of Henry the fifth, Conteining the Honorable Battell of Agin-court.

Enter the young Prince, Ned, and Tom.

Henry the fifth.

Sc. I.

Come away Ned and Tom.

Both. Here my Lord.

Henr. 5. Come away my Lads :

Tell me sirs, how much gold haue you got ?

Ned. Faith my Lord, I haue got five hundred pound.

Hen. 5. But tell me Tom, how much hast thou got ?

Tom. Faith my Lord, some foure hundred pound.

Hen. 5. Foure hundred pounds, brauely spoken Lads.

But tell me sirs, thinke you not that it was a villainous part of me to rob my fathers Receiuers ?

Ned. Why no my Lord, it was but a tricke of youth.

Hen. 5. Faith Ned thou sayest true.

But tell me sirs, whereabouts are we ?

Tom. My Lord, we are now about a mile off London.

Hen. 5. But sirs, I maruell that sir Iohn Old-castle

Comes not away ; Sounds see where he comes.

Enters Iockey.

How now Iockey, what newes with thee ?

Iockey. Faith my Lord, such newes as passeth,

For the Towne of Detfort is risen,

THE FAMOUS VILAINES

20 With hue and crie after your man,
Which parted from vs the last night,
And has set vpon, and hath robb a poore Carrier.

24 Hen. 5. Howones, the vilaine that was wont to spie
Out our booties.

Iock. I my Lord, euen the very same.

Hen. 5. How base minded rascal to rob a poore carrier,
What it skils not, ile saue the base vilaines life :

28 I, I may: but tel me Iockey, wher about be the Receiuers?

Ioc. Faith my Lord, they are hard by,
But the best is, we are a horse backe and they be a foote,
So we may escape them.

32 Hen. 5. What, I the vilaines come, let me alone with them.

But tel me Iockey, how much gots thou from the knaues?
For I am sure I got something, for one of the vilaines
36 So belamd me about the shoulders,
As I shal feele it this moneth.

Iock. Faith my Lord, I haue got a hundred pound.

Hen. 5. A hundred pound, now brauely spoken Iockey:
40 But come sirs, laie al your money before me,
How by heauen here is a braue shewe :
But as I am true Gentleman, I wil haue the halfe
Of this spent to night, but sirs take by your bags,
44 Were comes the Receiuers, let me alone.

Enters two Receiuers.

One. Alas god fellow, what shal we do?
I dare neuer go home to the Court, for I shall be hangd.
But loke, here is the yong Prince, what shal we do?

48 Hen. 5. How now you vilaines, what are you?

One Recci. Speake you to him.

Other. No I pray, speake you to him.

Hen. 5. Why how now you rascals, why speake you not?

52 One. Forsooth we be. Pray speake you to him.

Hen. 5. Howons, vilains speak, or ile cut off your heads.

Other.

OF THE MERRY WIVES OF WINDSOR.

Other. Forsooth he can tel the tale better then I.

One. Forsooth we be your fathers Receiuers.

Hen. 7. Are you my fathers Receiuers?

Then I hope ye haue brought me some money.

One. Money, Alas sir we be robbd.

Hen. 5. Robbd, how many were there of them?

Oae. Harry sir, there were foure of them :

And one of them had sir Iohn Old-Castles bay Hobbie,
And your blacke Bag.

Hen. 5. Gogs wounds, how like you this Iockey?

Blod you vilaines, my father robbd of his money abroad,
And we robbd in our stables.

But tell me, how many were of them?

One recei. If it please you, there were foure of them,
And there was one about the bignesse of you :

But I am sure I so belamdb him about the shoulders,
That he wil feeke it this month.

Hen. 5. Gogs wounds you land them faierly,
So that they haue carried away your money.

But come sirs, what shall we do with the vilaines?

Both recei. I beseech your grace, be good to vs.

Ned: I pray you my Lord forgive them this once.

Tell stand by and get you gone,
And looke that you speake not a word of it,

For if there be, sownes ile hang you and all your kin.

Exit Pursuant.

Hen. 5. Now sirs, how like you this?

Was not this brauely done?

For now the vilaines dare not speake a word of it,

I haue so feared them with words.

Now whither shall we goe?

All. Why my Lord, you know our old hostes
At Feuersham.

Hen. 5. Our hostes at Feuersham, blod what shal we do
We haue a thousand pound about vs,

(there?

And we shall go to a pettie Ale-house,
 No, no : you know the olde Tauerne in Eastcheape,
 Where is good wine : besides, there is a pretie wench
 That can talke well, for I delight as much in their songs,
 As any part about them.

92

All. We are readie to waite vpon your grace.

96

Hen. 5. Gogs wounds wait, we will go altogether,
 We are all fellows, I tell you sirs, and the King
 My father were dead, we would be all Kings,
 Wherefore come away.

Sc. II.

Ned. Gogs wounds, brauely spoken Harry.

Enter Iohn Cobler, Robin Pewterer, Lawrence Costermonger.

Iohn Cob. All is well here, all is well maisters.

4

Robin. How say you neighbour Iohn Cobler?

I thinke it best that my neighbour

Robin Pewterer went to Pudding lane end,

And we will watch here at Billingsgate ward,

How say you neighbour Robin, how like you this :

8

Robin. Harry well neighbours :

I care not much if I goe to Pudding lanes end.

But neighbours, and you heare any adoe about me,

Make haste: and if I heare any ado about you,

I will come to you.

Exit Robin.

Law. Neighbour, what newes heare you of y^e young Prince:

Iohn. Harry neighbour, I heare say, he is a forward yong

For if he met any by the hie way, (Prince,

He will not let to talke with him,

I dare not call him these, but sure he is one of these taking (fellows.

Law. And ad neighbour I heare say he is as lively
 A yong Prince as ener was.

Iohn. I, and I heare say, if he vse it long,
 His father will cut him off from the Crowne:

But

ACT IV

But neighbour say nothing of that.

Law. No, no, neighbour, I warrant you.

John. Neighbour, me thinks you begin to sleepe,
If you will, we will sit down,
For I thinke it is about midnight.

Law. Harry content neighbour, let vs sleepe.

Enter Dericke rouing.

Dericke. Who, who there, who there ?

Exit Dericke.

Enter Robin.

Robin. O neighbours, what means you to sleepe,
And such ado in the streets ?

Ambo. How now neighbour, whats the matter ?

Enter Dericke againe.

Dericke. Who there, who there, who there ?

Cobler. Why what ailst thou ? here is no horses.

Dericke. O alas man, I am robb, who there, who there ?

Robin. Hold him neighbour Cobler.

Robin. Why I see thou art a plaine Clowne.

Dericke. Am I a Clowne, solunes maisters,

Do Clownes go in slike apparell ?

I am sure all we gentlemen Clownes in Kent scant go so

Well: Solunes you know clownes very well:

Heare you, are you maister Constable, and you be speake ?

For I will not take it at his hands.

John. Faith I am not maister Constable,
But I am one of his bad officers, for he is not here.

Dericke. Is not maister Constable here ?

Well it is no matter, ile haue the law at his hands.

John. Nay I pray you do not take the law of vs.

Der. Well, you are one of his beauly officers,

John. I am one of his bad officers.

Der. Why then I charge thee looke to him.

