game what many men delire: Why that's the Lady, all the world defires het:

From the foure corners of the earth they come To kille this fhrine, this mortall breathing Saint. The Hircanion deferts, and the vafte wilder

Of wide Arabia are as throughfares now For Princes to come view faire Portia. The waterie Kingdome, whose ambirious head

Spets in the face of heaven, is no barre To flop the forraine spirits, but they come

As ore a brooke to fee faire Portia One of these three containes her heavenly picture. Is't like that Lead containes her?'twere damnation

To thinke so base a thought, it were too grose To rib her fearecloath in the obscure grave:

Or shall I thinke in Silver she's immur'd Being ten times undervalued to tride gold; O finfull thought, never fortcha Iem

Was fet in worse then gold! They have in England A coyne that beares the figure of an Angell Stampt in gold, but that's insculpt vpon:

But here an Angell in a golden bed Lies all within. Deliuer me the key: Here doe I choose, and thrue I as I may.

Por. There take it Prince, and if my forme lye there Then I am yours .: Mor, Ohell! what have we here, a carrion death, Within whose emptie eye there is a written scroule; He reads the writing.

> Al that glifters woot gold, Often bane you beard that told; Many a man his life hath fold But my out side to behold; Guilded timber doe wormes infold: Had you beens as wife as hold, Youg an limbs, in subgement old, Year answere had not beens inscrold, Farejourel, your fucto is cold,

Mor. Cold indeede, and labour loft, Then farewell heate, and welcome froft: Portio adew, I have too grieu'd a heart To take a tedious lezue : thus loofers part.

Por. A gentle riddance : draw the curtaines, go Let all of his complexion choose me fo. Excess.

Enter Salareno and Solanio. Flo. Cornets.

Sal. Why man I faw Baffanio ender fayle, With him is Grenare gone along; And in their ship I am fure Lorenzo is not.

Sol. The villaine lew with outcries saild the Dake. Who went with him to fearch Boffanios thip.

Sal. He comes coolate, the ship was vodersaile; But there the Duke was given to understand That in a Gondilo were seene together Lorenzo and his amorous leffice Besides, Anthonio certified the Duke They were not with Boffanio in his thip

Sol. I never heard a passion so consuld. So Arange, outragious, and fo variable, As the dogge lew did veter in the Areets My daughter, O my ducats, O my daughter, Fled with a Christian, O my Christian ducats Iuftice, the law, my ducats, and my daughter: A fealed bag, two fealed bags of ducata, Of double ducats, stolne from me by my daughter, And sewels, two stones, two rich and precious stones, Scolne by my daughter : iuftice, finde the girle, She hath the stones upon her, and the dusate

Sal. Why all the boyes in Venice follow him, Crying his stones, his daughter, and his ducars.

Sol. Let good Anthomo looke he keepe his day Or he shall pay for this

Sal. Marry well remembred, I reason'd with a Frenchman yesterday, Who told me, in the narrow feas that part The French and English, there miscarled A vessell of our countrey richly fraught : I thought upon Anthonio when he told me, And witht in filence that it were not his.

Sel. Yo were belt to tell Anthonio what you heare.

Yet doe not suddainely, for it may grieve him.
Sal. A kinder Gentleman treads not the earth, I faw Baffanio and Anthonio part, Baffanio told him he would make some speede Of his returne i he answered, doe not so, Slubber not bulinelle for my lake Baffanie, But stay the very riping of the time, And for the Jemes bond which he hath of me, Let it not enter in your minde of love i Be merry, and imploy your chiefest thoughts To courtship, and such faire oftents of love As shall conveniently become you there; And even there his eye being big with teares, Turning his face, he put his hand behinde him, And wish affection wondrous fencible He wrung Baffamer hand, and to they parted.

Sec. I thinke he onely loues the world for him, I pray thee let vs goe and finde him out And quicken his embraced heavinesse With some delight or other.

Sal Doz wefo.

Excume.

ENET NOTE JA and a Serviture. Ner. Quick, quick I pray thee, draw the curtain flexit,

The Prince of Arragon hath cane his oath, And comes to his election presently.

> Enter Arragon, bis traine, and Portia. Flor . Corness.

Por. Beholdithere fland the caskets noble Prince. If you choose that wherein I am contain'd, Straight shall our nupriall rights be solemniz'd: But if thou faile, without more speech my Lord, You must be gone from hence immediately.

Ar. I am enjoyed by oath to observe three things; First, never to vafold to any one Which casket 'twas I choie; aext, if I faile Of the right casket, neuer in my life To wooe a maide in way of marriage Laftly, if I doc faile in fortune of my chayle, Immediately to leave you, and be gone.

Per. To these injunctions every one doth sweare

That comes to hazard for my worthlesse selfe.

Ar. And so have I addtess me, fortune now To my hearts hope : gold, filuer, and base lead .. Who choosesh me must give and hazard all he hath-You shall looke fairet ere I give or hazard. What saica the golden chest, ha, let me see 1 Who chooseth me, shall gaine what many men defire: What many men desire, that many may be meant By the foole multitude that choose by Chow, Not learning more then the fond eye doth teach, Which pries not to th'interior, but like the Martlet Builds in the weather on the outward wall, Euen In the force and rode of colualtie. I will not choose what many men desire, Because I will not jumpe with common spirits, And ranke me with the barbarous multitudes. Why then to thee thou Silver treasure house, Tell me once more, what title thou dooft beare; Who choofeth me shall get as much as he deferues: And well faid too; for who shall goe about To cofen Fortune, and be honourable Without the stampe of merrit, let none presume To weare an undeferued dignitie : O that estates, degrees, and offices, Were not deriu'd corruptly, and that cleare honour Were purchast by the merrit of the wearer; How many then should cover that stand bare? How many be commanded that command? How much low pleasantry would then be gleaned From the true feede of honor? And how much honor Pickt from the chaffe and ruine of the times. To be new varnisht: Well, but to my choise. Who choofeth me shall get as much as he descrues. I will assume defert; give me a key for this, And instantly volocke my fortunes here.

Per. Too long a paule for that which you finde there. Ar. What's here, the portrait of a blinking idiot Presenting me a scedule, I will reade it : How much volike art thou to Portia?

How much valike my hopes and my deferuings? Who choofeth me, shall have as much as he deferues Did I deserve no more then a fooles head, Is that my prize, are my deferts no better?

Per. To offend and judge are diffined offices,

And of opposed natures.

Ar. What is here?

The fier feauen tumes tried this,

Scanen times bried that ludement is, That did never che fo amis, Some there be the fredower biffe, such have but a foodowas blige. There be fooles alive Inis Silver do re and so was this Take what wife year illes body I will over be your beed 1 So be gone, you are feed

Ar. Still more foole I shall experse By the time I linger here, With one fooles head I came to woo, Bat I goe away with two. Sweet adue, Ile keepe my oath, Patiently to bear 1 my wroath.

Por. Thus hath the candle fing'd the mouth: O these deliberate sooles when they doe choose, They have the wildome by their wit to loofe.

Ner. The ancient faying is no herefie, Hanging and wining goes by destinie.
Por. Come draw the curtaine Norrisa.

Enter Melfenger.

Mef. Where is thy Lady Por. Here, what would my Lord? Mef. Madam, there is a - lighted at your gate A yong Venetian, one that comes before To fignifie h'approaching of his Lord, From whom he bringerh fenfible regreets; To wit (belides commends and curreous breath) Gifts of rich value; yet I have not feene So likely an Emballador of lone. A day in Aprill neuer came fo sweete To show how costly Sommer was at hand, As this fore-spurrer comes before his Lord.

Por. No more I pray thee, I am halfe a-feard Thou wilt fay anone he is some kin to thee, Thou fpend'ft fuch high-day wit in praising hims Come, come Nerry fla, for I long to fee Quicke Capids Post, that comes so mannerly.

Ner. Baffanie Lord, loue if thy will it be.

Adus Tertinus

Exter Solanto and Salarino.

Sol. Now, what newes on the Ryalto?

Sal. Why yet it lives there vncheckt, that Ambonia hath a thip of rich lading wrackt on the narrow Seas; the Goodwins I thinke they call the place, a very dangerous flat, and farall, where the carcaffes of many a rall ship, lye buried, as they say, if my gossips report be an honest woman ofher word.

Sol. I would the were as lying a goffip in that, as ever knapt Ginger, or made her neighbours beleeve the wept for the death of a third husband : but it is true, without any slips of prolixity, or crofting the plaine high-way of talke, that the good Anthonio, the honest Anthonio; o that I had a title good enough to keepe bis name company! Sal. Come, the full (top.

Sol. Ha, what layest thou, why the end is, he hath lost a thip.

Sal. I would it might prove the end of his loffes.

Sel. Let me say Amen betimes, least the divell crosse my praier, for here he comes in the likenes of a lew. How now Shylocke, what newes among the Merchants? Enter Shylocke.

Sby. You knew none to well, none to well as you, of my daughters flight,

the dam.

Sal. That's certains, I for my part knew the Tailor that made the wings fre flew withall.

Sol. And Sbylocke for his own part knew the bird was fledg'd, and then it is the complexion of them al to leave

Shy. She is damn'd for it.

Sal. That's certaine, if the divell may be her ludge.

Sky. My owne fielh and blood to rebell.

Sol. Out vpon it old carrion, rebels it at these yeeres. Say. I lay my daughter is my fieth and bloud.

Sal. There is more difference betweenerby flesh and hers, then betweene let and luorie, more betweene your bloods, then there is betweenered wine and rennish: but teil vs, doe you heare whether Authoric have had anio loffe at fea or no?

Shy. There I have another bad match, a bankrout, a prodigall, who dare (carge fliew his head on the Ryalto, a begger that was vid to come fo imug vpon the Mart: let blin look to his bond, he was work to call me Vfurer, les him looke to his bond, he was wont to lend money for a Christian curefie, let him looke to his bond.

Sal. Why I am fure if he forfaite, thou will not take his fiells, what's that good for?

Shy. To beite fish withall, if it will feede nothing elfe, it will feede my revenge; he hath difgrac'd me, and hindred me halfe a million, laught at my losses, mockt at my gaines, icomed my Nation, thwatted my bargaines, cooled my friends, heated mine enemies, and what's the teason? I am a Jove: Hath not a Jow eyes? hath not a In hands, organs, dementions, fences, affections, paffions, fed with the same foode, hurt with the same weapons, subice to the same diseases, healed by the same meanes, warmed and cooled by the same Winter and Sommmer as a Christian is: if you pricke vs doe we not bleeder if you tickle vs, doe we not laugh ? if you poifonvs doe we not die? and if you wrong vs shall we not revengerif we are like you in the rest, we will resemble you in that. If a low wrong a (borftien, what is his humility, revenged If a Christian wrong a lew, what should his fufferance be by Christian example, why revenged The villante you teach me I will executa, and it shall goe hard but I will better the inflruction.

Enser a mon from Anthonio.

Gentlemen, my maliter Ambonio is at his houle, and delires to speake with you both.

Sal. We have beene up and downe to feeke him. Ester Tuball,

Sel. Here comes snother of the Tribe, a third cannes be marche, volosse the divell himselfe nune lev.

Excust Goutlemen,

Shy. How now Taball, what newes from Generalhaft. thou found my daughter?

Two. i often came where I didheare offer, but cannot finde her. Sby. Why there, there, there, a dlamond gone coff me two thousandducats in Franckford, the curie neuer fell vpon our Nation till now, I never felt it till now, two thousand ducats in that, and other precious, precious iewels: I would my danghter were dead at my foot, and the lewels in her eare: would the were bearff at my foote, and the duckers in her coffin : no newes of them, why for and I know not how much is spent in the search: why thou losse vpon losse; the theese gone with so much, and so muzh to finde the theefe, and no fatisfaction, no reuenge, nor no ill luck ftirring but what lights a my thoulders, no fighes but a my breathing, no teares but a my shedding.

Tub. Yes, other men have ill lucke too, Anthonis as I heard in Genowa?

569. What, what, what, ill locke, ill lucke.

Tab. Hath an Argonic cast away comming from Tripolis.

Sh. I thanke God, I thanke God, Is It true, Is it true? Tub. I spoke with some of the Saylers that escaped the wracke.

Sby. I thanke thee good Tuball, good newes, good newes : ha, ha, here in Genowa.

Tub. Your daughter spent in Genows, as I heard, one night tourescore ducats.

Sby. Thou flick'ft a dagger is me, I shall never fee my gold againe, fourescore ducate at affeting, fourescore du-

Tab. There came divers of Anthopia: credit ars in try company to Veoice, that fweare hee cannot chaole but Sby, I am very glad of it, ile plague bim, ile corruce him, I am glad of it.

Tub. One of them showed me a ring that hee had of your daughter for a Monkie. Shy. Out upon her, thou cortwell me Tuball, it was my Turkies, I had it of Leeb when I was a Batcheler: I would not have given it for a wildernelle of Monkies. Tub. But Anthonio is certainely undone.

Shy. Nay, that's true, thet's very true, goe Taball, fee me an Officer, befpeake him a formight before, I will have the heart of him if he forfeit, for were he out of Verice, I can make what merchandize I will: goe Tuball, and merce me as our Sinagogue, goe good Tuball, at our Sinagogue Tuball, Enter Baffanie, Portia. Gratiano, and all their trains.

Per. I pray you estrie, paufe a day or two Before you hazard, for in choosing wrong I loofe your companie; therefore ibrbeare a while, There's tomething tels me (but it is not love) I would not loofe you, and you know your felfe, Hate counsailes not in such a quallisle; But leaft you Chould not understand me well. And yet a maiden hath no tongue, but thought, would decaine you here fome month or two Before you venture for me. I could teach you How to choose right, but then I am forsworne, So will I neuer be, formay you misseme, But if you doe, youle make me wish a finne. That I had beene for fwome: Beffirow your eyes, They have ore-looks me and devided me, One halfe of me is yours, the other halfe yours, Mine owne I would say: but of mine then yours, And fo all yours; O thefe naughtie times Puts bars betweene the owners and their rights. And so though yours, not yours (proue it so) Let Fortune goe to beli for it, not I I speake too long, but 'tis to peize the time, To ich it, and to draw it out in length, To flay you from election. Baff. Let Baff. Leeme choole, Foras I am, I live vpon the racke.

Por. Vpon the racks Befasse, then confelle
What treaton there is mingled with your love,
Beff. None but that valie treaton of militure.
Which makes me feare the entoying of my love:
There may as well be amitte and life,

'T weene fnow and fire, as treason and my love.

Por. I, but I feare you speake vpontheracke.

Wheremen enforced doth speake any thing.

Boff. Promise me life, and ile consesse that truth.

Por. Well then, consesse and live.

Boff. Consesse and love.

Had beene the verie fum of my confession:
O happie torment, when my tortuter
Doth teach me answers for deliverance:
But let me to my fortune and the casketa.

Per. Away then, I am lockt in one of them, If you doe love me, you will finde me out. Narry fe and the reft, frand all aloofe, Let mulicke found while he doth make his choife, Then if he loofe he makes a Swan-like end, Fading in mulique. That the compatison May frand more proper, my eye shall be the streame And wetrie death-bed for him : he may win, And whar is mulique than? Than monque is Euen as the flourish, when true subiects bowe To a new crowned Monarch: Such icis As are those dulcer founds in breake of day, That creepe into the dreaming bride-groomes care, And fummon him to marriage. Now he goes With no leffe prefence, but with much more love Then yong Alcides, when he did redeeme The viegine tribute, paied by howling Trip To the Sea-monster : I stand for facustice, The rest aloose are the Dardanian wives ? With bleared vilages come forth to view The ifive of th'exploit : Goe Hercules, Live thou, I live with much more dismay I view the fight, then thou that mak's the fray. Here Mefiche

> A Song the whilf Ballanio comments on the Catherine himselfe.

Tell one where is funcie bred,
Or in the heart, or in the head:
How begat, how wourdhed,
Bis engendred in the eyes,
With fazing fed, and Fancie dies,
In the eradle where it lies:
Let us all ring Faucas kind.
Ile begin it.
Ding doeg, bell.
All. Ding, doog, bell.

Baff. So may the outward showes be leeft themselves
The world is still deceiu'd with ornament.
In Law, what Plea so tanted and corrupt,
But being season'd with a gracious voice,
Obscures the show of easilt? In Religion,
What damned error, but some sober brow
Will blesseit, and approve it with a texts.
Hiding the grosensse with faire ornament:
There is no voice so simple, but assumes
Some marke of vertue on his outward parts;

flow manue countries, whose hearts are all as sale As flayers of land, vicase yet vpon their chine The beards of Hereules and frowning Mers, Who inward fearcht, have lyvers white as milke, And these assume but valors excrement, To render them redoubted. Looke on beartie, And you shall fee 'tis purchast by the weight, Which therein worker a miracle in nature Making them lighteft that weare most ofit : So are chose crisped snakie golden locks Which makes such wanton gambols with the winde Vpon supposed farrenesse, often knowne To be the downe of a fecond head, The scull that bred them in the Sepulcher. Thus or o ment is but the guiled shore To a most dangerous sea : the beautious scarle Vailing an Indian beautie; In a word, The feeming truth which cunting times put on To intrap the wifest. Therefore then thou gaudie gold, Hard food for Mills, I will pone of thee, Nor none of thee thou pale and common drudge Tweene man and man : but thou, thou meager lead Which rather threatness then dost promise oughe, Thy palenesse moues me more then eloquence, And here choase I, toy be the consequence.

Por. How all the other passions fleet to agre,
As doubtfull thoughts, and rash imbrae d despare:
And shudding feare, and greene-eyed realouse.
Oloue be moderate, allay thy extase,
In measure raine thy 109, scant this excesse,
I feele too much thy blessing, make it lesse,

For feare I lurfeit.

Baf. What finde I here?
Faire Portias counterfeit. What demie God
Hath come some recreation? move these eies?
Or whether tiding on the bals of mine
Seeme they in motion? Here are sever'd lips
Patted with suger breath, so sweet a batte
Should funder such sweet friends: here in her haires
The Painter plaies the Spider, and hath wowen
A golden mesh tintrap the hearts of men
Faster then grasts in cobwebs: but her eies,
How could he see to doe them? having made one,
Me thinkes it should have power to steale both his
And leave it selfe visiturisht: Yet looke how farre
The substance of my praise doth wrong this shadow
Doth limpe behinde the substance. Here's the scrowle,
The continent, and summarie of my fortune.

Ton that choose not by the view Chance at faire, and choose at true.

Since this fortune fair to you,
De content, and sede on new.
If you he well pleased with this.
And hold your fortune for your bliffe,
Turneyou where your Lady is,
And clauses for with a leasing life,

24f. A gentlefcroule: Faire Lady, by your lezue, I come by note to giue, and to receive,
Like one of two contending in a prize
That thinks be hath done well in peoples ciess
Hearing applause and vniverfall thoue,
Giddie in spirit, still gazing in a doubt
Whether those pealest of praise be his or no.

So thrice faire Lady fland I even to, As doobtfull whether what I fee be true, Vntill confirm'd, fign'd, ratified by you.

Per. You fee my Lord Baffiano where I fland, Such as I am; though for my felfe siene I would not be ambitious in my wish, To with my felfe much better, yet for you, I would be trebled twenty times my felfe, A thousand times more faire, ten thousand times More rich, that onely to fland high in your secount, I might in vertues, beauties, livings, friends, Exceed account: but the full fumme of me Is fum of nothing : which to terme in groffe; Is an valessoned girle, vaschool'd, vapradiz'd. Happy in this, the is not yet to old But she may learne : happier then this, Shee is not bred fo dull but fhe can learne; Happielt of all, is that her genile spirit Commits it leffe to yours to be directed, As from her Lord, her Governour, her King. My felfe, and what is mine, to you and yours Is now converted. But now I was the Lord Of this faire manhon, maller of my feruants, Queene ore my felfe: and even now, but now. This house, these servants, and this same my selfe Are yours, my Lord, I glue them with this ring, Which when you part from, loofe, or give away, Let it presage the ruine of your love, Baff. Maddam, you have bereft me of all words. Onely my bloud speaker to you in my vaines, And there is such consultion in my powers. As after some oration fairely spoke By a beloued Prince, there doth appeare Among the buzzing pleased multitude, Where every something being bleat together, Tunnes to a wilde of nothing, save of toy Express, and not express to but when this ring Parts from this singer, then parts life from hence, Othen be bold to say Baffanio's dead.

And be my vanuage to exclaime on you.

Ner. My Lord and Lady, it is now our time?
That have flood by and feene our wifnes profeer,
To see good joy good joy my Lord and Lady.

To cry good toy, good toy my Lord and Lady.

Cra. My Lord Baffanie, and my gentle Lady,
I wish you all the toy that you can wish:
For I am fare you can wish none from me:
And when your Honouts meane to solemnize
The bargaine of your faith: I doe befeech you
Euen at that time I may be married too.

Baff. With all my beart, so thou east get a wife.
Gra. I thanke your Lordship, you gave got me one.
My eyes my Lord can looke as swift as yours:
You saw the mistres, I beheld the maid:
You sou'd, I lou'd for intermission,
No more pertaines to me my Lord then you;
Your fortune stood vpon the caskets there,
And so did mine too, as the matter falls:
For wooing heere vutill I swet againe,
And swearing till my very rough was dry
With oathes of loue, at last, if promise last,
I got a promise of this saire one heere
To have her loue: provided that your fortune
Atchieu'd her mistresse.

Per. Is this true Nerriffe?

Nor. Madamit is fo, so you frand pleas'd withall.

Baff. And doe you Granture meune good faith?

Gra. Yes faith my Lord.

Boff. Our frast shall be much honored in your mar-

Gra. Weele play with there the first boy for a those-fand ducets.

Nor. What and stake downe?

Gra. No, we shall nere win at that sport, and stake downe.

But who comes heere? Lorenzo and his Infidell?
What and my old Venetian friend Saleris?

Enser Lorenzo, leffica, and Salerio.

Baf. Lorenzo and Salerio, welcome hether, If that the youth of my new interest heere Haue power to bid you welcome: by your leave I bid my verie friends and Countrimen Sweet Portio welcome.

Per. So do I my Lord, they are intitely welcome.

Ler. I thanke your honer; for my paramy Lord,
My purpose was not to have seene you heere,
But meeting with Selerio by the way,
He did intreste mee past all saying nay
To come with himselong.

Sal. I did my Lord,
And I have reason for it, Signlor Authorso
Commends him to you.

Baff. Ere I ope his Letter

I pray you tell me how my good friend doth.
Sal. Not ficke my Lord, vnlesse in minde,
Nor wel, vnlesse in minde: his Letter there
Wil shew you his estate.

Opens the Letter.

Gra. Nerrifia, cheere youd stranger, bid her welcom.
Your hand Salerio, what's the newes from Venice?
How doth that royal Merchant good Anthonie,
I know he veil be glad of our soccesse.

We are the lafons, we have won the fleece,

Sal. I would you had evon the fleece that hee hath loft.

Por. There are fome threwed contents in yond fame Paper,
That steales the colour from Baffianer cheeke,
Some deere friend dead, elfe nothing in the world
Could turne so much the constitution
Of any constant man. What, worse and worse?
With leave Bafacto I am halfe your setse,
And I must freely have the halfe of any thing
That this same paper brings you.

Baff. O Sweet Portia, Heere are a few of the unpleasant's words That ever blotted paper. Gentle Ladie When I did first impart my loue to you, I freely told you all the wealth I had Ran in my vaines: I was a Gentleman, Andthen I told you true : and yet deere Ladie, Rating my felfe at nothing, you shall fee How much I was a Braggart, when I told you My flate was nothing, I fhould then have told you That I was worle then nothing : for indeede I have ingag'd my felfe toa deere friend. Ingsg'd my friend to his meere enemie To feede my meanes. Heere is a Letter Ladie, The paper as the bodie of my friend, And everle word in it a gaping wound Issuing life blood. But is it true Salerio, Hath all his ventures faild, what not one hit, From Tripolis, from Mexico and England, From Lisbon, Barbary, and India, And not one veffell feape the dreadfull couch Of Metchant-marring rocks?

Of Metchant-marring rocks?

Sal. Not one my Lord.

Befides, it should appeare, that if he had
The present money to discharge the Iew,
He would not take lt a neuer did I know
A creature that did beare the shape of man
So keene and greedy to confound a man.
He plyes the Duke at morning and at night,
And doth impeach the freedome of the state
If they deny him wishe. Twenty Merchants,
The Duke himselfe, and the Magnifoces
Of greatest port have all perswaded with him,
But none can drive him from the envious plea
Of forseiture, of suffice, and his bond.

Iest. When I was with him, I have heard him (weare To Tubas and to Chin, his Countri-men.
That he would rather have Anthono's fieth,
Then twenty times the value of the fumme
That he did owe him: and I know my Lord,
If law, authoritie, and power denie not,
It will got hard with poore Anthono.

Per. Is it your deere friend that is thus in trouble?

Baff. The deetest friend to me, the kindest man,
The best condition'd, and vnwearied spirit
In doing curtesses: and one in whom
The ancient Romane honour more appeares
Then any that drawes breath in Italie.

Por. What fumme owes he tho lew?

Baff. For me three thousand ducate.

Per. What, no more? Pay him fixe thousand, and deface the bond : Double fixe thousand, and then creble that, Before afriend of this description Shall lofe a haire through Baffano's faoit. First goe with me to Church, and call me wife, And then away to Venice to your friend. For neuer shall you lie by Portes side With an unquier soule. You shall have gold To pay the perty debt twenty times ouer. When it is payd, bring your true friend along, My maid Nerriffa, and my felfe meane time Will live as maids and widdowes; come away, For you shall hence upon your wedding day i Bid your friends welcome, show a merry cheere, Since you are deere bought, I will love you deere. But let me heare the letter of your friend.

Sweet Ballanio, my ships have all miscarried, my Creditors grow cruell, my estate is very low, my bond to the low is forsest, and since in paying it, it is impossible I should line, all debts are cleered betweene you and I, if I might see you at my death: notwithst anding, vse your pleasure, if your love doe not persuade you to come, let not my letter.

Por. O lone! dispach all busines and be gone.

Bass. Since I have your good leave to goesway,
I will make hast; but till I come a gaine,
No bed shall ere be guilty of my stay,
Not rest be interposet twist vs twaine.

Enter the Iew, and Solanio, and Ambonio, and the laylor.

lew. Isylor, looke to him, tell not me of mercy,

This is the foole that lends out money gratu.

Ant. Hears me yet good Stylet,

Iew. He have my bond, speake not against my bond,
I have sworne an oath that I will have my bond:
Thou call'dst me dog before thou hadst a cause,
But since I am a dog, beware my phangs,
The Duke shall grant me tustice, I do wonder
Thou naughty laylor, that thou are so sond
To come abroad with him as his request.

Ant. I pray thee heare me speake.

I.m. Ile haue my bond, I will not heare thee speake,
Ile haue my bond, and therefore speake no more.
Ile not be made a soft and dull ey'd foole,
To shake the head relent, and sigh, and yeeld
To Christian intercessors: sollow not,
Ile haue no speaking, I will haue my bond

Extra fer-

Sol. It is the most impenettable curre

That ever kept with men.

Aut. Let him alone,

Ile follow him no more with bootleffe prayers:

He feekes my life, his teafon well 1 know;

I oft deliver d from his forfeitures

Many that have at times made mone to me,

Therefore he hates me.

Sol. 1 am sure the Duke will never grant this forfeiture to hold

As. The Duke cannot deny the course of law
For the commoditie that strangers have
With vs in Venice, if it be denied,
Will much impeach the instruct of the State,
Since that the trade and profit of the citry
Consistent of all Nations. Therefore goe,
These greeses and losses have so bated mee,
That I shall hardly spare a pound of sich
To morrow, to my bloudy Creditor.
Well Jaylor, on, pray God Bassanse come
To see me pay his debt, and then I care not.

Enter Portin, Norrissa, Lorenzo, lessua, azda mon of Portins.

Ler. Madam, although I speake it in your presence, You have a noble and a true conceit
Of god-like amity, which appeares most strongly
In bearing thus the absence of your Lord.
But if you knew to whom you shew this honour,
Howtrue a Gentleman you send releefe,
How deere a louer of my Lord your husband,
I know you would be prouder of the worke
Then customary bounty can enforce you.

Por. I neuer did repent for doing good,
Nor shall not now: for in companions
That do converse and waste the timetogether,
Whose soules doe beare an egal yoke of love,
There must be needs a like proportion
Oflyniaments, of manners, and of spirit;
Which makes me thinke that this Anthorse
Being the bosome lover of my Lord,
Must needs be like my Lord. If it be so,
How little is the cost I have bestowed
In purchasing the semblance of my soule:
From out the state of hellish cruelty,
This comes too neere the piassing of my selfe,
Therefore no more of it: heere other things
Lorenso I committate your hands,

The

The husbandry and mannage of my house, Vntill my Lords returne; for mine owne part I have toward heaven breath da secret vow, To live in prayer and contemplation, Onely attended by Nerrifa heere, Vntill her husband and my Lords returne: There is a monastery too miles off, And there we will abide. I doe desire you Not to denie this imposition, The which my love and some necessity Now layes vpon you.

Loren Madame, with all my heart,

Loren Madame, with all my heart, I shall obey you in all faire commands.

Por. My people doe already know my minde, And will acknowledge you and leffica In place of Lord Baffanio and my felfe. So far you well till we shall meete againe.

Lor. Faire thoughts & happy houres attend on you. feff. I wish your Ladiship all hearts content.

Per. I thanke you for your wish, and am well pleas'd To wish it backe oo you: faryouwell lesse. Exeunt. Mow Balthaser, as I have cuer found thee honest true, Solet me finde thee still: take this same letter, And viethou all the indeauor of a man, In speed to Mantua, see thou tender this Into my cosins hand, Doctor Belares, And looke what notes and garments he doth give thee, Bring them I pray thee with imagin'd speed Vinto the Tranect, to the common service Which trades to Venice; waste no time in words, Bur get thee gone, I shall be there before thee.

Balch. Madam, I goe with all convenient speed.

Por. Come on Nerisla, I have worke in hand

That you yet know not of; wee'll see our husbands

Before they thinke of vs?

rore they thinke or vs?

Nerriffa. Shall they see vs ? Partsa. They shall Nerreffe: but in such a habit, That they shall thinke we are accomplished With that we lacke; He hold thee any wager When we are both accoutered like yong men, He proue the prettier fellow of the two, And weare my dagger with the brauer grace, And speake betweene the change of man and boy, With a reede voyce, and turne two minfing steps Into a manly stride; and speake of frayes Like a fine bragging youth: and tell quaint lyes How honourable Ladies fought my loue, Which I denying, they fell ficke and died. I could not doe withall : then Ile repent, And wish for all that, that I had not kil'd them; And twentie of these punte lies Ile tell, That men shall sweare I have discontinued schoole Aboue 2 twelue moneth: I have within my minde A thousand raw tricks of these bragging lacks,

Which I will practife.

Nerrif. Why, shall wee tutne to men?

Portus. Fie, what a questions that?

If thou wert nere a lewed interpreter:

But come. He tell thee all my whole device

When I am in my coach, which stayes for vs.

At the Parke gate; and therefore haste away,

For we must measure twentie miles to day.

Enter Clowne and leffus.

Clown. Yestruly : for looke you, the finnes of the Father are to be laid vpon the children, therefore I promife you, I feare you, I was alwaies plaine with you, and so now I speake my agitation of the matter: therefore be of good cheere, for truly I thinke you are damn'd, there is but one hope in it that can doe you anie good, and that is but a kinde of bastard hope neither.

Excuns.

Iessica. And what hope is that I pray thee?

Clow. Marrie you may partile hope that your father got you not, that you are not the levves daughter lef. That were a kinde of baftard bope indeed, fo the fins of my mother should be visited upon me.

Clow. Truly then I seare you are damned both by father and mother: thus when I shun Scilla your father, I fall into Charibdo your mother; well, you are gone both waies.

Icf. I shall be sau'd by my husband, he hath made me a Christian.

Clow. Truly the more to blame he, we were Christians enow before, c'ne as many as could welliue one by another: clus making of Christians will raise the price of Hogs, if wee grow all to be porke-eaters, wee shall not shortlie have a rasher on the coales for money.

Exter Lorenzo.

lef. Hetell my busbend Lonceles what you say, heere he comes.

Loren. I shall grow lealous of you shortly Lancelet, if you thus get my wife into corners?

lef. No, you need not feare vs Lorenzo, Laureelet and I are out, he tells me flatly there is no merey for mee in heaven, because I am a lewes daughter and hee saies you are no good member of the common wealth, for in connecting lewes to Christians, you raise the price of Porke.

Loren. I shall answere that better to the Commonwealth, than you can the getting up of the Negrous bellie: the Moore is with childe by you Lancetee?

Claw. It is much that the Moore should be morethen reason; but if the be lessethen an honest woman, shee is indeed more then I tooke her for.

Loren. How everie foole can play upon the word, I thinke the best grace of white will shortly turns into silence, and discourse grow commendable in name onely but Partais: goe in sirra, bid them prepare for dinner?

Class. That is done fir, they have all Romacks?

Loren. Goodly Lord, what a witte-shapper are you, then bid them prepare dinner Claw. That is done to fir, onely cours is the word

Loren. Will you couer than fir?

Clow. Not so fir neither, I know my dutie.

Loren. Yet more quarreling with occasion, wilt thou shew the whole wealth of thy wit in an instant; I pray thee vinderstand a plaine man in his plaine meaning: goe to thy fellowes, bid them couer the table, serve in the meat, and we will come in to dinner.

Clow. For the table sir, it shall be fette'd in, for the meat sir, it shall be covered, for your comming in to dinner sir, why let it be as humors and concerts shall governe.

Exit Clowne.

Low. O deare discretion, how his words are suted, The soole hash pleased in his memory. An Armic of good words, and I doe know. A many sooles that stand in better place, Garnish like him, that for a trickse word. Desire the matter how cheer'st thou lesson. And now good sweet say thy opinion,

How

The Merchant of Venice.

To offices of tender curtefie,

How doft thou like the Lord Baffeard's wife?

Ieffi. Paft all expressings it is very meete.

The Lord Baffano live an veright life.

For having such a blessing in his Lady,

He sindes the loyes of heaven heere on earth,

And if on earth he doe not meane it.it.

Is reason he should never come to heaven?

Why, if two gods should play some heavenly match,

And on the wager lay two earthly women,

And Portus one: there must be something else

Paund with the other, for the poore rude would.

Hath not het sellow.

Loren. Even such a husband Hast thou of me, as the is for a wife.

Ler. I will anone, fifther vs goe to dinner?

Let. Nay, let me praise you while I have a stomacke?

Lor. No pray the electic ferue for cable talke, Then how fom ere thou speaks mong other things, I shall digest it?

IeffL Well, He set you forth.

Excunt

Adus Quartus.

Errer the Duke, the Magnificosi, Amhonio, Bassanto, and Gresuna.

Duke, What, is Anthonio heere?
Ant. Ready, so please your grace?
Duke. I am forty for thee, thou are come to answere
A stonie adversary, an inhumane wretch,
Vicepable of pitty, voyd, and empty
From any dram of mercie.

Ant. I have heard
Your Grace hathtane greet pames to qualifie
His rigorous course: but since he stands obdurate,
And that no lawful meanes can carrieme
Out of his enures reach, I do oppose
My patience to his fury, and am arm'd
To suffer with a quietnesse of spirit,
The very tiranny and rage of his.

Dy Go one and call the Lewinto the Court

Du. Go one and cal the Iew into the Court.
Sal. He is ready at the doore, he comes my Lord.

Erzer Shylocke.

Du, Makeroome, and let him fland before our face. Styleckethe world thinkes, and I thinke fo to That thou but leaded this fashion of thy malice To the last house of act, and then 'tis thought Thou'lt flew thy mercy and remorfe more ftrange, Than is thy strange apparant cruelty; And where thou now exact if the penalty, Which is a pound of this poore Merchants Belb, Thou will not onely loofe the forfeiture, But touch'd with homane gentlenelle and loue: Forgiue a moytie of the principall Glancing an eye of pitty on his loffes That have of late so hudled on his backe, Enow to prefic a royall Merchant downe; And plucke committeration of his flate From braffie bolomes, and rough hearts of flints, From Aubborne Turkes and Tarters never traind

We all expect a gentle answer Jew? In. I have possest your grace of what I purpole, And by our holy Sabbath have I (worne To have the due and forfest of my bond If you dense it, let the danger light Vpon your Charter, and your Chies freedome. You'l aske me why I rather choose to have A weight of carrion Resh, then to receive Three thousand Ducats? He not answer that I But lay it is my humor ; Is it answered? What if my house be troubled with a Rac, And I be pleas'd to give ten thouland Ducates To have le bain'd? What, are you answerd yet? Some men there are love not a gaping Pigge: Some that are mad, if they behold a Car And others, when the bag-pipe fings i'th nole, Cannot containe their Vine for affection. Mafters of pattion (wayes it to the moode Of what it likes or loaths, now for your enfwer: As there is no firme reason to be rendred Why he cannot abide a gaping Pigge? Why he a harmleffe necessarie Cat? Why he a woollen bag-pipe: but of force Must yeeld to fuch incustable shame, As to offend himfelfe being offended: So can I give no reason, nor I will not, More then a lodg'd hate, and a certaine loathing I beare Aurbonis, that I follow thus

A loofing fuite against him? Are you answered?

Baff. This is no answer thou enfeeling man,
To excuse the current of thy cruelty.

For. I am not bound to pleafe thee with my answer.

Baff. Do all men kil the things they do not love?

Ino. Hates any man the thing be would not kill?

Baff. Everie offence is not a hate at first.

Inv. What wouldft thou have a Serpent fling thee twice?

Ant. I pray you thinke you queftion with the lew:
You may as well go fland upon the beach,
And bid the maine flood batte his vfuall height,
Or even as well vfe queftion with the Wolfe,
The Ewe bleate for the Lambe:
You may as well forbid the Mountaine Pines
To wagge their high tops, and to make no noife
When they are fretted with the guffs of heaven:
You may as well do any thing most hard,
As feeke to foften that, then which what hardez?
His lewish heart. Therefore I do befeech you
Make no more offers, y se no farther meanez,
But with all briefe and plume conveniencie
Let me have iudgement, and the lew his will.

Baf. For thy three thousand Duestes beereis Ex-

Inc. If everie Ducat in fixe thousand Ducates
Were in fixe parts, and every part a Ducate,
I would not draw them, I would have my bond?

Du How shalt thou hope for mercie, reading none?

Irw. What ludgement shall I dread doing no wrong?

You have among you many a purchast slave,

Which like your Assert, and your Dogs and Mules,

You wie in abiech and in flavish parts,

Because you bought them. Shall I say to you,

Let them be free, marrie them to your beires?

Why sweste they under burthens? Let their beds

Be made as fost as yours: and let their pallats

Be season'd with such Visads: you will answer.

75:

The flaues are ours. So do I answer you. The pound of flesh which I demand of him Is deerely bought, tis mine, and I will have it. If you deny me; fie vpon your Law, There is no force in the decrees of Venice; I stand for judgement, answer, Shall I have it?

Du. Vpon my power I may dismisse this Court, Vuleffe Bellarion learned Doctor, Whom I have l'ent for to determine this,

Sal. My Lord, heere stayes without A Messenger with Letters from the Doctor, New come from Padus.

Du Bring vs the Letters, Call the Messengers. Ball. Good cheere Ambonio. What man, corage yet: The Iew shall have my flesh, blood, bones, and all,

Ere thou shalt loose for me one drop of blood.

Sur. I am a tainted Weather of the flocke, Meetelt for death, the weakelt kinde of fruite Drops earliest to the ground, and so ler me; You cannot better be employ'd Baffanio, Then to live fill, and write mine Epitaph.

Enter Nerriffa.

Du. Came you from Padua from Bellario? Ner. From both.

My Lord Bellario greets your Grace.

Bof. Why doft thou whet thy knife fo earneftly? Iew. To cut the sorfeiture from that bankrout there. Gra. Not on thy foale: but on thy foule harsh lew Thou mak'st thy knife keene: but no mettall can, No, not the hangmans Axe beare halfe the keennesse

Of thy flarpe enuy. Can no prayers pierce thee? lew. No, none that thou half wit enough to make.

Gra. O be thou damn'd, inexectable dogge, And for thy life let inflice be accus'd: Thou almost mak it me waver in my faith; To hold opinion with Pythagoras, That foules of Animals infule themselves Into the trunkes of men. Thy currish spirit Gouern'd a Wolfe, who hang'd for humane flaughter, Euen from the gallowes did his fell foule fleet; And whil'st thou layest in thy vnhallowed dam, Infus'd it selfe in thee: For thy defires Are Woluish, bloody, seru'd, and rauenous.

Lew. Till thou canft raile the feale from off my bond Thou but offend It thy Lungs to Speake so loud: Repaire thy wit good youth, or it will fall Toendlesse ruine. I stand hecrefor Law.

Du. This Letter from Bellario doth commend A yong and Learned Doctor in our Court; Where is he?

Ner. He attendeth heere hard by To know your sulwer, whether you'l admit him.

Du. With all my heart. Some three or four of you Go give him curreous conduct to this place, Meane time the Court shall he are Bellarmes Letter.

Y Our Graceshall understand, that at the reseite of jour Letter I am very sicke: but in the instant that your mesfenger came, in louing visitation, was with me a young Do. Ror of Rome, bis name is Balthafar : I acquained bim with the cause in Controversie, betweene the lew and Anthonio the Merchant: We turn'd ore many Bookes together: hee is furnished with my epinion, which bestred with his owne lear. uing, the greatnesse whereof I comot enough commend, comes with him at my importunity, to fill up your Graces request in my sted. I beseech you, let his lacke of years be no impedime ut to les hum lacke a reverend oftenation: for I never knowe fo yong a body, with so old a bead I leave hem to your gracious acceptance, whose trial shall better publish his commendation.

Enter Portia for Balthazar

Dute. You heare the learn'd Bellario what he writes, And heere (I take it) is the Doctor come. Giue me your hand: Came you from old Bellarer?
Por. I did my Lord.

Du. You are welcome : take your place; Are you acquainted with the difference That holds this present question in the Court.

Por. I am enformed throughly of the cause Which is the Merchant heere? and which the lew?

Du. Anthonio and old Shwocke, both Rand forth.

Por. Is your name Shylocke? lew. Shylocke is my name.

Por. Of a strange nature is the fute you follow, Yet in such rule, that the Venetian Law Cannot impugne you as you do proceed.

You fland within his danger, do you not? Ans. 1, so he sayes.

Por. Do you confesse the bond?

Ant. Ido.

Por. Then must the lew be mercifull.

Iew. On what compulsion must 1? Tell me that.

Por The quality of mercy is not frain'd, It droppeth as the gentleraine from heaven V pon the place beneath. It is twice bleft, It bleffeth him that gives, and him that takes, Tis mightiest in the mightiest, it becomes
The throned Monarch better then his Crowne. His Scepter fliewes the force of temporall power, The attribute to awe and Maiestie, Wherein doth hit the dread and feare of Kings: But mercy is about this sceptred sway, It is enthroned in the hearts of Kings, It is an attribute to God himfelfe; And earthly power doth then thew likelt Gods When mercie feasons lustice. Therefore Iew, Though lustice be thy plea, confider this. That in the course of luftice, none of vs Should fee faluation: we do pray for mercie, And that same prayer, doth teach vs all to render The deeds of mercie. I have spoke thus much To mittigate the inflice of thy plea:
Which if thou follow, this faid course of Venice

Must needes give ientence gainst the Merchant there.

Shy. My deeds vpon my head, I crave the Law, The penaltie and forfeite of my bond.

Per. Is he not able to discharge the money Baf. Yes, heere I tender it for him in the Court Yes, twice the formme, if that will not fuffice, I will be bound to pay it ren times ore, On forfeit of my hands, my head, my heart. If this will not fuffice, it must appeare That malice beares downe truth. And I befeech you Wrest once the Law to your authority, To do a great right, do a little wrong,

And curbe this cruell dinell of his wift. Por. It must not be, there is no power in Venlee Can alter a decree established :

Twill be recorded for a Prefident,

And

And many an error by the fame example, Will rush into the flate: It cannot be.

Inv. A Daneleome to judgement, year Danel.
O wile young ludge, how do I honour thee.

Par. I pray you let me lonke vpon the hand lew. Heere'us most reacted Doctor, lecte it is.

Por Shylade, there a thrice thy monie offered thee. Sby An oath, an oath, I have an oath in heaven

Shall I lay periorie vpon my foule? No not for Venice

Por. Why this bond is forfeit. And lawfully by this the lew may claime A pound of hell, to be by him cut off Necrest the Merchants hoore; be mercifull, Take thrice thy money, bid me teare the bond

In When it is paid according to the tenure. It doch appeare you are a worthy ludge you know the Law, your exposition Hath beene most found. I charge you by the Law, Whereof you are a well-descruing pillar, Proceede to judgement : By my foule I sweare, There is no power in the tongue of man To after me: I flay heere on my bond.

An. Mostheartily I do beseech the Court To give the judgement.

Por. Why then thus it is: you mult prepare your bosome for his knife.

Ier Onoble ludge, O excellent yong man.

Par. For the intent and purpose of the Law Hath full relation to the penaltie,

Which heere appeareth due vpon the bond. lew. Tis verie true : O wise and vpright ludge, How much more elder art thou then thy lookes?

Por. Therefore lay bare your bosome.

lez. 1, his breft,

So fayes the bond, doth it not noble ludge? Neerelthis heart, those are the very words.

Por It is fo: Are there ballance heere to weigh the

lew. I have them ready.

Por. Haue by some Surgeon Shylock on your charge To flop his wounds, least he should bleede to death.

It is not nominated in the bond? Per It is not so exprest: but what of that? Twere good you do so much for charme.

lew. I cannot finde it, 'tis not in the bond.

Per. Come Merchant, have you any thing to fay?

Ant. Butlittle : I am arm'd and well prepar'd. Gius me your hand Baffario, fare you well, Greeve not that I am falne to this for you: For heerein fortune shewes her selfe more kinde Then is her custome. It is full her vie To let the wretched man out-luse his wealth, To view with hollow eye, and wankled brow An age of poucity. From which linging penance Of luch milerie, doth the cut me off. Commend me to your honourable Wife, Tell her the processe of Anthono's end: Say how I lou'd you; speake me faire in death: And when the tale is told, bid her beiudge, Whether Baffario had not once a Loue: Repent not you that you shall loose your friend, And he repents not that he payes your debt. For if the Iew do cut but deepe enough,

He pay it instantly, with all my heart. Baf. Anthonio, lammarried to a wife,

Which is as deare come as life is felfe, But life it felfe, my wife, and all the world fire not with me efterm'd about thy life. I would look all, I facrifice them all Heere to this deutl, to deliver you

Por Your wife would give you little thanks for that If the were by to hence you make the offer.

Gra I have a wife whom I protest I love, I would the were in heaven, so the could Intreat fome power to change this currish leve.

Tis well you offer it behinde her backe, The wish would make else an unquier house. Inv. Thefe be the Christian husbands: I have a daugh Would any of the flocke of Barraba

Had beene her husband, rather then a Christian. We wife time, I pray thee purfue fentence

Per. A pound of that same marchants flesh is thine, The Court awards it, end the law doth give it.

In Most rightfull Iudge

Por And you must cut this flesh from off his break . The Law allowes it, and the Court awards it.

lew. Most learned Judge, a sentence, come prepara Por. Tarry a little, there is formething elfe,

This bond doth give thee heere no lot of bloud, The words expresly are a pound of fiesh : Then take thy bond, take thou thy pound of flesh, But in the cutting it, if thou dost shed

One drop of Christian bloud, thy lands and goods Are by the Lawes of Venice confilcate Vnto the state of Venice.

Gra Ovpright ludge, Marke lew, oleaned ludge.

Shy Is that the law Por. Thy selfe shall be the AA: For acthou vigelt inflice, beaffur'd

Thou shalt have iustice more then thou defirest.

Gra O learned ludge mark lew, a learned ludge. Iew. I take this offer then, pay the bond thrice, And let the Christian goe Baff. Heere is the money.

Por. Soft, the Iew shall have all instice, lost no haste,

He shall have nothing but the penalty. Gre. O lew, an vpright ludge, a learned ludge. Por. Therefore prepare thee to cut off the fielh,

Shed thou no blood, nor cut thou leffe nor more But suft a pound of flesh : if thou tak's more Or lesse then a rust pound, be it so much As makes it light or heavy in the fubflance, Or the devision of the twentieth part Of one poore scruple, nay if the scale doe turne But in the estimation of a hayre,

Thou diest, and all thy goods are conficate.

Gra A second Daniel, a Daniel lew.

Now infidell I have thee on the hip. Por. Why doth the lew paufe, take thy forfeiture. Shy. Give me my principall, and let me goe.

Baff. I have it ready for thee, heere it is. Por. He hath refus'd it in the open Court, He shall have meerly justice and his bond

Gra. A Daniel Rill fay I, a fecond Daniel, I thanke thee lew for teaching me that word.

She Shall I not have barely my principall? Por. Thou shalt have nothing but the forfeiture, To be taken so at thy perill lew.

Sby. Why then the Deuill give him good of it

He flay no longer queftion.

Por. Tarry

Por. Tstry low, The Law hath yet another hold on you. Ir is enacted in the Lawes of Venice, If it be proued against an Alien, That by direct, or indirect attempts He leeke the life of any Cirizen, The party gainst the which he doth contriue Shall feaze one halfe his goods, the other halfe Comes to the privile coffer of the State, And the offenders life hes in the mercy Of the Duke onely, gainft all'other voice, In which predicament I fay thou ftandit: For it appeares by manifel proceeding, That inditectly, and directly to: Thou haft contriu'd against the very life Of the defendant : and thou half incur'd The danger formerly by merchearft. Downe therefore, and beg mercy of the Duke.

Gra. Beg that thou maift have leave to hang the felfe,

And yet thy wealth being forfeit to the flate, Thou hast not left the value of a cord, Therefore thou mult be hang'd at the flates charge.

Dak, That thou shale fee the difference of our spitit, I pardon thee thy life before thou aske it : For halfethy wealth, it is Anthonio's, The other ha fe comes to the generall state, Which humbleneffe may drive voto a fine.

Per. I for the state, not for Anthonio. Sby. Nay, take my life and all, pardon not that, You take my house, when you do take the prop That doth sustaine my house: you take my life When you doe take the meaner whereby I live.

Por What mercy can you tender him Authorite? Gro. A haltengratio, nothing else for Gods sake Am. So please my Lord the Duke, and all the Court

To quit the fine for one halfe of his goods, I am content ; fo he will let me have The other halfe in vie, to render it Vpon his death, vnto the Gentleman That lately stole his daughter. Two things provided more, that for this favour He presently become a Christian : The other, that he doe record a gift Heere in the Court of all he dies possest Vnto his sonite Lorenzo, and his daughter. Duck, He Chall doe this, or elfe I doe recant The pardon that I late pronounced heere.

Por. Art thou contented Iew? what doft thou fay?

Sby. I am content.

Por. Clarke, draw a deed of gift.

Sby. I pray you give me leave to goe from hence, I am not well, fend the deed after me. And I will figne it.

Duke. Get thee gone, but doe it.

Gra. In christning thou shalt have two godfathers, Had I been judge, thou shouldst have had ten more, To bring thee to the gallowes, not to the font. Dw. Sir I intrest you with me home to dinner.

Por. I humbly doe defire your Orace of pardon, I must away this night toward Padua, And it is meere I presently let forth.

Duk. I am forry that your leyfure ferues you nor : Anthonio, growhe this geneleman; For in my minde you are much bound to him.

Exit Duke and bis traure. Baff. Most worthy gentleman, I aird my friend Haue by your wisedome beene this day acquitted Of greenous penalties, in leu whereof, Three thousand Ducats due vnto the Iew We freely cope your curteous paines withak.

An. And find indebted over and above In love and service to you cuermore.

Por. He is well paid that Is well fatisfied. And I delivering yon, am latisfied, And thereio doe account my selfe well paid, My minde was neuer yet more merelharie. I pray you know me when we meete againe,
I with you well, and fo I take my leave.
Baff. Deare fir, of force I multattempt you further,

Take some remembrance of vs as a tribute Not as fee : grant me two things, I pray you

Not to denie me, and to pardon ine.

Per. You presse mee farre, and therefore I will yeeld, Give me your gloves, Ile weare them for your fake, And for your love lic take this ring from you, Doenot draw backe your hand, ile take no more, And you in love shall not deny me this?

Baff. This ring good fir, alas it is a trifle, I will not shame my selfe to give you this.

Per. I wil have nothing elfe but onely this, And now methinkes I have a minde to it.

Baf There's more depends on this then on the valew, The dearest ring in Venice will I give you, And finde it out by proclamation,

Onely for this I pray you pardon me Por. I see sir you are liberall in offers You taught me first to beg, and now me thinkes You teach me how a beggar should be answer'd, Baf. Good fir, this ring was given me by my wife, And when the put it on, the made me yow That I should neither fell nor grue, nor lose it.

Por. That scule serves many men to faue their glfts, And if your wife be not a mad woman, And know how well I have deferu'd this ring, Shee would not hold out enemy for cuer For giving it to me: well, peace be with you. Exernt.

Ant. My L. Bassanie, let him have the ring,

Let his descrumes and my love withall

Be valued against your wines cummandement. Boff. Goe Gratiano, run and ouer-take him, Give him the ring, and bring him if thou canft

Vnto Anthonios houle, away, inake hafte. Come, you and I will chither prefently,

And in the morning early will we both Flie toward Belmont, come Anthonio.

Extens.

Enter Portia and Nerrosa.

Por. Enquire the Iewes house out, give him this deed, And let him fighe it, wee'll away to night, And be a day before our husbands home : This deed will be well welcome to Lorenzo. Enter Gratiano.

Gra. Faire fir, you are weil ore-tane : My L. Baffanio vpon more aduice Hath tent you heere this ring, and doth intrest Your company at dinner.

Por. That cannot be; His ring I doe accept most thankfully And fo I pray you tell him : furthermore, I przy you thew my youth old Sbylocker house.

Gra. That will I doe.

Nor. Sir, I would speake with you:

Ile fee if I can get my husbands ring
Which I did make him sweare to keepe for ever
Por. Thou main I warrant, we shall have old swearing
That they did give the riogs away to men;
But weele out-face them, and out-sweare them to:
Away, make haste, thou know st where I will tarry.
Nor. Come good fir, will you shew see to this house.

Exeunt.

A Elus Quintus.

Enter Lorenzo and leffica.

Lor. The moone thines bright. In such a might as this, When the sweet winde did gently kille the trees, And they did make no nnyse, in such a night Troils me thinkes mounted the Troils walls,

And figh'd his foule toward the Grecian tents Where Creffed lay that night.

Tef. In fuen a night
Did Thubie fearefully ore-trip the dewe,
And faw the Lyons shadow ere huntelfe.
And ranne difinayed away

Loren. In fuch a night Stood Dido with a Willow in her hand Vpon the wilde fea bankes, and wafi her Loue

To come againe to Carthage

lef. In such a night

Media gathered the inchanted hearbs
That did renew old Efou.

Loren. In such a night
Did Jeffica steale from the wealthy lewe,
And with an Vinthrist Love did runne from Venice,
As farre as Belivont.

lef. In such a night
Did young Lorenco (weare he lou'd her well,
Stealing her soule with many vowes of faith
And nere a true one.

Loren. In fuch a night
Did pretty Iessico (like a little shrow)
Slander her Lone, and he fotgaue it her.
Iessic I would out-night you did no body come:
But hacke, I heare the sooting of a man.

Enter Messenger.

Lor. Who comes so fast in tilence of the night?

Mess. A friend. (friend?

Loren A friend, what friend? your name I pray you has for stephano is invinance, and I bring word

My Mistresse will before the breake of day

Be heere at Belmont, she doth stray about

By holy crosses where she kneeles and prayes

For happy wedlocke houres.

Loren, Who comes with her?

Mef. None but a holy Herinii and her maid:
1 pray you it my Master yet intum'd?

Loren. He is not nor we have not heard from him,
But goe we in I pray thee lessica,
And ceremoniously let vays prepare

And sefemoniously let vs vs prepare Some welcome for the Mistresse of the house,

Enter Clowne.

Clo. Sola, sola. wo ha ho, sola, sola.

Luren. Who cells?

Ch. Sola, did you fee M. Lorenzo, & M. Lorenzo, fola,

Lor. Leave hollowing man house.

Clo. Sola, where, where?

Lw. Heere?

Clo. Tel him ther's a Post come from my Master, with his home full of good newey, my Master will be here ere morning (weet loule.

Loren. Let's to, and there exped their comming. And yet no matter: why should we goe in? My friend Srephen, figrufic pray you Within the house, your Miftrelle is at hand, And bring your mulique foorth into the syre. How sweet the moone-light sleepes upon this banke, Heere will we fit, and let the founds of mufiche Creepe in our cares foft filmes, and the night Become the tutches of fweet harmonie: Sit leffica, looke how the floore of heaven Is thicke inlayed with patterns of bright gold, There's not the smailest orbe which thou beholds But in his motion like an Angell Engs, Still quiting to the young eyed Cherubins; Such harmonic is in immortall foules, But whilft this muddy vefture of decay Doth grofly close in it, we cannot heare it: Come hor, and wake Diens with a hymne, With sweetest tutches pearce your Mistrelle eare, And draw her home with mulicke.

liff. I am neuer merry when I heare fweet mulique

Lor. The reason is, your spirits are attenuue: For doe but note a wilde and wanton heard Or race of youthful and vobandled colts, Ferching mad bounds, bellowing and neighing loud, Which is the hot condition of their bloud, If they but heare perchances trumpet found, Or any ayre of mulicke touch their eares, You that perceive them make a mutuall fland, Their fauage eyes turn'd to a modeft gaze, By the fweet power of mulicke: therefore the Pott Did faine that Orphew drew trees, Rones, and floods. Since naught fo Rockish, hard, and full of rage, But musicke for time doth change his nature, The man that hath no mulicke in himselfe, Nor is not moued with concord of freet founds, Is fit for treasens, fitalegems, and spoyles, The motions of his spirit are dull as night, And his affections darke as Erchim, Let no fuen man be trufted : marke the muficke

Einer Pariso and Nerrifia

Per. That light we fee is burning in my hall: How farre that little candell throwes his beames, So shines a good deed in a naughty world. (dle)

Ner. When the moone shone we did not see the can Per. So doth the greater glory dum the less, A substitute shines brightly as a King

Vivill a King be by, and then his flate Empties it felfe, as doth an inland brooke Into the maine of waters : mulique, banke.

Nor. It is your muficke Madame of the house Por Nothing is good I see without respect, Methinkes it founds much sweeter then by day? Nor. Silence bestowes that vertue on it Madam Por. The Crow doth sing as sweetly as the larke

When

Majocho

When neither i attended: and I thinke
The Nightingale if the should sing by day
When every Goose is cackling, would be thought
No better a Mussian then the Wren
How many things by season, season'd are
To their right praise, and true persection:
Peace, how the Moone sleepes with Endimlon,
And would not be awak'd

Musicke ceases,

Lor. That is the voice, Os I am much deceived of Portla.

Por. He knowes me as the blinde man knowes the Cuckow by the bad voice?

Lur. Deere Lady welcome home

Per. We have bene praying for our hu bands welfare Which speed we hope the better for our words.

Are they return'd?

Lor. Madam, they are not yet:.
But there is come a Messenger before
To signific their comming.

Por. Go in Nerrifa,
Giue order to my feruants, that they take
No note at all of our being abfent hence,
Nor you Lorenze, Jeffica nor you.
A Tucket founds.

Lor. Your husband is at hand, I heare his Trumpee, We are no tell-tales Madam, feare you not.

Per. This night methinkes is but the daylight ficke, It lookes a little palet, its a day, Such as the day is, when the Sun is hid.

Enter Bassanio, Anthonio, Gratiano, and their.
Followers.

Baf. We should hold day with the Antipodes, If you would walke in absence of the same

Per, Let me give light, but let me not be light, For a light wife doth make a heavie husband, And never be Bessanio so for me,

But God fort all: you are welcome homemy Lord.

Baff. I thanke you Madem, give welcom to my friend
This is the man, this is Anthonio,

To whom I am lo infinitely bound.

Por. You should in all sence be much bound to him,

Anth. No more then I am wel acquitted of.

Por. Sir, you are verie welcome to our house:
It must appeare in other water then words,
Therefore I scant this breathing curte sie.

Gra. By yonder Moone I (weare you do me wrong, Infaith I gaue it to the Iudges Clearke, Would he were gelt that had it for my part,

Since you do take it Loue so much at hart.

Por. A quarrel hoe alreadie, what's the matters'

Gra. About a hoope of Gold, a paltry Ring

That she did give me, whose Poesse was

For all the world like Cutlers Poessy

Vpon a knife; Love mee, and leave meetor.

Nor. What talke you of the Poelie or the valew:
You fwore to me when I did glue it you,
That you would weare it til the houre of death,
And that it should lye with you in your graue,
Though not for me, yet for your vehement oaths,
You should have beene respective and have kept it.
Gaue it a ludges Clearke: but well I know
The Clearke wil nero wearchaire on's face that hadis.

Gra. He wil, and if he live to be a man.

Norriffa. I, if a Moman live to be a man.

Gra. Now by this hand I gave it to a youth,
A kinde of boy, a little ferubbed boy,
No higher then thy felfe, the Iudges Clearkes,
A prating boy that begg d it as a Fee,
I could not for my heart deny it him.

Por. You were too blame, I must be plaine with you To part so slightly with your wines first gift.
A thing stucke on with oathes vpon your singer, And so riveted with faith vnto your sless.
I gave my Loue a Ring, and made him sweare.
Never to part with it, and heere he stands:
I date be sworne for him, he would not leave it,
Nor plucke it from his singer, for the wealth
That the world masters. Now in faith Gratiane,
You give your wife too vnkinde a cause of grease,
And twere to me I should be mad at it.

Baff. Why I were best to cut my left hand off, And sweare I lost the Ring defending it.

Gro. My Lord Raffano gaue his Ring away
Vnto the ludge that beg'd it, and indeede
Deferu'd it too: and then the Boy his Clearke
That tooke fome paines in writing, he begg'd mine;
And neyther man nor mafter would take ought
But the two Rings.

Por. What Ring gave you my Lord? Not that I hope which you receiv'd of me. Buff. If I could adde a lie vnto a fault,

I would deay it i but you fee my finger Hath not the Ring voon it, it is gone.

Por. Even so voide is your falle heart of truth.

By heaven I wil nere come in your bed

Vntil I see the Ring.

Nor. Nor I in yours, til I againe see mine.

Bass. Sweet Portia,
If you did know to whom I gave the Ring,

And would conceive for whom I gaue the Ring,
And would conceive for what I gave the Ring,
And how vnwillingly I left the Ring,
When nought would be accepted but the Ring,

You would abate the strength of your displeasure?

Por. If you had knowne the vertue of the Ring,
Or halfe her worthinesse that gaue the Ring,
Or your owne honour to containe the Ring,
You would not then haue parted with the Ring:
What man is there so much vnreasonable,
If you had pleas'd to have desended it
With any termes of Zeale: wanted the modesse
To vrge the thing held as a ceremonic:
Nerriss teaches me what to beleeve,
Ile die for't, but some Woman had the Ring?

Baff. No by mine honor Madam, by my fould No Woman had it, but a civill Doctor, Which did refuse three thousand Ducates of me, And beg'd the Ring; the which I did denie him, And suffer dhim to go displeas'd away:
Even he that had held vp the verie life
Of my deere friend. What should I say sweete Lady?
I was inforc'd to send it after him,
I was befet with shame and curteste,
My honor would not let ingratitude
So much besmeare it. Pardon me good Lady,
And by these blessed Candles of the night,
Had you bene there, I thinke you would have beg'd
The Ring of me, to give the worthie Doctor?

Q 2

The Mcrchant of Venice.

Pro. Lectnot that Doctor ere come neere my house,
Since he bath got the rewell thee I loued,
And that which you did sweare to keepe for me,
I will become as liberall as you,
lle not deny him any thing I liaue,
No, not my body, nor my husbands bed:
Know him I shall, I am well sure of it.
Lienote night from home. Watch me like Argos,
If you doe not, if I be left alone,
Now by mine honour which it yet mine owne,
Ile have the Doctor for my bedfellow.

Narriffa. And I his Clarke: therefore be well aduis'd How you doe leave me to mine owne protection.

Gra. Well, doe you so : let not me take him then, For is I doe, ile mar the yong Clarks pen.

Ant. lam th'vnhappy subicet of thefe querreis.

Por. Sir, grieue not you, You are welcome not with flanding.

Baf. Porna, forgiue me this enforced wrong,

Baf. Porta, torgue methis enforced wrong, And In the hearing of these manie friends I sweare to thee, even by thine owne fairneyes Wherein I see my selfe

Por. Marke you but that? In both my eyes he doubly fees himfelfe: In each eye one, (weare by your double felfe, And there's an oath of credit

Baf. Nay, but heare mc.
Pardon this fault, and by my foule I fweate
I never more will breake an oath with thee.

Anth. I once did lend my bodie for thy wealth, Which but for him that had your husbands ring Had quite miscarried. I dere be bound againe, My foule vpon the forfeit, shat your Lord Will never more breake faith aduisedlie

Por. Then you shall be his suretie: give him this, And bid him keepe it better then the other.

Ant. Heere Lord Baffasio, swear to keep this sing, Baff. By heaven it is the same I gave the Doctor Por. I had it of him: pardon Baffasio,

For by this ring the Doctor lay with me.

Nor. And pardon me my gentle Graumo,
For that same scrubbed boy the Doctors Clarke

In liew of this, last night did lye with me

Gra. Why this is like the mending of high waies
In Sommer, where the waies are faire enough.

What, are we Cuckolds ere we have descru'd it.

Per, Speake not so grossely, you are all amoz'd. Heere is a letter, reade to at your leyfure. It comes from Padua from Bellerino, There you shall finde that Person was the Doctoe. Nerriflathere her Clarke. London heere Shall withesselfe I fet forth as soone as you, And but et in now teturn'd: I have not yet. Entred my house. Anchonio you are welcome, And I have better nowed in store for you. Then you expect: violeate this letter soone, There you shall finde three of your Argosias Are richly cornet to harbour sodainste. You shall not know by what strange accident I chanced on this letter.

Ainbo. I am dumbe.

Baf. Were you the Dodor, and I knew you not?

Gra. Were you the Clark that is to make me cuckedd.

Nor. I, but the Clark that never meanes to doe it,

Vnleffe he live vntill he be a men.

Baf. (Sweet Doctor) you shall be my bedsellow. When I am absent, then lie with my wife.

An (Street Ladie) you have given mo life & living; For here I reade for certaine that my thips Are fafelic come to Rode.

Por. How novi Lerenze?

My Clarke hath fome good comforts to for you Ner I, and the give them him without a fee There doe I give to you and leffica
From the tich I ewe, a special deed of gifte After his death, of all he dies possess of the way.

Loren. Faire Ladies you drop Manna in the way.

Of strued people
Per. It is almost morning,

And yet I am fure you are not fatisfied Of these eucnts at full. Let vs goe in, And charge vs there vpon intergatories, And we will answer all things faithfully.

Gra. Let it be so, the first intergatory
That my Narriss shall be swotne on, is,
Whether till the next night she had rather stey,
Or goe to bed, now being two hours to day,
But were the day come, I should wish it darke,
Till I were couching with the Doctors Clarke.
Well, while I live, He feare no other thing
So fore, as keeping safe Narriss ring.

Exoum.

FINIS.

As you Like it.

Allus primus. Scæna Prima.

Enser Orlando and Adam.

Orlando.

S I remember Adam, it was upon this fashion bequeathed me by will, but poore a thousand Crownes, and as thou fairt, charged my brother on his bleffing to breed mee well: end there begins my sadnesse: My brother laques he keepes et schoole, and report speakes goldenly of his profit : for my part, he keepes me tustically at home, or (10 speak more properly) stajes me heere at home vnkept : for call you that keeping for a gentleman of my birth, that differs not from the stalling of an Oxe? his horses are bred better, for besides that they are faire with their feeding, they are taught their mannage, and to that end Riders deerely hir'd: but I (his brother) gaine nothing under him but growth, for the which his Animals on his dunghils are as much bound to him as I : besides this nothing that he so plentifully gives me, the something that nature gaue mee, his countenance seemes to take from me: hee lets mee feede with his Hindes, barres mee the place of a brother, and as much as in him lies, mines my gentility with my education. This is it Adam that grieues me, and the spirit of my Father, which I thinke is within mee, begins to mutinic against this seruitude. I will no longer endure it, though yet I know no wife

Euter Oliner.

Adam. Yonder comes my Master, your brother.

Orlan. Goe 2-part Adam, and thou shalt heare how he will shake me vp.

Oli. Now Sir, what make you heere?

Orl. Nothing: I am not taught to make anything.

Oli. What mar you then fir?

remedy how to avoid it.

Orl. Marry fir, I am belping you to mar that which God made, a poore vitworthy brother of yours with idlenesse.

Oliuer. Marry fir be better employed, and be naught

Orlan. Shall I keepe your hogs, and cat huskes with them? what prodigall portion have I spent, that I should come to such penury?

Ob. Know you where you are fir?

Orl. Ofir, very well: heere in your Orchard.

Oli. Know you before whom fir?

Orl. I, better then him I am before knowes mee: know you are my eldeft brother, and in the gentle condition of bloud you should so know me: the courtesse of mations allowes you my better, in that you are the first borne, but the same tradition takes not away my bloud, were there twenty brothers betwizt ys: I haue as much of my father in mee, as you, albeit I confesso your comming before me is nearer to his reverence.

Oil. What Boy. (this. Orl. Come, come elder brother, you are too yong in

Oli. Wilt thou lay hands on me villaine?

Orl. I am no villaine: I am the yongest some of Sir Rowland de Boys, he was my father, and he is thrice a villaine that said such a father begot villaines: were rhou not my brother, I would not take this hand from thy throat, till this other had puld out thy tongue for saying so, thou hast raild on thy selfe.

Adam. Sweet Masters bee patient, for your Fathers reniembrance, be at accord.

Oli. Let me goe I fay,
Orl. I will not till I please: you shall heare mee: my father charg'd you in his will to give me good education: you have train'd inclike a pezant, obscuring and, hiding from me all gentleman-like qualities: the spirit of my father growes strong in mee, and I will no longer endure it: therefore allow me such exercises as may become a gentleman, or give mee the poore allottery my father left me by testament, with that i will goe buy my, fortunes.

Oli. And what wilt thou do ? beg when that is spens? Well fir, get you in. I will not long be troubled with you; you shall have some part of your will, I pray you leave me.

Orl. I will no further offend you, then becames mee for my good.

Oh. Get you with him, you alde dogge.

Adam. Is old dogge my reward: most true, I have lost my teeth in your fernice: God be with my olde master, he would not have spoke such a word. Ex. Orl. Ad.

Oli. Is it even so, begin you to grow vpon me? I will physicke your ranckenesse, and yet give no thousand crownes neyther: holls Dennis Enter Dennis.

Den. Calls your worship?

Off. Was not Charles the Dukes Wrestler heere to speake with me?

Den. So please you, he is beere at the doore, and importunes accesse to you.

Oli. Call him in : 'twill be a good way: and to morrow the wrastling is,

Enter Charles.

Obs. Good morrow to your worthip.

Oh. Good Mounfier Charles: what's the new newes' at the new Court?

Charles. There's no newes at the Court Sir, but the oldenewes: that is, the old Duke is banished by his yonger brother the new Duke, and three or four elouing

3 Lords

Lord, have put themselves into voluntary eaile with him, whose lands and revenues enrich the new Duke, therefore he gives them good leave to wander

Oli Can you tell if Rofalind the Dukes daughter bee banished with her Fother :

Chn Ono 1 for the Dokes daughter her Colen fo lours her, being ever from their Cradles bred together, that hee would have followed her exile, or have died to flay behind her; the is at the Court, and no leffe beloued ofher Vncie, then his owne daughter, and never two La dies loued as they doe.

Ola Where will the old Duke liue?

Cha. They lay hee ssalready in the Porrest of Arden, and a many merry men with him; and there they live like the old Robin Hood of England: they lay many yong Gentleinen Bocke to him every day, and fleet the time Careless as they did in the golden world

Oli. What, you wrastle to morrow before the new

Duke,

Cha. Marry doe I fir . and I came to acquaint you with a matter: I am given fit fecretly to vnder fland, that your yonger brother Orlando hath a disposition to come in disguis d against mee to try a fall : co morrow fir I wrastle for my credit, and hee that escapes me without some broken limbe, shall acquit him well: your brother is but young and tender, and for your love I would bee loth to foyle him, as I must for my owne honour if hee come in: therefore out of my loue to you, I came hither to acquaint you withall, that either you might flay him from his incendment, or brooke fuch difgrace well as be shall runne into, in that it is a thing of his owne search, and altogether against my will.

Oli. Charles, I thanke thee for thy love to me, which then halt finde I will most kindly require: I had my felfe notice of my Brothers purpole heerein, and have by vnder-hand meanes laboured to disswade him from it; but he is resolute. He tell thee Charles, it is the stubbornest yong fellow of France, full of ambition, an enuious emulator of euery mans good parts, a secret & villanous contriuer against mee his naturall brother: therefore vie thy diferetion, I had as liefe thou didft breake his necke as his finger. And thou wert best looke to't; for if thou dost him any flight difgrace, or it hee doe not mightilie grace himselse on thee, hee will practise against thee by poylon, entrap thee by lome treacherous deuile, and neuer leave thee till he hach cane thy life by forne indirect meanes or other: for I affaire thee, (and aimost with teares I speake ii) there is not one so young, and so villanous this day living. I speake but brotherly of him, but should I anathomize him to thee, as hee is. I must blush, and weepe, and thou must looke pale and Cha lambeartily glad I came hither to you : if hee come to morrow, Ile give him his payment : if ever hee goe alone againe, l'e neuer wrastle for prize more: and To God keepe your worship.

Farewell good Charles. Now will I stirre this Gamefire : I hope I shall fee an end of him; for my soule (yet I know not why) hates nothing more then he : yet hee's gentle, neuer school'd, and yet learned, full of noble devife. of all fores enchantingly beloved, and indeed fo much in the heart of the world, and especially of my owne people, who best know him, that I am altogether misprised : but it shall not be so long, this wrastler shall cleare all : nothing remaines, but that I kindle the boy thither, which now Ile goe about. Fru.

Scons Secunda.

Enter Refulied, and Calle

Cel. I pray thee Rofalind, Sweet my Coz, be merry. Rof. Deere Cellea; I thow more mirch then I am mi-Arelle of, and would you yet were merrier : vnlelle you could reach me to forget abanished father, you must not learnemee how to remember any extraordinary pleafure.

Cel. 'lecrein I fee thou lou'st mee not with the full waight that I love thee; if my Vncletly banished father had banished thy Vnclethe Duke my Father, so thou hadfi beene fill with mee, I could have taught my love o take thy father for mine; fo wouldft thou, if the truth of thy love to me were to right equily temper'd, as mine is to thee

Rof. Well, I will forget the condition of my effste, to reioyce in yours

Cel. You know my Father hath no childe, but I, nor none is like to have; and truely when he dies, thou shalt be his heire; for what hee hath taken away from thy father perforce, I will render thee agains in affection : by mine honor I will, and when I breake that outh, let mee turne monfternherefore my lweet Rofe, my deare Rofe,

Rof. From benceforth I will Coz, and deuise sports:

let me (ee, what thinke you of falling in Love?

Cel. Marry I prethee doe, to make sport with all: but loue no man in good earnest, nor no further in sport neyther, then with fafety of a pure blush, thou maist in honor come off againe.

Rof. What shall be out sport then?

Cel. Let vs fit and mocke the good boufwife fortune from her wheele, that her gifts may henceforth bee bestowed equally.

Rof. I would wee could doe fo : for her benefits are mightily misplaced, and the bountifull blinde woman doth most mistake in her gifts to women.

Cei. 'Tis true, for those that the makes faire, the scarce makes honest, & those that she makes honest, she makes very illfauouredly

Rof. Nay now thou gorft from Forumes office to Natures: Fortune reignes in gifts of the world, not in the lineaments of Nature.

Enter Clowne

Cel. No; when Nature hath made a faire creature, may the not by Fortune fall into the fire? though nature bath given vs wit to flout at Fortune, hath not Fortune fent in this foole to cut off the argument?

Rof. Indeed there is fortune too hard for parure, when fortune makes natures naturall, the cutter off of natures

Cel. Peraduenture this is not Fortunes work neither, but Natures, who perceiveth our naturall wits roo dull to reason of such goddesses, hath sent this Naturall for our whethone, for alwayes the dulnesse of the soole, is the whetstone of the wits. How now Witte, whether wander you?

Clow. Mistesse, you must come away to your farber.

Cel. Were you made the messenger?

Clo. No by mine honor, but I was bid to come for you

Rof.

Ref. Where learned you that oath foole?

Cle. Of a certaine Knight, that Iwore by his Honour they were good Pan-cakes, and Iwore by his Honor the Mustard was naught: Now He stand to it, the Pancakes were naught, and the Mustard was good, and yet was not the Knight for worne.

Cel. How proue you that in the great heape of your knowledge '

Rof. I marry, now enmuzzle your wifedome.

Clo. Stand you both forth now: Aroke your chinnes, and (weare by your beards that I am a knaue.

Cel. By our beards (if we had them) thou art.

Clo. By my knauerie (if I had it) then I were: but if you Iweare by that that is not, you are not forfworn : no more was this knight (weating by his Honor, for he neuer had anie; or if he had, he had sworne it away, before euer he saw those Pancakes, or that Mustard.

Cel. Prethee, who is't that thou means't?

Clo. One that old Fredericke your Father loues.

Ro(My Fathers love is enough to honor him enough; speake no more of him, you'l be whipt for taxation one of these daies.

Clo. The more pittie that fooles may not speak wife-

ly, what Wisemen do foolishly

Cel. By my troth thou faieft true : For, fince the little wit that fooles have was filenced, the little foolerie that wife men have makes a great shew; Heere comes Monbeur the Ben.

Enter le Beau.

Rof. With his mouth full of newes.

Cel. Which he will put on vs, as Pigeons feed their young.

Rof. Then shal we be newes-cram'd.

Cel. All the better : we shalbe the more Marketable. Boon-town Monsieur le Ben, what's the newes?

Le Ben. Faire Princesse,

you have lost much good sport.

Cel. Sport: of what colour?

Le Ben. What colour Madame? How shall I aun-(wer you?

Rof. As wit and fortune will

Clo. Or as the destinies decrees.

Cel. Well faid, that was laid on with a trowell.

Clo. Nay, if I keepenot my ranke.

Ref. Thouloofest thy old smell Le Beu. You amaze me Ladies: I would have told you of good wrastling, which you have lost the fight of.

Ros. Yet tell vs the manner of the Wrastling. Le Beu. I wil tell you the beginning; and if it please your Ladiships, you may see the end, for the best is yet to doe, and heere where you are, they are comming to performe it, Cel. Well, the beginning that is dead and buried.

Le Beu. There comes an old man, and his three fons. Cel. I could match this beginning with an old tale.

Le Ben. Three proper yong men, of excellent growth and presence.

Rof. With bils on their neckes : Be it knowne vnto all men by these presents.

Le Ben. The eldest of the three, wrastled with Charles the Dukes Wrastler, which Charles in a moment threw him, and broke three of his ribbes, that there is little hope of life whim: So he feru'd the fecond, and so the third: yonder they lie, the poore old man their Father, making such pittiful dole over them, that all the beholders take his part with weeping.

Rof. Alas

Clo. But what is the sport Monsieur, that the Ladies haue loft?

Le Ben. Why this that I speake of Cle. Thus men may grow wifer every day. It is the first time that ever I heard breaking of ribbes was sport for Ladies.

Cel. Or 1, I promise thee.

Ref. But is there any else longs to see this broken Musicke in his sides? Is there yet another doates vpon rib-breaking? Shall we see this wrastling Cosin?

Le Ben. You must if you stay heere, for heere is the place appointed for the wrastling, and they are ready to performe it.

Cel Yonder fure they are comming Let vs now flay and fee it.

Flourish. Enter Duke, Lords, Orlando, Charles, and Attendants.

Duke. Come on, fince the youth will not be intreaced His owne perill on his forwardnesse.

Rof. Is yonder the man!

Le Beu. Euenhe, Madam.

Cel. Alas, he is too yong : yet he looks successefully Du. How now daughter, and Coulin:

Are you crept hither to fee the wrastling?

Rof. I my Liege, so please you give vs leave.

Du. You wil take little delight in it, I can tell you there is such oddes in the man: In pitte of the challengers youth, I would faine dissinade him, but he will not bee entrgated. Speake to him Ladies, see if you can mooue him.

Cel. Call him bether good Monsieuer Le Ben

Duke. Do fo. Henor be by.

Le Ben Monsieur the Challenger, the Princesse cals for you.

Orl. I attend them with all respect and dutie

Rof. Young man, have you challeng'd Charles the Orl. No faite Princesse: he is the generall challenger, I come but in as others do, to try with him the strength of my youth

Cd. Yong Gentleman, your spirits are too bold for your yeares: you have feene cruell proofe of this mans Arength, if you saw your felfe with your etes, or knew your felfe with your judgment, the feare of your aduenture would counfel you to a more equall enterprise. We pray you for your owne take to embrace your own taletie, and give over this attempt.

Rof. Do yong Sir, your reputation shall not therefore be misprised: we wil make it our suite to the Duke, that the wrastling might not go forward.

Orl. I beseech you, punish mee not with yout harde thoughts, wherein I confesse me much guiltie to denle so faire and excellent Ladies anie thing. But let your faire eles, and gentle wishes go with mee to my triall; wherein if I bee foil'd, there is but one sham'd that vvas neuer gracious: if kil'd, but one dead that is willing to be fo: I shall do my friends no wrong, for I have none to lament me: the world no injurie, for in it I have nothing: onely in the world I fil vp a place, which may bee better supplied, when I have made it emptie.

Rof. The little frength that I have, I would it were with you.

Cel. Andmine to ecke ouchers,

Rof. Fare you well:praie heaven I be deceiu'd in you.

char. Come, where is this yong gallant, that is lo defirous to lie with his mother earth.

Orl. Readle Sir, but his will hath in it a more modeft working.

Duk. You shall trie but one fall

Lwarrant your Grace; Cha. No, I warrant your Grace you shall not entreat him to a fecond, that have fo mightilie perswaded him from a first

Orl. You meane to mocke me after : you should not haue mockt me before : but come your wates.

Rof. Now Hercules, be thy speede yong man. Cel. I would I were invisible, to eatch the strong fellow by the legge

Rof. Oh excellent yong man.

Cel. If I had a thunderbolt to mue etc, I can tell who Mould downe

Dak. No more, no more.

Orl. Yes I beseech your Grace, Iam not yet well

Duk, How do'A thou Charles? Le Ben. He cannot speake my Lord. Duk. Beare him awaie:

What is thy name yong man?

Orl. Orlands my Liege, the yongest sonne of Sir Ro-

Land de Boys.

Duk I would thou hadft beene fon to fome man elfe, The world effeem'd thy father honourable, But I did findehim still mine enemie: Thou should'it have better pleas'd me with this deede. Hadft thou descended from another house But faic thee well, thou are a gallant youth, I would thou had'st told me of another Father.

Exit Duke.

Exit.

Cel. Were I my Father (Coze) would I do this? Orl. I am more proud to be Sir Roland sonne, His yongest some, and would not change that calling To be adopted here to Fredricke

Rof. My Father lou'd Sir Roland as his foule, And all the world was of my Fathers minde, Had I before knowne this yong man his fonne, I should have given him teares vinto entreaties, Ere he should thus have ventur'd.

Cel. Gentle Colen,

Let vs goe thanke bim, and encourage him . My Fathers rough and envious disposition Sticks me at heart: Sir, you have well deferu'd, If you doe keepe your promises in loue; But suffly as you have exceeded all promile, Your Mittris shall be happie.

Rof. Gentleman, Weare this for me : one out of suites with fortune That could give more, but that her hand lacks meanes. Shall we goe Coze?

Cel. 1: fare you well faire Gentleman.

Orl. Can I not fay, I thanke you? My better parts Are all throwne downe, and that which here stands yp Is but a quintine, a meere liuelesse blocke.

Rof. He eals vs back: my pride fell with my fortunes, Ile aske him what he would : Did you call Sir? Sir, you have wraftled well and overthrowne More then your enemies

Cd. Will you goe Coze?

Rof. Haue with yon : fare you well

Orl. What passion hangs these waights vpo mytoong? I cannot speake to her, yet the vig'd conference.

Enter Li Ben.

O poore Orlando! thou art ouerthrowne Or Charles, or something weaker mafters thee.

Le Rew. Good Sir, I do in friendship counsaile you Te leaue this place; Albeit you have deseru'd High commendation, true applause, and loue; Yet such is now the Duker condition, That he misconsters all that you have done: The Duke is humorous, what he is indeede More luites you to conceive, then I to speake of.

Orl. I thanke you Sir; and pray you tell me this, Which of the two was daughter of the Duke,

That here was at the Wraftling?

Le Ben. Neither his daughter, if we judge by manners, But yet indeede the taller is his daughter, The other is daughter to the banish'd Duke, And here detain'd by her vsurping Vncte To keepe his daughter companie, whose loues Are deerer then the naturall bond of Sifters. But I can tell you, that of late this Dake Hath tane displeasure gainft bis gentle Neece, Grounded vpon no other argument, But that the people praise her for her vertues, And pittie her, for her good Fathers lake; And on my life his malice 'gainst the Lady Will sodainly breake forth : Sir, fare you well, Heresfter in a better world then this, I shall defire more love and knowledge of you.

Orl. I rest much bounden to you : fare you well. Thus must I from the smooke into the smother, From tyrant Duke, voto a tyrant Brother.

But heavenly Rosuline.

Eru

Scena Tertius.

Enter Celia and Posalune

Cel. Why Cosen who Refaline: Cupidhaue mercie, Not a word?

Ros. Not one to throw at a dog.

Cel. No, thy words are too precious to be cast away vpon curs, throw some of them at me; come lame mee with reasons.

Rof. Then there were two Colens laid up, when the one should be lam'd with reasons, and the other mad without any.

Cel. But is all this for your Father?

Rof. No, some of it is for my childes Father: On how full of brier's is this working day world.

Cel. They are but burs, Cosen, throwne vpon thee inholiday foolerie, if we walke not in the trodden paths our very petty-coates will each them.

Rof. I could thake them off my coate, these burs are in my heare

Cel. Hem them away.

Ros. I would try if I could cry hem, and have him. Cil. Come, come, wrastle with thy affections

Rof. O they take the part of a better wraftler then my selfe.

Cel. O, a good with vpon you: you will trie in time to dispight of atall: but turning these sells out of service, let ve talke in good earnest: Is it possible on such a for dame, you should fall into to strong a liking with old Sir

Routands youngest sanne?
Ros. The Duke my Father loud his Father decrelie. Cel. Doth is therefore enfue that you should love his Sonce decrelie? By this kinde of chase, I should have hun, for my father hated his father decrely; yet I have not Orlando

Rof. No faith, hate him not for my fake.

Cel. Why should I not i doin be not deserve well?

Encer Duke with Lords.

Rof. Let me loue him for that, and do you love him Because I doe Looke, here comes the Duke.

Cal. With his eies full of anger.

Dat. Miftris, disparch you with your safest hafte, And get you from our Court.
Rof. Me Vncle.

Duk You Coien,

Within these ten daies it that thou beeft found So necre our publike Court as twentie miles,

Thou dreft for it.

Rof. I doe befeech your Grace Let me the knowledge of my fault beere with me: if with my felie I hold intelligence, Or hanc acquaintance with mine owne defires, If that I doe not dreame, or be not franticke, (As I doc truft I am not) then deere Vncle, Meuer fo much as in a chought vaborne, Did I offend your highneffe.

Duc. Thus doe all Traitors, If their purgation did confist in words, They are as innocene as grace it felle; Let it suffice thee that I trust thee not Rof. Yet your mistrust cannot make me a Traitor; Tell me whereon the likelihoods depends?

Duk. Thou are thy Fathers daughter, there's enough Rof. So was I when your highnes took his Dukdome,

So was I when your highneste banisht him; Treason is not inherited my Lord,

Or if we did derive it from our friends, What's that to me, my Father was no Traitor, Then good my Leige, mistake me not fo much, Tothinke my pourrie is treacherous.

Cel. Decre Sourraigne heare me speake. Duk I Celia, we stand her for your lake, Elfe had the with her Father rang'd along. Cel I did not then intrest to have ber fray, It was your plasfure, and your owne remotle, I was too yong that time to value her, But now I know her . if the be a Traitor, Why foam I: we fill have flept together, Rose at an instant, learn'd, plaid, cate together, And wherefore we went, like lunar Swans, Still we went coupled and inseperable.

Doe She is too subtile for ther, and her smoothness Her verie filence, and per patience, Speake to the people, and they pittle her? Thou art a foole, therobs thee of thy name, And thou wilt flow more bright, & feem more vertuous When the is gone: then open northy lips

Firme, and irrenocable is my doombe.

Which I have past upon her, the is banish'd.
Cet. Pronounce that sentence then on me my Leige, I cannot live out of her companie.

Duk. You are a foole: you Neice promue your felfe, If you out-stay the time, vpon mine honor, And in the greatnesse of my word you die.

Exit Duke Orc. Col. O my poore Refaline, whether wilt thou goel Wilt thou change Fathers ? I will give thee mine : I charge thee be not thou more grieu'd then I am.

Rof. I have more cause. Cel. Thou haft not Cofen, Prethee be cheerefull; know's thou nor the Duke Hath banish'd me his daughter?

Ref. That he hathnot Cel. No, hathnot? Refalme lacks then the love Which teachesh thee that thou and I am one, Shall we be fundred? Shall we part I weete girle? No, let my Father feeke another heire: Therefore deuile with me how we may flie Whether to goe, end what to beare with vs, And doe not feeks to take your change vpon you, To beate your griefes your felst, and Icaue me out For by this heaten, now as our forrowespale; Say what thou canit, He goe along with thee.

Ref. Why, whether thall we goe?
Col. To socke my Vnole in the Forrest of Arden

Rof. Alas, what danger will it be to vs, (Maides as we are) to travell forth fo farre? Beautic prounketh theeves fooner then gold.

Cel. He put my felfe in poore and meane attire, And with a kinde of vmber imirch my face, The like doe you to shall we passe along, And never fir affailants.

Rof. Were it not bettes, Because that I am more then common tall, That I ald fulte me all points like a man, A gallant suttelax spon my thigh, A bore-speare in my hand, and in my heart Lye there what hidden womans feare there will, Weele have a fwelling and a marshall outside, As manie other mannish cowards have,

That doe outface it with their femblances. Cel. What shall I call thee when thou art a man? Ref. He have no worle a name then loues owne Page, And therefore looke you call me Gammed.

But what will you by call'd? Cel. Someshing that hath a reference to my flate .

No longer Colsa, but Aluma.

Rof. But Colon, what if we affaid to Reale The clownish Foole our of your Fathers Court: Would be not be a comfort to our transite?

Col. Heele goe along ore the wide world with me, Lesue me alone to wor him; Let's away And get our lewels and our wealth cogether, Deuile the fittest time, and faselt way To hide vs from pursuite that will be made After my flight: now goe in we content Excunz. To libertie, and not to banishment.

Adus Secundus, Scena Prima.

Emer Duky Senior : Aurjens, and two or three Lords like Forresters.

Dut Son. Now my Coe-mates, and brothers in exile: Hath not old custome mude this life more sweete

Then

Then that of painted pompe? Are not these woods More free from perill then the enuious Court? Heere feele we not the penaltie of Adam, The leafons difference, as the Icte phange And churlish chiding of the winters winde, Which when it bites and blowes upon my body Euen till I shrinke with cold, I smile, and say This is no flattery thefe are counfellors That feelingly perswade me what I am: Sweet are the vies of aduerlitie Which like the toad, ougly and venemous, . Weares yet a precious lewell in his head And this our life exempt from publike haunt, Findes tongues in trees, bookes in the running brookes, Sermons in Rones, and good in every thing.

Amien. I would not change it, happy is your Grace That can translate the stubbornnesse of fortune

Into fo quict and fo sweet a stile.

Du. Sen. Come, shall we goe and kill vs venison? And yet it itkes me the poore dapled fooles Being native Burgers of this defert City, Should intheir nwne confines with forked heads Haue their round hanches goard.

1. Lord. Indeed my Lord The melancholy laques grieves at that, And in that kinde (weares you doe more viurpe Then doth your brother that hath banish dyou. To day my Lord of Amiens, and my felle, Did steale behinde him as he lay along Voder an oake, whose anticke roote peepes out Vpon the brooke that brawles along this wood, To the which place a poore lequestred Stag That from the Hunters aime had tane a hurt. Did come to languish; and indeed my Lord The wretched annimall heav'd forth tuch groanes That their discharge did stretch his leatherne coat Almost to bursting, and the big round tearer Cours'd one another downe his innocent note In pitreous chase: and thus the hairie foole, Much marked of the melancholie laques, Stood on th'extremelt verge of the iwift brooke, Augmenting it with teares.

Dez Sen. But what laid laques! Did he not moralize this spectacle?

1. Lord. O yes, into a thousand similies. First, for his weeping into the needlesse freame; Poore Deere quoth he, thou mak'ft a testamenc As worldlings doe gruing thy funs of more To that which had too must : then being there alone, Left and abandoned of his veluet friend; 'Tis night quoth he, thus miferie doth part The Fluxe of companie: anona carelesse Heard Full of the paffure, iumps along by him And never states to greet him : I quoth laquer, Sweepe on you fat and greazie Citizens, Tis rust the fashion; wherefore doe you looke Vpon that poore and broken bankrupt there? Thus most invectively he pierceth through The body of Countrie, Citie, Court, Yes, and of this our life, swearing that we Are meere vourpers, tyrants, and whats worle To fright the Annimals, and to kill them vp In their affign'd and native dwelling place.

D. Sen. And did you leave him in this contemplation? 2. Lord. We did my Lord, weeping and commenting Vpon the fobbing Deere.

Du Son. Show me the place, I love to cope him in these sullen fits,

I Lar. He bring you to him ftrait.

Scena Secunda.

Enser Dube, with Lords.

Dut, Can it be possible that ao man law them? It cannot be, some villaines of my Court Are of confent and fufferance in this

1. Lo. I cannot heare of any that did fee her. The Ladies her attendants of her chamber Saw her a bed, and in the morning early, They found the bed vocreatur dof their Miffris

2. Lor. My Lord, the roynish Clown, at whom 60 Your Grace was wont to laugh is also missing, Hifteria the Princelle Centlewoman Confesses that the fecretly ore-heard Your daughter and her Colen much commend The parts and graces of the Wraftler That did but lately foile the Synowie Charles, And the beleeves where ever they are gone That youth is furely in their companie

Dut, Send to his brother, fetch that gallant hisher. If he be absent, bring his Brother to me, He make him finde him : do this fodainly; And let not fearth and inquifition quale, To bring againe thele foolish runawaies.

Exam.

Scena Tertia.

Enser Orlando and Adams

Orl. Who's there!

Ad. What my gong Mafter, oh my gentle mafter, Oh my Iweet mafter, O you memorie Of old Six Rewland; why, what make you here? Why are you vertuous? Why do people loue you? And wherefore are you gentle, firong, and valiant? Why would you be so fond to ouercome The bonnie prifer of the humorous Duke: Your praise is come too swiftly home before you. Know you not Mafter to Jeeme kinde of men, Their graces ferue them but as enemies, No more doe yours : your vertues gentle Mafter Are landtified and holy traitors to you Oh what a world is this, when what is comely Enuenoms him that beares it? Why, what s the matter?

Ad. O viihappie youth, Come not within thele doores: within this roofe The enemie of all your graces lines Your brother, no, no brother, yet the sonne (Yet not the fon, I will not call him fon) Of him I was about to call his Father, Hath heard your preises, and this night he meenes, To burne the lodging where you vie to lye, And you within it : if he faile of that

He will have other meanes to cut you off, Loverheard him: and his practifes: This is no place, this houle is but a butcherie, Abhorre it, feate it, doe not enter it.

Ad. Why whether Adam would'st thou naue me got Ad. No matter whether, so you come not here.

Orl. What, would'it thou have me gook beg my food,
Or with a bale and boiltrous Sword enforce
A theeuish hung on the common rode?
This I must do, or know not what to do:
Yet this I will not do, do how I can,

I rather will subject me to the malice
Of a diverted blood, and bloudie brother.

Ad. But do not fo: I have five hundred Crownes,
The thriftie hire I faued voder your Father,
Which I did flore to be my foster Nurse,
When service should in my old limbs lie lame,
And vnregarded age in corners throwne,
Take that, and he that doth the Rauens seede,
Yea providently caters for the Sparrow,
Be comfort to my age: here is the gold,
All this I give you, let me be your servant,
Though I looke old, yet I am strong and lustie;
For in my youth I never did apply
Hot, and rebellious liquors in my bloud,
Nor did not with vnbashfull for chead woe,
The meanes of weaknesse and debilite,
Therefore my age is as a lustic winter,
Frostie, but kindely; let me goe with you,
Ile doe the service of a yonger man
In all your businesse.

Ori. Oh good old man, how well in thee appeares The constant service of the antique world, When service sweate for dutie, not for meede: Thou art not for the fashion of these times, Where none will sweate, but for promotion, And having that do choake their service vp. Even with the having, it is not so with thee: But poore old man, thou prun's a rotten tree, That cannot so much as a blossome yeelde, In lieu of all thy paines and husbandrie, But come thy wates, weele goe along together, And ere we have thy youthfull wages spent, Weele light youn some settled low content.

Weele light vpon some settled low content.

Ad. Master goe on, and I will follow thee
To the last gaspe with truth and loyaltie,
From seauentie yeeres, till now almost sourescore
Heteliued I, but now hue here no more
At seauenteene yeeres, many their fortunes seeke
But at sourescore, it is too late a weeke,
Yet fortune cannot recompence me better
Then to die well, and not my Masters debter.

E.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Rosaline for Canimed, Celia for Aliena, and Clowne, alias Toxobstone.

Rof. O lupiter, how merry are my spirits?

Clo I care not for my spirits, if my legges were not vestie.

Ref. I could finde in my heart to difgrace my mans apparell, and to cry like a woman: but I must comfort the weaker vessell, as doublet and hose ought to show it selfe coragious to petty-coate; therefore courage, good Aliena.

Cel. I pray you beare with me, I cannot goe no fur-

Clo. For my part, I had rather beare with you, then beare you; yet I should beare no crosse if I did beare you, for I thinke you have no money in your purse.

Rof. Well, this is the Fortest of Arden.

Clo. I, now am I in Arden, the more foole I, when I was at home I was in a better place, but Trauelless must be content.

Enter Corin and Silvius,

Rof. I, be lo good Touchfore: Look you, who comes here, a yong man and an old in folemnetalke.

Cor. That is the way to make her fcorne you still.

Sil. Oh Corin, that thou knew's how I do loue her.

Cor. I partly gueffe: for I have lou'd ere now.
Sil. No Corin, being old, thou canft not gueffe,
Though in thy youth thou wast as true a louer
As ever figh'd vpon a midnight pillow:
But if thy loue were ever like to mine,
As sure I thinke did never man love so:
How many actions most ridiculous,
Hast thou beene drawne to by thy fantasse?

Cor. Into a thouland that I have forgotten.

Sil. Ob thou didft then never love to hartily
If thou remembreft not the flightest folly,
That ever love did make thee run into,
Thou hast not lov'd.
Or if thou hast not fat as I doe now,
Wearing thy hearer in thy Mistris praise,

Thou halt not lou'd.
Or if thou halt not broke from companie,
Abruptly as my palfion now makes me,
Thou halt not lou'd.

O Phebe, Phebe, Phebe.

Rof. Alas poore Shepheard fearching of they would,
I have by hard adventure found mine owne.

Clo. And I mine: I remember when I was in loue, I broke my I word vpon a stone, and bid him take that for comming a night to lane Smile, and I remember the kissing of her batter, and the Cowes dugs that her prettie chopt hands had milk'd; and I remember the wooing of a pease od instead of her, from whom I tooke two cods, and giving her them againe, said with weeping teares, weare these for my sake: wee that are true Louers, runne into strange capers; but as all is mortall in nature, so is all nature in loue, mortall in solly.

Rof. Thou speak it wifer then thou art ware of, Clo. Nay, I shall nere be ware of mine owne wit, till I breake my shins against it.

Rof. lone, lone, this Shepherds passion, Is much vpon my fashion.

Cio. And mine, but it growes something stale with

Cel. I pray you, one of you question you'd man, Ishe for gold will give vs any soode, Isaintalmost to death.

Clo. Holla; you Clowne.

Rof. Peace foole, he's not thy kinfman.

Cor. Who cals?
Clo. Your betters Sir.

Car. Elfe are they very wretched.

Rof. Peace

Rof. Peace I lay ; good ruen to your friend. Cor. And to you gentle Sir, and to you all. Rof. I prethee Shepheard, if that love or gold Can in this defert place buy entertainment, Bring vs where we may reft our felues, and feed. Here's a yong maid with trausile much oppressed, And faints for fuccour.

Cor. Faire Sir, I pittie her, And with for her lake more then for mine owne, My fortunes were more able to relecue her s But I am thepheard to another man, And do not theere the Fleeces that I graze: My master is of churlish disposition, And little wreakes to finde the way to heaven By doing deeds of holpitalitie. Besides his Coate, his Flocker, and bounds of feede Are now on fale, and acour sheep-coat now By reason of his absence there is nothing That you will feed on : bue what is, come fee, And in my voice most welcome shall you be

Rof. What is he that shall buy his flocke and pasture? Cor. That yong Swaine charyou law heere but erewhile,

That little cares for buying any thing. Rof. I pray thee if it stand with honestie, Buy thou the Cottage, pasture, and the flocke, And thou shalt have to pay for it of vs. Cel. And we will mend thy wages a

I like this place, and willingly could Waste my time in it.

Car. Affuredly the thing is to be fold: Go with me, if you like vpon report, The foile, the profit, and this kinde of life, I will your very faithfull Feeder be. And buy it with your Gold right fodually.

Exenns

Scena Quinta.

Einer, Amjeni, laques, & otheri. Song. Vnder the greene wood tree who loves to lye wish mee, And three bis merrie Note, unso the Sweet Birds throse Come bither, come hisber, com hitber . Heere Shall he fee no enemie. But Winter and rough Weather.

lag More, more, I pre thee more. Amy. It will make you melancholly Monfieur laques lag. I thanke it : More, I prethee more, I can lucke melancholly out of afong, As a Weazel luckes egges : More, I pre'thec more. Amy. My voice is ragged, I know I cannot pleafs laq. I do not defire you to pleafe me, I do defire you to ling :

Come, more, another stanzo: Cal you'em stanzo's -Amy. What you wil Monfieur laques.

lag. Nay, I care not for their names, they owe mee nothing. Wil you ing?

Am. Mare at your request, then to please my felse.

lag Well then, if ever I thanke any man, He thanke you: but that they cal complement lalike th'encounter of two dog-Apes. And when a man thankes me harrily, me thinkes I have given him a penie, and be renders me the beggerly thankes. Come fing; and you that wil not hold your congues.

Am. Wel. He end the long. Sirs, cover the while, the Duke wil drinke under this tree; he hath bin all this day to looke you.

lag. And I have bin all this day to avoid him. He is too disputeable for my companie t I thinke of as many matters as he, but I give Heauen thankes, and make no boaft of them. Come, warble, come > Sung. Auogesher beere Who does ambilion frome and lone 1 to hat ish Sunner Seeking the food becases, and pleas d with what he cess. Come hither , come buther , come hither , Heere Shall he fee. &c.

lag. Ile giue you a verse to this note, That i made yesterday in despight of my Invention. Amy. And He fing it.

Amy. Thus it goes. If it do come to pafe, that any man twent Affe . Leaning his wealth and eafe, A fatborne will to please, Ducdame dischame, ducdame : Elcere shall be fee groffe fooles as be, And if he will come to me.

Amy. What's that Ducdame? 144 Tis a Greeke inuocation to call fools into a cticle. lie go fleepe if I can: if I cannot, lie raile against all the first borne of Egypt. Amy. And He go leeke the Duke, His banker is prepar de

Exemps

Scena Sexta.

Enter Orlando, & Alam.

Adam. Deere Mafter, I can go no further: Oldie for food. Heere lie I downe, And measure out my grave. Farmel kinde master.

Orl. Why how now Adam? No greater heart in thee: Live a little, comfort a little, cheere thy felfe a little. If this vincouth Forrell yeeld any thing lauage, I wil either be food for it, or bring it for foode to thee Thy concerte is neerer death, then thy powers. For my take be constoreable, hold death a while At the armes end: I wil heere be with thee prefencly, And if I bring thee not fomething to exte, I wil gine thee leave to die : but if thou dieft Before I come, thou are a mocker of my labor. Wel faid, thou look'ft che erely, And He be with thee quickly : yet thou liest In the bleake aire. Come, I wil beate thee To some shelter, and thou shalt not die For lacke of a dinner, If there live any thing in this Defert. Cheerely good Adam ENBOR

35092

Scena Septima.

Emer Duke Sen & Lord, like Out-lawes. Du. Sen. I thinke he be transform dinto a beaft, For I can no where finde him, like a man.

Lord. My Lord, he is but even now gone hence. Heere was he merry, hearing of a Song.

Du Sen. Ishe compact of iarres, grow Musicall. We shall have shortly discord in the Sphearer ; Go feeke him, tell him I would speake with him.

Enter laques. 1. Lord. He laues my labor by his owne approach. Du. Sen. Why how now Monsieur, what a life is this That your poore friends must woe your companie, What, you looke merrily lag A Foole, a foole: I met a foole i'th Fortest, Amotley Foole (a miferable world:) As I do live by foode, I met a foole, Who laid him downe, and bask'd him in the Sun, And rail'd on Lady Fortune in good termes, In good fet termes, and yet a motley foole. Good morrow foole (quoth I:) no Sir, quoth he, Call me not foole, till heaven hath fent me fortune, And then he drew a diall from his poake, And looking on it, with lacke-luftre eye, Sages, very wifely, it is ten a clocke: Thus we may fee (quoth he) how the world wagges: Tis but an house agoe, fince it was nine, And after one houre more, twill be eleven, And so from house to house, we ripe, and ripe, And then from house to house, we rot, and rot, And thereby hangs a tale. When I did heare The mosley Foole, thus morall on the time, My Longs began to crow like Chantieleere, That Fooles should be so deepe contemplative : And I did laugh, fans intermission Anhoure by his diall Oh noble foole, A worthy foole. Motley's the onely weare.

Du.Sen. What foole is this? Lag O worthie Foole One that hath bin a Courtier And layer, if Ladies be but yong, and laire, They have the gift to know it ; and in his braine, Which is as drie as the remainder bisket After a voyage: He hath strange places cram'd With observation, the which he vents In mangled formes. Othat I were a foole,

I am ambitious for a motley coat. Da. Sen. Thou shalt haue one.

Inq. It is my onely fuite, Provided that you weed your better judgements Ofall opinion that growes ranke in them, That I am wife. I must have liberty Withall, as large a Charter as the winde, To blow on whom I please, for so fooles have s And they that are most gauled with my folly, They most must laugh: And why fur must they fo? The why is plaine, as way to Parish Church: Hee, that a Foole doth very wisely hic, Doth very foolishly, although he smart Seeme senselesse of the bob. Ifnot, The Wife-mans folly is anathomiz'd Even by the foundring glances of the foole.

Inuest me in my motley : Give me leave To speake my minde, and I will through and through Cleanse the foule bodie of th'insected world, If they will patiently receive my medicine. Du. Sen. Fic on thee, I can tell what thou wouldst do

Jag. What, for a Counter, would I do.but good? Dr. Sev. Most mischeeuous soule fin, in chiding fin : For thou thy felfe haft benea Libertine, As fenfuall as the brutish sting it felfe. And all th'imboffed fores, and headed euila,

That thou with license of free foot balt caught, Would'A thou dilgorge into the generall world lag Why who eries out on pride, That can therein taxe any private party: Dorh is not flow as hugely as the Sea, Till that the wearie vene meanes do ebbe. What woman in the Citie do I name, When that I say the City woman beares The cost of Princes on voworthy shoulders? Who can come in, and fay that I meane her, When such a one as snee, such is her neighbor? Or what is he of basest function, That fayes his brauerie is not on my coft, Thinking that I means him, but therein furtes His folly to the mettle of my speech, There then, how then, what then, let me fee wherein My tongue hath wrong'd him: if it do him right, Then he hath wrong'd him felfe: if he be free, why then my taxing like a wild-goofe flios Vnclaim'd of any man But who coine here?

Enter Orlando.

Orl. Forbeare, and earono more.

Isq. Why I have eate none yet.

Orl. Nor thalt not, till necessity be fero'd.

149. Of what kinde should this Cocke come of? Du. Sen. Art thou thus bolden'd man by thy diffres?

Or elfe a rude despiter of good manners,
That in ciuility thou seem it so emptie?!

Orl. You touch'd my veine as first, the chorny point Of bare diffresse, hath tane from me the shew Of finonth civility: yet am I in-land bred, And know fome nourture : But forbeare, I fay, He dies that touches any of this fruite, Till I, and my affaires are answered.

lag. And you will not be answer'd with reason, 1 must dye.

Du. Sen What would you have? Your gentlenesse shall force, more then your force Moue vs to gentlenesse.

Orl. I almost die for food, and let me haue it.

Du. Sen. Sic downe and feed, & welcom to out table Orl. Speake you so gently? Pardon me I pray you, I thought that all things had bin fauage heere, And therefore put I on the countenance Offterne commandment. But what ere you are That in this defert inaccessible, Under the shade of melancholly boughes, Loofe, and negled the creeping houres of time: If ever you have look don better dayes: If even beene where bels have knoll'd to Church & If ever fate at any good mans feaft : If ever from your eye lids wip'd a teare,

And know what 'tis to pittle, and be pittled a Let gentlenesse my firong enforcement be, In the which hope, I blush, and hide my Sword

Doke

Dn. Sen. True is it, that we have seene better dayes
And have with holy bell bin knowld to Chutch,
And fat at good mens leasts, and wip'd our eies
Of drops, that facred pity hath engendred:
And therefore fit you downe in gentlenesse,
And take vpon command, what helpe we have
That to your wanting may be ministed.

Orl. Then but for beare your food a little while:
Whiles (like a Doe) I go to finde my Fawne,
And give it food. There is an old poore man,
Who after me, hath many a weary fleppe
Limpt in pure loue: till he be first fuffic'd,
Oppress with two weake tuils, age, and hunger,
I will not touch a bit.

Duke Sen. Go finde him out.

And we will nothing waste till you returne.

Orl.1 thanke ye, and be bleft for your good comfort.

Du Sen. Thou feelt, we are not all alone vnhappie:
This wide and vniuerfall Theater
Prefents more wofull Pageants then the Sceane
Wherein we play in.

Ia. All the world's a ftage, And all the men and women, meerely Players; They haugtheir Exits and their Entrances, And one man in his time playes many parts, His Acts being seven ages. At first the Infant, Mewling, and puking in the Nurles atmes . Then, the whining Schoole-boy with his Satchell And shining morning face, creeping like snaile Y nwillingly to schoole. And then the Louer, Sighing like Furnace, with a wofull balled Made to his Mistesse eye-brow. Then, a Soldier, Full of strange oaths, and bearded like the Pard, Ielous in honor, fodaine, and quicke in quarrell, Seeking the bubble Reputation Even in the Canons mouth: And then, the Iustice. In faire round belly, with good Capon ha'd, With eyes severe, and beard of somall cue, Full of wife fawes, and moderne infrances And so he playes his part. The fixt age shifts Into the leane and flipper'd Pantaloone. With spectacles on nose, and pouch on fide. His youthfull hote well fau'd, a world too wide, For his shrunke shanke, and his bigge manly voice, Turning againe toward childish trebble pipes, And whiftles in his found. Last Scene of all, That ends this strange eventfull historie, Is second childiffinesse, and meere oblinion, Sans teeth, fans eyes, fans tafte, fans euery thing.

Enter Orlandowith Adam.

Du Sen. Welcome: let downe yout venetable burthen, and let him feede.

Orl. I thanke you most for bim.
Ad. So had you neede,

I scarce can speake to thanke you for my selfe.

Du. Sen. Welcome, fall too: I wil not trouble you,

As yet to question you about your fortunes: Give vs some Musicke, and good Cozen, sing.

Song.

Blow, blow, thou winter winds, Thou art not so unkinde, as mans ingrestitude Thy tooth is not so keene, because thou art not seene, although thy breath be rude. Heigh ho, sing heigh ho, when the greens holy,
Malt frendhip, is fagning; most Louing, macre folly:
The heigh ho, the holly,
This Life is mast sally

Freize, freuze, thou butter the that doft not bight fo eigh
as benefits forget
Though thom the waters warpe, thy flung is not fo harpe,
as fresh dremembred net
Hoigh ho Ling.cre

Duke Sen. If that you were the good Sir Rewlands (on, As you have whifper'd faithfully you were, And as mine eye doth his effigies witnesse, Most truly limi'd, and living in your face, Be truly welcome hither: I ara the Duke That lou'd your Father, the residue of your fortune, Go to my Caue, and tell mee. Good old man, Thou art right welcome, as thy masters is Support him by the arme: give me your hand, And let me all your fortunes understand.

Exeune.

Adus Tertius. Scena Prima.

Enter Duke, Lords, & Oliver.

Die. Not see him since? Sir, sir, that cannot he:
But were I not the better part made mercie,
I should not seeke an absent argument
Of my revenge, thou present: but looke to it,
Finde out thy brother wheresoere he is,
Seeke him with Candle: bring him dead, or living
Within this tweluemonth, or turne thou no more
To seeke a living in our Territorie.
Thy Lands and all things that thou dost call thine,
Worth seizure, do we seize into our hands,
Till thou canst quit thee by thy brothers mouth,
Of what we thinke against thee.

Ol. Oh that your Highnesse knew my heart in this: Ineuer lou'd my brother in my life.

Duke. More villaine thou. Well push him out of dores
And let my officers of such a nature
Make an extent your his house and Lands:
Do this expediently, and turne him going.

Exemit

Scens Secunda.

Enter Orlando.

Orl. Hang there my verse, in witnesse of my love, And thou thrice crowned Queene of night survey With thy chaste eye, from thy pale spheare aboue Thy Huntresse name, that my full life doth sway. O Refalmd, these Trees shall be my Bookes, And in their barkes my thoughts llecharracter, That everneeye, which in this Forress lookes, Shall see thy vertue witnesse every where Rung run Orlando, carve on every Tree.

The fake, the chaste, and vnexpression these.

Exter Coring Clowne.

Co. And how like you this shepherds life M. Touchfore?

Cw.

clow. Truely Shepheard, in respect of it selfe, it is a good life; but in respect that it is a thepheards life, it is paught. In respect that it is solitary, I like it verie well : but in respect that it is private, it is a very vild life. Now In respect it is in the fields, it pleaseth mee well: but in respect it is not in the Court, it is redious. As it is a spare life (looke you) it fits my humor well: but as there is no more plentie in it, it goes much against my Romacke. Has't any Philosophie in thee shepheard?

Cor. No more, but that I know the more one fickens, the worfe at case he is and that hee that wants money, mesnes, and concent, is without three good frends. That the propertie of raine is to wet, and fire to burne : That pood pasture makes fat sheepe; and that a great cause of the night, is lacke of the Sunne : That hee that hathlearned no wit by Nature, nor Art, may complaine of good breeding, or coines of a very dull kindred. Clo. Such a one is a naturall Philosopher

Was't ever in Court, Shepheard?

Cor. No cruly.

Clo. Then thou art damn'd.

Cor. Nay, I hope.
Co. Truly thou are damn'd, like an ill roasted Egge, all on one fide.

Cor. For not being at Court? your reason.

Clo. Why, if thou never was't at Court, thou never law'it good manners t if thou never law'it good maners, then thy manners must be wicked, and wickednes is fin, and some is damnation: Thou art in a patlous flate thepheard.

Cor. Not a whit Touchstone, those that are good maners at the Court, are as ridiculous in the Countrey, as the behauiour of the Countrie is most mockeable at the Court. You told me, you salute not at the Court, but you kiffe your hands; that courtefie would be vncleaule if Courtiers were shepheards.

Cle. Instance, briefly 1 come, instance.

Cor. Why we are still handling our Ewes, and their Felsyou know are greafie.

Clo. Why do not your Courtiers hands (weate? and is not the greafe of a Mutton, as wholesome as the sweat of s man? Shallow, shallow t A better instance I say:

Cor. Besides, our hands are hard.

Clo. Your lips wil feele them the fooner. Shallow g-gen : a more sounder instance, come.

Cor. And they are often tarr'd over, with the furgery of our sheepe : and would you have vs kille Tarre? The Courtiers hands are perfum'd with Ciues.

Clo. Most shallow man : Thou wormes meate in respect of a good peece of flets indeed: learne of the wife and perpend : Ciuet is.of a baser birth then Tarre, the verie vncleanly fluxe of a Cat. Mend the inflance Shepheard

Cer. You have too Courtly a wit, for me, Ile reft.

Clo. Wilt thou rest damo'd? God helpe thee shallow man: God make incision in thee, thou are raw.

Cor. Sir, I am a true Labourer, I earne that leate: get that I weare; owe no man hate, envie no mans happineffe: glad of other mens good content with my harme: and the greatest of my pride, is to see my Ewes graze, & my Lambes sucke.

Clo. That is another simple sinne in you, to bring the Ewes and the Rammes together, and to offer to get your living, by the copulation of Cattle, to be based to a Belweather, and to betray a shee-Lambe of a twelucmouth to a crooked-pated olde Cuckoldly.Ramme, out of all teasonable match. If thou bee'A not dema'd for this, the divell himselfe will have no shepherds, I connot see else how thou shoulds scape.

Cor. Hecre comes youg M. Ganimed, my new Miltril.

fes Brocher.

Enter Rofalind. Rof. From the east to westerne Inde, no iewel is like Rofalinde, Hir worth being mounted on the winde, through all the world beares Refalinde. All the piltures fairest Linde, are but blacke to Resulinde: Let no face bee tept in wind, but the fairs of Rofalinde.

Cio. lle time you lo, eight yeares together; dinners, and suppers, and sleeping hours excepted : it is the tight Butter-womens ranke to Market.

Rof. Out Foole.

Clo. For & wifte.

If a Hart doe lacke a Hinde, Les him secke one Rosalinde : If the Cat will after kinde, so be sure well Rosalinde:

Wintred garments must be linde. So must Stender Rosalinds 1

They that reap wrust sheafe and bunde, then to cart wish Rosalinde.

Sweetest nas, bash fowrest rinde, Such a nut is Refalinde. He that swectest rose will finde, muft finde Loves pricke, & Rofalinde.

This is the verie falle gallop of Verfes, why doe you infect your felfe with them?

Rof. Peace you dull foole, I found them on a tree.

Clo. Truely the tree yeelds bad frui.e.

Rof. Ile graffe it wirb you, and then I Chall graffe it with a Medler : then it will be the earlieft fruit i'th counery : for you'l be rotten ere you bee halfe ripe, and that s the right vertue of the Medler.

Clo. You have faid : but whether wisely or no, let the Forrest indge.

Enter Celia with a writing. Rof. Peace, here comes my filler reading, frand afide.

Cel. Wby (bould the Defert bee, for it is unpeopled? Not:

Tonges Ile bang on curie tree, that shall civil sayings shoe. Some, bow briefe the Life of man runs bis erring pilgrimage, That the firetching of a fpan.

buckles in his summe of age Some of violated vower, swixt the foodes of friend, and friend: But upon the faired bowes , or at everse sentence end;

Will I Rofalinda write, teaching all that reade, to know

The quincessence of everie sprite. heaven would in little from . Therefore beauen Nature charg'd, that one bodse should be full d With all Graces wide enlarg d, nasure prefemily diffill d

Ra

Helons

Helens cheeke, but not bu beart. Cleopatra's Maiefie; Attalanta's better part, Sad Lucrecia's Modeftie. Thu Rosalinde of monie parez, by Heanenly Synode was dense'd, Of manie faces, eyes, and bearss, to banc the touches deerest pris d. Heaven weuld that thee thefe gifts fhould have, and I so line and die ber flane.

Rof. O most gentle Iupiter, what tedious homilie of Louchaue you wearied your parishioners withall, and neuer cri'de, haue patience good people.

Cel. How now backe friends : Shepheard. go off a little : go with him firrah.

Clo. Come Shepheard, let vs make zo honorable retrelt, though not with bagge and baggage, yet with scrip and scrippage.

Cel. Didft thou heare thefe verfes?

Rof.. O yes, I heard them all, and more too, for some of them had in them more feete then the Verses would

Col. That's no matter: the feet might beare 9 verfes. Rof. I, but the feet were lame, and could not beare themselves without the verse, and therefore stood lame-

Cd. But didft chou heare without wondering, how thy name should be hang'd and carued vporthele trees?

Rof. I was scuen of the nine dates out of the wonder, before you came : for looke heere what I found on a Palme tree; I was neuer fo berim'd fince Pysbagoras time that I was an Irish Rat, which I can hardly remember.

Cel. Tro you, who hath done this?

Rof. Is it a man?

ly in the verse.

Cel. And a chaine that you once wore about his neck; change you colour?

Rof. I pre'thee who?

Cel. O Lord, Lord, it is a hard matter for friends to meete; but Mountaines may bee remoou'd with Earthquakes, and so encounter.

Rof. Nay, but who is it? Cel. Is it possible?

Rof. Nay, I pre'thee now, with most petitionary rehemence, tell me who it is.

Cel. O wenderfull, wonderfull, and most wonderfull wonderfuil, and yet againe wonderful, and after that out of all hooping.

Rof. Good my complection, doft thou think though I am caparison'd like a man, I have a doublet and hose in my disposition? One inch of delay more, 15 2 South-sea of discouerie. I pre'thee tell me, who is it quickely, and fpeakeapace: I would thou couldit flammer, that thou might ft powre this conceal'd man out of thy mouth, as Wine comes out of a narrow-mouth'd bottle: either too much at once, or none at all. I pre'thee take the Corke out of thy mouth, that I may drinke thy tydings.

Cel. So you may put a man in your belly.

Rof. Ishe of Gods making? What manner of man? Is his head worth a het? Or his chin worth a beard?

Cel. Nay, he hath but a little beard.

Rof. Why God will fend more, if the man will bee thankful: let me flay the growth of his beard, if thos delay menot the knowledge of his chin.

Cel. It is yong Orlando, that tript up the Wrastlers heeles, and your heart, both in an inflant.

Ref. Nay, but the divell take mocking : Sprake ladde brow, and true maid

Cel. I'faith(Coz) ils he.

Ref. Orlanda? Cel. Orlando.

Rof. Alas the day, what shall I do with my doublet &! hole? What did he when thou law ft him? What layde he? How look'd he? Wherein went he? What makes hee heere? Did he aske for me? Where remaines he? How parted he with thee ? And when shalt thou see him againe? Answer me in one word.

Cel. You must borrow me Gargantuas mouth first: tis a Word too great for any mouth of this Ages fize to fay I and no, to these particulars, is more then to answer in a Catechilme.

Ros. But doch he know that I am in this Forrest, and in mans apparrell? Looks he as freshly, as he did the day he Wraftled?

Cel. It is as easie to count Atomies as to resolve the propositions of a Louer: but take ataste of my finding him, and rellish it with good observance. I found him under a tree like a drop'd Acorne.

Rof. It may vvel be cal'd loues tree, when it droppes forth fruite.

Cel. Giue me audience, good Madam.

Rof. Proceed.

Cel. There lay hee Aretch'd along like a Wounded knight.

Ref. Though it be pittie to fee fuch a fight, it well becomes the ground.

Cel. Cry holla, to the tongue, I prethee i it curuettes vnseasonably. He was furnish'd like a Hunter.

Rof. O omioous, he comes to kill my Hart.

Cel. I would fing my long without a butthen, thou bring'ft me out of tune.

Rof. Do you not know I am a woman, when I thinke, I must speake: sweet, say on.

Enter Orlando & laques.

Cel. You bring me out. Soft, comes he not heere?

Rof. 'Tis he, flinke by, and note him.

I aq I thanke you for your company, but good faith I had as liefe haue beene my selfe alone.

Orl. And so had 1 : but yet for fashion sake I thanke you too, for your focietie.

lag. God buy you, let's meet as little as we can.

Orl. I do defire we may be better flrangers.

lag. I pray you marre no more trees with Writing Loue-songs in their barkes.

Orl. I pray you matte no moe of my verses with teading them ill-fauouredly.

Orl. Yes, Just. lag. Rosalinci is your loues name?

Ing. I do not like het name.
Orl. There was no thought of pleafing you when fine was christen'd.

lag. What stature is she of? Orl. Iust as high as my heart.

laq. You are ful of prety answers: have you not bin acquainted with goldsmiths wives, & cond the out of rings

Orl. Not fo: but I answer you right painted cloath, from whence you have studied your questions.

Inq. You have a nimble wit; I thinke twas made of Attalanta's heeles. Will you fitte downe with me, and wee two, will raile against our Mistris the world, and all our miserie.

Or/ I wil chide no breather in the world but my felfe against against whom I know most faults.

149. The worst fault you have, is to be in love.
Orl. Tis a fault I will not change, for your best vertue : I am wearie of you.

lag. By my troth, I was feeking for a Foole, when I found you.

Orl. He is drown'd in the brooke, looke but in, and you shall see him lag. There I shal see mine owne figure

Orl. Which I take to be either a foole, or a Cipher. lag. lle tarrie no longer with you, farewell good fignior Loue.

Orl. I am glad of your departure : Adleu good Monfieur Melancholly.

Rof. I wil speake to him like a fawcie Lacky. and vnder that habit play the knaue with him, do you hear For-Orl. Verie wel, what would you? (relter.

Ref. 1 pray you, what i'ft a clocke?

Orl. You should aske me what sime o'day: there's no clocke is the Forrest. Rof. Then there is no true Louer in the Fortest, else fighing everie minute and groaning everie houre wold detect the lazie foot of time, as wel as a clocke

Ort. And why not the swift soote of time? Had not that bin as proper?

Rof. By no meanes he; Time travels in divers paces, with divers persons: He tel you who Time ambles withall, who Time trots withal, who Time gallops withal, and who he stands stil withall,

Orl. 1 prethee, who doth he trot withal?

Rof. Marry he trots hard with a yong maid, between the contract of her marriage, and the day it is folemnized if the interim be but a fennight, Times pace is fo hard, that it feemes the length of leven yeare.

Orl Who ambles Time withal?

Rof. With a Priest shat lacks Latine, and a rich man that hath not the Gowt: for the one sleepes cassly becaufe he cannot fludy, and the other lives merrily because he feeles no paine : the one lacking the burthen of leane and wasteful Learnings the other knowing no hur. then of heavie tedious penurie. These Time ambles withal.

Orl. Who doth he gallop withal?

With a theefe to the gallowes : for though hee go 25 fortly as foot can fall, he thinkes himfelfe too foor there.

Orl. Who staics it stil withal?

Rof. With Lawiers in the vacation : for they fleepe betweene Terme and Terme, and then they petceiuc nothow time moues.

Orl. Where dwel you prettie youth?
Rof. With this Shepheardelle my fifter: heere in the skirts of the Forrest, like fringe vpon a petticoat.

Orl. Are you native of this place?

Rof. As the Conie that you fee dwell where thee is kindled.

OrL Your accent is something finer, then you could purchase in so removed a dwelling

Rof. I have bin cold to of many : but indeed, an olde teligious Vnckle of mine raught me to speake, who was in his youth an inland man, one that knew Courtship too well for there he fel in loue. I have heard him read many Lestors against it, and I thanke God, I am not a Woman to be touch'd with to many giddie offences as hee hath generally tax'd their whole fex withat.

Orl. Can you remember any of the principall euils, that he laid to the charge of women?

Rof. There were none principal, they were all like one another, as halfe pence are, euerie one fault feeming monstrous, til his fellow-fault came to match it.

Orl. I prethee recount some of them.

Rof. No: I wil not calt away my phylick, but on those that are ficke. There is a man haunts the Forreft, that aboses our yong plants with caruing Rosalinde on their barkes; liangs Oades voon Hauthornes, and Elegies on brambles; all (forfooth) defying the name of Refalinde. If I could meet that Fancie-monger, I would give him some good counsel, for he seemes to have the Quotidian of Loue ypon him.

Orl. I am he that is so Loue-shak'd, I pray you tel me your remedie.

Rof. There is none of my Vnckles markes upon you: he taught me how to know a man in love : in which cage of rulhes, I am fure you art not prisoner.

Orl. What were his markes?

Rof. A leane checke, which you have not: a blew eie and funken, which you have not : an unquestionable lpiric, which you have not: a beard neglected, which you hauenor: (but I pardon you for that, for simply your hsuing in beard, is a yonger brothers reuennew) then your hole (hould be vngarter'd, your bonnet vnbanded, your fleeue vnbutton'd, your shoo vnti'de, and euerte thing about you, demonstrating a carelesse desolation; but you are no fuch man; you are rather point denice in your accoustrements,25 louing your selfe, then seeming the Louer of any others

Orl. Faire youth, I would I could make thee beteeve Rof. Me beleeue it? You may alloone make her that you Love beleeve it, which I warrant she is apter to do then to confesse she do's: that is one of the points, in the which women fill give the lie to their conferences. But in good footh, are you he that hangs the verfes on the Trees, wherein Rosalind is so admired?

Orl. Is weare to thee youth, by the white hand of Rosalind, I am that he, that unfortunate he.

Ros. But are you so much in loue, as your rimes speak? Orl. Neither rime nor reason can expresse how much.

Rof: Loue is meerely a madneffe, and I tel you, deferues as wel a darke house, and a whip, as madmen do: and the reason why they are not so punished and cured, is that the Lunacie is so ordinarie, that the whippers are in loue too : yer I professe curing it by counsel.

Orl. Did you ever cure any fo?

