

ATHENÆ OXONIENSES.

THE HISTORY

OF THE

WRITERS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF OXFORD,

FROM THE YEAR OF OUR LORD, 1500.

[681]

JOHN DOBSON, a minister's son, was born in Warwickshire, became demy of Magdalen college about 1653, perpetual fellow in 1662, being then master of arts and a most celebrated preacher; and in the year after he did repeat memoriter, in Dominica in Albis, the four Easter sermons to the wonder of the auditory, in the university church of St. Mary's. In the month of September the same year (1663) he was expelled the university, for being author of a libel in vindication of doctor Thomas Pierce against doctor Henry Yerbury; so that all the credit that he before had gained by his preaching, was lost among some: but being soon after restored, he continued in his college, took the degree of bachelor of divinity, and afterwards became rector of Cold Higham near to Toucester in Northamptonshire, and of Corscomb in Dorsetshire, by the favour of sir William Farnor of Easton Neston, sometime his pupil (if I mistake not) in Magdalen college. He hath written,

VOL. IV.

Queries upon Queries: or Enquiries into Certain Queries upon Doctor Pierce's Sermon at Whitehall, February the first. Lond. 1663. in two sheets in quarto.

Doctor Pierce his Preaching confuted by his Practice. Sent in a Letter by N. G. to a Friend in London.—This was printed in half a sheet in quarto, [Bodl. 4to. Rawl. 128.] and was first published in Oxon. the twenty eighth of August 1663. It is written in prose and verse: the beginning of the first is, 'Dear George, I send thee a copy of a lampoon upon the president of Maudlin's,' &c. and the beginning of the other, which is the lampoon, runs thus,

B

'Near to the ford, o'er which an ass
Or an ox at least did pass,' &c.

[682]

About eight or ten days after was published in Oxon, another libel entitled, Doctor Pierce his Preaching exemplified in his Practice. Or, an Antidote to the Poison of a scurrilous Pamphlet sent by N. G. to a Friend in London, &c. [Bodl. C. 13. 9. Linc.] Which libel, though written by doctor Pierce, yet Dobson took it upon him, upon a close inquisition after the author, to save the doctor: whereupon the vicechancellor by his Bannimus dated the tenth day of September 1663, stuck up in public places in the university, did expel the said Dobson, and discommune for ever the bookseller called Edmund Thorne living near the East-Gate of Oxon, for selling the said libel or libels. Our author Dobson hath also publish'd, 1681.

Sermon at the Funeral of the Lady Mary Farmor, Relict of Sir William Farmor Baronet, who died at London the eighteenth of July 1670, and was buried the fifth of August following at Easton-Neston in Northamptonshire; on 1 Thes. 4. 13. London 1670. [Bodl. 4to. T. 43. Th.] He died in the beginning of the year sixteen hundred eighty and one, but where he was buried, unless at Corscomb, I know not.

[Dobson died June 9, 1681, an. ætatis suæ xliii. From his epitaph in MS. LOVEDAY.]

TIMOTHY TAYLOR, son of Thomas Taylor of Hempsted in Hertfordshire, was born in that county, became a student in Queen's college 1626, aged seventeen years, took the degrees in arts, that of master being compleated in 1634, (at which time he was of St. Mary's hall) holy orders, and then became vicar of Almeley in Herefordshire, where he preached twice every Sunday; but the chancellor of the diocese commanding him to turn his afternoon's sermon into a catechism lecture, he upon that occasion settled himself to study the second commandment more elaborately and industriously than before he had done, and so became dissatisfied concerning episcopacy and the ceremonies of the church. Afterwards being troubled in the bishops court for non-conformity, he did by consent leave Almeley, and lived about three years in a small peculiar exempt from episcopal jurisdiction called Longdon in Shropshire; where continuing till the rebellion began, he sided with the presbyterians, and afterwards with the independents, and became pastor to a congregational church at Duckenfield in Cheshire. Thence removing into Ireland about 1650, at which time he took the engagement, he became minister of Carickfergus there, and much resorted to by presbyterians and independents. After the restoration of his majesty king Charles the second, he was silenced, and thereupon removing to his hired house called the Grange near Carickfergus, carried on the trade of preaching in private, whereby he gained a comfortable subsistence. In 1668 he removed to Dublin, took charge of a church of dissenters there, as colleague with Samuel Mather, and after his death with Nathaniel Mather his brother, and continued in that employment till his death. He hath written,

A Defence of sundry Positions and Scriptures alledged, to justify the congregational Way. London 1645. quarto. It contains about 130 pages.

Defence of sundry Positions and Scriptures for the congregational Way justified, the second Part. London 1646. It contains about 46 pages. The running title on the top of every leaf is Congregational Way justified. In the composition of both which books he had the joint help of Sam. Eaton of Cheshire. Soon after was published by a presbyterian minister called Richard Hollingworth of Manchester in Lancashire, a book entit. Certain Queries propounded to such as affect the congregational Way, and especially to Mr. Samuel Eaton, and Mr. Timothy Taylor, &c. Lond. 1646. quarto. What other things our author Taylor hath published, I know not, nor any thing else of him, only that he died of a lethargy on the thirty first of May in sixteen hundred eighty and one, and that he was buried on the third of June following in the church of St. Michan in Oxmantowne near to Dublin.

1681.

[683]

GEORGE NEWTON, a minister's son, was born in Devonshire, entred a batler of Exeter college, in Michaelmas term 1617, aged sixteen years or thereabouts, took the degrees in arts, that of master being compleated in 1624, entred into holy orders, became minister of Hill-Bishops near Taunton, and in April 1631 was made vicar of Taunton St. Magdalen, by the presentation of sir William Portman baronet, and Robert Hill gent. After his settlement in that vicaridge, he behaved himself conformable for a time; but upon the breaking out of the rebellion, he sided with the presbyterians, having always been puritannically educated, preached against the king, and his followers, when Taunton was garrison'd for the parliament, and became a mighty man in that interest, and much followed and adored by factious people. In 1654, he was by ordinance appointed one of the assistants to the commissioners for the ejecting of such whom the godly party called scandalous, ignorant and insufficient ministers and schoolmasters; in which employment he sufficiently gave an helping hand to the undoing of many loyal persons; and afterwards by his and the preaching of other presbyterians and independents (who ridiculously make preaching only their religion) the said town of Taunton became the most factious place in all the nation. In 1662, about St. Bartholomew's day, he was deprived of his vicaridge for nonconformity, and for the present that place was supplied by Mr. Thomas James fellow of All-soules college in Oxon, much frequented by the loyal party there, and by the gentry adjoining. Afterwards our author Newton preaching in several conventicles very seditiously, he was seised on, imprison'd for several years, and justly suffer'd as a mover of sedition. He hath written and published,

An Exposition with Notes unfolded and applied on John 17. delivered in Sermons preached weekly on the Lord's Day in the Congregation in Taunton Magdalene. London 1660. in a pretty large folio. It is dedicated to colonel John Gorges, governour of the city of London-Derry in Ireland, whom the author calls his brother.

Several sermons, as (1) Magna Charta: or, the Christian's Charter epitomized; on Psalm 91. 16. London 1661. in twelves. (2) Sermon at the Funeral of Mr. Joseph Allein; on Luke 23. 28. Lond. 1672. [1673. Bodl. 8vo. C. 254. Linc.] and 77. oct. &c.

~ An Account of the godly Life and Practice of Mr. Joseph Allein, and of the Course of his Ministry in Taunton. London 1672, and 77. octavo. See more in Joseph Allein among these writers, vol. iii, col. 819. This George Newton died in sixteen hundred eighty and one, and was buried in the chancel of the church of Taunton St. Magdalene. Soon after was a monument, with an inscription, put over his grave: the contents of which follow. Hic jacet Corpus Georgii Newton Artium Magistri, qui obiit 12 Junii, 1681, anno ætatis 79, postquam Officium Evangelistæ in hoc oppido (viz. Taunton) per 50 annos fideliter præstiterat.

Non fictis mœstam lachrymis conspergite tumbam,

Pastoris vestri nam tegit ossa pii.

Vestra Salutifero planxit peccata flagello

Delicti sensu corda gravata levans.

Absolvat pensum sancti & mercede recepta

Nunc cœli regno, ut stella corusca micat.

GEORGE WHARTON, descended from an antient and genteel family living in Westmorland, richly possess'd with lands and inheritances therein, was born at Kirby-Kendal in that county the fourth of April 1617, spent some time in the condition of a sojourner in Oxon. 1633, and after, but his natural geny to astronomy and mathematics was so predominant, that little or nothing of logic and philosophy could take place in him. Afterwards he retired to his patrimony, prosecuted his genius (which was assisted by William Milbourne curate at Branspeth near Durham) and by the name of George Naworth (Wharton) of West-Awckland published almanacks: But being soon discontented at the then growing rebellion, he turned all his inheritance into money, espoused his majesty's cause and interest, and raised a gallant troop of horse therewith. After several generous hazards of his person in battle, he was at last, "on or about March the twenty first 1645," totally routed by the rebellious party near Stow on the Woud in Gloucestershire, where the noble and valiant sir Jacob Astley was taken prisoner, and himself received several scars of honour, which he carried to his grave. Afterwards he retired to Oxon, the then seat of his majesty, and had, in recompence of his losses, conferr'd upon him an employment under sir John Heydon then lieutenant general of the ordnance, which was to receive, and pay off, money for the service of the magazine and artillery; at which time Edward Sherburne gentleman (afterwards a knight) was commissary general of the said artillery. It was then, that at leisure hours, he followed his studies, was esteemed a member of Queen's college, being entred among the students there, and might, with other officers, have had the degree of master of arts confer'd on him by the members of the venerable convocation, but he neglected it. After the surrender of the garrison of Oxon, at which time the king's cause did dayly decline, our author Wharton was put to his shifts, and lived as opportunity served, went to the great city, lived as privately as he could, and wrote several small things for a livelyhood. But they giving offence to the great men then in power,¹ he was several times seized on, and imprison'd, as in the Gate-house at Westminster, in Newgate, and at length in Windsor Castle: At which time being threatned with greater punishment, he found William Lilly, his antagonist, a friend. After his majesty's restoration he became treasurer and pay-master to the office of his majesty's ordnance, repaid Lilly his curtesy, gained so well by his employment, that purchasing an estate, he was, in consideration of his former sufferings under, and for, king Charles the first, and for particular services to king Charles the second, created a baronet, by patent dated the thirty first of December 1677; which honour, his son sir Polycarpus Wharton now enjoys. Sir George was always esteemed the best astrologer that wrote the ephemerides of his time, and went beyond William Lilly, and John Booker, the idols of the vulgar, was a constant and thropac'd loyallist, a boon companion, a witty droll and waggish poet. He hath written,

Hemeroscopions, or Almanacks from 1640 to 1666.—Printed all in octavo. The six first came out under the name of George Naworth, and therefore by Lilly usually called Noworth. The rest (that for 1646 being, as it seems, omitted) came partly out under the name of captain George Wharton, and partly under George Wharton esq;.* In that Almanack which he published in 1644, he began to fill the blank leaves of the respective months with chronological notes; which continuing so (now and then interruptedly) till 1657, he then put them at the end of every Almanack, under the title of Gesta Britannorum, and commenced them from 1600, whereas before they were but from December 1641. These gests are all, or most part, involved in an octavo book called The Historian's Guide, &c. In all the said Almanacks is a great deal of satyrical poetry, reflecting on the times and rebellious persons thereof; which since hath been collected together and printed in his works.

¹ [A° 1647, 25 Sept. Ordered, that it be referred to the committee of the militia to examine and find out who were the authors, publishers, printers, venders of the two pamphlets, one intituled No Merlin nor Mercury, but a new Almanack &c. by Capt. Geo. Wharton, Student in Astronomy; the other, Bellum Hibernicæ, &c. and that they take effectual course to seise and suppress them, &c. and to examine concerning the wardens of the company of stationers giving money to one Gyles for the use of capt. Wharton for them.] Journals of the House of Commons, vol. v. page 316 COL.]

[685]

Mercurio-cælico Mastix: or, an Anti-caveat to all such, as have (heretofore) had the Misfortune to be cheated and deluded, by that great and traitorous Impostor John Booker, in an Answer to his frivolous Pamphlet, entitled—Mercurius Cælicus: or, a Caveat to all the People of England. Oxon. 1644. in twelve sheets in quarto.

England's Iliads in a Nutshel: or, a brief Chronology of the Battels, Sieges, Conflicts, &c. from December 1641, to the twenty fifth of March 1645. Oxon. 1645. octavo. Taken from his Almanacks for 1644, and 45. Mostly involv'd also in the said Hist. Guide, &c.

An astrological Judgment upon his Majesty's present March, begun from Oxon 7 May 1645.—Printed in qu. [At Oxford, 1645. Bodl. 4to. W. 4. Art. BS.]

Bellum Hybernicale: or Ireland's War Astrologically demonstrated from the late celestial Congress of two malevolent Planets, Saturn and Mars, in Taurus, the Ascendent of that Kingdom, &c.—Printed 1647. qu.

Merlini Anglici Errata. Or the Errours, Mistakes, &c. of Mr. William Lilly's new Ephemeris for 1647.—Printed 1647.

Mercurius Elencticus: communicating the unparalleled Proceedings at Westminster, the Headquarters, and other Places, &c.—Printed by stealth in London. This Mercury, which began the twenty ninth of October 1647, came out sheet by sheet every week in quarto; and continuing interruptedly till the fourth of April 1649, it came out again with number 1, and continued till towards the end of that year. I have seen several things that were published under the name of Mercurius Elencticus, particularly, "The Anatomy of Westminster Juncto: or a Summury of their Designs against the King, City and Kingdom—printed (1648) in "one sheet and half quarto; and also" the first and second part of The last Will and Testament of Philip Earl of Pembroke, &c. Printed 1649, quarto, but whether George Wharton was the author of them I know not.

A List of the Names of the Members of the House of Commons: observing which are Officers of the Army, contrary to the self-denying Ordinance, together with such Sums of Money, Offices and Lands, as they have given to themselves for Service done, and to be done, against the King and Kingdom—Printed in one sheet in quarto, 1648. It was all taken from the first part of The History of Independency, written by Clement Walker. In the said list are the names of an hundred persons; and to it was added a second century, by the same author Wharton, printed on one side of a sheet of paper, the same year, and subscribed M. El. i. e. Mercurius Elencticus. The reader is to note, that in 1657, and 58, came out Two Narratives of the late Parliament (so called) their Election and Appearing, &c. with the Account of the Places of Profit, Salaries and Advantages which they hold and receive under the present Power, &c.—Printed in quarto, but by whom they were written I know not. Sure it is that the author borrows several things from the said History of Independency, and the said List, or Two Centuries; and from them all put together, doth borrow the author of another book entit. The Mystery of the good old Cause, briefly unfolded in a Catalogue of such Members of the late Long Parliament that held Offices both Civil and Military, &c. Lond. 1660. octavo. Who the author of this Mystery was, I cannot yet tell: Sure it is, if sir William Dugdale told me right, that Clement Spelman,² who was cursitor baron, published about the same time a Character of the Oliverians, on one side of a sheet; which Clement (after he had written and published a large preface to his father's (sir Henry Spelman) book, De non temerandis Ecclesiis, and some other little things (as I suppose) he concluded his last day in June (after Whitsontide) an. 1679: whereupon his body was buried in St. Dunstan's church in Fleetstreet London. George Wharton hath also written,

A short Account of the Fasts and Festivals, as well of the Jews as Christians, &c.

The Cabal of the twelve Houses Astrological, from Morinus—Written 1659, and approved by Will. Oughtred.

A learned and useful Discourse teaching the right Observation, and Keeping of the holy Feast of Easter, &c. written 1665.

Apotelesma: or, the Nativity of the World, and Revolution thereof.

Short Discourse of Years, Months, and Days of Years.

Something touching the Nature of Eclipses; and also of their Effects.

Of the Crises in Diseases, &c.

Of the Mutations, Inclinations and Eversions of Empires, Kingdoms, &c.

Discourse of the Names, Genus, Species, &c. of all Comets.

Tract teaching how Astrology may be restored, from Morinus, &c.

Secret Multiplication of the Effects of the Stars, from Cardan.

Sundry Rules, shewing by what Laws the Weather is governed, and how to discover the various Alterations of the same.—He also translated from Latin into English, The Art of Divining, by the Lines and Signatures, engraven in the Hand of Man, &c. written by John Rothman M.D. Lond. 1652. octavo. [Bodl. 8vo. R. 13. Art. BS.] This is sometimes called Wharton's Chiromancy. Most of which foregoing treatises, were collected together and published, an. 1683, in octavo, by John Gadbury, born at Wheatley near to, and in the county of, Oxon, the thirty first of December 1627, son of William Gadbury of that place farmer, by his stol'n wife the daughter of sir John Curson of Waterperry knight, bound an apprentice to Thomas Nicholls a taylor living in the parish of St. Peter in the Bayly in Oxon, left him after the great fire happed in that city 1644, and having a natural genius to the making of almanacks, improved it at London under William Lilly, then called the English Merlin, and afterwards set up the trade of almanack-making, and fortune-telling for himself; in which he became eminent.⁵ Our author Wharton hath also written, Select and choice Poems——Composed during the civil war, which I have before-mention'd. At length dying in his house at Endfield in Middlesex, on the twelfth day of August, about one or two in the morning, in sixteen hundred eighty and one, and was buried on the twenty fifth of the same month, in the chappel of St. Peter ad vincula within the Tower of London, leaving then behind him the character of a most loyal and generous chevalier.

² [See Secretary Thurloc's State Papers, as publ. by Birch, vol. vii. page 870.]

[686]

JOHN TROUGHTON, son of Nathaniel Troughton a clothier, was born in the city of Coventry, educated in the free-school there under ⁵ [John Gadbury quondam taylor to Will. Lilly, is a monster of ingratitude. Life of Will. Lilly, p. 35. The graceless Gadbury wrot the contrary, but semel et semper nebulo et mendax. WOOD, MS. Note in Ashmole.

'Accidentally I spoke with Mr. Gadbury, who is extremely incens'd against you. He tells me what you have wrote, and I am sorry for it, for he was civil to you, and is an ingeniose loyall person. He says that you have printed lyes concerning him, and he wonders you should meddle with him, having never been of the university.' Original Letter from Aubrey to Wood, dated Aug. 20, 1692, among Tanner's collections in the Bodleian library, No. 451.

'I wonder at nothing more then y^t Mr. Gadbury should take it amiss of those things y^t I say of him, for whereas y^e generality of scholars did formerly take him to have been bred an academian because he was twice at Oxon. and so consequently not to be much admir'd, now their eyes beinge opened and knowing y^t his edication hath been mechanical, they esteem him a prodigie of parts, and therefore are much desirous y^t his picture may hang in the public gallery at y^e schooles. Pray reecomend me to him, and desire him, y^t if I speake any things y^t are untrue, he may rectifie them: put them into y^r hands and to be sent to me.

'Sent in a letter to Mr. Aubrey to be com'unicated to Mr. Gadbury, in the latter end of Nov. 1692.' In Ant. a Wood's hand. MS. Ballard, in the Bodleian, xiv. 99.

Mr. Gadbury lived in Brick court, College street, Westminster, and was buried in the vault in St. Margaret's church, Westminster, March 28, 1704.

See in the Catal. MSS. Angl. et Hib. ii. 221, the titles of four MSS. 'Joannis Gadburii motuum cœlestium supputatoris peritissimi.'

Samuel Frankland, became scholar of St. John's college, an. 1655, afterwards fellow and bachelor of arts; but upon the restoration of king Charles the second, being ejected, to make room for one who had been expell'd by the visitors in 1648, he retired to a market-town in Oxfordshire commonly called Bister; where living a moderate nonconformist, read academical learning to young men, and sometimes preached in private, whereby he got a comfortable subsistence. Upon the issuing out of his majesty's declaration for the toleration of religion, dated the fifteenth of March 1671, this Mr. Troughton was one of those four (Dr. Henry Langley, and Thomas Gilbert, and Henry Cornish, bachelors of divinity, being the other three) who were appointed by the principal heads of the brethren to carry on the work of preaching within the city of Oxon. The place where they held their meetings was in Thamestreet, without the north-gate, in an house which had been built, a little before the civil war began, by Thomas Pun, alias Thomas Aires; where each person endeavouring to shew his parts, this our author Troughton was by the auditory of scholars (who came among them ineerly out of novelty) held the best, and was by them most applauded. The truth is, though the man had been blind, occasion'd by the small pox, ever since he was four years old, yet he was a good school divine and metaphysician, and was much commended while he was in the university for his disputations. He was not of so busy, turbulent, and furious a spirit, as those of his persuasion commonly are, but very moderate: And although he often preached as occasions offer'd themselves in prohibited assemblies, yet he did not make it his business by employing all the little tricks and artifices, too frequently practised by other hot-headed zealots of his fraternity, viz. by vilifying and railing at the established ordinances of the church, libelling the conformable ministry, by keeping their meetings at the very time when the services and administrations of the church are regularly performing, &c. He did not, I say, by these and such like most unwarrantable contrivances endeavour to withdraw weaker persons from the sacred bosom of the church, in order to fix and herd them in associated defying conventicles. He was respected by, and maintained an amicable correspondence with, some of the conformable clergy, because of his great knowledge and moderation. He hath written and published, Lutherus Redivivus: or, the Protestant Doctrine of Justification by Faith only, vindicated. And the plausible Opinion of Justification by Faith and Obedience proved to be Arminian, Popish, and to lead unavoidably to Socinianism. Part 1. London 1677. oct. This is reflected on by Thomas Hotchkis in his preface to the second part of A Discourse concerning imputed Righteousness, &c. London 1678. octavo.

Lutherus Redivivus: or, the Protestant Doctrine of Justification by Christ's Righteousness imputed to Believers, explained and vindicated. Part 2. Lond. 1678. octavo.

[687]

Letter to a Friend touching God's Providence about sinful Actions; in Answer to a Letter entitled, The Reconcilableness of God's Prescience, &c. and to a Postscript of that Letter. London 1678. octavo.

Popery the grand Apostasy. Being the Substance of certain Sermons preached on 2 Thess. 2. from ver. 1. to 12, on Occasion of the desperate Plot of the Papists against the King, Kingdom and Protestant Religion. To which is added a Sermon on Rev. 18. 4. preached 5 Nov. 1678. Lond. 1680. octavo.

An Apology for the Nonconformists, shewing their Reasons, both for their not Conforming and for their Preaching publicly, tho' forbidden by Law. Lond. 1681. quart.

An Answer to Dr. Stillingfleet's Sermon, and his Defence of it; and so much as concerneth the Nonconformists preaching.—Printed with the Apology. This learned and religious person Mr. John Troughton died in an house of one of the brethren, situate and being in All-saints parish within the city of Oxon, on the twentieth of August in sixteen hundred eighty and one, aged forty four years; whereupon his body was carried to Bister before-mentioned, alias Burchester, and buried in the church there. At which time Abraham James a blind man, master of the free-school at Woodstock (sometime of Magdalen hall) preaching his funeral sermon did take occasion not only to be lavish in the commendations of the defunct, but to make several glances on the government establish'd by law.*

1681.

[688]

* So that an auditor there named Sam. Blackwell, M. A. and vicar of Bister (a zealous man for the church of England) complaining to the diocesan of him, James was glad to retract what he had said before him, to prevent an ejection from his school, which otherwise would inevitably have come to pass. First edit.⁴

Now I am got into the name of Troughton, I cannot, without the guilt of concealment, but let the reader know this story of one of that name, which is this. While his majesty king Charles the first, of ever blessed memory, was a prisoner at Carisbrook in the Isle of Wight, an. 1648, he was his own chaplain, as not thinking it fit to accept of any of the presbyterian ministers upon that account, albeit, as occasion offered, he thanked, and was civil to them, when they applied themselves to him for that purpose. Among others one Troughton, who was chaplain to colonel Robert Hammond governour of the Isle of Wight, and preacher to the soldiers of the garrison of Carisbrook, would many times be in the presence chamber when his majesty was at dinner: And though he was a young man, yet he was a scholar, had good education, and would argue notably in defence of some tenets he held in opposition to certain ceremonies and discipline in the episcopacy. The king usually after meals would walk for near an hour, and take many turns in the presence-chamber; and when he found the chaplain there, he would pleasurable enter into disputation with him, and the chaplain would be very earnest in defence of his opinion. The king never check'd him for his confidence, but allowed him his liberty, and would be very pleasant and merry with him. The king being a good logician, and well read in history and matters of controversy, gained ground of his opponent, and would please himself with one passage which happened, and that was this. During their discourse, the chaplain then standing at the end of the presence-chamber, between a lieutenant of the garrison (who had a sword in his hand, and was earnestly listning to what the king said in the debate) and a gentleman who was not known there, the king in the heat of his discourse, suddenly disarmed the lieutenant by taking the sword out of his hand, which made him look strangely, and the more when his majesty drew it, for that put the chaplain into a fright also, he not imagining the reason, until the stranger (better understanding the king's meaning) fell upon his knees, and the king laying the naked sword upon his shoulder, confer'd upon him the honour of knighthood, telling him withal, it was to perform a promise to his relations. This stranger's name was John Duncomb of Battlesdon in Bedfordshire esq; who was afterwards a servant to king Charles the second,⁵ sworn a member of his privy council the twenty second of May 1667, being then, or about that time, one of the commissioners of his majesty's treasury, and at length, upon the resignation of sir Anthony Ashley Cooper, chancellor and under-treasurer of the Exchequer, about the twentieth of November 1672. As for the chaplain Troughton, though Thomas Herbert, then one of the grooms of his majesty's bedchamber (from whom I had this story) could not tell me his Christian name, yet I take it to be William, and to be the same William Troughton, who afterwards was beneficed in Salisbury in the time of Oliver, silenced for nonconformity after his majesty's restoration, lived there several years after keeping his conventicles, as he did afterwards at Bristol, and now, if living, in or near London, where we shall leave him for the present, till an opportunity may be had to make farther mention of him.

CHARLES GIBBES, the sixth son of sir Ralph Gibbes, was born at Hunnington in Warwickshire, near to a market town called Shipson in Worcestershire, on the 4th of Nov. 1604, admitted

[689]

⁴ [Wood has scored out this sentence and written in the margin, 'Mr. Blackwell denies this.' See his own copy in Ashmole.]

⁵ [Duncomb was a judicious man, but very haughty, and apt to raise enemies against himself. He was an able parliament man; but could not go into all the designs of the court; for he had a sense of religion, and a zeal for the liberty of his country. Burnet, Hist. of his own Time, i, 265.]

a student in this univ. in the beginning of 1620, and taking the degree of bach. of arts in the latter end of 1622, was chosen probationer-fellow of Merton coll. two years after; where going thro' the severe exercise then used, (since, especially after the restoration of king Charles II. much decayed) he became a noted disputant, orator and quaint preacher. In Apr. 1638 he was presented by the warden and fellows of his coll. to the rectory of Gamlinghay in Cambridgeshire, and thereupon leaving the house he settled there, without hopes of being translated to another place. At length being involv'd in great troubles for his loyalty, he resign'd that rectory in 1647 to prevent sequestration, retired to Canterbury and taught a private school there with good success. After the blessed time of his majesty's restoration, he was made parson of Stanford-Rivers in Essex,⁶ which he enjoyed 21 years, prebendary of Westminster, which he kept 19 years, and doctor of div. by creation of this university. He hath written and published,

Thirty and one Sermons preached to his Parishioners of Stanford-Rivers in Essex, upon several Subjects and Occasions. Lond. 1677. qu. [Bodl. B. 17. 10. Linc.] He also took a great deal of pains in collecting and fitting for the press several Sermons and Discourses of Dr. Walt. Raleigh (who married the sister of this our author Gibbes) but before they were finished, he paid his last debt to nature; which hapning at Stanford-Rivers on the 16th of Sept. in sixteen hundred eighty and one, was buried in the church there, leaving then behind him the character of a loyal and religious person; and of a charitable and a good neighbour.

RICHARD ALLEIN, son of Rich. All. rector of Dicheat or Dichet in Somersetshire, was born there, entred a commoner of S. Alb. hall in Mich. term 1627, aged 16 years, took the degree of bach. of arts, went to New inn, being puritanically affected, and not only compleated that degree by determination, as a member thereof, but continued there, in the study of the supreme faculty, till after he was master of arts. At length taking holy orders, he assisted his father, and became a frequent preacher in his own country. In the middle of March 1641, at which time he shew'd himself a zealous person for the blessed cause then driving on, he became rector of Batcombe in the same county, in the place of Rich. Bernard deceased (who had held that rectory from Novemb. 1613 to that time) where, being settled, he became a preacher up of sedition, a zealous covenanteer, (and therefore several times disturb'd by the cavaliers in those parts) and one of the number that subscribed The Tes- timony of the Ministers of Somersetshire to the Truth of Jesus Christ and to the solemn League and Covenant. Printed at Lond. 1648. qu. In 1654 he, with his father, were constituted assistants to the commissioners appointed by parliament for the ejection of such whom they and their brethren called scandalous, ignorant and insufficient ministers and schoolmasters in the same county; in which office they shew'd themselves severe enough: But upon his majesty's restoration our author Allein putting a curb to his activity, was soon after ejected for nonconformity. So that removing from place to place for a time, he settled at length at Frome-Selwood, where he remained, not without preaching sometimes in private, to his dying day. He hath written and published, Vindiciæ Pietatis: or, a Vindication of Godliness in the greatest Strictness and Spirituality of it, from the Imputations of Folly and Fancy; on Ephes. 5. 15. and on Joh. 1. 47. Lond. 1664. and 69. oct.

⁶ [Carolus Gibbs A. M. admiss. ad eccl. de Stanford Rivers, com. Essex 30 Apr. 1661, per resign. Joh. Meredith, ad pres. regis.]

Steph. Upman admiss. ad eand. 3 Nov. 1681, per mort. Caroli Gibbs. KENNET.]

Several Directions for the Attaining and Maintaining of a godly Life. Lond. 1669. Printed with Vindiciæ Pietatis.

The Godly Man's Portion and Sanctuary: being a second Part of Vindiciæ Pietatis; on Psal. 4. 9. Lond. in oct.

Heaven opened: or, a brief and plain Discovery of the Riches of God's Covenant of Grace: Being the third Part of Vindiciæ Pietatis. Lond. in oct.

The World Conquered: or, a Believer's Victory over the World, laid open in several Sermons, on 1 Joh. 5. 4. Being the fourth Part of Vind. Pietat. Lond. 1668. oct.⁸ All which pieces were printed together at London 1671 in oct. and were entit. The Works of Mr. Rich. Allein in four Parts. Dedicated to the inhabitants of the parish of Batcombe.

Godly Fear: or, the Nature and Necessity of Fear, and its Usefulness; both to the driving Sinners to Christ, and to the provoking Christians on in a godly Life, through the several Parts and Duties of it till they come to Blessedness. Lond. 1674. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. P. 75. Th.] This book consists of sermons preached on several texts.

A Rebuke to Back-Sliders, and a Spur for Loiterers, in several Sermons lately preached to a private Congregation. Lond. 1677, &c. oct.

⁷ [His books call'd Vindiciæ Pietatis, tho' tending manifestly to promote true piety, yet could not be licens'd. They were greedily bought up and read by sober people, and have been very instrumental to mend the world. They were so saileable, that the king's bookseller caus'd a great part of the impression to be seized, because unlicensed, and so to be sent to the king's kitchen. From thence he bought them for an old song, bound them up, and sold them in his own shop. This was at length complain'd of, and he was forc'd to beg pardon upon his knees at the council table, and send them back again to the king's kitchen to be bisk'd, as I think the word is; that is, to be rub'd over with an inky brush. Calamy, Ejected Ministers, ii, 581.]

⁸ [An edit. Lond. 1676. Bodl. 8vo. Z. 61. Th.]

A Companion for Prayer: or, Directions for Improvement in Grace and practical Godliness in Times of extraordinary Danger. Lond. 1680. in tw.

Instructions about Heart-work. What is to be done on God's Part and our's, for the Cure and Keeping of the Heart, that we may live in the Exercise and Growth of Grace here, and have a comfortable Assurance of Glory to Eternity. Lond. 1682. oct. with a preface of Dr. Sam. Annesley, alias Aneley to it. To the second edit. of this, which came out in 1684, was added our author Allein's book entit. A Companion for Prayer, &c. He also had a hand in writing The Life of Joseph Allein, his kinsman, and digested, fitted for the press and published his Remains, &c. See more in the said J. Allein, among these writers, vol. iii. col. 819. At length this our zealous author concluding his last day at Frome-Selwood before-mention'd, in the house of one Rob. Smith (wherein he had lived several years and had kept conventicles) on the 22d of December in sixteen hundred eighty: and one, was buried in the church there, in, or about, the midst of the middle alley: At which time Rich. Jenkins M. of A. (sometimes of Gloc. hall) a lukewarm conformist and vicar of that place, (the same who married Tho. Thynne of Longleat esq; to Elizabeth countess of Ogle, heir to the illustrious family of Percy) preached his funeral sermon, containing many pathetical encomiums of him, having several times before also visited him in his sickness.

1631.

