Second part of Henrie

the fourth, continuing to his death, and coronation of Henrie

the fift.

With the humours of sir Iohn Fal staffe, and swaggering Pistoll.

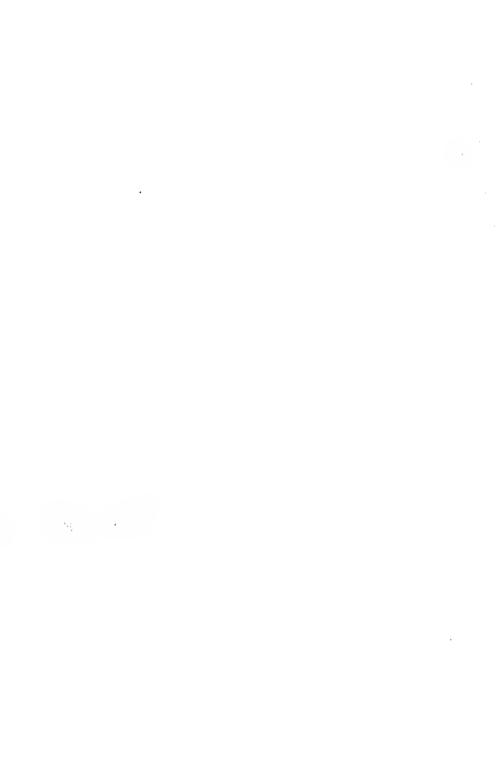

As it hath been sundrie times publikely acted by the right honourable, the Lord Chamberlaine his feruants.

Written by William_Shakespeare.

Printed by V.S.for Andrew Wife, and William Aspley.

1600.

The second part of Henry the fourth, continuing to his death, and coronation of Henry the fift.

Enter Rumour painted full of Tonques.

Pen your eares; for which of you will stop The vent of hearing, when lowd Rumor speaks? I from the Orient to the drooping West, (Making the wind my poste-horse) still vnfold The acts commenced on this ball of earth.

Vpon my tongues continuall flanders ride. The which in euery language I pronounce. Stuffing the eares of men with falle reports. I speake of peace while couert enmity, Vnder the smile of safety, woundes the world: And who but Rumor, who but onely I, Make fearefull mufters, and prepar'd defence, Whiles the bigge yeare, swolne with some other griefe, Is thought with child by the sterne tyrant Warre? And no fuch matter Rumour is a pipe, Blowne by furmizes, Iealousies coniectures, And of so easie, and so plaine a stop, That the blunt monster, with vncounted heads. The still discordant wau'ring multitude, Can play vpon it. But what need I thus (My wel knowne body) to anothomize Among my houshold? why is Rumor here?

A 2

Induction

12

.

Induction

24

28

32

+36

נוש ומן שווטיין פים ב

I runne before King Harries victorie. Who in a bloudy field by Shrewsbury, Hath beaten downe youg Hot-spurre and his troopes, Quenching the flame of bold rebellion. Euen with the rebels bloud. But what meane I To speake so true at first my office is To noyfe abroad that Harry Monmouth fell Vnder the wrath of noble Hot-spurs sword, And that the King before the Douglas rage. Stoopt his annointed head as low as death. This haue I rumour'd through the peafant townes, Betweene that royall field of Shrewsbury, And this worme-eaten hole of ragged stone, When Hot-spurs father old Northumberland Lies crafty ficke, the postes come tyring on, And not a man of them brings other newes, Than they have learnt of me, from Rumors tongues, They bring smooth comforts false, worse then true wrongs. exit Rumours.

Enter the Lord Bardelfe at one doore.

Bard. Who keepes the gate here ho? where is the Earle?

Porter What shall I say you are?

Bard. Tell thou the Earle.

That the Lord Bardolfe doth attend him heere.

Porter His Lordship is walkt forth into the orchard,
Please it your honor knocke but at the gate,

And he himselfe will answer. Enter the Earle Northumberland, Bard. Here comes the Earle.

Bard. Fiere comes the Earle.

Earle. What newes Lord Bardolfe?euery minute now Should be the father of some Stratagem, The times are wild, contention like a horse, Full of high feeding, madly hath broke loose, And beares downe all hefore him.

Bard. Noble Earle,

I bring you certaine newes from Shrewsbury. Earle Good, and God will.

Bard.

ActT.Sc.i.t

12

20 24

28

32

36

40

41 menry the journo.

Bard. As good as heart can wish:
The King is almost wounded to the death,
And in the fortune of my Lord your sonne,
Prince Harry slaine outright, and both the Blunts
Kild by the hand of Dowglas, yong prince Iohn,
And Westmerland and Stafford sled the field,
And Harry Monmouthes brawne the hulke sir Iohn,
Is prisoner to your sonne: O such a day!
So fought, so followed, and so fairely wonne,
Came not till now to dignisie the times
Since Cæsars fortunes.

Earle How is this deriu'd?

Saw you the field?came you from Shrewsbury?

Bar. I spake with one, my lord, that came from thence, emer A gentleman well bred, and of good name, Trauers.

That freely rendred me thefe newes for true.

Earle Here comes my feruant Trauers who I fent

On tuelday last to listen after newes.

Bar. My lord, I ouer-rode him on the way, And he is furnisht with no certainties,

More then he haply may retale from me.

Earle Now Trauers, what good tidings comes with you? Trauers My lord, fir Iohn Vmfreuile turnd me backe Withioyfull tidings, and being better horst, Outrode me, after him came spurring hard, A gentleman almost forespent with speede, That stopt by me to breathe his bloudied horse, He askt the way to Chester, and of him I did demand what newes from Shrewsbury, He told me that rebellion had bad lucke, And that yong Harrie Percies spur was cold: With that he gaue his able horse the head, And bending forward, strooke his armed heeles, Against the panning sides of his poore iade, Vp to the rowell head, and starting so,

He seem'd in running to devoure the way,

Аз

Stay-

52

50 in 64

68 y2

76

80

5

נט ב וועץ מיזוטיטן בייי -

Staying no longer question. Earle Ha? againe, Said he, yong Harry Percies spur was cold, Of Hot-spurre, Cold-spurre, that rebellion Had met ill lucke?

Bard. My lord, He tell you what, If my yong Lord your fonne, haue not the day, Vpon mine honor for a filken point, He give my Barony, neuer talke of it.

Earle Why should that gentleman that rode by Trauers,

Giue then such instances of losse?

Bard. Who he?

He was some hilding fellow that had stolne The horse he rode on, and vpon my life Spoke at a venter. Looke, here comes more news. enter Mor-

Farle Yea this mans brow, like to a title leafe, Foretells the nature of a tragicke volume,
So lookes the strond, whereon the imperious floud,
Hath left a witnest vsurpation.

Say Mourton, didlt thou come from Shrewsbury?

Mour. I ranne from Shrewsbury my noble lord,

Where hatefull death put on his vgliest maske, To fright our partie.

Earle How doth my sonne and brother?
Thou tremblest, and the whitenes in thy cheeke,
Is apter then thy tongue to tell thy arrand,
Euen such a man, so faint, so spirritlesse,
So dull, so dead in looke, so woe begon,
Drew Priams curtaine in the dead of night,
And would haue told him, halfe his Troy was burnt:
But Priam found the fier, ere he, his tongue,
And I, my Percies death, ere thou reports it.
This thou woulds say, Your son did thus and thus,
Your brother thus: so fought the noble Dowglas,
Stopping my greedy eare with their bold deedes,
But in the end, to stop my eare indeed,
Thou hast a sigh to blow away this praise,
Ending with brother, sonne, and all are dead.

Mour.

ton.

9"

130

70.4

Meur. Douglas is living, and your brother yet, But for my Lord your fonne:

Earle Why he is dead? See what aready tongue Suspition hath! He that but feares the thing hee would not know, Hath by instinct, knowledge from others eies, That what he feard is chanced: yet speake Mourton, Tell thou an Earle, his divination lies,

And I will take it as a sweete disgrace, And make thee rich for doing me fuch wrong.

Mour. You are too great to be by me gainfaid, Your spirite is too true, your feares too certaine.

Earle Yet for all this, say not that Percie's dead, I fee a strange confession in thine eie, Thou shakst thy head, and holdst it feare, or sinne, To speake a truth: if he be flaine, The tongue offends not that reports his death, And he doth sinne that doth belie the dead, Not he which faies the dead is not aliue, Yet the first bringer of vnwelcome newes

Hath but a looking office, and his tongue Sounds euer after as a sullen bell, Remembred tolling a departing friend.

Bard. I cannot thinke, my Lord, your sonne is dead.

Mour. I am fory I should force you to beleeue, That which I would to God I had not seene, But these mine eies saw him in bloudy state, Rendring faint quittance, wearied, and out-breathd, To Harry Monmouth, whose swift wrath beat downe The neuer daunted Percy to the earth, From whence with life he neuer more sprung vp. In few his death, whose spirite lent a fire, Euen to the dullest peasant in his campe, Being bruted once, tooke fire and heate away, From the best temperd courage in his troopes, For from his mettal was his party steeled,

Which

124

12A

132

136

140

144

148

152

L 100 fection part uj

Which once in him abated, al the rest Turnd on themselues, like dull and heavy lead. And as the thing thats heavy in it selfe, Voon enforcement flies with greatest speed: So did our men, heavy in Hot spurs losse, Lend to this weight fuch lightnesse with their feare, That arrowes fled not swifter toward their ayme, Than did our fouldiers aiming at their fafetie, Fly from the field; then was that noble Worcester, So soone tane prisoner, and that furious Scot, The bloudy Douglas whose well labouring sword, Had three times slaine th appearance of the King, Gan vaile his stomacke, and did grace the shame Of those that turnd their backes, and in his flight, Stumbling in feare, was tooke: the fumme of all Is, that the King hath wonne, and hath fent out, A speedy power to incounter you my lord, Vnder the conduct of yong Lancaster, And Westmerland: this is the news at ful.

Earle For this I shal have time enough to mourne, In poison there is phisicke, and these newes, Having beene wel, that would have made me ficke: Being ficke, haue (in some measure) made me wel: And as the wretch whole feuer-weakned ioynts, Like strengthlesse hinges buckle under life, Impacient of his fit, breakes like a fire Out of his keepers armesseuen so my limbes, Weakened with griefe being now enragde with griefe, Are thrice themselves: hence therfore thou nice crutch, A scaly gauntlet now with ioynts of steele Must gloue this band and hence thon sickly coife, Thou art a guard too wanton for the head, Which princes, flesht with conquest, ayme to hit: Now bind my browes with yron, and approach The raggedst houre that Time and Spight dare bring, To frown evponth in ragde Northumberland,

Lct

160

**

1644

165

180

184

188

210

212

Īä.

Henry the fourth.

Let heaven kiffe earth now let not Natures hand Keepe the wild floud confind, let Order die. And let this world no longer be a stage, To feed contention in a lingring act: But let one spirite of the first borne Cain Raigne in all bosomes, that ech heart being set On bloudy courses, the rude sceane may end, And darkneffe be the burier of the dead. Vmfr. This strained passion doth you wrong my lord. Bard. Sweet earle, dinorce not wifedom from your honor. Mour. The lines of all your louing complices. Leaue on you health, the which if you give ore, To stormy passion must perforce decay. Bard. We all that are ingaged to this losse, Knew that we ventured on fuch dangerous leas. That if we wrought out life, twas ten to one, And yet we venturd for the gaine proposde, Choakt the respect of likely perill fear d,

Come, we will al put forth body and goods.

Mour. Tis more then time, and my most noble lord,

I heare for certaine, and dare speake the truth.

And fince we are orefet, venture againe:

North. I knew of this before, but to speake truth,
This present griefe had wipte it from my mind,
Go in with me and counsell enery man,
The aptest way for safety and renenge,
Get postes and letters, and make friends with speed,
Neuer so few, and neuer yet more need.

exem.

Enter sir Iohn alone, with his page bearing his fword and buckler.

Iohn Sirra, you giant, what faies the doctor to my water?

Page He faid fir, the water it felf was a good healthy water, but for the party that owed it, he might have moe diseases then he knew for.

B

Iohn

16 20 24

28

32

36

40

¥ 44

48

52

z we jecuna part uj

Tohn Men of al forts take a pride to gird at me : the braine of this foolish composided clay-man is not able to invent any thing that intends to laughter, more then I invent, or is inveted on me, I am not only witty in my felfe, but the cause that wit is in other men. I do here walk before thee, like a fow that hath ouerwhelmd al her litter but one, if the prince put thee into my feruice for any other reason then to sett me off, why then I haue no judgement thou horeson mandrake, thou art fitter to be worne in my cap, then to wait at my heels I was neuer manned with an agot till now, but I wil in-fet you, neither in golde nor filuer, but in vileapparell, and fend you backe againe to your mafter for a iewell, the inuenall the prince your mafter. whose chin is not yet fledge, I will sooner have a beard grow in the palme of my hand, then he shal get one off his cheek,& yet he will not sticke to fay his face is a face royal, God may finish it when he will, tis not a haire amisse yet, he may keepe it Still at a face royall, for a barber shall never earne sixpence out of it, and yet heele be crowing as if he had writte man euer fince his father was a batcheler, he may keepe his owne grace. but hees almost out of mine I can assure him: what said master Dommelton about the fattin for my short cloake and my floppes?

Boy Hesaidesir, you should procure him better assurance then Bardolfe, he would not take his band and yours, he liked not the securitie.

fir lohn Let him be damn'd like the glutton, pray God his tongue be hotter, a horefon Achitophella rafcall: yea forfooth knaue, to beare a gentle man in hand, and then stand vpon security, the horson smoothy-pates doe now weare nothing but hie shooes and bunches of keyes at their girdles, and if a man is through with them in honest taking vp, then they must stand vppon security. I had as liue they would put ratsbane in my mouth as offer to stop it with security, I lookt a should haue sent me two and twenty yards of sattin, (as I am a true knight,) and he sends me security: well he may sleepe in security, for he hath the horne of aboundance, and the lightnesse of his wife

	Ιπ.
ATPONDER BASE DANGE ALL
fhines through it: wheres Bardolf, & yet can not he see though he haue his owne lanthorne to light him.	¥
Boy Hees gone in Smithfield to buy your worship a horse. fir sohn I bought him in Paules, and heele buy me a horse	56 ₹
in Smithfield, and I could get me but a wife in the stewes, I were man'd, horsde, and win'd.	60
Emer Lord chiefe Iustice. Boy Sir, here comes the noble man that committed the prince	₽.
for striking him about Bardolfe. for John Wait close, I will not see him. Instice Whats hee that goes there?	64
feru. Falltaffe, and t please your lordship. Inst. He that was in question for the rob ry? feru. He my Lord, but he hath since done good service at	68
Shrewsbury,& (as I heare,) is now going with some charge to the lord I ohn of Lancaster. Inst. Whatto Yorke? call him backe againe. feru. Sir I ohn Falstaffe.	72
Iohn Boy, tell him I am deafe. Boy You must speake lowder, my master is deafe.	76
Iust. I am fure he is to the hearing of any thing good, goe plucke him by the elbow, I must speake with him. Sir Iohn?	80
Falft. What? a yong knaue and begging?is there not wars? is there not employment? doth not the King lacke subjects? do	84
not the rebels need fouldiers, though it be a shame to be on any fide but one, it is worse shame to beg then to be on the worst fide, were it worse then the name of Rebellion can tell how to make it. Seru. You mistake me sir.	88
Iohn Why sir, did I say you were an honest man, setting my knighthood and my souldiership aside, I had sied in my throat if I had said so.	92
feru. I pray you sir then set your knighthood, and your sol- diership aside, and give me leave to tell you, you lie in your throate, if you say I am any other then an honest man. B 2 Iohn.	96

104

108

112

116

120

124

128

132

136

140

John I give thee leave to tell me, so I lay aside that which growes to me, if thou getst any leave of me, hang me, if thou takst leaue, thou wert better be hangd, you hunt couter, hence, auaunt.

feru. Sir, my Lord would speake with you.

Iust. Sir Iohn Falltaffe, a word with you.