Cobler. Nay but heare ye sir, you seeme to be an honest fellow, and we are poze men, and now tis night:

And we would be loth to haue any thing adw,
Wherefoze I pray thee put it vp.

56

Der. First, thou saiest true, I am an honest fellow,
And a proper handsome fellow too,
And you seeme to be worse men, therfoze I care not greatly,
I say, I am quickly pacified:
But and you chance to spie the theefe,
I pray you laie hold on him.

60

Robin. Yes that we wil, I warrant you.

Der. 'Tis a wonderful thing to see how glad the knaues
As, now I haue forgiven him.

Iohn. Neighbours do ye looke about you?
How now, who's there?

Enter the Theefe.

Theef. Here is a good fellow, I pray you which is the Way to the old Lauerne in Eastcheap?

68

Der. I hope hollo, now Gads Hill, knowest thou me?

Theef. I know thee for an Ass.

Der. And I know thee for a taking fellow,
Upon Gads hill in Kent:
A bots light vpon ye.

Theef. The whozlon vilaine would be knockt.

Der. Haisters, vilaine, and ye be men stand to him,
And take his weapon from him, let him not passe you.

Iohn. My friend, what make you abroad now?
It is too late to walke now.

Theef. It is not too late for true men to walke.

Law. We know thee not to be a true man.

Theef. Why what do you meane to do with me?
Sownes I am one of the kings liege people.

Der. Heare you sir, are you one of the kings liege people?

Theef. I marry am I sir, what say you to it?

Der. Marry sir, I say you are one of the kings syching
Cob. Come, come, lets haue him away. (people.

Theef. Why what haue I done?

Robin.

Robin. Thou hast robd a poore fellow,
And taken away his goods from him.

Theefe. I neuer sawe him before.

Der. Maisters who comes here?

Enter the Vintners boy.

Boy. How now good man Cobler?

Cob. How now Robin, what makes thou abroad
At this time of night?

Boy. Maister I haue bene at the Counter,
I can tell such newes as neuer you haue heard the like.

Cobler. What is that Robin, what is the matter?

Boy. Why this night about two houres ago, there came the young Prince, and thre or foure more of his companions, and called for wine good store, and then they sent for a noble of Musicians, and were very merry for the space of an houre, then whether their Musicke liked them not, or whether they had drunke too much Wine or no, I cannot tell, but our pots flue against the wals, and then they drew their swords, and went into the streete and fought, and some tooke one part, & some tooke another, but for the space of halfe an houre, there was such a bloodie fray as passeth, and none could part them vntill such time as the Maier and Sheriffe were sent for, and then at the last with much ado, they tooke them, and so the yong Prince was carried to the Counter, and then about one houre after, there came a Messenger from the Court in all haste from the King, for my Lord Maier and the Sheriffe, but for what cause I know not.

Cobler. Here is newes indeede Robert.

Law. Harry neighbour, this newes is strange indeede,
I thinke it best neighbour, to rid our hands of this fellowe first.

Theefe. What meane you to doe with me?

Cobler. We mean to carry you to the prison, and there to remaine till the Sessions day,

Sc. II.

120

Theef. When I pray you let me go to the prison where my maister is.

Cob. Nay thou must go to þ country prison, to newgate, Therefore come away.

Theef. I prethe be good to me honest fellow.

Der. I marry will I, ile be verie charitable to thæ, for I will neuer leaue thæ, til I see thæ on the Gallowes.

Sc. III.

Enter Henry the fourth, with the Earle of E: eter, and the Lord of Oxford.

Oxf. And please your Maiestie, here is my Lord Maio: and the Sheriffe of London, to speak with your Maie:

K. Hen. 4. Admit them to our presence. (He.

Enter the Maior and the Sheriffe.

Polw my good Lord Maio: of London,

The cause of my sending for you at this time, is to tel you of a matter which I haue learned of my Councell: Wherein I vnderstand, that you haue committed my sonne to prison without our leaue and license. What althogh he be a rude youth, and likely to giue occasion, yet you might haue considered that he is a Prince, and my sonne, and not to be halled to prison by euery subiect.

Maior. May it please your Maiestie to giue vs leaue to tell our tale?

16

King Hen. 4. O: else God forbid, otherwise you might thinke me an vnequall Iudge, hauing moze affection to my sonne, then to any rightfull iudgement.

Maior. Then I do not doubt but we shal rather deserue commendations at your Maiesties hands, the any anger.

K. Hen. 4. We too, say on.

Maior. When if it please your Maiestie, this night betwixt two and thre of the clocke in the morning, my Lord the yong Prince with a very disordred companie, came to the old Tauerne in Callicheape, and whether it was that their Musicke liked them not, or whether they were ouercome with wine, I know not, but they drew their swords, and

and into the stræte they went, and some toke my Lord the yong Princes part, and some toke the other, but betwixt them there was such a blowie fray for the space of halfe an houre, that neither watchmē nor any other could stay thē, till my brother the Sheriffe of London & I were sent for, and at the last with much ado we staid them, but it was long first, which was a great disquieting to all your louing subiects thereabouts: and then my good Lord, we knew not whether your grace had sent them to trie vs, whether we would doe iustice, or whether it were of their owne voluntarie will or not, we cannot tell: and therefore in such a case we knew not what to do, but for our owne safegard we sent him to ward, where he wanteth nothing that is fit for his grace, and your Maiesties sonne. And thus most humbly beseeching your Maiestie to thinke of our answer.

Hen. 4. Stand aside untill we haue further deliberated on your answer.

Exit Maior.

Hen. 4. Ah Harry, Harry, now thrice accursed Harry, That hath gotten a sonne, which with grāse Will end his fathers dayes.

Oh my sonne, a Prince thou art, I a Prince indeed, And to deserue imprisonment, And well haue they done, and like faithfull subiects: Discharge them and let them go.

L. Exc. I beseech your Grace, be good to my Lord the yong Prince.

Hen. 4. Nay, nay, tis no matter, let him alone.

L. Oxf. Perchance the Maior and the Sheriffe haue bene too precise in this matter.

Hen. 4. So: they haue done like faithfull subiects: I will go my selfe to discharge them, and let them go.

Exit omnes.

Enter Lord chiefe Iustice, Clarke of the Office, Iayler, Iohn Cobler, Dericke, and the Theefe.

Der. Heare you my Lord, I pray you bring the bar to the prisoner.

Judge. Hold thy hand vp at the barre.

Theefe. Here it is my Lord.

Judge. Clarke of the Office, reade his inditement.

Clarke. What is thy name?

Theefe. My name was knowne befoze I came here, And shall be when I am gone, I warrant you.

Judge. I, I thinke so, but we will know it better befoze thou go.

Der. Solwes and you do but send to the next Gaile, We are sure to know his name,

For this is not the first prison he hath bene in, ile warrant Clarke. What is thy name? (you.

Theef. What need you to aske, and haue it in writing.

Clarke. Is not thy name Cutbert Cutter?

Theefe. What the Diuell need you ask, and know it so well.

Clarke. Why then Cutbert Cutter, I indite thee by the name of Cutbert Cutter, for robbing a poore carrier the 20 day of May last past, in the fourteen yeare of the raigne of our soueraigne Lord King Henry the fourth, for setting vpon a poore Carrier vpon Gads hill in Kent, and hauing beaten and wounded the said Carrier, and taken his goods from him.