THOMAS HERBERT son of Christop. Herbert, son of Thomas Herbert sometime alderman of the city of York, descended (being a younger brother) from sir Rich. Herbert of Colebroke in Monmouthshire, knight, was born in Yorkshire, particularly, as I conceive, within the city of York, admitted commoner of Jesus coll. in 1621, under the tuition of Mr. Jenkin Lloyd his kinsman; but before he took a degree, his uncle called Dr. Ambr. Aikroyd fellow of Trin. coll. in Cambr. brother to his mother Jane (dau. of Jo. Aikroyd of Folkerthorpe in Yorkshire) invited him to that house, where his continuance being short, he went thence to London to wait upon that most noble count William earl of Pembroke, who owning him for his kinsman and intending his advancement, he sent him to travel in 1626, with allowance to defray his charges. So that spending some years in travelling into Africa and Asia the great, he did at his return wait on the said noble count; who inviting him to dinner the next day at Baynard's Castle in London, died suddenly that night, whereby his expectation of preferment from him being frustrated, he left England a second time and visited several parts of Europe. After his return he married, and settling in his native country, delighted himself more with the converse of the muses, than in the rude and brutish pleasures which most gentlemen follow. In the time of the rebellion he adhered to the cause of the parliament, and by the endeavours of Philip earl of Pembroke, he became not only one of the commissioners of parliament to reside in the army of sir Thomas Fairfax, but also a commissioner to treat with those of the king's side for the surrender of Oxford garrison. Afterwards he attended the said count, especially at that time (in Jan. 1646) when he with other commissioners were sent from the parliament to the king at Newcastle to treat about peace, and bring him nearer to London. When his majesty came thence and was settled at Holdenby in Northamptonshire, jealousies increased which begat fears; against which there was then no fence. The commissioners, pursuant to instructions, addressed themselves all together, on a certain time, unto the king, and acquainted him therewith, and humbly prayed his majesty to dismiss such of his servants as were there, and had waited upon him at Oxon. This their application was in no wise pleasing to the king, he having had long experience of the loyalty and good affection of those his servants, as it appeared by his countenance, and the pause he made, ere he gave the commissioners any answer. Howbeit, after some expostulation and deliberation, he condescended to what they proposed, they not opposing the continuance of Mr. Jam. Maxwell, and Mr. Patr. Maule their attendance upon his royal person, as grooms of his majesty's bedchamber, in which place they had several years served the king. Next day his majesty's servants came, as at other times, into the presence chamber, where all dinner time they waited; but after his majesty rose from dinner, he acquainted them with what had passed 'twixt him and the commissioners, and thereupon they all knelt and kissed his majesty's hand, and with great expressions of grief for their dismiss, they poured forth their prayers for his majesty's freedom and preservation, and so left Holdenby. All that afternoon the king withdrew himself into his bedchamber, having given orders that none should interrupt him in his privacy. Soon after this, his majesty purposing to send a message to the parliament; he, after dinner, called Philip earl of Pembroke to him and told him that he would have Mr. Herbert come into his chamber, which the earl acquainting the commissioners with, Mr. Tho. Herbert, our author, was brought into the bedchamber by Mr. Maxwell, and upon his knees desired to know the king's pleasure: He told him he would send a message to the parliament, and having none there that he usually employed, and unwilling it should go under his own hand, called him for that purpose. Mr. Herbert having writ as his majesty dictated, was enjoyn'd secrecy, and not to communicate it to any, until made public by both houses, if by them held meet; which he carefully observed. This errand was, as I conceive, His Majesty's Message for Peace, dated from Holdenby 12 May 1647. About a week after, the king was pleased to tell the commissioners, that seeing that Mr. Jam. Levingston, Hen. Moray,⁹ John Ashburnham, and Will. Legge were for the present dismiss, he had taken notice of Mr. Jam. Harrington and Mr. Tho. Herbert, who had followed the court from Newcastle, and having received satisfaction concerning their sobriety and education, he was willing to receive them as grooms of his bed-chamber, to wait upon his person with Mr. Maule and Mr. Maxwell; which the commissioners approving, they were that night admitted, and by his majesty instructed as to the duty and service he expected from them. So as they thenceforth attended his royal person, agreeable to that great trust, with due observance and loyalty, and were by Maule and Maxwell affectionately treated. Being thus settled in that honourable office and in good esteem with his maj. Mr. Herb. continued with him, when all the rest of the chamber were removed, till his majesty was, to the horror of all the world, brought to the block. It was then that Mr. Herbert was fully satisfied that the king was not the man that the presbyterians, independents, and other factious people (who obtained their ends by lies and slanders) made him to be. He clearly found that he was no papist, no obstinate person, no cruel or bloody man, no false dealer, &c. but purely a man of God, which made him in an high manner lament his untimely death. His majesty tho' he found him to be presbyterianly affected, yet withal he found him very observant and loving, and therefore intrusted him with many matters of moment, among which was his sending by him from the isle of Wight his gracious message to the parliament, which in the evening he gave sealed up to him (directed to the speaker of the lord's house) with a letter to his daughter the princess Elizabeth, who was then at St. James's with her governess. The wind was then averse, and much ado Mr. Herbert had to cross the sea. But no delay was suffer'd in regard the king had commanded him to hasten away, that his letters might be delivered next day before the lords rose. When he was landed at S. Hampton, he took post, and it may not be forgotten, that at one stage the postmaster (a malevolent person) understanding from whom the packet came, and that it required extraordinary speed, he mounted him upon an horse that had neither good eyes or feet, so as usually he stumbled much, which, with deep ways and dark weather, would have abated his hast and endanger the rider: Yet so it fell out by good providence, that the horse, albeit at full gallop most of that 12 miles riding, neither stumbled nor fell, at which the people at the next stage admired. The king's packet was within the time limited delivered to William lord Grey of Werk, at that time speaker. Which done, Mr. Herbert waited on the young princess at S. James's, who gave him her hand to kiss, and was overjoyed at his majesty's kind letter, to which her highness the next day returned an answer by the said Mr. Herbert, who at his arrival at Carisbroke, had the king's thanks for his diligence: And for a badge of the fair esteem that king Charles II. had of him 'for faithfully serving his royal father during the two last years of his life,' he did; after his restoration, by lett. pat. dat. 3 July 1660, advance him to the dignity of a baronet by the name of Thomas Herbert of Tinterne in Monmouthshire, because Little Tinterne about half a mile from Tinterne abbey was his own estate and the seat of Tho. Herbert before-mention'd. He hath written,

[691]

⁹ [Bishop Burnet calls him Henry Murray, and says he had been page and whipping boy to the king, and had great credit with him, not only in procuring private favours, but in all his counsels. See a not very favourable character of him History of his own Time, i, 244.]

A Relation of some Years Travels into Africa and the greater Asia, especially the Territories of the Persian Monarchy, and some Parts of the Oriental Indies and Isles adjacent. Lond. 1634. [Bodl. G. 5. 5. Th.] 38, [Bodl. H. 8. 13. Art.] &c. 1677. which is the fourth impression, wherein many things are added, which were not in the former. All the impressions are in fol. and adorn'd with cuts. He also, at the proposal of John de Laet his familiar friend living at Leyden, did translate some books of his India occidentalis, but certain business interposing, the perfecting of them was hindered. He left behind him at his death an historical account of the two last years of the life of king Ch. I. the martyr, which he entit.

Threnodia Carolina; written by him, an. 1678. in qu. on this account. viz. that the parliament a little before taking into their consideration of appointing 70 thousand pounds for the funeral of the said king, and for a monument to be erected over his grave, sir Will. Dugdale then garter king of arms, sent to our author sir Thomas living at York, to know of him whether ever the said king spoke in his hearing, where he would have his body bestowed in burial; to which sir Tho. returning a large answer, with many observations and things worthy of note concerning that king: Sir William thereupon being much taken with it, as containing many things which he never heard of before, did desire him by another letter to write a treatise of the actions and sayings of the said king from his first confinement to his death; which he did accordingly. About the same time, the author of this book, having occasion to write to sir Thomas for information of certain persons then, or about that time, attending the king, he thereupon sent him several letters in answer to his queries, with divers other matters by way of digression: which letters contain, as it seems, the chief contents of Thren. Car. and are several times quoted in this work. He also assisted the said

¹ [Reprinted by Dr. Charles Goodal, physician of the Charter-House, with some other tracts relating to Charles I, Lond. 1702, and lastly with a preface, Lond. 1813, 8vo.]

168;
[693]

sir Will. Dugdale in his compiling the third vol. of Monast. Anglic. as I shall tell you when I come to speak of that knight in the FASTI, an. 1642. At length this worthy person sir Thom. Herbert, who was a great observer of men and things in his time, died in his house at York on the first day of March (S. David's day) in sixteen hundred eighty and one, aged 76 years,² and was buried in the church there commonly called S. Crux or S. Cross, situated in the street called Fossegate.³ Over his grave was a monument soon after erected, by his widow Elizabeth, daughter of sir Gervas Cutler of Stainborough in Yorksh. knight, with a large inscription thereon. Wherein we are instructed that he took to his first wife, Lucia daughter of sir Walt. Alexander servant to king Charles I. by whom he had issue Philip, Henry heir to his father, Montgomery, Thomas, William, &c. This sir Thomas a little before his death gave several MSS. to the public library at Oxon, and others to that belonging to the cathedral at York; and in the Ashmolean musæum there are certain collections of his, which he made from the registers of the archbishops of York, given thereunto by sir W. Dugdale knight. I find one Tho. Herbert to be author of a poem entit. An Elegy upon the Death of Thomas Earl of Strafford, &c. Printed in one sh. in qu. an. 1641. but him I take not to be the same with our author sir Thomas, nor to be the same with sir Tho. Herbert knight, clerk of the council at Dublin, to Hen. Cromwell lord lieutenant of Ireland, an. 1657, 58.

With the said letters which the author of these ATHENÆ OXON. received from sir Tho. Herbert, he received from him an account of the last days of king Charles I. of ever-blessed memory, with an earnest desire, that if he should have any occasion to make mention of that most pious and good king, that he would by no means omit him for these reasons. (1) 'Because in the said account there are many things that have not been yet divulg'd. (2) That he was grown old, and not in such a capacity as he could wish to publish it, and (3) that if he should leave it to his relations to do it, they, out of ignorance or partiality, may spoil it. Upon his desire, and these reasons given, he did then promise him to find some place to receive it in a work that he was then consulting, which is this of the ATHENÆ OXONIENSES. And this place, under Tho. Herbert the author of that account, being most proper, as I conceive, it shall be here set down.

² [—Reliquiæ Tho. Herbert e nobili et antiqua Herbertorum de Colebrook in agro Manumethensi familia oriundi—ex hac luce pientissime emigravit 1 Die Martii anno Domini 1681, ætatis suæ 76. Drake's Elboracum, page 198-9. BAKER.]

³ [In St. Crux church, York, are several inscriptions of the Herbert family, which may be read in Drake. The family soon sunk into obscurity. Elizabeth, the widow of sir Thomas Herbert, took to her second husband Henry Edmunds of Worsbro' in the west riding of the county of York, esq. She was buried in the church at Worsbro' on the 16 May, 1696. HUNTER.]

How therefore the said king was taken out of the Scots hands at Newcastle and thence carried to Holdenby in Northamptonshire, and thence hurried away to the army and to Hampton Court, and thence frighted or jugged into the isle of Wight, and thence hurried to Hurst castle and afterwards to Windsor, I shall tell you hereafter in the FASTI following, in the history or characters of those men, that I shall there mention, who were actors in those matters. When his majesty was conveyed from Hurst castle to that of Windsor and there for a time settled, just before Christmas day, an. 1648, he seemed to take more delight than in any place he had been since his leaving Hampton-Court: For there he had the liberty to walk when and where he pleased within the castle, and on the large tarras without, which looks towards the coll. of Eaton, and hath a delightful view of the river Thames, of many pleasant hills and valleys, villages and fair houses far and near: so as no place in this kingdom may compare with it, save the little castle or lodge in Greenwich park, which has the sight of the great and noble city of London, the Thames, and ships of great burden daily under sail passing to and fro, with other things enumerated by John Barclay in his Argenis. The greatest part of the forenoon the king spent in prayer and other exercises of piety; and part of the afternoon he appointed for health by recreating himself in walking, usually on the tarras before-mentioned, the governor of the said castle coll. Chr. Whitcheot,⁴ as in other places, being for

4 [DR. BENJAMIN WHICHCOTE
In the church of St. Lawrence Jewry, London.
M. S.
Infra Insulam Mediam
In Cancellis situs est
Reverendus
BENJAMIN WHICHCOTE
Ex antiqua Prosapia
In Agro Salopiensi oriundus,
Olim apud
Cantabrigienses
Collegii Emmanuelensis Socius } Acceptissimus;
Regalis Præpositus }
Tandem hujusce Ecclesiæ Acceptissimus Vicarius.
Quæ (præter cætera) sua munia
Quanta cum laude, quali cum fructu præstitit,
Fama magni nominis longe lateque divulgata,
Vocalius et diutius durantisimo marmore, proclamabit.
Venerabilis iste Theologus,
Pro spectatissima Probitate,
Prudentia singulari, et Eruditione optima,
Doctrina perquam Divina, Vitaque pari Doctrinæ,
Laude omni major.
(Qualis qualis, quantus quantus fuit)
Post valetudinem prosperam diu habitam,
Morbo, potius quam Senectæ, fractus
(Annonum tamen ac Famæ et Opum satur)
Vitam minus vitalem cum meliori commutavit
Anno post Salutiferum Partum MDCLXXXIII,

[694]

the most part in his company (for want of others) to discourse with. None of the nobility, and but few of the gentry, were suffered to come into the castle to see the king, save only upon the Sundays to sermons in S. George's chappel, where the chaplain to the governor or garrison preached. Colonel Whitchcot behaved himself nevertheless very civilly towards the king, and his observance was taken notice of by his majesty: The soldiers also there gave no offence, either in language or behaviour, towards him or any that serv'd him. Whilst his majesty continued at Windsor, little passed worth the taking notice of, only (1) That one night as the king was preparing to go to bed, he wound up both his watches as his custom was, one being gold, the other silver, and missing his diamond seal, a table that had the king's arms cut with great curiosity, and fix'd to the gold watch by a gold chain, he could not imagine when, or where, he dropt it, yet thought he had it the day before when he looked upon his watch, as he walked on the long tarras. At length after Mr. Herbert had made great search for it in the walks that his majesty frequented, but in vain; his majesty the next night discern'd it sparkling at one end of his chamber by the help of the charcole fire, and the wax lights then burning in the said chamber. (2) That on another night his majesty appointed Mr. Herbert to come into his bedchamber an hour sooner than usual the next morning, but so

Ætatis suæ
LXXIV.
Patruo suo summe honorando
Hoc monumentum posuerunt
Executores ultimi Testamenti
B et C
W.

His picture was given to archbishop Tenison, and by him left to his successor, and is now (1727) in the palace of Lambeth.

I have heard Dr. John Mapletoft often say, that when he had wrot his sermon, he oblig'd his wife to read it aloud to him, that if she stuck at any word or period, or any thing sounded harsh to his own ears, he might immediately amend it.

Dr. Whichcote's Reasons for his being in King's College. (Copied from his own hand-writing.)

For satisfaction of conscience in respect of my being in King's College.

1. 'Twas the act of the then ruling power.
2. I am now indemnified for it by the now indubitable power.
3. 'Twas not then my contrivance when time was.
4. I had an invitation or willing acceptance of persons interested.
5. Their necessity required me; and I served their necessity.
6. For so doing I laid down my living at Cadbury of proportionable value.
7. I satisfied myself with reasonable allowance, seil. about the matter of maintenance there, while I discharged the duty of the place.
8. The party ejected had by this means a better compensation then otherwise he would have had, and in a way in part to my losse.

A common error. General supposition pro loco et tempore make a title. KENNET.]

it hapned he overslept his time, and awakened not till the king's silver bell hastned him in. 'Herbert (said the king) you have not observed the command I gave last night;' and thereupon he acknowledged his fault. 'Well (said the king) I will order you for the future, you shall have a gold alarum-watch, which as there may be cause, shall awake you: write to the earl of Pembroke to send me such an one presently.' He wrote, and the earl immediately sent to Edw. East his watchmaker in Fleetstreet about it, of which more will be said at his majesty's coming to S. James's. (3) That on a third night an accident hapned which might have proved of ill consequence, if God in his mercy had not prevented it. Mr. Herbert lodged in a little back room near his majesty's bedchamber towards Eaton coll. It had a back stair, which was at that time ram'd up with earth to prevent any passage that way. In this room he had a pallet, which, for that the weather was very sharp, he laid somewhat too near the chimney, near which were two baskets fill'd with charcoal for the use of his maj. bedchamber. While Mr. Herbert was asleep, a basket took fire, either from some sparkle from the charcoal in the chimney, or some other way he knew not of, but the room was soon hot, and the fire got to the pallet-bed, which quickly roused Mr. Herbert out of his sleep; who thereupon ran to the king's bedchamber door, and in a frightful manner with that noise awakened the king. Those without, being soldiers, hearing the king's chamber was on fire, desired entrance that they might help to quench it, but through the goodness of God, those within, without other assistance, did suppress it by stifling it with clothes, and confining it to the chimney which was spacious. Mr. Herbert did humbly beg his majesty's pardon for the disturbance he gave, not knowing how to help it, the king said he did but his duty.

Soon after the governor acquainted his majesty that he was in few days to be removed thence to Whitehall. To which his majesty made little or no reply, seeming nothing so delighted with this remove, as he was with the former, viz. from Hurst to Windsor Castles, and turning himself about said, God is every where alike in wisdom, power and goodness. Some information he had received, how preposterously things went in both houses of parliament, and how that the officers of the army were hatching a thing called 'The agreement of the people,' designing thereby an alteration of the government, and trial of his person by some way that was extraordinary and unpresidented. So that immediately he retired into his bedchamber, and was a good while private in his addresses to God, ever having recourse to him by prayer and meditation, in what condition soever he was, as being the surest way to find comfort.

The day prefix'd being come (which was^s about⁶

^s [On the 23rd of December. LOVEDAY.]

⁶ Iter Carolinum: Being a succinct Relation of the neces-
C 2

* The 9 of January. First edit.

[695]

the 19th of February* 1648) his majesty took coach near the Keep in Windsor Castle, at which time was a guard all along of musquets and pikes; both officers and soldiers expressing civility as he passed by. At the great gate a party of horse commanded by major Tho. Harrison was drawn up into the market-place and Pescod-street end in the town of Windsor, who followed the coach, which passed through Brainford, Hammersmith, and the direct way to his majesty's house at St. James's within the liberty of Westminster. His lodgings there were furnished by Mr. Clem. Kinnerslie his majesty's servant in the wardrobe, strict guards were placed, and none suffer'd to attend in his majesty's bed-chamber, only Mr. Tho. Herbert before-mentioned. His usual diet was kept up, and the gentlemen that formerly waited were permitted to perform their respective services in the presence, where a state was placed, and for a few days all things were with decency and honour observed. Sir Fulk Grevill was cup-bearer, and gave it upon his knee: Mr. Anthony Mildmay was carver: Captain Preston was sometimes sewer and kept the robes: Mr. Anstey was gent. usher: Capt. Burroughs, Mr. Firebrass, Mr. Muschamp had their places: Capt. John Joyner or Jeoner was cook, Mr. Babington barber, Mr. Reading page of the back-stairs, and some others also waited. The king's dishes were brought up cover'd, the say was given, and all things were performed with satisfaction in that point. But to return a little, it is very well worth the observation, that so soon as the king came into his bed-chamber, before he either eat or drank, or discours'd with any, he went to prayer or to reading in the BIBLE.

Whilst he was in this sorrowful condition, none of his nobility, chaplains, or counsellors, nor any of his old attendants, had the liberty to repair to him to converse about any matters; yet he had private notice that the house of commons in a resolve had declared that by the laws of England it was treason in the king to levy war against the parliament and kingdom: which resolve, as he had farther been informed, they sent up unto the lords for their concurrence, who, as soon as they had heard it read, rejected it, and after some debate did pass two votes, &c. He had also information from private hands of the late proceedings in the house of commons, and of their violent secluding and seizure of several members by force, by some eminent army officers, under a notion of purging the house, as also of their votes passed concerning him. By which he was very apprehensive of their ill intentions towards him and his government, and did believe that his enemies aimed at his deposing, and confinement in the Tower, or some such like place, and that they would seat his son the prince of Wales in his throne, if he would accept of it, but as to the taking away his life by tryal in any court of justice or subdio, in the face of the people, he could not believe, there being no such precedent, or mention in any of our histories. 'Tis true his grandmother Mary queen of Scots suffered under queen Elizabeth, but in England she was no sovereign, but a subject to law. And indeed some kings of England had been lamentably murdered by ruffians in a clandestine way, as the chronicles inform us, but the facts were neither owned, nor approved of by any king. These were his majesty's imaginations till he came unto his tryal in Westm. hall, when then he alter'd his mind. Nevertheless his faith overcoming his fear, he continued his accustomed prudence and patience (so as no outward perturbation could be discerned) with Christian fortitude, submitting to the good pleasure of the Almighty, sometimes sighing, but never breaking out into passion, or uttering a reproachful or revengeful word against any that were his adversaries, only saying, God forgive their impiety.

sitated Marches, Retreats and Sufferings of his Majesty Charles the 1. from January 10. an. 1641, to the Time of his Death 1648. Lond. 1660. qu. Collected by a daily attendant upon his sacred majesty all the said time. [Reprinted in Collectanea Curiosa, ii, 425.]

For about a fortnight after his majesty's coming to St. James's house, he constantly dined in the presence-chamber, and at meals was served after the usual state; the carver, sewer, cup-bearer, and gent. usher attending and doing their offices respectively. His cup was given upon the knee, as were his covered dishes, the say was given, and other accustomed ceremonies of state observed, notwithstanding this his dolorous condition, and the king was well pleased with the observance afforded him. But soon after the case was alter'd, for the officers of the army being predominant, they gave order at a council of war, that thenceforth all state, ceremony, or accustomed respect unto his majesty at meals should be forborn, and his menial servants, tho' few in number, should be lessened. And accordingly the king's meat was brought up by soldiers, the dishes uncovered, no say, no cup upon the knee, or other accustomed court-state was then observed, which was an uncouth sight to the king, he then saying, that the respect and honour denied him, no sovereign prince ever wanted, nor yet subjects of high degree according to ancient practice, and adding, Is there any thing more contemptible than a despised prince? So that seeing things were so ordered, the best expedient he had to reconcile them, was to contract his diet to a few dishes out of the bill of fare, and to eat in private. His eating was usually agreeable to his exercise, and his abstinence was in no wise displeasing. His temperance preserved his health, especially in the two last years of his life and reign, without any indisposition or recourse to physic: So as in all probability, had not his thread of life been immaturely cut, he might have surpassed the age of any of his royal ancestors.

On Friday the 19th of Jan. his majesty was removed from S. James's to Whitehall and lodged in his bed-chamber. After which a guard of musqueteers were placed, and centinels set at the door of his chamber. Thenceforth Mr. Herbert (who constantly lay in the next room to the king, according to the duty of his place) was ordered to bring his pallet into his majesty's bed-chamber, to the end that he might be nearer to his royal person, and so accordingly he did rest every night after, during his majesty's life, in the said bed-chamber near the royal bed.

[696]

The next day, Jan. 20. the king was removed in a sedan or close chair from Whitehall to sir Thom. Cotton's house near the west end of Westminster-hall. Guards were placed on both sides of King-street, in the palace-yard, and Westminster-hall. As his majesty was carried through the garden door belonging to Whitehall (which is between the two gates leading to King-street) none but Mr. Herbert went bare by him, because no other of his majesty's servants were permitted by the soldiers. At Cotton-house there was a guard of partizans, collonel Francis Hacker sometimes, and col. Hercules Hunks at other times commanding them. His majesty being summoned by Hacker to go to the court then sitting in Westminster-hall, where serjeant John Bradshaw was president,⁷ and seated in a chair, and about 72 persons, members of the house of commons, officers of the army, and citizens of London sate upon benches some degrees above one another, as judges; Hacker, I say, by order of the court (which was erected in the same place where the judges of the king's-bench use to hear causes) brought his majesty to a velvet chair opposite to the president, at which time John Cook the solicitor-general was placed on the king's right hand. I shall pretermit the judges names, the formality of the court, and the proceedings there by way of charge, as also his majesty's replies, in regard all those particulars have been published at large by several writers. Nor indeed was much to be observed, seeing his majesty having heard the allegations against him, would sometimes smile, but not acknowledge their jurisdiction, or that by any known law they had any authority to proceed in that manner against the king, it being without example also: whereupon the court made no farther proceedings on that day. Afterwards his majesty was conveyed to Cotton-house, where sir Tho. Cotton the master thereof and Mr. Kinnorslie of the wardrobe did make the best accommodation they could in so short a time in the king's chamber. The soldiers that were upon the guard were in the very next chamber to that of the king; which his majesty perceiving, he commanded Mr. Herbert to bring his pallet and place it on one side of the king's bed, which he did, and there slept.

⁷ [Oct. 31, 1659, Mr. Jo. Bradshaw judg of the sherives court in Guildhall, who pronounced sentence of death upon his sovereign, died. Mr. Ric. Smith's Obituary. BAKER.]

Sunday the 21st of Jan. Dr. Will. Juxon the good bishop of London had (as his majesty desired) the liberty to attend the king, which was much to his comfort, and (as he said) 'no small refreshing to his spirit, especially in that his uncomfortable condition.' The most part of that day was spent in prayer and preaching to the king.

[697]

Monday 22 Jan. col. Hacker brought his majesty the second time before the court then sitting, as formerly, in Westminster-hall. Now the more noble the person is, the more heavy is the spectacle, and inclines generous hearts to a sympathy in his sufferings. Here it was otherwise, for as soon as his majesty came into the hall, some soldiers made a hideous cry for justice, justice! some of the officers joining with them: at which noise the king seemed somewhat abashed, but overcame it with patience. Sure, to persecute a distressed soul, and to vex him that is already wounded at the heart, is the very pitch of wickedness, yea the utmost extremity malice can do, or affliction suffer, as the learned bishop of Winchester (Bilson) saith in one of his sermons preached before queen Elizabeth upon Good-Friday, which was here very applicable. As his majesty returned from the hall to Cotton-house, a soldier that was upon the guard said aloud as the king passed by, 'God bless you, sir!' The king thank'd him, but an uncivil officer struck him with his cane upon the head, which his majesty observing said, 'The punishment exceeded the offence.' Being come to his apartment in Cotton-house, he immediately fell upon his knees and went to prayer; which being done, he asked Mr. Herbert if he heard the cry of the soldiers in Westminster-hall for justice? He answered he did, and marvell'd much at it. So did not I (said the king) for I am well assur'd the soldiers bare no malice towards me, the cry was, no doubt, given by their officers, for whom the soldiers would do the like if there were occasion. His majesty likewise demanded of him, how many there were that sate in the court, and who they were? He replied there were upward of threescore, some of them members of the house of commons, others commanders in the army, and others citizens of London, some of whom he knew, but not all. The king then said, he viewed all of them, but knew not the faces of above eight, and those he named. The names, tho' Mr. Herbert told me not, yet they were generally supposed to be Thomas lord Grey of Grobie, William L. Monson, sir Henry Mildmay,^a sir John Danvers, Oliver Cromwell who had shew'd seeming civility to him at Childerlie, Newmarket and Hampton-Court, major Harrison, lieut. gen. Tho. Hammond, &c.

^a [It was that very Mildmay, who having been knighted by king Charles the first, made master of his jewel-house, and distinguished by other envied marks of his favour, was not yet afraid to imbrue his sacrilegious hands in the blood of that his most gracious and munificent master, by an instance of ingratitude, as well as impiety, monstrous beyond all example. When Dr. Barwick was examined sir Henry Mildmay was the person who cried out loudest for putting him to the torture. See Life of Barwick, page 123.]

Tuesday 23 Jan. The king was the third time summoned, and, as formerly, guarded to the court: where, as at other times, he persisted in his judgment, that they had no legal jurisdiction or authority to proceed against him. Upon which Cook the solicitor began to offer some things to the president of the court, but was gently interrupted by the king, laying his staff upon the solicitor's arm; the head of which being silver, hapned to fall off, which Mr. Herbert (who, as his majesty appointed, waited near his chair) stoop'd to take it up, but falling on the contrary side, to which he could not reach, the king took it up himself. This was by some looked upon as a bad omen. But whereas Mr. Herbert puts this passage under the 22d of Jan. is a mistake, for it hapned on the first day of the tryal when the charge was read against the king. The court sate but a little time that day, the king not varying from his principle. At his going back to Cotton-house there were many men and women crouded into the passage behind the soldiers, who, as his majesty pass'd, said aloud, God almighty preserve your majesty! for which the king returned them thanks.

Saturday 27 Jan. The president came into the hall and seated himself in his scarlet gown: whereupon the king having quick notice of it, he forthwith went, seated himself in his chair, and observing the president in his red gown, did imagine by that sign that it would be the last day of their sitting, and therefore he earnestly press'd the court, that altho' he would not acknowledge their jurisdiction for those reasons he had given, yet nevertheless he desired that he might have a conference in the painted chamber with a committee of lords and commons before the court proceeded any farther: whereupon the president and court arose and withdrew. In which interval the king likewise retired to Cotton-house, where he and Dr. Juxon were private near an hour, and then colonel Hunks gave notice that the court was sate. The king therefore going away, he seated himself in the chair: The president told his majesty that his motion for a conference with a committee of lords and commons had been taken into consideration, but would not be granted by the court in regard he would not own their jurisdiction, nor acknowledge them for a lawful assembly. Whereupon the king with vehemency insisted that his reasonable request might be granted, that what he had to offer to a committee of either house might be considered before they pronounced sentence. His majesty had the former day mov'd the president that the grounds and reasons he had put in writing for his disavowing their authority might be publicly read by the clerk, but neither would that desire be granted. The president then gave judgment against the king, who, at the president's pronouncing it, was observed to smile and lift up his eyes to heaven, as appealing to the divine majesty the most supreme judge. The king at the rising of the court was with a guard of halberdiers returned to Whitehall in a close chair through King-street: Both sides whereof had a guard of foot soldiers, who were silent as his majesty passed, but shop-stalls and windows were full of people, many of whom shed tears, and some of them with audible voices prayed for the king till he was carried through the privy garden door to his bed-chamber; whence after two hours space he was removed to S. James's. Nothing of the fear of death, or indignities offer'd, seem'd a terror or provok'd him to impatience, nor uttered he a reproachful word reflecting upon any of his judges, albeit he well knew that some of them were, or had been, his domestic servants; nor against any member of the house, or officer of the army, so wonderful was his patience, tho' his spirit was great, and might otherwise have express'd his resentment upon several occasions. It was a true Christian fortitude to have the mastery of his passion, and submission to the will of God under such temptations. The same night, after which sentence was pronounced, coll. Hacker, who then commanded the guards at S. James's about the king, would have placed two musqueteers in the king's bed-chamber; with which his majesty being acquainted, he made no reply, only gave a sigh. Howbeit the good bishop Dr. Juxon and Mr. Herbert apprehending the horror of it, and disturbance it would give to the king in his meditations and preparation for his departure out of this uncomfortable world, they never left the coll. till he had reversed his order by withdrawing those men, representing it as the most barbarous thing in nature.

The king now bidding a farewell to the world, his whole business was a serious preparation for death, which opens the door unto eternity. In order thereunto he laid aside all other thoughts, and spent the remainder of his time in prayer and other pious ejaculations and exercises of devotion, and in conference with that meek and learned bishop before-mentioned, who, under God, was a great support and comfort to him in that his afflicted condition. And resolving to sequester himself, so as he might have no disturbance to his mind, nor interruption to his meditations, he ordered Mr. Herbert to excuse it to any that might have the desire to visit him. I know (said the king) my nephew the prince elector will endeavour it and some other lords that love me, which I would take in good part, but my time is short and precious, and I am desirous to improve it the best I may in preparation: I hope they will not take it ill, that they or any have not access unto me, only my children: The best office they can do now, is to pray for me. What he had said, fell out accordingly, for his electoral highness, accompanied with James duke of Richmond, William marq. of Hertford, Thomas earl of Southampton, and Mountague earl of Lindsey, with some others, having got leave, came to the bed-chamber door, where Mr. Herbert, pursuant to the king's command, acquainted his highness and the said noblemen with what the king gave him in charge, and thereupon they acquiesced, and presented their humble duty to his majesty with their prayers: which done, they return'd with hearts full of sorrow, as appeared by their faces. The prince of Wales also, then in Holland, did by the states ambassadors intercede to the parliament, and used all possible means to prevent, or at least to defer, his majesty's execution, and applied themselves likewise to the army.

[699]

At this time (Jan. 30. Mr. Herbert should have said) came to S. James's Edm. Calamy, Rich. Vines, Jos. Caryl, Will. Dell, and some other London ministers, who presented their duty to the king, with their humble desires to pray with him, and perform other offices of service if his majesty would please to accept of them. The king returned them thanks for their love to his soul, hoping they and all other good subjects would in their addresses to God be mindful of him, but in regard he had made choice of Dr. Juxon, whom for many years he had known to be a pious and learned divine, and able to administer ghostly comfort to his soul, suitable to his present condition, he would have none other. The ministers were no sooner gone, but John Goodwin minister in Coleman-street came likewise upon the same account to tender his service, whom the king also thanked and dismiss'd with the like friendly answer.

Mr. Herbert about this time going to the Cockpit near Whitehall, where the lodgings of Philip earl of Pembroke were, he then, as at sundry times, enquired how his majesty did, and gave his humble duty to him, and withal asked if his majesty had the gold watch he sent for, and how he liked it. Mr. Herbert assured his lordship the king had not yet received it. The earl fell presently into a passion, marvell'd thereat, and was troubled least his majesty should think him careless in observing his commands, and told Mr. Herbert that at the king's coming to S. James's, he, as he was sitting under the great elm tree near sir Ben. Rudyerd's lodge in the park, seeing a considerable military officer of the army going towards S. James's, he went to meet him, and demanding of him if he knew his cousin Tom Herbert that waited on the king, the officer said he did, and was going to S. James's. The earl then delivered to him the gold watch that had the larum, desiring him to give it to Mr. Herbert to present it to the king. The officer promised the earl he would immediately do it. 'My lord' (said Mr. Herbert) I have sundry times seen and pass'd by that officer since, and do assure your lordship he hath not delivered it to me according to your order and his promise, nor said any thing concerning it, nor has the king it, I am certain.' The earl was very angry, and gave the officer his due character, and threatened to question him. But such was the severity of the times, that it was judged dangerous to reflect upon such a person, so as no notice was taken of it. Nevertheless Mr. Herbert, at the earl's desire, did acquaint his majesty therewith, who gave the earl thanks, and said, 'had he not told the officer it was for me, he would probably have delivered it: he well knew how short a time I should enjoy it.' This relation is in prosecution of what is formerly mentioned concerning the clock or larum-watch which his majesty would have to lay by Mr. Herbert's pallet to awaken him at the hour in the morning which his majesty should appoint when he was at Windsor. The name of this officer Mr. Herbert told me not, only that he was executed after the restoration of king Charles II. and therefore I take him to be either major Harrison or col. Hacker.

That evening Mr. Hen. Seymour, a gent. belonging to the bed-chamber of the prince of Wales, came by col. Hacker's permission (who commanded the guards at S. James's) to his majesty's chamber door, desiring to speak with the king from the said prince: and being admitted he presented to the king a letter from him, dated from the Hague 23 Jan. 1648, old stile. At Mr. Seymour's entrance he fell into a passion, having seen his majesty in a glorious, and now in a dolorous state: and having kiss'd the king's hand, he clasp'd about his legs and mourned in a most lamentable condition. Hacker came in with this gentleman, and beholding these things was very much abash'd. But so soon as his maj. had read his sons sorrowing letter, and heard what his servant had to say, and he imparted to him what his maj. thought fit to return, the prince's servant took his leave, and was no sooner gone but the king went to his devotion, Dr. Juxon praying with him, and reading some select chapters out of the sacred scripture. The same evening also the king took a ring from his finger, having an emerald set therein between two diamonds, and gave it to Mr. Herbert, and commanded him, as late as 'twas, to go with it from S. James's to a lady⁹ living then in Canon-row on the back-side of King-street in Westminster, and to give it to her without saying any thing. The night was exceeding dark, and guards were set in several places, (as at the houses, in the gardens, park, at the gates near Whitehall, in King-street and elsewhere) nevertheless getting the word from col. Matth. Tomlinson¹ (then there, and in all places wheresoever he was about the king so civil both towards his majesty and such as attended him, as gained him the king's good opinion, and as an evidence thereof gave him his gold pick-tooth case as he was one time walking in the presence-chamber) Mr. Herbert pass'd currently, tho' in all places where sentinels were, he was bid stand till the corporal had the word from him. Being come to the lady's house he delivered her the ring: 'Sir (said she) give me leave to shew you the way into the parlour:' where being seated, she desired him to stay till she returned: in a little time after she came and put into his hands a little cabinet closed with 3 seals, two of which were the king's arms, and the third was the figure of a Roman: which done, she desired him to deliver it to the same hand that sent the ring; which ring was left with her: and afterwards Mr. Herbert taking his leave, the word served him in his return to the king, at which time he found that Dr. Juxon was newly gone to his lodging in sir Hen. Henn's house near S. James's gate. Mr. Herbert gave the cabinet into the hands of his majesty, who told him that he should see it opened next morning.