Falft. My good Lord, God give your lordship good time of day, I am glad to see your lordship abroade, I heard say your lordship was sicke, I hope your lordship goes abroade by aduife, your lordship, though not clean past your youth, have yet fome smack of an aguein you, some relish of the saltnes of time in you, and I most humbly befeech your lordship to have a reuerend care of your health.

Inflice Sir Iohn, I sent for you before your expedition to fir Iohn Andt please your lorship, I heare his maiesty is returnd with some discomfort from Wales.

Shrewsbury.

Iuft. I talke not of his maiesty, you would not come when I lent for you.

Falft. And I heare moreouer, his highnes is falne into this fame horfon a poplexi.

Iust. Well, God mend him, I pray you let me speake with you.

Falft. This appoplexias I take it? is a kind of lethergie, and't please your lordship, a kind of sleeping in the bloud, a horson ringling.

Iuft. What tell you me of it, be it as it is.

Fall. It hath it originall from much griefe, from fludy, and perturbation of the braine, I have read the cause of his effects in Galen, it is a kind of deafenes.

Iuft. I think you are falne into the disease, for you heare no.

what I fay to you.

Old. Very wel my lord, very wel, rather and't please you it is the disease of not histning; the maladie of not marking that I am troubled withall.

Inft. To punish you by the heeles, would amend the attention

148

152

150

160

164

168

142

146.

184

AATINIY WILL JUME VILLE

tion of your eares, and I care not if I doe become your phisitian.

Falft. I am as poore as Iob my lord, but not so pacient, your Lordship may minister the potion of imprisonment to me, in respect of pouerty, but how I should be your pacient to follow your prescriptions, the wise may make som dramme of a scruple, or indeede a scruple it selfe.

Inft. I fent for you when there were matters against you for your life to come speake with me.

Falft. As I was then adulfde by my learned counsail in the lawes of this land service, I did not come.

Inft. Wel, the truth is fir Iohn, you liue in great infamy.

Falft. He that buckles himselfe in my belt cannot liue in lesse.

Iust. Your meanes are very slender, and your waste is great. Faist. I would it were otherwise, I would my meanes were greater and my waste slender.

Iust. You have missed the youthfull prince.

Falft. The yong prince hath missed me, I am the felow with the great belly, and he my dogge.

Iuft. Wel, I am loth to gall a new heald wound, your daies feruice at Shrewsbury, hath a little guilded ouer your nights exploit on Gadshill, you may thanke th vnquiet time, for your quiet oreposting that action.

Falft. My lord.

Inft. But since all is well, keepe it so, wake not a sleeping wolfe.

Faist. To wake a wolfe, is as bad as smell a fox.

Iust. VV hat you are as a candle, the better part, burnt out. Falst. A wassel candle my lord, at tallow, if I did say of wax, my growth would approue the truth.

Iuft. There is not a white haire in your face, but should have his effect of gravity.

Falft. His effect of grauy, grauie, grauie.

Inst. You follow the yong prince vp and downe, like his ill angell.

 B_3

Falf.

Ιü

188

192

Fals. Not so my lord, your ill angell is light, but I hope he that lookes upon me will take me without weighing, and yet in some respects I grant I cannot go. I cannottell, vertue is of so little regard in these costar-mongers times, that true valour is turnd Berod, Pregnancie is made a Tapster, & his quick wit wasted in giuing reckonings, all the other gistes appertinent to man, as the malice of his age shapes the one not worth a goosbery, you that are old consider not the capacities of vs that are youg, you doe measure the heate of our livers with the bitternesse of your galles, and we that are in the vaward of our youth, I must confesse are wagges too.

La. Do you fet downe your name in the scroule of youth, that are written downe, old with all the characters of age? have you not a moist eie, a dry hand, a yelow cheeke, a white beard, a decreasing leg, an increasing belly? is not your voice broken, your winde short, your chinne double, your wit single, and euery part about you blasted with antiquitie, and will you yet call your selfe yong? fie, fie, fie, fir John.

Tohn My Lorde, I was borne about three of the clocke in the afternoone, with a white head, and fomething a round belhe, for my voyce, I have loft it with hallowing, and finging of Anthems: to approone my youth further, I will not: the truth is, I am onely olde in judgement and vnderstanding: and hee that wil caper with me for a thousand markes, let him lend me the money, and have at him for the boxe of the yeere that the Prince gaue you, he gaue it like a rude Prince, and you tooke it like a sensible Lord: I have checkt him for it, and the yong him repents, mary not in ashes and sackcloth, but in new silke, and olde sacke.

Lord . Well, God send the prince a better companion.

John God fend the companion a better prince, 1 cannot ridde my hands of him.

Lord Well, the King hath seuerd you: I heare you are going with lord Iohn of Lancaster against the Archbishop and the Earle of Northamberland.

Iohn Yea, I thanke your prety sweet witte for it: but looke you ₹196 200

204

208

*(½) 212

> 216 L

220

224

228

232

240

252

256

260

264

268

272

276

Henry the fourth.

you pray, all you that kissemy lady Peace at home, that our armies ione not in a hote day, for, by the Lord, I take but two shirts out with me, and I meane not to sweate extraordinarily: if it be a hot day, & I brandish any thing but a bottle. I would I might neuer spit white again: there is not a dangerous action can peepe out his head, but I am thrust vpon it. Wel, I cannot last euer, but it was alway yet the tricke of our English nation, if they have a good thing, to make it too common. If yee will needs say I am an olde man, you should give me rest: I would to God my name were not so terrible, to the enemy as it is, I were better to be eaten to death with a rust, than to be scoured to nothing with perpetual motion.

Lord Well be honest, be honest, and God blesse your expedition.

Iohn Will your lordship lend me a thousand pound to furnish me forth?

Lord Nota penny, not a penny, you are too impatient to beare crosses: fare you well: commend mee to my coofine Westmerland.

Iohn If I do, fillip me with a three man beetle: A man can no more separate age and couetousnesse, than a can part yong limbs and lechery, but the gowt galles the one, and the pox pinches the other, and so both the degrees preuent my curses, Boy Sir. (boy.

Iohn What money is in my purse?
Boy Seuen groates and two pence.

Iohn I can get no remedy against this consumption of the purse, borrowing onely lingers and lingers it out, but the discase is incurable: Go beare this letter to my lord of Lancaster, this to the Prince, this to the Earle of Westmerland, and this to olde mistris Vrsula, whome I have weekely sworne to marry fince I perceiud the first white haire of my chin: about it, you know where to finde me: a pox of this gowt, or a gowt of this pox, for the one or the other playes the rogue with my great toe. Tis no matter if I doe hault, I have the warres for my color, and my pension shal seeme the more reasonable: a good wit

1 ne jecona part of wit will make vie of any thing; I will turne discases to commoditie.

Liii

4

8

12

16

Enter th' Archbishop, Thomas Mowbray (Earle Marshall) the Lord Hastings, Fauconbridge, and Bardotse.

Bishop Thus have you heard our cause, and knowne our And my most noble friends, I pray you at meanes, Speake plainely your opinions of our hopes, And first Lord Marshall, what say you to it?

Mars. I well allow the occasion of our armes, But gladly would be better satisfied,
How in our meanes we should advance our selves,
To looke with forehead, bold, and big enough,
Vpon the power and puissance of the King.

Hast. Our present musters grow vpon the file, To fine and twenty thousand men of choise, And our supplies line largely in the hope Of great Northumberland, whose bosome burnes With an incensed fire of injuries.

Bard. The question then Lord Hastings standeth thus, Whether our present fine and twentie thousand, May hold up head without Northumberland.

Hast. With him we may.

Bard. Yea mary, theres the point, But if without him we be thought too feeble, My judgement is we should not step too far.

Byh. Tis very true lord Bardolfe, for indeede It was yong Hot-spurs cause at Shrewsbury.

Bard. It was my Lord, who lined himselfe with hope, Eating the ayre, and promise of supplie, Flatting himselfe in project of a power, Much smaller then the smallest of his thoughts, And so with great imagination, Proper to mad-men, led his powers to death, And winking, leapt into destruction.

Hast. But by your leave it never yet did hurt,

32

+28

To Ţ.iii.

Henry the fourth.
To lay downe likelihoods and formes of hope.	15
Bard. We fortifie in paper, and in figures,	35 S6
Ving the names of men in steed of men,
Like on that drawes the model of an house,
Beyond his power to build it, who (halfe thorough)
Giues o re, and leaves his part created cost,	60
A naked Subject to the weeping clowdes,
And waste for churlish winters tyrannie.
Hast. Grant that our hopes (yet likely of faire birth)	i
Should be still borne, and that we now possess	64
The vunost man of expectation,
I thinke we are so, body strong enough,	+
Euen as we are to equal with the King.	'
Bard. What, is the King but fine and twenty thousand?	68
Hast. To vs no more, nay not so much, Lord Bardolfe,
For his divisions, as the times do brawle,
And in three heads, one power against the French,	+
And one against Glendower perforce a third	72
Must take vp vs, so is the vnfirme King In three divided, and his coffers sound
With hollow pouertie and emptinesse.
Rife That he should draw his Greenst Greenst and the
B.s. That he should draw his severall strengths togither, And come against vs in full puissance,	76
Need not to be dreaded.
Hast. If he should do so, French and Welch he leaves his back vnarmde, they baying him at the heeles neuer feare that	+
Bar. Who is it like should leade his forces hither?	79-80
Haft. The Duke of Lancaster and Westmerland:
Against the Welsh, himself and Harry Monmouth:
But who is substituted against the French
I haue no certaine notice.	84
Bis. Shall we go draw our numbers, and fet on?	95
Hast. We are Times subjects, and Time bids be gone. ex.	109
Enter Hostesse of the Tauerne, and an Officer or two.	II.i.
C Hostesse.

4

12

16

24

28

.32

36

41

1 ne jecona part of

Hostesse Master Phang, have you entred the action?
Phang It is entred.

Host. Wheres your yeoman?ist a lusty yeoman?wil a stand too't?

Phang Sirra, wheres Snare?

Hoft. O Lord I, good master Snare.

Snare Here, here.

Phang Snare, we must arest sir Iohn Falstaffe.

Host. Yea good master Snare, I have entred him and all.

Snare It may chaunce cost some of vs our lives, for he will stable.

Hoft. Alas the day, take heed of him, he stabd me in mine owne house, most beastly in good faith, a cares not what mischiefe he does, if his weapon be out, he will soyne like any diuell, he will spare neither man, woman, nor child.

Phang If I can close with him, I care not for his thrust.

Host. No nor I neither, le be at your elbow.

Phang And I but fift him once, and a come but within my view.

Host. I am vndone by his going, I warrant you, hees an infinitiue thing vppon my score, good maister Phang holde him fure, good master Snare let him not scape, a comes continually to Pie corner (fauing your manhoods) to buy a faddle, and he is indited to dinner to the Lubbers head in Lumbert Areete to master Smooths the filk man, I pray you fince my exion is entred, and my case so openly knowne to the worlde, let him be brought in to his answer, a hundred marke is a long one, for a poore lone woman to beare, and I have borne, and borne, and borne, and haue bin fubd off, and fubd off, and fubd off, from this day to that day, that it is a shame to be thought on, there is no honesty in such dealing, vnlesse a woman should be made an affe, and a beaft, to beare euery knaues wrong: yonder he comes, and that arrant malmfie-nose knaue Bardolfe with him. do your offices do your offices master Phag, & master Snare, do me, do me, do me your offices.

Enter fir John, and Bardolfe, and the boy.

Falft.

İ.Π

92

46

104

708

712

116

124

*(1)

128

122

■ we jecona part of

by her owne.

Falst. What is the groffe fumme that I owe thee?

Host. Mary if thou wert an honest man, thy selfe and the mony too: thou didft sweare to me youn a parcell guilt goblet, sitting in my dolphin chamber, at the round table by a sea cole fire. vpon wednesday in Wheeson weeke, when the prince broke thy head, for liking his father to a finging man of Winfor, thou didle fweare to me the, as I was washing thy wound, to marry me, and make me my lady thy wife, canst thou deny it, did not goodwife Keech the butchers wife come in then and cal me goffip Quickly, comming in to borow a meffe of vinegar, telling vs she had a good dish of prawnes, whereby thou didst desire to eate some, whereby I told thee they were ill for a greene wound, and didft thou not, when the was gone down stayers, defire me, to be no more so familiarity, with such poore people, saying that ere long they should cal me madam. and didlt thou not kiffeme, and bid me fetch thee thirtie shillangs, I put thee now to thy booke outh, denie it if thon canst.

Falf. My lord this is a poore made foule, and she faies vp and downe the towne, that her eldest sonne is like you, she hath bin in good case and the trueth is pouerty hath distracted her, but for these sooils officers, I beseech you I may have redresse against them.

Lo. Sir Iohn fir Iohn, I am wel acquainted with your maner of wrenching the true cause, the false way: it is not a confident brow, nor the throng of words that come with such more then impudent sawcines from you can thrust me from a leuel confideration: you have as it appeares to me practisse upon the easie veelding spirite of this woman, and made her serve your vses both in putse and in person.

Host. Yeain truth my Lord.

Lo. Pray thee peace, pay her the debt you owe her and vnpay the villany you have done with her, the one you may doe with sterling mony, and the other with currant repentance.

Falst. My Lord I will not vindergoe this snepe without reply, you calhonorable boldnes impudent fawcinesse, if a man wil

	П.i.
Henry the fourth.
wil make curtie and fay nothing, he is vertuous, no my Lord my humble duty remembred, I will not bee your futer, I fay to you I do defire deliuerance from these officers, being vpon	136
hasty imployment in the Kings affayres. Lord You speake as having power to do wrong, but answer in th'effect of your reputation, and satisfie the poore woman.	140
Falf. Come hither hostesse. Lord Now master Gower, what newes. enter a messenger. Gomer The King my Lord, and Harry prince of Wales, Are neare at hand, the rest the paper tells.	14.4
Falft. As I am a gentleman! Hoft. Faith you faid so before. Falft. As I am a gentleman, come, no more words of it.	140
Host. By this heaunly ground I tread on, I must be faine to pawne both my plate, & the tapestry of my dining chambers-	152
Falf. Glasses glasses is the onely drinking, and for thy wals a pretty sleight drollery, or the storie of the prodigal, or the larman hunting in waterworke, is worth a thousand of these	156 bed hangers, and these flie bitten tapestrie, let it be x. P if thou canst: come, and twere not for thy humors, theres not a better wench in England, goe wash thy face and draw the action,	¥160 me,come, I know thou wast fet on to this. Host. Pray thee fir Iohn let it be but twentie nobles, if aith	164
I am loath to pawne my plate so God saue me law. Falst. Let it alone, ile make other shift, youle be a foole stil.	168
Host. Well, you shall have it, though I pawne my gowne, I hope youle come to supper, youle pay me al together. Falst. Will live? goe with her, with her, hooke on, hooke	172 on. exit hostesse and serge int. Host. Will you have Doll Tere-sheet meete you at supper. Falst. No more words, lets have her. Lord. I have heard better newes.	140
Fall. Whats the newes my lord? Lord Where lay the King to night? C 3 Mef.	180
	t

 Π i

I he second part of † 184 Meff. At Billingsgate my Lord.

Falst. Thope my Lord al's wel, what is the newes my lord?

Lord Come all his forces backe?

Mess. No, fifteen hundred foot, fiue hundred horse

Are marcht up to my lord of Lancaster,

Against Northumberland, and the Archbishop.

Falst. Comes the King back from Wales, my noble lord?

Lord You shall have letters of me presently.

Come,go along with me,good master Gower.

Falst, My lord.

Lord Whats the matter?

Fallaffe Maister Gower, shall I intreate you with meeto dinner?

Gower I must waite vpon my good lord here, I thank you good sir Iohn.

Lord Sir Iohn, you loyter heere too long,

Being you are to take souldiers vp

In Counties as you go.

Falstaffe Will you suppe with mee maister Gower?

Lord What foolish maister taught you these manners, sir John?

Falstaffe Maister Gower, if they become me not, hee was a foole that taught them mee: this is the right fencing grace, my Lord, tap for tap, and so part faire.

Lord Now the Lord lighten thee, thou art a great foole.