Der. Oh maisters stay there, nay lets neuer belie the man, for he hath not beaten and wounded me also, but hee hath beaten and wounded my packe, and hath taken the great rale of Ginger, that bouncing Wesse with the iolly buttocks should haue had, that grieues me most.

Judge. Well, what sayest thou, art thou guiltie, or not guiltie?

Theefe. Not guiltie, my Lord.

Judge. By whom wilt thou be tride?

Theefe.

Theefe. By my Lord the young Prince, or by my selfe whether you will.

Enter the young Prince, with Ned and Tom.

Hen. 5. Come away my lads, Gogs wounds ye villain, what make you here? I must goe about my businesse my selfe, and you must stand loptering here.

Theefe. Why my Lord, they haue bound me, and will not let me goe.

Hen. 5. Haue they bound this villain, why how now my Lord?

Iudge. I am glad to see your grace in good health.

Hen. 5. Why my Lord, this is my man,
His maruell you knew him not long before this,
I tell you he is a man of his hands.

Theefe. I Gogs wounds that I am, try me who dare

Iudge. Your Grace shal finde small credit by acknowledging him to be your man.

Hen. 5. Why my Lord, what hath he done? (Carrier.

Iud. And it please your Maiesie, he hath robbed a poore

Der. Heare you sir, marry it was one Dericke, Goodman Hoblings man of Kent.

Hen. 5. What wast you butten-breech?
Of my word my Lord, he did it but in iest.

Der. Heare you sir, is it your mans qualitie to rob folkes in iest? In faith, he shall be hangd in earnest.

Hen. 5. Well my Lord, what do you meane to do with my man?

Iudge. And please your grace, the law must passe on him,
According to iustice, then he must be executed.

Der. Heare you sir, I pray you, is it your mans qualite to rob folkes in iest? In faith he shall be hangd in iest.

Hen. 5. Well my Lord, what meane you to do with my man?

Iudge. And please your grace the law must passe on him,
According to iustice, then he must be executed.

Sc. IV.

Hen. 5. Why then belike you meane to hang my man?
Iudge. I am sozrie that it falles out so.

72 Hen. 5. Why my Lord, I pray ye who am I?

Iud. And please your Grace, you are my Lord the yong
Prince, our King that shall be after the deceale of our souer-raigne Lord, King Henry the fourth, whom God graunt 76 long to raigne.

Hen. 5. You say true my Lord:
And you will hang my man.

Iudge. And like your grace, I must needs do iustice.

80 Hen. 5. Tell me my Lord, shall I haue my man?

Iudge. I cannot my Lord.

Hen. 5. But will you not let him go?

Iud. I am sozrie that his case is so ill.

84 Hen. 5. Tush, case me no casings, shall I haue my man?

Iudge. I cannot, nor I may not my Lord.

Hen. 5. Say, and I shall not say, & then I am answered?

Iudge. No.

88 Hen. 5. No: then I will haue him.

He giueth him a boxe on the eare.

Ned. Gods woundes my Lord, shall I cut off his head?

Hen. 5. No, I charge you draw not your swords,

92 But get you hence, prouide a nople of Fusitians,

Away, be gone.

Exeunt the Theefe.

Iudge. Well my Lord, I am content to take it at your hands.

96 Hen. 5. Say and you be not, you shall haue more.

Iudge. Why I pray you my Lord, who am I?

Hen. 5. You, who knowes not you?

Why man, you are Lord chiefe Justice of England.

100 Iudge. Your Grace hath said truth, therfore in striking me in this place, you greatly abuse me, and not me onely, but also your father: whose liuely person here in this place
I do represent. And therfore to teach you what prerogatiues

times meane, I commit you to the Flēte, vntill we haue spoken with your father.

Hen. 5. Why then belike you meane to send me to the Flēte?

Iudge. I indeed, and therefore carry him away.

Exeunt Hen. 5. with the Officers.

Iudge. Tayler, carry the prisoner to Newgate againe, vntill the next Sises.

Iay. At your commandement my Lord, it shalbe done.

Enter Dericke and Iohn Cobler.

Der. Hownds maisters, heres adw,

When Princes must go to prison:

Why Iohn, didst euer see the like?

Iohn. O Dericke, trust me, I neuer saw the like. (ler,

Der. Why Iohn thou maist see what princes be in chol:
A Iudge a bore on the eare, He tel thee Iohn, O Iohn,
I would not haue done it for twentie shillings.

Iohn. No no, I, there had bene no way but one with
We should haue bene hangde. (vs,

Der. Faith Iohn, He tel thee what, thou shalt be my Lord chiefe Iustice, and thou shalt sit in the chaire,
And ile be the yong prince, and hit thee a bore on the eare,
And then thou shalt say, to teach you what prerogatiues
Heane, I commit you to the Flēte.

Iohn. Come on, He be your Iudge,
But thou shalt not hit me hard.

Der. No, no.

Iohn. What hath he done?

Der. Harry he hath robb Dericke.

Iohn. Why then I cannot let him go.

Der. I must needs haue my man.

Iohn. You shall not haue him.

Der. Shall I not haue my man, say no and you dare:
How say you, shall I not haue my man?

Iohn. No marry shall you not.

Iohn. No.

Der. Now atway simple fellow,
Why man, thou art Iohn the Cobler.

36

Iohn. No, I am my Lord chiefe Iustice of England.

Der. Oh Iohn, haste thou saist true, thou art indeed.

Iohn. Why then to teach you what prerogatiues mean
I commit you to the Flæte.

40

Der. Well I will go, but ysaith you gray beard knaue,

Iohn. But I maruell what will become of thee:

Der. Faith ile be no moze a Carrier.

Iohn. What wilt thou doe then?

Der. Ile dwell with thee and be a Cobler.

Iohn. With me, alaske I am not able to keepe thee,
Why thou wilt eate me out of doores.

Der. Oh Iohn, no Iohn, I am none of these great flouching fellows, that deuoure these great peeces of base and bziues, alaske a trifle serues me, a Woodcocke, a Chicken, or a Capons legge, or any such little thing serues me.

Iohn. a Capon, why man, I cannot get a Capon once a yeare, except it be at Christmas, at some other mans house, for we Coblers be glad of a dish of rootes.

Der. Rootes, why are you so good at rooting?
Say Cobler, weele haue you ringde.

John But Dericke, though we be so poore,
Yet will we haue in stoe a crab in the fire,
With nut-broome Ale, that is full stale,
Which wil a man quaille, and laie in the mire.

Der. A bots on you, and be but for your Ale, Gledwel with you, come lets away as fast as we can.

Exeunt.

Enter the yoong Prince, with Ned and Tom.

Hen.5. Come away sirs, Gogs wounds Ned,
Didst thou not see what a bore on the eare
I toke my Lord chiefe Justice?

Tom. By gogs blood it did me good to see it,
It made his teeth iarre in his head.

Enter sir Iohn Old-Castle.

Hen.5. How now sir Iohn Old-Castle,
What newes with you?

Ioh.Old. I am glad to see your grace at libertie,
I was come I, to visit you in prison.