[700]

⁹ [See the Life of Wood, vol. i, page xxviii, xxix, &c.]

¹ [Colonel Mathew Tomlinson and colonel Richard Ingoldsby were excepted in the act of 12 Car. II. incapacitating all those who gave sentence of death in the illegal high courts of justice, from bearing office in England. Statutes at large, vol. ii, page 409.]

Morning being come, the bishop was early with the king, and after prayers his majesty broke the seals and shew'd them what was contained in the cabinet. There were diamonds and jewels, most part broken Georges and Garters. You see (said he) all the wealth now in my power to give to my children. That day the bishop preached before the king on Rom. 2. 16. In the Day when God shall judge, &c. inferring from thence, that 'Altho' God's judgments be for some time deferred, he will nevertheless proceed to a strict examination of what is both said and done by every man. Yea the most hidden things and imaginations of men will most certainly be made to appear at the day of judgment, when the Lord Jesus Christ shall be upon his high tribunal,' &c. It may not be forgotten that sir Hen. Herbert master of the revells, and gent. in ord. of his maj. privy chamber (one that cordially loved and honour'd the king, and during the war had suffer'd considerably in his estate by sequestration and otherwise) meeting Mr. Tho. Herbert his kinsman in S. James's park, first enquired how his majesty did, and afterwards presenting his duty to him, with assurance that himself with many others of his majesty's servants did frequently pray for him, desir'd that his maj. would be pleased to read the second chapter of Ecclesiasticus, for he should find comfort in it, aptly suiting his present condition. Accordingly Mr. Herbert acquainted the king therewith, who thanked sir Harry, and commended him for his excellent parts, being a good scholar, soldier, and an accomplish'd courtier, and for his many years faithful service much valued by the king, who presently turned to that chapter, and read it with much satisfaction.

Monday Jan. 29. the princess Elizabeth and the duke of Gloucester her brother, came to take their last farewell of the king their father, and to ask his blessing. The princess being the elder was the most sensible of her royal father's condition, as appeared by her sorrowful look and excessive weeping. Her little brother the duke seeing his sister weep, he took the like impression, tho' by reason of his tender age, he could not have the like apprehension. The king raised them both from off their knees, he kiss'd them, gave them his blessing, and setting them on his knees, admonish'd them concerning their duty and loyal observance to the queen their mother, the prince that was his successor, love to the duke of York and his other relations. The king then gave them all his jewels save the George he wore, which was cut in an onyx with great curiosity, and set about with 21 fair diamonds, and the reverse set with the like number; and then again kissing his children had such pretty and pertinent answers from them both, as drew tears of joy and love from his eyes. And then praying God Almighty to bless them, he turned about, expressing a tender and fatherly affection. Most sorrowful was this parting, and the young prince shedding tears and crying most lamentable, moved others to pity that formerly were hard-hearted: And at the opening the chamber door the king returned hastily from the window, kissed them, blessed them and so parted. This demonstration of a pious affection exceedingly comforted the king in this his affliction, so that in a grateful return, he went immediately to prayer, the good bishop and Mr. Herbert being only present. That day the king eat and drank very sparingly, most of it being spent in prayer and meditation. It was some hours after night e'er Dr. Juxon took leave of the king, who willed him to be early with him the next morning. After Dr. Juxon was gone to his lodgings, the king continued reading and praying more than two hours. The king commanded Mr. Herbert to lye by his bed-side upon a pallet, where he took small rest, that being the last night his gracious sovereign and master enjoyed. But nevertheless the king, for four hours or thereabout, slept soundly, and awaking about two hours before day, he opened his curtain to call Mr. Herbert (there being a great cake of wax set in a silver bason that then, as at all other times, burnt all night) and perceiving him to be disturb'd in his sleep, called again and bid him rise, for said his majesty, 'I will get up, having a great work to do this day,' and then asking Herbert what troubled him, he told his majesty he was dreaming: I would know your dream said the king, which being told, his majesty said it was remarkable.²

² [A copy of a letter from sir Th. Herbert to Dr. Samways, and by him sent to the archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Sandcroft, referred to in page 524, line 73, of vol. II. of ATHENÆ OXONIENSES, edit. 1692, and in page 701, line 39 of the same vol. edit. 1721, found in a copy of that book, lately in the hands of the lord viscount Preston.*]

* [Printed on one side of a sheet of paper by Dr. Rawlinson, for presents to his friends. In bishop Kennet's, bishop Tanner's, and Mr. Cole's copies of the Athenæ.]

Jan. 30. Tuesday. Herbert (saith the K.) this is my second marriage day, I will be as trim to day as may be, for before night I hope to be espoused to my blessed Jesus. He then appointed what cloaths he would wear, Let me have a shirt more than ordinary (said the K.) by reason the season is so sharp, as probably may make me shake, which

Sir,

After his late majesty's remove from Windsor to St. James's, albeit according to the duty of my place, I lay in the next room to the bed-chamber, the king then commanded me to bring my pallate into his chamber, which I accordingly did, the night before that sorrowful day. He ordered what cloaths he would wear, intending that day to be as neat as could be, it being (as he called it) his wedding-day. And having a great work to do (meaning his preparation to eternity) said, He would be stirring much earlier than he used.

For some hours his majesty slept very soundly: for my part, I was so full of anguish and grief, that I took little rest. The king, some hours before day, drew his bed-curtain to awaken me, and could by the light of wax-lamp perceive me troubled in my sleep; the king rose forthwith, and as I was making him ready, Herbert (said the king) I would know why you were disquieted in your sleep? I replied, May it please your majesty, I was in a dream. What was your dream, said the king, I would hear it? May it please your majesty, said I, I dreamed, that as you were making ready, one knock'd at the bed-chamber door, which your majesty took no notice of, nor was I willing to acquaint you with it, apprehending it might be colonel Hacker. But knocking the second time, your majesty ask'd me, if I heard it not? I said I did; but did not use to go without his order. Why then go; know who it is, and his business. Whereupon I opened the door, and perceived that it was the lord archbp. of Cant. Dr. Lawd in his pontifical habit, as worn at court; I knew him, having seen him often. The archbp. desired he might enter, having something to say to the king. I acquainted your majesty with his desire; so you bad me let him in; being in, he made his obeysance to your majesty in the middle of the room, doing the like also when he came near your person, and falling on his knees, your majesty gave him your hand to kiss, and took him aside to the window, where some discourse pass'd between your majesty and him, and I kept a becoming distance, not hearing any thing that was said, yet could perceive your majesty pensive by your looks, and that the archbishop gave a sigh; who after a short stay, again kissing your hand, returned, but with face all the way towards your majesty, and making his usual reverences, the third being so submiss, as he fell prostrate on his face on the ground, and I immediately stept to him to help him up, which I was then acting, when your majesty saw me troubled in my sleep. The impression was so lively, that I look'd about, verily thinking it was no dream.

The king said, my dream was remarkable, but he is dead; yet had we conferred together during life, 'tis very likely (albeit I loved him well) I should have said something to him, might have occasioned his sigh.

Soon after I had told my dream, Dr. Juxon, then bishop of London, came to the king, as I relate in that narrative I sent sir William Dugdale, which I have a transcript of here, nor know whether it rests with his grace the archbishop of Cant. or sir William, or be disposed of in sir John Cotton's library near Westminster-hall; but wish you had the perusal of it, before you return to the North. And this being not communicated to any but your self, you may shew it to his grace and none else, as you promised.

Sir,

Your very affectioned friend and servant,

Y (ork) 28. Aug. 80.

THO. HERBERT.]

Vol. IV.

some observers will imagine proceeds from fear: I would have no such imputation, I fear not death, death is not terrible to me, I bless God I am prepared. Death indeed only sets men free from the misery of this world and breaks asunder the chains of bondage, &c. These, or words to the same effect, his maj. spake to Mr. Herbert as he was making ready. Soon after came Dr. Juxon bish. of London precisely at the time his maj. the night before had appointed him. Mr. Herbert then falling upon his knees, he humbly beg'd his majesty's pardon if he had at any time been negligent in his duty while he had the honour to serve him. The king then gave him his hand to kiss, having the day before been graciously pleased under his royal hand to give him a certificate, expressing that the said Mr. Herbert was not imposed upon him, but by his maj. made choice of to attend him in his bed-chamber, and had served him with faithfulness and loyal affection. At the same time his maj. delivered to him his BIBLE, in the margin whereof he had, with his own hand, wrote many annotations and quotations, and charged him to give it to the prince of Wales so soon as he returned, repeating what he had enjoined the princess Elizabeth his daughter, and that 'He the prince would be dutiful and indulgent to the queen his mother (to whom his maj. wrote two days before by Mr. Seymour) affectionate to his brothers and sisters, who also were to be observant and dutiful to him, their sovereign: And forasmuch as from his heart he had forgiven his enemies, and in perfect charity with all men would leave this world, he advised the prince his son to exceed in mercy, not in rigour, &c. And as to episcopacy it was still his opinion that it is of apostolic institution, and in this kingdom exercised from the primitive times, and therein, as in all other his affairs, he prayed God to vouchsafe, both in reference to the church and state, a pious and discerning spirit, &c. and that it was his last and earnest request that the prince would read the BIBLE, which in all the time of his affliction had been his best instructor and delight, and to meditate upon what he read, as also such other books as might improve his knowledge,' &c. He likewise commanded Mr. Herbert to give his son the duke of York his large ring-sundial of silver, a jewel his maj. much valued; it was invented and made by Rich. Delamaine a very able mathematician, who projected it, and in a little printed book did shew its excellent use in resolving many questions in arithmetic and other rare operations to be wrought by it in the mathematics. To the princess Elizabeth he gave the Sermons of Dr. Lane. Andrews sometime bishop of Winchester and prelate of the Garter, Archb. Laud's Conference between him and Joh. Fisher the Jesuit, which book (the king said) would ground her against popery, and Mr. Hooker's Ecclesiastical Polity. He also gave him a paper to be delivered to the said princess Elizabeth to be printed, in which his majesty asserted Regal Government to have a Divine Right, with proofs out of sundry authors, civil and sacred. To the duke of Gloucester he gave K. James's Works and Dr. Hammond's Practical Catechism. He gave also to Mountague earl of Lindsey lord high chamberlain, Cassandra; and his gold watch to Mary dutchess of Richmond: All which, as opportunity served, Mr. Herbert delivered. His maj. then bid him withdraw, which being done, his maj. with the bishop were in private together about an hour; and then Mr. Herbert being call'd in, the bishop went to prayer, and reading the 27th chap. of the gospel of S. Matthew, which relates to the passion of our blessed Saviour, the king after the service was done, asked the bishop 'If he had made choice of that chapter, being so applicable to his present condition;' the bishop answered, 'May it please your majesty it is the proper lesson for the day, as appears by the kalendar.' Whereupon his maj. was much affected with it, as so aptly serving a seasonable preparation for his death that day. His maj. abandoned all thoughts of earthly concerns, continued in prayer and meditation, and concluded with a cheerful submission to the will and pleasure of the almighty, saying he was ready to resign himself into the hands of Christ Jesus, and with the kingly prophet, as 'tis expressed in the 31st Psal. ver. v. Into thy hands, &c. Col. Francis Hacker then knocked easily at the king's door, but Mr. Herbert being within, would not stir to ask who it was that knock'd: At length the col. knocking the second time a little louder, the king bade him go to the door, he guess'd the business: So Mr. Herbert demanding wherefore he knock'd, the col. said he would speak with the king. The king said, Let him come in: The col. in a trembling manner came near and told his majesty, 'Sir it is time to go to Whitehall where you may have some further time to rest.' The king bad him go forth, and told him, I will come presently. Some time his majesty was private, and afterwards taking the good bishop by the hand, looking upon him with a cheerful countenance, said Come let us go; and bidding Mr. Herbert take with him the silver clock that hung by his bedside, said Open the door, Hacker has given us a second warning.

[702]

D

The king passed thro' the garden into the Park, where making a stand, asked Mr. Herbert the hour of the day, and taking the clock in his hand, and looking upon it, gave it to him and said 'Keep this in memory of me,' which Mr. Herbert kept to his dying day. The Park had several companies of foot drawn up, who made a guard on each side as the king passed, and a guard of halbertiers in company went, some before, and others followed, the king. The drums beat and the noise was so great, as one could hardly hear what another spoke. Upon the king's right hand went the bishop, and on the left col. Matthew Tomlinson, with whom his maj. had some discourse by the way: Mr. Herbert was next behind the king, and after him the guards. In this manner went the king thro' the Park, and coming to the stairs leading into Whitehall, he passed along thro' the galleries to his bed-chamber; where after a little repose, the bishop went to prayer: which being done, his maj. bid Mr. Herbert bring him some bread and wine; which being brought the king broke the manchet and eat a mouthful of it, and drank a small glass full of claret, and then was sometime in private with the bishop, expecting when Hacker would the third and last time give warning. In the mean time his maj. told Mr. Herbert what sattin cap he would use; which being provided, Mr. Herbert, after prayer, addrest himself to the bishop, and told him the king had ordered him to have a white sattin night-cap ready, but he being not able to endure the sight of the violence that they would offer to the king on the scaffold, he could not be there to give it to the king when he should call for it. The good bishop bid him then give him the cap, and that he should wait at the end of the Banqueting-house near to the scaffold to take care of the king's body, for (said he) that and his interment will be our last office. Colonel Hacker came soon after to the bed-chamber door, and gave his last signal: The bishop and Mr. Herbert weeping, they both fell upon their knees: The king thereupon gave them his hand to kiss, and help'd the bishop up, for he was aged. Col. Hacker attending still at the chamber door, the king took notice of it, and said Open the door and bid Hacker go, he would follow him.

A guard was made all along the galleries, and the Banqueting-house, but behind the soldiers, abundance of men and women crowded in, tho' with some peril to their persons, to behold the saddest sight that England ever saw: And as his maj. passed by with a cheerful look he heard them pray for him: The soldiers did not rebuke any of them, for by their silence and dejected faces they seemed rather afflicted than insulting. There was a passage broke thro' the wall of the Banqueting-house, by which the king passed unto the scaffold; where, after his maj. had spoken and declared publicly that he died a Christian according to the profession of the church of England (the contents of which have been several times printed) the fatal stroke was given by a disguis'd person. Mr. Herbert during this time was at the door leading to the scaffold much lamenting, and the bishop coming from the scaffold with the royal corps, which was immediately coffin'd and covered with a velvet pall, he and Mr. Herbert went with it to the back-stairs to have it embalm'd; and Mr. Herbert, after the body had been deposited, meeting with the lord Fairfax the general, that person asked him How the king did? whereupon Herbert being something astonished at that question, told him the king was beheaded, at which he seemed much surpriz'd: See more in the said general Fairfax in the FASTI following, among the creations of doctors of civil law, under the year 1649. The royal corps being embalmed and well coffin'd, and all afterwards wrapt up in lead and covered with a new velvet pall, it was removed to S. James's where was great pressing by all sorts of people to see the king, a doleful spectacle, but few had leave to enter or behold it.

[703]

Where to bury the king was the last duty remaining. By some historians 'tis said the king spoke something to the bishop concerning his burial. Mr. Herbert, both before and after the king's death, was frequently in the company with the bishop, and affirmed that he never mentioned any thing to him of the king's naming any place where he would be buried: Nor did Mr. Herbert (who constantly attended his majesty, and after his coming to Hurst castle was the only person in his bed-chamber) hear him at any time declare his mind concerning it. Nor was it in his life-time a proper question for either of them to ask, notwithstanding they had oftentimes the opportunity, especially when his majesty was bequeathing to his royal children and friends, what is formerly related. Nor did the bishop declare any thing concerning the place to Mr. Herbert, which doubtless he would upon Mr. Herbert's pious care about it; which being duly considered, they thought no place more fit to inter the corps than in the chappel of king Hen. 7, at the end of the church of Westm. abbey; out of whose loyns king Charles I. was lineally extracted, &c. Whereupon Mr. Herbert made his application to such as were then in power for leave to bury the king's body in the said chappel among his ancestors, but his request was denied for this reason that his burying there would attract infinite numbers of all sorts thither, to see where the king was buried; which, as the times then were, was judged unsafe and inconvenient. Mr. Herbert acquainting the bishop with this, they then resolved to bury the king's body in the royal chappel of S. George within the castle of Windsor, both in regard that his maj. was sovereign of the most noble order of the Garter, and that several kings had been there interr'd, namely king Hen. VI. king Ed. IV. and king Hen. VIII, &c. Upon which consideration Mr. Herbert made his second address to the committee of parliament, who, after some deliberation, gave him an order bearing date the 6th of February 1648, authorizing him and Mr. Anthony Mildmay to bury the king's body there, which the governor was to observe.

Accordingly the corps was carried thither from St. James's Feb. 7, in a hearse covered with black velvet, drawn by six horses covered with black cloth, in which were about a dozen gentlemen, most of them being such that had waited upon his maj. at Carisbrook castle and other places since his majesty's going from Newcastle. Mr. Herbert shew'd the governor, colonel Witchcot, the committee's order for permitting Mr. Herbert and Mr. Mildmay to bury him the late king in any place within Windsor castle that they should think fit and meet. In the first place, in order thereunto they carried the king's body into the dean's house, which was hung with black, and after to his usual bed-chamber within the palace. After which they went to S. George's chappel to take a view thereof, and of the most fit and honourable place for the royal corps to rest in. Having taken a view, they at first thought that the tomb-house built by card. Wolsey would be a fit place for his interment, but that place tho' adjoining, yet being not within the royal chappel they waved it: For if king Hen. VIII. was buried there (albeit to that day the particular place of his burial was unknown to any) yet in regard his maj. king Charles I. (who was a real defender of the faith, and as far from censuring any, as might be) would upon occasional discourse express some dislike in king Henry's proceedings in misemploying those vast revenues the suppressed abbeys, monasteries and other religious houses were endowed with, and by demolishing those many beautiful and stately structures, which both express'd the greatness of their founders and preserved the splendor of the kingdom, which might at the reformation have in some measure been kept up and converted to sundry pious uses.

Upon consideration thereof those gentlemen declined it, and pitch'd upon the vault where king Edw. IV. had been interr'd, being on the north side of the choir, near the altar, that king being one his late majesty would oftentimes make honourable mention of, and from whom his maj. was lineally propagated. That therefore induced Mr. Herbert to give order to N. Harrison and Hen. Jackson to have that vault opened, partly covered with a fair large stone of touch, raised within the arch adjoining, having a range of iron bars gilt, curiously cut according to church work, &c. But as they were about this work, some noblemen came thither, namely the duke of Richmond, the marq. of Hertford, the earl of Lindsey, and with them Dr. Juxon bishop of London, who had license from the parliament to attend the king's body to his grave. Those gentlemen therefore Herbert and Mildmay thinking fit to submit and leave the choice of the place of burial to those great persons, they in like manner viewed the tomb-house and the choir, and one of the lords beating gently upon the pavement with his staff, perceived a hollow sound, and thereupon ordering the stones and earth to be removed, they discovered a descent into a vault where two coffins were laid near one another, the one very large of an antique form, and the other little. These they supposed to be the bodies of king Hen. VIII, and queen Jane Seymour his third wife, as indeed they were. The velvet palls that covered their coffins seemed fresh, tho' they had lain there above 100 years.

The lord's agreeing that the king's body should be in the said vault interr'd, being about the middle of the choir, over against the eleventh stall upon the sovereign's side, they gave order to have the king's name and year he died cut in lead; which, whilst the work-men were about, the lords went out and gave Puddifant the sexton order to lock the chappel door, and not suffer any to stay therein till farther notice. The sexton did his best to clear the chappel, nevertheless Isaac the sexton's man said that a foot soldier had hid himself, so as he was not discern'd; and being greedy of prey, crept into the vault, and cut so much of the velvet pall that covered the great body, as he judged would hardly be missed, and wimble'd also a hole thro' the said coffin that was largest, probably fancying that there was something well worth his adventure. The sexton at his opening the door espied the sacrilegious person, who being searched, a bone was found about him, with which he said he would haft a knife. The governour being therefore informed of, he gave him his reward; and the lords and others present were convinc'd that a real body was in the said great coffin, which some before had scrupled. The girdle or circumscription of capital letters of lead put about the king's coffin had only these words KING CHARLES, 1648.

[705]

The king's body was then brought from his bed-chamber down into S. George's hall; whence, after a little stay, it was with a slow and solemn pace (much sorrow in most faces being then discernable) carried by gentlemen of quality in mourning. The noblemen in mourning also held up the pall, and the governor with several gentlemen, officers and attendants came after. It was then observed that at such time as the king's body was brought out from S. George's hall, the sky was serene and clear, but presently it began to snow, and the snow fell so fast, that by that time the corps came to the west end of the royal chappel, the black velvet pall was all white (the colour of innocency) being thick covered over with snow. The body being by the bearers set down near the place of burial, the bishop of London stood ready with the service-book in his hands to have performed his last duty to the king his master, according to the order and form of burial of the dead set forth in the Book of Common Prayer; which the lords likewise desired, but it would not be suffer'd by col. Whitecot the governor of the castle, by reason of the Directory, to which (said he) he and others were to be conformable. Thus went the White King to his grave in the 48th year of his age, and 22d year and 10th month of his reign.³ To let pass Merlin's prophecy, which some allude to the White Sattin his maj. wore when he was crowned in Westm. abbey, former kings having

p. 649, saith, that Mr. Jewel, register of Windsor, certifies that the vault wherein K. Ch. I. was buryed was open'd for a still-born child of the princess of Denmark, and the king's body found intire with the inscription upon it. GREY.

The following extract from a pamphlet written, and sent to me, by a learned member of this university, sir Henry Halford (formerly Dr. Vaughan) of Christ Church, sets this question entirely at rest.

An Account of what appeared on opening the Coffin of King Charles the First, in the Vault of King Henry the Eighth in St. George's Chapel at Windsor, on the first of April, MDCCCXIII. By Sir Henry Halford, Bart. F. R. S. and F. A. S. Physician to the King and the Prince Regent. London; Printed by Nichols, Son, and Bentley, Red Lion Passage, Fleet Street, 1813. 4to. two sheets and an half.

It is stated by lord Clarendon, in his History of the Rebellion, that the body of king Charles I. though known to be interred in St. George's chapel at Windsor, could not be found, when searched for there some years afterwards. It seems by the historian's account, to have been the wish and the intention of king Charles II. after his restoration, to take up his father's corpse, and to re-inter it in Westminster abbey, with those royal honours which had been denied it under the government of the regicides. The most careful search was made for the body by several people, amongst whom were some of those noble persons whose faithful attachment had led them to pay their last tribute of respect to their unfortunate master, by attending him to the grave. Yet such had been the injury done to the chapel, such were the mutilations it had undergone, during the period of the usurpation, that no marks were left, by which the exact place of burial of the king could be ascertained.

There is some difficulty in reconciling this account with the information which has reached us, since the death of lord Clarendon, particularly with that of Mr. Ashmole, and more especially with that most interesting narrative of Mr. Herbert given in the Athenæ Oxonienses.—The fact is, king Charles I. was buried in the vault of king Henry VIII. situated precisely where Mr. Herbert has described it; and an accident has served to elucidate a point in history, which the great authority of lord Clarendon had left in some obscurity.

On completing the mausoleum which his present majesty had built in the tomb-house, as it is called, it was necessary to form a passage to it from under the choir of St. George's chapel. In constructing this passage, an aperture was made accidentally in one of the walls of the vault of king Henry VIII. through which the workmen were enabled to see, not only the two coffins, which were supposed to contain the bodies of king Henry VIII. and queen Jane Seymour, but a third also, covered with a black velvet pall, which, from Mr. Herbert's narrative, might fairly be presumed to hold the remains of king Charles I.

On representing the circumstance to the Prince Regent, his royal highness perceived at once, that a doubtful point in history might be cleared up by opening this vault; and accordingly his royal highness ordered an examination to be made on the first convenient opportunity. This was done on the 1st of April last, in the presence of his royal highness himself, accompanied by his royal highness the duke of Cumberland, count Munster, the dean of Windsor (Dr. Legge, now bishop of Oxford,) Benjamin Charles Stevenson, esquire, and sir Henry Halford.

The vault is covered by an arch, half a brick in thickness, is seven feet two inches in width, nine feet six inches in length, and four feet ten inches in height, and is situated in the centre of the choir, opposite the eleventh knight's stall, on the sovereign's side.

On removing the pall, a plain leaden coffin, with no

³ [There is a shrewd suspicion that the rebels took up his body after it was buried at Windsor, and buried it under Tyburne. Secret History of the Calves Head Club, p. 7, 8. 4to. or the 8vo. edition, p. 14. Certain it is that upon diligent search made anno 1678, his body was not to be found where it was buried. Clarendon, Hist. of Rebell. iii, p. 200, 201. But Mr. Eachard in his History of Engl. vol. ii, on purple robes at their coronation, I shall conclude this narrative with the king's own excellent expresappearance of ever having been inclosed in wood, and bearing an inscription KING CHARLES, 1648, in large legible characters on a scroll of lead encircling it, immediately presented itself to the view. A square opening was then made in the upper part of the lid, of such dimensions as to admit a clear insight into its contents. These were, an internal wooden coffin, very much decayed, and the body, carefully wrapped up in cere-cloth, into the folds of which a quantity of unctuous or greasy matter, mixed with resin, as it seemed, had been melted, so as to exclude, as effectually as possible, the external air. The coffin was completely full; and from the tenacity of the cere-cloth, great difficulty was experienced in detaching it successfully from the parts which it enveloped. Wherever the unctuous matter had insinuated itself, the separation of the cere-cloth was easy; and when it came off, a correct impression of the features to which it had been applied was observed in the unctuous substance. At length, the whole face was disengaged from its covering. The complexion of the skin of it was dark and discoloured. The forehead and temples had lost little or nothing of their muscular substance; the cartilage of the nose was gone; but the left eye, in the first moment of exposure, was open and full, though it vanished almost immediately; and the pointed beard, so characteristic of the period of the reign of king Charles, was perfect. The shape of the face was a long oval; many of the teeth remained; and the left ear, in consequence of the interposition of the unctuous matter between it and the cere-cloth, was found entire.

‘It was difficult, at this moment, to withhold a declaration, that notwithstanding its disfigurement, the countenance did bear a strong resemblance to the coins, the busts, and especially to the pictures of king Charles I. by Vandyke, by which it had been made familiar to us. It is true, that the minds of the spectators of this interesting sight were well prepared to receive this impression; but it is also certain, that such a facility of belief had been occasioned by the simplicity and truth of Mr. Herbert's narrative, every part of which had been confirmed by the investigation, so far as it had advanced: and it will not be denied that the shape of the face, the forehead, an eye and the beard, are the most important features by which resemblance is determined.

‘When the head had been entirely disengaged from the attachments which confined it, it was found to be loose, and, without any difficulty, was taken up and held to view. It was quite wet, and gave a greenish red tinge to paper and to linnen, which touched it. The back part of the scalp was entirely perfect, and had a remarkably fresh appearance; the pores of the skin being more distinct, as they usually are when soaked in moisture; and the tendons and ligaments of the neck were of considerable substance and firmness. The hair was thick at the back part of the head, and, in appearance, nearly black. A portion of it, which has since been cleaned and dried, is of a beautiful dark brown colour. That of the beard was a redder brown. On the back part of the head, it was not more than an inch in length, and had probably been cut so short for the convenience of the executioner, or perhaps by the piety of friends soon after death, in order to furnish memorials of the unhappy king.

‘On holding up the head, to examine the place of separation from the body, the muscles of the neck had evidently retracted themselves considerably; and the fourth cervical vertebra was found to be cut through its substance, transversely, leaving the surfaces of the divided portions perfectly smooth and even, an appearance which could have been produced only by a heavy blow, inflicted with a very sharp instrument, and which furnished the last proof wanting to identify king Charles the first.

‘After this examination of the head, which served every purpose in view, and without examining the body below the

sion running thus——Crowns and kingdoms are not so valuable as my honour and reputation. Those must have a period with my life, but these survive to a glorious kind of immortality when I am dead and gone; a good name being the embalming of princes and a sweet consecrating of them to an eternity of love and gratitude amongst posterity.

“JOHN NORRIS, son of Will. Norris of Sutton in Somersetshire, was entred into Ch. Ch. an. 1631, aged 16 or thereabout, took one degree of arts, translated himself to Pembroke coll. proceeded in his faculty, entred into holy orders, became minister of Collingborne Kingston, and afterwards rector of Aubourne or Aldbourne in Wilts, where he finished his course. He hath written,

“A Discourse concerning the pretended Religions assembling in private Conventicles, wherein the Unlawfulness and Unreasonableness of it is fully evidenced by several Arguments. Lond. 1685. oct. He died on the 16th of March in sixteen hundred eighty and one, and was buried in the church of Aldbourne under the reader's pew, leaving then behind him an ingenious son of both his names, then fellow of Alls. coll. who published the said discourse. Soon after was a monument fixed on the pillar just against the said pew, with an epitaph thereon made for the said Joh. Norris, which for brevity's sake I now pass by.”

1685.

MARTIN LLEWELLIN, LLUELLYN or LLUELYN (so many ways I find him written) the seventh son, without any daughter between, of Mart. Lluellyn, was born in London on the 12th of Decemb. 1616, and on the 22d of the said month was baptized in the church of Little S. Bartholomew near Smithfield. In 1636 he was elected a student of Ch. Ch. from Westm. school, took the degrees in arts, that of master being compleated in 1643, at which time he bore arms for his majesty, and was at length a captain. In 1648 he was ejected by the visitors appointed by parliament; so that afterward going to the great city, he prosecuted then his genius as much to physic, as before he had to poetry. In 1653 he obtained the favour of the men in power, then in the university, to be admitted doctor of physic, and so consequently took the oaths that were then required, and afterwards became fellow of the coll. of physicians. In 1660 he was sworn physician to his majesty, at that time newly return'd to his kingdoms, and in the same year he was not only made principal of the hall of S. Mary the Virgin, but one of the commissioners appointed by the king for regulating the university of Oxon, in which office he shew'd himself active enough. In 1664 he left the university, and settling with his neck, it was immediately restored to its situation, the coffin was soldered up again, and the vault closed.]

[706]

wife and family in a market town in Bucks called Great Wycombe, practised his faculty there, was made a justice of the peace for that county, and in 1671 was elected mayor of that corporation; in which offices he behaved himself severe against the fanatics. He hath written,

Men-miracles. A Poem.
Divers Poems.
Satyrs.
Elegies.
Divine Poems.

} Printed 1646. in oct.⁴
 [In St. John's college library.]

Among his elegies is one upon Rob. Burton alias Democritus Junior of Ch. Ch. another upon the eminent poet and orator Will. Cartwright, a third upon Dr. Laud archb. of Cant. and a fourth upon sir Hen. Spelman the antiquary.⁵

⁴ [An impression of his poems in 1661 was entitled, The Marrow of the Muses. Phillips styles him 'the not uncommended writer of a book of facetious poems.']

⁵ [One of his best poems is, I think, an Elegie on the Death of Sir Beville Grenville, page 116.]

To build upon the merit of thy death,
 And raise thy fame from thy expiring breath,
 Were to steale glories from thy life, and tell
 The world, that Grenvil only did dye well.
 But all thy dayes were faire, the same sun rose
 The lustre of thy dawning and thy close.
 Thus to her urne th' Arabian wonder flies,
 She lives in perfumes, and in perfumes dyes.
 E're stormes and tumults (names undreaded here)
 Could in their bloome and infancy appeare,
 He in the stocke and treasure of his minde
 Had heapes of courage and just heate combin'd:
 Where, like the thrifty ant, he kept in store
 Enough for spring, but for a winter more.
 In peace he did direct his thoughts on warres,
 And learn't in silence how to combat jarres,
 And though the times look't smooth, and would allow
 No tracke of frowne or wrinkle in their brow,
 Yet his quicke sight perceiv'd the age would lowr,
 And while the day was faire, foresaw the shwr.

At this the prudent augur did provide
 Where to endure the storme, not where to hide,
 And sought to shun the danger now drawne nigh,
 Not by concealement, but by victory.
 As valiant seamen, if the vessell knocke,
 Rather sayle o're it, then avoid the rocke.

And thus resolv'd, he saw on either hand,
 The causes, and their bold abettors, stand.
 The kingdom's law is the pretence of each,
 Which these by law preserve, these by its breach;
 The subjects' liberty each side mainetaines,
 These say it consists in freedome, these in chaines.
 These love the decent church, but these not passe
 To dresse our matron by the Geneva glasse.
 These still enshrine their God, but these adore
 Him most at some Arauna's threshing flore.
 Each part defends their king a several way,
 By true subjection these, by treasons they.
 But our spectator soon unmask't the sin,
 And saw all serpent through that specious skin:
 And midst their best pretext did still despaire,
 In any dresse, to see their moore louke faire.
 And though the number waigh'd i'th' popular scale,
 As light things floate still with the tyde and gale,
 He with the solid mixt, and did conclude
 Justice makes parties great, not multitude.

Verses on the Return of K. Ch. II. James Duke of York, and Henry Duke of Gloucester. Lond. 1660. in 3 sh. in fol.

Elegy on the Death of Henry Duke of Gloucester — Printed 1660. (in a fol. paper.)

Wickham wakened: or, the Quaker's Madrigal in Rhime dogrel.—Printed 1672 in one sheet in qu. Written while he was mayor of Wycombe against a practitioner of physick who was a quaker and took much from his practice. He died on the 17th of March in sixteen hundred eighty and one, and was buried in the middle of the north isle joyn-168½.
 ing to the chancel of the church of Gr. Wycombe before mentioned. Over his grave was soon after a black marble stone laid, with this inscription thereon.⁶ Hic jacet Martinus Lluelyn eruditus Medicinæ Doctor, ex Æde Christi olim Alumnus, sæviante Civilis belli incendio (dum Oxonium præsidio muninebatur) cohorti Academicorum fidei Præfectus erat adversus ingruentum Rebellium ferociam: posteaquam sereniss. Carolo secundo inter juratos Medicus, & Colleg. Med. Lond. socius. Aulæ sanctæ Mariæ dudum Principalis, dein hujusce comitatus Irenarcha, necnon municipii hujus semel Prætor, Regiæ autoritatis & religionis Eccles. Angliæ legibus stabilitæ strenuus assertor, inconcussus amator, celeberrimus & insignis Poeta. Qui res egregias & sublimes pari ingenio & facundia depinxit: Bino matrimonio felix septem liberos superstites reliquit, Lætitiæ & Martinum ex priore, Georgium, Ricardum & Mauritium, Martham & Mariam ex posteriore nuper amantissima conjuge, nunc mæstissima vidua Marthæ, Georgii Long de Penn Generosi filiâ. Heu! quam caduca corporis humani fabrica, qui toties morbos fugavit, ipse tandem morbo succumbit anhelus, doctorum & proborum maximum desiderium. Obiit xvii. Martii MDCLXXXI annoque ætatis LXVI.