Rof. Yes one, and in this manner. Hee was to imagine me his Loue, his Millris : and I fee him everice day to weeme At which time would I, being but a moonish youth, greeve, be effeminate, changeable, longing, and liking, proud, fantaflical, apith, thallow, inconfrant, ful of reares, full of finiles; for eueric passion something, and for no pallion truly any thing, as boyes and women are for the most part, cattle of this colour: would now like him, now loath him: then entertaine him, then for fwear him : now weepe for him, then fpit at him; that I draue my Sutor from his mad homos of love, to a living homos of madnes & was to fortweare the ful stream of y woild, and to flue in a nooke meerly Monastick: and thus I cur'd him, and this way will take upon mee to wash your Liuer as cleane as a found theepes heart, that there thal nor be one spot of Loue in't.

Orf. I would not be cured, youth.

Rof. I would cure you, if you would but call me Rofalord, and come everie day to my Coat, and woc me.

Orlan. Now by the faith of my love, I will; Tel me

Ref. Go with me to it, and He shew it you: and by the way, you shal cell me where in the Forrest you live : Wil you go?
Orl. Withall my heart, good youth.

Rof. Nay, you must call mee Rosalind: Come fister, will you go? Exeunt.

Scæna Tertia.

Enter Clowne, Andrey & laques.

Clo Come apace good Audrey, I wil fetch vp your Goates, Audrey: and how Audrey am I the man yet?
Doth my fumple feature content you?

And. Your features, Lord warrant vs: what features? Clo. I am heere with thee, and thy Goats, as the most capricious Poet honest Ouid was among the Gothes.

lag. Oknowledgeill inhabited, worse then loue in a thatch'd house.

Clo. When a mans verses cannot be understood, nor a mans good wit feconded with the forward childe, vnderstanding; it strikes aman more dead then a great reckoning in a little roome : truly, I would the Gods hadde made thee poeticall.

Aud. I'do not know what Poetical is: is it honeft in deed and word: is it a true thing?

(lo. No trulie : for the truest poetrie is the most faining, and Louers are gluen to Poetrie and what they Sweare in Poetrie, may be said as Louers, they do feigne.

Aid. Do you wish then that the Gods had made me

Class. I do truly : for thou swear'st to me thou are honest: Now if thou wert a Poet, I might have some hope thou didft feigne.

Aud. Would you not have me honest?

Clo. No truly, valesse thou were hard fauout'd : for honeflie coupled to beautie, is to have Honie a fawce to Sugar.

A materiall foole.

And. Well, I am not faire, and therefore I pray the Gods make me honest.

Cle. Truly, and to cast away honestie vppon a foule But, were to put good meate into an vncleane dish.

And. I am not a flur, though I thanke the Goddes I

Clo. Well, praised be the Gods, for thy foulnesse; fluttishnesse may come heereofter. But beit, as it may bee, I wil marrie thee : and to that end, I have bin with Sir Oliver Mar-text, the Vicar of the next village, who hath promis'd to meete me in this place of the Fortest, and to couple vs.

lag. I would faine fee this meeting. And. Wel, the Gods give vs 10y.

Glo. Amen. Aman may if he were of a featful heart stagger in this accempt : for heere wee have no Temple but the wood, no affembly but horne-beafts. But what though? Courage. As hornes are odious, they are necelfarie. It is faid, meny a man knowes no end of his goods; right: Many a man has good Hornes, and knows no end of them. Well, that is the downe of his wife, 'tis none of his owne getting; bornes, even fo poore men alone:

No, no, the noblest Deere hash them as hoge as the Rufcall : Is the finglem n therefore bleffed ? No, as a wall'd Towne is more worthier then a villege, & is the forehead of a matried man, more honourable then the bare brow of a Batcheller: and by how much defence is better then no skill, by so much is a home more precious then to want.

Enser Sir Oliver Mardezt.

Heere comes Six Oliver: Six Oliver Mex-text you are wel met. Will you dispatch vs hoese voder this tree, or that we go with you to your Chappell?

OL Is there none beere to give the woman?

Clo. I wil not take her on guit of any man.

Ol. Truly the must be given, or the marriage is not lag. Proceed, proceede : The give her.

Clo. Good even good M what ye cal't : how do you Sir, you are verie well met : goddild you for your last companie, I am verie glad to fee you, even a toy in hand heere Sir : Nay, pray be cover'd.

Inq. Wilyou be married, Motley?
Clo. As the Oze hath his bow fir, the horse his coth, and the Falcon her bels, fo man hath his defires, and as

Pigeons bill, so wedlocke would be nibling lag. And wil you (being a man of your breeding) be married under a bush like a begger? Get you to church, and have a good Priest that cantely ou what marriage is, this scllow wil but joyne you together, as they joyne Wainfoot, then one of you wil prope a shrunke pannell, and like greene timber, warpe, warpe.

Clo. I am not in the minde, but I were better to bee matried of him then of another, for he is not like to marrie me wel: and not being wel married, it wil be a good excuse for me heerestier, to leave my wife.

lag. Goethou with mee, And let me counsel thee.

Ol. Come sweete Andrey,

We must be married, or we must live in baudrey s Farewel good Mr Oliver: Not O Sweet Oliver, O brave Oliner leave me not behind thee: But winde away, bee gone I fay, I wil not to wedding with thec.

Ol. Tis no matter; Ne're a fantastical knaue of them all that flour me out of my calling.

Scæna Quarta.

Enter Rosalind & Celia.

Rof. Neuer talke to me, I wil weepe. Cel. Do I prethee, but yet have the grace to confider, that teares do not become a man.

Rof. But have I not cause to weepe? Cel. As good cause as one would defire, Therefore weepe.

Rof. His very baire

Is of the diffembling colour.

Cel. Something browner then Iudalles: Marric his kifles are Iudaffes owne children.

Rof. I'faith his baire is of a good colour.

Cel. An excellent colour :

Your Chessenut was ever the onely colour: Rof. And his killing is as ful of landitie, As the touch of holy bread.

Cel. Hee hath bought a paire of cast lips of Diana; a Nun of winters fifterhood kiffes not more religiouslie, the very yee of chastity is in them

Rofa. But why did hee sweare hee would come this morning, and comes not?

Cel. Ney certainly there is no truth in him.

Rof. Doe you thinke so? Cel. Yes, I thinke he is not a picke purse, nor a horse-Realer, but for his verity in loue, I doe thinke him as concaue as a couered goblet, or a Worme-eaten nut.

Rof. Not true in loue? Cel. Yes, when he is in, but I thinke he is not in.

Rof. You have heard him sweare downright he was. Cel. Was, is not is: besides, the oath of Louer is no stronger then the word of a Tapster, they are both the confirmer of falle reckonings, he attends here in the forrest on the Duke your father,

Rof. I met the Duke yesterday, and had much que-Rion with him : he askt me of what parentage I was ; I told him of as good as he, so he laugh'd and let mee goe. But what talke wee of Fathers, when there is such a man

Cel. Othat's a braue man, hee writes braue verses, speakes braue words, sweares braue oathes, and breakes them brauely, quite trauers athwart the heart of his lo-uer, as a puiling Tilter, y spars his horse but on one side, breakes his staffe like a noble goofe; but all's braue that youth mounts, and folly guides : who comes heere?

Enter Corin.

Corin. Mistresse and Master, you have oft enquired After the Shepheard that complain'd of loue, Who you saw sitting by me on the Turph, Praising the proud disdainfull Shepherdesse That was his Mistresse.

Cel. Well: and what of him?

Cor. If you will fee a pageant truely plaid Betweene the pale complexion of true Loue, And the red glowe of scorne and prowd disdaine, Goehence a little, and I shall conduct you If you will marke it.

Rof. O come, let vs remoue, The fight of Louers feedeth those in loue: Bring vs to this fight, and you shall fay He proue a busic actor in their play.

Exernt.

Scena Quinta.

Enter Silvins and Phebe.

Sil. Sweet Phebe doe not scorne me, do not Phebe Say that you love me not, but fay not fo In bitternesse; the common executioner Whose heart th'accustom'd fight of death makes hard Falls not the axe vpon the humbled neck, But first begs pardon: will you sterner be Then he that dies and lives by bloody drops?

Enter Rosalind, Celia, and Corin. Phe. I would not be thy executioner, I flye thee, for I would not injure thee: Thou tellst me there is murder in mine eye, Tis pretty sure, and very probable,

That eyes that are the frailft, and fofteft things, Who shut their coward gates on atomyes, Should be called tyrants, butchers, murtherers. Now I doe frowne on thee with all my heart And if mine eyes can wound, now let them kill thee; Now counterfeit to fwound, why now fall downe, Or if thou canft not. oh for shame, for shame, Lye not, to say mine eyes are murtherers: Now shew the wound mine eye hath made in thee, Scratch thee but with a pin, and there remaines Some scarre of it: Leane vpon a rush The Cicatrice and capable impressure Thy palme fome moment keepes: but now mine eyes Which I have darted at thee, hurt thee not, Nor I am fure there is no force in eyes That can doe hurr.

Sil. O deere Phebe,

If euer (as that euer may be neere) You meet in some fresh checke the power of sancie, Then shall you know the wounds invisible That Loues keene arrows make.

Phe. Bur till that time

Come not thou neere me ; and when that time comes, Afflict me with thy mockes, pitty me nor, Astill that time I shall not pitty thee.

Rof. And why I pray your who might be your mother That you infult, exult, and all at once Ouer the wretched? what though you hau no beauty As by my faith, I fee no more in you Then without Candle may goe darke to bed : Must you be therefore prowd and pittilesse? Why what meanes this? why do you looke on me? I fee no more in you then in the ordinary Of Natures falc-worke? ods my little life, I thinke the meanes to tangle my eies too: No faith proud Mistresse, hope not after it, Tis not your inkie browes, your blacke filke haire, Your bugle eye-balls, nor your cheeke of creame That can encame my spirits to your worship: You foolish Shepheard, wherefore do you sollow her Lille foggy South, puffing with winde and raine, You are a thousand times a propercr man Then the a woman, 'Tis fuch fooles as you That makes the world full of ill-fauourd children: Tis not her glasse, but you that flatters her; And out of you the fees her felfe more proper Then any of her lineaments can show her: But Miftris, know your felfe, downe on your knees And thanke heaven, fasting, for a good mans love; For I must tell you friendly in your ease, Sell when you can, you are not for all markets: Cry the man mercy, love him, take his offer, Foule is most foule, being foule to bos scoffer. So take her to thee Shepheard, fare you well.

Phe. Sweet youth, I pray you chide a yere together, I had rather here you chide, then this man woos.

Ros. Hees falne in loue with your foulnesse, & shee'll Fall in love with my anger. If it be fo, as fast As the answeres thee with frowning looker, ile sauce Her with bitter words : why looke you so vpon me?

Phe. For no ill will I beare you.

Rof. I pray you do not fall in love with mee, For I am faller then vowes made in wine : Befides, I like you not : if you will know my house, 'Tis at the tufft of Olives, here hard by: Will you goe Sifter? Shepheard ply her hard:

Come

Come Sifter : Shepheardeffe, looke on him better And be not proud, though all the world could fee, None could be so abus'd in sight as bee. Come, to our flocke, Phe. Dead Shepheard, now I find thy faw of might, Who ever lov'd that lou'd not at first light?

Sil. Sweet Phebe

Phe. Hah: what failt thou Silvius?

Sil. Sweet Phobe pitty me.

Phe. Why I am forry for thee gentle Silvius.

Sil. Where ever forrowis, reliefe would be : If you doe forrow at my griefe in love . By guing love your forrow, and my griefe Were both extermin'd.

Phe. Thou hast my loue, is not that neighbourly?

Sil. I would have you.

Pbe. Why that were couetoufnesse: Silvius; the time was, that I hated thee; And yet it is not, that I beare thee loue, But fince that thou canst talke of love so well, Thy company, which erft was irkesome to me I will endure; and lie employ thee too: But doe not looke for further recompence Then thine owne gladnesse, that thou art employd.

Sil. So holy, and so perfect is my love, And I in such a powerty of grace, That I shall thinke it a most plenteous crop To gleane the broken eares after the man That the maine haruest reapes: loose now and then A scattred smile, and that He live vpon.

Phe. Knowst thou the youth that spoke to mee yese. Sil. Not very well, but I have met him oft, And he hath bought the Corcage and the bounds

That the old Carlot once was Master of. Phe. Thinke not I love him, though I ask for him, Tis but a peeuish boy, yet he talkes well, But what care I for words? yet words do well When he that speakes them pleases those that heare: It is a pietty youth, not very prettie, But fure hee's proud, and yethis pride becomes him; Hee'll make a proper man: the best thing in him Is his complexion : and faster then his tongue Did make offence, his eye did beale it vp : He is not very tall, yet for his yeeres hee's tall: His leg is but fo fo, and yet 'tis well : There was a pretty tednelle in his lip A littleriper, and more lustie red Then that mixt in his cheeke: 't was just the difference Betwixt the constant red, and mingled Danraske. There be some women Silving, had they marke him In parcells as I did, would have gone neere To fall in love with him : but for my part I loue him not, nor hate him not : and yet, Have more cause to hate him then to love him, For what had he to doe to chide at me?

He said mine eyes were black, and my haire blacke ,

And now I am remembred, scoru'd at me :

Butthat's all one : omittance is no quittance :

He write to him a very tanting Letter, And thou shalt beare it, wilt thou Siluius? Sil. Phebo, with all my heart.

I matuell why I sofwer'd not againe,

Phe. He write it frait : The matter's in my head, and in my heart, I will be bitter with him, and paffing short; Goe with me Siluine.

Exeunt

Actus Quartus Scena Prima.

Enter Rofalind, and Celia, and Laques.

1.49. I prethee, pretty youth, let me betrer acquainted with thee.

Rof They fay you are a melancholly fellow.

lag. Iam fo : I doe loue it better then laughing. Rof. Those that are in extremity of either, are abhominable fellowes, and betray themselves to every modeme censore, worse then drunkards.

lag. Why, tis good to be lad and lay nothing.

Rof. Why then'to good to be a poste.

lag. I have neither the Schollers melahcholy, which is emulation: nor the Mulitians, which is fantafricall: nor the Courtiers, which is proud : nor the Souldiers, which is ambitious : nor the Lawiers, which is politick: nor the Ladies, which is nice. nor the Louers, which is all thefe: but it is a melancholy of mine owne, compounded of many simples extracted from many obiects, and indeed the fundrie contemplation of my travelis, in which by often rumination, wraps me in a most bumorous ladnelle.

Rof. A Traueller: by my faith you have great reafon to be lad : I feare you have fold your owne Lands, to fee other mens; then to have feene much, and to have nothing, is to have rich eyes and poore hands.

lag. Yes, I have gain'd my experience.

Enter Orlando

Rof. And your experience makes you lad: I had rather have a foole to make me merrie, then experience to: make me lad, and to travaile for it roo

Orl. Good day, and happinelle, deere Refalma.

lag. Nay then God buy you, and you talke in blanke

Ref. Farewell Mounfieur Travellor : looke you lispe, and weare thrange suites; disable all the benefits of your owne Countrie: be out of love with your natiuitie, and almost chide God for making you that countenance you are; or I will learce thinke you have fwam in a Gundello. Why how now Orlando, where have you bin all this while? you a lover? and you ferue me luch another tricke, never come in my fight more.

Orl. My faire Rofalind, I come within an house of my promile.

Rof. Breake an houses promise in love? hee that will divide a minute into a thousand parts, and breake but a part of the thousand part of a minute in the affairs of love, it may be faid of him that Capid hath claps him oth' shoulder, but He warrant him heart bole.

Url. Pardon me deere Rofalind.

Ref. Nay, and you be so tardie, come no more in my fight. I had as liete be woo'd of a Snaile.

Orl. Of a Snaile?

Ref. 1, of a Smalle: for though he comes flowly, hee extres his house on his head; a better joynclure I thinke then you make a woman : besides, he brings his destinie with him

Orl. What's that:

Rof. Why hornes: w fuch as you are faine to be beholding to your wives for : but he comes armed in his fortune, and prevents the flander of his wife.

Orl. Veriue

Orl. Vertue is no home-maker: and my Refalind is

Rof. And I am your Rofolind.

Col. It pleases him to call you so: but he hath a Roso-lind of a better leere then you.

Rof. Come, wood me, wood mee a for now I am in a holy-day humor, and like enough to confent: What would you fay to me now, and I were your verie, verie Rofalind?

Orl. I would kiffe before I spoke.

Rof. Nay, you were better speake first, and when you were grauel'd, for lacke of matter, you might take occasion to killer verie good Oracors when they are out, they will spit, and for louers, lacking (God warne vs) matter, the cleanlieft shift is to kiffe.

Orl. How if the kille be denide ?

Rof. Then the puts you to entreztie, and there begins new matter.

Orl. Who could be out, being before his belowed

Miftris?

Rof. Marrie that should you if I were your Mistris, onl should thinke my honestie ranker then my wit.

Orl. What, of my fuite?

Rof. Not out of your apparrell, and yet out of your

Am not I your Refelind !

Orl. I take some loy to say you are, because I would netalking of her.

Ref. Well, in her person, I say I will not have you.

Orl. Then in mine owne person, I die.

Ref. No faith, die by Attorney: the poore world is almost fix thousand yeeres old, and in all this time there was not anie man died in his owne person (videlices) in a loue cause: Tradomenad his braines dash'd out witha Grecian club, yet he did what hee could to die before, and he is one of the patternes of love. Leander, he would have liu'd manie a faire yeere though Hero had turn'd Nun; if it had not bin for a hot Midsomer-night, for (good youth) he went but forth to wash him in the Hellespont, and being taken with the crampe, was droun'd, and the foolish Chronoclers of that age, found it was Hero of Cestos. But these are all lies, men have died from time to time, and wormes have eaten them, but not for louc.

Orl. I would not have my right Rosalind of this mind, for I protest her frowne might kill me.

Ref By this hand, it will not kill a flie: but come, now I will be your Refalind in a more comming-on difpolition: and aske me what you will, I will grant it.

Orl. Then love me Rosalind.

Rof. Yes faith will I, fridates and facerdates, and all

Orl. And will thou have me?

Rof. I, and twentie such. Orl. Whet saiest thou?

Ref. Are you not good?

Orl. I hope fo

Rosalind. Why then, can one defire too much of a good thing: Come lifter, you shall be the Priest, and marrievs: give me your hand Orlando: What doe you lay lifter ?

Orl. Pray thee marrie vs.

Cel. I cannot fay the words.

Rof. You must begin, will you Orlando.

Cel. Goe too . wil you Orlando, haue to wife this Rofalind:

Orl. I will.

Nof. I, but when ? Ord. Why now, as fast as the can marrie vs.

Ref. Then you must fay, I take thee Roselind for

Orl. I take thee Refaland for wife.

Rof. I might aske you for your Commission, But I doe take thee Orlando for my husband : there's a girle goes before the Prieft, and certainely a Womans thought runs before her actions.

Orl. So do all thoughts, they are wing'd.

Rof. Now tell me how long you would have her, afcer you have possest her?

Orl. For ever, and a day.

Rof. Say a day, without the euer: no, no Orlando, men are Aprill when they woe, December when they wed: Maides are May when they are maides, but the sky changes when they are wives : I will bee more icalous of thee, then a Barbary cocke-pidgeon over his hen, more clamorous then a Patrat against raine, more new-fangled then an ape, more giddy in my defires, then a monkey: I will weepe for nothing, like Diara in the Fountaine, & I wil do that when you are dispos'd to be merry: I will laugh like a Hyen, and that when thou art inclin'd to fleepe

Orl. But will my Rofalind doe fo? Rof. By my life, the will doe as I doe. Orl. O but the is wife.

Ros. Or elfe thee could not have the wit to doe this: the wifer, the waywarder: make the doores woon a womans wit, and it will our at the cafement: fhut that; and 'twill out at the key-hole: stop that, 'twill flie with the Smoake out at the chimney.

Orl. A man that had a wife with fuch a wit he might fay, wit whether wil't?

Rof. Nay, you might keepe that checke forft, till you met your wives wit going to your neighbours bed.

Orl. And what wit could wit have, to excuse that? Rofa. Marry to fay, the came to fecke you there : you shail-neuer take her without her answer, vnlesse you take her without her tongue : o that woman that cannot make her fault her hulbands occasion, les her neuer nurse her childe her felfe, for the will breed it like a foole.

Orl. For these two houres Rofaliode, I wil leave thee.

Rof. Alas, deere loue, I cannot lacke thee two houses. Orl. I must attend the Duke at dimer, by two a cleck I will be with thee againc.

Rof. 1, goe your water, goe your water: I knew what ou would proue, my friends told mec as much, and I thought no leffe: that flattering tongue of yours wonne me: 'tis but one cast away, and so come death : two o' clocke is your howre.

Orl. I. Iweet Rofalind.

Rof. By my troth, and in good earnest, and so God mend mee , and by all pretty outher that are not dangerous, if you breake one iot of your promife, or come one minute behinde your houre, I will thinke you the most patheticall breake-promise, and the most hollow lover, and the most viworthy of her you call Refalende, that may bee chosen out of the groffe band of the vnfaithfull: therefore beware my centure, and keep your pro-

Orl With no lesse religion, then if thou were indeed

my Rofalind: so adieu.

Rof. Well, Time is the olde Iustice that examines all fuch offenders, and lectime try : adieu. Cel. You have fraply milus'd our fexc in your loveprace :

prate: we must have your doublet and hole pluckt over your head, and show the world what the bird hath done to her owne neast.

Ref. O coz, coz, coz: my pretty little coz, that thou did now how many fathome deepe I am in love i but it cannot bee founded: my affection hath an visknowne bottome, like the Bay of Portugall.

Cel. Orrather battomleffe, that as fall as you poure affedion in, in runs out.

Ref. No, that fame wicked as stand of Vennu, that was begot of thought, conceived of spleene, and borne of madnesse, that blinder as saily boy, that abuses every ones eyes, because his owne are out, let him bee sudge, bow deepel amin loue: ile tell thee Aliena, I cannot be out of the sight of Orlando: lie goe finde a shadow, and sigh till he come.

Cel. And Ile Geepe

Exensi

Scena Secunda.

Enter lagnes and Lords, Forrestors.

log. Which is he that killed the Deare? Lord, Sir, it was !

lag. Let's present him to the Dukelske a Romane Conquerour, and it would doe well to set the Deares horns upon his head, for a branch of victory; have you no song Forrester for this purpose?

Lord. Yes Sir.

lag. Singit: 'tis no matter how it been rune, fo it make noyle enough.

Mulicke, Song.

What shall be have that kild the Deare?

His Leasher thin and bornes to we are:

Then sing him borne, the rest shall be are this burthen;

Take thou no scorne to weare the borne,

It was a crest ere thou wast berne,

Thy sathers sather were it,

And thy suther borne, the suffy horne,

It not a thing to langh to scorne.

Exerns

Scona Tertia.

Enter Rosalind and Colon.

Ref. How lay you now, is it not past two a clock? And heere much Orlando.

Cel. I warrant you, with pure love, & troubled brain, Enter Silnim.

He hath t'ane his bow and arrower, and is gone forth. To sleepe: looke who comes heere.

Sil. My errand is to you, faire youth,
My gentle Phobs. did bid me give you this:
I know not the contents, but as I gueffe
By the fleme brow, and waspish action
Which she did vie, as she was writing of it,
It beares an angry tenure; pardon me,
I am but as a guiltlesse messenger.

Rof Patience her felfe would startle at this letter,

And play the swaggerer, beare this beare all. Shee faics I am not faite, that I lacke manners. She calls me proud, and that sne could not lour me Were man as rare as Phenix: od's my will, Her loue is not the Haire shat I doe hunt, Why writes she so to me? well Shepheard well, This is a Letter of your owne deuice.

Sil. No, I proteR, I know not the contence.

Phobe did write it.

Ref Come, come, you are a foole,
And turn d into the extremity of love
I saw her hand, she has a leatherne hand,
A freestooc coloured hand: I verily did thinke
That het old gloves were on, but twas her hands:
She has a hus wives hand, but that a no matter.
I say the never did invent this letter,
This is a mans invention, and his hand.

Sil. Sure it is bers.

Rof. Why its a boy sterous and a cruell state,
A stile for challengers: why, she defies me,
Like Turke to Christian: wromens gende braine
Could not drop forth such giant cude invention,
Such Ethiop words, blacker in their effect
Then in their countenance: wall you heare the letter?

Sil. So please you, for I never heard it yet:

Yet heard too much of Phebes crueltie.

Rof. She Photos me: marke how the igrant vertes. Read. Artibou ged, to Shepherd surn 47

That a maiden; beart baib burn d Can a vvoman raile thus?

Sil. Call you this railing? Rof. Read. Wby, 1by godhend land a part, War Albou with a womers heart? Did you ever heare fuch railing? Whiles the eye of man did wood me. That could do no vengeance to me. Meaning me a bealt. If the scorne of your bright eine Have power to raise such love to mine, Alacke, in me, what fir inge effett Would they works in milde aspell? Whiles you chid me, I did love, How then might your prairs I mount He thas brings this lone to thee . Luile knowes this Love in one : Andby bim feale up thy minde , Whether that they youth and kinds Will ibe faithfull offer take Of me, and all ibai I can make, Or elfe by bim my love dense, And then He Andre bow to die.

Sil. Call you this chiding? Cel. Alas poore Shepheard.

Ref. Doe you pitty him? No, he deserues no pitty: wilt thou love such a woman? what to make thee an infirumenc, and play salse straines vpon thee? not to be endured. Well, goe your way to her; (for I see Love hath made thee a time inake) and say this to her; That is she love me, I charge het to love thee: if she will not, I will never have her, vnfesse thou increat for her: if you bee a true lover hence, and not a word; for here comes more company.

Exit. Sil.

Enter Olizer. know)

Olizer. Good morrow, faire ones: pray you, (if you Where in the Purlews of this Forrest, stands

A

A sheep-coat, senc'd about with Olive-trees.

Cel. West of this place, down in the neighbor bottom The ranke of Oziers, by the murmoring streame Left on your right hand, brings you to the place? But at this howre, the house doth keepe it selfe, There's none within.

Oli. If that an eye may profit by a tongue, Then should I know you by description, Such garments, and such yeeres: the boy is face, Offemall fauour, and bestowes himselfe Like a ripe fifter : the woman low And browner then her brother: are not you The owner of the house I did enquire for? Cel. It is no boalt, being ask'd, to fay we are.

Oli. Orlando doth commend him to you both, And to that youth hee calls his Refalind He sends this bloudy napkin; are you he f

Rof. I am : what must we vuderstand by this? Ou. Some of my shame, if you will know of me What man I am, and how, and why, and where This handkercher was flain'd.

Cel. I pray you tell it.
Oli. When last the yong Orlando parted from you, He left a promise to returne agains Within an houre, and pacing through the Forrest, Chewing the food of (weet and bitter fancie, Loe what befell : he threw his eye alide, And marke what obiect did prefent it felfe Under an old Oake, whose bows were moss'd with age And high top, bald with drie antiquitie: A wretched ragged man, ore-growne with haire Lay fleeping on his back; about his necke A greene and guilded inake bad wreath'd it lelfe, Who with her head, nimble in threats approach'd The opening of his mouth: but fodsinly Seeing Orlando, it vnlink'd it felfe, And with Indented glides, did flip away Into a bush, under which bushes shade A Lyonnesse, with vdders all drawne drie, Lay cowching head on ground, with catlike watch When that the fleeping man should stiere; for 'tis The royall disposition of thet beast To prey on nothing, that doth feeme as dead: This feene. Orlando did approach the man, And found it was his brother, his elder brother.

Cel. O I have heard him speake of that tame brother, And he did render him the most vnnaturall

That liu'd amongst men.
Ole. And well he might so doe, For well I know he was annaturall

Ref. But to Orlando: did he leave him there

Food to the luck'd and hungry Lyonnelle?
Oli. Twice did he turne his backe, and purpos dio r But kindneffe, noblet ever then revenge, And Nature stronger then his just occasion, Made him give battell to the Lyonnelle: Who quickly fell before him, in which hurrling From miserable flumber I awaked.

Cel. Are you his brother? Rof. Was't you he rescu d? Col. Was't you that did!

Was't you that did to oft contrive to kill him?

Oli. 'Twas I: but'tis not I: I doe not fhame To tell you what I was, fince my conversion So (weeetly taftes, being the thing I am-

Rof. But for the bloody napkin?

Oli. By and by :

When from the first to last betwizt vs two. Teares our recouncments had most kindely bath'd, As how I came into that Defert place. I briefe, he led me to the gentle Duke, Who gave nie fresh aray, and entertainment, Committing me vnto my brothers love, Who led me inflantly vnto his Caue, There stripthimselfe, and heere vpon his arme The Lyonnelle had tome fome flesh away , Which all this while had bled; and now he fainted, And cride in fainting vpon Rofalinds.
Briefe, I recourt dhim, bound vp his wound, And after some small space, being strong at heart, He lent me hither, ftranger as I am To tell this flory, that you might excuse His broken promise, and to give this napkin Died in this bloud, ento the Shepheard youth, That he in spore doth call his Refalind

Cel. Why how now Gammed, sweet Gammed.

Oli. Many will swoon when they do look on bloud.

Cel, There is more in it; Cosen Ganimed.

Oli. Looke, he recouers.

Rof. I would I were at home. Cel. Wee'll lead you thicher:

pray you will you take him by the arme.

Oli. Be of good cheere youth : you a man? You lacke a mans heart.

Rof. I doe fo, I confesseit.

Ah, sirra, a body would thinke this was well counterferted. I pray you tell your brother how well I counterfeited : heigh-ho.

Ols. This was not counterfeit, there sa too great testimony in your complexion, that it was a passion of ear-

Rof. Counterfeit, l'affure you.

Oli. Well then, take a good heart, and counterfeit to

Rof. So I doe i but yfaish, I should have beene z woman by right

Cel. Come.you looke paler and paler:pray you draw homewards: good fir, goe with vs.

Oli. That will I : for i must beare answere backe How you escule my brother, Rosalund.

Rof. I shall deuise something : but I pray you commend my counterfeiting to him ; will you goe?

Altus Quintus. Scena Prima.

Enter Clowne and Ambie

Clow. We shall finde a time Audrit, patience gen. ele Ambrie.

And. Faith the Priest was good enough, for oll the olde gentlemans faying.

Clow. A most wicked Sit Oliner, Andrie, a most vito Martexi. But Andrie, there is a youth heere in the Forrest layer claime to you.

And. I, I know who 'ris he hath no interest in mee in the world here comes the man you meane

Enter William.

Clo. It Is meat and drinke to me to fee a Clowne, by my troth, we that have good wits, have much to answer for : we shall be flouring : we cannot hold.

Will. Good eu'n Audrey.

And Godye good eu'n William.

Will. And good eu'n to you Sir. Cle. Good eu'n gentle stiend. Couer thy head, couer thy head: Nay prethee bee couer'd. How olde are you Friend?

Will. Flueand twentie Sir.

Clo. A ripe age: Is thy name William?

Clo. A faire name. Was't borne i'th Forreft heere?

Will. I fir I thanke God.

Clo. Thanks God: A good solver ! Art rich?

Will Fnith fir, fo, fo. Cle. So, so, is good, very good, very excellent good:

and yet it is not, it is but fo, for Art thou wife?

will. I fir, I have a prettle wit.

Cle. Why, shou failt well. I do now remember a fay-Ing I The Foole doth thinke he is wife, but the wifeman knowes himfelfe to be a Foole. The Heathen Philofopher, when he had a defire to cate a Grape, would open his lips when he put it into his mouth, meaning thereby, that Grapes were made to cate, and lippes to open. You do loue this mald?

Will. I do fic.

Ch. Give me your hand : Art thou Learned!

Will No sic.

Cio. Then learne this of me, To have, Is to have. Por it is a figure in Rhetoricke, that drink being powr'd out of a cup into a glasse, by filling the one, doth empty the other. For all your Writers do confent, that pfe is hee: now you are not ip/e, for I am he.

Will. Which he fir?

Clo. He fir, that must marrie this woman: Therefore you Clowne, abandon: which is in the vulgar, leave the focietie; which in the boorish, is companie, of this female: which in the common, is woman: which together, is, abandon the fociety of this Female, or Clowne thou perishest: or to thy better vaders anding, dyest; or (to wit) I kill thee, make thee away, transfere thy life into death, thy libertie into bondage: I will deale in poyfon with thee, or in ballinado, or in fleele: I will bandy with thee in faction, I will orearun thee with spolice : I will kill thee a hundred and fifty wayes, therefore tremble and depart,

And. Do good William.

Will. God reft you merry fit.

Exit

Enter Corin.

Cor. Our Mafter and Mistreffe seekes you: come s-

Clo. Trip Audry, trip Audry, I attend, lattend.

Exami

Scæna Secunda.

Enter Orlando & Oliner.

Orl. Is't possible, that on so little acquaintance you (hould like her? that, but feeing, you fhould love her? And louing moo? and wooing, the Chould grount? And will you perfeuer to enloy her i

Ol. Neither call the giddinelle of it in question; the powertie of her, the small acquaintance, my fodsine woing, not fodaine confenuing : but fay with mee, I love Aliena : fay with her, that the loves mee; confent with both, that we may enjoy each other t it fhall be to your good : for my fathers house, and all the teuennew, shat was old Six Romlands will I office upon you, and heers live and die a Shepherd.

Enter Refalind

. Orl. You have my confent. Let your Wedding be to morrow: thither will I Inuite the Duke, and all's contented followers: Go you, and prepare Aliena; for looke you, Rof. God faue you brother. Ol. And you fzire fufter.

Herie comes my Refalmde.

Rof. Oh my deere Criando, how it greeues me co fee thee weare thy heart in a fearfe.

Orl. It is my arme.

Ros. I thought thy heart had beene wounded with the clawes of a Lion.

Orl. Wounded it is, but with the eyes of a Lady."
Rof. Didyour brother tell you how I counterfeyed to found, when he thew'd me your handkercher? Orl. I, and greater wonders then thet.

Kof. O, I know where you are: nay, tis truet there was never any thing fo fodaine, but the fight of two Rammes, and Cofars Thrasonicall bragge of I came, saw, and ouercome. For your brother, and my fifter, no fooner met, but they look'd : no fooner look'd, but they lou'd; no fooner lou'd, but they figh'd : no fooner figh'd but they ask'd one another the reason; no sooner knew the reason, but they sought the remediet and in these degrees, hauethey made a paire of fishes to marriage, which they will climbe inceatinent, or elfe bee incontinent before marriage; they are in the verie wrath of love, and they will together. Clubbes cannot pert them.

Orl. They shall be married to morrow : and I will bid the Duke to the Nupriall But O, how bitter a thing it is, to looke into happines through another mans elese by fo much the more shall I to morrow be at the height of heart heavineffe. by how much I shall thinke my brother happie, in having what he wishes for.

Ref. Why then to morrow, I cannot ferue your turne for Refalind?

Orl. I can live no longer by thinking.

Rof. I will wearie you then no longer with idle tal-king. Know of methen (for now I fpeake to fome purpole) that I know you ere a Gentleman of good concert: I speake not this, that you should beare a good opinion of my knowledge: infomuch (I fay) I know you are:neither do I labor for a greater effeeme then may in lome little measure draw a beleefe from you, to do your selfe good, and not to grace me. Beleeve then, if you please, that I can do ftrange things : I have fince I was three years old convert with a Magitian, most profound in his Art, and yet not damaable. If you do love Rosaludo fo neere the hart, as your gesture eries it out: when your brother marries Aliena, shall you marrieber. I know into what fireights of Fortune their driven, and it is not impossible to me, if it appeare not inconvenient to you, to fet her before your eyes to morrow humane as the is, and without any danger.

Orl. Speak'A thou in fober meanings?

Rof. By my life I do, which I tender deerly, though I fny I am a Maguian: Therefore put you in your beft aray, bid your friends : for if you will be married to morrow, you shall: and to Rofalind if you will.

Enter Siluius & Phebe.

Looke, here comes a Louer of mine, and a louer of hers. Phe. Youth, you have done me much vngendenelle,

To thew the letter that I writ to you.

Rof. I care not if I have : it is my ftudle To seeme despightfull and ungentle to your you are there followed by a faithful shepheard, Looke vpon him, loue him! he worships you.

Phe. Good Thepheard, tell this youth what 'tis to love

Sil. It is to be all made of fighes and teares,

And fo am I for Phibe.

Pbc. And I for Genemed. Orl. And I for Rofalind.

Ref And I for no woman.
Sd. It is to be all made of faith and feruice,

And fo am I for Phebe

Phe. And I tor Garimed. Orl. And I for Kofalmd.

Rof. And I for no woman.
Sil. It is to be all made of fantafie,

All made of pattion, and all made of withes, All adoration, dutie, and observance, All humblenelle, all patience, and impatience,

All puritic, all triall, all observance r And fo am I for Pbebs.

Phe. And so am I for Gowimed Orl. And so am I for Resalind.

Rof. And To am I for no woman. Phe. If this be fo, why blame you me to love you?

Sil. If this be fo, why blame you me to lone you? Orl. If this be fo, why blame you me to love you?

Ref. Why do you speake too, Why blame you mee to love you

Orl To her, that is not heere, nor doth not heare.
Ref. Pray you no more of this, 'tis like the howling of Itish Wolves against the Moone: I will helpe you If I can: I would love you if I could: To morrow meet me altogether: I wil marrie you, if euer I marrie Woman, and lle be married to niorrow : I will fatisfie you, if cuer I facisfi'd nian; and you shall be emarried to morrow. I wil content you, if what pleafes you contents you, and you shal be married to morrow: As you love Rosalma oreet, as you loue Phebe meet, and as I loue no women, lle meet : so fare you wel : I hauc lest you com-

Sil. Ile not faile, if I live.

Phe. Nor I. Orl. Nor I

FXCMAL.

Scæna Tertia.

Enter Clewno and Audrey.

Clo. To morrow is the loyfull day Autrey, to morow will we be married.

And. I do delire it with all my heart: and I hope it is no dishanest defire, to defire to be a waman of y world? Heere come two of the banish'd Dukes Pages. Enter two Pages.

1.Pa. Wel met honest Gentleman.

Cla By my troth well met . come, fit, fit, and a fong. 2.Pa. We are for you, fit i'th middle,

1.Pa. Shal we clap into't roundly, without hauking, or foitting, or faying we are hoatle, which are the onely prologues to a bad voice

2. Pa. I faith, y'faith, and both în a tune like two giplies on a horle.

Song. It was a Louer, and bis laffe, With a key, and a bo, and a beg nowine. That o're the groene corne feeld didpaffe, In the fring time, the onely pretty rang time.
When Birds do fing, they ding a ding, ding.
Sweet Louers love the fring,
And therefore take the prefent time.
With a hey, & a ho, and a hey noniwo, For love w crowned with the prime, lo spring time, orc.

Betweene the acres of the Rie, With a boy and a ho & a boy nonino i These prewie Country folls would lis. In spring time, &c.

This Carroll they began that bours, With a bey and a bo, et a boy nonino : How that a life was but a Flower, In foring time, &c.

Clo. Truly yong Genelemen, though there was no great matter in the dittie, yet 9 note was very vntunable 1.Ps. you are deceiu'd Sir, we kept time, we lost not our time.

Clo. By my troth yes: I count it but time lost to heare fuch a foolish fong. God buy you, and God mend your volces. Come Andrie.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Duke Senior, Amyens, Luques, Orlan. do. Olinar, Celes.

Du. Son. Dost thou beleeve Orlando, that the boy Can do all this that he hath promised?

Orl. I sometimes do beleeve, and somtimes do not, As those that feare they hope, and know they feare. Enter Rofalinde, Siluino, & Phobo.

Rof. Patience once more, whiles our copact is vrg'd: You fay, if I bring in your Rosalinde,

You wil bestow her on Orlando heere?

Du. Se. That would I, had I kingdoms to give with hir. Ref. And you fay you wil have her, when I bring hir?

Orl. That would I, were I of all kingdomes King. Rof. You fay, you'l marrie me, if I be willing.

Pbc. That will I, should I die the houre after.

Rof. But if you do refule to marrie me, You'l give your selfe to this most faithfull Shepheard. Phe. So is the bargaine.

Rof. You say that you'l have Phobe if the will.

Sil. Though to have her and death, were both one thing. Rof

Rof. I have promis'd to make all this matter even : Keepe you your word, O Duke, to glue your daughter, You yours Orlando, to receive his daughter s Keepe you your word Phobe, that you'l marrie ma, Or elle refuling me to wed this shepheard: Keepe your word Siluim, that you'l marrie her If the refuse me, and from hence I go Exit Rof. and Colin.

To make these doubts all euen. Du. Sen. I do remember in this Inepheard boy, Some lively touches of my daughters favour.

Orl. My Lord, the first time that I euer law him, Me thought he was a brother to your daughter's But my good Lord, this Boy is Forrest borne, And hath bin tutor din the rudiments Of many desperace studies, by his vnekle, Whom he reports to be a great Magittan. Enter Clowne and Audrey Obscared in the circle of this Forieft.

lag. There is sure another flood toward, and these couples are comming to the Arke. Here comes a pays of verie strange beafts, which in all tongues, are call'd Fooles.

Clo. Saluration and greeting to you all.

lag. Goodmy Lord, bid him welcome : This is the Motley-minded Gentleman, that I have so often met in the Forrest: he hath bin a Courtier he sweares.

Clo. If any man doubt that , let him put mee to my purgation, I have trod a measure, I have flattred a Lady, I have bin politicke with my friend, farooth with mine enemie, I have vodone three Tailors, I have had foure quarrels, and like to have fought one.

laq. And how was that cane up?
Clo. Faith we enet, and found the quartel was upon the fewenth cause.

lag. How seventh cause? Goodmy Lord, like this fellow.

Du. So. I like him very well.

Clo. God'ud you fir, I defire you of the like : I prefie in heere fir, amongst the rest of the Country copulatives to (weare, and to for (weare, according as mariage binds and blood breakes: a poore virgin lir, an il-fanor dithing fir, but mine owne, a poore humour of mine lir, to take that that no man elfe will : rich honestie dwels like a mifer fir, in a poore house, as your Pearle in your foule oy-

Dw. Se. By my faith, he is very swift, and sententious Clo. According to the fooles bolt fir, and fuch dulcet diseeles.

lag. But for the seuenth cause. How did you finde the quarrell on the leventh cause?

Clo. Vpon alge, feuen times removed: (beare your bodie more leeming Audry) 21 thus fit: I did distike the cut of a certaine Courtiers beard : he lent me word, if I faid his beard was not cut well, hee was in the minde it was: this is call'd the retort courteous. If I fent him word againe, it was not well cut, he wold fend me word be cut it to please himselfe: this is call'd the quip modest. If againe, it was not well cut, he difabled my judgment: this is called, the reply churlish. If agains it was not well cut, he would answer I spake not true: this is call'd the reproofe valiant. If againe, it was not well cut, he wold fay, llie: this is call'd the counter-checke quarrelfome: and fo ro lye circumftantiall, and the lye dire &.

lag. And how ofe did you say his beard was not well

Clo. I durli go no further then the lye circumftantisl:

nor he durit not give me the lye direct : and to wee musfur'd I words, and parced.

lag. Can you nominate in order now, the degrees of the lye

(10. O fir, we quarrel in print, by the booke: asyou have bookes for good manners I I will name you the degrees. The first, the Retort courteous; the second, the Quip-modest the third, the reply Churlish the fourth, the Reproofe valiant , the fift, the Counterchecke querrelsome : the firt, the Lye with circumstance : the feauenth, the Lye direa : all thele you may avoyd, but the Lye dired : and you may avoide that too, with an If. 1 knew when seuen lustices could not take vp a Quarrell, but when the parties were met themfelues, one of them thought but of an If; as if you feide fo, then I faide fo : and they shooke hands, and swore brothers. Your If, la the onely peace-maker: much vertue in if.

149. Is northis a rare fellow my Lord? He's as good at any thing, and yet a foole.

Dw. Se. He vies his folly like a flatking-horse, and vnder the presentation of that he shoots his wit

Euter Hymon, Rofalind, and Colva. Still Muficke Hymen. Then wthere miveb in bearin, When earthly things made easen allone logerber. Good Duke receive 1 by daughter, Hymen from Hearen brongh har, Teabresghi ber beiter. That thou might forme bu bead with bu, Whose beart within his bosome is. Rof. To you I give my felfe, for I am yours.
To you I give my felfe, for I am yours.

Dn. Se If there be truth in fight, you are my daughter. Orl. If there be truth in fight, you are my Rofalind Phe. If fight & shape be true, why then my love adieu

Rof. Ile haue no Father, if you be not he : He have no Husband, if you be not he: Nor ne're wed woman, if you be not free.

Hy. Peace hoa: I barre confusion, Tis I must make conclusion Of these most strange events: Here's eight that must take hands, To joyne in Hymens bands, Iftruth holds true contents. You and you, no crosse shall part; You and you, are bart in hart: You, to his love must accord, Or have a Woman to your Lord. You and you, are fure together, As the Winter to fowle Weather: Whiles a Wedlocke Hymne we ling, Frede your selves with questioning That reason, wonder may diminish How thus we met, and these things sinlin.

Song Wedding is great lunes crowns,
O bleffed band of board and bed: 'Tu Hymen peoples enerse towne, High wedleck then be bonered ! Hener, high boose and renowne To Hymen, God of every Towns

Du, Se. O my decre Neece, welcome thou art to the, Euen daughter welcome, in no leffe degree.

Phe

Phe. I wil not ease my word, now thou are mine, Thy faith, my fancie to thee doch combine.

Enter Second Brother.

2. Bro. Let me have audience for a word or two:

I am the second some of old 5r Rewland,

That bring these tidings to this faire assembly.

Duke Frederick hearing how that everie day

Men of great worth resorted to this fortest.

Addrest a mightie power, which were on some

In his owne conduct, purposely to take

His brother heere, and put him to the sword:

And to the skirts of this wilde Wood he came;

Where, meeting with an old Religious man,

After some question with him, was converted

Both from his enterprize, and from the world:

His crowne bequeathing to his banish d Brother,

And all their Lands restor d to himagaine

That were with him exil'd. This to be true,

I do engage my life.

Du.Se. Welcome yong man 1

Thou offer R fairely to thy brothers wedding!

To one his lands with-held, and to the other

Aland it felfe at large, a potent Dukedome.

Firft, in this Forreft, let vs do those ends

That heere vvete well begun, and wel begot:

And after, every of this happie number

That have endur'd threw'd daies, and nights with vs,

Shal share the good of our returned fortune,

According to the measure of their states.

Meane time, forget this new-falne dignitie,

And fall into our Rusticke Rewelrie:

Play Muscke, and you Brides and Bride-groomes all,

With measure heap'd in ioy, to th Measures fall.

Lag. Sir, by your patience: if I heard you rightly.
The Dake bath put on a Religious life,
And throwne luto neglect the pompous Court.

2. Bro. He hath.

Inq. To him will 1: out of these convertices,
There is much matter to be heard, and learn'd:
you to your former Honor, I bequeath your patience, and your vertue, well deserues it, you to a lone, that your true faith doth ment:
you to your land, and love, and great allies:
you to a long, and well-deserued bed:
And you to wrangling, for thy louing voyage
Is but for two moneths victuall'd: So to your pleasures,
I am for other, then for dancing meazures.

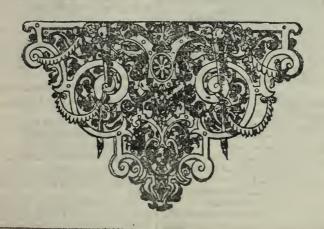

Du.Se. Stay, laques, fray.

lag. To see no pastime, I: what you would have, lle stay to know, at your abandon'd caue. Exit.
Da. Se. Proceed, proceed: wee'l begin these rights,

As we do truft, they'l end in true delights. Rof. It is not the fashion to see the Ladie the Epilogue: but it is no more vnhandsome, then to see the Lord the Prologue. If it be true, that good wine needs. no bush, 'tis true, that a good play needes no Epilogue. Yet to good wine they do vie good bushes: and good playes proue the better by the helpe of good Epilogues: What a case am I in then, that am neither a good Epilogue, nor cannot infinuate with you in the behalfe of a good play? I am not furnish'd like a Begger, therefore to begge will not become mee. My way is to conjure you, and Ile begin with the Women. I charge you (O women) for the love you beste to men, to like as much of this Play, as please you: And I charge you (O men) for the love you beare to women (as I perceine by your fimpring, none of you hates them) that betweene you, and the women, the play may please. If I were a Women, I would kille as many of you as had beards that pleas'd me, complexions that hk'd me, and breaths that doff de not : And I am fire, as many as have good beards, or good faces, or fweet breaths, will for my kind offer, when I make curt'fie, bid me farewell.

FINIS.

S 2

THE Taming of the Shrew.

Alus primus. Scæna Prima.

Enter Begger and Hustes, Christephero Sly.

Le pheeze you infaith.

Host. A paire of flockes you roque.

Ecg. Y'are a baggage, the Slive are no Rogues. Looke in the Chronicles, we came in with Richard Conqueror: therefore Pan-cas pallabru, let the world flide: Seffa.

Hoft. You will not pay for the glasses you have burst?

Beg. No, not a deniere: go by S. Isronimie, goe to thy cold bed, and warme thee.

Hoft. I know my remedie, I muit go fetch the Head-borough.

Brg. Third, or fourth, or fit Borough, He answere him by Law. He norbudge an inch boy: Let him come, and kindly.

Faller afterpe.

Winds bornes. Enter a Lord from bunting, with his traine
Lo. Huntsman I charge thee, tendet well my hounds, Brach Meriman, the poore Curre is imbost.
And couple Clowder with the deeper-mouth'd brach,
Saw'st thou not boy how Silver made it good
At the hedge corner, in the couldest fault,
I would not loase the dogge for twentic pound.

Hunsf. Why Belman is as good as be my Lord
He cried upon it at the meereft loffe,
And twice to day pick'd out the dulleft fent,
Trust me, I take him for the better dogge.

Lord. Thou are a Foole, if Eccho were as fleete,
I would efteeme him worth a dozen fuch:
But fup them well, and looke vino them all,
To morrow I intend to hunt againe.

Humf. I will my Lord.

Lord. What's heere? One dead, or drunke? See doth

2. Hun. He breath's my Lord. Were he not warm'd with Ale, this were a bed but cold to fleep fo foundly.

Lord. Oh mooftrous beaft, how like a fwine he lyes.
Grim dearh, how foule and loathfome is thine image:
Sirs, I will practife on this drunken man
What thinke you, if he were conuey d to bed,
Wrap'd in fweet cloathes: Rings put a pon his fingers:
A most delicious banquet by his bed,
And brave attendants neere him when he wakes,
Would not the begger then forget himselfer

* Flow. Relegue me Lord. I thinke he cannot choofe.

1. Him. Beleeue me Lord, I thinke he cannot choose.
2. H. It would feem strange voto him when he wak'd Lerd. Euen as aflatt'ring dreame, or worthles fancie.

Then take him vp, and manage well the selt: Carrie him gently to my fairest Chamber, And hang it round with all my veanton pictures: Balme his foule head in warme duftilled waters, And burne fweet Woodto make the Lodging fweete: Procure me Musicke readie when he rvakes, To make a dulcer and a heavenly found And if he chance to speake, be readie ftraight (And with a lowe submissive reverence) Say, what is it your Honor vvil command : Let one attend him vvith a filure Bafon Full of Role-water, and bettiew d with Flowers Another beate the Ewer: the third a Diaper, And say will please your Lordship coole your hands Some one be readie with a costly fuite, And aske him what apparted he will weare: Another tell him of his Hounds and Horfe, And that his Ladie mournes at his difeale, Perswade him that he hath bin Lunaucke, And when he fayes he is, fay that he dreames, For he is nothing but a mightie lord: This do, and do it kindly, gentle firs, Ir wilbe pastime passing excellent. Ifit be husbanded with modestie.

I Hunt My Lord I watrant you we wil play our part As he shall thinke by our true diligence He is no lesse then what we say he is.

Lard. Take him up gently, and to bed with him, And each one to his office when he wakes.

Sound transpets.

Sirrah, go see what Trumpet tis that found.

Belike some Noble Gentleman that means (Travelling some routney) to repote him heere.

Enter Scrungman.

How now? who is it?

Ser. An t please your Honor, Players That offer service to your Lordship.

Enter Players Lord. Bid them come neere:

Now fellowes, you are welcome.

Players. We thanke your Honor

Lord. Do you intend to flay with me to night?

2.Player. So pleafe your Lotdshippe to accept out dutie.

Lord With all my heart. This fellow I remember, Since once he plaide a Farmers eldest fonce, Twas where you woo'd the Gendewoman fo well: Ibane forgot your name: but fure that part

W 25

Was aprly htted, and naturally perform'd. Sincklo. I thinke twas Soto that your bonor meanes. Lord. 'Tis verie true, thou didftit excellent : Well you are come to me in happie time, The rather for I have some sport in hand, Wherein your cunning can affift me much There is a Lord will heare you play to night; But I am doubtfull of your modeffies, Leaft (over-eying of his odde behaulour, For yet his honor neuer heard a play) You breake into fome merrie passion, And so offend him : for I tell you firs, If you should smile, he growes impatient.

Flas. Frate not my Lotd, we can contain our selues, Were he the veriest anticke in the world.

Lord. Go firra, take them to the Butterie, And give them friendly welcome everie one. Let them want nothing that my house affoords.

Exis one with the Players. Sirra go you to Bartholmew my Page, And fee him dreft in all fuites like a Ladie : That done, conduct him to the drunkards chamber, And call him Madam, do him obeisance: Tell him from me (as he will win my love) He beare himselse with honourable action, Such as he hath obseru'd innoble Ladies Vnto their Lords, by them accomplished, Such dutie to the drunkard let him do: With fost lowe tongue, and iowly curtefic, And fay: What is't your Honor will command, Wherein your Ladie, and your humble wife, May thew her dutie, and make knowne her loue. And then with kinde embracements, compting killes-And with declining head into his bosome Bid him thed teares, as being ouer-ioyed To fee her noble Lord reftor'd to health, Who for this feuen yeares hath afteemed him No better then a poore and loathfome begger: And if the boy have not a womans guift To raine a shower of commanded teares, An Onion wil do well for such a shift, Which in a Napkin (being close conuci'd) Shall in despight enforce a waterie eie ; See this disparch'd with all the hast thou canst, Anon lle give thee more infructions.

Exit a serungman. I know the boy will wel vsurpe the grace, Voice, gate, and action of a Gentlewoman ! I long to heare him call the drunkard husband, And how my men will flay themselves from laughter, When they do homage to this simple peafant, He in to counfell them: haply my presence May well abate the oner-merrie spleene, Which otherwise would grow into extreames.

Enser alofe the drunkaed with attendants, some with apparel,

Bason and Ewer, & other appurtenances, or Lord.

Beg. Por Gods fake a por of small Ale.
1. Ser. Wilt please your Lord drink a cup of facke? 2 Ser. Wilt please your Honor iafte of these Conferues :

3.Ser. What raiment wil your honor weare to day. Beg. I am Christophero Sly, call not mee Honous nor Lordhip: I ne're drank facke in my life: and if you give me any Conferues, give me conferues of Beefe: nere ask me what raiment He weare, for I have no more doub-lets then backes : no more flockings then legges : nor no more shooes then feet, nay sometime more seete then shooes, or such shooes as my roes look through the ouer- leather.

Lord. Heaven cesse this idle humor in your Honor. Oh that a mightie man of fuch discent. Of luch possessions, and so high esteeme Should be infused with so foule a spirit.

Beg. What would you make me mad? Am not I Chri-Stopher Slie, old Sies sonne of Burton-heath, by byrth a Pedler, by education a Cardmaker, by transmutation a Beare-heard, and now by prefent profession a Tinker. Aske Marrian Hacket the fat Alewife of Wincor, if thee know me not: if the fay I am not willed, on the fcore for theere Ale, score me vp for the lyingst knaue in Christen dome. What I am not bestraught : here's.

3. Man. Oh this it is that makes your Ladie moutne. 2 Man. The this is it that makes your feruants droop. Lord. Hence comes it, that your kindred fluns your As beaten hence by your strange Lunacie. Oh Noble Lord, bethinke thee of thy birth, Call home thy ancient thoughts from banishment, And banish hence these abiect lowlie dreames ; Looke how thy feruants do attend on thee, Each in his office readie at thy becke. Wilt thou have Musicke? Harke Apollo plaies, Musick And twentle caged Nightingales do fing.
Or wilt thou fleepe? Wee'l have thee to a Couch, Softer and (weeter then the luftfull bed On purpole trim'd vp for Semiramis. Say thou wilt walke : we wil bestrow the ground. Or wilt thou ride? Thy horses shall be trap'd, Their harnesso studded all with Gold and Pearle. Doft thou louchs wking ? Thou hast hawkes will foare About the morning Larke. Or wilt thou hunt. Thy hounds shall make the Welkin enswer them And fetch shrill ecchoes from the hellow earth.

1 Men. Say thou wilt courfe, thy gray-hounds nrc as As breathed Stags I flecter then the Roe. 2 M.Dost thou love pictures we wil fetch thee frait Adonis painted by a running brooke, And Citherea all in fedges hid, Which seeme to move and wanton with her breath, Euen as the waulng sedges play with winde.

Lord. Wee'l show thee lo, as she was a Maid, And how the was beguiled and furpriz'd, As liuelie painted, as the deede was done.

3. Man. Or Daphne roining through a thornie wood, Scratching her legs, that one shall we see the bleeds, And at that light shall fad Apollo weepe, So workmanlie the blood and testes are drawne.

Lord. Thou are a Lord, and nothing but a Lord: Thou haft a Ladie farre more Benutifull,

Then any woman in this waining age.

1 Man. And til the ceares that the bath thed for thee, Like enmous flouds ore-run her lovely face, She was the faitest creature in the world, And yet shee is inseriour to none.

Beg. Am I a Lord, and have I fuch a Ladle? Or do I dreame? Or have I dream'd till now? I do not sleepe : I fee, I heare, I speake : I fmel fweet favours, and I feele toft things i Vpon my life I am a Lord indeede, And not a Tinker, nor Christopher Slie. Well, bring our Ladic hither to our fight, And once againe a pot o'th smallest Ale.

2. Man. Wileplease your mightinesse to wash your

Oh how we toy to fee your wit reftor'd, Oh that once more you knew but what you are ; These fifteene yeeres you have bin in a dreame, Or when you wak'd, fo wak'd as if you flepe

Bey. These fifteene yeeres, by my fay, a goodly map,

But did I never speake of all that time

1 Man. Oh yes my Lord, but verie idle words, For though you lay heere in this goodlie chamber, Yet would you lay, ye were besten out of doore, And raile vpon the Hoffcile of the house, And fay you would prefent her at the Leete, Because the brought frane-lugs, and no feal'd quarts : Sometimes you would call out for Cicely Hacket

Beg. I the womans maide of the house. man. Why fit you know no houle, not no fuch maid Nor no fuch men as you have reckon'd vp, As Scepben Slie, and old John Naps of Greece, And Peter Turph, and Henry Pumper nell, And twentie more fuch names and men as thefe, Which neuer were, nor no man ever faw.

Beg. Now Lord be thanked for my good smends.

AL Amen.

Emer Ladywith Allendanii Beg. I thanke thee thou fhalt not loofe by it. Lady. How fares my noble Lord?

Box. Marrie I fare well, for heere is cheere enough Where is my wife?

La. Heere noble Lord, what is thy will with her? Beg. Are you my wife, and will not cal me husband? My men should call me Lord, i am your good-man.

Lo. My husband and my Lord, my Lord and his band

I am yout wife in all ohedience.

Beg. I know it well, what must I call her? Lord Madam.

Beg. Ake Madam, or lane Madam? Lord. Madam, and nothing elfe, to Lords cal Ladies

Beg Madame wife, they lay that I have dream d, And slept about some sisteene years or mote.

Lady 1, and the time seeme's thirty wato me,

Being all this time abandon'd from your bed.

Brg Tis much, feruants leave me and her alone: Madam undrelle you, and come now to bed

La. Thrice noble Lord, les me increat afyou Topardon me yet for a night or two. Orifnotio, vntill the Sun be let For your Physitians have expressely charg'd, In perill to incurre your former malady, That I should yet absent me from your bed Thope this reason stands for my excuse

Beg 1,11 Stands to that I may hardly carry follong: But I would be loth to fall into my dieames againe : 1 wil therefore tarrie in despight of the Besh & the blood

Enser a Meffenger.

Mel. Your Honors Players hearing your amendment. Are come to play a pleafant Comedie, For lo your doctors hold it very meete, Seeing coo much ladnelle hath congeal'd your blond, And melancholly is the Nurle of frenzie, Therefore they thought it good you heare a play, And frame your minde to mirch and merriment, Which barres a thousand harmes, and lengthens life.

Beg. Marrie I will let them play, it is not a Comon-ere, a Christmas gambold, or a tumbling tricke's Lady. No my good Lord, it is more pleasing stuffe Bog. What, houshold stuffe. Beg Well, welfeer.

Come Madam wife hi by my fide, And let the world flip, we shall nere be yonger

Flourth Enter Lucening, and his mon Triam. Luc Transo, fince for the great defire I had To feel aire Padea, nurferie of Arts, I am arrived for fruitfull Lumbarte. The pleasant garden of great Italy. And by my fathers love and leave am arm d With his good will, and thy good companie. My truftic feruant well approu'd in all, Heere let vs breath, and haply inflitute A course of Learning, and ingenious studies. Pifarenowned for grave Cirizens Gave me my being, and my father first A Merchant of great Trafficke through the world Vincentio's come of the Bearindy, Vincentie , Conne, brough up in Florence, It shall become to serve all hopes conceiv'd To derke his fortune with his vertuous deeder: And therefore Trans, for the time I studie, Vertue and that parc of Philosophie Will I applie, that treats of happinesse, By vertue specially to be atchieu'd Tell me thy minde, for I have Pifalefe, And am to Padua come, as he that leaves A shallow plash, to plunge him in the deepe, And with facietie feekes to quench his thirft.

Tra Me Pardonaso, gentle mafter mine lamin all affeded as your felfe, Glad that you thus continue your refolue. To lucke the lweets of lweete Philosophie. Onely (good master) while we do admire This vertue and this morall discipline, Let's be no Stoickes, nor no flockes I pray, Or la devote to Arytockes checkes As Ouid; be an out-cast quite about d Balke Lodgicke with acquaintainte that you have, And practife Rheroricke in your common talke, Musicke and Poelie vle, to quicken you . The Mathematickes, and the Metaphylickes Fall to them as you finde your flomacke ferues you No profit grawes, where is no pleafure tane In briefe fir, studie what you mon affed

Luc. Gramercies Travio, well dost thou advise, If Bondello thou wert come ashore. We could at once put vs in readinesse, Andrakes Lodging he to entertaine Such friends (as time) in Padas (hall beget. But fray a while, what companies this Tra. Master some shew to welcome vs to Towne.

Enter Baptifla with his two daughters, Katerina & Bianca, Orenno a Passelowne Hortensoo fifter so Bianca. Lucen Trans frond by

Bap. Gentlemen, importune me no farther, For bow I firmly am refolu d you know : That is, not to beflow my yongest daughter, Before I have a husband for the elder : If either of you both love Katherina,

Beczule

Because I know you well, and loue you well. Leaue shall you have to court her at your pleasure. Gre. To carther rather. She's to cough for mee,

There, there Horsenfie, will you any Wife?

Kate. I pray you fir, is it your will To make a stale of me among st these mates e Hor. Mates maid, how meane you that?.

No mates for you,

Vnlesse you were of gentler milder mould. Kate. I'faith fir, you shall never neede to feare, wis It is not halfe way to her heart.

But if it were, doubt not, her care should be To combe your noddle with a three legg'd floole, And paint your face, and vie you like a foole.

Hor. From all fuch diucls, good Lord deliuer vs.

Gre. And me too good Lord.

Tra. Hullis mafter, heres tome good paltime toward; That wench is thanke mad, or wonderfull froward Lucen. But in the others filence do I fee. Maids milde behaujour and sobrierie.

Peace Transo

Tra. Well said Mr, mum, and gaze your fill Bap. Gentlemen, that I may soore make good What I have (aid, Bianca get you in. And let it not difpleafe thee good Branca, Por I will loue thee pere the leffe my girle.

Kate. A pretty peate, it is best put finger in the eye, and the knew why.

Bian. Sister content you in my discontent, Sir, to your pleasure humbly I subscribe : My bookes and inftruments thall be my companie, On them to looke, and practife by my felfe.

Luc. Harke Tranio, thou maist heare Minerus speak. Hor. Signior Baptifta, will you be lo strange, Sorrieam I that our good will effects Bianca's greefe.

Gre. Why will you mew her vp (Signior Bapife) for this hend of hell, And make her beare the pennance of her tongue,

Bap. Gentlemen content ye: I am resould:

Go in Bianca.

And for I know the taketh most delight In Mulicke, Instruments, and Poerry, Schoolemasters will I keepe within my house, Fir to instruct her youth. If you Hortensio, Or fignior Gremso you know any fuch, Preferre them hither; for to cunning men, I will be very kinde and liberall To mine owne children, in good bringing vp, And fo farewell: Katherina you may flay,

For I have more to commune with Blanca Exit. Kate. Why, and I trust I may go too, may I not?

What shall I be appointed houres, as though (Belike) I knew not what to take,

And what to leave? Ha Gre. You may go to the divels dam: your guifts are To good heere's none will holde you: Then love is not so great Hortenfio, but we may blow our nails together, and fast it fairely out. Our cakes dough on both sides. Farewell: yet for the love I beare my sweet Bionea, if I can by any meanes light on a fit man to teach her that wherein the delights, I will with him to her father.

Hor. So will I fignious Gremio: but a word I pray: Though the nature of our quarrell yet never brook'd parle, know now vpon aduice, it toucheth vs bothithat we may yet againe haue accesse to our faire Mistris, and be happie rivals in Bianca's love, to labour and effect one thing specially.

Gre. What's that I pray?

Hor. Marrie fir to get a husband for her Sifler.

Gre. A husband: a diuell.

Hor. I say a husband

Gre. I fay, a divell: Think'st thou Hortenfio, though her father be verietich, any man is so verie a foole to be married to hell?

Hor. Tush Gremio: though it passe your patience & mine to endure her lowd alarums, why man there bee good fellowes in the world, and a man could light on them, would take her with all faults, and mony enough.

Gre. I cannot tell : but I had as lief take her dowrie with this condition; To be whipt at the hie crosse euerie morning.

Hor. Faith (as you fay) there's finall choife in rotten apples: but come, fince this bar in law makes vs friends, it shall be so farre forth friendly maintain de till by helping Baptistas eldest daughter to a husband, wee fet his yongest free for a husband, and then have too cafresh Sweet Bianca, happy man be his dole: hee that runnes fatteft, gets the Ring: How fay you fignior Gremio?

Grem I am agreed, and would I had given him the best horse in Pedna to begin his woing that would tho roughly woe her, wed her, and bed her, and ridde the house of her. Come on.

Exeunt ambo. Manet Transo and Lucentso

Tra. I pray fir tel me, is it possible That love should of a fodaine take such hold.

Luc. Oh Transo, till I found it to be true, I neuer thought it possible or likely. But see, while idely I stood looking on, I found the effect of Loue in idlenesse, And now in plainnesse do confesse to thee That art to me as fecret and as deere As Annato the Queene of Carthage was Tranio I butne, Ipine, Iperish Tranio, If I atchieue not this yong modest gyrle: Counfaile me Tranio, for I know thou canst: Affift me Tranio, for I know thou wilt.

Tra. Master, it is no time to chide you now, Affection is not rated from the heart : If love have touch'd you, naught remaines but fo, Redime te captam quam que as minimo.

Luc Gramercies Lad: Go forward, this contents, The rest wil comfort, for thy counsels found.

Tra. Master, you look'd so longly on the maide,

Perhaps you mark'd not what's the pith of all.

Luc. Oh yes, I saw sweet beautie in her sace, Such as the daughter of Agenor had, That made great loue to humble him to her hand,

When with his knees he kist the Cretan strond. Tru.Saw you no more? Mark'd you not how hir fifter Began to scold, and raise vp such a storme,

That mortal cares might hardly indure the din. Luc. Transo, I saw her cortall lips to moue, And with her breath the did perfume the syre,

Sacred and fweet was all I faw in her. Tra. Nay, then tis time to stirre him fro his trance pray awake fir : if you love the Maide, Bend thoughts and wits to atchceue her Thus it flands: Her elder hfler is fo curtt and fhrew'd, That til the Fatherrid his hands of her, Master, your Love must live a maide at home, And therefore has he closely meu'd het vp,

Because

Because the will not be annoy'd with futers.

Luc. Ah Trano, what a cruell Fathers ha:
But are thou not aduis'd, he tooke some care
To get her cunning Schoolemasters to instruct her.

Tra. Imarry am I fir, and now 'tis plotted.

Luc. I haue it Transo.

Tra Mafter, for my hand

Both our inventions meet and tumpe in one.

Luc. Tell me thine fitft

Tra. You will be schoole-master,
And voderrake the traching of the maid:

That's your deuice.

Luc. Itie: May it be done?

Tra. Not possible: for who shall be are your part, And be in Padua heere Vincentia's some, Keepe house, and ply his booke, welcome his friends, Visa his Countrimen, and banquet them?

Luc. Bajla, content thee: for I have it full We have not yet bin feene in any honle, Nor can we be diffinguished by our faces, For man or matter: then it followes thus; Thou shalt be master, Trans in my sted: Keepe house, and port, and serventine. Keepe house, and port, and serventine. I will some other be, some Florentine.

Some Neapolitan, or meaner man of Psia. Tis hatched, and shall be so: Transo at once Vincase thee: take my Conlord hat and cloake, When Siandella comet, lie watter on thee, But I will charme him fift to keepe his tongue.

Tra. So had you neede:
In breefe Sir, fith It your pleafureus,
And I am tyed to be obedient,
For to your father charged me at our parting!
Be feruiceable to my fonne (quoth he)
Although I thinke 'twas in another fence,
I am content to bee Lucentia,
Because so well I love Lucentia.

Luc. Transo be so, because Lucentro loves.

And let une be a flave, t'archieue that maide.

Whose sodaine sight hath thial'd ing wounded eye.

Enter Biondello.

Heere comes the rogue. Sirra, where have you bin?

Bion. Where have I beene? Nay how now, where ere you? Maifter, ha's my tellum Tradio floline your cloathes, or you floline his, or both? Pray what's the

Luc. Sirra come hither, 'tis no time to icft, And therefore frame your manners to the time Your fellow Trans heere to faue my life, Puts my appartell, and my countinance ou, And 1 for my escape have put on his:
Fot in a quarrell fluce I came a shore, I kill'd a man, and feare I was described:
Waite you on him, I charge you, as becomes:
While I make way from hence to saue my life:
You vnderstand me?

Bun. I fir, ne're a whit.

Luc. And not a lot of Trano in your mouth, Transo is chang'd into Lucentio.

Bios. The betrer for him, would I were fo too.

Tra. So could I faith boy, to have the next wish after, that Lincentia indeede had Baptifias yongest daughter. But sitts, not for my sake, but your masters, I aduise you vie your manners discreetly in all kind of companies: When I am Transe: but in all places elle, you mafter Lucentis.

Luc. Trans let's gos
One thing more rests, that thy selfe execute,

To make one among these wooers, if thou ask me why, Sufficeth my reasons are both good and waighty.

Exeunt. The Prefenters about freches.

1. Man. My Lord you nod, you do not minde the Play.

Beg. Yes by Saint Anne do I, a good mattet furely;

Comes there any more of st !

Lady My Lord, in but begun

Beg. The avence excellent poece of worke, Madame Ladie: would ewere done. They fit and make

Enter Parrachio, and his men Grunnes
Petr. Verona, for a while I take my Itaue,
To fee my friends in Padwa; but of all
My bestheloued and approved triend
Hortenfo: & I trow this is his house:
Heere firm Grunne, knocket lay.

Gru. Knocke fiel whom thould I knocke? Is there any man ha's rebus'd your worthip?

Petr. Villaine Isay knocke me heere foundly.
Grm. Knocke you heere fir? Why fir, what am I fir, that I frould knocke you heere fir

Petr. Villaine I fay, knocke mearthis gate, And rap me well, or lie knocke your knoos pate

Grw. My Mr is growne quatrelfome:
I should knocke you first,

And then I know after who comes by the worst.

Par. Willit not be?

Faith firrab, and you! not knocke, Ile ring it, Ile trie how you can Sol, Fe, and fing it.

Gru. Helpe misteis helpe, my master is mad.

Peir. Now knocke when I bid you : tirrah v. !! zine.
Enter Hortinfie.

Hor. How now, what's the matter? My olde friend Grumio, and my good friend Petruebse? How do you all as Verona?

Per. Signion Hortenfie, come you to part the fray? Contests le ore bene trobatto, may I lay.

Hor. Ala seftra caja bene venuso multo benerata figuro min Petruchio.

Rife Grumo rife, we will compound this quarrell

Grw. Nay 'tis no matter fir, what he leges in Latine. If this be not a lawfull cause for me to leave his service, looke you fir. He bid me knockehim, & tap him seandly fir. Well, was it fit for a servant to vie his master to being perhaps (for ought I see) two and thirty, a peepe out? Whom would to God I had well knocke at first, then had not Grumie come by the worst.

Peir. A fenceleffe villaine: good Horiemio, I bad the rafeall knocke voon your gate, And could not get him for my hearten do it.

Gru, Knockest the gate? O heavens? Ipshe you not these words plaine? Sitta, Knocke me heere i rappome heere: knocke me well, and knocke me foundly? And come you now with knocking at the gate?

Peir. Sires be gone, or talke not l'advise you. Hor. Petruche patieuce, l'am Grumo i piedge Why this a heaue chance twist him and you, Your ancient trustie pleasant scruant Grumo. And tell me now (sweet friend) what happie gue Blowes you to Tedao heere, from old Verona?

Per. Such wind 21 featters yougmen through 9 world

To

To seeke their fortunes farther then at home,
Where small experience growes but in a few.
Signior Hertensto, thus it slands with me,
Antonso my father is deceast,
And I have thrust my selfe into this maze,
Happily to wive and thrive, as best I may:
Crownes in my purse I have, and goods at home,
And so am come abroad to see the world.

Hor. Perruchio, shall I then come roundly to thee,
And with thee to a shrew'd ill-fauour'd wife?
Thou'dst thanke me but a little for my counseli:
And yet Ile promise thee shall be rich,
And verie rich: but th'att too much my friend.

And Henor wish thee to her.

Petr Signior Horsensio, 'twixt such friends as wee, Few words suffice: and therefore, it thou know. One tich enough to be Petruchio 1 wise:

(As wealth is burthen of my woing dance)

Be she as soule as was Florentius Loue,

As old as Sibell, and as curst and shrow'd

As Socrater Zensippe, or a worse:

She moves me not, or not tenoues at least

Asfections edge in me. Were she is as rough

As are the swelling Advistick sess.

I come to wine it wealthily in Padua:

If wealthily, then happily in Padua.

Gru. Nay looke you fir, hee tels you flatly what his minde is: why give him Gold enough, and matrie him to a Puppet or an Aglet babie, or an old trot with ne're a tooth in her bead, though the have as manie discases as two and fiftic horses. Why nothing comes amisse, so monie comes withall.

Hor. Petruchio, fince we are stept thus faire in, I will continue that I broach'd in ics. I can Petruchio helpe thee to a wife With wealth enough and yong and beautious, Brought vp as best becomes a Gentlewoman. Het onely fault, and that is faults enough, ls, that she is intelletable cuts, And shrow'd, and froward, so beyond all measure, That were my state fatte worser them it is, I would not wed her for a mine of Gold.

Petr. Horsensia peace: thou knowst not golds essel, Tell me her fathers name, and 'tis enough: For I will board her, though she chide as loud As thunder, when the clouds in Autumne cracke

Hor. Her father is Baptista Missola, An affable and courteous Gentleman,

Her name is Katherina Minola, Renown'd in Padua for her scolding tongue.

Petr. I know her father, though I know not her,
And he knew my deceased father well:
I wil not sleepe Hortensial I see her,
And therefore let me be thus bold with you,
To give you over at this first encounter,
Vnlesse you wil accompanie me thither.

Cra. I pray you Sir let him go while the humor lasts. A my word, and she knew him as wel as I do, she would thinke scolding would doe little good you him. Shee may perhaps call him halfe a score Knaues, or so to Why that's nothing; and he begin once, hee'l raile in his tope trickes. I lettell you what sit, and she stand him but a little, he will throw a figure in her sace, and so dissigns with it, that shee shall haueno more eies to see withall then a Cat: you know him not sir.

Her. Tattie Perrucbie, I must go with thee,

For in Baptilia keepe my treasure is:
He hath the Iewel of my life in hold,
His yongest daughter, beautiful Bianca,
And her with-holds from me. Other more
Suters to her, and rivals in my Loue:
Supposing it a thing impossible,
For those desects I have before rehearst,
That ever Kaberina vil be woo'd:
Therefore this order hath Baptista tane,
That none shall have accesse vito Bianca,
Til Katherine the Curst, have got a husband.
Gru. Katherine the Curst,

A title for a maide, of all titles the worft,

Hor. Now that my friend Petruchio do me grace,
And offer me difgois d in fober robes,
To old Baptifia as a tchoole-mafter
Well feene in Muficke, to infitud Bianca,
That fo I may by this deute at leaft
Hane leave and leifure to make love to her,
And vnfulpected court her by her felfe.

Enter Cremio and Lucentio diffused.

Gru. Heere's no knauerie. See, to beguile the oldefolkes, how the young folkes by their heads together.

Master, master, looke about you: Who goes there tha.

Hor. Peace Grumio, it is the rivall of my Loue.

Petruchio Stand by a while.

Grumo. A proper stripling, and an amorous.
Gremo. O very well, I have perus'd the note:
Hearke you sir, Ile have them verie fairely bound,
All bookes of Loue, see that at any hand,
And see you reade no other Lectures to het:
You understand me. Ouer and beside Signior Baptistal liberalitie,
Ile mend it with a Largesse. Take your paper too,
And seeme have them verie wel persum'd;
For she is sweeter then persume it selfe
To whom they go to: what wil you reade to her.

Lmc. What ere I reade to her, Ile pleade for you, As for my patron, fland you fo affur'd, As firmely as your felfe were flill in place, Yea and perhaps with inore fuccessefull words. Then you; whether you were a scholler sir.

Cre. Oh this learning, what a thing it is.
Gru. Oh this Woodcocke, what an Affeit is.
Petrn. Peace fitra.

Hor. Grumio mum: God faue you fignior Greuno.
Gre. And you are well met, Signior Hortenfio.
Trow you whither I am going & To Baptifta Musola, I promift to enquire carefully
About a schoolemaster for the faite Bianca,
And by good fortune I have lighted well
On this yong man: For learning and behaviour
Fit for her tutne, well read in Poetrie

And other bookes, good ones, I warrant ye.

Her. 'Tis well: and I haue met a Gentleman
Hath promiss met to helpe one to another,
A fine Mustrian to instruct our Mistris,
So shal I no whit be behinde in dutie
To faire Bianes, so beloved of me.

Gre. Beloved of me, and that my deeds shall prove, Gru. And that his bags shall prove.

Her. Greme, 'tis now no time to vent out loue, Liften to me, and if you speake me faire, He telyou newes indifferent good for either. Heere is a Gentleman whom by chance I met

Vpon

Vpon agreement from vs to his liking. Will undertake to woo curft Karbirme, Yea, and to marrie her, if her downe pleafe.

Gre. So faid, fo done, is well :

Horsenfin, have you told him all her faults?

Perr. I know the is an irkefome brawling feold: If that be all Masters, I heare no harme.

Gre. No, fayll me lo, friend? What Countreyman: Petr. Borne in Verena, old Butenier foane:

My father dead, my fortune lives for me, And I do hope, good dayes and long, to fee.

Gre. Oh fir, luch a life with fuch a wife, were Itrange: But if you have a stomacke, too't a Gods name, You shal have me assisting you in all. But will you woothis Wilde-cat !
Petr. Will I live?

Orw. Wilhe wooher? I: or lie hang her. Petr. Why came I hither, but to that intent? Thinke you, a little dinne can daunt mine eares? Haue I not in my time heard Liona rore? Have I not heard the fea, puft vp with windes, Rage like an angry Boare, chafed with sweat? Have I not heard great Ordnance in the field? And heavens Artillerie thunder in the skies? Haue I not in a pitched battell heard Loud larums, neighing steeds, & trumpets clangue? And do you tell me of a womans tongue? That gives not halfe fo great a blow to heare, As wil a Cheffe-nut in a Farmers fire, Tufh, tufh, feare boyes with bugs.

Gru. For he feares none. Grem. Horsensio hearkes Tins Gentleman is bappily arriu'd, My minde prefumes for his owne good, and yours. Har. I promist we would be Contributors, And beare his charge of wooing what foere. Grems. And so we wil, promded that he win her. Gru. I would I were as fure of a good dinner.

Enter Transo brase, and Biondello. Tra. Gendemen God saue you. If I may be bold Tell me I beseech you, which is the readiest way To the house of Signior Baptifta Minola? Bion. He that ha's the two faire daughters: ift he you meane? Tra. Euen he Biondello.

Gre. Hearke you fir, you meane not her to _______ Tra. Perhaps him and her fir, what have you to do? Peer. Not her that chides fir, at any hand I pray. Train. I love no chiders fir : Biondello, let's away.

Lue Well begun Trania Hor. Sir, a word ere you go:

Are you a furor to the Maid you talke of, yes or no? Tra Andill be fir, is it any offence? Gremio. No : if without more words you will get you hence. Tra. Why fir, I pray are not the firects 25 free

Forme, as for you? Gre. But fo is not fhe.

Tra. For what reason I beseech you. Gre. For this reason if you'l kno,

That flie's the choise love of Signior Gremio. Har. That the's the cholen of fignior Horsenfo. Tra. Softly my Mafters: If you be Gentlemen

Do me this right : heare me with patience.

Baptiflais a noble Gentleman,

To whom my Father is not all vaknowne, And were his daughter fairer then fhe is, She may more futors have, and me for one. Faire Ludger daughter had a thousand wooers, Then well one more may faire Bianca have; And so she shall : Lucenio shal make one. Though Para came, in hope to speed alone.

Gre. What, this Gentleman will out-talke vs all. Luc. Sir giut him head, I know heel proue a lade. Petr. Hortenfie, to what end are all these words? Her Sir, let me be fo bold si aske you,

Did you yet euer see Baptiftes daughter i Tra. No fir, but heare I do that he hath two:

The one, as famous for a scolding tongue, As is the other, for beauteous modeflie.

Petr. Sit, sit, the first storme, let her go by Gre. Yea, leave that labour to great Hercules, And let it be more then Alader twelue.

Perr. Sir understand you this of me (infootb) The yongest daughter whom you hearken for, Her father keepes from all accelle of futors And will not promise her to any man, Votill the elder fifter firft be wed The yonger then is free, and not before.

Trane. If it be fo fir, that you are the man Must steed vs all, and me amongst the rest: And if you breake the ice, and do this feeke, Atchieue the elder : fet the yonger free, For our accelle, whose hap shall be to have her, Wil not so gracelesse be, to be ingrate.

Hor. Sir you szy wel, and wel you do conceine. And since you do professe to be a sutor, You must as we do, gratifie this Gentleman, To whom we all rest generally beholding.

Trano. Sir, I shal nor be sacke, in figne whereof, Please ye we may contribe this afremoone, And quaffe carowles to our Mistresse health, And do as aduerfaries do in law, Strive mightily, but eate and drinke as friends. Grs. Bion. Ob excellent motion: fellowes let's be goo Hor. The motions good indeed, and be it fo, Petrachio, I Malbe your Been venuto.

Emer Katherina and Bisuca.

Bian. Good fifter wrong me not, nor wrong your felf, To make a bondmaide and a flaue of mee, That I disdaine : but for these other goods Vnbinde my hands, lle pull them off my selfe, Yea all my raiment, to my petticoate, Or what you will command me, wil I do, So well I know my dutie to my elders. Kare. Of all thy futors heere I charge tel

Whom thou lou'lt best : fee thou diffemble not Bianca. Beleeve me fifter, of all the men alme, I neuer yet beheld that speciall face,

Which I could fancie, more then any other.

Kace. Minion thou lyest: Is't not Hortenfo? Bian. If you affect him fifter, beere I sweare Ile pleade for you my selfe, but you shal have him.

Kate. Oh then belike you fancie riches more, You wil haue Gremio to keepe you faite. Bian. Is it for him you do enuie me fo? Nay then you iest, and now I wel perceive You have but iested with me all this while: I prethee fifter Kate, vntie my hands.

Ka. If that be ieft, then all the rest was so. Street ber

Enter Baptifta.

Bap. Why how now Dame, whence growes this in-Bianea stand aside, poore gyrle she weepes i

Go ply thy Needle, meddle not with hei
For shame thou bilding of a divellish spirit,
Why dost thou wrong her, that did nere wrong thee?
When did she crosse thee with a bitter word?
Kasa. Her silence slouts me, and I lo be revenged.

Flies after Bianca

Bap. What in my fight? Bionea get thee in. Eist Kate. What will you not suffer me: Nay now I see She is your treasure, the must have a husband, I must dance bare-foot on her wedding day, And for your love to her, leade Apes in hell. Talke not to me, I will go fit and weepe, Till I can finde occasion of revenge.

Bap. Was ever Gentleman thus greev'd as I But who comes heere.

Enter Gremio, Lucentio, in the babit of a meane man, Pespuchio with Trano, with bis boy bearing a Luie and Bookes.

Gre, Good mortow neighbout Baptasta.

Bap, Good mortow neighbout Gremus Good faue you Gentlemen.

Per. And you good fit: pray hane you not a daughter, cal'd Katerina, faire and vertuous.

Bap. I have a daughter fir, cal'd Katerina.
Gre, You are too blunt, go to it orderly.

Per. You wrong me fignior Gremio, glue me leaste. I am a Gentleman of Verona fir,
That hearing of her beautic, and her wit,
Her affability and bashfull modestie:
Het wondrous qualities, and milde behautour.
Am bold to shew my selfe a forward guest
Within your house, to make mine eye the witnesse
Of that report, which I so of thaue heard,
And for an entrance to my entertainment,
I do present you with a man of mine
Cunning in Musicke, and the Mathematickes,
To instruct her fully in those steeners,
Wheteof I know she is not ignorant,
Accept of him, or else you do me wrong.
His name is Litto, borne in Mannes.

Bap. Y'are welcome fir, and he for your good fake. But for my daughter Katerion, this I know, She is not for your turne, the more my greefe.

Per. I see you do not meane to part with her,
Or else you like not of my companie.

Bap. Mistake me not, I speake but as I finde, Whence are you sit? What may I call your name.

Fet. Petruchie is my name, Antonio's sonne, A man well knowne throughout all Italy

Bap. I know him well: you are welcome for his lake.

Gro. Sauing your tale Perrucho. I pray let vs. that are poore petitioners (peake too? Bacare, you are metusylous forward.

Per, Oh, Pardon me fignior Gremes, I would faine be

Ore. I doubt it not fir. But you will curfe
Your wooing neighbors: this is a guift
Very gratefull, I amfure of it, to express
The like kindnesse my selfe, that have beene
Mere kindely beholding to you then any:

Freely give vnto this yong Scholler, that hath Beene long fludying at Rhemes, as cunning In Greeke, Latine, and other Languages, As the other to Mulicke and Mathematickes: His name is Cambio: pray accept his service

Bap. A thousand thankes signior Gremio:
Welcome good Cambio. But gentle si,
Me thinkes you walke like a stranger,
May I be so bold, to know the cause of your comming

Tra. Pardon me fir, the boldnesse is more owner.
That being a stranger in this Cittie heere.
Do make my selfe as utor to your daughter,
Vnto Branca, faire and vertuous:
Nor is your firme resolue whknowne to me,
In the protesment of the eldest fister.
This liberty is all that I request,
That vpon knowledge of my Parentage,
I may have welcome mongst the rest that woo,
And free accesse and favour as the self.
And toward the education of your daughters:
I heere bestow a simple instrument,
And this small packet of Greeke and Latine bookes:
If you accept them, then their worth is great:

Bap. Lucentio is your name, of whence I pray.
Tra. Of Pifa fir, fonne to Vincentio

Bap A mightieman of Pifa by report,
I know him well: you are verie welcome fir.
Take you the Lute, and you the fet of bookes,
You thail go fee your Pupils prefently.
Holla, within.

Enter a Seruant.

Sirrah, leade these Gentlemen
To my daughters, and tell them both
These are their Tutors, bid them vic them well,
We will go walke a little inthe Orchard,
And then to dinner: you are passing welcome,
And so I pray you all to thinke your selves.

Per. Signior Bapesha, my businesses sketch haste, And cuerte day I cannot come to woo, You knew my father well, and in him me, Left solie herre to all his Lands and goods, Which I have bettered rather then decreast. Thentell me, is get your daughters love. What downesses have wife, Bap. After my death, the one halfe of my Lands, And in possession twentie thousand Crownes.

Fet And for that downe, lle affure her of Her widdow-hood, be it that the furuite me In all my Lands and Leafes whatfoeuer, Let specialties be therefore drawne betweene vs, That couenants may be kept on either hand,

Bap. 1, when the special thing is well obtained, That is her love: for that is all in all.

Per. Why that is nothing: for I tell you father, I am as peremptorie as the proud minded:
And where two raging fires meete logether,
They do confume the thing that feedes their furie.
Though little fire growes great with little winde, yet extreme gusts will blow out fire and all:
Soltoher, and so she yeelds to me,
For I am rough, and woo nor like a babe

Bap. Well mailt thou woo, and happy be thy freed. But be thou arm'd for fome unhappie words.

Per. Ito the proofe, as Mountaines are for windes, That flakes not, though they blow perpetually Enter Hortenfis with his bead broke.

Bpa

Bap. How now my friend, why dott thou looke fo

Hor. Forfcare I promise you, if I looke pale. Bap. What, will my daughter proue a good Mulitian?

Hor. I thinke she'l sooner prous a souldier, Iron may hold with her, but never Lutes.

Bap. Why then thou canst not break her to the Lute? Her. Why no, for the hath broke the Luce to me: I did but tell her fhe mistooke her frets, And bow'd her hand to teach ber fingering, When (with a most impatient divellish spirit) Frets call you thefe? (quoth fhe) He fume with them : And with that word fhe stroke me on the head, And through the instrument my pase made way, And there I flood amazed for a while, As on a Pillorie, looking through the Lute, While she did call me Rascall, Fidler; And twangling lacke, with twentie such vilde teannes; As had the studied to milvie me fo.

Per. Now by the world, it is a loftie Wenth, I loue her tentimes more then ere I did, Oh how I long to have some chat with her.

Bap. Welgo with me, and be not so discomsitted. Proceed in practife with my yongee daughter, . She's apt to learne, and thankefull for good turnes: Signior Petrucbio, will you go with vs. Or shall I send my daughter Kare to you.

Exit. Manet Petrnchie.

Per. I pray you do. The attend her licere, And woo her with some spirit when she comes, Say that the raile, why then He tell her plaine, She fings as fweetly as a Nightinghale: Say that the fromne, He fay the lookes as cleere As morning Roses newly washt with dew: Say the be mute, and will not speake a word, Then Ile commend her volubility. And fay the vetereth piercing eloquence If the do bld me packe, He give her thankes, As though the bid me stay by her a weeke: If the denie to wed, lie craue the day When I shallaske the banes, and when be matried. But heere the comes, and now Perruchio speake. Enter Katerina.

Good morrow Kare, for thats your name I heare. Kate. Well-haue you heard, but something hard of

They call me Katerine, that do talke of me.

Per. You lye infaith, for you are call'd plaine Kate, And bony Kate, and formetimes Kate the curft: But Kate, the prettieft Kate in Christendome, Kate of Kate-hall, my Super-daintie Rate, For dainties are all Kates, and therefore Kate Take this of me, Kate of my confolation, Hearing thy mildnesse praised in enery Towne, Thy vertues spoke of, and thy beautie sounded, Yet not lo deepely as to thee belongs, My felfe am moou'd to woo thee for my wife.

Kate. Mou'd, in good time, let him that mou'd you

Remoue you hence : I knew you at the first You were a mouable.

Pet. Why, what's a mouable? Kat. A loyn'd fleole.

Per. Thou hast hit it : come sit on me.

Kate. Ales are made to beare, and fo are you,

Pet. Women are made to beste, and so are you. Kaie. No such lade as you, if me you meane. Pet. Alas good Kate, I will not bunhen thee,

For knowing thee to be but yong and light.

Kate. Too light for fuch a fwaine as you to catch,

And yet as heavie as my waight (hould be.

Per. Sholdbe, should: buzze.

Kate. Well tane, and like a buzzard. Per. Oh flow wing'd Turtle, Ital a buzard takethee?

Kat. I for a Turtle, as he takes a buzard.

Pet. Come, come you Waspe, y'faith you are too angrie.

Kate. If I be waspish, best bewere my fling. Per. My remedy is then to plucke it out.

Kate. I, if the foole could finde it where it lies.

Per. Who knowes not where a Waspe does weate his sting? In his taile.

Kater In his tongue? Pet. Wholetongue.

Kate. Yours if you talke of tales, and so farewell.

Per. What with my tongue in your taile. Nay, come againe, good Kete, I am a Gentleman, Kate. That lle trie. The Strikes bonn

Per. I sweare Ile cuffe you, if you strike againe.

Kate. So may you loofe your armes. If you strike me, you are no Gentleman, And if no Gentleman, why then no armes.

Pet. A Herald Katel Ohput me in thy bookes.

Kate. What is your Crest, a Coxcombe? Per. A comblesse Cocke, so Kate will be my Hen.

Kate. No Cocke of mine, you crow too like a crauen Pet. Nay come Kate, come: you must not looke so fowre.

Kase. It is my fashion when I fee a Crab. Pr Why heere's no crab, and therefore looke not fowre.

Kate. There is, there is. Per. Then shew it me.

Kate. Had I a glasse, I would.

Pet. What, you meane my face. Kate Well 2ym'd of fuch 2 yong one.

Per. Now by S. George I am too yong for you.

Kate. Yet you are wither'd. Pet. 'Tis with cares.

Kate. I care not.

Per. Nay heare you Kate. Infooth you scape not fo.

Kate. I chase you is I tarrie. Let mego. Per, No, not a whit, I finde you passing gentle :

Twas told me you were rough, and coy, and tullen, And now I finde report a very liar :

For thou art pleasant, gamelome, passing courteous, But flow in speech : yet sweet as spring-time flowers. Thou canit not fromne, thou canit not looke a scance, Nor bite the lip, as angry wenches will, Nor hast thou pleasure to be crosse in talke:

But thou with mildnesse entertain'st thy wooers, With gentle conference, loft, and affable. Why does the world report that Kate doth limpe?

Oh fland'rous world: Katelike the hazle twig Is ftraight, and flender, and as browne in hue As hazle nuts, and sweeter then the kernels: Ohlet me feethee walke : thou doft not hale

Kate. Go loole, and whom thou keep'st command. Pet. Did ever Dian so become a Grove

As Kate this chamber with her princely gate: Oberhou Dianandlet her be Kare,

And then let Kate be chafte, and Dian sportfull. Kare. Where did you fludy all this goodly speech? Peir. It is extempore, from my mother wit Kare. A witty mother, witlesse else her sonne.

Pa. Am I not wife?

Kat. Yes, keepe you warme.
Per. Marty fo I meane sweet Ratherine in try bed: And therefore ferting all this chat afide, Thus in plaine termes ; your father hath consented That you shall be my wife ; your dowry greed on, And will you, nill you, I will marry you Now Kase, I am a husband for your turne, For by this light, whereby I fee thy beauty, Thy beauty that doth make me like thee well, Thou must be married to no man but me.

Enter Baptifta, Gremto, Tragno.

For I am he am borne to tame you Kate, And bring you from a wilde Kate to a Kate Conformable as other houshold Kates Heere coines your father, neuer make deniall, I must, and will have Katherine to my wife. (daughter? Bap. Now Signior Petruchio, how speed you with my Pet. How but well firshow but well? It were impossible I should speed amisse. Bap. Why how now daughter Katherine, in your Kat. Call you me daughter? now I promife you You have thewd a tender fatherly regard, To wish me wed to one halfe Lunaticke, A mad-cap tuffish, and a fwearing lacke, That thinkes with oathes to face the matter out. Per. Father, tis thus, your felfe and all the world

That talk'd of ber, have talk'd amisse of her : If the be curst, it is for pollicle.
For thee's not froward, but modest as the Done, Shee is not hot, but temperate as the morne, For patience thee will prove a lecond Griffell, And Romane Lucrose for her chastitie: And to conclude, we have greed fo well together, That vpon fonday is the wedding day n so.

DOL

رازار

mand.

Kare. He fee thee hang'd on fonday first. Gre. Hark Perruchio, The fares thee'll fee thee hang'd Trails this your speeding may the godnight our patt.
Fee: Be patient gentlemen, I choose her formy selfe,

If the and I be pleas'd, what's that to you? Tis bargain'd twixt vs twaine being alone, That the shall still be curft in company. Itell you 'cis incredible to beleeve How much the loues me : oh the kindeft Kate, Shee hung about my necke, and kiffe on kiffe

Shee vi'd to faft, protefting outh on outh, That in a twinke the won me to her loue. Oh you are notices, tis a world to fee How tame when men and women are alone, A meacocke wretch can make the curfteft shrews Glue me thy hand Kate, I will voto Venice To buy apparell 'gainst the wedding day;

Provide the feast father, and bid the guests, I will be fure my Karherine shall be fine. Bap. I know not what to lay, but give me your hads, God fend you ioy, Petruebio, tis a match.

Gre. Tra Amen fay we, we will be witnesses. Pr. Father, and wife, and gentlemen adieu, I will to Venue, fonday comes apace, We will have rings, and things, and fine array,

And kiffe me Kare, we will be married a fonday. Exis Perruchlo and Kasherine.

Gre. Was ever match clapt vp (o fodainiy? Bap: Faith Gentlemen now I play a marchants part, And venture madly on a desperate Mart.

Tra. Twas a commodity lay freeting by you, Twill bring you gaine, or petish on the leas

Bap. The gaine I feeke, is quiet me the match. Gre. No doubt but he hath got a quiet catch: But now Bapuffa, to your yonger daughter,

Now is the day we long have tooked for, I am your neighbour, and was futer first.

Tra. And I am one that love Bianca more Then words can wrinefle, or your thoughts can gueffe. Gre. Yongling thou canft not love fo deare as 1.

Tra. Gray-beard thy love doth freeze. Gre. Burthine doth frie,

Skipper stand backe, 'tis age that nourisheth.

Tra. But youth in Ladies eyes that florisheth.

Bap. Content you gentlemen, I wil copound this frife Tis deeds must win the prize, and he of both That can affore my daughter greatest dower, Shall have my Biancas love.

Say fignior Gremio, what can you affure her? Gre. First, 25 you know, my house within the City Is richly furnished with place and gold, Bafons and ewers to lane her delnty hands: My hangings all of tritor tapeflry: In luory cofers I have fluft my crownes: In Cypres chefts my arras counterpoints, Costly apparell, tents, and Canopies, Fine Linnen, Turky cushions boft with pearle, Vallens of Venice gold, in needle worker: Pewter and braffe, and all things that belongs To house or house-keeping: then at my farme I have a hundred milch-kine to the pale, Sixe-score fat Oxen standing in my stalls, And all things answerable to this portion. My felfe am frooke in yeeres I must confesse, And if I die to morrow this is hers, If whil'ft I live the will be onely mine.

Tra. That only came well in : fir, lift to me, I am my fathers heyre and onely sonne, If I may have your daughter to my wife, He leave her houses three or foure as good Within rich Pifa walls, 23 any one Old Signior Gremio has in Padua, Belides, two thouland Duckets by the geere Of fruitfull land, all which shall be her joynter. What, have I pincht you Signior Gremio?

Gre. Two thousand Duckets by the yeete of land, My Land amounts not to fo much in all : That the shall have, besides an Argosie That now is lying in Marcellus roade:

What, have I choose you with an Argofie?

Tra. Gremie, 'tis knowne my father hath no leffe Then three great Argofies, belides two Galliaffes And twelvetite Gallies, thefe I will affure her, And twice as much what ere thou offrest next.

Gre. Nay, I have offred all, I have no more, And the can have no more then all I have, If you like me, the shall have me and mine.

Tra. Why then the maid is mine from all the world By your firme promise, Gremso is out vied

Bap. I must confesse your offer is the best, And let vour father make her the affurence,

Shee

Sher is your owne, else you must purdon me If you should die before him, where's her dower?

Tra. That's but a cauill : he is olde, I young, Gre And may not yong men die as well as old? Bsp Well gentlemen, I am thus resolu'd,

On fonday neat, you know My daughter Katherine is to be married:

Now on the fonday following, shall Bianca Re Bride to you, if you make this affurance:

It not, to Signiot Gremio:

And so I take my leave, and thanke you both. Grr. Adieu good neighbour : now I feare thee not : Sirra, yong gamester, your father were a foole

To give thee all, and in his wayning age Set foot under thy table : tut, a toy,

An olde Italian foxe is not to kinde my boy. Tra. A vengeance on your crafty withered hide, Yet I have fac'd it with a card of ten: Tis in my head to doe my mafter good: lee no reason but suppos'd Lucente

Must get a father, call'd suppos'd Vincentio, And that's a wonder : fathers commonly Doe get their children : but in this case of woing, A childe shall get a fire, if I faile not of my cuming. Exit

Actus Tertia.

Enter Lucensio, Hortensio, and Bianca. Luc. Fidler forbeare you grow roo forward Sir, Have you so soone forgot the entertainment Het fifter Katherina welcom'd you withall.

Hort But wranging pedant, this is The patronelle of heavenly harmony: Then give me leave to have prerogative, And when in Muficke we have Ipent an house, Your Lecture shall have leifure for as much.

Luc. Preposterous Asse that never read so farre, To know the cause why musicke was ordain'd: Was it not to refresh the minde of man After his studies, or his viual paine? Then give me leave to read Philosophy, And while I pause, serve in your harmony.

Hort. Sirra,I will not beate thele braues of thine. Bianc. Why gentlemen, you doe me double wrong, To strive for that which refleth in my choice: Ism no breeching scholler in the schooles, He not be tied to howres, not pointed times, Bar learne my Lessons as I please my seile, And to cut off all ftrifes heere lit we downe, Take you your instrument, play you the whiles,

His Lecture will be done ere you haue tun'd. Erri You'll leave his Lecture when I am in tune? Lie. That will be never, tune your instrument.

Bian Where left we last i Luc. Heere Madani : Hie Ibat Simolo, broeft figeria relliu, bie feneral Priami regia Celfa feiu.

Bian. Confer them.

Luc. Hie Ibel, as I told you before, Simois, Iam Lacentro, bir eft, tonne voto Vincentio of Pila, Sigeriatel-Les. disgussed thus to get your loue, bie fletera, and that Lucentio that comes a wooing, priami, is my man Tranio, regia, bearing my port, celfa fenu that we might beguile the old Pantalowne.

Hore Madam, my Inftrument's in tune. Bian. Let's berre, oh fir , the weble intres. Luc. Spit in the hole man, and tune againe.

Bian. Now let mee fee if I can conflet it. His ibes fimou. I know you not, ble off figures telbu. I truft you not, bic Raterat priated, take heede be heare ve not, regis prefume not, Celfa feri, despaire not. Her. Madam, ils now in tune.

Lec. All but the base.

Hors. The bale is right, 'tis the bale knowe that iars.

Luc How hery and forward our Pedant la, Now for my life the kneue doth court my love, Pedascule, lle watch you better yet i In time I may beleeve, yet I midruft.

Biau. Miltruft it not, for lure Acides Was Asax cald fo from his grandfather.

Horr. I must beleeve my master,elle I promise you, I should be arguing still upon that doubt, But let it reft, now Lute to you: Good mafter take it not vakindly pray

That I have beene thus pleasant with you both. Hers. You may go walk, and give me leave a while,

My Leffons make no muficke in three pares. Luc. Are you so formall fir, well I must waite And watch withall, for but I be decenu'd,

Our fine Mulitian groweth amorous. Hor. Madam, before you touch the inftrument, To learne the order of my fingering, I must begin with rudiments of Art, To teach you gamoth in a briefer fort, More pleasant, pithy, and effectuall, Then hath beene taught by any of my trade,

And there it is in writing fartely drawne. Buen. Why, I am past my gamouth long agoe, Hor. Yettead the gamouth of Hortentin. Bian. Gameuth I sin, the ground of all accord:

Are, to plead Horten fo's passion: Beeme, Bianca take him for thy Lord Cfave, that loves with all affection: D folre, one Cliffe, two notes have !, Elauri, thow pitty of I die. Call you this gamouth ? tut I like it not, Old fashions please me best, I am not so nice To charge true rules for old inventions.

Enser a Meffenger. Nicke. Mistreffe, your father prayes you leave your And helpe to dreffe your fifters chamber vp, You know to morrow is the wedding day.

Bian. Farewell sweet masters both, I must be gone. Luc. Faith Mistreffe then I have no cause to flay Her But I hauc cause to pry mto this pedant, Methinkes he lookes as though he were in loue: Yet if thy thoughts Bishes be so humble To cast thy wandring eyes on every fale: Seize thee that Lift, if once I finde thee ranging, Horseofio will be quit with thee by changing.

Emer Baptista, Gremio, Transo, Katherine, Bianca, and o. there stiendants.

Bap. Signior Lucentro, this is the pointed day That Karberine and Paruchie should be matried, And yet we beare not of our some in Law: What will be faid, what mockery will it be? To want the Bride-groome when the Priest attends To speake the ceremonial rices of marriage? What faies Luceraio to this shame of curs?

No

Kate. No shame but mine, I must for sooth be forst To give my hand oppos'd against my heart Vnto a mad-breinerudesby, full of spleene, Who woo'd in hafte and meanes to wed at leyfure: I told you I, he was a franticke toole, Hiding his bitter iefts in blunt behauiour, And to be noted for a merry man; Hee'll wooe a thouland, point the day of marriage, Make friends, inuite, and proclaime the banes Yet neuer meanes to wed where he hath woo'd: Now must the world point at poore Katherine, And Cay, loc, there is mad Petruchio's wife If it would pleafe him come and marry her.

Tra. Patience good Katherine and Baptiffa too, Vpon my life Petruchio meanes but well Whatever fortune Rayes him from his word, Though he be blunt, I know him palling wife Though he be merry, yet withall he's honest.

Kate. Would Karberine had neuer feen him though. Exit weeping.

Bap. Goe girle, I cannot blame thee now to weepe, For fuch an infurie would vexe a very faint, Much more a shrew of impatient humour. Enter Biondello.

Bion. Master, master, newes, and such newes as you neuer heard of, Bap. Is it new and olde too? how may that be? Bian. Why, Is it not newes to heard of Petrusbid's (comming?

Bap. Ishe come? Bion. Why no fir. Bap. What then? Bion. He is comming.

Bap. When will he be heere?

Bion. When he stands where I am, and fees you there.

Tra. But fay, what to thise olde newes?

Bion. Why Petruchio is comming, in a new hat and an old ierkin, a paire of olde breeches thilee turn'd; a paire of bootes that have beene candle-cases, one backled, another lac'd: an olde rufty (word cane out of the Towne Armory, with a broken hilt, and chapeleffe: with two broken points: his horse hip'd with an olde mothy saddle, and flirrops of no kindred : besides possess with the glanders, and like to mofe in the chine, troubled with the Lampasse, infected with the fashiros, full of Windegalls, fped with Spauins, raied with the Yellowes, past cure of the Fines, starke spoyl'd with the Staggers, begnawne with the Bots, Wald in the backe, and shoulder shotten, neereleg'd before, and with a halfe-chekt Bitte, & a headfall of sheepes leather, which being restrain'd to keepe him from stumbling, hath been often butft, and now repaired with knots : one girth fixe times peec'd, and a womans Crupper of velure, which hath two letters for her name, fairely fet down in fluds, and beere and there peec'd with packthred.

Bap. Who comes with him?

Bion. Oh fir, his Lackey, for all the world Caparifon'd like the horse: with a linnen stock on one leg, and a kerfey boot-hofe on the other, gartred with a red and blew lift;an old hat, & the humor of forty fancies prickt in't for a feather: a monfler, a very monfler in apparell, & not like a Christian foot-boy, or a gentlemans Lacky.

Tra. Tis some od humor pricks him to this fashlon,

Yet oftentimes he goes but meane apparel'd. Bap. I am glad he's come howfoere he comes.

Bion. Why fir, he comes not.

Bap. Didst thou'not say hee comest

Rian. Who, that Petruchio came?

Bap. 1, that Petruchie came. (barke. Bion. No fir, I fay his horse comes with him on his

Bap. Why that's all one.

Bion. Nay by S. lamy, I hold you a penny a horseand a man is more then one, and yet not many.

Enter Petrnehio and Grumio.

Per. Come, where be these gallants? who's at home

Bap. You are welcome fir. Peir. And yet I come not well,

Bap. And yet you halt not.

Tra. Not so well apparell'd as I wish you were.

Porr. Were it better I should rush in thus : But where is Kare? where is my louely Bride? How does my father gentles methinkes you frowne, And wherefore gaze this goodly company, As if they faw fome wondrous monument, Some Commet, or vousuall prodigie?

Bap. Why fir, you know this is your wedding day First were we fad, fearing you would not come, Now sadder that you come so vnprouided: Fie, doff this habit, shame to your estate, An eye-fore to our solemne festivall.

Tra. And tell vs what occasion of import Hath all fo long detain'd you from your wife, And fent you hither fo vnlike your felfe?

Petr. Tedious it were to tell, and harsh to heare, Sufficeth I am come to keepe my word . Though in some part inforced to digresse, Which at more leyfure I will fo excuse, As you shall well be satisfied with all. But where Is Kate? I stay too long from her, The morning weares, 'cis time we were at Church.

Tra. See not your Bride in these vnrenerent cobes, Goe to my chamber, put on clothes of mine.

Pet. Not I, beleeue me, thus Ile vifit her. Bap. But thus I trust you will not marry her. (words, Pet. Good footh euen thus : therefore ha done with

To me she's married, not vnto my cloathes: Could I repaire what the will weare in me, As I can change these poore accourrements Twere well for Kate, and better for my felfe. But what a foole am I to chat with you, When I should bid good morrow to my Bride? And seale the title with a louely kisse. Exit.

Tra. He hath some meaning in his mad attire, We will perswade him be it possible,

To put on better ere he goe to Church. Bap. He after him, and fee the event of this. Exis, Tra. But fir, Loue concerneth vs to adde

Her fathers liking, which to bring to passe As before imparted to your worship, I am to get a man what ere he be, It skills not much, weele fit him to our turne, And he shall be Vincentio of Pofa, And make assurance heere in Padua Of greater summes then I have promised, So shall you quietly enjoy your hope, And marry fweet Bianca with confent.

Luc. Were it not that my fellow schoolemafter Doth watch Bianea's steps fo narrowly: Twere good me-thinkes to steale our marriage, Which once perform'd, let all the world fay no, lle keepe mine owne despite of all the world.

Tra. That by degrees we meane to looke into,

And watch our vantage in this businesse, Wee'll over-reach the grey-beard Gremo, The narrow prying father Minela, The quaint Musician, amorous Litto, All for my Masters soke Lucento.

Enter Gremio.

Signior Gremie, came you from the Church?

Gre. As willingly as ere I came from schoole.

Trs. And is the Bride & Bridegroom coming home?
Gro. A bridegroome (sy you? tis a groome indeed,
A grumlling groome, and that the gule fhall finde.

Tra. Cerifer then the, why tra impossible.

Gre. Why hee's a deuill, a deuill, a very fiend.

Tra. Why the's a deuill, a deuill, the deuils damme.

Gre. Tut, the's a Lambe, a Doue, a foole to him:

He tell you fir Lucentro; when the Ptich Should aske if Katherine thould be his wife, I, by goggs woones quot he, and fwore fo loud, That all amaz'd the Priest let fall the booke, And as he stoop'd againe to take it vp, This mad-brain'd bridegroome tooke him such a custe.

This mad-brain'd bridegroome tooke him such a custe,
That downe fell Priest and booke, and booke and Priest,
Now take them up quoth he, if any list.

Tra. What faid the wench when he rofe agains?

Gre. Trembled and shooke: for why, he simp'd and swore, as if the Vicar meant to cozen him: but after many ceremonies done, hee calls for wine, a health quoth he, as if he had beene aboord carowsing to his Mates after a storme, quast off the Muscadell, and threw the sops all in the Sextons sace: having no other reason, but that his beard grew thinne and hungerly, and seem'd to aske him sops as hee was drinking: This done, hee sooke the Bride about the necke, and kish her lips with such a clamorous smacke, that at the parting all the Church did eccho: and I seeing this, came thence for very shame, and after mee I know the rout is comming, such a mad marryage neuer was before: harke, harke, I heare the minstrels play,

Enter Petrusbio, Kate, Branca, Hortensio, Baptista.

Petr. Gentlemen & friends, I thank you for yout pains, I know you thinke to dine with me to day, And have prepar'd great flore of wedding cheete, But so it is, my haste doth call me hence, And therefore heere I meane to take my leave.

Rap. Is't possible you will away to night?

Per. I must away to day before night come,

Make it no wonder: if you knew my businesse,

You would intreat me rather goe then stay:

And honest company, I thanke you all.

That have beheld me give away my felfe

To this most patient, sweet, and vertuous wise,

Dine with my father, drinke a health to me,

For I must hence, and farewell to you all.

Tra. Let vs intreat you fay till after dinnet-

Pet. It may not be.
Gra. Let me intreat you,
Pet. It cannot be.
Kat. Let me intreat you.
Pet. I am content.

Ker. Are you content to flay?

Pet. I am content you shall entreat me stay, But yet not stay, entreat me how you can. Kat. Now if you loue me flay.

Gru. I fir, they be ready, the Oates have esten the horses.

Kate. Nay then,
Doe what thou canst, I will not goe to day.
No, nor to mottow, not till I please my selfe,
The dore is open fir, there lies your
You may be sogging whiles your bootes are greenes
For me, lie not be gone till I please my selse
Tis like you'll proue a folly surly groome.
That take it on you at the first so roundly.

Per. O Kore content thee, prethee be not angry.

Kat. I will be angry, what half thou to doe?

Father, be quiet, he shall stay my lessure.

Gre. I marry fit, now it begins to worke.

Kat. Geotlemen, forward to the bridall danner,

I fee a woman may be made a foole
If the had not a spirit to refish.

Per. They shall goe forward Kate at thy command Obey the Bride you that attend on her.
Goe to the feast, recell and domineere,
Carowse full measure to her maiden-head,
Be madde and merry or goe hang your selves:
But for my bonny Kate, the must with me:
Nay, looke not big, nor stampe, nor stare, nor stee,
I will be master of what is mine owne.
Shee is my goods, my chattels, the is my house.
My houshold-suffermy field, my barne.
My horse, my oxe, my affe, my any thing,
And here she stands, touch her who over date,
lle bring mine action on the proudes the
That stops my way in Padaa: Grums
Draw forth thy weapon, we are befer with theeves,
Rescue thy Midresse is thou be a man:

Fezre not sweet wench, they shall not touch thee Rate, Ile buckler thee agamst a Million, Exeunt. P. Ka. Bap. Nay, let them goe, a couple of quiet ones. (ing

Gre. Went they not quickly, is should die with laugh-Tra. Of all mad matches neuer was the like. Luc. Mistresse, what's your opinion of your fifter? Eign. That being mad her selfe, she's madly mated.

Cre. I warrant him Petruchio is Kated.

Bap Neighbours and friends, though Bride & BrideForto Supply the places at the table, (groom wanta
You know there wants no sunkers at the feaft:
Lucentio, you shall supply the Bridegroomes place,

And let Branca take her fifters roome.

Tra. Shall sweet Bianea practife how to bride it?

Bap. She shall Learnin; come gentlemen lets goe.

Enter Grunno

Executi

Grw: Fie, fic on all tired lades, on all mad Mafters, & all foule waies: was ever man so bezten? was ever man so raide? was ever man fo raide? was ever man fo weary? I am sent before to make a fite, and they are comming after to warme them: now were not I a little pot, & soone hot; my very lippes might freeze to my teeth, my tongue to the roofe of mouth, my heart in my belly, ere I should come by a fire to thaw me, but I with blowing the fire shall warme my felse: for considering the weather, a taller man then I will take cold: Holla, hoa Cartil.

Enter Curtis.

Curs. Who is that calls so coldiy?

Om. A piece of see: if thou doubt it, shou main flide from my shoulder to my heele, with no greater greater a run but my head and my necke. A fire good

Cur. Is my master and his wife comming Grumio? Gru. Oh I Curtis I, and therefore fire, fite, calt on no

Cur. Is she so hot a shrew as she's reported.

Gru. She was good Curvis before this frost: but thou know'st winter tames man, woman, and beast : for it hath tam'd my old mafter, and my new mistris, and my selfe fellow Curtis.

Gru. Away you three inch foole, I am no beaft.
Gru. Am I but three inches? Why thy home is a foo and fo long am lat the least. But wilt thou make a fire or shall I complaine on thee to our mistris, whose hand (the being now at hand) thou shalt soone feele, to thy cold comfort, for being flow in thy hot office.

Cur. I prethee good Grumio, tell me, how goes the world?

Gru. A cold world Curris in enery office but thine, & therefore fire: do thy duty, and have thy dutie, for my Master and mistris are almost frozento death.

Cur. There's fire readie, and therefore good Grunio

Grn. Why lacke boy, ho boy, and as much newes as wilt thou.

Car. Come, you are fofull of conicatching.

Gru. Whytherefore fire, for I have caught extreme cold. Where's the Cooke, is supper ready, the house trim'd, tushes firew'd, cobwebs swept, the servingmen in their new fuffian, the white flockings, and every officer his wedding garment on? Be the lackes faire within, the Gils faire without, the Carpets laide, and euerie thing in order?

Cur. All readic : and therefore I pray thee newes.

Gru. First know my horse is tired, my master & mistris falne out. Cur. How?

Grw. Out of their saddles into the durt, and thereby

Car. Let's ha't good Grumio.

Grn. Lend thine care.

Cur. Heere.

Grw. There.
Cur. This 'tis to feele a tale, not to heare a tale

Gru. And therefore 'tis cal'd a fensible tale: and this Cuffe was but to knocke at your care, and befeech liftning: now I begin, Inprimis wee came downe a fowle hill, my Master riding behinde my Mistris.

Cur. Both of one horse?

Grw. What's that to thee?

Cur. Why a horse.

Gru. Tell thou the tale : but hadft thou not croft me, thou Boulds have heard how her horse fel, and she voder her horse: thou shouldst have heard in how miery a place, how the was bemoil'd, how hee left her with the horse vpon her, how he best me because her horses Rumbled, how the waded through the durr to placke him off me : how he fwore, how the prai'd, that never prai'dbefore: how I cried, how the horses ranne away, how her bridle was burst : how I lost my crupper, with manie things of worthy memorie, which now shall die in oblivion, and thou returne vnexperienc'd to thy grave.

Cur By this reckning he is more threw than the. Gru. I, and that thou and the plbudeft of you ail shall finde when he comes home. But what talke I of this? Call forth Nathamel, Infeph, Nicholas, Phillip, Walter, Sugerfop and the reft: let their heads bee flickely combid, their plew coats brush'd, and their gatters of an indifferent knit, let them curtie with their left legges, and not presume to touch a haire of my Masters horse-taile, till they kisse their hands. Are they all readie?

Cur. They are.
Gru. Call them forth.

Cur. Do you heare ho? you must meete my maister to countenance my mistris.

Gru. Why she hath a face of her owne Cur. Who knowes not that?

Gru. Thou it scemes, that cals for company to countenance her.

Cur. I call them forth to credit her.

Enter foure or fine ferumgmen.

Gru. Why the comes to borrow nothing of them

Nat. Welcome home Grumio.

Phil. How now Grumie.

Iof. What Grumio.

Nick. Fellow Grumio.

Nat. How now old lad.

Gru. Welcome you: how now you: what you: fellow you: and thus much for greeting. Now my fpruce companions, is all readie, and all things neate?

Nat. All things is readie; how neere is our mafter? Gre. E'ne at hand, alighted by this: and therefore be -Cockes passion, silence, I heare my master Enter Petruchip and Kate.

Pet. Where be these knaues? What no man at doore To hold my stirrop, nor to take my horse?

Where is Nathaniel, Gregory, Phillip.
Allfer. Heere, heere fir, heere fir.
Pse. Heere fir, heere fir, heere fir. You logger-headed and vnpollisht groomes: What? no attendance? no regard? no dutie? Where Is the foolish knaue I sent before?

Gru. Heere fir, as foolish as I was before.

Per. You pezant, Iwain, you horfon malt-horfe dridg Did I not bid thee meete me in the Parke,

And bring along these tascal knaues with thee?

Grumio. Nathaniels coate fir was not fully made, And Gabrels pumpes were all vapinke i'th heele: There was no Linke to colour Peters hat, And Walters dagger was not come from fheathing: There were none fine, but Adem, Rafe, and Gregory, The rest were ragged, old, and beggerly,

Yet as they are, hecte are they come to meete you Fet. Go rascals, go, and fetch my suppor in Ex. Sor

Where is the life that late I led?

Where are those? Sit downe Kate,

And welcome. Soud, foud, foud, foud.

Enter feruante with supper. Why when I fay? Nay good fweete Kate be merrie. Off with my boots, you rogues : you villaines, when? It was the Friar of Orders gray,

As he forth walked on bu way

Out you rogue, you plucke my foote awrie, Take that, and mend the plucking of the other. Be merrie Kate : Some water heere : what hoz.

Enter one wish water.

Where's my Spaniel Troilie? Sizra, get you hence, And bid my sozen Ferdinand come hither: One Kate that you must kisse, and be acquainted with. Where are my-Slippers? Shali I have fome water? Come Kate and wash, & welcome heartily : you horson villaine, will you let it fall?

Kate. Patience I pray you, 't was a fault vnwilling. Pet. A horson beetle-headed flap-ear'd knaue : Come Kase fit downe, I know you have a stomacke, Will you give thankes, sweete Kate, or else shall 12 What's this, Mutton?

1 Ser. 1.

Per. Who brought 10?

Peter. 1.

Pet. 'Tis burnt, and fo is all the meater What dogges are these? Where is the issail Cooke? How durft you villaines bring it from the dreffer And ferue is thus to me that love it not? There, take it to you, trenchers, cups, and all: You heedleffe solt-heads, and vnmanner'd flaues. What, do you grumble? He be with you fraight

Kaie. I pray you husband be not so disquiet, The meate was well, if you were lo contented.

Per. I tell thee Kare, 'two burnt and dried away, And I expressely am forbid to touch it : For it engenders choller, planteth anger. And better twere that both of vs did taff Since of our selves our selves are chollericke, Then feede it with fuch over-rofted fiesh. Be patient, to morrow't shalbe mended, And for this night we'l fast for companie. Come I wil bring thee to thy Bridall chamber. Excurs.

Enter Sernanti feuerally. Nath. Peter didft euer fee the like. Peter. He kils her in her owne humor. Grumio. Where is he?

Euler Curtu a Seruent.

Cur. In her chamber, making a fermon of continen-cie to her, and railes, and sweares, and rates, that shee (poore foule) knowes not which way to fiand, to looke, to speake, and site as one new rifen from a dreame. Away, away, for he is comming hither.

Enter Petrucbio.

Per. Thus have I politickely begun my reigne, And 'tis my hope to end fucceffefully: My Faulconnow is tharpe, and passing emptie, And til the stoope, tho must not be full gorg'd, For then the never lookes upon her lure. Another way I have to mattiny Haggard, To make her come, and know her Keepers call: That is, to watch her, as we watch thefe Kites, That batte, and beate, and will not be obedient. She eate no meate to day, nor none (hall cate. Last night the flepr not, nor to night the shall not: As with the meete, some undeferred fault He finde about the making of the bed, And heere He fling the pillow, there the boulfter, This way the Couerlet, another way the flicets : I, and amid this hurlie I intend, That all is done in reverend care of her, And in conclusion, she shal watch all night, And if the chance to nod Heraile and brawle, And with the clamor keepe her stil awake: This is a way to kil a Wife with kindnesse, And thus He curbe her mad and headftrong humor: He that knowes better how to tame a fhrew, Now let him speake, 'tis charity to shew. Exit Enser Transo and Hersenfice

Tra. Is's possible friend Life, that mistris Branca Doth fancre any other but Lucentso, I tel you fir, the beares me faire in hand.

Luc. Sir, to latisfie you in what I have laid.

Stand by, and marke the manner of his teaching. Enter Branca.

Ho. Now Miffers, profe you in what you reade? Bian. What Master reade you first, resolue me that? Her. I reade, that I prosedle the Art to love. Bian And may you prove fit Mafter of your Att. Lue. While you sweet deese prove Millielle of my heart. Her. Quicke proceeders merry, now tel me I pray, you that durft (weare that your miffre Boance Lou'd me in the World fo wel as Lucentin. Tra. Oh despightful Love, vnconftant womankind, I sel thee Lefie this is wonderfull.

Hor. Mistake no more, I am not Life, Nora Musician as I seeme to bee, But one that scorne to live in this disguise, For fuch a one as leauce a Gentleman, And makes a God of fuch a Cullion ; Know fir, that I am cal'd Horsen fie.

Tra Signior Harrenfie, I have often beard Of your entire affedion to Biarca, And fince mine eyes are witnesse of her lightnesse. I wil with you, if you be fo contented, For sweare Branca, and her love for ever.

Har. See how they kille and court: Signior Luceation Heere is my hand, and heere I firmly yow Nouer ro woo her more, but do forsweare her As one voworthie all the former fanours That I have fondly flatter'd them withall.

7ra. And heere I take the like unfained outh, Neuer to marrie with her, though the would intreate, Fie on her, fee how beaftly the doch court him.

Her. Would all the world but he had quite forfword For me, that I may furely keepe mine oat! I wil be married to a wealthy Widdow, Erethree dayes palle, which hath as long lou'd me, As I have lou'd this proud disdainful Haggard, And to farewel fignior Lucentus, Kindnesse in women, not their beauteous lookes Shal win my loue, and fo I take my leave, Tra. Millris Bianca, bleffe you with luch grace, As longeth to a Louers bleffed cafe: Nay, I have tame you napping gentle Love, And have for fworme you with Harrenfie.

Bian. Trans you ieft, but have you both for swoene mee ?

Tra. Miffris we have.

In resolution, 29 I swore before,

Luc. Then we are rid of Life.
Tra. I'faith hee'l have a luftie Widdow now, That Chalbe woo'd, and wedded in a day.

Bian. God giue him ioy. Tra I and hee'l tame her.

Bianca. He layer to Trame. Tra. Fanh he is gone voto the taming schoole. Bim. The teming schoole: what is there such a place?

Tra. I miliris, and Perracbio is the mafter, That teacheth trickes eleven and twentie long, To tame a farew, and charme her chattering tongue. Enter Brandello.

Bum. Oh Mafter, mafter I haue watcht fo long, That I am dogge-wearie, but at last I spred An ancient Angel comming downe the hill, Wil ferne the turne.

Tra. What is he Blandellot

Bio, Master, a Marcantant, or a pedant,

I know not what, but formall in apparrell, In gate and countenance furely like a Father.

Luc. And what of him Tranio?

Tra. If he be credulous, and trust my tale, He make him glad to feeme Vincentio, And give assurance to Baptista Minola. As if he were the right Vincentio.

Par. Take me your loue, and then let me alone. Enter a Pedant.

Ped. God lauc you fir.

Tra. And you fir, you are welcome, Trauaile you farre on, or are you at the farthest? Ped. Sir at the farthest for a weeke or two,

But then vp farther, and as farre as Rome, And so to Tripolie, if God lend me life.

Tra. What Countreyman I pray?

Ped. Of Mantua.

Tra Of Maneua Sir, marrie God forbid, And come to Padua careleffe of your life.

Ped. My life fir? how I pray? for that goeshard. Tra. Tis death for any one in Mantua To come to Padua, know you not the cause? Your ships are staid at Venice, and the Duke

For private quarrol twist your Duke and him. Hath publish'd and proclaim'd it openly : 'Tis meruaile, but that you are but newly come, you might have heard it elle proclaim'd about.

Ped. Alas fir, it is worfe for me then fo, For I have bils for monie by exchange From Florence, and must heere deliuer them. Tra. Wel fir, to do you courtefie,

This wil I do, and this I wil aduise you, First tell me, haue you euer beene at Pisa? Ped. I fir, in Pifa hane I often bin, Pifa renowned for grave Citizens.

Tra. Among them know you one Vincentie? Ped. I know him not, but I have heard of him:

A Merchant of incomparable wealth.

Tra. He is my father fir, and footh to fay, In count nance fomewhat doth refemble you.

Bion. As much as an apple doth an oyfter, & all one.

Tral. To faue your life in this extremitie, This fauor wil I do you for his fake, And thinke it not the worst of all your fortunes, That you are like to Sit Vincentio. His name and credite shal you undertake, And in my house you shal be friendly lodg'd, Looke that you take vpon you as you should, you understand me sir: so shal you stay Til you have done your businesse in the Citie: If this be court'fie fit, accept of it.

Ped. Oh fir I do, and wil repute you cuer

The patron of my life and libertie.

Tre. Then go with me, to make the matter good, This by the way I let you understand, My father is heere look'd for everie day, To passe assurance of a dowre in marriage Twixt me, and one Bapristas daughter heere: In all thefe circumftances Ile inftruct you, Go with me to cloath you as becomes you.

Exeunt.

Adus Quarlus. Scena Prima.

Enter Karberingand Grurnio.

Gru. No, no forfooth I date not for my lite. Ka. The more my wrong, the more his spite appears What, did he marrie me to famish me? Beggers that come vnto my fathers doore, Vpon intreatie have a prefent almes, If not, elsewhere they meete with charitie: But I, who never knew how to intreat, Nor neuer needed that I should intreate, A'm staru'd for meate, giddie for lacke of sleepe : With oathes kept waking, and with brawling fed, And that which spights me more then all these wants, He does it under name of perfect louc: As who should say, if I should sleepe or eate, Twere deadly ficknesse, or else present death. I prethee go, and get me some repast, I care not what, so it be holsome soode Gra. What fay you to a Neats foote?

Kate. Tis passing good, I prethee let me base it. Gra. I feate it is too chollericke a meate. How fay you to a fat Tripe finely broyl'd?

Kate. Hike it well good Grunio setchit me. Grn. I cannot tell I seare 'tis chollericke.

What fay you to a peece of Beefe and Multard? Kate. A dish that I do love to feede vpon.