Hen.5. To visit me, didst thou not know that I am a Princes son, why tis inough for me to looke into a prison, though I come not in my selfe, but heres such adoe now as dayes, heres prisoning, heres hanging, whipping, and the diuel and all: but I tel you sirs, when I am king, we will haue no such things, but my lads, if the old king my father were dead, we would be all kings.

Ioh.Old. He is a good olde man, God take him to his mercy the soner.

Hen.5. But Ned, so soone as I am king, the first thing
I will do, shall be to put my Lord chief Justice out of office,
And thou shalt be my Lord chiefe Justice of England.

Ned. Shall I be Lord chiefe Justice?
By gogs wounds, ile be the bravest Lord chiefe Justice
That ever was in England.

Hen.5. Then Ned, ile turne all these prisons into fence
Scholes, and I will endue thee with them, with landes to

Sc. VI.

maintaine them withall : then I wil haue a bout with my 28 Lord chiefe Iustice, thou shalt hang none but picke purses and hose stealers, and such base minded villaines, but that fellow that will stand by the high way side couragiously 32 with his sword and buckler and take a purse, that fellow giue him commendations, beside that, send him to me and I will giue him an annuall pension out of my Exchequer, to maintaine him all the dayes of his life.

10h. Nobly spoken Harry, we shall neuer haue a mery
 36 world til the old king be dead.

Ned. But whither are ye going now ?

Hen. 5. To the Court, for I heare say, my father lies ve-40 rie sicke.

Tom. But I doubt he wil not die.

Hen. 5. Yet will I goe thither, for the bzeath that be no 44 soner out of his mouth, but I wil clap the Crowne on my head.

10ckey. Will you goe to the Court with that cloake so full of needles ?

Hen. 5. Cloake, ilat-holes, needles, and all was of mine
 48 owne deuiling, and therefore I wil weare it.

Tom. I pray you my Lord, what may be the meaning thereof ?

Hen. 5. Why man, tis a signe that I stand vpon thorns,
 52 til the Crowne be on my head.

10c. O that euery needle might be a prick to their harts that repine at your doings.

Hen. 5. Thou saist true Iockey, but thers some wil say, 56 the yong Prince will be a well toward yong man and all this geare, that I had as leaue they would breake my head with a pot, as to say any such thing, but we stand prating here so long, I must needs speake with my father, therfore come away.

60 Porter. What a rapping keep you at the Kings Court gate ?

Hen. 5

Hen. 5. Heres one that must speake with the King.

Por. The King is verie sick, and none must speake with him.

Hen. 5. So you rascall, do you not know me?

Por. You are my Lord the yong Prince,

Hen. 5. When goe and tell my father, that I must and will speake with him.

Ned. Shall I cut off his head?

Hen. 5. No, no, though I would helpe you in other places, yet I haue nothing to do here, what you are in my fathers Court.

Ned. I will write him in my Tables, for so soone as I am made Lord chiefe Iustice, I wil put him out of his Office.

The Trumpet sounds.

Hen. 5. Gogs wounds sir, the King comes,
Lets all stand aside.

Enter the King, with the Lord of Exeter.

Hen. 4. And is it true my Lord, that my sonne is already sent to the flecte? now truly that man is moze fitter to rule the Realme then I, for by no meanes could I rule my sonne, and he by one word hath caused him to be ruled. Oh my sonne, my sonne, no soner out of one prison, but into another, I had thought once whiles I had liued, to haue seene this noble Realme of England flourish by thee my sonne, but now I see it goes to ruine and decaye.

He wepeth.

Enters Lord of Oxford.

Ox. And please your grace, here is my Lord your sonne, that cometh to speake with you,
He saith, he must and wil speake with you.

Hen. 4. Who my sonne Harry?

Ox. I and please your Maiestie.

Hen. 4. I know wherefore he cometh,
But loke that none come with him.

Oxf. And please your grace,
 My Lord the King, sends so: you.

Hen. 5. Come away sirs, lets go all togither.

Oxf. And please your grace, none must go with you.

Hen. 5. Why I must needs haue them with me,
 Otherwise I can do my father no countenance,
 Therefore come away.

Oxf. The King your father commaunds
 There should none come.

Hen. 5. Well sirs then be gone,
 And prouide me three Hoys of Musitians.

Exeunt knights.

Enters the Prince with a dagger in his hand.

Hen. 4. Come my sonne, come on a Gods name,
 I know wherefoze thy comming is,
 Oh my sonne, my sonne, what cause hath cuer bene,
 That thou shouldst forsake me, and follow this vilde and Reprobate company, which abuseth youth so manifestly:
 Oh my sonne, thou knowest that these thy doings
 Will end thy fathers dayes.

He weepes.

I so, so, my sonne, thou fearest not to approach the presence of thy sick father, in that disguised sort, I tel thee my sonne, that there is neuer a needle in thy cloke, but it is a prick to my heart, & neuer an ilat-hole, but it is a hole to my soule:
 and wherefoze thou bringest that dagger in thy hande I know not, but by coniecture.

He weepes.

Hen. 5. My conscience accuseth me, most soueraign Lord, and welbeloued father, to answere first to the last point,
 That

That is, whereas you coniecture that this hand and this dagger shall be armed against your life: no, know my beloved father, far be the thoughts of your sonne, sonne said
 I, an unworthie sonne for so good a father: but farre be the thoughts of any such pretended mischief: and I most humbly render it to your Graciesties hand, and live my Lord and soueraigne for ever: and with your dagger arme how like vengeance upon the bodie of that your sonne, I was about say and dare not, ah woe is me therefore, that your wilde slave, tis not the Crowne that I come for, sweete father, because I am unworthie, and those wilde & reprobate coun-pany I abandon, & utterly abolish their company for ever.
 Pardon sweete father, pardon: the least thing and most desire: and this rustianly cloake, I here teare from my backe, and sacrifice it to the diuel, which is maister of al mischief:
 Pardon me, sweet father, pardon me: god my Lord of Exeter speak for me: pardon me, pardon god father, not a word:
 ah he wil not speak one word: A Harry, now thrice unhappie Harry. But what shal I do? I wil go take me into some solitarie place, and there lament my sinfull life, and when I haue done, I wil laie me downe and die.

Exit.

Hen. 4. Call him againe, call my sonne againe.

Hen. 5. And doth my father call me againe: now Harry,
 Happie be the time that thy father calleth thee againe.

Hen. 4. Stand by my son, and do not think thy father,
 But at the request of thee my sonne I wil pardon thee,
 And God blesse thee, and make thee his servant.

Hen. 5. Thanks god my Lord, & no doubt but this day,
 Euen this day, I am bozne new againe.

Hen. 4. Come my son and Lords, take me by the hands.

Enter Lord of Exeter and Oxford.

Exc. Come castly my Lord, for waking of the King.

Hen. 4. Now my Lords.

Oxf. How doth your Grace feele your selfe?

Hen. 4. Somewhat better after my sleepe,

But god my Lords take off my Crowne,

Remoue my chaire a litle backe, and set me right.

Ambo. And please your grace, the crown is take away.

Hen. 4. The Crowne taken away,

God my Lord of Oxford, ga se who hath done this deed:

So doubt tis some wilde traitor that hath done it,

Who depraue my sonne, they that would do it now,

Would seeke to scrape and scrawle for it after my death.