[Llewelin has not been recorded in any list of English dramatic writers, though from pages 77 and 80 of his Poems, it seems he had a title to such a place. He there addresses lord B. and Dr. Fell of Ch. Ch. upon presenting them with a play, and evidently alludes to it as his own composition. I have not discovered the title.

Several short commendatory poems by this writer, are, as I conjecture, to be found in the works of his

And with this constant principle possess,
 He did alone expose his single breast
 Against an armie's force, and bleeding lay,
 The great restorer o'th' declining day.

Thus slaine, thy valiant ancestor did lye,
 When his one barke a navy durst defie,
 When now encompass'd round, he victor stood
 And bath'd his pinnace in his conquering blood,
 Till all his purple current dry'd and spent
 He fell, and left the waves his monument.

Where shall next famous Grenevil's ashes stand?

Thy grandsire fills the seas, and thou the land.]

⁶ [Written by the rev. Mr. I. Milles. See his Life, pages 43, 44, 47, 72. LOVEDAY.]

contemporaries, and these were not printed with Men Miracles, &c. One of these I remember to have seen prefixed to Christ. Bennet's Theatri Tabidorum Vestibulum, 8vo. 1654.]

[707]

THOMAS CASE, son of George Case, vicar of Boxley in Kent, was born in that county, became student of Ch. Ch. upon the recommendations of Tob. Matthew archb. of York, in the year 1616, aged 17 years or thereabout, took the degrees in arts, holy orders, preached for some time in these parts, and afterwards in Kent, at, or near, the place of his nativity.⁷ At the turn of the times in 1641, he closed with them, and being schismatically addicted, he became an enemy to the bishops and liturgy, a great boutifien and firebrand in the church, a leader and abettor of the pretended reformation, and what not, to vent his spleen, to become popular in the city of London, and so consequently to get preferment and wealth, which before he wanted, and therefore discontented. About the same time he was minister⁸ of S. Mary Magd. Ch. in Milk-street in London, upon the sequestration thence of a loyalist, where it was usual with him at his invitation of the people to the Lord's table for the receiving of the sacrament to say⁹ 'You that have freely and liberally contributed to the parliament for the defence of God's cause and the gospel, draw near,' instead of 'You that do truly and earnestly repent,' &c. To the rest he threatened damnation, as coming unwillingly to the holy sacrament. In 1643, he, as a grand lover of the cause, was made by ordinance of parliament one of the assembly of divines, being then, as before and after, a frequent preacher before the members of the said parliament, and about that time the Thursday's lecturer at S. Martin's in the Fields. He was so zealous a covenanteer also, that he published a sermon about the solemn league and covenant, advised all to take it, and was angry with those that did not, tho' they understood it not. He was, during the war (as most of the brethren were) a common preacher of rebellion. At length he, and they, being cozened of their king, and the designs they had upon him, by the independents, he became a bitter enemy to that party, plotted with Love, Jenkins, &c. and with the Scots, to bring in his son king Charles II. an. 1651, Case being about that time minister of S. Giles's in the Fields near London; but their plot being discovered, and Love the

⁷ [His first pastoral charge was at Erpingham in Norfolk, out of which place he was forc'd by bishop Wren's severity. He was summon'd to the high commission court, and bail'd: but before answer could be given to the articles prefer'd against him, the court was taken away by act of parliament. He first set up the Morning Exercise. Calamy, Ejected Ministers, ii, 707.]

⁸ [Read rector. RAWLINSON.]

⁹ So in A Letter from Merc. Civicus to Merc. Rusticus: or London's Confession, &c. Printed 1643, p. 26. See also in Merc. Aul. 19 Feb. 1642.

Corypheus suffering for the rest, our author Case, with his brethren that were in the conspiracy, made¹ a petition to Oliver by way of acknowledgment and submission for what they had done. In the year 1653 he made it his endeavours to be one of the triers for the approbation of ministers, appointed by Oliver, but was rejected; yet when the presbyterians began to lift up their heads in the latter end of 1659, upon the generous proceedings of general Monk, he was constituted by act of parl. dated 14 of Mar. that year, one of the ministers for the approbation and admission of ministers according to the presbyterian way. But that foppery being soon after laid aside, he himself, upon the coming out of the act of conformity, an. 1662, was laid aside also; yet ever after so long as he lived, he was not wanting to carry on the beloved cause in conventicles, for which he sometimes suffer'd. He hath written and published,

Several sermons, as (1) Two Serm. before the House of Commons; on Ezek. 20. 25. and on Ezra 10. 2, 3. Lond. 1642. sec. edit. (2) God's Rising, his Enemies Scattering; before the H. of C. at their Fast 26 Oct. 1642; on Psal. 68. 1, 2. Lond. 1644. qu. (3) The Root of Apostacy and Fountain of true Fortitude, Thanksg. Serm. before the H. of C. 9 Apr. 1644, for the great Victory given to Sir Will. Waller, and the Forces with him, against the Army of Sir Ralph Hopton; on Dan. 11. 32. Lond. 1644. qu. (4) Deliverance-obstruction: or the Set-backs of Reformation, Fast Serm. before the H. of Lords 26 Mar. 1646; on Exod. 5. 22, 23. Lond. 1646. qu. (5) A Model of true spiritual Thankfulness, Thanksgiv. Serm. 19 Feb. 1645, for reducing the City of Chester by the Parl. Forces under the Command of Sir William Brereton; on Psal. 107. 30, 31. Lond. 1646. qu. (6) Spiritual Whoredom discovered in a Fast Serm. before the H. of C. 26 May 1647; on Hosea 9. 1. Lond. 1647. qu. (7) Sermon before the House of Commons, 22 Aug. 1645, being the Day appointed for the solemn Thanksgiving unto God for the Parliament Forces their gaining of Bath and Bridgewater, Scarborough and Sherburn Castle, and for the dispersing of the Club-men, and the good Success in Pembroke-shire; on Isa. 43. 14. Lond. 1645. qu.

[708]

Other sermons, as (1) God's Waiting to be gracious unto his People, together with England's Encouragements and Causes to wait on God, delivered in certain Sermons at Milk-street in Lond. on Isa. 30. 18. Lond. 1642. qu. (2) Sermon on Ezek. 50. 5. Lond. 1643. qu. (3) Jehosaphat's Caution to his Judges; on 2 Chron. 19. 6, 7. Lond. 1644. 45. qu. This sermon, which I have not yet seen, was preached, if I mistake not, in Aug. 1644, upon the occasion of a court martial: From the epistle before which, and from the sermon it self, the independents took great advantage, and quoted it when the presbyterian plot was discovered to bring into England king Charles II. an. 1651; at which time Chr. Love who was the chief man in that plot, and our author Case another, were to be brought to their tryal. The sermon is all for revenge of blood, innocent blood, spilt; and 'tis in a most high and desperate manner a downright provocation to do justice upon delinquents, that is cavaliers, or those that adhered to the king, to spare not one of them living, &c. (4) The Quarrel of the Covenant, with the Pacification of the Quarrel, in 3 Sermons on Lev. 26. 25. and on Jer. 50. 5. Lond. 1644. qu. (5) The Vanity of Vain-glory, funeral Sermon at the Burial of Kingsmyll Lucy; on 1 Cor. 1. ver. 29. with 31. Lond. 1655. in tw. (6) Sensuality dissected, Sermon before divers Citizens of London born in Kent.—Lond. 1657. qu. (7) Elijah's Abateman: or, Corruption in the Saints; Sermon at the Funeral of Walt. Rosewell, M. A. at Chatham in Kent; on Jam. 3. 17. Lond. 1658. in tw. (8) Serm. on Prov. 31. 19. Lond. 1658. oct. (9) Fun. Sermon on Malachi 3. 17. Lond. 1659. qu. (10) Farewell Sermon at Bartholomewtide; on Rev. 2. 5. Lond. 1662. oct. (11) How the Sabbath ought to be sanctified; on Isa. 58. 13. 14. Lond. 1674. [Bodl. C. 1. 6. Linc.] 76. qu. 'Tis in the Supplement to the Morning Exercise at Cripple-gate. (12) Sermon on 2 Tim. 1. 13. preached in the morning exercise at S. Giles's in the Fields, in May 1659; which sermon is extant in a book entit. The Morning Exercise methodized, published by our author Case, with his epistle before it—Lond. 1676. qu. Besides these, and other sermons which I have not yet seen, he hath published,

¹ Memorials of Engl. Affairs, an. 1651.

The Morning Exercise: or some short Notes taken out of the Morning Sermons, which divers Ministers of the Gospel in the City of Lond. preached at S. Giles's in the Fields, in the Month of May 1655. Lond. 1655. in tw.

"The Excellent Woman: or, the Life of Mrs. Eliz. Scot, &c. Lond. 1656. oct."²

Imitation of the Saints, opened in practical Meditations. Lond. 1666. qu.

Mount Pisgah: or a Prospect of Heaven. Being an Exposition on the fourth Chap. of the first Epistle of S. Paul to the Thess. from the 13 Ver. to the End of the Chap. Lond. 1670. qu. [Bodl. 4to. T. 45. Th.] Dedicated to sir Rob. Booth lord chief justice of the Common Pleas in Ireland, whose mother the author Case had married.

² [The excellent Woman: a Sermon preached at the Funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Scott, Relict to Humphrey Scott of Conghurst in Kent Esq. and Daughter unto Sir Matthew Howland Kt. late of Giles in the Fields, on the 16 of December 1658: On Proverbs 31, verse 29. Lond. 1659, 4to. RAWLINSON.]

³ [Meditations upon the Death of Mrs. Anne Browne late Wife of Mr. Peter Browne of Hammersmith; on Heb. vi. 12, 8vo. Lond. 1666. WANLEY.]

Correction, Instruction: or a Treatise of Afflictions, first conceived by Way of private Meditations, after digested into certain Sermons. Lond. 1671. in tw. At length after our author had lived in continual agitation for carrying on the cause he professed, died in sixteen hundred eighty and two: whereupon his body was buried at the upper end of the church called Christ Church within Newgate in London; and had soon after laid over his grave a large white stone, just below the steps going to the altar, with this inscription thereon. Hic molliter dormit Thomas Case fideliss. Jesu Christi Minister, in hac urbe & alibi perquam plurimos annos egregius Concionator. In Aede Christi Oxon. educatus, in hoc templo Christi tandem sepultus. Obiit 30. Maii, an. ætatis 84. annoque Domini 1682.

1682.

BENJAMIN NEEDLER, son of Thomas Needler of Lanum in Middlesex, was born in that county, elected scholar of S. John's coll. from Merchant-Taylors school, an. 1642, aged 18 years, afterwards fellow, and a cringer to the presbyterian visitors of the university, in 1648, by submitting to their power and accepting of, by way of creation, the degree of bach. of the civ. law. Whether he afterwards took orders from a bishop, I know not: sure I am, that he being a well gifted brother for praying and preaching, he was some years after made minister of Margaret Moses in Friday-street within the city of London, where continuing till after his majesty's restoration, was ejected for non-conformity, an. 1662. He hath written,

[709]

Expository Notes, with practical Observations, towards the Opening of the five first Chapters of the first Book of Genesis, delivered by Way of Exposition in several Lord's-days Exercises. Lond. 1655, in a large octavo.

Several sermons, as (1) Sermon on Matth. 5. 29, 30.—'Tis the third serm. in the Morning Exercise at Cripple-gate, preached in Sept. 1661.—Lond. 1661. qu. (2) Sermon on Matth. 4. 10.—'Tis the thirteenth serm. in the Morning Exercise against Popery, preached in Southwark, &c.—Lond. 1675. qu. (3) The Trinity proved by Scripture, Serm. on 1 John. 5. 7. in the Morning Exercise methodized, &c. preached in S. Giles's in the Fields, in May 1659.—Lond. 1676. qu. What other things go under his name, I know not, nor any thing else of him, only that he dying at North Warnborough in Hampshire (where for some years he had exercis'd his function in private) in the month of May or June, in sixteen hundred eighty and two, was according to his will, as I presume, buried frugally in some church-yard, I think in that of North Warnborough before mentioned: At which time he left behind him a son called Culverwell Needler, another named Benjamin, and a brother in law called Rich. Culverwell minister of Grundesburgh.

1682.

⁴ Reg. Matric. Un. Ox. PP. fol. 113. a.

"NICHOLAS GAWEN, a western man born, "educated in Queen's coll. but before he took a "degree, he became chaplain in a ship, and took a "ramble into Portugal. After his return he was "appointed minister and preacher of the word of "God, about three years after his majesty's restoration, at a market town called Bister in Oxfordshire, being only deputy for Mr. Will. Hall, who "by indisposition was made incapable of serving "the cure there. In 1670 Mr. Hall died, and then "our author Gawen was made vicar of Piddington "near to the said town of Bister, where he finished "his course. He hath written,

"Christ's Pre-eminence; in a Question propounded, discussed and resolved, that Christ was the first that with Flesh and Blood entred into the Kingdom of Heaven. Oxon. 1666. qu. [Bodl. B. 8. 2. Linc.] This is dedicated to Dr. Tho. Lamplugh archdeacon of Middlesex and principal of S. Alban's hall, who, as it seems, had been tutor to Gawen while of Qu. coll. He was buried in the church of Piddington before-mentioned on the 26th of June, in sixteen hundred eighty and two. Had this person taken any degree in this university, I should have put him into the FASTI "among the authors of lesser note."

HENRY MUNDAY, "son of Henry Munday," was born in a market town called Henley in Oxfordshire, became one of the portionists of Merton coll. in the beginning of the rebellion, took one degree in arts, in 1647, and kept pace with the interrupted times to enjoy some petit employment. In 1656, May 20, he was elected master of the free grammar school at Henley before-mention'd, which being well endowed and replenish'd with scholars, was very beneficial to him. At length following the practice of physic, it fell to decay, and had not death prevented justice, he would have been ejected. He hath written and published, Commentariis de Ære vitali. 2. De Esculentis. 3. De Potulentis, cum Corallario de Parergis in Victu. Oxon. 1680. in a large oct. [Bodl. 8vo. D. 23. Med.] Lugd. 3 edit. 1685 in qu. He died by a fall from his horse, in his return to Henley from the house of John lord Lovelace at Hurley, on the 28th of June in sixteen hundred eighty and two, aged about 58 years; and the next day his body was buried in the north chancel of the church at Henley. In the said school succeeded Dan. Ashford M. A. and vice-pr. of Hart hall (sometime of Wadh. coll.) who by his industry and vigilancy made it flourish.

PHILIP HUNTON, son of Ph. Hunton of Andover in Hanipshire, was born in that county, became either batler or servitour of Wadham coll. in Lent term 1622, of which house he was afterwards scholar, and master of arts. At length entering into the sacred function, he became successively schoolmaster of Aburie in Wilts, minister of Devises, afterwards of Hatchbury, and in fine of Westbury in the said county; and as minister of the last place, he was appointed an assistant to the commissioners of Wilts. for the ejecting of such whom the presbyterians, independents and other factious people called scandalous, ignorant and insufficient ministers and schoolmasters, an. 1654. In the beginning of the year 1657 he was appointed the first provost of the new college at Durham⁵ erected by Oliver the protector; which, with the academy there, being soon after dissolved, he retired to Westbury, and continued at that place till 1662, at which time being ejected for nonconformity, held notwithstanding afterwards conventicles in the places where he lived. He hath written,

VOL. IV.

A Treatise of Monarchy, containing two Parts. 1. Concerning Monarchy in general. 2. Concerning this particular Monarchy, &c. Lond. 1643. qu. Answer'd by Dr. Hen. Ferne in his Reply to several Treatises, &c. and by sir Rob. Filmer, in a piece of his called The Anarchy of a limited and mixed Monarchy. Lond. 1646. qu. [1648. Bodl. C. 15. 4. Linc.] Reprinted at Lond. 1652, [Bodl. 4to. Z. 12. Art. Seld.] and 1679. oct. This sir Robert, by the way it must be known, was son of sir Ed. Filmer of East Sutton in Kent, by Eliz. his wife daugh. of Rich. Argall of the same place esq; and was, as I conceive, educated in Trin. coll. in Cambridge.⁶ Our author Hunton hath also written,

A Vindication of the Treatise of Monarchy. Lond. 1644. qu. [Bodl. C. 14. 6. Linc.] As for the said Treatise of Monarchy which hath been and is still in great vogue among many persons of commonwealth and levelling principles, it was reprinted when the press was open, in 1680, when then the factious party endeavoured to carry on their designs, upon account of the popish plot. But forasmuch, as 'tis said therein, that the sovereignty of England is in the three estates, viz. king, lords and commons, that proposition was condemned by the judgment and decree of the university of Oxon in their convocation, held 21 July 1683, and the book it self wherein it is, was then publicly burnt in the school-quadrangle.⁷ Afterwards, as soon as the

⁵ [He had indeed in the north the rich living of Sedgfield in the bishopric of Durham, which is worth 700*l.* per annum: tho' he did not enjoy all the profits of it. He had upward of 200*l.* per annum assign'd him out of it, as master of the college of Durham, which he lost upon the return of the old incumbent Dr. Nailor in the year 1660. Calamy, Ejected Ministers, ii, 754.]

⁶ [Sir Rob. Filmer was of Trin. coll. Cambr. nephew of . . . Argall of Colechester, &c. See Jo. Grant's epist. ded. before Ambrose Fisher's Defence of the Liturgy. Lond. 4to. 1630.]

Rob. Filmer coll. Trin. conv. 2. adm. in matric. acad. Cant. Jul. 5, 1604. Reg. BAKER.]

⁷ [This Judgment and Decree of the university of Oxford was it self burnt as publicly in the New Palace-yard, Westminster, by the order of the house of lords on March 27, 1710, as contrary to the constitution of this kingdom, and destruc-prince of Orange was come into England, at which time the nation was in a hurry, it was again printed at London in January 1688. qu. with the date of 1689 put to it. [Bodl. B. 12. 10. Linc.] Under our author's name goes also a book entit.

1682.

Jus Regum, &c. Lond. 1645. qu. But this I have not yet seen, and therefore I can say nothing of it: Nor any more of the author (who was a man of parts) only that he dying in the month of July in sixteen hundred eighty and two, was buried in the church of Westbury in Wilts before-mentioned, having some years before married a widow with a good joynture, which maintained him, and kept up his port.

[711]

THOMAS JONES, son of John Williams, was born, and brought up in juvenile learning, at Oswestrie in Shropshire, entred into Jesus coll. in the beginning of the grand rebellion, left it soon after, returned when Oxford garrison was surrendered for the use of the parl. an. 1646, became fellow of Univ. coll. by the authority of the visitors appointed by the said parliament, in 1648, to whom he then submitted and acknowledg'd the use of the covenant, and in the year following he took a degree in arts, being at that time and after a zealous person for carrying on the righteous cause. In 1652, being then master of his faculty, he wrote Vita Edwardi Simsoni S. T. D. ex ipsius Autographo excerpta, which is set before the said Simson's Chronicon Catholicum, printed at Oxon 1652. fol. [Bodl. A. 1. 8. Med. Seld.] and in 1654 he took holy orders, as 'tis said, from a bishop. About that time he became rector of Castle in Montgomeryshire in the dioc. of S. Asaph, and learned the Welsh tongue, purposely to serve those parts, when the orthodox clergy were miserably consumed by an act of propagation. From that place being ejected, upon one Wynn's discovery of a dormant title, he removed to the service of the lord president and council of Wales at Ludlow castle, an. 1661, and thence to be domestic and naval chaplain to James duke of York, in 1663: In whose service continuing till 1666, or after, was then by the means of Dr. Morley bishop of Winchester (for some words spoken against him derogatory to his person and function) dismiss'd thence. So that soon after retiring to his rectory of Landurnog in the dioc. of Bangor (which he some time before had obtained) found there but little quiet also from Dr. Morgan his diocesan, being (as our author^s saith) set on by the bishop of Winchester. In 1670 Winchester call'd him to an account for an action of slander at the Kings-bench, for saying that he was a promoter of popery and a subverter of the church of England, attested upon oath by Bangor and two of his chaplains: whereupon our author tive to the protestant succession as by law established. MAcro.]

^s In his book call'd Elymas the Sorcerer. p. 25.

was fined 300*l.* or more, and the rectory of Landurnog was sequestred for the payment of it. Which fine Winchester offer'd to remit wholly, if he would confess he had spoken those words against him and ask forgiveness: But when he would not, the sequestration continued, and 20*l.* of it was sent to our author, and some given for the repairing of the cathedral of Bangor, and the rest for other pious uses. About the same time he was condemn'd and censur'd ab officio & beneficio by his diocesan, occasioned by some controversy that hapned between them about a reading pew in the church at Landurnog, the particulars of which you may read at large⁹ elsewhere. So that being in a manner undone, did, much about the time of the breaking out of the Popish plot, publish,

Of the Heart, and its right Sovereign: and Rome no Mother-Church to England. Or, an historical Account of the Title of an English Church; and by what Ministry the Gospel was first planted in every County. Lond. 1678. oct.

A Remembrance of the Rights of Jerusalem above, in the great Question, Where is the true Mother Church of Christians?——Printed with the former book. At that time the author taking part with Tit. Oates, his old acquaintance, Ez. Tongue, Steph. Colledge, &c. and other factious people to gain their ends by making a disturbance in the nation by the Popish plot, he wrote and published,

Elymas the Sorcerer: or a Memorial towards the Discovery of the Bottom of this Popish Plot, &c. Published upon Occasion of a Passage in the late Dutchesse of York's Declaration for changing her Religion. Lond. 1682, in 8 sh. in fol. This book was written and published in spleen against the bishop of Winchester, grounded upon a passage in The History of Calvinism, written by monsieur Leves Maimburgh¹ a French Jesuit, wherein he resolves the dutchesse of York's declaration for popery, into the seeming encouragement of two of the most learned bishops in England. One of these our author doth endeavour to make the reader to understand (tho' he nameth him not) to be Winchester. Notice of this book therefore coming to the said bishop of Wine. he would have prosecuted the matter so far in his own vindication, as to have the said Elymas the Sorcerer to be publicly burnt, and the author to be further punished: But before he could compass his design, the author died. However Winchester, that he might not sit silent, published his own vindication, as to M. Maimburgh's words, in his preface to certain treatises that he published in 1683. Rich. Watson also D. D. of this university and chaplain to his royal highness the duke of York did answer it "first in half a sheet in fol. entit. An Answer to Elymas the Sorcerer, in

⁹ Ib. in Elym. the Sorc.

¹ Printed in French in the beginning of the year 1682.

[712]

"Jul. 1682, and soon after" in a "fuller" book entit. A fuller Answer to Elymas the Sorcerer: or to the most material Part (of a feigned Memorial) towards the Discovery of the Popish Plot, &c. in a Letter addressed to Mr. Thom. Jones. Published at Lond. in Feb. 1682. in 8 sh. in fol. with the date in the title of 1683 set to it. Our author Jones also published his Sermon preached at the Funeral of Ez. Tongue, D. D. which I have not yet seen.² At length this person, who was troubled with a rambling and sometimes craz'd pate, dying at Totteridge in Hertfordshire on Sunday the eighth of Octob. in sixteen hundred eighty and two, was buried in the chappel or church of that place. He had a little before been received into the house there belonging to Franc. Charlton esq; and the same who was suspected³ to be in Monmouth's rebellion, an. 1685, and the same whose sister Margaret had been married to Mr. Rich. Baxter.

1682.

HENRY BLOUNT third son of sir Tho. Pope Blount of Tittenhanger in Hertfordshire knight, son of Will. Blount of Blounts-hill in Staffordshire, was born at Tittenhanger before-mention'd, which is in the parish of Ridge, on the 15th of December 1602, educated in the free-school at S. Alban's, where, by the help of his pregnant parts, he made such large steps in learning that before he was 14 years of age⁴ he was transplanted to Trinity coll. of which he became a gent. commoner, and there, not so much upon his relation to sir Tho. Pope the founder thereof, as upon account of his own intrinsick worth, and the facetiousness of wit so peculiar to him, he had in a particular manner the deference and respect of the said coll. After he had taken one degree in arts, he retired to Greys inn, studied the municipal law, and at length, upon his retreat thence, sold his chamber to Tho. Bonham of Essex the poet. In 1634, May 7, [after having viewed Italy, France, and some little of Spain⁵] he embarked at Venice for Constantinople in order to his voyage into the Levant, returned about two years after, became one of the gentlemen pensioners to king Charles I. and by him knighted 21 Mar. 1639. Afterwards he attended him at York, Edghill battle and at Oxford for a time, and then leaving him, he retired to London, where being esteemed a cavalier was called be-

² [A Sermon preached at St. Michaels Wood Street, at the Funeral of Ecceel Tonge D. D. memorable for his good Service in the first Discovery of the horrid Popish Plot. On 2 Tim. ver. 7, 8. Lond. 1681, 4to. Dedicated to the duke of Monmouth. RAWLINSON.]

³ [So Frazer: I say concern'd. Wood, MS. Note in Ashmole.]

⁴ [He was admitted in 1615, and educated under the tuition of the learned Robert Skynner, one of the fellows, afterwards bishop of Worcester (of whom see the Account of bishops under the year 1670). At the same time his elder brother was admitted a gentleman-commoner. Thomas quitted college in 1615, Henry in 1619. Warton's Life of Sir Thomas Pope, 8vo. Lond. 1780, p. 206.]

⁵ [See his Voyage, p. 3. LOVEDAY.]

fore the house of commons and question'd by them for his adherence to his majesty: But he remonstrating to them that he did no more than what his place required, that is, his duty to wait, he was acquitted. So that closing with that party, he was appointed one of the committee of 21 persons in Jan. 1651 to consult about the reformation of the law, to consider of the inconveniences in it, and mischiefs which frequently arose from the delays, and other irregularities in the administration thereof, and about that time he shewed himself active against the payment of tythes, and endeavoured that every minister should not have above 100*l.* per an. for his pains in administering the gospel. In 1654, Jul. 5. he, with Dr. Rich. Zouch, Dr. W. Clerk, Dr. Will. Turner civilians, Mr. Lucy, &c. sate in the upper bench in Westm. hall for the trial of Pontalio Sa brother to the Portugues ambassador, three more Portugueses and an English boy, for a murther and a riot committed by them in the New Exchange, and on the 1st of Nov. 1655 he was appointed one of the committee to take into consideration the trade and navigation of the commonwealth, &c. He was esteemed by those that knew him a gentleman of a very clear judgment, great experience, much contemplation (tho' not of much reading) and of great foresight into government. He was also a person of admirable conversation, and in his younger years was a great banterer, which in his elder he disused. He hath written and published,

*A Voyage into the Levant:*⁶ "or, a brief Relation of a Journey lately perform'd from England by Way of Venice into Dalmatia, Sclavonia, Bosnia, Hungary, Macedonia, Thessaly, Thraee, Rhodes, and Egypt, unto Grand Cairo, &c." Lond. 1636. 2d edition, qu. In other editions in tw. it hath this title, A Voyage into the Levant, being a brief Relation of a Journey performed from England, by Way of Venice, through the Turkish Empire and Egypt, unto Grand Cairo, &c. It is so well esteemed abroad, that (as I have been informed) it hath been translated into French and Dutch: In the first of which languages I have seen a book entit. Voyage de Levant. Par. 1632. qu. written by D. C. He also wrote (as I have been informed by some of his relations, tho' his sons know nothing of it) a pamphlet entit. The Exchange Walk; printed much about the time that Hen. Nevill published his pamphlet called The Parliament of Ladies, &c. 1647. This sir Hen. Blount, whom

[713]

⁶ [This little work is the voyage of a sceptic: it has more of the philosopher than the traveller, and would probably never have been written, but for the purpose of insinuating his religious sentiments. Yet his reflections are so striking and original, and so artfully interwoven with the thread of his adventures, that they enliven, instead of embarrassing, the narrative. He has the plausible art of colouring his paradoxes with the resemblance of truth. So little penetration had the orthodox court of Charles the first, that merely on the merit of this book, he was appointed one of the band of pensioners. Warton, ut sup.]

1682.

I have mentioned in Joh. Lylic in the first vol. col. 676.⁷ and in Walt. Rumsey in the third, col. 509 died on the ninth day of Octob. in sixteen hundred eighty and two, and was buried privately on the eleventh day in a vault joyning to the church of Ridge, leaving then behind him two ingenious sons, one named Tho. Pope Blount a baronet, author of Censura celebriorum Authorum, sive Tractatus in quo varia Virorum doctorum de clarissimis cujusque Seculi Scriptoribus Judicia traduntur, &c. Lond. 1690. fol. [Bodl. G. I. 14. Th.] as also of Essays on several Subjects:⁸ and another called Charles, who published, — Anima Mundi: or, an historical Narration of the Opinions of the Antients, concerning Man's Soul after this Life. Lond. 1679. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. Q. 28. Art.] The manuscript copy of this book (in which the father was supposed to have a considerable hand) went about the city of London with many gross passages in it. Afterwards being printed, it was taken for granted that the said book was published according to that copy. But those errors were all decried and exploded in the impression; and with those corrections Rog. L'estrang the licenser was prevail'd upon at the instance of a particular friend, to license it. Afterwards L'estrang hearing the clamours that were raised about this book, and the fate to which it was doom'd, he waited upon Dr. Compton bishop of London, laid the matter before him; and his lordship (thinking the book however inconvenient to be published) was pleased to rest satisfied with the bare suppression of it: But advantage⁹ was taken, in the bishop's absence, of burning it, contrary to his lordship's promise, and, as 'twas believ'd, to his order. The said Mr. Ch. Blount also published, Great is Diana of the Ephesians, or the Original of Idolatry, together with the politic Institution of the Gentiles' Sacrifices. Lond. 1680. oct. Also, — Janua Scientiarum: or, a compendious Introduction to Geography, Chronology, Government, History, Philosophy and all genteel Sorts of Literature. Lond. 1684. oct. and a little pamphlet for the Liberty of the Press,¹ besides his publication in English, with philological notes on each chapter, of The two first Books of Philostratus, concerning the Life of Apollonius Tyaneus, written originally in Greek — Lond. 1680 in a thin fol. Soon after suppressed and only a few copies dispersed. "He had a principal hand² in the Oracles of Reason, &c. Lond. 1693. oct. was author of a pamphlet

⁷ [It was not this Hen. Blount: see article LYLIE.]

⁸ [Sir Thomas also published Remarks on Poetry, with the Characters and Censures of the most considerable Poets antient and modern. 1694, 4to. and A Natural History containing many not common Observations out of the best modern Writers, 8vo. 1693.]

⁹ See in the Observer, num. 290.

¹ [Milton's Ghost, or an humble Address to the High Court of Parliament in Behalf of the Liberty of the Press, 4to. Lond. 1679 in two sheets and a half. WANLEY.]

² [Charles Gildon hath another hand in it. WOOD, MS. Note in Ashmole.]

"entit. King William and Qu. Mary Conquerors. Lond. 1693. He shot himself in August 1693."³

THOMAS BROWNE eldest son of Th. Br. gent. was born in S. Michael's Cheap, or in the parish of S. Michael in Cheapside in London, on the 19th of October an. 1605, educated in grammar learning in Wykeham's school near Winchester, entred a commoner of Broadgate's hall (soon after known by the name of Pembroke coll.) in the beginning of the year 1623, took the degrees in arts, as a member of the said coll. entred on the physic line, and practised that faculty for some time in these parts. Afterwards he travelled beyond the seas, was made doctor of physic at Leyden, and after his return he was incorporated in this university, an. 1637. About which time he, by the persuasions of Tho. Lushington his sometime tutor, retired to the city of Norwich, where being settled he was much resorted to by patients for his admirable skill in physic, which he practised there with good success for many years, was made socius honorarius of the coll. of physicians at London, and at length, in the latter end of September 1671, had the honour of knighthood conferr'd upon him by his majesty Charles II. then at, and near, the city of Norwich. He hath written,

Religio Medici. Lond. 1642. [1643, with MS. notes by Mr. Tho. Keck of the Temple, Bodl. 8vo. Rawl. 675; and 1645, Bodl. 8vo. B. 66. Art. Seld.] &c. oct. in English. Answer'd in a book entit. Medicus Medicatus, written by Alex. Ross a Scot,⁴ and had English Observations put on it about the same time by sir Ken. Digby, and Annotations by

[714]

³ [Warton received a true account of this affecting catastrophe from sir Harry Pope Blount, bart. the last of the family, a diligent and faithful antiquary. The cause was this: On the death of his wife, Mr. Blount fell in love with her sister, a lady of great beauty and accomplishments: she was not insensible to his attachment, but was scrupulous about the legality of marrying her sister's late husband. On his application to the most learned civilians, and the archbishop of Canterbury, he was informed, that such a match could not take place. On this, the lady positively refused her consent, and Mr. Blount in a fit of despair shot himself through the head. The wound not immediately proving mortal, he lived five days: during which time, he received no sustenance or medicines but from the hands of the lady, who attended him with the most sympathetic tenderness till his last moments. Life, ut sup. 209.]

⁴ [Feb. 24, 1653, Alex. Rosse, Scotchman, writer of many tracts, died. Mr. Ric. Smith's Obituary. BAKER.]

Medicus Medicatus: or the Physician's Religion cured, by a Lenitive or gentle Potion: with some Animadversions upon Sir Kenelm Digbie's Observations on Religio Medici. By Alexander Ross. Lond. 1645. Bodl. 8vo. C. 229. Line. Ded. to Mr. Edward Benlowes.

Arcana Microcosmi: or the hid Secrets of Mans Body disclosed. First in an Anatomical Duel between Aristotle and Galen about the Parts thereof. Secondly By a Discovery of the strange and marvellous Diseases, Symptomes and Accidents of Man's Body. With a Refutation of Doctor Brown's Vulgar Errors, and the Ancient Opinions vindicated. Lond. 1651. Bodl. 8vo. B. 149. Art. Ded. to Edward Watson esq. son and heir to the lord Rockingham.]

another. Afterwards the book it self was translated into Latin by Joh. Merryweather M. A. of Cambridge,⁵ and had Latin annotations put to it by a certain German, who subscribes himself L. N. M. E. M. printed at Strasburgh 1652. in oct. whose preface to it tells us that the book it self, which is translated into French, Italian, Dutch, German, &c. hath been much taken into the hands of curious and learned men, who have read it with great delight. See more there of the author Browne and of his Relig. Med. in the said translat.