Enter the Prince, Poynes, fir Iohn Russel, with other.

Prince Before God, I am exceeding weary.

Poynes Ist come to that? I had thought wearines durst not have attacht one of so hie bloud.

Prince Faith it does me, though it discolors the complexion of my greatnes to acknowledge it: doth it not shew vildly in me, to desire small beere?

Poynes Why a Prince should not be so loosely studied, as to remember so weake a composition.

Prince Belike then my appetite was not princely gote, for by my troth, I do now remember the poor creature small beere.

But

188

192

196

200

204

4

12

*(1)

#28

32

36

40

44

48

52

Henry the fourth.

But indeed these humble considerations make me out of loue with my greatnesse. What a disgrace is it to mee to remember thy name? or to know thy face to morow? or to take note how many paire of silke stockings thou hast with these, and those that were thy peach colourd once, or to beare the inuentoric of thy shirts, as one for superfluitie, and another for vie. But that the Tennis court keeper knows better than I, for it is a low eb of sinnen with thee when thou keepest not racket there, as thou hast not done a great while, because the rest of the low Countries have eate vp thy holland: and God knows whether those that bal out the ruines of thy sinnen shal inherite his kingdom: but the Midwives say, the children are not in the fault wherevpon the world increases, and kinreds are mightly strengthened.

Popnes How ill it followes, after you have labored so hard, you should talke so ydlely! tell me how many good yong princes woulde doe so, their fathers being so sicke, as yours at this time is.

Prince Shall I tel thee one thing Poynes?

Poynes Yes faith, and let it be an excellent good thing.

Prince It shall ferue among wittes of no higher breeding then thine.

Poynes Go to, I stand the push of your one thing that you will tell.

Prince Mary I tell thee it is not meete that I should bee sad now my father is sicke, albeit I could tell to thee, as to one it pleases me for fault of a better to call my friend, I could be sad, and sad; indeede too.

Pognes Very hardly, vpon fuch a subject.

Prince By this hand, thou thinkest me as farre in the diuels booke, as thou and Falstaffe, for obduracie and persistancie, let the end trie the man, but I tel thee, my heart bleeds inwardly that my father is so sick, and keeping such vile company as thou arte, hath in reason taken from me all ostentation of sorrowe.

Toynes The reason.

Prince.

.56

60

64

72

76

80

84

t

88

† 92

+96

100

L we jetonu partoj

Prince What wouldst thou thinke of meif I should weep?

Pognes I would thinke thee a most princely hypocrite.

Prince It would beceuery mans thought, and thou arte a blessed felow, to thinke as every man thinkes, never a mans thought in the world, keepes the rode way better then thine, everie man would thinke me an hypocrite indeede, and what accites your most worshipfull thought to thinke so?

Poynes Why because you have been so lewd and so much engraffed to Falstaffe. Prince And to thee,

Payne By this light I am well spoke on, I can heare it with mine owne cares the worst that they can say of me is, that I am a second brother, and that I am a proper sellow of my hands, and those two things I confesse I cannot helpe: by the masse here comes Bardolfe.

Enter Bardoife and boy.

Prince. And the boy that I gaue Fallfaffe, a had him from me Christian, and looke if the fat villaine haue not transformed him Ape.

Bard. God saue your grace.

Prince And yours most noble Bardolfe.

Poynes Come you vertuous asse, you bashfull foole, must you be blushing, wherefore blush you now? what a maidenly man at armes are you become? ist such a matter to get a pottle-pots maidenhead?

Boy A calls me enow my Lord through a red lattice, and I could different no part of his face from the window, at last I spied his eies, and me thought he had made two holes in the ale wines peticote and so peept through.

Prince Hasnot the boy profited?

Bard. Away you horson vpright rabble, away.

Boy Away you rascally Altheas dreame, away.

Prince Instruct vs boy, what dreame boy?

Boy Mary my lord, Althear dreampt the was deliucted of a firebrand, and therefore I call him her dreame.

Prince A crownes worth of good interpretation there is boy.

Poincs

II.ii.

104

108

172

116

120

128

732

136

140

144

148

Henry the fourth.

Poines O that this blossome could be kept from cankers! well, there is fixpence to preferue thee.

Bard, And you do not make him hangd among you, the gal-lowes shall hauewrong.

Prince And how doth thy master Bardolfe?

Bard. Wellmy Lord, he heard of your graces comming to towne, there's a letter for you.

Poynes Deliuerd with good respect, and how doth the martlemasse vour master?

Bard. In bodily health sir.

Poynes Mary the immortall part needes a phisitian, but that moues not him, though that be ficke, it dies not.

Prince I do allow this Wen to be as familiar with me, as my dogge, and he holds his place, for looke you how he writes.

Poynes Iohn Falstaffe Knight, every man must know that as oft as he has occasion to name himselfe: even like those that are kin to the King for they never pricke their finger, but they faye, theres some of the Kings bloud spilt: how comes that (faies he)that takes vppon him not to conceive the answer is as ready as a borowed cap: I am the Kings poore colin, fir.

Prince Nay they will be kin to vs, or they will fetch it from Iaphet, but the letter, Sir Iohn Falltaffe knight, to the sonne of the king, nearest his father, Harry prince of Wales, greeting,

Poynes Why this is a certificate,

Prince Peace.

I will imitate the honourable Romanes in breuitie.

Poppes He fure meanes breuity in breath, short winded, I commend mee to thee, I commend thee, and, I leave thee, be not too familiar with Poynes, for he misuses thy fauours so much; that he sweares thou art to mary his sister Nek repent at idle times as thou mailt, and so farwel.

Thine by yea, and no, which is as much as to fay, as thou yielt him, lacke Falstaffe with my family. Iohn with my brothers and fifters, and fir John with all Europe.

Poynes My Lord, lie steep this letter in sacke and make him cate II.ii.

I he Jecond part of eate it.

Prince Thats to make him eate twenty of his words, but do you vie me, thus Ned? must I marrie your fister?

Poynes God send the wench no worse fortune, but I neuer faid fo.

Prince Wel, thus we play the fooles with the time, and the spirits of the wife sit in the clowdes and mocke vs, is your mater here in London?

Bard. Yeamy Lord.

Prince Where sups he? doth the old boare feede in the old Franke?

Bard. At the old place, my lord, in Eastcheape.

Prince VVhat companie?

Boy Ephelians, my lord, of the old church.

Prince Sup any women with him?

Boy None my lord, but old mistris Quickly, and mistris Dol Tere-sheet, Prince VVhat Pagan may that be?

Boy A proper gentlewoman fir, and a kinfwoman of my mafters.

Prince Euen such kinne as the parish Heicfors are to the towne bull, shall we steale upon them Ned at supper?

Poynes I am your shadow my Lord, ile follow you.

Prince Sirra, you boy and Bardolfe, no worde to your mafter that I am yet come to towne; theres for your filence.

Bar. I haue no tongue fir.

Boy And for mine fir, I will gouerne it.

Prince Fare you well: go, this Doll Tere-sheeteshould be Poyns 1 warrant you, as common as the way between S.Albons and London.

Prince How might we see Falstaffe bestow himself to night in his true colours, and not our selues be seene?

Poyner Put on two letherne ierkins and aprons, and waite vpon him at his table as drawers.

Prince From a god to a bul, a heavy descension, it was Ioues

156

152

160

764

168

172

176

780

184

788

192

ILii.

Henry the fourth.
case, from a pince to a prentise, a low transformation, that shall	* be mine, for in enery thing the purpose must weigh with the	196
folly, follow me Ned. exeunt.	1
Enter Northumberlandhis wife, and the wife to Harry Percie.	II.iii.
North, I pray thee louing wife and gentle daughter,	7
Giue euen way vnto my rough affaires,
Put not you on the vilage of the times,
And be like them to Percy troublesome.	4
Wife I haue giuen ouer, I will speake no more,
Do what you wil, your wifedome be your guide.
North. Alas sweete wife, my honor is at pawne,
And but my going, nothing can redeeme it.	8
Kate Oyet for Gods sake, go not to these wars,
The time was father, that you broke your word,
When you were more endeere to it then now,	₹
When your owne Percie, when my hearts decre Harry,	12
Threw many a Northward looke, to see his father
Bring vp his powers, but he did long in vaine.
Who then perswaded you to stay at home?
There were two honors lost, yours, and your sonnes,	76
For yours, the God of heaven brighten it,
For his,it stucke vpon him as the sunne In the grey vault of heauen, and by his light
Did all the Cheualry of England moue
To do braue acts, he was indeede the glasse	20
Wherein the noble youth did dreffe themselues.
North. Beshrew your heart,	≥22
Faire daughter, you do draw my spirites from me,	45
With new lamenting ancient ouerlights,
But I must go and meete with danger there,
Or it will feeke me in an other place,	48
And find me worse provided.
Wife Office to Scotland,
Till that the nobles and the armed commons,
Haue of their puissance made a little taste.
Kate If they get ground and vantage of the King,	52
D ₂ Then

II.iii

56

60

64

II.iv.

I ne jecona partoj

Then ioyne you with them like a ribbe of steele, To make strength stronger: but for al our loues, First let them trie themselues, so did your sonne, He was so suffred, so came I a widow, And neuer shall have length of life enough, To raine vpon remembrance with mine eies, That it may grow and sprout as high as heaven, For recordation to my noble husband.

North. Come, come, go in with me, tis with my mind, As with the tide, sweld vp vnto his height,
That makes a stil stand, running neither way,
Faine would I go to meete the Archbishop,
But many thousand reasons hold me backe,
I will resolue for Scotland, there am I,
Till time and vantage craue my company.

Enter a Drawer or two.

Francis What the divel hast thou brought there apple Iohns? thou knowest sir Iohn cannot indure an apple Iohn.

Dram. Mas thou failt true, the prince once fet a dish of apple Iolins before him, and tolde him there were five more sir Iohns, and putting off his hat, said, I will now take my leave of these six drie, round, old, withered Knights, it angred him to the heart, but he hath forgot that Fran. Why then couer and set them downe, and see if thou canst find out Sneakes Noise, mistris Tere-sheet would faine heare some musique.

Dra. Dispatch, the roome where they supt is too hot, theile come in straight.

Francis Sirra, here wil be the prince and master Poynes anon, and they will put on two of our terkins and aprons, and sir Iohn must not know of it, Bardolfe hath brought word.

Enter Will.

Dra. By the mas here will be oll vtis, it wil be an excellent stratagem.

Francis He see if I can find out Sneake. exit

Enter mistris Quickly, and Doll Tere-sheet.

Quickly

exeunt.

(#Pers)*

12

(*Pers)16

20

(Pers.)

	II.iv.
Henry the jourth.
Quickly Yfaith (weet heart, me thinkes now you are in an excellent good temperalitie. Your pulfidge beates as extraordinarily as heart would defire, and your colour I warrant you	24 is as red as any role, in good truth law: but yfaith you have drunke too much cannaries, and thats a maruelous fearching wine, and it perfumes the bloudere one can fay, whats this,	28
how do you now?	32
Tere, Better then I was:hem.
Qui. Why thats well said, a good heart's worth gold: loe here comes fir Iohn.
enter for John. fir John When Arthur first in court, empty the jourdan and was a worthy King: how now mistris Doll?	36
bost. Sicke of a calme, yea good faith, Falst. So is all her feet, and they be once in a calme they are	40 ficke.
Tere. A pox damne you, you muddie rascall, is that all the comfort you giue me?	14
Fallt. You make fat rascals mistris Dol.	''
Tere. I make them? gluttonie, and diseases make, I make	4 them not,
Falf. If the cooke help to make the gluttonie, you helpe to	48 make the diseases Doll, we catch of you Doll, we catch of you graunt that my poore vertue, grant that.
Doll Yearoy, our chaines and our iewels.	52
Fa. Your brooches, pearles, & ouches for to serue brauely, is to come halting off, you know to come off the breach, with his pike bent brauely, and to furgerie brauely, to venture vpon	56 the charged chambers brauely.
Doll Hang your selfe, you muddie Cunger, hang your selfe.	*
host By my troth this is the old fashion, you two neuer meet	*
but you fall to some discord, you are both ygood truth as rew	60
matique as two dry tofts, you cannot one beare with anothers	- continuities, what the goodyere one must be are, & that must be	1
you, you are the weaker vessell, as they fay, the emptier vessel,	64
D 3 Doll.
- 5 Don.

II.iv.

68

72

נט שוושן מיווטים ניטיים

Dorothy Can a weake empty vessell beare such a huge full hogshead? theres a whole marchats venture of Burdeux stuffe in him, you have not seene a hulke better stuft in the hold. Come, ile be friends with the ciacke, thou art going to the wars, and whether I shall cuer see thee againe or no there is no body cares.

Enter drawer.

Dra. Sir, Antient pistol's belowe, and would speake with you.

Dol Hang him swaggering rascal, let him not come hither it is the foule-mouthd It rogue in England.

hoft. If he swagger, let him not come here, no by my faith I must live among my neighbours, I le no swaggerers, I am in good name, and fame with the very best: shut the doore, there comes no swaggerers here, I have not lived at this while to have swaggering now, shut the doore I pray you.

Fal. Dost thou heare hostesse?

Host. Pray ye pacific your selfe fir Iohn, there comes no swaggerers here.

Fal. Dost thou heare?it is mine Ancient.

Ho. Tilly fally, fir Iohn, nere tel me: & your ancient swaggrer comes not in my doores: I was before maister Tisicke the debuty tother day, & (as he said to me) twas no longer ago than wedsday last, I good faith, neighbor Quickely, sayes he, maister Dumbe our minister was by then, neighbor Quickly (saies he) receive those that are civil, for (saide he) you are in an ill name: now a saide so, I can tell whereupon. For (saies he) you are an honest woman, and well thought on, therefore take heede what ghests you receive, receive (saies he) no swaggering companions: there comes none here: you would blesse you to heare what he said: no, sle no swaggers.

Falf. Hees no swagger hostesse, a tame cheter yfaith, you may stroke him as gently as a puppy grey-hound, heele not swagger with a Barbary hen, if her feathers turne backe in any shew of resistance, call him vp Drawer.

Hoff. Cheter call you him? I will barre no honest man my house.

76 80

> 84 88

> > #

96

704

700

108

	II.iv.
Henry the fourth.
house, nor no cheter, but I do not loue swagering by my troth, I am the worse when one saies swagger: feele maisters, how I shake, looke you, I warrant you. Teres. So you do hostesse.	112
Host. Doe I? yea in very trueth doe I, and twere an aspen leafe, I cannot abide swaggrers.	116
Enter antient Pistol, and Bardolfes boy. Pistol God faue you fit Iohn.	*
Fal. Welcome ancient Pistoll, heere Pistoll, I charge you with a cuppe of sacke, do you discharge upon mine hostesse.	190
Pist. I will discharge vpon her sir John, with two bullets. Fal. she is pistoll proofe: sir, you shall not hardely offend her.	124
Hoft. Come, Ile drink no proofes, nor no bullets, Ile drink no more than will do me good, for no mans pleasure, I. Pift. Then, to you mistris Dorothy, I will charge you.	128
Doro. Charge me? I forme you, feuruy companion: what you poore baserascally cheting lacke-linnen mate? away you mouldie rogue, away, I am meate for your maister.	132
Pift. I know you mistris Dorothy. Doro. Away you cutpurse rascall, you filthy boung, away, by this wine Ile thrust my knife in your mouldie chappes, and	136
you play the sawcie cuttle with me. Away you bottleale ras- call, you basket hilt stale juggler, you. Since when, I pray you fir: Gods light, with two points on your shoulder? much.	140
Pist. God let me not liue, but I will murther your ruffe for this.	144 fir Iahn No more Pistol, I would not have you go off here, discharge your selfe of our company, Pistoll.	* * 148
Host. No, good captaine Pistoll, not here, sweete captaine. Doro. Captain, thou abhominable damnd cheter, art thou	752 not ashamed to be called Captaine? and Captaines were of my mind, they would trunchion you out, for taking their names
vpon you, before you have earnd them: you a captaine? you flave, for what? for teareing a poore whoores ruffe in a bawdy house: hee a captaine hang him rogue, he lives vpon mowldy flewd	156

II.iv

The second part of

160 #(as the * sorted)

164

168

17.2

176

179-80

184

¥ 188

192

195-6

230

frewd pmins, and dried cakes: a captaine? Gods light these villaines wil make the word as odious as the word occupy, which was an excellent good worde before it was il sorted, therefore captains had neede look too't.