Enter Lord of Oxford with the Prince.

Oxf. Here and please your Grace,

Is my Lord the young Prince with the Crowne.

Hen. 4. Why helow now my sonne?

I had thought the last time I had you in schooling,

I had given you a lesson for all,

And do you now begin againe?

Why tel me my sonne,

Doest

44 Doeſt thou thinke the time ſo long,
 That thou wouldeſt haue it befoze the Bzeath be out of my mouth :

Hen. 5. Goſt ſoueraign Lord, and welbeloued father,
 48 I came into your Chamber to comfozt the melancholy
 Soule of your bodie, and finding you at that time
 Paſt all recouerie, and dead to my thinking,
 God is my witneſſe : and what ſhould I do,
 But with weeping tears lament y death of you my father,
 52 And after that, ſeeing the Crowne, I tooke it:
 And tel me my father, who might better take it then I,
 After your death : but ſeeing you liue,
 I moſt humbly render it into your Maieſties hands,
 56 And the happieſt man aliuie, that my father liue:
 And liue my Lord and Father, foꝛ euer.

Hen. 4. Stand vp my ſonne,
 Thine anſwere hath ſounded wel in mine eares,
 60 Foꝛ I muſt need confeſſe that I was in a very ſound ſleepe,
 And alſogither bnmindful of thy comming :
 But come neare my ſonne,
 And let me put thee in poſſeſſion whilſt I liue,
 64 That none depprue thee of it after my death.

Hen. 5. Well may I take it at your maieſties hands,
 But it ſhal neuer touch my head, ſo long as my father liues.

 But now I haue it from you, and from you I wil keepe it:
 And he that ſeekes to take the Crowne from my head,
 Let him looke that his armour be thicker then mine,
 76 O, I will pearce him to the heart,

Where

Where it harder then brasse oz bollion.

Hen. 4. Nobly spoken, and like a king.
 How trust me my Lords, I feare not but my sonne
 Will be as warlike and victorious a Prince,
 As euer raigned in England.

L. Ambo. His former life shewes no lesse.

Hen. 4. wel my lords, I know not whether it be fo: slepe,
 Or draweing neare of doowlie summer of death,
 But I am verie much giuen to slepe,

Theefe. Ah God, I am now much like to a Bird
 Which hath escaped out of the Cage,
 For so soone as my Lord chiefe Iustice heard
 That the old King was dead, he was glad to let me go,
 For feare of my Lord the yong Prince:
 But here comes some of his companions,
 I wil see and I can get any thing of them,
 For old acquaintance.

Enter Knights raunging.

Tom. Gogs wounds, the King is dead.

Ioc. Dead, then gogs blod, we shall be all kings.

Ned. Gogs wounds, I shall be Lord chiefe Justice
 Of England.

Tom. Why how, are you broken out of prison?

Ned. Gogs wounds, how the villaine stinkes,

Ioc. Why what wil become of thee now?

When he was crowned:
He thought his seate was like the figure of heaven,
And his person like unto a God.

28

Ned. But who would haue thought,
That the king would haue change his countenance so ?

32

Ioc. Did you not see with what grace
He sent his embassage into France: to tel the French king
That Harry of England hath sent for the Crowne,
And Harry of England wil haue it.

Tom. But twas but a litle to make the people believe
That he was so for his fathers death.

The Trumpet sounds.

36

Ned. Gods wounds, the king comes,
Lets all stand aside.

Enter the King with the Archbishop, and the Lord of Oxford.

Ioc. How do you my Lord ?

40

Ned. How now Harry ?

44

But my Lord, put away these dumps,
You are a king, and all the realme is yours :
What man, do you not remember the old sayings,
You know I must be Lord chiefe Justice of England,
Trust me my lord, me thinks you are very much changed,
And tis but with a litle sorrowing, to make folkes believe
The death of your father grieues you,
And tis nothing so.

48

Hen. 5. I prethee Ned, mend thy maners,
And be more modest in thy tearmes,
For my vnfained grace is not to be ruled by thy flattering
And

And dissembling falke, thou saist I am changed,
So I am indeed, and so must thou be, and that quickly,
Or else I must cause thee to be chaunged.

Ioc. Gogs wounds how like you this?

Downes tis not so swæte as Musicke.

Tom. I trust we haue not offended your grace no way.

Hen. 5. Ah Tom, your former life græues me,
And makes me to abandō & abolish your company for euer
And therfore not vpo pain of death to approach my presence
By ten miles space, then if I heare wel of you,
It may be I wil do somewhat for you,
Otherwise loke for no more fauour at my hands,
Then at any other mans: And therfore be gone,
We haue other matters to talke on.

Exeunt Knights.

Now my good Lord Archbishop of Canterbury,
What say you to our Embassage into France?

Archb. Your right to the French Crowne of France,
Came by your great grandmother Izabel,

Wife to King Edward the third,
And sister to Charles the French King:

Now if the French king deny it, as likely inough he wil,
Then must you take your sword in hand,
And conquer the right.

Let the vsurped Frenchman know,
Although your predecessors haue let it passe, you wil not:
For your Country men are willing with purse and men,
To aide you.

Then my good Lord, as it hath bene alwaies knoene,
That Scotland hath bene in league with France,
By a sort of pensions which yearly come from thence,
I thinke it therfore best to conquere Scotland,
And the I think that you may go more easly into France:
And this is all that I can say, My good Lord, Winchester

Hen. 5. I thanke you, my good lord Archbishop of Can-

What say you my good Lord of Oxford ?

Oxf. And please your Maiestie,
I agree to my Lord Archbishop, saving in this,
He that will Scotland win, must first with France begin:
According to the old saying. (France,
Therefore my good Lord, I thinke it best first to invade
For in conquering Scotland, you conquer but one,
And conquere France, and conquere both.

Enter Lord of Exeter.

Exc. And please your Maiestie,
My Lord Embassadoe is come out of France.

Hen.5. Now trust me my Lord,
He was the last man that we talked of,
I am glad that he is come to resolute vs of our answer,
Commit him to our presence.

Enter Duke of Yorke.

Yorke. God save the life of my soueraign Lord the king.

Hen.5. Now my good Lord the Duke of Yorke,
What newes from our brother the French King?

Yorke. And please your Maiestie,
I deliuered him my Embassage,
Whereof I toke some deliberation,
But for the answer he hath sent,
My Lord Embassadoe of Burges, the Duke of Burgony, Monsieur le Cole, with two hundred and fiftie horsemen,
To bring the Embassage.

Hen.5. Commit my Lord Archbishop of Burges
Into our presence.

Enter Archbishop of Burges.

Now my Lord Archbishop of Burges,
We do learne by our Lord Embassadoe,
That you haue our message to do
From our brother the French King:
Here my good Lord, according to our accustomed order,
We giue you free libertie and license to speake,

With

With good audience.

Archb. God saue the mightie King of England,
 My Lord and maister, the most Christian king,
 Charles the seuenth, the great & mightie king of France,
 As a most noble and Christian king,
 Not minding to shed innocent blood, is rather content
 To yeeld somewhat to your vnrasonable demaunds,
 That if fittie thousand crownes a yeare with his daughter
 The said Ladie Katherine, in marriage,
 And some crownes which he may wel spare,
 Not hurting of his kingdome,
 He is content to yeeld so far to your vnrasonable desire.