Cru. 1, but the Mustard is too hot a little. Kare. Why then the Beefe, and let the Muftardreft

Gru. Nay then I wil not, you shal have the Mustard Or else you get no beese of Grunnio. Kate. Then both or one, or any thing thou wile. Gru. Why then the Mustard without the beefe.

Rate. Go get thee gone, thou salse deluding slave, Beaus him

That feed'st me with the veriename of meate. Sorrow on thee, and all the packe of you That triumph thus you my mifery: Go getithee gone, I fay.

Enter Petruchia, and Hortenfie with micate. Petr. How fares my Kate, what sweeting all a-more? Hor. Mistris what cheere?

Kase. Faith as cold as can be. Pet. Plucke up thy spirits, looke cheerfully upon me. Heere Loue, thou feelt how diligent 1 am, To dresse thy meare my felse, and bring it thee. I am fure sweet Kate, this kindnesse merites thankes. What, not a word? Nay then, thou lou'ft it not: And all my paines is forced to no proofe.

Heere take away this difh. Kate. I pray you let it fland.

Per. The poorest seruice is repaide with thankes, And fo shall mine before you souch the meate.

Kate. I thanke you fir.

Hor. Signior Petruchio, fie you are too blame : Come Mistris Kate, Ile besre you companie.

Petr. Eate it vp all Hortenfio, if thou louest mee: Much good do it vnto thy gentle heart: Kate eate apace; and now my honie Loue, Will we returne vnto thy Fathers house, And rewell it as brauely as the best. With filken coats and caps, and golden Rings, With Ruffes and Cuffes, and Fardingales, and things : With Scarfes, and Fannes, & double change of brau'ry With Amber Bracelets, Beades, and all this knau'ry What hast thou din'd? The Tailor staies thy leafure, To decke thy bodie with his ruffling treasure

Enter Teilor.

Come Tailor, let vi lee thele ornaments. Enser Haberdafner.

Lay forth the game. What newes with you fir? FA. Hecre is the eap your Worship did bespeake.

Per. Why this was moulded on a porrenger, A Veluet difh: Pie, fie, its towd and filthy, Why tis a cockle or a walnut-shell, A knacke, a coy, a tricke, a babies cap :

Away with it, come let me have a bigger. Kate. He have no bigger, this doth he the time, And Gentlewomen weatefuch caps as thefe

Pet. When you are gentle, you shall have one too, And not till then.

Her. That will not be in haft,

Kare. Why fir I trust I may have lesus to speake, And speake I will. I am no childe, no babe, Your betters have indur'd me fay my minde, And If you cannot, best you stop your eates. My tongue will tell the anger of my heart, Or ela my heart concealing it wil breake, And rather then it fliall, I will be free, Egen to the vitermost as I please in words.

Per. Why thou tailt true, it is paltrie cap, Acustard coffen, a bauble, a siken pia, I love thee well in that thou lik'ft it not Kate. Loue me, or love me not, I like the cap, And it I will have, or I will have none.

Per. Thy gowne, why Is come Tailor let va fee's. Oh mercie God, what marking stuffe is heere? Whats this? affecue? 'tis hke demi cannon, What, vp and downe caru'd like as apple Tare? Heers (nip, and nip, and out, and flith and flash, Like to a Cenfor in a barbers shoppe: Why whet a deuils name Tailor cal'ft thou this?

Her. I fee thees like to have neither cap nor gowne To. You bid me make it orderlie and well,

According to the fathion, and the time.

Per. Marrie and did: bucifyou be remembred, I did not bid you matre it to the time Go hop me ouer every kennell home, For you shall hop without my costonie fu: He none of it; hence, make your best of it Kare. I neuer faw a better fashion'd gowne, More queint, more pleasing, nor more commendable : Belike you meane to make a puppet of me.

Pie. Why true, he meanes to make a pupper of thee. Tail. She fales your Worthip meanes to make a pupper of her

Per. Oh monttrous arrogance: Thou lyeft, thou thred, thou thimble. Thou yard three quarters, halfe yard, quarter, naile, Thou Flea, thou Nit, thou winter cricket thou i Brau'd in mine owne house with a skeine of thred : Away thou Ragge, thou quantitie, thou remnant, Or I shall so be-metethee with thy yard, As thou shalt thinke on peating whil' A thou lin'A: I tell thee I, that thou hast mart'd her gowne.

Tail. Your worthip is deceived, the gowne is made Juft as my mafter had direction

Grumio gaue order how it should be done.

Gru. I gave him no order, I gave him the Aute. Tal But how did you defire it should be made? Gru. Marrie fit with needle and thred.

Tad. But did you not request to have it cut !

Crw. Thou half fae'd many things.

Tail. I have.

Grm. Face not mee : then haft bran'd mente ment braue not me ; I will neither beefec'd nor brau'd, Ifay unto thee, I bid thy Malier cut out the gowne, but I did not bid bim cut it to perces. Eigo the stieft.

Tail. Why heere is the note of the falmion to tellify.

Pri Readest.
Gru. The note lies in's throase if he fay I faid fo.

Tall laprimis, 2 loofe bodied gowne.

Gru. Mafter, if ever I faid loofe bodied gowne, for me in the skirts of it, and beste me to death with a bottome of browne thred: I faid a gowne.

Pet, Proceede.

Tas With a small compast cape.

Cru. I confelle che cape.

Tas. With a trunke fleuve.

Gru I confesse two leeves.
Tai: The seeves curiously cut.

Pa. I there's the villanie,

Gru. Error i'th bill fir, error l'th bill ? I commanded the fleeues flould be cut out, and fow'd up agame, and that le prove spon thee, though thy little finger be atmed in a thimble.

Tad. This is true that I say, and I had thee in place wherethou frouddit know it.

Gra lam for thee Araight : take thou the bill, give me thy meat-yard, and spare not me

Her. God-a-mercie Grumo, then hee shall have no oddes.

Pa. Well fir in breefeathe gowne is not for me. Grw. You are I'th right fir, 'tis for my milins. Per. Go take it vp vnto thy masters vie.

Gra. Villaine, not for thy life: Take vp my Miftreffe gowne for thy mafters vic.

Per. Why fir, what's your conceit in that?

Grm. Oh fir she concert is desper then you think for-Take vp my Mistris gowne to his masters vfe. Oh fie, fie, fie.

Per. Hortenfie, fay thou wilt fee the Tailor paids Go take it hence, be gone, and fay no more.

Hor. Tailor, He pay thee for thy gowing to motrow, Take no vokindnelle of his bashe words: Away I fay, commend me so thy mafter. Exit Tail.

Per. Well, come my Kas, we will votto your fathers, Even in these honest meane habiliments : Out purses shall be proud, out garments poore: For tis the minde that makes the bodie tich. And as the Sunae breakes through the darkest clouds, So honor peereshin the meaneft habit. What is the lay more precious then the Larke? Because his feathers are more beautifull Or is the Adder better then the Eele, Because his painted skin contents the eye. Oh no good Kare: neither art thou the worfe For this poore furniture, and meane array. If thou accounted (tit fhame, lay :t on me, And therefore Irolicke, we will hence forthwith, To feast and sport vs at thy fathers houlz, Go call my men, and let vs ftraight to him, And bring our hories vnto Long-lane end, There wil we mount, and thither walke on foote, Lot's fee, I'thinke 'ds now fome feven a clocke, And well we may come there by dinner time.

Kase. I dare affure you fir, tis almost two, And 'twill be supper time ere you come there. Per. It shall be seuen ere i go to horse:

Looke what I speake, or do, or thinke to doe,

You are fill croffing it, firs let'c alone, I will not goe to day, and ere I doe, It shall be what a clock I fay it is.

Her. Why fo this gallant will command the funne.

Enter Transo, and the Pedant dreft like Vencentio. Tra. Sits, this is the house, please it you that I call. Ped. I what else, and but I be deceived, Signior Baptifta may remember nie Neere twentie yeares a got in Genea.

Tra. Where we were lodgers, at the Pegafas, Tis well and hold your owne in any cafe With fuch aufteritie as longeth to a facher.

Enter Biondelle.

Ped. I warrant you: but fir here comes your boy,

Twere good he were school'd.

Tra. Feare you not him: fura Biondallo,
Now doe your dutie throughlie I adule you: Imagine twere the right Vinconto.

Bion. Tut, feare not me.

Tra. But haft thou done thy errand to Bapriffa. Bion. I told bim that your father was at Venice, And that you look't for him this day in Padea.

Tro. Th'arta call fellow, hold thee that to drinke.

Here comes Baprifta : let your countenance fir.

Enter Baptiff a end Lucentio: Pedans boosed and bare beaded.

Tra. Signior Baptiffa you are happilie met s Sis, this Is the gentleman I cold you of, I pray you frand good father to me now, Glue me Branca for my patrimony

Ped Soft fon: fir by your leave, basing com to Padro
To gather in fome debts, my fon Lucanto Made me acquainted with a waighty cause Of love besweene your daughter and himfelfe: And for the good report I heare of you, And for the love he beareth to your daughter, And the to him : to flay him not too long, I am content in a good fathers care To hauehim matche, and if you please to like No wosse then I, vpon some agreement Me shall you finde readle and willing With one confent to have her lo bestowed : Por curious I cannot be with you Signior Baptifta, of whom I heare fo well.

Bap. Sir, pardon me in what I baue to fay, Your plainnesse and your shortnesse please me well a Right true it is your sonne Lucentie here Doth love my daughter, and she loveth him. Or both diffemble deepely their affections, And therefore if you fay no more then this. That like a Father you will deale with him. And palle my daughter a lufficient dower, The match is made, and all Is done,

Your sonne shall have my daughter with consent. Tra. I thanke you fir, where then doe you know best

We be affied and fuch affurance tane, As shall with either parts agreement stand.

B.p. Not in my house Lieuwie, for you know

Pitchers have eares, and I have manie fernance, Befides old Grema is harkning flill, And happilie we might be interrupted.

Tro. Then at my lodging, and it like you, There doth my father lie : and there this night

Weele paffe the butmeffe privately and well: Send for your daughter by your fernant here, My Boy shall fetch the Scrivener presentie, The worft is this that at fo flender warning, You are like to have a thin and flender pittance.

Bap. It likes me well : Cambu hie you bome, and bid Blomea make her readic Arzighti

And if you will tell what hath hapned, Lucenties Father is arrived in Yadna, And how the's like to be Luceneus wife.

Blond. I praise the gods the may withall my heart.

Tran. Dallie nor with the gods, but get thee gone. Enier Peter.

Signior Baptifla, shall I leade the way, We come, one melle is like to be your cheere, Come fir, we will better it in Pife.

Bap. I follow you.

Exenos.

Enter Lucentio and Brondella.

Bion. Carobio.

Luc. What failt thou Biondello.

Biond. You law my Master winke and laugh upon you?

Luc. Biondello, what of that?

Biand. Faith nothing : but has left mee here behinde to expound the meaning or morrall of his fignes and tokens.

Lue. I pray thee moralize them,

Biond. Then thus : Bapriffa is fale talking with the deceining Father of a decentfull fonne.

Luc. And what of him?

Biond. His daughter is to be brought by you to the Supper.

Lur. And then.

Bis. The old Prieft at Szint Luker Church is at your command at all houres.

Luc. And what or all this.

Bion I cannot tell, expect they are bufied about a counterfeit affurance: take you affurence of her. (um presidegio ad Impremendum folem, to th' Church sake the Prieft, Clatke, and some sufficient honest witnesses If this benot that you looke for, I have no more to fay, But bid Bianen farewell for euer and a day.

Luc. Hear'A thou Brondella.

Eiond. I cannot tarry: I knew a wench maried in an afternoone as thee went to the Garden for Parfeley to Auffe a Rabit, and formay you fir : and fo adew fir, my Master hath appointed me to goe to Saint Luker to bid the Priest be readie to come against you come with your

Luc. I may and will, if the be to contented: She will be pleas'd, then wherefore should I doubt: Hap what hap may, Ileroundly goe about her: It shall goe hard if Cambio goe without her.

Enter Petruchio, Kata, Horsentie

Come on a Gods name, once more toward our

Good Lord how bright and goodly thines the Moone. Kate. The Moone, the Sunne it is not Moonelight

Per. I say it is the Moone that shines so bright, Kare. I know it is the Sunne that Dines fo bright. Fer. Now by my mothers forme, and ther's my felfe,

Le shall be moone, or starre, or what I list,
Or ere I rourney to your Fathers house
Goe on, and setch our horses backe againe
Euermore crost and crost, nothing but crost
Hors. Say as he saies, or we shall never goe.
Keie, Forward I pray, since we have come so farre.
And be it moone, or sunne, or what you please.
And if you please to call it a rush Candle,
Henceforth I vowert shall be so forme.

Petr. 1 fay it is the Moone. Kate, I know it is the Moone.

Petr. Nay then you lye it is the bleffed Sunne, Kate. Then God be bleff, it in the bleffed fun, But funne it is not, when you fay it is not. And the Moone changes even as your minde: What you will have it nam'd, even that it is, And fo it thall be fo for Katberine.

Hors. Petrochio, goe thy wases, the field is won Petr. Well, forward, forward, thus the bowle should
And not voluckily against the Bias (run,
But soft, Company is comming here

Enter Vincentio

Good morrow gentle Miltris, where away?
Tell me sweete Kare, and tell me truely 100,
Hassthou beheld a fresher Gentlewoman.
Such warre of white and red within her cheekes?
What stars do spangle heaven with such beautie,
As those two eyes become that heavenly face?
Faire lovely Maide, once more good day to thee?
Sweete Kare embrace her for her beauties sake.

Hors. A will make the man mad to make the woman of him.

Kate. Yong budding Virgin, faire, and fresh, & sweet, Whether away, or whether is thy aboade? Happy the Parents of so faire a childe, Happier the man whom fauourable stars. A lots thee for his louely bedfellow.

Petr. Why how now Kare, I hope thou are not mad, This is a man old, wrinckled, faded, withered, And not a Maiden, as thou faith he is.

Kete. Pardon old father my mistaking eiea, That have bin so bedazled with the sunne, That every thing I looke on seemeth groene: Now I percejue thou art a reverent Father. Pardon I pray thee for my mad mistaking.

Petr. Do good old grandfire,& withall make known Which way thou trauelleft, if along with va.

We shall be toyfull of thy companie.

Vin. Faire Str, and you my metry Mistris,
That with your strange encounter much amasse me:
My name is call d Vincentio, my dwelling Pissa,
And bound I em to Padwa, there to visite
A some of mine, which long I have not seene.

Petr. What is his name?

Petr. Happily met, the happier for thy fome:
And now by Law, as well as reverent age,
I may intitle thee my louing father,
The lifter to my wife, this Gentlewoman,
Thy Sonne by this hath married; wonder not,
Nor be not grieved, the is of good effeene,
Her dowrie wealthie, and of worthie birth;
Befide, so qualified, as may beferme
The Spouse of any noble Gentleman:
Let me imbrace with old Fincanie.

And wander we to fee thy boneh fonne,
Who will of thy arruall be full loyoda.

Vine But is this true, or is it else your pleasure.

Like pleasant transitors to breake a left

V pon the companie you ouertake?

Hort, I doe assure thee father so it is

For Come goe along and fee the truth hereof,
For our first merriment hach made thee realous Exercise.

Hor. Well Petrachio, this has put me in heart,

Have ro my Widdow, and if the froward
Theo haft thou taught Horiento to be vintoward. Exis.

Enter Brondello, Lucentro and Branea, Greenes

Biond. Softly and (wifely fir, for the Priest is ready.

Luc. I fire Biondello, but they may chance to neede thee at home, therefore leave vs

Eine.

Biond. Nay faith. He see the Church a your backe, and then come backe to my mistris as soone as I can

Gre. I maruale Cambio comes not all this while.

Emer Petruchio, Kato, Usacentio, Grnrais with Assendants

Petr. Sir heres the doore, this is Lucentus house, My Fathers beares more coward the Matket place, Thither must I and here I leave you sis

Vm. You shall not choose but drinke before you go, I chinke I shall command your welcome here;
And by all likelihood some cheere is coward

Knock

Grim. They re busie within, you were best knocke lowder.

Pedant looker out of the window,

Ped What's he that knockes as he would beat downe
the gate?

Vin. Is Signior Lucentis within fir?

Ped. He's withinfir, but not to be spoken withall, Pine, What if a man bring him a hundred pound or two to make metric withall.

Ped. Keepe your hundred pounds to your felfe, bee shall neede none so long as I live.

Petr. Nay, I told you your some was well beloved in Padua: doe you heare his, to leave frivolous circumstances, 1 pray you tell signor Luceus in that his Father is come from Pifa, and is here at the doore to speake with him

Ped. Thou lieft his Father is come from Padua, and here looking out at the window.

Vin. Art chou his father?

Ped. I fir, so his mother face, if I may believe her.
Petr. Why how now gentleman: why this is flat knawerie to take spon you another mans name.

Pedas. Lay hands on the villaine, I beleeve a meanes tocofen foine bodie in this Citte vinder my countenance.

Emer Brandello.

Bio, I have feene them in the Church together, God fend'em good (hipping: but who is here? mine old Mafter University: now wee are vindone and brough to nothing.

Um. Come hither crackhempe Bion, I hope I may choose Sir.

Vin. Come hither you rogue, what have you for got Bond, Forgot you, no fir: I could not forget you, for I never few you before in all my life.

Vine. What, you notorious villaine, didft thou never fee thy Miftris father, Vincentia?

Bion. What

Bion. What my old worshipfull old marter? yes marie sir see where he lookes out of the window.

Vin. Ift fo indeede. He beates Brondollo.

Bion. Helpe, helpe, here's a mad man will mur-

Pedan. Helpe, sonne, helpe fignior Baptiffa.

Perr. Preethe Kase let's fland alide and fee the end of this controversic.

Enter Pedant with ferwants, Baptift a, Tranio.

Tra. Sir, what are you that offer to beate my fer-HAUL

V me. What am I firmay what are you fir: oh immortall Goddes : oli fine villaine, a filken doubtlet, a veluet hofe, a fearlet cloake, and a coparaine hat : oh I am vadone, I am vadone: while I place the good husband at home, my fonne and my feruant spend all at the vaiuerfitie.

The. How now, what's the matter?

Bapt. What is the man lunaticke?

Tra. Sir, you seeme a sober ancient Gentleman by your habit: but your words thew you a mad man : why fir, what cernes it you, if I weate Pearle and gold: I thank my good Father, I are able to maintaine it.

Vin. Thy father: oh villaine, he is a Saile-maker in Bergamo.

Bep. You mistake fir, you mistake fir, praie what do you thinke is his name?

Vm. His name, as if I knew not his name: I have brought him vp euer fince he was three yeeres old, and his name is Trouto.

Ped. Awaie, awaie mad affe, his name is Lucentio, and be is mine onelie sonne and heire to the Lands of me fig-

Ven. Lucentio: oh he hath murdred his Mafter; laie hold on him I charge you in the Dukes name: oh my fonne, my fonnet tell me thou villaine, where is my lon

Tra. Call forth an officer: Carriethis mad knaue to the laile i father Baprifta, I charge you see that hee be forth comming.

Voic. Carrieme to the Jaile?

Gre. State officer, he shall not go to prison.
Bap. Talke not signiot Gremo: I saie be shall goe to

Gre. Take heede lignior Bapufta, least you be conicatche in this businesse: I dare sweare thus to the right

Ped. Sweare if thou dar'ft.

Gre. Naie, I date not sweare it.

Tran. Then thou wert best saie that I am not La-

Gre. Yes, I know thee to be lignion Lucontie. Bap. Awaie with the dotard, to the Isile with him.

Enter Biondello, Lucentie and Branen. Vin. Thus strangers may be haild and abusd : oh mon-

Bion. Oh we are spoil'd, and yonder he is, denie him, forsweare him, or else we are all vadone.

Exit Biondello, Transo and Pedant as fast as may be. Lor. Pardon weece father Vis. Lines my (weete fonne?

Bian. Pardon deere father.

Bap. How hast shou offended, where is Lacentio?

Lor: Here's Lucaneio, sight sonne to the right Vin-Centie.

That have by marriage made thy daughter mine, While counterfeit supposes bleer'd thine eine.

Gre. Here's packing with a witnesse to deceive vs all.

Vin. Where is that damned vitlaine Transo, That fac'd and braved me in this matter fo?

Bap. Why, tell me is not this my Cambio? Bian. Cambio is chang'd into Lucentio.

Luc. Loue wrought these miracles. Brancas loue Made me exchange my state with Trans,

While he did beate my countenance in the towne,

And happille I have arrived at the last Vato the wished haven of my blisse :

What Trans did, my felfe enforst him to; Then pardon him (weete Father for my fake.

Uin. He sit the villaines nose that would have sent me to the laile.

Bap. But doe you heare fir, haue you married my daughter without asking my good will ?

Vin. Feare not Bapriffa, we will content you, goe to : but I will in to be reveng'd for this villagie.

Bap. And I to found the depth of this knauerie. Exu. Luc. Looke not pale Bianca, thy father will not frown-

Gre. My cake is doug, hbut Ile in among the rest, Out of hope of all, but my share of the feast.

Kars. Husband let's follow, to les the end of this adoc.

Potr. Fitft kiffe me Kato, and we will.

Kare. What in the midft of the ftreete?

Petr. What art thou asham'd of me?

Kate. Mo fir, God forbld, but alham d to kille.

Perr. Why then let's home agame: Come Sirta let's awaic.

Kase. Nay, I will give thee a kille, now prase thee Loue State.

Perr. Is not this well? come my sweete Kase. Better once then never for never to late. Exeant.

Adus Quintus.

Enter Baptista, Vincentio, Gremio, the Pedant, Lacentio, and Branca. Tranio, Biondello Grumio, and Widdow:

The Servingmen with Transo bringing in a Banques.

Lac. At last, though long, our jarring notes agree, And time it is when taging warre is come, To fmile at scapes and perils operblowne: My faire Bianca bid my father welcome, While I with felfesame kindnesse welcome thine: Brother Perrucbio, fifter Kaserma, And thou Hortentio with thy louing Widdow: Feast with the best, and welcome to my house, My Banket is to close our stomakes vp After our great good cheere : praie you fit downe,

For now we fit to that as well as eate.

Peir. Nothing but he and he, and eate and eate. Bap. Padua affords this kindnesse, sonne Petruchio. Petr. Padus affords nothing but what is kinde. Hor For both our takes I would that word were true

Per. Now for my life Hortentio feates his Widow. Wid. Then neuer truft me if I be affeard

Per. You are verie sencible, and yet you misse my (coce)

I meane Horsencio is afeard of you.

Wid. He

Wid. He that is giddle thinks the world turns round.

Petr. Roundlle replied.

Kat. Mistris, how meane you that?

wid. Thus I conceine by him.

Petr. Conceives by me, how likes Horsensu that?

Hor. My Widdow face, thus the conceives her tale

Petr. Verie well mended: kille him for that good Widdow.

Kar. He that is giddle thinkes the world turnes round, I praie you tell me what you meant by that, wid. Your housband being troubled with a shrew, Measures my husbands forrow by his woe .

And now you know my meaning.

Kare. A verie meane meaning.

Wid. Right, I meane you

Kes. And I am meane indeede, respecting you.

Petr. Toher Kate

Hor. To her Widdow.

Petr. A hundred marks, iny Kue does put her down

Hur. That's my office

Petr. Spoke like an Officet: ha to the lad.

Drinkes to Hortent w.

Bap. How likes Gremio thele quicke witted folkes?

Gro. Beleeve me fir, they But together well.

Bian. Head, and but an haftie witted bodie,

Would fay your Head and But were bead and home.

Vin. 1 Mistris Bride, hath that awakened you?

Bian. I, but not frighted me, therefore le fleepe againe. Petr. Nay that you shall not fince you have begun:

Haue at you for a better telt or too.

Bran. Am I your Bird, I meane to fhift my bufh,

And then pursue me as you draw your Bow.

You are welcome all. Petr She hath prevented me, here fignior Trans,

This bird you aim'd at though you hit her not,

Therefore a health to all that shot and mist. Tri. Oh fir, Lucentie flips me like his Gray-hound,

Which runs himselfe, and catches for his Master.

Petr. A good (wift simile, but something currift.
Tra. 'Tis well fir that you hunted for your selfe:

Tis thought your Deere does hold you at a bair.

Sep. Oh, oh Pestuchio, Transa hits you now.

Luc. I thanke thee for that gird good Trano.

Hor. Confesse, confesse, hath he not hit you here?

Perr. A has a little gald me I confesse:

And as the felt did glaunce aware from me.

listen to one it maim'd you too out right.

Bap. Now in good ladnesse sonne Perrucho, I thinke thou hast the veriest shrew of all.

Peir. Well, I fay no : and therefore fir allurance,

Let's each one fend voto his wife,

And he whole wile is most obedient,

To come at first when he doth send for her,

Shall win the wager which we will propofe.

Horr, Content, what s the wager?
Luc. Twentie crownes.

Pere. Twentie crownes.

He venture to much of my Hawke or Hound, But twentie times fo much vpon my Wife.

Luc. A hundred then.

Hor. Content

Peir. A match, 'tis done,

Hor. Who shall begin?

Luc. That will I.

Goe Biendelle, bid your Mistris coine to me,

Ba. Sonne, lle be your halfe, Bianca comes.

Luc. He have no halors He beare it all my felfe.

Exul

Exil

Enter Brondellas

How now, what newes?

Rio. Sir, my Mistris sends you word

That the is bufic, and the cannot come.

Petr, How he s bulie, and the cannot come: is ther an answere?

Gre. I, and a kinde one too:

Praie God fir your wife fend you not a worle.

Perr. I hope better.

Hor. Sirra Bondollo, goe and intreate my wife to come to me forthwith Per. Oh ho, intreste her, nay then thee must needes

Her. I am affraid fir. doe what you can Enter Eundelle.

Yours will not be entreated : Now, where's my wife?

Bion. She faces you have fome goodly left in hand, She will not come: the bids you come to her.

Perr. Worfe and worfe, the will not come a

Oh vilde, intollerable, not to be indur'd;

Sirra Grumio, goe to your Miltris,

Say I command her come to me.

Hor. I know her answere.

Per. What?

Her. She will not.

Peir. The fouler fortune mine, and there an end

Enter Katerina

Bap. Now by my hollidam here comes Katerine.

Kar. What is your will fir, that you fend for me? Pere. Where is your lifter, and Horsenfins wife ?

Kate. They fit conferring by the Parler fire

Peir. Goe fetch them hither, if they denie to come, Swingeme them foundly forth vnto their husbands: Away I fav, and bring them hither ftraight.

Luc. Here is a wonder, if you talke of a wonder.

Wor. And foitis: I wonder what it boads.

Perr. Marrie peace it boads, and loue, and quiet lue,

An swfall rule, and right supremicie:

And to be short, what not, that's sweete and happie.

Bap Now faire befall thee good Petruchie, The waget thou hast won, and I will adda

Voto their loffes twentie thousand crownes,

Another dowrie to another daughter,

For the is chang'd as the had never bin. Peir. Nav. I will win my wager better yet,

And thow more figne of her obedience.

Hernew built verrue and obedience

Enter Kate, Bianca, and Widdow.

See where the comes, and brings your froward Wives As prisoners to het womanlie perswasion Katerine, that Cap of yours becomes you not,

Off with that bable, throw it underfoote. Wid. Lord let me never have a caufe to figh,

Till I be brought to fuch a fillie palle

Bian. Fie what a foolish dutie call you this?

Luc. I would your dutie were as foolish too

The wildome of your dutie faire Bunca

Hath coft me fine hundred crownes fince supper time. Bian. The more foole you for laying on my dutie.

Per. Katherine I charge thee tell these head-Arong women, what dutie they doe owe their Lords and hulbends

Wid. Come,

The Taming of the Shrew.

229

Wid. Come, come, your mocking: we will baue no celling.

Per. Come on I say, and first begin with her.

wid. She shall not. Per. I fay she shall, and first begin with her. Kare. Fie, fie, vnknit that thretaning vnkinde brow. And dare not scornefull glances from those eies, To wound thy Lord, thy King, thy Gouernour. It blots thy beautie, as frosts doebite the Meads, Confounds thy fame, as whirlewinds shake faire budds, And in no fence is meete or amiable. A woman mou'd, is like a fountaine troubled. Muddie, ill feeming, thicke, bereft of beautie, And while it is fo, none fo dry or thirftie Will daigne to fip, or touch one drop of it, Thy husband is thy Lord, thy life, thy keeper, Thy head, thy foueraigne: One that cares for thee, And for thy maintenance. Commits his body To painfull labour, both by fea and land: To watch the night in stormes, the day in cold, Whil'st thou ly'st warme at home, secure and sofe-

And cranes no other tribute at thy hands, But lone, faire lookes, and true obedience; Too little payment for fo great a debt. Such dutie as the subject owes the Prince, Enen such a woman oweth to her husband: And when the is froward, peeuish, sullen, fowre, And not obedient to his honest will, What is the but a foule contending Rebell, And graceleffe Traitor to her louing Lord? I am asham'd that women are so fimple,

To ofter warre, where they should kneele for peace: Or sceke for rule, supremacie, and sway, When they are bound to serue, loue, and obay. Why are our bodies foft, and weake, and smooth. Vnapt to toyle and trouble in the world, But that our loft conditions, and our hares, Should well agree with our externall parts? Come, come, you froward and vnable wormes, My minde hath bin as bigge as one of yours, My heart as great, my reason haplie more, To bandie word for word, and frowne for frowne; But now I fee our Launces are but frawes: Our firength as weake, our weakenesse past compare, That seeming to be most, which we indeed least are. Then vale your stomackes, for it is no boote, And place your hands below your husbands foote: In token of which dutie, if he please, My hand is readie, may it do him cafe.

Per. Why there's a wench: Come on, and kiffe mee

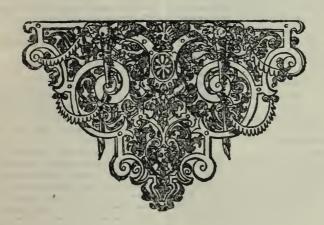

Luc. Well go thy waies olde Lad for thou fash ha't. Vin. Tis a good hearing, when children are toward. Luc. But a harsh hearing, when women are froward, Pet. Come Kate, weee'le to bed,

We three are matried, but you two are sped. Twas I wonne the wager, though you hit the white, And being a winner, God giuz you good night.

Exit Perschio Horten. Now goethy wayes, thou haft tam'd a curft

Luc. Tis a wonder, by your leave, she wil be tam'd so.

FINIS.

ALLS Well, that Ends Well.

Altus primus. Scana Prima.

Encer youg Bertram Count of Koffillion, bu Mether, and Helena, Lord Lafew, all in blacks.

Mother

on delivering my fanne from me, I buries fe-

Rof. And I in going Madam, weep ore my fathers death anew; but I must accord his maieflies command, to whom I am now in Ward, evermore

Laf. You shall find of the King a husband Madame, you fir a father. He that so generally is at all times good, must of necessive hold his vertue to you, whose worthineffe would fitte it vp where it wanted rather then lack it where there is luch abundance.

Mo. What hope is there of his Maiesties amendment? Laf. He hath abandon'd his Phisisions Madam, vnder whose practises he hath persecuted time with hope, and finds no other advantage in the processe, but onely the loofing of hope by time.

Mo. This yong Gentlewoman had a father, O that had, how fad a passage tis, whose skill was almost as great as his honeftie, had it ftretch'd fo far, would have made nature immortall, and death should have play for lacke of worke. Would for the Kings fake hee were liuing, I thinke it would be the death of the Kings disease.

Laf. How call'd you the man you speake of Madam? Mo. He was famous fir in his profession, and it was his great right to be fo . Gerard de Nurbon.

Laf. He was excellent indeed Madam, the King very latelie spoke of him admiringly, and mourningly : hee was skilfull enough to have liu'd still f knowledge could oe fer vp against mortallitie.

Rof. What is it (iny good Lord) the King languishes

Laf. A Fistula my Lord

Rof Lheard not of it before

Laf. I would it were not notorious. Was this Genilewoman the Daughter of Gerard de Narbon ?

Mo. His fole childe my Lord, and bequeathed to my overlooking. I have those hopes of her good, that her education promiles her dispositions shee inherits, which makes faire gifts fatter: for where an vincleane mind carries vertuous qualities, there commendations go with pitty, they are vertues and traitors too; in her they are the bertet for their simplenesse; the deriues her honestie, and archeeves her goodneffe.

Lafew, Your commendations Madam get from her (cares

Mo. Tis the best brine a Maiden can season her praise in. The remembrance of her father neuer approches her heart, but the titrany of her forrowes takes all livelihood from her cheeke. No more of this Helena, go too, no more least it be rather thought you affect a fortow, then to have Hell I doe affect a forrow indeed, but I have it too Lef. Moderate lamentation is the right of the dead, excelline greefe the enemie to the living.

Mo. If the living be enemic to the greefe, the excelle makes it soone morta!!

Rof. Maddam I desire your holie wishes Las. How understand we that?

Mo. Be thou bleft Bertrame, and succeed thy father in manners as in shape : thy blood and vertue Contend for Empire in thee, and thy goodnesse Share with thy birth-right. Loneall, truft a few, Doe wrong to none: be able for thine enemie Rather in power then vie: and keepe thy triend Vnder thy owne lifes key. Be checke for filence, But never tax'd for speech. What heaven more wil. That thee may furnish, and my prayers plucke downe, Fall on thy head. Farwell my Lord. Tis an vinfeafon'd Courtier, good my Lord Aduise him.

Lef. He cannot want the best That (hall attend his love

Mo. Heaven bleffe him : Farwell Bertram

Ro. The best wishes that can be forg d in your thoghts be feruants to you : be comfortable to my mother, your Miltris, and make much of her.

Laf. Farewell prettie Lady, you must hold the credit of your father.

Hell. O were that all, I thinke not on my father, And thefe great teares grace his remembrance more Then those I shed for him. What was be like? I have forgott him. My imagination Carries no fauour in't but Bertrams. I am undone, there is no living, none, If Bertram be sway. Twere all one, That I should love a bright particuler farre, And think to wed it, he is so about me In his bright radience and colaterall light,

Mult

Must I be comforted, not in his sphere; Th'ambition in my loue thus plaguer it felfe. The hind that would be mated by the Lion Muft die for loue 'Twas prettie, though a plague To fee him cuerie houre to fit and draw His arched browes, his hawking eie, his curles In our hearts table: heart too capeable Of everie line and tricke of his fweet fauour. But now he's gone, and my idolatrous fancie Must lanctifie his Reliques. Who comes heerer

Enter Parrolles.

One that goes with him: I love him for his lake, And yet I know him a notorious Liat, Thinke him a great way foole, folie a coward, Yer thefe fixt evils fit fo fit in him. That they take place, when Vertues fleely bones Lookes bleake ith cold wind: withall full ofte we fee Cold wisedome waighting on superfluous sollie.

Par. Saue you faire Queene.

Hel And you Monarch. Pa. No.

HeL And no.

Par. Are you meditating on virginitie?

Hel. I: you have some staine of souldier in you: Let mee aske you a question. Man is enemie to virginitie. how may we barracado it against him?

Par. Keepe him out.

Hel. But he affailes, and our virginitie though valiant, in the defence yet is weak I visfold to vs forme warlike refistance.

Par. There is none Man letting downe before you, will undermine you, and blow you vp.

Hel. Bleffe our poore Virginity from underminers and blowers up. Is there no Military policy how Vir-gins might blow vp men?

Per. Virginity beeing blowne downe, Man will quicklier be blowne vp : marry in blowing him downe againe, with the breach your felues made, you lofe your Citty. It is not politicke, in the Common-wealth of Nature, to preserve virginity. Losse of Virginitie, is eationall encrease, and there was neuer Virgin goe, till virginitie was first lost. That you were made of, is mettall tomake Virgins. Virginitie, by beeing once loft, may be ren times found : by being euer kept, it is ever loft: 'tis too cold a companion: Away with't.

Hel I will stand for's a little, though therefore I die

Per. There's little can bee faide in't, 'tis against the rule of Nature. To speake on the part of virginitie, is to accuse your Mothers; which is most infallible difobedience. He that hangs himselfe is a Virgin : Virginitie murthert it selfe, and should be buried in highwayes out of all sanctified limit, as a desperate Offendrelle againft Nature. Vitginitie breedes mites, much like a Cheefe, confumes it selfe to the very payring, and so dies with feeding his owne stomacke. Besides, Virgini. tie is pecuish, proud, ydle, made of selfc-love, which is the most inhibited sinne in the Cannon. Keepe it not, you cannot choose but loose by t. Out with to within ten yeare it will make it selfe two, which is a goodly increase, and the principall it selfe not much the worse. Away with't.

Hel. How might one do fit, to loofe it to her owne liking?

Par. Let mee see. Marry ill, to like him that ne're it likes. 'Tis a commodity wil lose the glosse with lying: The longer kept, the lesse worth: Off with's while 'is vendible. Answer the time of request, Virginitic like an olde Courtier, weares her cap out of fashion, richly futed, but valuteable, iust like the brooch & the tooth. pick, which were not now : your Date is better in your Pye and your Portedge, then in your cheeke : and your virginity, your old virginity, is like one of our French wither'd peares, it lookes ill, it eater drily, marry tisa wither'd peare : it was formerly better, marry yet tis a wither'd peare: Will you any thing with it?

Het. Not my virginity yet?

There shall your Master have a thousand loves, A Mother, and a Mistreffe, and a friend, A Phenia, Captaine, and an enemy, A guide, a Goddeffe, and a Soueraigne, A Counsellor a Traitorelle, and a Deare : His humble ambition, proud humility: His sarring, concord and his discord, dulcets His faith, his sweet disafter : with a world Of pretty fond adoptious christendomes That blinking Cupid goffips Now shall he: I know not what he shall, God fend him well, The Courts a learning place, and he is one.

Par. What one ifaith?

Hel. That I wish well, tis pitty.

Par. What's pirty?

Hel. That wishing well had not a body in't, Which might be felt, that we the poorer borne, Whole baler starres do shur vs vp in wishes, Might with effects of them follow our friends. And thew what wee slone must thinke, which neves Returnes vs thankes.

Enter Page.

Pag. Monfieur Parrolles, My Lord cals for you.

Par. Little Hellen farewell, if I can remember thee, I will thinke of thee at Court

Hel Monsieur Parolles, you were bome under s charitable starre.

Par. Vnder Mars I.

Hel. I especially thinks, under Mers,

Par Why under Mari :

Hel. The warres hath lo kept you under, that you must needes be borne vader Mor.

Par. When he was predominant,
Hel. When he was retrograde I thinke rather.

Par. Why thinke you fo?

Hel. You go so much backward when you fight.

Par. That's for advantage.

Hel So is running away, When feare propoles the lafetie :

But the composition that your valour and feare makes in you, is a vertue of a good wing, and I like the weare well.

Paroll I am lo full of bulinelles, I cannot solwere thee acutely: I will returne perfect Courtier, in the which my instruction shall serve to naturalize thee, fo thou will be capeable of a Courtiers councell, and voderstand what advice shall thrust vppon thee, else thou diest in thine vnthankfulnes, and thine ignorance makes thee away, farewell: When thou haft leyfure, fay thy praiets: when thou haft none, remember thy Friends:

Get thee a good husband, and vie him as he vies thee i

Hel Our romedies oft in our felues do lye,
Which we aferibe to beauen: the fated skye
Giues vs free feope, onely dorn backward poll
Our flow defignes, when we out felues are dull.
What power is it, which mounts my loue fo hye,
That makes me fee, and cannot feede mine eye?
The mightieft space in fortune, Nature brings
To toyne like, likes; and kiffe like native chings.
Impossible be strange attempts to those
That weigh their paines to sence, and do suppose
What hath beene, cannot be. Who ever strove
To shew her merit, that did misse her love?
(The Kingt disease) my protess may deceive me,
But my intents are fixt, and will not leave me.

Floursh Corrett.

Enter the King of France with Letters, and dinors Accordance.

King. The Planemines and Senars are by th'eares, Haue fought with equal fortune, and continue A brauing warre.

1 Lo G. Sotis reported fie.

Ring. Nay to most credible, we heere receive it, A certaintie vouch'd from our Cosin Auftra, With caution, that the Florentine will move vs. For speedie ayde: wheeten our deerest friend Prejudicates the businesse, and would seeme To have vs make deniall.

1.Lo.G His love and wifedome Approved to to your MaicRy, may pleade For amplest credence.

King. He hath arm dour answer,
And Florence is deni'de before he comes:
Yet for our Gentiemen that meane to see
The Tuscan leruice, freely haue they leaue
To stand on either part.

a. Lo. E. It well may ferue A nurflerie to our Gentrie, who are ficke For breathing, and exploit.

King. What's he comes heere.

Enter Bertram, Lafen, and Parolles.

1 Lor. G. It is the Count Robert iny good Lord, Yong Bertram.

King. Youth, thou bear if thy Fathers face, Franke Nature rather curious then in half Hath well composed thee: Thy Fathers morall parts Maift thou inherit too: Welcome to Paru

Ber. My thankes and dutie are your Maieflies;
Km. I would I had that corporall foundinessenow,
As when thy father, and my selfe, in friendship
First tride our fouldiership: he did looke farre
Into the service of the time, and was Discipled of the brauest. He lasted long,
But on vs both did haggish Age steale on,
And wore vs out of act: It much repaires me.
To talke of your good father; in his youth
He had the wit, which I can well observe
To day in our yong Lords; but they may lest
Till their owne scome returne to them vanoted
Ere they can hide their leuitie in honour:
So like a Courtier, contempt nor bitternesse

Were in his pride, or sharpnesse; if they were, His equall had awak'd them, and his honour Clocke to it selfe, knew the true minute when Exception bid him speake; and at this time His tonique obey d his hand. Who were below him, He vi'd as creatures of another place, Aud bow'd his eminent top to their low rankes Making them proud of his humilitie, In their poore praise he humbled: Such a man Might be a copic to these yonger times; Which followed well, would demonstrate them now But goers backward

Brr. His good remembrance fir Lies richer in your thoughts, then on his combes So in approofe lives not his Epicaph,

As in your royall speech

King. Would I were with him he would alwaies (27), (Me thinkes I heare him now) his plaufiue words He scatter'd not in eares, but grafted them. To grow there and to beare: Let me not liue, This his good melancholly oft began. On the Catastrophe and heele of pastime. When it was out: Let me not liue (quoth hee). After my flame lackes oyle, to be the snuffe. Of yonger spirits, whose apprehensive senses. All but new things distaine; whose sudgements are. Meere fathers of their garments: whose constraines. Expire before their fashions. this lie wish'd Laster him, do after him wish too:

Since I nor was not home can bring home, I quickly were dissolved from my hive. To give some Labourers roome.

L.s.E. You'r loued Sir,
They that least lend it you, shall lacke you first

Kin. I fill a place I know't thow long ift Count Since the Phylitian at your fathers died? He was much fam'd.

Ber. Some his moneths fince my Lord.

Kin. If he were huing, I would try him yet.

Lend me an arme: the reft have wome me out.

With feuerall applications. Nature and fickneffe

Debate it at their leifure. Welcome Count,

My fonne's no deeter.

Ber. Thanke your Maiefly.

Exit

Flourist

Enter Counteffe, Steward, and Clowns

Come. I will now heare, what fay you of this gende-woman.

Sie. Maddam the care I have had to even your conters, I with might be found in the Kalender of my past endeuours, for then we wound our Modestie, and make foule the clearness of our deservings, when of our selver we publish them.

Com. What doe's this knaue heere? Get you gone firra: the complaints I have heard of you I do not all beleave, 'tis my flownesse that I doe not. For I know you lacke not folly to commut them, & have abilitie enough to make such knaueries yours.

Cls. Tis not vaknown to you Madam, I am a poore fellow.

Cour. Well fit.

Ch. No maddam,

The not so well that I am poore, though manie

of

of the rich are damn'd, but if I may have your Ladiships good will to goe to the world, Isbell the woman and w will doe as we may.

Coun. Wilt thou noedes be a begger?

Clo. I doebeg your good will in this case.

clo. In libeli case and mine owne : service is no hetltage, and I thinke I shall never have the bleffing of God, till I have issue a my bodie : for they say barnes are blef-

Con. Tell me thy resion why thou wilt marrie? Clo. My poore bodie Madam requires it, I am driven onby the flesh, and hee must needes goe that the divell drives.

Con. Is this all your worships reason?

Clo. Faith Madam I have other holie reasons, such as

Con. May the world know them?

Clo. I have beene Madam a wicked creature, as you and all flesh and blood are, and indeede I doe marrie that

Con. Thy marriage fooner then thy wickednesse Clo. lamout a friends Madam, and I hope to have friends for my wives lake.

Cou. Such friends are thine enemies knaue,

Clo. Y'are shallow Madam in great friends, for the knaues come to doe that for me which I am a wearie of: he that eres my Land, spares my teame, and gives mee leave to Inne the crop. if I be his cuckold hee's my drudge; he that comforts my wife, is the cherifhet of my flesh and blood; hee that cherishes my flesh and blood, love my flesh and blood; he that loves my flesh and blood is my friend: erge, he that kiffes my wife is my friend : if men could be contented to be what they are, there were no feate in marriage, for yong Charbon the Puritan, and old Porfam the Papist, how somere their hearts are seuer'd in Religion, their heads are both one, they may toule horns together like any Deare i'th Herd.
Con. Wilt thou cuer be a foule mouth'd and calumnious knaue?

Clo. A Prophet I Madam, and I speake the truth the next waie, for I the Ballad will repeate, which men full true shall finde, your marriage comes by destine, your Cuckow lings by kinde.

Con. Get you gone fir, lle talke with you more snon. Srew. May It please you Madain, that hee bid Helen come to you, of her I am to fpeake.

Con. Sires tell my gentlewoman I would speake with her, Hellen I meane.

Clo. Was this faire foce the cause, quoth she, Why the Grecians facked Troy, Pond done, done, fond was this King Priams 109, With that the lighed as the flood, bu And gave this fentence then, smong nine bad if one be good, among nine bad if one be good, there's yet one good in ten.

Com What, one good in tenne? you corrupt the fong firra.

Clo. One good woman in ten Madam, which is a purifying ath' fong: would God would ferue the world fo all the yeere, weed finde no fault with the tithe woman if I were the Parlon, one in ten quoth of and wee might haue a good woman borne but ore euerie blazing flarre, or at an earthquake, 'twould mend the Lotteriewell, a man may draw his heart out ere a plucke one.
Com. Youle begone fir knaue, and doe as I command

Clo. That man should be at womans command, and yet no hurt done, though honestie be no Puritan, yet it will doe no hurt, it will weare the Surplis of humilitie ouer the blacke-Gowne of a bigge beart : I am going forfooth, the businesseis for Helm to come hither.

Cow. Well now.

Siew. I know Madem you love your Gentlewoman intitely.

Con. Faith I doe : her Father bequeath'd her to mee, and the her felfe without other advantage, may lawfullie make title to as much love as thee findes, there is more owing her their is paid, and more thall be paid her then fheele demand.

Stew. Madam, I was verie late more neere her ihen I thinke shee wisht mee, slone shee was, and did communicate to her selfe her owne words to her owne eares, sheethought, I dare vowe for her, they toucht not anie stranger sence, her matter was, shee loued your Sonne; Fortune thee faid was no goddefle, that had put fuch difference betwint their two estates: Loue no god, that would not extend his might onesle, where qualities were levell, Queene of Virgins, that would suffer her poore Knight surpris'd without refeure in the first assault or ransome afterward: This shee deliver'd in the most bitter touch of forrow that ere I heard Virgin exclaime in, which I held my dutie speedily to acquaint you withall, fithence in the loffe that may happen, it concernes you fomething

Com. You have discharg'd this honestlie, keepe it to your felfe, manie likelihoods inform'd mee of this before, which hung so tottring in the ballance, that I could neither beleeve nor missoubt; praie you leaue mee, stall this in your bosome, and I thanke you for your honest care: I will speake with you further anon, Exit Storard

Enter Hellen.

Old. Con. Euen fo it was with me when I was yougt If ever vve are natures, these are ours, this thorne Doth to out Rose of youth righlie belong Our bloud to vs, this to our blood is borne. It is the show, and seale of natures truth. Where loves strong passion is impress in youth, By our remembrances of daies forgon, Such were our faults, or then we thought them none, Her eie is ficke on't, I observe her now.

Hell. What is your pleasure Madam? Ol.Con. You know Heller I am a mother to you. Hell. Mine honorable Mistrle

Ol. Con. Nay a mother, why not a mother? when I fed a mother

Me thought you faw a ferpent, what's in mother, That you flare at it? I fay I am your mother, And put you in the Catalogue of those That were enwombed mine, 'tis often feene Adoption striues with nature, and choise breedes A natiue flip to va from forraine feedes: You nere oppress me with a mothers groane, Yet I exprede to you a mothers care, (Gods mercie maiden) dos it curd thy blood To fay I am thy mother? what's the matter, That this diftempered meffenger of wet?

The

ne manie colour d liss rounds thine eye? Why, that you are my daughter !

Hell. That I am not.

Old. Cox. I fay I am your Mother. Hell Pardon Madam.

The Count Rofellon cannot be my brother am from hunible he from honored name No note vpon niy Parents, her all noble, My Mafter, my deere Lordheis and 1 His feruant liue, and will his vaffall die i He must not be my brother

Ol. Com. Nor I your Mother.
Hell. You are my mother Madam, would you were So that my Lord your tonne were not my brother, Indeede my mother, or were you both our mothers, I cate no more for, then I dot for heaven. So I were not ble fifter, cont no other, But I your daughter, he must be my brother. Old Con Yes Hellen, yournight be my daughter in law, God shield you meane is not, daughter and mother So Riiue voon your pulle; what pale agen? My feare hath carche your fondnesse! now I fee The miffrie of your loveline Se, and finde Your falt reares head, now to all fence tri groffe. You love my fonne, invention is afham'd Against the proclamation of thy passion To fay thou dooft not: therefore tell me true, Buttell methen 'tis fo, for looke, thy cheekes Confesse it 'ton tooth to th'other, and thine eies See it fo grofely showne in thy behaviours, That in their kinde they speake it, onely sinne And hellish obstinacie tye thy tongue That truth (hould be fulpetted, fpeake, ift fo? If it be fo, you have wound a goodly clewe : If it be not, forfweate't how ere I charge thee, As heaven shall worke in me for thine availe To tell me truelie.

Hell. Good Madam pardon me, Com Do you love my Sonne? Hell. Your pardon noble Mifters Cou. Loue you my Sonne?

Hell. Doenot you loue him Madam?

Con. Goenot about; niy love hath in ca bond Whereof the world rakes note: Come, come, disclose. The state of your affection, for your passions Haue to the full appeach'd.

Hell Then I confesse

Here on my knee, before high heaven and you, That before you, and next vnto high heaven, I love your Sonne:

My friends were poore but honest, fo's my loue i Be not uffended, for it hutts not him That he is lou'd of me ; I follow him not By any token of prelomptuous fuite, Nor would I have him, till I doe deferue him, Yet neuer know how that defert (hould be : I know I love in vaine, frive against hope : Yet in this capitous, and internible Sive. I ffull poure in the waters of ipy loue And lacke not to loofe fill; thus Indian like Religious in mine error, I adore The Sunne that lookes upon his worthipper. But knowes of him no more. My deereft Madam, Let not your have incounter with my loue, For louing where you doe; but if your felfe, Whole aged honor cires a verruous youth, Didever, in so true a flame of liking, Wish chaffly, and love dearely, that your Dian Was both her feife and love, O then give pittie To her whose state is such schaceannoi choose But lend and give where the is fure to loofe; That feeker not to finde that, het fearch implies, But riddle like, lines (weerety where the dies.

Con Had you not lately an intent, speake truely, Togotto Peru?

Hell Madam I had.

Cen Wherefore'tell erne.

Hell. I will tell truth by grace it felfe I fweate You know my Fatherlest me some prescriptions Of rare and prou'd effects, fuch as his reading And manifelt experience, had collected For generall sousiangnue, and that he wil done In heedefull'it referuation to bestow them, As notes, whose faculties inclusive were, More then they were in note: Amongs the reft, There is a temedie, approu'd, let downe, To cure the desperate languishings whereof The King is render'd loft.

Con This was your motive for Para, was is, speake?

Hell My Lord, your sonne, made me to think of this; Elle Para, and the medicine, and the King, Had from the convertation of my thoughts, Happily beene absent then.

Com Butthinke you Hiller, If you should tender your supposed aide, He would receive it? He and his Philitions Are of a minde, he, that they cannot helpe him : They, that they cannot helpe, how shall they credit A poore valearned Virgin, when the Schooles Embowel'd of their doctrine, have left off The danger cont felfe.

Hell. There's Comething in't More then my Fathers skill, which was the great A Of his profession, that his good receipt, Shall for my legacie be fanctified Byth luckiest stars in heaven, and would your honor But give me leave to trie lucceffe, l'de ventaie The well loft life of mine, on his Graces cure, By fuch a day, an houre.

Con. Doo'll thou beleeve 1? Hell. I Madam knowingly.

Con Why Hellen thou halt have my leave and love. Meanes and attendants, and my louing greetings To those of mine in Court, He thave at home And prace Gods bleffing into thy attempt Begon to morrow, and be fure of this, What I can helpe thee co, thou fhalt not miffe Exeura.

Adus Secundus.

Enter the King with diners jong Lords , taking lease for the Florentine warre : Count, Roffe, and Parrolles, Florish Corners.

Kmg. Farewell yong Lords, these warlike principles Doe not throw from you, and you my Lords farewell. Share the aduice betwixt you, if both gaine, all The guift doth freich it felfe as tis receiu'd, And is enoughfor both

Lord G. Tis our hope fit,

Afret

After well entred fouldiers, to returne

And finde your grace in health. King. No, no, it cannot be; and yet my heart Will not confesse he owes the mallady That doth my life befrege : farwell young Lords, Whether I live or die, be you the fonnes Of worthy French men a let higher Italy (Those bated that inherit but the fall Of the last Monarchy) see that you come Not to wooe honour, but to wedit, when The brauest questant shrinkes : finde what you freke,

That fame may cry you loud: I fay farewell.

L.G. Health at your bidding ferue your Maiefly. King. Those girles of Italy, take heed of them, They fay our French lacke language to deny If they demand : beware of being Captines

Before you ferue.

Bo. Our hearts receive your warnings. King. Farewell, come hether to me. 1. Lo. C. Oh my fweet Lordy you wil flay belind vs. Par. 'Tis not his fault the fpark 2. Lo. E. Oh'tis braue warre

Parr. Most admirable, I have seene those warres. Rossill. I am commanded here, and kepta coyle wish,

Too young, and the next yeere, and 'tis too early. Par. And thy minde frand too't boy, Steale away brauely.

Roffil. I shal flay here the for-horse to a smocke, Creeking my shooes on the plaine Masonry, Till honour be bought vp, and no fword worne But one to dance with: by heaven, Tle fteale away.

1. La.G. There's honour in the theft.

Par. Commit it Count.

2.Lo.E. I am your accessary, and so farewell. Ref. I grow to you, & our parting is a tortur'd body. 1. La.G. Farewil Captaine.

2.Lo.E. Sweet Mounfier Parolles.

Parr. Noble Heroes; my sword and yours are kinne. good sparkes and lustrous, a word good mettals. You stall finde in the Regiment of the Spinil, one Captaine Spurro his ficatrice, with an Embleme of warre heere on his finister cheeke; it was this very sword entrench'd it : fay to him I live, and observe his reports for me, Lo.G. We shall noble Captaine.

Parr. Mars doate on you for his nouices, what will ye doe?

Roff. Stay the King. Parr. Vie a more spaclous ceremonie to the Noble Lords, you haue restrain'd your selse within the List of too cold an adieu : be more expressive to them; for they weare themselves in the cap of the time, there do muster true gate; eat, speake, and move under the influence of the most receiv'd starre, and though the deuill leade the measure, such are to be followed: after them, and take a more dilaced farewell, Roff. And I will doe fo. Par. Worthy fellowes, and like to prooue most finewie fword-man.

Enser Lafew.

L.Laf. Pardon my Lord for mee and for my lidings (pardon, King. He fee thee to fland vp. L. Laf. Then heres a man stands that has brought his I would you had kneel'd my Lord to aske me mercy, And that at my bidding you could fo fland vp. King. I would I had, fo I had broke thy pare

And askt thee mercy for't.

Laf. Goodfeith s-croffe, but my good Lord 'tis thus, Will you be cur'd of your infirmitie?

King. No.
Lof. O will you earno grapes my royall foxe? Yes but you will, my noble grapes, and if My royall foxe could reach them: I have feen'a medicine That's able to breath life into a stone, Quicken a rocke, and make you dance Canari With sprightly fire and motion, whose simple touch Is powerfull to arayfe King Pippen, nay To give great Charlemaine a pen in's hand And write to her a loue-line.

King. What her is this? Laf. Why doctor the: my Lord, there's one arriv'd, Hyou will fee her: now by my faith and honour, If feriously I may conusy my thoughts In this my light deliuerance, I have spoke With one, that in her fexe, her yeetes, profession, Wisedome and constancy, hath amaz'd mee more Then I dare blame my weakenesse: will you see her? For that is her demand, and know her bufineffe? That done, laugh well at me.

King. Now good Lafen, Bring in the admiration, that we with thee May spend out wonder too, or take off thine By wondring how thou took flit.

Laf. Nay, Ile fit you, And not be all day neither.

King. Thus he his special nothing ever prologues. Lef. Nay, come your wates.

Enter Hellen.

King. This haste hath wings indeed. Laf. Nay, come your waies, This is his Maiestie, say your minde to him, A Traitor you doe looke like, but fuch traitor His Maiesty seldome seares, I am Creffede Vnele, That dare leave two together, far you well.

King. Now faire one, do's your busines follow vs?
Hel. I my good Lord.
Gerard de Narbon was my father,

In what he did professe, well found.

King. I knewhim.
Hel. The rather will I space my praises towards him, Knowing him is enough: on's bed of death, Many recelts he gave me, chieflie one, Which as the dearestiffue of his practice And of his olde experience, th'onlie darling, He bad me fore vp, as a triple eye, Safer then mine owne two: more deare I haue fo, And hearing your high Maiestie is toucht With that malignant cause, wherein the honour Of my deare fathers gift, flands cheefe in power, I come to tender it, and my appliance, With all bound humbleneffe

King. Wethanke you maiden, But may not be so credulous of cure, When our most learned Doctors leave vs, and The congregated Colledge have concluded, That labouring Art can never ranfome nature From her inaydible effate: I say we must not So staine our judgement, or corrupt our hope, To profitute our paft-cure malladie To empericks, or to diffeuer fo Our great selfe and our credit, to efteeme A sencelesse helpe, when helpe past sence we deeme.

Hell. My ducie then shall pay me for my paines : I will no more enforce mine office on you, Humbly intreating from your royall thoughts, A modest one to beare me backe againe.

King. I cannot giue thee leffe to be cal'd gretefull: Thou thoughtft to helpe me, and fuch thankes I give, As one neere death to those that with him live: But what at full I know, thou knowst no part,

I knowing all my perill, thou no Art.

Hell. What I can doe, can doe no hurce a try, Since you feevp your rest gainst remedie : He that of greatest worker is finisher, Oft does them by the weakest minister : So holy Writ, in babes hath judgement showne, When Judges have bin babes; great flouds have flowne From simple sources : and great Sess have dried When Miracles have by the great's beene denied. Oft expectation failes, and most oft there Where most it promiles: and oft it hits, Where hope is coldeft, and despaire most shifts.

King. I must not heare thee, fare thee welkind maide Thy paines not vs'd, must by thy selfe be paid, Proffers not tooke, respethanks for their reward.

Hel. Inspired Merit so by breath is bard, It is not fo with him that all things knowes As 'tis with vs, that square our guesse by showess But most it is presuniption in vs, when The help of heaven we count the act of men. Deare fir, to my endeauors giue confent, Ofhesuen, not me, make an experiment. I am not an Impostrue, that proclaime My felfe against the levill of mine sime, But know I thinke, and thinke I know most fure, My Art is not past power, not you past cute King. Art thou lo confident? Within what space

Hop fi thou my cure?

Hel. The greatest grace lending grace, Ere twice the horses of the sume shall bring Their fiery corcher his diurnall ting, Ere twice in murke and occidentall dampe Moist Heferse hath quench'd her sleepy Lampes Or foure and twenty times the Pylots glaffe
Hath told the thecuish minutes, how they passe: What is infirme, from your found parts shall flie, Health shall live free, and sickenelle freely dye.

King. Vpon thy certainty and confidence,

What dar'ft thou venter?

Hell Taxe of impudence, A strumpets boldnesse, a divulged shame Traduced by odious ballads: my maidens name Seard otherwise, ne worse of worst extended With vildest totture, let my life be ended.

Win. Methinks in thee some blessed spirit doth speak His powerfull found, within an organ weake: And what impossibility would slay In common sence, sence saucs another way : Thy life is deere, for all that life can rate Worth name of life, in thee hath estimate. Youth, beauty, wifedome, courage, all That happines and prime, can happy calls Thou this to hazard, needs must intimate Skill infinite, or monftrous desperare, Sweet practifier, thy Phylicke I will try, That ministers thine owne death if I die,

Hel. If I breake time, or flinch in property Of what Ispoke, unpittied let me die,

And well deferu'd, not helping, death's my fee, But if I helpe, what doe you promule me.

Kin. Make thy demand.

Hel. But will you make it even?

Kin. I by my Sceptes, and my hopes of helpe.

Hel. Then that thou give me with thy kingly hand What husband in thy power I will command: Exempted be from me the arrogance To choose from forth the royall bloud of France, My low and humble name to propagate With any branch or image of thy flate : Bot fuch a one thy vallall, whom I know

Is free for me to aske, hee to bestow Km. Heere is my hand, the premises obsers'd, Thy will by my performance shall be serv'd: So make the choice of thy owne time, for I Thy refolv'd Patient, on thee still relye 1 More should I question thee, and more I must, Though more to know, could not be more to truft: From whence thou cam'ft, how tended on but reft Vnquestion'd welcome, and vadoubted blest. Glue me some helpe heere hos, if thou proceed, As high as word, my deed shall match thy deed

Florib.

Exit.

Enter Counteffe and Clowne.

Lady. Come on fir, I shall now pur you to the height of your breeding.

Clown. I will show my felse highly fed, and lowly taught, I know my businesse is but to the Court.

Lady. To the Court, why what placemake you speciall, when you put off that with fuch concempt, but to the Court?

Cla. Truly Madam, if God have lent a man any manners, hee may easilie put it off at Court : hee that cannot make a legge, put off 's cap, kisse his hand, and say bothing, has neither legge, hands, lippe, nor cap; and indeed such a sellow, to say precisely, were not for the Court, but for me, I have an answere will serve all men.

Lady. Marry that's a bountifull answere that fits all questions.

(To. It is like a Barbers chaire that fits all buttockes, the pin buttocke, the quatch-buttocke, the brawn buttocke, or any buttocke.

Lady. Will your answere serve fit to all questions? Clo. As fit as ten groats is for the hand of an Atturney, as your French Crowne for your taffety punke, as Tior ruth for Toma fore-finger, as a pancake for Shrouewelday, a Morris for May-day, as the naile to his hole, the Cuckold to his home, as a foolding queane to a wrangling knaue, as the Nuns lip to the Friers mouth, nay as the pudding to his skin.

Lady. Have you, I say, an answere of such simesse for all questions?

Clo. From below your Dake, to beneath your Constable, it will fit any question.

Lady. It must be an answere of most monthrous fize, that muft fit all demands.

Clo. But a trifle neither in good faith, if the learned should speake truth of it : heere it is, and all that belongs to't. Aske mee if I am a Courtier, It shall doe you no harme to learne.

Lady. To be young against five could : I will bee 2 foole in question, hoping to bee the wifer by your an-

Lady.

La. I pray you fir, are you a Courtier?

Clo. O Lord ile theres a simple putting off more, more, a hundred of them.

La. Sir I am a poore freind of yours, that loves you.
Clo. O Lord fir, thicke, thicke, fpare not me.

La. I thinke fir, you can eate none of this homely meate.

Clo. O Lord fir; nay put me too't, I warrant you.
La. You were lately whipt fir as I thinke
Clo. O Lord fit, spare not me.

La. Doc you crie O Lord fir at your whipping, and fpare nor me? Indeed your O Lord fir, is very equent to your whipping: you would answere very well to a whipping if you were but bound too't.

Clo. Increhad worse lucke in my life in my O Lord fir: I feethings may ferue long, but not ferue euer.

La. I play the noble hulwife with the time, to enterraine it so merrily with a foole.

Clo. O Lord hr, why there't ferues well agen La. And end fir to your bufineffe: glue Hellenthis, And vrge her to a prefentantwer backe, Commend me to my kinfmen, and my fonne,

This is not much .

Clo. Not much commendation to them. La Normuch imployement for you, you ender-

Co Most fruitfully, Iam there, before my legegs. La. Haft you agen.

Enter Count, Lafew, and Parolles.

Ol. Laf. They say miracles are past, and we have our Philosophicall persons, to make moderne and samiliar things supernaturall and cansclesse. Hence is it, that we make triffes of terrours, enfeoticing our felues into fee-ming knowledge, when we flouid fubrit our felues to an vinknowne feare.

Par. Why tis the rarest argument of wonder, that hath shot out in our latter times,

Rof. And fo 'tis.

Ol Laf. Tobe relinquishe of the Artifts.

Par. So I say both of Galen and Paracelfin. Ol Laf. Of all the learned and authenticke fellowes.

Par. Right fo I fay. Of Laf. That gave him out incureable.

Ol Laf. That gaue him out incureable.
Par. Why there 'tis, so say I too.
Ol. Laf. Not to be help'd.
Par. Right, as 'twere a man affur'd of aOl. Laf. Vincertaine life, and sure death.

Par. Iuft, you fay well : fo would I have faid.

Ol. Laf. I may truly fay, it is a noveltie to the world. Par. It is indeed eif you will have it in the wing, you shall reade it in what do ye call there.

Ol. Laf. A thewing of a heavenly effect in an earthly Actor

Par. That's it, I would have faid, the verie fame

Ol.Laf. Why your Dolphin is not luftier fore mee I speake in respect-

For Nay tis strange, 'cls very straunge, that is the breefe and the tedious of it, and he's of a most facineriou: (pirit, that will not acknowledge it to be the-Ol. Laf. Very hand of heaven. Par. 1, so I fay.

Ol Laf. In a most weake-

Par. And debile minister great power, great trancondence, which should indeede give vs a further vie to be made, then alone the recourry of the king, as to bee Old Laf. Generally thankfull.

Enter King . Hellen , and setendants

Par. I would have faid it, you fay well: heere comes the King.

Ol. Laf. Lustique, as the Dutchman faies : He like & maide the Better whil'ft I have a tooth in my head why he sable to leade her a Carranto

Par. Mor du vinager, is not this Helen? Ol. Laf. Fore God i chinke fo.

King, Goe call before mee all the Lords in Court, Sit my preserver by thy patients side, And with this healthfull hand whose banisht sence Thou hast repeal d, a second time receyus The confirmation of my promis'd guift, Which but attends thy naming.

Enter 3 or 4 Lords.

Faire Maide fend forth thine eye, this youthfull parcell Of Noble Batchellors, stand at my bestowing, Ore whom both Soueraigne power, and fathers voice I hatte to vie; thy franke election make, Thou hast power to choose, and they none to forsake.

Hel. To each of you, one faire and vertuous Mistris;

Fall when loue please, marry to each but one.
Old Laf, I'de give bay curtail, and his furniture My mouth no more were broken then these boyes, And writ as little beard

King. Peruse them well:

Nor one of those, but had a Noble father

She addresses her to a Lord. Hel. Genclemen, heaven hath through me, teftor'd the king to health.

All We understand it, and thanke heauen for you. Hel. I am a funple Maide, and therein wealthie & That I proteft, I fimply am a Maide: Please it your Maiestie, I haue done already : The blother in my cheekes thus whifper mee,

We bluft that thou fhouldft choose, but be refused; Let the white death fit on thy cheeke for euer. Wee'l nere come there againe.

King Make choise and see, Who fluns thy lave, fluns all his love in mee, Hel. Now Dian from thy Altar do I fly, And to imperial love, that God most high Do my fighes ftreame : Sir, wil you beare my fuire?

1. Lo And grant it.

Hel. Thankes fir, all the rest is mute

Ol.I.af. I had rather be in this choife, then throw Ames-ace for my life.

Hel The honor fir that flames in your faire eyes, Before I speake roo threatningly replies : Loue make your fortunes twentie times aboue Her that fo vvilhes, and her humble loue.

2 Lo. No better if you please Hel. My wish receive,

Which great love grant, and fo I take my leave.

Ol. Laf. Do all they denie her? And they were fons of mine, I'de haue them whip d, or I would fend them to'th Turke to make Eunuches of.

Hel Benot afraid that I your hand should take, He never do you wrong for your owne fake: Bleffing vpon your vowes, and in your bed Finde fairer fortune, if you euer wed.

Old Laf. These boyes are boyes of Ice, they'le none

haue

have heere : fure they are baffards to the English, the Frenchnere got em.

La. You are too young, too happie, and too good To make your felfe a fonne out of my blood.

4. Lord. Faire one, I thinke not fo.

Ol. Lord There's one grape yet, I am hire thy father drunke wine. But if thou be'A not an alle, I am a youth of fourteene: I have knowne thee already.

Hel. I dare not fay I cake you, but I gius Me and my feruice, ever whilft I live Into your guiding power : This is the man.

King. Why then young Bertrom take her shee's thy

Ber. My wife my Leiger I shal beleech your highers In such a bufines, give me leave to vie The helpe of mine owne eies.

King. Know'ft thou not Bertram what thee ha's done for mee?

Ber. Yes my good Lord, but never hope to know why I should marrie her.

King. Thou know'll thee ha's rais'd me from my fick-ly bed.

Ber. But followes it my Lord, to bring me downs Must answer for your raising? I knowe her well: Shee had her breeding at my fathers charge: A poore Phylicians daughter my wife? Disdaina

Rather corrupt me euer.

King. Tis onely title thou difdoisft in her, the which I can build up: strange is it that our bloods Of colour, waight, and heat, pour'd all together, Would quite confound distinction: yet stands off In differences fo mightie. If the bee All that it vertuous (faue what thou dillik's) A poore Philitians daughter, thou dillik'ft Of vertue for the name : but doe not fo : From lowest place, whence vertuous things proceed, The place is dignified by th' doers deede. Where great additions [well's, and versue none, It is a dropfied honour Good a lone, Is good without a name? Vilenelle is fo: The propertie by what is is, should go, Not by the title. Shee is young, wife, faire, In thefe, to Nature shee's immediate herre: And these breed honour: that's honours scorne, Which challeages it selfe as honours borne, And is not like the fire : Honours thriue, When rather from our acts we them decine Then our fore-goers : the meere words, a faue Debosh'd on everie combe, on everie graves A lying Trophee, and as oft is dumbe, Where dust, and damn'd oblivion is the Tombe. Of honour'd bones indeed, what should be side? If thou canst like this creature, as a maide, I can create the rest : Vertue, and Ince Is her owne dower: Honour and wealth, from mee, Ber. I cannot loue ber, nor will ftriue to doo't. King Thou wrong'ft thy felfe, if thou fhold'ft ftriue to choose.

Hel. That you are well restor'd my Lord, I'me glad:

Let the reft go

Krag. My Honor's at the flake, which to defeate I must produce my power. Heere, take her hand, Proud Icomfull boy, vnworthie this good gift, That doft in vile misprisson shackle vp My love, and her defert : that can't not dreame, We poizing vain her defective feale,

Shall weigh thee to the beame: That wilt not know. It Is io Vi to plant thine Honour, where We please to have it grow, Checke thy contempe : Obey Our will, which trausiles in thy good: Beleeue not thy distaine, but presentlie Do thine owne fortunes that obedient right Which both thy durie ower, and Our power claimes, Or I will throw thee from my care for ever Into the staggers, and the carelesse laple Of youth and ignorance : both my revenge and bate Looking upon thee, in the name of inflice, Without all termes of pittle. Speake, thine answer

Zer. Pardon my gracious Lord : for I submit My fencie to your eies, when I confider What great creation, and what dole of bonour Flie: where you bid it: I finde that the which less Was in my Nobler thoughts, most bale sis now The praised of the King, who is encobled, Is as twere borne fo.

King. Take her by the hand, And tell her the is thine: to whom? promise A counterpoize : If not to thy effece, A ballance more repleat.

Ber. Itake her hand.

Kin. Good fortune, and the fauour of the King Smile vpon this Contract : whole Ceremonie Shall feeme expedient on the now borne briefe, And be perform'd to night: the folerane Feast Shall more attend upon the coming space, Expecting absent friends. As thou lou'ft her, Thy loue's to me Religious : elfe, do's erre. Exemp Parolles and Lafer floy behind, commen-ting of this wedding.

Laf. Do you heare Monfieur? A word with you. Par. Your pleasure fur.

Lof. Your Lord and Mafter did well to make his recentation.

Par. Recantation: My Lord? my Mafter?

Laf. 1: Isit not a Language I speake? Per. A most harsh one, and not to bee vaderstoode without bloudie succeeding My Master ?

Laf. Are you Companion to the Count Rofilion? Par. To any Count, to all Counts: to what is man. Lef. To what is Counts man: Counts maister is of enother ftile. Par. You are too old fir: Let it stille you, you are oo cld

Laf. I must tell thee sirrah, I write Man: to which title age eannot bring thee.

Par. What I dare too well do, I dare not do. Laf. I did thinke thee for two ordinaries : to bees prettie wife fellow, thou didft make tollerable vent of thy travell, it might palle: yet the learffer and the booperces about thee, did manifoldlie diffwade me from beleeuing thee a vellell of too great a burthen. I have now found thee, when I loofe thee againe, I care not: yet art thou good for nothing but taking vp, and that th' our Scarce worth. P.w. Hadft thou not the priviledge of Antiquity vp-

Lef. Do not plundge thy felfe to farre in anger, leaft thou haften thy triall: which if, I ord have mercie co thee for shen, lo my good window of Lettice fare thet well, thy casement I neede not open, for I look through thee. Give me thy hand.

Par.My Lord, you give me most egregious indignity.

Laf. I with all my heart, and thou art worthy of it.

Par. I have not my Lord deseru'd it.

Laf. Yes good faith, eury dramme of it, and I will not bare thee a scruple.

Par. Well, I shall be wifer.

Laf. Burn as foone as thou can'it, for thou halt to pull at a smacke a'th contrarie. If euer thou bee'ft bound in thy skarfe and beaten, thou shall finde what it is to be proud of thy bondage, I have a defire to holde my acquaintance with thee, or rather my knowledge, that I may fay in the default, he is a man I know.

Par. My Lord you do me most insupportable vertati-

Laf. I would it were hell paines for thy fake, and my poore doing eternall: for doing I am past, as I will by thee, in what motion age will give me leave. Exis.

Par. Well, thou haft a fonne shall take this diffrace off me; scuruy, old, filthy, scuruy Lord: Well, I must be patient, there is no fettering of authority. He beate him (by my life) if I can meete him with any conventence, and he were double and double a Lord. He have no more pittie of his age then I would have of _____ He beate him, and if I could but meet him agea.

Enser Lafery.

Laf. Sirra, your Lord and masters married, there's newes for you : you have a new Mistris.

Par. I most unfainedly befeech your Lordshippe to make some rescruation of your wrongs. He is my good Lord . whom I ferue aboue is my mafter.

Laf. Who? God.

Par. 1 fit.

Laf. The deuill it is, that's thy master. Why dooest thou garter up thy armes a this fashion? Dost make hose of thy fleeues? Do other feruants fo? Thou wert best fet thy lower part where thy nose stands. By mine Honor, if I were but two houres yonger, I'de beate thee: meethink ft thou are a generall offence, and every man shold beate thee: I thinke thou wast created for men to breath themselves vpon thee.

This is hard and undescrued measure my Lord. Laf. Co too fir, you were besten in Italy for picking a kernell out of a Pomgranat, you are a vagabond, and no true traueller: you are more fawcie with Lordes and honourable personages, then the Commission of your birth and vertue gives you Heraldry. You are not worth another word, elie I'de call you knaue. Ileaue you.

Enter Count Rossillion.

Par. Good, very good, it is so then: good, very good, let it be conceal d awhile.

Rof. Vndone, and forfested to cares for euer.

Par. What's the matter (weet-heart?

Rossill. Although before the solemne Priest I have fworne, I will not bed her.
Par. What? what sweet heart?

Rof. O my Parrolles, they have married me: He to the Tufcan warres, and never bed her

Par. France is a dog-hole, and it no more merics, The tread of a mans foot : too'th warres.

Ref. There's letters from my mother: What th'import is, I know not yet.

Per. I that would beknowne: roo'th warrs my boy,

tec'th warrer

He weates his honor in a boxe vnicene, That hugges his kickie wickie heare at honie. Spending his manlie marrow in her armes Which should sustaine the bound and high curues Of Marfes fierie fteed: to other Regions, France is a flable, wee that dwell in't lades, Therefore too'th warre.

Rof. It shall be so, He send her to my house, Acquaint my mother with my hate to her, And wherefore I am fled : Write to the King That which I durst not speake. His present gift Shall furnish me to those Italian fields Where noble fellower finke : Warres Is no frife To the darke house, and the detected wife.

Par. Will this Caprichio hold in thee, art fure?
Rof. Go with me to my chamber, and aduce me. Ile fend her ftraight away : To morrow, He to the wattes, the to her fingle fortow

Par. Why these bals bound, ther's noise in it. Tis hard A youg man maried, is a manthat's mard: Therefore away, and leave her brauely : go, The King ha's done you wrong : but hush'tis for Enter Helena and Clowno.

Hel. My mother greets me kindly, is the well?

(10. She is not well, but yet the has her health, fhe's very merrie, but yet the is not well a but thankes be giuen fne's very well, and wants nothing i'th world : but yet the is not well.

Hel. If the be verie wel, what do's the syle, that the's not veric well?

Clo. Truly the's very well indeed, but for two things

Hel. What two things?

Clo. One, that the's not in heaven, whether God fend her quickly : the other, that the's in earth, from whence God fend her quickly

Enter Parolles.

Par Bleffe you my forsunate Ladie.

Hel. I hope fir I have your good will to have mine owne good fortune.

Par. You lisd my prayers to leade them on, and to keepe them on, have them itill. O my knave, how do's my old Ladie?

Clo. So that you had her wrinkles, and I her money, I would the did as you fay.

Per. Why I fay nothing.

Clo. Marry you are the wifer man: for many a mans tongue thakes out his mafters undoing : to fay nothing, to do nothing, to know nothing, and to have nothing, is to be a great part of your title, which is within a veric little of nothing.

Par. Away, th'art a knaue.

Clo. You should have faid fir before a knaue, th'area knaue, that's before me th art a knaue; this had beene

Par. Go too, thouart a wittle foole, I have found cle. Did you finde me la your felfe fir, or were you taught to finde me?

Clo. The fearch fir was profitable, and much Foole may you find in you, even to the worlds pleasure, and the encrease of laughter. Par. A good knaue ifaith, and well fed. Madam, my Lord will go swaie to night, A verie ferrious butsaelle call's on him : The great pretogative and rite oflowe, Which as your due time claumes, he do's acknowledge But puts it off to a compell'd reftraint i Whole want, and whole delay, is frew'd with fweets Which they distill now in the curbed time, To make the comming hours oreflow with loy,

And pleasure drowne the brim. Fol, What's his will elfer

Per. That you will take your instant leave a'th king, And make this halt as your owne good proceeding, Strengthned with what Apologie you thinke May make it probable neede.

Hel. What more commands hee?

Hel. What more commands hee?
Per. That having this obtain'd, you presentle Attend his further pleasure.

Hel. In enery thing I waite vpon his will.

Par. I shall report it so. Emi Par. Exit Hell. I pray you come furah.

Enter Lefew and Bertram.

Laf. But I hope your Lordshippe thinkes not him s Couldier.

Ber. Yes my Lord and of verie valiant approofe. Laf. You have It from his owne deliverance.

Ber. And by other warranted testimonic. Laf. Then my Diall goes not true, I tooke this I sike for a bunting.

Ber. I do affure you my Lord he is very greet in knowledge, and accordinglie valiant.

Laf. I have then sinn'd against his experience, and transgrest against his valour, and my state that way is dangerous, since I cannot yet find in my beact to repent: Heere he comes, I pray you make ve freinds, I will purfue the amutica

Enter Petolles.

Par. These things shall be done fir. Laf. Pray you lit whose his Tailer?

Par. Sir?

Laf. Olknowhim well, I fig hee firs a good workeman, a verie good Tailor.

Bar. Is thee gone to the king?

Per. Sheeis. Ber. Willince away to night?

Par. As you'le haue her.

Ber. I haue writ my letters, casketted my treasure, Gluen order for our herfes, and to night, When I should take possession of the Bride,

And ere I doe begin.

Lef. A good Trausiler is something at the latter end cfe dinner, but on that lies three thirds , and vies e known truth to passes thousand nothings with, should bee once hard, and thrice beaten. God fauc you Cap-

Ber. Is there any vokindnes betweene my Lord and you Monfieur?

Par. I know not how I have deserved to run into my Lorde displeasure.

Lof. You have made thift to run into't, boores and sporres and all . like him that leapt into the Cuffaed, and our ofit you'le runne againe, rather then fufet queftion for your residence.

Ber. It may bee you have mistaken him my Lord. Laf. And that! does never, though I tooke him at's proyers. Fare you well my Lord, and beleave this of me, there can be no kernell in this light Nut: the foule of this man is his closthes : Truft him oot in monter of heavie configuence: I have kept of them tome, & know their natures. Parewell Mos fieur, I have spoken bemer of you, then you have or will to deferve at my hand, but Min flaings boog ob flum sw

Par. Anidle Lord, I sweare.

Ber. I thinke fo.

Par. Why do you not know him?

Ber. Yes, I do know him well, and common speech Gives him a worthy passe. Heere comes my clog.

Emer Flelena.

Hel. I have fir as I was commanded from you Spoke with the King, and have procur'd his leave For present parting, onely he defires

Some private speech with you. Ber. I hall obey his will You must not meruaile Helen at my course, Which holds not colour with the time, nor dees The ministration, and required office On my particular. Prepard I was not Por fuch a bufineffe, therefore am I found So much unfeiled: This drives me to increase you. That presently you take your way for home, And rather muse then aske why I increase you, For my respects are better iben they seeme, And my appointments have in them a neede Greater then shewes it selfe at the first view, To you that know them not. This to my mother, Twill be two daies ere I shall see you, to I lesue you to your wisedome.

Hel. Sir, I can nothing fay, But that I am your most obedient feruma.

Ber. Come, come, no more of that.

Hel. And ever thall

With true observance seeke to erke out that Wherein toward me my homely flares have faild To equall my great fortune.

Bir. Lei that goe : my bast is verie great. Farmell :

Hichame,

Hd. Pray fu your pardon.

Ber. Well, what would you fay?
Hel. I am not wonthis of the wealth I owe, Nor dare I fay 'tis mine a and yet le is,

But like a timorous theefe, most faine would feele

What law does youth mine owne.

Ber. What would you bake?

HelSomething, and fearle fo much : nothing indeed, I would not tell you what I would my Lord: Faith yes, Strangers and foes do funder, and not kiffe.

Bo. I pray you flay not, but in haft to horse.

Hel. I shall not breake your bidding, good my Lords

Where are my other men? Monfier, farwell. Ber. Go thou toward home, where I wil never coms, Whilft I can thake my forord, or heare the dramme : Away, and for our flight.

Par. Brauely, Coragio.

Adus Tertius.

Flamils. Exertibe Duke of Florence, the two Frenchests. muha troope of Souldiers.

Date So that from point to point, now have you hard

The

The fundamentall reasons of this watte, Whose great decision bath much blood let forth And more thirsts after.

1. Lora Holy seemes the quarrell Vpon your Graces part: blacke and fearefull On the oppoler.

Duke. Therefore we meruaile much our Cofin France Would in fo just a businesse, thut his bosome

Against our borrowing prayers. French E. Good my Lord, Thereasons of our Rate I cannot yeelde,

But like a common and an outward man, That the great figure of a Counfaile frames, By felfe vnable motion, therefore dare not Say what I thinke of it, fince I have found My felle in my incertaine grounds to faile As often as I gueft.

Duke. Be it his pleasure.

Fren.G. But I am fure the yonger of out nature, That futfet on their eafe, will day by day

Come heere for Physicke.

Dake. Welcome shall they bee: And all the honors that can flye from vs. Shall on them fettle: you know your places well, When better fall, for your auailes they fell, To morrow to'th the field, Elourish.

Enter Counteffe and Clowne.

Count. It hath happen'd all, as I would have had it, faue that he comes not along with her.

Clo. By my troth I takemy young Lord to be a ve-rie melancholly man.

Count. By what observance I pray you.

Clo Why he will looke vppon his boote, and fing : mend the Ruffe and ling, aske questions and ling, picke his teeth, and ling: I know a man that had this tricke of melancholy hold a goodly Mannor for a fong.

Lad. Let me fee what he writes, and when he meanes

Clow. I have no minde to Isbell fince I was at Court. Our old Lings, and our Isbels a'th Country, are nothing like your old Ling and your libels a'th Courtethe brains ofmy Cupid's knock'd out, and I beginne to loue, as an old man loues money, with no ftomacke.

Lad. What have we heere?

Cle. In that you have there. A Letter.

I baue sent you a daughter-in-Law, thee hash recoursed the King, and undow me: I have wedded her, not bedded her, and worne to move the not eternall. You hall heare I am runne away, know is before the report come. If there bee bredshenough in the world, I will hold a long diffunce. My Tom unfortunate fonne, dury to you.

This is not well rash and unbridled boy, To flye the fauours of to good a King, To pluckehis indignation on thy head, By the miliprising of a Maide too vertuous For the contempt of Empire. Enser Clowna.

Clow. O Madam, yonder is heavienewes within betweene two fouldiers, and my yeng Ladie.

La. What is the matter.

Clo. Nay there is some comfort in thenewes, some comfort your sonne will not be kild so soone as I thoghe he would.

La. Why should he be kin'd?

Clo. So fay I Madame, if he runne away, as I heare he does, the danger is in standing too't, that's the losse of men, thoughit be the getting of children. Heere they come will tell you more. For my part I onely heare your fonne was run away.

Enter Hellen and two Gentlemen.

French E. Saue you good Madam.

Hel. Madam, my Lord is gone, for ever gone. French C. Do not fay fo.

La. Thinke vpou petience, pray you Gentlemen, I have felt lo many quirkes of ioy and greefe, That the first face of neither on the start

Can woman me vntoo'r. Where is my fonne I pray you Frew.G. Madam he's gone to scrue the Duke of Flo-

We met him thitherward, for thence we came: And after some dispatch in hand at Court,

Thither we bend againe.

Hel. Looke on his Letter Madam, here's my Pasport

When thou caust get the Ring upon my finger, which never shall come off, and showned a childe begotten of the bodie, that I am father too, hen call me husband; but in such a (then) I write a Neuer.

This is a dreadfull fentence.

La. Brought you this Letter Gentlemen? 1.G. I Madam, and for the Contents fake are fortie for our paines.

Old La. Iprethee Ladie haue a better cheere, If thou engroffest, all the greefes are thine, Thourobit me of a moity: He was my sonne, But I do wash his name out of my blood, And thou art all my childe. Towards Florence is he?

Fren.G. I Madam.

La Andto be a fouldier,

Fren.G. Such is his noble purpose, and beleeu't The Duke will lay vpon him all the honor That good convenience claimes.

La. Returne you thither.

Fren. E. I Madam, with the fwiftest wing of speed. Hel. Till I baue no wife, I baue nothing in France, Tis bitter.

La. Findeyou that there?

Hil. I Madame.

Fren.E. Tis but the boldnesse of his hand haply, which is heart was not confenting too.

Lad. Nothing in France, vntill he haue no wife: There's nothing heere that is too good for him But onely she, and she deserves a Lord That twenty such rude boyes might tend vpon, And call het hourely Mistris. Who was with him?

Fron. E. A servant onely, and a Gentleman: which ! have sometime knowne.

La. Parolles was it not?

Fren. E. I my good Ladie, hee.

La. A verie reinted fellow, and full of wickednesse, My forme corrupts a well derived nature With his inducement.

Fren. E. Indeed good Ladie the fellow has a deale of that, too much, which holds him much to have.

La. Y'are welcome Gentlemen, I will intreate you when you fee my fonne, to tell him that his fword can never with me the honor that he loofes: more Ile intreate you written to bestealong.

Fren.G. We letus you Madam in that and all your worthich affaires.

La. Not lo, but as we change our courtelies,

Exit. Will you draw neere?

Hel. Till I baue no wife I have nothing m France. Nothing in France vitill he has no wife Thou fhelthaue none Refillien, none in France, Then haft thou all againe : poore Lord, is't I That chafe thee from thy Countrie, and expose Those tender limbes of thine, to the suent Of the none-spanng warre? And is it I, That drive thee from the sportiue Court, where thou Was't floor at with faire eyes, to be the marke Offmorkie Muskers ? Oyou leaden messengers, That ride upon the violent speede of fire. Fly with falle ayme, moue the fill-peering atre That fings with piercing, do not touch my Lord: Who ever shoots at him, I fer him there. Who ever charges on his forward breft I am the Caitiffe that do hold him too't, And though I kill him not, I am the cause His death was so effected : Better 'twere I met the tauine Lyon when he toat'd With sharpe constraint of hunger: better 'twere, That all the miferies which nature owes Were mine at once. No come shou home Roffilion, Whence honor but of danger winnes a leane. As oft it looks all. I will be gone: My being heere it is, that holds thee hence, Shall I flay heere to doo't? No, no, although The ayre of Paradile did fan the house, And Angles offic'd all : I will be gone, That pictifull rumour may report my flight
To confolate thine eare. Come night, end day,
For with the darke (poose theefe) He fleale away. Exu.

Flourish. Enter the Duke of Florence, Rosfillion, drum and srumpets, foldiers, Parrolles.

Duke. The Generall of our horse thou arr, and we Great in our hope, lay our best loue and credence Vpon thy promiting fortune. Ber. Sir it is

A charge too heavy for my ftrength, but yet Wee'l Ariue to beare it for your worthy fake, To th'extreme edge of hazard

Dake. Then go thou forth.

And fortune play vpon thy prosperous helme As thy auspicious mistris

Ber. This very day

Great Mars I put my felfe into the file, Make me but like my thoughts, and I shall proue A louer of thy drumme, hater of loue. Exerns orange Easer Courses de Steward.

La. Alas! and would you take the letter of her: Might you not know the would do, as the has done, By lending me a Leiter. Readcit agen.

Lener. I am S. Laques Polgram, whither gone: Ambitions love bath fo in me offended, That bare-foot plad I the cold ground upon With fainted vow my faults to have amended. Write, write, that from the bloodse course of ware My derreft Atofer your deare fame, may hee, Blofe hom at home in peace. Whilst I form force, Her name with redoughter foodiles: Plu taken labura bid himme forgine: I he defrightfull luno fine hon fort, From Courtly friends, with Compring for to live, Where Leath and danger dagg , the be les of worth. He is too good and force for death, and some, Whom I my filfermerace to fee how free.

Ah what frame flings are in hermildeft words? Rynaldo, you did ne er lacke adurce fo much, As letting her pale to: had I spoke with her, I could have well diverted her intenes, Which thus the hath prevented.

Sic. Pardon me Madam, If I had given you this at over-night, She might have beene ore-time : and yet the writer Pursuice would be but veine.

La. What Angell (hall Bleffe this ynworthy husband, he cannot thrive, Vnleise her prayers, whom hezuen delighes to heare And loues to grant, represent him from the wrath Of greatest Institute. Write, write Rynalis, To this voworthy husband of his wife, Let everie word waigh heavie of her worth, That he does waigh too light : my greateft greefe, Though little he do feele it, fet downe sharpely. Disparch the most convenient messenger, When haply he shall heare that she is gone, Me will returne, and hope I may that fire Mearing fo much, will spredcher foote againe, Led hitner by pure love i which of them both la deeroft to me, I have no skill in fence To meke cultination provide this Mellenger: My hearris heavie, and mine age is weake, Greefe would have seeres, and forrow bids me speake. Exempl

A Tucker afarre of

Enist uld Widdow of Firmence, her daughter, Vulenta and Mariona, with after Catizers.

Widden, Noy come, For if they do approach the City. We shall looke all the fight.

Diana. They fey, the French Count has done

McRhonourable feruise. Wid. It is reperred,

That he has taken their great's Commander. And that with his owne hand he flew The Dukes brother: we have loft our labour, They are gone a contrarie ways banks, you may know by their Trumpers.

Charia. Comelett returne againe, And fuffice our felues with the report of it Weil Duma, take need of this French Earle, The honor of a Maide is her name,

And no Legarie is forich As honeilie.

Widden Theuetoldmynelekbour How you have beene solicited by a Gentleman His Companion.

Ma

Maria. I know that knaue, hang him, one Parolles, a filthy Officer he is in those suggestions for the young Earle, beware of them Diana; their promifes, entilements, cathes, tokens, and all thefe engines of luft, are not the things they go vnder: many a maide hath beene seduced by them, and the miserie is example, that so certible thewes in the wracke of maiden-hood, cannot for all that diffwade fuccession, but that they are limed with the twigges that threatens them. I hope I neede not to aduite you further, but I hope your owne grace will keepe you where you are, though there were no further danger knowne, but the modestie which is so loft.

Dia You shall not neede to feare me. Enter Hellen.

Wid. I hope so : looke here comes a pilgrim, I know the will lye at my house, thither they send one another, Ile question her. God saue you pilgrim, whether are Ponng ?

Hel. To S. laques la grand.

Where do the Palmers lodge, I do befeech you? Wid. At the S. Francis heere belide the Port.

Hel. Is this the way? A march afarre. Wid. I marrie ist. Harke you, they come this way :

If you will tarrie holy Pilgrime But till the troopes come by,

I will conduct you where you shall be lodged, The rather for I thinke I know your hostesse As ample as my felfe.

Hel. Is it your selfe?

wid. If you shall please so Pilgrime.

Hel. I thanke you, and will fay vpon your leifure. Wid. you came I thinke from France? Hel. I did fo.

Wid. Heere you shall see a Countriman of yours That has done worthy fezuice.

Hel. His name Ipray you?

Dia. The Count Roffition: know you such a one? Hel. But by the care that heares most nobly of him:

His face I know not.

Dia. What somere he is He's brauely taken heere. He stole from France As 'tis reported: for the King had married him Against his liking. Thinke you it is so?

Hel. I furely meere the truth, I know his Lady. Dia. There is a Gentleman that serves the Count,

Reports but coursely of her,

Hel. What's his name? Dia. Monsieur Parrolles,

Hel. Oh I beleeus with him.

In argument of praise, or to the worth Of the great Count himselfe, she is too meane To have her name repeated, all her deferuing Is a referued honestie, and that

I haue not heard examin'd. Dem. Alas poore Ladie,

Tis a hard bondage to become the wife

Of a detefting Lord.

wid. I write good creature, wherefore the is, Her hert waighes fadly : this yong maid might do her A shrewd turne if the pleas'd.

Hel. How do you meane?

May be the amorous Count folicites ber In the valawfull purpole.

Wid. He docs indeede,

And brokes with all that can in fuch a fuite

Corrupt the tender honour of a Maide: But the is arm'd for him, and keepes her guard In honestest desence.

Drumme and Coloms. Enter Count Rossillion, Parrolles, and the whole Armie.

Mar. The goddes forbidelfe.

wid. So, now they come: That is Anthonio the Dukes elder fonce,

That Efealess.

Hel. Which is the Frenchman?

Dia. Hee,

That with the plume, 'tisa most gallant fellow, I would he lou'd his wife : if he were honester

He were much goodlier. Is't not a handlom Gentleman

Hel. I like him well.

De Tis pitty he is not honest: yonds that same knaue That leades him to these places: were I his Ladie, I would poilon that vile Rafcall. Hel. Which is he?

Dia. That lacke an-apes with fearfes. Why Is hee melancholly?

Hel. Perchance he's hurt i'th battaile.

Par. Loofe our drum? Well.

Mar. He's shrewdly vext at something Looke he has spyed vs.
Wid. Marrie hang you.

Mar. And your cutteste, for a ring-carrier. Exit. Wid. The troope is past: Come pilgrim, I wil bring you, Where you shall hoft: Of ininyn'd pennents There's foure or hue, to great S. laques bound, Alreadie at my house.

Hel. I hurably thanke you:

Please it this Metron, and this gentle Maide To eate with vs to night, the charge and thanking Shall be for me, and to require you further, I will bestow some precepts of this Virgin. Worthy the note.

Both. Wee'l take your offer kindly.

Esceums

Enter Count Roffillion and the Frenchmen. as at first.

Cup.E. Nay good my Lord put him too't : let him baue his way

Cap.G. If your Lordshippe findehim not a Hilding, hold meno more in your respect.

Cap. E. On my life say Lord a bubble. Ber. Do you thinke I am fo fatte Deceived in him.

Cap.E. Beleeve it my Lord, in mine owne direct knowledge, without any malice, but to speake of him as my kinfman, hee's a mok notable Coward, an infinite and endlesse Lyar, an housely promise-breaker, the owner of no one good qualitie, worthy your Lordships entertainment.

Cap G. It were fit you knew him, least reposing too farre in his vertue which he hath not, he might at some great and trustie businesse, in a maine daunger, fayle you.

Ber. I would I knew in what particular action to try Cap. G. None better then to let him fetch off his drumme, which you heare him to confidently undertake to do.

C.E. I with a ercop of Florensines wil fodeinly fur-X 2 prize him; such I will have whom I am sure he knowes not from the enemie: wee will binde and hoodwinke him so, that he shall suppose no other but that he is earlied into the Leagur of the aductsaries, when we bring him to our owne tents: be but your Lordship present at his examination, if he do not for the promise of his life, and in the highest compulsion of base searce, offer to betray you, and definer all the intelligence in his power against you, and that with the dinne forfeite of his soule upon oath, neuec trust my judgement in asset thing.

Cap. G. O for the love of laughter, let him fetch his drumme, he sayes he has a stratagem for t: when your Lordship sees the bottome of this successe in to, and to what mettle this countersey lump of ours will be melted if you give him not John drummes entertainement, your inclining cannot be removed. Here he comes.

Enter Parrolles.

C.p.E. Of or the love of laughter hinder not the honor of his deligne, let him fetch off his drumme in any hand.

Ber. How now Monfieur? This drumme Ricks forely in your disposition.

Cap.G. A pox on't, let it go, 'tis but a drumme.

Par. But a drumme: Ift but a drumme? A drumfoloft. There was excellent command, to charge in with our horfe vpon our owne wings, and to rend our owne fouldiers.

Cap. G. That was not to be blam'd in the command of the service: it was a disaster of warre that Cafar him selse could not have prevented, if he had beene there to command.

Ber. Well, wee cannot greatly condemne our fueceffe: some dishonor wee had in the losse of that drum, but it is not to be recourted.

Par. It might have beene reconered. Ber. It might, but it is not now.

Par. It is to be recovered, but that the merit of fertice is fildome attributed to the true and exact performer, I would have that drumme or another, or bic ia-

Ber. Why if you have a stomacke, too't Monsieur: if you thinke your mysterie in stratagem, can bring this instrument of honour agains into his native quarter, be magnanimious in the enterprize and go on, I wil grace the attempt for a worthy exploit: if you speede well it, the Duke shall both speake of it, and extend to you what surther becomes his greatnesse, even to the vimost syllable of your worthinesse.

Par. By the hand of a fouldier I will vndertakeit.

Ber. But you must not now slumber init.

Par. Ileabout it this cuening, and I will prefently pen downe my dilemma's, encourage my felfe in my certaintie, put my felfe into my mortall preparation and by midnight looke to heare further from me.

Ber. May I bee bold to acquaint his grace you are gone about it.

Par. Iknownot what the successe wil be my Lord, but the attempt I vow.

Ber. I know th'art valiant,

And to the possibility of the fouldiership, Will subscribe for thee: Farewell.

Par. I loue not many words.

Exit

Cap.E. No more then a fifth loues water. Is not this sstrange sellow my Lord, that so confidently seemes to vadertake this businesse, which he knowed is not to be done, damnes himselfe to do, & dares better be damed then to doo't.

Cap. G. You do not know him my Lord as we doe, cartaine it is that he will fleale himfelfe imto a mena fauout, and for a weeke escape a great deale of discourries, but when you finde him out, you have him ever after.

Ber. Why do you thinke he will make no deede at all of this that to feriouflie hee doors addresse himselfe vito?

Cap. E. None in the world, but returne with an inuention, and clap upon you two or three probable his: but we have almost imbost him, you shall see his fall so night; for indeede he is not for your Lordshippes tespect.

Cap.G. Weele make you some sport with the Fore ere we case him. He was first smook's by the old Lord Lofen, when his disguise and he is parted, tell me what a sprat you shall finde him, which you shall see this verienight.

Cop. E. I must go looke my ewigges,

He shall be caught.

Ber Your brother he shall go along with me.
Cap.G. As epiease your Lordship, lie leave you.
Ber. Now will lead you to the hoase, and show you

The Laffe I spoke of.

Cap. E. But you say she's bonest.

Bo. That's all the fault: If poke with hir but once, And found her wondrous cold, but I feat to her By this same Coxcombe that we have i'th winde Tokens and Letters, which she did resend, And this is all I have done: She's a faire creature, Will you go see her?

Cap.E. With all my heart my Lord.

Excus

Enter Hellen, and Viddoo.

Hel. If you mildoubt me that I amnot free, I know not how I shall affer you further, But I shall look the grounds I worke you.

Wid. Though my chare be false, I was well borne, Nothing acquainted with these businesses, And would not put my reputation now

In any staining act.

Hel. Nor would I wish you.

First give me trust, the Counthe is my husband,
And what to your sworne counsaile I have spoken,
Is so from word to word: and then you cannot
By the good ay de that I of you shall borrow,
Errein bestowing it.

171d. I should beleeve you,
For you have shew'd me that which well approves

Y'are great in fortune,

Hel. Take this purfe of Gold, And let me buy your friendly helpe thus farre, Which I will ouer-pay, and pay agains When I haue found it. The Count he woes your daughter,

Layes downe his wanton fiedge before her beautie,
Refolue to carrie her: let her in fine confent
As wee'l ditect her how't is best to beare it:
Now his important blood will neught denie,
That fine'l demand: a ring the Countie weares,
That downward hath succeeded in his house

From

From sonne to sonne, some fourz or fine discents, Since the first father wore it. This Ring he holds In most rich choice : yet in his idle fire, To buy his will, it would not feeme too deere, How ere repented after

Will. Now I see the bottome of your purpose. Hd. You fee it lawfull then, it is no more, But that your daughter ere the feemes as wonne, Defires this Ring; appoints him an encounter; In fine, deliuers me to fill the time, Her felfe most chastly absent : after Tomstry her, He adde three thousand Crownes To what is past already.

Wed I have yeelded.

Influed my daughter how the shall perseuer, That time and place with this deceite so lawfull May prove coherent. Every night he comes With Mulickes of all forts, and longs compos'd To her voworthinesse tle nothing steeds vs To chide him from our ceues, for he perfuls As if his life lay on't.

Hel. Why then to night Let vs affay our plot, which if it speed, Is wicked meaning in a lawfull deede; And lawfull meaning in a lawfull ad, Where both not linne, and yet a finfull fact.

But let's about it.

Actus Quartus.

Enter one of the Frenchmen, with fine or fixe other forddeers in ambigh.

1. Lord E.He can come no other way but by this hedge corner : when you fallie vpon him, speake what terrible Language you will: though you understand it not your selves, no matter: for we must not seeme to vnderstand him, vuleffe fome one among vs, whom wee must produce for an Interpreter.
1. Sal. Good Captanic, let me be th'Interpreter.

Lor. E. Art not acquainted with him? knowes he not thy soice?

1. Sol. No fir I warrant you.

Lo.E. But what linke wolfy haft thou to speake to vs

t. Sol. En luch as you fpeake to me.

L.E. He must thinke vs some band of strangers, I'ch adversaries entertainment. Now he hach a smacke of all neighbouring Languages: therefore we must every one bea man of his owne fancie, not to know what we speak one to another: to we feeme to know, is to know fraight out purpole: Choughs language, gabble enough, and goodenough. As for you interpreter, you must fecme very politicke. But couch hoa, heere hee comes, to beguile two houres in a fleepe, and then to returne & fwear the lies he forges .

Enter Parrolles.

Per Tens clocke. Within these three houtes ewill be time enough to goohome. What shall I say I have done? It must been very plausiue invention that carries it. They beginne to smoake mee, and disgraces have of late, knock'd too oftenat my doore: I finde my tongue is too foole-hardie, but my heart hath the seare of Mars before it, and of his creatures, not daring the reports of my tongue.

Lo.E. This is the first truth that ere thine own tongue was guiltie of.

Par. What the divell should move one to vodertake the recoverie of this drumme, being not ignorant of the impossibility, and knowing I had no such purpose? I must give my selfe some hures, and say I got them in ex-ptoit: yet slight ones will not carrie it. They will say, came you of with so little? And great ones I dare not give, wherefore what's the inflance. Tongue, I must put you into a Butter-womans mouth, and buy my felfe andther of Baiacoths Mule, if you prattle mee into these Lo.E. Is it possible he should know what hee is, and be that he is

Par. I would the cutting of my garments wold ferue the turne, or the breaking of my Spanish sword.

Lo.E. We cannot offoord you fo.

Par. Or the baring of my beard, and to say it was in Lo.E. 'Twould not do.

Par. Or to drowne my cloathes, and fay I was Aript.

Lo.E. Hardly Serve.

Par Though I (were I leaps from the window of the Citadell.

Lo.E. How deepe ?

Par. Thirty fadome.

Lo.E. Three great oathes would fearfe make that be Par 1 would I had any drumme of the enemies, 1 would (weare I reconer'dit, Lo.E. You shall heare one anon.

Par. A drumme now of the enemies,

Alarumwahin

Lo E. Throcamovousus, cargo, cargo, cargo.

AR. Cargo, cargo, cargo, velleanda par corbo, cargo.

Par. O ransome, ransome, Do not hide mine eyes

Inter. Borkes thromudde boskes.
Par I know you are the Mustes Regiment, And I shall loose my life for want of language. If there be heere Gernian or Dane, Low Dutch, Italian, or French, let him speake to me,

He discover that, which shal ando the Florentine. Int Boshos varvado, I understand thee, & can speake thy tongue : Kerelybonio fir, betake thee so thy faith, for feuenteene ponyards are at thy bolome.

Par. Oh.

Inter. Oh pray, pray, pray, Stankarewania dulche.

Lo.E. Ofcorbidulchos voliuorco.

Int. The Generall is content to spare thee yet, And hoodwinks as thou are, will leade thee on To gather from thee. Haply thou may finforme Something to faue thy life.

Par. Olet me live,

And all the fecrets of our campe He shew, Their force, their purpoles : Nay, Ile speake that, Which you will wonder at.

Inter. But vnit thou frithfully?

Par If I do not, danne me.

Inter. Acordo linta.

Come on, thou are granted space. Ashort Alarumwithin.

Exit

Lo. E

L.E. Go tell the Count Rossillon and my brother, We have caught the woodcocke, and will keepe him Till we do heave from them. (musted

Sel. Captaine I will.

L.E. A will betray vs all vnto our felues, Informe on that.

Sol. So I will fir.

L.E. Till then He keepe him darke and fafely lockt.

Enter Bertram, and the Maide called Disna.

Ber. They told me that your name was Fontybell.
Dia Normy good Lord, Diana.

Ber. Titled Goddeffe,

And worth it with addition: but faire foule, In your fine frame hath loue no qualitie? If the quicke fire of youth light not your minde, You are no Maiden but a monument. When you are dead you should be fuch a one Az you are now; for you are cold and sterne, And now you should be as your mother was. When your sweet selfe wis got.

Dia. She then was honest. Ber So should you be.

DIA. No:

My mother did but dutie, fuch (my Lord)

As you owe to your wife.

Est. No more a that:

1 prethee do not flrine against my vowes a

I was compelled to her, but I love thee

By loves owne sweet constraint, and will for ever

Do thee all rights of service.

Dia. I so you serve vs
Till we serve you But when you have our Roses,
You barely leave our thomes to pricke our selves,
And macke vs with our barenesse,

Ber. How have I sworne.

Dia. Tis not the many or these that makes the truth But the plaine single vow, that is vow'd true? What is not holie, that we sweare not by, But take the high sit to witnesse: then pray you tell me, If I should sweare by sours great attributes, I lou'd you deetely, would you beleeve my or thee, When I did love you ill? This ha's no holding To sweare by him whom I prorest to love That I will worke against him. Therefore your or these Are words and poore conditions, but vnseal'd Attest in my opinion.

Ber. Change it, change it:
Be not so hely cruell: Love is holie,
And my integritie ne're, knew the crafts
That you do charge men with: Stand no more off,
But give thy selfe vnto my ficke defires,
Who then recover. Say thou are mine, and ever
My love as 22 beginnes, shall so persever.

Dia, l'au that men make ropels in fuch a fearre, That wee'l forfake our felues. Give me that Ring.

Ber. He lend it thee my decre; but have no power To give it fromma.

Dia. Willyounds my Lord?

Ber. It is an honour longing to our house, Bequeathed downe from manie Ancestors, Which were the greatest abloquie ith world. In me to loofe.

Dian. Mine Honors futh a Ring, My chastitues the Lewell of our house, Bequeathed downe from many Ancestors, Which were the greatest obloquie s'th viorsd, In mee to loose. Thus your awne proper wisedome Brings in the Champion hooos on my part, Against your vaine assault.

Ber. Heere, take my Ring, My house, mine honor, yea my life be thine, And Ile be bid by thee.

Des. When midnight comes, knocke at my chamber window:

Ile order take, my mother shall not heate.

Now will I charge you in the band of truth,
When you have conquer'd my yet maiden bed,
Remaine there but an houre, nor speake to mee:
My reasons are most strong, and you shall know them,
When backe againe this sting shall be deliuer'd:
And on your singer in the night, He put
Another Ring, that what in time proceeds,
May token to the satter, our pess deeds.
Adieu till then, then saile not: you have wome
A wise of me, though there my hope be done.

Ber. A heaven on earth I have won by woning thee.
DiFor which, live long to thank both heaven & me,

You may fo in the end.

My mother told meinth how he would woo,
As if the fate in 's heart. She fayes, all hen
Haue the like nathes: He head fwome to merne me
When his wife's dead: therfore Ile lye with him
When I am buried. Since Frenchmen are so braide, Marry that will, I live and die a Maid:
Onely in this disguise, I think't no sinne,
To cosen him that would valually winne.

Enter the two Trench Captaines, and forme two or three Souldiaure.

Cq.G. You have not given him his mothers letter.
Cq 8. I have delru'red it so houre fince, there is fom thing in that flings his nature t for on the reading it, he chang'd almost into exother man.

Cop. G. He has much worthy blame laid vpon him, for shaking off so good a wife, and so succe a Lady.

Cap. E. Especially, hee hath incurred the enertailing displeasure of the King, who had even sun'd his bounty to sing happinesse to him. I will tell you a thing, but you shall let it dwell darkly with you.

Cap. C. When you have spoken it it dead, and I am the grave of it.

Cap. E. Hee hath peruerted a young Gentle woman heere in Florence, of a most chaste removen, & this night he flores his will in the spoyle of her honour; hee heth given her his monumentall Ring, and thinkes himselfe made in the ynchaste composition.

Cap.G. Now God delay our rebellion as we are our felues, what things are we.

Cap. E. Meerely our owne traitours. And as in the common course of all treasons, we still see them reveale themselnes, till they acceine to their abhort'd enose so he that in this action contriues against his owne Nobility in his proper streams, ore-flower himselfe

Cap. G. Is it not meant damnable in vs, to be Trumpeters of our valawfall intents? We fhell not then have hiscompany to night?

Cap.E. Nortill after midright; for her is dieted to his house

Cap. G. That approaches space: I would gladly have thin fee his company anathonized, that hee might take a mealure of his owns tudgements, wherein lo curioully he had fee this counterfeit.

Cap. E. We will not meddle with him till he come; for his presence must be the whip of the other.

Cap.C. In the meane time, what heare you of thele Warres?

Cay. E. I heare there is an overture of peace. Cap. G. Nay, I affure you a peace concluded.

Cop. E. What will Count Roffilion do then? Will be ersuaile higher, or returne againe into France?

Cap.G. I perceive by this demand, you see not altogether of his councell.

Cop. E. Let it be forbid fir, so should I bee a great deale of his al.

Cap 3. Sie, his wife some two months fince fledde from his house, her presence is a pilgrimage to Saint laqueste grand; which holy vadertaking, with most suftere fanchimonie the accomplishe; and there reliding, the tendernesse of her Nature, became as a prey to her greefe: in fine, made a groane of her last breath, & now the fings in heaven.

Cap. E. How is this juffified?

Cap G. The stronger part of it by her owne I etters, which makes her forie true, even to the poynt of her death : her death it felfe, which could not be her office to say, is come : was faithfully confirm'd by the Rector of the place.

Cap. E. Hath the Count all this Intelligence?

Cap.G. I, and the particular confirmations, point from point, to the full arming of the veritie

Cap. E. I am heartily fornethas bee'l bee gladde of shis.

Cap. G. How mightily sometimes, we make ve comforta of our losses.

Cap. E. And how mightily some other times, wee drowne our gaine in teares, the great dignitie that his valour hath here acquir'd for him, Thall at home be encountred with a shame as ample.

Cap.G. The webbe of our life, is of a mingled yame, good and ill together : our vertues would bee proud, if our faults whips them not, and our crimes would difpane if they were not cherish'd by our vertues.

Enter a Messenger.

How now? Where's your master i Ser. He merche Duke in the freet fir, of whom hee hath taken a folemne leave: his Lordshippe will next morning for France. The Duke hath offered him Letters of commendations to the King.

Cap. E. They shall beeno more then needfull there, if they were more then they can commend.

Enter Court Roffillson.

Ber. They cannot be too sweete for the Kings tartnesse, heere's his Lordship now. How now my Lord, i'ftnot after midnight ?

Bor. There to night dispatch'd fisteene businesses, a moneths length a peece, by an abstract of successe: 1 have congled with the Duke, done my adicu with his neerest; buried a wife, mourn'd for her, writ to my Ladie mother, I am returning, entertain'd my Conuoy, & betweene thele maine parcels of disparch, affected many nicer needs: the last was the greatest, but that I have Doct ended yet.

Cap. E. If the buffneffe bee of any difficulty, and this morning your departure hence, it requires half of your Los dilip.

Ber. I meane the bufineffe is not ended, as fearing to heare of it hereafter: but shall we have this dialogue betweene the Foole and the Soldiour. Come, bring forth this counterfet module, ha's deceiu'd mee, like a double-meaning Prophetier cap. E. Ering him forth, has fate I'th flockes all night poese gallant knaue.

Ber. No matter, his beeles haue deseru'd it, in vsurping his spurres so long. How does he carry himselfe?

Cap. E. I have cold your Lordship alreadie , The flockes carriehim. Burto answeryou as you would be understood, hee weepes like a wench that had shed her milke, he hath confest himselfe to Morgan, whom hee supposes to be a Friat, fro the time of his remembrance to this very instant disafter of his serring ith stockes : and what thinke you he hath confest?

Ber, Nothing of me, ba's a?

Cap.E. His confession is taken, and it shall bee read to his face, if your Lordshippe be in't, as I beleeue you ste, you must have the patience to heare it.

Enter Parolles with bis Interpreter

Ber. A plague vpon him, muffeld: he can fay nothing of me: hush, hush.

Cap.G. Hoodman comes Portorartareffe.

Inter. He calles for the tortures, what will you fay without em.

Par. I will confesse what I know without constraint, If ye pinch me like a Pasty, I can say no more, Ins. Bosko Chemurcho.

Cap. Bobliondo ebicurmurco.
Int. You are a mercifull Generall : Our Generall bids you answer to what I shall aske you out of a Note.

Par. And cruly, as I hope to line

fer. First demand of him, how many horse the Duke is frong What lay you to that?

Par Five or fixe thouland, but very weake and vnferunceable: the troopes are all feattered, and the Commanders verie poore rogues, vpon my reputation and credit, and as I hope to line.

Inc. Shall I fet downe your answer fo &

Par. Do, Betake the Sacrament on't how & which way you will : all's one to him.

Ber. What's past-faving slave is this?

Cap. G Y'are deceiv'd my Lord, this is Mounfieur Parrolles the gallant militarist, that was his owne phrase that had the whole theoricke of warre in the knot of his scarfe, and the practile in the chape of his dagger.

Cap. E. I will never trust a man againe, for keeping his tword cleane, nor believe he can have everie thing in him, by wearing his apparrell neatly.

Int. Well, that's fet downe.

Par, Five or fix thousand horse I sed, I will say true, or thereabouts fee downe, for lle speake truth.

Cap G He's very neere the truth in this.

Ber. But I con him no thankes for t in the nature he delivers ic

Par. Poore rogues, I pray you fay.

Int. Well, that's fet downe

Per. I humbly thanke you fir, a truth's a truth, the Rogues are marualous poore Interp. Demaund of him of what firength they are a foor. What say you to that?

By any crorb fir, if I were to live this prefent house, I will tell true. Let me see, Spurio a handred & fittie, Schaffers fo many, Corambus fo many, Jaques fo many: Guitian, Cofree, Lodowicks, and Graty, two hundreil fiftie each : Mine owne Company, Champher, Vauenoud, Borry, two hundred fiftic each : fo that the muster file, rotten and found, uppon my life amounts not to fifteene thousand pole, halfe of the which, dare not shake the Inow from off their Callockes, least they thake them-Selves to preces.

Ber. What finall be done to him.

Cap. G. Norhing, but ler him have thankes. Demand of him my condition : and what credite I have with the

Int. Well that's fet downe : you thall demaund of him, whether one Captaine Dumame beei'th Campe, a Frenchman: what his reputation is with the Duke, what bis valour, honestie, and experenesse in warres : or whether he thinkes it were not possible with well-waighing fummes of gold to corrupt him to a reuolt. What fay you to this? What do you know of it?

Par. I befeech you let me answer to the particular of the intergatories. Demand them singly.

Int. Do you know this Captaine Dumaine?

Par. I know him, a was a Botchers Prentize in Paru, from whence be was whipt for getting the Shrieues fool with childe, a dumbe innocent that could not say him

Ber. Nay, by your leave hold your hands, though I know his braines are forfeite to the next tile that fals.

Int. Well, is this Captaine in the Duke of Florences campe?

Par. Vponmy knowledge he is, and lowfie.

CAJ.G. Nay looke not so spon me: we shall heare of your Lord anon.

Int. What is his reputation with the Duke?

Par. The Duke knowes him for no other, but a poore Officer of mine, and writ to mee this other day, to tume him out a'th band. I thinke I have his Letter in my poc-

Int. Marry we'll fearch.

Par. In good sadnesse I do not know, either it is there, or it is upon a file with the Dukes other Letters, in my Tent.

Ins. Heere'tis, heere's a paper, shall I reade it to you?

Par. I do not know if it be it or no.

Ber. Our Interpreter do's it well.

Cap.G. Excellently.

Ins. Dianathe Counts a foole, and full of gold.

Par. That is not the Dukes letter fir : that is an aduertisement to a proper maide in Florence, one Diana, to take heede of the allurement of one Count Roffillion, a foolish idle boy : but for all that very ruttish. I pray you. fit put it vp againe.

Int. Nay, He reade it fust by your fauout.

Par. My meaning in't I protest was very honest in the behalfe of the maid : for I knew the young Count to be a dangerous and lasciulous boy, who is a whale to Virginicy, and denours vp all the fry it finds.

Ber. Damnable both-fides togue.

Int. Let. When he sweares outher, hid hum drop gold, and

After he scores, be never pages the score: Halfe won is march well made march and well make it, He nere pages after debts, take it before, Aud fay a fouldier (Dian) told thee this : Men are to mehwith, boyes are not to kis.

For count of this, the Counts a Fcolo I knor is, bapages before, but not when he does ove is Thine as he wow'd to thee in thine eare, Paroliss.

Ber. He shall be whips through the Asmie with this time in's forchead

Cap. E. This is your devoted friend fir, the manifold Linguist, and the army-potent fouldier

Ber. I could endure any thing before but a Car, and nowhe's a Cat to me. Ins. I perceive h: by your Generals lookes, wee shall be faine to hang you.

Par. My life fir in any cafe : Not that I am afraide to dye, but that my offences beeing many, I would repent out the remainder of Nature. Let me live fir in a dungeon, i'th stockes, or any where, so I may live.

Int. Wee'le see what may bee done, so you confesse freely : therefore once more to this Capteine Dumame : you have answer'd to his reputation with the Duke, sed co his valour. What is his honeshie?

Par. He will Reale fir an Egge out of a Cloifter : for rapes and rauishments he paralels Neffm. Hee professes not keeping of oaths, in breaking em he is ftronger then Hereules. He will lye fir, with fuch volubilitie, that you would thinke truth were a foole: drunkennesse is his best vertue, for he will be swine-drunke, and in his sleepe he does little harme, Aue to his bed-cloathes about him : but they know his conditions, and lay him in fraw. I have but little more to fay fir of his bonefly, he ha's euerie thing that an honest man should not have; what an honeft man should have, he has nothing.

Cap.G. I begin to love him for this.

Ber. For this description of thine honeslie ? A poz vpon him for me, he's more and more a Cat.

lat. What fay you to his experineffe in warre?

Par. Faith fir, ha's led the drumme before the Englift Tragedians : to beige him I will not, and more of his fouldierthip I know nor, except in that Country, he had the honour to be the Officer at a place there called Mileend, to instruct for the doubling of files, I would doe the man what honour I can, but of this I am not certaine.

Cap.G. He hathout-villaio'd villanie fo faste, shat the raritie redeemes him.

Ber. A pox on him, he's a Cat fill.

Inc. His qualities being at this poore price, I neede not to 25ke you, if Gold will corrupt him to revolt.

Par. Sir, for a Cardceue he will fell the fee-simple of his faluation, the inheritance of it, and cut th'intaile from all remainders, and a perpetuall succession for it perpetually.

Int. What's his Brother, the other Captain Ductain?

Cap. E. Why do's heaske him of me?

Int. What's he?

Par. E'ne a Crow a'th same nest: not altogether so great as the first in goodnesse, but greater a great deale in euill. He excels his Brother for a coward, yet his Etother is reputed one of the best that is. In a retreate hee outrunnes any Lackey; marrie in comming on, hee ha's the Crampe.

Int. If your life be faued, will you undertake to betray the Florentine.

Per. 1, and the Captaine of his horfe, Count Rofflion. Inc. He whisper with the Generall, and knowe his pleasure.

Par. He no more drumming, a plague of all drummes, onely to feeme to deterue well, and to beguile the suppolition fition of that lascinious yong boy the Count, have I run into this danget: yet who would have suspected an ambuffi where I was taken?

Inc. There is no remedy fir, but you must dye : the Generall sayes, you that have so traitorously discoverd the fecrets of your army, and made fuch pestifferous reports of men very nobly held, can ferue the world for no honest vie : therefore you must dye. Come headelman, off with his head.

Por. O Lord fit let me liue, or let me fee my death.

Int. That shall you, and take your leave of all your

So, looke about you, know you any heere?

Count. Good morrow noble Captaine Lo.E. God bleffe you Captaine Parolles. Cap. G. God faue you noble Captaine.

Lo.E. Captain, what greeting will you to my Lord

Lafew? 1 am for France.

Cap.G. Good Captaine will you give me a Copy of the somet you writ to Diana in behalfe of the Count Rossilion, and I were not a verie Coward, I de compell it of you, but far you well

Int You are endone Captaine all but your scarse, that has a knot on't yet.

Far. Who cannot be crush'd with a plot?

Inter. If you could finde out a Countrie where but women were that had received fo much shame, you might begin an impudent Nation. Fare yee well fir, I am for France too, we shall speake of you there. Exe Par. Yet am I thankfull : if my heart were great 'Twould burst at this: Captaine lle be no more, But I will eate, and drinke, and fleepe as foft As Captaine shall. Simply the thing I am Shall make me live: who knowes himselfe a braggare Let him feare this; for it will come to passe, That every braggart shall be found an Asse. Rust (word, coole blushes, and Parrolles live Safest in shame: being fool'd, by fool'rie thriue; There's place and meanes for every man alive. He after them Exit.

Enter Hellen, Widdow, and Diana.

Hel. That you may well perceive I have not wrong'd you,

One of the greatest in the Christian world Shall be my suretie : for whose throne 'tis needfull Ere I can perfect mine incents, to kneele Time was, I did him a defired office Deere almost as his life, which gratitude Through flintie Tartars bosome would peepe forth, And answer thankes. I duly am inform'd, His grace is at Marcelle, to which place We have convenient convoy: you must know I am supposed dead, the Army breaking, My husband hies him home, where heaven ay ding, And by the leave of my good Lord the King, Wee'l be before our welcome.

Wed. Gentle Madam, You never had a feruant to whose trust Your bufines was more welcome,

Flel, Noryour Mistris Euer a friend, whose thoughts more truly labour To recompence your loue: Doubt not but heauen Hath brought me vp to be your daughters dower, As it hath fated her to be my motiue

And helper to a husband. But O ftrangemen, That can such sweet vie make of what they hate, When fawcie trusting of the cosin'd thoughts Defiles the pitchy night, so lust doth play With what it loathes, for that which is away, But more of this heereafter : you Dimes, Vadermy poore infructions yes must fuffer Something in my behalfe.

Dia. Let death and honestie Go with your impositions, I am yours

Vpon your will to fuffer.

Hel. Yet I pray you: But with the word the time will bring on fummer, When Brises (hall have leaves as well as thornes, And be as fweet as fharpe: we must away, Our Wagon is prepar'd, and time reviues vo All's well that ends well, still the fines the Crowne; What ere the coutse, the end is the renowne.

Enter Clowns, old Lady, and Lafres.

Laf. No, no, no, your fonne was missed with a snipt caffata fellow there, whose villanous saffron wold have made all the vnbak'd and dowy youth of a nation in his colour : your daughter-in-law had beene aliue at shis houre, and your sonne heere at home, more advanced by the King, then by that red-tail'd humble Bee I fpeak

La. I would I had not knowne him, it was the death of the most vertuous gentlewoman, that ever Nature had praise for creating. If she had petraken of my flesh and cost mee the decrest groanes of a mother, I could not have owed her a more rooted love.

Laf Twas a good Lady, 'twas a good Lady. Wee may pieke a thousand sallets ere wee light on such ano-

Clo. Indeed fir the was the sweete Margerom of the faller, or rather the hearbe of grace.

Laf. They are not hearbes you knaue, they are no lehearbes.

Clowne I am no great Nabuchadnezar fir, I have not much skill in grace.

Laf. Whether doest thou professe thy felfe, a knaue or a foole?

Clo. A foole fir at a womans scruice, and a knaue at a mans.

Laf. Your distinction.

Clo. I would cousen the man of his wife, and do his

Laf. So you were a knaue at his service indeed.

Clo. And I would give his wife my bauble fir to doe

Laf. I will subscribe for thee, thou art both knaue and foole.

Clo. At your service.

Laf. No, no, no.

Why fir, if I cannot ferue you, I can ferue as great a prince as you are.

Laf. Whole that, a Frenchman?

Clo. Faith fir a has an English maine, but his fisnomie is more hotter in France then there.

Laf. What prince is that? Cle. The blacke prince fir, alias the prince of darkenesse, alias the divell.

Laf. Hold thee there's my purfe, I give thee not this to suggest thee from thy master thou talk stoff, serve him full.

Clos

Clo. I sm a woodland fellow fir, that alwaise loved a great fire, and the master I speak of ever keeps a good fire, but fure he is the Prince of the world, let his Nobilitie remaine in's Court. I am for the house with the narrow gate, which I take to be too little for pompeto enter : fome that humble themselves may, but the manie will be too chill and tender, and theyle bee for the flowrie way that leads to the broad gate, and the great

Laf. Go thy waies, I begin to bee a weatic of thee, and I tell thee lo before, because I would not fall out with thee. Go thy wayes, let my borfes be wel look'd too without any trickes.

Clo. If I put any trickes vpon em fir, they shall bee lades trickes, which are their owne right by the law of Laf. A shrewd knaue and an vnhappie.

Lady. So ais. My Lord that's gone made himselfe much sport out of him, by his authoritie hee remaines heere, which he thinkes is a pattent for his fawcineffe, and indeede he has no pace, but runnes where he will.

Laf. I like him well, 'tis not amisse: and I was about to tell you, fince I heard of the good Ladies death, and that my Lord your sonne was voon his returne home. I moued the King my master to speake in the behalfe of my daughter, which in the minoritie of them both, his Maiestie out of a selse gracious remembrance did first propose, his Highnesse hath promis'd me to doris, and to stoppe vp the displeasure he hath conceiued against your forme, there is no fitter matter. How do's your Lady ship like it?

La. With verie much content my Lord, and I wish it happily effe Red.

Laf. His Highnesse comes post from Marcellus, of 25 able bodie as when he number'd thirty, a will be heere to morrow, or I am deceiu d by him that in fuch intelligence hath seldome fail'd.

La Irreioyces me, that I hope I shall see him ere I die. I have letters that my fonne will be heere to night: I shall befeech your Lordship to remaine with mee, till they meete together.

Laf. Madam, I was thinking with what manners I might safely be admitted

Lad. Youncede but pleade your honourable privi-

Laf. Ladie, of that I have made a bold charter, but I thanke my God, it holds yet.

Exter Clorene

Cla. O Madam, yonders my Lord your some with a parch of veluet on's face, whether there bee a fear voder't or no, the Veluer knowes, but 'tis a goodly patch of Veiuer, his lest cheeke is a cheeke of two pile and a halfe, but his right cheeke is worne bare.

Laf. A scarre nobly got,

Or anoble scarre, is a good liu'rie of hosor. So belike is that.

Clo. But it is your carbinado'd face Laf. Let vs go see your sonne I pray you, I long to talke With the youg noble souldier.

Clowne. 'Faith there's a dozen of em, with deliente fine hats, and most courteous feathers, which bow the head, and nod at euerie man.

Exeuns

Allus Quintus.

Enter Hillen, Widdow, and Disa, web

Hal, But this exceeding politing day and night Musi wear your spines low, we cannot helpe it But fince you have made the dates and nights as one, To weare your gentle limbes in my offayres, Be bold you do fo grow in my requirall, As nothing can viroote you. In happie time.