Bard. Pray thee go downe good Ancient. Falst. Hearke thee hither mistris Dol.

Pist. Not I, Itell thee what corporall Bardolfe, I could teare her, lle bereuengde of her.

Boy Pray thee go downe.

Pist. Ilesee her damnd first, to Plutoes damnd lake by this had to thinfernal deep, with erebus & tortures vile also: holde hooke and line, say I:downe, downe dogges, downe faters have we not Hiren here?

Host. Good captaine Peesell be quiet, tis very late yfaith, I beseeke you now aggrauate your choller.

Piff These be good humors indeede, shal pack-horses, and hollow pamperd lades of Asia which cannot goe but thirtie mile a day, compare with Cæsars and with Canibals, and troiant Greekes? nay rather damne them with King Cerberus, and let the Welkin roare, shall we fall foule for toies?

Host. By my troth captane, these are very bitter words.

Bard. Be gone good Ancient, this will grow to a brawle Psf. Men like dogges give crownes like pins, have we not Hiren here?

Halt. A my word Captaine, theres none fuch here, what the goodyeare do you thinke I would denie her? for Gods fake be quiet.

Pist. Then feed and be fat, my faire Calipolis, come gives fome facke, si fortune me tormente sperato me contento, feare we brode sides? no, let the siend give fire, give me some sacke, and sweet hartlie thou there, come we to sul points here? and are & cæteraes, no things?

Falt. Pistol, I would be quiet.

Pift. Sweet Knight, I kiffe thy neaffe, what we have feene the feuen starres.

Dol.

II.iv.

248

252

256

260

264

268

272

276

280

284

The second part of

Boy The mulique is come sir. enter musicke.
Fal. Let them play, play sirs, sit on my knee Doll, a rascall bragging slauestherogue fled from me like quickfiluer.

Dot Yfaith and thou followdst him like a church, thou horson little tydee Bartholemew borepigge, when wilt thou leaue fighting a daies and foyning a nights, and begin to patch vp thine old body for heauen.

Enter Prince and Poynes.

Fal Peace good Doll, do not speake like a deathes head, do not bid me remember mine end.

Dol Sirr a, what humour's the prince of?

Fal. A good shallow yong fellow, a would have made a a good pantler, a would a chipt bread wel.

Dol They say Poines has a goodwit.

Fal. He a good wit? hang him baboon, his wit's as thicke as Tewksbury mustard, theres no more conceit in him then is in a mallet.

Dol Why does the prince loue him fo then?

Fal. Because their legges are both of a bignesse, and a plaies at quoites well, and eates cunger and sennel, and drinkes off candles endes for slappe-dragons, and rides the wilde mare with the boyes, and impes vpon ioynd-stooles, and sweares with a good grace, and weares his bootes very smoothelike vnto the signe of the Legge, and breedes no bate with telling of discreet stories, and such other gambole faculties a has that show a weake minde, and an able bodie for the which the prince admits him: for the prince himself is such another, the weight of a haire will turne scales between their haber de poiz.

Prince Would not this naue of a wheele haue his eares cut

Pognes Lets beate him before his whore

Prince Looke where the witherd elder hath not his poule clawd like a parrot.

Poynes Is it not strange that desire should so many yeeres out live performance.

Falft. Kisse me Doll,

Prince

 Π .iv.

336

340

344

348+

352

356

360

364

368 a no jouvona partoj

Host. Gods bleffing of your good heart, and so she is by my troth.

Falst. Didst thou heare me?

Prince Yea and you knew me as you did, when you ranne away by Gadshil, you knew I was at your backe, and spoke it, on purpose to trie my patience.

Falst. No, no, not so, I did not thinke thou wast within hearing.

Prince I shall drive you then to confesse the wilfull abuse, and then I know how to handle you.

Falst. No abuse Hall a mine honour, no abuse.

Prince Not to dispraise me, and cal me pantler and breadchipper, and I know not what?

Fal. No abuse Hall.

Poynes No abuse?

Falst No abuse Ned i'th worlde, honest Ned, none, I dispraisde him before the wicked, that the wicked might not fall in loue with thee: in which doing, I have done the part of a carefull friend and a true subject, and thy father is to give me thankes for it, no abuse Hall, none Ned, none, no faith boyes none.

Prince Seenow whether pure feare and intire cowardize, doth not make thee wrong this virtuous gentlewoman to close with vs: is she of the wicked, is thine hostesse here of the wicked, or is thy boy of the wicked, or honest Bardolfe whose zeal burnes in his nose of the wicked?

Popries Answer thou dead elme, answer.

Falft. The fiend hath prickt down Bardolfe irrecouerable, and his face is Lucifers priuy kitchin, where he doth nothing but rost mault-worms, for the boy there is a good angel about him, but the diuel blinds him too.

Prince For the weomen.

Falft. For one of them shees in hell already, and burnes poore soules: for th'other I owe her mony, and whether she be dam nd for that I know not.

Hoft

II.iv. Henry the fourth. Hoft. No I warrant you. Falf. No I thinke thou art not, I thinke thou art quit for that, mary there is another inditement upon thee. for fuffering 372 house flesh to be eaten in thy house, contrary to the law for the which (no comma) I thinke thou wilt howle. Hoft. Al vitlars do fo, whats a joynt of mutton or two in a 370 twoo whole Lent? Prince You gentlewoman. Dol. What faies your grace? Fal. His grace faies that which his flesh rebels against. 380 Peyto knockes at doore. Holt. Who knockes so lowd at doore? looke too'th doore there Francis. Prince Peyto, how now, what newes? Peyto The King your father is at Weminster, 384 And there are twenty weake and wearied postes, Come from the North, and as I came along I met and ouertooke a dozen captaines, Bareheaded, sweating, knocking at the Tauernes, 388 And asking every one for fir John Falstaffe. Prince By heaven Poines, I feele me much too blame, So idely to prophane the precious time. When tempest of commotion like the fouth, south. 392 Borne with blacke vapour, doth begin to melt. And drop vpon our bare vnarmed heads, Giue me my sword and cloke: Falstaffe, good night. Falstaffe (no comma) Exeunt Prince and Poynes. exeunt Fal Now comes in the sweetest morfell of the night, & we 396 must hence and leaue it vnpickt: more knocking at the doore? doore. how now, whats the matter? E 3 Bar.

II.iv.

404

408

412

416

420+

Ш.1+

*+

j

4

8

12

1 ne jecona part of

Bar. You must away to court fir presently, A dozen captaines stay at doore for you.

Fal. Pay the multians sirra, farewel hostesse, farewel Dol, you see (my good wenches) how men of merit are sought after, the vndeseruer may sleepe, when the man of action is calld on, farewell good wenches, if I bee not sent away poste, I will see you again eere I goe.

Dol. I cannot speake: if my heart be not ready to burst: wel sweete Iacke haue a care of thy selfe.

Fal. Farewell farewell.

Hoft. Well, fare thee well, I have knowne thee these twenty mine yeares, come peafe-cod time, but an honester, and truer hearted man: wel fare thee wel.

Bard, Mistris Tere-sheete.

Hoft. Whats the matter?

Bard. Bid mistris Tere-sheete come to my master. Host. O runne Doll, runne, runne good Doll, come, she comes blubberd, yea! will you come Doll?

exeunt.

Enter the King in his night-gowne

King Go call the Earlesof Surrey and of War. But ere they come, bid them o're-reade these letters, And well consider of them, make good speed. How many thousand of my poorest subjects, Are at this howre assessed fleepes of sentle sleeps. Natures soft nurse, how haue I frighted thee, That thou no more wilt weigh my eye-liddes downe, And steep my sences in forgetfulnesse, Why rather sleepe liest thou in smoaky cribbes, Vpon vneasse pallets stretching thee, And husht with buzzing night-slies to thy slumber, Then in the persumde chambers of the great,

 \mathbf{V} nder musitions (no bracket merrite

cald

Doll speak

exit
Wel, fare t wel, twen yeeres, maister shee yea?

Henry the fourth.

Vinder the canopies of costly state, And fulld with found of sweetest melody? O thou dull god, why lifte thou with the vile In lothfome beds, and leauest the kingly couch, 16 A watch-case, or a common larum bell! Wilt thou vpon the high and giddy maffe, Seale up the ship-boies eies, and rocke his braines, In cradle of the rude imperious furge, 20 And in the visitation of the winds, Who take the ruffian oillowes by the top, Curling their monstrous heads, and hanging them VVith deaffing clamour in the flippery clouds. 24 That with the hurly death it felfe awakes? Canst thou, ô partiall sleepe, give them repose, To the wet feafon in an howre fo rude, And in the calmest, and most stillest night, 28 V Vith al appliances and meanes to boote, Denyit to a King? then (happy) low lie downe, Vneafie lies the head that weares a crowne.

Enter Warwike Surry, and fir John Rlunt.

War. Many good morrowes to your maiestie. 32 King Is it good morrow lords? War. Tis one a clocke, and past. King VVhy then good morrow to you all my lords. Haue you read ore the letter that I fent you? 36 War. VVe haue my liege. King Then you perceive the body of our kingdome. How foule it is, what rancke diseases grow, And with what danger neare the heart of it. 40 War. It is but as a body yet diftempered, VV hich to his former strength may be restored, VVith good aduife and little medicine, My

Ш.i.

44

48

 5^2

×(£)

60

64

68

72

76

- we second pure of

My Lord Northumberland wil soone be coold. King O God that one might reade the booke of fate, And see the revolution of the times, Make mountaines levell, and the continent Weary of solide firmenesse melt it selse Into the fea, and other times to fee. The beachie girdle of the ocean, Too wide for Neptunes hips, how chances mockes. And changes fill the cup of alteration, With divers liquors! O if this were scene, The happiest youth viewing his progresse through, What perills past, what croiles to ensue? Would shut the booke and fit him downe and die: Tis not ten yeeres gone, Since Richard and Northumberland great friends, Did feast togither, and in two yeare after, Were they at warres: it is but eight yeares fince. This Percie was the man neerest my soule, Who like a brother toyld in my affaires: And laied his loue and life under my foote. Yea for my lake, euen to the eyes of Richard, Gaue him defyance: but which of you was by? You cousen Neuel,(as I may remember) When Richard with his eye-brimme full of teares, Then checkt and rated by Northumberland, Did speake these worder now proon'd a prophecies Northumberland, thou ladder by the which My coufen Bolingbrooke ascends my throne, (Though then (God knowes) I had no fuch intent, But that necessitie so bowed the state, That I and greatneffe were compeld to kille.) The time shall come, thus did he follow it, The time wil come, that foule fin gathering head, Shall breake into corruption: fo wenton, Fortelling this fame times condition.

And

		Ш.і.
Henry the fourth.
And the deuision of our amitie. War. There is a historie in all mens lives, Figuring the natures or the times deceast:		80
The which obseru'd, a man may prophecie, With a neere ayme of the maine chance of things, As yet not come to life, who in their seedes, And weake beginning lie intreasured:		84 ┿
Such thinges become the hatch and broode of time And by the necessary forme or this, King Richard might create a perfect guesse, That great Northumberland then false to him,	,	98
Would of that seede growe to a greater falsenesse, Which should not find a ground to roote vpon Vnlesse on you. King. Are these thinges then necessities, Then let vs meet them like necessities,		92
And that fame word even now cries out on vs: They fay the Pishop and Northumberland, Are fiftie thousand strong. War. It cannot be my Lord, Rumour doth double like the voice, and eccho		96
The numbers of the feared, please it your grace, To go to bedde: vpon my soule, my Lord, The Powers that you alreadie hauesent foorth, Shall bring this prise in very easily: To comfort you the more, I haue received,		100
A certain instance that Glendour is dead: Your Maiestie hath beene this fortnight ill, And these vnseasoned howers perforce must adde Vnto your sicknesse.		10 ₇
King. I will take your counfaile, And were these inward warres once out of hand, We would (deare Lords) vnto the holy land. Enter Iustice Shallow and Instice Silence.	exeunt	108
E ₅ .	Shal.	†III.ii.

Ш.й.

1

4

8

12

16 20 24

28

32

36

40

Shallow Come on, come on, come on fir, giue me your hand fir, giue me your hand fir, an early stirrer, by the Rooder and how dooth my good cosin Silens?

Silence Good morrow good cofin Shallow.

Shallow And how dooth my coofin your bed-fellowe? and your fayrest daughter and mine, my god-daughter Ellen?

Silens Alas, a blacke woofel, cofin Shallow.

Shallow By yea, and no fir: I dare faye my coofin Wilham is become a good scholler, he is at Oxford full, is hee not?

Silens Indeede fir to my cost.

Shallow A must then to the Innes a court shortly: I was once of Clements Inne, where I thinke they will talke of mad Shallow yet.

Silens You were cald Lusty Shallow then, cofin.

Shailew By the massed I was cald any thing, and I would have done any thing indeed too, and roundly too: there was I, and little John Doyt of Stafford-shire, and Blacke George Barnes, and Francis Picke-bone, and Will Squele a Cottole man, you had not foure such swinge bucklers in all the Innes a court againe: and I may say to you, we knew where the bona robes were, and had she best of them all at commaundement: then was Iacke Falstaffe (now sir John) a boy, and Page to Thomas Mowbray duke of Norffolke.

Silens Coolin, this fir Iohn that comes hither anone about fouldiers?

Shall. The same (fir Iohn) the very same, I see him breake Skoggins head at the Court gate, when a was a Cracke, not thus high: and the very same day did I sight with one Samson Stockessish a Fruiterer behinde Greyes Inne: Iesu, Iesu, the mad dayes that I haue spent! and to see how many of my olde acquaintance are dead.

Silens We shall all follow, coofin-Shal. Certaine, tis certaine, very sure, very sure, death (as the Psalmist coosin Silence?

Sha.-sir

Si. coosine

Sha. doth bedfellow?

fairest

Si. coosin Sha. no, sir

stil, is he

Si. Sha.

wil Si. calld

coosin

Sha. calld

indeede

Staffordshire,

blacke

Pickebooe, all againe, wee knewe

sir John, page

Si. This sir
John, coesio,

Sha. The same sir John,

Si.

Sha.

Si. Sha.

Si. Sha.

> Dead? carried ewes Si. may bee ten

Sha.

Here two

Bardolfe (no stop) iustice Sha: Robart Shallowe, sir, esquier justices peace your good pleasure Bard: Captain

Sha: greetes

then

Shal. said said indeed Ш.й.

,[ */

it, good phrases, are surely, and euer were, very commendable, accommodated: it comes of accommodo, very good, a good phrase.

Bardolfe Pardon me sir, I have heard the worde, phrase call you it? by this good day, I knowe not the phrase, but I will mayntayne the worde with my sworde, to be a souldiour-like word, and a worde of exceeding good command, by heaven: accommodated, that is, when a man is, as they say, accommodated, or when a man is, beeing whereby, a may be thought to be accommodated, which is an excellent thing.

Enter sir Iohn Falstaffe.

Iust. It is very iust: looke, here comes good sir John, giue me your good hand, giue mee your worshippes good hand, by my troth you like well, and beare your yeeres very well, welcome good sir John.

Fal. I am glad to see you well, good maister Robert Shallow, mailter Soccard(as I thinke.)

Shal. No fir Iohn, it is my coofin Silens, in commission with Falst. Good maister Silens, it well besits you should be of the Peace.

Silens Your good worship is welcome.

Falst. Fie, this is hot weather (gentlemen) haue you prouided me heere halfe a dozen sufficient men?

Shal. Mary have we fir, will you fit?

Falst. Let me see them I beseech you.

Shall. Wheres the rowle? wheres the rowle? wheres the rowle? let me see, let me see, so so so, so so so yea mary sir, Rafe Mouldy, let them appeare as I call, let them do so, let the do so, let me see, where is Mouldy?

Mouldy Here and it please you.