Hen. 5. Why then belike your Lord and maister,
 Thinks to pusse me vp with fiftie thousand crowns a pere,
 So tell thy Lord and maister,
 That all the crownes in France shall not serue me,
 Except the Crowne and kingdome it selfe:
 And perchance hereafter I wil haue his daughter.

He deliuereth a Tunne of Tennis balles.

Archb. And it please your Maiestie,
 My Lord Prince Dolphin grats you well,
 With this present.

He deliuereth a Tunne of Tennis Balles.

Hen. 5. What a guilded Tunne?
 I pray you my Lord of Yorke, looke what is in it?
 Yorke. And it please your Grace,
 Here is a Carpet and a Tunne of Tennis balles.

Hen. 5. A Tunne of Tennis balles?
 I pray you good my Lord Archbishop,
 What might the meaning thereof be?

Archb. And it please you my Lord,
 A messenger you know, ought to keepe close his message.
 And specially an Embassadoꝝ.

Hen. 5. But I know that you may declare your message
 To a king, the law of Armes allowes no lesse,

Hen. 5. My lord prince Dolphin is very pleasant with 156 But tel him, that in steed of balles of leather, (me:
 We wil tesse him balles of brasse and yron,
 Pea such balles as neuer were tost in France,
 The proudest Tennis Court shall rue it.
 I and thou Prince of Burges shall rue it.
 160 Therfoze get the hence, and tel him thy message quickly,
 Least I be there befoze thee: Away prest, be gone.

Archb. I beseech your grace, to deliuer me your safe

Hen. 5. I truly my Lord, and for reuengement,
I haue chosen you to be my Protector ouer my Realme,
Until it shall please God to giue me spædie returne
Out of France.

Iust. And if it please your Maiestie, I am far vnworthie
Of so high a dignitie.

Hen. 5. Tut my Lord, you are not vnworthie,
Because I thinke you worthie:
For you that would not spare me,
I thinke wil not spare another,
It must needs be so, and therefore come,
Let vs be gone, and get our men in a readinesse.

I hope not to present any otherwise then well.

King. I tell thee my sonne,
Although I should get the victorie, and thou lose thy life,
I should thinke my selfe quite conquered,
And the English men to haue the victorie.

Dol. Why my Lord and father,
I would haue the pettie king of England to know,
That I dare encounter him in any ground of the world.

King. I know well my sonne,
But at this time I will haue it thus:
Wherefoze come away.

Exeunt omnes.

Enters Henry the fifth, with his Lords.

Hen. 5. Come my Lords of England,
No doubt this good lucke of winning this Towne,
Is a signe of an honourable victorie to come.

With all speed, to number the hoast of the French men,
And by that meanes we may the better know
How to appoint the battell,

8

Yorke. And it please your Maiestie,
There are many of your men sicke and diseased,
And many of them die for want of victuals.

Hen. 5. And why did you not tell me of it before?
If we cannot haue it for money,
We will haue it by dint of sword,
The lawe of Armes allow no lesse.

Oxf. I beseech your grace, to graunt me a boone,

Hen. 5. What is that my good Lord?

Oxf. That your grace would giue me the Quaintgard in the battell,

Hen. 5. Trust me my Lord of Oxford, I cannot:
For I haue already giue it to my vncke the Duke of York,
Yet I thanke you for your good will.

A Trumpet soundes.

How now, what is that?

Yorke. I thinke it be some Herald of Armes.

Enters a Herald.

24

Herald. King of England, my Lord high Constable,
And others of the Noble men of France,
Sends me to desie thee, as open enemy to God,
Our Countrey, and vs, and hereupon,
They presently bid thee battell.

28

Hen. 5. Herald tell them, that I desie them,
As open enemies to God, my Countrey, and me,
And as wzonfull vsurpers of my right:
And whereas thou saist they presently bid me battell,
Tell them that I thinke they know how to please me:
But I pray thee what place hath my Lord Prince Dolphin
Here in battell.

Herald. And it please your grace,

My Lord and King his father,
Will not let him come into the field.

Hen. 5. Why then he doth me great iniurie,
I thought that he & I shuld haue plaid at tennis togither,
Wherefore I haue brought tennis balles for him,
But other maner of ones then he sent me.
And Herald, tell my Lord Prince Dolphin,
That I haue inured my hands with other kind of weapons
Then tennis balles, ere this time a day,
And that he shall finde it ere it be long,
And so adue my friends:
And tell my Lord, that I am readie when he will.

Exit Herald.

Come my Lords, I care not and I go to our Captaines,
And ile see the number of the French army my selfe.
Strike vp the Drumme.

Exeunt omnes.

Enter French Souldiers.

1. Soul. Come away Jack Drummer, come away all,
And me will tel you what me wil do,
We wil tro one chance on the dice,
Who shall haue the king of England and his lords.
2. Soul. Come away Jacke Drummer,
And tro your chance, and lay downe your Drumme.

Enter Drummer.

Drum. Oh the bzaue apparel that the English mans
Hay broth ouer, I wil tel you what
We ha douue, me ha prouided a hundred trunkeas,
And all to put the fine parel of the English mans in.

1. Soul. What do thou meane by trunkeas?

2. Soul. A shest man, a hundred shests.

1. Soul. Awee, awee, awee, We wil tel you what,
We ha put five shilozen out of my house,
And all to litle to put the fine apparel of the English mans in.

Drum. Oh the braue, the braue apparel that we shall haue anon, but come, and you shall see what me wil fro
 At the kings Drummer and Fife,
 Ha, me ha no good lucke, fro you.

3. Sol. Faith me wil fro at y^e Earle of Northumberland
 And my Loyd a Willowby, with his great hoyle,
 Snorting, farting, oh braue hoyle.

1. Sol. Ha, but Ladie you ha reasonable good lucke,
 How I wil fro at the king himselfe,
 Ha, me haue no good lucke.

Enters a Captaine.

Cap. How now what make you here,
 So farre from the Campe?

2 Sol. Shal me tel our captaine what we haue done here?
 Drum. Awa, awa.

Exeunt Drum, and one Souldier.

2. Sol. I wil tel you what we haue done,
 We haue bene froing our chance on the Dice,
 But none can win the king.

Cap. I thinke so, why he is left behind for me,
 And I haue set three or foure chaire makers a worke,
 To make a new disguised chaire to set that womanly
 King of England in, that all the people may laugh
 And scoffe at him.

2. Soul. Oh braue Captaine.

Cap. I am glad, and yet with a kinde of pittie
 To see the poore king:
 Why who euer saw a more flourishing armie in France
 In one day, then here is? Are not here all the Peeres of France? Are not here the Normans with their fire hand, Gunnes, and launching Curtieares?
 Are not here the Barbarians with their hard hoyses,
 And lanching speares?
 Are not here Richardes with their Crosholwes & piercing Dartes,

The

The Hennes with their cutting Glaues and sharpe Carbuckles.

Are not here the Lance knights of Burgondie?
And on the other side, a site of poye English scabs?
Why take an English man out of his warme bed
And his ale drinke, but one moneth,
And alas what wil become of him?
But giue the Frenchman a Reddish roste,
And he wil liue with it all the dayes of his life.