Pseud. Epidem. Enquiries into very many received Tenets, and commonly presumed Truths, or Enquiries into common and vulgar Errors. Lond. 1646. in a little fol. There again 1650 and 57, &c. The sixth edit. in 1672 [Bodl. 4to. F. 36. Th.] was enlarged by the author with many explanations, additions, alterations, &c. 'Twas answer'd by the said Alex. Ross in his—Arcana Microcosmi: Or, the hid Secrets of Man's Body discovered, &c. Lond. 1652. oct. &c. And in a book written by Joh. Robinson,⁶ M. D. entit. Endoxa, seu Quæstionum quarundam Miscellaniarum Examen probabile, &c. Lond. 1656. oct. The reader may be pleased now to know that there hath been published under Dr. Tho. Browne's name, a book bearing this title.

Nature's Cabinet unlocked, wherein is discovered the natural Causes of Metals, Stones, Pretious Earths, &c.—Printed 1657. in tw. A dull worthless thing, stole for the most part out of the Physics of Magirus by a very ignorant person, a plagiarist so ignorant and unskilful in his Rider, that not distinguishing between Lævis and Levis in the said Magirus, hath told us of the liver, that one part of it is gibbous and the other light: And yet he had the confidence to call this scribble Nature's Cabinet, &c. an arrogant and fanciful title, of which our author's (Browne) true humility would have no more have suffer'd him to have been the father, than his great learning could have permitted him to have been the author of the said book. For it is⁷ certain that as he was a philosopher very inward with nature, so was he one that never boasted his acquaintance with her. Sir Tho. Browne hath written also, lately found out in Norfolk, &c. Lond. 1658. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. B. 367. Linc.] &c.

Urn-burial: or, a Discourse of Sepulchral Urns,

The Garden of Cyrus: or, the Quincunical, Lozenge or Net-work Plantations of the Antients, artificially, naturally, mystically considered, with sundry Observations, &c.—Printed with Urn-burial.

Certain Miscellany Tracts: (1) Observations upon several Plants mention'd in Scripture. (2) Of Garlands, and coronary or Garden-plants. (3) Of the Fishes eaten by our Saviour with his Disciples, after his Resurrection from the Dead. (4) Answer to certain Enquiries relating to Fishes, Birds, Insects. (5) Of Hawks and Falconry, ancient and modern. (6) Of Cymbals, &c. (7) Of Ropae or gradual Verses, &c. (8) Of Languages, and particularly of the Saxon Tongue. (9) Of artificial Hills, Mounts or Burrows in many Parts of England. (10) What Place is meant by that Name. (11) Of the Answers of the Oracle of Apollo at Delphos to Cræsus King of Lydia. (12) A Prophecy concerning the future State of several Nations. (13) Musæum Clausum, or Bibliotheca abscondita, &c.—All these were printed at Lond. 1684 in oct. [Bodl. 8vo. A. 129. Art.] with the author's picture before them⁸ (shewing him to have been an handsome man) and an epistle written by Dr. Tho. Tennison the publisher of them, who saith that there is on foot a design of writing the author's life, and that there are already some memorials collected for that purpose by one of his ancient friends, and puts the reader in expectation of receiving hereafter some other remaining brief discourses; among which is his Repertorium: or, some Account of the Tombes, Monuments, &c. in the Cath. Ch. of Norwich. This learned and worthy physician (whose works were published in fol. 1686, with his picture also before them) died in his house in Norwich, on the 19th day of Octob. in sixteen hundred eighty and two, and was buried within the rails at the east end of the chancel, in the church of S. Peter in Mancroft within the said city. Over his grave was a monument soon after erected by his relict dame Dorothy, who had been his affectionate wife 41 years, with this inscription thereon. M. S. Hic situs est Thomas Browne M. D. & Miles, An. 1605 Londini natus, generosâ familiâ apud Upton in agro Cestrensi oriundus, Scholâ primum Wintoniensi, postea in Coll. Pembr. apud Oxonienses, bonis literis haud leviter imbutus; in urbe hæc Nordovicensi Medicinam, arte egregiâ & felici successu professus. Scriptis, quibus tituli, Religio Medici & Pseudodoxia Epidemica, aliisque per orbem notissimus. Vir prudentissimus, integerrimus, doctissimus. Obiit Octob. 19, an. 1682. Phe posuit maestissima conjux D. Dor. Br. There is also an English epitaph, which, for brevity's sake, I shall now pass by.

[715]

1682.

⁵ [John Merryweather was of Magdalen college, Cambridge, and became B. D. before 1652, in which year is dated Some Short Directions for a Student in the University, a MS. in the Bodleian.]

⁶ [Pseudodoxiæ Epidemicæ D. Thomæ Brunii Medicinæ Doctoris Perspicacitatē et Industriam nemini secundi, Ventilatio tranquilla, spirante Aura placida Johannis Robinsoni Collegæ et Concivis. Lond. 1656, oct.]

A calm Ventilation of Pseudodoxia Epidemica, or Doctrine of vulgar Errors set forth by the Hands of the most sedulous Tho. Browne Dr. in Physick, by the still Gole of John Robinson his Fellow-Citizen and Collegian. Lond. 1658. oct. RAWLINSON.]

⁷ See a discourse by way of introduction to Baconiana; or certain genuine Remains of Franc. Visc. S. Albans. Lond. 1679. oct. p. 76, 77. Written by Tho. Tenison. D. D.

⁸ [A very good engraving by P. Vandrebanc.]

[Christian Morals, by Sir Thomas Browne of Norwich M. D. and Author of Religio Medici. Published from the Original and correct Manuscript of the Author; by John Jeffery D. D. Arch-Deacon of Norwich. Cambridge, 1716, 8vo. Dedicated to David, earl of Buchan, &c. by Eliz. Littleton.⁹ WANLEY.

Posthumous Works of the learned Sir Thomas Browne Kt. M. D. late of Norwich: Printed from his original Manuscripts. viz. 1. Repertorium: or the Antiquities of the Cathedral Church of Norwich. 2. An Account of some Urnes, &c. found at Brampton in Norfolk, Anno 1667. 3. Letters between Sir William Dugdale and Sir Tho. Browne. 4. Miscellanies. To which is prefix'd his Life. There is also added Antiquitates Capellæ D. Johannis Evangelistæ; hodie Scholæ Regiæ Norwicensis. Authore Johanne Burton A. M. ejusdem Ludi-Magistro. Illustrated with Prospects, Portraitsures, Draughts of Tombs, Monuments, &c. Lond. 1712. with a good head of sir T. Browne by M. Vander Gucht. This book was published by John Hare esq. Richmond Herald. So Dr. Rawlinson in his copy, Bodl. 8vo. K. 115. Linc.]

THOMAS TANNER, son of a wealthy citizen of London, was born in the parish of S. Matthew in Friday-street within that city, an. 1630, educated in Paul's school, and thence sent to Pembroke hall in Cambridge, where he took the degree of bach. of arts. Afterwards going to Oxon when the visitors appointed by parl. sate there, he was incorporated in the said degree in Feb. 1650, and about that time was made one of the fellows of New coll. by the said visitors. In less than two years after he proceeded in arts, having some time before had the degree of M. of A. conferr'd on him at Edinburgh in his rambles into Scotland, where the doctors being taken with the forwardness, prettiness and conceitedness of the youth, did confer on him that ⁹ [The preface. If any one, after he has read Religio Medici and the ensuing discourses, can make doubt whether the same person was author of them both, he may be assured by the testimony of Mrs. Littleton, sir Thomas Browne's daughter, who lived with her father when it was composed by him; and who, at the time, read it written by his own hand: and also by the testimony of others (of whom I was one) who read the MS. of the author, immediately after his death, and who have since read the same; from which it hath been faithfully and exactly transcribed for the press. The reason why it was not printed sooner is, because it was unhappily lost, by being mislay'd among other MSS. for which search was lately made in the presence of the lord arch-bishop of Canterbury, of which his grace, by letter, informed Mrs. Littleton, when he sent the MS. to her. There is nothing printed in the discourse, or in the short notes, but what is found in the original MS. of the author, except only where an oversight had made the addition or transposition of some words necessary.

John Jeffery, arch-deacon of Norwich.

WANLEY.

There was a second edition of this tract published in 1756, for which Dr. Samuel Johnson wrote a life of Browne.]

degree. In the beginning of May 1660 he was admitted the sen. proctor of the university, but being soon after ejected his fellowship of New coll. by the king's commissioners, to make room for that person, whose bread he had eaten for 10 years, he removed to Hart hall, where he continued till his proctorship was terminated: by which office he and his brother proctor were great gainers by the many creations in several degrees that year made. Afterwards he retired to Greys inn, of which he was about that time a barrister, and having consumed a considerable part of the estate left him by his relations, travelled beyond the seas, was at Rome, and in Flanders he served in the wars as a volunteer for one summer. After his return, having by that time but little left, he took holy orders, threw himself upon the church (a usual thing with bankrupts) became minister of Colleton in Devon. and of another church in Somersetshire: Both which he kept for some years, but having an unsettled head, he got himself to be made chaplain to Dr. Morley bishop of Winchester, who giving to him¹ the rectory of Brixton or Brightstone in the isle of Wight, he settled there for a time: But the air agreeing not with his constitution, Mr. James Rudyerd presented him to Winchfield in Hampshire: so that being thereby incapacitated to hold Brixton with it, he changed Brixton for North Waltham² near to Basingstoke in the same county, both which he kept together for about three years and then finished his course, occasion'd sooner, than otherwise it might have been, by too much drudging at his study to carry on the duties required of him. He hath written and published,

The Entrance of Mazzarini.³ Or, some Memorials of the State of France between the Death of the Cardinal of Richlieu, and the Beginning of the late Regency. Oxon. 1657. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. T. 10. Art. BS.] But his contemporaries then in the university, knowing him to be too forward and conceited, did generally report that he was not the author of the said book, but another man's plagiary. Whereupon he came out with another part entit.

The Entrance of Mazzarini, continued through the first Years Regency of Anna Maria of Austria, Qu. Dowager of France, and Mother of the present Monarch Louis XIV. &c. Oxon. 1658. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. T. 11. Art. BS.] And in the epistle before it to the reader, he saith that he was only a divulger of things that were before public in other languages, intimating that this, as the former book, were rather translations from, or collections out of, other authors, than barely his own compositions.

¹ [About 1676. TANNER.]

² [Nov. 3, 1679, being chaplain to the earl of Thanet, and rector of North Waltham, obtained a dispensation to take the rectory of Winchfield. SANCROFT.]

³ [This is wrote in a very conceited and affected stile, and is dedicated to Philip viscount Lisle, one of the lords of the council: penes me. COLE.]

Euphuia, or the Acts and Characters of Good Nature. Lond. 1665. oct. After the writing of this book the author entred into holy orders and afterwards published, Several sermons, as (1) A Call to the Shulamite; or to the scatter'd and divided Members of the Church; on Cantic. 6. 13. Lond. 1673. qu. [Bodl. 4to. I. 37. Th.] (2) Wisdom and Prudence exhibited, preached before L. Ch. Justice Rainsford and L. Ch. Just. North, in their late Western Circuit; on Prov. 8. 12. Lond. 1677. qu. [Bodl. 4to. J. 39. Th.] &c.

Primordia: or, the Use and Growth of the first Church of God described. Lond. 1683. oct. To which are added Two Letters of James Rudyard Esq; written to our author Tanner: One about The Multiplying of Mankind till the Flood, the other concerning The Multiplying of the Children of Egypt. He died in the month of Octob. in sixteen hundred eighty and two, and was buried in the church at Winchfield before-mention'd, leaving then behind him in the hands of Elizabeth his widow; the second part of Primordia in manuscript.

WILLIAM GOUGH commonly called GOFFE, son of Will. G. minister of Earl-Stoke in Wilts, was born there, became a sojourner of Exeter coll. under the tuition of Dr. Narcissus Marsh, in Mich. term 1671, aged 17 years; but when his tutor was made principal of S. Alban hall, he was translated to that house, and took one degree in arts as a member thereof, an. 1675. Afterwards leaving the university, he repaired to London, where he sided with the whiggish party upon the breaking out of the Popish plot, an. 1678, industriously carried on the cause then driven on, and wrote, Londinum Triumphans: or, an historical Account of the grand Influence the Actions of the City of London have had on the Affairs of the Nation, for many Ages past: shewing the Antiquity, Honour, Glory and Renown of this famous City, the Grounds of her Rights, Privileges and Franchises, the Foundation of her Charter, &c. Lond. 1682. in a large octavo. He died of the small pox about the beginning of Nov. in sixteen hundred eighty and two, and was buried in the parish church of S. Dunstan in Fleet-street, commonly called S. Dunstan's in the West, in London.

ROBERT WICKENS son of Joh. Wickens, of⁴ Shitlanger in Northamptonshire, was born in that county, entred a servitor of Ch. Ch. in Lent term, an. 1632, aged 17 years, took the degrees in arts, (that of master being compleated in 1639) holy orders, and about that time taught school near Campden in Glocestershire, and afterwards at Worcester. At length, he being made rector of Todenham in Gloc. (where for some time also he had taught grammar) on the death, as I presume, of Dr. Tho. Iles, wrote and published, Latinum & Lyceum, Græca cum Latinis, sive Grammaticæ Artis in utraq[ue] Linguâ lucidissima synthetis. Oxon. 1654. oct.

Grammatices Græcæ Enchiridion. Printed with the former book.

A compleat and perfect Concordance of the English Bible, composed after a new and most compendious Method. Oxon. 1655. in a thick oct. [Bodl. 8vo. W. 4. Th. BS.] He died on the 29th of November in sixteen hundred eighty and two, and was buried on the first of December following in the chancel of the church of Todenham before-mentioned.

1682.

“WILLIAM LAURENCE, the eldest son of “Will. Laur. of Wraxhale in Dorsetshire, esq; was “born there, became a gent. com. of Trin. coll. an. “1631, aged 17 years or thereabouts, where continuing about 3 years under a careful tutor, was “transplanted to the Middle Temple, became a “proficient in the municipal law, a counsellor of “note, and a man of employment in the time of “the rebellion. At length by the endeavours of “col. Will. Sydenham, whose sister he had married “(I mean the same Sydenham who had been an “active man against the king in the time of the “grand rebellion, and at length one of Oliver’s “lords) he was not only elected to serve in the parliament called by the said Oliver, an. 1656, for “the isle of Wight (upon Sydenham’s refusal of it, “because he was elected one of the number to serve “for Dorsetshire) but also much about the same “time was made and appointed a judge in Scotland “by Oliver; where continuing till the restoration “of king Charles II. he returned to England, “and followed his practice in the law. This gent. “who was esteemed a man of parts and considerable “reading, hath written, “Marriage by the moral Law of God vindicated, “against all ceremonial Laws of Popes and Bishops, “destructive to Filiation, Aliment and Succession, “and the Government of Families and Kingdoms. “Lond. 1680. qu. in two parts; written upon a “discontent arising from his wife (a red-hair’d “buxom woman) whom he esteem’d dishonest to “him.

“The Right of Primogeniture, in Succession to “the Kingdoms of England, Scotland, and Ireland, as declared by the Statutes of 25 Ed. 3. “Cap. 2. De Proditionibus, King of England, “and of Kenneth the third, and Malcolm Mackeneth the second, King of Scotland. As likewise “of 10 Hen. 7. made by a Parliament of Ireland; “with Objections answer’d, and clear Probation “made, that to compass, or imagine the Death, “Exile or Disinheriting the King’s eldest Son, is “high Treason, Lond. 1681. qu. in 3 books. To “which is added; An Answer to all Objections

[717]

1682.

1682.

⁴ Lib. Matric. Univ. Oxon. PP. fol. 26. a.

1682.

"against declaring him a Protestant Successor, with Reasons shewing the fatal Danger of neglecting the same. What other things this gent. Mr. Laurence hath written I know not; and therefore I am only to tell the reader, that he dying in the parish of Bedfont near Stanes in Middlesex, in sixteen hundred eighty and two or thereabouts, was there buried. Of the same family of this person was, if I mistake not, that noted gentleman called Henry Laurence, who also had spent some time in learning in this university, but in what coll. or hall, I cannot now justly tell you."

^s [Henry Lawrence of Saint Ives, president of the protector's council, was descended from sir Robert Lawrence, who in 1191 was knighted by Richard I. for having sealed the walls of Acre, and who was seized of Ashton Hall in Lancashire: which property, having passed with heiresses, through the Ratcliffes of Wimersley and the Gerrards of Gerard's Bromley, still belongs to one of sir Robert's descendants, the present duke of Hamilton. About the time that Ashton Hall passed away from the family, John Lawrence, a younger brother, settled at Ramsey in Huntingdonshire, at which place his uncle, John Lawrence, usually stiled from a neighboring town, John de Wardeboys, was abbot since 1508. This prelate, according to Dugdale, was at the dissolution 1539, not only very forward in procuring his own abbey to be surrendered to the king's use, but influenced others to submit, for which wicked service he obtained a large pension of 266*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.* He died 1542, having survived John Lawrence his nephew, who had died 1537, and was buried in the abbey, and had left a son William. This William, who was sheriff of Huntingdonshire at the death of queen Mary, settled at Saint Ives, where he was buried 1572, leaving Henry his son and heir. This Henry was buried at Saint Ives, 1588, leaving an only son John. This John was knighted at Windsor 1603 by James I. and was buried at Saint Ives, 10 Feb. 1604, leaving by his wife Elizabeth, sole heir of Ralph Waller of Clerkenwell, fourth son of Robert Waller of Beaconsfield, two sons, Henry Lawrence the president, and John, who died 1670, ancestor to the present sir Soulden Lawrence, a judge of the Common-pleas.

Henry Lawrence was not of Oxford; he was educated at Emanuel College, Cambridge, where he was admitted 1622, bachelor of arts, 1623, M.A. 1627. He was nearly allied to the leading republicans; Cromwell, the protector, was first cousin to Hampden, the patriot, who was first cousin to Waller, the poet, who was second cousin to Lawrence, the president, who was cousin to sir Gilbert Pickering, the chamberlain, who was brother-in-law to Montague (afterward earl of Sandwich) the admiral. Nor was the president's father-in-law, sir Edward Peyton, author of the Divine Catastrophe of the kingly Family of the Stuarts, less hostile to a court against which he had drawn his sword as well as his pen. The president was a man of learning: Milton speaking of him and of lord Kimbolton, stiles them Montacuti Laurentiumque summo ingenio optimisque artibus expositos. During his stay in Holland he published at Amsterdam, 1646, a treatise On our Warre and Communion with Angels, which he dedicated to his most dear and most honoured mother, the lady Lawrence; for though remarried to Robert Bathurst, esq. father to sir Edward Bathurst, she still retained her title as a knight's widow. And there is also a work of his in Emanuel library, 'Of Baptisme,' printed 1646, without name, but to which some hand has written below, 'by Henry Lawrence, esq. afterwards lord president of the council to Oliver ye protector.' The name of the place is not added, but this book was probably printed on the continent also. Mr. Todd in his notes to the twentieth sonnet of Milton, 'Lawrence of virtuous father, vir-

"When he was young he was puritanically educated, and therefore when at man's estate he went into Holland to avoid the severity, as he pretended, of the bishops and their courts. At the change of the times in 1641 he returned to England, was chosen a recruiter for the long parliament to serve for Westmorland, but when he saw that the independents and other factious people would cut off the king's head, he left it, which made Ol. Cromwell then lieut. gen. of the army say, that 'a neutral spirit was more to be abhorr'd than a cavalier spirit,' and that 'such men as he were not fit to be used in such a day as that, when God was cutting down kingship, root and branch.' After this, notwithstanding, he came into play, upon some design, as 'twas supposed, was a member for Hertfordshire to serve in the little parliament, which began in 1653, was contributing much to the dissolution of it, as also of setting up the protector Oliver, and in settling the instrument of government and a single person, affirming that 'another foundation no man could lay. For which his worthy services, as they were then accounted, tuous son,' attributes the work On our Warre with Angels, to the son of the president, and not to the president himself. This, however, is an error, for the Harl. MS. 374, contains a letter dictated by the president, but in the hand-writing of his eldest son, to the learned antiquary, sir Simonds d'Ewes, baronet, and dated Altenæ, Jan. 21, 1646, and which runs thus:—Filius meus natū maximus, tredecim annorum puer, quo nunc etiam amanuensi utor, se tibi commendatissimum esse desiderat! and no boy of thirteen could write a work of this abstruse nature. The motto which the president assumed at that revolutionary period, marks the solidity of his character, Nil admirari. He was not only the ally, but the landlord, of Cromwell, to whom he let a farm and sheepwalk from 1631 to 1637; and from the protector's having resided at the mansion at Saint Ives, it is still called Cromwell House. He was member for Hertfordshire in 1653 and 1654; and in 1656, being elected both for the town of Colchester and county of Carnarvon, he chose to represent the latter. In 1654 he was made president of the council, and was gazetted as a lord of the other house, in December 1657. His portrait is inserted into lord Clarendon's History, in the king's library at Buckingham House. At the death of his son Edward, he inherited an estate at St. Margaret's, alias Thele, in Hertfordshire, at which place he lies buried, with the following inscription:

Here lieth interred the body of Henry Lawrence, esquire; sometime of this place; who married Amy Peyton, daughter of sir Edward Peyton, of Iselham, in the county of Cambridge, knight and baronet. He had issue by her, seven sons and six daughters. He departed this life, August the eighth, 1664, in the 64th year of his age, &c. See Chauncey's History of Hertfordshire.

Of his sons, Edward, buried 1657, at St. Margaret's, was member for Pembrokeshire, in 1656. Henry, son and heir at his father's death, died 1679, leaving sir Edward Lawrence, created a baronet 1749, and deceased, without issue, in the same year, aged circa 90; and John went to Jamaica, in company with one of the Bradshaws, either natural son or nephew of Judge Bradshaw; he landed in Jamaica in 1676, and died 1690, and was great-grand-father of the present Richard James Lawrence, esquire, of Fairfud in Jamaica, who in 1762, entered as gentleman commoner at Saint Mary's hall, Oxford, and James Lawrence, knight of Malta, [to whom I am indebted for this account] is his eldest son.]

[718]

"and as a snare or bait to win over, or at least quiet the anabaptists (himself being under that ordinance) he was made and continued president of the protector's council, where he signed many arbitrary and illegal warrants for the carrying of many cavaliers, anabaptists, fifth monarchy-men, &c. to prison and exile for little or no cause, unless for their not closing with them in their unjust ways. Afterwards he was made one of the other house, alias house of lords under the said protector, became an adorer of kingship, continued great with that person while he lived, and after his death with prince Richard."

OBADIAH HOWE, son of Will. Howe of Tattersal in Lincolnshire priest, was born in Leicestershire, became either batler or com. of Magd. hall, in 1632, aged 16 years, took the degrees in arts, and in the time of the rebellion (siding with the rout) became rector of Stickney, "minister of Horncastle," and some years after his majesty's restoration vicar of Boston, in Lincolnshire. He was a person in Joh. Goodwin's⁶ opinion⁷ of considerable parts and learning, and yet (he believed) much more in his own. He hath written,

The Universalist examined and convicted, destitute of plain Sayings of Scripture, or Evidence of Reason: In Answer to a Treatise entit. The Universality of God's free Grace in Christ to Mankind. Lond. 1648. qu.

The Pagan Preacher silenced, &c. Lond. 1653. [1655, Bodl. B. 7. 8. Linc.] Written in answer to Joh. Goodwin's book entit. The Pagan's Debt and Downry, &c. first published at London in 1652, and again in 1671. oct. The said Pagan Preacher was replied upon by Joh. Goodwin in his preface to his Triumviri, &c.

Several sermons as (1) The Royal Present, as it was delivered in a Sermon, in the Parish Church of Boston, 9 Oct. 1663; at the Archd. Visitation; on Isa. 60. 13. Lond. 1664. qu. [Bodl. 4to. N. 4. Th. BS.] (2) Elohim: or God and the Magistrate; on Psal. 82. 6. Lond. 1663. qu. &c. In 1674 our author Howe accumulated the degrees in divinity, became much respected for his learning in Lincolnsh. and dying in the winter time in sixteen hundred eighty and two, was buried in his church at Boston before-mentioned. I find one Will. Howe to have been minister of Gedney in Linc. a grand presbyterian, and independent in the time of Oliver, but what he hath written I know not. Since I wrote this I find one O. H. minister of the gospel to have written Meekness for Heaven, promoted in some brief Meditations on Col. 1. 12. &c. Lond.

⁶ [Joh. Goodwin, A. M. admiss. ad eccl. Sancti Stephani, Coleman street, 18 Dec. 1633. Reg. Laud, Ep. Lond. KENNET.]

⁷ In his preface to his Triumviri, &c. Lond. 1658. qu. §. 65. &c.

1690. in tw.⁸ Designed for a funeral legacy by the said O. H. but whether the same with Ob. Howe, I know not. Qu.

HENEAGE FINCH the eldest son of sir Heneage Finch of Kensington in Midl. kt. serjeant at law and recorder of London, by Frances his wife, dau. of sir Edm. Bell of Beaupre in Norfolk, knight, was born⁹ in Kent, particularly, I presume, at Eastwell, on the 23d of Dec. 1621, educated in Westminster school, became a gent. commoner of Ch. Ch. in Lent term 1635, continued there two or three years, went to the Inner Temple, where by his sedulity and good parts he became a noted proficient in the municipal laws, was successively barrister, bēcher, treasurer, reader, &c. In 1660 on the 6th of June he was made solicitor general to his majesty, and on the day after, being then a knight, he was advanced to the dignity of a baronet, by the name of sir Heneage Finch of Raunston in Buckinghamshire. The next year he was autumn or summer reader of the Inner Temple, chusing then to read upon the statute of 39 Elizab. concerning 'The payment and recovery of the debts of the crown;' which statute (tho' ever seasonable and then most necessary) was never before read upon (as 'twas then reported) by any but himself. The reading and entertainment lasted from the 4th to the 17th of Aug. The former, was with great strength of reason, depth of law, and admirable sense, and the other, with as great variety as could be imagined, carried on. The first day's entertainment was of divers peers of the realm and privy counsellors, with many others of his noble friends. The second of the lord mayor, aldermen and chief citizens of London. The third (which was two days after the former) of the whole college of physicians, who all came in their caps and gowns. The fourth was of another long robe for all the judges and advocates (doctors of the civil law) and all the society of Doctors Commons. The fifth was of the archbishops, bishops and chief of the clergy; and the last which was on the 15th of Aug. was of the king, duke of York, lord chancellor, most of the peers and great officers of court, the lords commissioners of Scotland and Ireland, &c. In April the same year (1661) he was chosen parliament-man for this university, but did us no good, when we wanted his assistance, for the taking off the tribute belonging to hearths. In 1665, after the parliament then sitting at Oxon had been prorogued, he was created, in a full convocation, doctor of the civil law, being then one of the four members of parliament, that had communicated the thanks of the honourable house of commons, lately sitting in the said convocation house, to the members of the university for their Reasons concerning the solemn League and Covenant, negative Oath, &c. made 1647. Which creation being concluded, in the presence of several parliament-men (besides the said four) the vicechancellor stood up and spoke to the public orator to do his office. Whereupon he making a most admirable harangue, said among other things to this effect, that 'the university wished they had more colleges to entertain the parliament-men, and more chambers, but by no means no more chimneys,' &c. at which sir Heneage changed his countenance, and drew a little back. In 1670 he was constituted the king's attorney general, and upon the removal of Shaftsbury from being lord chancellor, he was made lord keeper of the great seal, 9 Nov. 1673. Shortly after which he was advanced to the degree of a baron of this realm by the title of lord Finch of Daventry in Northamptonshire, and upon his surrender of the great seal to his majesty on the 19th of Decem. 1675, he received it immediately back again with the title of lord high chancellor of England. In the most boisterous and ticklish times, when the swollen waves beat highest (occasion'd by the popish plot) he behaved himself with so regular, exactly pois'd and with such even steadiness, whilst others, whose actions not being so justly ballanced, either were discharged from their offices, or else they themselves by an ungenerous cowardice voluntarily resign'd them up, as unwilling manfully to encounter approaching difficulties, of which they pretended to have prospects; that he still stood firm in the good opinion of his prince, and which is more to be admired, at that time, when many worthy ministers of state, were by the malice of designing men, branded with the old infamous character of evil counsellors, in order to have them to be run down and worried by the violent outrages of the unthinking, giddy and head-strong multitude. During all which time and clamour against persons (which continued from Oct. 1678, to the beginning of the year 1681, after the Oxford parl. was dissolved) he was neither banded against, or censur'd in the more private seditious cabals, nor was his master publicly addressed to for his removal. In 1681 May 14, or thereabouts, he was created earl of Nottingham, as a mark of the great satisfaction his majesty had in the many faithful services which his lordship had rendered the crown, being a person of so eloquent and fluent speech, and of so great sapience, that he was usually stiled the English Roscius and the English Cicero. A noted¹ author tells us that his 'great parts and greater virtues are so conspicuous, that it were a high presumption in him to say any thing in his commendation, being in nothing more eminent than in his zeal for, and care of, this church of England.' See his character most excellently described under the name of Anri, in the second part of a poem entit. Absalom and Achitophel. Lond. 1682. first edit. p. 30. "And in the Detection of the Court and State of England, &c. by Roger Coke—Vol. 2. Lib. 3. Cap. 2. p. 202, 203, is "this remarkable character of this honourable lord. "The king took away the seals from Shaftsbury lord chancellor and gave them to sir Heneage Finch, a person of singular integrity, eloquence and veracity; who to those insite excellencies which were natural to him, improv'd them by the great example of his uncle John Finch, likewise keeper of the great seal in the reign of king Charles I.; yet with a different fate, for the temper of the times would not bear his uncle's integrity, eloquence and veracity, whereas the nephew with prosperous gales continued his course till he arriv'd at lord chancellor, lord Daventry and earl of Nottingham, and kept his seals to his dying day." Under the name of this worthy person are publish'd,

[719]

⁸ [Also Baptism Bonds renew'd; on Psalm 50, verse 5. 1687, 8vo. GREY.]

⁹ Reg. Matric. Univ. Oxon. PP. fol. 29. a.

[720]

Several Speeches and Discourses in the Tryal of the Judges of King Charles I.—He being then solicitor general. See in the book entit. An exact and most impartial Account of the Indictment, Arraignment, Tryal and Judgment (according to Law) of 29 Regicides, &c. Lond. 1660. qu. 1679. oct.

Speeches to both Houses of Parliament, 7 Jan. 1673, 13 of Apr. and 13 Oct. 1675. 15 Feb. 1676. "21 Oct. 1678." 6 Mar. 1678, and 30 of Apr. 1679.*—These were spoken while he was lord keeper and chancellor.

Speech at the Sentence of Will. Viscount Stafford, 7 Decem. 1680—Printed in one sheet in fol. and in The Trial of the said Visc. p. 212, 213. At which time he performed the office of lord high steward of England.

Answers by his Majesty's Command, upon several Addresses presented to his Maj. at Hampton-Court, 19 May 1681. Lond. 1681. in one sheet in fol.

His Arguments: upon which he made the Decree in the Cause between the honourable Charles Howard Esq; Plaintiff; Henry late Duke of Norfolk, which he did with the vehemence of a pleader, rather than with the solemnity of a senator. He was an incorrupt judge; and in his court he could resist the strongest applications even from the king himself, tho' he did it no where else. He was too eloquent on the bench, in the house of lords, and in common conversation. One thing deserves to be remembred of him: He took great care of filling the church livings that belonged to the seal, with worthy men; and he obliged them all to residence.' History of his own Time, vol. i, page 365.]

* [See Bodl. P. 1. 16. Jur.]

¹ Dr. Gilb. Burnet in his pref. to the sec. vol. of the Hist. of the Reformation of the Church of England.

[The same author in another work, speaks thus of him: 'He was a man of probity, and well versed in the laws. He was long much admired for his eloquence: but it was laboured and affected: and he saw it as much despised before he died. He had no sort of knowledge in foreign affairs; and yet he loved to talk of them perpetually; by which he exposed himself to those who understood them. He thought he was bound to justify the court in all debates in the house of lords,

Henry Lord Mowbray his Son, Henry Marq. of Dorchester and Rich. Marriott Esq; Defendants: wherein the several Ways and Methods of limiting a Trust of a Term for ten Years, are fully debated. Lond. 1685. in 9 sheets in fol. He also left behind him written with his own hand, Chancery Reports—MS. in fol. in the hands of his son Daniel earl of Nottingham. At length his body being worn out with too much business, which his high station and office required, he yielded to nature in his house in Queen-street near Covent-Garden, on the 18th of Decemb. in the afternoon, in sixteen hundred eighty and two; whereupon his body was buried on the 28th of the same month in the church of Raunston before mention'd, near Oulney in Bucks. On the 20th of the said month his majesty was pleased to commit the custody of the great seal to the right honourable sir Francis North, lord chief justice of the Common-pleas, with the title of lord keeper of the great seal of England, and on the 22d he was sworn at the council-board, and took his place as lord-keeper. This noble earl of Nottingham left behind him several sons, the eldest of which named Daniel, who had been sometime gent. com. of Ch. Ch. succeeded his father in his honours; having been before a parliament-man, one of the lords commissioners of the admiralty and privy counsellor. The second is named Heneage, bred also in the said house, and afterwards in the Inner Temple, who became solicitor-general in the place of sir Franc. Winnington, but removed thence about the 21st of Apr. 1686, and sir Tho. Powis put in his place, about five days after.³ He hath been several times elected burgess by the university of Oxon, to serve in parliaments for the members thereof.

[The earl of Nottingham was justly esteemed the great oracle of the law in his time, and so perfect a master in the art of speaking, that he passed for the English Cicero; yet his great understanding, his eloquent tongue, and his titles of honour, did not give his name so lasting a lustre, as that piety and virtue, wherewith he adorned his high station which is but too often starved in so rich a soil, and thriveth best in a private life. Among the many very commendable qualities of this great man, his zeal for the welfare of the church of England, was not the least conspicuous; which particularly shewed it self, in the care he took in disposing of those ecclesiastical preferments which were in the gift of the seal. He judged rightly, in looking upon that privilege as a trust for the good of the church of God, of which he was to give a strict account, and therefore being sensible that the several duties of his great post, as first minister of state, as lord chancellor, and as speaker of the house of lords, would not allow his lordship time and leisure to make that enquiry which was necessary, to know the characters of such as were candidates for preferment, he devolved this particular province upon his chaplain, whose conscience he charged with an impartial scrutiny in this matter; adding withal, that he would prefer none but those who came recommended from him, and that if he led him wrong, the blame should fall upon his own soul.⁴

³ [Powis was attorney general at the trial of the seven bishops in 1688. See a letter from him to archbishop Sancroft excusing his 'acting in that most unhappy prosecution, which (says he) was the most uneasie thing to me, that ever in my life time I was concerned in.' Gutch's Collectanea Curiosa, ii. 367.]

We may add to his writings,

An Argument on the Claim of the Crown to Pardon on Impeachment. folio.

Two of his speeches and an official letter will be found in the Harleian MSS. neither of the three of any importance.

There is a very good portrait of this nobleman, after sir Peter Lely, engraved by Fry, in Lodge's Illustrious Personages, 1817.]