Enter agenile Aftinger This man may helpo me to his Maiefties eare, If he would spend his power. God sue you fir.

Cent. And you.

Hel. Sir, I have feene you in the Court of France.

Gent. I have beene sometimes there.

Hel. I do prefume fir, that you are not falne From the report that goes your your goodnesse, And therefore gooded with most tharpe occasions, Which lay nice manners by, I put you to The vie of your owne vertues, for the which I shall continue thankefull.

Gent. What's your will? Hel. That it will please you To give this poore petition to the King, And syde me with that flore of power you have To come into his presence,

Gen. The Kings not heere.

Hel. Not heere fit?

Gm. Notindeed,

He hence remou'd last night, and with more hast Then is his vie.

Wid. Lord how we look our paints Hel. All's well that ends well yet, Though time feeme fo adverfe, and meanes vnfit: I do befeech you, whither is he gone?

Gent. Marrie as I take it to Roffikion,

Whither I am going.

Hel. I do befeech you fir Since you are like to fee the King before me, Commend the paper to his gracious hand, Which I presume shall render you no blame, But rather make you thanke your paines for it, I will come after you with what good speede Our meanes will make vs meanes,

Gent. This Ile do for you

Hel. And you shall finde your selfe to be well thanks what e're falles more We must to horse againe, Go, go, provide.

Enter Clowne and Parrolles.

Par. Good Mr Lauersh give my Lord Lafew this letter, I have ere now fir beene better knowne to you, when I have held familiaritie with fresher cloathes: but I am now fir muddied in fortuner mood, and smell somewhat frong of her firong displeasure.

Clo. Truely, Fortunes displessure is but fluttish if se smell so strongly as thou speak'st of: I will hence soorth eateno Fish of Fortunes butt'ring. Pre thee alow the

Par. Nay you need enot to frop your note fir: I spake

but by a Metaphor
Clo. Indeed ht, if your Metaphor flinke, I will flop my nole, or against any mans Metaphor. Prethe get thee further. . Pas.

Par. Pray you fir deliues me this paper.

Cle. Fon, prethee fland away: a paper from fortunes close-floole, eo giue to a Nobleman. Looke heere he comes himselfe.

Enter Lofest.

Clo. Heere is a purre of Fortunes fir, or of Fortunes Cat, but not a Muitat, that ha's false into the violence fish-pond of her displicature, and as he fayes is muddied withall. Pray you fir, vie the Carpe 22 you may, for he lookes like a poore decayed, ingenious, foolish, raically knaue. I doe pittle his distresse is my smiles of comfort, and leave him to your Lordship.

Par. My Lord I am a man whom fortune hath cruelly fcratch'd.

Lef. And what would you have me to doe? 'Tis too late to paire her nailes now. Wherein have you played the knawe with fortune that the should stratch you, who of her selfe is a good Lady, and would not have knawe thrine long under? There's a Cardecue for you: Let the Justices make you and fortune friends; I am for other businesse.

Par. I beleech your honous to heare mee one lingle word,

Laf. you begge a fingle peny more: Come you shall ha't, faue your word.

For. My name my good Lord is Parroller.

Laf. You begge more then word then. Cox my paffron, give meyour hand: How does your drumme?

Par. Omy good Lord, you were the fift that found

Lof. Was I infooth? And I was the first that loft thee.
Par. It lies in you my Lord to bring me infome grace for you did bring me out.

Los. Our vyouther knowe, doct thou put vyou mee stones both the office of God and the duel: one brings there in groce, and the other brings there out. The Kings comming I know by his Trumpers. Sirrah, inquire further after me, I had talke of you last night, though you are a foole and a knowe, you shall eate, go too, follow.

Per. I praise God for you.

Flourists. Enter King, old Lady, Lafere, the two French Lords, with attendents.

Nin. We left a lewell of her, and our effective Was made much poores by it a but your fonne.

As mad in folly, lack'd the fonce to know Her estimation home.

Old La. 'Tis post my Liege, And I befeech your Mainthie to make it Named rebellion, done i'th blade of youth, When oyle and the, too strong for seasons force, Ore-beares it, and burnes on.

Kin. My honous'd Lady,
I have forgiven and forgottenall,
Though my revenges were high bent voon him,
Andwarch dithe time to the ote.

Laf. This I must say,
But first I begge my pardon: the yong Lord
Did to his Maiesly, his Mother, and his Ladie,
Offence of mighty note; but to himselfe.
The greatest wrong of all. He lost a wise,
Whose beauty did associate the survey
Of richest cies: whose words all eares tooke captine,
Whose deere perfection, hearts that scorn'd to serve,

Humbly call'd Miftris.

Kin. Praising what is loft,
Makes the remembrance deere. Well, call him hither,
Weave reconcil'd, and the first view shall kill
All tepetition: Let him not aske our pardon,
The nature of his great offence is dead,
And deeper then oblition, we do burie
Th'incensing reliques of it. Let him approach
A stranger, no offender; and informe him
So 'tis our will he should.

Gent. I shall my Liege.

Kin. What sayes he to your daughter,
Have you spoke?

Laf. All that hers, hath reference so your Highnes.
Kin. Then shall we have a match. I have letters sent me, that sets him high in same.

Emer Count Bertram.

Laf. He looke: well on't

Kin. I am not a day of feafon,

Frino mails fee a fun-shine, and a haile

In me at once: But to the brightest beames

Distracted clouds give way, fostand thou forth,

The time is faire againe.

Ber. My high repented blames Deere Soueraigne pardon to me.

Kin. All is whole,
Not one word more of the confumed time,
Let's take the inflant by the forward top:
For we are old, and on our quick'fl decrees
Th'inaudible, and notifelesse foot of time
Steales, ere we can effect them. You remember
The daughter of this Lord?

Ber. Admiringly my Liege, at first Isucke my choice upon her, ere my heart Dust make too bold a herauld of my tongue t Where the impression of mine eye enfixing, Contempt his scornfull Perspective did lend me, Which warps the line, of everie other favour, Scorn'd a faire colour, or express it stolne, Extended or contracted all proportions To a most hideous obiest. Thence it came, That she whom all men prais'd, and whom my selse, Since I have lost'd, was in mine eye. The dust that did offend it.

Kin. Well excus'd: That thou didft love her, firikes fome feores away From the great compt : but love that comes too late. Like a remorfefull pardon flowly carried To the great fender, turnes a sowre offence, Crying, that's good that's gone: Our rash faults, Make triviall price of ferious things we have. Not knowing them, vntill we know their graue Oft our displeasures to our selucs uniust, Deftroy our friends, and after weepe their duft: Our owne love waking, cries to fee what's don,e While shamefull hate sleepes out the afternoone. Bethis (weet Helens knell, and now forget her. Send forth your amorous token for faire Mandlin, The maine confents are had, and heere wee'l stay To fee our widdowers fecond marriage day : Which better then the first. O deere heaven blesse, Or, erethey meete in me, O Nature ceffe.

Laf. Come on my fonne, in whom my houser name Must be digested: give a favour from you To sparkle in the spirits of my daughter,

That

That the may quickly come. By my old beard, And eu'rie haire that's on't, Helen that's dead Was a fweet creature: fuch a ring as this, The last that ere I rooke bur leave at Court, I law voon her finger.

Rer. Hers it was not.

King. Now pray you let me fee it. For mine eye, While I was speaking, oft was fasten'd too't: This Ring was mine, and when I gave it Heller, I bad her if her fortunes ever floode Necessitied to helpe, that by this token I would releeve her. Had you that craft to reace her Of what should stead her most?

Br. My gracious Soueraigne, Howere it pleases you to take it fo, The ring was neuer hers Old La. Sonne, on my life I have feene her weare it, and the reckon'd it At her lives rate.

Laf. 1 am fure I faw her weare it

Bor. You are deceiu'd my Lord, she never faw it : In Florence was it from a casement throwne mee, Wrap'd in a paper, which contain'd the name Ofher that threw it: Noble the was, and thought I floodingag'd , but when I had fub ferib'd To mine owne fortune, and inform'd her fully, I could not answer in that course of Honour As the had made the overture, the ceaft In heavie fatisfa Qion, and would never Receive the Ring againe.

Kin. Plane himselfe, That knowes the tind and multiplying med'cine, Hath not in natures mysterie more science, Then I have in this Ring. Twas mine, 'treas Helens,' Who ever gave it you: then if you know That you are well acquainted with your felfe, Confesse 'twas hers, and by what rough enforcement You got it from her. She cell'd the Saints to fareue, That the would never put it from her finger, Valefie she gave it to your selfe in bed, Where you have never come : or fent it vs

Vpon her great disafter. Rer. She neuer faw it.

Kin. Thou speak'ft it 'falsely : as I loue mine Honor, And mak it connecturall feares to come into me, Which I would fame th it out, if it should prove That thou art fo inhumane, 't will not proue fo: And yet I know not, thou didft hate her deadly, And the is dead, which nothing but to close Her eyes my felfe, could win me to beleeue, More then to fee this Ring. Take him away My fore-past proofes, how ere the matter fall Shall taze my feares of little vanitle, Hauing vainly fear'd too little. Away with him, Wee'l life this matter further.

Ber. It you shall proue This Ring was ouer hers, you shall as easie Prove that I husbanded her bed in Florence, Where yet Meneuer was.

Enser a Gentleman. King. I am wrap d in difmall thinkings. Gen. Gracious Soueraigne. Whether I have beene too blame or no, I know not, Here's a petition from a Florentine, Who hath for foure or five temoues come thort, To tender it her felfe. I undertooke it, Vanquish'd thereto by the faire grace and speech Of the proce Suppliant, who by this I know Is heere according, her bufineffe looker in her With an imposing vilage, and the told me In a fweet verball breeie, it did concerne Your Highnesse with her selfe.

A. Letter

Upon his many protoff assens to marrie mee when his wife was dead, I blush to for it, be wenne me. Now wthe Connt Ros. fillion a Widdower, bu vowes are forfested to mee, and my bonors paged to biss. Hee flole from Florence, taking no leave, and I follow birs to his Country for Infice . Grant or me, O King, in you is best lies, orberusse a seduces flowtilbes, Did a poore Maid is undons

Diana Capilet. Laf. I will buy me a sonne in Law in a faire, and toule for this. Henonr ofhim.

Kin. The liesuens have thought well on thee Lafen, To bring forth this discourie, feeke these succes .

Go speedily, and bring againe the Count.

Enter Bertram. I am a-feard the life of Hellen (Ladie)

Was fowly fnatcht.

Old La. Now justice on the docrs

Ring. I wonder fir, fir, wives are monflers to you, And that you flye them as you sweare their Lording, Yet you desire to marry. What woman s that?

Enter Widdow, Diana, and Parrolles.

Dia. I am my Lord a wrerched Florentine, Derived from the ancient Capilet, My fuite as I do vnder frand you know

And therefore know how farre I may be pittied wid. I amher Mother fir, whose age and honour Both fuffer under this complaint we bring, And both shall cease, without your temedie.

Kung. Come hether Count, do you know these Women?

Ber. My Lord, I neither can nor will denie, But that I know them, do they charge me further?

Dia. Why do you looke so strange whon your wife? Ber. She's none of mine my Lord.

Dia. If you'shall marrie You give away this hand, and that is mine, You give away heavens vowes, and those are mine You give away my felfe, which is knowne mine. For I by vow am to embodied yours, That the which marries you, must marrie me, Either both or none.

Lef. your reputation comes too fhort for my daugh-cer, you are no husband for her.

Ber. My Lord, this is a fond and desp rate creature, Whom sometime I have laugh'd with: Let your highnes Lay a more noble thought vpon mine honour. Then for to thinke that I would finke it heere.

Kin. Sit for my thoughts, you have them il to friend, Till your deeds gaine them fairer : proue your hower,

Then in my thought it lies. Dian. Good my Lord,

Aske him vpon his oath, if hee do's thinke He had not my virginity.

Kin. What faift thou to her? Ber. She's impudent my Lord,

And was a common gamefer to the Campe. DM. He do's me wrong my Lord : If I were lo,

He might have bought me at a common price.

Do

Do not beleeve him. O behold this Ring, Whole high respect and rich validitie Did lacke a Paralell : yet for all that He gaueit to a Commoner s'th Campe

Coun He blushes, and 'tis hit : Of fixe preceding Ancestors, that Jemme Confer'd by testament to th sequent issue Hath it beene owed and worne. This is his wife,

That Ring's a thousand proofes
King. Me thought you saide

You saw one heere in Court could witnesse it. Dia. Idid my Lord, but loath am to produce

So badan instrument, his names Parrolles. Laf. Isaw the man to day, if man he bee. Kin, Finde him, and bring him hether

Rof. What of him:

He s quoted for a most perfidious slave With all the spots a'th world, taxt and debosh d, Whose nature fickens : but to speake a truth, Am I, or that or this for what he'l vtter, That will speake any thing.

Km. She hath that Ring of yours.

Rof. I thinke the has; certaine it is llyk'd her, And boorded her i'th wanton way of youth She knew her distance, and did angle for mee, Madding my eagernesse with her restraint, As all impediments in fancies course Are motiues of more fancie, and in fine, Her infuite comming with her moderne grace, Subdu'd me to her rate, the got the Ring And I had that which any inferiour might At Market price have bought.

Dis. I must be patient You that have turn'd ff a first so noble wife, May suffly dyet me. I pray you yet. (Since you lacke vertue, I will loofe a husband) Send for your Ring, I will returne it home, And give me mine againe.

Ros. I haue it not.

Kin. What Ring was yours I pray you?
Dian. Sir much like the same vpon your finger Kin. Know you this Ring, this Ring was his of late Dia. And this was it I gave him being a bed. Km. The story then goes falle, you threw it him

Out of a Calement. Enter Parolles. Dia, I have spoke the truth. Rof. My Lord, I do confesse the ring was hers.

Kin. You boggle threwdly, every feather states you . Is this the man you speake of?

Dia. I, my Lord.

Kin. Tell me firrah, but tell me true I charge you, Not fearing the displeasure of your master. Which on your suft proceeding, He keepe off, By him and by this woman heere, what know you?

Par. So please your Maiesty, my master hath bin an honourable Gentleman Trickes hee hath had in him, which Gentlemen haue.

Kin. Come, come, to'th' purpose : Did hee loue this woman ?

Per. Faith fit he did loue her, but how.

Kin. How I pray you?

Par. He did loue her sir, as a Gent. loues a Woman

Kin. How is that?

Par. He lou'd her fir, and lou'd her not.

Kin. As thou are a knaue and no knaue, what an equi-uocall Companion is this?

Per. I am a poote man and at your Maiesties com-

Lef. Hee's a good drumme my Lord, but a naughtie

Dean. Do you know he promist me marriage?

Par, Faith I know more then Ile speake.

Kin. But wilt thou not speake all thou know (8?

Par Yes lo please your Maiesty: I did goe betweene them as I faid, but more then that he loued her, for indeede he was madde for her, and talkt of Sathan, and of Limbo, and of Furies, and I knownot what: yet I was in that credit with them at that time, that I knewe of their going to bed, and of other motions, as promising her marriage, and things which would derive mee ill will to speake of, therefore I will not speake what I know.

Kin. Thou hast spoken all alreadie, vnlesse thou canst Tay they are marled, but thou art too fine in thy euidence, therefore stand aside. This Ring you say was yours.

Dia. I my good Lord.

Kin. Where did you buy It? Or who gaue it you?

Dia. It was not given me, nor I did not buy it.

Kin. Who lent it you?

Dia. It was not lent me neither

Kin. Where did you finde it then?

Dia I found it not

Km. If it were yours by none of all these wayes, How could you give it him?

Dea I neuer gaue it him.
Laf. This womans an cache gloue my Lord, the goes off and on at pleasure.

Kin. This Ring was mine, I gave it his first wife. Dia. It might be yours or hers for ought I know.

Kin. Take her away, I do not like her now, To prison with her : and away with him, Vnlesse thou tels me where thou hads this Ring, Thou diest within this houre.

Dia. He neuer tell you.

Kin. Take her sway.

Dia. Ile put in baile my liedge.

Kin. I thinke thee now some common Customer.

Dia. By loue if euer I knew man'twas you.

King. Wherefore hast thou accused him al this while.

Dea. Because he's guiltie, and he is not guilty : He knowes I am no Maid, and hee'l sweare too't i He sweare I am a Maid, and he knowes not. Great King I am no strumpet, by my life, Lam either Maid, or else this old mans wife.

Kin. She does abuse our eares, to prison with her. Dia. Good mother fetch my bayle. Stay Royall fir, The Ieweller that owes the Ring is fent for, And he shall furcey me. But for this Lord, Who hath abus'd me as he knowes himfelfe, Though yet he neuer harm'd me, heere I quit him. He knowes himselse my bed he hath defil'd, And at that time he got his wife with childe: Dead though she be, she feeles her yong one kicke : So there's my riddle, one that a dead is quicke, And now behold the meaning.

Enter Hellen and Widdow.

Kin. Is thereno exorelft Beguiles the truer Office of mine eyes? Is't reall that I fee ?

Hel. No my good Lord,

254

Alls Well, that Ends Well.

Tis but the Modow of a wife you les, The name, and not the thing.

Ref. Both, both, Opardon
Hel. Olimy good Lord, when I was like this Maid,
I found you wondrous kinde, there byour Ring, And looke you, heeres your letter this it fayes, When from my finger you can get this Ring, And is by me with childe, &c. This modone, Will you be mine now you are doubly wonne?

Ref. Inthe my Liege can make me know this clearly,

He love het dearely, euer, euer dearly.

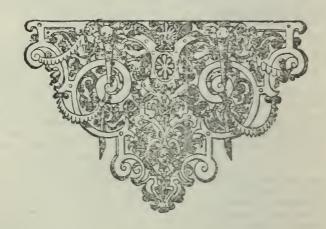

Hel. If it appeare not plaine, and proue vntrue, Deadly divorce flep betweene me and gon O my deere mother do I fee you living?

Laf. Mine eyes fmell Onlons, I thall weepe anon a Good Tom Drumme lend me a handkercher. So I thanke thee, walte on me home, He make sport with thee: Let thy curther alone, they are fourny ones.

Kmg Let ve from point to point this florie know, To make the even truth in pleasure flow : If thou beeft yet a fresh vneropped flower, Choose thou thy husband, and He pay thy dower. For I can gueffe, that by thy hor eft ayde, Thou kepth a wife her felfe, thy felfe a Maide Of that and all the progreds more and lefte, Resolduedly more leasure shall expresse: All yet seemes well, and if it end so meere, The bitter past, more welcome is the sweet. Flouryb.

He Kirgia Begger, now she Play is done, Als well ended, of the fute be wones, That you expresse Conserie which we will pay. Wish strift to please you, day exceeding day : Ours be your passence shen, and yours our parts, Your gentle bands lend us, and take our bearts. Exeunt omn

FINIS.

Twelfe Night, Or what you will.

Actus Primus, Scana Prima.

Enter Orfico Duke of Illyria, Carro, and other

FMuficke be the food of Loue, play on, Gwemeexcelle of it : that furfetting, The appetite may licken, and fo dye

That frame agen, it had a dying fall:

O, it came one my care, like the fweet found That breather vpon a banke of Violets; Stealing, and giving Odour Enough, no more, Tis not fo (weet now, as it was before. O spirit of Loue, how quicke and fresh art thou, That not withstanding thy capacitie,
Receiveth as the Sea Nought enters there, Of what validity, and pitch fo etc, But falleranto abatement, and low price Even in a minute; fo full of shapes is fancio, That it alone, is high fantasticall

CM. Will you go huat my Lord?

DM. What Carto?

Cu. The Hart.

Du. Why fo I do, the Noblest that I hene ! O when mine eyes did fee Olinia fielt, Me thought the purg'd the ayre of peffilence; That instant was I turn'd into a Hart, And my defires like fell and cruell hounds, Ere fince purfue me. How now what newes from her?

Enter Valentine.

Val. So please my Lord, I might not be admitted, Bucfrom her handmaid do returne this answer. The Element it felfe, till feuen yeares heate, Shall not behold her face at ample view t But like a Cloyftreffe the will vailed walke, And water once a day her Chamber round With eye-offending brine sall this to leafon A brothers dead love, which she would keepe fresh And lasting, in her sad remembrance.

Du. O she that hath a heart of that fine frame To pay this debt of loue but to 2 brother, How will the love, when the rich golden shaft Hath kill'd the flocke of all affections elfe That live in her. When Liver, Braine, and Heart, These sourraigne thrones, are all supply'd and fill'd Her sweete perfections with one felfe king a Away before me, to fweet beds of Flowres Loue-thoughts lyerich, when canopy'd with bowres, Scena Secunda

Enter Viola, a Captaine and Seplors.

Vio. What Country (Friends) is this? Cap. This is Illyria Ladic.
Fig. And what should I do in Illyria?

My brother he is in Elizium,

Perchance he is not drown'd : What thinke you faylors? Cap. It is perchance that you your felfe were faued.

Vio. O my poore brother, and fo perchance may he be. Cap. True Madam, and to comfort you with chance, Affure your felfe, after our thip did Iplic, When you, and those poore number saued with you, Hung on our driving boate : I faw your brother Most prouident in perill, binde himfelfe. Courage and hope both reaching him the practife) To a strong Maste, that siu d vpon the sea: Where like Orion on the Dolphines backe,

I faw him hold acquaintance with the waves, So long as I could fee.

Vio. For saying so, there & Gold : Mine owne elespe vnfoldeth to my hope, Whereto thy speech serves for authoritie The like of him. Know it thou this Countrey?

Cap. I Madam well, for I was bred and berne Not three houses trauaile from this very place.

Vio. Who governes heere?
Cap. A noble Duke in nature, as in name.
Vio. What is his name?

Cap. Orfino.

Vio. Orfino : I have heard my facher name him. He was a Barchellor then.

Cap. And fo is now, or was fo very late : For but a month ago I went from hence, And then 'twas feells in murmure (az you know What great ones do, the leffe will prattie of,) That he did seeke the love of faire Olima

Via What's Thee?

Exenni

Cap. A vertuous maid, the daughter of a Count That dide some tweluemonth since, then lesuing her In the protection of his sonne, her brother, Who shortly also dide: for whose decre loue (They fay) the hath abiur'd the fight And company of men.

Vio. O that I feru'd that Lady, And might not be delivered to the world

X 2

Till I had made mine owne occasion mellow What ray efface is.

Cap. That were hard to compalle. Because the will admit no kinde of faite,

No, not the Dukes.

Vio. There is a faire behausour in thee Captaine, And though that nature, with a beauteous wall Doth of clo fe in pollution . yet of thee I will beleeue thou halt a minde that fuites With this thy faire and outward charra der, I prethee (and lie pay thee bounteoully) Conceale me what I am, and be my ayde, For such disguse as haply shall become The forme of my intent. He serue this Duke, Thou shalt present me as an Eunuch to him, It may be worth thy paines : for I can ling, And speake to him in many forts of Muficke, That will allow me very worth his service. What elfe may hap, to time I will commit, Onely shape thou thy filence to my wit. Cap. Be you his Eunuch, and your Mute le bee,

When my rongue blabs then let mine eyes not fee Vio. I thanke thee : Lead me on.

Scana Tertia.

Enter Ser Toby, and Maria.

Sir To. What a plague meanes my Neece to take the death of her brother thus? I am fure care's an enemie to

Mar. By my troth fit Toby, you must come in earlyet anights : your Cofin, my Lady, takes great exceptions to your ill houtes.

To. Why let her except, before excepted

Ma. I, but you must confine your selfe within the modest limits of order.

To, Confine? He confine my selfe no finer then I am t thefe cloathes are good enough to drinke in, and fo bee these boots too : and they be not, let them hang themselves in their owne straps.

Ma. That quaffing and drinking will undoe you : I heard my Lady talke of it yesterday : and of a soolish knight that you brought in one night here, to be hir woer

To. Who, Sir Andrew Agme-cheeke?

To. He's astall a man as any's in Illyma.

Ma. What s that to the purpose?
To. Why he ha's three thousand ducates a yeare. Ma. I, but hee'l have but a yeare in all these ducates :

He's a very foole, and a prodigall.

To. Fie, that you'l fay fo : he playes o'th Viol-de-gamboys, and speaks three or four languages word for word without booke, & hath all the good gifts of nature.

Ma. He hath indeed, almost naturall : for befides that be's a foole, he's a great quarreller : and but that hee hath the gift of a Coward, so allay the guft he hath in quartelling, 'tis thought among the prudent, he would quickely have the gift of a grave.

Tob. By this hand they are scoundreds and subfira-

Aors that fay fo ofhim. Who are they?

Ms. They that adde moreour, hec's drunke nightly in your company.

To, With drinking healths to my Neece: He drinke to ber as long as there is a passage in my throat, & drinke in Illyria : he's a Coward and a Coyffrill that will not drinke to my Neece till his braines turne o'th toe, like a parish top. What wench? Castiliano valgo for here com Sit Andrew Aguaface.

Emer Str Andrew.

And. Six Tuby Bolch. How now for Toby Bolch?

To. Sweet hu Andrew.

And, Blelle you faire Shrew.

Mar. And you too fir.

Tob. Accost Six Andrew, accost.

And What's that?

To. My Neeces Chamber-maid.

Ma Good Mistris accost, I desue better acquaiocance

Ma. My name is Mary fir.

And. Good miftris May, accost.

To, You mistake knight a Accost, is front her, boord her, woe her, allayle her.

And By my troth I would not undertake ber in this company. Is that the meaning of Accos?

Ma. Far you well Gentlemen.

To. And thou let part to Sit Andrew, would thou mightft neuer draw (word agen

And, And you part formiffers, I would I might never draw (word agen : laire Lady, doe you thinke you bave fooler in band?

Ma. Sir, I have not you by the hand.

An. Marry but you shall have, and heeres my band. Ma. Now fir, thought is free : I pray you bring your hand to'th Buttry barre, and let it drinke.

An. Wherefore (sweet-hearts) What's your Meta-

Ma It's dry fir.

and Why I thinke fo I am not fuch an affe, but 1 can keepe my hand dry. But what's your self?

Ma A dry sell Sit.

And. Are you full of them?

Ma.I Sir, I have them at my fingers ends: marry now. I let go your hand, I sin batren.

To, O knight, thou lack'it a cop of Canarie: when did

I fee thee fo put downe?

An. Neuer in your life I thinke, enlesse you see Canatie pui me downe : mee thinkes sometimes I haue no more wit then a Christian, or an ordinary man ha's but I am a great cater of beefe, and I beleeve that does harme to my wit.

Ta No question.

An. And I thought that, I'de forfwezre it. The ride home to morrow fir Toby.

To. Pur- gaoy my deere knight?

An. What is purques? Do, or not do? I would I had bestowed that time in the tongues, that I have in feneing dancing, and beare-bayting : O had I but followed the

To. Then hadft theu had an excellent head of haire.

An. Why, would that have mended my haire !

To. Past question, for thou feest it will not coole my An. But it become we well enough, doft not? (nature To. Excellent, it hangs like flax ou a diffaffe: & I hope to fee a hulwife take thee between her legs, & fpin it off.

An. Faith Ile home to morrow fir Toby, your niece wil not be seene, or if she be it's four to one, she'l none of me:

the Connt himselfe here hard by, wooes her, To. Shee'l pone o'th Count, The'l not match about his degree, neither in estate, yeares, nor wit . I have heard her lweart. Tuttbere's hie in't inan.

And. He stay a moneth longer. I am a fellow o'th strangest minde i'th world: I delight in Maskes and Revels tometime a altogether

To. Art thou good at these kicke-chawses Knight? And. As any man in Illyria, what foeuer he be, ander the degree of my betters, & yet I will not compare with an old man.

To. What is thy excellence in a galliard, knight?

And. Faith, I can cut a capet.

To. And I can cut the Mutton too't.

And. And I thinke I have the backe-tricke, simply as firong as any man in Illyria.

To. Wherefore are these things hid ? Wherefore have thefe gifts a Curtaine before 'em? Arethey like to iske dust, like mistris Mals picture? Why dost thou not goe to Church in a Galliard, and come home in a Carranio? My verie walke should be a ligge: I would not so much as make water but in a Sinke-a-pace; What dooest thou meane? Is it a world to hide verrues in ? I did thinke by the extellent confluction of thy legge, it was form'd vnder the flarre of a Galliard

And, 1, 'tis firong, and it does indifferent well in a dam'd colour'd flocke. Shall we fit about some Reuels?

To. What shall we do else: were we not borne vnder

Taurus?

And. Taurus? That sides and heart.

To. No fir, it is leggs and thighes : let me fee thee caper. Ha, higher: ha, ha. excellent.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Valentine, and Viola in mans attire.

Val. If the Duke continue thefe fauours towards you Cefario, ynu are like to be much aduane'd, he hath known you but three dayes, and already you are no ftranger.

Vio. You either feare his humour, or my negligence, that you call m question the continuance of his loue. Is he inconstant sir, in his fauours. Val. No beleeue me.

Enter Duke, Curio and Attendante. Vio. I thanke you : heere comes the Count.

Date. Who law Cefario hos?

Vio. On your arrendance my Lord heere. Du Stand you a-while aloofe. Cefario, Thou knowst no lesse, but all : I have vnclasp'd To thee the booke even of my fectet foule. Therefore good youth, addresse thy gate vnto her, Be not deni'de accesse, stand at her doores. And tell them, there thy fixed foot shall grow

Till thou have audience. Vio. Sure my Noble Lord,

If she be so abandon'd to her fortow As it is spoke, the neuer will admit me.

Du, Be clamorous, and leape all civill bounds,

Rather then make onprofited returne,

Fia. Say I do speake with her (my Lord) what then?

Du. Othen, enfold the passion of my loue, Surprize her with discourse of my deere faith; It shall become thee well to act my woes: She will attend it better in thy youth, Then in a Nuntio's of more grave aspea.

Pro I thinkenot fo, my Lord. Du. Deere Lad, beleevelt ;

For they thall yet belye thy happy yeeres, That fay thou are a man : Dianas lip Is not more smooth, and rubious : thy small pipe Is as the maidens organ, shrill, and found, And all is femblative a womans part. I know thy constellation is right apt For this affayre : some source or five attend him, All if you will ; for I my felfe am best When least in companie : prosper well in this, And thou shalt live as freely as thy Lord, To call his fortunes thine.

Vio. 11e do my best

To woe your Lady: yet a barrefull strife, Who ere I woe, my felfe would be his wife.

Exercit.

Scena Quinta.

Enser Maria and Clowne.

Ma. Nay, either tell me where thou hast bin, or I will not open my lippes fo wide as a brifsle may enter, in way of thy excuse: my Lady will hang there for thy absence.

Clo. Let her hang me ; hee that is well hang'de in this world, needs to feare no colours.

Ma. Make that good.

Clo. He shall see none to feare.

Me. A good lenton answer : I can tell thee where $ faying was borne, of I feare no colours.

Clo. Where good mistris Mary?

Ma. In the warrs, & that may you be bolde to fay in your foolerie.

Clo. Well, God give them wisedome that have it : & those that are fooles, let them vie their talents.

Ma. Yet you will be hang'd for being fo long absent, or to be turn'd away : is not that as good as a hanging to

clo. Many a good hanging, prevents a bad marriage: and for turning away, let fummer beare it out.

Ma. You are resolute then?

Clo Noc so neyther, but I am resolu'd on two points Ma. That if one breake, the other will hold: or if both breake, your gaskins fall.

Clo. Apt in good faith, very apt. well go thy way, if fir Toby would leave drinking, thou wert as witty a piece of Ener flesh, as any in Illyria

Ma. Peace you rogue, no more o'that: here comes my Lady i make your excuse wisely, you were best.

Enter Lady Olivia, with Maluelio.

Cls. Wit, and't be thy will, put me into good fooling . those wits that thinke they have thee, doe very oft proue fooles: and I that am fure i lacke thee, may passe for a wife man. For what faies Quinapalus, Betrer a witty foole. then a foolish wir. God blesse thee Lady.

Ol. Take the foole away

Clo. Do you not heare fello ves, take away the Ladie.

Ol. Go too, y'are a dry foole; He no more of yourbe-fider you grow dif-honelt.

Clo. Two faults Madona, that drinke & good counfell wil amend : for give the dry foole drink, then is the foole not dry: bid the dishonest man mend himself, fhe mend, he is no longer dishonest; if hee cannot, let the Botcher mend him : any thing that's mended, is but patch'd:vertu that transgresses, is but parcht with sime, and sin that amends, is but patcht with vertue. If that this simple Sillogisme will serve, so: if it will not, what remedy?

Y 3

Twelfe Night, or, What you will.

As there is no true Cuckold but calamity, fo beauties a flower; The Lady bad take away the foole, therefore I fay againe, take her away.

Ol. Sir, I bad them take away you.

Clo. Misprision in the highest degree. Lady, Cucullus wen facit monachum: that's as much to fay, as I weare not morley in my braine | good Madona, give mee leave to proue your a foole.

Ol. Can you do it?

Clo. Dexteriously, good Madons.

Ol. Make your proofe.

Cle. I must catechize you for it Madona, Good my Moule of vertue answer mee.

Ol. Well fir, for want of other idlenesse, He bide your proofe.

Clo. Good Madona, why mourns thou?

Ol. Good foole, for my brothers death.

Clo. I thinke his foule is in hell, Madona,

Ol. I know his foule is in heaven, foole.

Clo The more foole (Madona) to mourne for your Brothers foule, being in heauen. Take away the Foole,

Ol. What thinke you of this foole Maluolio, doth he not mend?

Mal. Yes, and shall do, till the pangs of death shake him: Infirmity that decaies the wife, doth euer make the better foole.

Clow. God send you fir, a speedie Infirmity, for the better increasing your folly : Sit Toby will be sworn that I am no Fox but he wil not palle his word for two pence that you are no Foole.

Ol. How fay you to that Malsolio?

Mal. I maruell your Ladyship takes delight in such a barren rafcall : I faw him pur down the other day, with an ordinary foole, that has no more braine then a flone Looke you now, he's out of his gard already whiles you laugh and minister occasion to him, he is gag'd. I protest I take these Wisemen, that crow so at these see kinde of fooles, no better then the fonles Zanies.

Ol. O you are ficke of selfe-love Maluolio, and take with a disteniper'd appetite. To be generous, guirleste. and of free disposition, is to take those things for Birdbolts, that you decme Cannon bullets: There is no flander in an allow'd foole, though he do nothing but rayle; nor no rayling, in a knowne difereet mian, though hee do nothing but reprove.

Cla Now Mercury induction with leafing, for thou speak'it well of fooles.

Enter Maria.

Mar. Madam, there is at the gate, a young Gentleman, much desires to speake with you

Ol. From the Count Orfino, 15 it?

Ma I know not (Madam) 'tis'a faire young man, and well attended.

Of Who of my peuple hold him in delay :

Ma Sir Taby Madam, your kiniman.

Ol. Felch him off I pray you, he speakes nothing but niadman . Fie on liim. Go you Maluolio; Ifit be ai fuit from the Count, I am ficke, or not at home What you will, to dismisse it. Exit Malpa. Now you see fir , how your fooling growes old, & people diflike it.

Clo Thou halt spoke for vs (Madona) as if thy eldelt sonne should be a soole : who se scull, sour cramme with braines, for heere he comes. Enser Sir Toby.

One of thy kin has a most weake Pia-maier.

Of By mine honor belfe drunke What is be as the gate Cofin ?

To. A Gentleman.

Ol. A Gentleman? What Gentleman?

To. Tis a Gentleman heere. A plague o'thefe pickle herring: Hownow Sot.

Cle Good Sit Toby.

Ol. Colin, Colin, how have you come to earely by this Lethargie?

To Letcherie, I defie Letchery there's one at the gate.

Of Imatry, what is he?

To. Let him be the druell and he will, I care pot: groc me faith fay I. Well, it's all one.

01. What's a drunken man like, foole?

Clo. Like a drown'd man, a foole, and a madde man. One draught about heate, makes him a foole, the fecond maddes him, and a third drownes him,

OL Gothou and feeke the Crowner, and let him fitte o'my Coz : for he s in the third degree of drinke : hee's drown'd : go looke after him.

Clo He is bui mad yet Madona, and the foole shall looke to the madman

Enter Maluolio.

Mal Madam, yond young fellow (weates hee will fpeake with you. I told him you were ficke, he takes on him to vinderstand so much, and therefore comes to speak with you I told him you were affecpe, he feems to have a fore knowledge of that too, and therefore comes to speake with you. What is to be laid to hun Ladie, hee's fortified against any denials

OL Tell him, he hall not speake with me

Mal. Ha's beene told fo: and hee fages hee I fland at your doore like a Sheriffes post, and be the supporter to a bench, but hee'l speake with you.

Ol. What kinde o'man is he?

Mal. Why of mackinde. Ol What manner of man?

Mal. Of verie ill manner heel speake with you, will you, or no

Ol. Of what personage, and yeeres is he?

Mal. Not yet old enough for a man, nor yong enough for a boy : as a fquash is before tis a percod, or a Codling when the almost an Apple: Tis with him in standing wa ter, betweene boy and man. He is verie well-fauour d, and he speakes verie shrewishly: One would thinke his mothers milke were fearfe out of him

Of Let him approach : Call in my Gentlewoman.

Mel. Gentlewoman, my Lady calles. FXE Enter Maris.

Ol. Give me my vaile : come throw it ore my face, Weel once more heare Orfinos Embassie.

Enter Violenta.

Vio. The honorable Ladie of the house, which is the? Ol. Speake to me, I shall answer for her . your will

Um. Most radiant, exquisite, and vnmatchable beau tie. I pray you tell me if this bee the Lady of the house, for I neuer lawher. I would bee loath to call away my speech : for besides ilsat it is excellently well pend, I have taken great paines to conit. Good Beauties, let mee fo-Raineno scorne; I am very comptible, even to the least linister vlage.

Ol. Whence came you fir?

Vio. I can say little more then I have fludied, & that question's out of my part. Good gentle one, giue mee modelt affurance, if you be the Ladie of the house, that may proceede in my speech.

Ol. Are you a Comedian?

Vio. No my profound heart t and yet (by the verie phangs of malice, I fweare) I am not that I play. Are you the Ladie of the house?

Ol. If I do not vsurpe my selfe, I am.

Vio. Most certaine, if you are she, you do vsurp your selfe. for what is yours to bestowe, is, not yours to referue. But this is from my Commission: I will on with my speech in your praise, and then shew you the heart of my message.

Ol. Come to what is important in tal forgive you the praise.

Vio Alas, I tooke great paines to fludie it, and itis

Poeticall.

Of. It is the more like to be feigned, I pray you keep it in. I heard you were fawey at my gates, & allowd your approach rather to wonder at you, then to heare you. If you be not mad, be gone: if you have reason, be breefer its not that time of Moone with me, to make one in so skipping a dialogue.

Ma. Will you hoyst sayle fir, here lies your way.

Vio. No good swabber, I am to hull here a little longer. Some mollification for your Giant, sweete Ladie; tell me your minde, I am a messenger.

Of Sure you have fome hiddeous matter to deliver, when the curtefie of it is so fearefull Speake your office.

Vio Italone concernes your care: I bring no overture of warre, no taxation of homage; I hold the Olyffe in my hand: my words are as full of peace, as matter.

Ol. Yet you began tudely. What are you?

What would you!

Via. The rudenesse that hath appear'd in mee, have I learn d from my entertainment. What I am, and what I would, are as secret as inaiden-head; to your eares, Divinity; to any others, prophanation.

Ol. Gine vs the place alone.

We will heare this divinitie. Now fir, what is your text?

Vio Mossweet Ladic

Of A comfortable doftrine, and much may bee saide of it Where hes your Text?

Vio In Orfinoca bolome

Of In his bolome? In what chapter of his bolome?
For To answer by the method in the first of his hart.

Ol. O, I haue readit: it is heresie. Haue you no more to say?

Vio. Good Madam, let me see your lace.

Of. Have you any Commission from your Lord, to negotiate with my face: you are now out of your Text but we will draw the Curtain, and shew you the picture. Looke you fir, sich a one I was this present. Ift not well done?

Vio Excellently done, if God did all.

Ol. Tis in graine fir, 'twill endure winde and weather

Via. Tis beauty truly blent, whose red and white, Natures owne (weet, and cumning hand laid on: Lady, you are the cruell A shee aliue.

If you will leade thele graces to the graue, And leave the world no copie.

Of O fir, I will not be so hard-hearted: I will give out divers seedules of my beautie. It shalbe Inventoried and every particle and viensile labell'd to my will. As Item two lippes indifferent redde, Item two grey eyes, with lids to them: Item, one necke, one chin, & so forth.

Were you fent hither to praife me!

Vio. I fee you what you are, you are roo proud:
But if you were the diueli, you are faire
My Lord, and mafter loues you: O fuch love
Could be but recompene'd, though you were crown d
The non-pareil of beautle.

Ol. How does he loue me?

Vio, With adorations, fertill teares,

With groanes that thunder love, with fighes of fire.

Ol. Your Lord does know my mind, I cannot love hum
Yet I suppose him vertuous, know him noble,
Of great estate, of firesh and stainlesse youth;
In voyces well divulged, free, learn d, and valiant,
And in dimension, and the shape of nature,
A gracious person; But yet I cannot love him s
He might have tooke his answer long ago.

Vio, If I did loue you in my mafters flame, With fuch a fuffring, fuch a deadly life. In your deniall, I would finde up fence,

I would not understand it.

Ol. Why, what would you?
Vio. Make me a willow Cabine at your gate,
And call vpon my foule within the houfe,
Write loyal! Cantons of contemned loue,
And fing them lowd even in the dead of night:
Hallow your name to the reverberate hilles,
And make the babling Gossip of the arre,
Cry out Olivia: O you should not rest
Betweene the elements of ayre, and earth,
But you should pittie me.

Ol. You might do much i What is your Parentage?

Vio. About my fortunes, yet my flate is well a lam a Gentleman.

Of Get you to your Lord:
I cannot love him: let him lend no more,
Vn!esse(perchance) you come to me againe,
To tell me how he takes it: Fare you well:
I thanke you for your paines: spend this for mee.

Vm. Sam no feede poalt, Lady; keepe your purfe,
My Master, not my felfe, lackes recompence.
Lone make his heart of flint, that you shalloue,
And let your ferwour like my masters be,
Placid in contempt. Fatwell fayre crueltie.

Ot. What is your Parentage?
About my fortunes, yet my flate is well,
I am a Gentleman I le be iworne thou art,
Thy tongue, thy face, thy limbes, actions, and spirat.
Do give the five-fold blazon: not too fast folt, fost,
Vilesse the Malter were the man. How now?
Even so quickly may one catch the plague?
Methinkes I seele this youths persections
With an inussible, and subtle steath
To creepe in at inneeyes. Well, let it be.
What hos, Maluolo.

Emer Ataluolio.

Mal Heere Madam, at your feruice.
Of Runafter that fame pecuish Messenger
The Countes man: he lest this Ring behinde him
Would I, or not itell him, He none of it.
Desire him not to flatter with his Lord.
Not hold him vp with hopes, I am not for him:
It that the youth will come this way to morrow.
He give him teasons for to hie thee Malvolio.
Mal Madam, I will.

Ol I do I know not what, and feate to finde Mine eye too great a flatterer for my minde t

Falc

Exil.

Pare, flew thy force, our felues we do not owe, What is decreed, must be and be this fo.

Fluis, Actus primus.

Allus Secundus, Scana prima.

Enter Antonio & Seballian.

Ant. Will you flay no langer : nor will you not that

I go with you.

Ouer me; the malignancie of my flarres shine darkely ouer me; the malignancie of my fate, might peshaps distemper yours; therefore I shall crave of you your leave, that I may beare my eails alone. It were a bad recompence for your love, to lay any of them on you.

An. Let me yet know of you, whither you are bound. Seb. blo footh fir: my determinate voyage is meere extrauagancie. But I perceiue in you so excellent at ouch of modestie, that you will not extert from me, what I am villing to keepe in: therefore it charges me in manners, therather to expresse my selfe: you must know of mee then Antonio, my name is Sebastian (which I call'd Rodorigo) my sather was that Sebastian of Assaina, whom I know you have heard of. He lest behinde him, my selfe, and a fister, both botne in an houre: if the Heanens had been epleased, would we had so ended. But you sit, also ter'd that, for some houre before you tooke me from the breach of the sea, was my sister drown'd.

Ant. Alas the day.

Seb. A Lady fir, though it was faid fine much refembled me, was yet of many accounted beautiful; but thogh I could not with fuch effithable wonders over fatte beleeue hat, yet thus fatte I will boldly publish her, shee borea minde that enuy could not but call faire: Shee is drown'd already fir with falt water, though I sceme to drown het remembrance againe with mote.

Ant. Pardon me sir, your bad entertainment.

Seb. O good Autania, forgiue me your crouble.

Ant. If you will not murthet me for my love, let mee be your fernant.

Seb. If you will not vindo what you have done, that is kill him, whom you have tecouer'd, defire it not. Fare ye well at once, my bosome is full of kindnesse, and I am yet so neere the manners of my mother, that vpon the least occasion more, mine eyes will tell tales of me: I am bound to the Count Orlino's Court, fareviel.

Ast. The gentlenesse of all the gods go with thee:
I have many enemies in Orlino's Court,
Eife would I very facility see thee there:
Sur come what may I do adors thee so

But come what may, I do adote thee fo, That danger shall seeme sport, and I will go.

Scana Secunda.

Enter Viola and Malaolio, at several doores.

Mul. Wete not you en'n now, with the Counteste Oliuse?

Vio. Even now fir, on a moderate pace, I have fince ariv'd but hither.

Mal. She returnes this Ring to you (fir) you might have faued meemy paines, to have taken it away your felfe. She adds moreover, that you fnould put your Lord into a despersue assurance, the will none or him. And one thing more, that you be never so hardse so come agains in his assure, valesse in his assure. Lords taking of this : receive it so.

Vio. She tooke the Ring of me, Ile ocne of k.

Mal. Come fit, you peruifully threw it to her r and her will is, it should be so returned: If it her worth shoping for, there it hes, in your eye: if not, bee it his that findes it.

Exc.

Vio. 1 left no Ring with her: what meanes this Lady? Fortune forbid my out-fide have not chanted ber: She made good riew of me, indeed fo much, That me thought her eyes had lost her tongue, For the did speake in fares diffrededly. She loves me fure, the coming of her palsion Invites me in this churlish mellenger: None of my Lords King? Why be feat her cone; I am the man, if it be fo astis, Poore Lady, the were better loue a dreame: Difguile, I fee thou art a wickedneffe. Wherein the pregnant enemie does much. How case is it, for the propor talle In womens waren hearts to fet their formes: Alas, O frailtle is the cause, not wee, For fach as we are made, if fach we bec: How will this fadge? My mafter lours her deerely. And I (poore moniter) fond almuch on him: And Bie (millaken) fermes to dote on mes What will become of this? As I am mao, 7-ly flate is desperate for my musters lour; As I am woman (now also the day)
What thriftleffe fighes finall poore Olima breath? O time, thou must votengle this, not I, It is too hard a knot for me t'vaty.

· Scana · Tertia.

Emer Sir Toby, and Sir Ledica.

To. Approach Six Andrew: not to bee a bedde efter midnight, is to be vp betimes, and Deliculo furgire, thou know it.

And Nay by my troth I knownet: but I know, to be volare, is to be aplace.

To. A felle conclusion: I have it as an unfill'd Canne. To be up after midnight, and to go to bed then is early: so that to go to bed after midnight, is to go to bed bettimes. Does not our lives confit of the foure Elements?

And. Faith to they fay, but I thinke it rather cooffes of cating and drinking.

Exit.

To. Th'art a scholler; let vs therefore cete and draike.

Ester Classes.

And, Heere comes the fooley faith.

Clo. How now my barts: Did you never fee the Picture of we three?

To. Welcome affe, now let's have a carch.

And By my troth the foole has an excellent breaft. I had rather then forry shilling I had such a legge, and so sweet a breath to sing, as the soole has Insooth thou was in very gracious fooling last night, when thou spok it of Pryrogramius, of the Vaprant passing the Equino chal of Quantum: 'twas very good yfzith: I sent thee fixe pence for

for thy Lemon, hadft it?

Clo. I did impeticos thy gratillity: for Malnolios nose is no Whip-stocke. My Lady has a white hand, and the Mermidons are no bottle-ale houses.

An. Excellent : Why this is the best fooling, when all is done: Now a fong.

To. Come on, there is fixe pence for you. Let's have a fong.

An. There's a testrill ofme too : if one knight give a Cla. Would you have a love-long, or a long of good life?

To. A love long, a love long.

An. 1, L. I care not for good life.

Clowns fings

O Mistru mine where are you roming? Offer, and heare, your erise lones coming, That can fing both high and low. Trip no further prettie sweeting. lourners end in louers paseting, Enery wife mans sonne doub know.

An. Excellent good, ifaith.

To Good, good

Clo. What is lone, the not beereafter, Prefent mirch, hath prefent laughter: What's to come, w ftill vafare In delay ibere lies no plantie, Then come kiffe me fincer and sweeties Towns a stuffe will not endere.

Az. A mellifluous voyce, as I am true knight

To. A contagious breath.

An. Very sweet, and contagious lfaith.

To. To heare by the nose, it is dulcet in contagion. But shall we make the Welkin dance indeed? Shall wee rowze the night-Owle in a Catch, that will drawe three foules out of one Weaver? Shall we do that?

And. And you love me, les's doo't: I am dogge at a Carch.

Clo. Byrlady fir, and some dogs will catch well. An. Most certaine: Let out Catch be, Then Knaue

Clo. Holdsby peace, then Knaue knight. I Challbe conftrain'd in't, to call thee knaue, Knight.

An. Tis not the first time I have constrained one to call me knaue. Begin soole : it begins, Hold thy peace.

Clo. I hall never begin if I hold my peace. An. Good ifaith: Come begin. Casch Sang

Enter Maria.

Mar. What a catterwalling doe you keepe heere? If my Ladio have not call'd vp her Steward Malnolio, and bid him turne you out of doores, nevertrust me.

To. My Lady's a Catayan, we are politicians, Maluolios a Peg-a-ramfie, and Three merry men be wee. Am not I confanguinious? Am I not of her blood: tilly vally, Ladie, There dwels a man in Babylon, Lady, Lady Clo. Beshrew me, the knights in admirable fooling,

An. I, he do's well enough if he be dispos'd, and so do I roo : he does it with a better grace, but I do it more

To Othe melfeday of December

Mar. For the love o God peace. Enser Maluolio.

Mal. My masters are you mad? Or what are you? Haue you no wir manners, nor honestie, but to gabble like Tinkers at this time of night? Do yee make an Alehouse of my Ladies house, that ye squeak out your Coziers Carches without any mitigation or remorfe of voice? Is there no respect of place, persons, nor time in you?

To. We did keepe time fir in our Catches. Snecke vp. Mal. Sir Toby, I must be round with you. My Lady bad me tell you, that though the harbors you as her kinfman, she's nothing ally'd to your disorders. If you can separate your selfe and your misdemeanors, you are welcome to the house: if not, and it would please you to take leave of her, the is very willing to bid you farewell.

To. Farewell decre heart, fince I must needs be gone.

Mar. Nay good Sir Toby.

Cla. His eyes do shew his dayes are almost done.

Mal. Is't even fo?

To. But I will neuer dye.

Clo. Sir Toby there you lye.

Mal. This is much credit to you.

To. Shall bidbingo.

Clo. What and if you do?

To. Shall bid him go, and spare not !

Cla. Ono, no, no, no, you dare not

To. Outotune fir, ye lye: Art any more then a Stew ard? Dost thou thinke because thou art vertuous, there shall be no more Cakes and Ale?

Clo. Yes by S. Anne, and Ginger shall bee horre y'th

To Th'art i'th right. Goe fir, rub your Chaine with crums. A stope of Wine Maria.

Mal. Mistris Mary, if you priz'd my Ladies fauour at any thing more then contempt, you would not give meanes for this vnewill rule; the shall know of it by this hand.

Mar. Go shake your eare's.

An. Twere as good a deede as to drink when a mans a hungrie, to challenge him the field, and then to breake promise with him, and make a foole of him.

To. Doo't knight, He write thee a Challenge: or He deliuer thy indignation to him by word of mouth.

Mar. Sweet Sir Toby be patient for to night: Since the youth of the Counts was to day with my Lady, she is much out of quiet. For Monfieur Maluolio, let me alone with him: If I do not gull him into an ayword, and make him a common recreation, do not thinke I have witte enough to lye straight in my bed: I know I can do lt.

To. Possesses, possesses, tell vs something of him. Mar. Marrie fir, sometimes he is a kinde of Puritane. An O, if I thought that, I de beate him like a dogge.

To. What for being a Putitan, thy exquisite teason, deere knight.

An. I have no exquisite reason for't, but I have reason good enough.

Mar. The diu'll a Puritane that hee is, or any thing constantly but a time-pleaser, an affection'd Asic, that cons State without booke, and veters it by great swarths. The best perswaded of himselfe: so cram'd (as he thinkes) with excellencies, that it is his grounds of faith, that all that looke on him, love him: and on that vice in him, will my reuenge finde notable cause to worke.

To. What wilt thou do?

Mar. I will drop in his way some obscure Epistles of loue, wherein by the colour of his beard, the shape of his legge, the manner of his gate, the expressure of his eye, forehead, and complection, he shall finde himselfe most feelingly personated. I can write very like my Ladie your Neece, on a forgotten matter wee can hardly make distinction of our hands.

To. Excellent, I smell a deuice.

An I hau't in my nose too.

To. He shall thinke by the Letters that thou wilt drop

Twelfe Night, or, What you will.

that they come from my Neece, and that thee's in love

Mar. My purpose is indeed a horse of that colour. An. And your horse now would make him an Asse Mr. Affe, I doubt not.

Au. Otwillbeadmirable.

Mar. Sport royall I warrant your I know my Pbyficke will worke with him, I will plant you two, and les the Foole make a third, where he shall finde the Letter: oblerue his construction of it: For this night to bed, and dreame on the cuent: Farewell.

To. Good night Penthifiles.

An. Before me she's 2 good wench.

To. She sa beagle true bred, and one that adores me: what o'that?

An. I was ador'd once too.

To. Let's to bed knight: Thou hadfi neede fend for more money.

An. If I cannot recouer your Neece, I am a foule way

To. Send for money knight, if thou hast ber not i'th

An. If I do not, never trust me, take it how you will. .To. Come, come, lle go burne some Sacke, ils too late to go to bed now : Come knight, come knight. Execut

Scena Quarta.

Enter Duke, Viola, Curio, and others. Du. Gine me some Musick; Now good motow frends. Now good Cefareo, but that peece of long, That old and Anticke fong we heard last night; Me thought it did releeve my passion much, More then light ayres, and recollected termes Of these most briske and giddy-paced times. Come, but on e verse.

Cur. He is not heere (to please your Lordshippe) that should hing it?

Dw. Who was it?

Cur. Fefte the lester my Lord, a foole that the Ladie Olmaces Father tooke much delight in . He is about the Du. Seeke him out, and play the tune the while.

Dinficke player.

Come hither Boy, if ever thou shalt love In the fweet pangs of it, remember me : For fuch as I am, all true Louers are, Vnstaid and skittish in all motions else, Save in the conflant image of the creature That is belou'd. How doft thou like this tune?

Vio. It gives a verie cocho to the feate Where love is thron'd.

Da. Thou dost speake masterly, My life vpon't, yong though thou are, thine eye Hath staid vpon some fauour that it loues : Hathic not boy?

Vio. A little, by your fauour. Du What kinde of woman ift;

Die. Of your compledion.

Du. She is not worth thee then. What yeares if aith?

Vm. About your yeeres my Lord.

Du. Too old by he suen: Let fill the woman take

An elder then her felfe, fo weares the to him So swayes the level! ir her husbands heart . For boy, however we do praise our selves, Our fancies are more giddle and vnheme, More langing, watering, fooner loft and worde, Then womens are.

Uw. I thinke it well my Lord.

Du Thenlesthy Love be yonger then thy felfe, Or thy affection cannot hold the bent: For women are as Roles, whole faire flowre Being once displaid, doth fall that verie howre.

Vio. And lo they are :alas, that they are lo s To die, euen when they to perfection grow.

ENER CHANGE Clowne.

Du. O sellow come, the song we had last night: Marke it Cesario, it is old and plaine; The Spinsters and the Knitters in the sun, And the free maides that we sue their thred with bones, Do vie to chaunt it: it is filly footh, And dallies with the lanocence of love, Like the old age.

Clo. Are you ready Sir ? Duke. I prethee ling.

Mufiche

The Song. Come away, come away death, And in sad cypresse les me be laide. Eye away, he away breath, I am flaine by a faire cruell maide t My shroad of white stuck all with Ew. O prepare it. My part of death no one forme did share it.

Not a flower, not a flower sweete On my blacke cossin, let there be strewns: Not a friend, not a friend grees My poore corpes, where my bones shall be thrown: A thousand thousand sighes to same lay me o where Sadtrue lower never find my grave, to weepe there.

Du. There's for thy painer.

Clo. No paines fir, I take pleasure in finging fir.

Du. He pay thy pleasure then.

Clo. Truely fir, and pleafure will be paide one time, or another,

Du. Giue me now leave, to leave thee.

Clo. Now the melanchelly God proted thee, and the Tailor make thy doublet of changeable Taffara, for thy minde is a very Opall. I would have men of fuch constancie put to Sea, that their bufinelle might be euery thing and their intent everie where, for that's is, that alwayes makes a good voyage of nothing. Farewell, E. Du. Let all the rest give place: Once more Cefaru.

Get thee to youd fame fourraigne croekie: Tell her my loue, more noble then the world Prizes not quantitie of dirtie lands, The parts that fortune hath beflowd wpon ber: Tell her I hold as giddily as Formne: But 'tis that miracle, and Queene of lems That mature prankes her in, attracts my foule.

Vie. But if fne cannot loue you fit De. It cannot be so answer'd.

Vio. Sooth but you must Say that some Lady, as perhappes there is, Hath for your love as great a pang of heart As you have for Olmia : you cannot love her You tel her fo: Muit the not then be answe. 'd?

Du. There is no womans fides

Can bide the besting of fo ftrong a passion, As love doth give my heart : no womans heart So bigge, to hold fo much, they lacke retention. Alas, their love may be call'd appetite, No motion of the Liver, but the Pallac That suffer surfer, cloyment, and revolt, But mine is all as hungry as the Sea, And can digeft as much, make no compare Betweene that love a woman can beare me, And that I owe Olimia.

Uw. Ibut I know

Da. What doft thou knowe?

Ulo. Too well what love women to men may owe t In faith they are as true of heart, as we. My Father had a daughter lou'd a man As it might be perhaps, were I a woman I should your Lordship.

Dw. And what's her history !

Vio. A blanke my Lord : the never told her loue, But let concealment like a worme i'th budde Foede on her damaske cheeke : the pin'd in thought, And with a greene and yellow melancholly, She fate like Patience on a Monument, Smiling at greefe. Was not this love indeede? We men may say more, sweare more, but indeed Our shewes are more then will : for still we proue Much in our vowes, bur little in our love.

Du. Bur di'de thy fiftet ofher love my Boy? Vio. I am all the daughters of my Fathers house, And all the brothers too; and yet I know not

See, shall I to this Lady? Dw. I that's the Theame,

To her in hafte : give her this lewell ; fay, My loue can give no place, bide no denay.

Scena Quinta.

Euter Ser Toby, Sir Andrew, and Fabian.

To. Come thy wayes Signior Fabian.

Fab. Nay Ile come: If I loose a scruple of this sport, let me be boyl'd to death with Melancholly.

To. Wouldst thou not be glad to have the niggardly Rascally sheepe-biter, come by some notable shame?

Fa. I would exult man : you know he brought me out o'fauout with my Lady, about a Beare-batting heere.

To. To anger him wee'l have the Beare againe, and we will foole him blacke and blew, shall we not fir An-

An. And we do not, it is pittle of our lives. Enter Maria.

To. Heere comes the little villaine : How now my Mettle of India?

Mar. Ger yeall three into the box tree: Malualio's comming downe this walke, he has beene yonder i'the Sunne practifing behautour to his own shadow this halfe houre : observe him for the lone of Mockerie: for I know this Letter wil make a contemplative Ideos of him. Close in the name of leasting, lye thou there: for heere comes the Trowt, that must be caught with tickling,

Enter Maluolio.

Mal. Tis but Fortune, all 19 fortune. Maria once told me she did affect me, and I have heard her felf come thus neere, that should shee fancie, it should bee one of my complection. Befides the vies me with a more exalted respect, then any one else that followes her. should I thinke on't?

To. Heere's an ouer-weening rogue.

Pa. Oh peace: Contemplation makes a rare Turkey Cocke of him, how he iers under his aduane'd plumes.

And. Slight I could so beate the Rogue.

To. Peace I fay.

Mal. To be Count Maluolson

To. Ah Rogue.

An. Pistoll him, pistoll him.

To. Peace, peace.

Mal. There is example fort: The Lady of the Stracby, married the yeoman of the wardrob

An. Fie on him lezabel.

Fa. O peace, now he's deepely in : looke how imagination blowes him.

Mal. Having beenethree moneths married to her, hering in my frace.

To. O for a stone-bow to hit him in the eye.

Mal. Calling my Officers about me, in my branch'd Veluet gowne : having come from a day bedde, where I have left Olima fleeping

To. Fire and Brimstone.

Fa. O peace, peace,

Mal. And then to have the humor of flate : and after a demure trauaile of regard: telling them I knowe my place, as I would they should doe theirs : to aske for my kiniman Toby.

To. Boltes and shackles.

F4. Oh peace, peace, peace, now, now.

Mal. Sequen of my people with an obedient fart. make out for him: I frowne the while, and perchance winde vp my watch, or play with my fome rich lewell: Toby approaches; curties there to me.

To. Shall this fellow live?

FA. Though our filence be drawne from vs with cars

Mal. I extend my hand to him thus a quenching my familiar smile with an austere regard of controll.

To. And do's not Toby take you a blow o'the lippes,

Mal. Saying, Cofine Toby, my Fortunes having caft me on your Neece, give me this pretogative of speech. To. What, what?

Mal. You must amend your drankennesse.

To. Out fcab.

Fab. Nay patience, or we breake the sinewes of our

Mal Besides you waste the treasure of your time, with a foolish knight.

And. That's mee I warrant you.

Mal. One fit Andrew.

And. I knew twas I, for many do call mee foole.

Mal. What employment have we heere? Fa. Now is the Woodcocke neere the gin.

To. Oh peace, and the spirit of humors intimate reading aloud to him

Mal. By my life this is my Ladies hand: thefe bee het very (s. her U's, and her T's, and thus makes thee her great Ps. It is in contempt of question herhand.

An. Her Ci, her U's, and her Ti: why that?

Mal. To the unknowne below d, thu, and my good Wifbes: Her very Phrases: By your leave wax. Soft, and the impressure her Lucrese, with which the vies to seale I tie my Lady: To whom should this be?

Fab. This winnes him, Liver and all-

Mal. lous knower flowe, but who, Lips do not me wear must know. No man must know. What followes? The numbers alter'd . No man must know, If this Mould be thee Malmolio?

To. Marrie hang thee brocke.

Mal. I may command where I adore, but silence like a Lucreffo baife :

With bloodle fe ftrote my bears doch gore, M.O. A. 1. doch for any ony life.

Fa. A fustian riddle.

To. Excellent Wench, fay 1.

Mal. M.O.A.I. dorh Iway my life Nay but hift let nie fee, lat me fee, let me fee.

Fab. What dish a poylon has the dreft him?

To. And with what wing the stallion checkes at it?

Mal. I may command, where I adore : Why Thee may command me. I ferue her, the 15 my Ladie. Why this 15 evident to any formall capacitie. There is no obstruction in this, and the end : What should that Alphabeticall pofition portend, if I could make that refemble fomething in me? Sofily, M.O.A.J.

To OI, make up that, he is now at a cold fent

Fab. Sowter will cry vpon't for all this, though it bee

Mal. As. Melwolio, M. why that begins my name.

Fab. Did not I say he would worke it out, the Curre is excellent at faults.

Mal. M. But then there is no confonancy in the sequell that suffers under probation: A. should follow, but O. does.

Fa. And O Chall end, I hope

To. I, or He cudgell him, and make him cry O.

Mal. And then I. come: behind.

Fa. I, and you had any eye behinde you, your might fee more detraction at your heeles, then Fortunes before

you

Mal. M,O,A,I. This simulation is not as the former: and yet to crush this a little, it would bow to mee, for euery one of these Letters are in my name. Soft, here followes prole : If this fall into thy band, remolne. In my flats I am aboue thee, but be not affraid of greameffe: Some are become great, some atcheeues greatnesse, and some have greatnesse thrust vppon em. Thy sates open theyr hands, let thy blood and spirit embrace them, and to inere thy selfe to what thou art like to be: cast thy humble sough, and appeare fresh. Be opposite with a kinsman, furly with feruants: Let thy tongue rang arguments of Rate; put thy felfe into the tricke of lingularitie. Shee thus aduises thee, that fighes for thee. Remember who commended thy yellow flockings, and wish'd to see thee cuer croffe garter'd: I say remember, goe too, thou art made if thou defir'it to be fo : If not, let me fee thee a fteward fill, the fellow of feruants, and not woorthie to touch Fortunes fingers Farewell, Sheethat would alter setuices with thee, the sortunate vnhappy daylight and champian discouers not more: This is open, I will bee proud, I will reade politicke Authours, I will baffle Sir Toby, I will wash off grosse acquaintance, I will be point deuile, the very man. I do not now foole my felfe, to let imagination isde mee ; for every reason excites to this, that my Lady loves me. She did commend my yellow fockings of late, thee did praise my legge being croffegarrer'd, and in this the manifelts her felfe to my loue, & with a kinde of iniunction drives mee to thefe habites of her liking. I thanke my fiarres, I am happy: I will bee strange, sout, in yellow stockings, and crosse Garter'd, even with the swiftnesse of putting on. love, and my farres be praised. Heere is yet a posiscript. Thou confl not choose but know who I am. If thou entertains my love, let at appears in thy smiling, thy smiles become thee well. There. fore in my prefence fell famile, decre my favere, I preibes loue I thanke thee, I will laule, I wil do every thing that thou wilt have me.

Fab. I will not give my part of this sport for a pension of thousands to be paid from the Sophy.

To. I could marry this weach for this decice.

An. So could I too.

To. And aske no other dowry with her, but fuch another ieft

EMET MANGE

An. Nor I neither

Fab. Heere comes my noble goli catcher.
To Wilt thou fet thy foote o'my neckt.

An. Or o'mine either?

To. Shall I play my freedome at tray-tnp, and become thy bondflaue?

An. Ifaith, or 1 cither?

Tob. Why, thou halt put him in fuch a dreame, that when the image of it leaves him, he most ruo mad-

Ma. Nay but fay true, do's it worke vpon him?

To. Like Aqua vite with a Midwife.

Mar. If you will then fee the fruites of the sport, mark his first approach before my Lady : hee will come to her in yellow flockings, and 'tis s colour fhe sbhorres, and croffe garter'd, a falhion thee detelts : and hee will imile vpon her, which will now be fo entures ble to her difpohtion, being addicted to a melancholly, as thee is, that it cannot but turn him into a notable contempt: if you wil fee it follow me.

To. To the gates of Tarter, thou most excellent diveil of wit.

And Hemake one too

Finis Alles fectedus

Adus Tertius, Scana prima.

Enter Viola and Clowne.

Vio. Saue thee Friend and thy Musick : doft thou line by thy Tabot?

Clo. No Gr, I line by the Church.

Vio. Art thou a Churchman?

Clo. No luch matter fit, I do live by the Church: For, I do live at my house, and my house dooth stand by the Vie. So thou mailt fay the King slyes by a begger, if a begger dwell neer him : or the Church stands by thy Tabor, if thy Tabor stand by the Church.

Clo. You have faid fir : To fee this age : A fentence is but a cheu'nil glove to a good write, bow quickely the wrong fide may be turn'd outward.

Vio. Nay that's certaine: they that dally nicely with words, may quickely make them wanton.

Clo. I would therefore my fifter had had no name Sir.

Pio. Why man?

Clo. Why fir, her names a word, and to dallie with that word, might make my fifter wanton: But indeede, words are very Rafeels, fince bonds difgrac'd them.

Vio. Thy reason man?

Clo. Troth fir, I can yeeld you none without wordes. and wordes are growne to falle, I am loath to proue reafon with them.

Vio I warrant thou art a merry fellow, and car'll for nothing.

Clo. Not so fir, I do care for something: but in my conthing fir, I would it would make you invisible.

Vio. Art not thou the Lady Olinia's foole?

Clo. No indeed fir, the Lady Olinia has no folly, Thee will keepe no foole fir, till the be married, and fooles are as like husbands, as Pilchers ere to Herrings, the Hufbands the bigger, I am indeede not her toole, but hir corrupter of words.

Vio. I faw thee late at the Count Orfino 1.

Clo. Foolery fir, does walke about the Orbe like the Sun, it shines every where. I would be forry sir, but the Foole should be as oft with your Master, as with my Miftris: I thinke I faw your wifedome there.

Vio. Nay, and thou passe vpon me, He no more with thee Hold there's expences for thce.

Clo. Now loue in his next commodity of hayte, fend thee 2 beard.

Vio. By my troth He tell thee, I am almost ficke for one, though I would not have it grow on my chinne. Is thy Lady within?

Cle Would not a paire of these have bred fir? Vio. Yes being kept together, and put to vie.

Clo. I would play I ord Pandarus of Phrygia fir, to bring a Creffids to this Trojlan

Vio. I vnderstand you sir, us well begg d.

Clo The matter I hope is not great fir; begging, but a begger : Cressida was a begger. My Lady is within fir. ! will conflet to them whence you come, who you are, and what you would are out of my welkin, I might fay Element, but the word is ouer worne.

Vio. This fellow is wife enough to play the foole, And to do that well, craues a kinde of wit He must observe their mood on whom he rests, The quality of persons, and the time And like the Haggard, cheeke at every Feather That comes before his eye. This isa practice, As full of labour as a Wife-mans Art: For folly that he wifely shewes, is fit; But wifemens folly falne, quite taint their wit.

Enter Sir Toby and Andrew

To. Saue you Gentleman.

Vio. And you fir.

And. Dien von guard Monsieur

Vio. Et vonz ousie vostre seruiture. An. I hope fir, you are, and I am yours.

To. Will you incounter the house, my Neece 1s desirous you should enter, if your trade be to her.

Vio. I am bound to your Neece fir, I meane the is the list of my voyage.

To. Talle your legges fir, put them to motion.
Vio. My legges do better vallerstand me fir, then I vnderstand what you meane by bidding me taste my legs.

To. I meane to go fir, to enter.

Vio. I will answer you with gate and entrance, but we are prevented.

Enter Olinia, and Gentlewoman.

Most excellent accomplish'd Lady, the heatiens raine O-

And. That youth's a rare Courtier, raine odours, wel. Vio. My matter hath no voice Lady, but to your owne most pregnant and vouchfafed eare

And. Odours, pregnant, and vouchfafed : He get 'em all three already.

Ol. Let the Garden doore be flut, and Jeaue meeto my hearing. Give me your hand fir.

. Uto My dutie Madam, and nioft humble feruice?

Ol. What is your name?

Vio. Cefario is your feruants name, faire Princesse.

Ol. My feruant fir? Twas neuer merry world, Since lowly feigning was call'd complement: y are feruant to the Count Orsino youth.

Vio And he is yours, and his must needs be yours? your feruants fernant, is your feruant Madam.

Ol. For him, I thinke not on him: for his thoughts, Would they were blankes, rather then fill I with me

Vio Madain, I come to wher your gentle thoughts On his behalfe

Ol. O by your leave I pray you. I had you never speake againe of him; But would you undertake another fuite I had rather heare you, to folicit that, Then Mulicke from the Spheares.

Vio. Deere Lady.

Ol. Giueme leave, beseech you!: I did send. After the last enchantment you did heare, A Ring in chace of you. So did labule My felfe, my feruant, and I feare me you: Vinder your hard construction must I fit, To force that on you in a shaniefull cunning Which you knew none of yours What might you think? Haue you not fet mine Honor at the stake And baited it with all th vnmuzled thoughts That tyrannous heart can thinks To one of your receluing Enough is thewne, a Cipreste, not a bosome, Hides my heart ; fo let me heare you speake.

Vio I pittie you.
Of That's a degree to love.

Vio. No not a grize i for tis a vulgar proofe

That vene oft we pitty enemies

Of Why then me thinkes 'tis time to fmile agen: Oworld, how aprthepoore are to be proud? If one should be a prey, how much the better To fall before the Lion, then the Wolfe?

Clocke Strikes. The clocke vpbraides me with the waste of times Be not affraid good youth, I will not have you. And yet when wit and youth is come to harvell, your wife is like to reape a proper man : There lies your way, due West.

Vio. Then Westwardhoe .

Grace and good disposition attend your Ladyship : you'l nothing Madam to my Lord, by me :

Ol. Stay: I prethee tell me what thou think it of me?

Vio. That you do thinke you are not what you are. Ol. If I thinke to, I thinke the fame of you.

Vio. Then thinke you right: I am not what I am. Ol. I would you were, as I would have you be.

Vie Would it be better Madam, then I am?

I wish it might, for now I am your foole. Ol. Owhat a deale offcorne, lookes beautifull?

In the contempt and anger of his lip, A murdrous guilt shewes not it selfe more soone, Then love that would feeme hid: Loves night, is noone. Cofario, by the Roses of the Spring,

By maid-hood, honor, truth, and cuery thing. I love thee fo, that maugre all thy pride,

Not

Nos wit, not reason, can my passion hide Do not extort thy reasons from this clause, For that I woo, thou therefore haft no cause: But rather reason thus, with reason fetter; Loue fought, is good : but gruen vnfought, is bester.

Vio. By innocence I fweare, and by my youth, I have one heart, one bosome, and one truth, And that no woman has, nor never none Shall miftels be of it, faue I alone.

And so adieu good Madam, neuer more, Will my Maffers teares to you deplote.

QI. Yet come againe : for thou perhaps may ? moue That heart which now abhorres to like his loue. Excust Sciena Secunda.

Enter Sir Toby, Sir Andrew, and Fabian.

And. No faith, He not stay a int longer:

To. Thy reason deere venom, give thy ressen. Pat. You must needer yeelde your reason, Sir An-धेरणा ? And. Marry I saw your Neece do more sauours to the Counts Seruing-man, then ever the bestow'd vpon mee: I saw't i'th Orchard.

To. Did the fee the while, old boy, tell me that.

And. As plaine as I fee you now.

Fab. This was a great argument of lone in her toward

And S'light; will you make an Affe o'me.

Feb. I will proue it legitimate fir, upon the Oathes of judgement, and reason.

To. And they have beene grand furie men, fince before

Noab was a Saylor.

Fab, Shee did fhew favour to the youth in your fight, onely to exasperate you, to awake your dermouse valour, to put fire in your Heart, and brimstone in your Liver : you should then have accosted her, and with some excellent jefts, fire-new from the mint, you should have bangd the youth into dumbeneffe : this was look'd for at your hand, and this was baulkt : the double gilt of this opportunitie you let time wash off, and you are now layld into the North of my Ladies opinion, where you will hang like an yfickle on a Dutchmans beard, valeffe you do redeeme it, by some laudable attempt, either of valour or

and. And't be any way, it must be with Valour, for policie I hate: I had as liefe be a Brownist, as a Politi-

To. Why then build me thy fortunes vpon the bafis of Valour. Challenge me the Counts youth to fight with him hurt him in eleven places, my Neece shall take note of it, and affure thy felfe, there is no loue-Broker in the world, can more prevaile in mans commendation with woman, then report of valour.

Pab. There is no way but this fir Andrew.

An. Will either of you beare me a challenge to him? To Go, write it in a martial hand, be curft and briefe: it is no matter how wittie, fo it bee eloquent, and full of invention : taunt him with the license of Inke : if thou thou'ft him some thrice, it shall not be amisse, and as many Lyes, as will lye in thy sheete of paper, although the thecre were bigge enough for the bedde of ware in England, let'em downe, go about it. Let there bee gaulte e-nough in thy inke, though they write with a Goofe-pen. nomatter :about it.

And Where Chall I finde you?

To, Weel call thee at the Cubiculo : Go.

Era Sir Audren.

Fr. This is a deere Manakin so you Sir Toby.

Ta I have beene deere to himlad, some two therfand Grong, or fo.

Fo. We shall have a race Letter Lorn hime but you'le not deliner'L

To. Nour trust am then : and by all mesne: flire on the youth to an answer. I thinke Ozen and waine-ropes cannot hale them rogether Eas Andrew, if he were open'd and you finde so much blood in his Liver, as will clog the foote of a fles, He ease the reft of th'anatomy.

Fab. And his opposit the youth beares in his visage no great prolage of cruckry.

Exter diana.

To. Looke where the youngest Wren of mine comes. Mar. If you defire the spleene, and will laughe your felies into flitches, follow me ; youd gull Maluslie is turned Heathen, a verie Renegatho; for there is no christian that meanes to be faued by beleeuing rightly, can ever beleeve fuch impossible pallages of groffenetse. Hee's in yellow flockings.

To. And croffe gamer'd?

Mar. Most villanously: like a Pedant that keepes a Schoole i'th Church: I have dogg'd him like his murtherer. He does obey every point of the Letter that I dropt, to betray him : He does smile his face into more lynes, then is in the new Mappe, with the augmentation of the Indies: you have not seene such a thing as tis: I can hardly forbeare hurling things at him, I know my Ladie will Brike him: if thee doe, hee'l fmile, and take't for a great fauour.

To. Come bring vs, bring vs where he is.

Exeant Omnos.

Scana Tertia.

Enter Schaftenvand Anthonio.

Seb. I would not by my will have troubled you, But fince you make your pleafure of your paines, I will no further chide you,

Ant. I could not stay behinde you: my destre (More sharpe then filed steele) did spurre me forth, And not all love to fee you (though io much As might have drawne one to a longer voyage) Betieslousse, what might befall your rrauell, Being skillesse in these parts: which to a stranger, Vinguided, and vitriended, often prote Rough, and vnhospitable. My willing love, The rather by these arguments of seare Set forth in your purfuite.

Sib, My kinde Anthonio, I can no other answer make, but thankes, And thankes : and ever oft good turnes, Are shuffel'd off with such vicurrant pay: But were my worth, as is my confcience firme,

You should finde better dealing: what's to do? Shall we go fee the reliques of this Towne?

Ant. To morrow fir, best first go see your . Lodging?
Seb. I am not weary, and 'tis long to night

I pray you let ve fatisfie our cycs

With the memorials, and the things of fame

That do renowne this City.

Ant. Would youl'd pardon me: I do not without danger walke thefe freetes. Once in a sea-fight 'gamst the Count his gallies, I did fome fervice, of fuch note indeede, That were I tane heere, it would scarse be answer'd.

Seb. Belike you flew great number of his people. Ant. Th offence is not of fuch a bloody nature, A!beit the quality of the time, and quarrell Might well have given ve bloody argument : It might have fince bene answer'd in repaying

What we took e from them, which for Traffiques fake Most of our City did. Onely my selfe stood out, For which is I be lapsed in this place

I shall pay deere.

Seb. Do not then walke too open. Ant. It doth not firme : hold fir, here's my purse, In the South Suburbes at the Elephant Is beft to lodge: I will befpeake our dyet, Whiles you beguise the time, and feed your knowledge With viewing of the Towne, there shall you have me.

Seb. Why I your purse?

Aut. Haply your eye shall light upon some toy You have desire to purchase: and your store I thinke is not for idle Markets, fir.

Sob. Ile be your purse-bearer, and leaue you

For an houre

Ant. To th'Elephant. Seb. Ido remember.

Exenst.

Scæna Quarta.

Enter Olinia and Maria.

Ol. I have fent after him, he fayes hee'l come: How shall I feast him? What bestow of him? For youth is bought more oft, then begg'd, or borrow'd. I speake too loud : Where's Maluolio, he is sad, and civill, And fuites well for a feruant with my fortunes, Where is Maluolio?

Mar. He's comming Madame:

But in very strange manner, He is sure possess Madam.
Ol. Why what's the matter, does he raue?

Mer. No Madam, he does nothing but imile: your Ladyfhip were befit to have forme guard about you, if hee come, for fure the man is tainted in's wits.

Ol. Go call him hither.

Enter Malnolio.

I am as madde as hee, If fad and merry madneffe equall bee. How now Malaslis?

Mal. Sweet Lady, ho, ho.

Ol. Smil'ft thou? I fent for thee vpon a fad occasion. Mal. Sad Lady, I could be sad :

This does make some obstruction in the blood: This croffe garrering, but what of that?

Is it please the ege of one, it is with me as the very true Sonnet is : Please one, and please all.

Mal. Why how doest thou man? What is the matter with thee?

Mal. Not blacke in my minde, though yellow in my legges: It did come to his hands, and Commaunds shall be executed. I thinke we docknow the swegg Romane hand.

Ol. Wilt thou go to bed Maluolio?
Mal. To bed! I sweet heart, and He come to thee. Ol. God comfort thee: Why dost thou smile so, and kille thy hand to oft?

Mar. How do you Malnolio? Maluo. At your request : Yes Nightingales answere Dawes.

Mar. Why appeare you with this tidiculous boldnesse before my Lady.

Mal. Be not afraid of greatnesse: 'twas well writ.

Ol. What meanst thou by that Malrolio?

Mal. Some are borne great.

01. Ha?

Mal. Some archeeue greatnesse.

Ol. What fayst thou?
Mal. And some have greatnesse thrust spon them.

Ol. Heauen restore thee.

Mal. Remember who commended thy yellow flockings.
Of Thy yellow flockings:

Mal And wish'd to see thee crosse garter'd, .
Ol. Crosse garter'd?

Mal. Gosoo, thou art made, if thou desir'st to be so.

Ol. Am Imade?

Mal. If not, ler me see thee a seruant still.

OL Why this is verie Midsommer madnesse.

Exter Seruant.

Ser. Madame, the young Gentleman of the Count Orfino's is return'd, I could hardly entreste him backe: he attends yout Ladyships pleasure.

Cl. Ile come to him.

Good Maria, let this fellow belook d too. Where's my Cofine Toby, let some of my people have a speciall care of him, I would not have him miscarrie for the halfe of rey Dowey

Mal. Oh ho, do you come neere me now : no worle man then fir Toby to looke to me. This concurres directly with the Letter, the fends him on purpose, that I may appesre flubborne to him: for the incites meto that in the Letter. Cast thy humble sough sayes the z be oppofite with a Kinsman, furly with servants, let thy tongue langer with arguments of state, put thy selfe into the tricke of fingularity; and confequently fetts downe the manner how: as a fad face, a reverend carriage, a flow tongue, in the hablte of some Sir of note, and so foorth. I have lymde her, but it is loues doing, and loue make me thankefull. And when she went away now, let this Fellow be look'd too : Fellow? not Alalnolio, nor after my degree, but Fellow. Why every thing adheres togisher, that no dramme of a scruple, no scruple of a scruple, no obstacle, no incredulous or vusase circumstance: What can be faide? Nothing that can be, can come betweene me, and the full prospect of my hopes. Well loue, not I, Is the doer of this, and he is to be thanked.

Enter Toby, Fabian, and Maria

To. Which way is bee in the name of fanctity. If all the divels of hell be drawne in little, and Legioo himfelfe polich him, yet Ile fpeake to him.

Fab. Heerehe is, heere be is : how ift with you fir?

How ift with you man?

Mal. Go off, I discard you . let me enioy my private:

Afar. Lo, how hollow the fiend speakes within him; did not Itell you? Sit Toby, my Lady prayes you to have a cate of him.

Mal. Ahha, does she so?

To. Go too, go too: peace, peace, wee must deale gently with him: Let me alooe. How do you Malaolist Howist with you? What man, defie the divell : consider, he's an enemy to mankinde.

Mal. Do you know what you fay?

Mir. Layou, and you speake ill of the divell, how hetakesit ar heart Pray God he be not bewitch'd.

Fab. Carry his water to th'wife woman.

Mar. Marry and it shall be done to morrow morning if I live. My Lady would not loofe him for more then ile

Mal. How now mistris?

Mar. Oh Lord.

To. Prethee hold thy peace, this is not the way : Doe you not fee you moue him? Let me alone with him.

Fa. No way but gentlenesse, gently, gently: the Fiend is rough, and will not be roughly vaid.

To. Why how now my bawcock?how doft y chuck?

To. Ibiddy, come with me. What man, tis not for gravity to play at cherrie-pit with fathan Hang him foul Collist.

War. Get him to say his prayers, good fir Toby gette him to pray

Mal. My prayers Minx.

Mar. No I warrant you, he will not heare of godly-

Mal. Go hang your felues all : you are ydle shallowe things, I am not of your element, you shall knowe more heeresster.

To. Ist possible?

Fa. Ifthis were plaid vpon a stagenow, I could condemne it as an improbable fiction.

To His very genius hath taken the infection of the deuice man.

Mar. Nay pursue him now, least the deuice take syre, and taint.

Fa. Why we shall make him mad indeede.

Mar. The house will be the quieter.

To. Come, wee'l have him in a darke room & bound. My Neece is already in the beleefe that he's mad: we may carry it thus for our pleasure, and his pennance, ril our very passime tyred out of breath, prompt vs to have mercy on him: at which time, we will bring the device to the bar and crowne thee for a finder of madmen : but fee, but fee. Enter Sie Androw.

Fa. More matter for a May morning.

An. Heere's the Challenge, reade it: I warrant there's vinegar and pepper in't.

FAB. Ift lo lawey?

And. I, ill? I warrant him: do but read.

To. Giue me.

Youth what soener thou art, thou art but a scurry fellow.

Fa. Good, and valiant.

To. Wonder net, nor edmire not in thy minds why I doe call theo for for I will show thee no reason for t.

Fa. A good note, that keepes you from the blow of $ To. Thou counft to the Lady Olines and in my fight for what theekindly, but thou lyest in thy throat, that is not the matter I challenge thee for.

(Law

Fa. Very breefe, and to exceeding good sence-leffe.

To I will may lay thee going bonne, where if it be thy charge sotill me.

Fa. Good.

To. Thou helf me lies croque and a villaine.

Ta. Sull you keepe o'th windie fide of the Law. good. Tob. Fartheenell, and God bememercie rpon one of our Soules. He may have mercie upon mine, but my bepe is beerer, and so looke to the felfe. The friend as then vieit bim, or the sworne enemie, Andrew Ague-cheeke.

To. If this Letter move him not, his legges cannot :

Ile giu't him.

Mar. Yonmay have verie fit occasion fot't : he is now in some commerce with my Ladie, and will by and by

To. Go fir Andrew: scout mee for him at the corner of the Orchard like a bum-Baylie: fo foone as ever thou feest him, draw, and esthou drawist, swesse horrible : for comes to passe oft, that a terrible outh, with a swaggering accent sharpely twang'd off, gives manhoodemore approbation, then euer proofe it felfe would have earn'd him. Away.

And. Nay let me alone for swearing.

To. Now will not I deliver bis Letter : for the behauiour of the yong Gentleman, gives him out to be of good capacity, and breeding; his employment betweene his Lord and my Neece, confirmes no leffe. Therefore, this Letter being fo excellently ignorant, will breed no terror in the youth: he will finde it comes from a Clodde-pole. But fir; I will deliver his Challenge by word of mouth; fer upon Ague-cheeke a notable report of valor, and drive the Gentleman (as I know his youth will aprly receive it) into a most hideous opinion of his rage, skill, surie, and impersolitie. This will so fright them both, that they wil kill one another by the looke, like Cockatrices.

Enter Olivia and Viola.

Fab. Heere he comes with your Neece, give them way till he take leave, and prefently after him.

To I wil meditate the while vpoa some horrid makings for a Challenge.

Cl. I have faid too much voto a hert of stone, And laid mine honour too vnchery on't: There's fomething in me that reproves my fault : But fuch a head-firong potent fault it is, That it but mockes reproofe.

Vio. With the fame haviour that your pastion bezres,

Goes on my Masters greefes.

Ol. Heere, weare this lewell for me, tis my picture : Refuse it not, it hath no tongue, to vex you: And I befeech you come agains to morrow. What shall you aske of me that He deny, That honour (fau'd) may upon asking gine.

Uio. Nothing but this, your true love for my master.

Ol. How with mine honor may I give him that, Which I have gluen to you.

Vio I will acquir you.

Ol. Well-come againe to morrow: far-thee-well, A Friend like thee might bears my fouls to hell.

Enter Toby and Fabian.

To. Gentleman, God saue thee.

Plo. Andyou fir.

To. That desence thou hast, betake the too't : of what nature the wrongs are thou half done him, I knowe not: but thy intercepter full of despight, bloody as the Hun-ter, attends thee at the Orchard end: dismount thy cucke, be yare in thy preparation, for thy affaylant is quick, skilfull, and deadly.

Fio. You mistake fir I am fure, no man hath any quarrell to me: my remembranco is very free and tleere from jany image of offence done to any man.

To. You'l finde it otherwise I affure you: therefore, it you hold your life at any price, betake you to your gard: for your opposite hath in him what youth, firength, skill, and wrath, can furnish man withall.

Vio. 1 pray you fir what is he?

To, He is Emght dubb'd with vnhatch'd Rapier, and on carpet confideration, but he is a discell in private bralla foules and bodies hath he divore'd three, and his incenfement at this moment is so implacable, that fatistaction can be none, but by pangs of death and sepulcher: Hob, nob, is his word: giu't of take't.

Vio. I will returne agains into the house, and defire some conduct of the Lady. I am no fighter, I have heard of some kinde of men, that put quarrells purposely on others, to talle their valour : belike this is a man of that quirke

To. Sir, no : his indignation derives it selse out of a very computent iniurie, therefore get you on, and give him his desire. Backe you shall not to the house, vnlesse you undertake that with me, which with as much fafetie you might answer him : therefore on, or firippe your sword flatke naked: for meddle you must that's certain, or for-Sweare to weste iron about you.

Vio. This is as vaciuill as ftrange. I heleech you doe me this courteous office, as to know of the Knight what my offence to him is : It is something of my negligence, nothing of my purpole.

To. I will doe fo. Signious Fabien, stay you by this Exis Toby. Gentleman, till my returne. Exi

Fab. I know the knight is lucenst against you, even to a mortall arbitrement, but nothing of the circumstance more.

Vie. I beseech you what manner of man is he?

Feb. Nothing of that wonderfull promise to read him by his forme, as you are like to finde him in the proofe of his valour. He is indeede fir, the most skilfull, bloudy, &c fatall opposite that you could possibly have found in anie part of Illyria i will you walke towards him, I will make your peace with him, if I can.

Vio. I shall bee much bound to you for't: I am one, that had rather go with fir Prieft, then fir knight: I care not who knowes so much of my mettle.

Enter Toby and Andrew.

To. Why man hee sa verie diuell, I have not feen fuch a firago : Islad a passe with him, rapier, scabberd, and all: and he gives me the flucke in with fuch a mortall motion that it is ineditable; and on the answer, he payes you as furely, as your feets hits the ground they step on. They .ay, he has bin Fencer to the Sophy.

And Pox on't He not meddle with him. To. Ibuthe will not now be pacified, Fahian can scarle hold him yonder.

As. Plague on't, and I thought he had beene valiant, and so cunning in Fence, I'de haue seene him damn'd ere I'de haue challeng'd him. Let him let the matter flip, and He giue him my horfe, gray Capilet.

To. Ilemake the motion : frend heere, make a good thew on't, this shall end without the perdition of scules, marry Ile ride your horse as well as I ride you.

Enter Fabian and Viola.

I have his horse to take up the quarroll, I have perswaded him the youths a diuell.

FA. He is as horribly conceited of him : and pants, & lookes pale, as if a Boare were at his heeles.

There's no remedie fir, he will fight with you for's oath fake: marrie hee hath better bethought him of his quarrell, and hee findes that now scarse to bee worth talking of: therefore draw for the supportance of his vowe, ha procests he will not hurt you.

Vio. Pray God defend me: a little thing would make metell them how much I lacke of a mon.

Fab. Giueground if you feehim furious,

To. Come fir Andrew, there's no remedie, the Gentleman will for his honors fake here one bowe with you: he cannot by the Duello anoide it: but bee has promifed me, as he is a Geneleman and a Soldiour, he will not hurt you. Comeon, too't.

And. Pray God he keepe his oath.

Enter Antonio.

Vio. I do affure you tis against my will.

Ant. Put up your fword : if this yong Gentleman Haue done offence, I take the fault on me : If you offend him, I for him defic you.

To. You fir? Why, what ere you?

Ant. One fir, that for his loue dares yet do more Then you have heard him brag to you he will.

To. Nay, if you be an vudertaker, I am for you. EnserOfficers.

Fab. O good fir Toby hold: hecre come the Officers To. Ile be with you anon.

Fio. Pray fir, put your fword up if you pleafe.

And Marry will I fir : and for that I promis'd you lle be as good as my word. Hee will beare you casily, and raines well.

1.0ff. This is the man, do thy Office.

2 Off. Ambonio, l'arrefit thee at the suit of Count Orfine An. You do missake me sir.

1.0f. No fir, no iot: I know your favour well: Though now you have no fea-eap on your head: Take him away, he knowes I know him well.

Ass. I must obey. This comes with sceking your But there's no remedie, I shall answer it: What will you do : now my necessitie Makes me to aske you for my purfe. It greeues mee Much more, for what I cannot do for you, Then what befals my felfe: you fland amaz'd, But be of comfort.

2 Off. Come fir away.

Ant. I must entreat of you some of that money.

For the fayre kindnesse you have shew'd me heere, And part being prompted by your present trouble, Our of my leane and low ability He lend you fomething : my having is not much,

He make division of my present with you:

Ant. Will you deny me now, If possible that my deferts to you

Can lacke perswasion. Do not tempt my misery, Leaft that it make me fo vnfound a man As to vpbraid you with those kindaesses

Twelfe Night, or, What you will.

That I have done for you. Fio. I know of non.,

Nor know I you by voyce, or any feature : I hate ingratitude more in a man,

Then lying, vainnesse, babling drunkennesse, Or any taine of vice, whose firong corruption Inhabites our fraile blood,

Ant. Oh heavens themselves.

2. Off. Come fir, I pray you go.
Avi. Let me speake a little. This youth that you fee I snatch'd one halfe out of the iswes of death, Releaved him with fuch fanctitie of loue; And to his image, which me thought did promife

Most venerable worth, did I deuction.

1. Off. What's that to vs, the time goes by: Away. Ant. But oh, how vilde an idoll proues this God: Thou halt Sebastian done good feature, shame. In Nature, there's no blemish but the minde : None can be call'd desorm'd, but the unkinde. Vertue is beauty, but the beauteous enill

Are empty trunkes, ore-flourish'd by the deuill.

2. Off The man growes mad, away with him.

Come, come fir.

Ant. Leademeon. Vio. Me thinkes his words do from such passion flye That he beleeves himselfe, so do not I:

Proue true imagination, oh proue itue, That I decre brother, be now tane for you.

To. Come hither Knight, come hither Fabian : Weel whifper ore a couplet or two of most lage fawes.

Vio. He nam'd Sebastian: I my brother know Yet living in my glaffe : even fuch, and fo In fauour was my Brother, and he went Still in this fashion, colour, ornament, For him I imitate: Ohifit proue, Tempests are kinde, and salt wattes fresh in loue.

To. A very dishonest paltry boy, and more a coward then a Hare, his dishonesty appeares, in leaving his frend heere in necessity, and denying him: and for his coward Thip 2ske Fabian.

Fab. A Coward, amost deuout Coward, religious in

And. Slid Ile after him againe, and beate him.

To. Do, cuffe him foundly, but never draw thy fword And. And I do not.

Fab. Come, let's see the euent.

To. I dare lay any money, twill be nothing yet. Exist

Adus Quartus, Scana prima.

Enter Schaftian and Clowne.

Clo. Will you make me beleeue, that I am not feat for you?

Seb. Go too, go too, thou att a foolish fellow,

Let me be cleere of thee.

Clo. Well held our yfaith: No, I do not know you, nor I am not fent to you by my Lady, to bid you come fpeake with her : nor your name is not Mafter Cefario, nor this is not my note neyther: Nothing that is fo, is fo.

Seb. I prethee vent thy folly fome-where elfe, thou know Ano: me.

Clo. Vent my folly : He has heard that word of fome great man, and now applyes it to a foole. Vent my folly: I am affraid this great lubber the World will prome a Cockney: I preshee oow regird thy firangenes, and tell me what I shall vent to my Lady? Shall I vent to but that thought comming?

Seb. I prethee fool in greeke depart from me, there's money for thee, if you carry longer, I shall give works paiment.

Cle. By my troth thou halt an open hand, the's Wifemen that give fooles money, get themselves a good seport, after soureteene yeares purchase.

Enter Andrew, Teby, and Fallen.

And. Now he, have I met you again scher's for you. Seb. Why there's for thee, and there, and there, Are all the people mad?

To Hold fir, or Ile throw your dagger ore the house Clo. This will I tell my Lady Arzight, I would not be in some of your costs for two pence.

To. Come on fir, hold.

An. Nay let birn alone, lle go another way to worke with him: The haut an action of Battery againf him, if there be any law in Illyria : though I ftroke him firft, yet t's no matter for that.

Seb. Let go thy hand.
To. Come fir, I will not let you go. Come my yong fouldier put vp your yron: you are well flesh'd: Come

Seb. I will be free from thee. What would I now? If thou dar'it rempt me further, draw thy fword

To. What, what? Nay then I must have an Ounce or two of this malapert blood from you.

Enter Clinia.

Ol. Hold Toby, on thy life I charge thee hold. To. Madam.

Ol. Will it be euer thus : Vagracious wretch,

Fit for the Mountaines, and the barbarous Caues, Where manners nere were preach'd : out of my fight. Be not offended, deere Cefario: Ruderbey be gone. I prethee gentle friend, Let thy fayre wifedome, not thy passion sway In this vnctuill, and vniust extent Against thy peace. Go with me to my house, And heare thou there how many fruitlelle prankes This Russian hath botch'd vp, that thou thereby Mayft fmile at this : Thou fhalt not choose but goe: Do not denie, bestirew his soule for mee,

Seb. What rellish is in this? How runs the streame? Or I ammad, or elie this is a dreame : Let fancie still my sense in Lethe steepe,

If it be thus to dreame, fill let me fleepe.

He started one poore heart of mine, in thee.

Cl. Nay come I prethee, would thoud'ft be rul'd by me Seb. Madam, I will.

Ol. Ofay fo, and fobe.

Exercit

Scæna Secunda.

Enter Meria and Close.

Mar. Nay, I prethee put on this gown, & this beard, make him beleeue thou art su Topas the Curate, doe it quickly. He call fit Toby the whilft.

Cle. Well, He put it on, and I will differ ble my felfe in't, and I would I were the first that ever dissembled in Such in such a gowne. I am not tall enough to become the function well, not leane enough to bee thought a good Studient: but to be faid an honest man and a good house keeper goes as fairely, as to say, a carefull man, & a great scholler. The Competitors enter.

Enter Toby.

To. Icue blesse thee M. Parson.

Clo. Bonos dier fit Toby: for as the old hermit of Prage that neuer faw pen and inke, very wittily fayd to a Neece of King Gorbodaske, that that is, is: fo I being M.Parfon, am M. Parfon; for what is that, but that ? and is, but is?

To. To him his Topa.

Clow. What hos, I say, Peace in this prison.

To. The knaue counterfets well: a good knaue.

Maluolio wishin.

Mal. Who calsthere?

Clo. Sit Topas the Curate, who comes to vifit Maluo-

Mel. Sir Topes, fit Topas, good fit Topas goe to my radie.

Clo. Outhyperbolicall fiend, how vexest thou this man? Talkest thou nothing but of Ladies?

Tob. Well faid M. Parlon.

Mal. Sir Topar, neuer was man thus wronged, good fir Topar do not thinke I sm mad: they have layde mee beere in hideous darknesse.

Clo. Fye, thou dishonest fathan: I call thee by the most modest termes, for I amone of those gentle ones, that will vie the divell himselfe with curtesse: says thou that house is darke?

Mal. As hell for Topas.

clo. Why it hathbay Windowes transparant as barlcadoes, and the cleete stores toward the South north, are as sustrous as Ehony: and yet complainest thou of obstruction?

Mid. I am not mad fir Topas, I fay to you this house is darke.

Clo. Madman thou erreft: I fay there is no darknesse but ignorance, in which thou art more puzel'd then the

Ægyptians in their fogge

Mad. I fay this house is as darke as Ignorance, thogh Ignorance were as darke as hell; and I fay there was neuer man thus abus'd, I am no more madde then you are, make the triall of it in any conflant question.

Clo: What is the opinion of Pythegoras concerning

Wilde-fowle?

Mal. That the foule of our grandam, might happily inhabite a bird.

Clo. What thinks thou of his opinion?

Mal. I thinke nobly of the foule, and no way aproue bls opinion

Cio. Fare thee well remaine thou fill in darkeneffe, thou shalt hold th'opinion of Pysbagoras, ere I will allow of thy wits, and feare to kill a Woodcocke, less thou disposses the souleof thy grandam. Fare thee well.

Mal. Str Topas, fix Topas.

Tob. My most exquisite fir Topas. Clo. Nay I am for all waters.

Mar. Thou might thave done this without thy berd and gowne, he fees thee not.

To. To him in thine owne voyce, and bring me word how thou findft him: I would we were well ridde of this knauery. If he may her conveniently deliver'd, I would he were, for I am now so fatte in offence with my Niece, that I cannot pursue with any safety this sport the vppethot. Come by and by to my Chamber.

Exit

Ch. Hey Robin, folly Robin, tell me how thy Lady

Mal. Foole.

Clo. My Lady is vnkind, perdie.

Mal. Foole.

Cle. Alas why is the fo?

Mal. Foole, I say.

Clo. She loues another. Who calles, ha?

Mal. Good foole, as ever thou wilt deferue well at my hand, helpe me to a Candle, and pen, inke, and paper: as I am a Gentleman, I will live to bee thankefull to thee for't.

Clo. M. Alajuolio?

Alal. I good Poole.

Clo. Alas fir, how fell you befides your fine witts?

Mall. Foole, there was never man fo noteriouslie abus'd: I am as well in my wits (foole) as thou are.

Clo. But as well: then you are mad indeede, if you be no better in your wits then a foole.

Mal. They have hecre propertied me, skeepe mee in darkenesse, send Ministers to me, Asses, and doe all they can to face me out of my wits.

Clo. Adule you what you say: the Minister is heere.

Maluolio, Maluolio, thy wittes the heavens restore: endeauour thy selfe to sleepe, and leave thy vaine bibble babble

Mal. Sis Topas

Clo. Maintaine no words with him good fellow. Who I fit, not I fit. God buy you good fit Topas: Matry Amen, I will fit, I will.

Mal. Foole, foole, foole I fay.

Clo. Alas fir be parient. What fay you fir, I am shent for speaking to you.

Mal. Good foole, helpeme to fome light, and fome paper, I tell thee I am as well in my wittes, as any man in Illytia.

Clo, Well-a-day, that you were fir.

Mal. By this hand 1 am: good foole, fome inke, paper, and light: and convey what I will fet downe to my Lady: it shall advantage thee more, then ever the bearing of Letter did.

Clo. I will help you too't. But tel me true, are you not mad indeed, or do you but counterfeit.

Mal. Beleeve me I am not. I tell thee truc.

Clo. Nay, Ilencre beleeve a madman till I fee his brains I will fetch you light, and paper, and inke.

Mal. Foole, Ile requite it in the highest degree :

I prethee be goue.

Clo. I am gone fit, and anon fit, Ile be with you againe:

In a trice, like to the old vice, your needeto sustaine. Who with dagger of lath, in his rage and his wrath, cries ah ha, to the diuell: Like a mad lad, pare thy nayles dad,

Adieu good man diuell

Exit

Scana Tertia.

Enter Sebastian.

This is the ayre, that is the glorious Sunne, This pearle she gaue me, I do feel't, and see't, And though tis worlder that enwraps me thus, Yet 'the not magnette. Where's Authorie then, I could not finde him at the Elephane, Yetthere he was, and there I found this credite, That he did range the towne to feele me out, His councell now might do me golden feruice, For though my foule disputes well with my sence, That this may be some error, but no madnesse, Yet doth this accident and flood of Fortune, So farre exceed all inthange, all discourse, That I am teadie to distrutt mine eyes, And wrangle with my reason that perswades me To any other trust, but that I am mad, Or che the Ladies mad; yet if twerefo; She could not fway her house, command her fullowers, Take, and gine backe affayres, and their dispatch, With fuch a smooth, diffreet, and stable bearing As I perceive the do's tihere's fomething in't That is decenueable. But heere the Lady comes Enter Olivia, and Prist.

Ol. Blame not this hafte of mine i if you means well Now go with me, and with this holy man fitto the Chantry by: there before him, And vinderneath that confectated roofe, Plicheme the full affutance of your faith, That my most itealious, and too doubtfull foule May live as peace. He first conceale it Whiles you are willing it shall come to note, What time we will our celebration keepe According to my birth, what do you say?

Seb. He fallow this good man, and go with you,

And having fwome truth, curs will be true.

Of. Then lead the way good father, & heavens fo fhine,
That they may fairely note this except mine.

Exercise.

Fine Allus Quartus.

Adus Quintus. Scena Prima.

Enter Clowne and Fabian.

Eab. Now as thou lou'st me, let me sechis Letter. Cla Good M. Fabian, grant me another request.

Eab. Any thing.

Cio. Donot defire to fee this Letter.

Fab. This is to give a dogge, and in recompense defire my dogge againe.

Duke Belong you to the Lady Olima, friends?

Clo. I fir, we are four other trappings.

Duke Lady New well how doed then my se

Date. I know thee well how doeff thos my good Peliow?

Clo Truely fir, the better for my foes, and the worfe for my friends.

DN. Inft the contrary . the better for thy friends.

Clo. No fir, the worle.

Du. How can that be?

Clo. Marry firsthey praise me, and make an affe of me now my foes telline plainly, I cm an Affe: for that by my foes fir, I profit in the knowledge of my felfe, and by my friends I em abused: for that conclations to be as killes, if your foure negatives make your two affirmatives, why then the worse for my friends, and the better for my foes.

Du, Why this is excellent.

Cle By my troth fu, so ! though it please you to be one of my friends.

Da. Thou fishenes be the worke forme, there's gold.
(16. But there is would be double dealing to, I would you could make it another.

DH. O you gue me ill counsell.

C'o. Put your grace in your pocket fit, for this once, and let your flesh and blood obey it.

Du Vell, I will be so much's suner to be a double dealer; there's another.

Clo. Primo, feeunds, tertie, is a good play, and the olde faying is, the third payer for all: the triples fir, is a good tripping measure, or the belles of S. Bennet fir, may put you in ininde, one, two, three.

Em. You can foole no more money out of mee at this throw: if you will let your Lady know I am here to speak with her, and bring her along with you, it may amake my bounty further.

clo. Marry fir, lullaby to your bountietill I come agen. I go fir, but I would not have you to thinke, that my defice of having is the finne of couctouf peffe. but as you fay fir, let your bounty take anappe, I will awake it anop

Enter Anthonio and Officers.

Vie Here comer the man fir, that aid refeue mee.

Dx. That face of his I do remember well, yet when I favir last, it was before d As blacke as Vulcan, in the smoake of warre; A bawbling Vessell was he Captaine of, For shallow draught and bulke superable, With which such scatched grapple did he make, With the most noble bottome of our Freeze, That very couy, and the tongue of losse Cride same and honor on hun; What's the matter?

t Offi. Or fine, this is that Anthonio
That tooke the Phanix, and her fraught from Condy,
And this is he that did the Tiger boord,
When your yong Nephew Titue loft his legge;
Herre in the firects, desperate of theme and thate,
In private brabble did we apprehend him.

Uso. He did me kindnelle fir, drew on my fide, But in conclution put firange speech upon me, I know not what I was, but distraction.

Du. Notable Pyrate, thou falt-water Theese, What fool, the boldnesse brought thee to their mercus, Whom thou in termes so bloudie, and so deere Hast made thing enemies?

Ant. Orfine Nable fir, Be pleas'd that I thake off thefe names you give mee: Arthonio neuer yet was Theese, or Pyrate, Though I confeste, on bale and ground enough Orfine enemie. A witcheraft drew me hither: That most ingratefull boy there by your fide. From the rude less enraged and formy mouth Did I redeeme: a wracke past hope he was: His life I gave bim, and did thereto adde My loue without retention, or restraint, All his in dedication. For his fake, Did I expose my selfe (pure for his love) Into the danger of this adverse Towne, Drew to defend him, when he was befet : Where being apprehended, his felle cuoning (Not meaning to partake with me in danger) Taught him to face me out of his acquaintance,

And grew a twentie yeeres removed thing While one would winke : denide me mine owne purfe, Which I had recommended to his vie, Not balfe an houre before.

. How can this be?

Du. When came he to this Towne?

Aut. To day my Lord 1 and for three mouths before, No intrim, not a minutes vacancie, Both day and night did we keepe companie. Enter Olinea and attendants.

Du. Heere comes the Councile, now heaven walkes

But for thee fellow, fellow thy words are madneffe, Three monthes this youth hath tended vpon ince, But more of that anon. Take him slide.

Ol. What would my Lord, but that he inay not have, Wherein Olinia may feeme feruiceable?

Cefare, you do not keepe promise with me.

Du. Gracious Oliala.
Ol. What do you say Cefarie? Gooding Lord. Vie. My Lord would speake my durie hushes me.

Ol. If it be ought to the old tune my Lord, It is as fat and fullome to mine eare

As howling after Muficke.

Die Still fo cruell?

Ol. Still fo conftant Lord.

Da What ca peruerlenelle s you vneivill Ladie To wholetngrare, and vnauspicious A tars My foule the faithfull'A offrings have breath'd out That ere devotion tender d. What shall I do?

Of Even what it please my Lord, that shall becom him Du. Why should I not, (had I the heart to do it)

Like to th' Egyptian theefe, at point of death Kill what I loue : (a lauage realousie, The fometime fauours nohly) but heare me this: Since you to non-regardance cast my faith, And that I partly know the influment That screwes me from my true place in your fauour ? Line you the Marble brefted Tirant fill. But this your Minion, whom I know you love, And whom, by heaten I sweare, I tender deerely, Him will I teare out of that cruell eye, Where he fits crowned In his mafters fpight Come boy with me, my thoughts are ripe in milchiele r

Ile factifice the Lambe that I do love, To Spighta Rauens heart within a Doue Un. And I most iocund, apt, and willinglie,

To do you test, a thousand deaths would dye. Ol. Where goes Cofarn? Vio. After him I loue,

More then I love these eyes, more then my life, More by all mores, then ere I shall loue wife. If I do feigne, you witnesses shoue Punish my life, for tainting of my loue.

Ol. Aye me detefted, how am I beguil'd?

Uss. Who does beguile you? who does do you wrong? Ol. Haft thou forgot thy felfe : Is it fo long?

Call forth the holy Bather.

Dw. Come, away.

Ol. Whether my Lord? Cefario, Husband, flay.

Da. Husband?

Ol. 1 Husband, Can he that depy?

Dw. Her hosband, firrah?

Vio. No my Lord, not 1.

Ol. Alas, it is the basemesse of thy feare,

That makes thee firangle thy proptiety: Feare not Celario, take thy fortunes up Be that thou know's thou art, and then thou srt As great as that thou fear'A.

Enter Pruft

O welcome Father: Father, I charge thee by thy reverence

Heere to enfold, though lately we intended To keepe in darkenesse, what occasion now Reueales before 'tis ripe: wharthou doft know Hath newly past, betweene this youth, and me.

Prieft. A Contract of eternali bond of loue, Confirm'd by mutuall loynder of your hands, Attested by the holy close of lippes, Strengthned by enterchangement of your rings, And all the Ceremonle of this compact Seal'd in my function, by my testimony : Since when, my watch hath told me, toward my grave I have trauail'd but two houres.

Du. Othou diffembling Cub: what wilt thou be When time hath fow'd a grizzle on thy cafe? Or will not elfe thy craft to quickely grow, That thine owne trip shall be thine overthrow : Farewell, and take her, but dired thy feete. Where thou, and I (henceforth) may never meet.
Vio. My Lord, I do procest.

-OL Odo not fweare.

Hold little faith, though thou haft too much feare,

Enter Sir Andrew.

And. For the loue of God & Surgeon, fend one prefently to fir Toby.

Ol. What's the matter?

And. Has broke my head a-croffe, and has ginen Sir Toby a bloody Cox combe too : for the love of God your helpe, I had rather then forty pound I were at home.

Ol. Who has done this he Andrew?

And. The Counts Gentleman, one Cefario: we tooke him for a Coward, but hee's the verie divell incardinate.

Du. My Gentleman Cofario?

And. Odd's lifelings heere he is: you broke my bead for nothing, and that that I did, I was fet on to do't by fir

Why do you speake to me, I neuer hurryous ou drew your (word vpon me wishout caufe, But I bespake you faire, and hure you not.

Enser Toby and Clowne.

And. If a bloody coxcombe be a hurt, you have hurt me il thinke you fee nothing by a bloody Coxecombe. Heere comes fir Toby halting, you shall heare more; but if he had not beene in drinke, hee would have tickel'd you other gates then he did

Du. How now Gentleman? how ist with you?

To. That's all one, has hurt me, and there's th end or to Sot, didft fee Dicke Surgeon, for?

Clo. Ohe's drunke fir Toby an noure agone : his eyes were fet at eight ith morning.

To. Then he's a Rogue, and a pally measures panyn: I hate a drunken rogue. Ol. Away with him? Who hath made this hauocke with them? And Ile helpe you he Toby, because we'll be dreft togerher.

To. Will you helpe an Affe-head, and a cox combe, & a knaue : a thin fac'd knaue, a gull?

OI.

Ol. Get him to bed, and let his burt be look'd too.

Enter Schaftian.

Seb. I am forcy Madam I have here your kinfman: But had it beene the brother of my blood, I must have done no lesse with wit and fafety. You throw a strangeregard you me, and by that I do perceive it hath offended you.

Pardon me (sweet one) even for the vowes

Pardon me (fweet one) even for the vowes We made each other, but so late ago.

Du. One face, one voice, one habit, and two persons, A naturall Perspective, that is, and is not

Seb. Anthonio: O my deere Anthonio, How have the houres rack'd, and tottur'd me, Since I have loft thee?

Ant. Sebastian are you?

Seb. Fear'ft thou that Anthonio?

Ant. How have you made division of your felle, An apple eleft in two, is not more twin Then these two creatures. Which is Sebastian?

Ol. Most wonderfull.

Seb. Do I frand there? I never had a brother:
Not can there be that Deity in my nature
Of heere, and every where. I had a fifter,
Whom the blinde waves and furges have devour'd:
Of charity, what kinne are you to me?
What Countreyman? What name? What Parentage?

Dis. Of Messaline: Sebastian was my Father, Such a Sebastian was my brother too: So went he suited to his watery tombe: If spirits can assume both forme and suite,

You come to fright vs.

Seb. A spirit I am indeed,
But am in that dimension grossely clad,
Which from the wombe I did participate.
Were you a woman, as the rest goes even,
I should my teares let fall vpon your cheeke,
And say, thrice welcome drowned Viola.

Vio. My father had a moale vpon his brow.

Seb. And fo had mine.

Vio. And dide that day when Viola from her birth Had numbred thirteene yeares,

Seb. Other record is lively in my foule, He finished indeed his martall acte

That day that made my lister thirteene yeares.

Fig. Is nothing lets to make vs happie both,
But this my masculine vsurp'd attyre:
Do not embrace me, till each circumstance,
Of place, time, fortune, do co-here and immpe
That I am Fiola, which to confirme,
Ile bring you to a Captaine in this Towne,
Where lye my maiden weeds: by whose gentle helpe,
I was present'd to secue this Noble Count:
All the occurrence of my fortune since
Hath beene betweene this Lady, and this Lord,

But Nature to her bias drew in that.

You would have bin contracted to a Maid,
Nor are you therein (by my life) deceiu'd,

You are bettoth'd both to a maid and man.

Du. Benot amaz'd right noble is his blood:
If this be lo, as yet the gladfe feemes true,
I thail have thate in this most nappy wracke,
Boy, thou half faide to me a thou land times,
Thou never thould'st love woman like to me.

Vis. And all those sayings, will I ouer sweare, And all those swearings keepe as true in soule, As doth that Orbed Continent, the fire, That fouers day from night.

Dw. Glue methy hand,

And let me fee thee in thy womans vicedes.

Use. The Captaine that did bring me first on shore Hath my Maides garments: he vpon some Adson Is now in durance, at Maluolide source,

A Gentleman, and follower of my Ladies.

Ol. He shall inlarge him. setch Maluolio hither, And yet alas, now I remember me,

They say poore Gentleman, he's much diffract.

Enter Clowne with a Latter, and Fabian.

A most extracting frense of mine owne From my remembrance, clearly banishe his.

How does he fi rah?

Cl. Truely Madam, he holds Belzebub at the flaues end as well as a man in his case may do; has heere write a letter to you, I should have given't you to day morning. But as a madmans Epistles are no Gospels, so it skilles not much when they are deliver'd.

Ol. Open't, and read it.

Clo. Looke then to be well edified, when the Foole delivers the Madman. By the Lord Madem.

Ol. Hownow, are thou mad?

Clo. No Madam, I do but reade madnesse: and your Ladyship will have it as it ought to bee, you must allow Vox.

Ol. Prethee reade i'thy right witt.

Co. So I do Madona: but to reade his right wits, it to reade thus: therefore, perpend my Princefle, and give eare.

Ol. Readit you, firrah.

Fab. Reads. By the Lord Madam, you wrong me, and the world (hall know it: Though you have put mee into dathenesse, and guen your drunken Cosine rule over me, yet have I the benefit of my senses as well as your Ladie-ship. I have your owne letter, that induced mee to the semblance I put on; with the which I doubt not, but to do my selfe much right, or you much shame: thinke of me as you please. I leave my duty a little vnthought of, and speake out of my iniury. The madly wid Maluolio.

oi. Did he write this?

Clo. I Madame.
Du. This savours not much of distraction.

Ol. See him deliuer'd Fabian, bring him hither:
My Lord, so please you, these things further thought on,
To thinke me as well a sister, as a wise,
One day shall crowne th'alliance on't, so please you,
Heere at my house, and at my proper cost.

Du. Madam, I am most apt t'embrace your offer: Your Master quits you: and for your service done him, So much against the mettle of your sex, So farre beneath your soft and tender breeding, And since you call'd me Master, for so long: Heere is my hand, you shall from this time bee your Masters Mistris

CI. A lister, you zee she.

Enter Malnotio.

Dv. Is this the Madman?
Ol. Imy Lord, this fame: How now Maluolie?
Mal. Madam, you have done me wrong,
Notorious wrong,

Ol. Haue I Maluolio? No.

Mal. Lady you have, pray you peruse that Letter. You must not now denie it is your hand, Write from it if you can, in hand, or phrase,

Ot

Or fay, tis not your feale, not your invention to You can fay none of this. Well, grant it then, And tell me in the modestic of honor, Why you have given me such cleare lights of favour, Bad me come similing, and crosse-garter'd to you, To put on yellow stockings, and to frowne Vpon sir Toby, and the lighter people:
And acting this in an obedient hope, Why have you suffer'd me to be imprison'd, Kept in a darke house, wisted by the Priest, And made the most notorious gecke and gull That ere invention plaid on? Tell me why?

Ol. Alas Maluolio, this is not my writing,

Though I confessemuch like the Charracter But out of question, tis Marias hand.
And now I do bethinke me, it was shee
First told me thou wast mad; then cam'st in smiling,
And in such formes, which heere were presuppos'd
Vpon thee in the Letter: prethee be content,
This practice hath most shrewdly past upon thee:
But when we know the grounds, and authors of it,
Thou shall be both the Plaintiffe and the ludge

Of thine owne cause.

Fab. Good Madam heare me speake,
And let no quarrell, nor no braule to come,
Taint the condition of this present houre,
Which I have wondred at. In hope it shall not,
Most freely I confesse my selfe, and Toby
Set this device against Malustic heere,
Vpon some stubborne and vncourteous parts
We had conceived against him. Maria writ
The Letter, at sir Tobyes great importance,
In recompence whereof, he hath married hera
How with a sportfull malice it was followed,
May rather plucke on laughter then reuenge,
If that the iniuries be justly weigh'd,
That have on both sides pass

Ol. Alss poore Foole, how have they baffel'd thee?
Clo. Why fome are borne great, fome atchieue greatneffe, and fome have greatneffe throwne sponthem. I was one fir, in this Enterlude, one fir Topas fir, but that's all one t By the Lord Foole, I am not mad t but do you remember, Madam, why laugh you at fach a berren rafcall, and you smile not he's gag'd and thus the whirlegigge of time, brings in his revenges.

Mai. Ile be reueng'd on the whole packe of you?

Ol. He hath bene most notoriously abus'd.

Dw. Pursue him, and entreate him to a peace:

He hath not told vs of the Captaine yet,

When that is knowne, and golden time contents

A solemne Combination shall be made

Of our deere soules. Meane time sweet sister,

We will not part from hence. Cesais come

(For so you shall be while you are a man;)

But when in other habites you are seene,

Orsino's Mistris, and his sancies Queene.

Exenst

Clorune fings.
When thus I was and a little tine boy,
with boy, ho, the winds and the raine r
A foolish thing was but a toy, for the raine is raineth enery day,

But when I came to mans estate, with hey be, &c. Cairst Knows and Theenes men sout their gate, for the raine, &c.

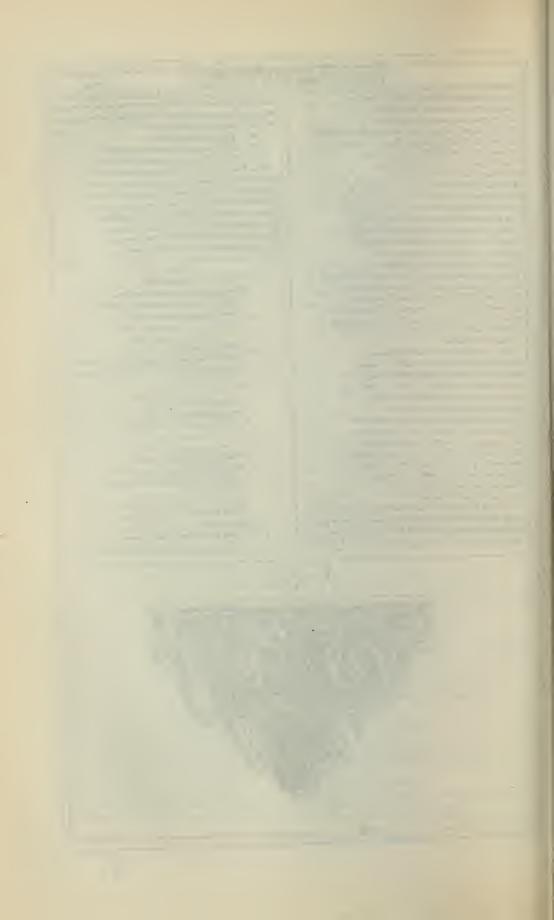

But when I carre alas to pine, with hey ho, ct. By swaggering could I never threne, for the rame, ct.

But when I came unto my beds, with her howe With tospotter still had drunken heades, for the raine, To.

A great while ago the world begon, hey ho, &c. Bus that's all one, our Play is done, and wee'l firing soplease you every day.

FINIS.

The Winters Tale.

Scana Prima. Attus Primus.

Enter Camillo and Archidamus.

Fyou shall chance (Camillo) to visit Bonemia, on the like occasion whereon my services are now on-foot, you shall see (as I have said) great difference betwixe our Bohemsa, and your Sicilia.

Cam. I thinke, this comming Summer, the King of Sicilia meanes to pay Bohemia the Visitation, which hee iustly owes him.

Arch. Wherein our Entertainment shall shame vs: we will be justified in our Loues: for indeed---

Cam. Befeech you-

Arch. Vetely I speake it in the freedome of my knowledge : we cannot with fuch magnificence --- in fo rare--I know not what to fay --- Wee will give you fleepie Drinkes, that your Sences (vn-intelligent of our infufficience) may, though they cannot prayle vs, as little aceufe vs.

Cam. You pay a great deale to deare, for what's given freely.

Arch. 'Belceue me, I speake as my understanding infructs me, and as mine honestie puts it to vecerance.

Cam. Sicilia cannot shew himselfe over-kind to Bobemia: They were trayn'd together in their Child-hoods; and there rooted betwixt them then such an affection, which cannot chuse but braunch now. Since their more mature Dignities, and Royall Necessities, made seperation of their Societie, their Encounters (though not Perfonall) hath been Royally attornyed with enter-change of Gifts, Letters, louing Einbaffies, that they have feem'd to be together, though absent: shooke hands, as over a Vaft; and embrac'd as it were from the ends of opposed Winds. The Heavens continue their Loues.

Arch. I thinke there is not in the World, either Malice or Matter, to alter it. You have an unspeakable coinfort of your young Prince Mamilius: it is a Gentleman of the greatest Promise, that ever came into my Nore.

Cam. I very well agree with you in the hopes of him: cis a gallane Child : one, that (indeed Phylicks the Subiect. makes old hearts fresh: they that went on Crutches ere he was home defire yet their life, to fee him a Man.

Arch, Would they elfe be content to die?

Com. Yes; if there were no other excule, why they should Arch. If the King had no Sonne, they would defire to line on Crutches till he had one. Exenne.

Scana Secunda.

Enter Leontes, Hermione Mamillina, Polixenes, Camillo. Pol. Nine Changes of the Watry-Starre hath been

The Shepheards Note, fince we have left our Throne Without a Burthen: Time as long againe Would be fill'd vp (my Brother) with our Thanks, And yet we should, for perpetuitie, Goe hence in debt : And therefore, like a Cypher (Yet standing in rich place) I multiply With one we thanke you, many thousands moe, That goe before it.

Lee. Stay your Thanks a while, And pay them when you part.

Pol. Sir, that's to morrow's am question'd by my feares, of what may chance, Or breed vpon our absence, that may blow No fnesping Winds at home, to make vs fay, This is put forth too truly: be fides, I have flay'd To tyre your Royaltie,

Leo. We are tougher (Brother)

Then you can put vs to't.

Pol. No longer stay. Leo. One Seue night longer.

Pol. Very footh, to mottow.
Lee. Wee'le part the time betweene's then: and in that

He no gaine-faying.

Pol. Presie me not ('beseech you) so: There is no Tongue that moues; none, none i'th' World So foone 25 yours could win me: fo it should now, Were there necessitie in your request, although "I were needfull I deny'd ir. My Affaires Doe cuendrag me home-ward : which to hinder, Were (in your Loue) a Whip tome; my flay, To you a Charge, and Trouble: to faue both, Farewell (our Brother.)

Les. Tongue-ty'd our Queene? Speake you. Her. I had thought (Sir) to have held my peace, vntill You had drawne Oathes from him, not to stay: you(Sir) Charge him too coldly. Tell him, you are fure All in Bohema's well : this fatisfaction, The by-gone-day proclaym'd, (ay this to him, He's bear from his best ward.

Leo. Well faid, Hermione. Her. To tell, he longs to fee his Sonne, were ftrong: But let him fay fo then, and let him goe; But let him fweere fo, and ne shall not stay, Wee'l thwack him hence with Distaffes. Yet of your Royall presence, the adventure The hotrow of a Weeke. When at Bohemin You take my Lord, He give him my Commission, To let him there a Moneth, behind the Gest Prefix'd for's parting: yet (good-deed) Leontes, I loue thee not a larre o'th' Clock, behind

Wha

What Lady the her Lord You'le Ray ,

Pal. No, Madame.

Ha. Nay, but you will? Pol. I may not verely.

Her. Verely?

You put me off with limber Vower but 1, Though you would feek i'vnfphere the Stars with Oaths, Should yet by, Sit, no going Verely You shall not goe; a Ladyes Verely 10 As potent as a Lords. Will you goe yet? Force me to keepe you as a Priloner, Not like a Guest: lo you shall pay your Fees When you depart, and faue your Thanks. How by you? My Priloner? or my Gueff? by your dread Verely, One of them you shall be.

Pol. Your Guest then, Madame : To be your Prisoner, should import offending: Which is for me, leffe easie to commit,

Then you to punish.

Her. Not your Gaoler then, But your kind Hostesse. Come, He question you Of my Lords Tricks, and yours, when you were Boyes: You were pretty Lordings then ?

Pal. Wewere (laste Queene)

Two Lads, that thought there was no more behind, But fuch a day to morrow, as to day, And to be Boy eternall.

Her. Was not my Lord The veryer Wag o'th'two?

Pol We were as twyn'd Lambs, that did frisk i'th' Sun, And bleat the one at th'other: what we chang'd, Was Innocence, for Innocence: we know not The Doctrine of ill-doing, nor dream'd That any did: Had we pursu'd that life, And our weake Spirits ne're been higher cest d With A onger blood, we should have answer'd Heaven Boldly, nor guilty; the Imposition clear'd, Heroditarie ours.

Her. By this we gather

You have eript fince

Pol Omy most facted Lady, Temptations have fince then been borne to's: for In those vnfledg'd dayes, was my Wife a Gule; Your precious selfe had then not cross'd the oper Of my young Play fellow

Her. Grace to boot Of this make no conclusion, least you say Your Queene and I are Deuils : yet goe on, Th'offcirces we have made you doe, weele answere, If you field finn'd with vs and that with vs You did continue fault; and that you flipt not With any, but with vs

Lea. Is he woon yet i

Ha. Hee'le Ray (my Lord.) Les. At my request he would not Bermone (my dearest) thou never (poak's

To better purpole. Her. Never?

Leo. Neuer, but once.

Her Whate have I twice (aid well? when was't before) I prethee tell me . cram s with prayle, and make's As fat as came things: One good deed, dying congueleffe. Slaughters a thousand, wayting vpon that, Out prayies are our Wages. You may ride's With one foft Kille a thouland Furlongs, ere With Spur we heat an Acre. But to th' Goale:

My last good dred, was to entrest his flay. What was my first it ha's an elder Sifter, Or I miffake you O, would her Name were Grace. But once before I spoke to the purpose? when? Nay Jet me have't : I long.

Lee Why, that was when Three crabbed Moneths had fowr'd themselves to deads, Ere I could make thee open thy white Hand A clap thy felfe my Loue; then druft thou vicer, I am yours for ever.