Exit.

2. Soul. Oh the bzaue apparel that we shall haue of the English mans.

Enters the king of England and his Lords.

Hen. 5. Come my Lords and fellowes of armes,
What company is there of the French men?

Oxf. And if please your Maiestie,
Our Captaines haue numbred them,
And so neare as they can indge,
They are about threescoze thousand horsemen,
And fortie thousand footemen.

Hen. 5. They threescoze thousand,
And we but two thousand.
They threescoze thousand footemen,
And we twelue thousand.

They are a hundred thousand,
And we fortie thousand, ten to one:
Oy Lords and louing Country men,
Though we be fewe and they many,
Feare not, your quarrel is god, and God wil defend you:
Blucke vp your hearts, for this day we shall either haue
A valiant victorie, or a honourable death.
Now my Lords, I wil that my vncle the Duke of Yorke,
Haue the auantgard in the battell.

 28 Furthermore, I wil that my Lord of Willowby,
 And the Earle of Northumberland,
 With their troupes of hoysmen, be continually running like Wings on both sides of the army:
 32 My Lord of Northumberland, on the left wing
 When I wil, that every archer prouide him a stake of
 A tree, and sharpe it at both endes,
 And at the first encounter of the hoysmen,
 36 To pitch their stakes downe into the ground befoze them,
 That they may goze themselues vpon them,
 And then to recoyle backe, and shote wholly altogether,
 And so discomfit them.

40 Oxf. And it please your Maiestie,
 I wil take that in charge, if your grace be therewith content.

Hen. With all my heart, my good Lord of Oxford:
 And go and prouide quickly.

44 Oxf. I thanke your highnesse.

Exit.

Hen. 5. Well my Lords, our battels are ordeined,
 And the French making of bonfires, and at their bankets,
 But let them looke, for I meane to set vpon them.

The Trumpet soundes.

48 Soft, heres comes some other French message.

Enters Herald.

Herald. King of England, my Lord high Constable,
 And other of my Lords, considering the poore estate of thee
 And thy poore Countrey men,
 52 Sends me to know what thou wilt giue for thy ransome:
 Perhaps thou maist agree better cheape now,
 Then when thou art conquered.

Hen. 5.

Sc. XIV.

Hen.5. Why then belike your high Constable,
Sends to know what I wil giue for my ransome :
How trust me Herald, not so much as a tun of tennis bals
No not so much as one poore tennis ball,
Rather shall my bodie lie dead in the field, to feed crows,
When euer England shall pay one penny ransome
For my bodie.

Herald. A kingly resolution.

Hen.5. No Herald, tis a kingly resolution,
And the resolution of a king :
Here take this for thy paines.

Exit Herald.

But stay my Lords, what time is it ?

All. Prime my Lord.

Hen.5. Then is it good time no doubt,
For all England praith for vs :
What my Lords, me thinks you loke chærfullly vpon me :
Why then with one voice and like true English hearts,
With me throw vp your caps, and for England,
Cry S. George, and God and S. George helpe vs.

Strike Drummer. Exeunt omnes.

The French men crie within, S. Dennis, S. Dennis, Mount Ioy S. Dennis.

The Battell.

Enters King of England, and his Lords.

Hen.5. Come my Lords come, by this time our Swords are almost drunke with French blood,
But my Lords, which of you can tell me how many of our Army be slaine in the battell ?

Oxf. And it please your Maiestie,
There are of the French armie slaine,
Above ten thousand, twentie fire hundred,
Whereof are Princes and Nobles bearing banners :
Besides, all the Nobilitie of France are taken prisoners.

Hen. 5. For the good Duke of Yorke my vnckle,
I am heartily sozie, and greatly lament his misfortune,
Yet the honourable victorie which the Lord hath giuen vs,
Doth make me much reioyce. But staie,
Here comes another French message.

Sound Trumpet.

Enters a Herald and kneeleth.

Her. God saue the life of the most mightie Conqueror,
The honourable king of England.

Hen. 5. Now Herald, me thinks the world is changed
With you now, what I am sure it is a great disgrace for a Herald to kneele to the king of England,
What is thy message?

Her. My Lord & maister, the conquered king of France,
Sends thee long health, with heartie greeting.

Hen. 5. Herals, his greetings are welcome,
But I thanke God for my health:

Tell Herald, say on.

Herald. He hath sent me to desire your Maiestie,
To giue him leaue to go into the field to view his poore
Country men, that they may all be honourably buried.

Hen. 5. Why Herald, doth thy Lord and maister
Send to me to burie the dead?

Let him bury them a Gods name.

But I pray thee Herald, where is my Lord his Constable,
And those that would haue had my ransom?

Herald. And it please your maiestie,
He was slaine in the battell.

Hen. 5. Why you may see, you will make your selues
Sure before the victorie be wonne, but Herald,
What Cattle is this so nere adioyning to our Campe?

Herald. And it please your Maiestie,

It is

Sc. XV.

It is cald the Castle of Agincourt.

Hen. 5. Well then my lordz of England,
For the more honour of our English men,
I will that this be for ever cald the battell of Agincourt.

Herald. And it please your Maiestie,
I haue a further message to deliuer to your Maiestie.

Hen. 5. What is that Herald: say on.

Her. And it please your Maiestie, my Lord and maister, Craves to parley with your Maiestie.

Hen. 5. With a good will, to some of my Nobles
Gie to the place for feare of trecherie and treason.

Herald. Your grace needs not to doubt that.

Exit Herald.

Hen. 5. Well, tell him then, I will come.
Now my lordz, I will go into the field my selfe,
To view my Country men, and to haue them honourably Buried, for the French King shall neuer surpasse me in Courtesie, whiles I am Harry King of England.
Come on my lordz.

Exeunt omnes.

Enters Iohn Cobler, and Robbin Pewterer.

Robin. Now, Iohn Cobler,
Didst thou see how the King did behane himselfe?

Iohn. Wat Robin, didst thou see what a pollicie
The King had, to see how the French men were kild
With the stakes of the trees.

Robin. I Iohn, there was a brane pollicie.

Enters an English souldier, roming.

Soul. What are you my maisters?

Both. Why we be English men.

Soul. Are you English men, then change your language
For the Kings Wents are set a fire,
And all they that speake English will be kild.

and takes him prisoner.

Dericke. O good Mounser.

French man. Come, come, you villaine.

Der. O I will sir, I will.

Frenchman. Come quickly you peasant.

Der. I will sir, what shall I giue you?

French. Harry thou shalt giue me,

One, to, tre, foure, hundred Crownes.

8

Der. Nay sir, I will giue you moze,

I will giue you as many crowns as wil lie on your sword.

French Wilt thou giue me as many crowns

As will lie on my sword?

12

Der. I marrie will I, I but you must lay downe your Sword, or else they will not lie on your sword.

Here the Frenchman laies downe his sword, and the clowne takes it vp, and hurles him downe.

Der. Thou villaine, darest thou looke vp?

French. O good Mounsier comparteue.

16

Monsieur pardon me.

Der. O you villaine, now you lie at my mercie,

Dost thou remember since thou lambst me in thy throat?