ANTHONY ASHLEY COOPER baronet, son of sir John Cooper of Rockbourne in Hampshire, knight and bart. by Anne his wife daughter and sole heir of sir Anth. Ashley of Wimbourne S. Giles in Dorsetshire, was born at Wimbourne on the 22d of July 1621, (19 Jac. 1.) became a fellow commoner of Exeter coll. in Lent term 1636, under the tuition of Dr. Prideaux the rector thereof, and continued there about two years. Afterwards he went to Lincoln's inn to study the municipal law, and in the latter end of 1639 he was elected one of the burgesses for Tewksbury in Gloucestershire to serve in that parliament that began at Westminster. 13 April 1640. In 1642 he sided with his majesty, being then, as 'tis said, high sheriff of Dorsetshire, became governor of Weymouth, and raised some forces for his use. But the mind of this person being mutable, he left the royal cause, went into the parliament and served them, was made colonel of a regiment of horse and took the covenant. But when the presbyterians thought themselves sure of him, 'whip, he was gone (as one⁵ saith) and in a trice commenced a brother independent: which was a wise part, and no trick of a changling, to shift principles like shirts, and quit an unlucky side, in a fright, at the noise of a new prevailing party, with whom he staid till he grew up to the size of a great commonwealths-man, and made hay in the sun-shine, until the commonwealth and Cromwell were brought to bed of a strange new kind of monarchy in the house of commons; a three or four-hundred headed monarchy called the fifth monarchy; and in those days it was also called Cromwell's little parliament: in which his little lordship became one of the princes among a drove of changlings, &c. In 1645 he was elected sheriff of Norfolk, and the next year sheriff of Wilts, both approved of, and consented to, by the members of parliament. In Jan. 1651, having before taken the engagement, he was one of those 21 persons who were appointed by parliament to sit as a committee, to consider of the inconveniences which were in the law, &c. and soon after he was chose one of the council of state to Oliver: in which high office he continued till that person was protector. In June 1653 he was constituted knight for Wilts, to serve in the said little parliament that began at Westm. on the 4th of July the same year; but therein having spied out Oliver's purpose of matching to another sort of monarchy of his own, sir Anthony then resolved, like a constant steady man to his own main point, to trepan his fellow members and strike in with him, and lent him thereupon a helping hand towards the confounding of fifth monarchy, to make way for a new one under the name of protector; in which scene of affairs he was made a protectorian privy-counsellor. In Aug. 1654 he was appointed by ordinance one of the commissioners for Wilts, Dorsetshire and Pool for the ejection of such whom the godly party then called scandalous, ignorant and insufficient ministers and schoolmasters, and about the same time he was elected a burgess for Pool before-mention'd, and for Tewksbury in Glocestershire, to serve in that parl. (called by Oliver, then protector) that began at Westm. 3d of Septemb. the same year. At which time he aspiring to become the protector's son-in-law, Cromwell (who well enough understood him) either disdaining, or not daring to take him so near into his bosom, took occasion also to quit him out of his council. So that being out of such public employs, he was at leisure to make court to all private malecontents against the protector; and where-soever he found a sore, there he rub'd hardest till the end of the reign of Richard. In 1656 he was elected a parliament-man for Wilts to serve in that convention that met at Westm. 17th of Septemb. the same year, and in 1658 he was elected again for that which began at the same place 27th of Jan. In both which the friends and favourites of sir Anthony say that he endeavoured to cross the designs of Oliver and Richard. But the last being soon after laid aside, sir Anthony thought it high time of necessity, to turn back to the old honest point of the compass, and get in again, to be thought a new man of his majesty's party. To this end, notwithstanding he had been nominated one of the council of state after the deposing of Richard (May 15, 1659) he joyned partly with the presbyterians, and privately engaged with sir George Booth, was of the cabal, kept intelligence with him, and had a party in Dorsetshire, which should be ready to assist him, if little success should crown his beginnings. But sir Geor. party being dispers'd in August 1659 in the county of Chester, where he first appeared, the rump beagles did trace the scent of the abettors of that rising so closely, that sir Anthony being shrewdly suspected to have a most considerable hand in it, and to have kept intelligence with the king then in exile, was publicly accused of it in the rump parliament then sitting. So that being called to the bar of the house, he made answer so dexterously to their objections, that he stopt the mouths of his accusers; and most of the members, having a great opinion of his fidelity, did then dismiss him. After this, perceiving full well that in short time monarchy would be restored, he studied all the ways imaginable (especially when it could not be hindred) to promote it. He corresponded with Monk, then in Scotland, when he took discontent that the rump parliament (which was invited to sit again by the army on the 6th of May 1659) was thrust out of doors on the 13th of Octob. following. So that being very forward in that affair, he was on the 2d of Jan. following (the rump having been a little before readmitted to sit) nominated one of the council of state, and about 9 days after had the regiment of horse, then very lately belonging to Charles Fleetwood (commonly called the lord Fleetwood) given to him to be colonel thereof. Soon after Monk's coming to Westminster, he became very great with him, and was, for his sake, not only made governor of the isle of Wight, but one of the council of state, by the rump, and secluded members then newly added to them, on the 16th of March 1659; on which day they dissolved themselves. In the beginning of 1660 he was chosen one of the knights of Wilts, to serve in that parliament called the healing parliament, began at Westm. 25th of April the same year, at which time the authority of the council of state ceased. In the latter end of May following he went with general George Monk to Dover to meet the king then about to take possession of his kingdoms, after 12 years absence thence. The next day, being May 26, he was sworn a privy counsellor to his majesty, being at that time at Canterbury, in his way to London, to be received by his subjects there; at which time sir Anthony took one or more oaths. In the beginning of Oct. following, when his majesty was pleased to issue out the grand commission of oyer and terminer for the tryal of the regicides, directed to several noble persons, choice was made of sir Anthony to be one: So that he sitting upon the bench first at Hicks's-hall, and afterwards at the Old Baily, with others that had been deeply engaged in the then late grand rebellion, caused Adrian Scrope esq; one of the regicides that then was tried, to say⁶ of himself and them thus, his words being directed to sir Orl. Bridgman lord chief baron of the Exchequer, the chief judge then in that affair—'But my lord I say this, if I have been misled, I am not a single person that have been misled. My lord, I could say (but I think it doth not become me to say so) that I see a great many faces at this time, that were misled as well as my self; but that I will not insist upon,' &c. As for the faces which he meant, that then sate as judges on him, were taken at that time to be those of sir Anth. Ashley Cooper, Edward earl of Manchester, Will. visc. Say and Seal, John lord Roberts, Denzil Hollis, esq; afterwards lord Hollis, Arthur Annesley esq; afterwards earl of Anglesey, &c. But to return: sir Anth. Ashley Cooper being put into the road to gain honour and riches, he was in the year following, on the 20th of April (three days before his majesty's coronation) advanced to the degree and dignity of a baron of this realm, by the title of lord Ashley of Wimbourne S. Giles. Afterwards he was made chancellor and under-treasurer of the Exchequer (in which places he was succeeded by sir John Duncombe,⁷ about the 20th of Nov. 1672) and upon the death of Thomas earl of Southampton lord treasurer, he was made one of the five commissioners by his majesty, for the executing the said office, on the first of June, an. 1667. About that time he was lieutenant of Dorsetshire, and a person in great favour with the king and court. In Dec. 1671 he, with sir Thomas Clifford, were the principal advisers of his majesty to shut up the exchequer (which was accordingly effected on the first of January following) and in granting injunctions in the case of bankers. In the beginning of March following, he, with the said sir Thomas, were great promoters of the indulgence for liberty of conscience; effected also by the king's proclamation for that purpose, dated the 15th of the same month, 1671; which was the source of all misfortunes that followed even to the popish plot, an. 1678. But that indulgence or toleration was happily annull'd by the parliament which did begin to resit, 4 Feb. 1672. On the 27th of April 1672 he was, by letters patent then bearing date, created lord Cooper of Paulet and earl of Shaftsbury, and at that time tugging hard for the lord treasurer's place, his majesty was pleased to advance him higher, that is to be lord chancellor of England, 17 Nov. the same year, and on the 28th of the same month he gave the office of lord treasurer to the said sir Thomas, then lord Clifford. 'Tis reported by a⁸ nameless author, but of no great credit, that when his majesty (upon an occasional hearing of this lord's (Shaftsbury) public sagacity in discussing publickly some profound points) did as in a rapture of admiration say, that 'his chancellor was well able to vye (if not out-vye) all the bishops in point of divinity, and all his judges in point of law; and as for a statesman, the whole world in foreign nations, will be an evident witness,' &c. Before I go any farther it must be known that altho' his majesty did publish his declaration of war against Holland, with a manifesto of its causes, on the 17th of March 1671, seconded by the French king's declaration of war by sea and land against the States, dat. 27 of the same month, in pursuance of which the English and French had a sharp engagement with the Dutch, 28 May 1672, off of Southwold-bay (the duke of York being then admiral) yet this war was not communicated to the parliament till they did resit 4 Feb. 1672: In the opening of which session, I say that Shaftsbury did, in a speech the next day, promote and much forward the said war, and enforced it moreover with a rhetorical flourish Delenda est Carthago, that a Dutch commonwealth was too near a neighbour to an English monarch, &c. By which advice the triple-league, which had been made between us, the Dutch and the Sweed, in the latter end of the year 1667 (at which time William Albert count of Dona ambassador from Sweedland was here in England) was broken, and thereupon an alliance was made with France: In which act we are to thank Henry Coventry secretary of state, for his pains, if his own affirmation may be credited, when he went into Sweedland, 1671. In the same session of parliament, Shaftsbury had a principal hand in promoting and establishing the Test, to render papists incapable of public employments: And this he did (as 'tis thought) because he perceiving the court to be sick of him, provided himself, by having a hand therein, with a retreat to the favour and applause of the populace. "Sir Will. Temple in his Memoirs of, &c. Lond. 1692. oct. p. 71, saith that this 'earl of Shaftsbury applied in his speech Delenda est Carthago to our interest in the destruction of Holland; yet when he saw the parliament and nation sullen upon it, and that the king could not pursue it with so much ill humour in both, he turn'd short upon the court and the rest of the cabal, fell in with the popular humour in the city as well as parliament, descried the present designs and conduct, tho' with the loss of his chancellor's place, and was believ'd to manage a practice in Holland for some insurrection here." On the 9th of Nov. 1673 (he being then president of his majesty's council for trade and plantations) the great seal was taken from him by the endeavours of James duke of York, who found him untractable, and not fit, according to moderation, for that high place (or as another tells⁹ us for his zeal and activity in promoting the bill for the aforesaid test) and thereupon he grew much discontented, and endeavoured several times to make a disturbance. On the 16th of Feb. 1676, he, with George duke of Buckingham,¹ James

[721]

⁴ [Nelson, Life of Bishop Bull, page 277.]

⁵ The author of the First Pacquet of Advices and Animad. to the Men of Shaftsbury, &c. p. 19.

[722]

⁶ In the Exact and most impartial Account of the Indictment, Arraignment, &c. of 29 Regicides, the Murthcrers of K. Ch. I. &c. Lond. 1660. qu. p. 69.

[723]

[724]

⁷ [See article TROUGHTON, col. 12.]

⁸ In his Memoires and just Vindication of the Earl of Shaftsbury, &c. printed at Lond. in 8 sheets in fol. p. 8.

⁹ The author of The third Part of no Protestant Plot, p. 56.

[MS. note of Dr. Brian Fairfax.

George Villiers duke of Buck. son of the noble favourite, by Catharine daughter and heir of Francis Manners earl of earl of Salisbury and Philip lord Wharton were sentenced by the house of lords to be committed prisoners to the Tower, under the notion of contempt, for that they refused a recantation for what the day before was spoken by them, viz. that Buckingham (just after the king had ended his speech to both houses at their then meeting) endeavouring to argue from law and reason that the long prorogation was null'd and that the parliament was consequently dissolved, was seconded by Salisbury, Shaftsbury and Wharton. For which reason, I say, and for endeavouring to raise sedition, they were sent to the Tower. Buckingham, Salisbury and Wharton were, by petition to his majesty, freed thence in the beginning of May following, but Shaftsbury remained there till the beginning of Dec. next ensuing, notwithstanding he before (June 22, an. 1677) had moved for a habeas corpus to the King's Bench, which was granted, yet the judges declared they could not release him. In Sept. 1678, upon the breaking out of the popish plot, he became head of the factious party, who making it more terrible than 'twas, endeavoured all ways imaginable to promote their interest thereby. To stop Shaftsbury's mouth therefore, and so consequently please his party, his majesty vouchsafed to constitute him lord president of his privy council (consisting then but of 30) 21 Apr. 1679, but he shewing himself too busy and forward, and little, or not at all, to keep pace with the king's moderate humour, he was laid aside on the 5th of Oct. following, and was succeeded in that honourable office by John lord Roberts, who behaving himself much like a gentleman, was soon after created earl of Radnor. After this Shaftsbury

Rutland, was born at Wallingford house, near Whitehall, Jan. 30, 1627: his brother Francis was born after his father's death. He was bred up by king Charles with his own children, sent to Trin. coll. in Camb. from whence he and his brother went to the king at Oxford. Under the care of the earl of Northumberland they were sent to travel in France and Italy in an equipage becoming their quality. At their return into England, they engaged with my lord Holland to rescue the king out of captivity in the isle of Wight, but they were defeated at Kingston, where my lord Francis, a youth of twenty years, was slain. The duke hardly escaped with his life to St. Neots, and thence to the prince who was then in the fleet. He went a volunteer into the French army, and signalized himself at Arras and Valenciennes. He some times waited on his majesty, but never was a burden to him. He attended him into Scotland, thence to Worcester, where his escape was almost as miraculous as that of the royal oak. He fled again into France, and thence to Flanders. He came back and married Mary the daughter and heir of Thomas lord Fairfax, at Nun-Appleton; in Sept. 1659. After the death of king Charles he went into the country to Helmsley in Yorkshire to his innocent but chargeable companions his horses and hounds, where after a warm chase in hunting, sitting on the cold ground, he got an ague and fever, and dyed in three days. In his sickness he desired the prayers of the church of England, and devoutly receiv'd the sacrament; refusing the offer of a Romish priest; saying and repeating, he would have nothing to do with them. He dyed Apr. 16, 1688, and was buried at Westminster abbey, in his father's vault in the 60th year of his age. KENNET.]

plays his old game by recurring to the people, remov'd into the city, and, to vent his spleen, became the most bitter enemy in the house of lords against the duke of York, especially at that time (15th of Nov. 1680) when William lord Russel, eldest son of William earl of Bedford, did, in the head of more than 200 of the house of commons, carry up a bill to the house of lords for the disinheriting the said duke of the imperial crown of Britain. Then and there, I say, he was so heated with passion (being excellently well opposed in what he then said by George earl of Halifax) that he talked almost all the time, being ten of the clock at night before they gave over. But all that he then and afterwards said effecting nothing, he wrote, or caused to be written, abusive pamphlets, and endeavoured, with others by an association, to depose the king in case he, and his parliament held at Oxon in March 1681; should disagree, which he fully expected. But his traiterous designs being discovered, he was seized on in his house in London by one of his majesty's sergeants at arms, on the 2d of July 1681, examined by the council, (the king being present) and forthwith was committed close prisoner to the Tower for high treason, 'in compassing and imagining the death of the king, and endeavouring to depose him from his crown and dignity, and to raise arms to that purpose.' On the 24th of Nov. following there was a bill of indictment of high treason against him, read before his majesty's commissioners of oyer and terminer in the sessions-house in the Old-Baily, London, and afterwards² proved by several sufficient witnesses; but the fanatical jury pack'd on purpose by the then fanatical sheriffs Tho. Pilkington and Sam. Shute, they returned the bill ignoramus, and so forthwith Shaftsbury was set at liberty. Upon which deliverance, the seditious party made bonfires, and caused a medal to be cast,³ of which medal Dryden the poet laureat made a witty poem. In Octob. 1682, when Dudley North and Pet. Rich the loyal sheriffs of London were sworn, a warrant was issued out against, to apprehend, him: Whereupon he sculk'd for a time till an opportunity wafted him over the seas to Holland, where he remained to the time of his death. He hath written divers things, of which these are some,

The fundamental Constitutions of Carolina. Lond. in 7 sheets in fol. These constitutions are in number 120, and at the end are eleven rules of precedence to be observed in Carolina. When these constitutions were printed, it appears not, either in the title, or at the end of the book. They are dated on the first of March 1669, and so I presume they were soon after printed.

² See The Proceedings at the Sessions-House in the Old Baily, &c upon the Indictment for High Treason against Anthony Earl of Shaftsbury. Lond. 1681. in 13 sheets in fol.

³ [See it in Evelyn's Discourse of Medals, folio, 1697, page 175, numb. 99.]

Several speeches, as (1) Speech at the Lord Treasurer's (Clifford) taking his Oath in the Exchequer, 5 Dec. 1672. Printed in one sheet in fol. 1672. (2) Several Speeches to both Houses at the Opening of the Parliament, 4th and 5th of Feb. 1672. Printed in fol. papers 1672. (3) Speech to Serj. Edw. Thurland in the Exchequer Chamber, when he was made one of the Barons of the Exchequer, 24 Jan. 1672. Pr. in one sh. in fol. Reprinted afterwards in half a sh. in fol. at Lond. 1681, because it was much for the king's prerogative, and contained therein, as 'tis said, a good character of the duke of York, shewing thereby the great mutability in opinion of this our author, who then (1681) was a severe enemy against both. (4) "Speech upon the Lord Treasurer's (Osbourne) taking his Oath in the Exchequer, 26 Jun. 1673—Lond. 1673 in "one sheet fol." (5) Speech to both Houses of Parliament, 27 Oct. 1673. pr. in one sh. and half, fol. (6) Speech in the House of Lords, 20 Octob. 1675, upon the Debate of appointing a Day for the hearing Dr. Tho. Sherley's Case. Lond. 1675. qu. [Bodl. B. 2. 1. Linc.] This case of Dr. Sherley was against sir John Fagge, who detained a large estate from him in Sussex. With the said speech was printed that of George duke of Bucks (a favourer of fanaticism and atheism) spoken in the house of lords, on the 16th of Nov. the same year, for leave to bring in a bill for indulgence to all protestant dissenters; together with the protestation and reasons of several lords for the dissolution of that parliament, &c. These two speeches are said to be printed at Amsterdam, but were not. (7) Speech in the H. of Lords 25 Mar. 1679, upon Occasion of the House's resolving it self into a grand Committee to consider of the State of England. (8) Speech lately made by a noble Peer of the Realm. Pr. in half a sheet of paper in fol. like a Gazette, in the latter end of Nov. 1680: The beginning of which is this, 'My lord, in the great debate concerning the king's speech,' &c. pretended to have been spoken in parliament, but 'twas not. Which speech being full of rascallities, was, by order of the house of lords, burnt by the hand of the common hangman before the Royal-Exchange, and in the Palace-yard at Westm. on the 4th of Decemb. following. Therein, in the Shuboleth of factions, which he could truly pronounce, he had cajoled the brethren of Scotland: But in the latter end of June following, came out an answer to it by Anon. entit. A Letter from Scotland, written occasionally upon the Speech made by a noble Peer of this Realm. Written by a better Protestant than the Author of it, tho' a Servant to his Royal Highness the Duke of York.

Two seasonable Discourses concerning the present Parliament. Oxon. (alias Lond.) 1675. qu. The first discourse is thus entit. The Debate or Arguments for dissolving this present Parliament, and the calling frequent and new Parliaments. The other discourse is, A Letter from a Parliament-man to his Friend concerning the Proceedings of the H. of Com. this last Sessions, began 13 Oct. 1675. The first discourse contains ten pages, the other seven: And tho' no name is set to them, yet it was very well known to all, that Shaftsbury wrote them; who tells us in the said letter that the said parliament consists of old cavaliers, old round-heads, indigent cavaliers and true country gentlemen. The first of which discourses, if not both, together with the speech before-mention'd on the 20th of Oct. 1675, and the protestation and reasons aforesaid, are all answer'd in the body of a book which I shall anon mention, entit. A Pacquet of Advices, &c. part 1.

A Letter from a Person of Quality to his Friend in the Country.—Printed 1675. qu. [Bodl. B. 2. 1. Linc.] It contains 32 pages, and speaks much in the praise of some of the temporal lords, but gibes at the spiritual bench*. It is also chiefly, as I remember, at Ward of Salisbury, whom he makes a very rogue. First edit. 22d of Nov. the same year. It was answer'd by March. Nedham in his pamphlet entit. A Pacquet of Advices and Animadversions sent from London to the Men of Shaftsbury, &c. Part 1. As for the test it self, which was the same with the corporation oath and part of the declaration required to be subscribed in the act of uniformity, only with this additional clause, 'I do swear that I will not at any time endeavour an alteration of the government either in church or state,' it was brought into the house by Robert earl of Lindsey, but violently opposed by Shaftesbury, altho' this very clause too had passed the parliament long before, meeting with little opposition, in a particular bill, which concerned only nonconformist preachers, known by the name of the Oxford or the five-mile act, which hath been ever since so loudly clamoured against by that party.

His Case at the King's-Bench on his Confinement to the Tower, Lond. 1679 in 4 sh. in fol.

Expedient for the settling of the Nation, discoursed with his Majesty in the House of Peers at Oxford the 24th of March 1680. Lond. 1681, in one sh. in qu. The expedient was for settling the crown on James duke of Monmouth.

No Protestant Plot: or the present pretended Conspiracy of Protestants against the King's Government, discovered to be a Conspiracy of the Papists against the King and his Protestant Subjects. Lond. 1681 in six sheets. [Bodl. L. 4. 1. Jur.] Tho' no name is put to this, yet the general report was that the earl of Shaftsbury was the author, or at least found materials for it, and that his servant who put it into the printer's hands, was committed to prison. Not long after the publication thereof (which was partly answer'd in a pamphlet entit. A Plea for Succession, in Opposition to popular Ex- clusion, &c. Lond. 1682, in 5 sh. in fol.) came out by the same hand, The second Part of no Protestant Plot, &c. Lond. 1682 in 4 sh. and an half in qu. great part of which is concerning the duty and power of grand juries, with reference still to the earl of Shaftsbury. Afterwards came out a third part in qu. containing about 20 sheets (written as 'twas vulgarly said by Rob. Ferguson a Scot by the appointment and consent of Shaftsbury) which mostly reflects on the printed⁴ proceedings against Shaftsbury, when the indictment of high treason was charged against him. It endeavours also at large to lessen the credit, and invalidate the testimony of those several witnesses, which appeared against the said earl, when the before-mention'd indictment was charged against him, by representing them singly in the blackest and most malicious characters that can be. It doth more than ordinarily reflect⁵ upon Edmund Warcup a justice of peace in Middlesex, as if he had corrupted and managed most of the evidences against the said count. He is also touched upon in the⁶ first and sec. part, which I shall now for brevity's sake omit, and only tell you that all three parts contain chiefly a vindication of Shaftsbury, as to his not being in the least concern'd in any plotting design against the king, and that they are taken to task by Roger L'estranger in some of his Observers. They were written as well as the bad subject of them could bear; and the third part which is very libellous was answer'd by a pamphlet entit. A Letter to a Friend containing certain Observations upon some Passages, which have been published in a late Libel entit. The third Part of no Protestant Plot. Lond. 1682. in 3 sh. in qu. Written chiefly in vindication of James duke of Ormond and his administration of affairs and government in Ireland.

[726]

A modest Account of the present Posture of Affairs in England, with particular Reference to the Earl of Shaftsbury's Case. And a Vindication of him from two pretended Letters of a noble Peer. Lond. 1682 in 5 sh. in fol. Which two letters supposed to belong to George earl of Halifax, were doubtless forged and feigned, only purposely to give Shaftsbury a greater liberty and scope of railing at, and libelling, the said count. But this the reader must know, that tho' there is no name to this Modest Account, and therefore it cannot be reasonably fastned upon our author, yet the general report was, at it's publication, that 'twas his, and at that time it was judged to be so by Rog. L'estranger in two or three of his Observers (weekly intelligences) that then came out, in which he reflected on the falseness of it; as 'twas also in a smart and ingenious answer to it, pen'd by John Northleigh of Exeter college. Besides also, I conceive that scarcely any body besides Shaftsbury would have adventured on such insolent and bold arraignments of some chief ministers of state, not sparing the government it self. He also made the little⁷ short speech entit. The Earl of Essex's Speech at the Delivery of the Petition to the King 25. of Jan. 1680; which petition was, that the king would change his mind for the sitting of the parl. at Oxon, to be at Westminster: Answer'd in a letter sent to him by Anon. in half a sh. in fol. as big as the speech and petition. He was also deeply supposed to have written A Vindication of the Association, which was seized on in the hands of his servant (Stringer) as he was going to the press with it in the beginning of Decem. 1682; who being examined about it confessed that it was written by Rob. Ferguson a nonconformist minister, author of, as he added, The second Part of the Growth of Popery. Whereupon soon after a messenger was sent to Brill in Holland to demand the body of him the said Ferguson and of Shaftsbury, but the States refused to deliver them, as the common letters dat. 13 January following told us. Much about the same time I was informed by letters also that since the said earl's retirement to Amsterdam, he printed and published a book there, in which he endeavoured to free himself from all cause of jealousy, and aspersions cast on him; upon which a back friend of his immediately dispers'd a satirical reply in opposition thereunto. Which coming early to his lordship's hands, he printed a second book, justifying the validity of the first, but he did so much confound himself therein, that the States had then a jealousy, that he came among them for some other intent, than barely his majesty's displeasure with him.

"Some Observations concerning the Regulating of Elections for Parliament, found among the Earl of Shaftsbury's Papers after his Death, &c. Lond. 1689. qu. 2 sh. and half—quære whether written by Shaftsbury." At length dying at Amsterdam of the gout on the 21st of January in sixteen hundred eighty and two, his body was conveyed into England and buried at Winbourne S. Giles in Dorsetshire before-mention'd. What epitaph there is over his grave, I know not, and therefore in it's place take this character of him, given by a most ingenious⁸ author.

For close designs and crooked counsels fit;
Sagacious, bold, and turbulent of wit;
Restless, unfixt in principles and place;
In power unpleas'd, impatient of disgrace, &c.

In friendship false, implacable in hate,
Resolv'd to ruin or to rule the state, &c.

Before his death came out several pamphlets in vin-

⁴ Lond. 1681. in 13 sh. in fol.

⁵ See pag. 58. 503.

⁶ See the first part, p. 21. 22.

⁷ So the Seasonable Address to both Houses of Parliament. Lond. 1681. qu. p. 13.

⁸ John Dryden in his poem called Abraham and Achitophel. Lond. 1682. 5. edit. p. 5.

dication of him, but very partially written by his admirers: At the time of his death or thereabout was published The compleat Statesman: demonstrated in the Life, Actions and Politics of that great Minister of State Anth. Earl of Shaftsbury, &c. Printed in tw. at Lond. in Hillary term 1682. And after his death was published (besides some Memoirs of his Life, which made against him) under the name of Philanax Misopappus a book entit.——Rawleigh Redivivus, or the Life and Death of the honourable Anthony Earl of Shaftsbury. Lond. 1683. oct. with his picture before it. It is divided into two parts, and dedicated to the protesting lords, but partially written, and containeth many errors, and slightly passeth over, and omits many of his actions during the time of the rebellion, wherein he had a prime hand. There were also published Elegies on him pro and con, as also A Supplement to his last Will and Test. written in verse; the particulars of which I shall now for brevity's sake pass by.

[728]

[Add Letter from Sir Anthony Ashley Cooper, Thomas Scot, J. Berners, and I. Weaver Esquires, delivered to the Lord Fleetwood, owning their late Actions in endeavouring to secure the Tower of London, and expostulating his Lordship's Defection from his Engagements unto the Parliament. Printed 1659.

The Character of the Honourable William Hastings of Woodlands in Hampshire, second Son of Francis Earl of Huntingdon. Printed in The Connoisseur.

There are portraits of this nobleman by Blooteling, Houbraken, and R. White.]

THOMAS HUNT, son of Hen. Hunt, was born in the city of Worcester, an. 1611, became a student in Pembroke coll. 1628, master of arts in 1636, but, whether ever bach. of that faculty it appears not; and therefore Hen. instead of Tho. Hunt in the FASTI 1630, among the bachelors, is to be taken away. Afterwards he went into the country and taught a private school "in Salisbury," then to London and taught in the church of S. Dunstan in the East, and at length being preferred to the mastership of the free-school of S. Saviour's in Southwark, did much good among the youth there, as elsewhere he had done, by his admirable way (accompanied with much industry) in teaching. For the use of whom he wrote, Libellus Orthographicus: or, the diligent School-boy's Directory, &c. Lond. 1661, and several times after in oct. One edit. of which bears this title——Libel. Orthograph: Or the diligent School-boy's Directory, very useful for Grammar Scholars, Apprentices, &c. or any that desire to be exactly perfect (especially) in the English Orthography.

Abecedarium Scholasticum: or the Grammar Scholar's Abecedar. Lond. 1671. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. A. 117. Art.] or thus in the title of another edition.

VOL. IV.

——Abecedarium Scholasticum: Or the Grammar Scholar's Flower-garden, wherein are these following Flowers; to wit, Proverbs, proverbial Sayings, Sayings also on several Subjects. What other things he hath written, I know not, nor any thing else of him, only that he died 23 January, in sixteen hundred eighty and two, and was buried in the church of S. Saviour in Southwark, close to the wall in the corner, on the left hand of that door that leads from the Bull church-yard or Bull-head church-yard into the said church. The reader may be pleased now to know, that besides this, hath been another, Tho. Hunt, who, tho' no Oxford man by education, yet having been famous in his generation among certain schismatical persons for several things that he hath written and published, I shall therefore give you these brief memoirs of him, viz. That he was born in London, in the Augustine Fryars, as I conceive, near the Old Exchange, was first scholar, then fellow, and master of arts of Queen's coll. in Cambridge, where he was esteemed a person of quick parts, and of a ready fluence in discourse, but withal too pert and forward. Thence he went to Greys inn, where before he had been entred a student, and making proficiency in the municipal laws, was made barrister, was had in repute for his practice, and acknowledged by most persons to be a good lawyer. In 1659 he became clerk of the assizes of Oxford circuit, but ejected from that office at his majesty's restoration (to his great loss) to make room for the true owner. Afterwards he lived and followed his profession at Banbury in Oxfordshire, was steward for a time to part of the duke of Buckingham's estate, and afterwards to the duke of Norfolk, &c. He hath written and published (1) Great and weighty Considerations relating to the Duke of York, or Successor to the Crown, &c. considered. And an Answer to a Letter, Lond. 1680. in 9 sh. in fol. Lond. 1682. oct. (2) An Argument for the Bishops Right in judging in capital Causes in Parliament, &c. To which is added, A Postscript for rectifying some Mistakes in some of the inferior Clergy, mischievous to our Government and Religion. Lond. 1682. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. H. 19. Jur.] For the writing of which Argument, &c. he expected no less than to be made lord chief baron of the exchequer in Ireland.^a But falling short of that honourable office, which he too ambitiously catch'd at, and considering the loss of another place which he unjustly possessed, he soon after appeared one of the worst, and most inveterate enemies, both to church and state, that was in his time, and the most malicious, and withal the most ignorant scribler of 1683.

^a [He was appointed lord chief baron of Ireland by king Charles II. but his patent was superseded as he was going thither, at the instance of the duke of York, to whom he was no way acceptable; and therefore upon his accession to the throne, Hunt being apprehensive of his resentment, went over to Holland, and died in his passage from thence with the prince of Orange. MACRO.]

[729]

the whole herd, and thereupon stiled by a noted¹ author, 'Magni nominis umbra.' The said Postscript was reprinted the same year, with a large and most scandalous preface to it, containing very groundless and abusive reflections on the universities, and the rankest raillery imaginable on the whole body of the clergy; and thereunto were annexed Great and weighty Considerations, &c. before-mentioned. But the said Postscript being wrote with a plain design to overthrow what he had maintained in the body of his book, occasioned (besides what Rog. L'Estrange said against it in some of his Observers, which came out soon after its publication) Edward Pelling rect. of S. Mart. church within Ludgate.² Lond. (the supposed author of Protestant Apostate, &c. Lond. 1682. qu.) to point out from p. 21 to 35, the true original (viz. Persons's book Of Succession put out under the name of N. Doleman) from whence he transcribed many of his most pernicious and destructive principles, as well in the Great and weighty Considerations, &c. considered, as in the Postscript. Soon after one W. Williams of the Middle Temple barrister, did put out an answer to the said Postscript entit. An Answer to sundry Matters contained in Mr. Hunt's Postscript, to his Argument for the Bishops Right in judging capital Causes in Parliament, viz. 1. As to his publishing a scandalous Letter to the Clergy, &c. Lond. 1683. in 4 sh. in qu. Dr. G. Hicks also in the preface to Jovian, or an Answer to Julian the Apostate, as also in the first edit. of the book it self, p. 237, and elsewhere in the same work, doth plainly insinuate that this factious and rebellious author contributed no inconsiderable assistance towards the composing of Julian the Apostate, being a short Account of his Life, &c. written by Sam. Johnson.³ And Mr. Tho. Long of Exeter, in the epist. to the reader before his *Vindication*⁴ of the Primitive Christians, &c. points at several foul passages in the said Julian, clearly to be seen in Mr. Hunt's Postscript; and in the very entrance of the Appendix to the Vindication, and in other places, doth positively affirm, that both Hunt and Johnson have borrowed great part of their respective

¹ Joh. Dryden in The Vindication or Parallel of the French holy League and Cov. &c. against Mr. Tho. Hunt's Defence of the Charter, and the authors of the Reflections.—Lond. 1683. quart. pag. 39.

² [E. P. coll. Trin. Cant. A. M. 1665. BAKER.]

³ [1669, 1 Mar. Sam. Johnson cler. A. B. admiss. ad eccl. de Coringham, com. Essex. per mortem Joh. Cacott, ad pres. Rob. Biddulph. Reg. Lond.

Tho. Berrow A. M. ad eand. 4 Febr. 1686, per deprivat. Sam. Johnson.

Mr. Johnson was deprived of this church and degraded from his orders by the bishops who were commissioners during the suspension of the present bishop of London, in order to his being whipt &c. but after the revolution he return'd to his orders and living without any remission or ceremony, Mr. Berrow receding out of fear. KENNET. See also Newcourt, Repertorium, ii, 194.]