Her. Tis Grace indeed.

Why lo-you now; I have spoke toth' purpose twice The one, for ever earn'd a Royall Husband ; Th'other for some while a Friend

Les Too hot, too hot : Tomingle friendship farre is mingling bloods. I have Tremer Corde on me : my heart daunces, But not for toy; not toy. This Entertainment May a free face put on: denue a Libertie From Heartinelle from Bountie, fertile Busome, And well become the Agent: tmay, I graunt: But to be padling Palmes, and pinching Fingers, As now they are, and making practised Smiles As in a Looking-Glasse; and then to sigh, as 'twere The Mott o'th' Deere nh, that is entertainment My Bolome likes not, not my Brower. Manulan, Att thou my Boy

Man I, my good Loid

Leo. I'lecks:

Why that a my Bawcock: what has't fourth'd thy Nofe? They fay it is a Coppy out of mine, Come Captaine, We mult be neat; not neat, but cleanly Capraine: And yet the Steere, the Heyefer, and the Calfe, Are all call'd Neat. Still Virginalling Vpon his Palme? How now (you wanton Calle) Art thou my Calfe '

Mam. Yes, il you will (my Lord.)
Les Thou want starough pash & the shoots that I have To be full, like me : yet they fay we are Almost as like as Egges; Women say so, (That will say any thing) But were they false As o're-dy'd Blacks, as Wind, as Waters; false As Diceare to be wish'd, by one that fixes No borne twist his and mine; yet were it true. To fay this Boy were like me Come(Sir Page) Looke on me with your Welkin eye: [weer Villaine, Molt dear'ft, my Collop: Can thy Dam, may's be Affection? thy Intention flabs the Center. Thou do'ft make possible things not fo held, Communicat'il with Dreames (how can this be?) With what's vorzall: thou coactive art, And fellow's nothing Then tis very credent. Thou may's co-toyne with fomething, and thou do's, (And that beyond Commission) and I find it, (And that to the infection of my Braines, And hardning of my Browes.)

Pol. What meanes Sacilia? Her. He something seemes valetled. Pal How my Lord?

Lee. What cheered how is't with you, best Brother? Her. You look as if you held a Brow of much distraction;

Are you mou'd (my Lord!) Lee. No, in good earneft.

How fometimes Nature will betray it's folly? It's tenderneffe? and make it felfe a Pathone To harder bolomes? Looking on the Lynes

Of my Boyes face, me thoughts I did requoyle Twentie three yeeres, and taw my felfe va-breech's, In my greene Veluer Coat; my Dagger muzzef d. Leaft it should bire it's Master, and to proue (As Omaments oft do's) too dangerous : How like (me thought) I then was to this Kernell, This Squath, this Gentleman. Mine booch Friend, Will you take Egges for Money?

Mam. No (my Lord) Hefight.
Leo. You will: why happy man be's dole. My Brother Are you to fond of your young Prince, as we Doe feeme to be of ours?

Pol If at home (Sir) He's all my Exercise, my Mirch, my Motter; Nowmy I wome Priend, and then mine Enemy s My Patalite, my Souldier: Statef-man; all: He makes a Julyes day, More as December, And with his varying child-neffe, cures in me Thoughts, that would thick my blood.

Leo. So frands this Squire Offied with me : We two will walke (my Lord) And leave you to your graver freps. Hermione, How thou lou's ve, thew in our Brothers welcomes Let what is deare in Sicily, he cheape: Next to thy felfe, and my young Rover, he's Apperant to my heart,

Her. If you would feeke vs.

We are yours ith Garden : thall's arrend you there? Leo. To your owne bents dispote you you'le be found, Be you beneath the Sky: I am angling now, (Though you perceive me not how I give Lyne) Goetoo, goe too.
How the holds up the Nebr the Byll to him?
And armes her with the boldnesse of a Wite To her allowing Husband. Gone already, Ynch-thick, knee-deepejore head and eares a fork'd one. Goe play (Boy)play: thy Mother playes, and I Play too; but to difgrac'd a part, whose issue Will hisse me to my Graue: Contempt and Clamor Will be my Kitell. Goe play (Boy) play, there have been (Or I am much deceived) Cuckolds ere now, And many a man there is (even at this prefent,

Now, while I speake this) holds his Wife by th'Arme, That little thinkes she ha's been shaye'd in's absence, And his Pond fish'd by his next Neighbor (by Sir Smile, his Neighbor:) nay, there's comfort in't, Whiles other men have Gates, and those Gates open'd (As mine) against their will Should all despaire

That have revolted Wives, the tenth of Mankind Would hang themselves. Physick for tathere's nonet

It is a bawdy Planer, that will ftrike

Where 'tis predominant; and 'tis powrefull: minke le : From East, Welt. North, and South, be it concluded, No Barricado for a Belly. Know's,

It will let in and out the Bnemy,

With bag and baggage a many thousand on's Haue the Disease, and feele's not. How now Boy & Mani. I sm like you fay.

Lea Why that's fome comfore. What ? Comillo there !

Can. I, my good Lord.
Leo. Goe play (Manillius) thou're an honest maus Camillo, this greet Sir will yet Asy tonger.

Can. You had much adoe to make his Anchor hold, When you cast out, it still earne borne.

Los DidA note le?

Com. He would not Azy as your Peditions, made His Bufinelle more materiall.

Leo. Didft perceiue it?

They're here with me stready; while 'rings rounding : Sicilia is a fo-forth: 'dis farre gone, When I shall gust is last How cam't (Camillo) That he did flay?

Cam. At the good Queenes entreate.
Leo. At the Queenes be't: Good bould be perginent, Bur so it Is, it is not. Was this taken By any under flanding Pate but thine? For thy Concert is loaking, will draw in More then the common Blocks. Not noted, is't, But of the finer Natures? by force Severalls Of Head-pecce extraordinarie? Lower Meffes Per hance are to this Bulinelle purblind? fay. Com. Bufineffe, my Lord? I thinke most understand

Bobenia Rayes here longen

Lea Het

Cam. Stayes here longer.

Leo. I, but why !

Cam. To latishe your Highnesse, and the Entreattes Of our most gracious Mistrelle.

Leo. Satisfic?

Th'entreaties of your Mistreffe? Satisfie? Let that Wifice, I have trusted thee (Cantillo) With all the necreft things to my heart, as well My Chamber-Councels, wherein (Prieft-like) elsou Haft cleans'd my Bosome: I, from thee departed Thy Penitent reform'd: but we have been Decein'd in thy Integritic, decein'd In that which feemes fo.

Cam. Be it fotbid (my Lord.)
Leo. To bide upon't: thou are not honefter If thou inclin's that way, thou are a Coward, Which hoxes honeflie behind, restrayning From Courie required to or elle thou must be counted A Servant, grafted in my ferious Truft, And therein negligent: or elle a Foole That feeft a Game play'd home, the sich Stake drawne, And tak'ft it all for ieaft,

Cam. My gracious Lord, I may be negligent, foolish, and fewefull, In every one of thefe, no man is free, But that his negligence, his folly, feare, Among the infinite doings of the World, Sometime puts forth in your affaires (my Lord.) If ever I were wilfull-negligent, It was my folly: if induffricully I play'd the Foole, it was my negligence, Not weighing well the end: if ever fearefull To doe a thing, where I the iffue doubted, Whereof the execution did cry out Against the non-performance, twas a feare Which oft infects the wifett: these (my Lord) Are fuch allow'd Infirmities, that bonefite

Is never free of. Bus beloveh your Grace Be plainer with me, let me know my Trespas By it's owne visage; If I then deny it, Tis none of roine. Leo. Ha' not you feene Camillo!

(But that's past doobt: you have, or your eye-glasse Is thicker then a Cuckolds Horne) or heard? (For to a Vision to apparent, Rumor Cannot be mute) or thought (for Cogitation Refides not in that men, that do's not thinke)

Ae 2

My Wife is lipperie? If thou wilt confesse, Or elle be impudently negative, To have nor Eyes, nor Eares, noe Thought, then fay My Wife's a Holy-Horfe, deferues a Name As ranke as any Flax-Wench, that puts to Before her croth-plight fay't, and juflify't.

Cam. I would not be a flander by, to heare My Soueraigne Mistrelle clouded so, without My prefent vengeance taken; Threw my heart, You never spoke what did become you lesse Then this; which to testerate, were fin

As deepe as that, though true.

Leo. Is whilpering nothing? Is leaning Checke to Cheeke? is meating Nofes Killing with in-lide Lip? Hopping the Cariere Of Laughter, with a figh? (a Note infallible Of breaking Honeltie) horfing foot on foot: Skulking to corners? withing Clocks more (wift? Houres, Minutes? Noone, Mid-night I and all Eyes Blind with the Pin and Web but theirs; theirs onely, That would unfeene be wicked? Is this nothing? Why then the World, and all that's in't, is nothing, The covering Skie is nothing, Bohemia nothing, My Wife is nothing, nor Nothing have thele Nothings, If this be nothing.

Cam. Good my Lord, be cur'd Of this difeas'd Opinion, and betimes,

For tis most dangerous. Leo. Say it be, 'tis true.

Gam. No, no, my Lord. Leo. It is: you lye, you lye: I fay thou lyest Camillo, and I hate thee. Pronounce thee a groffe Lowt, a mindleffe Slave. Or else a houering Temporizer, that Canst with thine eyes at once see good and euill, Inclining to them both: were my Wives Lives Infeded (as her life) the would not live

The running of one Glasse.

Com. Who do sinfect her? Leo. Why he that weares her like her Medull, hanging About his neck (Bobemia) who, if I Had Servants true about me, that bare eyes To see alike mine Honor, as their Profits, (Their owne particular Thrifts) they would doe that Which should vadoe more doing: I, and thou His Cup-bearer, whom I from meaner forme Have Bench'd, and rear'd to Worship, who may it see Plainely, as Heaven fees Earth, and Earth fces Heaven, How I am gall'd, might'ft he-fpice a Cup, To give mine Enemy a lasting Winke: Which Draught to me, were cordialL

Cam. Sir (my Lord) I could doe this, and that with no rash Potion, But with a lingring Dram, that should not worke Maliciously, like Poylon: But I cannot Beleeve this Crack to be in my dread Mistrelle (So foueraignely being Honorable.) I haue lou'd thee,

Leo Make that thy question, and goerot: Do'll thinke I am fo muddy, fo vnfetled, To appoint my felfe in this vexation? Sully the puritie and whitevelle of my Sheetes (Which to preserve, is Sleepe; which being spotted, is Goades, Thornes Nettles, Tayles of Walpes) Give foundall to the blood o'th' Prince, my Sonne, (Who I doe thinke is mine, and loue as mine)

Without ripe mouing to't? Would I doe this? Could man fo blench:

Cam. I must beleeue you (Sir) I dee, and will feech off Bobemia for't. Provided, that when hee's remon'd, your Highnesse Will take againe your Queene, as yours at bift, Even for your Sonnes fake, and thereby for fealing The Injurie of Tongues, in Courts and Kingdomes Knowne, and ally d to yours.

Leo. Thou do A adule me, Euen fo as I mine owne course have set downe : He give no blemish to her Honor none.

Cam. My Lord,

Goe then; and with a countenance as cleare As Friendship weares at Feasts, keepe with Bohemia, And with your Queene: I am his Cup-bearer, If from me he have wholesome Beveridge, Account me not your Servant.

Leo. This is all:

Do't, and thou half the one halfe of my heart; Do't not, thou splitt'ft thine owne.

Cam. He do't my Lord.

Leo. I wil seeme friendly, as shou hast aduis'd me. Exa Cam, Omiserable Lady. But for me,

What case stand I in? I must be the poylones Of good Polizenes, and my ground to do t, Is the obedience to a Master; one. Who in Rebellion with himfelfe, will have All that are his, fo too. To doe this deed, Promotion followes: If I could find example Of thousand's that had struck anounted Kings, And Rourish'd after, Il'd not do't : But fince Nor Brasse, nor Stone, nor Parchment beares not one, Let Villanie it felfe forsweat't. I must Forfake the Court: to do't, or no, is certaine To me a breake-neck. Happy Starre raigne now, Here comes Bohemia. Enter Polixones.

Pol. This is strange: Methinkes My fauor here begins to warpe. Not speake? Good day Camillo.

Cam. Hayle most Royall Sit. Pol. What is the Newes i'th' Court?

Cam. None rare (iny Lord.)

Pol. The King hath on him fuch a countenance, As he had loft fome Province, and a Region Lou'd, as he loues himfelfe : even now I met him With customatic complement, when her Wafting his eyes to th' contrary, and falling A Lippe of much contempt, speedes from me, and So leaves me, to confider what is breeding, That changes thus his Manners.

(am. I dare not know (my Lord.) Pol. How, dare not? doe not? doe you know, and dare not? Be intelligent to me, tis thereabouts; For to your felfe, what you doe know, you must, And cannot say, you dare not. Good Camillo Your chang'd complexions are to me a Mirror, Which shewes me mine chang'd too. for I must be

A partie in this alteration, finding My selfe thus alter d with't

Cam. There is a ficknelle Which puts some of vs in distemper, but I cannot name the Difeale, and it is caught Of you, that yet are well.

Pol. How caught of me? Make me not fighted like the Bafilifque.

Ihaue

The Winters Tale.

I haue look'd on thousands, who have sped the better By my regard, but kill'd none fo : Camillo, As you are certainely a Gentleman, thereto Clerke-like experienc'd, which no lesse adornes Our Gentry, then our Parents Noble Names, In whose successe we are gentle : I beseech you, If you know ought which do's behoue my knowledge, Thereof to be inform'd, imprison't not In ignorant concealement.

Cam. I may not answere.

Pol. A Sickneffe caught of me, and yet I well? I must be answerd. Do it thou heare Camillo, I conjure thee, by all the parts of man, Which Honor do sacknowledge, whereof the least Is not this Suit of mine, that thou declare What incidencie thou do'll ghelle of harme Is creepingtoward mes how farre off, how neere, Which way to be preuented, if to be: If not, how best to beare it.

Cam. Sir, I will tell you, Since I am charg'd in Honor, and by him That I thinke Honorable: therefore marke my counfaile, Which must be eu'n as swiftly followed, as I meane to veter it; or both your felfe, and me, Cry loft, and fo good night

Pol. On, good Camillo

Cam. I am appointed him to murther you.

Pol. By whom, Camillo? Cam. By the King.

Pol. For what !

Cam. He thinkes, nay with all confidence he sweares, As he had feen't, or beene an Instrument To vice you to't, that you have toucht his Queene Forbiddenly.

Pol. Oh then, my best blood turne To an infected Gelly, and my Name Be yoak'd with his, that did betray the Beft : Turoe then my freshest Reputation to A fauour, that may strike the dullest Nosthrill Where I arrive, and my approch be shun'd, Nay hated too, worfe then the great'ff Infection That ere was heard, ot read

Cam. Sweate his thought over By each particular Starte in Heauen, and Byall their Influences; you may as well Forbid the Sea for to obey the Moone, As (or by Oath) remove, or (Counfaile) (hake The Fabrick of his Folly, whose foundation Is pyl'd vpon his Faith, and will continue The standing of his Body.

Pol. How should this grow? Cam. I know not: but I am fure 'tis fafer to Auoid what's growne, then question how 'tis borne. If therefore you dare trust my honestie, That lyes enclosed in this Trunke, which you Shall beare along impawnd, away to Night, Your Followers I will whifper to the Bulineffe, And will by twoes, and threes, at several Posternes, Cleare them o'th' Citie: For my felfe, lle put My fortunes to your feruice(which are here By this discouerie loft.) Be not vncertaine, For by the honor of my Parents, Haue vttred Truth: which if you feeke to proce, I dare not stand by; nor shall you be fafer, Then one condemnd by the Kings owne mouth: Thereon his Execution (worne.

Pol. I doe beleeve thee: I faw his heart in's face. Give me thy hand, Be Pilot to me, and thy places shall Still neighbour mine. My Ships are ready, and My people did expect my hence departure Two dayes agoe. This lealousie Is for a precious Creature: as shee's rare, Must it be great; and, as his Person's mightie, Must it be violent : and, as he do's conceiue, He is dishonor'd by a man, which ever Profes d to him: why his Reuenges must In that be made more bitter. Feare ore-shades me: Good Expedition be my friend, and comfort The gracious Queene, part of his Theame; but nothing Of his ill-ta'ne suspition. Come Camille, I will respect thee as a Father, if Thou bear'st my life off, hence: Let vs auoid Cam. It is in mine authoritie to command The Keyes of all the Posternes : Please your Highnesse To take the vegent houre. Come Sir, away.

A Etus Secundus. Scena Prima

Enter Hermione, Mamillius Ladies: Leontes, Antigonia. Lords.

Her Take the Boy to you: he so troubles me,

Tis paft enduring.

Lady. Come (my gracious Lord)

Shall I be your play-fellow?

Mam. No, He none of you

Lady. Why (my (weet Lord)) Mam. You'le kille me hard, and speake to me, as if I were a Baby ftill. I loue you berter,

1. Lady. And why fo(my Lord?)

Mam. Not for because Your Browes are blacker (yet black-browes they fay Become some Women best, so that there be not Too much haire there, but in a Cemicircle,

Or a halfe-Moone, made with a Pen.)

2. Lady, Who taught this? Mam. I leatn'd it out of Womens facest pray now,

What colour are your eye-browes?

Lady. Blew(my Lord.) Mam. Nay, that's a mock: I have feene a Ladies Nofe

That ha's beene blew, but not her eye-browes

Lady. Harke ye,

The Queene (your Mother) rounds apace: we shall Present out services to a fine new Prince One of these dayes, and then youl'd wanton with vs, If we would have you.

2. Lady. She is spread of late

Into a goodly Bulke (good time encounter her.)

Her. What wildome ftirs among ft you? Come Sir, now

I am for you againe: Pray you fit by vs, And tell's a Tale.

Mam. Merry, or fad, fhal't be ? Her. As merry as you will.

Mam. A fad Tale's best for Winter:

I haue one of Sprights, and Goblins. Her. Let's haue that (good Sir.)

Come-on, sit downe, come-on, and doe your best. To fright me with your Sprights: you're powtefull st it

A = 3

Mam. There

CMam. There was a man.

Her. Nay, come sit downe : then on.

Man. Dwelt by a Church-yard: I will tell it foftly, Yond Crickets shall not heare It.

Her. Come on then, and giu't me in mine eare.

Leon Was hee met there? his Traine? Camillo with him?

Lord. Behind the tuft of Pines I met them, neuer Saw I men scowre so on their way: I eyed them Euen to their Ships.

Leo. How bleft am I In my iust Centure? in my true Opinion? Alack, for leffer knowledge, how accurs'd, In being fo bleft? There may be in the Cup A Spider fleep'd, and one may drinke; depart, And yet partake no venome: (for his knowledge Is not infected) but if one present Th'abhor'd Ingredient to his eye, make knowne How he hath drunke, he cracks his gorge, his fides With violent Hefrs: I have drunke, and feene the Spider, Camillo was his helpe in this, his Pandar: There is a Plot against my Life, my Crowne; All's true that is mistrufied: that falle Villaine, Whom I employ d, was pre-employ'd by him: He ha's discouer'd my Designe, and I Remaine a pinch'd Thing; yos, a very Trick For them to play at will; how came the Posternes So easily open ?

Lord. By his great authority.

Which often hath no lesse preuail d, then so, On your command,

Lee. I know't too well. Give me the Boy, I am glad you did not nurse him: Though he do's beare tome fignes of me, yet you Haue coomuch blood in him

Her. What is this? Sport?

Leo. Beare the Boy hence, he shall not come about her. A way with him, and let her sport her selfe With that shee 6 big-with, for 'tis Polixenes Ha's made thee swell thus.

Her. But Il'd fay he had not; And He be fwome you would beleeve my faying,

How e'te you leane to th' Nay-ward.

Les. You (niv Lords) Looke on her, marke her well: be but about To fay the is a goodly Lady, and The iustice of your hearts will thereto adde 'Tis pitty shee's not honest: Honorable; Prayle her but for this her without-dore-Forme, (Which on my faith deferues high speech) and straight The Shrug, the Hum, or Ha, (thele Petty-brands That Calumnie doth vie; Oh, I am out, That Mercy do's, for Calumnie will feare Vertue it felfe) thefe Shrugs, thefe Hum's, and Ha's, When you have faid thee's goodly, come betweene, Ere you can fay shee's honest: But be'e knowne (From him that ha's most cause to grieve it should be) Shee's an Adultreffe.

Her. Should a Villaine fay fo, (The most replenish'd Villaine in the World) He were as much more Villaine : you (my Lord) Doe but mistake.

Lee. You have mistooke (my Lady) Polixenes for Leontes: O thou Thing, (Which Ile not call a Creature of thy place, Least Barbarisme (making me the precedent) Should a like Language vie to all degrees, And mannerly diffinguishment leave out. Betwint the Prince and Begger.) I have faid Shee's an Adultreffe, I have faid with whom: More; shee's a Traytor, and Camello 13 A Federarie with her, and one that knowes What the thould thame to know her felfe, But with her most vild Principall: that shee's A Bed-fwaruer, even as bad as those That Vulgars give bold'st Titles; I, and privy To this their late escape.

Her. No (by my life) Priny to none of this; how will this grieve you, When you shall come to clearer knowledge, that You thus have publish'd me? Gentle my Lord, You scarce can right me throughly, then, to say You did mistake.

Lro. No. if I mistake

In those Foundations which I build voon, The Centre is not bigge enough to beare A Schoole-Boyes Top. Away with ber, to Prifon : He who shall speake for her, is a farre-off guiltie. But that he speakes.

Her. There's some ill Planet raignes: I must be patient, till the Heavens looke With an aspect more fauorable. Good my Lords, I am not prone to weeping (as our Sex Commonly are) the want of which vaine de w Perchance shall dry your pitties : but I have That honorable Griefe lodg'd here, which burnes Worle then Teares drowne: befeech you all (my Lords) With thoughts fo qualified, as your Charities Shall beft instruct you measure me; and so The Kings will be perform'd.
Leo. Shall I be heard?

Her. Who is't that goes with me? befeech your Highnes My Women may be with me, for you fee My plight requires it. Doe not weepe (good Fooles) There is no cause: When you shall know your Mistris Ha's deleru'd Prison, then abound in Teares, As I come out; this Action I now goe on, Is for my better grace. Adieu (my Lord) I never wish'd to see you forry, now I trust I shall: my Women come, you have seave. Les. Goe, doe our bidding : honce.

Lord, Beseech your Highnesse call the Queene againe. Antig. Be certaine what you do(Sir)least your Justice Proue violence, in the which three great ones fuffer, Your Selfe, your Queene, your Sonne.

Lord. For her (my Lord)
I dare my life lay downe, and will do't (Sir) Please you t'accept it, that the Queene is spotlesse I'th' eyes of Heauen, and to you (I meane In this, which you accuse her,) Aurig. If it proue Shee's otherwise, He keepe my Stables where I lodge my Wife, He goe in couples with her: Then when I feele, and fee her, no farther trust her. For every ynch of Woman in the World, I, every dram of Womans flesh is falie, If the be.

Leo. Hold your peaces. Lord. Good my Lord.

Antig. It is for you we speake, not for our selves: You are abus d, and by some putter on. That will be damn'd for't: would I knew the Villaine,

I would

I would Land-damnehim : be the honor-flaw'd, I have three daughters I the eldeft is eleven; The fecond, and the third, nine : and some five : If this proue true, they I pay for t. By mine Honor le gell'd em all : fourteene they shall not see To bring falle generations : they are co-heyres, And I had rather glib my felfe, then they Should not produce faire iffice.

Leo. Ceale, no more : You fmell this bufineffe with a fence as cold As is a dead-mans note : but I do fee't, and feel't, As you feele doing thus: and fee withall The Instruments that feele.

Anng Ifit be fo, We neede no grave to burie honefly, There's not a graine of it, the face to lweeten Of the whole dungy-earth. Leo. What? lacke I credit?

Lord. I had rather you did lacke then I (my Lord) Vpon this ground; and more it would content me To have her Honor true, then your suspition Be blam'd for't how you might

Leo. Why what neede we Commune with you of this? but rather follow Our forcefull instigation? Our prerogative Cals not your Counfailes, but our navurall goodnesse Imparts this a which, if you, or stupisted, Or feeming fo, in skill, cannot, or will not Rellish a truth, like vs : informe your selves, We neede no more of your adurce, the matter, The loffe, the gaine, the ording on's, le all properly ours

Antig. And I wish (my Liege) You had onely in your filent judgement tride it, Without more ouerture, Les. How could that be ? Either thou art most ignorant by age, Or thou wer't bornes foole : Camello's flight Added to their Familiarity Which was as groffe, as euer touch'd consecture, That lack'd fight onely, nought for approbation But onely feeing, all other circumftances Made vp to'th deed) doth push-on this proceeding. Yet, for a greater confirmation (For in an Acte of this importance, 'twere Most pitteous to be wilde) I have dispatch'd in post, To facted Delphos, to Appollo's Temple, Cleamoies and Dion, whom you know Of Ruff'd-fufficiency: Now, from the Oracle They will bring all, whose spirituall counsaile had Shall ftop, or spurre me. Haue I done well?

Lord. Well done (my Lord.)

Lee. Though I am fatisfide, and neede no more Then what I know, yet shall the Oracle Give rest to th'mindes of others; such as ne Whole ignorant credulitie, will not Come up to th'truth. So have we thought it good From our free person, the should be confinde, Least that the treachery of the two, fled hence, Be left her to performe. Come follow vs, We are to speake in publique: for this businesse Will raife vs all

Cressi

Amig Tolaughter, as I take it, If the good truth, were knowne

Scena Secunda.

Enter Paulana, a Gentleman, Caolor, Emilia. Paul The Keeper of the prison, call to him Les him haue knowledge who I am. Good Ladys No Court in Europe is too good for thee, What doft thou then in prison? Now good Sir. You know me, do you not?

Gao. For a worthy Lady, And one, who much I honour Pan. Pray you then, Conduct me to the Queene. Guo. I may not (Madain)

To the contrary I have expresse commandment. Pan. Here's a-do, to locke vp honesty & honour from Th'accelle of gentle vilitors. Is't lawfull pray you To fee her Women? Any of them? Emila?

G. Sopleafe you (Madam) To put a-part thele yout attendants, I Shall bring Emilia forth.

Pan. I pray now call her s With-draw your felues.
Gao. And Madam,

I must be present at your Conference. Pen. Well be't fo sprethee. Herre : fuch a-doe, to make no ftaine, a flaine,

As passes colouring. Deare Gentlewoman,

How fares our gracious Lady?

Emil. As well as one fo great, and fo forlorne
May hold together: On her frights, and greefes
(Which neuer tender Lady hath borne greater) She is, something before her time, deliver'd. Pan. Aboy?

Emd. A daughter, and a goodly babe, Lufty, and like to live : the Queene receives Much comfort in't: Sayes, my poore priloner, I am innocent as you.

Pan. I dare be sworne: These dangerous, unsafe Lunes i'th'King, beshrew them: He must be told on't, and he shall : the office Becomes a woman best. He take't vpon me If I proue hony-mouth'd, let my tongue blifter. And neuer to my red-look'd Anger bee The Trumper any more : pray you (Enidia) Commend my best obedience to the Queene, If the dares trust me with her little babe I'le thew't the King, and undertake to bee Her Aduocate to th'lowd'ft. We do not know How he may foften at the fight o'th' Childe : The filence often of pure innocence Perswades, when speaking tailes.

Emil. Most worthy Madain, your honor, and your goodnesse is fo evident, That your free undertaking cannot miffe A thriving yffue: there is no Lady living So meete for this great errand; please your Ladiship To visit the next roome, He presently Acquaint the Queene of your most noble offer, Who, but to day hammered of this deligne, But durft not tempt a minister of honour Least the should be deny'd.

Pau

The Winters Tale.

Paul Tellher (Emilia) He ve that rongue I have : If wit flow from't As boldnesse from my bosome, le't not be doubted I shall do good, Emil. Now be you blest for it.

lle to the Queene: please you come something neerer.
Gao. Madam, ist please the Queene to send the babe

I know not what I shall incurre, to passe it,

Hauing no warrant

Pan Youneede not feare it (fir) This Childe was prisoner to the wombe, and is By Law and processe of great Nature, thence Free d, and enfranchis d, not a partie to The anger of the King, nor guilty of (Ifany be) the trespalle of the Queene. Cao. I do beleeue it,

Paul Do not you feare : vpon mine honor, 1 Will stand betwixt you, and danger. Excunt

Scana Tertia.

Enter Leoutes, Sernants, Paulina, Autigonus, and Lords

Les Nornight, nor day, no rest : It is but weaknesse To beare the matter thus : meere weaknesse, if The cause were not in being : part o th cause, She, th'Adultreffe : for the harlot-King Is quite beyond mine Arme, out of the blanke And levell of my braine : plot-proofe : but thee, I can hooke to me : fay that the were gone, Given to the fire, a moity of my refl Might come to me againe. Whole there?

Ser. My Lord Leo. How do's the boy?

Ser. He tooke good reft to night i'ds hop'd

His licknelle is discharg'd

Les To see his Noblenesse, Conceyung the dishonour of his Mother. He ftraight declin'd, droop'd, tooke it deeply, Fasten'd, and fix'd the shame on't in himselfe; Threw-off his Spirit, his Appetite, his Sleepe, And down-right languish'd. Leave me solely: goe, See how he fares: Fie, fie, no thought of him, The very thought of my Reuenges that way Recoyle vpon me : in himfelfe too mightie, And in his parties, his Alliance; Let him be, Vittill a time may ferue. For prefent vengeance Take it on her: Camillo, and Polixenes Laughet me: make their pastime at my forrow: They should not laugh, if I could reach them, nor Shall the, within my powte.

Enter Paulina.

Lord. You must not enter. Paul. Nay rather (good my Lords) be fecond to me : Feare you his tyrannous passion more (alas) Then the Queenes life? A gracious innocent foule, More free, then he is jealous.

Amig. That's enough.

Artig. That's enough.

Ser. Madam; he hath not slept to night, commanded None should come at him.

Pas. Not fo hot (good Sir)

I come to bring him sleepe. Tis such as you

That creepe like shadowes by him, and do fighe At each his needleffe hearings : fuch as you Nourth the cause of his awaking. I Do, come with words, as medicinell, as true; (Honest, as either,) to purge him of that humor That preffer him from fleepe.

Les. Who noyfe there, hoe?

Fan. No noyle (my Lord) but needfull conference, About some Gossips for your Highnesse.

Lee. How?

Away with that audacious Lady. Antigonius, I charg'd thee that the should not come about me, I knew the would.

Ans I told her fo (my Lord) On your displeasures perill, and on mine, She should not visit you

Lee. What? canft not rule her?

Paul. From all dishonestic he can i in this (Vnleffe he take the course that you have done) Commit me, for commutting honor, truff it He shall not rule me:

Ant. La-you now, you heare, When the will take the raine, I let her ru.,

But Thee I not flumble.

Paul, Good my Liege, I come : And I beleech you heare me, who professes My selfe your loyall Servant, your Physitian, Your moft obedient Counfailor : yet that deter Lesse appeare so, in comforting your Euilles, Then such as most seeme yours. I say, I come From your good Queene.

Paul. Good Queene (my Lord) good Queene, I fay good Queene, And would by combate, make her good fo, were I A man, the worst about you.

Leo. Force her hence.

Pau Let him that makes but triffes of his eyes First hand me: on mine owne accord, He off, But first, Ile do my errand. The good Queene (Por theis good) hall brought you forth a daughter, Heere its. Commendation your blessing

Lee Out A mankinde Witch? Hence with her, out o'dore :

A most intelligencing bawd.

Prul. Notio: I am as ignorant in that, as you, In so entit ling me ; and no lesse honest Then you are mad: which is enough, He werrant (As this world goes) to passe for honest:

Leo. Traitors ; Will you not push her out? Gine her the Bastard, Thou dotard, thou art woman-tyr'd : vntooffed By thy dame Partlet heere. Take vp the Bastard, Take't vp, I lay : giue't to thy Croane.
Paul. For euer

Vinvenerable be thy hands, if thou Tak'ft vp the Princeffe, by that forced baleneffe Which he ha's put vpon's

Leo. He dreads his Wife.

Paul. So I would you did : then 'twere past all doubt Youl'd call your children, yours.

Lee. Aneft of Traitors

Aut. I am none, by this good light,

Pas. Not I : nor any But one that's heere : and that's himfelfe : for he,

The

The Iscred Honor of himselfe, his Queenes, His hopefull Sonnes, his Babes, betrayes to Slander, Whole sting is sharper then the Swords; and will not (For as the case now flands, it is a Curse He cannot be compell'd too't) once remoue The Root of his Opinion, which is rotten,

As euer Oake, or Stone was found. Lee. A Callat

Of boundlesse tongue, who late hath beat her Husband, And now beyes me: This Brat is none of mine, It is the Iffue of Polixenes, Hence with It, and together with the Dam,

Commit them to the fire,

Paul. It is yours: And might we lay th'old Proverb to your charge, So like you, ris the worfe. Behold (my Lords) Although the Print be little, the whole Matter And Coppy of the Father: (Eye, Nofe, Lippe, The trick of 's Frowne, his Fore-head, nay, the Valley, The pretty dimples of his Chin, and Cheeke; his Smiles: The very Mold, and frame of Hand, Nayle, Finger.) And thou good Goddeffe Nature, which half made It So like to him that got it, if thou halt The ordering of the Mind too, mongst all Colours No Yellow in't, least the suipect, as he do's, Her Children, not her Husbands.

Leo. A groffe Hagge ! And Lozell, thou are worthy to be hang'd, That wilt not flay her Tongue,

Antig. Hang all the Husbands
That cannot doe that Feat, you'le leave your felfe Hardly one Sublect.

Les. Once more take her hence. Paul. A most vnworthy, and vnnatural! Lord Can doe no more,

Leo. He ha' thee burnt. Paul. Teare not : It is an Heretique that makes the fire, Not the which burnes in't. He not call you Tyrent . But this most cruell viage of your Queene (Not able to produce more accusation

Then your owne weake-hindg'd Fancy) fornthing fauors Of Tyrannie, and will ignoble make you, Yea. Candalous to the World.

Lee. On your Allegeance,
Out of the Chamber with here Were Ia Tyranra Where were her life? fhe durft not call me fo, If the did know me one, Away with her.

Paul. I pray you doe not push me, Ile be gone. Looke to your Babe (my Lord) the youts. long fend het A better guiding Spirit. What needs these hands? You that are thus fo tender o're his Follyes, Will never doe him good, not one of you. So, fo: Farewell, we are gone. ExI

Les. Thou(Traytor) halt fet on shy Wife to this. My Child? away with's? even thou, that haft A heart fo tender o're it, take it hence, And see it instantly consum'd with fire. Euen thou, and none bus thou. Take it vp straight: Within this houre bring me word 'tis done, (And by good testimonie) or Ile seize thy life With what thou else call'it thine : if thou refuse, And will endounter with my Wrath, fay fo; The Bastard-braynes with these my proper hands Shall I dash out. Goe, take it to the fire, For thou fett'st on thy Wife.

Antig. I did not, Sir: These Lords, my Noble Fellowes, if they please, Can cleare me in't.

Lords. We can: my Royall Liege, He is not guiltie of her comming hither.

Leo. You're lyers all.

Lord. Beleech your Highnesse, give vs better eredit: We haut alwayes truly feru'd you, and befrech So to effeeme of vs : and on our knees we begge. (As recompence of our deare feruices Past, and to come) that you doe change this purpose, Which being so horrible, so bloody, must Lead on to some foule Issue. We all kneele.

Lee, I am a Feather for each Wind that blows t Shall I live on to fee this Bastard kneele, And call me Father? better burne it now. Then curse it then. But be it : let it liue. It shall not neyther. You Sir, come you hither t You that have beene fo tenderly officious With Lady Margerie, your Mid. wife there, To faue this Bastards life; for 'tis a Bastard, So fure as this Beard's gray. What will you adventure, To faue this Brats life?

Antig. Any thing (my Lord)
That my abilitie may undergoe,
And Nobleneffe impofe: at least thus much; He pawne the little blood which I have left, To faue the Innocent: any thing possible.

Leo. It shall be possible : Sweare by this Sword

Thou wilt performe my bidding.

Antig. I will (my Lord.)
Leo. Marke, and performe it: feeft thou for the faile Of any point in't, shall not onely be Death to thy felfe, but to thy lewd-tongu'd Wife. (Whom for this time we pardon) We emoyne thee, As thou art Liege-man to va, that thou carry This female Baftard hence, and that thou beare it To some remote and defart place, quite out Of our Dominions; and that there thou leave It (Without more mercy) to It owne protection, And favour of the Climate: 22 by Arange fortune It came to vs,I doe in lustice charge thee, On thy Soules perill, and thy Bodyes torture, That thou commend it Arangely to some place, Where Chance may nutse, or end it : take it vp Antig. I sweare to doe this: though a present death Had beene more mercifull. Come on (poore Babe) Some powerfull Spirit instruct the Kytes and Rauens To be thy Nurses. Wolves and Beares, they say, (Casting their sauagenesse aside) have done Like offices of Pitty. Sir, be prosperous In more then this deed do's require; and Bleffing Against this Crueltie, fight on thy fide (Poore Thing, condemn'd to losse.) Exit.

Leo. No: le not rearc

Anothers Issue, Enter a Sernant. Sern. Please your Highnesse, Posts From those you sent to th'Oracle, are come An house fince: Cleamines and Dien, Being well arriv'd from Delphos, are both landed, Hasting to th' Court.

Lord So please you (Sir) their speed

Hath beene beyond accompt-

Leo. Twentic three dayes They have beene absent : tis good speed: fore-tells The great Apollo Suddenly will have

The

The truth of this appearers Prepare you Lords, Summon a Seffion, that we may arraigne Our most disloyall Ladys for as the hath Been publikely accused, so shall she have A sust and open Triall. While she lives, My heart will be a burthen to me. Leave me, And thinke upon my bidding.

Exercise

Adus Tertius. Scena Prima.

Enter Circomines and Duon.

Clo. The Clymat's delicate, the Ayre most sweet, Fertile the life, the Temple much supassing. The common prayse it beares.

Dien. I shall reports
For most it caught me, the Celestial Habits,
(Nie thinker I so should terme them) and the reverence
Of the grane Wearers. O, the Sacrifice.
How ceremonious, solemne, and vin-earthly
It was a thi Officine?

It was it in Offring?

Clee But of all, the burft

And the eare-deaff ning Voyce oth Otacle,
Kin to laner Thunder, to furprized my Sence,
That I was nothing.

Die. If the event of th' lourney
Prove as successefull in the Queene (O be't so)
As it hath beene to es, sare, pleasant, speedie,
The time is worth the vision t.

Cheo Great Apollo
Turne all to th' best: these Proclamations,
So forcing faults upon Hermione,
I little like.

Die The violent carriage of it
Will cleare, or end the Bitfineffe, when the Oracle
(This by Apolle's great Divine feal'd vp)
Shall the Contente discourt : fornething rate
Even then will rush to knowledge. Goe: fresh Horses,
And gracious be the issue Exernes.

Scana Secunda.

Enter Leoner, Lords Officers Hermione (2000 her Triall) Ladies: Cleonomes, Dem

Les. This Selfions (to out great griefe we pronounce) Euen pulhes 'gainfl' out heart. The partie try'd,
The Daughter of a King, out Wife, and one
Of vision much belou'd. Let vis be clear'd
Of being tyrannous, fince we fo openly
Proceed in luthice, which fhall have due course,
Euen to the Guilt, or the Purgation.
Produce the Priloner.

Office. It is his Highnesse pleasure, that the Queene Appears in person, liere in Court. Silence.

Leo, Reade the Indictment.

Officer. Hermione, Queene to the worth, Leonies, King of Sicilia, thow art here accused and arraigned of High Treafon in commuting Adultery with Polixenes King of Boherma, and configure, with Corrillo to take away the Life of our Soverraigne Lord the King shy Royall Howband the presence whereast being by evering ances partly land open shoot Hermitone) compart to the Fasth and Alegeance of a true Subuill diaft comfash and ayde shorm, for these better fastess, so figs away by Night.

Her. Since what I am to lay, must be but that Which contradicts my Acculation, and The testimonie on my patt, no other But what comes from my felte, it shall fcarce boot me To Tay, Not guillie : mine Integritte Being counted Fallehood, Shall (24 1 expresse ic) Be lo received But thus, if Powres Divine Behold our humane Actions (as they doe) I doubt not then, but Innocence shall make Falle Acculation bluth, and Tyrannie Tremble at Patience. You (my Lord) best know (Whom least will feeme to doe fo) my past life Hath beene as continent, as chafte, as true, As I am now +nhappy; which is more Then Historie can patterne, though denis'd, And play d, to take Specastors. For behold me, A Fellow of the Royall Bed, which owe A Moitie of the Throne . a great Kings Daughter, The Mother to a hopefull Prince, here flanding To prace and talke for Life, and Honor, fore Who please to come, and hearc. For Life, I prize it Az I weigh Griefe (which I would spare:) For Honor, Tis a derivative from me to mine. And onely that I fland for. I appeale To your owne Conscience (Sit) before Polistees Came co your Court, how I was in your grace, How merited to be fo: Since he came, With what encounter forneurrant, I Haur fleayn'd cappeare thus; it one int beyond The bound of Honor, or in act, or wit That way enclining hardned be the hearts Of all that licate me, and my neer'st of Kin Cry fie vpon my Graue.

Lee. I ne reheard yet,
That any of these bolder Vices wanted
Lesse Impudence to gaine-say what they did,
Then to performe it first,

Her That's true enough,
Though the a laying (Sir) not due to me.

Lee. You will not owne it. Har. More then Miltreffe of, Which comes to me in name of Fault, I must not At all acknowledge. For Polizenet (With whom I am accus'd) I doe confelle Hou'd him as in Honor he required . With fuch a kind of Love, as might becom A Lady like me; with a Love, even fuch, So, and no other, as your felle commanded: Which, not to have done, I thinke had been in and Both Disobedience, and Ingratitude To you, and toward your Friend, whole Loue had spoks Even fince it could speake, from an Infant, freely, That it was yours. Now for Conspiracie I know not how it taftes, though it be dish'd For me to try how: All I know of it, Is, that Camillo was an honest man; And why he left your Court, the Gods themselves (Worring no more then I) are ignorant.

Lee. You knew of his departure, as you know What you have enderta'ne to doe in's absence.

Ho. Sir,

Her. Sit,
You speake a Language that I understand not t
My Life stands in the levell of your Dreames,
Which He lay downe.

Les. Your Actions are my Dreames.
You had a Bastard by Polisense,
And I but dream'd it: As you were past all shame,
(Those of your Fact are so) so past all truth;
Which to deny, concernes more then availes: for as Thy Brar hath been cast out, like to it selfe,
Nd Father owning it (which is indeed
More criminall in thee, then it) so thou
Shalt seele out suffice; in whose cassels passage,
Looke for no lesse then death.

Her. Sir, fpare your Threass: The Bugge which you would fright me with, I feeke: To me can Life be no commoditie; The crowne and comfort of my Life (your Pauor) I doe give loft, for I doe feele it gone, But know not how it went. My fecond loy. And first Fruits of my body, from his presence I am bar'd, like one infectious. My third comfort (Star'd most valuckily) is from my breast (The innocent milke in it most innocent mourh) Hal'd out to murther. My felfe on every Post Proclaym'd a Strumpet: With immodest hatred The Child-bed priviledge deny'd, which longs To Women of all fashion. Lastly, hurried Here, to this place, i'th' open ayre, before I have got Arength of limit. Now(my Liege) Tell me what bleffings I have here aline, That I should seare to die? Therefore proceed a But yet heare this i mistake me not : no Life, (I prize it not a fraw) but for mine Honor, Which I would free: if I shall be condemn'd Vpon furmizes (all proofes fleeping elfe. But what your lealousies awake) I tell you Tis Rigor, and not Law Your Honors all,

Apollo be my Iudge.
Lord. This your request
Is altogether inst: therefore bring forth
(And in Apollo's Name) his Oracle.

I doe referre me to the Oracle:

Her. The Emperor of Russia was my Father.
Oh that he were aliue, and here beholding
His Daughters Tryall: that he did but see
The flatnesse of my miserie; yet with eyes
Of Pierror of Research

Of Pitry, not Reuenge.

Officer. You here that tweere you this 5 word of Iustice,
That you (Cleamer and Dion) have Been both at Delphos, and from thence have brought
This scal'd-vp Oracle, by the Hand deliver'd
Off great Apolo's Priest; and that fince then,

You have not dar'd to breake the holy Seale, Nor read the Secrets in't.

Clos Dio. All this we sweare.

Les. Breake up the Seales, and read.

Officer. Hermione w chaft, Polixenes blomeieste. Cemillo a true Subiece, Leontes a vealous Tyraut, bis vanocent Babo sruly begotten, and the King shall line wishous an Heire of that which is lost be not found.

Lords. Now bieffed be the great Apollo.

Her. Praysed.

Leo. Haft thoo read truth?

Offic. I (my Lord) even so es it is here fee downe.

Lee. There is no truth at all i'th Oracle:

The Selfions shall proceed: this is meere fallehood.

Ser. My Lord the King : the King ?

Lee. What is the bufineffe?

Ser. O Sir, I shall be hated to report it.

The Prince your Sonne, with meere conceit, and feare
Of the Queenes speed, is gone

Les. How? gone?

Ser. Is dead.

Lee. Apollo's angry, and the Heauens themselves

Doe flaike at my Iniuffice. How now there?

Paul, This newes is mortall to the Queene; Look downers

And fee what Death is doing.

Leo, Take her hence: Her heart is but o're-charg'd : The will recover. I have too much beleev'd mine owne suspition: Befeech you tenderly apply to ber Some remedies for life. Apollo pardon
My great prophanenesse gainst thine Oracle. He reconcile me to Polixenes, New woe my Queene, recall the good Camillo (Whom I proclaime a man of Truth, of Mercy:) For being transported by my lealousies To bloody thoughts, and to revenge, I chose Camillo for the minifler, to poyfon My friend Polixenes: which had been done, Rut that the good mind of Carvillo terdied My fwift command: though I with Death, and with Reward, did threaten and encourage him, Not doing it, and being done: he (most humane, And fill'd with Honor) to my Kingly Gueft Vnclsfp d my practile, quit his fortunes here (Which you knew great) and to the hazard Of all Incertainties, himfelte commended, No richer then his Honor: How he glifters Through my Ruft? and how his Piette Do's my deeds make the blacker?

Paul. Woe the while:
O cut my Lace, least my heat of cracking it)
Breake too.

Lord. What fit is this? good Lady? Paul. What fludied torments (Tyrant) half for meg What Wheeles? Racks? Fires? What flaying? boyling? In Leads, or Oyles? What old, or newer Totture Must I receive? whose every word deserves To talle of thy most worft. Thy Tyranny (Together working with thy lessoulies, Fancies too weake for Boyes, too greene and Idle For Girles of Nine) O thinke what they have doze, And then run mad indeed: flarke-mad: for all Thy by-gone fooleries were but spices of it. That thou betrayed it Polixenes, twas nothing, (That did but shew thee, of a Foole, inconstant, And damnable ingratefull:) Nor was'e much Thou would'it have poylon'd good Camillo's Honor, To have him kill a King: poore Trespaties, More monfitous flanding by : whereof I reckon The cashing forth to Crowes, thy Baby-daughter, To be or none, or little; though a Deuill Would have fhed water out of firegere don't s Nor is't directly layd to thee the death Of the young Prince, whose honorable thoughts (Thoughts high for one lo tender) cleft the heart That could conceive a groffe and foolish Sire Blemish'd his gracious Dam: this is not, no, Layd to shy answere: but the last: O Lords, When I have faid, cry woe: the Queene, the Queene,
The The fweet h. deer'A creature's dead & vengeance for t

Lord. The higher powres forbid.

Pro 1 (sy the s dead: lle (wear't, 1f word, nor oath Preuaile not, go and feer if you can bring Tincture, or luftre in her lip, het eye Heare outwardly, or breath within, Ileferue you As I would do the Gods. Birt, O thou Tyrant, Do not tepent thefe things, for they are heare Then all thy woes can flure: therefore becake thee To nothing but dispaire. A thousand knees, Ten thousand yeares together, naked, fasting, Vpon a barren Mountaine, and fill Winter In storme perpetual, could not moue the Gods To looke that way thou wer't.

Les. Go on, go on Thou canst not speake too much, I bave deserv'd All tongues to talke their bittest.

Lord. Say no more; How ere the businesse goes, you have made sault I'th boldnesse of your speech.

Paw. I am forty for it;
All faults I make, when I hall come to know them,
I do repent: Alas, I have shewld too much
The rashnesse of a woman; he is coucht
To th'Noble heart. What's gone, and what's past helpe
Should be past greese: Do not receive assistant
At my petition I besech you, rather
Let me be punish'd, that have minded you
Of what you should forget. Now (good my Liege)
Sit, Royall Sit, forgive a soolish woman;
The love I bore your Queene (Lo, soole againe)
He speake of her no more, nor of your Children;
Ite not remember you of my owne Lord
(Who is lost root) take your patience to you,
And He say nothing

Lee. Thou didft speake but well,
When most the truth: which I receive much better,
Theo to be pittied of thee. Ptethee bring me
To the dead bodies of my Queene, and Sonne.
One grave shall be for both: Vpon them shall
The causes of their death appeare (vnto
Our shame perpetuall) once a day, sle visit
The Chappell where they lye, and teaces shed there Shall be my recreation. So long as Nature
Will beare vp with this exercise, so long
I dayly yow to vseit. Come, and leade me
To these forrowes.

Scana Tertia.

Enter Antigonus, a Marriner, Babe, Sheepeheard, and Clowne.

Ast. Thou are perfect then, our thip hath toucht vpon The Defarts of Bohimia.

Mar I (my Lord) and feare
We have Landed in ill time: the skies looke grimly,
And threaten prefent bluffers. In my conference
The heavens with that we have in hand, are angry,
And frowne ypon's.

Are. Their facred will's be done: go get a-boord, Looke to thy barke, lle not be long before call vpon thee

Mar. Make your best haste, and go not Too-fatre ith Land i tis like to be lowd weather. Besides this place is famous for the Creatures Of prey, that keepe vpon't,

Anue Gothou away, Ile follow instantly

Tobe foridde o'th businesse.

Exu

Ant. Come, poore babe;
I have heard (but not beleeu'd) the Spirits o'th'dead
May walke againe a iffuch thing be, thy Mother
Appear'd to me last night formere was dreame
So like a waking. To me comes a creature,
Sometimes her head on one side, some another,
I never saw a vessell of like forrow
So fill d, and so becomming a in pure white Robes

Like very fanctity the did approach
My Cabine where I lay thince bow d before me,
And (gasping to begin fome speech) her eyes
Became two spnuts; the suite spens, anon
Did this breake from her. Good Anisonal,
Since Fate (against thy better disposition)
Hath made thy person for the Thower-ook

Of my poore babe, according to thine oath, Places remote enough are in Babenia, There weepe, and leave it crying; and for the babe

Is counted loft for cuer, Perdita
I prethee call't: For this vingentle businesse
Put on thee, by my Lord, thou ne're shalt see
Thy Wife Paulina more: and so, with shrickes Shemelted into Ayre. Affighted much,
I did in time collect my selfe, and thought
This was so, and no stumber. Dreames, are coyes,

Yet for this once, yea supershissously,
I will be squared by this. I do believe Hermione hash futier death, and that Apolle would (this being indeede the issue
Of King Polizener) it should heere be laide
(Either for life, or death) upon the earth
Ofice right Father. Blossomer, speed thee well,
There lye, and there thy chartader: there these,
Which may if Fortune please, both breed thee (pretty)
And still test thine. The storme beginnes, poote wretch,

That for thy mothers fault, art thus exposed To loffe, and what may follow. Weepe I camot, But my heart bleedes: and most accurit am I To be by oath enloyn'd to this. Farewell, The day frowner more and more: thou'rt like to have

A lullable too rough: I never faw
The heavens fo dim, by day. A favage clamor?
Well may I get a-boord: This is the Chace,

Lam gone for euer.

Shep. I would there were no age betweene ten and three and twenty, or that youth would fleep out the reft for there is nothing (in the betweene) but getting wenches with childe, wronging the Auncientry, fleahing, fighting hearke you now i would any but these boyldebraines of nineteene, and two and twenty hunt this weather? They have scarred away two of my best Sheepe, which I seare the Wolfe will sooner finde then the Mainter; if any where I have them, its by the sea-side, brouzing of luy. Good-lucke (and's be thy will) what have we heere? Mercy on's, a Barne? A very pretty barne; A boy, or a Childe I wonder? (A pretty one, a verte prettie one) sure some Scape; Though I amnot bookish yer I can reade Waiting-Gentlewoman in the scape: this has beene some staire-worke, some Trunke-worke, some behinde-doore worke t they were warmer that got this, then the poore Thing is heere. He take it up for pity, yes He tarry till my sonne come : he hallow'd but even now. Whos-ho-hoz.

เลก

Enter Clourse.

Clo. Hilloz, loz.

Shep. What? art fo neere ? If thou It fee a thing to calke on, when thou are dead and rotten, come hither t what ayl'ft thou, man?

Cla. I have feene two fuch fights, by Sea & by Land: but I am not to favit is a Sea, for it is now the skie, betwixt the Firmament and it, you cannot thrust a bodkins Shop. Why boy, how is it?

Clo. I would you did but see how it chases, how it toges, how it takes up the shore, but that's not to the points Oh, the most pitteous cry of the poore soules, sometimes to fee 'em and not to fee 'em : Now the Shippe boaring the Moone with her maine Mast, and anon swallowed with yest and froth, as you'ld thrust a Corke into a hogshead. And then for the Land-service, to see how the Beare tore out his shoulder-bone, how he cride to mee for helpe, and faid his name was Antigoniu, 2 Nobleman: But to make an end of the Ship, to fee how the Sea flapdragon dit : but first, how the poore souler roared, and the lea mock'd them; and how the poore Gentleman toared, and the Beare mock'd him, both roaring lowder then the fea, or weather.

Shep. Name of mercy, when was this boy?

Clo. Now, now: I have not wink'd fince I faw thefe fights: the men are not yet cold under water, nor the Beare halfe din'd on the Gentleman : he's at it now.

Shop. Would I had bin by, to have help'd the olde

Ch. I would you had beene by the ship side, to have help'd her; there your charity would have lack'd footing.

Shep. Heavy matters, heavy matters: but looke thee heere boy Now bleffe thy felfe: thou met'ft with things dying, I with things new borne Here's a fight for thee: Looke thee, a bearing-clossh for a Squires childe: looke thee heere, take vp, take vp (Boy:) open't: fo, let's fee, it was cold me I should be rich by the Fairies. This is some Changeling open't: what's within, boy?

Clo. You're a mad oldeman : If the finnes of your youth are forgiuen you, you're well to live. Golde, all shep. This is Faiery Gold boy, and 'twill proue fo: vp with t, keepe it elofe: home, home, the next way. We are luckie (boy) and to bee fo ftill requires nothing but fecrecic. Let my sheepe go . Come (good boy) the next way bome.

Clo. Go you the next way with your Findings, Ile go fee if the Beare bee gone from the Gentleman, and how much he hash eaten: they are never curft but when they are hungry : if there be any of him left, He bury it.

Shop. That's a good deed : if thou mayest difeerne by that which is left of him, what he is, fetch me to th'light Clowne. Marry will I: and you shall helpe to put him i'th'ground.

Sop. Tis a lucky day, boy, and wee'l do good deeds Exempt

Adus Quartus. Scena Prima.

Enter Time, the Cherr . Time. I that please some, try all: both ioy and terror Of good, and bad : that makes, and vnfolds error, Now take *pon me (in the name of Time) To vie my wings : Impute it not a crime To me, or my swift passage, that I slide Ore fixteene yeeres, and leave the growth vittide Of that wide gap, fince it is in my powre To orethrow Law, and in one felfe-borne howre To plant, and ore-whelme Custome. Let me passe The same I am, ere ancient'st Order was, Or what is now receiu'd. I witnesse to The times that brought them in, so shall I do To this seefhest things now reigning, and make state. The glistering of this present, as my Tale. Now feemes to it: your patience this allowing, I turne my glaffe, and gine my Scene fuch growing As you had slept betweene : Leonter leaving Th'effects of his fond realouties, to greening That he shuts vp himselfe. Imagine me (Gentle Spectators) that I now may be In faire Bohemia, and remember well, I mentioned a fonne o'th Kings, which Florized I now name to you: and with speed so pace To speake of Perdua, now growne in grace Equall with wond ring. What of her insues I list not prophelie: but let Times newes Be knowne when tis brought forth. A shepherds daugh-And what to her adheres, which followes after, Is th'argument of Time: of this allow, If ever you have spent time worle, ere now: If never, yet that Time himselfe doth lay, Exit. He wishes earnestly, you never may.

Scena Secunda.

Enter Polixenes, and Camello.

Pol 1 pray thee (good Camello) be no more importunate: 115 a licknesse denying thee any thing: a death to grant this

Cam. It is hiteene yeeres fince I faw my Countrey: though I have (for the most part) bin ayred abroad, I defire to lay my bones there. Besides, the penitent King (my Mafter) hath fent for me, to whole feeling forrowes I might be some allay, or I oreweene to thinke so) which is another spurre to my departure.

Pol. As thou lou'st me (Camillo) Wipe not out the rest of thy ferusces, by leaving me now : the neede I have of thee, thine owner goodnesse hath made : better not to have had thee, then thus to want thee, thou having made me Bulinelles, (which none (without thee) can lufficiently manage) must either stay to execute them thy selfe, or take away with thee the very feruices thou haft done; which if I have not enough confidered (as too much I cannot) to bee more thankefull to thee, shall bee my studie, and my profite therein, the heaping friendshippes. Of that fatall Countray Sicillia, prethee speake no more, whole very naming, punisifies me with the remembrance ВЬ of that penitent (as thou call him) and reconciled King my brother, whole losse of his most precious Queene & Children, are such now to be a-fresh lamented. Say to me, when saw if thou the Prince Floricell my son? Kings are no lesse vnhappy, their issue, not being gracious, then they are inloosing them, when they have approved their Vertues.

Cam. Sir, it is three dayes fince I faw the Prince, what his happier affayres may be, are to me unknowne: but I liaue (missingly) noted, he is of late much retyred from Court, and is leffe frequent to his Princely exercises then formerly he hath appeared.

Pol. I have confidered to much (Camillo) and with tome care, to farte, that I have eyes under my fervice, which looke upon his removed neffer from whom I have this Intelligence, that he is feldome from the houfe of a most homely shepheard: a man (they say) that from very nothing, and beyond the imagination of his neighbors, is growne into an unspeakable estate.

Cam. I have heard (fir) of fuch a man, who hath a daughter of most rare note: the report of her is extended more, then can be thought to begin from such a cottage

Pel. That's likewife part of my Intelligence: but(I feare) the Angle that pluckes our fonne thither. Thou shalt accompany vs to the place, where we will (not appearing what we are) have fome question with the shepheard; from whose simplicity, I thinke it not vnease to get the cause of my sonnes resort thether. Preshe be my present partner in this busines, and lay aside the thoughts of Sicillia.

Cam I willingly obey your command.

Pol. My best Camillo, we must disguise our selves. Exit

Scena Tertia

Enter Autolicus singing,
When Dassadis begin to peere,
With heigh the Doxyoner the dale,
Why then comes in the sweet o'the yeare,
For the redblood raigns in sumiers pale.

The white seets bleaching on the hedge, with hey the sweet birds, O how they sing: Doth set my pugging tooth an edge, For a quart of Ale u a dish soza King

The Larke that tirra Lyra chaunts,
Which beigh the Thruth and the lay:
Are Summer fongs for me and my Aunts,
While welpe tumbling in the hay.
I have feru'd Prince Florizeth, and in my time wore three pile, but now I am out of fervice.

But hall I go mourne for that (my decre)
the pale Moone shines by night:
And when I wander here, and there
I then do most go right.
If Tinkers may have leave to live,
and beare the Sow-thin Bouget,
Then my account I well may give,
and in the Stocker anowin-it.

My Trafficke is theeces: when the Kite builds, looke to leffer Linnen. My Father nam'd me Andrew, who being (as I am) lytter'd order Mercurie, was likewise a snapper-up of onconsidered insteas. With Dye and drab, I purchas'd this Capacison, and my Revenuew is the silly Cheate. Gallowes, and Knocke, are too powerfull on the Highway. Beating and hanging are terrors to meet For the life to come, I sleepe out the thought of it. A prize, a prize

Clo. Let me see, every Leaven-weather todder, every tod yeeldes pound and odde shilling: fifteene hundred shorne, what comes the wooll too?

Aut Is the sprindge hold, the Cocke's mine

Clo I cannot do't without Compters. Let mee fee, what am I to buy for out Sheepe-shearing. Feast? Three pound of Sugar, sheepound of Curtence, Rice: What will this fifter of mine do with Rice? But my father hath made her Mistris of the Feast, and she layes it on. Shee hath made-me four and twenty Nose-gayes for the sheath made-me four and twenty Nose-gayes for the sheaters (three-man song-men, all, and very good one:) but they are most of them Meanes and Bases; but one Purtan amongst them, and he sings Psalmes to horne-pipes, I must have Saffron to colour the Warden Pies, Mace: Daies, none: that's out of my note: Nutmegges, seuen; a Race or two of Ginger, but that I may begge: Foure pound of Premyns, and as many of Reysons o'th Suo.

Aut Oh, that euer I was borne.

Clo I th name of me.

Ant. Oh helpe me, helpe mee . placke but off thefe ragges : and then, death, death,

Cle. Alacke poore foule, shou half need of more rags to lay on thee, rather then have these off

Aut. Oh fir, the loathformesse of them offend mee, more then the stripes I have received, which are mightie ones and millions.

Cle. Alas poore man, a million of beating may come to a great matter.

Ast. I am rob d fir, and beaten: my money, and apparrell cane from me, and these derestable things pur upon me.

Clo. What, by a horse-man, or a foot-man?
Aut. A footman (sweet sit) a footman.

Clo. Indeed, he should be a footman, by the garments he has lest with thee: If this bee a horsemans Coase, at hath seene very hor seruice, Lend me thy hand, lie helpe thee. Come, lend me thy hand.

Aut. Oh good lit, renderly, ob.

Cle. Alas poore soule.

Am. Oh good fir, suftly, good fu : I feare (fir) my shoulder-blade is out.

Clo. How now? Canfl fland?

Ast. Softly, deere fir: good fir, foftly: you ha done me a charitable office.

Cla. Doeft lacke any mony? I have a little mony for Aut. No, good (weet fit: no. 1 befeech you fit: 1 have a Kinfman not past three quarters of a mile hence, who whome I was going: I shall there have money, or anie thing I want: Offer me no money I pray you, that killes my heart

Clos What manner of Fellow was hee that robb'd

you?

Am. A fellow (fir) that I have knowne to goe about with Troll-my-dames: I know him once a feruant of the Prince: I cannot tell good fir, for which of his Vertues it was, but her was certainely Whips out of the Court.

Clo.

Clo. His vices you would fay: there's no vertue whipt out of the Court: they cherish it to make it stay there;

and yer it will no more but abide.

Aur. Vices I would fay (Sir.) I know this man well, he hath bene fince an Ape-bearer, then a Processe-server (a Bayliffe) then hee compaft a Motion of the Prodigall sonne, and married a Tinkers wife, within a Mile where my Land and Living lyes; and (having flowne over many knauish prosessions) he setled onely in Rogue: some call him Antolicus.

Clo. Out vpon him: Prig for my life Prig:he haunts

Wakes, Faires, and Beare-baitings.

Aut. Very true fir : he fir hee : that's the Rogue that put me into this apparrell.

Clo. Not a more cowardly Rogue in all Bokemia; If you had but look'd bigge, and spit at him, hee'ld have

Aut. I must consesse to you(sir) I am no fighter : I am falle of heart that way, & that he knew I warrant him.

Clo. How do you now?

Aur. Sweet fir, much better then I was : I can ffand, and walke: I will even take my leave of you, & pace foftly towards my Kinimans.

Clo. Shall I bring thee on the way? Aus. No, good fac'd fir, no sweet fir.

Clo. Then farthcewell, I must go buy Spices for our sheepe-shearing.

Aut. Prosper you sweet fir. Your purse is not hot enough to purchase your Spice: Ile be with you at your sheepe-shearing too : If I make not this Cheat bring out another, and the sheerers proue sheepe, let me be vnrold, and my name put in the booke of Vertue.

> Song. log-on, log.on, the foot path way, And merrily bent the Stile-u: A merry beart goes all the day, Tour Sadtyres in a Mile-a.

Exu.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Florizell, Perdisa, Shepherd, Clowne, Polixenes, Camillo, Mopfa, Dorcas, Seruants, Antolicus.

Flo. These your vnvsuall weeds, to each part of you Do's give a life: no Shepherdelle, but Flora Peering in Aprils front. This your theepe-shearing, Is as a meeting of the petry Gods, And you the Queene on't.

Perd. Sir : my gracious Lord, To chide at your extreames, it not becomes me : (Oh pardon, that I name them:) your high selfe The gracious marke o'th' Land, you have obscur'd With a Swaines wearing: and me (poore lowly Maide)
Most Goddeffe-like prank'd vp: But that out Feafts In every Melle, have folly; and the Feeders Digest with a Custome, I should blush To see you so attyr'd: sworne I thinke, To shew my selfe a glasse.

Flo. I bleffe the time. When my good Falcon, made her flight a-crosse

Thy Fathers ground

Perd. Now Joue affoord you cause:

To me the difference forges dread (your Greattiesse

Hath not beene vs'd to feare:) euen now I tremble To thinke your Father, by some accident Should passe this way, as you did: Oh the Fates, How would he looke, to see his worke, so noble, Vildely bound up? What would he say? Or how Should I (inthese my borrowed Flaunts) behold The flernnesse of his presence?

Flo, Apprehend Nothing but iollity: the Goddes themselues (Humbling their Deities to love) have taken The shapes of Beasts upon them. Iupiter, Became a Bull, and bellow'd: the greene Neptone A Ram, and bleated : and the Fire-roab'd-God Golden Apollo, a poore humble Swaine, As I feeme now. Their transformations, Were neuer for a peece of beauty, rarer, Nor in a way so chaste : fince my defires Run not before mine honor : nor my Luss Burne hotter then my Faith.

Perd. O but Sir,

Your resolution cannot hold, when 'tis Oppos'd (as it must be) by th'powse of the King t One of these two must be necessities, Which then will speake, that you must change this pur-

Or I my life.
Flo. Thou deer'st Perdita, With these fore'd thoughts, I prethee darken not The Mirth o'th' Feast: Or Ile be thine (my Faire) Or not my Fathers. For I cannot be Mine owne, nor any thing to any, if I be not thine. To this I am molt constant, Though destiny say no. Be merry (Gentle) Strangle fuch thoughts as thefe, with any thing That you behold the while. Your guests are comming: Lift vp your countenance, as it were the day Of celebration of that suptiall, which We two have sworne shall come.

Perd. O Lady Fortune, Stand you auspicious.

Flo. See, your Guelts approach, Addresse your seife to entertaine them sprightly, And let's be red with mirth.

Shep. Fy (daughter) when my old wife liu'd: vpon This day, the was both Pantler, Butler, Cooke, Both Dame and Seruant: Welcom'd all: feru'd all, Would fing her fong, and dance her turne: now heere At upper end o'th Table; now, i'th middle: On his floulder, and his: her face o'fire With labour, and the thing the tooke to quench it She would to each one fip. You are retyred, As if you were a feafted one : and not The Hostesse of the meeting: Pray you bid These vnknowne friends to's welcome, for it is, A way to make vs better Riends, more knowne. Come, quench your blushes, and present your selfe That which you are, Mistris o'th' Peast. Come on, And bid vs welcome to your sheepe-shearing,
As your good flocke shall prosper.

Perd. Sir, welcome:

It is my Fathers will, I should take on mee The Hostesseship o'th'day: you're welcome fir. Give me those Flowres there (Dercas.) Reverend Sirs, For you, there's Rosemary, and Rue, these keepe Seeming, and sauour all the Winter long: Grace, and Remembrance be to you both, And welcome to our Shearing.

Bb 2

Pol. 1

Pol. Shepherdelle,

(A faire one are you:) well you fit our ages With flowres of Winter.

Perd. Sir, the yeare growing ancient, Not yet on fummers death, nor on the birth Of trembling winter, the fayrest flowres o'th season Are our Carnations, and Arcak'd Gilly-vors, (Which some call Natures bastards) of that kind Our ruflicke Gardens barren, and I care not To get flips of them.

Pol. Wherefore (gentle Maiden)

Do you neglect them.

Perd. For I have heard it faid, There is an Arc, which in their pidenesse shares With great creating-Nature.

Pol. Say there be:

Yet Nature is made better by no mesne, But Nature makes that Meane t fo over that Art, (Which you fay addes to Nature) is an Art That Nature makes : you fee (fweet Maid) we marry A gentler Sien, to the wildest Stocke, And make conceyue a barke of bafer kinde By bud of Nobler race, This is an Art Which do's mend Nature : change it rather, but The Art it felfe, is Nature, Perd. Soit is.

Pal. Then make you Garden rich in Gilly vors, And do not call them ballards.

Perd. He not put The Dible in earth, to fet one flip of them: No more then were I painted, I would with This youth should say twee well: and onely therefore Defire to breed by me. Here's flowres for you: Hot Lauender, Mints, Sauory, Mariorum, The Mary-gold, that goes to bed with Sun, And with him rifes, weeping: Thefe are flowres Of middle fummer, and I think othey are given

To men of middle age. Y'are very welcome, Cam. I flould leave grafing, were I of your flocke,

And onely liue by gazing.

Perd. Outalas: You'ld be so leane, that blasts of lanuary (Friend, Would blow you through and through Now (my fairft I would I had foine Flowres o'th Spring, that might Become your time of day : and yours, and yours, That weare vpon your Virgin-branches yet Your Maiden beads growing : O Proferpina, For the Flowres now, that (frighted) thou let's fall From Dyffer Waggon: Daffadils, That come before the Swallow dares, and take The windes of March with beauty: Violets (dim, But fweeter then the lids of Inno's eyes, Or Cytheres's breath) pale Prime-roles, That dye vnmarried, ere they can behold Bright Phæbus in his strength (a Maladie Most incident to Maids:) bold Oxlips, and The Crowne Imperiall: Lillies of all kinds, (The Flowre-de-Luce being one.) O, thefe I lacke, To make you Garlands of) and my sweet friend, To firew him o're, and ore

Flo. What? like a Coarle?

Perd. No, like a banke, for Loue to lye, and play on: Notlike a Coarle: or if : not to be buried, But quicke, and in mine armes. Come, take your flours, Merhinkes I play as I have feene them do In Whitfon-Pafforals: Surathia Robe of mine

Do's change my disposition;

Flo. What you do,

Still betters what is done. When you speake (Sweet) I'ld have you do it cuer : When you fing, I'ld have you buy, and fell to a fo give Almes, Pray fo : and for the ord'ring your Affayres. To fing them too. When you do dance, I wish you A wave o'th Sea, that you might ever do Nothing but that : move first, still so :

And owne no other Function. Each your doing, (So fingular, in each particular)

Crownes what you are doing, in the present deeds,

That all your Ades, are Queenes.
Perd. O Dericles,

Your praises are too large: but that your youth And the true blood which peepes fairely through't, Do plainly give you out an vnitain'd Sphepherd With wiledome, I might feare (my Dorules) You woo'd me the falle way.

Flo. I thinke you have As little skill to feare, as I have purpose To put you to't. But come, our dance I pray, Your hand (my Perdita:) fo Tuttles paire That never meane to park.

Perd. Ile (weare for 'em.

Po. This is the prettiest Low-borne Lasse, that ever Ran on the greene-ford : Nothing the do's, or fermes But smackes of something greater then her felfe, Too Noble for this place.

Cam. He tels her something That makes her blood looke on't: Good footh the is The Queene of Curds and Creame.

Clo. Come on: Arike vp.

Dorcas, Mosso must be your Milleis: marry Garlick to mend her kissing with.

Mep. Now in good time.
Clo. Not a word, a word, we fland vpon our manners, Come, fitike vp.

Heere a Downce of Shipheards and Stephearddeffes.

Pol. Pray good Shepheard, what faire Swaine is this, Which dances with your daughter?

shep. They call him Dorieles, and boals himlelfe To have a worshy Feeding; but I have it Vpon his owne report, and I beleeve it: He lookes like footh : he fayes he loues my daughter, I thinke fo too; for neuer gaz'd the Moone Vpon the water, as hee'l frand and reade As twere my daughters eyes: and to be plaine, I thinke there is not halfe a kiffe to choose Who loues another beft.

Pol. She dances featly.

Shep. So she do's any thing, though I report it That should be filent: If yong Dericles Do light vpon her, she shall bring him that Which he not dreames of. Enter Sersion.

Ser. O Mafter : if you did but heare the Pedler at the doore, you would never dance againe after a Tabor and Pipe: no, the Bag-pipe could not moue you: hee finges feuerall Tunes, faster then you'l tell money: hee viters them as he had eaten ballads and all mens eares grew to his Tunes.

Cla He could nemer come bettet : hee shall come in : I loue a ballad but euen too well, if it be dolefull matter merrily fet downe : or a very pleasant thing indeede and sang lamentably.

Ser. He hath fongs for man, or woman, of all fizes: No Milliner can fo fit his conflorners with Gloves: he has the pressiest Loue-longs for Maids, so without bawdrie (which is strange,) with such delicate burthers of Dildo's and Fadings: Jump-her, and thump-her; and where fome firetch-mouth'd Rafcall, would (as it were) meane mischeese, and breake a sowle gap into the Matter, hee makes the maid to answere, Woop, doe meno barme good man: put's him off, flights him, with Wboop, der mee no barme good man.
Pol. This is a braue fellow.

Clo. Beleece mee, thou calkest of an admirable con-cested fellow, has he any unbraided Wares?

Sen. Hee hath Ribbons of all the colours ith Rainebow; Points, more then all the Lawyers in Bobemia, can learnedly handle, though they come to him by th'groffe: Inckles, Caddysses, Cambrickes, Lawnes: why he sings em over, as they were Gods, or Goddeffes: you would chinke a Smocke were a thee-Angell, he fo chauntes to the fleeue-hand, and the worke about the fquare on'r.

Clo. Prethee bring him in, and let him approach fin-

Perd. Forewarne him, that he vie no scurrilous words in's tunes

Clow. You have of these Pedlers, that have more in them, shen youl'd thinke (Sifter.)

Perd. I. good brother, or go about to thinke.

Enter Autolieus finging. Laune as white as driven Snow. Cypreffe blacke as ere was Crow, Clones as sweete as Damaske Roses. Maskes for faces, and for no fes Bugle-bracelet, Necke lace Amber, Berfume for a Ladies Chamber: Golden Quoifes, and Stomachers For my Lads, to give their deere: Pins, and poaking-flickes of fleele. What Maids lacke from bead to heele: Come buy of me, come: come buy come buy. Buy Lads, or elfe your Laffes cry . Come buy

Clo. If I were not in love with Mopfe, thou shoulds take no money of me, but being enthrall'd as I am, it will also be the bondage of certaine Ribbons and Gloues.

Mop. I was promis'd them against the Feast, but they come not too late now.

Dor. He haih promis'd you more then that,' or there be lyars.

Mop. He hath paid you all he promis'd you: 'May be he has paid you more, which will shame you to give him

Clo. Is there no manners left among maids? Will they weare their plackets, where they should bear their faces? Is there not milking-time? When you are going to bed? Or kill-hole? To whistle of thefe fecrets, but you must be cittle-tatling before all our guests?'Tis well they are whifpring:clamor your congues, and not a word more.

Mop. I have done; Come you promis'd me a tawdry-

lace, and a paire of sweet Gloues,

Clo. Haue I not told thee how I was cozen'd by the way, and lost all my money,

Aus. And indeed Sir, there are Cozeners abroad, therfore it behooves men to be wary.

Clo. Feare not thou man, thou shalt lose nothing here Aut, I hope to fir, for I have about me many parcels of charge.

clo. What half heere? Ballada?

Mop. Pray now buy fome: I loue a ballet in print, life, for then we are fure they are true

Aut. Here's one to a very dolefull tune, how a Viuters wife was brought to bed of twenty money baggs at a burthen, and how the long d to eace Adders heads, and Toads carbonado'd.

Mop. Is it true, thinke you?
Aut. Very true, and but a moneth old. Dor. Blesse me from marrying a Vsuter.

Aut. Here's the Midwines name to'c : one Mift, Tale-Porter, and five or fix honest Wives, that were present. Why should I carry lyes abroad?

Mop. Pray you now buy it.
Clo. Come-on, lay it by: and let's first fee moe Ballads Wee'l buy the other things anon.

Aut. Here's another ballad of a Fish, that appeared vpon the coaft, on weniday the fourescore of April, fortie thousand sadom aboue water. & sung this ballad against the hard hearts of maids: it was thought the was a Woman, and was turn'd into a cold fifh, for the wold not exchange flesh with one that lou'd her: The Ballad is very pittifull, and as true.

Dor. Is it true too, thinke you.

Autol. Fine lustices hands at it, and witnesses more then my packe will hold.

Clo Lay 16 by 100; another.

Aut. This is a merry ballad, but a very pretty one.

Mop. Let's haue some metry ones.

Mut. Why this is a palling merry one, and goes to the tune of two maids wooing a man: there's featle a Maide westward but she sings it: 'tis in request, I can tell you.

Mop. We can both fing it : if thou'lt beare a part, thou shalt heare, 'tis in three ports.

Dor. We had the tune on't, a month agoe.

Aut. I can beare my part, you must know 'tis my occupation: Haue at it with you:

Song Get you hence, for I must gas

Where it fits not you to know. AUG.

Whether? Dor.

Mop O whether ? Dor. Whether ?

Is becomes the oath full well. Mop.

Thousome thy fecrets tell

Dor: Me 100 : Le me go thether : Or thou goest to the Grange, or Mills

Mop Dor: If to either thou doft ill.

Neither. Aut:

Dot: What neither ?

Neither A ut:

Dor: Thou hast sworne my Loue to be,

Thou hast sworne it more to mee. Then whether goest? Say whether ! Mop

Clo. Wee'l have this fong out anon by our felues: My Father, and the Gent. are in fad talke, & wee'll not trouble them: Come bring away thy pack after me, Wenches Ile buy for you both: Pedler let's have the first choice; folow Aut: And you shall pay well for em.

Song. Willyon buy any Tape, or Lace for your (spe?

My dainty Ducke, my decre a? Any Silke, any Thred, any Topes for your head Of the news't, and fins't fins't weare-a.

Come to the Pedler, Money's a medler,

That dotb viter all mens ware-a. Ser wars. Mayfter, there is three Carters, three Shep herds, three Neat-herds, three Swine-herds y haue made themselves all men of haire, they cal themselves Saltiers, and they have a Dance, which the Wenches say it a gally-maustrey of Gambols, because they are not in they themselves are of himself (if it bee not too rough for some, that know little but bowling) it will please plentifully.

863

Shep. Away Weelnoncont; heere has beene too much homely foolery already. I know (Sir) wee wea-

CIC TOU.

Pol. You wearse those that refresh vs a pray let's see these foure-threes of Heardimen.

Ser. One three of them, by their owner eport (Sir,) hath dane'd before the King and not the worst of the three, but impessively foote and a halfe by th' fquire.

Shep. Leave your prating, fince these good men are pleased, let them come in but quickly now,

Ser. Why, they flay at doore Sir

Heere a Dance of I welve Sargres.

Pol. O Father, you'l know more of that hereafter:

It it not too farte gone? Tis time to part them,
He's simple, and tols much. How dow(faire shepheard)
Your heart is full of something, that do's take Your minde from seasting. Sooth, when I was yong, Andhanded loue, as you do; I was wont
To load my Shee with knackes. I would have ransackt
The Pedlers silken Treasury, and have powr'd it
To her acceptance, you have let him go,
And nothing marted with him. If your Lasse
Interpretation should abuse, and call this
Your lacke of loue, or bounty, you were strated
For a cepty at least, if you make a care
Os happie holding her.

Flb. Old Sit, I know
She prizes not fuch trifles as thefe are:
The gifts the lookes from me, are packt and locke
Vp in my heart, which I have given already,
Butnot deliver'd. O heare me breath my life
Before this ancient Sit, whom (it should feeme)
Hath sometime lou'd: I take thy hand, this hand,
As fofe as Doues-downe, and as white as it,
Or Ethyopians tooth, or the fan'd snow, that's bolted
By th Northerne blasts, twice ote.

Pol. What followes this?

How prettily the yong Swaine feemes to wash. The hand, was faire before? I baue put youout, But to your protestation: Let me heare. What you professe.

Flo. Do, and be witnesse too's.
Fol. And this my neighbout too?

Flo And he, and more

Then he, and men: the earth, the heavens, and all;
That were I crown'd the most Imperial Monarch
Theteof most worthy: were I the fayrest youth
That ever made eye swerve, had force and knowledge
More then was ever mans, I would not prize them
Withouther Loue; for her, employ them all,
Commend them, and condemne them to bet service,
Or to their owne perdition.

Pol Fairely offer'd.

Cam. This shewer a found affection.

Step. But my daughter, Say you the like to him.

Per. I cannot speake
So well, (nothing so well) no, nor means better
By thipatterne of mine owns thoughts, I cut out
The puritie of his.

Shep. Take hands, a bargaine.
And frunds vinknowne, you shall beare witheste to't:
I give my daughter to him, and will make
Her Portion, equall his.

Fle. O, that must bee

I th Vertue of your daughter One being dead, I shall have more then you can dreame of yet, Enough then for your wonder but como on, Contract vs fore these Wunedes.

ship. Come, your band:

And daughter, yours.

Pd. Soft Swaine a-while, befeech you, Haue you a Father?

Fle I have : but what of him?

Pal. Knowes he of this?

Flo. He neither do's, nor shall, Pd. Me-thinkes a Father,

This mechanises a rance,

Is at the Nuptiall of his foane, a guest

That belt becomes the Tible: Pray you once more

Is not your Father grownesneapeable

Of reafonable affayres? Is he not stupid

With Age, and altring Rheumes? Can be speake? heate?

Know man, from man? Dispute his owne estate?

Liet he not bed-rid? And againe, do's nothing

But what he did, being childs show the study of the second of the

Flo No good Sir He has his health, and ampier frength indeeds Then most have of his age

Pol By my white beard,
You offer him (if this belo) a wrong
Something viniliall. Reason my some
Should choose himselfer a write, but as good reason
The Father (all whose roy is nothing else
But faire posterity) should hold some counsale
Li such a businesse.

Flo I yeeld all this; But for foine other reasons (my grave Sic) Which its north you know, I not acquarte My Father of this businesse.

Pol. Lethim knowit.

Flo He Chall not.

Pd. Pretheclet him.

Fle No he must not

Ship. Let him (any fonne) he finall not need to green:
At knowing of thy choice

Flo. Come, come, he must not

Marke our Contrad

Pol. Marke your divorce (yong fir)
Whom fonne! dare not eal!: Thou are too bafe
To be acknowledge. Thou a Scepters herre,
That thus affects a freepe-hooke? Thou, old Traitor,
I am forry, that by hanging thee, I can but thouse thy life one weeke. And thou, frosh peece
Of excellent Witcherast, whom of force must know
The royal! Foole thou coap'st with.

·Ship. Oh my heart.

Pw. He have thy beauty feratche with briefs at made More homely then thy flate. For thee (fond boy) If I may ever know thou doft but figh, That thou no more flatt never fee this knacke(as nover I meane thou fhalt) wee'l barre thee from fuccethion, Not hold thee of our blood, no not our Kin, Farra then Dewedson off: (marke thou my words) Follow vs to the Court. Thou Churle, for this time (Though full of our displeasure) yet we free thee From the dead blow of it. And you Enchantment,

Wor-

Worthy enough a Heardiman: yeahim too,
That makes himfelfe (but for our Honor therein)
Vnworthy thee. If ever henceforth, thou
Thefe rurall Latches, to his entrance open,
Or hope his body more, with thy embraces,
I will deuife a death, as cruell for thee
As thou are tender to't.

Exit.

Pord. Euen heere vndone:
I was not much a-fear d: for once, or twice
I was about to speake, and tell him plainely,
The selfe. same Sun, that shines upon his Court,
Hides not his visage from our Cottage, but Lookes on alike. Wilt ploase you (Sir) be gone?
I told you what would come of this: Beseeth you
Of your owne state take care: This dreame of mine
Being now awake, Ile Queene it oo inch farther,
But milke my Ewes, and weepe.

Cam. Why how now Father,

Speake ere thou dyeft.

Shep. I cannot speake, nor thinke,
Nor dare to know, that which I know: O Sir,
You have vindone aman of source core three,
That thought to fill his grave in quiet 1 yea,
To dye vpon the bed my father dy'de,
To lye close by his honest bones; but now
Some Hangman must put on my shrowd, and lay me
Whereno Priest shoulds-in dust. Oh cursed wretch,
That knew stellis was the Prince, and wouldst adventure
To mingle faith with him. Vindone, vindone:
If I might dye within this houre, I have lived
To die when I desire.

Flo. Why looke you so vpon me?
I am but forry, not affear'd: delaid,
But nothing altred: What I was, I am:
More straining on, for plucking backe; not following

My leash vnwillingly.

Cam. Gracious my Lord,
You know my Fathers temper: at this time
He will allow no speech: (which I do ghesse
You do not purpose to him:) and as hardly
Will he endure your sight, as yet 1 seare;
Then till the sury of his Highnesse secte
Come not before him.

Fla I not purpose it: I thinke Camillo.

Cam. Euen he, my Lord.

Per. How often haue I told you'twould be thus? How often faid my dignity would last But till 'twer knowne?

Flo. It cannot faile, but by
The Violation of my faith, and then
Let Nature crush the sides o'th earth together,
And marre the seeds within. Lift up thy lookes:
From my succession wipe me (Father) I
Am heyre to my affection.

Cam. Beaduis'd.

Flo. I am: and by my fancie, if my Reason Will thereto be obedient: I have reason: If not, my sences better pleas'd with madnesse, Do bid it welcome.

Cam. This is desperate (fir.)
Flo. So call it: but it do's fulfill my vow.
I needs must thinke it honesty. Camillo,
Not for Bohemia, nor the pompe that may
Be thereat gleaned: for all the Sun sees, or
The close carth wombes, or the profound seas, hides

In whknowne fadomes, will I breake my oath
To this my faire belou'd i Therefore, I pray you.
As you have ever bin my Fathers honour'd friend
When he shall misse me, as (in faith I meane not To see him any more) cast your good counsiles
Vpon his passion: Let my selfe, and Fortune
Tug for the time to come. This you may know,
And so deliver, I am put to Sea
With het, who heere I cannot hold on shore:
And most opportune to her neede, I have
A Vessell rides fast by, but not prepar'd
For this designe. What course I meane to hold Shall nothing benefit your knowledge, nor Concerne me the reporting.

Cam. O my Lord, I would your spirit were caser for aduice, Or stronger for your neede.

Flo. Hearke Perdita, Ile heate you by and by.

Cam. Hee's irremoueable,
Refolu'd for flight: Now were I happy if
His going, I could frame to ferue my turne,
Saue him from danger, do him loue and honor,
Purchase the fight againe of deere Sicillia,
And that vnhappy King, my Master, whom
I so much thirst to see.

Flo. Now good Camille, Lam io fraught with curious businesse, thas I leave out ceremony.

Cam. Sir, I thinke You have heard of my poore services, i'th love That I have botne your Father?

Flo. Very nobly
Have you deferu'd: It is my Fathers Muficke
To speake your deeds: not little of his care
To have them recompene'd, as thought on.

Cam. Well (my Lord)
If you may please to thinke I love the King,
And through him, what's neerest to him, which is
Your gracious selfe; embrace but my direction,
If your more ponderous and setted proiect
May suffer atteration. On mine honor,
Ile point you where you shall have such receiving
As shall become your Highnesse, where you may Enioy your Mistris; from the whom, I see
There's no distinction to be made, but by
(As heavens forefend) your ruine: Marry her,
And with my best endeuours, in your absence,
Your discontenting Father, strive to qualific
And bring him vp to liking.

Flo. How Camillo
May this (almost a miracle) be done?
That I may call thee something more then man,
And after that trust to thee.

Cam. Have you thought on A place whereto you'l go?
Flo. Not any yet:

But as th'enthought-on accident is guiltle
To what we wildely do, fo we professe
Our selues to be the slaues of chance, and slyes
Of every winde that blowes.

Cam, Then lift to me:
This followes, if you will not change your purpose
But vndetgo this slight; make for Sicillia,
And there present your selfe, and your sayre Princesse,
(For so I see she must be) 'fore Leoness;

Sheer

She shall be habited, as it becomes
The partner of your Bed. Me thinker I fee
Leanter opening his free Atmes, and weeping
His Welcomes for the asks the ethere Sonne for givenesse.
As iwere i'th' Fathers person: killes the hands
Of your fresh Princesse; ore and ore divides him,
'Twist his vinkindnesse, and his Kindnesse. th'one
He chides to Hell, and bids the other grow
Faster then Thought, or Time.

Flo. Worthy Camillo.
What colour for my Visitation, shall I

Hold vp before him?

Cam. Sent by the King your Father

To greet him, and to give him comforts. Sir,
The manner of your bearing towards him, with
What you (as from your Father) (hall deliver,
Things knowne betwixt vs three, He write you downe,
The which (hall point you forth ar every fitting
What you must say: that he shall not perceive,
But that you have your Fathers Bosome there,

And speake his very Heart, Flo. I am bound to you: There is some sappe in this.

Cam. A Course more promising,
Then a wild dedication of your selves
To vnpath'd Waters, vndream'd Shores; most certaine,
To Miseries enough: no hope to helpe you,
But as you shake off one, to take anothers
Nothing so certaine, as your Anchors, who
Doe their best office, if they can but stay you,
Where you'le be lost to be: besides yoo know,
Prosperitie's the very bond of Loue,
Whose fresh complexion, and whose heart together,
Affliction alters.

Perd. One of these is true:

I thinke Affliction may subdue the Cheeke,
But not take-in the Mind.

Cam. Yea? (sy you so?
There shall not, as your Fathers House, these seuen yeeres
Be botne another such.

Flo. My good Camillo, She's as forward, of her Breeding, as She is i'th' reare "our Birth.

Cam. I cannot fay 'tis pitty
She lacks Instructions, for the seemes a Missesse
To most that teach

Perd. Your pardon Sir, for this, le blush you Thanks.

Flo My prettiell Perdita,
But O, the Thornes we fland upon: (Camillo)
Presetuer of my Father, now of me,
The Medicine of our House: how shall we doe!
We are not furnished like Bohemia's Sonne,
Nor shall appeare in Sicilia.

Cam. My Lord,
Feare none of this: I thinks you know my fortunes
Doe all lye there: it shall be so my care,
To have you royally appointed, as if
The Scene you play, were mine. For instance Sir,
That you may know you shall not want: one word.

Enier Autoliess

Aut. Ha,ha, what a Foole Honeftie is? and Truft/his fworne brother) a very fimple Gentleman. I have fold all my Tremperie. not a counterfeit Stone, not a Ribbon, Glaffe, Pomander, Browch, Table-booke, Ballad, Knife, Tape, Gloue, Shooe-tye, Bracelet, Horne-Ring, to keepe my Pack from fafting: they throng who should buy first, as if my Trinkets had beene hallowed, and brought a benediction to the buyer; by which meanes, I saw whose Putse was best in Picture; and what I saw, to my good vse, I remembred. My Clowne (who wants but something to be a reasonable man) grew so in love with the Wenches Song, that hee would not stirre his Petty-toes, till he had both Tune and Words, which so drew the rest of the Heard to me, that all their other Sences stucke in Eares; you might have pinched a Placket, it was sence-less; twas nothing to gueld a Cod-peece of a Purse; I would have fill'd Keyes of that hung in Chaynes; no hearing, no scelling, but my Sus Song, and admiring the Nothing of its. So that in this time of Leshatgie, I picked and cut most of their Festival Purses; And had not the old-man come in with a Whoo-bub against his Daughter, and the Kings Sonne, and scarid my Chowghes from the Chasse, I had not lest a Purse alive in the whole Atmy.

Cam. Nay, but my Letters by this meanes being there So foone as you arrive, shall cleare that doubt.

Flo. And those that you'le procure from King Leontes?
Cam. Shall fatisfic your Father.

Perd. Happy be you: All that you speake, shewes faire.

Cam. Who have we here?
Wee'le make an Instrument of this. omize
Nothing may give you'de.

Nothing may give vs aide.

Aut. If they have over-heard me now, why hanging.

Cam. How now (good Fellow)
Why shak's thou so? Feare not (man)
Here's no harme intended to thee.

An., I am a poore Fellow, Sir.

Cam. Why, be so fill: here a no body will fleate that from thee: yet for the out-side of shy pourrie, we must make an exchange; therefore dif-case the canflantly (thou must thinke there's a necessitie in t) and change Garmenta with this Gentleman: Though the penny-worth (on his side) be the worst, yet hold thee, there's some boot.

Aut. I am a poore Fellow, Sir: (I know ye well enough.)

Cam. Nay prethee dispatch: the Gentleman is halfe fled already.

Aut. Are you in earneff, Sir? (I fmell the trick on't.) Flo. Dispatch, I prethee.

Aus, Indeed I have had Earnest, but I cannot with conscience take it.

Cam. Vnbuckle, vnbuckle.
Fottunate Miftresse (let my prophecie Come home to ye:) you must retire your selse
Into some Couert; take your sweet-hearts Hat
And pluck it ore your Browes, mussle your sace,
Dismantle you, and (as you can) disliken
The truth of your owne seeming, that you may
(For I doe seare eyes ouer) to Ship-boord
Get vndescry'd.

Perd. I see the Play so lyes, That I must beare a part. Cam. No temedie:

Have you done there?

Flo. Should I now meet my Father,
He would not call me Sonne.

Cam. Nay, you shall have no Hat: Come Lady, come: Farewell (my friend.) Am. Adieu, Sir.

Fle. O Perdita: what have we twaine forgot?

Pray!

Pray you a word.

Cam. What I doe next, shall be to tell the King Of this escape, and whither they are bound; Wherein, my hope is, I shall so preuzile, To force him after: in whole company I shall re-view Sicilia; for whole light, I have a Womans Longing.

Flo. Foreune (peed vs

Thus we let on (Camullo) to the Ses-fide.

Cam. The swifter speed, the better.

Ast. I understand the bufinesse, I heare it : to have an open care, a quick eye, and a nimble hand, is necessary for a Cut-purle; a good Nole is requifite allo, to smell out worke for th'other Sences. I fee this is the time that the vniust man doth thrive. What an exchange had this been, without boot ? What a boot is here, with this exchange? Sure the Gods doe this yeere conssue at vs, and we may doe any thing extempore. The Prince himselfe is about a peece of Iniquitie (flealing away from his Father, with his Clog se his heeles:) if I thought it were a peece of honeffic to acquaint the King withall, I would not do t: 1 hold it the more knauerie to conceale it; and therein are I constant to my Profession.

Enter Clowne and Shepbeard

Aside, aside, here is more matter for a hot brame: Every Lanes end, every Shop, Church, Seffion, Hanging, yeelds a carefull man worke.

Clowne. See, see: what a man you are now? there is no other way, but to tell the King the's a Changeling, and none of your fielh and blood.

Shep. Nay, but heare me.

Clow. Nay; but heare me. Shep, Goe 100 then.

Clow. She being none of your flesh and blood, your fleth and blood has not offended the King, and so your flesh and blood is not to be punish'd by him. Show those things you found about her (those secret things, all but what she ha's with her:) This being done, let the Law goe whiftler I warrant you.

Shop. I will tell the King all, every word, yes, and his Sonnes prancks too; who, I may fay, is no boneft man, neither to his Father, nor to me, to goe about to make me the Kings Brother in Law.

Claw. Indeed Brother in Law was the farthest off you could have beene to him, and then your Blood had beene the dearer, by I know how much an ounce

Am. Very wisely (Puppies.)

Shep. Well: let vs to the King: there is that in this Farthell, will make him scratch his Beard.

Ass. I know not what impediment this Complaint may be to the flight of my Mafter.

Clo. 'Pray heartily he be at 'Pallace.

Am. Though I am not naturally honest, I am so sometimes by chance : Let me pocket vp my Pedlers excrement. How now (Ruffiques) whither are you bound?

Shop. To th' Pallace (and it like your Worship.) Am. Your Affaires there? what? with whom? the Condition of that Farthell? the place of your dwelling? your names? your ages? of what having? breeding, and any thing that is fitting to be knowne, discouer?

Clo. We are but plaine fellowes, Sir.

Ass. A Lye; you are rough, and hayrie: Let me have no lying; it becomes none but Tradef-men, and they of ten give vs (Souldiers) the Lye, but wee pay them for it with flamped Coyne, not flabbing Steele, therefore they doe not give vs the Lye.

Clo. Your Worthip had like to have given vs one, if you had not taken your felfe with the manner.

Shop. Are you'a Courtier, and't like you bit?

Aut. Whether it lke me, or no, I am a Courtier. Seeft thou not the ayre of the Court, in these enfoldings? Hath not my gate in it, the measure of the Court? Receives not thy Note Court-Odour from me? Reflect I not on thy Bafenelle, Coure-Concempt ! Think'st thou, for that I infinuate, at toaze from thee thy Businesse, I am thereforeno Courtier? I am Courtier Cap-a-pe; and one that will eyther push-on, or pluck-back, thy Businesse there: whereupon I command thee to open thy Affaire.

Shep. My Bufineffe, Sir, is to the King

Aut. What Aduocate ha'ft thou to him?

Shep. I know not (and't like you.)

Clo. Aduocate's the Court-word for a Pheazant: lay you have none.

Shep. None, Sir · I have no Pheazant Cock, nor Hen. Aus. How bleffed are we, that are not simple men? Yet Nature might have made me as these are,

Therefore I will not disdaine

Clo. This cannot be but a great Courtier.

Shep. His Garments are rich, but he weares them not handlomely.

clo. He seemes to be the more Noble, in being fantasticall: A great man, He warrant; I know by the picking on's Teeth.

Aus. The Farthell there ? What's i'th' Farthell? Wherefore that Box?

Shop. Sic, there lyes such Secrets in this Farrhell and Box, which none must know but the King, and which hee shall know within this houre, if I may come to th' speech

Aut. Age, thou hast lost thy labour,
Shep. Why Sur?
Aut. The King is not at the Pallace, he is gone abourd a new Ship, to purge Melancholy, and ayre himselfe : for if thou bee'st capable of things ferrous, thou must know the King is full of griefe

Shep. So 'tis faid (Sir:) about his Sonne, that should have marryed a Shepheards Daughter.

Am. If that Shepheard be not in hand-faft, ler him flyes the Curles he shall have the Torrures he shall feele, will breake the back of Man, the heart of Monster.

Clo Thinke you lo, Sir? Am, Not hee alone shall suffer what Wit can make heavie, and Vengeance bitter; but those that are lermaine to him (though remou'd fiftie times) shall all come vider the Hang-man: which, though it be great pitty, yet it is necessarie. An old Sheepe-whisting Rogue, a Ram-tender, to offer to have his Daughter come into grace! Some fay hee shall be ston'd : but that death is too fost for him

(lay I:) Draw our Throne into a Sheep-Coat? all deaths are too few, the sharpest too easie. Clo. Ha's the old-man ere a Soone Sir (doe you heare) and't like you, Sit ?

Am. Hee ha's a Sonne. who hall be flayd aliue, then nounted over with Honey, fer on the head of a Waspes Nell, then fland till he be three quarters and a dram dead their recover'd againe with Aquavite, or Come other hot Infulion: then, raw as he is (and in the hotelt day Prognoflication proclaymes) thall he be fet against a Brick wall, (the Sunne looking with a South-ward eye vpon him; where hee is to behold him, with Flyes blown to death) But what talke we of thest Traitorly-Rascab, whose miferres are to be fmil'd at, their offences being fo capitall'

Tell me (for you feeme to be honest plaine men) what you have to the King i being fomething gently confider'd, lie bring you where he is aboord, tender your persons to his presence, whisper him in your behalfes : and if it be in man, befides the King, to effect your Suizes, here is man shall doe it.

Class He feemes to be of great authorities close with him, give him Gold; and though Authorize be a Aubborne Beare, yet hee is oft led by the Nose with Gold ! fnew the in-fide of your Puile to the out-fide of his hand, and no more adoe. Remember flon'd, and flay'd

Shep. And't please you(Sir) to undertake the Businesse for vs, here is that Gold I have: He make it as much more, and leave this young man in pawne, till I bring it

Am After I have done what I promised?

Stop. I Siz.

Am. Well, give me the Moitie: Are you a partie In this Bufinefie?

Clow. In some fort, Sit : but though my case be a pittifull one, I hope I shall not be flayd out of it.

Aur. Oh, that's the case of the Shepheards Sonne:

hang him bee'le be made an example.

Clan. Comfort, good comfort : We must to the King, and thew our strange lights: he must know its none of your Daughter, nor my Sifter : wee are gone elle. Sir,1 will give you as much as this old man do's, when the Bufinesse is performed, and remaine (es he sayes) your pawne till it be brought you

Aus. I will truft you. Walke before toward the Seafide, goe on the right hand, I will but looke vpon the Hedge, and follow you.

We are blefs'd, in this man: as I may fay, even blefs'd.

Shep. Let's before, as he bids vs : he was provided to doe vs good.

adur. If I had a mind to be honest, I see Fortune would not suffer mee: Thee drops Booties in my mouth. I am courted now with a double occasion; (Gold, and a means to doe the Prince my Master good; which, who knowes how that may turne backe to my advancement?) I will bring these two Mosles, these blind-ones, about him, if he thinke it fit to shoare them againe, and that the Complaint they have to the King, concernes him nothing, let him call me Rogue, for being to farre officious, for I am proofe against that Title, and what shame else belongs to't: To him will I present them, there may be matter in Exeunt.

Astus Quintus. Scena Prima.

Enter Learner, Clearnnes, Dion, Paulma, Servents: Florizel, Pordisa.

Cleo. Sir, you have done enough, and have perform'd A Saint-like Sorrow: No fault could you make, Which you have not redeem'd; indeed pay'd downe More penitence then done trespas: At the last Doe, at the Heavens have done ; forget your evill, With them, forgive your felfe. Lee. Whileft I remember

Her and her Vertues I cannot forget

My blemishes in them, and so fill thinke of The wrong I did my latte, which was to much, That Heire-Juste it hash made my Kingdome, and Deftroy'd the Iwert'A Companion, that ere men Bred his hopes out of true.

Perl Too true (my Lords) If one by one, you wedded all the Werld. Or from the All that ere, tooke something good, To make a perfold Woman; The you kill 4 Would be unparallell d.

Les. 1 thinks to, Kill'd? She I kill'd; I did so: but thou Arik'A me Sorely, to fay I did a it is as butter Vpon thy Tongue, in my Thought. Now, good now, Say lo but le dome.

Can. Norscall, good Lady: You might have spoken a thousand things, that would Have done the time more benefit, and grac'd Your kindnesse better.

Parl. You are one of chose Would have him wed againe.

Des. If you would not fo, You pitty not the State nor the Remembeance Of his most Soveraigne Name: Consider lirde, What Dangers, by his Highnesse saile of Islae, May drop spon his Kingdome, and descours Incertaine lookers on. What were more bely, Then to reloyce the former Queene is well? What holyer, then for Royalizes reporte, For prefent comfort, and for foruse good, To bleffe the Bed of Maiefile agains With a fixeet Fellow to't?

Paul. There is none worthy, (Respecting her that's gone:) belides the Gods Will have fulfill'd their fecrat purpoles : For ha's not the Divine Apollo laid! Is't not the tenor of his Oracle, That King Leaster Ball not have an Heire, Till his lost Child be found ! Which, ther it shall. Is all as moothrous to our humane reason, As my swigomu to breake his Grave And come againe to me: who, on my life, Did perish with the Infant. The your counsell, My Lord should to the Heavens be contrary Oppose against their wills. Care not for iffue,
The Crowne will find so Heire. Great Alexander Left his to th' Worthieft : to his Saccessor Was like to be the best.

Les. Good Passono, Who half the memorie of Hermitine I know in honor: O, that ever I Had Iquar'd me to thy councell: then, eurn now, I might have look'd vpon my Queenes full eyes. Have raken Treasure from ber Lippes.

Paul. And left them More rich, for what they yeelded.

Lea Thou speak'st truth:
No more such Wines, therefore no Wife: one works, And better vs'd, woold make her Sainted Spirit Againe poffeffe her Corps, and on this Stage (Where we Offendors now appears) Souls verse And begin, why to me?

Paul. Had the fuch power,

She had just fuch cause

Les. She had, and would lacense me To murther her I marryed.

Paul. I should so:

Were I the Ghost that walk'd, II'd bid you marke Hereye, and tell me for what dull part in't You chose her then II d shricke, that even your cares Should rift to heate me, and the words that follow'd, Should be, Remember mine.

Leo. Statres, Statres, And all eyes elfe, dead coales: feare thou no Wife; lle haue no Wife, Paulina.

Paul. Will you sweare

Neuer to marry, but by my free leave?

Leo. Neuer (Paulina) to be bless'd my Spirit.

Paul. Then good my Lords, beare witnesse to his Oath

Cleo. You tempt him ouer-much.

Paul. Vnlesse another,

As like Hermione, as is her Picture,

Affront his eye.

Cleo. Good Madame, I baue done.

Parl. Yet if my Lord will marry: if you will, Sit;
No remedie but you will: Give me the Office
To chuse your Queene: she shall not be to young
As was your former, but she shall be such
As (walk'd your first Queenes Ghost) it should take toy
To see her in your armes.

Leo. My true Panlina,

We shall not marry still thou bidst vs.

Paul. That

Shall be when your first Queene's againe in breaths Neuer till then.

Enter a Sermant.

Ser. One that gives out himselfe Prince Florizell, Sonne of Polizenes, with his Princesse (she
The faitest I have yet beheld) defires accesse
To your high presence.

Lee. What with him? he comes not Like to his Fathers Greatneffe: his approach (So out of circumftance, and fuddaine) tells vs. Tis not a Vilitation fram'd, but forc'd By need, and accident. What Trayne?

Ser. But few,

And those but meane.

Leo. His Princesse (say you) with him?

Ser. I: the most peere effe peece of Earth, I thinke, That ere the Sunne shone bright on.

Paul. Oh Hermsone,

As every prefent Time doth boast it selfe
Aboue a better, gone; so must thy Grave
Give way to what's seene now. Sir, you your selfe
Have said, and write so; but your writing now
Is colder then that Theame: the had not beene.
Nor was not to be equall'd, thus your Verse
Flow'd with her Beautic once; this shrewdly ebb'd,

To say you have seene a better. Ser. Pardon, Madame:

The one, I have almost forgot (your pardom)
The other, when she ha's obtayn d your Eye.
Will have your Tongue too. This is a Creature.
Would she begin a Sect, might quench the zeale
Of all Professors esse; make Professors
Of who she but bid follow.

Panl. How? not women?

See. Women will loue her, that the is a Woman More worth then any Man: Men, that the is The rarest of all Women.

Lee. Goe Cleommes,

Your (elfe (affilled with your honor'd Friends)

Bring them to our embracement. Still 'tis frange, He thus should feale upon vs. Exit

Paul, Had out Prince

(Icwell of Children) feene this houre, he had payr'd Well with this Lord; there was not full a moneth Betweene their births.

Lee. Prether no more; ceefe: thou know if He dyes to me againe, when talk'd-of; fure When I shall fee this Gentleman, thy speeches Will bring me to consider that, which may Vusurish me of Reason. They are come.

Enter Florizell, Perdita, Cleamines, and others.
Your Mother was most true to Wedlock, Prince,
For she did print your Royall Father off.
Conceiuing you. Were I but twentie one,
Your Fathers Image is so hit in you.
(His very ayre) that I should call you Brother,
As I did him, and speake of something wildly
By vs perform d before. Most dearely welcome,
And your faire Princesse (Goddesse) oh: alas,
I lost a couple, that twint Heauen and Earth
Might thus have slood, begetting wonder, as
You (gracious Couple) doe: and then I lost
(All mine owne Folly) the Societie,
Amitic too of your braue Father, whom (Though bearing Miserie) I desire my life
Once more to looke on him.

Flo. By his command Haue I here touch'd Sierlia, and from him Giue you all greetings, that a King (at friend)

Can fend his Brother: and but Infirmitie (Which waits upon wornerimes) hath fomething feiz'd His wish'd Abilitie, he had himselse

The Lands and Waiers, 'twist your Throne and bis Measur'd, to looke vpon you; whom he loues (He bad me say so) more then all the Scepters,

And those that beare them, living.

Leo Oh my Brother,
(Good Gentleman) the wrongs I have done thee, stirre
Aftesh within me: and these thy offices
(So tarely kind) are as Interpreters
Of my behind-hand slacknesse. Welcome hither,
As is the Spring to th'Earth. And hath he too
Expos'd this Paragon to th's fearefull vsage
(At least ungente) of the decadfull Neptune,
To greet a man, not worth her paiaes; much lesse,

Th'aduenture of her person?

Flo. Good my Lord,

She came from Libia.

Leo. Where the Warlike Smalus,
That Noble honor'd Lord, is fear'd, and lou'd?

Flo. Most Royall Sir,
From thence: from him, whose Daughter
His Teares proclaym'd his parting with her: thence (A prosperous South-wind friendly) we have cross'd,
To execute the Charge my Father gaue me,
For visiting your Highnesse: My best Traine
I have from your Sieilian Shores dismis'd;
Who for Bobernia bend, to signific
Not onely my successe in Libia (Sir)
But my arrivall, and my Wises, in safetie
Here, where we are.

Lee. The bleffed Gods
Purge all Infection from our Ayre, whileft you
Doe Clymare here: you have a holy Father,
A gracefull Gentleman, against whose person

(So facted as it is) I have done finne, For which, the Heauent (taking angry note) Hauelese messible-lesse; and your father's bless'd (As he from Heaven merics it) with you, Worthy his goodnesse. What might I have been, Might I a Sonne and Daughter now have look'd on, Such goodly things as you.

Enter a Lord.

Lord. Most Noble Sit, That which I shall report, will beare no credit, Were not the proofe to night. Please you (great Sir) Bohemia greets you from himselfe, by me: Defires you to attach his Sonne, who has (His Dignitie, and Dutic both cast off) Fled from his Father, from his Hopes, and with A Shepheards Daughter.

Leo. Where's Bobemea? speake.
Lord. Here, in your Crite: I now came from him I speake amazedly, and ic becomes My meruaile, and my Mellage. To your Court Whiles he was hallning (in the Chafe, it feemes, Of this faire Couple) meetes he on the way The Father of this feeming Lady, and Her Brother, hauing both their Countrey quitted, With this young Prince

Flo. Camilla ha's betray'd me, Whole honor, and whole honeftic till now, Endur'd all Weathers.

Lord. Lay's foto his charge: He's with the King your Father.
Lee. Who & Cansillo?

Lord. Camillo (Sir:) I spake with him: who now Ha's these poore men in quellion. Neuer faw I Wrotches to quake: they kneele, they kille the Earth; Forfweare themselves as often as they speake: Bohemia flops his eares, and threatens them With divers death, in death.

Perd. Oh my poore Father: The Heaven fers Spyes upon vs, will not have Our Contract celebrated.

Les. You are marryed?
Flo. We are not (Sir) nor are we like to be: The Starres (I fee) will kiffe the Valleyes first: The oddes for high and low's alike.

Leo. My Lord, Is this the Daughter of a King? Tlo. She is,

When once flie is my Wife: Les. That once (1 ice) by your good Fathers speed Will come-on very flowly. I am forry (Most forry) you have broken from his liking, Where you were ty'd in dutie: and as forry, Your Choise is not so rich in Worth, as Beautie, That you might well enjoy her.

Flo. Deare, looke vp:
Though Forme, visible an Enemie, Should chase vs, with my Father; powre no 10: Hath the to change our Loues. Beleech you (Sir) Remember, fince you ow'd no more to Time Then I doe now: with thought of fuch Affections, Step forth mine Advocate: a your request, My Father will graune precious things, as Trifles.

Los. Would be doe fo, I'ld beg your precious Miffris,

Which he counts but a Trifle. Paul. Sir (my Liege)

Your eye liath too much youth in't : not a month

Fore your Queene dy'd, the was more worth fuch gazes, Then what you looke on now

Leo. I thought of ber, Euen in these Lookes I made. But your Petition Is yet vo-answer'd: I will to your Father: Your Honor not o're-throwne by your defires, I am friend to them, and you: Vpon which Errand I now goe coward him: therefore follow me, And marke what way I make: Come good my Lord

Scana Secunda.

Ester Antolum, and a Gestlemun.

Ant. Befeech you (Sir) were you present at this Relation?

Gent. 1. I was by at the opening of the Farthell, heard the old Shepheard deliver the manner how he found it: Whercupon (after a little amazednesse) we were all commanded out of the Chamber: onely this (me thought) I heard the Shepheard fay, he found the Child.

Am. I would most gladly know the issue of it. Gent. 1. I make a broken deliuerie of the Lufineffe; but the changes I perceived in the King, and Camillo, were very Notes of admiration: they feem'd almost, with Ilaring on one another, to toure the Cases of their Eyes. There was speech in their dumbnesse, Language in their very gesture: they look'd as they had heard of a World ransom'd, or one destroyed: a notable passion of Wonder appeared in them: but the wifest boholder, that knew no more but feeing, could not fay, if th'unportance were loy, or Sorrow: but in the extremitie of the one, it must Enter enother Gentleman. needs be. Here comes a Gentleman, that happily knowes more:

The Mewes, Rogero.

Gent. 2. Nothing but Bon-firesithe Oracle is fulfill'de the Kings Daughter Is found: fuch a deale of wonder is broken out within this house, that Ballad-makers cannot be able to expresse it. Enter another Gentlesson Here comes the Lady Fanlina's Steward, hee can deliver you more. How goes it now (Sir.) This Newes (which is call'd true) is so like an old Tale, that the veritie of it is in strong suspicion: Ha's the King found his Heire?

Gent. 3. Most true, if ever Truth were pregnant by Circumsance: That which you heare, you'le sweare you see, there is such vnitie in the proofes. The Mantle of Queene Hermioner: her lewell about the Neck of it: the Letters of Antigoniu found with it, which they know to be his Character: the Maieffie of the Creature, in resemblance of the Mother: the Affection of Noblencae, which Nature Thewes about her Breeding, and many other Euidences, proclayme her, with all certaintie to be the Kings Daughter. Did you see the meeting of the two Kings?

Gent. 2. No.

Gem. 3. Then have you lost a Sight which was to bee seence annot bee spoken of. There might you have bebeld one loy crowne another, so and in such manner, that it feem'd Sorrow wept to take leave of them: for their loy waded in teares. There was casting up of Eyes, holding up of Hands, with Countenance of fuch diffraction, that they were to be knowne by Garment, not by Fauor.

Our King being ready to leape out of himselfe, for ioy of his found Daughter; as if that loy were now become a Losse, cryes, Oh, thy Mother, thy Mother: then askes Bohomia forginenesse, then embraces his Sonne-in-Law: then againe worryes he his Daughter, with clipping her. Now he thanks the old Shepheard (which flands by, like a Weather-bitten Conduit, of many Kings Reignes.) I never heard of fuch another Encounter; which lames Report to follow it, and vndo's description to doe it.

Gens. 2. What, pray you, became of Antigones, that carryed hence the Child?

Cont. 3. Like an old Tale fill, which will have matter to rehearle, though Credit be alleepe, and not an eare open; he was torne to pieces with a Beare: This avouches the Shepheards Sonne; who has not onely his Icnocence (which seemes much) to instific him, but a Hand-kerchief and Rings of his, that Paulina knowes.

Gent. 1. What became of his Barke, and his Fol-

Gent 3. Wrackt the same instant of their Masters death, and in the view of the Shepheard: fo that all the Instruments which ayded to expose the Child, were even then loft when it was found. But oh the Noble Combat, that 'twixt loy and Sorrow was fought in Paulina. Shee had one Eye declin'd for the losse of her Husband, another eleusted, that the Oracle was fulfill'd: Shee lifted the Princesse from the Earth, and so locks her in embracing, as if thee would pin her to her heart, that thee might no More he in danger of loofing.

Gent. 1. The Dignitie of this Act was worth the audience of Kings and Princes, for by fuch was it afted.

Gent. 3. One of the prettyest touches of all, and that which angl'd for mine Eyes (caught the Water, though not the Fish) was, when at the Relation of the Queenes death (with the manner how shee came to't brauely confela'd, and lamented by the King) how attentiuenesse wounded his Daughter, till (from one figne of dolour to another) shee did (with an Alas) I would faine say, bleed Testes; for I am fure, my heart wept blood. Who was most Marble, there changed colour: fome fwownded, all forrowed: if all the World could have seen't, the Woe had beene vniuerfall.

Gent. 1. Are they returned to the Court?

Gent. 3. No: The Princesse hearing of her Mothers Statue (which is in the keeping of Paulina) a Peece many yeares in doing, and now newly perform'd, by that rare Italian Mafter, Iulio Romano, who (had he himfelte Erernitie, and could put Breath into his Worke) would beguile Nature of her Custome, so perfectly he is her Ape: He so necre to Hermione, hath done Herenione, that they fay one would speake to her, and fland in hope of answer. Thither (with all greedinesse of affection) are they gone, and there they intend to Sup.

Gent. 2. I thought the had fome great matter there in hand, for thee hath privately, twice or thrice a day, ever fince the death of Hermione, visited that removed House. Shall wee thither, and with our companie peece the Re-ioycing?

Gent. 1. Who would be thence, that ha's the benefit of Accesse? cuery winke of an Eye, some new Grace will behorne: our Absence makes vs vnthriftie to our Knowledge, Let's along.

Aut. Now (had I not the dash of my former life in me) would Preferment drop on my head. I brought the old man and his Sonne aboord the Prince; told him, I heard them talke of a Fartheliand I know not what: but he at that time outr-fond of the Shepheards Daughter (To he then tooke her to be) who began to be much Sea-fick, and himselfe little better, extremitie of Weather continuing, this Mysterie remained undiscouer'd. But 'tis all one to me : for had I beene the finder-out of this Secret, it would not have rellish'd among my other discredits. Enter Shepheard and Clowne.

Here come those I have done good to against my will, and alreadic appearing in the blossomes of their For-

Shep. Come Boy, I am past moe Children: but thy Sonnes and Daughters will be all Gentlemen borne.

Clow. You are well met (Sir.) you deny'd to fight with mee this other day, because I was no Gentleman borne. See you these Clothes? say you see them not, and thinke me still no Gentleman borne : You were best fay these Robes are not Gentlemen borne. Give me the Lye: doe: and try whether I am not now a Gentleman borne.

Ant. I know you are now(Sir)a Gentleman borne. Clow. I, and have been fo any time thefe foure houres.

Shep. And so have I, Boy.

Clow. So you have : but I was a Gentleman borne befare my Father: for the Kings Sonne tooke me by the hand, and call'd mee Brother: and then the two Kings call'd my Father Brother: and then the Prince (my Brother) and the Princelle (my Sifter) call'd my Father, Father; and so wee wept : and there was the first Gentleman-like tearesthat euer we fhed.

Shep. We may live (Some) to flied many more.

Clow. I: or elfe twere hard luck, being in fo preposte-

Aut. I humbly befeech you (Sir) to pardon me all the faults I have committed to your Worship, and to give me your good report to the Prince my Master.

Shep. 'Prethee Sonne doe: for we must be gentle, now we are Gentlemen.

Close. Thou will amend thy life?

Aut. I, and it like your good Worship.

Clow. Give me thy hand: I will fweare to the Prince, thou are as honest a true Fellow at any is in Bobenia.

Shep. You may fay it, but not sweare it.

Clow. Not sweate it, now 1 am a Gentleman? Let Boores and Francklins say it, He sweare it,

Shep. How it it be falle (Sonne?)

Clow, If it be ne're fo false, a true Gentleman may sweare it, in the behalfe of his Friend: And Ile sweare to the Prince thou art a tall Fellow of thy hands, and that thou wilt not be drunke; but I know thou art no tall Fellow of thy hands, and that thou wilt be drunke: but lle fweare it, and I would thou would'st be a tall Fellow of thy hands.

Aut. I will proue fo(Sir) to my power.

Clow. I, by any meanes proue a tall Fellow: if I do not wonder, how thou dar it venture to be drunke, not being a tall Fellow, trust me not. Harke, the Kings and the Princes (our Kindred) are going to fee the Queenes Picture. Come, follow vs: wec'le be thy good Mafters. Exeunt.

Scana Tertia.

Enter Leontes, Polixenes, Florizell, Perdita, Camillo, Panlina: Hermione (like a Statue:) Lords Oc. Lee. O grave and good Paulina, the great comfort That I have had of thee?

Paul. What

Paul. What (Souersigne Sir)
I did not well, I meant well: all my Seruices
You have pay'd home. But that you have vouchfat'd (With your Crown'd Brother, and these your contracted Hences of your Kingdomes) my poore House to visit;
It is a surplus of your Grace, which never
My life may last to answere.

Leo. O Paulina,

We bonor you with trouble: but we came
To see the Statue of our Queene, Your Gallerie
Haue we pass'd through, not without much content
In many singularities; but we saw not
That which my Daughter came to looke vpon,
The Statue of her Mother.

Paul. As the liv'd pecteleste,
So her dead likenessed doe well beleeue
Excells what euer yet you look'd vpon,
Or hand of Man hath done: therefore I keepe it
Louely, apart. But here it is: prepare
To see the Life as lively mock'd, as euer
Still Sleepe mock'd Death: behold, and say 'tis well,
I like your silence, it the more shewes-off
Your wonder: but yet speake, first you (my Liege)
Comes it not something neere:

Lea. Hernaturall Posture.
Chide me (deare Stone) that I may say indeed Thou art Hermione; or rather, thou art she, In thy not chiding: for she was as tender As Insanci, and Grace. But yet (Paulina) Hermione was not so much wrinckled, nothing So aged as this seemes.

Pol. Oh,not by much.

Paul. So much the more our Carvers excellence. Which lets goe-by fome fixteene yeeres, and makes her As she liu'd now.

Lee. As now the might have done,
So much to my good comfort, as it is Now piercing to my Soule. Oh, thus the flood,
Euen with fuch Life of Maieflie (warme Life,
As now it coldly flands) when first I woo'd het.
I am a flam'd: Do's not the Stone rebuke me,
For being more Stone then it? Oh Royall Peece:
There's Magick in thy Maieflie, which ha's
My Euils coniur'd to remembrance; and
From thy admiring Daughter tooke the Spirith,
Standing like Stone mith these

Standing like Stone with thee.

Perd. And give me leave,
And doe not fay 'is Superfition, that
I kneele, and then implore her Bleffing. Lady,
Deere Queene, that ended when I but began,
Give me that hand of yours, to kiffe.

Paul. O, patience :

The Statue is but newly fix'd; the Colour's Not dry.

Cars. My Lord, your Sorrow was too fore lay'd-on, Which fixteene Winters cannot blow away, So many Summers dry: fearce any Ioy Did euer fo long live; no Sorrow, But kill'd it felfe much fooner.

Pol. Decre my Brother, Let him, that was the cause of this, have powre To sake-off so much griefe from you, as he Will peece up in himselse.

Panl. Indeed my Lord, If I had thought the fight of my poore Image Would thus have wrought you (for the Stone is mine) Il'd not have thew'd it.

Lee. Doe not draw the Curraine.

Paul. No longer thall you gaze on't least your Fancie
May thinks anon, it moves.

Lee. Let be, let be:

Would I were dead, but that me thinker alreadie.
(What was he that did make it?) See (my Lord)
Would you not deeme it breath'd; and that those veines
Did verily beare blood?

Pol. 'Masterly done:

The very Life seemes warme upon her Lippe.

Leo. The fixure of her Eye ha's motion in't,

As we are mock'd with Art.

Paul. He draw the Curtaine: My Lord's almost so fatte transported, that Hee'le thinke anon it lives.

Leo. Oh Sweet Paulina,

Make me to thinke fo twentie yeeres together the No setled Sences of the World can match The pleasure of that madnesse, Let't alone,

Paul. I am forty (Sir) I have thus farre flir'd you: but I could afflict you farther.

Leo. Doe Panlina:

For this Affiction ha's a talle as fweet
As any Cordiall comfort. Still me thinkes
There is an ayte comes from her. What fine Chizzell
Could ever yet cut breath? Let no man mock me,
For I will kille her.

Paul Good my Lord forbeate:
The ruddinesse you her Lippe, is wet:
You'le marre it, if you kisse it; stayne your owne
With Oyly Palazing: shall I draw the Curtaine.

Les. No: not these twentie yeeres.

Perd. Solong could I Stand-by, a looker-on. Paul. Either forbeare,

Quit presently the Chappell, or tesolue you For more amazement: If you can behold it, The make the Status moue indeed; descend, And take you by the hand: but then you'le thinke (Which I protest against) Lamassisted By wicked Powers.

Lee, What you can make her doe, I am content to looke on: what to speake, I am content to heare: for 'tis as easie To make her speake, as moue.

Paul. It is requir'd
You doe awake your Faith: then, all stand still:
On: those that thinke it is valawfull Businesse
I am about, let them depart.

Les. Proceed: No foot shall stirre.

Paul. Musick; awake her: Strike:
Tis time: descend: be Stone no more: approach:
Strike all that looke vpon with mertaile: Come:
Ile fill your Graue vp: stirre: nay, come away:
Bequeath to Death your numnesses (for from him,
Deare Life redeemes you) you perceuse the stirres:
Start not: her Actions shall be holy, as
You heate my Spell is lawfull: doe not shun her,
Vntill you see her dye againe; for then
You kill her double: Nay, present your Hand:
When she was young, you woo'd her: now, in age,
Is she become the Sustor?

100. Oh the's warme:
If this be Magick, let it be an Art

Law

Lawfull as Eating.

Pol. She embraces him.

Cam. She hangs about his necke, If the pertaine to life, let her speake too.

Pol. I, and make it manifest where she ha's liu'd.

Or how stolne from the dead?

Pand. That she is living, Were it but told you, should be hooted at Like an old Tale : but it appeares she lives, Though yet the fpeake not. Marke a little while: Please you to interpose (faire Madam) kneele, And pray your Mothers bleffing : turne good Lady, Our Perdira is found.

Her. You Gods looke downe, And from your facted Viols poure your graces Vpon my daughters head a Tell me (mine owne) Where half thou bin preferu'd? Whereliu'd? How found Thy Fathers Court? For thou shalt heare that 1 Knowing by Panlina, that the Oracle Gaue hope thou wast in being, have preseru'd

My felfe, to fee the yffue.

Paul, There's time enough for that, Leaft they delite (vpon this push) to trouble Your loyes, with like Relation. Go together You precious winners all : your exultation Partake to eucry one: I (an old Turtle) Will wing me to some wither'd bough, and there My Mate (that's neuer to be found againe) Lament, till I am loft.

Leo. O peace Paulina: Thou shoulds a husband take by my consent, As I by thine a Wife. This is a Match, And made betweene's by Vowes. Thou haft found mine, But how, is to be question'd : for I saw her (As I thought) dead : and have (in vaine) faid many A prayer vpon her graue. Ile not seeke farre (For him, I pattly know his minde) to finde thee An honourable husband. Come Camillo, And take her by the hand: whose worth, and honesty Is richly noted: and heere justified By Vs, a paire of Kings. Let's from this place. What? looke vpon my Brother : both your pardons, That ere I put betweene your holy lookes My ill suspicion: This your Son-in-law, And Sonne vnto the King, whom heavens directing Is troth-plight to your daughter. Good Pauling, Leade vs from hence, where we may leyfurely Each one demand, and answere to his pare Perform'd in this wide gap of Time, fince firft We were diffeuer'd : Haftily lead away. Exemps

The Names of the Actors.

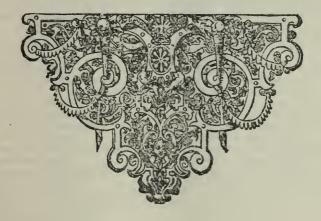

Eontes, King of Sicillia. Mamillus, jong Prince of Sicillia

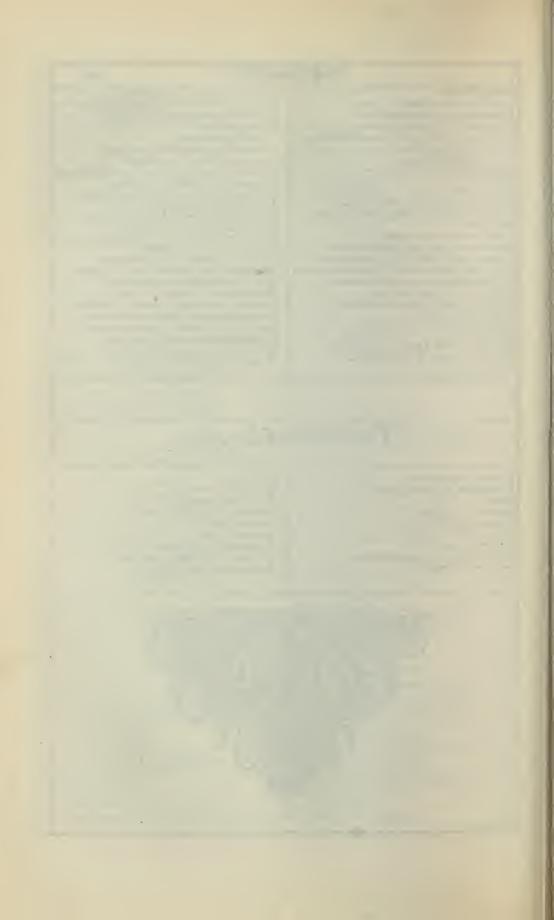

Antigonus. | Foure Cleomines. | Lordt of Sicilia. Dine.

Hermione, Queene to Leontes. Perdita, Daughier to Leontes and Heristone.

Paulina, wife to Antigonus

Emilia, a Lady. Polixenes, King of Bobemia. Florizell, Prince of Bobemia. Old Shepheard, repaired Father of Perdita Clowne, his Sonne. Antolicus, a Rogne. Archidanins, a Lord of Bohemia. Other Lords, and Gentlemen, and Seruanis. Shepheards, and Shephearddelles. FINIS.