Sha. What think you fir Iohn, a good limbd fellow, yong, firong, accommodated.

Bar.—me word, Phrase
by this daye I maintaine word (no comma) souldier-like and a word command by heaven that is man is fine comma is being

Enter Falstaf

just, look, me your worshippes

Falst. master

cosen Scilens in Falst, master Scilens.

peace.

Scil. Fal. Fie no comma) gentlemen, bere

Shal. roule (ter)

let me see*(3ce)* appeare cal do, them do,

Here and't Shal limbde, felow,

80

84

88

92

96

100

104

108

Ш.й.

fienty the jourth.

firong, and of good friends.

Fal. Is thy name Mouldie?

Moul. Yea, and't please you.

Fal. Tis the more time they

Fal. Tis the more time thou wert vide.

Shal, Ha,ha,ha,most excellent yfaith,things that are mouldy lacke vse:very singular good,infaith well said fir Iohn, very well said.

Iohn prickes him.

Moui. I was prickt wel enough before, and you could have let me alone, my old dame will be vndone now for one to doe her husbandrie, and her drudgery, you need not to have prickt me, there are other men fitter to go out then I.

Fal. Go to, peace Mouldy, you shall go, Mouldy it is time you were spent.

Moul, Spent?

Shal. Peacefellow, peace, stand aside, know you where you are: for th' other sir Iohn: let me see Simon Shadow.

Fal. Yea mary, let me have him to fit vnder, hees like to be a cold foldiour.

Shal. Wheres Shadow?

Shad. Here sir,

Fal. Shadow, whose some art thou?

Shad. My mothers sonne sir.

Fal. Thy mothers sonnes like enough, and thy fathers shadow, so the sonne of the female is the shadow of the male: it is often so indeede, but much of the fathers substance.

Shal. Do you like him sir Iohn?

Fal. Shadow wil serue for summer, pricke him, for we have a number of shadowes, fill vp the muster booke.

Shal. Thomas Wart,

Fal. Whereshe?

Wart Heresir.

Fal. Is thy name Wart?

Wart Yea sir.

Fal. Thou are a very ragged wart. Shall I pricke him fir Iohn?

Fal. It were superfluous for apparell is built vpon his back,

and 116

120

124

126

132

130

140

144

148

152

+

160

164

168

172

176

180

184

188

192

196

200 and the whole frame stands vpon pins, pricke him no more. Shat. Ha,ha,ha,you can do it sir,you can do it, I commend you well: Francis Feeble.

Feeble Here sir.

Shal. What trade art thou Feeble?

Feeble A womans tailer fir. Shal. Shall I pricke him fir?

Fal. You may, but if he had bin a mans tailer hee'd a prickt you: wilt thou make as manie holes in an enemies battaile, as thou hast done in a womans peucoate.

Feeble I will do my good will fir, you can haue no more.

Fal. Well faide good womans tailer, well faide couragious Feeble, thou wilt be as valiant as the wrathfull doue, or most magnanimous mouse pricke the womans tailer: wel M.Shalmlow, deepe M. Shallow.

Feeble I would Wart might have gone fir.

Fal. I would thou wert a mans tailer, that thou mightst mend him and make him fit to goe, I cannot put him to a private souldier that is the leader of so many thousands, let that suffice most forcible Feeble.

Feeble It shall suffice sir.

Fal. I am hound to thee reuerend Feeble, who is next? Shal. Peter Bul-calfe o'th greene.

Fal. Yeamary, lets see Bul-calfe.

Bul. Here sir. (roareagaine. Eal. Fore God a likely fellow, come pricke Bul-calfe til hee Bul. O Lord, good my lord captaine.

Falst. What, dost thou roare before thou art prickt?

Bul. O Lord fir, I am a diseased man.

Fal. What disease hast thou?

Bul. A horson cold sir, a cough sir, which I cought with ringing in the Kings affaires upon his coronation day sir.

Fal. Come thou shalt goe to the warres in a gowne, we will have away thy cold, and I wil take such order that thy friendes shalring for thee. Is here all?

Shal. Here is two more cald then your number, you must have Ш.й.

Ш.й.

248

252

36

260

264

268

272

276

280

- ווט נוטן שנוטיים בייריים

her when I am gone, and she is old and cannot helpe her selfe, you shall haue forty sir.

Bar. Go to, stand aside.

Feeble By my troth I care not, a man can die but once, we owe God a death, ile nere beare a basemind, and't bee my destroy: so, and't be not, so, no man's too good to serue's prince, and let it go which way it will, he that dies this yeere is quit for the next.

Bar Well faid, th'art a good fellow. Feeble Faith ile beare no base mind.

Enter Faistaffe and the Iustices.

Fal. Come fir, which men shall I have?

Shal. Foure of which you pleafe.

Bar Sir, a word with you, I have three pound to free Mouldy and Bulcalfe.

Fal. Go to, well.

Shal. Come sir Iohn, which foure wil you haue?

Fal. Do you chuse for me.

Shal. Mary then, Mouldy, Bulcalfe, Feeble, and Sadow.

Fal. Mouldy and Bulcalfe, for you Mouldy stay at home, til you are past service: and for your part Bulcalfe, grow til you come vnto it, I will none of you.

Shal. Sir Iohn, fir Iohn, doe not your felfe wrong, they are your likelieft men, and I would have you ferude with the best.

Fal. Wil you tel me (master Shallow) how to chuse a man? care I for the limbe, the thewes, the stature, bulke and big assemblance of a man: give methe spirit M. Shalow: heres Wart, you see what a ragged apparance it is, a shall charge you, and discharge you with the motion of a pewterers hammer, come off and on swifter then he that gibbets on the brewers bucket: and this same halfe sacde fellow Shadow, give me this man, he presents no marketo the enemy, the so-man may with as great aime level at the edge of a pen-knife, and for a retraite how swiftly wil this Feeble the womans Tailer runne off? O give mee the spare men, and spare me the great ones, putte mee a

288

Ш.п. Henry the fourth. caliner into Warts hand Bardolfe. Bar. Hold Wart, trauers thas thas thas. Fal. Come mannage me your caliuer: fo, very wel, go to, very 292 good, exceeding good, O giueme alwaies a little leane, olde chopt Ballde, shot: well faid yfaith Wart, th'art a good scab 296 hold theres a telter for thee. Shal. He is not his crafts-master, he doth not do it right; I remember at Mile-end-greene, when I lay at Clements Inne, I was then fir Dagonet in Arthurs show, there was a little 300 quiuer fellow, and a would mannage you his peece thus, and a would about and about, and come you in, and come you in, rah,tah,tah, would a fay, bounce would a fay, and away again 304 would a go, and againe would a come: I shall nere see such a fellow. Fal. Thefe fellowes wooll doe well M. Shallow, God keep 308 you M.Scilens, I will not vie many words with you, fare you wel gentlemen both, Ithank you, I must a dosen mile to night: Bardolfe, give the fouldiers coates. Shal. Sir Iohn, the Lord bleffe you God prosper your af-312 faires, God send vs peace at your returne, visit our house, let our old acquaintance be renewed, peraduenture I will with ye to the court. 316 Fal. Fore God would you would. Shal, Go to, I haue spoke at a word, God keep you 320 Fal. Fare you well gentle gentlemen. exit Shal, On Bardolfe, leade the men away, as I returne I will 324 fetch off these justices. I do see the bottome of justice Shallow. Lord, Lord, how fubiect we old men are to this vice of lying, this fame staru'd iustice hath done nothing but prate to me, of the wildnesse of his youth, and the feates he hath done a-328 bout Turne-bull street, and euery third word a lie, dewer paid to the hearer then the Turkes tribute, I doe remember him at Clements Inne, like a man made after supper of a cheese pa-332 ring, when a was naked, he was for all the worlde like a forkt reddish, with a head fantastically carned upon it with a knife, a was fo forlorne, that his demensions to any thicke fight were 336

inuin-

Ш.й.

I he second part of inuincible, a was the very gemies of famine, yet lecherous as a monkie, & the whores cald him mandrake, a came ouer in the rereward of the fashion, and sung those tunes to the ouerschutcht huswiues, that he heard the Car-men whistle, and Iware they were his fancies or his good-nights, and nowe is this vices dagger become a squire, and talkes as familiarly of Iohn a Gaunt, as if he had bin sworne brother to him, and ile be fworn anere faw him but once in the tylt-yard, and then he burst his head for crowding among the Marshalles men, I faw it, and told Iohn a Gaunt he beate his owne name, for you might have thrust him and all his aparell into an cele-shin, the case of a treble hoboy was a mansion for him a Court, and now has he land and beefes. Well, ile he acquainted with him if I returne, and t'shal go hard, but ile make him a philosophers two stones to me, if the yong Dase be a baite for the old Pike, I fee no reason in the law of nature but I may snap at him: let Time shape, and there an end.

Enter the Archbishop, Mowbray, Bardolfe, Hastings, within the forrest of Gaustree.

Bish. What is this forrest calld?

Hast. Tis Gaultree forrest, and't shalplease your grace.

Bishop Here stand, my lords, and send discouerers forth,

To know the numbers of our enemies:

Hastings We have sent forth already.

Bishop Tis well done,

My friends and brethren (in these great affaires)
I must acquaint you that I hauereceiu'd
New dated letters from Northumberland,
Their cold intent, tenure, and substance thus:
Here doth he wish his person, with such powers,
As might hold fortance with his quallitie,
The which he would not leuy: whereupon
He is retirde to ripe his growing fortunes,
To Scotland and concludes in hearty prayers,
That your attempts may ouer-liue the hazard
And searcfull meeting of their opposite.

Mowb.

340*11

*/]/

348

352

356

IV.i.

4

40

44

48

rienty the jourth.

Momb. Thus do the hopes we have in him touch ground, Enter mellenger And dash themselves to pecces. Hastings Now, what newes? Messenger Welt of this forrest, scarcely off a mile, In goodly forme comes on the enemy, And by the ground they hide, I judge their number Vpon, or neere the rate of thirty thousand. Mombray Theiust proportion that we gaue them out, Let vs fway on, and face them in the field. Bishop What wel appointed Leader fronts vs heere? Enter Westmerland Mombray I thinke it is my lord of Westmerland. West. Health and faire greeting from our Generall, The prince lord Iohn and duke of Lancaster. Bulbop Say on my lord of V Vestmerland in peace, VV hat doth concerne your comming? West. Vnto your Grace doe I in chiefe addresse The substance of my speech: if that rebellion Camelike it selfe, in base and abiect rowtes, Led on by bloody youth, guarded with rage, And counteenaunst by boyes and beggary. I fay, if damnd commotion fo appeare, In his true, native, and most proper shape, You, reverend father, and these noble Lordes. Had not beene heere to drefle the owgly forme Of bale and bloody Infurrection With your fire Honours. You (lord Archbishop) Whose Sea is by a civile peace maintainde, Whose beard the silver hand of Peace hath toucht, Whose learning and good letters Peace hath tutord; Whose white inuestments figures innocence, The Doue, and very bleffed spirite of peace. Wherefore do you so ill translate your selfe Out of the speech of peace that beares such grace, Into the harsh and boystrous tongue of warre? Turning your bookes to graves, your incke to bloud,

Your

IV.i.

52

84

88

92

96

100

103

144

* " Judviin par voj

Your pennes to launces, and your tongue diuine, To a lowd trumpet, and a point of warre?

Bish. Wherefore do I this? so the question stands:
Briefly, to this end we are all diseascle:
The dangers of the daie's but newly gone,
V hose memorie is written on the earth,
V Vith yet appearing blood, and the examples
Of euery minutes instance (present now.)
Hath put vs in these ill-beseeming armes,
Not to breake peace or any braunch of it,
But to establish heere a peace indeede,

Concurring both in name and quallitie.

West. VVhen eneryet was your appeale denied

VVherein hane you beene galled by the King?

What peere hath beene subornde to grate on you? That you should seale this lawlesse bloody booke Offorgde rebellion with a seale diuine,

And confecrate commotions bitter edge.

Bishop My brother Generall, the common wealth To brother borne an houshold cruelty.

I make my quarrell in particular.

West. There is no neede of any such redresse.

Or if there were, it not belongs to you.

Mombray why not to him in part, and to vs all

That feels the bruifes of the doing have and

That feele the bruises of the daies before?
And suffer the condition of these times.
To lay a heavy and vnequall hand

 ${f V}$ pon our honors.

West. But this is meere digression from my purpose Here come I from our princely generall, To know your grieses, to tell you from his Grace, That he will give you audience, and wherein It shall appeare that your demaunds are just, You shall enjoy them, every thing set off That might so much as thinke you enemies.

Monbray But he hath forced vs to compel this offer,

And

	IV.i.
Henry the fourth.
And it proceedes from policie, not loue.
West. Mowbray, you ouerweene to take it so:	148
This offer comes from mercy, not from feare:
For loe, within a ken our army lies:
Vpon mine honour, all too confident	152
To give admittance to a thought of feare:	13
Our battell is more full of names than yours,
Our men more perfect in the vie of armes,
Our armour all as strong, our cause the best:	156
Then Reason will our hearts should be as good:
Say you not then, our offer is compelld.
Mon. Well, by my will, we shall admit no parlee.
West. That argues but the shame of your offence,	160
A rotten case abides no handling.
Hastings Hath the prince Iohn a full commission,
In very ample vertue of his father,
To heare, and absolutely to determine	164
Of what conditions we shall stand vpon?
West. That is intended in the Generalles name,
I muse you make so slight a question.
Bishop Then take, my lord of Westmerland, this scedule,	168
For this containes our generall grieuances,	1
Each seuerall article herein redrest.
All members of our cause both here and hence,
That are ensinewed to this action,	172
Acquitted by a true substantial forme,	'
And present execution of our willes,
To vs and our purpoles confinde,
We come within our awefull bancks againe,	176
And knit our powers to the arme of peace.	'
West. This will I shew the Generall, please you Lords,
In fight of both our battells we may meete,
At either end in peace, which God so frame,	180 +
Or to the place of diffrence call the swords,	T
Which must decide it. Exit Westmerland	,
Bishop My lord, we will doe so.
G More.

IV.i.

184

YRR

192

196

200

204

208

212

216

ןט זו ווון מונטטטן ביי ב

Mon There is a thing within my bosome tells me That no conditions of our peace can stand. Hastings Feare you not, that if we can make our peace, Voon fuch large termes, and so absolute, As our conditions shall confist upon, Our peace shall stand as firme as rockie mountaines. Moub. Yea but our valuation shall be such. That every flight, and false derived cause, Y ea cuery idle, nice, and wanton reason, Shall to the King taste of this action, That were our royal faiths martires in loue, We shall be winow'd with fo rough a wind, That even our corne shal seeme as light as chaffe, And good from bad find no partition. Bish. No, no, my lord, note this, the King is weary Of daintie and fuch picking greeuances, For he hath found, to end one doubt by death, Reulues two greater in the heires of life: And therefore will he wipe his tables cleane, And keepe no tel-tale to his memorie, That may repeate, and history his losse, To new remembrance: for full wel he knowes. He cannot so precisely weed this land, As his mildoubts prefent occasion, His foes are so enrooted with his friends, That plucking to vnfix an enemy, He doth unfasten so, and shake a friend, So that this land, like an offenfiue wife, That hath enragde him on to offer strokes, As he is striking, holdes his infant vp, And hangs refolu'd correction in the arme, That was vpreard to execution. Hast. Besides, the King hath wasted al his rods, On late offendors, that he now doth lacke The very instruments of chasticement.

So that his power, like to a phangleffe lion.

May

16

20

Henry the fourth.