⁴ Printed at Lond. 1683.

libels from Joh. Milton's villainous defence of the murder of king Charles I. Mr. Hunt hath also written, (3) "Mr. Emerton's Marriage with Mrs. Bridget Hyde considered: wherein is discours'd the Rights and Nature of Marriage, &c. Lond. 1682. qu. 6 sh. [Bodl. C. 10. 5. Linc.] Writ (as they say) by Mr. Tho. Hunt the lawyer. So Dr. Barlow. (4) "A Defence of the Charter and municipal Rights of London. Lond. 1683. qu. [Bodl. C. 14. 10. Linc.] For the publishing of which he was ordered to be taken into custody: whereupon he fled into Holland in June, or thereabouts, an. 1683, aged about 56 years. See more in the second vol. of this work, col. 73. The said Defence was answer'd by Anon. by way of letter to a friend in a treatise entit. The Lawyer outlaw'd: or, a brief Answer to Mr. Hunt's Defence of the Charter, &c. Lond. 1683. in 5 sh. in qu. It is also taken for granted by one⁵ who may reasonably be supposed to have fully known the truth of what he asserts in this matter, that tho' Tho. Shadwell the poet (bred in Cambridge) be author of the rough draught of the following libel, yet the finishing of it was done by Tho. Hunt: which piece is thus entit. Some Reflections on the pretended Parallel in the Play call'd, The Duke of Guise; in a Letter to a Friend. Lond. 1683. in 4 sh. in qu.

RICHARD OWEN, son of Cadwallader Owen, sometime fellow of Oriel coll. afterwards minister of Llanvechen in Montgomeryshire, was born in that county, entred into the said coll. an. 1620, aged 15 years, or thereabouts, and made fellow thereof in 1627, he being then bach. of arts. Afterwards he proceeded in that faculty, took holy orders, and in 1635 he was presented by the university of Oxon to the vicaridge of Eltham in Kent, by virtue of an act of parliament began at Westm. 5 Nov. 3 Jac. disinabling recusants to present to livings. In 1638 he resigned his fellowship, and the same year took the degree of bach. of divinity, being about that time also rector of S. Swithin's, London-stone.⁶ In the beginning of the civil wars he adhered to his majesty, and was thereupon thrown out of his livings, that of S. Swithins being lost in 1643, or thereabouts, and suffered much, for about 17 years time, for the royal cause. After the return of king Charles II. he was restored to what he had lost, became minister of S. Mary Cray in Kent,⁷ was actually

[730]

⁵ Joh. Dryden before quoted in his Vind. of the Parallel, p. 40.

⁶ [Ric. Owen S. T. B. admiss. ad eccl. S. Swithini Lond. 2 Sept. 1639, per mort. Ric. Cook; ad pres. Tho. Arthington pro hac vice. Reg. Laud.

Will. Bassel A. M. ad eandem 18 Jul. 1683, vac. per mort. Ric. Owen. Reg. Henchman. KENNET.]

⁷ [He was not minister of St. Mary Cray, but of North Cray, of which he became minister in 1656. He was created D. D. in August 1660, and in the same month and year was collated to the prebend of Reculversland in the church of St. Pauls. KENNET.]

created doct. of div. of this university, and in high esteem for his holy life and conversation, for his orthodoxness in judgment, conformity to the true, ancient doctrine and discipline of the church of England, and in the former revolutions for his loyalty to his sacred majesty. He hath written and published,

Sermon at S. Mary's in Oxon, on S. Luke's Day 1637; on 2 Cor. 8. 18.—I have seen this in manuscript, which for its rarity went from hand to hand, but whether ever made public I know not.

Paulus Multiformis. Concio ad Clerum Londinensem, in 1 Cor. Cap. 9, Ver. 22.—Lond. 1666. qu. He hath also translated into English all, or most of, the satyrs of Juvenal, which I have not yet seen, and hath written something of controversy. He dyed about the latter end of January in sixteen hundred eighty and two, and was buried in the chancel of the church at Eltham before-mention'd, having had some dignity in the church in those parts.

[Rich. Owen was the son of Cadwalader Owen A. M. vicar of Llanbrynmair, and rector of Llanfechar, com. Montgomery, by his wife Blanch, the daughter and coheir of John Roberts esq. younger brother to Lewis Anwyl of Park in com. Merionith esq. This Cadwalader Owen, who, as I think, was of Oriel coll. was in his time reputed a great disputant, and generally called by the name of Sic doceo. He was instituted to the sine cura of Llanbrynmair Febr. 10, 1610, being vicar before of the same place. He was also rector of Llanfechan, and (as Lewis Dwn in his herald's visitation sayth) was a justice of the peace in com. Montgomery. He dyed in 1617. I have heard he was a writer, but what he writ, I know not. For his son Richard Owen, he was fellow of Oriel coll. and rector of London Stone and Eltham. He is sayd to have put Dr. Bates's Elenchus Motuum Nuperorum into Latin, and published a Latin sermon called Paulus Multiformis, on 1. Cor. 9. 22. and perhaps others. He had some lands of inheritance from his ancestors in the parish of Tracefynydd, com. Merionith, which he sold to sir Thomas Middleton of Chirk. HUMPHREYS.]

RICHARD TOWGOOD or Toogood, was born near Brewton in Somersetshire; became a servitor or poor scholar of Oriel coll. an. 1610, took the degrees in arts, holy orders, and preached for some time in these parts. Afterwards he retired to the city of Bristol, was made master of the school in the College Green there, and thence he was removed to the pastorship of All-saints church. Afterwards he took the degree of bach. of div. and was made one of the chaplains to king Charles I. to whose cause adhering in the time of the rebellion, he suffered much for it, being then vicar of S. Nicholas church in Bristol: but at the return of his son he was restored, was made, as I conceive, prebendary of Bristol; and upon the promotion of Dr. Glenham to the see of S. Asaph, had the deanery thereof given to him by his majesty, in requital of his sufferings, which he kept to his dying day. He hath published, Several sermons, as (1) Disloyalty of Language questioned and censured, preached against the Licentiousness of seditious Tongues, on Job 34. 18. former Part of the 18th Verse. Printed at Bristol 1643. oct. To which is added, A brief Corollary, questioning and censuring rebellious Actions. The running title of which in the Corollary it self is this, Who can touch the Lord's anointed and be guiltless? (2) A singular Master-piece of furious Sedition, preached Jan. 15. an. 1642. on Psal. 94. 20.—Printed with Disloyalty of Language questioned, &c. (3) The Almighty his gracious Token of Love to his Friend Abraham, preached in the Cath. Ch. of Bristol 3 Jan. 1674; on Acts 7. 8. former Part. Lond. 1676. qu. [Bodl. C. 7. 16. Linc.] &c. He died in sixteen hundred eighty and three, and was buried in the north isle of the choir at Bristol, over-against the tomb of sir Charles Vaughan. Soon after was a flat stone laid over his grave with this inscription thereon, Richardus Towgood S. T. B. obiit Aprilis 21. An. Dom. 1683. ætatis suæ octogesimo nono. Spes mea reposita est in cœlis. In his deanery succeeded Sam. Crossman bach. of div. of Cambridge, and preb. of Bristol, son of Sam. Crossm. of Bradfield Monachorum in Suffolk, who had it conferr'd upon him by his maj. in the beginning of May following. He hath written and published several things, as The Young Man's Monitor, &c. Lond. 1664. oct. and several sermons; among which are Two Sermons, preached in the Cath. Ch. of Bristol, 30 Jan. 1679, and 30 Jan. 1680, being the Days of public Humiliation for the execrable Murder of King Charles I. Printed at Lond. 1681. qu. Also A Sermon preached 23 Apr. 1680, in the Cath. Church of Bristol before the Gentlemen of the Artillery Company newly raised in that City. Pr. at Lond. 1680. qu. And An humble Plea for the quiet Rest of God's Ark, preached before Sir Joh. Moore Lord Mayor of Lond. at S. Mildred's Ch. in the Poultry, 5 Feb. 1681. Lond. 1682. qu. &c. He died 4 Febr. 1683, aged 59 years, and was buried in the south isle of the cath. ch. in Bristol. After him followed in the said deanery Rich. Thompson, as I shall tell you elsewhere.

MATTHEW SMALWOOD, son of Jam. Smal. of Middlewick in Cheshire, was born in that county, became a student in this univ. 1628, aged 16 years, scholar of Brasen-n. coll. two years after, took the degrees in arts, and left the university for a time. In 1642, Nov. 1, he was actually created master of arts, being then in holy orders, and a sufferer in those times, if I mistake not, for the royal cause. After his majesty's restoration in 1660, he was actually created D. of D. by virtue of the king's letters for that purpose, was about that time made a dignitary, and in 1671 dean of Lichfield in the place of Dr. Tho. Wood promoted to the see thereof. He hath published, 1683. Several sermons, as one upon Gen. 5. 24. another on Prov. 11. 18. a third on Matth. 5. 34. &c. All printed after his maj. restoration. He died at Market Bosworth in Leicestershire on the 26th of Apr. in sixteen hundred eighty and three, being then there to attend the funeral of sir Wolstan Dixey, and was some days after buried in the cath. church of Lichfield. In his deanery succeeded Dr. Lancelot Addison⁹ of Qu. coll. in Oxon.

* [On 2 Kings xi. 11. WANLEY.]

JOHN DUREL, son of Joh. Durel of S. Hilary in the isle of Jersey, was born there, entred a student in Merton coll. in the latter end of the year 1640, aged 15 years, having then a chamber in S. Alban's hall; but before he had spent two years there (which was under Mr. Tho. Jones) he left that ancient house, Oxford being then garrison'd for his majesty, and the scholars in arms for him, and forthwith retired to France; where, at Caen in Normandy, he took the degree of master of arts in the Sylvanian coll. 8th of July 1644. About which time he studied divinity, carried it on for at least two years at Saumur under the famous divine and writer Moses Amyraldus divinity reader in that university. Afterwards he retired to his own country, continued there for a time among his relations, but at length being expuls'd thence with monsieur Le Couteur and Dan. Brevint, both born in Jersey, our author Durel, who was the first that left that place, took his journey to Paris, and there received episcopal ordination in the chappel of the honourable and truly noble sir Rich. Browne, knight, his majesty's then resident in France, from the hands of Thomas bish. of Galloway (after the king's restoration of Orkney) about 1651. So that being a native of Jersey, ordained in France, and by a Scotch bishop, doth make a certain¹ writer doubt whether he was ecclesiæ Anglicanæ presbyter, as our author stiles himself in his books. Soon after he resided at S. Maloes, and acquainting his friends with the condition he was then in, he was thereupon kindly invited by the reformed church at Caen, by an express on purpose, to come there and become one of their ministers in the absence of monsieur Sam. Bochart the famous orientalian, philologist and critic, (author of Geographia sacra, &c. and of that Latin letter to Dr. George Morley at the end of that book) who was then going into Sweden. Not long after the landgrave of Hessen having written to the ministers of Paris to send him a minister to preach in French at his highness's court, he was by them recommended to that prince: from whom likewise he received a very kind invitation by letters, which he kept by him to the time of his death. But the providence of God not permitting him to go to either of those places, he became at length chaplain to the duke de la Force, father to the princess of Turenne, monsieur Le Couteur being invited likewise at the same time to the reform'd church of Caen, and Brevint to another church in Normandy, where he was preferred to be chaplain to the prince of Turenne. Before I go any farther, I must tell you that about 1642 the duke of Soubize living near to the court at Whitehall, and finding it troublesome, and sometimes impossible by reason of his infirmities, to go to the Walloon's church in the city of London, had commonly a French sermon preached before him in his own house every Sunday. This being found very commodious to the French living near thereunto, it was thought convenient upon the death of the said duke, to set up a French church about the Strand: and it being in a manner settled, that in the city did so highly resent it, that ever after the members thereof did endeavour by all means possible to pull it down. Upon the king's restoration the French church in the city addressed his majesty to have the French congregation at Westminster broken, and forbidden to assemble, because it was not established by lawful authority. That at Westminster did present an humble suit to his majesty that he would be pleas'd to continue it. His maj. upon consideration of the matter, granted both their requests by breaking the congregation at Westminster, and by setting up a new church under the immediate jurisdiction of the bishop of London, wherein divine service should be performed in French according to the book of common prayer by law established, his majesty providing for one minister, and they themselves allowed to add to him as many as by them should be thought convenient, provided that the said ministers be presented to the bishop of London, and by him instituted. By virtue of the said grant the liturgy of the church of England was first read in French in the Fr. ch. at Westm. assembled by the king's special favour in the chappel of the Savoy in the Strand, on Sunday 14 July 1661, and the same day in the morning our author Durel (who had the chief hand in setting up this church according to this new model) did preach, and in the afternoon Le Couteur, then dean of Jersey: from which time, he with others were constant preachers for several years following, and much resorted to and admired by all. In the beginning of Apr. 1663 he (Durel) was made preb. of North Aulton in the church of Salisbury (being then chapl. in ord. to his maj.) and in Feb. following he succeeded Dr. A. Hawles in his prebendship of Windsor, and about that time was made prebendary of Durham, and had a rich donative conferr'd on him.

[732]

⁹ [Who dyed May 1703 and was succeeded by Dr. William Bincks. GREY.]

¹ Anon. in a book entit. The Nonconformist's Vindication &c. Lond. 1679. in oct. p. 133.

In the latter end of 1669 he was actually created doct. of divinity, as a member of Merton coll. by virtue of the chancellor's letters read in a full convocation, held on the 13th of Octob. going before, whereby we are informed that 'his fame was so well known to them (the academians) especially for the great pains he had taken in the church, that he could hardly propose any thing to them in his behalf, in which they would not be willing to prevent him.' The most noble chancellor further adds, that 'of his parts and learning they were better judges than himself, but had not so much experience of his loyalty, fidelity and service to his majesty as himself,' &c. In July 1677 he became dean of Windsor in the place of Dr. Br. Ryves deceased, and so consequently dean of Wolverhampton; and had he lived some years longer, there is no doubt but he would have been promoted to a bishoprick. He was a person of unbyassed and fixed principles, untainted and steady loyalty, as constantly adhering to the sinking cause and interest of his sovereign in the worst of times; who dar'd with an unshaken and undaunted resolution to stand up and maintain the honour and dignity of the English church, when she was in her lowest and deplorable condition. He was very well vers'd also in all the controversies on foot between the church and the disciplinarian party; the justness and reasonableness of the established constitutions of the former, no one of late years hath more plainly manifested, or with greater learning more successfully defended against its most zealous modern oppugners than he hath done, as by his works following is manifest. Several of his professed adversaries do give him great commendations, particularly Lewis du Moulin, who saith² that he is 'in familiari progressu vir civilis ingenio, ore probò, pectore niveo, oratione profluente & lenocinante,' &c. And one of another persuasion named father Simon, priest of the congregation of the oratory calls³ him a learned English protestant. But now let's proceed to the works of learning by him published, which are these,

[733]

Theoremata Philosophiæ rationalis, moralis, naturalis & supernaturalis, quorum Veritatem tueri conabitur in Coll. Sylvano Acad. Cadomensis, &c. 8 Jul. 1644. Cadom. 1644. qu.

The Liturgy of the Church of England asserted in a Serm. on 1 Cor. 11. 16. Lond. 1661, 62, qu. ded. to Jam. duke of Ormond. It was preached in French at the first opening of the Savoy chap. for the French, 14 Jul. 1661. Translated into English by G. B. doctor of phys.

A View of the Government and public Worship of God in the reformed Churches beyond the Seas; wherein is shewed their Conformity and Agreement with the Church of England, as it is by Law established. Lond. 1662. qu. Tho' this book (wherein the author speaks several things of himself) was wrote in English, yet the adverse party thought fit to rally up their scatter'd forces, and appear against it in different languages. One is in French, entit. An Apology for English Puritans: The writer of which neither mentions Dr. Durel, or any body else in the title; and tho' an independent, yet he pleads the cause of the presbyterians. The other answer, which is an Apology also, is said by a certain person to have been written by Hen. Hickman, bearing this title, Apologia pro Ministris in Anglia (vulgo) Nonconformists, An. 1662, Aug. 24 Die Bartholomæo dicto, ejectis, &c. And tho' this and others are stiled Apologies, yet our author Durel saith 'they are satyrs, and no other but 'famosi adversus ecclesiam Anglicanam libelli.' Dr. Lew. du Moulin designed once to translate the said View of the Government, &c. (which is often quoted by many eminent writers, and highly commended) into Latin for the sake and use of foreigners; but Will. Jenkyns the noted presbyterian minister deter'd him from his purpose, threatening him with no less punishment than that of eternal damnation, if so pernicious a book (as he was pleased to call it) in which the concord of the church of England, with all the reformed churches as to church government and divine worship, should be by his means communicated to foreigners. The doctor himself hath told us this, saying that for this reason he let fall the work after he had began it, having proceeded no farther in it than the translation of the preface, which Dr. Durel had by him, as wrote with Moulin's own hand. This, and more, concerning the whole matter, may be seen in our author's Responsio ad Apologistæ Profationem, going next before his Vindiciæ, &c. As for Jenkyns before-mention'd, a most rigid presbyterian, he had been pastor of the Black-fryers, and afterwards of Ch. Ch. in London, had been engaged with the presbyterian ministers in their plot to bring in king Charles II. from Scotland 1651, (for which he had like to have gone to the pot with his dear brother Love) was ejected from Ch. Ch. for nonconformity, an. 1662, and carrying on afterwards the trade of conventicling, was several times imprison'd and otherwise troubled. He hath written many things not now to be mentioned, among which is The busy Bishop, or the Visitor visited, &c. Lond. 1648, written in answer to a pamphlet published by J. G. [John Gauden] called Sion Coll. visited. He hath also several sermons extant;⁴ two, or more, were preached

² In his Patronus bonæ Fidei, p. 1.

³ In the Engl. translation from the French of the Critical Hist. of the Old Test. Lond. 1682. qu.

⁴ Matth. Scrivener in the beginning of his Actio in Schismaticos Anglicanos. Lond. 1672. qu. p. 4, 5.

⁵ In his preface to the divines of all the reformed churches, before his S. Eccl. Angl. Vind.

⁶ [Serm. at Mary Aldermanbury 5 Nov. 1651, being the first he preach'd after his Releasement. 4to. Lond. 1652. WANLEY.

The still Destroyer, or self seeking discovered: together with the Curse it brings and the Cure it requires, a Sermon before the long parliament, and a fun. sermon also on 2 Pet. 1. 15. was preached 12 Sept. 1675, by the occasion of the much lamented death of the learned Dr. Laz. Seaman. But several passages therein giving offence, came out soon after an answer to some part of it, entit. A Vindication of the Conforming Clergy from the unjust Aspersions of Heresy, &c. in a Letter to a Friend. Printed in qu. He had a chief hand also in Celeusma, which I shall anon mention, and wrote other things. He died in the prison called Newgate in Lond. on the 19th of January 1684, (at which time were 80 dissenters or more then and there remaining) and on the 24th of the same month his corps, being attended by at least 150 coaches, was interr'd in the burying place called by some the Fanatical, and by others Tyndal's Burying place, joyning on the north side to the New Artillery Garden or Yard near London.⁷ Soon after was printed and published, An Elegy on that reverend and learned Minister of the Gospel Mr. Will. Jenkyns; who finished his Testimony, &c. A comment on which, with many things concerning Mr. Jenkyns himself, you may see in the 2d vol. of the Observer, num. 209, 210. written by Rog. L'Estrange, esq; wherein also you'll find his Petition to the Supreme Authority, the Parliam. of the Commonwealth of England, for the pardon of his life and estate, for being engaged in the plot before-mentioned; in which petition being asserted by him that 'possession and strength give a right to govern, and success in a cause or enterprize proclaims it to be lawful and just,' &c. it was, by the decree and judgment of the univ. of Oxon pass'd in their convocation 21 July 1683, burnt with certain books in the school quadrangle, as destructive to the sacred preached on 2 Philip. 20, 21, before the Lord Mayor, &c. by W. Jenkins, 4to. Lond. 1645.

[734]

A Shock of Corn coming in its Season, a Sermon preached at the Funeral of Wm. Gouge D. D. &c.; on Job 5, 26, by W. Jenkins, 4to. Lond. 1654. MORANT.]

⁷ [1640, 27 Jan. Will. Jenkyn A. M. admiss. ad eccl. S. Leonardi, in villa Colcestre, ad pres. regis. Reg. Lond. cessit ante 25 Mar. 1643.

1642, 1 Febr. Gul. Jenkyns A. M. admiss. ad eccl. de Christchurch London, ad pres. majoris et commun. et civium Lond.

His epitaph in Bunhill fields.

In Dom. Gul. Jenkyn M. V. D. Lond. cujus gratia inter graves Ecclesie procellas Novo pylo (Newgate) incarcerationatus martyr obiit anno ætatis LXXII, Ministerii LII. Domini MDCLXXXIV. Ejusdemque Filie Annæ Gurdon, Genetricis Joh. Scot, cum Filio suo Gul. Scot. Domina Elizabetha Juyce proles sola superstes, Soror, Uxor atque Mater Hæc Sepulchralia D. S. P. L. M. fieri curavit, Anno Domini MDCLXXXV. KENNET. See a farther account of him in Kennet's Register and Chronicle, page 792, 793.

This William Jenkins, on his refusal to observe a fast-day appointed by order of the independent house of commons, about July 1650, being minister of Christ's church in London, was sequestred from his benefice, banished 20 miles from London, and suspended from preaching for the future. Parliamentary History of England, xix, 296. See also a petition of his to the Rump for his life in vol. xx, page 73. COLE.]

person of princes, their state and government, &c. Our author Dr. Durel hath also written against the aforesaid two Apologies a book entit.

Sanctæ Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ adversus iniquas atque inverecundas Schismaticorum Criminationes Vindiciæ, &c. Lond. 1669. qu.⁸ In which Vindiciæ, the author doth only by the by sometimes take notice of the former or first apologist, as thinking him unworthy of any larger confutation, but the other (Hickman) he answers more fully and designedly in his citations following his second edition. As for the character given of the said Vindiciæ, hear what Matthew Scrivner saith in the place before cited, in relation to his answer to Hen. Hickman,—'Justo volumine contemptissimi istius capitis veteris nuper obtrivit Durellus, fecitque vanissimum autorem inter pueros immodestie & amicitie sue infelicissimum deplorare exitum.' And what Lew. du Moulin⁹ delivers of it is, that it is more offensive to the puritans than the other book entit. A View of the Government, &c. And therefore against it came out soon after a small piece entit.—Bonus vapulans: or, some Castigations given to Mr. Joh. Durel for fowling himself and others in his English and Lat. Book. Lond. 1672. in a small oct. said to be written by a country scholar, yet generally believed to have been pen'd by Hickman before-mentioned. Which book, with some additions and alterations, came out again with this new title, The Nonconformists vindicated from the Abuses put upon them by Mr. Durel and Mr. Scrivner. Lond. 1679. oct. Of which edition and notorious falsities expressed in the title, I shall give you an account when I come to H. Hickman. Dr. L. Du Moulin published also another book against it, without his name set to it, bearing this title, Patronus bonæ Fidei, in Causa Puritanorum, contra Hierarchas Anglos: ut disceptatur in Specimine Confutationis Vindiciarum clariss. Viri Joh. Durelli, cujus Periculum fit, cum passim in ejus Opere tum maxime in Capite primo, in quo agitur de Authoribus nuperorum Motuum in Anglia. Lond. 1672. oct. This book hath five distinct running titles, all differently paged, to the end that the sheets so printed might the better by that means escape the searchers of the press. The titles are, 1. Epistola. 2. Specimen. 3. Prodromus. 4. Defensor. And 5. Patronus, &c. This Patronus bonæ Fidei, tho' fraught with scurrilities, and the utmost malice and bitterness, in which the author (whose excellency lay in ill natur'd satyr) could possibly express himself against the ch. of England, and some of her most eminent, as well dead as living, propugners; yet it is cited more than once, as a piece of notable authority in Will. Jenkyns's Celeusma, seu Clamor ad Cælum, &c. Lond. 1677. qu. In which book when the author refers you to the said Patronus bonæ Fidei, the writer thereof (Moulin) is characterized as doctissimus, clariss. and eruditiss. possibly, as we may justly conceive, for his performance in that work. Nay 'tis not only quoted as a very authentick piece by the said Jenkyns, but is cited by Dr. Tho. Godden [alias Tilden¹] the great and eminent Rom. Cath. writer against the church of England in his Dialogues wrote in defence of Catholics no Idolaters, against Dr. Stillingfleet, as a treatise to be credited in its account of some practices and usages in the church of England, but chiefly of bowing towards the altar. To which citation from Du Moulin, Dr. Stillingfleet replies in his book² entit. Several Conferences between a Romish Priest, a Fanatic Chaplain, and a Divine of the Ch. of England, being a full Answer to the late Dialogues of T. G. In the pages here quoted in the margin you'll find an account of the great knight-service which L. du Moulin did for the papists, and what wonderful good use they made of him, besides the sharp character given of his performance in Patronus bonæ Fidei, which, I presume, could not be over pleasing to that proud and haughty French-man. A farther account of him and his writings is in Dr. Rob. Grove his Defensio³ suæ Responsionis ad nuperum Libellum qui inscribitur Celeusma, &c. adversus Reputationem ab Authore Celeusmatis editum: but more particularly from the said Grove's former piece called Responsio ad Celeusma, &c. In the 15th page of this last mention'd book, you have this close and smart character of some of this French doctor's most considerable performances thus, 'Erat aliquando tempus, cum tu excusatus peccares, cum esses olim Irenæus Philadelphus, an. 1641, qui à te læsi erant, temeritati tuæ veniam dabant; cum Parænesin scriberes an. 1656 te opus viribus tuis majus aggredi putabant; cum Causæ Jugulum peteres anno 1671 delirare credebant; cum Bonæ fidei Patronum ederes 1672 insanire videbaris; nunc autem postquam Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ progressus ad Papismum emisisti, omnes te jam furore arbitrantur,' &c. Altho' these Vindiciæ of Dr. Durel are well known to be written in good Latin, yet Dr. Du Moulin makes⁴ such a boasting fulsome comparison between the goodness of Dr. Durel's stile in this book, and that of his own in his Patr. bon. Fidei, &c. by a strange kind of modesty, giving himself the pre-eminence in such unbecoming extravagant language, that Mr. Mat. Scrivener could not but take particular notice of, and reflect on this notable piece of self-flattery (among other passages relating only to himself) in the margin of the preface before his Body of Divinity.—Lond. 1674. fol. "Dr. John Durel "publish'd in Latin (so Dr. Barlow) Liturgia, seu "liber Precum communium & Administrationis "Sacramentorum aliorumq; Rituum atque Cere- "moniarum Ecclesiæ; juxta Usum Ecclesiæ Angli- "cane una cum Psalterio seu Psalmis Davidis, &c. "Itemque Forma & Modus faciendi, ordinandi & "consecrandi Episcopos, Presbyteros, Diaconos— "Lond. 1670. oct. He calls himself the editor of "it." What other books our author Durel hath written⁶ I know not, nor any thing else of him, only that dying on Friday the 8th day of June, about 8 of the clock at night, in sixteen hundred eighty and three, was buried on the 12th day of the same month about the middle of the north isle joyning to the choir of the chap. or ch. of S. George within the castle at Windsor, in a small vault of brick built for that purpose, and intended for his wife also after her decease. Soon after was a flat black marble stone laid, with a little inscription thereon containing his name, title, and obit, as also his age when he died, which was 58. In his deanery succeeded Dr. Frane. Turner, and in his prebendship of Durham Dr. Jo. Montague master of Trin. coll. in Cambridge, brother to the present earl of Sandwich.

⁸ [And in 1672, under the title of Hist. Rituum Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ. GREY.]

⁹ In his Epist. p. 56.

[735]

1683.

WILLIAM BELL was born in the parish of S. Dunstan in the West in London, on the 4th of Feb. 1625, educated in Merch. Taylors school, elected scholar of St. John's coll. in 1643, afterwards fellow, but in 1648 ejected thence by the visitors appointed by parliament, he being then bach. of arts, and well skill'd in the practical part of music. Afterwards he lived in several places as opportunity served, was in France an. 1649, and about 1655 he had a small benefice in Norfolk conferr'd on him, but could not pass the triers. When his majesty was restored in 1660, he became chaplain in the Tower of Lond. to sir Joh. Robinson lieutenant thereof, and in the year after was actually created bach. of divinity. In 1662 he was presented by the president and society of S. John's coll. to the vicaridge of S. Sepulchre in London,⁷ void by the non-conformity of Tho. Gouge sometime of King's coll. in Cambridge (who died 29 Oct. 1681, aged 77 years) and in 65 he was made prebendary of S. Paul's cathedral,⁸ by Dr. Henchman bishop of London. In 1667⁹ he had the arch-deaconry of S.

[736]

⁶ [He translated the Liturgy into French 1662, and his wife transl. the Whole Duty of Man into French. GREY.]

⁷ [1638, 6 Oct. Tho. Gouge, A. M. admiss. ad vicariam S. Sepulchri London. per mortem Tho. Berisford, S. T. P. Reg. Lond.]

Will. Bell admiss. ad vic. S. Sepulchri Lond. 14. Oct. 1662. per privationem Tho. Gouge. KENNET.]

⁸ [Will. Bell S. T. B. coll. ad preb. de Reculversland 23 Mar. 1665. Obiit 19 die Jul. 1683. KENNET.]

⁹ [Will. Bell S. T. P. coll. ad archidiaconat. S. Albani 28 Apr. 1671, per mort. Christ. Shute.]

Ed. Carter A. M. ad cand. archid. 9 Aug. 1683, per mort. Bell. KENNET.]

¹ [BAKER. Jo. Goddin M. A. fellow of Trin. coll. 1617. Ric. Tylden art. bac. coll. Jo. an. 1655. Ibid.]

² Printed at Lond. 1679. oct. p. 208, 209. and p. 222, 223, &c.

³ Printed 1682. in qu. from p. 92. to p. 95.

⁴ Pr. at Lond. 1680. qu. from p. 9. to p. 17.

⁵ In Patron. bonæ Fidei, p. 1, 2.

Alban's conferr'd upon him by the said bishop, was the same year sworn chapl. in ord. to his majesty, and in 1668 he proceeded doctor of his faculty, and was for his eminence in preaching made soon after one of the lecturers of the Temple, &c. He hath published,

Several sermons, as (1.) City Security stated, preached at S. Paul's before the Lord Mayor; on Psal. 127. latter Part of the first Ver. Lond. 1660. qu. (2.) Joshua's Resolution to serve God with his Family: recommended to the Practice of the Inhabitants of S. Sepulchre's Parish from 24 of Josh. 15. latter Part. Lond. 1672. qu. sec. edit. (3.) Serm. preached at the Funeral of Mr. Auth. Hinton late Treasurer of S. Bartholomew's Hospital, 15 Sept. 1678, at S. Sepulchre's. Lond. 1679. qu. He the said Dr. Bell died July 19, and was buried in the chancel of S. Sepulchre's church before-mentioned, on the 26th day of July in sixteen hundred eighty and three, leaving then behind him a precious name among his parishioners for his charity, preaching, and other matters, of which they could not speak enough; and was soon after succeeded in the said vicaridge by Edw. Waple bach. of div. of S. John's coll. in Oxon. On the marble stone which covers the said Dr. Bell's grave I find this written, M. S. Heic jacet Gulielmus Bell SS. Theologiae Professor, Ecclesiae hujus Pastor vigilantissimus; vir optimus, ingens Ecclesiae Anglicanae ornamentum, si primariam spectes pietatem, felicissimum ingenii acumen, morum suavitatem & integritatem; partibus regis inconcussam fidelitatem, vel charitatem (denuo) vix imitabilem. Nec plus dicere decorum, nec fas minus. I tu, & fac similiter. Pientissimam exhalavit animam Julii 19. an. Chr. 1683. ætatis 58. As for Th. Gouge before-mentioned who was D. D. he was buried in the church of S. Ann Black-fryers 4 Nov. 1681, at which time Dr. Joh. Tillotson dean of Canterbury preached his funeral sermon; which, with an account of his life therein, being extant, you may, if you please, satisfy your self more of the person, who, as 'tis said, did translate several things into Welsh, as the BIBLE, Whole Duty of Man, A Catechism, &c. Besides the said Will. Bell, I find another of both his names, master of arts, and late preacher of the word at Hyton in Lancashire, author of The Excellency, Necessity, and Usefulness of Patience. As also of, The Patience of Job, and the End of the Lord: or, the glorious Success of gracious Suffering opened and applyed. Both which were printed at Lond. 1674 in oct. with a preface to them written by Mr. Rich. Baxter. [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 42. Th.] Which Will. Bell, who was a nonconformist and living at Sinderland in the parish of Ashton-Underline in Lancashire in June 1668, I take to be the same with him who was author of (1.) Well doing, well done to, Serm. on Jer. 22. 15.—Printed 1650. qu. (2.) Enoch's Walk; on Gen. 5. 24.—Printed 1658. oct. (3.) Incomparable Company Keep- ing, or a Conversation on Earth in Heaven, Pr. in oct. Whether this Will. Bell be the same W. Bell (son of Joh. Bell of Chigwell in Essex) who was matriculated in this university, as a member of Ch. Ch. an. 1634, aged 17 years (but took no degree there) I know not. Quære.

1683.

[Dr. Bell gave in the year 1673, 300*l.* to the use of St. John's college.

Among Ashmole's books is

An Elegy on the Death of the reverend, learned and pious William Bell, D. D. Vicar of S. Sepulchres; who died July the 19th 1683. Lond. 1683. a single leaf folio. Mus. Ashmole, 1094, 105.]

JOHN BARNARD or BERNARD the son of a father of both his names gent. was born in a market town in Lincolnshire, called Castor, educated in the grammar school there, whence going to Cambridge, he became a pensioner of Queen's coll. and thence journeying to Oxon to obtain preferment from the visitors there, appointed by parliament, in the latter end of 1647, was actually created bach. of arts in the Pembrokeian creation, 15 Apr. 1648, and on the 29th of Sept. following, he was by order of the said visitors then bearing date, made fellow of Linc. coll. In 1651 he proceeded in arts, and about that time became a preacher in, and near, Oxon. At length wedding the dau. of Dr. Pet. Heylin then living at Abingdon, became rector of a rich church in his own country called Waddington near Lincoln, the perpetual advowson of which he purchased, and held for some time with it the sinecure of Gedney in the same county. After his majesty's restoration he conformed, and not only kept his rectory, but was made preb. of Asgarby in the church of Lincoln. In 1669 he took the degrees in divinity, being then in some repute in his country for his learning and orthodox principles. He hath written,

Censura Cleri: or, against scandalous Ministers, not fit to be restored to the Church's Livings, in point of Prudence, Piety and Fame. Lond. 1660 in 3 sh. in qu. This was published in the latter end of 1659 or beg. of 1660 to prevent such from being restored to their livings that had been ejected by the godly party, an. 1654, 55, &c. His name is not set to this pamphlet, and he did not care afterwards, when he saw how the event proved, to be known that he was the author.

Theologo-Historicus: or, the true Life of the most rev. Divine and excellent Historian Peter Heylin D. D. Sub-Dean of Westminster. Lond. 1683. oct. Published, as the author pretended, to correct the errors, supply the defects and confute the calumnies of a late writer, viz. George Vernon M. A. rector of Bourton on the Water in Gloucestershire, who had before published the said doctor's life.

Answer to Mr. Baxter's false Accusations of Dr. Heylin—Printed with the Theologo-Historicus, &c.

[737]

1683.