The life and death of Kinglohn.

Actus Primus, Scana Prima.

Enter King John, Queene Elinor, Perihroke, Effex, and Salubury, with the Chattylion of France.

King John.

Reference with vs?

Chat. Thus (after greeting) fpcakes the King of France,

The borrowed Maiefly of England heere.
Elso. A strange beginning a borrowed Maiefly?

K. Iohn. Sileace (good mother) heare the Embassile.
Chat. Philip of France, in right and true behalfe.
Of thy deceased brother, Geffreyer sonne,
Arthur Plantaginet, laies most lawfull claime
To this faire lland, and the Territories:
To Ireland, Possiers, Anione, Toragne, Maine,

To Ireland, Positiers, Anione, Toragne, Maine,
Defiring thee to lay eside the sword
Which swaies vsurpingly the secure all titles,
And put the same into yong Arthurs hand,
Thy Nephew, and right royall Squeraigne.
K. John. What followes sewe disallow of this?

Char. The prond edutrole of flures and bloudy warre,
To inforce these rights to forcibly with-held,
K.Jo. Here have we war for war, & bloud for bloud, Controlement for controlement: fo answer France.

Chas. Then take my Kings defiance from my mouth,

The farthest limit of my Embassic.

K. lohn. Beare mine to him, and so depart in peace,
Be thou'as lightning in the eies of France;
For ere thou canst report, I will be there:

The thunder of my Cannon shall be heard. So hence : be thou the trumpet of our wrath, And sullen presage of your owne decay: An honourable conduct let him have,

An honourable conduct let him have,

Pembroke looke too't: ferewell Charillion.

Exil Char and Pem.

Ele. What how my fonne, have I not ever faid How that ambitious Conitance would not cease.
Till the had kindled France and all the world,
Vpon the right and party of her fonne.
This might have beene prevented, and made whole With very easle arguments of love,
Which now the mannage of two kingdomes must with searcfull bloudy usure arbitrate.

K. John. Our strong possession, and our right for vs.

Fli. Your strong possession much more then your right,

Or else it must go wrong with you and me,

So much my conseience whispers in your ears,

Which none but heaven, and you, and I, shall heare.

Enter a Sheriffe.

Effex. My Liege, here is the strangest controverse Come from the Country to be judged by you That ere I heard: shall I produce the men? K. Joba. Let them approach:

Our Abbies and our Priories thall pay
This expeditious charge: what men are you?

Enter Robert Faulconbridge, and Philip.
Philip. Your faithfull fubiect, I agentleman
Rotne in Northamptonfhire, and eldest sonne
As I suppose, to Robert Faulconbridge,
A Souldier by the Honor-guing-hand
Of Cordelion Knighted in the field.

K. John. What attthou?

Robert. The fon and herre to that fame Fauleenbridge K. labn 1s that the elder, and art thou the heyre? You came not of one mother then it feemes.

Philip, Most certain of one mother, mighty King, That is well knowne, and as I thinke one father:
But for the certaine knowledge of that truth,
I put you ore to heaven, and to my mother;
Of that I doubt, as all mens children may.

Eli. Out on thee rude man, & dost shame thy mother, And wound her honor with this diffidence.

Phil. I Madaine? No.1 have no rection for it.
That is my brothers plea, and none of mine.
The which if he can prove, a pops me out,
At least from faire five hundred pound a yeere:
Heaven guard my mothers honor, and my Land.

R. John. A good blunt fellow: why being yonger borre Doth he lay elaime to thine inheritance?

Phil. I know not why, except to get the land:
But once hestlanderd me with bastardy.
But where I be as true begot or no,
That still I lay vpon my mothers head,
But that I am as well begot my Liege
(Faire fall the bones that tooke the paines for me)
Compare our faces, and be ludge your selfe
If old Sir Robert did beget vs both,
And were our father, and this soone like him:
O old sir Robert Father, on my knee
I give have thankes I was not like to thee.

R. Ishm. Why what a made cap hath heaven lent vs here?

Elm. He hath a tricke of Condelians face,

The secont of his tongue affecteth him:

Doe you not reed some tokens of my some In the large composition of this man?

K. lob

K. John. Mine eye hath well examined his parts, And findes them perfect Riebard : fura fpeake, What dorn move you to claime your brothers land.

Philip. Because he hath a half-face like my father: With halfe that face would be have all my land . A halfe-fac'd groat, five hundred pound a yeere?

Rob. My gracious Liege, when that my father liu'd, Your brother did imploy my father much.

Phil. Well fir, by this you cannot get my land, Your tale must be how he employ'd my mother.

Rob And once dispatch'd him in an Embaffie To Germany, there with the Empetor To treat of high affaires touching that time : Th'advantage of his absence tooke the King, And in the meane time followm'd at my fathers; Where how he did preuaile, I shame to speake: But truth is truth, large lengths of leas and shores Betweene my father, and my mother lay As I have heard my father speake himselfe When this same lusty gentleman was got: Vpon his death-bed he by will bequeath d His lands to me, and tooke it on his death That this my mothers some was oone of his; And if he were, he came into the world Full fourteene weekes before the course of time :

Then good my Liedge leame have what is mine, My fathers land, as was my fathers will. K. John. Sirra, your brother is Legittimate.

Your fathers wife did after wedlocke heare him: And if the did play falle, the tault was here, Which fault lyes on the bazards of all husbands That marry wives : tell me, how if my brother Who as you fay, tooke paines to get this fonce, Had of your father claim'd this forme for his, Infooth, good friend, your father might have kept This Calle, bred from his Cow from all the world . Infooth he might: then if he were my brothers My brother might not claime him, not your father Being bone of hu, refuse him: this concludes, My mothers sonne did get your fathers heyre, Your fathers heyre must have your fathers land.

Rob. Shal then my fathers Will be of no force, To dispossesse that childe which is not his. Phil. Of no more force to dispossesse me fir,

Then was his will to get me, as I think. Els. Whether hadft thou rather be a Faulcoubridge,

And like thy brother to enjoy thy land: Or the reputed sonne of Cordelion Lord of thy presence, and no land belide.

Baft. Madam, and if my brother had my Chape And I had his, fir Roberts his like him, And if my legs were two fuch riding rods, My armes, such cele-skins stuft, my face so thin, That in mine eare I durst noi flicke a role, Lest men should fay, looke where three farthings goes, And to his shape were heyre to all this land, Would I might never flirre from off this place, I would give it every foot to have this face: It would not be fir nobbe in any cafe.

Elinor. I like thee well: witt thou forfake thy fortune, Bequeath thy land to him, and follow me? I am a Souldier, and now bound to France.

Baff. Brother, take you my land, Ilc take my chances Your face hath got five hundred pound a yeere, | Yet fell your face for five pence and 'tis decre: Madam, Ile follow you vnto the death.

Elmor. Nay, I would have you go before me thirtes. Balt. Our Country manners give our betters way. K.John. What is thy name! Baft. Philip my Liege, lo is my name begun.

Philo, good old Sir Robers wives eldeft sonne. K lohn. From henceforth beare his name

Whole forme thou bearest

Kneele thou downe Philip, bucille more great, Arise Sit Richard, and Planiagenes

Baff. Brother by th mothers fide, give me your hand, My father gaue me honor, yours gaue land : Now bleffed be the house by night or day When I was got, Sir Robert was away.

Ele The very spirit of Planagines:

I am thy grandame Richard, call me fo.
Baft. Madam by chance, bur not by truth, what tho: Something about a little from the right, In at the window, or elfe ore the liatch: Who dates not flitte by day, must walke by night, And have is have, how ever men doc earch: Neere or facre off. well wonne is still well shor, And I am I, howere I was begot.

K. John. Goe, Faulcontridee, now hall thou thy defire, Almdleffe Knight, makes thee a landed Squite ! Come Madani, and come Richard, we mult speed For France, for France, for it is more then need.

Baft Brother adieu, good fortune come to thee, For thou wast got ith way of honesty.

Exeuns all bus baffard.

Baft. A foot of Honor better then I vizz But many a many foot of Land the worfe. Well, now can I make any leave a Lady. Good den Sit Richard, Godamercy fellow, And if his name be George, He call him Peter, For new made honor doth lorget mens names: Tis two respective, and too sociable For your conversion, now your traveller, Hee and his tooth-picke at my worships meste, And when my knightly stomacke is suffis'd, Why then I fucke my teeth, and catechize My picked man of Countries: my deate fir, Thus leaning on mine elbow I begin, I shall befeech you; that is question now, And then comes answer like an Absey booke: Ofir, fayes answer, at your best command, At your employment, at your feruice fir: No fir, faies question, I fweet fir ac yours, And so ere answer knowes what question would, Sauing in Dialogue of Complement, And talking of the Alpes and Appenines, The Perennean and the river Por It drawes toward supper in condusion so, But this is worthipfull fociety, And fits the mounting spirit like my selfe; For he is but a bastard to the time That doth not smoake of observation. And fo am I whether I fmacke or no: And not alone in habit and device. Exterior forme, outward accourrement; But from the inward motion to deliver Sweet, fweet, fweet poylon for the ages tooth, Which though I will not practice to deceive, Yet so avoid deceit I meane to learne; For it shall frew the foothers of my rising: But who comes in such haste in riding robes?

What woman post is this? hath the no husband That will take paines to blow a horne beforether? O me, 'tis my mother: how now good Lady, What brings you heere to Court so hastily?

Enter Lady Fullconbridge and lames Gurney.

Lady. Where is that flaue thy brother? where is he? That holds in chase mine honour vp and downe.

Baft. My brother Robert, old Sir Roberts sonne: Colbrand the Gyant, that same mighty man, Is it Sir Roberts sonne that you seeke so?

Lady. Sin Roberts sonne, I thou vineuerend boy, Sit Roberts sonne? why scorn'st thou at sit Robert? He is Sit Roberts sonne, and so att thou.

Bast. Sames Gournie, wilt thou give'vs leave a while?
Gour. Good leave good Philm.

Gour. Good leave good Philip. Baft. Philip, Sparrow, lames,

There's toyes abroad, snon lie tell thee more.

Madam, I was not old Sir Roberts fonne,
Sir Roberts might have eat his part in me
Vpon good Friday, and nere broke his fait:
Sir Robert could doe well, matrie to confesse
Could get me fit Robert could not doe it;
We know his handy-worke, therefore good mother
To whom am I beholding for these limmes?
Sir Robert neuer holpe to make this legge.

Lady. Hast thou conspired with thy brother too, That for thine owne gaine shouldst desend mine honor? What meanes this scome, thou most vntoward knaue?

Bail. Knight, knight good mother, Basilisco-like: What, I am dub'd, I haue it on my shoulder: But mother, I am not Sir Roberts sonne, I haue disclaim'd Sir Robert and my land, Legitimation, name, and all is gone; Then good my mother, let me know my father, Some proper man I hope, who was it mother?

Lady. Haft thou denied thy felfe a Faulconbridge?

Baft. As faithfully as I denie the deuill.

Lady. King Richard Cordelion was thy father,

By long and vehement fuit I was feduc'd

To make roome for him in my husbands bed:
Heauen lay not my transgreffion to my charge,
That art the iffue of my deere offence

Which was so strongly vrg'd past my defence. Baft. Now by this light were I to get againe, Madam I would not with a better father t Some finnes doe beare their priviledge on earth, And fo-doth yours : your fault, was not your follie, Needs must you lay your heart at his dispose, Sublected tribute to commanding love, Against whose furie and annatched force, The swiesse Lion could not wage the fight Nor keepe his Princely heart from Richards hand: He that perforce robs Lions of their hearts, May eafily winne a womans: age my mother With all my heart I thanke thee for my father : Who lives and dares but fay, thou didft not well When I was got. He fend his foule to hell. Come Lady I will shew thee to my kinne, And they shall say, when Richard me begot, If thou hadft sayd him nay, it had beene finne; Who fayes it was, he lyes, I fay twas not.

Exeunt.

Scana Secunda.

Exter before Angiers, Philip King of France, Lewis, Daulphin, Austria, Confrance, Arthur.

Lowis. Before Angiers well met braue Auftria,
Arthur that great fore-runner of thy bloud,
Richard that rob'd the Lion of his heart,
And fought the holy Warres in Palefine,
By this braue Duke came early to his grage:
And for amends to his posteritie,
At our importance hether is he come,
To spread his colours boy, in thy behalfe,
And to rebuke the viurpation
Of thy vanaturall Vacle, English Isha,
Embrace him, loue him, give him welcome hether,

Arth. God shall for give you Cordelions death
The rather, that you give his off-spring life,
Standowing their right under your wings of warres
I give you welcome with a powerleffe hand,
But with a heart full of vostained love,
Welcome before the gates of Angiers Duke.

Lewis. A noble boy, who would not doe thee right?

Asf. Vpon thy cheeke lay I this zelous kiffe.

As feale to this indenture of my loue:

That to my home I will no more returne

Till Angiers, and the right thou hast in France,

Together with that pale, that white-fac'd shore.

Whose foot spurmes backe the Oceans roaring tides,

And coopes from other lands her Ilanders,

Euen till that England hedg'd in with the maine,

That Water-walled Bulwarke, still secure

And consider from forreine purposes,

Euen till that vtmost corner of the West

Salute thee for her King, till then saire boy

Will I not thinke of home, but follow Armes.

Conft. O take his mothers thanks, a widdows thanks, Till your strong hand shall helpe to give him strength, To make a more requitall to your love.

Anst. The peace of heaven is theirs ŷ list their swords In such a inst and charitable warre.

King. Well, then to worke our Cannon shall be bent Against the browes of this resisting towns, Call for our cheefest men of discipline, To call the plots of best advantages:

Wee'll lay before this townse our Royal bones, Wade to the market-place in French-mens bloud, But we will make it subject to this boy.

Con. Stayfor an enswer to your Embessie, Left vnaduis'd you staine your swords with bloud, My Lord Chartillon may from England bring That right in peace which heere we vrge in warre, And then we shall repent each drop of bloud, That hot rash haste lo indirectly shedde.

Enter Chattilion.

Kong. A wonder Lady:lo vpon thy wish

Our Messenger Chattilion is arriv'd,

What England sizes, say breefely gentle Lord,

We coldly pause for thee, Chatilion speake,

Char. Then turne your forces from this paltry fiege, And stirre them up against a mightier taske:

England impatient of your just demands,

Hath put himselse in Armes, the adverse windes

Whole

Wholeleifure I haue flaid, haue given him time To land his Legions all as foone as 1. His marches are expedient to this towne , His forces Rrong, his Souldiess confident 1 With him along is come the Mother Queene, An Ace stirring him to bloud and strife With her her Neece, the Lady Blanch of Spaine, With them a Baftard of the Kings deceaft, And ell th'unfetled humors of the Land, Rash, inconsiderace, fiery voluntaries, With Ladies faces, and fierce Dragons Spleenes, Haue fold their fortunes at their natiue homes, Bearing their birth-rights proudly on their backs, To make a hazard of new fortunes heere In briefe, a brauer choyle of dauntlesse spirits Then now the English bottomes have wast o'te, Did neuer flote vpon the swelling tide. To doe offence and scathe in Christendome : The interruption of their churlish drums Cuts off more circumstance, they are at hand, Drum tegts.

To parlie or to fight, therefore prepare.

Kin. How much vnlook d for, is this expedition.

Auft By how much vnexpected, by so much

We must awake indeuor for defence,

For courage mounteth with occasion,

Let them be welcome then, we are prepar'd.

Enter K. of England, Baftard, Queene, Blanch, Pembrake, and others.

K.lohn. Peace be to France: If France in peace permit Our just and lineall entrance to our owne; If not, bleede France, and peace ascend to heaven. Whiles we Gods wrathfull agent doe correct Their proud contempt that beats his peace to heaven.

Fran. Peace be to England, if that warre returne From France to England, there to live in peace: England we love, and for that Englands fake, With burden of our armor heere we fwest: This toyle of ours should be a worke of thine; But thou from louing England art to farre, That thou haft under-wrought his lawfull King, Cut off the sequence of posterity, Out-faced Infant State, and done a rape Vpon the maiden vertue of the Crowne: Looke heere vpon thy brother Geffreyes face, Thefe eyes, thefe browes, were moulded out of his; This little abstract doth contains that large, Which died in Goffrey and the hand of time Shall draw this breefe into as huge a volume: That Geffrey was thy elder brother borne, And this his fonne, England was Geffreys right, And this is Coffreger in the name of God: How comes it then that thou art call'd a King, When living blood doth in thefe temples bear Which owe the crowne, that thou ore-masteres?

K. Ichn. From whom hall thou this great commission.
To draw my answer from thy Articles?

(France

Fre. Fro that supernal sudge that sire good thoughts in any beast of strong authoritie,
To looke into the blots and staines of right.
That sudge hath made me guardian to this boy
Vider whose warrant a impeach thy wrong,
And by whose helps I meane to chastise to.

R. John. Alack thou dost vsurpe authoritie.

Pran. Excuse it is to beat vsurping downe.

Queen. Who is a thou dost call vsurper France?

Const. Let me make answer: thy vsurping sonne.

Queen. Out insolent, thy bastard shall be King.

That thou mais be a Queen, and checke the world.

Com. My bed was ever to thy some as true
As thine was to thy husband, and this boy
Liker in seature to his father Gestrey
Then thou and John, in manners being as like.
As raine to water, or deuill to his damme;
My boy a bastard? by my soule I thinke
His sather neuer was so true begot.
It cannot be and if thou were his mother.

Queen. There's a good mother boy, that blocs thy fa-

That would blot thee.

Aust. Peace.
Bast. Heare the Cryet.

Auft. What the devill art thou?

Baft. One that wil play the deuill fir with you. And a may catch your hide and you alone. You are the Hare of whom the Prouerb goes Whose valour placks dead Lyons by the beard; Ile smoake your skin-coat and I catch you right. Sirra looke 200's, yfaith I will, yfaith.

Blan. O well did he become that I your robe, That did difrobe the Lion of that robe.

Bast. It lies as fightly on the backe of him.
As great Alcider snoots upon an Asse:
But Asse, lie take that burthen from your backe,
Or lay on that shall make your shoulders cracke.

Auft. What cracker is this fame that deafes our eares With this abundance of superfluous breath? King Lewis, determine what we shall doe strait.

Lew. Women & fooles, breake off your conference.
King Ichn, this is the very fumme of all:
England and Ireland. Angiers, Toraine, Maine,
In right of Arthur doe I claime of thee.
Wile thou refigoe them, and by downe thy Armes?

Ichm. My life as foone: I doe deficitee France,
Arthur of Britaine, yeeld thee to my hand,
And out of my deere love Ile give thee more,
Then ere the coward hand of France can win;
Submit thee boy.

Queen. Come to thy grandame child.

Conf. Doe childe, goe to yt grandame childe,
Giue grandame kingdome, and it grandame will Giue yt a plum, a cherry, and a figge,
There's a good grandame.

Arthur, Good my mother peace,
I would that I were low laid in my graue,
I am not worth this coyle that's made for me. (weepes.

Qu. Mo. His mother shames him so, poore boy hee
Con. Now shame vpon you where she does or no.
His grandames wrongs, and not his mothers shames
Drawes those heauen mouing pearles fro his poor eies,
Which heauen shall take in nature of a fee:
I, with these Christall beads heauen shall be brib'd
To doe him suffice, and revenge on you.

Qu. Thon monstrous stenderer of heaven and earth.
Con. Thou monstrous Injurer of heaven and earth,
Call not me standerer, thou and thine vsurpe
The Dominations, Royalties, and rights
Of this oppressed boy; this is thy eldest sonne,
Infortunate in nothing but in thee:

Thy

Thy finnes are visited in this poore childe, The Canon of the Law is laide on him, Being but the second generation Removed from thy finne-conceiving wombe.

Tobn. Bedlam haus done.
Con. I haue but this to fay,
That he is not onely plagued for her fin,
But God hath made her finne and her, the plague
On this remoued iffue, plagued for her,
And with her plague her finne: his iniury
Her iniurie the Beadle to her finne,
All punth'd in the perfon of this childe,
And all for her, a plague vpon her.

Que. Thou vnaduifed scold, I can produce
A Will, that barres the title of thy sonne.
Con. I who doubts that, a Will: a wicked will,
A womans will, a cankred Grandams will.

Fra. Peace Lady, pause, or be more temperate, It ill beseemes this presence to cry ayme
To these ill tuned repetitions:
Some Trumpet summon hither to the walles
These men of Angiers, let vs heare them speake,
Whose title they admit, Ariburs or Johns.

Trumpet founds.

Enter a Citizen upon the walles.

Cit. Who is it that both warn d vs to the walles?

Fra. Tis Prance, for England.

Iohn. England for it felfe.

You men of Angiers, and my louing subjects.

Fra. You louing men of Angiers, Archar subjects,
Our Trumpet call'd you to this gentle parle.

lahn. For our aduantage, therefore heare vs full. Thefe flagges of France that are advanced heere Before the eye and prosped of your Towne, Have hither march'd to your endamagement. The Canons have their bowels full of wrath, And ready mounted are they to spit forth Their Iron indignation 'gainst your walles i All preparation for a bloody fiedge And mereiles proceeding, by these French. Comfort yours Citties eies, your winking gares: Andbut for our approch, those sleeping stones, That as a walte doth girdle you about By the compulsion of their Ordinance, By this time from their fixed beds of lime Had bin dishabited, and wide hauocke made For bloody power to rush vppon your peace. But on the light of vs your lawfull King, Who painefully with much expedient march Haue brought a counter-checke before your gates, To faue vnicratch'd your Cittles threatned cheekes: Behold the French amaz'd vouchfase a parle, And now insteed of bulletts wrapt in fire To make a shaking seuer in your walles, They shoote but calme words, folded vp in smoake, To make a faithleffe errour in your eares, Which trust accordingly kinde Cittizens, And let vs in. Your King, whose labour'd spirits Fore-wearied in this action of swift speede, Craues harbourage within your Citie walles.

France. When I have faide, make answer to vs bothLoe in this right hand, whose protection
Is most divinely vow'd vpon the right
Of him it holds, stands yong Plansagenes,
Some to the elder brother of this man,

And King ore him, and all that he enioyes: For this downe-troden equity, we tread In warlike march, these greenes before your Towne, Being no further enemy to you Then the constraint of hospitable zeale, In the releefe of this oppressed childe, Religiously prouokes. Be pleased then To pay that dutie which you truly owe, To him that owes it, namely, this yong Prince, And then our Armes, like to a muzled Beare, Saue in aspect, hath all offence feal'd vp : Our Cannons malice vainly shall be spent Against th'involverable clouds of heaven. And with a bleffed and vn-vext retyre, With vnhack'd (words, and Helmets all vnbruis'd, We will beare home that luftie blood againe, Which heere we came to spout against your Towne, And leave your children, wives, and you in peace But if you fondly palle out proffer'd offer, Tis not the rounder of your old-fac'd walles, Can hide you from our meffengers of Warre, Though all these English, and their discipline Were harbour'd in their rude eircumference : Then tell vs. Shall your Citie call vs Lord, In that behalfe which we have challeng'd it? Or shall we give the signall to our rage, And flalke in blood to our poffession?

Cu. In breefe, we are the King of Englands fubices
For him, and in his right, we hold this Towne.

lobn. Acknowledge then the King, and let me in.
Cit. That can we not: but he that proves the King
To him will we prove loyall, till that time
Have we ramm'd up our gates against the world.

John. Doth not the Crowne of England, produc the King /

And if not that, I bring you Witnesses
Twice fifteene thousand hearts of Englands breed
Bast. Bastards and else.

John. To verifie our title with their lives.

Fran. As many and as well-borne bloods as those. Bast. Some Bastards too.

Fran. Stand in his face to contradict his claime.

Cit. Till you compound whole right is worthieft,
We for the worthieft hold the right from both.

Tobn. Then God forgine the finne of all those soules,
That to their enertasting residence,
Reference day of evening fell. (hall steep

Before the dew of cuening fall, shall fleete In dreadfull triall of our kingdomes King.

Fran. Amen, Amen, mount Cheualiers to Atmes.

Baft. Saint George that swindg'd the Dragon,
And ere since sit's on's horsebacke at mine Hostesse dote
Teach vs some sence. Sirrah, were I at home
At your den sirrah, with your Lionnesse,
I would set an Oxe-head to your Lyons hide:

And make a monster of you.

Auft. Peace, no more.

Baß. O tremble: for you heare the Lyon rore.

10bm. Vp higher to the plaine, where we'l fet forth
In best appointment all our Regiments.

Baft. Speed then to take advantage of the field, Fra. It shall be so, and at the other hill

Command the rest to stand, God and our right, Exeunt Heure after excursions, Enter the Herald of France with Trumpets to the gates.

F. Her. You men of Angiers open wide your gates, And let yong Arthur Duke of Britaine in,

As3

Who

Who by the hand of France, this day hath made Much worke for tearer in many an English mother, Whose sonnesslye scattered on the bleeding ground a Many a widdowes husband groueling lies, Coldly embracing the discoloured earth, And vistorie with little losse doth play Vpon the dancing banners of the French, Who are at hand triumphantly displayed To enter Conquerors, and to proclaime Aribur of Britaine, Englands King, and yours.

Enest English Herald with Trumpot. E. Her Reloyce you men of Angiers, ring your bels, King John, your king and Englands, doch approach, Commander of this hot malicious day Their Armours that march'd hence lo filuer bright, Hither returne all gilt with Frenchmens blood There Rucke no plume in any English Creft, That is removed by a staffe of France . Our colours do returne in those same hands That did display them when we first marche forth And like a fally troope of Huntimen come Our lustie English, all with purpled hands, Dide in the dying flaughter of their foes, Open your gates, and give the Victors way Hubert. Heralds, from off our towres we might behold From first to last, the on-fet and retyre . Of both your Armies, whose equality By our best eyes cannot be censured : (blowes. Blood bath bought blood, and blowes have answerd Strength matcht with strength, and power confronted power.

Both are alike, and both alike we like.
One must prove greatest. While they weigh so even.
We hold our Towne for neither: yet for both.

Enter the two Kings with their powers, as fewerall doores.

John. France, hast thou yet more blood to cast away?
Say, shall the current of our right rome on,
Whose passage vert with thy impediment,
Shall leave his native channell, and ore-swell with course disturbed even thy confining shores.
Vnlesse thouse his silver Water, keepe
A peacefull progresse to the Ocean.

Fra. England thou hast not sau'd one drop of blood. In this hot trial! more then we of France,
Rather lost more. And by this hand I sweare.
That swayes the earth this Climate oner-lookes,
Before we will lay downe our just-borne Armes,
Wee'l put thee downe, gainst whom these Armes wee.
Or adde a royall number to the dead: (beare,
Gracing the scroule that tels of this warres losse,

With flaughter coupled to the name of kings.

Baff. Ha Maiefty: how high thy glory towres,
When the rich blood of kings is fet on fitt:
Oh now doth death line his dead chaps with fleele,
The fwords of fouldiers are his teeth, his phangs,
And now he feafts, mousing the flesh of men
In vndetermin'd differences of kings.
Why stand these royall fronts amazed thus:
Cry hauncke kings, backet to the stained field
You equall Potents, ficrie kindled spirits,
Then let consusion of one part confirm
The others peace: till then, blowes, blood, and death.

Iahn. Whose party do the Townessmen yet admit?

Fra. Specke Critzens for England, who feyour king.

Hub. The king of England, when we know the king.

Fra. Know him in va, that heere hold vp his right.

Iohn. In Vs., that are our owne great Deputie,

And beare polletion of our Person house,

Lord of our presence Angiers, and of you.

Fra. A greater powrethen We denies all this,

And till it be vindoubted, we do locke

Our former scrupte in our strong barr'd gates:

Kings of our feare, vinith our fearer resolu'd

Be by some certaine king, purg'd and depor'd.

Baft. By beaven, these scroyles of Anglers floor yeur And fland fecurely on their battelments, (Kings, As in a Theater, whence they gape and point At your industrious Scenes and acts of death. Your Royall presences be rul'd by mee, Do like the Mutines of lerufalem, Be friends a-while, and both conjoyntly bend Your harpest Deeds of malice on this Towne. By East and West let France and England mount. Their battering Canon charged to the mouther, Till their foule-fearing clamours have braul'd downe The flintie ribbes of this contemptuous Citie, I'de play incessantly upon these sades, Even till unsenced desolation Leave them as naked as the vulgar ayre: That done, diffeuer your valled Arengths, And part your mingled colours once againe. Turneface to face, and bloody point to point: Then in a moment Fortune shall cull forth Our of one fide her happy Minion, To whom in fauour the shall give the day, And kiffe him with a glorlous victory: How like you this wilde counfell mighty States, Smackes it not formething of the policie Iohn. Now by the sky that hangs above our heads, I like it well. France, shall we knit our powres, And lay this Angiers even with the ground, Then after fight who shall be king of it?

Baft. And if thou hast the mettle of a king,
Being wrong das we are by this pecurih Towne:
Turne shouthe mouth of thy Artilleric.
As we will ours, against these sawcie walles,
And when that we have dash dthem to the ground,
Why then desire each other, and pell-mell,
Make worke upon our selves, for heaven or hell.

Fra. Let it be so: say, where will you affault?

John. We from the West will send destruction lato this Cities besome.

Auft. I from the North.

Fran. Our Thunder from the South, Shall raine their drift of bullets on this Towns.

Baf. O prudent discipline! From North to South: Austria and France shoot in each others mouth, Ile stirre them to it: Come, away, away, Hub. Heare vs great kings, vouchfafe awhile to flay And I shall shew you peace, and faire-fac'd league: Win you this Citie without stroke, or wound. Rescue those breathing lives to dye in beds, That beere come factifices for the field. Persever not, but beare me mighty kings.

John. Speake on with sauout, we are bent to beare.

Hub. That daughter there of Spaine, the Lady Blanch Is neare to England, looke upon the yeeres Of Lemes the Dolphin, and that lovely maid. If luftle love should go in quest of beautic,

Where

Where should be finde it fairer, then in Blanch : If zealous love should go in search of vertue, Whate should be finde is puter then in Blanch? If leve ambitious, fought a march of birth, Whose veines bound richer blood then Lady Blanch? Such as the is, in beautie, vertue, birth, Is the yong Dolphin every way compleat, If not compleat of, isy he is not shee. And the againe wants nothing, to name want, If want it benot, that the is not hee: Heisthe halfe part of a bleffed man, Left to be finished by such as shee, And she a faire dluided excellence, Whole fulnelle of perfection lyes in him. O two fuch filver currents when they joyne Do glorifie the bankes that bound them in : And two fuch shores, to two fuch streames made one, Two fuch controlling bounds shall you be, kings, To these two Princes, if you marrie them: This Vnloa shall do more then batterie can To our fast closed gates : for at this match, With swifter spleene then powder can enforce The mouth of passage shall we sling wide ope, And give you entrance : but without this match, The fea enraged is not halfe to deafe, Lyons more confident, Mountaines and rockes More free from motion, no not death himfelfe In mortall furie halfe so peremptorie, As we to keepe this Citie.

Baff. Heeres a fray,
That thakes the rotten carkasse of old death
Out of his tagges. Here's a large mouth indeede,
That spits forth death, and mountaines, rockes, and scas,
Talkes as samiliarly of roaring Lyons.
As maids of thirteene do of puppi-dogges.
What Cannoneere bogot this suffice blood.
He speakes piaine Cannon fire, and smoake, and bounce,
He gives the baskinado with his tongue:
Our cares are cudges d, not a word of his
But buffers better shen a fift of France:
Zounds, I was never so bethumpt with words,
Since I first calld my brothers father Dad.

Old Qu. Son, lift to this conjunction, make this match Give with our Neece a downle large enough. For by this knot, thou shalt so surely tye. Thy now unfur deflurance to the Crowne, That yon greene boy shall have no Sunne torspe. The bloome that promiseth a mightie fruite. I see a yeelding in the lookes of France:
Marke how they whisper, vrge them while their soules. Are capeable of this ambition,
Least zease now melted by the windie breath Oslos petitions, pittle and remorfe, Coole and congeale againe to what it was.

Hob. Why answer not the double Maiesties,

This friendly treatie of our threatned Towns.

Pro. Speake England first, that hash bin forward first
To speake anto this Cittle: what say you?

foim. If that the Dolphin there thy Princely fonne,
Can in this booke of beautic read, I love :
Her Downie hall weigh equall with a Queene :
For Angiers, and faire Toraine Maine, Portiors,
And all that we vpon this fide the Sea,
(Except this Cittienow by vs befiedged)
Finde liable to our Crowne and Dignitic,
Shall gild her bridall bed and make her rich

In titles, honors, and promotions,
As she in beautic, education, blood,
Holdes hand with any Princesseos the world.
Fra. What sai'st thou boy! looke in the Ladies sace.
Dol. I do my Lord, and in her cie I find
A wonder, or a wondrous miracle,
The shadow of my selfe form'd in her cye,
Which being but the shadow of your sonne,
Becomes a sonne and makes your sonne a shadow:
I do protess I never lou'd my selfe
Till now, infixed I beheld my selfe,
Drawne in the fiattering table of her cie.

Whisper: with Blanch.

Baft. Drawne in the flattering table of her eic,
Hang'd in the frowning wrinkle of her brow,
And quarter'd in her heart, hee doth espie
Himselse louestraytot, this is pittie now;
That hang'd, and drawne, and quarter'd there should be
In such a loue, so vile a Loue as he,

Blav. My workles will in this respect is mine.
If he see ought in you that makes him like,
That any thing he see's which moves his liking,
I can with east exensiste is to my will:
Or if you will, to speake more properly.
I will enforce it eastle to my love.
Further I will not flatter you, my Lord
That all I see in you is worthie love,
Then this, that nothing do I see in you.
Though churlish thoughts themselves should bee your ludge.

That I can finde, thould merit any hate.

Thought the state of the state o

Blon. That the is bound inhonor fill to do
What you in wifedome fill vouchfafe to fay.
Ichn. Speake then Prince Dolphin, can you loue this

Dol. Nay aske me if I can refraine from love,
For I doe love her most unfainedly.

Ichn. Then do I give Volquessen, Torchie, Maine, Popsiers, and Aniow, those sive Provinces
With her to thee, and this addition more,
Full thirty thousand Markes of English coyne.
Phillip of France, if thou be pleaf a withall,
Command thy some and doughter to joyne hands.

Fra. It likes vs well young Princes: clase your hands
Aust. And your lippes too, for I am well assured,
That I did so when I was first effor'd.

Fra. Now Cittizens of Angires ope your gates, Let in that amitie which you have made, For at Saint Maries Chappell prefently.

The rights of marriage shallbe folemniz'd, Is not the Ladie Confiance in this trooped. I know the is not for this match made vp, Her presence would have interrupted much.

Where is she and her sonne, tell me, who knowes?

Del. She is fad and passionate at your highnes Tent.

Fra. And by my faith, this league that we have made
Will give her fadnesse wery little cure:
Brother of England, how may we content
This widdow Lady? In her right we came,
Which we God knowes, have turn d another way,
To our owne vantage,

104m. We will heale up all, For wee't crease yong Archar Duke of Britaine And Earle of Richmond, and this rich faire Towne

We

The life and death of King lobn.

We make him Lord of. Call the Lady Constance, Some Speedy Melleager bid her repaire I's our foleranity: I trust we shall (If not fill up the measure of her will) Yet in some measure latisfie her fo. That we shall stop her exclamation, Go weas well as bast will suffer ss, To this valook'd for vaprepared pompe. Baft. Mad world, mad kinga, mad composition: John to Rop Arthurs Title in the whole, Hath willingly departed with a part, And France, whole armour Conscience buckled on, Whom zeale and charitie brought to the field, As Gods owne fouldier, rounded in the care, With that fame purpose-changer, that flye divel, That Broker, that still breakes the pate of faith, That dayly breake-vow, he that winnes of all, Of kings, of beggers, old men, yong men, maids, Who having no externall thing to loofe, But the word Maid, cheats the poore Maide of that. Thet smooth-fac'd Gentleman, tickling commoditie. Commoditie, the byss of the world, The world, who of it selfe is peyfed well, Made to run even, vpon even ground : Till this advantage, this vile drawing byas, This (way of motion, this commoditie, Makes it take head from all indifferency, From all direction, purpole, course, meent. And this same byas, this Commoditie, This Bawd, this Broker, this all-changing-word, Clap'd on the outward eye of fickle France Hath drawne him from his owne determin'd ayd, From a refolu'd and honourable watre, To a most base and vile-concluded peace. And why rayle I on this Commoditie? But for because he hath not wood meyet: Not that I have the power to clutch my hand, When his faire Angels would falute my palme, But for my hand, as vnattempted yet, Like a poore begger, raileth on the rich. Well, whiles I am a begger, I will raile, And fay there is no fin but to be rich: And being rich, my versue then shall be, To fay there is no vice, but beggerie: Since Kings breake faith vpon commoditie, Game be my Lord, for I will worthip thee. Exit.

A Etus Secundus

Enter Confeance, Arthur, and Salisbury.

Con. Gone to be married? Gone to fwere a peace?
Falle blood to falle blood ioyn'd. Gone to be freinds?
Shall Levin have Blaunch, and Blaunch those Provinces?
It is not so, thou hast mispoke, misheard,
Be well aduis'd, tell ore thy tale againe
It cannot be, thou do'st but say 'tis so.
I trust I may not trust thee, for thy word
Is but the vame breath of a common man:
Beleeve me, I doe not beleeve thee man,
I have a Kings oath to the contrarie.
Thou shalt be punish'd for thus frighting me,
For I am sicke, and capeable of feares,

Oppress with wrongs, and therefore full of feares,
A window, husbandles, subsect to feares,
A women naturally borne to feares,
And chough thou now confesse thou did ther left
With my vext spirits, I camor take a Truce,
But they will quake and tremble all this day.
What dost thou meane by shaking of thy head?
Why dost thou looke so fadly on my forme?
What meanes that hand upon that breast of thine?
Why holdes thine circular lamentable thewme,
Like a proud river peering ore his bounds?
Be these sad signes consimers of thy words?
Then speake againe, not all thy former tale,
But this one word, whether thy tale he true.
Sal. As true as I believe you thinke them salle,

That give you cause to prove my saying true.

Com. Oh is thou teach me to believe this forrow,
Teach thou this forrow, how to make me dye.
And let beleefe, and life encounter so,
As dort the furie of two desperate men,
Which in the very meeting fall, and dye.

Lemes marry Elaunch? O boy, then where are thou?
France friend with England, what becomes of me?
Fellow be gone: I cannot brooke thy sighe,
This newes both made thee a most vegly man.

Sal. What other harme have I good Lady done, But spoke the harme, that is by others done? Con. Which harme within it selfe so heynous is, As it makes harmefull all that speake of it.

Ar. I do befrech you Madam be content.
Con. If thou that bidft me be content, were gim Vgly, and flandrous to thy Mothers worthe, Full of vnpleafing blots, and fightleffe flaines, Lame, foolish, crooked, swart, prodigious, Parch'd with foule Moles, and eye-offending markes, I would not care, Ithen would be content, For then I should not love thee : no, nor thou Become thy great birth, nor deferue a Crowne. But thou art faire, and at they birth (deeze boy) Nature and Fortune loyn'd to make thee great Of Natures guifts, thou mayst with Lillies booft, And with the halfe-blowne Rose. But Fortune, ch, She is corrupted, chang'd, and wonne from thee, Sh'adulterates housely with thine Vnckle lobn, And with her golden hand hatb placks on France To tread downe faire respect of Soveraigntie, And made his Maiestie the bawd to theirs. France is a Bawdeo Fortune, and king lobn, That ftrumper Fortune, that viurping lobs : Tell me thou fellow, is not France for worne? Euvernor him with words, or get thee gone, And leave those woes alone, which I alone Am Sound to vader-beste.

Sal. Pardon me Madem,
I may not goe without you to the kings.
Con. Thou mailt, thou thek, I will not go with thee,
I will infruct my forrowes to be proud,
For greefe is proud, and makes his owner stoope,
To me and to the fiste of my greet greefe,
Let king a ssemble: for my greefe's so great,
That no supporter but the buge firme earth
Can hold it up: here I and forrowes sit,
Heere is my Throne, bid kings come bow to it.

ABRO

Allus Tertius, Scana prima.

Enter King John, France, Dolphin, Blanch, Elianor, Philip, Auftris, Constance.

Fran. 'Tis true (faire daughter) and this bleffed day, Euer in France shall be kept sestional:
To solemnize this day the glorious sunne Stayes in his course, and playes the Alchymist, Turning with splendor of his precious eye
The meager cloddy earth to glittering gold:
The yearely course that brings this day about,
Shall never see it, but a holy day.

Conft. A wicked day, and not a holy day. What hath this day deferuid? what hath it done, That it in golden letters should be fet Among the high tides in the Kalender? Nay, rather turne this day out of the weeke, This day of shame, oppression, periury. Or sist must stand still, let wives with childe Pray that their burthens may not fall this day, Lest that their hopes prodigiously be crost: But (on this day) let Seamen seare no wracke, No bargaines breake that are not this day made; This day all things begun, come to ill end, Yea, faith it selfe to hollow falshood change.

Fra. By heauen Lady, you shall have no cause To curse the faire proceedings of this day: Have I not pawn dro you my Maiesty?

Conft. You have beguil'd me with a counterfeit Resembling Maiesty, which being touch'd and tride. Proues valuelesse: you are forsworne, forsworne, You came in Armes to spill mine enemies bloud, But now in Armes, you strengthen it with yours. The graphing vigor, and rough frowne of Warre Is cold in amitie, and painted peace, And our oppression hath made up this league: Arme, arme, you heavens, against these periur'd Kings, A widdow cries, be husband to me (heavens) Let not the howres of this vigodly day Weare out the daies in Peace; butters Sun-ser, Set armed discord rwixt these periur'd Kings, Heare me, Oh, heare me.

Aust. Lady Constance, peace. Conft. War, war, no peace, peace is to me a warre: O Lymoges, O Austria, thou dost shame That bloudy spoyle: thou slave, thou wretch, & coward, Thou little valiant, great in villanie, Thou ever strong vpon the stronger fide;
Thou Fortunes Champion, that do's never fight But when her humourous Ladiship Is by To teach thee fafety: thou art periur'd too, And footh ftvp greatnesse. What a foole art thou, A ramping foole, to brag, and flamp, and sweate, Vpon my partie: thou cold blooded saue, Halt thou not spoke like thunder on my side? Beene Sworne my Souldier, bidding me depend Vponthy florres, thy fortune, and thy firength, And doft thou now fall over to my foes? Thou weare a Lyons hide, doff it for shame. And hang a Calues skin on those recreant limbes.

Auf. Other steam thould speake those words to me.

Phil. And hang a Calves-skin on those recreant limbs

Auf. Thou dat Anot say so villaine for thy life.

Phil And hang a Caluet skin on those recreant limbs.

Iohn. We like not this, thou don forget thy selfe.

Enter Pandulph.

Fra. Heere comes the holy Legat of the Pope.

Pan. Haile you annointed deputies of heaven;

To thee King John my holy errand is:

1 Pandulph, of faire Millane Cardinall,

And from Pope Innocent the Legate heere,

Doe in his name religiously demand

Why thou against the Church, our holy Mother,

So wilfully dost spurne; and force perforce

Keepe Stephen Langton chosen Arshbishop

Of Canterbury from that holy Sea.

This in our foresaid holy Fathers name

Pope Innocent, I doe demend of thee.

Tohn. What earthie name to Interrogatories
Can tast the free breath of a facred King?
Thou canst not (Cardinall) deuse a name
So slight, vinvorthy, and ridiculous
To charge me to an answere, as the Pope:
Tell him this tale, and from the mouth of England,
Adde thus much more, that no Italian Priest
Shall tythe or toll in our domimons.
But as we, vinder heauen, are supreame head,
So onder him that great supremacy
Where we doe reigne, we will alone viphold
Without th'assistance of a mortall hand:
So tell the Pope, all teuerence set apart
To him and his vsurp'd authoritie.

Fra. Brother of England, you blashheme in this.

Ishn. Though you, and all the Kings of Christendom

Ateled so grossely by this medling Priest,

Dreading the curse that money may buy out,

And by the merit of vilde gold, drosse, dust,

Purchase corrupted pardon of a man,

Who in that sale sels pardon from himselfe:

Though you, and al the rest so grossely led,

This jugling witcherast with revenue cherish,

Yet I alone, alone doe me oppose

Against the Pope, and count his friends my foes.

Pand. Then by the lawfull power that I haue, Thou shalt stand curst, and excommunicate, And blessed shall he be that doth revolt From his Allegeance to an heretique, And meritorious shall that hand be call'd, Canonized and worship'd as a Saint, That takes away by any secret course. Thy hatefull life.

Con. O lawfull let it be
That I have roome with Rome to curse a while.
Good Father Cardinall, cry thou Amen
To my keene curses; for without my wrong
There is no tongue hath power to curse him right.
Pan. There's Law and Warrant (Lady) for my curse.

Conf. And for mine too, when Law can do no right.
Let it be lawfull, that Law barre no wrong:
Law cannot give my childe his kingdome heere;
For he that holds his Kingdome, holds the Law.
Therefore fince Law is felfe is perfect wrong,
How can the Law forbid my tongue to curfe?

Pand Philip of France, on perill of a curle, Let goe the hand of that Arch-heretique, And raife the power of France ypon his head, Vnlesse he doe submit himselfe to Rome.

Elea. Look it thou pale France? do not let go thy hand.
Com. Looke to that Deuill, left that France repent,

And

And by dilioyning hands hell lofe a foule.

Auft. King Philip, liften to the Cardinall.

Baft. And lung a Calues-skin on his recreant limbs. Auft. Well ruffian, I must pocker vp these wrongs,

Because, Bast. Your breeches best may carry them. John. Philip, what failt thou to the Cardinall? Con. What should be fay, but as the Cardinall? Dolph. Bethinke you father, for the difference Is purchase of a heavy curse from Romo, Or the light loffe of England, for a friend:

Forgoethe cafter. Bla. That s the curle of Rome.

Con. O Lewis, stand fast, the deuill tempes thee heere In likenesse of a new vntrimmed Bride.

Bla The Lady Constance speakes not from her faith,

But from her need.

Con. Oh, if thou grant my need, Which onely lives but by the death of faith, Ther need, must needs inferre this principle, That faith would live agame by death of need: O then tread downe my need, and faith mounts vp, Keepe my need vp, and faith is trodden downe.

Jobn. The king is moud, and answers not to this. Con. O be remou'd from him, and answere well. Auft. Doe so king Philip, hang no more in doubt. Baft. Hang nothing but a Calues skin most sweet lout. Fra. I am perplext, and know not what to fay. Pas. What canst thou say, but wil perplex thee more?

If thou fland excommunicate, and curl??

Fra. Good reverend father, make my person yours, And tell me how you would bestow your sette? This royall, hand and mine are newly knit, And the conjunction of our inward foules Married in league, coupled, and link d together With all religous strength of facred vowes, The latest breath that gaue the found of words Was deepe-fworne faith, peace, amity, true loue Betweene our kingdomes and our royall felues, And even before this truce, but new before, No longer then we well could wash our hands, To clap this royall bargaine vp of peace, Heaven knowes they were beforear'd and over-flaind With flaughters pencill; where revenge did paint The fearefull difference of incenfed kings : And shall these hands so lately purg'd of bloud? So newly ioyn'd. in love? fo strong in both, Vnyoke this feyfure, and this kinde regreete? Play fast and loofe with faith ? to test with heaven, Make such vnconstant children of our selves As now againe to Inatch our palme from palme: Vn-sweare faith sworne, and on the marriage bed Of smiling peace to march a bloody hoast, And make a tyot on the gentle brow Of true fincerity? O holy Sir My reverend father, ler it not be fo; Out of your grace, deuile, ordaine, impole Some gentle order, and then we shall be blest To doe your pleasure, and continue friends.

Pand. All forme is formelelle, Order orderlelle, Saue what is opposite to Englands love. Therefore to Armes, be Champion of our Church, Or let the Church our mother breathe her curse, A mothers curle, on her revolting fonne: France thou mailf hold a serpent by the tongue,

A cased Lion by the mottal' paw,

Then keepe in peace that hand which shou doft hold. Fra. I may dif-soyne my hand, but not my faith. Pand So mak'ft thou faith an enemy to faith, And like a civill warre feeth outh to outh Thy tongue against thy tongue. O let thy vow

A faffing Tyger fafer by the tooth,

First made to heaven, first be to heaven perform'd, That is, to be the Champion of our Church, What fince thou sworst, is sworne against thy selfe, And may not be performed by thy felfe,

For that which thou hast fwome to doe amisse, Is not amisse when it is truely done:

And being not done, where doing rends to ill, The truth is then most done not doing it The better Act of purpoles mistooke, Is to miliake again, though indired,

Yet indirection thereby growes direct, And fallhood, fallhood cures, as fire cooles fire Within the scorched veines of one new burn'd: It is religion that doth make vowes kept,

But thou hast sworne against religion By what thou swear'st against the thing thou swear st And mak stan oath the suretie for thy truth,

Against an oath the truth, thou art vnsure To sweare, sweares onely not to be for sworne, Elle what a mockerie should it be to sweare? But thou dost sweare, onely to be forsworne,

And most for fworne, to keepe what thou dost fweare, Therefore thy later vowes, against thy first,

Is in thy selfe rebellion to thy selfe: And better conquell never canst thou make, Then armethy constant and thy nobler parts

Against these giddy loose suggestions: pon which better part, our prayes come in, If thou vouchfafe them. But if not then know

The perill of our curfes light on thee So heavy, asthon shalt not thake them off But in despaire, dye under their blacke weight.

Auft. Rebellion, flat rebellion. Baft. Wil'tnot be?

Will not a Calues-skin flop that mouth of thine?

Daul. Father, to Armes

Blanch. Vponthy wedding day ? Against the blood that thou hast married? What, shall our feast be kept with slaughtered men? Shall braying trumpets, and loud churlish drums Clamors of hell, be measures to our pomp? O husband heare me: aye, alacke, how new Is husband in my mouth? cuen for that name Which till this time my tongue did here pronounce; Vpon my knee I beg, goe not to Armes Against mine Vnele.

Conft. O, vpon my knee made hard with kneeling, I doe pray to thee, thou vertuous Daulphin, Alter not the doome fore-thought by heaven.

Blan, Now shall I see thy loue, what motive may Be stronger with thee, then the name of wife ? Con. That which vpholderh him, that thee vpholds,

His Honor, Oh thine Honor, Lewis thine Honor. Dolph. I muse your Maiefty doth seeme so cold, When such profound respects doe pull you on?

Pand. I will depounce a cutie vpon his head. Fra. Thou shalt not need. England, I will fall fro thee. Conft. O faire returne of banish'd Maiestie.

Elea. O foule revolt of French inconstancy.

Eng. France, I shalt rue this houre within this houre.

Baft. Old Time the clocke fetter, y bald fexton Times

Is it as he will? well then, France shall rue.

Bla. The Sun's orecast with bloud: faire day adieu, Which is the Ede that I must goe withell? Iam with both, each Army hath ahand, And in their rage, I having hold of both, They whetle a funder, and difmember mee. Husband, I cannot pray that thou maift winne: Vncle, I needs must pray that thou maist lose: Father, I may not wish the fortune thine: Grandam, I will not wish thy wishes thrive : Who-ener wins, on that fide fhall I lofe : Affured loffe, before the match be plaid.

Dolph. Lady, with me, with me thy fortune lies. Bls. There where my fortune lives, there my life dies. John. Cofen, goe draw our puisance together, Frence, I am burn'd vp with inflaming wrath, A rage, whose heat hath this condition;

That nothing can allay, nothing but blood, The blood and deerest valued bloud of France. Fra. Thy rage shall burne thee vp, & thou shalt turne To ashes, ere out blood shall quench that fire:

Looke to thy felfe, thou art in isopardie. John. No more then he that threats. To Arms le'ts bie. Exeunt.

Scana Secunda.

Allarums, Exautions: Enter Bastard with Austria's

Baft. Now by my life, this day grows wondrous hos, Some eyery Deuill houers in the skie, And pour's downe mischiefe. Auffrias head lye there, Enter lobn, Arthur, Hubert.

While Philip breathes. Ichn. Huberr, keepeahls boy: Philip make vp, My Mother is assayled in our Tent,

And cane I feare.

Baft. My Lord I rescued her, Her Highnesse is in safety, seare you not: But on my Liege, for very little paines Will bring this labor to an happy and.

Alarents, excursions, Recreat. Enter lubn, Eleanor, Arthur Bestard, Hubert, Lords.

Ichn. So shall it bet your Grace shall stay behinde So strongly guarded: Cosen, looke not sad Thy Grandame loues thee, and thy Vnkle will As deere be to thee, as thy father was.

Arth. O this will make my mother die with griefe. Ichn. Cofen away for England, hafte before, And ere our comming fee thou shake the bags Ofhoording Abbots, imprisoned angells Set at libertie: the fat ribs of peace Must by the hungry now be fed spon: Vie our Commission in his vemost force.

Baft. Bell, Booke, & Candle, shall not drive me back, When gold and filter becks me to come on. Heave your highnesse: Grandame, I will pray. (If ever I remember to be holy)
For your faire fafery: fo I kiffe your hand.

Ele. Farewell gentle Cofen.

John. Coz, farewell,

Ele. Come hether little kinfman, harke, a worde. Idm. Come hether Hubert. O my gentle Hubert, We owe thee much: within this wall of Aeth There is a foule counts thee her Creditor, And with advantage meanes to pay thy loves And my good friend, thy voluntary oath Lives in this bosome, decrely cherished. Give me thy hand, I had a thing to fay, But I will fit it with some better tune. By heaven Hubert, I am almost asham'd To fay what good respect I have of thee.

Hub. I am much bounden to your Maiefly. John. Good friend, thou balt no cause to say so yet, Butthou shalt have:and creepe time nere so slow, Yet it shall come, for me to doe thee good. I had a thing to fay, but let it goe : The Sunne is in the heaven, and the proud day, Attended with the pleasures of the world, Is all too wanton, and too full of gawdes To give me audience : If the mid-night bell Did with his yeon tongue, and brazen mouth Sound on into the drowzierace of night : If this same were a Church-yard where we stand. And thou possessed with a thousand wrongs a Or if that furly spirit melancholy Had bak'd thy bloud, and made it heavy, thicke, Which elfe runnes tickling vp and downe the veines, Making that idiot laughter keepe mens eyes, And straine their cheekes to idle merriment, A passion hatefull to my purpoles: Or if that thou couldft fee me without eyes, Heare me without thinc cares, and make reply Without a tongue, ving conceit alone, Without eyes, eares, and harmefull found of words: Then, in despight of broaded watchfull day, I would into thy bosome poure my thoughts : But (ah) I will not, yet I loue thee well, And by my troth I thinke thou lou'ff me well.

Hub. So well, that what you bid me vndartake, Though that my death were adjunct to my Ad, By heaven I would doest.

John. Doe not I know thou would?? Good Hubert, Hubert, Hubert throw thine eye On you young boy 1 He tell thee what my friend, He is a very ferpent in my way, And wherefoere this foot of mine doth tread. He lies before me: dost thou vaderstand me? Thou art his keeper.

Hub. And He keepe him fo. That he shall not offend your Maiesty.

John. Desth. Hub. My Lord. John. A Graue. Hub. He shall not live.

Exit.

Ioha. Enough. I could be merry now, Hubert, I loue thee. Well, He not fay what I intend for thee: Remember: Madam, Fare you well, lle fend those powert o're to your Maiesly.

Ele. My bleshing goe with thee.

Iohn. For England Colon, goe. Hubert thall be your man, attend on you With al crue duetie: On toward Callice, hoa

Execut.

Scond

Scana Tertia.

Enter France, Dolphur, Pandulpho, Attendants.

Fra. So by a roaning Tempell on the flood,
A whole Armado of connicted faile
Is feattered and dif-ioyn d from fellowship.
Pand Courage and comfort, all shall yet goe well.
Fra. What can goe well, when we have runne so ill?
Are we not beaten? Is not Angure lost?
Are the tane prisoner? divers deere friends slaine?
And bloody England into England gone,

Ore-bearing interruption (pight of France?

Dol. What he hath won, that hath he fortified:
So hot a speed, with such aduree disposed,
Such tempetate order in so herce a cause,
Doth want example: who hath read, or heard
Of any kindred-action like to this?

Fra. Well could I beare that England had this praile, So we could finde some patterne of our shame:

Looke who comes heere do grave vnto a foule, Holding theternall sprint against her will, In the vilde prison of affiiched breath: I prethee Lady goe away with me.

Con Los now: now fee the issue of your peace.
Fra. Patience good Lady, comfort genile Confluence.

Con. No, I defic all Counfell, all redresse.

But that which ends all counfell, true Redresse.

Death, death, O amusble, lovely death,
Thou odoriferous stench: sound rottennesse.

Artic forth from the couch of lasting night.
Thou hate and terror to prosperitie.

And I will kuse thy detectable bones,
And put my eye-balls in thy vaultie browes,
And ring these singers with thy houshold wormes.

And stop this gap of breath with fulsome dust,
And be a Carrion Monster like thy selfe:
Come, grin on me, and I will thinke thou simil st,
And busser hee as thy wife: Miscries Loue,
O come to me.

Fra. Of sire affliction, peace.
Con. No, no, I will not, having breath to cry:
O that my tongue wete in the thunders mouth,
Then with a passion would I shake the world,
And rowze from sleepe that fell Anatomy
Which cannot heare a Ladies seeble voyce,

Which scomes a moderne Innocation.

Pord. Lady, you veter madnesse, and not forrow.

Com. Thou art holy to belye me fo, lain not mad: this haire I teare is mine. My name is Conflorice, I was Geffrejer wife, Yong Arthur is my fonne, and he is loft: I am not mad, I would to heasen I were, For then it is like I should forget my selfe: O, if I could, what griefe should I forget? Preach some Philosophy to make me mad, And thou shalt be Canoniz'd (Cardinall.) For, being not mad, but sensible of greefe. My reasonable part produces reason How I may be deliver'd of these woes. And teaches meet to kill or hang my selfe: If I were mad, I should forget my sonne,

Or madly thinks a babe of clowis was he; I am not mad: too wall, too wall I feele The different plague of each calamitie

Fra Binde vp those tresses: O what love I note In the faire multitude of those her haires; Where but by chance a filter drop high false, Euen to that drop tenthouland wiery fiends. Doe glew themselves in sociable griefe, Like true, inseparable, suthfull loves, Sticking together in calamide.

Sticking together in calamide.

Con. To England, if you will.

Frz. Binde vp your haires.

Con. Yes that I will : and wherefore will I do it I tore them from their bonds, and cride aloud. O, that these hands could so redeeme my sonre As they have given these hayres their libertie; But now I enure at their libertie, And will againe commit them to their bonds, Because my poore childe is a prisoner. And Father Cardinall, I have heard you far That we shall see and know our friends in beauen; If that be true, I shall see my boy againe; For since the birth of Came, the first male-childe To him that did but yesterday suspire, There was not fuch a gracious creature borne: But now will Canker-fortow est my bud And chale the native beauty from his cheeke, And he will looke as hollow as a Ghoft, As dim and meager as an Agues fitte, And to hee'll dye: and riling to againe When I shall meet him in the Court of heaven I Thall not know him : therefore never, never Must I behold my pretty. Aribur more.

Pand. You hold too hegnous a respect of greese.
Conft. He talkes so me, that never had a sonne.
Fra. You are as fond of greese, as of your childe.

Con. Greefe fils the roome vp of my abfent childe:
Lies in his bed, walkes vp and downe with me,
Puts on his pretty lookes, repeats his words,
Remembers me of all his gracious parts.
Stuffes out his vacant garments with his forme.
Then, have I reason to be fond of griefes
Farcyouwell: had you such a losse as I,
I could give better comfort then you doe.
I will not keepe this forme vpon my head,
When there is such disorder in my witte:
O Lord, my boy, my Aribor, my faire fonne,
My life, my toy, my food, my all the world:
My widow-comfort, and my forrowes cure.

Ex

Pro. I feare some out-rage, and He follow her. Exp.
Dol. There's nothing in this world can make me 107,
Life is as tedious as a twice-told tale,
Vexing the dull care of adrowsie man;
And bitter shame hath spoyl'd the sweet words taste,
That it yeelds nought but shame and bitterresses.

Pand. Before the curing of a fitting difease Euco in the inflant of repaire and health, The fit is ftrongest: Euils that take leave On their departure, most of all shew epill: What have you lost by losing of this day?

Dol. All dales of glory, joy, and happinesse. Par. If you had won it, certainely you had. No, no: when Fortune meanes to men most good, Shee lookes upon them with a threatning eye: Tis strange to thinke how much King John hath lost In this which he accounts so clearly wonne:

Are

Arenot you grieu'd that Arthur is his prisoner?

Dol. As heartily as he is glad he hath him. Pan. Your minde is all as youthfull as your blood. Now heare me speake with a propheticke spirit: For even the breath of what I meane to speake, Shall blow each dust, each straw, each little rub Out of the path which shall directly lead Thy footeto Englands Throne. And therefore marke : lobn hath feiz'd Arthur, and it cannot be, That whiles warmelife playes in that infants veines The mif-plac'd-lohn should entertaine an houre, One minute, nay one quiet breath of reft. A Scepter inatch'd with an unruly hand, Must be as boysterously maintain'd as gain'd. And he that stands upon a slipp'ry place. Makes nice of no vilde hold to flay him vp: That lobn may stand, then Arthur needs must fall, So beit, for it cannot be but fo.

Del. But what shall I gaine by yong Arthurs fall?
Pan. You in the right of Lady Blanch your wife,
May then make all the claime that Arthur did.

Del. And loofe it, life and all, as Arthur did. Pan. How green you are, and fresh in this old world? Ichn layes you plots: the times conspire with you, For he that steepes his safetie in true blood, Shall finde but bloodie safety, and vntrue. This Act so euilly borne shall coole the hearts Of all his people, and freeze vp their zeale, That none so small advantage shall steep forth To checke his reigne, but they will cherish it Nonaturall exhalation in the skle, No scope of Nature, no distemper d day, No common winde, no customed event, But they will plucke away his naturall cause, And call them Meteors, prodigies, and signes, Abbortives, presages, and tongues of heaven, Plainly denouncing vengeance vpon John.

Del. May be he will not touch your Arthurs life,

But hold himfelfe fafe in his prifonment.

Pan. O Sir, when he shall heare of your approach, If that yong Arthur be not gone alreadie, Even at that newes he dies : and then the hearts Of all his people shall revolt from him, And kiffe the lippes of vnacquainted change, And picke frong matter of reuolt, and wrath Out of the bloody fingers ends of John. Me thinkes I fee this hurley all on foot; And O, what better matter breeds for you, Then I have nam'd. The Baftard Falcombridge Is now in England tanfacking the Church, Offending Charity: If but a dozen French Were there in Armes, they would be as a Call To traine ten thousand English to their side; Or, as a little fnow, tumbled about, Anon becomes a Mountaine. Onoble Dolphine, Go with me to the King, 'tis wonderfull, What may be wrought out of their discontent, Now that their foules are topfull of offence, For England go; I will whet on the King.

Dol. Strong reasons makes strange actions: let vs go, If you say I, the King will not say no. Execut.

Actus Quartus, Scæna prima.

Enter Hubert and Executioners.

Hub. Heate me these Irons hor, and looke thou stand Within the Arras: when I strike my foot Vpon the bosome of the ground, rush forth And binde the boy, which you shall finde with me Fast to the chaire: be heedfull: hence, and watch.

Exec. I hope your warrant will beare out the deed.

Hub. V ncleanly feruples feare not you: looke too't.

Yong Lad come forth; I have to fay with you.

Enter Arthur.

Ar. Good morrow Hubert.

Hub Good morrow, little Prince.

Ar. As little Prince, having so great a Title
To be more Prince, as may be : you are sad.

Hab. Indeed I haue beene merrier.

Art. 'Mercie on me:

Methinkes no body should be sad but I:
Yet I remember, when I was in France,
Yong Gentlemen would be as sad as night
Onely for wantonnesse: by my Christendome,
So I were out of prison, and kept Sheepe
I should be as merry as the day is long:
And so I would be heere, but that I doubt
My Vnekle practises more harme to me:
He is affiaid of me, and I of him:
Is it my sault, that I was Coffress sonne?
No in deede is t not: and I would to heaven
I were your sonne, so you would love me, Hubert:

Hub. If I talke to him, with his innocent prate He will awake my mercie, which lies dead: Therefore I will be fodaine, and dispatch.

Are you licke Hubert? you looke pale to day.
Infooth I would you were a little ficke,
That I might fit all night, and watch with you.
I warrant I loue you more then you do me.

Hub. His words do take possession of my bosome, Reade heere yong Arthur. How now soolish theume? Turning dispitious scotture out of doore? I must be breefe, least resolution drop. Out at mine eyes, in tender womanish teares. Can you not reade it? Is st not faire writ?

Ar. Too fairely Hubert, for so soule effect, Must you with hot Irons, burne out both mine eyes?

Hub. Yong Boy, I must. Arc. And will you?

Hub. And I will.

Ars. Have you the heart? When your head did but

I knit my hand kercher about your browes
(The best I had, a Princesse wrought it me)
And I did neuer aske it you againe:
And with my hand, at midnight held your head;
And like the watchfull minutes, to the houre,
Still and anon cheer'd vp the heavy time;
Saying, what lacke you? and where lies your greefe?
Or what good loue may I performe for you?
Many a poote mans sonne would have lyen still,
And nere have spoke a louing word to you:
But you, at your sicke setuice had a Prince:
Nay, you may thinke my loue was crassic loue,
And call it cunning. Do, and if you will,

If he such be pleas'd that you must vie me ill,
Why then you must. Will you put out mine eyes.
These eyes, that never did, nor never shall
So much as frowne on you.

Hub. I have sworne to do it .

And with hot Irons must I burne them out.

Ar. Ah, none but in this Iron Age, would do it
The Iron of it felfe, though heare red hot
Approaching neere the fe eyes, would drinke my teares,
And quench this fierie indignation,
Euen in the matter of mine innocence:
Nay, after that, confume away in ruft,
But for containing fire to harme mine eye.
Are you more fubborne-hard, then hammer'd Iron?
And if an Angell should have come to me,
And told me Indert should put out mine eyes,
I would not have beleeu'd him: no tongue but Huberts.

Hub. Come forth: Do as I bid you do.

Art. O saue me Hubert, saue me: my eyes are out

Euen with the fierce lookes of these bloody men.

Hub. Give me the Iron 1 say, and binde him heere

Art. Alas, what neede you be so boistrous rough?

I will not struggle, I will stand stone still.

For heaven sake Hubers let me not be bound:

Nay heate me Hubers, drive these men away,

And I will sit as quiet as a Lambe

I will not stirre, nor winch, nor speake a word,

Nor lnoke vpon the Iron angerly:

Thrust but these men away, and the forgive yoo,

What ever torment you do put me too.

Hub. Go fland within: let me alone with him,

Exec. I am best pleas'd to be from such a deede.

Art. Alas, I then have chid away my friend, He hath a fterne looke, but a gentle heart: Lethim come backe, that his compassion may Give life to yours.

Hub. Come (Boy) prepare your selse.

Art. Is there no remedie:

Hub. None, but to lose your eyes.

Arr. O heaven: that there were but a moth in yours,
A groine, a duft, a gnat, a wandering haire,
Any annoyance in that precious fenfe:
Then feeling what fmall things are boyflerous there,

Your vilde intent must needs seeme hotrible.

Hub. Is this your promise? Go too, hold your toong

Art. Hubert, the viterance of a brace of longues.

Must needes want pleading for a paire of eyes:

Let me not hold my tongue: let me not Hubert,

Let me not hold my tongue: let me not Hubert, Or Hubert, if you will cut out my tongue, So I may keepe mine eyes. O spare mine eyes, Though to no vie, but fill to looke on you. Loe, by my troth, the Instrument is cold,

And would not harme me.

Hub. I can heate it, Boy

Ait No, in good footh: the fire is dead with griefe,
Being create for comfort, to be vs'd
In vindeferued extreames: See elfe your felfe,
There is no malice in this burning cole,
The breath of heaven, hath blowne his spirit out,
And firew'd repentance shees on his head.

Hub. But with my breath I can require it Boy.

Art. And if you do, you will but make it blush,
And glow with shame of your proceedings, Hubert:
Nay, it perchance will sparkle in your eyes:
And, like a dogge that is compell'd to fight,
Snatch at his Master that doth tarre bim on.

All things that you should vie to do me wrong Deny their office: onely you do lacke That mercie, which fierce fire, and Iron extends, Creatures of note for mercy, lacking vies.

Hub, Well, fee to live 1 I will not touch thine eye
For all the Treasure that thine Vnckle owes,
Yet am I sworne, and I did purpose, Boy,
With this same very Iron, to burne them out

Art, Onow you looke like Hubert. All this while

You were difguis'd.

Hub. Peace no more Adico,
Your Vnckle must not know but you are dead.
lle fill these dogged Spies with false reports and, pretty childe, sleepe doubtlesse, and secure,
That Hubert for the wealth of all the world,
Will not offend thee.

Ars. Oheauen! I thanke you Hubers,
Hub. Silence, no more; go closely in with mee,
Much danger do I vadergo for thee,
Executor

Scena Secunda.

Enter John, Pembroke, Saluebury, and other Lorder, John, Heere once agains we fit: once against crown'd And look'd upon, I hope, with cheatefull eyes

Pem This once again (but that your Highnes pleas'd)
Was once superfluous: you were Crown'd before,
And that high Royalty was nere pluck'd off.
The faiths of men, nere stained with reualts
Fresh expectation troubled not the Land
With any long'd-for-change, or better State.

Sal. Therefore, to be possels d with double pompe, To guard a Title, that was rich before; To gilde refined Gold, to paint the Lilly; To throw a perfume on the Vielet, To smooth the yee, or adde another hew Vito the Raine-bow; or with Taper-light To seeke the beaucous eye of heaven to garnish. Is wastefull, and ridiculous excesse.

Pem. But that your Royall pleafure must be done, This acte, is as an ancient tale new told, And, in the last repeating, troublesome,

Being viged at a time vinfeafonable.

Sal. In this the Anticke, and well noted face
Of plaine old forme, is much disfigured,
And like a fhifted winde voto a faile.
It makes the course of thoughts to fetch about,
Startles, and frights consideration:
Makes found opinion sicke, and truth suspected.
For putting on so new a fashion'd robe.

Pem. When Workemen ftrue to do better then we!,
They do confound their skill in couctousnesse,
And oftentimes excusing of a fault,
Doth make the fault the worse by the xcuse:
As pacches set you a little breach,
Discredite more in hiding of the fault,
Then did the fault before it was so patch'd.

Sal. To this effect, before you were new crown'd We breach'd our Councell: but it pleas'd your Highnes To ouer-beare it, and we are all well pleas'd, Since all, and every part of what we would Doth make a stand, at what your Highnesse will.

John.

Isb. Some reasons of this double Corroration
I have possess you with, and thinke them strong.
And more, more strong, than lessess is geare
I shall indue you with: Meane time, but aske
What you would have reformed, that is not well,
And well shall you perceive, how willingly
I will both heare, and grant you your sequests.

Pem. Then I, as one that am the tongue of thefe To found the purpoles of all their hearts, Both for my felfe, and them: bas chiefe of all Your lafety : for the which, my felfe and them Bend their best studies, heartily request Th'infranchisement of Arthur, whose restraint Doth moue the murmuring lips of discontent To breake into this dangerous argument. If what in reft you have, in right you hold, Why then your feares, which (as they fay) attend The Reppes of wrong fhould moue you to mew vp Your tender kinfman, and to choake his dayes With barbarous ignorance, and deny his youth The rich advantage of good exercise, That the times enemies may not have this To grace occasions: let it be our suite, That you have bid vs aske his libertie, Which for our goods, we do no further aske, Then, whereupon out weale on you depending, Counts it your weale : he haue his liberty. Enter Hubert.

loba, Let it be so: I do commit his youth
To your direction: Hubers, what newes with you?

Pem. This is the man should do the bloody deed a
He shew'd his warrant to a friend of mine,
The image of a wicked heynous sault
Liues in his eye: that close aspect of his,
Do shew the mood of a much troubled brest,
And I do fearefully beleeve 'tis done,
What we so fear'd he had a charge to do.

Sal. The colour of the King doth come, and go Betweene his purpose and his conscience, Like Heralds'twixttwo dreadfull battailes set: His passion is so ripe, it needs must breake.

Pem. And when it breakes, I feare will iffue thence
The foule corruption of a fweet childes death.

Toba. We cannot hold mortalizies from a hand.
Good Lords, although my will to giue, is liuing,
The fuite which you demand is gone, and dead.
Hotels vs Arthur is deceased to night.

Sal. Indeed we fear'd his ficknesse was past cure.

Pem: Indeed we heard how neere his death he was,

Before the childe himselfe felt he was sicke 1

This must be answer'd either heere, or hence.

Ioh, Why do you bend fuch folemne browes on me?
Thinke you I beare the Sheeres of deftiny?
Haue I commandement on the pulse of life?

Sal. It is apparant foule-play, and the shame That Greatness should so ground fer it;

So thriue it in your game, and fo farewell.

Pem. Stay yet (Lord Salisbury) lle go with thee,
And finde thinheritance of this poore childe,
His little kingdome of a forced grave.
His blood which ow'd the bredth of all this Ile,
Three foot of it doth hold; bad world the while:
This mult not be thus borne, this will breake out
To all our forrowes, and ere long I doubt.

Extense

lo. They but n in indignation: I repent: Enter Mef.
There is no fure foundation fet on blood:

No certaine life atchieu'd by others death:
A fearefull eye thou haft. Where is that blood,
That I baue feene inhabite in those cheekes?
So soule a skie, cleeres not without a florme,
Poure downe thy weather: how goes all in France?
Mef. From France to England, neuer such a powre

For any forraigne preparation,

Was leuied in the body of a land.

The Copie of your speede is learn'd by them:

For when you should be told they do prepare,

The twings comes that they are all arrived.

The tydings comes, that they are all arriv'd.

Lob. Oh where hath our Intelligence bin drunke?

Where hath it flept? Where is my Mothers care?

That fuch an Army could be drawne in France,

And the not heare of it?

Mef. My Liege, hereare
Is flopt with duft: the first of Aprill dide
Your noble mother; and as I heare, my Lord,
The Lady Confiance in a frenzie dide
Three dayes before: but this from Rumors and

Three dayes before: but this from Rumors conque Lidely heard: if true, or falle I know not.

Ibba. With-hold thy speed, dreadfull Occasion:
O make a league with me, 'till I haue y teas'd
My discontented Pecres. What? Mother dead?
How wildely then walkes my Estate in France?
Vnder whose conduct came those powers of France,
That thou for truth giu'st out are landed heere?

Mef. Vnder the Dolphin.

Enter Bastard and Peter of Pomfret.

Tob. Thou hast made me giddy
With these ill tydings: Now? What sayes the world
To your proceedings? Do not seeke to stuffe
My head with more ill newes: for it is full.

Baft. But if you be a feard to heare the worst, Then let the worst vn-heard, fall on your head.

John. Beare with me Cosen, for I was amaz'd Vnder the tide; but now I breath againe

Aloft the flood, and can give audience

Vinder the tide; but now I breath agains
Aloft the flood, and can give audience
To any tongue, speake it of what it will.
Bast. How I have sped among the Clergy mee,

The fummes I have collected shall expresse:

But as I trauail'd hither through the land,

I finde the people strangely fantasied,

Possess with rumors, full of idle dreames.

Not knowing what they feare, but full of seare.

And here's a Propher that I brought with me

From forth the streets of Pomstet, whom I found

With many hundreds treading on his heeles:

To whom he sung in rude harsh sounding times,

That ere the next Ascension day at noone,

Your Highnes should deliver up your Crowne.

Iohn. Thou idle Dreamer, wherefore didst thou so?

Pee. Fore-knowing that the truth will fall out so.

Iohn. Hubers, away with him: imprison him,

And on that day at noone, whereon he sayes

And on that day at noone, whereon he rayes
I shall yeeld yp my Crowne, let him be hang'd.
Deliuer him to safety, and returne,
For I must viethee. O my gentle Colen,
Hear'st thou the newes abroad, who are arrived?

Baft. The French (my Lord) mens mouths are ful of its Besides I met Lord Biges, and Lord Salieburie With eyes as red as new enkindled fire, And others more, going to seeke the grave Of Arthur, whom they say is kill do night, on your lobn. Gentle kinfman, go (fuggestion. And thrust they selfe into their Companies,

b 2

The life and death of King John.

Thaue a way to winne their loues againe ; Bring them before me

Baft. I will feeke them out

John. Nay, but make hafte the better foote before-O, let me haue no subiect enemies, When adverse Forceyners affright my Townes With dreadfull pompe of flour inuation. Be Mercurie, fet feathers to thy heeles, And flye (like thought) from them, to me againe.

Buft. The spirit of the time shall teach me speed. Exit

John. Spokelike a sprightfull Noble Gentleman. Go after him : for he perliaps shall neede Some Mellenger betwixt me, and the Peeres, And be thou hee.

Mef. With all my heart, my Liege John. My mother dead !

Enter Hubert.

Hub. My Lord, they lay five Moones were feene to Fourefixed, and the fift did whitle about (night: The other foure, in wondrous motion.

Ich. Flue Moones?

Hub. Old men, and Beldames, in the ffreets Doprophelic vpon it dangeroully : Yong Arthurs death is common in their mouths, And when they talke of him, they shake their heads, And whilper one another in the eare. And he that speakes, doth gripe the hearers will, Whilfthe that hearts, makes fearefull action With wrinkled browes, with nods, with rolling eyes. I faw a Smith Stand with his hammer (thus) The whilft his Iron did on the Anuile coole, With open mouth swallowing a Taylors newes, Who with his Shecres, and Measure in his hand, Standing on Suppers, which his nimble hafte Hadfalfely thrust voon conuary scete. Told of a many thousand warlike French, That were embattailed, and rank'd in Kent. Another leane, vnwash'd Artificer, Cuts off his tale, and talkes of Arthurs death. 10. Why leek'st thou to possesse me with these feares?

Why vegest thou so oft yong Archurs death?
Thy hand hath murdred him . I had a mighty cause To wish him dead, but thou hadst none to kill him. H No had (my Lord) why , did you not prouoke me? Iohn. It is the curfe of Kings, to be attended By flaves, that take their humors for a warrant, To breake within the bloody house of life,

And on the winking of Authoritie

To vinder (tand a Law; to know the meaning Of dangerous Maiefly, when perchance it frownes More vpon humor, then aduis d respect. Hub. Heere is your hand and Scale for what I did.

Ich. Oh, when the last accompt twint heaven & earth Is to be made, then shall this hand and Scale Witnesse against vs to damnation. How oft the light of meanes to do ill deeds, Make deeds ill done? Had'st not thou beene by A fellow by the hand of Nature mark'd, Quoted, and fign'd to doa deede of fhame, This murther had not come into my minde. But taking note of thy abhorr'd Afpect, Finding thee he for bloody villanie: Apt, liable to be employ'd in danger, I faintly broke with thee of Arthurs death. And thou, to be endeered to a King, Made it no conscience to destroy a Prince.

Ich Had'A show but Mooke thy head, or made a paule When I spake darkely, what I purpoled Or turn dan eye of doubt upon my face; As bid metell my tale in expresse words . Deepe hame had fruck me dumbe, made me break off. And those thy seares, might have wrought feares in me But, thou did it vaderfland me by my lignes, And didft in fignes againe partey with finne Yea, without flop, didft let thy heart conferit, And confequently, thy rude hand to efte The deed, which both our tongues held vilde to mme Out of my fight, and never fee me more: My Nobles leave me, and my State is bround, Even at my gates, with rankes offormigne powies. Nay, in the body of this ficihly Land, This kingdome, this Confine of blood, and breathe Hosfilitie, and civill tumult reignes Betweene my confcience, and my Colins death.

Hub. Arme you against your other enemies : He make a peace betweene your foule, and you. Yong Arthur is alive This hand of mine layer a maiden, and an innocent hand. Not painted with the Crimfon spots of blood, Within this bosoine, neuer entred yer The dreadfull motion of a murderous thought, And you have flander d Nature in my forme, Which howfoeuer rude exteriorly, Is yet the couer of a fayrer minde, Then to be butcher of an innocent childe.

John. Doth Arthur live? O halt thee to the Peeres, Throw this report on their incentad rage, And make them tame to their obedience. Forgiue the Comment that my passion made Vpon thy feature, for my rage was blinde, And foule immaginarie eyes of blood Presented thee more hideous then thou art Oh, answernot; but to my Closses bring The angry Lords, with all expedient hall, I coniure thee but flowly: tun more faft.

Exeuns

Scæna Tertia.

Enter Arthur on the wallet. Ar. The Wall is high, and yet will I leape downe. Good ground be pittifull, and hurt me not : There's few or nane do know me, if they did, This Ship-boyes femblance hath difguis'd me quite. I am afraide, and yet Ile venture it. If I get downe, and do not breake my limbes, He finde a thouland Inites to get away; As good to dye and go; as dye, and flay. Oh me, my Vnckles spirit is in these slones, Heaven take my foule and England keep my bones Dus

Enter Pembroke Salubury, & Bigor Sal. Lords, I will meet him of S. Edmondsbury, It is our laferie, and we must embrace This gentle offer of the perillous time. Pem. Who brought that Letter from the Cardinal? Sal. The Count Melanne, a Noble Lord of France. Whose private with me of the Dolphines love, Is much more generall, then these lines import.

Fig.

Big. To morrow morning let vs meete him then, S.al. Or rather then let forward, for 'twill be Two long dayes ioumey (Lords) or ere we meete. Emer Baftard.

Buff. Once more to day well met, distemper'd Lords,

The King by me requests your presence straight.
Sal. The king hath dispossed himselfe of vs. We will not lyne his thin-bestained cloake With our pure Honors: nor attend the foote That leaves the print of blood where ere it walkes. Returne, and tell him fo : we know the worst.

Baft. What ere you thinke, good words I thinke were best.

Sal. Our greefes, and not our manners reason now Baft. But there is little reason in your greefe. Therefore twere reason you had manners now. Pem. Sir, fir, imparience hath his priviledge. Baft. Tis true, to hurt his master, no mans else. Sal. This is the prison: What is he lyes heere? P.Oh death, made proud with pure & princely beuty. The earth had not a hole to hide this deede.

Sal. Murther, as hating what himselfe hath done,

Doth lay it open to vige on revenge.

Big. Or when he doom'd this Beautie to a grave,
Found it too precious Princely, for a grave.

Sal. Sir Richard, what thinke you! you have beheld, Or have you read, or heard, or could you thinke? Or do you almost thinke, although you fee, That you do fee? Could thought, without this obical Forme such another? This is the very top, The heighth, the Crest: or Crest vnto the Crest Of murthers Armes: This is the bloodiest shame, The wildest Sauagery, the vildest Stroke That euer wall-ey'd wrath, or staring rage Presented to the teares of fost remorfe. Pem. All murthers past, do stand excus'd in this:

And this so sole, and so vnmatcheable, Shall give a holineffe, a puritie, To the yet vnbegotten finne of times; And prone a deadly blood-fied, but a ieft, Exampled by this heynous spectacle.

Bast. It is a damned, and a bloody worke,

The graceleffe action of a heavy hand, If that it be the worke of any hand.

Sal. If that it be the worke of any hand? We had a kinde of light, what would enfue: It is the shamefull worke of Huberts hand, The practice, and the purpole of the king: From whose obedience I forbid my soule, Kneeling before this ruine of sweete life, And breathing to his breathleffe Excellence The Incense of a Vow.a holy Vow: Neuer to taste the pleasures of the world, Neuer to be infected with delight, Nor conversant with Ease, and Idlenesse, Till I have fer a glory to this hand, By giving it the worthip of Revenge.

Pem. Big. Our foules religiously confirme thy words.

Enter Hubert.

Hub. Lords, I am hot with halte, in feeking you, Arthur doth live, the king hath fent for you. Sal. Oh he is bold, and blushes not at death, Auant thou hatefull villain, get thee gone. Sal Must I rob Hu. I am no villaine.

Bast Your sword is bright fir, put it vp againe. Sal. Not till I sheath it in a murtheters skin.

Hub. Stand backe Lord Salsbury, fland backe I fay.
By heauen, I thinke my fword's as fharpe as yours.
I would not have you (Lord) forget your felfe, Nor tempt the danger of my true defence; Least I, by marking of your rage, forget your Worth, your Greatnesse, and Nobility.

Big. Out dunghill: dar'st thou brave a Nobleman? Hub. Not for my life: But yet I dare desend

My innocent life against an Emperor. Sal. Thou are a Murcherer.

Hub. Do not proue me so:

Yet I am none. Whole tongue lo ere speakes falle, Not truely speakes: who speakes not truly, Lies.

Pem. Cut him to peeces Baft. Keepe the peace, I fay.

Sal. Standby, of I shall gaul you Faulconbridge.

Bast. Thou wer't better gaul the divell Salsbury. If thou but frowne on me, or flirre thy foote, Or teach thy hastic spleene to do me shame, He firike thee dead. Put vp thy sword betime, Or He fo maule you, and your tofling-Iron, That you shall thinke the divell is come from hell.

Big. What will thou do, renowned Funlconbridge?

Second a Villaine, and a Muttherer?

Hub Lord Bigor, lamnone.

Big. Who kill'd this Prince? Hub. 'Tis not an houre fince I left him well: I honour'd him, I lou'd him, and will weepe My date of life out, for his sweete lives losse.

Sal Trust not those cunning waters of his eyes, For villanie is not without fuch theume, And he, long traded in it, makes it feeme Like Rivers of remorfe and innocencie. Away with me, all you whole foules abhorre Th'vncleanly fauours of a Slaughter-house, For I am stiffed with this smell of sinne.

Big. Away, toward Burie, to the Dolphin there. P. There tel the king, he may inquire vs out Ex Lords. Ba. Here's a good world: knew you of this faire work? Beyond the infinite and boundleffe reach of mercie, (If thou didft this deed of death) art y damn'd Hubert.

Hub Do but heare me sir. Bast. Ha? He tell thee what.

Thou it damn'd as blacke, nay nothing is so blacke, Thou art more deepe damn'd then Prince Lucifer: There is not yet fo vgly a fiend of hell As thou shalt be, if thou didst kill this childe.

Hub. Vpon my soule.
Baft. If thou didst but consent To this most cruell Act: do but dispaire, And if thou want'ft a Cord, the smallest thred That ever Spider twifted from her wombe Will ferue to strangle thee: A rush will be a beame To hang thee on. Or wouldst thou drowne thy selfe, Put but a little water in a spoone, And it shall be as all the Ocean, Enough to stiffe such a villaine vp. I do suspect thee very greenously.

Hub. If I in act, consent, or finne of thought, Be guiltie of the stealing that sweete breath Which was embounded in this beauteous clay, Let hell want paines enough to torture me:

I left him well.

Baft. Go, beare him in thine armes: I am amaz'd me thinkes, and loofe my way Among the thornes, and dangers of this world

How

18

How easie dost thou take all England up , From forth this morcell of dead Royaltie? Thelife, the right, and truth of all this Realme Is fled to heaven ; and England now is left To tug and feamble, and to part by th'teeth The vn owed interest of proud (welling State i Now for the bare-pickt bone of Maiesty, Doth dogged warre brille his angry creft, And fnarleth in the gentle eyes of peace: Now Powers from home, and discontents as hom Meet in one line; and valt confusion wattes As doth a Rauen on a ficke-falne beaft, The inment decay of wrested ponipe Now happy he, whose cloake and center can Hold out this tempelt. Beare away that childe, And follow me with speed : He to the King: A thouland bulinelles are briefe in hand , And heaven it telfe doth fromne vpon the Land.

Allus Quartus, Scana prima.

Enter King lobm and Pandelph, attendants.

K. John. Thus have I yeelded up into your hand The Circle of my glory. Pan. Takezgaine

From this my hand, as holding of the Pope Your Soucraigne greatnelle and authoritie.

John. Now keep your holy word, go meet the French, And from his holineffe vicall your power To ftop their marches fore we are enflain'd: Our discontented Counties due revolt: Our people quarrell with obedience, Swearing Allegiance, and the love of foule To ftranger-bloud, to forren Royalty; This inundation of millempred humor, Rests by you onely to be qualified. Then paule not . for the prefent time's fo licke . That prefent medcine mult be ministred, Or overthrow incureable enfues.

Pand. It was my breath that blew this Tempest up. Vpon your stubborne vlage of the Pupe. But hince you are a gentle convertite, My tongue shall hush againe this storme of warre, And make faire weather in your blullring land: On this Ascention day, remember well, Vpon your oath of feruice to the Pope, Goe I to make the French lay downe their Armos. Exil

John. Is this Ascension day: did not the Prophet Say, that before Alcention day at noone, My Crowne I should give off? even so I have: I did suppose it should be on constraint, Bur (lieau'n be thank d) it is hut voluntary. Enter Buffard.

Baft. All Kenthach yeelded : nothing there holds out But Douer Caffle : London hath receiu d Like a kinde Hoft, the Dolphin and his powers. Your Nobles will not heare you, but are gine To offer feruice to your cnemy : And wilde amazement liurries vp and downe The little number of your doubtfull friends.

John. Would not my Lords returne to me againe After they heard young Arthur was alive!

Ball. They found him dead, and call into the freed An empty Casket, where the lewell of life By force damn'd hand was rob d, and cane away.

John. That villaine Hubert told me he did live Hall So on my loule he did, for ought he knew But wherefore doc you droope, why looke you fad? Be great in act, as you have beene in thought: Let not the world fee feare and fad diffrust Coverne the motion of a kingly eye. Be firring as the time, be fire with fire, Threaten the threatner, and out-face the brow Of bragging horror : So thall inferior eyes That borrow their behaviours from the great. Grow great by your example, and put on The dauntlesse spirit of resolution. Away, and glifter like the god of warre When he intenderh to become the field: Shew boldnesse and aspiring confidence: What, shall they seeke the Lion in his desine. And tright him there? and niake him tremble there! Oh let it not be faid! forrage, and runne To meet displeasure farther from the dores . And grapple with him ere he come so nye

John. The Legat of the Pope hath beene with mes. And I have made a happy peace with him, And he hath promis'd to dismisse the Powers

Led by the Dolphin.

Baft. Ohinglorious league: Shall we vpon the footing of our land, Send layre-play-orders and make comprimile, Infinuation, parley, and bafe truce To Armes Invaline? Shall a beardlelle boy, A cockred filken wanton brave our fields, And fielh his spirit in a warre-like soyie, Mocking the agre with colours idlely spred, And finde no cheeke ? Let vs my Liege to Armes : Perchance the Cardinall cannot make your peace; Orifhedoe, let it at leaft be faid They law we had a purpole of defence.

John Haue thou the ordering of this present time. hall. Aviay then with good courage : yet, I know Our Partie may well meet a prowder foc.

Scæna Secunda.

Exter (in Armer) Dolphin, Salubury, OMeloune, Perabroke Bigos, Souldsers.

Dol. My Lord Molloone, let this be coppied our. And keepe it fafe for our remembrance: Returne the president to those Lords againe. That having our faire order written downe. Both they and we, peruling ore thefenores May know wherefore we tooke the Sacrament, And keepe out faithes firme and inviolable.

Sal Vpon our fides it neuer shall be broken. And Noble Dolphin, albeit we sweare A voluntary zeale, and an vn-ueg'd Faith To your proceedings: yet beleeve me Prince, I am not glad that fuch a fore of Time Should sceke a plaster by contemn'd revolt, And heale the inveterate Canker of one wound,

By making many: Oh it grieues my foule, That I must draw this merste from my side To be a widdow-maker : oh, and there Where honourable rescue, and desence Cries our vpon the name of Salubury. But fuch is the infection of the time . That for the health and Phyficke of our right, We cannot deale but with the very hand Of sterne Iniustice, and confused wrong: And is't not pitty, (oh my grieued friends)
That we, the fonnes and children of this Isle, Was borne to fee fo fad an houre as this . Wherein we step after a stranger, march Vpon her gentle bosom, and fill vp Her Enemies rankes? I must withdraw, and weepe Vpon the spot of this inforced caule, To grace the Gentry of a Land remote, And follow vnacquainted colours heere: What heere? O Nation that thou couldstemous, That Neptunes Armes who clippeth thee about, Would beare thee from the knowledge of thy felfe, And cripple thee vnto a Pagan shore, Where these two Christian Armies might combine The bloud of malice, in a vaine of league, And not to spend it so vn-neighbourly

Dalph. A noble temper doft thou shew in this, And great affections wraftling in thy bosome Doth make an earth-quake of Nobility: Ch, what a noble combat haft fought Between compulfion, and a braue respect: Let me wipe off this honourable dewe That filuerly doth progresse on thy cheekes: My heart hath melted at a Ladies teares, Being an ordinary Inundation: But this effusion of fuch manly drops This showre, blowne up by tempest of the soule, Scartles mine eyes, and makes me more amaz'd Theo had I feene the vaultie top of heaven Figur'd quite ore with burning Meteors. Lift up thy brow (tenowned Saluburie) And with a great hears heave away this florme: Commend these waters to those baby-eyes That neuer faw the giant-world enrag'd Nor met with Fortune, other thep at fealts, Full warm of blood, of mirth, of goffipping:
Come, come; for thou shalt thrust thy hand as deepe Into the purse of sich prosperity As Lewis himselfe: fo (Nobles) shall you all, That knit your finewes to the strength of mine.

Euter Pandulpho.

And euenthere, methinkes an Angell spake,
Looke where the holy Legate comes apace,
To give vs warrant from the hand of heaven,
And on our actions set the name of right
With holy breath.

With holy breath.

Pand. Haile noble Prince of France:

The next is this: King Iohn hath reconcil'd

Himselfeto Rome, his spirit is come in,

That so shood out against the holy Church,

The great Metropolis and Sea of Rome:

Therefore thy threatning Colours now windevp,

And tame the sauage spirit of wilde warre,

That like a Lion softered up athand,

It may lie gently at the foot of peace,

And be no surther harmefull then in shewe.

Dol. Your Grace shall pardon me, I will not backe:

I am too high-borne to be proportied To be a secondary at controll, Or viefull feruing-man, and Instrument To any Soueraigne State throughout the world. Your breath first kindled the dead coale of warres, Besweene this chastiz'd kingdome and my selfe. And brought in matter that should feed this fire: And now 'tis farretoo huge to be blowne out With that same weake winde, which enkindled it You taught me how to know the face of right, Acquainted me with interest to this Land Yea, thrust this enterprize into my heart, And come ye now to tell me John hath made His peace with Kome ? what is that peace to me? I (by the honour of my matriage bed) After yong Arthur, claime this Land for mine, And now it is halfe conquer'd, must I backe, Because that John hath made his peace with Rome? Am I Romes Claue? What penny hath Rome borne? What men provided? What municion fent To under-prop this Action? Is't not I That vnder-goe this charge? Who elfe but I. And such as to my claime are liable, Sweat in this bufinesse, and maintaine this warre! Haue I not heard thefe Manders shout out "Usue le Roy, as I have bank'd their Townes? Haue I not heere the best Cards for the game To winne this easie match, plaid for a Crowne? And shall I now give ore the yeelded Set? No, no, on my soule it neuer shall be faid.

Pand. You looke but on the out-lide of this worke.

Dol. Out-fide or in-fide, I will not returne
Till my attempt so much be glorified,
As to my ample hope was promised,
Before I drew this gallant head of warre,
And cull'd these fiery spirits from the world
To out-looke Conquest, and to winne renowne
Euen in the lawes of danger, and of death
What lusty Trumpet thus doth summon vs f
Enter Bastard.

Ball. According to the faire-play of the world, Let me have audience: I am fent to fpeake: My holy Lord of Millane, from the King I come to learne how you have dealt for him: And, as you answer, I doe know the scope And warrant limited vnto my tongue.

Pand. The Dolphin is too wilfull opposite And will not temporize with my intreaties: He flatly saies, hee Il not lay downehis Armes.

Baft. By all the bloud that ever fury breath'd, The youth faies well. Now heare our Englift King, For thus his Royaltie doth speake in me: He is prepar'd, and reason to he should, This spift and vnmannerly approach This barnels'd Maske, and vnaduifed Reuell, This vn-heard fawcinesse and boyish Troopes, The King doth smile at, and is well prepar'd To whip this dwarfish warre, this Pigmy Armes From out the circle of his Territories That hand which had the ftrength, even at your dore, To cudgell you, and make you take the hatch, To diuelike Buckets in concealed Welles, To crowch in litter of your Rable plankes To lye like pawnes, lock'd vp in chefts and truncks, To hug with swine, to seeke sweet safety out In yaults and prifons, and to thrill and shake,

Euen

Euen at the crying of your Nations crow,
Thinking this voyce an armed Englishman,
Shall that victorious hand be feebled heere,
That in your Chambers gaue you chafficement?
No. know the gallant Monarch is in Armes,
And like an Eagle, O're his agerie cowies.
To fowsse amneyance that comes neere his Ness;
And you degenerate, you ingrate Revolts,
you bloudy Nero's, ripping up the wombe
Of your deere Mother-England blush for shames
Fot your owne Ladies, and pale-visag'd Maides,
Like Amazoni, come tripping after drummes:
Their thimbles into atmed Gantlets change,
Their Needl's to Lances, and their gentle hearts
To sierce and bloody inclination.

Dol. There end thy brave, and turn thy face in peace, We grant thou canft out-scold vs : Far thee well, We hold our time too precious to be spent

With fuch a brabler.

Pen. Give me leave to speake.

Bast. No, I will speake.

Dol. We will attend to neyther:

Strike vp the drummes, and let the tongue of warre.
Pleade for our interest, and our being heere.

Baft. Indeede your drums being beaten, wil cry out;
And so shall you, being beaten: Do but start
An excho with the claimot of thy drumme,
And cuen at hand, a drumme is readic brac'd,
That shall reuerberate all, as lowd as thine.
Sound but another, and another shall
(As lowd as thine) rattle the Welkins cate,
And mocke the deepe mouth of Thunder: for at hand
(Not trossing to this halting Legate heere, Whoms he hash vs'd rather for sport, then neede)
Is warlike sobre and in his fore-head sits
A bare-tib'd death, whose office is this day
To seast vpon whose thousands of the French.

Dal. Strike vp our drummes, to fuide this danger out.

Baft. And thou shalt finde it (Dolphin) do not doubt

Exercise.

Scana Tertia.

Altrums. Enter lobn and Hubert.

I ohn. How goes the day with vs? oh tell are Habers.
Hab. Badly I feare; how fares your Marefty?
I ohn. This Fearer that hath troubled me lo long,
Lyes hearie on me: oh, my heart is licke.

Enter a Messenger.

Mess. My Lord: your valuant kinsman Falconbridge,
Desires your Maiestie to leave the field,
And send him word by me, which way you go.

Iohn. Tell him toward Surbysed, to the Abbey there.

Mef. Be of good comfort; for the great supply, That was expected by the Dolphin heere, Are wrack'd three nights ago on Goodsin lands. This newes was brought to Richard but even now, The French fight coldly, and retyre themselves.

Scena Quarta.

Enter Salubury, Pembroke, and Bigos.

Sal. I did not thinke the King to flor'd with fileada.

Pem. Vp once agains: put spirit to the French,

If they miscarry: we miscarry too.

Sal. That misbegotten dwell Falconbridge, In spight of spight, alone vpholds the day. Pena. They say King John fore sick, bath left the field.

Enter Meloon wanded.

Mel. Lead me to the Revolts of England herre,

Sal When we were happie, we had other names.

Pem. It is the Count Meloone.

Sal. Wounded to death.

Mel. Fly Noble English, you are bought and sold, Vnthred the rude eye of Rebellion, And welcome home againe discarded saith, Seeke out King John, and fall before his seete: For if the French be Lords of this loud day, He meanes to recompence the paines you take, By cutting off your heads: Thus hath he sworne, And I with him, and many moe with mee, Vpon the Altar at S. Edmondibury, Euch on that Altar, where we swore to you Deere Amity, and euerlasting love.

Sal. May this be possible? May this be true? Mel. Have I not bideous death within my view, Retaining but a quantity of life,
Which bleeds away, even as a forme of waxe Resolueth from his figure 'gainst the fire? What in the world should make me now deceive, Since I must loofe the vie of all deceite? Why should Ethen be falle, since it is true That I must dye heere, and live hence, by Truth? I lay againe, if Lewis do win the day, He Is for sworne, if ere those eyes of yours Behold snother day breake in the East :" But even this night whose blacke coaragious breach Already (moakes about the burning Creft Of the old, feeble, and day-weatted Sunne, Euen this ill night, your breathing shall expire, Paying the fine of rated Treachery, Euen with a treacherous fine of all your lives: If Lovi, by your assistance win the day. Commend me to one Hubert, with your Tung; The love of him, and this respect besides (For that my Grandfire was an Englishman) Awakes my Conscience to confesse all this, In lieu whereof, I pray you beare me hence From forth the noile and rumour of the Field; Where I may thinke the remnant of my thought lo peace: and part this bodie and my foule With contemplation, and devout defires.

Sal. We do believe thee, and before my forth,
But I do love the favour, and the forme
Of this most faire occasion, by the which
We will entread the steps of demand slight,
And like a based and retired flood,
Leaving our ranknesse and irregular course,
Stoope lowe within those bounds we have ore-look's,
And calmely run on in obedience
Even to our Ocean, to our great King Islan.
My arme shall give thee helpe to beare thee hence,

Fe:

For I do see the cruell pangs of death Right in thine eye. A way, my friends, new flight, And happie newnesse, that intends old tight

Scena Quinta.

Enter Dolphin, and bu Traine. Del. The Sun of heaven (me thought) was loth to fet But (taid, and made the Westerne Welkin blush, When English measure backward their owne ground In faint Retire: Oh brauely came we off, When with a volley of our needlesse shot, After fuch bloody toile, we bid good night, And woon'd our tatt'ring colours clearly vp. Last in the field, and almost Lords of it. Enter a Meffenger.

Mef. Where is my Prince, the Dolphin?

Dol. Heere: what newes !

Mef. The Count Meloone is flaine: The English Lords By his perswasion, are againe falne off, And your supply, which you have wish'd so long, Are cast away, and sunke on Goodwin lands.

Dol. Ah fowie, shrow'd newes. Bestrew thy very did not thinke to be fo fad to night As this hath made me. Who was he that laid King John did flie an houre or two before The flumbling night did part our wearie powres?

Mef. Who ever spoke it, it is true my Lord.

Del. Well: keepe good quarter, & good care to night,

The day shall not be up so soone as I, To try the faire adventure of to morrow. Excunt

Scena Sexta.

Enter Bastard and Hubert, sourcely. Hub. Whole there? Speake hoa, speake quickely, or I moore.

Baft. A Friend. What are thou?

Hub. Of the part of England.

Baft. Whether doest thou go? Heb. What's that to thee?

Why may not I demand of thine affaires, 45 well as thou of mine?

Baft. Hubert, I thinke.

Hub. Thou hast a perfect thought: I will upon all hazards well beleeve Thou are my friend, that know'ft my tongue so well: Who are thou?

Beff. Who thou wilt : and if thou pleafe Thou mailt be-friend me so much, as to thinke I come one way of the Plantagenets.

Heb. Vikinde remembrance: thou, & endlesnight, Haue done me shame: Braue Soldier, pardon me, That any accent breaking from thy tongue. Should scape the true acquaintance of mine eare.

Bost. Come, come: sans complement, What newes

His. Why haere walke I, in the black brow of night To finde you out.

Breefethen: and what's the newes? Hub. Omy fweet fir, newes fitting to the night, Blacke, fearefull, comfortleffe, and horrible.

Boff. Shew me the very wound of this ill newes, Lamno woman, lle not iwound at it, Imb. The King I feare is poylon'd by a Monke, I left him almost speechlesse, and broke out To acquaint you with this euill, that you might The better arme you to the fodzine time, Then if you had at leifure knowne of this.

Baff. How did he take it? Who did tafte to him? Hub. A Monke I tell you, a resolued villains Whole Bowels fodainly burft out: The King Yet speakes, and peraduenture may recouer.

Boff Who didft thou leave to tend his Maiesty? Hub. Why know you not? The Lords are all come backe,

And brought Prince Herry in their companie, Ac whose request the king hath pardon'd them,

And they are all about his Maicstie.

Bast. With hold thine indignation, mighty beauen, And tempt vs not to beare about our power He tell thee Hubert, halfe my power this night Passing these Flate, are taken by the Tide, Thefe Lincolne-Washes have devoured them, My felfe, well mounted, hardly have escap'd. Away before: Conduct me to the king, I doubt he will be dead, or ere I come. Exeum

Scena Septima.

Bater Prince Herry, Salisburia, and Biget. Bon. It is too late, the life of all his blood Is touch'd, corruptibly : and his pure braine (Which some suppose the soules fraile dwelling house)
Doth by the idle Comments that it makes, Fore-tell the ending of mortality.

Emer Pembroke. Pem. His Highnesse yet doth speak, & holds beleefe, That being brought into the open syre, It would all sy the burning qualitie Of that fell porton which affayleth him.

Hm. Let him be brought into the Orchard beere; Dorh he still rage?

Pem, He is more patient

Then when you left him; com now he fung,

Hon. Oh vanity of ficknesses factoresmes In their continuance, vall not feele themfelues. Death having praide upon the outward parts Leanes them inuifible, and his feige is now Against the winde, the which he prickes and wounds With many legions of strange santafies, Which in their throng, and presses that last hold, Counfound themselves. Tis strange y death shold sing: I am the Symet to this pale faint Salan, Who chaunts a dolefull hymne to his owne death, And from the organ-pipe of frailety fings His foule and body to their lafting weft.

Sal. Be of good comfort (Prince) for you are borne To fee a forme spon that indigeft

Which he hash left fo shapelesse, and forude.

I ohn brought in.
I ohn. I martie, now my fouls hath elbow roome,

It would not out at windowes, por at doores, There is so hot a summer in my bosome, That all my bowels crumble up to dult i I am a feribled forme drawne with a pen Vpon a Parchment, and against this fire Do I (hrinke vp. Hen. How faces your Maiesty?

Ich. Poylon'd, ill fare : dead, furlouke, east off. And none of you will bid the winter come To thrust his yeit fingers in my maw; Not let my kingdomes Rivers take their courfe

Through my burn d bosome nor increat the North To make his bloake winder kiffe my parched lips, And comfort me with cold. I do not aske you much, I begge cold comfort, and you are fo Ataight And so ingratefull, you deny me that.

Hon. Oh that there were some vertue in my terres,

That might releeve you.

John. The falt in them is hot . Within me is a hell, and there the poylon is, as a fiend, confin d to tyrannize. On vorepreeuable condemned blood. Enger Ballard.

Baft. Oh, I am scalded with my violent motion And spleene of speede, to see your Maielly.

loba. Oh Cozen, thouart come to fet mine eye: The tackle of my heart, is crack'd and burnt, And all the shrowds wherewith my life should faile, Are turned to one thred, one little haire : My heart hath one poore firing to flay it by, Which holds but till thy newes be visered, And then all this thou feeft, is but a clod, And module of confounded royalty.

Baft. The Dolphin is preparing hither-ward, Where heaven he knowes how we shall answer him. For in a night the belt part of my powre, As I vpon advantage did remoue, Were in the Walber all vowarily, Devoured by the vnexpected flood.

Sal. You breath thele dead newes in as dead an eare My Liege, my Lord : bur now a King, now thus.

Her Even lo must I run on, and even lo Rop What furety of the world, what hope, what flay. When this was now a King, and now is clay?

Baft. Art thou gone fo? I do but ftay behinde. To do the other for thee, of revenge, And then my foule shall watte on thee to heaven,

As it on earth bath bene thy Gruare Ail. Now, now you States, that move in your right foreres Where be your powres? Shew now your monded faiths And instantly returne with me agains To push destruction, and perperual shame Our of the weake doore of our fainting Land . Straight let vs feeke, or fraight we shall be fought, The Dolphine rages at out veric heeles.

Sal It feemes you know not then fo much as we. The Cardinall Pandulph is within at rest. Who halfe an house fince came from the Dolphin. And brings from him fuch offers of our peare, As we with honor and respect may take, With purpose presently to leave this warre.

Baft. He will the rather do in whon he lees Our felues well finew'd to our defence.

Sal. Nay, tis in a manner done already. For many carriages hee hash disporth'd To the lea lide, and put his cause and quarrell To the disposing of the Cardinall, With whom your felfe, my felfe, and other Lords, If you thinke meete, this afternoone will posts To confummate this bufineffe happily.

Bast. Let it be so, and you my noble Prince. With other Princes that may best be spar'd, Shall waire voon your Fathers Funerall.

Hen. At Worffer must his bodie beintert d. For so he will'dit.

Baft. Thuher Chall it then, And happily may your fweet felfe put on The lineall state, and glorie of the Land, To whom with all lub mission on my knee. I do bequeath my faithfull ferunces And true Subie Cion everlastingly.

Sel. And the like tender of our love wee make To red withour a spot for evermore.

Hen. I have a kinde foule, that would give thankes, And knowes nothow to do it, but with reares. Baft. Ohlet vs pay the time : but need ull woe.

Since it hath beene before hand with our greefes. This England never did, nor never shall Lye at the proud foote of a Conqueror, But when it first did helpe to wound it felfe. Now, these her Princes are come home againe, Come the three corners of the world in Armes, And we shall shocke them : Naught fhall make vs rue, If England to it felle, do refi but true. Exmin

The life and death of King Richard the Second.

Altus Primus, Scana Prima.

Enter King Richard, John of Gaunt, with other Nobles and Attendants.

King Richard.

Ld John of Gauns, time-honoured Lancaster, Hall thou according to thy oath and band Brought hither Henry Herford thy bold fon: Heere to make good 9 boiltrous late appeale,

Which then our leyfure would not let vs heare, Against the Duke of Norfolke, Thomas Mowbray?

Gaunt. I have my Liege.

King. Tell me moreover, hast thou founded him, If he appeale the Duke on ancient malice, Or worthily as a good subject should On some knowne ground of treacherie in him. Gaunt. As neere as I could lift him on that argument,

On some apparant danger scene in him, Aym'd at your Highnesse, no inucterate malice.

Km. Then call them to our presence face to face, And frowning brow to brow, our selves will beare Th'accuser, and the accused, freely speake; High stomack'd are they both, and full of ite, In rage, deafe as the fea; hafie as fire.

Enter Bullingbrooke and Mowbray. Bul. Many yeares of happy dayes befall My gracious Soueraigne, my most louing Liege. Mow. Heth day still better others happinelle, Vntill the heavens enuying earths good hap, Adde an immortall title to your Crowne.

King. We thanke you both, yet one but flatters vs, As well appeareth by the cause you come, Namely, to appeale each other of high treafor. Coolin of Hereford, what doll thou object Against the Duke of Norfolke, Thomas Monoray?

Bul. First, heaven be the record to my speech, In the denotion of a fubielts love, Tendering the precious safetie of my Prince, And free from other misbegotten hate, Come I appealant to this Princely presence. Now Thomas Mowbray do I turne to thee, And marke my greeting well : for what I speake, My body shall make good vpon this earth, Or my divine foule answer it in heaven. Thou art a Traitor, and a Miscreant; Too good to be for and too bad to live Since the more faire and christall is the skie,

The vglier feeme the cloudes that in it Age: Oncemore, the more to aggravate the note. With a foule Traitors name stuffe I thy throte, And with (fo please my Soueraigne) ere I moue, What my tong speaks, my right drawn sword may prove Mow. Let not my cold words heere accuse my zeale: Tis not the triall of a Womans warre, The bitter clamour of two eager tongues, Can arbitrate this cause betwixt vs twalne: The blood is hot that must be cool'd for this. Yet can I not of luch tame patience boall, As to be huffit, and nought at all to fay. Firft the faire reverence of your Highnesse curbes mee. From giving teines and spurres to my free speech. Which else would post, vntill it had retuin'd These tearmes of treason, doubly downe his throat. Setting afide his high bloods royalty, And let him be no Kinfman to my Liege, I do defie him, and I fpit at him, Call him a flanderous Coward, and a Villaine: Which to maintaine, I would allow him oddes, And meete him, were I tide to tunne afoote Euen to the frozen ridges of the Alpes, Or any other ground inhabitable, Where ever Englishman durst set his soote. Meane time, let this desend my loyaltie, By all my hopes most falfely doth he lie.

Bul. Pale trembling Coward, there I throw my gage, Disclaiming heere the kindred of a King, And lay afide my high bloods Royalty, Which feare, not reuerence makes thee to except. If guilty dread hath left thee fo much strength, As to take up mine Honors pawne, then stoope. By that, and all the rites of Knight-hoodelse, Will Imake good against thee arme to arme, What I have spoken, or thou canst deurse.

Mov. I take it vp, and by that sword I sweare, Which gently laid my Knight-hood on my thoulder, lle answer thee in any faire degree, Or Chiualrous designe of knightly triall: And when I mount, alive may I not light. If I be Traitor, or vniustly fight.

King. What doth our Cofin lay to Mowbraies charge? It mult be great that can inherite vs,

So much as of a thought of ill inhim.

Bul. Looke what I faid, my life thall proue it true, That Mowbray hath teceiu'd eight thousand Nobles, Inname of lendings for your Highnesse Soldiers, The which he hath detain'd for lewd employments, Like a falle Traitor, and joiurious Villaine. Beside: I say, and will in battaile proue Orheere, or elfewhere to the furtheft Verge That cuer was furuey'd by English eye, That all the Treafons for these eighteene yeares Complorted, and contrived in this Land, Ferch'd from falle Mowbray their fifthead and spring. Further I fay, and further will maintaine Vpon his bad life, to make all this good That he did plot the Duke of Gloufters death, Suggest his loone beleeuing aductionies, And consequently, hke a Traitor Coward, Sluc'd out his innocent foule through streames of blood Which blood, like facrificing Abels cries, (Even from the toongleffe cavernes of the earth) To me for juffice, and rough chafficement : And by the glorious worth of my discent, This arme shall do it, or this life be spent. King. How high a pitch his resolution soares i Thomas of Norfolke, what layest thou to this?

Mon. Ohler my Sourraigue turne away his face, And bid his eares a little while be deafe, Till I have told this flander of his blood, How God, and good men, hate fo foule a lyar.

King. Mowbry, impartial are our eyes and eares, Were he my brother, nay our kingdomes heyre, As he is but my fathers brothers fonne; Now by my Seepters awe, I make a vow, Such neighbour-necreneffe to our facred blood, Should nothing priviledge him, nor partialize The vn-stooping firmeneffe of my vpright foule. He is our subject (Mowbray) so are thou, Free speech, and sear-lesse, I to thee allow.

Mow. Then Bullingbrooke, as low as to thy heart. Through the falle pellage of thy throat; thou lyeft Three pares of that receipt I had for Callice, Disburst I to his Highwell'e fouldiers; The other part referu'd I by confent, For that my Soueraigne Liege was in my debt, Vpon remainder of a deere Accompt, Since laft I went to France to fetch his Queene : Now (wallow downe that Lye. For Gloufters death, I flew him not; but (to mine owne difgrace) Neglected my Sworne duty in that eale : For you my noble Lord of Lancafter, The honourable Father to my foe, Once I did lay an ambush for your life, A trespalle that doth vex my greeued soule: Bur ere Ilaft receiu'd the Sacrament, I did confesse it, and exactly begg d Your Graces pardon, and I hope I had it. This is my fault: as for the rest appeal'd, It issues from the rancour of a Villaine, A recreams, and most degeberate Traitor, Which in my felfe I boldly will defend, And interchangeably hurle downe my gage Vpon this ouer-weening Traitors foote,]
To proue my felfe a loyall Gentleman, Even in the best blood chamber'd in his besome. In haft whereof, most heartily I pray Your Highnesse to assigne our Trial day.

King. Wrath-kindled Gentlemen be rul'd by me t Let's purge this choller without letting blood: This we prescribe, though no Physician, Deepe malice makes too deepe incifion Fotget, for give, conclude, and be agreed.
Our Doctors fay, Tries is no time to bleed.
Good Vinchle, let thit end where is begun
Wee'l calme the Duke of Norfolke, you, your fon
Gaust. To be a make-peace shall become my age,
Throw downe (my sonne) the Duke of Norfolke, gags
King. And Norfolke, throw downe bis
Gaust. When Harrie when Obedience bids.
Obedience bids I should not bid agen.
King. Norfolke, throw downe, we bidde, there is no boose.

Mos. My seife I throw dread Source gne) at they took
My life thou shalt command, but not my shame.
The one my dute owes, but my faire name
Despight of death, that lives upon my grave
To darke dishonours use, thou shalt not have
I am disgrac'd, impeach'd, and bassel'd heere,
Piere'd to the soule with slanders unom'd spease
The which no balme can cute, but his heart blood
Which breath'd this pouson.

King. Rage must be withstood:

Give me his gage: Lyons make Leopards tame.

Me, Yea, but not change his spots take but my shame
And I resigno my gage. My deere, deere Lord.

The purest treasure mortall times afford
Is spotlesse reputation: that away,
Men are but gilded loame, or painted clay.

A Icwell in a ten times barr'd vp Chest,
Is a bold spirit, in a loyall brest.

Mine Honor is my life; both grow in one:
Take Honor from me, and my life is done.

Then (decre my Liege) mine Honor let me trie,
In that I live; end for that will I die.

Kag Coolin, throw downeyour gage,
Do you begin.

Bul. On heaven defend my foule from fuch foule lin.
Shall I feeme Crest-filme in my fathers light,
Or with pale beggar-feare impeach my hight
Before this out-dat'd dastard? Ere my thong,
Shall wound mine honor with fuch sceble wiong;
Or found so base a parle: my teeth shall teare
The south motive of recanting seare.
And spic it bleeding in his high disgrace,
Where shame doth berbour, even in Mowbrages sace

King. We were not borne to sue, but to command, Which since we cannot do to make you friends, Be readie, (as your lives shall answer it) At Coventree, upon S. Lamberts day:
There shall your (words and Lances arbitrate)
The swelling difference of your settled hate:
Since we cannot attone you, you shall see lustice designe the Victors Chualtie.
Lord Marshall, command our Officers at Armes, Be readie to direct these home Alarmes.

Scana Secunda.

Enter Gaunt, and Descheffe of Glourefier.
Govern. Alas, the part I had in Gloufters blood,
Doth more folicite me then your exclaimes.
To firre against the Butchers of his life.

Bu

But fince correction lyeth in those hands
Which made the fault that we cannot correct,
Put we our quarrell to the will of heaven,
Who when they see the houres ripe on earth,
Will raigne hot vengeance on offenders heads.

Dut. Findes brotherhood in thee no Tharper Spurre? Hath love in thy old blood no living fire? Edwards feuen fonnes (whereof thy felfe are one) Were as seuen violles of his Sacred blood, Or feuen faire branches springing from one rootes Some of those seven are dride by natures course, Some of those branches by the deftinies cut : But Thomas, my deere Lord, my life, my Glouster, One Violl full of Edwards Sacred blood, One flourishing branch of his most Royall roote Is crack'd, and all the precious liquor fpilt; Is hackt downe, and his fummer leafes all vaded By Enuies hand, and Murders bloody Axe. Ah Gaunt! His blood was thine, that bed, that wombe, That mettle, that felfe-mould that fashion'd thee, Made him a man; and though thou liu'ft, and breath'ft, Yet art thou flaine in him : thou doft confent In some large measure to thy Fathers death, In that thou feeft thy wretched brother dye, Who was the modell of thy Fathers life. Call it not patience (Gaunt) it is dispaire, In fuff ring thus thy brother to be flaughter'd, Thou shew'ft the naked path way to thy life, Teaching sterne murther how to butcher thee r That which in meane men we intitle patience Is pale coldeowardice in noble brefts: What shall I say, to fafegard thine owne life, The best way is to venge my Glousters death.

Gaunt. Heavens is the quarrell: for heavens substitute
His Deputy annointed in his fight,
Hath caus'd his death, the which if wrongfully
Let heaven revenge: for I may never lift
An angry arms against his Minister.

Din. Where then (alas may I) complaint my selfe & Gan. To heaven, the widdowes Champion to defence

Dut. Why then I will: farewell old Gaunt.
Thou go'ft to Couentrie, there to behold
Out Cofine Herford, and fell Mowbray fight:
O fit my husbands wrongs on Herfords speare,
That it may enter butcher Mowbrayes brest:
Or if misfortune misse the first carreere,
Be Mowbrayes sinnes so heavy in his bosome,
That they may breake his foaming Coursers backe,
And throw the Rider headlong in the Lists,
A Caytiffe recreant to my Coline Herford:
Farewell old Gaunt, thy sometimes brothers wise
With her companion Greese, must end her life.
Gau. Sifter farewell: I must to Couentree,

As much good flay with thee, as go with mee.

Dat. Yet one word more: Greefe boundeth where it
Not with the empte hollownee, but weight: (falls,
I take my leave, before I have begun,
For forrow ends not, when it feemeth done.
Commend me to my brother Edmand Tarke.
Loe, this is all; nay, yet depart not fo,
Though this beall, do not fo quickly go,
I shall remember more. Bid him, Oh, what?
With all good speed at Plashie visit mee.
Alacke, and what shall good old Yorke thete fee
But empty lodgings, and vnfurnish'd walles,
Vn-peopel'd Offices, vnttoden stones?

And what heare there for welcome, but my grones?
Therefore commend me, let him not come there,
To feeke out forrow, that dwels every where:
Defolase, defolate will I hence, and dye,
The last leave of thee, takes my weeping eye.

Exempt

Scena Tertia.

Enter Marshall, and Aumerle.

Mar. My L. Anmerle, is Harry Herford arm'd.

Aum. Yea, at all points, and longs to enter in.

Mar. The Duke of Norfolke, sprightfully and bold,

Stayes but the summons of the Appealants Trumpet.

Au. Why then the Champions, are prepared, and stay

For nothing but his Maiesties approach.

Flouris.

Enter King, Gaunt, Bushy, Bagot, Greene, & others: Then Mowbray in Ar. mor, and Harrold.

Rich. Marshall, demand of yonder Champion The cause of his arrivall heere in Armes, Aske him his name, and orderly proceed To sweare him in the justice of his cause.

Mar. In Gods name, and the Kings. (29 who $ art, And why thou com'ft thus knightly clad in Armes? A gainft what man thou com'ft, and what's thy quarrell, Speake truly on thy knighthood, and thine oath, As so defend thee heaven, and thy valour.

Mow. My name is Tho. Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk, Who hither comes engaged by my oath (Which heaven defend a knight should violate) Both to defend my loyalty and truth, To God, my King, and his succeeding issue, Against the Duke of Herford, that appeales met And by the grace of God, and this mine arme, To prove him (in defending of my selfe) A Traitor to my God, my King, and me, And as I truly fight, desend me heaven.

Tucket. Enter Hereford, and Harold.
Rich. Marthall: Aske yonder Knight in Atmes,
Both who he is, and why he commeth hither,
Thus placed in habiliments of warre:
And formerly according to our Law
Depose him in the lustice of his cause.

Mar. What is thy name? and wherfore comft 9 hither Before King Rechard in his Royall Lifts? Against whom com's thou? and what's thy quarrell? Speake like a true Koight, so defend thee heauen.

Bul. Harry of Herford, Lancaster, and Derbie,
Am I: who ready heere do stand in Armes,
To proue by heauens grace, and my bodies valour)
In Lifts, on Thomas Mowbray Duke of Norfolke,
That he's a Traitot foule, and dangerous,
To God of heauen, King Richard, and to me,
And as I truly fight, defend me heauen.

Mar. On paine of death, no person be so bold, Or daring hardie as to touch the Listes, Except the Marshall, and such Officers Appointed to direct these faire designes.

Bul. Lord Marshall, let me kisse my Soucraigns hand, And bow my knee before his Maiestie: For Mowbray and my selfe are like two men, That you a long and weary pilgrimage,

Then

Then let vs take a ceremonious leave
And louing fartvell of out feuerall friends.

Mar. The Appealant in all duty greets your Highnes, And craves to kille your hand, and take his leave.

Rieb. We will defeend, and fold him in our armes.
Colin of Herford, as thy cause is suft,
So be thy fortune in this Royall fight:
Fareweil, my blood, which if to day thou shead,
Lament we may, but not reuenge thee dead.

Bull. Oh let no noble eye prophane a teare For me, if I be got'd with Mowbrages speare: As confident, as is the Falcons flight Againft a bird, do I with Mowbray fight. My louing Lord, I take my leave of you, Of you (niy Noble Cofin) Lord samerle; Not ficke, although I have to do with death, But lustie, yong, and cheerely drawing breath Loc, as at English Feasts, so I regreete The daintiest last, to make the end most sweet. Oli thou the earthy author of my blood, Whose youthfull spirit in me regenerate, Doth with a two-fold rigor lift mee vp To reach at victory about my head, Adde proofe voto mine Armour with thy prayres, And with thy blessings seele my Lances point, That it may enter Mowbrages waxen Coate, And furnish new the name of lohn a Gaunt, Euen in the lufty haujour of his sonne.

Gaunt. Heaven in thy good cause make thee ptospirous
Be swift like lightning in the execution,
And let thy blowes doubly redoubled,
Fall like amazing thunder on the Caske
Of thy amaz'd pernicious enemy.
Rouze up thy youthfull blood, be valiant, and live.
Bul. Mine innocence, and S. George to thrive.

Mor. How ever heaven or fortune cashiny lot,
There lives, or dies, true to Kings Richards Throne,
A loyall, just, and vpright Gentlemant
Never did Captine with a freet heart,
Cast off his chaines of bondage, and embrace
His golden vncontroul'd enfranchisement,
More then my dancing soule doth celebrate
This Feast of Battell, with mine Adversarie.
Most mighty Liege, and my companion Peeres.
Take from my mouth, the wish of happy yeares,
As gentle, and as iocond, as to lest,

GoI to fight: Truth, hath a quiet breft.

Rich. Farewell, my Lord, fecurely I efpy
Vertue with Valour, couched in thine eye:
Order the triall Marshall, and begin.

Mar. Harrie of Herford, Lancaster, and Derby, Receive thy Launce, and heaven defend thy right.

Bul. Strong as a towre in hope, I ery Amen.
Mar. Go beare this Lance to Thomas D. of Norfolke.

1. Har. Harry of Herford, Lancafer, and Derbis,
Stands heere for God, his Souerasgne, and himfelfe,
On paine to be found falfe, and recreant,
To proue the Duke of Norfolke, Thomas Moubray,
A Traitor to his God, his King, and him,

And dares him to fet forwards to the fight.

2. Har. Here standeth Tho: Mombray Duke of Norfolk
On paine to be found falle and recream,
Both to defend himselse, and to approve
Henry of Hersard, Lancaster, and Derby,
To God, his Sourraigne, and to him distoyalla
Couragiously, and with a free desire

Attending but the fignall to begun. A charge founds
Mer. Sound Teumpeta, and fet forward Combassite
Stay, the King hath throwne his Warder dovine.

Rich. Let them lay by their Helmets & their Spearer And both returne backe to their Chaires againe: Withdraw with vs. and let the Trumpets found, While we returne their Dukes what we decree.

A long Flouryb.

Draw neere and lift
What with our Councell we have done.
For that our kingdomes earth should not be soyld
With that deere blood which it hath softered,
And for our eyes do hate the dire aspect
Of civil! wounds plowgh'd vp with neighbors swords,
Which so rouz'd vp with boy strous vneun'd drummes.
With harsh resounding Trumpets dreadfull bray,
And gracing shocke of wrathfull yron Armes,
Might from our quiet Confines fright faire peace,
And make vs wade even in our kindreds blood:
Therefore, we banish you our Territories.
You Cosin Herford, v, on paine of death,
Till twice suc Summers have enrich'd our fields,
Shall not regreet our faire dominions,
But treade the stranger pathes of banishment.

Bul. Your will be done: This must my comfort be, That Sun that warmes you heere, shall shine on me: And those his golden beames to you heere lent, Shall point on me, and gild my banishment.

Rich. Norfolke: for thee remaines a heaver dombe, Which I with some vnwillingnesse pronounce. The slye flow houres shall not determinate. The datelesse limit of thy deere easile: The hopelesse word, of Neuer to returne. Breath I against thee, upon paine of life.

Mow. A heavy fentence, my most Soueraigne Liege, And all valook'd for from your Highoesic mouth: A deerer merit, not fo deepe a maime, As to be cast forth in the common ayre Haue I deserved at your Highnesse hands. The Language I have learn'd thefe forty yeares (My native English) now I must forgo, And now my tongues vie is to me no more, Then an vnftringed Vyall, or a Harpe, Or like a cunning Instrument cas'd vp. Or being open, put imo his hands That knowes no touch to tone the harmony. Within my mouth you have engaol'd my tongue, Doubly percullift with my teeth and lippes, And dull, vnfeeling, barren ignorance, Is made my Gaoler to attend on me : I am too old to fawne vpon a Nurse, Too farre in yeeres to be a pupill now: What is thy fentence then, but speechlesse death, Which robsmy tongue from breatling native breath? Rich It boots thee not to be compassionate,

After our fentence, plaining comes too late.

Mow. Then thus I turne me from my countries ligh

To dwell in foleme (hades of endleffe night, Ru. Returne againe, and take an oath with thee, Lay on our Royall (word, your banisht bands; Sweare by the duty that you owe to heaven (Our part therein we banish with your felaes)
To keepe the Oath that we administer:
You were shall (so helpe you Truth, and Heaven)
Embrace each others ione in banishment,
Not ever looke you neach others face,

Nor

Not euer write, regreete, or reconcile This lowring tempelt of your home-bred hate, Nor ever by advised purpose meete, To plat, contriue, or complot any ill, Gainst Vs. our State, out Subjects, or our Land. Bull. I Sweate.

Mow. And I, to keepe all this.

Bul. Norfolke, so fare, as to mine enemie, By this time (had the King permitted vs) One of our foules had wandred in the ayre, Banish'd this fraile sepulchre of our flesh, As now our flells is banish'd from this Land. Confesse thy Treasons, ere thou flye this Realme, Since thou haft faire to go, beare not along The clogging burthen of a guilty foule.

Mow. No Bullingbroke: If ever I were Traitor, My name be blotted from the booke of Life, And I from heaven banish'd, as from hence But what thou art, heaven, thou, and I do know, And all too foone (I feate) the King shall rue Farewell (my Liege) now no way can I stray, Saue backe to England, all the worlds my way. Exit.