May offer, but not hold. Bishop Tis very true, And therefore be assured, my good Lord Marshall, 220 If we do now make our attonement well, Our peace wil like a broken limbe vnited. Grow stronger for the breaking. Mow. Be it so, here is returned my lord of Westmerland. 223-4 Enter Westmerland, West. The prince is here at hand, pleaseth your Lordship To meet his grace just distance tweene our armies. Enter Prince Iohn and his armie. Mow. Your grace of York, in Gods name then let forward. Bishop. Before, and greete his grace (my lord) we come. Iohn You are well incountred here, my cousen Mowbray, Good day to you, gentle Lord Archbishop, And so to you Lord Hastings, and to all. My Lord of Yorke, it better shewed with you, When that your flocke affembled by the bell, Encircled you, to heare with reuerence, Your exposition on the holy text, That now to fee you here, an yron man talking, Cheering a rowt of rebells with your drumme, Turning the word to fword, and life to death: That man that fits within a monarches heart, And ripens in the fun-thine of his fauor, Would he abuse the countenance of the King: Alacke what mischeefes might he set abroach, In shadow of such greatnesse? with you Lord bishop It is even so, who hath not heard it spoken, How deepe you were within the bookes of God, To vs the speaker in his parliament, To vsth'imagine voice of God himfelfe, The very opener and intelligencer, Betweenethe grace, the fanctities of heauen, And our dull workings? O who shal beleeue, But you misuse the reverence of your place, Imply

IV.ii.

24+

28

32

36

40

11

48

52

56

+ we jecoma partof

Imply the countenance and grace of heau'n,
As a falle fauorite doth his princes name:
In deedes dishonorable you have tane vp,
Vnder the counterfeited zeale of God,
The subjects of his substitute my father,
And both against the peace of heaven and him,
Have here vpswarmd them.

Bishop Good my Lord of Lancaster,
I am not here against your fathers peace,
But as I told my lord of Westmerland,
The time misordred doth in common sense,
Crowd vs and crush vs to this monstrous forme,
To hold our safety vp: I sent your grace,
The parcells and particulars of our griefe,
The which hath beene with scorne should from the court,
Whereon this Hidra, sonne of warre is borne,
Whose dangerous eies may well be charmed assepe,
With graunt of our most just, and right desires,
And true obedience of this madnes cured,
Stoope tamely to the soote of maiestie.

Mon. If not, we ready are to trie our fortunes, To the last man.

Hast. And though we here fal downe, We have supplies to second our attempt, If they miscarry, theirs shal second them, And so successed in mischiefe shall be borne, And heire from heire shall hold his quarrell vp, Whiles England shall have generation.

Prince You are too shallow Hastings, much too shallow, To sound the bottome of the after times.

West. Pleaseth your grace to answere them directly,

How far forth you do like their articles.

Prince I like them all, and do allow them well,

And sweare here by the honour of my bloud, My fathers purposes have beene mistooke, And some about him have too lavishly,

Wrested

Addition of will Wrested his meaning and authority. My Lord, these griefes shall be with speed redrest, Vppon my foule they shal, if this may please you, 60 Discharge your powers vnto their seuerall counties, As we will ours, and here betweene the armies, Lets drinke together friendly and embrace, That all their eies may beare those tokens home, 64 Of our restored loue and amitie. Bishop I take your princely word for these redresses, I giue it you, and will maintaine my word, And therevpon I drinke vnto your grace. Prince Go Captaine, and deliuer to the armie This newes of peace, let them have pay, and part. I know it will well please them, hie thee captaine. Bishop To you my noble lord of Westmerland. West. I pledge your grace, and if you knew what paines, I have bestowed to breed this present peace, You would drinke freely, but my loue to ye Shall shew it selfe more openly hereafter. 76 Bishop I do not doubt you. West. I am glad of it, Health to my Lord, and gentle cosin Mowbray. Mow. You wish me health in very happy season, For I am on the fodaine fomething ill. 80 Bishop Against ill chaunces men are euer mery, But heavinesse fore-runnes the good event. west. Therefore be mery coze, since sodaine forrow Serues to fay thus, some good thing comes to morow. 84 Bishop Beleeue me I am passing light in spirit. Mom. So much the worke if your owne rule be true. Shout. Prin, The word of peace is rendred, heark how they showt. Mow. This had bin cheerefull after victory. 88 Bishop A peace is of the nature of a conquest, For then both parties nobly are fubdued, And neither party looser.

G 3

And

Prince Gomy lord,

IV.ii .

7 And let our army be discharged too, 92 And, good my lord, so please you, let our traines March by vs, that we may peruse the men, VVe should have coap't withall. Bishop Go, good Lord Hastings, And ere they be dismiss, let them march by enter Westmerland. 96 Prince I trust Lords we shallie to night togither: Now coofin, wherefore stands our army stil? West. The Leaders having charge from you to stand, Wil not goe off vntil they heare you speake. enter Hastings Prince They know their dueties. Hastings My lord, our army is disperft already, Like youthfull steeres vnyoakt they take their courses, East, weast, north, south, or like a schoole broke vp, 104 Each hurries toward his home, and sporting place. West. Good tidings my lord Hastings, for the which I do arest thee traitor of high treason, And you lord Archbishop, and you lord Mowbray, 108 Of capitall treason I attach you both. Mombray Is this proceeding inst and honorable? West. Is your assembly so? Bishop will you thus breake your faith? 112 Prince I pawnde thee none, I promist you redresse of these same grieuances Whereof you did complaine, which by mine honour I will performe, with a most christian care. But for you rebels, looke to tafte the due 116 Meete for rebellion: Most shallowly did you these armes commence, Fondly brought heere, and foolishly sent hence. Strike vp our drummes, purfue the scattred stray: 120 God, and not we, hath fafely fought to day: Some guard this traitour to the blocke of death, Treasons true bed, and yeelder vp of breath. Enter Falstaffe excursions IV.m Fal. whats your name fir, of what condition are you, and of

76

20 24

28

32

36

44

Henry the fourtp.

of what place?

Cole, I am a Knight fir, and my name is Coleuile of the Dale.

Fal. well then, Colleuile is your name, a Knight is your degree, and your place the dale: Coleuile shalbe still your name, a traitor your degree, & the dungeon your place, a place deep enough, so shall you be stil Colleuile of the Dale.

Colle. Arenot you fir Iohn Falstaffe?

Fal. As good a man as he sir, who ere I am: doe ye yeelde fir, or shall I sweat for you? if I doe sweate, they are the drops of thy louers, and they weepe for thy death, therefore rowze vp feare and trembling, and do observance to my mercie.

Colle. I think you are fir Iohn Falstaffe, and in that thought veelde me.

Fal. I have a whole schoole of tongs in this belly of mine. and not a tongue of them all speakes any other word but my name, and I had but a belly of any indifferencie, I were fimply the most active fellow in Europe: my womb, my wombe, my womb vndoes me heere comes our Generall.

Enter Iohn Westmerland, and the rest. Retraite Iohn The heate is past, follow no further now, Call in the powers good coolin Westmerland. Now Falstaffe, where haue you beene all this while?

VVhen cuery thing is ended, then you come: Thefe tardy trickes of yours wil on my life

One time or other breake some gallowes backe.

Fal. I would bee fory my lord, but it should bee thus: I neuer knew yet but Rebuke and Checke, was the rewarde of Valor:do you thinke me a fwallow,an arrow,or a bullet?haue I in my poore and old motion the expedition of thought? I haue speeded hither with the very extreamest inch of possibility, I have foundred ninescore and od postes, and here travell tainted as I am, have in my pure and immaculate valour, taken fir Iohn Colleuile of the Dale, a most furious Knight and valorous enemy, : but what of that? he sawe me, and yeelded, that I may justly fay with the hooke-nosoe fellow of Rome, their

IV.ii.

ב ייין שמוטיין

‡ 48 tl

1

52

56

60

64

68

7²

76

80

84 there cosin, I came, faw, and ouercame.

Iohn It was more of his curtefie then your deferuing.

Fals. 1 know not, here he is, and here I yeeld him, and I befeech your grace let it be bookte with the rest of this daies deedes, or by the Lord, I wil haue it in a particular ballad esse, with mine owne picture on the top on't, (Coleuile kissing my foote) to the which course, if I bee enforst, if you doe not all shew like guilt twoo pences to mee, and I in the cleere skie of Fame, ore-shine you as much as the full moone doth the cindars of the element, (which shew like pinnes heads to her) beleeue not the worde of the noble: therefore let me haue right, and let Desert mount.

Prince Thine's too heavy to mount.

Falft. Let it shine then.

Prince Thines too thicke to shine.

Falft. Let it do some thing, my good lord, that may doe me good, and call it what you will.

Prince Is thy name Colleuile?

Col. It is my Lord.

Prince A famous rebell art thou Colleuile.
Falst. And a famous true subject tooke him.

Col. I am my lord but as my betters are, That led me hither, had they bin rulde by me,

You should have wonne them deerer then you have.

Fal. I know not how they fold themselves, but thou like a kind fellow gauest thy selfe away gratis, and I thanke thee for thee.

enter Westmerland.

Prince Now, haue you left pursuit?
West. Retraite is made, and execution stayd.

Prince Send Colleuile with his confederates

To Yorke, to present execution,

Blunt leade him hence, and fee you guard him fure. And now difpatch we toward the court my lordes,

I heare the King my father is fore fick,

Our newes shall go before vs to his maiestie, Which cosin you shall beare to comfort him,

And

IV.iii.

Henry the fourth.

And we with fober speede will follow you.

Falf. My Lord, I befeech you give me leave to go through Glostershire, and when you come to court, standmy good lord in your good report.

Prince Fare you wel Falstaffe, I, in my condition, shal better speake of you then you deserue.

Fal. I would you had the wit, twere better than your dukedome, good faith this faine yong fober blouded boy doth not loueme, nor a mã canot make him laugh, but thats no maruel, he drinkes no wine, theres neuer none of these demure boyes come to any proofe, for thin drinke doth so ouer-coole theyr blood, and making many fish meales, that they fall into a kind of male greene ficknes, and then when they marry, they gette wenches, they are generally fooles and cowards, which fome of vs should be too, but for inflammation: a good sherris sacke hath a two fold operation in it, it ascendes mee into the braine, dries me there all the foolish, and dull, and crudy vapors which enuirone it, makes it apprehensiue, quicke, forgetiue, full of nimble, fiery, and delectable shapes, which delivered ore to the voyce the tongue, which is the birth, becomes excellent wit. The second property of your excellent sherris, is the warming of the blood, which before (cold & fetled,) left the lyuer white & pale, which is the badge of pulilanimitie and cowardize. but the sherris warmes it, and makes it course from the inwards to the partes extreames, it illumineth the face, which as a beakon, gives warning to al the rest of this little kingdom man to arme, and then the vitall commoners, and inland petty spirits, muster me all to their captaine, the heart: who great, and pufft vp with this retinew, doth any deed of courage: and this valour comes of therris, so that skill in the weapon is nothing without facke (for that fets it aworke) and learning a meere whoord of gold kept by a diuell, till facke commences it, and sets it in act and vse. Hereof comes it, that Prince Harry is valiant, for the cold blood he did naturally inherite of his father, he hath like leane, sterile, and bare land, manured, husbanded and tilld, with excellent endeuour of drinking good

87-8

92

96

100

104

108

112

+116

120

124

IVіі

132

136

140

* we journa part of and good store of fertile sherris, that he is become very hote and valiant. If I had a thousand sonnes, the first humane principle I would teach them, should be, to forsweare thinpotations, and to addict themselves to sacke. How now Bardolfe?

Enter Bardolfe.

Bar. The army is discharged all, and gone.

Fal. Let them goe, ile through Glostershire, and there will I visit M. Robert Shallow Esquire, I have him already tempring betweene my finger and my thumb, and shortly will I seale with him, come away.

Enter the King, Warwike, Kent, Thomas duke of Clarence, Humphrey of Gloucester.

King Now lords, if God doth giue successefull end To this debate that bleedeth at our doores, We will our youth leade on to higher fields, And draw no swords but what are fanctified: Our nauie is addrest, our power collected, Our substitutes in absence wel inuested, And enery thing lies leuell to our wish, Only we want a little personal strength: And pawse vs til these rebels now as foote, Come vnderneath the yoke of gouernment.

War. Both which we doubt not, but your maiesty

Shal foone enjoy.

King Humphrey my sonne of Gloster, where is the prince your brother?

Glo. I thinke hees gone to hunt, my lord, at Winfor.

King And how accompanied? Glo. I do not know, my lord.

King Is not his brother Thomas of Clarence with him?

Glo. No, my good lord, he is in presence here.

Clar. What would my lord and father?

Kin Nothing but well to thee Thomas of Clarence, How chance thou art not with the prince thy brother? He loues thee, and thou dost neglect him, Thomas, Thou hast a better place in his affection

Then

 $\overline{\text{IV.iv}}$

12

Henry the fourth.

Then all thy brothers, cherrish it my boy: And noble offices thou maist effect 24 Of mediation after I am dead. Betweene his greatnesse and thy other brethren: Therefore omit him not, blunt not his loue, Nor loofe the good advantage of his grace, 28 By feeming cold, or careleffe of his will, For he is gracious if he be obseru'de, He hath a teare for pittie, and a hand, 432 Open as day for meeting charitie, Yet notwithstanding being incenst, he is flint, As humorous as winter, and as fodaine As flawes congealed in the fpring of day: His temper therefore must be well obseru'd, 36 Chide him for faults, and do it reuerently, When you perceive his bloud inclind to mirth: But being moody, give him time and scope, Till that his passions, like a whale on ground 40 Confound themselves with working learnethis Thomas, And thou shalt prone a shelter to thy friends. A hoope of gold to binde thy brothers in, That the vnited vessell of their bloud, (Mingled with venome of fuggestion, As force perforce, the age will powre it in,) Shall neuer leake, though it doe worke as strong, As Aconitum, or rash gunpowder. Cla. I shall observe him with all care and loue. King Why art thou not at Winfore with him Thomas? Tio. He is not there to day, he dines in London. 524 King And how accompanied? Tho. With Poines, and other his continuall followers. King Most subject is the fattest soyle to weeds, And he the noble image of my youth, Is ouerspread with them, therefore my griefe 56 Stretches it selfe beyond the howre of death: The bloud weepes from my heart when I do shape, Tn H.2

64

68

72

76

80

84

88

92

+ we jecoma pareoj

In formes imaginary, th'unguyded daies, And rotten times that you shall looke vpon, When I am sleeping with my auncestors: For when his head-strong riot hath no curbe, V Vhen rage and hot bloud are his counsellors, VVhen meanes and lauish manners meete together, Oh with what wings shall his affections slie, Towards fronting peril and opposed decay? War. My gracious Lord, you looke beyond him quite, The prince but studies his companions, Like a strange tongue wherein to gaine the language: Tis needfall that the most immodest word, Be lookt vpon and learnt, which once attaind, Your highneffe knowes comes to no further vie, But to be knowne and hated: fo, like groffe termes, The prince will in the perfectnesse of time, Cast off his followers, and their memory Shall as a pattern,or a meafure liue, By which his grace must mete the lives of other, Turning past-euils to aduantages. King Tis seldome when the bee doth leave her comb, In the dead carion: who's here, Westmerland?

Enter Westmerland.

West. Health to my soueraigne, and new happinesse Added to that that I am to deliuer, Prince Iohn your sonne doth kisse your graces hand. Mowbray, the Bishop, Scroope, Hastings, and al, Are brought to the correction of your law: There is not now a rebels sword vnsheathd, But Peace puts forth her oliue euery where, The manner how this action hath bin borne, Here at more leisure may your highnesse reade, With euery course in his particular.

King O Westmerland, thou art a summer bird, V Vhich euer in the haunch of winter sings The listing vp of day: looke heres more newes. enter Harcor. Hare,

IV.iv

IV.iv.

- hejecona paro oj

War. Speake lower, princes, for the King recouers.

Hum. This apoplexi wil certaine be his end.

King I pray you take me vp, and beare me hence,

Into some other chamber.

Let there be no nayle made, my gentle friends,

Vnlesse some dull and fauourable hand

Will whifper musique to my weary spirite.

War. Call for the musique in the other roome.

King Set me the crowne vpon my pillow here.

Clar. His eie is hollow, and he changes much.

War. Lesse noyse, lesse noyse. Enter Harry Prince Who saw the duke of Clarence?

Clar. I am here brother, ful of heavinesse.

Prince How now, raine within doores, and none abroad?

How doth the King?

Hum. Exceeding ill.

Prince Heard he the good newes yet? tell it him.

Hum. He vitred much vpon the hearing it,

Prince If he be ficke with ioy, heele recouer without phi-ficke.