O villaine, now I will strike off thy head.

Here whiles he turnes his backe, the French man runnes his wayes.

20

Der. What is he gone, masse I am glad of it,
For if he had staid, I was afraid he wold haue sturd again,
And then I should haue bene spilt,
But I will atway, to kill moze Frenchmen.

Enters King of France, King of England, and attendants.

Sc. XVIII.

Hen. 5.

Hen. 5. Now my good brother of France,
 My coming into this land was not to shed blood,
 But for the right of my Countrey, which if you can deny,
 I am content peaceably to leaue my siege,
 And to depart out of your land.

Charles. What is it you demand,
 My louing brother of England?

Hen. 5. My Secretary hath it written, read it.
 Secretary. Item, that immediately Henry of England
 Be crowned King of France.

Charles. A very hard sentence,
 My good brother of England.

Hen. 5. No more but right, my good brother of France.
 French King. Well read on.

Secret. Item, that after the death of the said Henry,
 The Crowne remaine to him and his heires for euer.

French King. Why then you do not onely meane to Dispossesse me, but also my sonne.

Hen. 5. Why my good brother of France,
 You haue had it long inough :

And as for Prince Dolphin,
 It skils not though he sit beside the saddle :
 Thus I haue set it downe, and thus it shall be.

French King. You are very peremptorie,
 My good brother of England.

Hen. And you as peruerse, my good brother of France.

Charles. Why then belike, all that I haue here is yours.

Hen. 5. I euen as far as the kingdom of France reaches

Charles. I for by this hote beginning,
 We shall scarce bring it to a calme ending.

Hen. 5. It is as you please, here is my resolution.

Charles. Well my brother of England,
 If you will giue me a coppie,

We will meeete you againe to morrow.

Exit King of France, and all their attendants.

Hen.5. With a good will my good brother of France.
 Secretary deliuer him a coppie.
 My lordes of England go befoze,
 And I will follow you. Exeunt Lords,

Speakes to himselfe,

40

Hen.5. Ah Harry, thizice vnhappie Harry.
 Hast thou now conquered the French King,
 And begins a fresh supply with his daughter,
 But with what face canst thou seeke to gaine her loue,
 Which hath sought to win her fathers Crowne?
 Her fathers Crowne said I, no it is mine owne:
 I but I loue her, and must craue her,
 Nay I loue her and will haue her.

44

Enters Lady Katheren and her Ladies.

48

But here she comes:
 How now faire Ladie, Katheren of France,
 What newes?

52

Kathren. And it please your Maiestie,
 My father sent me to know if you will debate any of these Unreasonable demands which you require:

56

Hen.5. Now trust me Kate,
 I commend thy fathers wit greatly in this,
 For none in the world could sooner haue made me debate it
 If it were possible:
 But tell me swæte Kate, canst thou tell how to loue?

60

Kate. I cannot hate my good Lord,
 Wherefoze far buist were it for me to loue.

64

Hen.5. Tush Kate, but tell me in plaine termes,
 Canst thou loue the King of England:
 I cannot do as these Countries do,
 That spend halfe their time in wooing:
 Tush wench, I am none such,
 But wilt thou go ouer to England?

Kate. I would to God, that I had your Maiestie,
 As fast in loue, as you haue my father in warres,

I would not vouchsafe so much as one looke,
 Attill you had related ali these unreasonable demands.

Hen. 5. With Kate, I know thou wouldst not vse me so Hardly: But tell me, canst thou lene the king of England?

Kate. How should I loue him, that hath dealt so hardly
 With my father.

Hen. 5. But ile deale as easily with thee,
 As thy heart can imagine, or tongue can require,
 How saist thou, what will it be?

Kate. If I were of my owne direction,
 I could giue you answer:
 But seeing I stand at my fathers direction,
 I must first know his will.

Hen. 5. But shal I haue thy good wil in the mean season?

Kate. Whereas I can put your grace in no assurance,
 I would be loth to put you in any dispaire.

Hen. 5. Now before God, it is a swete wench.

She goes aside, and speakes as followeth.

Kat. I may thinke my selfe the happiest in the world,
 That is beloued of the mightie King of England.

Hen. 5. Well Kate, are you at hoast with me?

Swete Kate, tel thy father from me,
 That none in the world could sooner haue perswaded me to
 It then thou, and so tel thy father from me.

Kat. God keepe your Maiestie in good health.

Exit. Kat.

Hen. 5. Farwel swete Kate, in faith, it is a swete wench,
 But if I knew I could not haue her fathers good wil,
 I would so rowle the Towres over his eares,
 That I would make him be glad to hzing her me,
 Upon his hands and knees.

Der. But once kild, why it tis nothing,
I was foure or fve times slaine.

Iohn. Foure or fve times slaine.

12 Why how couldst thou haue bene aline now?

Der. O Iohn, neuer say so,

For I was cald the bloodie souldier amongst them all.

Iohn. Why what didst thou?

16 Der. Why I will tell thee Iohn,

Euery day when I went into the field,

I would take a straw and thrust it into my nose,

And make my nose bleed, and then I wold go into the field,

20 And when the Captaine saw me, he would say,

Peace a bloodie souldier, and bid me stand aside,

Whereof I was glad:

But marke the chance Iohn.

24 I went and stood behinde a tree, but marke then Iohn,

I thought I had bene safe, but on a sodaine,

There steps to me a lustie tall French man,

How he drew, and I drew,

28 How I lay here, and he lay there,

How I set this leg befoze, and turned this backward,

And I kipped quite ouer a hedge,

And he saw me no moze there that day,

32 And was not this well done Iohn?

Iohn. Gasse Dericke, thou hast a wittie head.

Der. I Iohn, thou maist see, if thou hadst take my counsel,
But what hast thou there?

I thinke

I thinke thou hast bene robbing the French men.

Iohn. I faith Dericke, I haue gotten some reparrell
To carry home to my wife.

Der. And I haue got some shoes,
For ile tel thee what I did, when they were dead,
I would go take off all their shoes.

Iohn. I but Dericke, how shall we get home?

Der. Nay sownds, and they take thee,
They wil hang thee,
O Iohn, neuer do so, if it be thy fortune to be hangd,
We hangd in thy owne language whatsoeuer thou doest.

Iohn. Why Dericke the warres is done,
We may go home now.

Der. I but you may not go befoze you aske the king leaue,
But I know a way to go home, and aske the king no leaue.

Iohn. How is that Dericke?

Der. Why Iohn, thou knowest the Duke of Yorkes
Funerall must be carried into England, doest thou not?

Iohn. I that I do.

Der. Why then thou knowest weele go with it.

Iohn. I but Dericke, how shall we do soz to meet them?

Der. Sownds if I make not shift to meet them, hang me.

Sirra, thou knowest that in euery Towne there wil

We ringing, and there wil be cakes and drinke,

Now I wil go to the Clarke and Sexton

And keepe a talking, and say, O this fellow rings well,

And thou shalt go and take a peece of cake, then ile ring,

And thou shalt say, oh this fellow keepes a good tint,

And then I will go drinke to thee all the way:

But I maruel what my dame wil say when we come home,

Because we haue not a French word to cast at a Dog

By the way?

Iohn. Why what shall we do Dericke?