Rich. Vicle, even in the glaffes of thine eyes I fee thy greened heart : thy fad afpect, Hath from the number of his banith'd yeares Pluck'd foure away: Six frozen Winters Spent, Returne with welcome home, from banishment:

Bul. How long a time lyes in one little word: Fourelagging Winters, and foure wanton (prings End in a word, fuch is the breath of Kings.

Gaunt. I thanke my Liege, that in regard of me He shortens source yeares of my sonnes exile : But little vantage shall I reape thereby. For eac the fixe yeares that he hath to fpend Can change their Moones, and bring their times about, My oyle-dride Lampe, and time-bewasted light Shall be extinct with age, and endlesse night: My inch of Taper, will be burnt, and done, And blindfold death, not let me fee my fonne.

Rich. Why Vncle, thou hast many yeeres to line. Gaunt. But not a minute (King) that thou canst give; Shorten my dayes thou canft with fudden forow, And plucke nights from me, but not lend a morrow: Thou canst helpe time to furrow me with age, But ftop no wrinkle in his pilgrimage: Thy word is current with him, for my death, But dead, thy kingdome cannot buy my breath.

Rie. Thy sonne is banish'd vpon good aduice, Whereto thy tongue a party-verdict gaue, Why at our Juftice feem'ft thou then to lowre?

Gan. Things sweet to tall, proue in digestion sowre: Youvrg'd me as a Judge, but I had rather you would have bid me argue like a Father. Alas, I look'd when some of you should fay, I was too frict to make mine owne away: But you gave leave to my vnwilling tong, Against my will, to do my selfe this wrong. Rich, Cofine sarewell; and Vncle bid him for Six yeares we banish him, and be shall go. Exit. Flourish.

Au. Cofine farewell: what presence must not know From where you do remaine, let paper show. Mar. My Lord, no leave take I, for I will ride As farre as land will let me, by your fide.

Cause. Oh to what purpose dost thou hord thy words,

That thou returnft no greeting to thy friends?

Bull. I have too few to take my leave of you When the tongues office should be prodigall, To breath th'abundant dolour of the heart.

Gan. Thy greefe is but thy absence for a time. Bull. loy absent, greese is present for that time. Gau. What is fixe Winters, they are quickely gone? Bul. To men in ioy, but greefe makes one houre ten. Gan. Call it a trauell that thou tak'ft for pleasure.

Bul. My heart will figh, when I miscall it so, Which findes it an inforced Pilgrimage.

Can. The fullen passage of thy weary steppes Esteeme a soyle, wherein thou are to see The precious lewell of thy home returne.

Bul. Oh who can hold a fire in his hand By thinking on the froftie Caucafus? Or cloy the bungry edge of appetite, by bare imagination of a Feaft? Or Wallow naked in December Inow by thinking on fantaflicke fummers heate? Oh no, the apprehension of the good Gives but the greater feeling to the worfe : Fell forrowes tooth, doth ever ranckle more Then when it bites, but lanceth not the fore.

Gan. Come, come (my fon) He bring thee on thy way Had I thy youth, and cause, I would not stay.

Bul. Then Englands ground farewell: fweet foil adieu, My Mother, and my Nurse, which beares me yet: Where ere I wander, boaft of this I can, Though banish'd, yet a true-borne Englishman.

Scœna Quarta.

Enter King, Aumerle, Greene, and Bagot. Rich. We did obserue. Cofine Anmerle, How far brought you high Herford on his way? Aum. I brought high Herford (if you call him fo) but to the next high way, and there I left him.

Rich. And say, what store of parting rears were shed: Aum. Faithnone for me; except the Northeast wind Which then grew bitterly against our face, Awak'd the fleepie rhewme, and fo by chance Did grace our hollow parting with a teare.

Rich. What faid our Colin when you parted with him? An. Farewell: and for my hart diffained y my tongue Should so prophane the word, that taught me craft To counterfest oppression of such greete, That word feem'd butied in my forrowes graue. Marry, would the word Farwell, have lengthen'd boutes, And added yeeres to his short banshment, He should have had a volume of Farwels. but fince it would not, he had none of me.

Rich. He is our Cofin (Cofin) but 'tis doube, When time shall call him home from banishments Whether our kiniman come to fee his friends, Our selfe, and Bushy : heere Bagos and Green Obseru'd his Courtship to the common people > How he did feeme to dive into their hearts, With hamble, and familiat courtefie, What reuerence he did throw away on flaues: Wooing poore Craftel-men, with the craft of foules, And patient under-bearing of his Fortune, As twere to banish their affects with him. Off goes his bonnet to an Oyfer-wench,

A brace of Dray-men bid God speed him well,
And had the tribute of his supple knee,
With thankes my Countrimen, my louing friends,
As were our England in reversion his,
And he our subjectenest degree in hope.

Gr. Well, he is gone, & with him go these thoughts in Now for the Rebels, which fland out in Ireland, Expedient manage must be made my Liege. Ere further leyfure, yeard them surther meanes. For their advantage, and your Highnesse losse.

For their advantage, and your Highnesse losse.

Rie. We will our selse m person to this warre,
And for our Coffers, with too great a Court,
And liberall Largesse, are growne somewhat light,
We are insort'd to farme our royall Reasme,
The Revennew whereof shall funish va
For our estayres in hand: if that come short
Our Substitutes at home shall have Blanke-charters:
Whereto, when they shall know what men are rich,
They shall subscribe them for large summes of Gold,
And send them after to supply our wants
For we will make for Ireland presently.

Euter Bushy,

Bushy, what newes?

"Bu. Old John of Guint is verie fieke my Lord. Sodainly taken, and hath fent polt halfe To entreat your Maiefly to visit him.

Rie. Where lyzs he? Bu. At Ely house.

Rir. Now put it (heaven) in his Phylitians minde,
To helpe him to his grave immediately:
The lining of his coffers shall make Coares
To decke our souldiers for these Irish warres.
Come Gentlemen, let's all go visit him:
Pray heaven we may make hast, and come too late. Exm.

Adus Secundus. Scena Prima.

Enter Gount, ficke with Torke.

Gas. Will the King come, that I may breath my last In wholfome counfell to his vostated youth? Yor. Vea not your felfe, nor strive not with your breth,

For all in vaine comes counfell to his care

Gass. Oh but (they fay) the tongues of dying men Inforce attention like deepe harniony; Where words are scarse, they are seldome spens in vaine, For they breath truth, that breath their words in paine. He that no innore must say, is listen'd more, Then they whom youth and ease have taughs to glose, More are mens ends marks, then their lives before, The fetting Sun, and Musicke is the close As the last taste of sweeters, is sweetest last. Writting membrance, more then things long past; Though Richard my lives counsell would not heare, My deaths sad tale, may yet vindease his eare.

Tor. No, it is flopt with other flatt'ring founds. As praifes of his flate: then there are found Laterinous Meeters, to whose venom found. The open care of youth doth alwayes listen. Report of faithions in proud Italy, Whose manners still our cardie apish Nation.

Limper after in bafe imitation.

So it be new, there's no respect how vile, That is not quickly buz'd into his extes ? That all too late comes councell to be beard, Where will doth mutiny with with regard: Direct not him, whole way himselfe will choose, Tis breath thon lackft, and that breath wile thou longe Cause. Methinkes I am a Prophet new inspit And thus expiring, do foretell of him, His rash herce bleze of Ryot cannot last, For violent fires soone burne out themselves, Sniall (howres last long, but fodame flormes are shore. He tyres betimes, that spurs too fast betimes; With eager feeding, food doth thoake the feeder: Light vanity, infatiate curmorant, Confuming meanes soone preyes upon it selfe.
This royall Throne of Kings, this sceptred life, This earth of Maiefly, this seece of Mars, This other Eden, demy paradife, This Fortresse built by Nature for her selfe, Against insection, and the hand of warre : This happy breed of men, this little world. This precious flone, fet in the filuer fea, Which ferues it in the office of a wall, Or as a Monte defensive to a house, Against the enuy of lesse happier Lands, This bleffed plot, this earth, this Realme, this England, This Nurse, this reeming wombe of Royall Kings, Fear'd by their breed, and famous for their birth. Renowned for their deeds, as farre from home, For Christian service, and true Chivalrie, As is the Sepulcher in Hubborne lury Of the Worlds ransome, bleffed Maries Sonne. This Land of fuch decre foules, this deere-deere Land. Deere for her reputation through the world, Is now Less'd out (I dye pronouncing it) Like to a Tenement or pelting Farme.

Where doth the world thruft forth a vanity,

Enter King, Queene Azmerle, Bufty, Greene,
Runger, Ros, and Willoughby.

Tor The King is come, deale mildly with his youth,
For young hot Colts, being 123'd do rage the more,
Qu. How fares our noble Vincle Lancaster?

Ri. What comfort man? How iff with aged Gount?
Ga. Oh how that name befits my composition:
Old Gauser indeed, and gaunt in being old:
Within me greefe hath kept a tedous fish,
And who abstaynes from meate, that is not gaunt?
For fleeping England long time have I watcht,
Watching breeds leannesse, leannesse is all gaunt.
The pleasure that some Fathers seede upon,
Is my strict fast, I meane my Childrens lookes,
And therein fasting, hast thou made me gaunt:
Gauntam I for the grave, gaunt as a grave,
Whose hollow wombe inherits naught but bones.

England bound in with the triumphant sea, Whose rocky shore beates backe the envious siedge Of watery Neptune, is now bound in with shame, With Inky blocces, and totten Perchment bonds.

Ahl would the foundall vanish with my life,

How happy then were my enfuing death?

That England, that was wont to conquer others, Hath made a shamefull conquest of it selfe.

Ric. Can fieke men play fo nicely with their names?

Gus. No, milery makes sport to mocke it selfe:
Since thou doft seeke to kill my name in mcc,

I mocke my name (great King) to flatter thee
Ric. Should dying men flatter those that live?

Cau. No, no, men living flattet those that dye. Rich. Thounows dying, fayit thou flatter'ff me.

Can Ohno, thou dyell, though I the ficker be. Rich. Iam in health, I breath, I fee thee ill.

Can. Now he that made me, knowes I fee thee ill: Ill in my felfe to fee, and in thee, feeing ill, Thy death-bed is no leffer then the Land, Wherein thou lyelt in reputation ficke, And thou too care-leffe patient as thou art, Commit's thy anointed body to the cure Of those Physicians, that first wounded thee. A thousand flatterers fit within thy Cowne. Whose compasse is no bigger then thy head, And yet ineaged in fo Small a Verge, The waste is no whic lesser then thy Land : Oh had thy Grandlire with a Prophets eye, Seene how his fonnes fonne, fhould deftroy his fonnes, From forth thy reach he would have laid thy shame, Depofing thee before thou wert pollett, Which are pollelt now to depole thy felfe. Why (Cofine) were thou Regent of the world, It were a shame to let his Land by lease: But for thy world enjoying but this Land, Is it not more then shame, to shame it so? Landlord of England are thou, and not King: Thy stare of Law, is bondstaue to the law,

And-Rich. And thou, a lunaticke leane-witted foole, Prefuming on an Agues primledge, Dar'R with thy frozen admonition Make pale our cheeke, chafing the Royall blood With fury, from his native relidence Now by my Seates right Royall Maichie, Wer't thou not Brother to great Edwards fonne, This tongue that runs foroundly in thy head, Should run thy head from thy voreverent shoulders.

Gau. Oh spare me not, my brothers Edwards some, For that I was his Father Edwards fonne : That blood already (like the Pellican) Thou haft capt out, and drunkenly carows'd My brother Gloucester, plaine well meaning foule Whom faire befall in heaven mongst happy soules) May be a prefident, and witneffe good, That thou respect it not spilling Edwards blood 1 loyne with the present ficknesse that I have, And thy vnkindnesse be like crooked age, To crop at once a too-long wither'd flowre, Live in thy shame, but dye not shame with thee, These words heereafter, thy tormentors bee, Convey me to my bed, then to my grave, Loue they to liue, that love and bonor have. Exil

Rich And let them dye, that age and fullens have, For both hast thou, and both become the graue. Tor. I do beseech your Maiestie impute his words To wayward ficklineffe, and age in him : He loves you on my life, and holds you deere As Harry Duke of Herford, were he heere.

Rich. Right, you say true : as Herfords love, so his ; As cheirs, so mine : and all be as it is.

Enter Northumberland.

Nor My Liege, olde Gaunt commends him to your Moreflie.

Rich. What fayes he?

Nor. Nay nothing, all is faid: His congue is now a firinglesse instrument, Words, life, and all, old Lancaster hath spent.

Yer. Be Yorke the next, that must be bankrupt fo,

Though death be poore, it ends a mortall wo.

Rich. The ripefl fruit first fals, and so doth he, His time is spent, our pilgrimage must be: So much for that, Now for our Irish warrer We must supplant those rough rug-headed Kernes. Which live like venom, where no venom else But onely they, have priviledge to live. And for thele great affayrer do aske forme charge Towards our assistance, we do seize to vs The place, coine, revennewes, and moueables, Whereof our Vnele Gaum did fland poffell.

Tor. How long shall I be patient? Oh how long Shall tender dutie make me fuffer wrong? Not Gloufters death, nor Herfords banishment, Nor Gauntes rebukes, not Englands private wrongs, Nor the prevention of poore Bullingbrooks, About his marriage, nor my owne diffrace Haue ever made me fowre my pasient checke, Or bend one wrinckle oo my Sourraignes face: I am the last of noble Edwards fonnes, Of whom thy Father Prince of Wales was firft, In warre was neuer Lyon rag'd more fierce: In peace, was neuer gentle Lambe more milde, Then was that yong and Princely Gentleman. His face thou hall, for even fo look'd he Accomplish'd with the number of thy howers: But when he frown'd, it was against the French, And not against his friends: his noble hand Did win what he did spend : and spene not that Which his triumphant fathers hand had won: His hands were guilty of no kindreds blood, Bur bloody with the enemies of his kinne: On Richard, Torke is too farre gone with greefe, Or elle he neuer would compare betweene.

Rich. Why Vocle, What's the matter?

Tor. Oh my Liege, pardon me if you pleafe, if not I pleas'd nor to be pardon'd, am content with all: Seeke you to feize, and gripe into your hands The Royalties and Rights of banish'd Herford ? Is not Gauss dead? and doth not Herford live? Was not Gannt juft? and is not Harry true? Did not the one deferue to have an heyre? Is not his heyre a well-deferving fonne? Take Herfords rights away, and take from time His Charters, and his cultomerie rights: Let not to morrow then infue to day, Be not thy felfe. For how art thou a King But by faire lequence and fuccession? Now afore God, God forbid ! fay true, If you do wrongfully leize Herfords right, Call in his Letters Parents that he hath By his Attumeyes generall, to fue His Liverie, and denie his offer'd homage, You plucke a chousand dangers on your head, You looke a thouland well-disposed hearts, And pricke my tender patience to those thoughts Which honor and allegeance cannot thinke.

Rie. Thinke what you will : we seile into our hands, His place, his goods, his money, and his lands. Tor. He not be by the while: My Liege fatewell, c 3

What will enfue heereof, there a none can tell. But by bad cou fes may be understood, That their euents can neuer fall out good, Kich. Go Bufbie to the Earle of Wilifber Reighe. Bid him repaire to ve to Ely house, To fee this businelle . to motion next We will for Ireland, and tis time, I trow . And we create in ablence of our lelfe Our Vncle Yorke, Lotel Governor of England: For he is suff, and alwayes loud va well Come on our Queer e, to morrow must we part, Be merry, for our time of flav is fhort.

Manet North. Willoughby. & Rof Nor Well Lords, the Duke of Lancafter is dead. Rof. And living too, for now his forme is Duke. Wil Barely in title, not in revennew Nor. Richly in both, if iustice had her right. Koff My heatt is great : but it must break with filence, Er's be disburthen d with a liberall tongue.

Nor. Nay speake thy mind. & let him ne'r speak more That speakes thy words againe to do thee harme.

Fil Tends that thou dif speake to th Du. of Hereford,

If it be fo, out with it boldly man, Quicke is mine ease to heare of good towards him

Roff. No good at all that I can do for him, Vnleffe you call it good to pitie him, Bereft and gelded of his patrimonie.

Ner. Now afore heaven, 'tis fhame luch wrongs are borne,

In him a royall Prince, and many moe Of noble blood in this declining Land; The King is not himselfe, but balely led By Flatterers, and what they will informe Meerely in hace 'gainst any of vs all, That will the King feuerely profecute Gzinst vs, our lives, our children, and our heires.

Ref. The Commons harh he pill d with greenous taxes. And quite lost their hearts: the Nobles hath he finde For ancient quarrels, and quite loft their hearts.

Wil. And daily new exactions are denis'd, As blankes, beneuolences, and I wornot what: But what o'Gods name doch become of this?

Nor. Wars hathnot walled it, for war'd lie bath not. But basely yeelded upon comprimize, That which his Ancestors atchieu'd with blowes a

More hath he spent in peace, then they in warres.
Rof. The Earle of Willshire hath the realme in Farme. Wil. The Kings growne bankrupe like a broken man. Nor. Reproach, and diffolution hangeth over him.

Rof. He hach not monie for these Irish warres: (His burthenous tazations not with flanding)

But by the robbing of the banish d Duke. Nor. His noble Kinfman, most degenerate King: But Lords, we heare this fearefull tempeft fing, Yet leeke no shelter to avoid the storme: We fee the winde hi fore upon out failes, And yet we strike not, but securely perish

Rof. We lee the very wracke that we must fuffer, And vnauoyded is the danger now For luffering to the caules of our wracke.

Nor. Not fo : even through the hollow eyes of death, I face life peering : but I date not fay How neere the tidings of our comfort is.

Wil. Nay let vs Thate thy thoughts, as thou doft outs Rof. Be confident to speake Northumberland, Ne three, are but thy felfe, and speaking so,

Thy words are but as thoughts, therefore be bold Nor. Then thus I have from Port & Blan A Bay iti Britaine, receiv d intelligence, That Harry Duke of Herford, R mald Lord cobbone That late broke from the Duke of Extrer, His brother Archbishop, late of Camerbury, Sis Thomas Expingham, Sis John Kainflon, Sit John Norberie, Sit Robert Waterion, & Francis Quern All these well furnish d by the Duke of Britains. With eight tall thips, three thousand men of warre Are making hither with all due expedience, And shortly means to touch our Northerne shore I Perhaps they had ere this, but that they flay The first departing of the King for Ireland. If then we shall shake off our flausth youke. Impe out out dronping Countries broken wing, Redeenie from broaking pawne the blemish & Crowne Wipe of the duft that hides our Scepters gile, And make high Maieftie looke like it felle, Away with ine in pulleto Rausnipurgh, But if you faint, as fearing to do fo, Stay, and be feeret, and my felfe will go. Rof. To horse, to horse, vige doubts to them & fear wil. Hold out my horse, and I will first be there.

Scena Secunda.

ENGUNE.

Enter Queene, Rufny, and Bagon. Bush. Madam, your Maiesty is too much sad. You promis'd when you parted with the King. To lay afide felfe-harming heavineffe, And entertaine a cheerefull disposition.

Qu. Toplezie me King, I did toplezse my selse I cannot do it : yet I know no cause Why I should welcome such a guest as greele, Sauc bidding farewell to fo fweet a guest As my lwcer Richard; yet againe me thinkes, Some unborne lorrow, ripe in fortunes wombe Is comming towards me, and my inward foule With nothing trembles, at fomething it greenes, More then with parting from my Lord the King.

Bush. Each substance of a greefe hash twenty shadow Which shewes like greefe it lelfe, but is not so: For forrowes eye, glazed with blinding teares. Divides one thing intire, to many objects, Like perspectives, which rightly gaz'd vpon Shew nothing but confusion, ey'd awry, Distinguish forme: so your sweet Maiestie Looking awry vpon your Lords departure, Finde shapes of greefe, more then himselfe to waite, Which look'd on as it is, is naught bur shadowes Of what it is not : then thrice-gracious Queene, More then your Lords departure weep not more's not Or if it be, 'tis with falle forrowes eie, Which for things true, weepe things imaginary,

Qu. It may be fo : but yet my inward foule Perswades me it is otherwise : how ere it be, I cannot but be fad : fo heavy fad, As though on thinking on no thought I thinke, Makes me with heavy nothing faint and shrinke. Bufb. Tis nothing but conceit (my gracious Lady.)

Qu. 'Tis nothing leffe: conceit Is still deriv'd From some fore-father greese, mine is not so, For nothing hath begot my something greese, Or something, hath the nothing that I greeue, Tis in reversion that I do possess.

But what it is, that is not yet knowne, what I cannot name, 'tis namelesse woe I wot.

Enter Greene.

Gree, Heaven faueyour Maiesty, and wel met Gentle-I hope the King is not yet shipt for Ireland. (men:

Qu Why hop'ft thou for Tis better hope he is t For his delignes craue hast, his hast good hope, Then wherefore dost thou hope he is not shipt?

Gre. Thathe our hope, might have retyr'd his power, and driven into dispaire an enemies hope, Who strongly hath set footing in this Land. The banish'd Bulling broke repeales himselfe, And with up-listed Armes is safe arsiu'd

At Rauenspurg.
Qu. Now God in heaven forbid.

Gr. O Madam 'tistoo true: and that is worfe,
The L. Northumberland, his yong fonne Henru Percis,
The Lords of Roffe, Beaumond, and Willongbby,
With all their powrefull friends are fled to him.

Bush Why have you not proclaim'd Northumberland And the reft of the revolted faction, Traitors?

Gre. We have: whereupon the Earle of Worcester Hath broke his staffe, refigned his Stewardship, And al the houshold servants sted with him to Bullin brock

Qn. So Greene, thou art the midwife of my woe, And Bullinbrooke my fortower difmall heyre:
Now hath my foule brought forth her prodegie,
And I a gasping new deliucted mother,
Haue woe to woe, fortow to fortow loyn'd.

Bufs. Dispaire not Madam.
Qu. Who shall hinder me?
I will dispaire, and be at enmitte
With couzening hope; he is a Flatterer,
A Parasite, a keeper backe of death,
Who gently would dissolute the bands of life,
Which false hopes linger in extremity.

Enter Tarke

Gre. Heere enmesthe Duke of Yorke.

Qw. With fignes of warreabout his aged nerke, Oh full of carefull bufineffe are his lookes: Vncle, for heavens take (peake comfortable words:

Vor. Comfort's in heaven, and we are on the earth, Where nothing lives but croffes, care and greefe in Your husband he is gone to fave farre off, Whilf others come to make him loofe at home? Heere am I left to vnder-prop his Land, Who weake with age, cannot support my selfe. Now comes the ficke houre that his surfet made, Now shall he try his friends that slattered him.

Enter a ferwant.

Ser. My Lord, your sonne was gone before I came.

Yor. He was: why so: go all which way it will.

The Nobles they are fled, the Commons they are cold,
And will I fear revolt on Herfords side.

Sirea, get thee to Plashie to my sister Gloster,
Bid her send me presently a thousand pound,
Hold, take my Ring

Ser My Lord, I had forgot To tell your Lordship, to day I came by, and call'd there, But I shall greeue you to report the rest.

Tor. What is't knaue?

Ser. An houre before I came, the Durcheffe di'de. Yor. Heav'n for his mercy, what a tide of woes Come rushing on this wofull Land at once? I know not what to do: I would to heaven (So my vntruth had not prouok'd him to it) The King had cut off my head with my brothers. What, are there postes dispatcht for Ireland? How shall we do for money for these warres? Come sister (Cozen I would say) pray pardon me. Go fellow, get thee home, poouide some Carts, And bring away the Armour that is there. Gentlemen, will you muster men? If I know how, or which way so order these affaires Thus disorderly thrust into my hands, Neuer beleeue me. Both are my kinsmen, Th'one is my Soueraigne, whom both my oath And dutie bids defend : th'other againe Is my kiniman, whom the King bath wrong'd, Whom conscience, and my kindred bids to right: Well, fomewhat we must do : Come Cozen, Ile dispose of you. Gentlemen, go muster vp your men, And meet me presently at Barkley Castles I should to Plashy too: but time will not permit. All is vneuen, and euery thing is left at fix and feuen. Exit

Bufb. The winde firs faire for newes to go to Ireland,
But none returnes: For vs to leavy power
Proportionable to thenemy, is all impossible.

Gr. Befides our neeseneffe to the King In love, Is neere the hate of those love not the King.

Ba And that's the wavering Commons, for theirloue Lies in their purfes, and who so empties them, By so much fils their hearts with deadly hate, Bufh. Wherein the king stands generally condemn'd Bag. If judgement lye in them, then so do we, Because we have beene euer neere the King.

Gr. Well: I will for refuge straight to Bristoll Castle,

The Earle of Wiltshire is alreadic there.

Bulh. Thither will I with you, for little office
Will the hatefull Commons performe for vs,

Except like Currey to rease wall in precess.

Will the hatefull Commons performe for vs,
Except like Curres, to reare vs all in peeces?
Will you go along with vs?
Bag. No. I will to Iteland to his Maiestie:

Bag. No, I will to Ireland to his Matelite:
Farewell, if hearts presages be not vaine,
We three here part, that neu r shall meete againe.

Bu. That's as Yorke thriues to beate back Bullinbroke
Gr. Alas poore Duke, the taske he undertakes
Is numbring fands, and drinking Oceans drie.
Where one on his fide fights, thoulands will flye.
Bulb. Farewell at once, for once, for all, and ever.

Buft. Farewell at once, for once, for all, and e Well, we may meete againe.

Bag. I feare me neuer.

Exit.

Scana Tertia.

Enser the Duke of Hereford, and Northumberland.

Bul. How farre is it my Lord to Betkley now?
Nor. Beleeue me noble Lord.
I am a ftranger heere in Glouftershire,
These high wilde hilles, and rough vineeuen waies,
Drawes out our miles, and makes them weartsomes
And yet our faire discourse hath beene as sugar,

Mak in Making the hard way fweet and delecable i But I bethinke me, what a weatie way From Rauenspurgh to Cottshold will be found, In Roffe and Willoughby, wanting your companie, Which I proteft hath very much beguild The tedioulnelle, and procelle of my trauelli But theirs is sweetned with the hope to have The present benefit that I possesse; And hope to soy, is little leffe in soy. Then hope entoy'd: By this, the wearie Lords Shall make their way feeme short, as mine hath done, By fight of what I have, your Noble Companie. Bull. Of much leffe value is my Companie.

Then your good words: but who comes here Enter H. Peren.

North. It is my Sonne, young Harry Percue, Sehr from my Brother Worcefter , Whence foeuer. Harry, how fates your Vnckle?

Percee. I had thought, my Lord, to have learn'd bis health of you.

North. Why, is he not with the Queene? Perce. No, my good Lord, he hath for look the Court, Broken his Staffe of Office, and dispers The Household of the King.

North. What was his reason?

He was not fo refolu'd, when we last spake together. Percie. Because your Lordship was proclaimed Traitor. But hee, my Lord, Is gone to Rauenspurgh, To offer service to the Duke of Hereford, And sent me over by Barkely, to discover What power the Duke of Yorke had levied there, Then with direction to repaire to Rauenspurgh. North, Haue you forgot the Duke of Hereford (Boy.)

Percie. No, my good Lord; for that is not forgot Which ne're I did temember : to my knowledge, I never in my life did looke on him.

North. Then learne to know him now: this is the Percie. My gracious Lord, I tender you my feruice, Such as it is, being tender, raw, and young, Which elder dayes shall ripen, and confirme To more approved feruice, and defert,

Bell. I thanke thee gentle Percue, and be fure

I count my felfe in nothing elfe fo happy, Asin a Soule remembring my good Friends: And as my Fortune ripens with thy Loue, It shall be still thy true Loues recompence, My Heart this Covenant makes, my Hand thus feales it.

North. How faire is it to Barkely? and what flirre Keepes good old Torke there with his Men of Warre? Percie. There stands the Castle, by youd tust of Trees, Mann'd with three hundred men, as I haue heard, And in it are the Lords of Torke, Barkely, and Soymor, None elfe of Name, and noble estimate.

Enter Rosse and Willoughby.
North. Here come the Lords of Rosse and Willowghby, Bloody with spurring, fierie red with hafte.

Bull. Welcome my Lords, I wor your love pursues A banisht Traytor; all my Treasurie Is yet but vafelt thankes, which more enrich'd, Shall be your loue, and labours recompence.

Roff. Your presence makes vs rich, most Noble Lord, Willo. And farre furmounes our labour to attaine it. Bull. Evermore thankes, th'Exchequer of the poore,

Which till my infant-fortune comes to yeeres, Stands for my Bountie: but who comes here? Enter Bobdy

North. It is my Lord of Barkely, as I ghelle. Bot, My Lord of Hereford, my Meffage is to you. Bull. My Lord, my Answere is to Lancafter, And I am come to leeke that Name in England, And I mult finde that Title in your Tongue, Before I make reply to aught you lay.

Bok. Miftake me nor, my Lord, tis not my meaning To raze one Title of your Honor out. To you, my Lord, I come (what Lord you will) From the most glorious of this Land. The Duke of Yorke, to know what pricks you on To take advantage of the absent time, And fright our Native Peace with felfe-borne Armer. Emm Yoke.

Bull. I Chall not need transport my words by you. Here comes his Grace in Person My Noble Vnckle. Tork. Show me thy humble heart, and not thy knee,

Whole dutie is decemable, and falle,

Ball My gracious Vnckle.

Tork. Tut, tut Grace me no Grace, not Vnckle me, I am no Traytors Vnckle; and that word Grace, In an vngracious mouth, is but prophene. Why have these banish'd, and forbidden Legges, Dar'd once to touch a Dust of Englands Ground & But more then why, why have they dar'd to march So many miles vpon her peacefull Bosome, Frighting her pale-fac'd Villages with Warre, And oftentation of despiled Armes? Com'fl thou because th'anoyated King is hence? Why foolish Boy, the King is lest behind, And in my loyal Bosome lyes his power. Were I but now the Lord of fuch hot youth, As when brave Gaunt, thy Father, and my felfe Rescued the Black Prince that yong Mars of men, From forth the Rankes of many thousand French ; Oh then, how quickly should this Arme of mine, Now Priloner to the Palfie, chaftife thee. And minister correction to thy Fault.

Bull. My gracious Vnekle, let me know my Fault, On what Condition flands it, and wherein?

York Even in Condition of the worlt degree, In groffe Rebellion, and detefted Treason: Thou are a banish'd man, and here are come Before th'expiration of thy time, In braving Atmes against thy Soueraigne.

Bull. As I was bantih'd, I was banish'd Horeford, But as I come, I come for Lancafter And Noble Vnckle, I befeech your Grace Looke on my Wrongs with an indifferent eye: You are my Father, for me chinkes in you I fee old Gamt alive. Oh then my Father, Will you permit, that I shall stand condemn'd A wandring Vagabond; my Rights and Royalties Pluckt from my armes perforce, and given away To vpftart Vnthrifts ! Wherefore was I borne ! If that my Coulin King, be King of England, It must be graunted, I am Duke of Lancaster. You have a Sonne, Aumerie, my Noble Kiniman, Had you first died, and he beene thus trod downe, He should have found his Vnckle Gaver a Father, To rowze his Wrongs, and chase them to the bay. I am denyde to fue my Liverie bere, And yet my Letters Parents give me leave: My Fathers goods are all diffraynd and fold, And thefe, and all, are all amille imployd.

Y has

What would you have me doe? I am a Subiet, And chaltenge Law: Attorneyes are deny'd me; And therefore personally I by my claime Tomy Inheritance of free Discent.

Morth. The Noble Duke bath been too much abus'd. Roff. It Rands your Grace vpon, to doe him right. Willo. Basamen by his endowments are made great. Tork, My Lords of England, let me tell you this,

I have had feeling of my Cofens Wrongs, And labour'd all I could to doe bim right : But in this kind, to come in brauing Armes, Be his owne Caruer, and cut out his way, To find out Right with Wrongs, it may not be; And you that doe abett him in this kind, Cherish Rebellion, and are Rebels all.

North. The Noble Duke hath sworne his comming is But for his owne; and for the right of that, Wee all have frongly sworne to give him ayd, And les him neu't fee Toy, that breakes that Oathe Tork, Well, well, I fee the iffue of theie Armes, I cannot mend ir, I must needes consesse, But if I could, by him that gaue me life, i would attach you all, and make you floope Vnto the Soucraigne Mercy of the King. But fince I cannot, be it knowne to you, I doe remaine as Neuter. So fare you well, Valeffe you please to enter in the Calile, And there repose you for this Night.

Bull. An offer Vnckle, that wee will accept:

But wee must winne your Grace to goe with vs To Bristow Cassle, which they say is held By Bufbie, Bagot, and their Complices, The Caterpillers of the Commonwealth, Which I have sworne to weed, and plucke away.

Tark, It may be I will go with you: but yet lle pawle, For I am loth to breake our Countries Lawes: Nor Friends, nor Foes, to me welcome you are, Things past redresse, are now with me past care. Exercis.

Scæns Quarta.

Emer Selisbury, and a Capacine.

Copt. My Lord of Salisbury, we have fleyd ten dayes, And hardly kept our Countreymen together, And yet we heare no tidings from the King; Therefore we will disperse our selves: farewell. Sal. Stay yet another day, thou trushe Welchman,

The King reposeth all his confidence in thee.

Capt. Tis thought the King is dead, we will not flay; The Bay-trees in our Countrey all are wither'd, And Meteors fright the fixed Starres of Heaven; The pale-fac'd Moone lookes bloody on the Earth, And leane-look'd Prophets whilper fearefull change; Rich men looke fad, and Ruffians dance and lespe, The one in feare, to loofe what they enioy, The other to enloy by Rage, and Warret Thefe fignes fore-run the death of Kings, Farewell, our Countreymen are gone and fled As well affor'd Richard their King is dead. Exit.

Sal. Ah Richard, with eyes of heavie mind, I fee thy Glory, like a shooting Starre, Fall to the base Earth, from the Firmament: Thy Sunne fets weeping in the lowly West, Witnesling Stormes to come, Woe, and Vnrest: Thy Friends are fled, to wait upon thy Foes, And croffely to thy good, all fortune goes.

Allus Tertius. Scena Prima.

Enter Bullingbrooke, Torke, Northumberland, Roffe, Percie, Willowghby, with Buffree and Greens Prifoners.

Bull. Bring forth these men: Bufbie and Greene, I will not vex your foules, (Since prefently your foules must part your bodies) With too much veging your pernitious lives, For twere no Charitie: yet to wash your blood From off my hands, here in the view of men. I will unfold some causes of your deaths. You have mis-led a Prince, a Royall King. A happie Gentleman in Blood, and Lineaments. By you rnhappied, and disfigur'd cleane: You have in manner with your finfull houres Made a Dinorce betwixt his Queene and him, Broke the possession of a Royali Bed, And flayn'd the beautie of a faire Queenes Cheekes, With teares drawn fro her eyes, with your foule wrongs. My selfe a Prince, by fortune of my birth, Neere to the King in blood, and neere in loue, Till you did make him mif-interprete me. Haue floopt my neck vnder your iniuries, And figh'd my Enghish breath in forraine Clouds, Eating the bitter bread of banishment; While you have fed vpon my Seignories, Dif-park'd my Parkes, and fell'd my Forrest Woods; From mine owne Windowes tome my Household Cost, Raz'dout my Impresse, leaving me no signe, Save mens opinious, and niy living blood, To shew the World I am a Gentleman. This, and much more, much more than twice all this, Condemnes you to the death: fee shem delivered over To execution, and the hand of death.

Bufbie. More welcome is the stroake of death to me, Then Bullingbrooks to England.

Greene. My comfort is, that Heaven will take our foules,

And plague Iniuffice with the paines of Hell.

Bull. My Lord Northumberland, see them dispatch'd: Vnckle, you say the Queene is at your House. For Heavens sake sairely let her be entreated, Tell her I fend to her my kind commends; Take speciall care my Greetings be deliver'd.

Tork. A Gentleman of mine I have dispatch'd With Letters of your love, to her at large.

Bull. Thankes gentle Vnckle: come Lords away,

To fight with Glendoure, and his Complices; A while to worke, and after holliday.

EXCHIL

Scana

Scena Secunda.

Drums: Flourist, and Colours.

Enter Richard, Anmerie, Carlile, and Souldiers.

Rich. Barkloughly Castle tall you this at hand? An. Yea, my Lord: how brooks your Grace the ayre, After your late coffing on the breaking Seas?

Rich. Needs must like it well: I weepe for loy To thend upon my Kingdoine once againe. Deere Earth, I doe falute thee with my hand, Though Rebels wound thee with their Horles hoofes: As a long parted Mother with her Child, Playes fondly with her teares, and smiles in meeting; So weeping, smiling, greet I thee my Earth, And dor thee favor with my Royall hands. Feed not thy Soueraignes Foe, my gentle Earth, Nor with thy Sweetes, comfort his ravenous sence: But let thy Spiders, that fuck vp thy Venome, And heavie-gated Toades lye in their way, Doing annoyance to the trucherous feete, Which with vsurping steps doctrample thee. Yeeld flinging Neccles to mine Enerales, And when they from thy Bosome pluck a Flower Guerd it I prethee with a lurking Adder, Whole double tongue may with a mortall touch Throw death upon thy Soueraignes Enemies. Mock not my sencelesse Consuration, Lords; This Earth shall have a feeling, and these Stones Proue armed Souldiers, ere her Native King Shall falter under foule Rebellious Armer.

Car. Feare not my Lord, that Power that made you king Hath power to keepe you King, in spight of all.

Aum. Hemeanes, my Lord, that we are too remisse,

Whileft Bullingbrooke through our fecuritie, Growes flrong and great, in substance and in friends.

Rich. Discomfortable Cousin, knowest thou not,

That when the fearthing Eye of Heauen is hid Behind the Globe, that lights the lower World, Then Theeues and Robbers raunge abroad vnseene, In Murthers and in Out-rage bloody here: But when from under this Terreffriall Ball Helires the prowd tops of the Eafterne Pines, And darts his Lightning through eury guiltic hole, Then Morthers, Treasons, and detested linnes (The Cloake of Night being pluckt from off their backr) Stand bare and naked, trembling at themselves. So when this Theefe, this Traytor Bulling brode, Who all this while hath reuell'd in the Night, Shall seevs rising in our Throne, the East, His Treasons will six blushing in his face, Not able to endure the light of Day; But selfe-affrighted, tremble at his sinne. Not all the Water in the rough rude Sea Can wash the Balme from an anoynted King; The breath of worldly men cannot depose The Deputie elected by the Lord: For every man that Bulling brooks hath preft, To lift fhrewd Steele against our Golden Crowne,

Heaven for his Richard hath in heavenly pay

A glorious Angell : then if Angels fight,
Weake men mult fall, for Heaven full guards the right, Enter Salubury

Welcome my Lord, how farre of lyes your Power? Salub. Nor neere, nor farther off, my gracious Lord, Then this weake arme; discomfort guides my tongue, And bids me speake of nothing but despaire.
One day too late, I feare (my Noble Lord) Hath clouded all thy happie dayes on Earth! Oh call backe Yesterday, bid Time returne, And thou shalt have twelve thousand fighting men: To day, to day, vnhappie day too late Orethrowes thy loyer, Friends, Fortune, and thy State; For all the Welchmen hearing thou wert dead, Are gone to Bullingbrowd adilperst, and fled.

Aum. Comfort my Liege, why lookes your Grace fo pale?

Rich. But now the blood of twentie thousand men Did triumph in my face, and they are fled, And till fo much blood thinher come againe, Haue I not reason to looke pale, and dead? All Soules that will be fafe, flye from my fide, For Time hath fet a blot vpon my pride.

Aum. Coinfort my Liege, temember who you ere.
Rich. I had forgot my felfe. Am I not King? Awake then fluggard Maiestie, thou sleepest: Is not the Kings Name fortie thousand Names? Arme, arme my Name: a punie subie & strikes At thy great glory. Looke not to the ground, Ye Fauorites of a King: are wee not high: High be out thoughts: I know my Vnckle Torks Harh Power enough to ferue our turne. But who comes here a Enter Scroope Scroope. More health and happinelle beude my Liege, Then can my care-tun'd tongue deliver him.

Rich. Mine eare is open, and my heart prepar J: The world is worldly loffe, thou canfl vnfold: Say, Ising Kingdome loft? why 'twas my Care: And what loffe is it to be rid of Care? Strives Bullingbrooke to be 21 Great as wee ? Greater he shall not be: If hec serve God, Wee'l serve him too, and be his Fellow so. Revolt our Subjects? Ilust we cannot mend, They breake their Faith to God as well as vs : Cry Woe, Destruction, Ruine, Losse, Decay, The worst is Death, and Death will have his day

Scroope. Glad am I, that your Highnelle is lo arm'd To beare the tidings of Calamitie. Like an vnleasonable flormie day, Which make the Silver Rivers drowne their Shores, As if the World were all dislou'd to seares; So high, aboue his Limits, swells the Rag Of Bullingbrooks, coueting your fearefull Land With hard bright Steele, and hearts harder then Steele: White Beares have arm'd their thin and haireleffe Scalps Against thy Maiestie, and Boyes with Womens Voyces, Strive to speake bigge, and clap their female ioints In stiffe viwieldie Armes : against thy Crowne Thy very Beads-men learne to bend their Bowes Of double fatall Eugha against thy State Yea Distaffe-Women manage rustie Bills: Against thy Seat both young and old rebell, And all goes worse then I have power to tell.

Rich. Too well too well thou tell'it a Tale foilL Where is the Earle of Wilchitel where is Baget? What is become of Bufbie? where is Greene?

That

That they have let the dangerous Enemie Measure our Confines with such peacefull steps? If we preusile, their heads shall pay for it. I warrant they have made peace with Bullingbrooke.

Scroope. Peace have they made with him indeede (my Lord.)

Rich. Oh Villains, Vipers, damn'd without redemption, Dogges, easily woon to fawne on any man, Snakes irrmy heart blood warm'd, that fling my heart, Three Iudalies, each one thrice worle then luda, Would they make peaced terrible Hell make warre Vpon their spotted Soules for this Offence.

Scroope. Sweet Loue (1 fee) changing his propertie, Turnes to the fowrest, and most deadly hate: Againe vncurfe their Soules; their peace is made With Heads, and not with Hands: those whom you curse Haue felt the worst of Deaths destroying hand, And lye full low, grau'd in the hollow ground.

Aum. 18 Bushie, Greene, and the Earle of Wileshire

Scroope. Yes all of them at Bristow lost their heads. Aum. Where is the Duke my Father with his Power? Rich. No matter where; of comfort no man speake: Let's talke of Graves, of Wormes, and Epitaphs, Make Dust our Paper, and with Raynie eyes Write Sorrow on the Bosome of the Earth. Let's chuse Executors, and talke of Wills: And yet not fo; for what can we bequeath, Saue our deposed bodies to the ground? Our Lands, our Lives, and all are Bullingbrookes, And nothing can we call our owne, but Death, And that small Modell of the barren Earth, Which ferues as Paste, and Couer to our Bones : For Heavens (ake let vs fit vpon the ground, And tell fad flories of the death of Kings: How some haue been depos'd, some saine in warre, Some haunted by the Ghosts they have depos'd, Some poylon'd by their Wives, some sleeping kill'd, All murther'd. For within the hollow Crowne That rounds the mortall Temples of a King, Keepes Death his Court, and there the Antique fits Scoffing his State, and grinning at his Pompe, Allowing him a breath, a little Scene, To Monarchize, be fear'd, and kill with lookes, Infuling him with felle and vaine conceit, As if this Flesh, which walls about our Life, Were Braffe impregnable: and humor'd thus, Comes at the last, and with a little Pinne Bores through his Caftle Walls, and farwell King. Couer your heads, and mock not flesh and blood With solemne Reuerence: throw away Respect, Tradition, Forme, and Ceremonious dutie, For you have but mistooke me all this while : I live with Bread like you, feele Want, Talle Griele, need Friends: lubieded thus, How can you fay to me, I am a King? Carl. My Lord, wife men ne're waile their prefent woes, But presently present the wayes to waile:

To feare the Foe, linee feare oppresseth ftrength, Gives in your weakenesse, strength vnto your Foe; Feare, and be flaine, no worfe can come to fight,

And fight and die, is death destroying death, Where fearing, dying, payes death feruile breath.

Aum. My Father hath a Power, enquire of him,

And learne to make a Body of a Limbe. Rich. Thou chid R me well: proud Bulingbrooks I come

To change Blowes with thee, for our day of Doome, This ague fit of feare is ouer-blowne, An eafic taske it is to winne our owne. Say Scroope, where Iyes our Vnckle with his Power?

Speake (weetly man, although thy lookes be fource,
Scroope, Men judge by the complexion of the Skie The flare and inclination of the day So may you by my dull and heavie Eye:
My Tongue hath but a heavier Tale to lay: I play the Totturer, by small and small To lengthen out the worst, that must be spoken. Your Vnckle Torke is toyn'd with Builing brooke, And all your Northerne Castles yeelded vp, And all your Southerne Gentlemen in Armes Vpon his Faction.

Rich. Thouhaft faid enough. Beshrew thee Cousin, which didst lead me south Of that sweet way I was in, to despaire: What fay you now? What comfort have we now? By Heaven Ile hate him everlastingly, That bids me be of comfort any more. Goe to Flint Castle, there Ile pine away, A King, Woes flaue, shall Kingly Woe obey: That Power I have, discharge, and let 'em goe To care the Land, that hath some hope to grow, For I haue none. Let no man speake againe To alter this, for counsaile is but vaine.

Aum. My Liege, one word. Rich. He does me double wrong, That wounds me with the flatteries of his tongue. Discharge my followers: ler them hence away, From Richards Night, to Bullengbrookes faire Day.

Scana Tertia.

Enter with Draws and Colours, Bullingbrooke, Torke, Northumberland, Attendants.

Bull. So that by this intelligence we learne The Welchmen are dispers'd, and Salisbury, Is gone to meet the King, who lately landed With some few private friends, vpon this Coast.

North. The newes is very faire and good, my Lord, Richard, not farre from hence, hath hid his head Tork. It would besceme the Lord Northumberland, To fay King Richard: alack the heavie day. When such a facred King should hide his head.

North. Your Gracemistakes: onely to be briefe, Left I his Title out.

Tork. The time hath beene, Would you have beene to briefe with him, he would Have beene so briefe with you, to shorten you,

For taking so the Head, your whole heads length.

Bull. Mistake not (Vnckle) farther then you should. Tork. Takenot (good Coulin) farther then you thould. Least you mistake the Heavens are ore your head.

Bull. I know it (Vnckle) and opposenot my selfe Against their will. But who comes here?

Enter Percie.

Welcome Harry: what, will not this Castle yeeld?

Per. The Castle royally is mann'd, my Lord, Against thy entrance.

BUR Roy.

Bull. Royally t Why, it containes no King?

Per. Yes (my good Lord)
It doth containes a King: King Riebard lyes
Within the limits of yond Lime and Stone,
And with him, the Lord Anmerke, Lord Salubury,
Sir Stephen Scroope, besides a Clergie man
Of holy reurence; who, I cannot learne.

North. Oh, belike it is the Bishop of Carlile.

BKA. Noble Lord, Goe to the rude Ribs of that ancient Caffle, Through Brazen Trumpet fend the breath of Parle Into his ruin'd Eares, and thus deliver : Henry Bullingbrooke vpon his knees doth kiffe
King Richards hand, and fends allegeance
And true faith of heatt to his Royall Person: hither come Euen at his feet, to lay my Armes and Power, Provided, that my Banishment repeal'd, And Lands restor'd againe, be freely graunted: If not, He vie th'advantage of my Power, And lay the Summers dust with showers of blood, Rayn d from the wounds of flaughter'd Englishmen; The which, how farre off from the mind of Bulling brooks It is, fuch Crimson Tempest should bedrench The fresh greene Lap of faire King Richards Land, hey stooping dutie tenderly shall shew. Goe fignific as much, while here we march Vpon the Graffie Carpet of this Plaine: Let's march without the noyle of threatning Drum, That from this Castles tatter'd Battlements Our faire Appointments may be well perus'd. Me thinkes King Richard and my felfe should meet With no lesse terror then the Elements Of Fire and Water, when their thundring smoake At meeting teares the cloudie Cheekes of Heauen: Be he the fire, le be the yeelding Water; The Rage be his while on the Earth I raine My Waters on the Earth, and not on him. March on, and marke King Richard how he lookes.

Parle without, and answere within: then a Flourish. Enter on the Walls, Richard, Carlile, Aumerle, Scroop, Saladoure.

Saladury.

See See, King Richard doth himselfe appeare
As doth the blushing discontented Sunne,
From out the fierie Portall of the East,
When he perceives the envious Clouds are bene
To dimme his glory, and to staine the track
Of his bright passage to the Occident.

Tork Yetlookes he like a King: behold his Eye

Tort: Yet lookes he like a King: behold his Ey (As bright as is the Eagles) lightens forth Controlling Msiestie: alack, slack, for woe, That any harme should staine so faire a shew

Rich. Wee are amaz'd, and thus long have we flood
To watch the fearcfull bending of thy knee,
Because we thought our selfe thy lawfull King:
And if we be, how dare thy loynts forget
To pay their awfull dutie to out presence?
If we be not, shew vs the Hand of God,
That hath dismis'd vs siom our Stewardship,
For well wee know, no Hand of Blood and Bone
Can gripe the sacred Handle of our Scepter,
Vnlesse ho doe prophase, steale, or viurpe.
And though you thinke, that all, as you have done,
Haue torne their Soules, by turning them from vs,
And we are barren, and bereft of Friends:
Yet know, my Master, God Omnipotent,
Is mustring in his Clouds, on our behalfe,

Armies of Pestilence, and they shall strike
Your Children yet unborne, and anbegot.
That lift your Vassall Handa against my Head,
And threat the Glory of my precious Crowne.
Tell Bullingbrooke, for yond me thinkes he is,
That every stride he makes upon my Land,
Is dangerous Treasont He is come to ope
The purple Testament of bleeding Warres,
But ere the Crowne he lookes for live in peace,
Ten thousand bloody crownes of Mothers Sonnes
Shall ill become the flower of Englands face,
Change the complexion of her Maid-pale Peace
To Scarlet Indignation, and bedew
Her Pastors Grasse with faithfull English Blood.

North. The King of Heaven forbid our Lord the King Should so with civill and vncivill Armes Be rush'd vpon: Thy thrice-noble Cousin, Harry Bulling brooks, doch humbly kille thy hand, And by the Honorable Tombehe (weares, That Hands upon your Royall Grandfires Bones, And by the Royalties of both your Bloods, (Currents that spring from one most gracious Head) And by the buried Hand of Warlike Gaunt, And by the Worth and Honor of himselfe, Comprising all that may be sworne, or said, His comming hither hath no further scope, Then for his Lineall Royalries, and to begge Infranchisement immediate on his knees: Which on thy Royall partie graumed once, His glittering Armes he will commend to Ruft, His barbed Steedes to Stables, and his heart To faithfull service of your Maiestie: This fweares he as he is a Prince, is just, And as I am a Gentleman, I credit him.

Rich Northumberland, say thus: The King returnes, His Noble Cousin is right welcome hither, And all the number of his faire demands Shall be accomplished without contradiction: With all the gracious viterance thou hash, Speake to his gentle hearing kind commends. We doe debase out self-(Cousin) doe we not, To looke so pootely, and so speake so faite? Shall we call back Northumberland, and send. Desiance to the Traytor, and so die?

Ann. No. good my Lord, let's fight with gentle words
Till time lend friends, and friends their helpeful Swords
Rich. Oh God, oh God, that ere this tongue of mine,
That layd the Sentence of dread Banithment
On yond prowd man, should take it off againe
With words of footh: Oh that I were as great
As is my Griefe, or lesser then my Name,
Or that I could forget what I have beene,
Or not remember what I must be now:
Swell'st thou prowd heart? He give thee scope to beat,
Since Foes have scope to beat both thee and me.

Aum. Northumberland comes backe from Bullingbrooke.

Ruch. What must the King doe now: must be submits
The King shall doe it: Must be be deposed.
The King shall be contented: Must be loose.
The Name of King I o' Gods Name let it goe.
Ile gine my lewels for a fett of Beades,
My gorgeous Pallace, for a Hermitage,
My gay Appartell, for an Almes-mans Gowne,
My figur d Goblets, for a Dish of Wood,
My Scepter, for a Palmers walking Staffe,

My

My Subjects, for a payre of carued Saints, And my large Kingdome, for a little Grave, A little little Graue, an obscure Graue. Or Ile be buryed in the Kings high-way, Some way of common Trade, where Subjects feet May howrely trample on their Soucraignes Head: For on my heart they tread now, whilest I live; And buryed once, why not vpon my Head? Aumerle, thou weep's (my tender-hearted Cousin) Wee'le make foule Weather with despised Teares: Our fighes, and they, shall lodge the Summer Corne, And make a Dearth in this revolting Land. Or shall we play the Wantons with our Woes, And make some prettie Match, with shedding Teares? As thus : to drop them still vpon one place, Till they have fretted vs a payre of Graves, Within the Earth: and therein lay'd there lyes Two Kinsmen, digg'd their Graues with weeping Eyes? Would not this ill, doe well? Well, well, I fee I talke but idly, and you mock at mee, Most mightie Prince, my Lord Northumberland, What fayes King Bullingbrooke? Will his Maiestie Give Richard leave to live, till Richard die?

You make a Legge, and Bullingbrooke fayes I.

North. My Lord, in the base Court he doth attend
To speake with you, may it please you to come downe.

Rich. Downe, downe I come, like gliss ring Phaston,
Wanting the manage of varuly Iades,

In the base Court? base Court, where Kings grow base, To come at Traytors Calls, and doethem Grace. In the base Court come down: down Court, down King, Fornight-Owls shrike, where mouting Larks should sing.

Bull. What fayes his Maieflic?
North. Sorrow, and griefe of heart
Makes him speake fondly, like a frantick man:
Yet he is come.

Bull Stand all spart, And shew faire dutie to his Maicstie.

My gracious Lord.

Rieb. Faire Cousin.

You debase your Princely Knee,
To inake the base Earth prowd with kissing it.
Me rather had, my Heart might feele your Loue,
Then my vnpleased Eye see your Courtesse.

Vp Cousin, vp., your Heart is vp., I know,
Thus high at least, although your Knee be low.

Bull. My gracious Lord, I come but for mine owne.

Reb. Your owne is yours, and I am yours, and all.

Bull. So farre be mine, my most redoubted Lord,
As my true service shall deserve your love.

Rich. Well you deferu'd:
They well deferue to haue,
That know the strong st, and surest way to get.
Vackle give me your Hand: nay, drie your Eyes,
Teares shew their Loue, but want their stemedies.
Cousin, I am too young to be your Father,
Though you are old enough to be my Heire.
What you will haue, Ile giue, and willing to,
For doe we most, what force will haue vs doe.
Set on towards London.

Coufin, is it fo?

Ball. Yea, my good Lord.

Reb. Then I mult not fay, no.

Flouris. Exenus.

Scena Quarta.

Enter the Queene, and two Ladies.

Qu. What sport shall we deuise here in this Gerden, To drive away the heavie thought of Care?

La. Madame, wee'le play at Bowles.

Qu'Twill make methinke the World is full of Rubs

And that my fortune runnes againft the By as.

La. Madame, wee'le Dance.

Qu My Legges can keepe no measure in Delight, When my poore Heart no measure keepes in Griefe. Therefore no Dancing (Girle) some other sport.

La. Madame, wee letell Tales. 24. Of Sorrow, or of Griefe?

La. Of cyther, Madame. 28. Of neyther, Girle.

For if of Yoy, being altogether wanting, It doth remember me the more of Sorrow: Or if of Griefe, being altogether hed, It addes more Sorrow to my want of Ioy: For what I haue, I need not to repeat; And what I want, it bootes not to complaine.

La. Madame Ile fing.

Qu.' Tis well that thou hast cause:
But thou should'st please me better, would'st thou weepe.
Lea Leavild weepe Madama would it doe you good

La. I could weepe, Madame, would it doe you good, Qu. And I could fing, would weeping doe me good, And never borrow any Tears of thee.

Enter a Gardiner, and two Servants.

But flay, here comes the Gardiners,
Let's step into the shadow of these Trees.
My wretchednesse, vato a Rowe of Planes,
They le talke of State; for every one doth so,
Against a Change; Woe is fore-runne with Woe.

Gard. Goebindethou vp yond dangling Apricocks, Which like viruly Children, make their Syre Stoupe with oppression of their prodigall weight: Give some supportance to the bending twigges. Goethou, and like an Executioner. Cut off the heads of too saft growing sprayes,

That looke too loftic in our Common-wealth a All must be even, in our Government. You thus imploy'd, I will goe root away. The noylome Weedes, that without profit sucke

The Soyles fertilitie from wholesome flowers.

So. Why should we, in the compasse of a Pale,
Keepe Law and Forme, and due Proportion,
Shewing as in a Modell our firme Estate?
When our Sea-walled Garden, the whole Land,
Is full of Weedes, her fairest Flowers choakt vp,
Her Fruit-trees all vnpruin'd, her Hedges tuin'd,

Her Knots diforder'd, and her wholesome Hearbes Swarming with Caterpillers.

Gard. Hold thy peace.
He that hath fuffer'd this disorder'd Spring,
Hath now himselfe met with the Fall of Leafe.
The Weeds that his broad-spreading Leaues did shelter.

That feem'd, in cating him, to hold him vp, Are pull'd vp, Root and all, by Bulling brooks: I meane, the Earle of Wileshire, Bushie, Greene.

Ser. What

Srr. What are they dead?

Gard. They are,
And Bulling brooke hash feiz d the wastefull King.
Oh, what pitty is it, that he had not so trim'd
And dress his Land, as we this Garden, as time of yeare,
And wound the Barke, the skin of our Fruit-treet,
Least being outer-proud with Sap and Blood,
With too much riches it confound it selfe?
Hadhe done so, to great and growing men,
They might have hu'd to beare, and he to talle
Their fruites of dutie. Superstuous branches
We lop away, that bearing boughes may live
Had he done so, himselfe had borne the Crowne,
Which waste and idle houres, hath quite thrown downe,

Ser. What thinke you the King shall be depos'd?

Ger. Depress he is already, and depos'd

Tis doubted he will be. Letters came last night

To a deere Friend of the Duke of Yorkes,

That tell blacke tydings.

Qu. Oh I am press to death through want of speaking:
Thou old Adam; likenesse, set to dresse this Garden:
How dates thy harsh rude tongue found this vapleasing
What Eue? what Serpent hath suggested thee, (newes
To make a second fall of cursed man?
Why do'st thou say, King Rebard is deposid,
Darst thou, thou little better thing then earth,
Diume his downsall? Say, where, when, and how Cam'st thou by this ill-tydings? Speake thou wretch.

Gard. Pardon me Madam. Little 10y haue 1
To breath these newes; yet what I say, is true;
King Richard, he is in the mighty hold
Of Bullingbrocke, their Fortunes both are weigh'd a
In your Lords Scale, is nothing but himselfe,
And some sew Vanities, that make him light:
But in the Ballance of great Bullingbrocke,
Besides himselse, are all the English Peeres,
And with that oddes he weighes King Rechard downe.
Poste you to London, and you'l finde it so,
I speake no more, then every one doth know.

Qu. Nimble mischance, that art so light of soote,
Doth not thy Embassage belong to me?
And am I last that knowes it? Oh thou think's
To scrue me Isss, that I may longest keepe
Thy sorrow in my breast. Come Ladies goe,
To meet at London, Londons King in wee.
What was I borne to this: that my sad looke,
Should grace the Triumph of great Bulingbrowse.
Gardiner, for telling me this newes of woe.

I would the Plants thou graft'st, may never grow. Exit.

O Poore Queen, so that thy State might be no worse,
I would my skill were subject to thy curser
Heere did she drop a teare, beere in this place
I leste a Banke of Rew, sowre Herbe of Graces
Rue, eu'n for ruth, heere shortly shall be seene,
In the remembrance of a Weeping Queene.

Exit.

Actus Quartus. Scæna Prima.

Enter as to the Parliament, Bullingbrocke, Ammerle, Northumberland, Percie, Fitz-Water, Swrig, Carlile, Abbot of Westimusser. Herauld, Officers, and Eaga.

Bullingbrocke. Call forth Bagar.

Now Bagot, freely speake thy minde, What thou do it know of Noble Glouffers death t Who wrought it with the King, and who perform'd The bloody Office of his Timelesse end.

Bag. Then let before my face, the Lord Americ.
Bul. Cofin, frand forth, and look evpon that man.
Bag. My Lord Aumeric, I know your doring conque

Scotner to vollay, what it hath once deliver'd.
In that dead time, when Gloufters death was plotted,
I heard you lay. Is not my arme of length,
That reacheth from the reffull English Court
As fatte as Callis, to my Vinkles head,
Among th much other talke, that very time,
I heard you lay, that you had rather refuse
The offer of an hundred thousand Crowner,
Then Bullinghammer resumes to Ecological and Security Land

Then Bullingbroker returne to England; adding withell, How bleft this Land would be in this your Cotin. death.

Aum. Princer, and Noble Lords:

What answer shall I make to this base man?
Shall I so much dishonor my faire Scarres,
On equal termes to give him chasticement?
Either I must, or have mine honor soy!'d
With th' Attaindor of his slandrous Lippes.
There is my Gage, the manual Seale of death
That markes thee out for Hell. Thou lyest,
And will maintaine what thou hast said, is false,
In thy beart blood, though being all too base
To staine the temper of my Knightly sword.

Bul. Bager forbeate, thou that toot take it vp.
Aura. Excepting one, I would be were the best
In all this prefence, that hath mou'd me fo.

There is my Gage, Aumerle, in Gage to thine:
By that faire Sunne, that shewes me where thou stands,
I heard thee say (and vauntlegly thou spak'st it)
That thou wer't cause of Noble Glousters death.
If thou deniest it, twenty times thou spak,
And I will tutne thy falshood to thy hert,
Where it was forged with my Rapiers point.

Where it was forged with my Rapiers point.

Aum. Thou dar's not (Coward) live to see the day.

Fitt. Now by my Soule, I would it were this boute.

Aum. Fittemetr thou art dama'd to hell for this.

Per. Anmerie, thou lye's his Hono; is as true

In this Appeale, as thou art all visits:

And that thou art o, there I throw my Gage

And that thou art fo, there I throw my Gage
To proue it on thee, to the extreamest point
Of mortall breathing. Seize it, if thou dar's,
Aum. And if I do not, may my hands for off.

And neuer brandish more revengefull Steele,
Over the glittering Helmet of my Foe.
Surrey. My Lord Fuz. water:

I do remember well, the very time

Aumeria, and you did take

Fire. My Lord,

Tis very true t You were in prefence then, And you can witnesse with me, this is true.

States. As follo, by beauen.

Surrey. As falle, by beauen, As Heauen it felfe is true. Fitz. Surrey, thou Lyeft.

Fire. Surrey, thou Lycs.
Surrey. Dishonourable Bop;
That Lye, shall lie so heavy on my Sword,
That it shall render Vengeance, and Revenge,
I'll thou the Lye-giver, and that Lye, doe lye
In earth as quiet, as thy Fathers Scull.
In proofe whereof, there is mine Honors pawne,
Engage it to the Triall, if thou dar st.

Filze

Fitzw. How fondly do'A thou fourres forward Horse? If I dare eate, or drinke, or breathe, or line, I dare meece Surrey in a Wilderneffe, And fpit vpon him, whilest I say he Lyes, And Lyes, and Lyes: there is my Bond of Faith, To tyo thee to my fitting Correction. As I intend to thrive in this new World, Aumerle is guiltie of my true Appeale. Befides, I heard the banish'd Norfolke (ay, That thou Aumerle didft fend two of thy men, To execute the Noble Duke at Callis.

Aum. Somehonelt Christian crust me with a Gage, That Norfolkelyes: heredoe I throw downe this,

If he may be repeal'd, to trie his Honor.

Bull. These differences shall all rest under Gage,

Till Norfolke be repeal'd: repeal'd he shall be: And (though mine Enemie) reftor'd againe
To all his Lands and Seignories: when hee's return'd, Against Aumerle we will enforce his Trysll.

Carl. That honorable day shall ne're be seene.

Many a time hath baniin'd Norfolke fought For Jelu Chrift, in glorious Christian field Streaming the Entigne of the Christian Crosse, Against black Pagans, Turkes, and Saracens: And toyl'd with workes of Warre, retyr'd himselfe To Italy, and there at Venice gaue His Body to that pleasant Countries Earth,

And his pure Soule vnto his Captaine Chrift, Vader whose Colours he had fought so long. Bull. Why Bilhop, is Norfolke dead? Carl. As fure as I live, my Lord.

Bull. Sweet peace conduct his sweet Soule To the Bosome of good old Abraham. Lords Appealants your differeces that all reft under gage, Till we assigne you to your dayes of Tryall.

Enter Torke.

Torke. Great Duke of Lancaster, I come to thee From plume-pluckt Richard, who with willing Soule Adopts thee Heire, and his high Scepter yeelds To the possession of thy Royall Hand.
Ascend his Throne, descending now from him,
And long line Henry, of that Name the Fourth.
Bull. In Gods Name, He ascend the Regall Throne.

Carl. Mary, Heauen forbid.

Worst in this Royall Presence may I speake-Yet belt befeeming me to speake tho truth. Would God, that any in this Nuble Presence Were enough Noble, to be vpright Judge
Of Noble Rubard: then true Noblenesse would Learne him forbearance from fo foule a Wrong, What Subject can give Septence on his King. And who fits here that is not Richards Subject ? Theeues are not sudg'd, but they are by to heare, Although apparant guilt be feene in them 1 And shall the figure of Gods Maiestie, His Captaine, Steward, Deputie elect, Anoynied, Crown'd, planted many yeeres, Be judg'd by inblect, and inferior breathe, And he himselse not present? Oh, forbid it, God, That In a Christian Climate, Soules refin'de Should thew to heynous, black, obfeene a deed. I speake to Subicets, and a Subject speakes, Stirr'd vp by Heaven, thus boldly for his King My Lord of Hereford here, whom you call King, Is a foule Traytor to prowd Herefords King. And if you Crowne him, let me prophecie,

The blood of English shall manure the ground. And future Ages groane for his foule Aot Peace shall goe sleepe with Turkes and Infidels. And in this Seat of Peace, tumultuous Warres Shall Kinne with Kinne, and Kinde with Kinde confound. Disorder Horror, Feare, and Mutinie Shall here inbabite, and this Land be call'd The field of Golgotha, and dead mens Sculls Oh, if you reare this Honle, against this House It will the wofullest Division prove, That ever fell vpon this curled Earth. Prevent it, telift it, and let it not be fo, Leaft Child, Childs Children cry against you, Woe.

North. Well have you argu'd Sir: and for your paines, Of Capitall Treason we arrest you here. My Lord of Weilminster, be it your charge. To keepe him fafaly, till his day of Tryall. May it please you, Lords, to grant the Commons Suit? Bull. Fetch hither Richard, that in common view

He may furrender: so we shall proceede

Without suspition.

Torke. I will be his Conduct. Bull. Lords, you that here are voder out Acreft, Procure your Sureties for your Dayes of Aulwer: Little are we beholding to your Loue, And little look'd for at your helping Hands.

Enter Richard and Torke. Rich. Alack, why am I fent for to a King, Before I have shooke off the Regall thoughts Wherewith I reign'd? I hardly yet have learn'd To infinuate, flatter, bowe, and bend my Knee. Give Sorrow leave a while, to tuture me To this submission. Yet I well remember The fauous of thele men: were they not mine? Did they not sometime cry, All hayle to me? So Iudas did to Christ: but he in twelve, Pound truth in all, but one; I, in twelve thousand, none. God faue the King: will no man fay, Amen? Am I both Prieft and Clarker well then, Amen. God faue the King, although I be not hee: And yet Amen, if Heaven doe thinke him mee. To doe what ferrice, am I lent for hither?

Torke. To doe that office of thine owne good will, Which tyred Maiestie did make thee offer: The Refignation of thy State and Crowne

To Henry Bukingbrooks.

Rich Giue inc the Crown Here Cousin, seize & Crown: Here Coulin, on this lide my Hand, on that fide thine. Now is this Golden Crowne like a deepe Well, That owes two Buckets, filling one another, The emptier ouer dancing in the ayre, The other downe, vnfcene, and full of Water: That Bucket downe, and full of Teares am I, Drinking my Griefes, whil'It you mount vp oo high Bull. I thought you had been willing to refigue. Rich My Crowne I am but fill my Griefes are mines

You may my Glories and my State depole, But not my Griefer, All am I King of thate. Bull Part of your Cares you give me with your Crowne. Rub. Your Cares let vp, do not pluck my Cares dovine.
My Care, is lotte of Care, by old Care done, Your Care, is gaine of Care, by new Care wonne: The Cares I give, I have, though given away,

They 'tend the Crowne, yet full with me they flay: Bull. Are you contented to religne the Crowne?

Rich. I.

Rich. I,no; ro,1: for I must nothing bee: Therefore no, no, for I religne to thre. Now, marke me how I will viidoe my felfe. I give this heavie Weight from off my Head, And this vieldie Scepter from my Hand, The pride of Kingly Iway from out my Heart. With mine owne Teares I wath away my Balme, With mine owne Hands I give away my Crowne, With mine owne Tongue deile my Szered State, With mine owne Breath release all dutious Oathes, All Pompe and Maieftie I doe forsweare ; My Manors, Rens, Revenues, I forgoe; My Acts, Decrees, and Statutes I denie: God pardon all Oathes that are broke to mee, God keepe all Vowes unbroke are made to thee. Make me, that nothing have, with nothing grieu'd, And thou with all pleas'd, that haft all archien'd. Long may'ft thou live in Richards Seat to fit, And foone lye Richard in an Earthie Pit. God faue King Henry . vn-King'd Richard fayes, And fend him many yeeres of Sunne-shine dayes. What more remaines?

North. No more : but that you reade These Acculations, and these grieuous Crymes, Committed by your Person, and your followers, Against the State, and Profit of this Land : That by confessing them, the Soules of men May deeme, that you are worthily depos d.

Rich. Must I doc fo? and must I rauell out My wean'd-up follyes? Gentle Northumberland, If thy Offences were vpon Record, Would it not shame thee, in so faire a troupe, To reade a Lecture of them ? If thou would'ft, There should'st thou finde one heynous Article, Contayning the depoling of a King. And cracking the strong Warrant of an Oath, Mark'd with a Blot, damn'd in the Booke of Heauen. Nay, all of you, that fland and looke vpon me, W'hil'it that my wretchednesse doth bait my felfe, Though fome of you, with Pilate, wash your hands, Shewing an outward pittie: yet you Pilates Haue here deliuer'd me to my fowre Croffe, And Water cannot wash away your sinne.

North. My Lord dispatch, reade o're these Articles Rich. Mine Eves are full of Teares, I cannot fec: And yet falt. Water blindes them not so much, But they can fee a fort of Traytors here. Nay at I turne mine Eyes vpnn my felfe, I finde my felfe a Traytor with the reft: For I have given here my Soules confent, T'undeck the pompous Body of a King; Made Glory bale; a Soueraigntie, a Slaue; Prowd Maiestie, a Subiect; State, a Pelant

North. My Lord Rich. No Lord of thine, thou haught-infulting man; No, not no mans Lord: I have no Name, no Title; No, not that Name was given me at the Font, But 'cis vfurpt; alack the heavie day, That I have worne formany Winters out, And know not now, what Name to call my felfe, Oh, that I were a Mockerie, King of Snow, Standing before the Sunne of Bulling brooke, To melt my felfe away in Water-drops. Good King, great King, and yet not greatly good, And if my word be Sterling yet in England, Let it command a Mirror hither Rraight,

Since it is Bankrupt of his Maielie. Trul, Goe form of you and ferch a Looking Classe. North Read o'se this Paper, while & Claffe doth cone. Rich Frend, thou torments me, ere I come to Hell Bull Vige it no more, my Lord Northumberland North The Commons will nor then be satisfy'd Rich. They shall be satisfy d. He reade enough, When I doe fee the very Booke indeede, Where all my finnes are writ, and that a my felfe.

That it may fnew me what a Face I have,

Enter one with a Glaffe Give me that Glasse, and therein will I reade. No deeper wrinckles yet? hath Sorrow flucke So many Blowes upon this Face of mine, And made no deeper Wounds ! Oh flatt'ring Glade, Like to my followers in prosperitie, Thou do'st beguile me. Was this Face, the Face That every day, under his House-hold Roose, Did keepe ten thousand men? Was this the Fate, That like the Sunne, did make beholders winke? Is this the Face, which foe'd fo many follyes, That was at last out-fac'd by Bulling brooke? A brittle Glory Shineth in this Face, As brittle as the Glory, is the Face, For there it is, cracke in an hundred Thivers. Marke filent King, the Morall of this fport. How foone my Sorrow hath destroy'd my Face. Bull. The shadow of your Sorrow hash destroy d

The shadow of your Face.

Rich. Say that againe. The shadow of my Sorrow: ha, let's see, 'Tis very true, my Griefe lyes all within, And thefe externall manner of Laments, Are meerely shadowes, to the unseene Griefe, That swells with filence in the cortur d Soule. There lyes the fubflance: and I thanke thee King For thy great bountie, that not onely giu ft Me caufe to wayle, but teacheft me the way How to lament the cause. He begge one Boone, And then be gone, and trouble you no more Shall I obtaine it :

Bull. Name it, faire Coalin. Rich. Faire Coulin? I am greater then a King: For when I was a King, my Astrerers Were then but subjects; being now a subject, I have a King here to my flatterer: Being so great, I have no neede to begge.

Bull. Yet aske.

Rich. And Shall I have ! BAR. You shall,

Rich. Then give me leave to goe. Bull Whither?

Rich. Whither you will, to I were from your lights. Rull. Goe some of you, convey him to the Tower.

Rick. Oh good: convey: Conveyers are you all, That rife thus nimbly by a true Kings fall Bull. On Wednelday next, we folemaly fee downe

Our Coronation: Lords, prepare your felues. Abbot A wofull Pageant have we here beheld. Carl. The Woes to come, the Children yet unborne, Shall feelerhis day as sharpe to them as Thorne.

Jum Youholy Clergie-men, is there no Plot To rid the Realme of this pernicious Blot. Abbot. Before I freely speake my minde herein, You shall not onely take the Sacrament,

To bury mine intents, but also to effect

What

What ever I shall happen to deviso.

I see your Browes are full of Discontent, Your Heart of Sorrow, and your Eyes of Teares. Come home with me to Supper, le lay a Ploc Empatret. Shall shew vs all amerry day.

Adus Quintus. Scena Prima.

Enter Queene, and Ladies. On. This way the King will come: this is the way To Iulim Cafars ill-crecked Tower: To whole flint Bolome, my condemned Lord Is doom'd a Priloner, by prowd Bullingbrooke. Here let vs rest, if this rebellious Earth Haue any resting for her true Kings Queene. Enter Richard and Guard.

But foft, but fee, or rather doe not fee, My faire Rose wither: yet looke vp; behold, That you in pittie may dissolute to dew, And wash him fresh againe with true-loue Teases. Ahthou, the Modell where old Troy did stand, Thou Mappe of Honor, thou King Richards Tembe, And not King Richard: thou most beauteous Inne, Why should hard-fauor'd Griefe be lodg'd in thee, When Triumph is become an Ale-house Guest.

Rich. Ioyne not with griefe, faire Woman, do not lo, To make my end too fudden: learne good Soule, To thinke our former State a happie Dreame, From which awak'd, the truth of what we are, Shewes vs but this. I am (worne Brother (Sweet) To grim Necessitie; and hee and I Will keepe a League till Death. High thee to France, And Cloyster thee in some Religious House: Our holy lives must winne a new Worlds Crowne, Which our prophane houres here baue stricken downe.

Qu. What, is my Richard both in shape and minde Transform'd, and weaken'd? Hath Bullingbrooke Depor'd thine Intelled? hath he beene in thy Heart? The Lyon dying, thrusteth forth his Paw, And wounds the Earth, if nothing elle, with rage To be o're-powr'd: and wilt thou, Pupill-like, Take thy Correction mildly, kittle the Rodde, And fawne on Rage with base Humilitie, Which art a Lyon, and a King of Beafts?

Rich. A King of Beafts indeed: if aught but Beafts, thad beene ftill a happy King of Men. Good (fometime Queene) prepare thee hence for France: Thinke I am dead, and that even here thou tak'fly As from my Death-bed, my last living leave. in Winters tedious Nights fit by the fire With good old folices, and les them tell thee Tales Of wofull Ages, long agoe betide: And ere thou bid good-night to quit their griefe, Tell thou the lamentable fall of me, And fend the hearers weeping to their Beds: For why? the sencelesse Brands will sympathize The heavie accent of thy moving Tongue, And in compassion, weepe the fire out And some will mourne in ashes, some coale-black, For the deposing of a rightfull King.

Enter Northumberland.

North. My Lord, the mind of Bullingbrooks is chang'd.

You must to Pomfret, not vnto the Tower. And Madame, there is order ta'ne for you: Wish all (wift speed, you must a way to France, Rich. Northumberland, thou Ladder wherewithall

The mounting Bullingbrocke ascends my Throne, The time shall not be many houres of age, More then it is, ere foule sinne, gathering head, Shall breake into corruption: thou shalt thinke, Though he divide the Realme, and give thee halfe, It is too little, helping him to all: He shall thinke, that thou which know if the way To plant vnrightfull Kings, wilt know againe, Being ne're fo little veg'd another way, To pluck him heedlong from the vsurped Throne. The Loue of wicked friends converts to Feare; That Peare, to Hate; and Hate turnes one, or both, To worthie Danger, and deferued Death. North. My guilt be on my Head, and there an end:

Take leave, and part, for you must part forthwith.

Rich. Doubly divorc'd? (bad men) ye violate A two-fold Marriage; 'twist my Crowne, and me,

And then betwixt me, and my marryed Wife. Let me vn-kille the Oath 'twixt thee, and me; And yet not fo, for with a Kiffe twas made. Part vs. Northumberland: I towards the North; Where shivering Cold and Sicknesse pines the Clyme: My Queene to France: from whence, fet forth in pompe, She came adorned hither like sweet May; Sent back like Hollowmas, or short it of day.

Qs. And must we be divided? must we part?

Rich. I, hand from hand my Loue) and hears fro hears. Qn. Banish vs both, and send the King with me. North. That were fome Loue, but little Pollicy. 24. Then whither he goes, thither let me goe. Rich. So two together weeping, make one Woc. Weepe thou for me in France; I, for thee heere:

Better forre off, then neere, be ne're the neere. Goe, count thy Way with Sighes; I, mine with Groanes. Qu. So longest Way shall have the longest Moanes. Rich. Twite for one Rep Ile groane, Way being short, And peece the Way out with a heavie heart.

Come, come, in wooing Sorrow let's be briefe, Since wedding it, there is fuch length in Griefe: One Kisse shall stop our mouthes, and dumbely part; Thus give I mine, and thus take I thy heart.

Qu. Giue memine owne againe: twere no good part To take on me to keepe, and kill thy heart. So, now I have mine owne againe, be gone, That I may strive to kill it with a groane.

Rich. We make Woe wanton with this fond delay: Once more adieu; the rest, let Sorrow fay. Exeunt.

Scana Secunda.

Enter Yorke, and his Ducheffs.

Duch. My Lord you told me you would tell the reft, When weeping made you breake the story off, Of our two Coufins comming into London.

Torke. Where did I lezue?
Duch. At that fad Roppe,my Lord,
Where rude mif-gouern'd hands, from Windowes tops
Threw dust and rubbish on King Richards head.

Tothe. Then

Yorke. Then, as I faid, the Duke, great Bulling brocks, Monnted ypon a hot and ficrie Steed, Which his aspiring Rider seem'd to know, With flow, but stately pace, kept on his course t While all conques cride, God faue thee Bullmgbrooks. You would have thought the very windowes spake, So many greedy lookes of yong and old, Through Calements darted their defiring eyes Vpon his vilage: and that all the walles, With painted Imagery had faid at once, Iclu preserve thee, welcom Bullingbrooke. Whil'ft he, from one fide to the other turning. Bare-headed, lower then his proud Steeds necke, Bespake them thus: I thanke you Countrimen : And thus fill doing, thus he past along. Duch. Alas poore Richard, where rides he the whilfi?

Torke. As in a Theates, the eyes of men After a well grac'd Actor leaves the Stage, Are idlely bent on him that enters next, Thinking his practle to be tedious ; Euch fo, or with much more contempt, mens eyes Did scowle on Richard: no man cride, God saue him: No loyfull tongue gave him his welcome home, But dust was throwne vpon his Sacred head, Which with fuch gentle forrow he shooke off, His face still combating with reares and smiles (The badges of his greefe and patience) That had not God (for some strong purpose) steel'd The hearts of men, they must perforce have melted, And Barbarisme it selfe have pittied him. But heaven bath a hand in thefe events, To whose high will we bound our calme contents. To Bellingbrooke, are we Iworne Subjects now, Whose State, and Honor, I for sye allow.

Enter Aumerle,
Drus. Heere comes my fonne Aumerle,
Tor. Aumerle that was,
But that is loft, for being Richards Friend.
And Madam, you must call him Rusland now:
I am in Parliament pledge for his truth,
And lasting fealtie to the new-made King.

Dus. Welcome my fonne: who are the Violets now,
That frew the greenelap of the new-come Spring?
Aum. Madam, I know not, not I greatly care not,

God knowes, I had as liefe be none, as one.

Torke. Well, beare you well in this new-spring of time

Leaft you be cropt before you come to prime.
What newes from Oxford? Hold those lusts & Triumphs?

Aum. For ought I know my Lord they do. Torke. You will be there I know.

Aum. If God prevent not, I purpose so.

Tor. What Scale is that that hange without thy bofom? Yes, look if thou pale? Let me fee the Writing.

Aum. My Lord, 'tis nothing.

Torks. No matter then who tees it,

I will be fatisfied, let me fee the Writing.

Aum. I do befeech your Grace to pardon me, It is a matter of small consequence,

Which for some reasons I would not have seene.

Yorke, Which for some reasons sir, I meane to see
I feare. I feare.

Dur. What should you seare?
'Tis nothing but some bond, that he is enter'd into Por gay apparrell against the Triumph.

Terke. Bound to himselfe? What doth be with a Bond That he is bound to? Wife, thou are a foole. Boy, let me fee the Writing.

Aum. I do befeech you pardon me, I may not thew is Ter. I will be fatished: let me fee it I fay. Snatcher at Treason, foule Treason, Villaine, Traitor, Slave.

Det. What's the matter, my Lord?

Yorke. Hos, who's within there? Saddle my horfe. Heaven for his mercy: what treachery is heere?

Dat. Why, what is' i my Lord?

Now by my Honor, my life, my troth, I will appeach the Villaine.

Dat. What is the matter?
Yorke. Peace foolish Woman.

Dut. I will not peace. What is the matter Sonne?

Anm. Good Mother be content, it is no more Then my poore life must answer.

Dur. Thy life answer?

Enter Sermant with Books.

Ter. Bring me my Boots, I will voto the King, Duc. Strike him Aumerle. Poore boy, $ set amaz'd, Hence Villaine, neuer mote come in my fight.

Tor. Give me my Boots, I fay.

Dat. Why Yorke, what wilt thoudo?
Wilt thou not hide the Trespasse of thine owne?
Haue we more Sonnes? Or are we like to have?
Is not my teeming date drunke vp with time?
And wilt thou plucke my faire Sonne from mine Age,
And rob me of a happy Muthers name?
Is he not like thee? Is he not thine owne?

Ter. Thou fond mad woman:
Wilt thou conceale this darke Conspiracy?
A dozen of them here have tane the Sacrament,
And interchangeably set downe their hands
To kill the King at Oxford.

Dut. He shall benone:

Weel keepe him lieere: then what is that to him?

Yor Away fond woman sweet liee twenty times my Son, I would appeach him.

Dut. Hadfi thou grozn'd for him as I have done, Thou wouldest be more pittifull:
But now I know thy minde; thou do it suspect
That I have bene disloyall to thy bed,
And that he is a Basslard, not thy Sonne;
Sweet Yorke, sweet husband, benet of that minde;
He is as like thee, as a man may oce,
Not like to me, not any ofmy Kin,
At dyet I love him,

Torke. Make way, varuly Woman.

Dat. After Anmerle. Mount thee vpon his hotfe,
Sputte poff, and get before him to the King.
Andbegge thy pardon, ere he do accuse thee,
Ile not be long behind: though I be old,
I doubt not butto inde as said as Yorker
And neuer will trise vp from the ground,
Till Bulling brooks have pardon'd thee: A way be gone. Exit

Scæna Tertia.

Enter Buffing brooks, Procise and other Lords.

Bul. Can no mancell of my unthriftse Sonne?

Tis full three monthes fince I did techim laft.

If any plague hang over us, 'tis he,

I would to heaven' my Lords he might be found:

Enquire at London, 'mong ft the Tauernes there:

For there (they say) he dayly doth frequent, With vnrestrained loose Companions Euen such (they say) as stand in narrow Lanes, And rob our Watch, and beate our passengers, Which he, yong wanton, and effentinace Boy Takes on the point of Honor, to Support So dissolute a crew

Per. My Lord, some two dayes since I saw the Prince. And told him of these Triumphes held at Oxford.

Bul. And what faid the Gallant?

Per. His answer was ; he would vnto the Stewes, And from the common'it creature plucke a Glove And weare it as a fauour, and with that He would enhorse the lustiest Challenger.

Bul As diffolute as desp'rate, yet through both, I fee some sparkes of better hope : which elder dayes May happily bring forth. But who comes heere? Enter Aumerle.

Aum. Where is the King?

Bul. What meanes our Cono, that hee flares

And lookes fo wildely?

Anm. God laue your Grace. I do beleech your Maiefly To have some conference with your Grace alone.

Bul. Withdraw your felues, and leave va here alone > What is the matter with our Cofin now?

Asm. For ever may my knees grow to the earth,

My rongue cleaue to my roofe within my mouth, Vnlesse a Pardon, ete I rise, or speake.

Bul. Intended, or committed was this fault? If on the first, how heynousere it bee,

To win thy after love, I pardon thee.

Aum. Then glue me leave, that I may turne the key, That no man enter, till my tale me done.

Bul. Haue thy defire. Torke wisbin.

Tor. . My Liege beware, looke to thy felfe,

Thou half a Traitor in thy presence there

Bul. Villaine, Ile make thee fafe.

Anns. Stay thy revengefull hand, thou hast no eaule ro feare.

Torke. Open the doore, secure soole-hardy King : Shall I for love speake treason to thy face? Open the doore, or I will breake it open.

Enter Torke.

Bul. What is the marter (Virkle) speak, recover breath, Tell vs how neere is danger,

That we may arme vs to encounter it.

Tor. Peruse this writing heere, and thou shalt know Thereason that my haste forbids me show.

Aum. Remember as thou read'it, thy promile pall 1 I do repent me, reade not my name there,

My heart is not confederate with my hand. Yor. It was (villaine) ere thy hand did fet it downe.

I tore it from the Traitors bosonie, King. Forger to pitty him, leaft thy pitty proue A Serpent, that will fling thee to the heart.

Bul. Oh heihous, strong, and bold Conspiracie, O loyall Father of a treacherous Sonne : Thou freere, immaculate, and filuer fountaine, From whence this fireame, through muddy pallages Hath had his current, and defil'd himselfe. Thy overflow of good, converts to bad, And thy abundant goodnesse shall excuse

This deadly blot, in thy digressing some.

Torke. So shall my Vertue be his Vices bawd, And he shall spend mine Honour, with his Shame ; As thriftleffe Sonnes, their scraping Fathers Gold. Mine honor lives, when his dishonor dies, Or my sham'd life, in his dishonor lies: Thou kill'A me in his life, giving him breath, The Traitor lives, the true man's put to death.

Dutcheffe within.

Dur. What hos (my Liege) for heavens lake lee me in, Bul. What shrill-voic'd Suppliant, makes this eager cty? Dut. A woman, and thine Aunt (great King) 'tis I.

Speake with me, pitty me, open the dore,

A Begger begs, that never begg'd before.

Bul. Our Scene is alter d from a ferious thing, And now chang'd to the Begger, and the King My dangerous Cofin, let your Mother in, I know the's come, to pray for your foule fin.

Torke. Ifthou do pardon, who loever pray. More finnes for this forgivenesse, prosper mays This fefter'd joynt cut off, the reft refts found, This let alone, will all the rest confound.

Exter Duscheffe.

Dur. O King, beleeve not this hard-hearted man, Love, louing not it selfe, none other can.

Tor. Thou franticke woman, what doll y make here,

Shall thy old dugges, once more a Traitor reare?

Dut. Sweet Yorke be patient, heare me gentle Liege.

Bw. Rife vp good Aunt. Dut. Not yet, I thee beseech. For ever will I kneele vpon my kneer, And never fee day, that the happy fees, Till thou give toy: votill thou bid me toy.

By pardoning Rutland, my transgretting Boy. Anm. Vnto my mothers prayres, I bend my knee. Torke. Against them both, my true loynts hended be. Dut. Pleades he in earnest? Looke vpon his Face, His eyes do drop no teares: his prayres are in ieft:

His words come from his mouth, ours from our breft. He prayes but faintly, and would be denide, We pray with heart, and soule, and all beside : His weary ioynts would gladly rife, I know, Our knees thall kneele, till to the ground they grow a

His prayers are full of false hypocrifie, Ours of true zeale, and deepe integritie:

Our prayers do out-pray his, then let them hand That mercy, which true prayers ought to haue.

Bul. Good Aunt fland vp. Dut. Nay, donet fay stand vp. But Pardon first, and afterwards stand vp. And il were thy Nurle, thy tongue to teach, Pardon should be the first word of thy speach. I neuer long'd to heare a word till nov Say Pardon (King,) let pitty teach thee how. The word is shore; but not so shore as sweet,

No word like Pardon, for Kings mouth's former.

Torke. Speake it in French (King) fay Pardon'ne more.

Due. Doft thou teach pardon, Pardon to deftroy? Ah my fowre husband, my hard-hearted Lord, That fee's the word it felfe, against the word. Speake Pardon, 25 'tis currant in our Land, The chopping French we do not vinderstand Thine eye begins to speake, fee thy tongue there, Or in thy pitteous heart, plant thou thine care, That hearing how our plaints and prayres do pearces Pitty may move thee, Pardon to rehearle

EM. Good Aunt, stand vp. Dat. I do not sue to fland Pardon is all the fuire I have in hand.

Bul. I pardon him, se heaven shall pardon mee. DML. Ohappy vantage of a kneeling knee : Yet am I ficke for feare : Speake it againe, Twice faying Pardon, dorh not pardon twaine, Bur makes one pardon frong Bul. I pardon him with all my hart.

Die. A God on earth thou att. Bal, But for our trufty brother-in-Law, the Abbot, With all the rest of that conforted crew, Destruction straight shall dogge them at the heeles: Good Vickle helpe to order leaerall powres To Oxford, or where ere thefe Traitors are i They shall not line within this world I tweare, But I will have them, if I once know where. Vnckle farewell, and Cofin adicu: Your mother well hath praid, and prove you true.

Dur. Come my old son, I pray heauen make thee new. Excunt.

Enter Exton and Sermants.

Ext. Didft thou not marke the King what words hee

Have I no friend will rid me of this living feare: Was it not fo?

Sor. Those were his very words, Ex. Haue I no Priend? (quoth her) he spake it twice, And vrg'd it twice together, did he not? Ser. He did.

Ex. And speaking it, he wishly look'd on me, As who should say, I would thou wer't the man That would divorce this terror from my heart, Meaning the King at Pomfret : Come, let's goe; Exit. I am the Kings Friend, and will rid his Foe.

Scana Quarta.

Enter Richard.

Rich. I have bin fludying, how to compare This Prison where I live, vnto the World: And for because the world is populous, And heere is not a Creature, but my felfe, I cannot doit : yet le hammer't out. My Braine, He proue the Female to my Soule, My Soule, the Father: and thele two beget A generation of still breeding Thoughts; And these same Thoughts, people this Little World In humors, like the people of this world, For no thought is contented. The better fort, As thoughts of things Divine, are intermixt With scruples, and do set the Faith it selfe Against the Faith: 25 thus: Come litle ones: & then again, It is as hard to come, as for a Camell To thred the polteme of a Needles eye. Thoughts tending to Ambition, they do plot Volikely wonders; how these vaine weake nailes May teare a passage through the Flinty ribbes Of this hard world, my ragged prison walles: And for they cannot, dye in their owne pride. Thoughts tending to Content, flatter themselves, That they are not the first of Fortunes saucs, Nor shall not be the last. Like filly Beggars, Who litting in the Stockes, tefuge their thame That many have, and others must be there; And in this Thought, they finde a kind of eafe, Bearing their owne misfortune on the backe Ot fuch as haue before mdur'd the like, Thus play I in one Prison, many people And none contented, Sometimes am I King ; Then Treason makes me with my felle a Beggar, And fo I am. Then crushing penuric, Perswades me, I was better when a King : Then am I king'd againe : and by and by, Thinke that I am vn . king'd by Bulling brooks, And firaight am nothing. But what ere I am, Nor I, nor any man, that but man is, With nothing shall be pleas'd, till he be eat'd With being nothing. Musicke do I heare? Ha, ha? keepe time: How sowie sweet Musicke it, When Time is broke, and no Proportion kept? So is it in the Mulicke of mens lives: And heere have I the daintine le of eare. To heare time broke in a diforder'd firing: But for the Concord of my State and Time, Had not an eare to heare my true Time broke. I wasted Time, and now doth Time waste me : For now hath Time made me his numbring clocke; My Thoughts, are minutes; and with Sighes they iarre, Their watches on vnto mine eyes, the outward Watch, Whetero my finger, like a Dialls point, Is pointing still, in cleanling them from teares. Now fir, the found that rels what houre it is, Are clamorous groanes, that strike your my heart, Which is the bell: fo Sighes, and Teares, and Grones, Shew Minutes, Houres, and Times : but my Time Runs poalling on, in Bulling brookes prouding, While I stand fooling heere, his lacke o'th Clocke. This Mulicke mads me, let it found no more, For though it have helpe madmen to their wits, In me it feemes, it will make wife-men mad: Yet bleffing on his heart that gives it me; For tis a figne of love and love to Ruhard, Is aftrange Brooch, in this all hating world. Enser Groome.

Groo. Hsile Royall Prince. Rich. Thankes Noble Peere, The chespeft of vs, is ten groates too deere. What are thou? And how com's thou hither? Where no man euer comes, but that fad dogge That brings me food, to make misfortune live?

Groo. I was a poore Groome of thy Stable (King) When thou wer't King; who travelling towards Yorke, With much adoo, at length have gotten leave To looke vpon my (fometimes Royall) masters face. O how it yem'd my heart, when I beheld In London Streets, that Coronation day, When Bulling brooke rode on Roone Barbary, That horse, that thou so often hast bestrid, That hotse, that I so carefully have drest.

Rich. Rode he on Barbary? Tell me gentle Friend, How went he vnder him?

Groo. So proudly, as if he had disdain'd the ground. Rich. So proud, that Bulling brooke was on his backe; That Iad intheate bread from my Royall hand. This hand hath made him proud with clapping him. Would he not stamble? Would he not fall downe (Since Pride must have a fall) and breake the necke Of that proud man, that did vourpe his backe? Forgiuenesse horse: Why do I taile on thee, Since thou created to be aw'd by man Was't bome to beste? I was not made a borfe,

And

And yet I beare a butthen like an Asse, Sput-gall'd, and tyrd by iauncing Boiling brooks. Enter Keeper with a Diffs.

Keep. Fellow, give place, heere is no longer flay.

Rich. If thou love me, 'tis time thou wee't away.

Groo. What my tongue dores not, that my heart shall Exp.

Keep. My Lord, wilt please you to fall too?

Rkb. Tafte of it first, as thou wer't wont to doo.

Keep. My Lord I date not: Sir Pieres of Exton,

Who lately came from th'King, commands the contrary.

Rich. The diuell take Henrie of Lancaster, and thee;

Patience is staie, and I am weary of it.

Keep. Helpe, helpe, helpe.

Enter Exton and Servants.

Ri. How now? what meanes Death in this rude affalt? Villaine, thine owne hand yeelds thy deaths instrumens, Go thou and fill another roome in hell.

Exton strikes him downe.
That hand shall burne in neuer-quenching sire,
That staggers thus my person. Exton, thy fierce hand,
Hath with the Kings blood, sain'd the Kings own land,
Mount, mount my soule, thy seate is vp on high,
Whil'st my grosse flesh linkes downward, heere to dye.

Exten. As full of Valor, as of Royall blood,

Both have I spile: Oh would the deed were good.

For now the divell, that told me I did well,

Sayes, that this deede is chronicled in hell.

This dead King to the living King I le beare,

Take hence the rest, and give them burial heere.

Exist.

Scæna Quinta.

Plourift. Enter Bullingbrooks, Torke, with other Lords of attendents.

Bul. Kinde Vnkle Yorke, the laceth newes we heare, Is that the Rebels have confum'd with fire Our Towne of Ciceter in Glougestershire,

But whether they became or flaine, we heare not.

Enter Northumberland,

Welcome my Lord: What is the nevies?

Mor. First to thy Sacred State, wish I all happinesses
The next newes is, I have to London sent
The heads of Salsbury Spencer, Blune, and Kener

The manner of their taking may appeare
At large discoursed in this paper heere.

Eul. We thank thee gende Percy for thy paines,
And to the worth will adde right worthy gaines.

Enter Fix waters.

Fire. My Lord, I have from Oxford ferring London, The heads of Breceas, and Sir Bennes Seely,
Two of the dangerous conforted Traitors,
That fought at Oxford, thy dire overthrow.
Bul. Thy paints Fitzmaters shall not be forgot,

Right Noble is thy merit, well I wot.

Enter Percy and Carlile.

Per. The grand Conspirator, Abbot of Westminster,
With clog of Conscience, and sowre Melancholly,
Hath yeelded up his body to the graue:
But heere is Carlile, living to abide
Thy Kingly doome, and sentence of his pride.

Bul. Carlie, this is your come:
Choose out some secret place, some reverend roome
More then thou hast, and with it ion thy life:
So as thou liv's in peace, due free from strife:
For though mine enemy, thou hast ever beene,
High sparkes of Honor in thee have I seene.

Enter Exton with a Coffun
Exton. Great King, within this Coffin I prefere.
Thy buried feare. Herrein all breathlesse lies
The mightiest of thy greatest enemies
Richard of Burdeaux, by me hither brought.

Bel. Exton, I thanke thee not, for thou hast wrought A deede of Slaughter, with thy fatall hand, Vpoo my head, and all this famous Land.

Ex. From your owne mouth my Lord, did I this deed. Bul. They love not poylon, that do poylon neede, Nor do I thee: though I did wish him dead, I hate the Murtherer, love him murthered. The guilt of conscience take thou for thy labour, But neither my good word, nor Princely fauour. With Caine go wander through the Bade of night, And never thew thy heed by day, nor light. Lords, I protest my soule is full of woe, That blood should sprinkle me, to make me grow. Come mourne with me, for that I do lament, And put on fullen Blacke incontinent: He make a voyage to the Holy-land, To wash this blood off from my guilty hand. March fadly after, grace my moutning heere, In weeping after this votimely Beere. Execus

FINIS.

The First Part of Henry the Fourth, with the Life and Death of HENRY Sirnamed HOT-SPVRRE.

Allus Primus. Scana Prima.

Enter the King. Lord Ichn of Lantafter, Earle of westmerland, was others.

Cing.

Chaken as we are, fo wan with care,

Cod Finde we a time for frighted Peace to pant,

And breath (hortwinded accents of new broils

To be commencid in Stronds a-farre temote:

No more the thirsty entrance of this Soile. Shall daubehor lippes with her owne childrens blood : No more shall trenching Warre channell her fields, Nor bruise her Flowrets with the Armed hooses Of hostile paces. Those opposed eyes, Which like the Meteors of a troubled Heaven, All of one Nature, of one Substance bred, Did lately meete in the intestine shocke, And furious cloze of civil Butchery, Shall now in mutuall well-befreming rankes March all one way, and be no more oppos'd Against Acquaintance, Kindred, and Allies. The edge of Warre, like an ill-sheathed knife, No more shall cut his Master. Therefore Friends, As farre as to the Sepulcher of Christ, Whole Souldier now under whole bleffed Croffe We are impressed and ingagid to fight. Forthwith a power of English shall we levie, Whose armes were moulded in their Mothers wombe, To chace these Pagans in those holy Fields. Ouer whose Acres walk'd those bleffed feete Which fourteene hundred yeares ago were naul'd For our aduantage on the bitter Crosse, But this our purpose is a twelvemonth old, And bootleffe tis to tell you we will go: Therefore we meete not now. Then let me heare Of you my gentle Coulin Westmerland, What yesternight our Councell did decree, In forwarding this deete expedience.
sveft My Liege: This halle was hot in question, sucfi My Liege: This halle was not in question, And many limits of the Charge set downe But yesternight: when all athwart there came A Post from Wales, loaden with heavy Newes; Whose worst was, That the Noble Martimer, Leading the men of Herefordshire to fight Against the irregular and wilde Glandown, Was by the rude hands of that Welssman taken, And a thousand of his people butchered:

Vpon whole dead corpes there was such missie,
Such beastly, shamelesse transformation,
By those Welshwomen done, as may not be (Without much shame) re-told or spoken of.
King It seemes then, that the tidings of this broile,
Brake off our businesse for the Holy land.

Farre more vneuen and vnwelcome Newes
Came from the North, and thus it did report:
On Holy-roode day, the gallant Haiffur ethere,
Young Harry Percy, and brave Archibald,
That ever-valiant and approaued Scot.
At Holmedon met, where they did spend
A sad and bloody house:
As by discharge of their Arcillerie,
And shape of ikely-hood the newes was told:
For he that brought them, in the very heate
And pride of their contention, did take horse,
Vncettaine of the issue any way.

King. Heere is a decreand true industrious friend,
Sit Walter Blust, new lighted from his Horse,
Strain'd with the variation of each (oyle,
Betwixt that Holmeden, and this Seat of ours:
And he hash brought vs smooth and welcomes newers.
The Earle of Donglas is discomfitted,
Ten thousand bold Scots, two and twenty Knights
Balk'd in their owne blood did Sit Walter see
On Holmedens Plaines. Of Prisoners, Harspare tooke
Merdage Earle of Fise, and eldest sonne
To beaten Donglas, and the Earle of Arbell,
Of Murry, Angus, and Mentesth.
And is not this an honourable spoyle?
A gall an prize? Ha Cosin, is it not? Infaith it is,
West. A Conquest for a Prince to boast of.

King. Yea, there thou mak'st me sad, & mak'st me sin, In enuy, that my Lord Northumberland Should be the Father of so bless a Sonne:

A Sonne, who is the Theame of Honors rongue;
Among'st a Groue, the very straightest Plant,
Who is sweet Fortunes Minion, and her Pride:
Whil'st I by looking on the praise of him,
See Ryot and Dishonor staine the brow
Of my yong Harry. Othat it could be prou'd,
That some Night-tripping-Faiery, had exchang'd
In Cradle-clothes, our Children where they lay,
Aud call'd mine Percy, his Plantagenes:

Then

Then would I have his Harry, and he mine: But let him from my thoughts. What thinke you Coze Of this young Pereies pride? The Prisoners Which he in this adventure hath furpriz'd, To his owne vie he keepes, and fends me word I shall have none but Mordake Earle of Fife.

Weft. This is his Vnckles teaching. This is Worceste

Maleuolent to you in all A spects:

Which makes him prune himselse and brissle vo The creft of Youth against your Dignity.

King. But I have fent for him to answer this: And for this cause a while we must neglect Our holy purpose to letusalem. Cofin, on Wednesday next, our Councell we will hold At Windfor, and so informe the Lords: But come your felfe with speed to vs againe, For more is to be faid, and to be done, Then out of anger can be vetered.

West. I will my Liege.

Exempt

Scana Secunda.

Enter Henry Prince of Wales, Sir John Falstaffe, and Pointz.

Fal. Now Bal, what time of day is it Lad?

Proce Thouart fo fat-witted with drinking of olde Sacke, and unbuttoning thee after Supper, and fleeping vpon Benches in the afternoone, that thou haft forgotten to demand that truely, which thou wouldest truly know. What a divell half thou to do with the time of the day? valeffe houses were cups of Sacke, and minutes Capons, and clockes the tongues of Bawdes, and dialls the fignes of Leaping-houses, and the bleffed Sunne bimselfe a faire hot Wench in Flame-coloured Taffata; I ice no resion, why thou shouldest bee so superfluous, to demaund the time of the day.

Fal. Indeed you come neere me now Hal, for we that take Purses, go by the Moone and seuen Starres, and not by Phoebushee, that wand ring Knight fo faire. prythee sweet Wagge, when thou art King, as God saue thy Grace, Maietty I should say, for Grace thouwalte haue none.

Pris What, none?

Fal. No, not so much as will scrue to be Prologue to an Egge and Butter.

Prm. Well, how then? Come roundly, roundly.

Fal. Marry then, sweet Wagge, when thou art King, let not vs that are Squires of the Nights bodie, beccall'd Theeves of the Dayes beautie. Let vs be Dunnes Forre-Rers, Gentlemen of the Shade. Minions of the Moone; and lee men fay, we be men of good Gouernment, being governed as the Sea is, by our noble and chaft miffris the Moone, under whose countenance we steale.

Prin. Thou fay'st well, and it holds well too : for the fortune of vs that are the Moonea men, douth ebbe and How like the Sea, beeing governed as the Sea is, by the Moone: as for proofe. Now a Purse of Gold most resolutely fratch'd on Monday night, and most dissolutely spent on Tuesday Morning; got with swearing, Lay by: and (pent with crying, Bring in : now, in as low an ebbe as the foot of the Ladder, and by and by in as high a flow as the ridge of the Gallowes.

Ful. Thoutay'st crue Lad: and is not my Hostesse of the Tauerne a most sweet Wench?

Prin. As is the hony, my old Lad of the Castle : and is not a Buffe Ierkin a most (weet robe of durance?

Fal. How now? how now mad Wagge? What in thy quips and thy quiddities? What a plague, have I to doc with a Buffe-leikin?

Prin. Why, what a poxehaue I to doe withmy Ho. fleffe of the Taverne?

Fal. Well, thou hast call'd her to a reck'ning many a time and oft.

Prin. Did I cuer call for thee to pay thy part?

Fal. No, Ile give thee thy due, thou halt paid al there. Prin. Yes and ellewhere, to farre as my Coine would firetch, and whereit would not, I have va'd my credit.

Fal. Yea, and fo vs'dit, that were it heere apparant, that thou art Heire apparant. But I prythee fweet Wag, shall there be Gallowes standing in England when shou art King ? and resolution thus sobb'd as ar is, with the ruflie curbe of old Father Anticke the Law? Doe not thou when thou are a King, hang a Theefe.

Fris. No, thou shalt.

Fal. Shall 1? O rate! He be a brave Judge.

Pris. Theu indgest false already. I meane, thou shalt have the hanging of the Theeues, and so become a rare Hangman.

Fal. Well Hal, well: and in some fort it iumpes with my humour, as well as waiting in the Court, I can tell Prin. For obtaining of fuites?

Fal. Yea, for obtaining of suites, whereof the Hangman hath no scane Wardrobe. I am as Melancholly as a Gyb-Cat, or a lugg'd Beare.

Prin. Or an old Lyon, or a Louers Lute.
Ful. Yea, or the Drone of a Lincolnfnire Bagpipe. Prin. What fay's thou to a Hare, or the Melancholly of Moore Ditch?

Fal. Thou halt the most vnsauoury smiles, and art indeed the most comparative tascallest sweet youg Prince, But Hal, I prythee trouble me no more with vanity, I wold thou and I knew, where a Commodity of good names were to be bought: an olde Lord of the Councell rated me the other day in the street shout you sit; but I mark'd him not, and yet hee talk'd very wifely, but I regarded him not, and yet he talkt wiscly, and in the street too.

Prot. Thou didft well: for no man regards it.

Fal. O, thou hast damnable iteration, and art indeede able to corrupt a Saint. Thou hast done much harme vnto me Hall, God forgive thee for it. Before I knew thee Hal, I knew nothing: and now I am (if a man shold speake truly)little better then one of the wicked. I must give o. uer this life, and I will give it over : and I do not, I am a Villaine, He be dann'd for neuer a Kings fonne in Christendome.

Prin. Where shall we take a purse to morrow, lacke? Fal. Where thou wilt Lad, I le make one: and I doe not, all me Villaine, and baffile me.

Prm. I see a good amendment of life in thee : From Praying, to Purse-taking.

Fal. Why Hal, 'tis my Vocation Hal: 'Tis no fin for a man to labour in his Vocation.

Pointe. Now shall wee know if Gads hill have fet a Watch. O, if men were to be faued by merit, what hole in Hell were hot enough for him? This is the most omaipotent Villaine, that euer cryed, Stand, to a true man.

Prin. Good morrow Ned.

Rointz.

Poines, Good morrow [weet Hal, What fales Monficus Remorfe ? What fayes Sir John Sacke and Sugar : Jacke? How agrees the Divell and thee about thy Soule, that thou foldell him on Good-Friday laft, for a Cup of Madera, and a cold Capons legge?

Prin. Sir Iohn stands to his word, the dinel shall have his bargaine, for he was neuer yet a Breaker of Prouerbs:

He will give the disell bis duc.

Poin. Then are thou damn'd for keeping thy word with the dinell.

Prin. Else he had damn'd for cozening the divell.

Poy. But my Lads, my Lads, to morrow morning, by foure a clocke early at Gads hill, there are Pilgrimes going to Canterbusy with rich Offerings, and Traders tiding to London with fat Purfes. I have vizards for you all; you have horses for your sclues : Gads-hill lyes to night in Rochester, I have bespoke Supper to morrow in East cheape; we may doe je as secure as sleepe; if you will go, I will stuffe your Purfes full of Crownes : if you will not, tarry at home and be hang'd.

Fal. Heare ye Yedward, if I tarry at home and go not,

Ile hang you for going,
Poy. You will chops,
Fal. Hal, will thou make one?

Prin. Who, Irob? I a Theefe? Not I.

Fal. There's neither hopeffy, manhood, nor good fellowship in thee, nor thou cam'it not of the blood-royall, if thou dar'ff not fland for ten shillings.

Priv. Well then, once in my dayes lle be a mad-cap.

Fal. Why, that's well faid

Prin. Well, come what will, lle rarry at home, Fal. He be a Traitor then, when thou art King.

Pris. I care not.

Pojn. Sit Iohn, I prythee leave the Prince & me alone, I will lay him downe fuch reasons for this adventure, that

Fal. Well, maist thou have the Spirit of perswasion; and he the eares of profiting, that what thou speakell, may moue; and what he heates may be beleeved, that the true Prince, may (for recreation fake) proge a falle theefe; for the poore abuses of the time, want countenance. Farwell, you shall finde me in Eastcheape.

Prin. Farwell she latter Spring. Farewell Alhollown

Summer.

Poy. Now, my good [weet Hony Lord, ride with vs to morrow. Thauca self to execute, that I cannot mansage alone. Falftaffe, Harney Roffill, and Gads-bill, Mall robbethole men that wee have already way-layde, your felfe and I, wil not be there:and when they have the booty, if you and I do not rob them, cut this head from my thoulders, Priss. But how shal we part with them in setting forth? Pops. Why, we wil fet forth before or after them, and appoint them a place of meeting, wherin it is at our pleafure to faile ; and then will they adventure vppon the exploit rhemselves, which they shall have no sooner archiened, but wee'l fet vpon them.

Pris. I, but tis like that they will know vs by our horses, by our habits, and by every other appointment to be our selues.

Poy. Tut our horses they shall not see, He tye them in the wood, our vizerds wee will change after wee leave them: and firrah, I have Cases of Buckram for the nonce, to immaske our noted outward garments.

Prom. But I doubt they will be too hard for vs. Pem. Weil, for two of them, I know them to bee as true bred Cowards as euer turn d backe, and for the shird If he fight longer then he fees reason, He forswear Asmes. The vertue of this left will be, the incomprehensible lyes that this fat Rogue will tell vs, when we meete at Support: how thirty at least he fought with, what Wardes, what blower, what cattemities he endured; and in the reproofe of this, lyes the left.

Prin. Well, He goe with thee, proulde vs all things necessary, and meete me to morrow night in Eastcheape, there He sup. Farewell.

Poja. Farewell, my Lord. Exil Points Prin. I know you all, and will a-while vphold The vnyoak'd humor of your idlenesse: Yetheerein will I imitate the Sunne, Who doth permit the bale contagious cloudes To smother up his Beauty from the world, That when he please againe to be himseise, Being wanted, he may be more wondred at By breaking through the foule and vgly mifts Of vapours, that did feeme to firangle him. It all the yeare were playing holidates, To sport, would be as tedious as to worke: But when they teldome come, they wisht for come, And nothing pleaseth but rare accidents. So when this loose behaviour I throw off, And pay the debt I never promited By how much better then my word Iam, By fo much shall I falshe mens nopes, And like bright Mettall on a fullen ground : My reformation glittering o're my fault, Shall shew more goodly, and attract more eyes, Then that which hath no foyle to fet it off. Ile fo offend, to make offence a skill, Redeeming time, when men thinke least I will.

Scana Tertia.

Enter the King Northumber Lind Porcefter Hoffurre SIT Walter Blunt, and others.

Kmg. My blood hath beene too cold and temperate, Vnapt to flirre at these indignities, And you have found me; for accordingly, You tread vpon my patience: But be fure, I will from henceforth rather be my Selfe, Mighty, and to be fear'd, then my condition Which hath beene imooth as Oyle, foft as yong Dovme, And therefore loft that Title of respect, Which the proud foule ne're payes, but to the proud.

Wor. Our house (my Soueraigne Liege)little deserues The securge of greatnesse to be vsed on it, And that same greatnesse too, which our owne hands

Haue holpe to make so portly.

Nor. My Lord. King. Worcester ger thee gone : for I do fee Danger and disobedience in thine eye. O fir. your presence is 100 bold and peremptory, And Maieftie might neuer yet endure The moody Frontier of a feruant brow, You have good leave to leave vs. When we need Your vic and counfell, we shall send for you. You were about to speake.

Nath. Yes, my good Lord.

Those

Those Prisoners in your Highnesse demanded, Which Harry Percy heere at Holmedon tooke, Were (as he sayes) not with such strength denied As was deliuered to your Maiesty:
Who either through enuy, or misprisson,

Was guilty of this fault; and not my Sonne. Hor. My Liege, I did deny no Prisoners. But, I remember when the fight was done, When I was dry with Rage, and extreame Toyle, Baeathleffe, and Faint, leaning vpon my Sword, Came there a certaine Lord, near and trimly drell; Fresh asa Bride-groome, and his Chin new reapt, Shew'd like a flobble Land at Haruelt home. He was perfumed like a Milliner, And twist his Finger and his Thumbe, he held A Pouncer-box : which cuer and anon He gauchis Nofe, and took't away againe: Who therewith angry, when it next came there, Tooke it in Snuffe . And fill he smil'd and talk'd a And as the Souldiers bare dead bodies by, He call'd them entaught Knaues, Vnmannerly, Tobring a flouenly vnhandfome Coarfe Betwixt the Winde, and his Nobility. With many Holiday and Lady tearnie He question'd me : Among the rest, demanded My Prisoners, in your Maiesties behalfe. I then, all-imarting, with my wounds being cold, (Tobe io pestered with a Popingay) Out of my Greele, and my Impatience, Answer'd (neglectingly) I know nos whar, He should, or should not : For henisde me mad, To fee him shide so briske, and finelt so sweet, And talke falike a Waiting-Gentlewoman, Of Guns & Drums, and Wounds: God faue the marke; And telling me, the Soueraign'it thing on earth Was Parmacity, for an inward bruife a And that it was great picty, fo it was, That villanous Salt-peter should be digg'd Out of the Bowels of the harmlesse Earth, Which many a good Tall Fellow had destroy'd So Cowardly. And but for these vile Gunnes, He would himselse have beene a Souldier, This bald, unioynted Charofhis (my Lord) Made me to answer indirectly (as I faid.) And I beseech you, let not this report Come cutrant for an Accusation, Berwixemy Loue, and your high Maielly.

Elunt. The circumliance confidered, good my Lord, What ever Harry Persie then had faid, To fuch a person, and in fuch a place, At fuch a time, w.th all the refirecold, May reasonably dye, and neuer rife. To do him wrong, or any way impeach What then he said, so he vniay it now.

King. Why yet doth deny his Priloners,
But with Provilo and Exception,
That we atour owne charge, shall ransome straight
His Brother-in-Law, the foolish Mertwier,
Who (in my soule) hath wilfully betraid
The lives of rhose, that he did leade to Fight, Against the great Magitian, damn'd Gloudower:
Whose daughter (as we lieare) the Barle of March
Hath lately married. Shall our Cossets then,
Be empried, to redeeme a Fraitor home?
Shall we buy Treason, and indent with Feares,
When they have lost and sorteyted themselves.

No: on the barren Mountaine let him flerue:
For I shall neuer hold that man my Friend
Whose tongue shall aske me for one peny cost
Toransome home revolted Mortimer,

Hot. Revolted Antimer?
He never did fall off, my Soveraigne Liege,
But by the chance of Warre: to prove that true,
Needs no more but one tongue. For all those Wounds,
Those mouthed Wounds, which valiantly he tooke,
When on the gentle Severnes siedgie banke.
In single Opposition hand to hand,
He did consound the best part of an houre
In changing hardiment with great Glendower:
Three times they breath'd, and three times did they drinke
Vpon agreement, of swift Severnes shood;
Who then affrighted with their bloody lookes,
Ran searcfully among the trembling Reeds,
And hid his crispe-head in the hollow banke,
Blood-stained with these Valiant Combatants.
Never did base and rotten Policy
Colour her working with such deadly wounds;
Nornever could the Noble Mornimer
Receive so many, and all willingly:
Then let him not be stand'red with Revolt.

King. Thou do'ft bely him Percy, thou do'ft bely him;
He neuer did encounter with Glendower:
I tell thee, he durft as well have met the divell alone,
As Owen Glendower for an enemy.
Artthou not asham'd; But Sirrah, henceforth
Let me not heate you speake of Mortimer.
Send me your Prisoners with the speediest meanes,
Or you shall heare in such a kinde from me
As will displease ye. My Lotd Northumberland,
We License your departure with your sonne,
Send vs your Prisoners, or you'l heate of it.

Exit King.

Send vs your Priloners, or you'l heare of it. Exit King Hor. And if the discillance and roare for them I will not fend them. I will after firsight And tell him fo: for I will eafe my heart, Although it be with hazard of my head.

Nor. Whate drunke with choller thay & paule awhile, Heere comes your Vnckle. Enter Worcefler.

Hot. Speake of Mortimer?
Yes, I will speake of him, and let my soule
Waht mercy, if I do not loyne with him.
Inhis behalfe, lie empty all these Veines,
And shed my deere blood drop by drop ith dust,
But I will lift the downfall Astronomer
As high ith Ayre, as this Vothankfull King,
As this Ingrate and Cankred Bellingbrooke.

Nor. Brother, the King bath made your Nephew made svor. Who strooke this heate up after I was gone Hw. He will (forfooth) have all my Prisoners; And when I vrg'd the ransom once againe Of my Wines Brother, then his cheeke look d paie,

And on my face he turn'd an eye of death,
Trembling even at the name of Martimer.

Wor. I cannot blame him: was he not proclaim'd

By Richard that dead is, the next of blood?

Nor. He was: I heard the Proclamation,

And then it was, when the vnbappy King
(Whole wrongs in vs God pardon) did let forth

Ypon his Irish Expedition:
From whence he intercepted, did teturne

To be depos'd, and shortly murthered.

Wor. And for whose death, we in the worlds wide mouth

Liue scandaliz d, and fouly spoken of.

Hat.

Hor, But loft I pray you; did King Richard then Proclaime my brother Mortimer. Heyre to the Crowne?

Nor. He did, my felfe did heare it.

Hot. Nay then I cannot blame his Coufin King, That with d him on the barren Mountaines Haru'd. But fiell it be, that you that fet the Crowne Vpon the head of this forgetfull man, And for his fake, wore the detelled blos Of murtherous Subornation? Shall'it be, That you a world of curses undergoe, Being the Agents, or bale fecond meanes, The Cords, the Ladder, or the Hangman rather? O pardon, if that I descend so low, To thew the Line, and the Predicament Wherein you range under this fubrill King. Shall it for shame, be spoken in these dayes, Or fill vp Chronicles in time to come, That men of your Nobility and Power Did gage them both in an vniust behalfe (As Both of you, God pardon it, have done) To put downe Richard, that Iweet lovely Role, And plant this Thorne, this Canker Bullimbrooke? And shall it in more shame be further spoken, That you are fool'd, discarded, and shooke off By him, for whom these shames ye underwent? No : yet time ferues, wherein you may redeeme Your banish'd Honors, and restore your selves Into the good Thoughts of the world againe. Revenge the geering and dildain'd contempt Of this proud King, who fludies day and night To answer all the Debt he owes vnto you, Even with the bloody Payment of your deaths: Therefore I fay

Wor. Peace Coufin, say no more. And now I will vnclaspe a Sceret booke, And to your quicke conceyving Discontents, He reade you Matter, deepe and dangerous, As full of perill and aditenturous Spirit, Asto o're-walke a Current, roaring loud On the anstedfall fooring of a Speare.

Hot. If he fall in, good night, or finke or fwimme: Send danger from the East vnto the West, So Honor croffe it from the North to South, And let them grapple: The blood more thirres Torowzea Lyon, then to fart a Hare.

Nor. Imagination of some great exploit, Drives him beyond the bounds of Patience.

Ha. By heauen, me thinkes it were an ease leap, To plucke bright Honor from the pale-fac'd Moone, Or dive into the bottome of the deepe, Where Fadome-line could never touch the ground, And plucke up drowned Honor by the Lockes: So he that doth redeeme her thence, might weare Wishout Co-rinall, all her Dignities: But out vponthis halfe-lac'd Fellowship.

Wor. He apprehends a World of F gures here, But not the forme of what he should attend: Good Coufin give me audience for a-while, Andlistrome.

Hor. I cry you mercy. Wer. Those same Noble Scottes That are your Prisoners.

Hor. He keepe them all. By heaven, he shall not have a Scot of them: No if a Scot would faue his Soule, he fall not, Wer. You flattaway, And lend no este vnto my purpofes. Those Prisoners you shall keepe.

He keepe them, by this idend.

Hot. Nay, I will; that's flat : He faid, he would not ransome Mortmer, Forbad my tongue to speake of Mortmon, But I will finde hirs when he lyes ssleepe, And in his ease, He bolls Merimer, Nay, Ile houe a Starling thall be taught to speake Nothing but Mortomer, and give it hum, To keepe his anger still in motion,

Wer, Heare you Coulin : a word. Her, All Rudies heere I solemnly defie, Sauchow to gall and pinch this Bullingbrooks,
And that fame Sword and Buckler Prince of Wales. Bur that I thinke his Father loves him not And would be glad he mer with some mischance, I would have poylon'd him with a por of Ale.

Wor. Farewell Kinfinan : Ile talke to you When you are better temper'd to attend.

Nor. Why what a Waspe-tongu'd & impation soole Art thou, to breakcioto this Womans mood, Tying thine eare to no tongue but thine owne?

Hor. Why look you, I am whipt & fcourg'd with rods, Netled, and flung with Pilmires, when I beare Of this vile Politician Bulling brooke. In Richards time: What de'ye call the place? A plague vpon't, it is in Glouftershire Twas, where the madeap Duke his Vacle kept, His Vicle Yorke, where I first bow'd my knee Vnto this King of Smiles, this Bulling brooks: When you and he came backe from Ravenspurgh.

Nor. At Backley Callle. Hor. You say true ! Why what a caudle deale of correfie, This fawning Grey-hound then did profier me-Looke when his infant Fortune came to age, And gentle Harry Parry, and kinde Coulin:
O, the Divell take such Couzeners, God forgize me, Good Vnele tell your tale, for I have done.

Wor. Nay, if you have not, too't againe, Wee'l ftay your leyfure.

Hot. I have done infooth.

stor. Then once more to your Scottish Prilogers. Deliver them vp without their ransome ftraight, And make the Dangles forme your onely meane For powres in Scotland: which for divers reasons Which I shall send you written, be afford Will eafily be granted you, my Lord. Your Sonne in Scotland being thus impl y'd, Shall fecretly into the bosome ereepe Of that same noble Prelate, well belou'd, The Archbishop.

Hot. Of Yorke, is't not? Wor. True, who beares hard His Brothers death at Eriften, the Lord Screeps. I speake not this in estimation, As what I thinke might be, but what I know Is ruminated, plotted, and fet downe, And onely flayes but to behold the face Of that occosion that shall bring it on. Her. I smellit:

Vpon my life, it will do wond rous well. Nor. Before the game's a-foot, thou fill ler's lip. Her. Why, it cannot choose but be a Noble plot,

And then the power of Scotland, and of Yorke To joyne with Martiner, He.

syor. And fo they shall.

Hor. Infaith it is exceedingly well aym'd. Wor. And 'tis no little reason bids vs speed, To faue our heads, by raising of a Head: For, beare out selves as even as we can, The King will alwayes thinke him in our debt, And thinke, we thinke out felues vnfatisfied, Till he hath found a time to pay vs home. And fee already, how he doch beginne To make vs Arangers to his lookes of love.

Hos. He does, he does; wee'l be reveng'd on him. Then I by Letters shall direct your course When time is ripe, which will be fodainly: He feele to Glendower, and loe, Morismer, Where you, and Donglas, and our powres at once, As I will fashion it, shall happily meete, To beare our fortunes in our owne ftrong armes, Which now we hold at much uncertainty,

Nor. Farewell good Brother, we shall thrive, I trust Hot Vncle,adieu : Olet the houres be fhort, Till fields, and blowes, and grones, applaud our sport. exa

Adus Secundus. Scena Prima.

Entor a Carrier with a Lanterne m bis hand.

1. Car. Heigh-ho, an't be not foure by the day, Ile be hang'd. Charles waine is over the new Chimney, and yet our horsenoz packt. What Offer?

Off. Anon, anen.

1.Car. I prethee Tom, beate Cuts Saddle, put a few Flockes in the point : the poore lade is wrung in the withers, out of all ceffe.

Enter another Carrier.

2. Cor. Peafe and Beanes are as danke here as a Dog. and this is the next way to glue poore lades the Bo tes This house is turned vplide downe since Robin the Offler dyed

1.Car. Poore fellow neuer ioy'd fince the price of ozts tole, it was the death of him.

2. Car. I thinke this is the most villanous houte in al

London rode for Fleas: I am flung like a Teneh.

- . Car. Like a Tench? There is ne're a King in Chriflendome, could be better bit, then I have beene fince the first Cocke.
- 2. Car. Why, you will allow vs ne're a' Tourdeo, and then we leake in your Chamney: and your Chamber-lye breeds Fleas like a Loach.

1. Car. What Offier, come away, and be hangd: come away.

2. Car. I have a Gainmon of Bacon, and two razes of Ginger, to be delivered as farre as Charing-croffe.

s. Car. The Turkies in my Pannier are quite flatued. What Offer? A plague on thee, haft thou never an eye in thy head? Can'st not heare ? And t'were not as good a deed as drinke, to break the pate of thee, I am a very Villaine. Come and be hang'd, haft no faith in thee?

Enser Gads-bell.

Gad Good-morrow Carriers. What's a clocke? Car Ithinke it be two a clocke.

Gad I prethee lend me thy Lanthorne to fee my Gelding in the stable

1. Car. Nay fost I pray ye, I know a trick worth two of that

Gad. I pretheelend me thine.

2. Car. I, when, canst tell? Lend meethy Lanchorne (quoth a) marry He fee thee hang'd firft.

Gad. Sirra Carrier : Whatstime do you mean to come to Lendon?

2. Car. Time enough to goe to bed with a Candle, I warrant thee. Conse neighbour Mugger, wee'll call up the Gentlemen, they will along with company, for they haue great charge.

Enter Chamberlaine.

Gad. What ho, Chamberlaine?

Cham. At hand quoth Pick-putle.
Gad. That's even as faire, as at hand quoth the Chamberlaine: For thou varieft no more from picking of Purles, then giving direction, doth from labouring lay It the plot, how.

(bam. Good morrow Master Gade-Hill, it holds curtant that I told you yesternight. There's a Franklin in the wilde of Kent, hath brought three hundred Markes with him in Gold: I heard him tell it to one of his company last night as Supper; a kinde of Auditor, one that hath abundance of charge too (God knowes what) they are vo already, and call for Egges and Butter. They will away prescurly.

Gad. Sirra, if they meete not with S. Nicholas Clarks,

Ile give thee this occke.

Tham. No, lle none of it : I prythee keep that for the Hangaian, for I know thou worships S. Nicholas as truly as a man of fallhood may.

Gad. What talkest thou to me of the Hangman? If I hang, He make a fat payer of Gallowes. For, If I hang, old Sir lobn hangs with once, and thou know if hee's no Starueling. Tue, there are other Troisns that of dream'f not of, the which (for fport lake) are content to doe the Profession some grace; that would (if matters should bee lock'd into) for their owne Credit lake, make all Whoie. I am joyned with no Poor-land-Rakers, no Long-Raffe fix-penny frikers, none of these mad Mustachto-purplehu'd Maltwormes, but with Nobility, and Tranquilitie; Bourgomasters, and great Oneyers, fuch as can helde in, fuch as will strike sooner then speake; and speake sooner then drinke, and drinke fooner then pray: and yet Ilye, for they pray continually voto their Saint the Commonwealth; or tather, not to pray to her, but prey on her: for they tide up & downe on her, and make hir their Boots.

Cham. What, the Commonwealth their Bootest Will the hold out water in foule way?

Gad. She will, the will; Iustice hath liquor'd her. We feale as in a Caftle, cockfure : we have the receit of Fernseede, we walke inuisible.

Cham. Nay, I thinke rather, you are more beholding to the Night, then to the Fernseed, for your walking invisible.

Gad. Gine me thy hand

Thou frelt haue a share in our purpose

As I am a true man.

Cham. Nay, rather let mee haue it, as you are a falle Theefe.

God. Goetoo: Home is a common name to all men. Bid the Offler bring the Gelding out of the stable. Farewell, ye muddy Knaue.

Scena

Scana Secunda.

Enter Prince Paynes, and Pero.

Points Come Shelter, Shelter, I have removed Falfafr Horfe, and he frets like a gum d Veluce.