War. Not so much noyse my Lords, sweete prince, speake lowe, the King your father is disposed to sleepe.

Cla. Let vs withdraw into the other roome.

War. Wilt please your Grace to go along with vs?

Prince No, I willfit and watch heere by the King.

Why doth the Crowne lie there vpon his pillow,

Being so troublesome a bedfellow?

O polisht perturbation! golden care!

That keepst the ports of Slumber open wide

To many a watchfull night, fleepe with it now! Yet not so sound, and halfe so deeply sweete,

As he whose brow (with homely biggen bound)

Snores out the watch of night. O maiestie!

When thou dost pinch thy bearer, thou dost sit

Like a rich armour worne in heate of day,

That scalds with safty (by his gates of breath)

There

†*32 IV.v.1

11-72

20

24

IV.v.

Henry the fourth. There lies a dowlny feather which flirs not, 32 Did he suspire, that light and weightlesse dowlne Perforce must move my gracious lord my father: This sleepe is found indeede, this is a sleepe, That from this golden Rigoll hath dinorst 36 So many English Kings, thy deaw from me, Is teares and heavy forowes of the blood, Which nature,loue,and filiall tenderneffe Shall (O deare father) pay thee plenteoufly: 40 My due from thee is this imperial Crowne, Which as immediate from thy place and blood, Deriues it selfe to me : loe where it sits, Which God shal guard, and put the worlds whole strength 44 Into one giant arme, it shal not force, This lineal honor from me, this from thee Will I to mine leave, as tis left to me. exit. Enter Warmicke, Gloucester, Clarence. King Warwicke, Gloucester, Clarence. 48 Clar. Doth the King cal? War. What would your Maiestie? King Why did you leave me here alone, my lords? Cla. We left the prince my brother here my liege, who vn-52 dertooke to fit and watch by you. King The prince of Wales, where is he let me fee him: he is not here. War This doore is open, he is gone this way. 56 Hum. He came not through the chamber where we staide. King Where is the Crowne? who took it from my pillow? War. When we withdrew, my liege, we left it here. King The Prince hath tane it hence go seeke him out: 60 Is he so hastie, that he doth suppose my sleepe my death? Finde him, my lord of Warwicke, chide him hither. This part of his conjounce with my discase, 64 And helps to end me: sec, somes, what things you are, How quickly nature falls into reuolt, When gold becomes her obiect? For $\mathbf{W}_{\mathbf{v}}$

68

72

15

77+

†

84

88

92

96

100

104

+ we jecuna part of

For this, the foolish ouer-carefull fathers Haue broke their sleepe with thoughts, Their braines with care, their bones with industry: For this they have ingroffed and pilld vp. The cankred heapes of strange atcheened gold: For this they have beene thoughtfull to invest Their fonnes with arts and martiall exercises. When like the bee toling from every flower, Our thigh, packt with waxe our mouthes with hony, We bring it to the hiue: and like the bees, Are murdred for our paines, this bitter tafte Yeelds his engrossements to the ending father, Now where is he that will not stay so long, Till his friend ficknesse hands determind me. Enter Warwicke. war. My Lord, I found the prince in the next roome, Washing with kindly teares, his gentle checkes, VVith such a deepe demeanour in great forrow, That tyranny, which neuer quaft but bloud, VVould by beholding him, have washt his knife, V Vith gentle eie-drops, hee is comming hither. Enter Harry. King But wherefore did he take away the crowne? Loe where he comes, come hither to me Harry, Depart the chamber, leave vs here alone. exeunt. Harry I neuer thought to heare you speake againe. King Thy wish was father (Harry,) to that thought I stay too long by thee, I weary thee, Dost thou so hunger for mine emptie chaire, That thou wilt needes inuest thee with my honors, Before thy howre be ripe! O foolish youth, Thou feekst the greatnesse that will ouerwheline thee, Stay but a little, for my clowd of dignity Is held from falling with so weake a wind, That it will quickly drop: my day is dim, Thou hast stolne that, which after some few houres, VVere thine, without offence, and at my death, Thou hall scald up my expectation,

Thy

IV.v

1084

112

116

120

124

128

132

136

140

11enry the fourth.

Thy life did manifest thou lou'dst me not. And thou wilt have me dic, affurde of it, Thou hidlt a thousand daggers in thy thoughts, V Vhom thou halt whetted on thy stony heart, To stab at halfe an hower of my life. VV hat, canst thou not forbeare me halfe an hower? Then get thee gone, and digge my grave thy felfe, And bid the mery bells ring to thine care, That thou art crowned not that I am dead: Let all the teares that should bedew my hearse Be drops of Balme, to fanctifie thy head, Only compound me with forgotten dust. Give that which gave thee life, vnto the wormes, Plucke downe my officers, breake my decrees. For now a time is come to mocke at Forme: Harry the fift is crownd, vp vanitie, Downe royall state, all you sage counsailers, hence, And to the English Court assemble now From euery region, apes of idlenesse: Now neighbour confines, purge you of your scumme Haue you a ruffin that will sweare, drinke, daunce, Reuell the night rob, murder, and commit The oldest sinnes, the newest kind of waies? Be happy, he will trouble you no more. England shal double gild his trebble gilt, England shall gine him office honour, might: For the fift Harry, from curbd licence, plucks The mussel of restraint, and the wild dogge Shalflesh his tooth on every innocent-O my poore kingdome! ficke with civil blowes: VV lien that my care could not withhold thy riots, V Vhat wilt thou do when riot is thy care? O thou wilt be a wildernesse againe, Peopled with woolues, thy old inhabitants. Prince O pardon me, my liege, but for my teares, The moist impediments vnto my speech, I

148

752

156

160

t

164

168

172

ןט זומן מיווטטין פייי

I had forestald this deere and deep rebuke, Ere you with griefe had spoke, and I had heard The course of it so far: there is your crowne: And he that weares the crowne immortally, Long gardit yours: if I affect it more, Then as your honour, and as your renowne, Let me no more from this obedience rife. ${ m VV}$ hich my most inward true and duteous spirit, Teacheth this prostrate and exterior bending, God witnesse with me. When I here came in, And found no course of breath within your maiesty, How cold it strooke my heart!if I do faine, O let me in my present wildnesse die, And never live to shew th'incredulous world, The noble change that I have purposed. Comming to looke on you, thinking you dead, And dead almost, my liege, to thinke you were, I spake vnto this crowne as having sence, And thus vpbraided it: the care on thee depending, Hath fed vpon the body of my father, Therefore thou best of gold, art worse then gold, Other lesse fine, in karrat more precious, Preserving life in medcine potable: But thou, most fine, most honourd, most renown'd, Hast eate thy bearer vp: thus my most royall liege, Accusing it, I put it on my head, To trie with it as with an enemy, That had before my face murdered my father, The quarrell of a true inheritour, But if it did infect my bloud with ioy, Or fwell my thoughts to any straine of pride, If any rebel or vaine spirit of mine, Did with the least affection of a welcome, Give entertainement to the might of it, Let God for euer keep it from my head,

And

 $\mathbf{V}.\mathbf{v}$

216

224

228

232

Too neare vnto my state: therefore, my Harry,
Be it thy course to busic giddie mindes
With forraine quarrells, that action hence borne out,
May waste the memory of the former dayes.
More would I, but my lungs are wasted so,
That strength of speech is vtterly denied me:
How I came by the crowne, O God forgiue,
And grant it may with thee in true peace liue.

Prince You wonit, wore it, kept it, gaue it me,

Then plaine and right must my possession be,
Which I with more then with a common paine,

Gainst all the world will rightfully maintaine: enter Lancaster.

King Looke, looke, here comes my Iohn of Lancaster.

Lanc. Health, peace, and happinesse to my royall father.

King Thou bringst me happinesse and peacesonne lohn,
But health (alacke) with youthfull wings is flowne

From this bare witherd trunke: vpon thy fight, My worldly busines makes a period:

Where is my lord of Warwicke?

Prince My Lord of Warwicke.

King Doth any name perticular belong Vnto the lodging where I first did swound? War. Tis cald Ierusalem, my noble Lord.

King Laud be to God, even there my life must end.

It hath bin prophecide to me many yeares,

I should not die, but in Ierusalem, Which vainely I suppose the Holy Land:

But beare me to that chamber, there ile lie, Enter Shallow,

In that I crusalem shall Harry die. Falstaffe, and Bardolfe Shal. By cock and pie fir, you shal not away to night, what Dauy I say?

Falft. You must excuse me master Robert Shallow.

Shal. I will not excuse you, you shall not be excused, excuses shall not be admitted, there is no excuse shall serue, you shall not be excused: why Dauy.

Dany Here sir.

Shal

236

V.i.,

20

24

32

36

52

56

Henry the jourth.

Shal. Dauy, Dauy, Dauy, Dauy, let me see Dauy let me see Dauy, let me see, yea maiy V Villiam Cooke, bid him come hither, sir Iohn, you shal not be excused.

Dany Mary sir thus, those precepts can not be served, and againe fir, shal we fow the hade land with wheate?

Shal. VVith red wheat Dauy, but for VVilliam Cooke are there no yong pigeons?

Dany Yes fir, here is now the Smiths note for shooing and plow-yrons.

Shal. Let it be cast and payed: sir Iohn, you shal not be excufed.

Dany Now sir, a new lincke to the bucket must needes be had: and sir, do you meane to stop any of V Villiams wages, about the sacke he lost at Hunkly Faire?

Shal. A shall answer it: some pigeons Dauy, a couple of shortlegg'd hens, a joynt of mutton, and any pretty little time

Kick-shawes, tell william Cooke.

Dany Doth the man of warre stay all night sir?

Shal. Yea Dauy, I will vse him well, a friend i th court is better then a penie in purse: vse his men wel Dauy, for they are arrant knaues, and will backbite.

Dany No worse then they are back-bitten sir, for they have maruailes foule linnen.

Shal. VVell conceited Dauy, about thy businesse Dauy. Dauy I beseech you sir to countenance VVilliam Visor of Woncote against Clement Perkes a'th hill.

Sha. There is many complaints Dauy against that Visor, that Vilor is an arrant knaue on my knowledge.

Dany I graunt your worship that he is a knaue sir: but yet God forbid sir, but a knaue should have some countenance at his friends request, an honest man sir is able to speake for himfelfe, when a knaue is not: I have seru de your worship truly sir this eight yeares and I cannot once, or twice in a quarter beare out a knaue against an honest man, I have little credit with your worship: the knaue is mine honest friend sir, therfore I besech you let him be countenaunst.

Shal

V.i

60

+64

64

72

76

84

88

92

96

- --ין טיטויי דעוני טן

Shal. Go to I say, he shal have no wrong, look about Dauy: where are you sir Iohn?come,come,come,off with your boots, give me your hand master Bardolfe.

Bard. I am glad to see your worship.

Shal I thank thee with my heart kind mafter Bardolfe, and welcome my tall fellow, come fir John.

Falft. Ile follow you good maister Robert Shallow: Bardolfe. looke to our horfes: if I were fawed into quantities, I should make foure dozen of such berded hermites staues as maister Shallow: it is a wonderfull thing to see the semblable coherence of his mens spirits, and his, they, by obseruing him, do beare themselues like foolish Iustices : hee, by conversing with them, is turned into a Iustice-like servingman, their spirits are so married in conjunction, with the participation of society, that they flocke together in consent, like so many wild-geese, If I had a fuite to mafter Shallow, I would humour his men with the imputation, of beeing neere their maister: if to his men, I would curry with maifter Shallow, that no man could better commaund his servants. It is certaine, that eyther wise bearing, or ignorant cariage is caught, as men take diseases one of another: therefore let men take heede of their company. I will deuise matter enough out of this Shallow, to keepe prince Harry in continuall laughter, the wearing out of fixe fashions, which is foure termes, or two actions, and a shall augh without internallums. O it is much that a lie, with a flight oathe, and a iest, with a sad browe, will doe with a fellow that neuer had the ach in his shoulders: O you shall see him laugh til his face be like a wet cloake ill laide vp.

Shal. Sir Iohn.

Fallt. I come maister Shallow, I come master Shallow. Enter Warmike, duke Humphrey, L. chiefe Iustice, Thomas Clarence, Prince, Iohn Westmerland.

War. How now, my lord chiefe Iustice, whither away?

Iust. How doth the King?

War. Exceeding well, his cares are now all ended.

lust. I hope not dead.

War.

Vii.

Lienry the fourth.

War. Hees walkt the way of nature, And to our purposes he lives no more.

Inft. I would his Maiestie had calld me with him:

The service that I truely did his life. Hath left me open to all injuries.

War. Indeede I thinke the yong King loues you not.

Iuft. I know he doth not, and do arme my felfe

To welcome the condition of the time,

Which cannot looke more hideously ypon me,

Than I haue drawne it in my fantasie.

Enter John, Thomas, and Humphrey.

War. Heere come the heavy issue of dead Harry: O that the living Harry had the temper Of he, the worlf of these three gentlemen! How many Nobles then should holde their places, That must strike faile to spirites of vile fort?

1ult. O God. I feare all will be ouer-turnd.

Iohn Good morrow coofin Warwicke, good morrow.

Prin.ambo Good morrow coofin.

Iohn We meete like men that had forgot to fpeake.

War. We do remember, but our argument

Is all too heauy to admit much talke.

Iohn Well, peace be with him that hath made vs heavy.

Iust. Peace be with vs, lest we be heavier.

Humph. O good my lord, you have lost a friend indeede.

And I dare sweare you borrow not that face Of seeming sorrow, it is sure your owne.

Iohn Though no man be affurde what grace to finde,

You stand in coldest expectation,

I am the forier, would twere otherwife.

Cla. Well, you must now speake fir John Falstaffe faire,

Which swimmes against your streame of quallitie.

Iuft. Sweet princes, what I did, I did in honor. Led by thimpartiall conduct of my foule.

And neuer shall you see that I will begge

A ragged and forestald remission,

+16

20 24

28

32

36

48

52

56 ćo

64

64.8

72

J----"

If truth and vpright innocencie faile me. He to the King my maister that is dead,

And tell him who hath sent me after him, War. Here comes the Prince.

Enter the Prince and Blunt

Iust. Good morrow, and God saue your maiestie.

Prince This new and gorgeous garment Maiesty Sits not so easie on me, as you thinke:

Prothers, you mixt your sadnesse with some feare,

This is the English, not the Turkish court,

Not Amurath an Amurath succeedes,

But Harry Harry: yet be fad, good brothers,

For by my faith it very well becomes you:

Sorrow fo royally in you appeares,

That I will deeply put the fashion on,

And weare it in my heart: why then be fad,

But entertaine no more of it, good brothers,

Then a joynt burden layd vpon vsall,

For me, by heauen (I bid you be affurde)

Ile be your father, and your brother too,

Let me but beare your loue, Ile beare your cares:

Yet weepe that Harries dead, and so will I,

But Harry liues, that shal convert those teares

By number into howres of happinesse.

Bro. We hope no otherwise from your maiesty.

Prince You al looke strangely on me, and you most,

You are I thinke assurde I loue you not.

Inst I am assurde, if I be measurde rightly,

Your maiesty hath no just cause to hate me.

Prince No?how might a prince of my great hopes forget,

So great indignities you laid vpon me?

What,rate, rebuke, and roughly fend to prison,

Thimmediate heire of England? was this easie?

May this be washt in lethy and forgotten?

Inft. I then did vie the person of your father,

The image of his power lay then in me,

And in the administration of his law,

Whiles

Vіі. Henry the fourth. Whiles I was busie for the common wealth. 76 Your Highnesse pleased to forget my place, The maiestie and power of law and instice, The image of the King whom I presented, And strooke me in my very seate of judgement, Whereon, (as an offendor to your father,) I gaue bold way to my authority, And did commit you: if the deed were ill, Be you contented, wearing now the garland, 84 To haue a fonne fet your decrees at naught? To plucke downe Iuflice from your awful bench? To trip the course of law, and blunt the sword, That guards the peace and fafetie of your person? 88 Nay more, to spurne at your molt royall image, And mocke your workings in a fecond body? Question your royall thoughts, make the case yours, Be now the father, and propose a sonne, Heare your owne dignity so much prophan'd, See your most dreadfull lawes so loosely slighted, Behold your selfe so by a sonne disdained: And then imagine me taking your part, 96 And in your power fost silencing your sonne, After this cold confiderance sentence me, And as you are a King, speake in your state, What I have done that misbecame my place, 100 My person, or my lieges soueraigntie. Prince You are right Iustice, and you weigh this well, Therefore still beare the Ballance and the Sword, And I do wish your honors may encrease, 104 Til you do liue to fee a fonne of mine Offend you, and obey you as I did: So shall I live to speake my fathers words, Happicam I that hauea man so bold, That dares do instice on my proper sonne: And not leffe happie, having fuch a fonne, That would deliuer up his greatnesse so, K Into

V.ii

772

116

120

124

128

138

136

140

ב ווי ב וווע אינוע אינוער איניים איני

Into the hands of Iustice you did commit me: For which I do commit into your hand, Th vnstained sword that you have vide to beare. With this remembrance, that you yie the same With the like bold, just, and impartial spirit, As you have done gainft me: there is my hand. You shall be as a father to my youth, My voice shall found as you do prompt mine eare, And I wil stoope and humble my intents, To your well practize wife directions. And princes all, beleeue me I befeech you, My father is gone wild into his graue: For in his toomb lie my affections, And with his spirites sadly I surviue, To mocke the expectation of the world, To frustrate prophecies, and to race out, Rotten opinion, who hath writ me downe After my feeming, the tide of bloud in me Hathprowdely flowd in vanitie till now: Now doth it turne, and ebbe backe to the fea, Where it shall mingle with the state of flouds, And flow henceforth in formall maiestie. Now call we our high court of parliament, And let vs chuse such limbs of noble counsaile. That the great bodie of our state may goe, In equal ranke with the best governd Nation, That warre, or peace, or both at once, may be, As things acquainted and familiar to vs, In which you father shall have formost hand: Our coronation done, we wilaccite, (As I before remembred)all our state. And(God configning to my good intents,) No prince nor peere shall have just cause to say, God shorten Harries happy life one day.

Enter sir Iohn, Shallow, Scilens, Dawy, Bardolfe, page. Shal. Nay you shall see my orchard, where, in an arbour we will exit.

Lienry the journe.

will cate a last yeeres pippen of mine owne graffing, with a dish of carrawaies and so forth: come coosin Scilens, and then to bed.

Falft. Fore God you have here goodly dwelling, and rich. Shal. Barraine, barraine, barraine, beggars all, beggars all fir John, mary good ayre: spread Dany, spread Dauy, well saide Dauy.

Fal. This Dauy serues you for good vses, hee is your ser-uing-man, and your husband.

Shal. A good varlet, a good varlet, a very good varlet fir Iohn: by the mas I have drunke too much facke at supper: a good varlet:now fit downe, now fit downe, come colin.

Scilens A firra quoth a, we shall do nothing but eate and make good cheere, and praise God for the merry yeere, when flesh is cheape and females deare, and lusty laddes roame here and there so merely, and euer among so merily.

fir Iohn Theres a merry heart, good M. Silens, ile give you a health for that anon.

Shal. Giue master Bardolfe some wine, Dauy.

Dauy Sweet sir sit, ile be with you anon, most sweet sir sit, master Page, good master Page sitt proface, what you want in meate, weele haue in drink, but you must beare, the heart's al.

Shal. Bemery mafter Bardolfe, and my litle fouldier there, be merry.

Scilens Be merry, be mery, my wife has all, for women are shrowes both short and tall, tis merry in hal when beards wags all, and welcome mery shrouetide, be mery, be mery.

Falf. I did not thinke master Scilens had bin a man of this mettall.

Scilens Who I? I have been e mery twice and once ere now. Enter Dauy.

Dauy Theresa dish of Lether-coates for you.

Shal. Dauy?

Dawy Your worship: He be with you straight, a cup of wine fir.

Scilens A cup of wine thats briske and fine, and drinke vnto K 2

5%

50

60

64

68

Ť

72

77-78

84

92

95.6

the leman mine, and a mery heart lives long a.

Falst. Well said master Scilens.

Scilens And we shall be mery, now comes in the sweete a'th night.

Falft Health and long life to you master Scilens.

Scilens Fill the cuppe, and let it come. ile pledgeyou a mile too th bottome.

Shal. Honest Bardolfe, welcome, if thou wantst any thing, and wilt not call, bestrew thy heart, welcome my little tiny theefe, and welcome indeede too, Ile drink to master Bardolfe, and to all the cabileros about London.

Dany I hope to see London once ere I die. Bar. And I might see you there Dauy!

Shal. By the mas youle crack a quarte together, ha will you not mafter Bardolfe?

Bar. Yea sir, in a pottle pot.

Sha. By Gods liggens I thanke thee, the knaue will sticke by thee, I can assure thee that a wil not out, a tis true bred!

Bar. And ile stick by him sir. One knockes at doore. Sha. Why therespoke a King: lacke nothing, be mery, looke who's at doore there ho, who knockes?

Falft. Why now you have done me right.

Silens Do me right, and dub me Knight, samingo: ist not so? Falst. Tis so.

Silens Ift fo, why then fay an olde man can do fomewhat.

Dany And tplease your worship, theres one Pistoll come from the court with newes.

enter Pistol.

Falft. From the Court?let him come in, how now Pistol? Pistol Sir Iohn, God saue you.

Falf. What wind blew you hither Pistol?

Pistol Not the ill winde which blowes no man to good: fweete Knight, thou art now one of the greatest men in this Realme.

Silens Birlady I think a be, but goodman Puffe of Barson.

Pisto Puffe: Puffe ith thy teeth, most recreant coward, base, fir Iohn, I am thy Pistol and thy frend, and helter skelter, haue

I

Henry the fourth.
I rode to thee, and tidings do I bring, and luckie ioyes, and gol.	100 den times, and happy news of price.
John I pray thee now deliuer them like a man of this world.
Pistol A footre for the world and worldlings base, I speake	103-4 of Affrica and golden ioyes.
Iohn O base Assirian Knight! what is thy newes? let King
Couetua know the truth thereof.
Scilens And Robin Hood, Scarlet, and John.
Pistol Shal dunghill curs confront the Helicons? and shall	708 good newes be baffled? then Pistoll Lay thy head in Furies lap.
Shal. Honest gentleman, I know not your breeding.	-
Pifted Why then lament therefore.	112
Shal. Give me pardon fir, if fir you come with newes from	İ
the court, I take it theres but two waies, either to vtter them, or	1
conceale them, I am fir vnder the King in some authoritie.	116
Pistol Vnder which King, Besonian? speake, or die.	}
Shal. Vnder King Harry.
Pistol Harry the fourth, or fift? Shal. Harry the fourth.	720
Pist A fowere for thine office: sir Iohn, thy tender lambkin	120 now is King: Harry the fifts the man: I speake the truth: when Pistol lies, do this, and fig me, like the bragging spaniard.
Falst What is the old King dead?	123-4
Pistol As nayle in doore, the things I speake are just.	1
Fal. Away Bardolfe, faddle my horfe, M.Robert Shallow,	125
choose what office thou wilt in the land, tis thine: Pistol, I will	13 double charge thee with dignities.
Bard. O joyful day! I would not take a Knight for my for-	131-2 tune.	"
Pistol What? I do bring good newes.
Falit. Carry mafter Scilens to bed: mafter Shallow, my lord Shalow, be what thou wilt, I am fortunes steward, get on	136 thy boots,weel ride al night:ô fweet Piftol,away Bardolf,com Pistol, veter more to me, and withall, deuile something to doe thy felfe good, boote, boote mafter Shallow, I know the yong	140
K 3 King

 V_{in}

ןט אומין מיווטיי נייו ב

King is ficke for me: let vs take any mans horses, the lawes of England are at my commandement, blessed are they that have bin my friends, and woe to my Lord chiefe Justice.

Pift. Let vultures vile seize on his lungs also: where is the life that late I led, say they, why here it is, welcome these plesant dayes.

Enter Sincklo and three or foure officers.

Host. No, thou arrant knaue, I would to God that I might die, that I might haue thee hangd, thou hast drawn my shoulder out of joynt.

Sincklo The Constables have delivered her over to mee, and shee shall have whipping cheere I warrant her, there hath beene a man or two kild about her.

Whore Nut-hooke, Nut-hooke, you lie, come on, Ile tell thee what, thou damnd tripe visagde rascall, and the child I go with do miscarry, thou wert better thou hadst strook thy mother, thou paper-facde villaine.

Hoft. O the Lord, that fir John were come! I would make this a bloody day to some body: but I pray God the fruite of her wombe miscarry.

Sincklo. If it doe, you shall have a dozzen of cushions againe, you have but eleven nowe: come, I charge you both goe with mee for the man is dead that you and Pistoll beat amongst you.

Whoore Ile tell you what, you thin man in a cenfor, I will have you as foundly swingde for this, you blewbottle rogue, you filthy famish t correctioner, if you be not swingde, Ile forfweare halfe kirtles.

Sinck. Come, come, you shee-Knight-arrant, come.

Hoft. O God, that right should thus ouercom might wel, of sufferance comes ease.

Whoore Come you rogue, come bring me to a iustice.

Host. I come, you started blood-hound. Whoere Goodman death, goodman bones.

Hoft. Thou Atomy, thou.

Whoore Come you thinne thing; come you rascall.

Sincklo

 $\mathbf{V}_{\mathbf{iv}}$

144

12

4

16

24

20

28

32

36

Henry the fourth.

Sinck. Very well.

Enter strewers of rushes.

1 More rushes, more rushes.

2 The trumpets have founded twice.

3 Twill be two a clocke ere they come from the coronation, dispatch, dispatch,

Trumpets found, and the King, and his traine passe ouer the stage: after them enter Falstaffe, Shallow, Pistol, Bardolfe, and the Boy.

Falst. Stand heere by me maister Shallow, I will make the King doe you grace, I will leere vpon him as a comes by, and do but marke the countenaunce that he will give me.

Pift. God bleffe thy lungs good Knight.

Falf. Come heere Pistoll, stand behinde mee. O if I had had time to have made new liveries: I woulde have bestowed the thousand pound I borrowed of you, but its no matter, this poore shew doth better, this doth inferre the zeale I had to see him.

Pift. It doth fo.

Falft. It shewes my earnestnesse of affection.

Tift. It doth fo.

Falft. My deuotion.

Pift. It doth, it doth, it doth.

Fal. As it were to ride day & night, and not to deliberate, not to remember, not to have pacience to shift me.

Shal It is best certain: but to stand stained with tranaile, and sweating with desire to see him, thinking of nothing els, putting all affaires else in obliuion, as if there were nothing els to bee done, but to see him.

Pist. Tis semper idem, for, obsque hoc nihil est, tis in enery part.

Shal. Tisso indeede.

Pist. My Knight, I will inflame thy noble liuer, and make thee rage, thy Dol, and Helen of thy noble thoughts, is in base durance, and contagious prison, halde thither by most mechanical, and durtie hand:rowze vp reuenge from Ebon den, with

G11

V.v. 1 ne jecona par i oj fell Alectoes snake, for Doll is in : Pistoll speakes nought but 39-40 truth. Falft. I will deliuer her. Pist. There roared the sca, and trumpet Clangor sounds. Enter the King and his traine. Falst. God fauethy grace King Hall, my royall Hall. Pist. The heavens thee gard and keep most royal impe of 44 fame. Falst. God saue thee, my sweet boy. King My Lord chiefe iustice, speake to that vaine man. Iust. Haue you your wits?know you what its you speake? 48 Falst. My King, my Ioue, I speake to thee, my heart King I know thee not old man, fall to thy praiers, How ill white heires becomes a foole and iester, 5² I haue long dreampt of fuch a kind of man, So surfet-sweld, so old, and so prophane: But being awakt, I do despise my dreame, Make lesse thy body (hence) and more thy grace, 56 Leane gourmandizing, know the graue doth gape For thee, thrice wider then for other men, Reply not to me with a foole-borne iest, Prefunie not that I am the thing I was, 60 For God doth know, so shall the world perceive, That I have turnd away my former felfe, So will I those that kept me company: When thou dost heare I am as I have bin, 64 Approch me, and thou shalt be as thou wast, The tutor and the feeder of my riots: Till then I banish thee, on paine of death, As I have done the rest of my misleaders, 68 Not to come neare our person by ten mile: For competence of life, I wil allow you, That lacke of meanes enforce you not to enills, And as we heare you do reforme your felues, 72 We will according to your strengths and qualities, Gine you aduauncement. Be it your charge, my lord,

To

	_
Henry t	the fourth.
To see performd the tenure o	fmv word: let on.		6
Iohn Master Shallow I ow	vou a thousand n	ound.	75-6
Shal. Yea mary fir Iolin, wh	nich I beseech von	to let me have	80
home with me.		to to the many	80
Iohn That can hardly be, in	after Shalow: do n	ot von oriene	1
at this, I shall be sent for in price	late to him. looke	von hee must	1
feeme thus to the world:feare	not your advanne	ments I will be the man yet that shal make	Von great.	Tancinta, I AAIII	84
Shal. I cannot perceiue he	ow . valeffe von	oine me vous	ŀ dublet, and stuffeme out with	ftraw : I befeech	you good for
Iohn let me haue fiue hundred	of my thousand.	lon good ut	88
John Sir I will be as good as	my worde, this il	hat you heard was but a collour.	, .,,	at you neard
Shall. A collor that I feare	vou will die in fir Y	ohn	1
Iohn Feare no colours, go	with me to dinner:	UIIII	92
Come lieftenant Pistol, come	Bardolfe.	Enter Instice
I shall be sent for soone at night		nd prince Iohn
_ Iustice Go cary sir Iohn Fal		may the zone	96
Take all his company along w	ith him.
Fal. My lord, my lord.
Iust. I cannot now speake, I	will heare you foo	ne take them away.	exeunt		100
Pist. Si fortuna me tormenta	bero contenta.	•
John I like this faire procee	ding of the Kings.
He hath intent his wonted follo	wers		10.6
Shall all be very well prouided			104
But all are banisht till their con	uerfations
Appeare more wife and model	to the worlde.
iuft. And so they are.
Iohn The King hath cald his	parlament inv lord		108
Just. He hath.	r ,,,	.•	İ
Iohn I wil lay ods, that ere thi	s veere expire.
We beare our ciuil fwords and	natiue fier.		. 112
As farre as France, I heard a bire			. 1/2
Whose musique, to my thinkin		o:
Come, will you hence?	S. L.	D .
	L	First
	-	A *	- 1

16 20 24

28

.32

Epilogue.

First my feare, then my cursie, last my speech.

My feare, is your displeasure, my cursy, my duty, & my speech, to beg your pardons: if you looke for a good speech now, you vndo me, for what I have to say is of mine owne making, and what indeed (I should say) wil (I doubt) prove mine own marring: but to the purpose, and so to the venture. Be it knowne to you, as it is very well, I was lately here in the end of a displeasing play, to pray your patience for it, and to promise you a better: I meant indeed to pay you with this, which if like an il venture it come vnluckily home, I breake, and you my gentle creditors loose, here I promisde you I would be, and here I commit my body to your mercies, bate mesome, and I will pay you some, and (as most debtors do) promise you infinitely: and so I kneele downe before you; but indeed, to pray for the Queene.

If my tongue cannot intreate you to acquit mee, will you commaund me to vie my legges? And yet that were but light payment, to daunce out of your debt, but a good confcience will make any possible satisfaction, and so woulde I: all the Gentlewomen heere have forgiven me, if the Gentlemen will not, then the Gentlemen doe not agree with the Gentlewomen, which was never seene in such an assemblie.

One word more I beseech you, if you bee not too much eloyd with fatte meate, our humble Author will continue the storie, with sir Iohn in it, and make you merry with saire Katharine of Fraunce, where (for any thing I knowe) Falstaffe shall die of a sweat, vnlesse already a be killd with your harde opinions; for Olde-castle died Martyre, and this is not the man: my tongue is weary, when my legges are too, I wil bid you, good night.

(235-37/>

FINIS.