Prin. Stand close

Enter Falftaffr.

Fal. Poiner, Poiner, and be hang'd Poiner.
Prus. Peace ye fat-kidney d Rafcall, what a brawling doll thou keepe

Fas. What Poines. Hall

Prin. He is walk'd up to the top of the hill, He go feck

Fal. I am accurate rob in that Theefe company: that Rascall hath removed my Horse, and tied him Iknow not where. If I travell but foure foot by the squire further a foore, I shall breake my winde. Well, I doubt not but to dye a faire death for all this, if I sope hanging for killing that Rogue, Ihaue for fworne his company hoursly any time this two and twenty yeare, & yet I am bewitcht with the Rogues company. If the Rafeall have not given me medicines to make me love him, He behang'd; it could not be elle : I haue drunke Medicines. Poines, Hal, a Plague vpon you both. Bardolph, Pete: He starue ere I rob a foote further. And twere not as good a deede as to drinke, to turne True-man, and to leave these Rogues, 1 am the verielt Varlet that ever chewed with a Tooth. Eight yards of vneuen ground, is threefcore & ten miles afoot with me : and the stony-hearted Villaines knowe it well enough. A plague vpon't, when Theeues cannot be true one to another. They whifile.

Whew : a plague light vpon you all. Give my Horfe you

Rogues : give me my Horfe, and be hang'd.

Prin. Peace ye fat guttes, lye downe, lay thine eare close to the ground, and lift if thou can heare the tread of Trauellers.

Fal. Haue you any Leavers to lift me vp again being downe? He not beare mine owne fielh fo far afoot again, for all the coine in thy Fathers Exchequer What a plague meane yeto colt me thus?

Prim. Thou ly'ft, thou are not colted, thou are uncolted. Fal. I prethee good Prince Hal, help me tomy horfe, good Kings fonne.

Prin. Out you Rogue, Shall I be your Ofter?

Fal. Go hang thy felfe in thine owne heire-apparant-Garters: If I be tane, lle peach for this: and I have not Ballads made on all, and fung to filthy tunes, let a Cup of Sacke being poyfon: when a ieft is fo forward, & a foote too, I hate it

Emer Gads. hill.

Gad Stand.

Fal. So I do against my will.

Poin. O'tis our Setter, I know his voyce .

Bardolfe, what newes?

Bar. Case ye, case ye; on with your Vizards, there's mony of the Kings comming downe the hill, 'tis going to the Kings Exchequer,

Fal. You lie you rogue, 'tis going to the Kings Tauern.

Gad. There's enough to make ve all.

Fal. To be hang'd

Prin. You foure thall front them in the partow Lane: Ned and I, will waike lower; if they scape from your an. counter, then they light on vs.

Pero. But how many be of them?

Gad. Some eight of ten.

Fal. Will they not rob vi?

Prm. What, a Coward Sir Inh Paunch a

Fal. Indeed I am not labor of Gam your Grandlesher; but yet no Coward, Hal

Pem. Wee'lleave that to the penofe.

Poin. Sicra facke, thy horse flands behinde the hede. when thon need it him, there thou halt finde him, Fartwell, and fland faft.

Fal. Now cannot I frike him, if I fhould be hang'd.

Prus. Ned, where are our disguises?

Poin. Heere hard by : Scand close

Fal. Now my Mafters, happy man behis dole, fay I : every man to his bufinelle.

Enser Trauellers.

Tra Come Neighbor: the boy shall leade our Horses downe the hill: Wee'l walke a foot a while, and eale our Theower. Stry.

Tra. lefu bleffe vs.

Fal. Strike. down with them, cut the villains throater a whorfon Caterpillers. Becon-fed Knewes, they hate we youth; downe with them, fleece them,

Tra. O, we see undone, both we and ours for euer.

Fal. Hang ye gorbellied knaues, are you undone? No ye Fat Chuffes, I would your flore were heere. On Bacons on, what ye knaues? Youg men must liur, you are Grand lurers, are ye ? Weel inte ye ifath.

Herrethey rob them, and binde them Enter the

Prince and Pornes

Prin. The Theeves have bound the True-men : Now could thou and I tob the Theeues, and go metaly to London, it would be argument for a Weeke, Laughter for a Moneth, and a good iell for ever Paymes. Stand close, I heare them comming.

Enter Theenes agains.

Fal. Come my Masters, let vs share, and then roborse before day : and the Prince and Poynes bee not two arrand Cowards, there's no equity farring. There's no mot valour in that Poynes, than in a wilde Ducke.

Prin. Your money.

Poin Villaines

As they are sharing she Prince and Poynes for upon them .. They all run away leaving the boosy behind them.

Prince. Got with much eafe. Now mertily to Horfe: The Theeves are scattred, and postest with fear fo frongly, that they dare not meet each other : each takes his fellow for an Officer. Away good Ned, Falfafe Sweates to death, and Lards the leane earth as he walkes along: wer't not for laughing, I should pitty him.

Pour. How the Rogue toar'd.

Excunt

Scana Tervia.

Enter Hotfpuere schus, reading a Letter. But for more owne pare my Lord, I could bee well comemed to be there, in reflet of the love I beare your bonfe.

He could be contented: Why is he not then in respect of the love he beares our house. He shewes in this, he loves his owne Barne better then he loves our house. Let me fee some more. The purpose you undertake is dangerous. Why that's certaine: Tis dangerous to take a Colde, to fleepe, to drinke: but I tell you (my Lord foole) out of this Nettle, Danger; we plucke this Flower, Safety. The purpose you undertake is dangerous, the Friends you have named uncertaine, the Time is selfe unforted, and your whole Plet too light, for the counterpoise of fogreat an Opposition.
Say you to, say you to: I say voto you againe, you are a shallow cowardly Hinde, and you Lye. What a lackebraineisthis? I proteft, our plot is as good a plot as ener was laid; our Friend true and conflant: A good Plotte, good Friends, and full of expectation: An excellent plot, very good Friends. What a Frosty-spirited rogue is this? Why, my Lord of Yorke commends the plot, and the generall course of the action. By this hand, if I were now by this Rascall, I could braine him with his Ladies Fan. Is there not my Father, my Vnckle, and my Selfe, Lord Edmund Mortimer, my Lord of Yorke, and Owen Glendour? Is there not belides, the Dowglas? Have I not all their letters, to meetome in Armes by the ninth of the next Moneth? and are they not tome of them fet forward already? What a Pagan Rascall is this? An Infidell. Ha, you shall fee now in very fincerity of Feare and Cold heart, will he to the King, and lay open all our proceedings. O,I could divide my felfe, and go to buffets, for moving fuch a dish of skim'd Milk with so honourable an Action. Hang him, let him tell the King we are prepared. I will fet forwards to night

Enter bis Lady.

How now Kate, I must lease you within these two hours. La. O my good Lord, why are you thus alone? For what offence have I this fortnight bin A banish'd woman from my Harries bed?
Tell me (Sweet Lord) what is't that takes from thee Thy stomacke, pleasure, and thy golden sleepe? Why doft thou bend thing eyes vpon the earth?

And flart fo often when thou fitt'ft alone? Why hast thou lost the fresh blood in thy cheekes > And given my Treasures and my rights of thee, To thicke-ey'dmusing, and curst melancholly In my faint-flumbers, I by thee hane watchr, And heard thee murmore tales of Iron Warres: Speake teatmes of manage to thy bounding Steed, Cry courage to the field. And thou half talk'd Of Sallies, and Recires; Trenches, Tents, Of Palizadoes, Frontiers, Parapets, Of Basiliskes, of Canon, Culuerin, Of Prisoners ransome, and of Souldiers Slaine. And all the current of a headdy fight. Thy spirit within thee hath beene so at Warre, And thus hath so bestitt'd thee in thy sleepe, That beds of sweate hath stood vpon thy Brow, Like bubbles in a late-diffurbed Streame; And in thy face strange motions have appear'd, Such as we fee when men restraine their breath On some great sodaine half. O what portents are these? Some heavie bufineffe hath my Lord in hand, And I must know it : else he loues me nor.

Hot. What ho; Is Gilliams with the Packet gone?
Ser. He is my Lord, an houre agone.
Hot. Hath Buller brought those horses fro the Sheriffe?

Ser. One horfe, my Lord, he brought cuen now.

Hot. What Hotle? A Roane, a crop care, is itnot.

Ser. It is my Lord.

Hot. That Roane shall be my Throne. Well, I will backe him straight. Esperance, bid Butler lead him forth into the Parke.

La. But heate you, my Lord.

Hot, What say's thou my Lady?

La. What is it carries you away?

Hot. Why, my horse (my Loue) my horse.

La. Out you mail-headed Ape, a Weazell hathnot such a deale of Spleene, as you are to shill. In sooth lie know your businesse Harry, that I will. I feate my Brother Mortimer doth stirre about his Title, and hath sent syout oline his enterprize. But if you go Hat. So fatte a foot, I shall be weary, Loue, La. Come, come, you Paraquito, answer me directly voto this question, that I shall aske. Indeede lie breake thy little singer Harry, if thou wilt not tel me true.

Hos. Away, away you trifler: Loue, I loue thee not, I eare not for thee Kate: this is no world
To play with Mammets and to tilt with lips.
We must have bloodie Noses, and crack'd Crownes,
And passe them currant too. Gods me, my horse.
What say it thou Katel what wold it thou have with me?

La. Do ye not loue me? Do ye not indeed? Well, do not then. For fince you loue me not I will not loue my selse. Do you not soue me? Nay, tell me if thou speak? It in iest or no.

Hos. Come, wilt thou see me ride?
And when I am a horsebacke, I will sweare
I loue thee infinitely. But hearke you Kate,
I must not have you henceforth, question me,
Whether I go: nor reason whereabout.
Whether I must, I must: and to conclude,
This Evening must I leave thee, gentle Kate.
I know you wise, but yet no further wise
Then Harry Percus wise. Constant you are,
But yet a woman: and for secrecie,
No Lady closer. For I will believe
Thou wilt not viter what thou do'st not know,
And so farre wilt I stust thee, gentle Kate.

I.a. How so farre?

Hot. Not an inch further. But harke you Kate,
Whither I go, thither shall you go too:
To day will I set forth, to morrow you,
Will this content you Kate?

La. It must of force.

Execut

Scena Quarta.

Enter Prince and Poines.

Prin. Ned, prethec come out of that fat roome, & lend me thy hand to laugh a little.

Poince. Where halt bene Hall?

Prin. With three or foure Logger-heads, amongst 3. or sourescore Hogsheads. I have sounded the verie base string of humility. Sirra, I am sworn brother to a leash of Drawers, and can call them by their names, as Tom Dicke, and Francis. They take it already upon their considence, that though I be but Prince of Wales, yet I am the King of Curtesfertelling me starly I am no proud sack like Folfasse, but a Cotinthian, a lad of mettle, a good boy, and when I am King of England, I shall command at the good Laddes in East-cheape. They call drinking deepe, dying Scatlet; and when you breath in your watering, then they cry hem, and bid you play it off. To conclude, I am lo good a proficient in one quarter of an houre, that I can drinke with any Tinker in his owne Language duringmy life. I tell thee Ned, thou halt lost much henor, that thou wer't not with me in this action: but sweet Ned, to sweeten which name of Ned, I give thee this penivrorth of Sagar, clapt eucnnow into my hand by an under Skinker, one that never spake other English in his life, then Eight Bellings and fix pence, and. Tou are welcome: with this foul addition, Anon, Anen fir, Score a Pint of Baftard in the Halfe Moone, or fo. But Ned, to drive away time till Falsaffe come, I prythee doe thou find in fome by-roome, while I question my puny Drawer, to what end hee gave me the Sugar, and do never leave calling Traces, that his Tale to me may be nothing but, Anon iften alide, and He Thew thee a Prefident.

Poines. Francis.

Prin. Thou art perfect.

Pois. Francis.

Enter Drawer.

Fran. Anon, anon fir; looke downe into the Pomgarnee, Raife.

Prince. Come hither Francis.

Frae, My Lord.

Prin. How long haft thou to ferue, Francis?

Fran. Forfooth five yeares, and as much as to Poin. Francis.

Free. Anon, anon fir.

Prin. Fine yeares: Berlady along Leafe for the clinking of Pewter. But Francis, dateft thou be fo valiant, as to play the coward with thy Indenture, & thew it a faire paire of heeles, and run from 11?

Fren. OLord fir, He be sworne vpon all the Books in England, I could finde in my heate.

Pain. Francis.

Fran. Anon, anon sir.
Priss. How old are thou, Francis?

Fran Let me fee, about Michaelmas neat I fhalbe-

Poin. Francis.

Fran. Anon fin pray you fray a little, my Lord.

Prin. Nay but harke you Francis, for the Sugar thou gsmilt me, twas a penyworth, was't not?

Fran. O Lord fir, I would it had bene two.

Prin I will give thee for it a thouland pound : Aske me when thou wilt, and thou fast have it.

Poin, Francis.

Fran, Anon, anon.

Prin. Anon Francis? No Francis, but to morrow Francis : or Francis, on thursday: or indeed Francis when thou wile. But Francis.

Fran. My Lord.

Prin. Wilt thou rob this Leatherne Ierkin, Christall button, Not-pated, Agat ring, Pake flocking, Caddice garter, Smooth tongue, Spanith pouch.

Fr.m. O Lord fir, who do you meane?

Prm. Why then your browne Baffard is your onely drinke: for looke you Francis, your white Capuas doublet will fulley. In Barbary fir, it cannot come to fo much Fran. What fir?

Poin. Francis.

Priss. Away you Rogue, doft thou heare them call? Heere shey both call bie, the Dreser france conceed, was knowing which way to go.

Enter Vintner.

Vint. What, stand'ft thou ftill, and bear'ft fuch a cal ling ? Looke to the Gueffs within: My Lord, olde Sir John With halfe a dozen more, are at the doore : Oull I let them to Prus. Let their alone awhile, and then open the doore. Pomes.

Enter Potnet.

Poin. Anon, anon fir.

Prin. Sirra, Fallafe and the reft of the Theeres, are at the doore, shall we be merry !

Poin. As merrie as Crickets my Lad. Bushark yee, What cunning match have you made with this isst of the Drawer? Come, vihat's the illie?

Prin. I am now of all humors, that have themed them. selves humors, fince the old dayes of goodrann Adam, to the pupill age of this prefent twelve a clock at midnight, What's a clocke Francis?

Fran. Anon, anon fir.

Prm. That ever this Fellow should have sewer words then a Parret, and yet the foone of a Wom-n. His indufiry is vp-flatter and down-flatter, his eloquence the par-cell of a reckoning. I am not yet of Farens mind, the Hotspurre of the North, he that killes me some fixe or season dozen of Scots at a Breakfast, washes his hands, and fairs to his wife; Fie vpon this quie: life, I want worke. O rey Sweet Harry sayes the, how many haft thou kall'd to day? Giue my Roane horse a drench (layer hee) and answerer, fome tourteene,an house after : a tille,a trifle. I prethee call in Falftaffe, Ile play Percy, and that damn'd Brawne shall play Dame Mortiour his wife. Rim, layes the drunkard. Call in Ribs, call in Tallow.

Ener Faiftaffe.

Poin Welcome lacke, where hall thou beene?

Fal. A plague of all Cowards I say, and a Vengeance too, marry and Amen. Give mea cup of Sacke Boy. Ere I leade this life long, He fowe nether flockes, and ineed then too. A plague of all cowards. Gice me a Cup of Sacke, Rogue. Is there no Vertue extent?

Frin. Didft thou neuer fee Titan kille a difh of Butter, pitusull hearted Titan that melted at the sweete Tale of the Sunne? If thou didft, then behold that compound,

Ful. You Rogue, heere's Lime in this Sacke toothere is nothing but Roguery to be found in Villanous man; yet a Coward is worfe then a Cup of Sack with lime. A vil-Isnous Coward, go thy wayes old Iacke, die when thou wilt, if manhood good manhood be not forgot vpon the face of the earth then am I a shotten Herring : there lines not three good men unbeng'd in England, & one of them is fat, and growes old, God helps the while, a bad world I fay. I would I were a Weaver, I could fing all manner of longs. A plague of all Cowards, I fay fill.

Prin. Hownow Woolfack, what motter you?

Fal. A Kings Sonne: If I do not beate thee out of the Kingdome with a dagger of Lath, and drive all the Sub-ie As afore thee like a flocke of Wilde-geefe. He never weste haire on my face more. You Prince of Wales?

Prim. Why you horson round man? what's the matter? Fal. Are you not a Coward? Answer me to that, and Points there?

Frin. Ye fatch paunch, and yee call mee Coward, Ile

Fal. I call thee Coward? He fee thee damn'dere I call the Coward: but I would give a thousand pound I could run as fast as thou canst. You are straight enough in the shoulders, you care no: who sees your backe : Call you shar that backing of your friends? a plague upon such backing: give me them that will fare me. Give me a Cup of Sack, I am a Rogue if I drunke to day.

Prince. O Villaine, thy Lippes are scarce wip'd, fince thou drunk'ft laft.

He drinkes. Falf. All's one for that. A plague of all Cowards fill, fay L.

Prince. What's the matter?
Falft. What's the matter? here be foure of ve, have ta'ne a thousand pound this Morning.

Prince. Where is it, lack? where is it?
Falf. Where is it? taken from vs, it is: a hundred apon poore foure of vs.

Prince. What, a hundred, man?

Falft. I am a Rogue, if I were not at halfe Sword with a dozen of them two houres together. I have scaped by miracle. I am eight times thrust through the Doubler, foure through the Hole, my Buckler out through and through, my Sword backt like a Hand-law, ecce figurans. I neuer dealt better fince I was a man: all would not doe. A plague of all Cowards: let them speake; if they speake more or leffe then truth, they are villaines, and the fonnes of darkneffe.

Prince. Speake firs, how was le?

Gad. We foure let vpon forne dozen.

Falit. Sizteene, at leaft, thy Lord.

Gad. And bound them.

Pers. No, no, they were not bound.

Falf. You Rogue, they were bound, every man of them, or I am a lew elfe, an Ebrew lew.

Gad. As we were sharing, some fixe or seven fresh even fet vpon vs.

Falft. And unbound the rest, and then come in the other.

Prince. What fought yee with them all?

Falft. All? I know not what yee call all : but if I fought not with fiftie of them, I am a bunch of Radifi : If there were not two or three and fiftie vpon poore olde lack, then am I no two-legg'd Cresture.

Pois. Pray Heaven, you have not murthered fome of them

Falst. Nay, that's past praying for, I have pepper'd two of them: Two I am fute I have payed, two Rogues in Buckrom Sutes. I tell thee what, Hal, if I tell thee a Lye, spit in my face, call me Horse: thou knowest my olde word: here I lay, and thus I bore my point; foure Rogues in Buckrom let drive at me.

Prince. What, foure? thou fayd'ft but two, even now.

Falft. Foure Fal, I told thee foure.

Poin. I,I,he faid foure.

Faist. These foure came all a-front, and mainely thrust et the; I made no more adoe, but tooke all their seven points in thy Targuet, thus.

Prince. Seven? why there were but foure, even now.

Fala. In Buckrom.

Pain, I, foure, in Buckrom Sutes.

Falft. Seuen, by these Hilts, or I am a Villaine elfe. Prin. Prethee let him alone, we shall have more anon-

Fulft. Doeft thou heare me, Hali

Prin. I and marke thee too, lack.

Falft. Doe fo, for it is worth the liftning too: these nine in Buckrom, that I told thee of.

Frin. So,two more alreadie. Falft. Their Points being broken.

Pom. Downe fell his Hofe.

Falft. Began to give me ground: but I followed me close-came in foot and hand; and with a thought, seuen of the eleven I pay'd.

Prin. O monstrous! eleven Buckrom men growne out of two?

Falf. But as the Deuill would have it, three mif-begotten Knaues, in Kendall Greene, came at my Back, and let drive at me; for it was fo darke, Hal, that thou could'it not fee thy Hand.

Prm. These Lyes are like the Father that begers them, groffe as a Mountaine, open, palpable. Why thou Claybrzyn'd Girs, thou Knotty-pated Foole, thou Horlon obscene greasie Tallow Carch.

Fall. What, art thou mad? are thou mad? is not the truth, the truth?

Prin. Why, how could'st thou know these men in Kendali Greene, when it was so darke, thou could'st not feethy Hand? Come, tell vs your reasons what say's thou to this?

Poin. Come, your reason lack, your reason.

Falft. What, vpon compulsion? No s were I at the Strappado, or all the Racks in the World, I would not reli you on compulsion. Giue you a resson on compulsion? If Reasons were as plentie as Black-berries, I would giue so mana Resson vpon compulsion, l.

Prim: He be no longer guilrie of this sinue. This sanguine Coward, this Bed-presser, this Hors-back-breaker, this huge Hill of Fleft.

Falf. Away you Statueling, you Elfe-tkin, you dried Neats conque, Bulles-piffell, you flocke-fish: O for brech to viter. What is like thee? You Tailors yard, you sheath you Bow-cafe, you vile flanding tucke.

Prin. Well, breath a-while, and then to't againe and when shou hast tyr'd shy selfe in bale comparisons, heare me speake but thus.

Poin. Marke lacke.
Prin. Wetwo, fave you fourefet on foure and bound them, and were Matters of their Wealth : mark now how a plaine Tôle shall put you downe. Then did we two, sez on you foure, and with a word, outfac'd you from your prize, and housit : yes, and can shew it you in the House . And Falftaffe, you carred your Guts away as nimbly, with as quicke dexteritie, and roated for mercy, and fill ranno and roar'd, as ever I heard Bull-Calfe. What a Slave are thou, to hacke thy fword as thou hast done, and then fay it was in fight. What trick? what device? what flarting hole canft thou now find out, to hide thee from this open and apparent (hame?

Poiner. Come, let's beare lacke : What tricke haft thou now?

Fal. I knew ye as well as he that made ye. Why heare yerray Masters, was it for me to kill the Helre apparant? Should I turne vpon the true Prince? Why, thou knowest I am as valiant as Hercules : but beware Inflind, the Lion will not touch the true Prince : Inflinch is a great matter. I was a Coward on Inflina: I shall thinke the better of my felfe, and thee, during my life: I, for a valuant Lion, and thou for a true Prince. But Lads, I am glad you have the Mony. Hostelie, clap to the doores: watch to night, pray to morrow. Gallants, Lads, Boyes, Harts of Gold, all the good Titles of Fellowship come to you. What, Chall we be merry? Chall we have a Play extempory.

Prin. Content, and the argument shall be, thy runing

Fal. A, no more of that Hall, and thou loucit me. Enter Hofteffe.

Mof. My Lord, the Prince?

Prin How now my Lady the Hostesse, what say'st

Hoffesse Marry, my Lord, there is a Noble man of the Court at doore would speake with your hee sayes, hee comes from your Father.

Prin, Giue him as much as will make him a Royall man, and fend him backe agains to my Mother.

Fulft. What manner of man is hee?

Hofteffe. Anoldman.

Fall. What doth Gravitie out of his Bed at Midnight? Shall I give him his answere?

Prin. Prethee doc lacke.

Falft. Faith, and He fend him packing.

Prince. Now Sirs: you fought faire: fo did you Pero, fo did you Bardol: you are Lyons too, you ranne away vpon inftinct: you will not touch the true Prince; no, he.

Bard. Faith, I ranne when I faw others runne.

Prin. Tell mee now in earnest, how came Falftaffer Sword io hackt ?

Peto. Why, he hackt it with his Dagger, and faid, hee would sweare truth out of England, but hee would make you beleeue it was done in fight, and perswaded vs to doe the like.

Burd Yea, and to tickle our Nofes with Spear-graffe, to make them bleed, and then to beflubber our garments with it, and sweare it was the blood of true men. I did that I did not this feuen yeeres before, I blusht to heare his monstrous devices.

Prin. O Villaine, thou stolest a Cup of Sacke eighteene yeeres agoe, and wert taken with the manner, and euer fince thou haft blusht extempore : thou hadst fire and (word on thy fide, and yet thou ranst away; what inflinct hadft thou for it?

Bard. My Lord, doe you see these Meteors? doe you behold these Exhalations?

Prin. I doe.

Bard. What thinke you they portend?

Prin. ilot Livers, and cold Purfes.

Bard. Choler, my Lord, if rightly taken.

Prin No, if rightly taken, Halter,

Enter Falstaffe

Heere comes leane lacke, heere comes bare-bone. How now my sweet Creature of Bombast, how long is't agoe, lacke, fince thou faw'ft thine owne Knee ?

Falft. My owne Knee? When I was about thy yeeres (Hal) I was not an Eagles Talent in the Wafte, I could have crept into any Aldermans Thumbe-Ring: a plague of fighing and gricle, it blowes a man vp like a Bladder. There's villanous Newes abroad : heere was Sir John Braby from your Father; you must goe to the Court in the Morning. The same mad fellow of the North, Percy; and hee of Wales, that gave Amamon the Bastinado, and made Lucifer Cuckold, and swore the Deuill his true Liege-man upon the Crosse of a Welch-hooke; what a plague call you him?

Poin O, Glendower.

Falft. Owen, Owen; the same, and his Sonne In Law Morrimer, and old Nerthumberland, and the sprightly Scot of Scots, Douglas, that runnes a Hotle-backe vp a Hill perpendicular.

Prin. Hec that rides at high speede, and with a Pistoll kills a Sparrow flying.

Falft. You have hit it

Prin. So did he never the Sparrow.

Pal, 1. Well, that Rascall hash good mertall in him, bee will not runne.

Prin Why, what a Rascall art thou then, to pray se him so fortunning?

Full. A Horse-backe (ye Cuckoe) but a fe or hee will not budge a foot.

Prin. Yes Inchesupon instinct.

Falft I grant ye, vpon inftinet: Well, her is there too, and one Mordake, and a thousand blew-Cappes more. Worceller is Rolne away by Night: thy Fathers Beard is rutn'd white with the Newes ; you may buy Land now as cheape as flinking Mackrell.

Prin Then 'tis like, if there come a hot Sunne, and thus civill buffetting hold, wee shall buy Maiden-heads as they buy Hob-nayles, by the Hundreds.

Falft. By the Masse Lad, thou say street, it is like wee shall have good trading that way. But tell me Hal, art not thou horrible afear of thou being Heire apparant, could the World picke thee out three fuch Enemyes againe as that Fiend Douglas, that Spirit Percy, and that Deuill Glendower? Art not thou horrible afraid? Doib not thy blood thrill at it?

Prin. Nota whit: Hacke some of thy inftinct.

Falft. Well thou wilt be horrible chidde to morrow, when thou commest to thy Father: if thou doc lout me, pracufe an answere.

Prin. Doe thou fland for my Father, and examine mee vpon the particulars of my Life.

Falf. Shall I? content: This Chayte shall bee my State, this Dagger my Scepter, and this Cushion my Crowne.

Prin. Thy State is taken for a Joyn'd-Stoole, thy Golden Scepter for a Leaden Dagger, and thy precious rich Crowne, for a pittifull bald Crowne.

Falit. Well, and the fire of Grace be not quite out of thee now shalt thou be moved. Give me a Cup of Sacke to make mine eyes looke redde, that it may be thought I have wept for I must speake in passion, and I will doe it in King Cambyfes vaine.

Prin. Well, heere is my Legge.

Falst. And heere is my speech: stand ande Nobilitie. Hofteffe. This is excellent sport, yfaith.

Falft. Weepe not, sweet Queene, for trickling teares are vaine.

Hostesse. O the Father, how hee holdes his counternance?

Falft. For Gods Take Lords, convey my truffull Queen, For teares doe flop the floud-gates of her eyes.

Hoffeste. O rare, he doth it as like one of these harlotry

Players, at euer I fee.

Falst. Peace good Pint pot, peace good Tickle-braine. Harry, I doe not onely maruell where thou spendest thy time; but also, how thou art accompanied: For though the Camomile, the more it is troden, the fafter it growes; yer Youth, the more it is wasted, the sooner it westes. Thou art my Sonne: I have partly thy Mothers Word, partly my Opinion; but chiefely, a villanous tricke of thine Eye, and a foolish hanging of thy nether Lippe, that doth warrant me. If then thou be Sonne to mee, heere lyeth the point : why, being Sonne to me, art thou fo poynted at? Shall the bleffed Sonne of Heaven prove a Micher, and eate Black-berryes? a question not to bee askt. Shall the Sonne of England prove a Theele, and take Purles? a question to be askt. There is a thing, Harry, which thou halt often heard of, and it is knowne to many mour land, by the Name of Pitch : this Pitch (as ancient Writers, noe report) doth defile; to doth the companie thou keepelt: for Harry, now I doe not speake to chee in Drinke, but in Teares; not in Pleasure, but in Pasfron ; not in Words onely, but in Woes also: and yet there is a vertuous man, whom I have often noted in thy companic, but I know not his Name.

Prin. What manner of man, and it like your Maieffie?

Felf. A goodly portly man ytaith, and a corpulent, of a chearefull Looke, a pleasing Eye, and a mott noble Carriage, and as I thinke, his age fome fiftie, or (byrlady) inclining to threelcote; and now I remember mee, his Name is Falftaffe: if that man should be lewdly given, hee decesues mee; for Harry, I fee Vertue in his Lookes. If then the Tree may be knowne by the Fruit, as the Fruit by the Tree then peremptorily I speake it, there is Vertue in that Falftaffe : him keepe with, the relt banish. And cell mee now, thou naughtie Varle:, tell mee, where half thou beene this moneth :

Prin. Do'ft thou speake like a King? doe thou fland formee, and Ile play my Father.

Falst. Depose me : it thou do'ft it halie so gravely, so maieflically, both in word and matter, hang me vp by the heeles for a Rabbet-sucker, ora Poukers Hare.

Frin. Well, heere I am fet.
Falft. And heere I fland: judge my Mafters. Pris. Now Harry, whence come you? Falft. My Noble Lord, from East-cheape.

Pro. The complaints I heare of thec, are grieuous. Palit. Yfzith, my Lord, they are falle: Nay, lle tickle ye fora young Prince.

Prin. Swearest thou, vngracious Boy? henceforth ne're looke on me: thou art violently carryed away from Grace: there is a Devill haunes thee, in the likenesse of a tot old Man; a Tunne of Man is thy Companion: Why do'st thou converse with that Trunke of Humors, that Boulting-Hutch of Beaftlinesse, that swolne Parcell of Dropfies; that huge Bombard of Sacke, that Huft Cloakebagge of Guts, that rofted Manning Tree Oze with the Pudding in his Belly, that renerend Vice, that grey Iniquitie, that Father Ruffian, that Vanitie in yeeres? wherein is he good, but to tafte Sacke, and drinke it? wherein neat and cleanly, but to carue a Capon, and eat it? wherein Cunning, but in Crate? wherein Craftie, but in Villanie? wherein Villanous, but in all things? wherein wotthy, but in nothing

Falit, I would your Grace would take me with you:

whom meanes your Grace ?

Prince. That villanous abhominable mis-leader of Youth, Falstaff, shacold white-bearded Sethan.

Fali?. My Lord, the man I know.

Prince. I know thou do ft.

Falst. But to fay, I know more harme in him then in my selfe, were to says more then I know. That hee is olde (the more the pittie) his white hayres doe wimefie it: but that hee is (saving your, reverence) a Whore-ma-Her, that I veterly deng. If Sacke and Sugar bec a fault, Heaven helpe the Wicked: if to be olde and merry, be a finne, then many an olde Hofte that I know, is damn'd: if to be fat, be to be bated, then Pharaobs leane Kine are to be loved. No, my good Lord, banish Peto, banish Bardolph, banish Poines: but for tweete lacke Faistaffe, kinde lacke Falltaffe, true lacke Falstaffe, valiant lacke Falstaffe, and therefore more valuant, being as hee is olde lack Falstaffe, banish not him thy Harryes companie, benish not him thy Harryes companies banish plumpe locke and banish all the World.

Prince , I doe, I will.

Enter Bardolph ruming.

Bard. O, my Lord, my Lord, the Sherife, with a most most monstrous Watch, is at the doore.

Palft. Outyou Rogue, play out the Play: I have much to fay in the behalfe of that Falft of e.

Enter the Hoffeffe.

Hosteffe. O, my Lord, my Lord.

Faist. Heigh, heigh, the Deuill tides voon a Fiddle

Ricke : what's the matter?

Hostelfe. The Sherife and all the Watch are at the doore: they are come to search the House, shall I let them in?

Falft. Do'ft thou heare Hat, neuer call a true peece of Gold'a Counterfeit: thou are effentially made, without feeming fo.

Prince. And thou a naturall Coward, without In-

FAR. I deny your Mann: if you will denv the Sherife, fo : if not, let him enter. If I become not a Cart as well as another man, a plague on my bringing up : I hope I shall as soone be strangled with a Halter, as ano-

Hince Goe hide thee behinde the Arras, the reft walke vp aboue. Now my Masters, for a true Face and good Conscience.

Falfe. Both which I have had: but their date is out, and therefore lle hide me.

Prince. Call in the Sherife

Enter Shorsfe and the Carrier.

Prince. Now Mafter Sherife, what is your will with mee ?

She. First pardon me, my Lord. A Hue and Cry hath followed certaine men vnto this houle.

Prince, What men?

She. One of them is well knowne, my gracious Lord, a groffe fat man.

Car. As fac as Butter.

Prince. The man, I doe affure you, is not beeze, For I my selfe at this time have imploy'd him t And Sherife, I will engage my word to thee, That I will by to morrow Dinner time, Send him to answere thee, or any man, For any thing he shall be charg'd withall: And so let me entrest you, leave the house.

Sbr. I will, my Lord : there are two Gentlemen Haue in this Robberie loft three hundred Marke .

Prince. It may be fo: if he have robbed thefe men, He shall be answerable: and so farewell

She. Good Night, my Noble Lord.

Prince. I thinke it is good Morrow, is it not?

She. Indeede, my Lord, I thinke it be two a Clocke; · Exit.

Prince. This only Rascall is knowne as well as Poulei: goe call him forth

Pero. Faistaffe ! fast asscepe behinde the Arres, and fnorting like a Horfe.

Prisce. Harke, how hard he fetches breath: fearch bis Pockets.

He seureboth his Pockets, and sinaceb certaine Papers.

Prince. What half thou found?
Pero. Nothing but Papers, my Lord.
Prince. Let's fee, what bethey? reade them.

Pito. Item,a Capon. ii.s.il.d. Item, Sawce. iiiid.

Item, Sacke, two Gallons.

Item, Sacke, two Gallons.

Item, Anchouse and Sacke after Supper.

Item, Bread.

ob,

Prince. O monstrous, but one halfe penny-worth of Bread to this intollerable deale of Sacke? What there is elle, keepe close, weele reade it at more advantage: there ler him sleepe till day. He to the Court in the Morning: Wee must all to the Warres, and thy place shall be honotable. He procure this fat Rogue a Charge of Foot, and I know his death will be a Match of Twelve-score. The Money shall be pay'd backe agains with advantage. Be with me betimes in the Morning: and so good mostow Peto.

Pero. Good morrow, good my Lord. Exwest

Adus Tertius. Scena Prima.

Enter Hosphere, Worcester Lord Mortimer,
Owen Glendower.

Mor. These promises are faire, the parties sure, And our induction full of prosperous hope.

Horf. Lord Mortimer, and Coulin Glendower,

Will you fit downe?
And Vnckle Worcefler; a plague vpon it,

I have forgot the Mappe.

Glend. No, here it is: Sit Coulin Percy, he good Coulin Hospure:

For by that Name, as oft as Lancefter doth speake of you. His Cheekes looke pale, and with a rising figh, He wishest you in Heaven.

Horfp. And you in Hell as oft as he heares Owen Glendower spoke of.

Gland. I cannot blame him: At my Nativitie,
The front of Heaven was full of fierie shapes,
Of burning Cresses: and at my Birth,
The frame and foundation of the Earth
Shak'd like a Coward.

. For p. Why foit would have done at the fame leafon, if your Mothers Cat had but kitten'd, though your felfe had neuer beene borne.

Clend. 1 (ay the Earth did shake when I was borne. Holf. And I say the Earth was not of my minde, if you suppose, 2s feering you, it shooke.

Glend. The Heavens were all on fire, the Earth did cremble.

Hosp. Oh, then the Earth shooke
To see the Heavens on fire,
And not in feare of your Nativitie.
Discased Nature of continues breakes forth
In strange eroptions; and the teeming Earth
Is with a kinde of Gollick pincht and vext,
By the imprisoning of varuly Winde

Within her Wombe: which for enlargement friuing, Shakes the old Beldame Earth, and tombles downe. Steeples, and mostle growne Towers At your Birth, Our Grandern Earth, having this difference ture, In passion shooks.

Clend. Coulin, of many men

t doe not beare these Croffings | Grue me leave To tell you once againe, that at my Birth The scont of Heaven was full of herie snapes, The Goales range from the Mourraines and the Mour

The Goales ranne from the Mountaines and the Heards Were firangely claimorous to the frighted fields. These fignes have marke the extra ordinarie,

And all the couries of my Life doe thew, I am not in the Roll of common men. Where is the Living, clipt in with the Sea

That chides the Bankes of England, Scotland, and Wales, Which calls me Pupill, or hath read to me?
And bring him out, that is but Womans Some,
Can trace me in the tedious wayes of Att,

And hold me pace in deepe experiments.

Horp. I thinke there's no man speakes better Welsh:
tle to Dinner.

Mors. Peace Coufin Percy, you will make him mad. Glead. I can call Spirits from the raftie Despe.

Halfs. Why so can I for so can any man:
But will they come, when you doe call for them?

Gland. Why I can teach thee Course to command.

Clend. Why, I can teach thee, Coulin, to command the Devill.

Holp. And I can teach thee, Coulin, to shame the Devil.

By telling truth. Tell truth, and shame the Deuill.

It thou have power to rayle him, bring him hither,
And He be sworne, I have power to shame him hence
Oh, while you live, tell truth, and strame the Deuill.

Alar. Come come, no more of this voprofitable

Glend. Three times hath Heary Bullingbrocke made head Against my Power: thrice from the Banks of Wye. And sandy-bottom'd Seuerne, have I hent him Bontlesse home, and Weather-beaten backe.

Hosfp. Home without Bootes, And in foule Weather too, How (capes he Agues in the Deuils name)

Glend Come, herre's the Mappe: Shall wee divide our Right, According to our three-fold order to'ne?

Mort. The Arch-Deacon hath divided it Into three Limits, very equally: England, from Trent, and Severne, bitherto By South and East is to my part affign'd: All Westward, Wales, beyond the Severne Shore, And all the fertile Land within that bound, To Open Glendower: And deare Couze, to you The remnant Northward, lying off from Trent. And our Indentures Tripartite are drawne : Which being fealed enterchangeably, (A Bofineffe that this Night may execute) Fo morrow, Coufin Percy, you and i, And my good Lord of Worcefter, will fee forth, To meete your Father, and the Scottith Power, As is appointed vs at Shrewsbury. My Father Glandower is not seadie yet; Nor shall wee neede his helpe these source eene dayes : Within that space, you may have drawne together Your Tenants Friends and neighbouring Gentlemen.

Glend. A shorter time shall send me to you, Lords: And in my Condest shall your Ladies come, From whom you now must steel and take no leave, For there will be a World of Water shed,

Vpon

Vpon the parting of your Wives and you.

Holf. Me thinks my Moity, North from Burton here, In quantitic equals not one of yours:
See, how this River comes me cranking in,
And cuts me from the best of all my Land,
A huge halfe Moone, a monstrous Cantle out.
Ille have the Currant in this place damn'd vp,
And here the smug and Silver Trent shall runne,
In a new Channell, faire and evenly:
It shall not winde with such a deepe indent,
To rob me of so rich a Bottome here.

Glend. Not winde? it shall, it must, you see it doth.
More, Yea, but marke how he beares his course,
And cunnes me op with like advantage on the other side,
Gelding the opposed Continent as much,

As on the other fide it takes from you.

Wore. Yes, baca little Charge will treach him here, And on this North fide winne this Cape of Land, And then he roomes fleaight and even.

Hosp. He have it fo, a little Charge will doe it.

Glend. He not have it alter d.
Horst. Will not you?
Glend. No, nor you shall not.
Horst. Who shall say me nay?
Glend. Why, that will I.

Hosp. Les me not understand you then, speake it is Welsh.

Gland. I can speake English, Lord, as well as you:
For I was trayn'd vp in the English Court;
Where, being but young, I framed to the Hsrpe
Many an English Dirtic, louely well,
And goue the Tongue a helpefull Ornament;
A Vertue that was neuer seene in you.

Hotip. Marry, and I am glad of it with all my hears, I had rather be a Kitten, and ery mew,
Then one of tricle fame Meeter Ballad-mongers:
I had rather heare a Brazen Candlellick turn'd,
Or a dry Wheele grate on the Axle-tree,
And that would fee my teeth nothing an edge,
Nothing fo much, as minoting Poetrie;
Tis like the fore't gate of a faushing Nagge.

Glend. Come, you shall have Trent turn d.

Hosp. I doe not care: He give thrice so much Land
To any well-deserving friend;
But in the way of Bargaine, marke ye me,

lle caull on the ninth part of a hayre.
Are the Indentures drawner thall we be gone?

Glend. The Moone thines faire,
You may away by Hight:
He hafte the Writer; and wishall,
Breake with your Wives, of your departure hences
I am afraid my Daughter will sugne medde,
So much the doteth on her Mortimer.

Exit.

Mort. Fie, Coulin Persy, how you crosse my Father.

Hoth. I cannot chuse: sometime he angers me, With telling me of the Moldwarpe and the Ant, Of the Dieamer Merlin, and his Prophecies; And of a Dragon, and a sinne-less Fith, A clip-wing'd Griffin, and a moulten Ranen, A couching Lyon, and a ramping Cas, And such a deale of skimble-skamble Stuff, As puts me from my Faith. I tell you what, He held me last Night, at least, nine howers, In reckning up the several Deuils Names, That water this Lacqueyes;

I cry'd hum, and well, goe too, But mark'd him not a word. O, he is as tedious As a tysted Horfe, a rayling Wife, Worle then a smookie House. I had eather live With Cheese and Garlick in a Windmill force, Than seede on Cates, and have him talke to me, Ia any Summer-House in Christendome.

Mort. In faith he was a worthy Grudemen, Exceeding well read, and profited, In strange Concealements. Valiant as a Lyon, and wondrows affable, And as to bountifull, as Mynes of India. Shall I tell you, Cousin, He holds your temper in a high respect, And curves himselfe, even of his natural scope, When you doe crosses himselfe, the hot aline, worth you, that man is not aline, Might so have tempted himses you have done, Without the taste of danger, and reproofe:

But doe not vie it of ; let me entrest you.

Were. In faith, my Lord, you are too wilful blame,
And fince your comming hither, have done enough,
To put him quite believe his patience.
You must needes learne, Lord, to amend this fault:
Though sometimes it show Greatnesse, Courage, Blood,
And that's the dearest grace it renders you;
Yet oftentimes it deth present harsh Rage,
Desect of Manners, want of Gouernment,
Pride, Haughtinesse, Opinion, and Disdaines
The least of which, haunting a Nobleman.
Loseth mens hearts, and leaves behinde a stayne
Vpon the beaute of all parts besides,

Beguiling them of commendation.

Hosp. Well, I am school'd:
Good-manners be your speede;
Heere come your Wines, and let va take our leane.

Enter Glendower, with the Ladies.

Mort. This is the deadly fright, that angers use,
My Wife can speake no English; I no Welsh.
Gland, My Daughter weepes, shee'le not part with you,
Shee'le be a Souldier too, shee'le to the Wastes.
Mort. Good Father tell her, that she and my Aust. Perry
Shall follow in your Conduct speedily.

Glandwar freakes to her in Welfh, and fe anforces bim in the same.

Gland. Since is desperate heere:
A pecuish selfe-will'd Haslotry,
One that no perswasion can doe good vpon-

The Lady freakes in Wellb

More. I understand thy Lookes: thet pretty Welsh Which thou powr's down from these swelling Heavens, I am too perfect in: and but for shame, In such a parley should I answere thes.

The Lady agains in Wellh.

Mort. I understand thy Msse, and thournine, And that's a seeling disputation: But I will neuer be a Truant, Loue, Till I have seam'd thy Language: for thy tongue

Makes

Maken Wellh as Iweet as Ditties highly penn'd, Sung by s faire Queene in a Summers Bowre, With raufhing Division to her Lute. Glend. Nay, if thou melt, then will she runnemadde.

The Lady peaker agains in Wellb.

Mort. O, l'am Ignorance it selse in this, Gland. She bids you, On the wanton Rushes lay you downe, And reft your gentle Head vpon her Lappe, And the will ling the Song that pleafeth you, And on your Eye-lids Crowne the God of Sleepe, Clarming your blood with pleasing heavinesse; Making such difference betwirt Wake and Sleepe, Asis the difference betwixt Day and Night, The houre before the Heavenly Harners'd Teeme Begins his Golden Progresse in the East. Afort. With all my heart He fit, and heare her fing: .

By that time will our Booke, I thinke, be drawne. Gland, Doeso:

And those Musitians that shall play to you, Hang in the Ayre a thousand Leagues from thence;

And streight they shall be here: lit, and attend.

Hoth. Come Kate, thou art perfect in lying downe: Come, quicke, quicke, that I may lay my Head in thy Lappe Lady. Goe, ye giddy-Goofe.

The Muficke player.

Hasp. Now I perceive the Deuill understands Welsh, And 'ris no maruell he is so humorous: Byrlady hee's a good Mufician.

Lady. Then would you be nothing but Musicall, For you are altogether gouerned by humors: Lye (till ye Theele, and heare the Lady fing in Welfh.

Harf. I had tather heate (Lady) my Brach howle in Irifh.

Lady. Would'it have thy Head broken?

Heif. No. Lady. Then be flill

Halp. Neyther, tis a Womans foult.

Lady. Now God helpe thee.

Holf. To the Welfh Ladies Bed.

1104p. Peace, thee lings.

Heere the Lady fings a Welfb Song.

Horf. Come, lle haue your Song too. Lady. Not mine, in good footh. Holp. Not yours, in good footh? You sweste like a Comfit-makers Wife: Not you, in good footh; and, as true as I live ; And, as God shall mend me; and, as sure as day's And givest such Sarcener suretie for thy Oathes, As if thou never walk'ft further then Finsbury. Sweare me, Kare, like a Lady, as thou are, A good mouth-filling Oath; and leave in footh, And fuch proteft of Pepper Ginger-bread, To Veluce-Guards, and Sunday-Citizens.

Come, fing.
Lady. I will not fing.
Both. 'Tis the next way to turne Taylor, or bo Redbrest teacher: and the Indentures be drawne, He away within thefe two howress and fo come in, when yee will Glend. Come, come, Lord Morumer, you are 2: Now, As hot Lord Percy is on fire to goe. By this out Booke is drawne : wee'le but feale, And then to Horse immediately, Mors. With all my heart. Exercit.

Scana Secunda.

Enter the King Prince of Wales and others.

King. Lords, giue vs leaues The Prince of Water, and I, Must have some private conference: But be neere at hand, For wee shall presently have neede of you.

I know not whether Heaven will have it fo. Por some displeasing service I have done; That in his secret Doome, out of my Blood, Hee'le breede Revengement, and a Scourge for met But thou do'ft in thy pallages of Life, Makemebeleeue, that thou art onely mark'd For the hor vengeance, and the Rod of heaven To punish my Multreadings. Tell me sile, Could fuch inordinate and low defires, Such poore, such bare, such lewd, such mezne attempts, Such barren plezsures, rude societie, As thou are matche withall, and grafted too, Accompanie the greatnelle of thy blood, And hold their levell with thy Princely heart?

Prince So please your Maiesty, I would I could Quit all offences with as cleare excuse, As well as I am doubtleffe I can purg My felfe of many I am charg'd withall : Yet such extenuation let me begge, As in reproofe of many Tales deuis'd, Which of the Eare of Greatnelle needes must heare, By Smiling Pick-thankes, and base Newes-mongers; I may for fome things true, wherein my youth Hath faultie wandred, and irregular, Finde pardon on my true fub million.

Rug. Heaven pardon thee: Yet let me wonder, Harry, Acthy affections, which doe hold a Wing Quite from the flight of all thy ancestors. Thy place in Councell thou haft rudely loft, Which by thy younger Brother is supply'de; And art almost an alien to the hearts Of all the Court and Princes of my blood The hope and expectation of thy time Is ruin'd, and the Soule of every man Propherically doe fore-thinke thy fall. Had I lo lauish of my presence beene, So common hackney'd in the eyes of men, So stale and cheape to vulgar Company; Opinion, that did helpe me to the Crowne, Had still kept loyall to possession, And left me in reputcleffe banishment, A fellow of no marke, nor likely hood. By being schoone seene, I could not firre, But like a Comer, I was wondred at,

That men would tell their Children, This it hee Others would fay; Where, Which is Bullingbrooks. And then I fole all Courtefie from Heaven, And drest my felfe in such Humilitie, That I did plucke Allegeance from mens hearts, Lowd Showts and Salutations from their mouthes. Euen In the presence of the Crowned King. Thus I did keepe my Person fresh and new. My Presence like a Robe Pontificall, Ne're feene, but wondred at a and fo my State, Seldome but sumptuous, shewed like a Feuft, And wonne by rarenesse such Solemnitle. The skipping King hee ambled up and downe, With shallow Jesters, and rash Bauin Wits, Soone kindled, and soone burnt, carded his State, Mingled his Royaltle with Carping Fooles, Had his great Name prophened with their Scornes, And gave his Countenance, against his Name, To laugh at gybling Boyes, and stand the push Of euery Beardlesse vaine Comparative; Grew a Companion to the common Streetes, Enfeoff'd himselfe to Popularitle: That being dayly swallowed by mens Eyes, They furfeted with Honey, and began to lost be The talke of Sweetnesse, whereof a little More then a little, is by much too much. So when he had occasion to be seene, He was but as the Cuckow is in Iune, Heard, not regarded: feene but with fuch Eyes, As ficke and blunted with Communitie, Affoord no extraordinaric Gaze, Such as is bent on Sunne-like Maieflie, When it thines feldome in admiring Eyes: But rather drowz'd, and hung their eye-lids downe, Stept in his Face, and tendred fuch afpect As Cloudie men vie to doe to their aduerfaries Being with his presence glutted, gorg'd, and full.

And in that very Line, Harry, standest thou: For thou hall loft thy Princely Priviledge, With vile participation. Not an Eye But is a wearie of thy common fight, Saue mine, which hath defir'd to fee thee more : Which now doth that I would not have it doe, Make blinde it seise with soolish tendernesse.

Prince. I shall bereafter, my thrice gracious Lord,

Be mote my felfe.

King. For Il the World, As thon art to this house, was Richard then, When I from France fer foot at Rauenspurgh; And even as I was then, is Percy now a Now by my Scepter, and my Soule to boot, He hath more worthy interest to the State Then shou, the shadow of Succession; For of no Right, nor colour like to Right. He doth fill fields with Harneis in the Realme, Turnes head against the Lyons armed lawes; And being no more in debt to yeeres, then thou, Leader ancient Lords, and reverent Bishops on To bloody Bettailes, and to brusing Armes. What never-dying Honor hath he got, Against renowned Douglas? whose high Decdes, Whose hot Incursions, and great Name in Armes, Holds from all Souldiers chiefe Majoritie, And Militarie Tule Capitall Through all the Kingdomes that acknowledge Christ, Thrice hath the Hosfins Warr, in fwathing Clothes,

This Infant Warrior, in his Enterprifes,
Discomsted great Dougla, ta'ne him once,
Enlarged him, and made a friend of him,
To fill the mouth of deepe Desiance vp,
And shake the peace and safetile of our Throne.
And what say you to this? Percy, Northumberland,
The Arch-bishops Grace of Yorke, Douglas, Mortimer, Capitulate against vs, and are vp.
But wherefore doe I tell these Newes to thee?
Why, Harry, doe I tell these of my Focs,
Which art my neer'st and dearest Enemie?
Thou, that art like enough, through vasfall Feare,
Base Inclination, and the start of Spiecee,
To fight against me vader Percles pay,
To dogg his heeles, and cursie at his frownes,
To shew how much thou art degenerate.
Prince. Doenot thinke so, you shall not finde it for

And Heaven forgive them, that fo much have fway'd Your Maiesties good thoughts away from me: I will redeeme all this on Parcies head, And in the closing of some glorious day, Be bold to tell you, that I am your Sonne, When I will weare a Garment all of Blood, And staine my favours in a bloody Masker Which washe away, shall scowre my shame with ie. And that shall be the day, when ere it lights, That this same Child of Honor and Renowne, This gallant House, this all-prayled Knight, And your vnthought-of Harry chance so meet: For every Honor fitting on his Helme, Would they were multitudes, and on my head My shames redoubled. For the time will come, That I shall make this Northerne Youth exchange His glotlous Deedes for my Indignities: Percy is but my Factor, good my Lord, To engrosse up glorious Deedes on my behalfe: And I will call him to so strict account, That he shall render every Glory vp, Yea, even the sleightest worthip of his time, Or I will teare the Reckoning from his Heart. This, in the Name of Heaven, I promise here: The which, if I performe, and doe furuive, I doc beseech your Maiestie, may salue The long-growne Wounds of my interaperacures If not, the end of Life cancells all Bands, And I will dye a hundred thousand Deaths, Ere breake the imallest parcell of this Vow. King. A hundred thousand Rebels dye in this: Thou shalt have Charge, and soveraigne trush herein.

Enter Blunt,

How now good Blum? thy Lookes are full of speed.

Blums. So hath the Businesse that I come to speake of.

Lord Mortimer of Scotland hath sent word,

That Douglas and the English Rebels mee

The cleuenth of this moneth, at Shrewsbury:

A mightie and a searefull Head they are,

(If Promises be kept on every hand)

As ever offered soule play in a State.

King. The Earle of Westmerland set forth to day s

With him my fonne, Lord Isbn of Lancafter,

For this advertisement is five dayes old.

On Wednesday next, Harry thou shalt set forward:

On Thursday, wee our selves will march.

Our meeting is Bridgenorth; and Harry, you shall course.

Through

Through Glocefterthire: by which account, Our Bufincile valued forme twelvo dayes hence, Our generall Porces at Bridgenorth (hall meete. Our Kandt are full of Bulmelle : let's away, Aduantage feedes him fat, while men delay. Excent.

Scena Tertia.

Exter Fall affe and Bordolph

Falls. Bordalph, am I not falne away vilely, fince this luft action? doe I not bate? doe I not dwindle? Why my skinne hangs about me like an olde Ladies loofe Govene: I am withered like an olde Apple lebu. Well, He repent, and that fuddenly, while I am in some liking : I shall be out of heart shortly, and then I shall have no Arength to repent. And I have not forgotten what the in-fide of a Church is made of, I am a Pepper-Corne, a Brewers Horse, the in-side of a Church. Company, villanous Company hails beene the spoyle of me.

Bard. Sie lobn, you are so freefull, you cannot live

Falf. Why there is it: Come, fing me a bawdy Song, make me merry: I was as vertuously ginen, as a Gentleman need to be; vertuous enough, fwore little, die'd not aboue feuen times a weeke, went to a Bawdy-house not above once in a quarter of an houre, payd Money that I borrowed, three or foure times: lived well, and in good compasse: and now I live out of all order, out of compalle.

Bard Why, you are so fat, Sir John, that you must needes bee out of all compasse; out of all reasonable compasse, Sit loha.

Falft. Doe shou amend thy Face, and Ile amend thy Life: Thou are our Admirall, shou bearest the Lanterne in the Poope, but 'tis in the Nose of thee; thou art the Knight of the burning Lampe.

Bard. Why, Sir lobe, my Face dnes you no harme.

Fail. No le be sworne: I make as good vie of it, as many a man doth of a Deaths-Head, or a Momento Mori. I never fee thy Face, but I thinke vpon Hell fire, and Dixes that lived in Purple; for there he is in his Robes burning, burning. If thou wert any way given to vertue, I would Sweare by thy Face; my Oath should bee, By this Fire: But thou art alrogether given oner: and wert indeede, but for the Light in thy Face, the Sunne of veter Darkeoeffe. When thou ran'st vp Gads-Hill, in the Night, to earch my Horse, if I did not thinke that thou hadfi beene an Ignis fature, or a Ball of Wild-fire, there's no Purchale in Money. O thou art a perpetuall Triumph, an euerlasting Bone-fire-Light: thou hast saued me a thousand Markes in Linkes and Torches, walking with thee in the Night betwixt Tauerne and Tauerne : But the Sack that thou hast drunke me, would have bought me Lights as good cheape, as the dearest Chandlers in Europe. I have maintein'd that Salamander of yours with fire, any time this two and thirtie yeeres, Heaven reward me for it.

Bard I would my Face were in your Belly. Falst. So Chould I be sure to be heart-burn'd Esser Hofteffe.

How now, Dame Partles the Hen, have you enquire yet who pick'd my Pocket?

Holde. Why Sil lown, what doe you thinke, Sir loba? doe you shinke I keepe Theeues in my Houle? I have fearch'd, I have enquired, fo haz my Husband, Man by Man, Boy hy Boy, Servant by Servant: the tight of a hayre was never loft in my house before.

Falf. Yelye Hollelle: Bardoft was Mau'd, and loft many a hayre; and lie be for the my Pocket was pick'd!

goe to you are a Woman, goe.

Hossesse. Who I? I defic thee : I was neuer call'd fo in mine owne bouse before.

Falt. Goeto, I know you well enough.
Holleffe. No. Sit I obn, you doe not know me, Sit I obn; I know you, Sit lobe: you one me Money, Sit lohn, and now you picke a quarrell, to beguile me of it : I bought you a dozen of Shirrs to your Becke.

Faist. Doulas, filthy Doulas : I hane given therm away to Bakers Wives, and they have made Boulters of Hosteffe Now as I am a true Woman, Holland of eight fhillings an Ell: You owe Money here befides, Sir lobn, for your Dyet, and by-Drinkings, and Money lent you, foure and twentie pounds.

Falf. Hee had his part of it, let him pay,

Hostesse. Hee? alas hee is poore, hee hath nothing.

Falft. How? Poore? Looke spon his Face: What call you Rich? Let them coyne his Nofe, let them coyne his Cheekes, Ile not pay a Denier. What, will you make a Younker of me? Shall I not take mine ease in mine Inne, but I shall have my Pocket picket ? I have lost a Seale-Ring of my Grand fathers, worth forthe Marke.

Hofteffe I have heard the Prince tell him, I know not how off, that that Ring was Copper.

Falft. How? the Prince is a Iacke, 2 Sneake-Coppe: and if hee were heere, I would cudgell him like a Dogge, if her would fay fo.

Enter the Prince marching, and Falft offe meets bim, playing on bis Trunchion like a Pife.

Falf. How now Lad? is the Winde in that Doore? Must we all merch?

Bard. Yea, two and two, Newgate fashion.

Hostesse. My Lord, I pray you heare me. Prince. What say it shou, Mistresse Quicky? How does thy Husband? I love him well, hee is an hones Hofieffe. Good, my Lord, heare mee.

Faift. Prethee let her alone, and lift to mee.

Prince. What fay'st thou, lacket
Falft. The other Night I fell asseepe heere behind the Arras, and had my Pocket pickt: this House is turn'd Bawdy-house, they picke Pockets.

Frace. What didft thou lose, lacke?

Falft. Wilt thou beleeve me, Hall Three or foure Bonds of fortie pound apeece, and a Seale-Ring of my Grandfathers.

Prince. A Trifle, some eight-penny matter.
Hof. So I told him, my Lord; and I faid, I heard you: Grace fay fo: and (my Lord) hee speakes most vilely of you, like a foule-mouth'd man as hee is, and faid, bee would cudgell you.

Prisce. What hee did not?

Hoft. There's neyther Faith, Truth, nor Woman-hood in me elfe. Ea.E. There's Falft. There's no more faith in thee then a stude Prunes nor no more truth in thee, then in a drawne Fox : and for Wooman-hood, Maid-marian may be the Deputies wife of the Ward to thee. Go you nothing 1 go.

Hoft. Say, what thing? what thing?
Falf. What thing? why a thing to thanke heauen on.
Hoft. I am no thing to thanke heauen on, I wold thou should know it : I am an honest mans wife : and fetting thy Knighthood afide, thou are a knaue to call me fo.

Falft. Setting thy woman-hood afide, thou art a beaft to fay otherwife.

Hoff. Say, what beaft, thou knaue thou? Fal. What beaft? Why an Otter.

Prin. An Otter, fir lobn? Why an Otter?
Fal. Why? She's neither fifth nor flesh; a man knowes not where to have her.

Hoft. Thou are vniust man in laying fo; thou, or anie man knowes where to have me, thou knaue thou,

Prince. Thou lay'A true Hofteffe, and he flanders thee most groffely.

Hoft. So he doth you, my Lord, and sayde this other day, You ought him a thousand pound.

Prince. Sirrah, do I owe you a thousand pound? Falft. A thousand pound Hall A Million. Thy love is worth a Million : thou ow'ft me thy loue.

Hoft. Nay my Lord, he call'd you lacke, and faid hee would cudgell you.

Fal. Did I, Bardulph?

Bar. Indeed Sir lobn, you faid to.
Fal. Yea, if he faid iny Ring was Copper.

Proce. I say 'tis Copper. Dar'st thou bee as good as thy word now?

Fal. Why Hal? thou know'ft, as thou are but a man, I dare : but, as thou art a Prince, I feare thee, as I feare the rosting of the Lyons Whelpe.

Prince. And why not as the Lyon?

Fal. The King himfelfe is to bee feared as the Lyon: Do'A chourhinke He feare thee, as I feare thy Father? nay if I do, let my Girdle breake.

Prin. O, if it should, how would thy guttes fall about thy knees. But fires: There's no roome for Faith, Truth, nor Honesty, in this bosome of thine : 11 is all fill'd vppe with Guttes and Midriffe. Charge an honest Woman with picking thy pocket? Why thou horson impudent imbolt Rascall, if there were any thing in thy Pocket but Tauerne Recknings, Memorandum of Bawdie-houses, and one poore peny-worth of Sugar-candie to make thee long-winded: if thy pocket were enrich'd with anie o-ther iniuries but their, I am a Villaine: And yet you will fland to it, you will not Pocket vp wrong. Art thou not alham d?

Fal. Do'ft thou heare Hal? Thou know this the flate of Innocency, Adam fell: and what should poore lacke Faffe do, in the dayes of Villany? Thou feeft, 1 haue more flesh then another man, and therefore more frailty.

You confesse then you picke my Pocket !

Prin. It appeares fo by the Story. Fal. Hostesse, I forgue thee : Gomake ready Breakfall, loue thy Husband. Looke to thy Seruants, and cherich thy Gueffs: Thou shalt find me tradable to any honest reason: Thou feelt, I am pacified ftill. Nay, I prethee be gone.

Exit Holteffe. Now Hal, to the newes at Court for the Robbery, Lad? How is that answered?

Prin. Omy (weet Beefe : I must still be good Angell to thee. The Monie is paid backe agains.

Fal. O. I do not like that paying backe, 'tis a double Labour.

Prin. I am good Friends with my Father, and may do any thing.

Ed. Rob me the Exchequer the full thing thou do'ft.

and do it with vowash'd hands too.

Bard. Do my Lord.

Prine I have procured thee Jacke, a Charge of Foot

Fal. I would it had beene of Horse. Where shall finde one that can steale well? O, for a fine theefer of two and twentie, or thereabout : I am heynously vnprouided. Wel God be thanked for these Rebels, they offend none but the Vertuous. I laud them, I praise them.

Prin. Bardolph. Bar. My Lord.

Prm. Go beare this Letter to Lord lobn of Lancaster To my Brother John. This to my Lord of Westmerland, Go Pero, to horse : for thou, and I, Haue thirtie miles to ride yet ere dinner time. lacke, meet me to morrow in the Temple Hall At two a clocke in the afternoone, There shalt thou know thy Charge, and there receive Money and Order for their Furniture.

The Land is burning, Percie frands on hye, And either they, or we must lower ly e. Fal. Rare words! brave world.

Hostesse, my breakfast, come ; Oh, I could with this Tauetne were my drumme.

Except ormes.

Adus Quartus. Scana Prima.

Enter Harie Hotfparre, Worcefter, and Dowglas.

Het. Well faid, my Noble Scot, if speaking truth In this fine Age, were not thought flatterie, Such attribution flould the Douglas have, As not a Souldiour of this leasons stampe, Should go fo generall current through the world. By heaven I cannot flatter : I defie The Tongues of Soochers. But a Brauer place In my hearts love, hath no man then your Selfe. Nay, taske me to my word; approve me Lord.
Dow. Thou are the King of Honor.

No man so potent breathes vpon the ground,

But I will Beard bim.

Enter a Meffenger.

Hot. Do fo, and 'tis well, What Letters haft there? I can but thanke you, Meff. These Letters come from your Father. Hor. Letters from him?

Why comes he not himselfe?

Mef. He cannot come, my Lord,

He is greenous ficke.

Hor. How? haz he the leyfure to be ficke now, In such a justing time? Who leades his power? Vnder whole Gonernment come they along?

Mef. His Lecters beares his minde, not I his minde. Wor. I presheetell me, doth he keepe his Bed? Mef. He did, my Lord, source dayes ere I fee forth a And at the time of my departure thence,

He was much fear d by his Phylician.

Wor. I would the flate of time had first beene whole, Ere he by ficknessa had beene vificed:

His health was never better worth then now.

Halp. Sicke now? droope now? this ficknes doch infect The very Life-blood of our Enterprise, Tis carehing hither, even to our Campe He writes me here, that in ward ficknesse, And that his friends by deputation Could not fo foone be drawne; nor did he thinke it meet, To lay to dangerous and deare a trust On any Soule remou'd, but on his owne.

Yet doth he give vs bold advertisement, That with our small conjunction we should on, To fee how Fortune is dispos'd to vs 1 For, as he writes, there is no quailing now,

Because the King is certainely possest Of all our purposes. What say you to je? Wor. Your Fathers fickneffe is a mayme to va.

Hosp. A perillous Gash, a very Limme lope off: And yer, in faith, it is not his prefent want Seemes more then we shall finde it. Were it good, to let the exact wealth of all our flaces All at one Cast? To fet so rich a mayne On the nice hazard of one doubtfull houre, It were not good: for therein should we reade The very Bottome, and the Soule of Hope The very Lift, the very vemost Bound Of all our fortunes.

Dong. Faith, and fo wee should; Where now remaines a fweet tenerison. We may boldly (pend, vpon the hope Of what is to come in :

A comfort of retyrement lives in this.

Hosp. A Randeunus, a Home to flye omo, If that the Deuill and Mischance looke bigge Vpon the Maydenhead of our Affaires. Ivor. But yet I would your Father had beene here:

The Qualitie and Heire of our Attempt Brookes no division: It will be thought By forne, that know not why he is away That wifedome, loyaltie, and meere diflike Of our proceedings, kept the Barle from hence. And thinke, how such an apprehension May tume the tyde of featefull Faction, And breede a kinde of question in our cause: For well you know, wee of the offring fide, Must keepe aloofe from stick arbittement, And stop all fight-holes, every loope, from whence The eye of reason may prie in vpon vs : This absence of your Father drawes a Curraine. That shewes the ignorant a kinde of seare, Before not dreamt of.

Hoff. You frayme too farte. I rather of his absence make this wie: It lends a Lustre, and more great Opinion, A larger Dare to your great Encerprize, Then if the Earle were here : for men must thinke, If we without his belpe, can make a Head To push against the Kingdome; with his helpe, We shall o're-turne it topfic-turny downe: Yet all goes well, yet all our joynes are whole.

Dong. As heart can thinke : There is not such a word spoke of in Scotland. As this Dreame of Feare.

Ever Sir Richard Varnou.

Haff. My Coufin Vernon, welcome by my Soule. Vam. Pray God my newes be worth a welcome, Lord. The Earle of Westmerland, seven thousand strong, Is merching hither-wards, with Prince lobn.
Hosp. No harme: what more?

Vern. And further, I have learn'd. The King himselfe in person hath set forth, Or hither-wards intended speedily, With strong and mightle preparation.

Horp. He shall be welcome too. Where is his Sonne,

The nimble-footed Mad-Cap, Prince of Wales, And his Cumrades, that daft the World alide,

And bid it paffe?

Vem. All furnisht, all in Armer, All plum'd like Effridges, that with the Winde Bayted like Eagles, having larely bath'd, Glittering in Golden Coates, like Images, As full of spirit as the Moneth of May, And gorgeous as the Sunne at Mid-furnmer, Wanton as youthfull Goates, wilde as young Bulls I faw young Harry with his Beuer on, His Cushes on his thighes, gallantly arm'd, Rise from the ground like seathered Mercary, And vaulted with fuch eafe into his Seat, As if an Angell dropt downe from the Clouds, To turne and winde a fierie Pegafus, And witch the World with Noble Horsemanship.

Horp. No more, no more, Worse then the Sunne In March: This prayle doth courish Agues: let them coras. They come like Sacrifices in their trimme, And to the fire-ey'd Maid of Imoakie Warre, All hot, and bleeding, will wee offer them a The mayled Mars shall on his Alvar six Vp to the eares in blood. I am on fire, To heare this rich reprizall is so nigh, And yet not ours. Come, let me take my Harle, Who is to beare me like a Thunder-bolt, Against the bosome of the Prince of Wales Rarry to Harry, shall not Horse to Horse Meete, and ne're part, till one drop downe a Coarle ? Oh, that Glendower were come.

Ver. There is more newes: I learned in Worcester, as I rode along, He cannot draw his Power this foureteene dayes.

Dowg. That's the worst Tidings that I heare of

Wor. I by my faith, that beares a frofty found. Hosp. What may the Kings whole Battaile reach

Ver. To thirty thousand. Hor. Forty let it be, My Father and Glendower being both sway, The powres of vs, may fense fo great a day. Come, let vs take a muster speedily: Doomesday is neere; dye all, dye merrily.

Dow. Talke not of dying, I am out of feare Of death, or deaths hand, for this one halfe yeare.

Exeus Onner, Scena

Scana Secunda.

Enter Faift afe and Bardolph.

Fall. Bardalph, get thee before to Coventry, fill me a Bortle of Sack, our Souldiers shall march through: weele to Sutton-cop-hill to Night.

Bard. Will you give me Money, Captaine?

Falst. Lay out, lay out

Bard. This Bottle makes an Angell.

Fall. And if it doe, take it for thy labour . and if it make twentie, take them all. He answere the Coynage. Bid my Lieutenant Pero meete me at the Townes end.

Bard. I will Captaine: farewell.

Falf. If I be not asham'd of my Souldiers, I am a lowe't-Gurner: I have mil-vs'd the Kings Presse damnably. I have got, in exchange of a hundred and fiftie Souldiers, three hundred and odde Pounds. I presse me none but good House-holders, Yeomens Sonnes: enquire me out contracted Batchelers, such as had beene ask'd twice on the Banes: fuch a Commoditie of warme flauts, as had as lieve heare the Deuill, as a Drumme; fuch as feare the report of a Caliuer, worfe then a ftruck-Foole, or a hurt wilde-Ducke. I prest me none but such Tostes and Butter, with Hearts in their Bellyes no bigger then Prones heads, and they have bought out their services: And now, my whole Charge confifts of Ancients, Corporals, Lieutenants, Gentlemen of Companies, Slaves as ragged as Lazarus in the painted Cloth, where the Glottons Dogges licked his Sores; and fuch, as indeed were never Souldiers, but dis-carded vaiust Servingmen, younger Sonnes to younger Brothers, renolted Tapfters and Offiers. Trade-faine, the Cankers of a calme World, and long Peace, tenne times more dis-honorable ragged, then an old-fac'd Aucient; and fuch have I to fill up the roomes of them that have bought out their feruices: that you would thinke, that I had a hundred and fiftie totter'd Prodigalls, lately come from Swine-keeping, from eating Draffe and Huskes. A mad fellow met me on the way, and told me, I had valoaded all the Gibbers, and prest the dead bodyes. No eye hath seene such skar-Crowes: He not march through Coventry with them, that's flat. Nay, and the Villaines march wide between the Legges, as if they had Gyues on; for indeede, I had the most of them out of Prison. There's not a Shirt and a halfe in all my Company: and the halfe Shirt is two Napkins tackt togestier, and throwne ouer the shoulders like a Heralds Coat, without sleenes: and the Shire, to say the truth, Rolne from my HoA of S. Albones, or the Red-Nofe Inne-keeper of Danistry. But that's all one, they'le finde Linnen enough on every Hedge.

Enter the Prince and the Lord of Westmerland

Proce. How now blowne lask i how now Quilt? Faift. What Half How now road Wag, what a Deulli do'st thou in Warwickshire? My good Lord of Westmerland, I cry you mercy, I thought you Honout had already beene at Shrewsbury.

West 'Faith, Six labre,'tis more then time that I were there, and you too: but my Powers are there alreadie. The King, I can tell you, lookes for vsall: we must away

all to Night

Fall. Tut, never feare me, I am as vigilant as a Cat, to Reale Creame.

Prince. I thinke to Resle Creame indeed, for thy thefr hath alreadie made thee Butter: but tell me, lack whole fellowes are thefe that come after ?

Falft. Mine, Hal, mine.

Prince. I did never fee such pittifull Raseals.
Falft. Tut, tut, good enough to toller foode for Powder, foode for Powder: they'le fill a Pic, as well as better. sush man, mortall men, mortali men.

svoftm. 1, but Sir John, me thinkes they are exceeding poore and bare, too beggarly.

Fall. Faith, for their pouertie, I know nor where they had that ; and for their bareneffe, I am fure they never leam'd that of me.

Prince. No, lle be sworne, volesse you call three fingers on the Ribbes bare. But fitta, make hafte, Percy is already Falf. What, is the King encamp'd?

Wellm. Hee is, Sie John, I feare wee thall flay too

Falft. Well, to the latter end of a Fray, and the beginning of a Feast, fits a dull fighter, and a treene Gueft.

Scana Tertia.

Enter Heifper Worcefter, Dowglas, and

Hasp. Wee'le fight with him to Night.

19076. It may not be.

Deng. You give him then advantage.

Horp. Why lay you lo? lookes he not for supply?

Vern. So doe vice.

Hoff. His is certaine, ours is doubtfull.

Wore, Good Coufin be aduis'd, flirte not to algh.

Vern. Doe oot, my Lord.

Dong. You doe not counsaile well: You speake it out of feare, and cold heart.

Vern. Dae me no flander, Dowglas: by my Life, And I dare well maintaine it with my Life, If well-respected Honor bid me on, I hold as little counfaile with weake feare, As you,my Lord, or any Scot that this day lines. Let it be seene to morrow in the Battell, Which of vs feares.

Dowg. Yez, or to night. Vern. Content.

Buff. To night fay I.

Vem. Come, come, it may not be. I wonder much being me of fuch great leading as you are

That you fore-fee not what impediments Drag backe our expedition: certaine Horse Of my Coulin Vernons are not yet come vp. Your Vnckie Worceffers Horfe came but to day, And now their pride and metrall is afleepe. Their courage with bard labour tame and dull,

That not a Horse is halfe the halfe of himselfe. Haff. So are the Horses of the Enemie in generall lourney bated, and brought low: The better part of ours are full of reft. f 3

APO. The

Were. The number of the King exceedesh ours: For Gods fake, Coulin, ftay till all come in.

The Trumpet founds a Parley. Enter Sir Walter Blunt.

Bluns. I come with gracious offers from the King, If you wouchfafe me hearing, and respect.

Holf. Welcome, Sir Walter Blam:
And would to God you were of our determination.
Some of vs love you well: and even those some Envie your great deservings, and good name,
Because you are not of our qualitie,
But stand against vs like an Enemie.

Blun: And Heaven defend, but still I should stand so, So long as out of Limit, and true Rule, You standagainst anoynted Maieste.
But comy Charge.
The King hath sent to know

The nature of your Gricles, and whereupon You conjute from the Brest of Civill Peace, Such bold Hostilitie, teaching his dutious Land Audarious Crueltie. If that the King Haue any way your good Deferts forgot, Which he consesses be manifold. He bids you name your Crieses, and with all speed You shall have your desires, with interest;

You shall have your desires, with interest;
And Pardon absolute for your selfe, and these,
Herein mis-led, by your suggestion.

Hosp The King is kinde : And well wee know, the King Knowes at what time to promife, when to pay. My Father, my Vnckle, and my felfe, Did giue him that same Royaltie he weares: And when he was not fixe and twentie ftrong, Sicke in the Worlda regerd, wrerched, and low, A poore vnmlnded Out-law, Ineaking home, My Father gave him welcome to the shore: And when he heard him fweare, and vow to God. He came but to be Duke of Lancaster, To fue his Liverie, and begge his Peace, With teares of Indocencie, and tearmes of Zeale; My Father, in kinde heart and pitty mou'd, Swore bim affiftance, and perform'd it too. Now, when the Lords and Barons of the Realme Perceiu'd Northumberland did leane to him. The more and leffe came in with Cap and Knee, Met him in Boroughs, Cities, Villages, Attended him on Bridges, flood in Lanes, Layd Gifts before him, proffer'd him their Oathes, Gaue him their Heires, as Pages followed him, Even at the heeles, in golden multitudes. He presently, as Greatnesse knower it selfe, Steps me a little higher then his Vow Made to my Father, while his blood was poore, Voon the naked (hore at Rauen(purgh: And now (for footh) takes on him to reforme Some certaine Edicts, and some strait Decrees, That lay too heaule on the Common-wealth; Cryes out vpon abules, seemes to weepe Quer his Countries Wrongs: and by this Face, This feeming Brow of Justice, did he winne The hearts of all that hee did angle for. Proceeded further, cut me off the Heads Of all the Fauorites, that the abfent King In deputation lest behinde him beere,

When hee was personall in the Irish Warre.
Blunt. Tut, I came not to hears this.
Hosp. Then to the point. In short time after, hee depos'd the King Soone after that, deprited him of his Life: And in the neck of that, rask't the whole State, To make that worle, luffer'd his Kindman Catereb. Who is, if every Owner were placed, Indeede his King, to be engag'd in Wales, There, without Ranforme, to lye forfeited i Difgrac'd me in my happie Victories, Sought to intrap me by intelligence, Rated my Vnckle from the Councell-Boord, In rage dismis'd my Father from the Court. Broke Oath on Oath, committed Wrong on Wrong, And in conclusion, drove va to feeke out This Head of Sasetie; and withall, to prie Into his Title : the which wee finde Too indirect, for long continuance. Blunt. Shall I returne this answer to the King? Haffe Notio, Sit Walter. Wee'le with-draw a while. Goe to the King, and let there be impawa'4 Some surecie for a safe retorne againe And in the Morning early (hall my Vnckle Bring him our purpose 1 and so farewell. Bhore. I would you would accept of Grace and Lone. Half. And't may be, so wee shall Blum. Pray Heaven you doe.

Scena Quarta.

Enter the Arch-Bulhop of Torke and Sir Muchell.

Arch. Hie, good Sir Michell, beare this lealed Eriele With winged hasteto the Lord Marshall, This to my Coulin Screepe, and all the rest To whom they are directed.

If you knew how much they doe Import, You would make haste.

Sr Mich. My good Lotd, I guesse their tence.

Arch. Like enough you doe.

To morrow, good Six Michell, is a day,

Wherein the fortune of ten thousand men

Must bide the touch. For Sir, at Shrewsbury,

As I am truly given to understand,

The King, with mightie and quick-raysed Power,

Meetes with Lord Harry: and I seare, Six Miches,

What with the sicknesse of Northumberland,

Whose Power was in the first proportion;

And what with Owen Glendwarer absence thence,

Who with them was rated firmely too,

And comes not in, over-rul'd by Prophecies,

I seare the Power of Perty is too weake.

To wage an instant tryall with the King.

Sa Mich. Why. my good Lord, you need not fear

Sa Mich. Why, my good Lord, you need not feare,
There is Douglas, and Lord Mortuner.
Arch. No, Mortuner is not there.

Sor Mrs. But there is Mordake Vernon, Lord Harry Perry, And there is my Lord of Worcester, And a Head of gallant Warriots, Noble Gentlemen.

Arch. And

Arch. And fo there is, but yet the King hath drawne The special head of all the Land together The Prince of Wales, Lord low of Lancafter, The Noble Westmerland, and warlike Blant; And many moe Corruals, and deare men Of estimation, and commad in Armes

Sir M. Doubt not my Lord, he shall be well eppes'd Arch. I hope no lesse? Yet needfull 'tis to feare, And to predent the worlt, Siz Miebell speed; For if Lord Percy thriue not, ere the King Dismisse his power, he meanes to visit vs: For he hath heard of our Consederacie, And, 'ris but Wifedome to make frong against him : Therefore make haft, I must go write agains To other Friends : and so farewell, Sir Michell.

Actus Quintus. Scena Prima.

Exter the King, Prince of Wales. Lord loba of Lancafter. Earle of Westmerland, Sir Walter Blune, and Falftaffe.

Kory. How bloodily the Sunne begins to peers About yon busky hill: the day lookes pale At his distemperature.

Pres. The Southerne winde Doth play the Trumpet to his purpoles, And by his hollow whistling in the Leaues, Fortels a Tempeft, and a bluff'ring day.

King. Then with the lofers let it fympathize, For nothing can feeme foule to those that win.

The Trumpet founds.

Enter Wercefter.

King. How now my Lord of Worfter? Tis not well That you and I should meet vpon such tearmes, As now we meet. You have decest dour trust, And made va dosse our easie Robes of Peace, To crush our old limbes in vngentle Sceeles This is not well, my Lord, this is not well. What fay you to it? Will you againe vnknit This churlish knot of all-abhorred Warre? And mous in that obedient Orbe againe, Where you did give a faire and naturall light. And be no more an exhall'd Meteor, A prodigie of Feare, and a Portent Ofbroached Mischeese, to the vnbome Times? Wor. Heare me, mg Liege For mine owne pare, I could be well content To entertaine the Lagge-end of my life With quiet houres: For I do proteff, I have not fought the day of this diflike.

King. You have not fought it: how comes it then? Fal. Rebellion lay in his way, and he found it. Prin. Peace, Chewet, peace.

Wor. It pleas'd your Maiesty, to turne your lookes Of Pauour, from my Selfe, and all our House; And yet I must remember you my Lord, We were the first, and dearest of your Friends a For you, my staffe of Office did I breake In Richards time, and poasted day and night To meere you on the way, and kille your hand,

When yet you were in place, and in account Nothing & strong and fortunate, as 1; It was my Selfe, my Brother, and his Sonne, That brought you home, and boldly did out dare. The danger of the time. You swore to vs, And you did I we see that Oath at Doncaster Ther you did nothing of purpose 'gainst the State, Nor claime no further, then your new-falne right, The seare of Gouns, Dukedome of Lancaster, To this, we fware our side : But in fbort fpace, It rain'd downe Fortune howring on your head, And such a floud of Greatnesse fell on you, What with our helpe, what with the ablent King, What with the injuries of wanton time, The feeming sufferances that you had borne And the contrarious Windes that held the King So long in the valucky Itish Warres, That all in England did repute him dead: And from this swarme of faire aduantages, You cooke occasion to be quickly woo'd, To gripe the generall Iway into your hand, Forgot your Oath to vs at Doncaster, And being fed by vs, you vs'd vs fo, As that vagentle gull the Cuckowes Bird Vieth the Sparrow, did oppresse our Nest, Grew by our Feeding, to fo great a bulke, That even our Loue durft not come necre your light For feare of swallowing & But with nimble wing We were inforc'd for fafety fake, to flye Out of your fight, and raile this prefent Head, Whereby we It and opposed by such meanes As you your felfe, have forg'd against your felfe, By wakinde wiage, dangerous countenance, And violation of all faith and troth Sworne to vs in yonger enterprize.

Kin. Thefe things indeede you have articulated,
Proclaim'd at Market Croffes read in Churches, To face the Garment of Rebellion With some fine colour, that may please the eye Offickle Changelings, and poore Discontents, Which gape, and rub the Elbow at the newes Of hurly burly Innouation And never yet did Infurrection want Such water-colours, to impaint his cause: Nor moody Beggars, steruing for a time Of pell-mell hauocke, and confution.

Prin. In both our Armies, there is many a foule Shall pay full dearely for this encounter, If once they loyne in triall. Tell your Nephew, The Prince of Wales doth loyne with all the world In praise of Henry Percie: By my Hopes, This present cuterprize for off his head, I do not thinke a brauer Gentleman, More action, valiant, or more valiant yong, More daring, or more bold, is now slive, To grace this latter Age with Noble deeds. For my part, I may speake it to my shame, I have a Truant beene to Chiualry, And to I heare, he doth account me too: Yet this before my Fathers Maiefly, I am content that he shall take the oddes Of his great name and estimation, And will, to faue the blood on either fide, Try fortune with him, in a Single Fight.

Ring. And Prince of Wales, fo dare we wereer thee, Albert, confiderations infinite Do

A A 2

Do make against it i No good Worster, no, We love our people well; even those we love That are milled upon your Couline part : And will they take the offer of our Grace t Both he, and they and you t year every man Shall be my Friend againe, and lle be his. So tell your Coulin, and bring me word, Whathe will do But ifhe will not yeeld, Rebuke and dread correction waite on vs. And they shall do their Office. So bee gone, We will not now be troubled with reply, We offer faire, taken aduisedly.

Exa Warcefter.

Pron. It will not be accepted, on my life, The Dauglas and the Harpura both together, Ale confident against the world in Armes, King. Hence therefore, every Lesder to his charge. For on their answer will we fet on them; And God befriend vs, as our cause is rust.

Mond Prince and Fulfaffe. Sal. Hal, if thou fee me downe in the battell, And bestride me, lo; 'tis a point of friendship. Pro Nothing bat a Coloffus can do thee that frendship Say thy prayers, and farewell.

Fal. I would't were bed time Hal, and all well.

Prin. Why, thou ow's heaven a death

Palf. Tis not due yet : I would bee loath to pay him before his day. What neede I bee so forward with him, that call's not on me? Well, its no marter, Honor prickes me on. But how if Honour pricke me off when I come on? How then? Can Honour let too a legge? No: or an arroe? No: Or take away the greefe of a wound? No. Honour hath no skill in Surgerie, then? No. What is Honour? A word. What is that word Honour? Ayre: A trim reckoning. Who hath it ? He that dy'de a WedneL day. Doth he feele it? No. Doth hee heare it? No. Is is insensible then? yea. to the dead. But wil it not live with the liuing? No. Why? Detraction wil not luffer it, therfore He none of it. Honour is a meere Scutcheon, and fo ends my Catechilme.

Scena Secunda.

Enser Worcefter, and Sa Richard Deroca.

Wor. One,my Nephew must not know, Sie Richard The liberall kinde offer of the King. Ver. Twere best he did Wor. Then we are all endone. It is not possible, it cannot be. The King would keepe his word in louing vs., He will suspect vs fail, and finde a time To punish this offence in others faults Supposition, all our lives, shall be stocke full of eyes ; For Treason is but irufted like the Foxe, Who ne're fo tame, fo cherifht, and lock'd vp. Will have a wilde tricke of his Ancestors . Looke how he can, or fad or mernly, Interpretation will misquare our lookes. And we shall feede like Oven at a stall. The better cherifte, fall the nearer death My Nephewes trespalle may be well for got, It hath the excuse of youth, and heave of blood,

And an adopted name of Ptruledge, A haire-brain'd Hoffperre, govern'd by a Spiceos-All his offeners live you my head, And on his Fathers. We did traine him on, And his corruption being une from vs. We ar the Spring of all, Thall pay for all Therefore good Coulin, let not Herry know In any case, the offer of the King

Ver. Delroer what you will, the lay tis lo.

Heere comes your Cofin.

Enser Hospurre.

Ha. My Vakle is respond Deliver vp my Lord of Westwerland Vokle, what newe- 1

Wer. The King will bid you battall preferrily. Dow. Defie him by the Lord of Wellmerland Ha. Lord Dangles: Go you and tell him Co. Dow. Marry and shall, and verie willingly.

war There is no feeming mercy in the King. Hor. Did you begge any? God forbid. war I told him gently of our greenances, Of his Ozth-breaking : which he mended thus, By now forfwearing that he is forfworme, He cals vs Rebels, Traitors, and will scourge With haughty armes, this hacefull hame in Th

Zmer Deuglas. Dow. Arme Gentlemen, to Armes, for I have thrown A brave defiance in King Hearks weeth And Westmerland that was ingaged did beare it, Which cannot choose but bring him quickly on.

War. The Prince of Wales fleps forth before the king. And Nephew, challeng dyou to fingle fight.

Has. O, would the quarrell lay voon our heeds, And that no man rought draw short breath to day, But I and Harry Mormouth. Tell me, ed mee, How them'd his Talking ? Seem'd it in contempt?

Ver. No, by my Soule - I never in my life Didheare a Challenge vig'd more modefly, Vnlesse a Brocher should a Brother dare To gende exercise, and proofe of Armen. He gave you all the Duties of a Man. Trimm'd vp your praises with a Princely tongue, Spoke your deferrings like a Chronicle, Making you ener better then his praife, By full dispraising praise, valent'd with you t And which became him like a Prince indeed, He made a bluffung citall of himfelfe, And chid his Trewant youth with inch a Grace, As if he mastred there a double spiric Of reaching, and of learning inflantly: There did he pause. But let me tell the World, If he out-live the entile of this day, England did never owe to fweez a hope, So much misconstrued in his Warronnesse.

Her. Coufio, I thinke thou are enamored On his Follies : never did I heare Of 2017 Prince to wilde at Liberty But be he as be will, yet once ere night, I will imbrace him wish a Souldiers acree, That be shall shrinke vndor my currefie. Arme, arme with speed. And Fellow's, Soldiers, Friends, Better coolider what you have to do. That I that hime not well the gift of Tangue,

Can

Can lift your blood vp with perswasion. Enter a Meffenger.

Mef. My Lord, heere are Letters for you. OGentlemen, the time of life is fhort; To spend that shortnesse basely, were too long.
If life did ride upon a Dials point, Sull ending at the arrivall of an house, And if we live, we live to treade on Kings: If dye; braue death, when Princes dye with vs. Nowfor out Consciences, the Armes is faire,

When the intent for bearing them is luft.

Enter another Meffenger. Mef. My Lord prepare, the King comes on apace. Hot. I thanke him, that he cuts nie from my tale: For 1 professe not talking: Onely this, Let each man do his hest. And heere I draw a Sword, Whole worthy temper I intend to Haine With the best blood that I can meete withall, In the adventure of this perillous day. Now Esperance Percy, and let on : Sound all the lofty Instruments of Warre, And by that Mulicke, let vs all imbrace : For heaven to eatte, fome of vs never shall,

A lucond time do ldch a cuttefie. They embrace, the Trumpers found, the King entereth with his power, alarum vino the battell. Then enter Dowglas, and Sor Walter Blune.

Blu. What is thy name, that in battel thus y croffest me? What honor dost thou seeke vpon my head?

Dow Know then my name is Douglas, And I do haunt thee in the battell thus Because some tell me, that thou are a King.

Blant. They tell thee true.

Dow. The Lord of Stafford deere to day hath bought Thy likenesse : for insted of thee King Harry, This Sword hath ended him, fo shall it thee, Vnlesse thou yeeld thee 25 2 Prosoner.

Blu. I was not borne to yeeld, thou haughty Scot, And thou shalt finde a King that will reuenge Lords Scaffords death.

Fight, Blunt is flaine, then enters Hotfpur. Hor. O Donglas, hadft thou fought at Holmedon thus

I never had triumphed o'te a Scot.

Dow All's done, all's won, here breathles lies the king Hor. Where?

Dow Heere.
Hot. This Douglas? No. I know this face full well: A gallant Knight he was, his name was Blunt, Sernblably furnish'd like the King himselfe.

Dow. Ah foole: go with thy foule whether it goes, A borrowed Title half thou bought too deere. Why didft thou tell me, that thou wer ta King ?

Hos. The King hath many marching in his Coats. Dow. Now by my Sword, I will kill all his Coates, lle murdet all his Wardrobe peece by peece, Vntill I meet the King.

Hor. Vp, and away

Our Souldiers stand full fairely for the day. Excum Alorum, and enter Falltaffe folus.

Fal. Though I could scape shor-free at London, I fear the fhot heere : here's no scoring, but vponche pate. Soft who are you? Sit Walter Blum, there's Honour for you: here's no vanity, I am as hot as molten Lead, and as heauy too; heaven keepe Lead out of mee, I neede no more weight then mine owne Bowelles. I have led my rag of Maffins where they are pepper'd : there's not three of my 150. left aline, and they for the Townes end, to beg during life. But who comes heere?

Brier the Prince.

Pri. What, stand'st thou idle here? Lend me thy sword, Many a Nobleman likes starke and stiffe

Vinder the hooses of vaunting enemies,
Whole deaths are vinteueng d. Prethy lend me thy fword Fal. O Hal, I prethee give me leave to breath a while: Turke Gregory neuer did fuch deeds in Armes, as I have done this day. I have paid Percy, I have made him fure. Prm. He is indeed, and living to kill thee:

I prethee lend me thy fword.

Falft. Nay Hal, if Percy bee alive, thou geth not my Sword; but take my Piffoll if thou wilt.

Prin. Giue it me: What, is it in the Cale! Fal. I II al, 'tis hot : There's that will Sacke a Ciry. The Prince drowes one a Bostle of Sacke.

Prim. What, is it a time to left and dally now. Eine. Thrower it as him.

Fal. If Percy be alive, lle pierce him: if he do come in my way, so : if he do not, if I come in his (willingly) let him make a Carbonado of me. Hike noc fuch grinning honour as Sir Walter hath : Give mee life, which if I can faue, fo. if not, honour comes valook'd for, and ther's an

Scena Tertia.

Marum excursions, enter the King the Prince, Lord lohn of Lancaster, and Earle of Westmerland.

King. I prethee Harry withdraw thy felfe, thoo bleedell too much. Lord lohn of Lancaster, go you with him. P. Ish. Not I, my Lord, vnlette I did bleed too.

Prin. I befeech your Maiefly make vp, Least you retirement do amaze your friends.

Kmg. I will do to:

My Lord of Westmerland leade him to his Tent.

Well. Come my Lord, He leade you to your Tent. Prin. Lead memy Lord? I do not need your helpe; And heaven forbid a shallow scratch should drive The Prince of Wales from such a field as this, Where stain'd Nobility lyes troden on, And Rebels Armes triumph in maffacres, Isb. We breath too long: Come cofin Westmerland, Our duty this way lies, for heavens lake come.

Pro. By heaven thou hast deceiu'd me Lancaster, I did not thinke thee Lord of fuch a spirit : Before, I lou'd thee as a Brother, loba But now, I do respect thee as my Soule.

King. I saw him hold Lord Percy at the point, With lustier maintenance then I did looke for Of such an ungrowne Warriour.

Prin Othis Boy, lends mettall to va all. Enter Dowgles.

Dow. Another King? They grow like Hydra's head: I am the Douglas, fatall to all those That weare those colours on them. What are thou-That counterfeit'st the person of a King?

King. The King himselfe: who Dowglas grieves at hart

So many of his shadowes thou hast mee, And not the very King. I have two Boyes Sceke Percy and thy felfe about the Field: But feeing thou fall floor me fo luckity, I will allay thee I fo defend thy feife.

Dem. I feare thou are another counterfeit: And yet Infaith thou bear ft thee like a King a But mine I am fure thou art, who cre thou be, And thus I win thee. They fight, the Kheing in danger,

Enter Prince

Prin. Hold up they head vile Scot, or thouast like Neuer to hold it vp againe : the Spirits Of valiant Shorly, Stafford, Bluns, are in my Armes; It is the Prince of Wales that threatens thee, Who never promifeth, but he meanes to pay.

They Fight , Donglas fyeb.

Cheerely My Lord: how fare's your Grace? Sit Nicholas Gamfe, hath for fuccour fent, And to hath Cliften : He to Clifton Araight. King. Stay, and breath awhile.

Thou haft redeem'd thy lost opinion, And thew'd thou mak'ft fome tender of my life In this faire rescue thou hast brought to mee.

Prin. O heaven, they did me too much iniary, That ever faid I hearkned to your death, If it were fo, I might have let along The infulting hand of Donglas ouer you, Which would have bene as speedy in your end, As all the poylonous Potions in the world, And fau'd the Treacherous labour of your Sonke.

K. Make up to Clifton He to Sit Nicholas Ganfigs Exit

Emer Hotfour, Hot. If I millake not, theu att Hary Monmouth.

Prin. Thou speal: It as if I would deny my name. Hor. My name is Harrie Percie.

Prin. Why then I fee a very valiant rebel of that name, I am the Prince of Wales, and thinke not Percy, To there with me in glory any more: Two Starres keepe not their motion in one Sphere, Nor can one England brooke a double reigne,

Of Harry Percy, and the Prince of Wales.

Hot. Not shall it Harry, for the house is come To end the one of ve; and would to heaten, Thy name in Armes, were now as great 25 mine. Prin. He make it greater, etc I part from thee, And all the budding Honors on thy Creft, He crop, to make a Gatland for my head.

Hor. I canno longer brooke thy Vanities. Enter Falstaffe

Fal. Well faid Hal, to it Hal. Nay you thall finde no Boyes play heere, I can tell you.

Enser Dowglas be fights with Faift affe who fals down as if he were dead. The Prince killeth Percie.

Hos. Oh Harry, thou hast rob'd me of my youth : I better brooke the loffe of brittle life, Then those proud Titles thou hast wonne of me, They wound my thoghts worse, then the sword my flesh: But thought's the flave of Life, and Life, Times foole; And Time, that takes furuey of all the world, Muft hanc a ftop. O, I could Prophefie, But that the Earth, and the cold hand of death, Lyer on my Tongue : No Porty, thou art dut And food for-

Prin. For Wormes, braue Percy. Farewell great hearts Ill-weau'd Ambition, how much art thou flaunker When that this bodie did containe a spirit,

A Kingdome for it was too small a bound : But now two paces of the vileft Earth Is roome enough. This Earth that beares the dead. Beares not aline fo flout a Gentleman, If thou wer's fensible of curvehe, I should not make so great a shew of Zeale. But let my fauours hide thy mangled face, And even in thy behalfe. He thanke my felfe Fordoing their fayre River of Tendernesse. Adieu, and take thy praise with thee to heauen, Thy ignomy sleepe with thee in the grace, But not remembred in thy Epitaph.
What? Old Acquaintance? Could not all this flesh Keepe in a little life! Poore Iacke, farewell: I could have better fpar'd a better man. O, I should have a heavy misse of thee. If I were much in love with Vanity. Death hatinnot fleucke fo far a Deere to day, Though many deater in this bloody Fray: Imbowell'd will I fee thee by and by, Till then, in blood, by Noble Persulye.

Exit.

Palitafe rifeth up.

Falst. Imbowell d' If thou imbowell mee to day, The give you leave to powder me, and eat me too to morow, I was time to counterfet, or that hotte Termagant Scot, had paid me feor and lot too. Counterfeit? I am no counterfeit; to dye, is to be a counterfeit, for hee is but the counterfeit of a man, who hath not the life of a man; But to counterfelt dying, when a man thereby liveth, is to be no counterfeit, but the true and perfect image of life in-deede. The better part of Valour, is Discretion; in the which better part, I have faued my life. I am affraide of this Gun-powder Percy though he be dead. How if hee should counterfeit too, and rife? I am afraid hee would proue the hetter counterfeit: therefore lle make him fure: yea, and He sweare I kill'd him. Why may not hee rife as well as I : Nothing confutes me but eyes, and no-bodie fees me. Therefore fura, with a new wound in your thigh come you along me. Takes Hasparre on bis backe. Enter Prince and labor of Lancafter.

Prim. Come Brother Lohn, full bravely haft thou flethe thy Maiden Sword.

John. But foft, who have we heere? Did you not tell me this Fat man was dead? Prin. I did, I faw him dead,

Breathlesse, and bleading on the ground: Art thou sine? Or is it funtafie that playes vpon our eye-fight? I prethee speake, we will not trust our eyes

Without our eares. Thou art not what thou feem' ?. Fal. No, that's certaine: I am not a double man: but if I be not lacke Falliaffe, then am I a lacke: There is Per-ey, if your Father will do me any Honor, fo: if not, let him kill the next Perciehimselfe. I looke to be either Eatle or Duke, I can affure you.

Prin. Why. Percy I kill'd my felfe, and faw three dead.
Fal. Did'ft thou? Lord, Lord, how the world is given to Lying? I graunt you I was downe, and out of Breath, and lo was he, but we role both at an inflant, and fought a long house by Shrewsburie clocke. If I may bee beleeued, so : if not, let them that should reward Valour, beare the finne upon their owne heads. He take't on my death I gave him this wound in the Thigh: if the man yvere alive, and would deny it, I would make him exte a peece of my lword.

Ioha. This is the strangest Tale that e're I heard, Pris. This is the firangest Fellow, Brother land

The First Part of King Henry the Fourth.

Come bring your luggage Nobly on your backe : For my part of a lye may do thee grace, He gil die with the happiest tearmes I have. A Retreat is founded.

The Trampers found Retreat, the day is ours: Come Brother, let's to the highest of the field, To fee what Friends are limng, who are dead.

Fal. He follow as they fay, for Reward. Hee that rewards me, heaven reward him. If I do grow great again, Ile growleffe ? For Me purge, and leave Sacke, and live cleanly, as a Nobleman should do.

Sciena Quarta.

The Trumpets found Enser the King, Prince of Wales, Lord lobn of Lancafte Earle of West merland, wab Worcester & Vernon Prifancri.

King. Thus ever did Rebellion finde Rebuke Ill-spirked Woreester, did we not send Grace, Perdon, and cearmes of Loue to all of you ? And would'll thou carne our offers contrary? Misuse the tenot of thy Kinsman's trust? Three Knights vpon out party flaine to day, A Noble Earle, and many a creature elle, Had beene alive this houre, If like a Christian thou had fi truly borne Betwirt out Armies, true Intelligence.

wor. What I have done, my fafety vrg'd me to

And I embrace this fortune patiently, Since not to be anoyded, it fals on mee. King. Beare Worcester to death, and Verson too :

Other Offenders we will paule vpon. Exit Worce fler and Vornoz

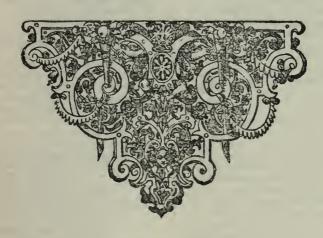

How goes the Field?

Pros. The Noble Scot Lord Douglas, when bee faw The fortune of the day quite turn'd from him, The Noble Percy flainc, and all his men, Vpon the foot of feare, fled with the reft; And falling from a hill, he was so bruiz'd That the pursuers tooke him. Atmy Tent The Douglaris, and I beleech your Grace. I may dispose of him.

Kong. With all my heart.
Prim. Then Brother lobn of Lancaster, To you this honourable bounty shall belong ? Go to the Donglas, and deliver him Vp to his pleasure, ransomlesse and free: His Valour showae vpon our Crests to day, Hathtaught vs how to cherish such high deeds, Even in the bolome of our Adversaries

King. Then this remaines : that we divide our Power. You Sonne John, and my Coufin Westmerland Towards Yorke shall bend you, with your decreft speed To meet Northumberland, and the Prelate Scroope, Who(as we heare) are builty in Armes. My Selfe, and you Sonne Harry will towards Wales, To fight with Glendower, and the Earle of March. Rebellion in this Land (hall lofe his way, Meeting the Checke of tuch another day : And fince this Bufmelle fo taire is done, Let vs not leave all all our owne be wonne. Excurs.

FINIS.

The Second Part of Henry the Fourth, Containing his Death: and the Coronation of King Henry the Fift.

Alus Primus. Scana Prima.

INDVCTION.

Enser Kumons.

Pen your Estes: For which of you will flop The vent of Hearing, when loud Romer (peaker) 1, from the Orient, to the drooping West (Making the winde my Post-horse) still vasold The Ace commenced on this Ball of Earth. Vpon my Tongue, continuall Slanders ride, The which, in every Language, I pronounce, Studing the Eares of them with falle Reports . I speake of Peace, while couert Enmine (Vinder the Imile of Safety) wounds the World: And who but Rumour, who but onely I Make fearfult Musters, and prepar'd Defence, Whil'st the bigge yeare, swolne with some other griefes, Is thought with childe, by the sterne Tyrant, Warre, And no fuch marter? Russem, is a Pipe Blowne by Surmifes, Icloufies, Coniectures; And of so easie, and so plaine a stop, That the blunt Monster, with vincounted heads, The still discordant, wavering Multitude, Can play vpon it. But what neede I thus My well-knowne Body to Anathomize Among my houshold? Why is Rumour heere? I run before King Harries victory, Who in a bloodie field by Shrewsburie Hath beaten downe yong Hospiore, and his Troopes, Quenching the flame of hold Rebellion, Euen with the Rebels blood. But what meane I To speake so true at first My Office is To noyle abroad, that Harry Monmouth fell Vader the Wrath of Noble Halfpurree Sword: And that the King, before the Douglas Rage Stoop'd his Annointed head, as low as death. This have I rumout'd through the pessant-Townes, Betweene the Royall Field of Shrewsburie, And this Worme-exten-Hole of ragged Scone, Where Hospherres Father, old Northumberland, Lyes crafty ficke. The Postes come tyring on, And not a man of them brings other newes
Then they have learn'd of Me. From Rumours Tongues, They bring smooth-Comforts-falle, worse then True-Exis. wrongs.

Scena Secunda.

Enter Land Bardolfe, and the Porter.

L. Bar. Who keeper the Gate heere hoa? Where is the Earle?

Par. What shall I say you are? Bar. Tell thou the Earle

That the Lord Bardolfe doth arrend him heere.

Por. His Lordship is walk d forth into the Orchard Please it your Honor, knocke but at the Gate, And he himselfe will answer.

Enter Northumberland.

L.Bar. Heere comes the Earle.

Nn. What newes Lord Bardoffe? Ev'ry minute now Should be the Father of fome Straragem; The Times are wilde: Contention (like a Horse

Full of high Feeding) madly hath broke loofe, And beares downe all before him. L. Ear. Noble Exile,

I bring you certaine newes from Shrewsbury
Nor. Good, and heaven will.

L.Bar. As good as hears can wish: The King is almost wounded to the death : And in the Fortune of my Lord your Sonne, Prince Harru flaine out-right: and both the Blams Kill'd by the hand of Douglas. Yong Prince lobs, And Westmerland, and Stafford, fled the Field, And Harris Monmouth's Brawne (the Ilulke Six lobs.) Is prisoner to your Sonne, O, such a Day, (So fought, fo follow'd, and fo fairely wonne) Came not, till now, to dignifie the Times Since Cafars Fortunes.

Nor. How is this deriu'd?

Saw you the Field? Came you from Shrewsbury? L.Bar. I spake with one (my L.) that came fro thence,

A Gentleman well bred, and of good name, That freely render'd me these newes for true.

Nor. Heere comes my Seruant Tracers, whom I fent On Tuelday last, to listen after Newes.

Enter Transer.

L.Bar. My Lord, I over-rod him on the way, And he is furnish'd with no certainties, More then he (haply) may retaile from me.

Nor Now Travers, what good tidings comes fro you?

Tra. My Lerd, Sir John Umfraust turn'd me backe With foyfull tydings; and (being better hors'd) Out-rod me. After him, came sporring head A Gentleman (almost fore-speut with speed) That flopp'd by me, to breath his bloodied horfe. Heask'd the way to Chefter : And of him I did demand what Newes from Shrewsbury a He told me, that Rebellion had ill lucke, And that yong Harry Persies Spurre was cold. With that he gave his able Horfe the head, And bending forwards frooke his able heeles Against the panting sides of his poore lade Vp to the Rowell head, and starting so, He feem'd in running, to deuoure the way, Staying no longer question.

North. Ha? Againe Said he yong Harris Persyes Spurre was cold? (Oi Hot-Sparre, cold-Spurre?) that Rebellious

Had met ill lucke?

L. Bar. My Lord : He tell you what, If my yong Lord your Sonne, have not the day, Vpon mine Honor, for a filken point He give my Barony. Neuer talke of it.

Nor. Why should the Gentleman that rode by Travers

Give then luch infrances of Loffe?

L.Bar. Who, he?

He was some hislding Fellow, that had stolne The Morfeherode-on : and vpon my life Speaks at adventure. Looke, here comes more Newes.

Enter Morton.

Nor. Yes, this mans brow, like to a Title-leafe, Fore-tels the Nature of a Tragicke Volume: Solookes the Strond, when the Imperious Flood Hath left a witnest V surpation. Say Merron, did'it thou come from Shresvsbury?

Mor. I ran from Shrewsbury (my Noble Lord) Where hatefull death put on his vglieft Maske

To fright our party,
North. How doth my Sonne, and Brother? Thou trembl'ft; and the whitenesse in thy Cheeke Is apter then thy Tongue, to tell thy Errand. Euen fuch a man, lo faint, lo spiritlesse, So dull, so dead in looke, so woe-be-gone, Drew Prican Curtaine, in the dead of night, And would hauctold him, Halfe his Troy was burn'd. But Priamfound the Fire ere he his Tongue; And I, my Percies death, ere thou report Il it This, thou would'it fay: Your Sonne and thus, and thus: Your Brother, thus . So fought the Noble Dauglar, Stopping my greedy earc, with their bold deeds. But in the end (to ftop mine Esre indeed) Thou halt a Sigh, to blow away this Praife, Ending with Brother, Sonne, and all are dead. Mer. Donglasis liuing, and your Brother, yets

But for my Lord, your Sonne. North. Why, he is dead. See what a ready tongua Suspition hath 1 He that but feares the thing, he would not know, Hath by Inflinct, knowledge from others Eyes, That what he feard, is chanc'd. Yet speake (Marton) Tell thou thy Earle, his Diulnation Lies, And I will take it, as a fweet Difgrace, And make thee rich, for doing me fuch wrong,

Mer. You are too great, to be (by me) gainfaid t

Your Spirit 12 200 true, your Febres two certaine.
North. Yet for all this, by not that Porcus dead. I fee a ftrange Confession in thine Eye: Thou flak'fi thy head, and hold'fl it Feare, or Sinne. To fpeake a truth. If he be flaine, fay fo : The Tongue offends noz, that reports his death : And he doth finns that doth belye the dead: Not he, which fayes the dead is not alive: Yet the first bringer of anwelcome Newes Hath but a loofing Office: and his Tongue, Sounds euer after as a sullen Beil Remembred, knolling a departing Friend.

L.B.w. I cannot thinke (my Lord) your fon is dead.

Mor. I am forry, I should force you to believe
That, which I would to besuen, I had not seene. But these mine eyes, saw him in bloody steet, Rend'ring faint quittance (wearied, and out-breath'd) To Henrie Mommonsh, whose swift wrath beace dowing The neuer-daunted Percis to the earth, From whence (with life) he never more forung up. In few; his death (whole spirit lent a fire Even to the dullest Peazant in his Campe) Being bruited once, tooke fire and heate away From the best temper'd Courage in his Troopes. For from his Mettle, was his Parry Reel'd; Which once, in him abated, all the reft Turn'd on themselves, like dull and heavy Lead : And as the Thing, that's heavy in it felfe, Vpon enforcement, Ayes with greatell speede, So did our Men, heavy in Hatfrares loste, Lend to this weight, such lightnesse with their Feare, That Arrowes fled not fwifter toward their ayme, Then did our Soldiers (ayming at their fafety) Fly from the field. Then was that Noble Worcefter Too foone ta'ne prisoner : and that furious Scot, (The bloody Dauglas) whose well-labouring sword Had three times slaine th'appearance of the King. Gan vaile his stomacke, and did grace the shame Of those that turn'd their backes : and in his flight, Stumbling in Feare, was tooke. The fumme of all, Is, that the King hath wonne : and hath fent out A speedy power, to encounter you my Lord, Vider the Conduct of yong Lancaster And Wellmerland. This is the Newes at full.

North. For this, I fhall have time enough to mourns, In Poylon, there is Phylicke: and this newes-(Hauing beene well) that would have made me ficke, Being ficke, haue in fome measure, made me well. And as the Wretch, whose Feauer-wealmed joynts, Like Arengthlesse Hindges, buckle under life, Impatient of his Fit, breakes like a fire Out of his keepers armes : Euen fo, my Limbes Weak'ned with greefe) being now inrag'd with greefe, Are thrice themselves. Hence therefore thou nice crutch, A featie Geuntlet now, with loynts of Steele Must glove this hand. And hencethou fickly Quolife, Theu are a guard too wanton for the head, Which Princes, flesh'd with Conquest syme to bit. Now binde my Browes with Iron, and approach The ragged'A houre, that Time and Spight dare bring To frowne vpon th'enrag'd Northumberland, Let Heaven kiffe Earth: now let not Natures hand Keepe the wilde Flood confin'd: Let Order And let the world no longer be a flag To feede Contention in a ling'ring A&: But let one spirit of the First-bome Ceice

Reigne

Reigne in all bosomes, that each heart being fer On bloody Courses, the rude Scene may end. And darkiiellebe the burier of the dead. Honor

L. Rar Sweet Earle, divorce not wisedom from you Mor. The lives of all your louing Complices Leane-on your health, the which if you give-o're To flormy Passion, must perforce decay You call th'event of Watte (my Noble Lord)
And fumm'd the accompt of Chance, before you faid Let vs make head : It was your prefurmize, That in the dole of blower, your Son might drop. You knew he walk'd o're perils, on an edge Morelikely to fall in, then to get o're: You were aduis'd his fielh was capeable Of Wounds, and Scarres; and that his forward Spirit Would life him, where most trade of danger rang'd, Yet did you fay go forth : and none of this (Though firongly apprehended) could reftraine The fife-borne Action: What heth then befalme? Or what hath this bold enterprize bring forth, More then that Being, which was like to be?

L.Bar. Weall that are engaged to this loffe, Knew that we ventur'd on fuch dangerous Seas, That if we wrought out life, was ten to one ; And yet we ventur'd for the gaine propos'd, Choak'd the respect of likely perill fear'd, And fince we are o're-fer, venture againe. Come, we will all put forth; Body, and Goods,

Mer.'Tis more then time: And (my most Noble Lord) I heare for certaine, and do speake the truth: The gentle Arch-bishop of Yorke is vp With well appointed Powres : he is a man Who with a double Surety bindes his Followers: My Lord (your Sonne) had onely but the Corpes, But shadowes, and the shewes of men to fight. For that fame word (Rebellion) did dinide The action of their bodies, from their foules, And they did fight with questineffe, confrain'd As men drinke Potions; that their Wespons only Seem'd on our fide: but for their Spirits and Soules, This word (Rebellion) it had froze them *p. As Fish are in a Pond. But now the Bishop Turnes Infurrection to Religion, Supposed fincere, and holy in his Thoughts : He's follow'd both with Body, and with Minde : And doth enlarge his Rifing, with the blood Of faire King Richard, Icrap'd from Pornfret Rones, Derives from heaven, his Quarrell, and his Cause: Tels them, he doth bestride a bleeding Land, Gasping for life, under great Bullingbrooke, And more, and leffe, do flocke to follow him, North. I knew of this before. But to speake truth, This present greefe had wip'd it from my minde. Go in with me, and councell every man The aptest way for safety, and revenge: Ger Posts, and Lerrers, and make Friends with speed, Neuer fo few nor neuer yet more need Excent.

Scena Tertia.

Enter Falltaffe and Fage. Fal. Sirra, you giant, what faies the Dod. to my water? Pag He laid fir, the water it felfe was a good healthy water; but for the party that ow'd it, he might have more

Fal. Men of all fores take a pride to gird at meet the difeafes then he knew for.

braine of this foolish compounded Clay-man, is not able to invent any thing that tends to laughter, more then I invent, or is invented on me. I am not onely witty in my felfe, but the cause that wit is in other men. I docherre walke before thee, like a Sow, that hath o'rewhelm'd all her Litter, but one. If the Prince put thee into my Sernice for any other reason, then to let mee off, whiy then I have no sudgement. Thou horfon Mandiake, thou are fitter to be worne in my cap, then to wait ar my heeles. I was neuer mann'd with an Agot till now ; but I will fette you neyther in Gold, nor Silver, but in vilde apporell, and fend you backe againe to your Master, for a Tewell. The Inuenall (the Prince your Master) whose Chio is not yet fledg'd, I will fooner have a beard grow in the Palme of my hand, then he shall get one on his cheeke : yet he will not sticke to say, his Face is a Face-Royall. Heaven may finish it when he will, it is not a haire smille yet : he may keepe it fillata Face-Royall, for a Barber shall neuer earne fix pence out of it; and yet he will be crowing, at if he had writ man euer fince his Father was a Batchellour. He may keepehis owne Grace, but he is almost out of mine, I can assure him. What sald M. Dombledon, about the Satten for my thort Cloake, and Slops ?

Pag. He faid fir, you should procure him better Afinrance, then Bardolfo: he wold not take his Bond & yours, he lik'd not the Security.

Fal. Let him bee dame'dlike the Glutton, may his Tongue be hotter, a horson Achitophel; a Rascally-yeafor sooth-knaue, to beare a Gentleman in hand, and then fland upon Security? The horson smooth-pares doe now weare nothing but high shoes, and bunches of Keyes at their girdles: and if a man is through with them in honest Taking-vp, then they must stand vpon Securities I had as here they would put Rats-bene in my mouth, as offer to floppe it with Security. Hook'd hee should have sent me two and twenty yards of Satten (as I am true Knight) and be fends me Security. Well, he may fleep in Security. for he hath the horne of Abundance: and the lightnesse of his Wife shines through it, and yet cannot he fee, though he have his owne Lanthorne to light him. Where's Bordsfet

Pag. He's gone into Smithfield to buy your worship

Fal. I bought him in Paules, and bee'l buy mee a horse in Smithfield. If I could get mee a wife in the Stewes, I were Mana'd, Hors'd, and Win'd.

Enter Chiefe Luftice and Servant.

Pag. Sir, heere comes the Nobleman that committed the Prince for Ariking him, about Bardelfe. Fal. Wait close, I will not see him.

Ch.Juft. What's he that goes there? Ser. Falftaffe, and't please your Lordship.

Iust. He that was in question for the Robbery?

Ser. He my Lord, but be hath fince done good feruice at Shrewsbury: and(as I besre) is now going with fome Charge, to the Lord lobs of Lancafter.

lust, What to Yorke Call him backe againe.

Ser. Sir Iebn Falft offe. Fal. Boy, tell him, I am deafe.

Pag. You must speake lowder, my Master is desse.

Iust. I am sore he is, to the hearing of any thing good. Go plucke him by the Elbow, I must speake with him.

Ser. Sit John.

Fal. Whates youg knave and begils there not warrils there not imployment/Doth not the Klack subjects? Do not the Rebels want Soldiers? Though it be a shame to be on any tide but one, it is worle thame to begge, then to be on the world fide, were it worle then the name of Rebellion can tell how to make it.

Ser. You miftake me Sit.

Fal. Why fir? Did I fay you were an honest man? Serting my Knight-hood, and my Souldiership aside, I had Iyed in my throat, if I had said so.

Ser. I pray you (Sir) then fet your Knighthood and your Souldier-ship aside, and give mee leque to tell you, you lye in your throat, if you say I am any other then an boneft man.

Fal. I give thee leave to tell me fo? Ilsy a-fide that which growes to me? If thou get'ft any leaue of me, hang me : if thou tak'fleaue, thou wer't better be hang'd :you

Hunt-counter, hence : Auant.

Ser. Sir,my Lord would speake with you luft. Sit lobo Falftaffe, a word with you.

Fal. My good Lord: give your Lordship good time of the day. I am glad to fee your Lordship abroad: I heard fay your Lordship was ficke. I hope your Lordship goes abroad by aduife. Your Lordship (though not clean past your youth) hath yer fome Imack of age in you: Iome rellish of the falineste of Time, and I most humbly befeech your Lordship, to have a reverend care of your health.

Inft. Sir lobn, I fent you before your Expedition, to Shrewsburie.

Fal. Hit please your Lordship, I heare his Maiestie is return'd with some discomfort from Wales.

Infl. I talke not of his Maiefty: you would not come when I fent for you?

Fal. And I heare moreover, his Highnesse is falne into this same whorson Apoplexie.

Infl. Well, heaven mend him. I pray let me speak with Ful. This Apoplexie is (as I take it) a kind of Lethargic, a fleeping of the blood, a horson Tingling.

luft. What tell you me of it? be it as it is.
F.d. It hath it originall from much greefe; from study and percurbation of the braine. I have read the cause of his effects in Galen. Is in a kinde of deafeneffe.

laft. I thinke you are falue into the disease : For you heare not what I say to you.

Fal. Very well (my Lord) very well : rather an't please you) it is the disease of not Listning, the maledy of not Marking, that I am troubled withall.

Juff. To punish you by the heeles, would amend the attention of your cares, & I care not if I be your Physician

Fal. Yam as poore as lab, my Lord; bur not fo Patient: your Lordship may minister the Petion of Imprisonment to me, in respect of Powersie: but how I should be your Patient, to follow your prescriptions, the wife may make some dram of a scruple, or indeede, a scruple le selfe.

luft. I fent for you (when there were matters against you for your life) to come speake with me.

Fal. As I was then adulted by my learned Councel, in the lawes of this Land-fernice, I did not come.

Inf. Wel the truth is (fir lobs) you live in great to famy

Fal. He that buckles him in my belt, canot live in leffe. luft. Your Meanes is very flender, and your wast great.
Fal. I would it were otherwise : I would my Meanes were greater, and my waste stenderer.

Inf. You have missed the youthfull Prince.

Fal. The yong Prince hath missed mee. I am the Fellow with the great belly, and he my Dogge.

luft. Well, I am loth to gall a new-heal'd wounds your daies feruice at Shrewsbury, hath a little gilded oner your Nights exploit on Gads-hill. You may thanke the vinquiet time, for your quiet o're-polting that Action

Fal. My Lord? Inf. But fince all is wel, keep it fo: wake no: a fleeping Fal. To wake a Wolfe, is as bad as to smell a Fox.

In. Whateyou are as a candle, the better part burst out Fal. A Wassell-Candle, my Lord; all Tallow: if I did fay of wax, my growth would approve the truth.

Inft. There is not a white haire on your face, but shold haue his effect of gravity.

Fal. His effect of gravy, gravy, gravy.

Juff You follow the yong Prince vp and downe, like his cuill Angell.

Fel. Not fo (my Lord) your ill Angell is light : but I hope, he that lookes vpou mee, will take mee without, weighing: and yet, in some respects I grant, I cannot go s f cannot tell. Vertue is of so little regard in these Costor. mongers, that true velor is turn'd Beare-heard, Pregnancie is made a Tapster, and hath his quicke wit wasted in gitting Recknings : all the other gifes appertinent to man (as the malice of this Age shapes them) are not woorth a Gooleberry. You that are old, consider not the capacities of va that are yong : you measure the heat of our Liuers, with the bitternes of your gals. & we that are in the vaward of our youth, I must confesse, are wagges too.

luft. Do you let downe your name in the scrowle of youth, that are written downe old, with all the Charrace ters of age? Have you not a moist eye? a dry hand? a yellow cheeke?a white beard? a decreasing leg? an incresing belly? Is not your voice broken? your winde short? your wit lingle? and every part about you blasted with Antiquityrand wil you cal your felfe yong Fy, fy, fy, fit loba.

Fal. My Lord, I was borne with a white head, & fornthing a round belly. For my voice, I have loft it with hallowing and finging of Anthemes. To approve my youth farther, I will not: the truth is, I am onely olde in sudgement and anderstandings and he that will esper with mee for a thousand Markes, let him lend me the mony, & haue at him. For the boxe of th'eare that the Prince gaue you, he gaue it like a rude Prince, and you tooke it like a fenfis ble Lord. I have checkt him for it, and the yong Lion repents : Marry not in ashes and sacke-cloath, but in new Silke, and old Sacke.

Inft. Wel, heaven send the Prince a better companion. Fal. Heaven send the Companion a better Prince : 1 cannot rid my hands of him.

Inft. Well, the King hath feuer'd you and Prince Harry, I heare you are going with Lord I alm of Lancaster, a-gainst the Archbishop, and the Earle of Northumberland Fal. Yes, I thanke your pretty (weet wit for it: but looke you pray, (all you that killerny Ladie Peace, at home) that our Armies ioyn not in a hot day: for if I take but two thirts out with me, and I meane not to fweat extraordinarily : if it bee a hot day, if I brandilh any thing but my Bottle, would Imight never spit white againe : There is not a daungerous A dion can peepe out his head, but I am thrust vpon it. Well, I cannot last ever.

Isft. Well, be honest, be bonest, and heaven blesse your Expedition.

Fal. Will your Lordship lend mee a thousand pound, to furnish me forth?

108. Not a peny, nee a peny 1 you are too impeticm to beare croffes. Fare you well. Commend mee to my Cofin Westerrland.

Fal. If I do, fillop me with a three-man-Beetle. A man can no more separate Age and Couetousneffe, then he can part yong limbes and leachery : but the Gowt galles the one, and the pos pinches the other; and so both the Degrees present my earles. Boy?

Pogr. Sir.

Fal. Wheemoney is in my purfe?
Page. Seven grosts, and two pente.

Fal. I can get no remedy against this Consumption of the purse. Borrowing onely lingers, and lingers it out, but the disease is incureable. Go beare this letter to my Lord of Lancaster, this to the Prince, this to the Earle of Westmerland, and this to old Mistris Orfula, whome I have weekly swome to marry, since I perceived the first white haire on my chin. About it: you know where to finde me. A pox of this Gowt, or a Gowt of this Poxe i for the one or th'other playes the rogue with my great toe: It is no matter, if I do halt, I have the warres for my colour, and my Pension shall seeme the more reasonable. A good wit will make vice of any thing: I will turne diseases to commodity.

Scena Quarta.

Enter e Archbishop, Hastings, Mombray, and Lord Bardolfe.

Ar. Thus have you heard our caufes, & kno our Means:
And my most noble Friends, I pray you all
Speake plainly your opinions of our hopes,
And first (Lord Marshall) what say you to it?

Miss. I well allow the occasion of our Armes,
But gladly would be better fatisfied,
How (in our Meanes) we should advance our selves
To looke with forhead bold and big enough
Vpon the Power and pulsance of the King.

Hast. Our present Musters grow upon the File To fine and twenty thousand men of choice; And our Supplies, line largely in the hope Of great Northumberland, whose bosome burnes With an incensed Fire of Injuries.

L. Bar. The question then (Lord Hallings) flandeth thus Whether our present five and twenty thousand May hold-up-head, without Northumberland:

Haft. With him, we may.

L. Bar. I marry, there's the point:

But If without him we be thought to feeble,

My judgement is, we should not step too farre.

Till we had his Afsistance by the hand.

For in a Theame so bloody sac'd, as this,

Coniecture, Expectation, and Surmise.

Of Aydes incertaine, should not be admitted.

Arch. Tis very true Lord Bardolfe, for indeed
It was yong Hospurer case, at Shrewsbury.

L.Bar. It was (my Lord) who lin'd himfelf with hope, Eating the ayre, on promife of Supply,
Flatting himfelfe with Proiect of a power,
Much smaller, then the smallest of his Thoughts,
And so with great imagination
(Proper to mad men) led his Powers to death,
And (winking) leap'd into destruction.

Haft. But (by your leave) it never yet did hurt,
To lay downe likely-hoods, and formes of hope.

L. Bar. Yes, if this prefent quality of warre,
Indeed the inflant action: a cause on soot,
Lives so in hope: As in anearly Spring,
We see th'appearing buds, which to prove fruite,
Hope give not so much warrant, as Dispaire
That Frosts will bite them. When we meane to build,
We first survey the Plot, then draw the Modell,

And when we lee the figure of the house, Then must we rate the cost of the Erection, Which if we finde out-weighes Ability, What do we then, but draw a-new the Modell In fewer offices " Or at leaft, defift To builde at all? Much more, in this great worke, (Which is (almost) to plucke a Kingdome downe. And fer another vp) should we surve The plot of Situation, and the Modell: Confere vpon a fure Foundation. Question Surveyors, know our owne estate, How able such a Worke to undergo, To weigh against his Opposite? Or elle, We fortifie to Paper, and in Figures, Ving the Names of men, inflead of men i Like one, that drawes the Modell of a house Beyond his power to builde it; who (halfe through) Gives o're, and leaves his part-created Coff A naked fubicato the Weeping Clouds, And waste, for charlish Winters tyranny.

H # Grant that our hopes (yet likely of faire byrth)
Should be fill-borne; and that we now posses
The vemost man of expectation:
Ithinke we are a Body strong enough
(Euen as we are) to equall with the King.
L. Bu., What is the King but five & twenty thousand?

Hast. To vs no more may not so much Lord Bardass. For his diunsions (as the Times do braul)
Are in three Heads: one Power against the French,
And one against Clindower Personce a third
Must take vp vs: So is the vnstrme King
In three divided: and his Costers sound
With hollow Powersy, and Emptinesse.

And come against vs in full pussionce
Need not be dreaded.

Haft, Ifhe (hould do fo, He leaves his backe vnarm'd, the French, and Welch Baying him at the heeles: neuer feare that.

LBer. Who is it like should lead his Forces hisher?

Hast. The Duke of Lancaster, and Westmerland:
Against the Weish himselfe, and Harrie Monmourb.
But who is substituted gainst the French,
I have no certaine notice.

Artb. Letvion: And publish the occasion of our Armes.
The Common-wealth is sicke of their owne Choice, Their over-greedy love hath furferred: An habitation giddy, and valure Hath he that builderh on the vulgar heart. O thou fond Many, with what loud applaule Did'ft thou beate heaven with bleffing Bulling brooks, Before he was, what thou would'st have him be? And being now trimm'd in thine owne delires, Thou (beaftly Feeder) are fo full of him, That thou prouok it thy felfe to cast him vp So, lo, (thou common Dogge) did ft thou difgorge Thy glutton-bosome of the Royall Richard, And now thou would it eate thy dead vomit vp And howl'it to finde it. What truft is in thefe Times? They, that when Richard liu'd, would have him dye, Are now become enamour'd on his graue Thou that threw it dust upon his goodly head When through proud London he came lighing on, After th'admired beeles of Bullingbrooke. Cri'finow, O Earth, yeeld vs that King agive,

And

And take thou this (O thoughts of men accurs'd) " Paft, and to Come, feames best; thongs Present, worst. Mow. Shall we go draw our our bers, and fer on? Hall. We are Times lubiects, and Time bids, be gon.

Actus Secundus. Scana Prima.