Catechism for the Use of his Parish.—This I have not yet seen, and therefore cannot tell you when or where 'twas printed. This Dr. Barnard died at Newarke in his journey to the Spaw, on the 17th of August in sixteen hundred eighty and three, and was buried in the chancel of his church at Waddington before-mention'd, as I have been informed by his son of both his names, lately fellow of Brasen-n. coll. who also told me that he left behind him a manuscript chiefly against Socinianism, which is not yet printed.

JOHN OWEN son of Hen. Owen sometime a petty schoolmaster at Stokenchurch, afterwards vicar of Stadham near Watlington, in Oxfordshire, was born in the said town of Stadham, bred in grammar learning, mostly under Edw. Silvester, who taught school for many years in Allsaints parish in Oxon, entred a student in Queen's coll in 1628, instructed in logic and philosophy by Tho. Barlow fellow thereof, and took the degrees in arts, that of master being taken and compleated in 1635;¹ at which time, as the custom and statute is, he swore allegiance and fidelity to the king, his heirs, and lawful successors. Which oath is taken by all who take but one degree: [so that if they swerve from their lawful prince, as presbyterians, independents, &c. have done, and took the degrees in arts, that of master being taken and compleated in 1635; they are perjurd.²] And this for once is to be noted of all such whom I have, and shall mention in this work. About the same time he entred into holy orders, and when made priest swore canonical obedience to the bishop his diocesan. Afterwards he became chaplain to sir Rob. Dormer of Ascot in the parish of Great Milton near the place of his nativity, where he served and did all things requisite to his office according to the church of England, and taught also the eldest son of the said knight. About that time he became chaplain to John lord Lovelace of Hurley in Berkshire, where continuing till the turn of the times, he sided then with the rebellious rout, preached against bishops and their courts, common prayer book, ceremonies, &c. Afterwards he was made minister of Fordham in Essex, took the covenant, became pastor of that nest of faction call'd Coggeshall in the same county, where lately that noted presbyterian Ob. Sedgwick had held forth. But then he perfectly beholding that the independents grew prevalent, he changed his mind, adhered to them, and endeavoured to ruin the presbyterians. He violated all oaths, as of canonical obedience, solemn league and covenant, &c. and being a man of parts was more enabled to do greater mischief by them, especially in preaching up sectarism, as he did ever and anon wheresoever he came. By the doing of these things he became endeared to

[738]

¹ [In 1637, when he was but nineteen years old. Life of Owen, 1720, page v.]

² [Wood, MS. insertion in his own copy, preserved in the Ashmolean museum.]

Ol. Cromwell, who had him ever after in great respect, and in some things relied on his council. In the latter end of 1648, when king Charles I. was beheaded, he in his discourses and sermons applauded³ the regicides and declared the death of that most admirable king to be just and righteous, preached against king Charles II. and against all the loyal party. In 1649, June 7, was a thanksgiving by the parliament officers of the army, lord mayor and citizens at Ch. Ch. in London for Cromwell's victory over the levellers, at which time Tho. Goodwin and this our author Owen (who had about that time taken the engagement) preached to them out of the politics; and on the day after a committee was appointed to consider how to prefer those two preachers to be heads of colleges in this university, as a reward for asserting the late proceedings of parliament and Cromwell, upon the aforesaid thanksgiving day. It was not then thought fit that such men should serve God for nothing: In the times of S. Peter and S. Paul, godliness was great gain, but in the days of the late saints, gain was great godliness. On the 17th of Sept. 1650, it was ordered by the parliament, according to the desire of Ol. Cromwell then general of the forces, that he and Joseph Caryl should go into Scotland, and on the 18th of March following, it was ordered by them that he should be dean of Ch. Ch. in Oxon. In which place being soon after settled, he with Tho. Goodwin president of Magd. coll. (the two Atlases and patriarchs of independency) did, with some others who were their admirers, endeavour to settle independency in the university according to Cromwell's mind, but in their designs they found much opposition from the presbyterians, with whom they had several clashes concerning the promoting of their doctrine. In the year 1652 he was made vice-chancellor,⁴ in which office, he being then also one of the visitors (for by that time several independents had been added to them) he endeavoured to put down habits, formalities and all ceremony, notwithstanding he before had taken an oath to observe the statutes and maintain the privileges of the university, but was opposed in this also by the presbyterians. While he did undergo the said office, he, instead of being a grave example to the university, scorned all formality, undervalued his office by going in quirpo like a young scholar, with powdered hair, snakebone bandstrings (or bandstrings with very large tassels) lawn band, a large set of ribbons pointed, at his knees, and Spanish leather boots, with large lawn tops, and his hat mostly cock'd.

³ Letter to a Friend concerning some of Dr. Owen's Principles and Practices. Lond. 1670. qu.

⁴ [He was several years successively vice-chancellor of Oxford; when laid aside he had thoughts of going into New England, where he was invited to the government of their university, but he was stopped by particular orders from king Charles. He was also invited to be a professor of divinity in the United Provinces, but refused. MACRO.]

[739]

On the 10th of Dec. 1653 he the said Owen, Tho. Goodwin, R. Fairclough the elder, Nich. Lockyer, Joh. Caryl, &c. were presented to the parliament to be sent commissioners, by three in a circuit, for ejecting and setting ministers according to the rules then prescrib'd, but that project taking not effect, there were commissioners appointed by Oliver for approbation of public preachers, whereof John Owen was one of the chiefest; and in the year following commissioners from the laity, and assistants to them from the clergy in every county, for the ejecting of such whom they then called scandalous, ignorant and insufficient ministers and schoolmasters, that is loyal and orthodox divines. At which time John Owen, and Tho. Goodwin were appointed for the county of Oxon, together with Thankful Owen pres. of S. Jo. coll. Sam. Wells minister of Banbury, Joh. Taylor min. of Broughton, Christoph. Rogers, Amb. Upton, Pet. French, Hen. Wilkinson, Ralph Batton, Hen. Cornish canons of Ch. Ch. Edm. Stanton pres. of Corpus, Rob. Harris pres. of Trin. coll. Franc. Howell of Ex. coll. Mr. Brice of Henly, &c. In 1654 Owen stood to be elected burgess for the university of Oxon, to sit in the parliament then called, and rather than he would be put aside, because he was a theologian, he renounced his orders, and pleaded that he was a meer layman, notwithstanding he had been actually created D. of D. in the year before: But his election being questioned by the committee of elections, he sat only for a little time in the said parliament. While he was vicechanc. he preached frequently, blasphemed God with bold and senseless effusions, and in his sermons and prayers he did often confound the royal family. He had a wonderful⁵ knack of entitling all the proceedings of his own party, however villainous and inhuman, nay any the least revolutions or turn of affairs, which hapned to be in favour of his own cause, to an especial providence, to the peculiar and plainly legible conduct of heaven; which he zealously preached up, as sufficient to unty the strictest bonds of faith, allegiance and all other oaths to overturn all the obligations of conscience and religion. He could easily make the transactions of the three kingdoms to be the fulfilling of many old prophetic predictions, and to be a clear edifying comment on the Revelations, still teaching (as most of the brethren did) that to pursue a success in villany and rebellion, was to follow the guidance of providential dispensations. He was also then, while he was vicechancellor, so great an enemy to the Lord's Prayer, that when some preachers concluded their own with it, which was very seldom done by any, especially the presbyterians and independents, (because it was looked upon, forsooth, as formal and prelatical so to do) he would with great sneering and scorn, turn aside or sit down and put on his hat.

⁵ Sam. Parker, in his Defence and Continuation of Eccles. Policy, &c. after p. 588.

Which act of his being looked upon as diabolical, especially by the royal party, it gave occasion to Dr. Mer. Casaubon to write and publish A Vindication of the Lord's Prayer, &c. as I have told you elsewhere. In 1657, when Rich. Cromwell (son of Oliver) was elected chancellor of this university, our author Owen was removed from his vicechancellorship, and the year after, when he was made protector, he was, by the endeavours of the presbyterians, removed also from his favour, and St. Mary's pulpit cleansed of him and Goodwin. All which our author taking in great scorn, he, out of spite, set up a lecture at another church, using these⁶ words, 'I have built seats at Mary's, but let the doctors find auditors, for I will preach at Peter's in the East;' and so he did for a time and many flocked to him. In the latter end of 1659 he was ousted of his deanery of Ch. Ch. and then retired to Stadham (the place of his birth) where a little before he had bought land and a fair dwelling house. There he lived for some time, called together some of his party to preach, and many of his disciples went from Oxon to hear him and receive comfort from his doctrine; but they being several times silenced by soldiers of the militia troop belonging to the county of Oxon, and sorely threatned, that congregation was broken. After all this (when our author for his rebellious actions, blasphemies, preachings, lyings, revilings, perjuries, &c. was not excepted from the act of oblivion, which was much wondered at and desired) sir E. Hyde then lord chancellor treated⁷ him with all kindness and respect, and designed him, if he could not conform, to employ his time and abilities in writing against the papists, and not to violate public laws and endanger public peace by keeping conventicles. Whereupon Owen gave his word that he would be obedient to his commands, but being not long after found preaching to about 30 or 40 of the godly party, in his house at Stadham, by an officer of the militia troop, he was complained of to the lord chancellor. Soon after Owen having received intelligence that that great person was very angry, upon information of the matter made to him while he was at Cornbury in Oxfordshire, he wrote to Dr. Tho. Barlow (whom he had obliged with the like kindness in the reign of Oliver) and desired him to mediate on his behalf to the said person. Whereupon Barlow went from Oxon to Cornbury, where the lord chanc. hearing his errand, he⁸ told him then that Dr. Owen was a perfidious person, in that he had violated his engagements, and therefore he would have nothing to do with him, but leave him to the penalty of those laws he had transgressed, &c. Upon this our author resolved to go to New England, but since that time the wind was never in a right point for a voyage. After this

[740]

⁶ Letter to a Friend, as before, p. 28.

⁷ Ibid.

⁸ Ib. p. 39, 40.

he settled in London, set up a church, preached and prayed, having been encouraged thereunto (as 'tis said) by the papists; and at length burying his wife, married (after 60 years of age) the young widow of Thom. D'oyley his neighbour (younger brother of sir Joh. D'oyley of Chesilhampton near Stadham baronet) and took all occasions to enjoy the comfortable importances of this life.⁹ A certain nonconformist (J. H.) doth characterize¹ our author thus. 'He is a reverend man, a doct. of div. of much gravity and of long standing, excellent in learning and all sorts of it for his profession, of dignity in his time as much as any have been capable of, a person of noted constant piety and a studious life, of universal affability, ready presence and discourse, liberal, graceful and courteous demeanor, that speak him certainly (whatsoever he be else) one that is more a gentleman than most in the clergy, and that he is accordingly favoured sometimes with the princes converse, and the general veneration of the people,' &c. Thus the author here quoted, whom I take to be Joh. Humphrey; but another,² (a great loyalist) several times before quoted, saith that this our author Dr. Owen 'was the prince, the oracle, the metropolitan of independency, the Achitophel of Oliver Cromwell——Or which is more than all, a servant of Jesus Christ in the work of the Gospel, and that in the same sense as the innocent, meek and devout Christian is the servant of the Devil in the work and vassalage of sin.' He also often stiles him 'a blasphemer and perjurd person, a libeller of authority after the restoration of king Charles II. that he praised God for shedding the blood of Christian kings and their loyal subjects, that he was guilty of reiterated perjuries against that God whom he confidently affirmed to be inspirer of all prayers; and therefore (as he further adds) he ought in conscience, before he departs this life, to give satisfaction to the English church and nation, for those mischiefs which his counsels, preachings, prayers and writings drew not only upon the royal family and church, but upon the lives, liberties and fortunes of so many loyal gentlemen, who were either murdered in cold blood and imprisoned and banished,' &c. Another highflown³ loyalist tells us of Dr. Owen, that there is scarce a principle of blasphemy or rebellion in the Alcoran that that wretch hath not vouched upon divine authority. 'He is a person of such a rank complexion that he would have vy'd with Mahomet himself both for boldness and imposture,' &c. Much more of such black language the said author here quoted hath in his 'preface to bishop Bramhall's treatise, which he published, but shall be now omitted. Here you see the characters given by persons of several persuasions according as their affections led them; but what I my self knew of him, which may, I hope, be mention'd without offence, envy or flattery, is (let rash and giddy heads say what they please) that he was a person well skill'd in the tongues, rabbinical learning, Jewish rites and customs; that he had a great command of his English pen, and was one of the most genteel and fairest writers, who have appeared against the church of England, as handling his adversaries with far more civil, decent and temperate language than many of his fiery brethren, and by confining himself wholly to the cause without the unbecoming mixture of personal slanders and reflection. Dr. Edw. Stillingfleet saith that this our author Owen treated him with civility and decent language, for which he thank'd him; and Mr. Hen. Dodwell, that he is of a better temper than most of his brethren, as abstaining from personal slanders in confining himself wholly to the cause. His personage was proper and comely, and he had a very graceful behaviour in the pulpit, an eloquent elocution, a winning and insinuating deportment, and could by the persuasion of his oratory, in conjunction with some other outward advantages, move and wind the affections of his admiring auditory almost as he pleased. The things that he hath written are these.

[741]

A Display of Arminianism, being a Discovery of the old Pelagian Idol, Freewill, with the new Goddess Contingency, &c. Lond. 1643. 49. qu. [Bodl. 4to. B. 89. Th.]

The Duty of Pastors and People distinguished: or, a brief Discourse touching the Administration of Things commanded in Religion, &c. Lond. 1644. qu. [Bodl. 4to. B. 89. Th.]

The Principles of the Doctrine of Christ unfolded in two short Catechisms, wherein those Principles of Religion are explained, the Knowledge whereof is required by the late Ordinance of Parl. before any Person is admitted to the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Lond. 1645. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. C. 17. Th. BS.] Written for the use of the congregation at Fordham in Essex, the author being then pastor there.

Several sermons, as (1) A Vision of unchangeable free Mercy, &c. Fast Sermon before the House of Commons 29 Apr. 1646; on Acts 16. 11. Lond. 1646. qu. [Bodl. 4to. M. 12. Th. BS.] To which is added A short Defence about Church Government. (2) Fast Sermon before the H. of Commons, 31 Jan. 1648; on Jerem. 15. 19, 20. Lond. 1649. qu. [Bodl. 4to. N. 5. Th. BS.] To which is added A

⁹ [An. 1668, Mar. 8. Martyn Owen, a rich brewer without Bishop's-gate, died, (his wife dying about 6 weeks before) leaving behind them one only son. He gave to Dr. Jo. Owen, sometime vice-chancellor of Oxford, now an independent preacher, his kinsman, 500 pounds legacie: buried at St. Botolph, Bishop's-gate, Mar. 10. Mr. Ric. Smith's Obituary. BAKER.]

¹ J. H. in his Authority of the Magistrate about Religion discussed, &c. Lond. 1672. oct. p. 6.

² The author of A Letter to a Friend, as before.

³ Sam. Parker in his Defence and Continuance of Ecclesiast. Policy, &c. p. 610.

Discourse about Toleration, and the Duty of the Civil Magistrate about Religion. In the epist. dedicatory before the said sermon, he doth insolently father the most hellish action of the preceding day (the decollation of king Charles I.) on the great dispensation of providence, in order to the unravelling of the whole web of iniquity, interwoven of civil and ecclesiastical tyranny, in opposition to the kingdom of the lord Jesus. But therein, and in the sermon, being several positions destructive to the sacred person of princes, their state and government, &c. they were condemned by the university of Oxon, as pernicious and damnable, in their convocation held 21 Jul. 1683, and thereupon burnt by the hand of their marshal in the school quadrangle before the members of the said university, then, and there, present. (3) The Shaking and Translating of Heaven and Earth, Sermon before the H. of Com. 19 Apr. 1649. a Day of extraordinary Humiliation; on Heb. 12. 27. Lond. 1649. qu. [Bodl. 4to. N. 5. Th. BS.] the author being then minister of Coggeshall in Essex. (4) The Stedfastness of Promises, and the Sinfulness of staggering, Preached at S. Margarets in Westm. before the Parliam. 28 Feb. 1649, being a Day of solemn Humiliation; on Rom. 4. 20. Lond. 1650. qu. (5) The Branch of the Lord, the Beauty of Zion, Two Sermons, one at Berwick, the other at Edinburgh; on Isa. 56. 7. Edinburgh 1650. qu. [Bodl. 4to. N. 5. Th. BS.] (6) The Advantage (or Advancement) of the Kingdom of Christ, &c. Sermon of Thanksgiving preached to the Parliam. 24 Oct. 1651. for the Destruction of the Scots Army at Worcester; &c. on Ezek. 17. 24. Oxon. 1651. and 54. qu. (7) The Labouring Saints Dismission to Rest, &c. Sermon at the Funeral of Henry Ireton Lord Deputy of Ireland, in the Abbey Church of Westm. 6 Feb. 1651; on Dan. 12. 13. Lond. 1652. qu. [Bodl. 4to. N. 5. Th. BS.] (8) Concerning the Kingdom of Christ and the Power of the Civil Magistrate about Things of the Worship of God, Preached before the Parliament, 13 Oct. 1652 being a Day of solemn Humiliation; on Dan. 7. 15, 16. Oxon. 1652. qu. (9) God's Work in founding Zion, preached before the Protector and Parl. 17 Sept. 1656; on Isa. 14. 32. Oxon. 1656. qu. (10) God's Presence with a People, the Spring of their Prosperity, with their special Interest in abiding with him, preached to the Parl. of the Com. Wealth of Engl. &c. at Westm. 30 Oct. 1656. being a Day of solemn Humiliation; on 2 Chron. 15. 2. Lond. 1656. qu. (11) The Glory and Interest of Nations professing the Gospel, opened in a Sermon at a private Fast to the Commons assembled in Parliam. 4 Feb. 1658; on Isa. 4. 5. Lond. 1659. qu. (12) How we may bring our Hearts to receive Reproofs; on Psal. 141. 5. This is in the Supplement to the Morning Exercise at Cripplegate. Lond. 1674. [Bodl. C. 1. 6. Line.] and 76. qu.

Besides these sermons he hath also others extant, that I have not yet seen; among which is (1) A Thanksgiving Sermon, before the Parl. at S. Marg. in Westm. 25 Aug. 1653. (2) Sermon on 1 Joh. 1. 3. printed 1658. qu. And thirdly another sermon, as it seems, called Mene Tekell, which, as 'tis said, was published by him: wherein asserting that birthright and proximity of blood gave no title to rule or government, and that it is lawful to preclude the next heir from the right of succession to the crown, it was therefore censured, and condemned to be burnt, by the whole body of convocation of the university of Oxon. 11 July 1683. Dr. Owen hath also written,

Escholl: A Cluster of the Fruit of Canaan, brought to the Borders, for the Encouragement of the Saints, travelling thitherwards, with their Faces towards Sion. Or Rules of Direction for the Walking of the Saints in Fellowship, according to the Order of the Gospel. Lond. 1648. [Bodl. 8vo. A. 9. Th. BS.] 55. [Bodl. 8vo. O. 5. Th. BS.] 56. in oct. and tw.

Eben-Ezer: Being an Exposition on the first 10 Verses of the third Chapter of Habukkuk, in two Sermons, one at Colchester, the other at Rumford, in Memory of the Deliverance of Essex County and Committee, 1648. [Bodl. 4to. N. 5. Th. BS.]

Salus Electorum Sanguis Jesu. A Treatise of the Redemption and Reconciliation that is in the Blood of Christ, with the Merit thereof, and the Satisfaction wrought thereby; wherein the whole Controversy of universal Redemption is fully discussed in four Books. Lond. 1649. qu. [Bodl. 4to. B. 89. Th.]

Appendix upon Occasion of a late Book published by Mr. Joshua Sprigg, containing erroneous Doctrine.—This is printed with Salus Elect.

Primmer for Children.—This little book, which was written for the training up of children in independency, I have not yet seen, and therefore I cannot tell you where or when 'twas printed.⁵

Of the Death of Christ, the Price he paid, and the Purchase he made. Or the Satisfaction and Merit of the Death of Christ cleared, and Universality of Redemption thereby oppugned, &c. Lond. 1650. qu.

*Diatriba de Justitia divina, seu Justitiæ Vindicatricis Vindiciæ,*⁶ &c. Oxon. 1653. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. C. 202. Line.]

The Doctrine of the Saints Perseverance explained and confirmed, &c. against Joh. Goodwin's Redemption redeemed, &c. Lond. 1654. fol. [Bodl. BS. 89.]

⁵ [1653; according to an Almanack called Montelion 1660, In the chronology is the following 'Since Dr. Owen's Primmer was printed 7.' BOWLE.]

⁶ [A Dissertation on divine Justice: or the Claims of vindicatory Justice asserted—Now first translated from the original Latin of Dr. John Owen. London, without date, 8vo. probably about 1792.]

Vindiciæ Evangelicæ: or the Mystery of the Gospel vindicated, and Socinianism examined, in Consideration of a Catechism called A Scripture Catechism, written by John Biddle M. A. and the Catechism of Valentinus Smalcus, commonly called The Racovian Catechism. Oxon. 1655. qu.

Vindication of the Testimonies of the Scripture concerning the Deity and Satisfaction of Jesus Christ, &c. against Hugo Grotius—Printed with Vindiciæ Evangelicæ.

Vindication of some Things formerly written about the Death of Christ and the Fruits thereof from the Animadversions of Mr. Rich. Baxter—Printed also with Vind. Evang.

Of the Mortification of Sin in Believers, &c. resolving Cases of Conscience thereunto belonging. Lond. 1656. oct. &c.

A Review of the Annotations of Hugo Grotius, in Reference to the Doctrine of the Deity and Satisfaction of Christ, &c. with a Defence of the Charge formerly laid against them. Oxon. 1656. qu. Written in answer to Dr. H. Hammond.

Catechism; or, an Introduction to the Worship of God, and Discipline of the Churches of the New Testament.—Printed 1657. oct. &c. Animadverted upon by George Fox the Quaker in his Great Mystery of the great Whore unfolded, &c. Lond. 1659. fol. p. 263.

Of the true Nature of Schism, with Reference to the present Differences in Religion. Oxon. 1657. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. O. 2. Th. BS.] This book is briefly and friendly examin'd in another entit. Of Schism, parochial Congregations in England, and Ordination by Imposition of Hands, &c. Lond. 1658. oct. Written by Giles Firmin sometime of New England, then (1658) minister of Shalford in Essex.

Review of the true Nature of Schism, with a Vindication of the congregational Churches in England, from the Imputation thereof unjustly charged on them by Mr. Dan. Cawdrey Minister of Billing in Northamptonshire. Oxon. 1657. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. O. 3. Th. BS.]

Of Communion with God the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, each Person distinctly; in Love, Grace and Consolation: or the Saint's Fellowship with the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, unfolded. Oxon. 1657. qu. In this book (as in some other of his works) he doth strangely affect in ambiguous and uncouth words, canting, mystical and unintelligible phrases to obscure sometimes the plainest and most obvious truths: And at other times he endeavours by such a mist and cloud of senseless terms to draw a kind of veil over the most erroneous doctrines. But against this book came out another, long after, written by Dr. Will. Sherlock,⁷ entit. A Discourse concerning the Knowledge of Jesus Christ and our Union and Communion with him, &c. Lond. 1674. &c. Which book at its first coming out made a great noise and found many adversaries, viz. besides Dr. Owen, who wrote a vindication as I shall tell you anon, was (1) Rob. Ferguson a noted Scotch divine,⁸ who taught boys grammar and university learning at Islington near London, in his book called The Interest of Reason in Religion, &c. Printed in oct. (2) Edw. Polhill of Burwash in Sussex, esq; in his Divine Will considered, &c. as it seems. (3) Antisozzo, or Sherlocismus enervatus, &c. Printed in oct. said to be written by Benj.⁹ Alsop a nonconforming minister, who since the death of their famous A. Marvel hath been quibler and punner in ordinary to the dissenting party, tho' he comes much short of that person. It was the first piece in which he bestowed his pretensions to wit and buffoonery, and it was admired much by the brethren. Besides these, Tho. Danson put in his answer entit. A friendly Debate, &c. and one or two more, viz. the author of Speculum Sherlockianum, supposed to have been written by Hen. Hickman, and Prodromus; or, a Character of Mr. Sherlock's Book called, A Discourse, &c. Lond. 1674. oct. Written by Sam. Rolle sometime fellow of Trin. coll. in Cambridge. Afterwards Sherlock made a reply to Owen's Vindication, and Ferguson's Interest of Reason, &c. (not taking any particular notice of Polhill and Antisozzo) in a second piece called A Defence and Continuation of the Discourse concerning the Knowledge of Jesus Christ and our Union and Communion with him, with a particular Respect to the Doctrine of the Church of England, &c. Lond. 1675. oct. Dr. Owen hath also written,

⁷ [Gul. Sherlock, Surriensis, admissus pensionarius coll. S. Petri Cant. sub m^o Falken^or, Majj 19, 1657. D. D. 1680. BAKER.]

1669, 3 Aug. Guliel. Sherlock A. M. admiss. ad rect. S.

A Defence of Mr. John Cotton from the Imputation of self-contradiction, charged on him by Mr. Dan. Cawdrey, written by himself not long before his Death. Lond. 1658. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. O. 4. Th. BS.] whereunto is prefixed by our author Owen, An Answer to a late Treatise of Mr. Cawdrey about the Nature of Schism.

Nature, Power and Danger of Temptation, Oxon. 1658. oct.

Pro sacris Scripturis adversus hujus Temporis Fanaticos Exercitationes Apologeticæ quatuor. Oxon. 1658. oct.

Of the divine Original, Authority, selfevidencing Light and Power of the Scripture, &c. Oxon. 1659. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. O. 6. Th. BS.]

Vindication of the Integrity and Purity of the

Georgii in Buttolph lane, per resign. Joh. Bradshaw S. T. B. ad pres. regis. Reg. London. KENNET.]

⁸ [Of this Robert Ferguson, who died in 1714, see Calamy Ejected Ministers, ii, 383, and Continuation, i, 544.]

⁹ [Wood should have said Vincent Alsop, for that was his name. See a good account of him in Calamy's Ejected Ministers, ii, 487.—Vincentius Alsop admissus subsidator coll. Jo. Sept. 3, 1647. BAKER.]

See Alsop's character in Dr. Stillingfleet's preface to his Vindication of the Mischief of Separation, p. 62.]

Hebrew and Greek Text of the Scripture—Printed with The Divine Original, &c.

Considerations on the Prologomena, and Appendix to the late Biblia Polyglotta—This, which is also printed with The Divine Original, &c. was written against Dr. Brian Walton.¹

A Paper containing Resolutions of certain Questions concerning the Power of the supreme Magistrate about Religion, and the Worship of God; with one about Tythes. Lond. 1659 in one sh. in qu. Answer'd soon after by a quaker in another sheet entit. A Winding-sheet for England's Ministry, which hath a Name to live but is dead.

[744]

Θεολογούμενα παντόδαπα. sive de Natura, Ortu, Progressu & Studio veræ Theologiæ, Libri 6 &c. Oxon 1661. qu. [Bodl. A. 13. 6. Linc.]

Digressiones de Gratia universalis Scientiarum Ortu, &c. Pr. with the former book.

Animadversions on a Treatise entit. Fiat Lux, &c. Lond. 1662. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. B. 158. Linc.] Which book, Fiat Lux: or a general Conduct to a right Understanding and Charity in the great Combustion and Broiles about Religion in England, between Papists and Protestants, Presb. and Independents, printed the same year and also at Bruges (alias London) 1672. in oct. was written by a learned Franciscan fryer called John Vincent Cane, who dying in, or near, Somerset House in the Strand, within the liberty of Westm. in the month of June 1672, was buried in the vault under the chappel belonging to that house. About 1665 he (Cane) published a little thing entit. Diaphanta: or three After-Darts on Fiat lux, wherein Cath. Religion is further excus'd against the Opposition of several Adversaries. 1. Epistle against Dr. Owen. 2. Epistle against Mr. Whitby. 3. Epistle against Dr. Jer. Taylor.—Printed 1665. oct. written by him, partly against Mr. Edw. Stillingfleet, in which he endeavours barely to excuse catholic religion against the opposition of several adversaries. It is briefly animadverted on by the said Mr. Stillingfleet, in a Postscript to his reply to Mr. Joh. Sargeant's Third Appendix; which reply is placed as an Appendix at the end of Mr. Joh. Tilotson's book called The Rule of Faith. He also wrote An Account of Dr. Stillingfleet's late Book against the Church of Rome. Together with a short Postill upon his Text. Print. as pretended at Bruges 1672. in oct. The title of which in the first page of this book is ΤΩ ΚΑΘΟΛΙΚΩ Stillingfleet. He also wrote A Dialogue between a Knight and a Lady about Popery; and Letters under the name of Diaphanta in tw. Besides this Jo. Vinc. Cane, was one John Keynes a Jesuit, born, as I have heard his acquaintance say, at Compton Painsford in Somersetshire, author of Doctor Stillingfleet against Dr. Stillingfleet: or the palpable Contradictions committed by him in charging the Roman Church with Idolatry, printed 1671. in 3 sheets, with an appendix to it to prove that the church is not guilty of idolatry, as Dr. Stillingfleet saith it is; which being answer'd, he came out with a reply entit. Dr. Stillingfleet still against Stillingfleet: or a Reply to Dr. Stillingfleet's Answer to a Book called Dr. Stillingfleet against Dr. Stillingfleet, &c. Lond. 1675. But all this being spoken by the by, let's now go forward with Owen, who hath also written,

"A Discourse concerning Liturgies and their Imposition.—Lond. 1662. qu. 9 sh. [Bodl. B. 21. 18. Linc.] I suppose (but I am not sure) Dr. John Owen is author of this.—So Dr. Barlow."

Vindication of the Animadversions on Fiat Lux. Lond. 1664. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. O. 7. Th. BS.]

A Peace-offering; in an Apology and humble Plea for Indulgence and Liberty of Conscience. Lond. 1667. qu. [Bodl. 4to. I. 16. Th.]

Indulgence and Toleration considered in a Letter to a Person of Honour—Printed with the Peace Offering.

Exercitations on the Epistle to the Hebrews: Also concerning the Messiah, &c. with an Exposition and Discourses on the two first Chapters of the said Epist. to the Hebrews. Lond. 1668. fol. [Bodl. B. 9. 1. Th.]

Truth and Innocence vindicated; in a Survey of a Discourse concerning Ecclesiastical Polity, and the Authority of the Civil Magistrate over the Consciences of Subjects in Matters of Religion. Lond. 1669. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. C. 104. Linc.] By the publishing of which book, written against Samuel Parker, he thought (as 'tis said) to have put a stop to the whole proceedings of parliament, and to have involved the nation in confusion and blood.

A brief Declaration and Vindication of the Doctrine of the Trinity: As also of the Person and Satisfaction of Christ, &c. Lond. 1669. in tw. [Bodl. 8vo. P. 245. Th.] &c. He the said Dr. Owen was also supposed to be the author of

A sober Answer to A friendly Debate between a Conformist and Nonconformist; written by Way of Letter to the Author thereof. Lond. 1669. oct. Published under the name of Philagathus; but the true author, as it since appears, was Sam. Rolle a nonconformist, before-mention'd.

Practical Exposition on the 130th Psalm, wherein the Nature of the Forgiveness of Sin is declared and the Truth and Reality of it asserted, &c.

² In A Letter to a Friend, as before, p. 34.

¹ [Answered by Walton the same year: The Considerator Considered, &c. by Br. Walton D. D. Lond. 1659, 8vo. Dec. 4, 1618, Brian Walton Eboracensis, admissus fuit sizar in coll. S. Petri Cant. sub m^{ro} Blake. Reg. Coll. S. Petri.]

² Erat e Clevelandia. Biblia πολυγλ. inchoavit 1653, absolvit 1657, æt. 57. BAKER.

1635, 15 Jan. Brian Walton A. M. admiss. ad eccl. de Sandon com. Essex, per mort. Gilberti Dillingham, ad pres. regis. Reg. London. KENNET.]

[745]

Lond. 1669. [Bodl. 4to. S. 64. Th. and] 1680. qu.

Exercitations concerning the Name, Original, Nature, Use and Continuance of a Day of sacred Rest, wherein the Original of the Sabbath from the Foundation of the World, the Morality of the fourth Commandment, &c. are inquired into, &c. Lond. 1671. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. W. 65. Th.]

Discourse concerning evangelical Love, Church Peace and Unity, &c. written in Vindication of the Principles and Practice of some Ministers and others. Lond. 1672. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. C. 32. Line.]

Plea for Nonconformists, tending to justify them against the clamorous Charge of Schism. Lond. 1674. oct. wherein are two printed sheets on the same subject, by John Humphrey.

Discourse concerning the holy Spirit; wherein an Account is given of its Name, Nature, Personality, Dispensation, Operations and Effects, &c. Lond. 1674. fol. [Bodl. B. 7. 6. Th.] Answered by Will. Clagett of Cambridge³ in a book entit. A Discourse concerning the Operations of the holy Spirit; with a Confutation of some Part of Dr. Owen's Book on that Subject. Lond. 1680. &c. oct. It consists of three parts, in the last of which the author proveth that the antients make not for Dr. Owen's turn, as Dr. Owen insinuates by adorning his margin with quotations out of the fathers.

Vindication of some Passages in a Discourse concerning Communion with God, from the Exceptions of Will. Sherlock. Lond. 1674. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. B. 310. Line.] Soon after came out a book against this, entit. A Discourse concerning the Imputation of Christ's Righteousness to us and our Sins to him, with many Questions thereunto pertaining, resolved: Together with Reflections more at large upon what hath been published concerning that Subject by Mr. Rob. Ferguson in his Interest of Reason in Religion, and Dr. Owen in his Book stiled Communion with God. Lond. 1675. oct. Written by Tho. Hotchkis rector of Staunton near Highworth in Wilts, sometime M. of A. of Corp. Ch. coll. in Cambridge.

Exercitations, and an Exposition on the third, fourth and fifth Chapters of the Ep. of S. Paul the Ap. to the Hebrews concerning the Priesthood of Christ, &c. Lond. 1674. fol. [Bodl. B. 9. 2. Th.] This is the second vol. of the exercitations before-mention'd. The first vol. is an exposition on the first and second chapters, and the exposition on all five is contracted by Matth. Poole (who stiles it 'lucubratio non vulgari doctrina conscripta') and put into the fifth vol. of Synopsis.

The Nature, Power, Deceit and Prevalency of the Remainder of indwelling Sin in Believers; together with the Ways of its Working and Means of Prevention. Lond. 1668. in oct. [Bodl. 8vo. B. 393. Line.] It was also printed in 1675. oct.

³ [Gul. Clagget coll. Eman. A. B. an. 1633-4: A. M. 1667. Reg. BAKER.]

The Nature of Apostacy from the Profession of the Gospel, and the Punishment of Apostates, in an Exposition on Hebrews, Chap. 6. Ver. 4, 5, 6, &c. Lond. 1676. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. C. 113. Line.]

The Reason of Faith; or an Answer unto the Enquiry, whether we believe the Scripture to be the Word of God; with the Causes and Nature of that Faith wherewith we do so. Lond. 1677. oct.

The Doctrine of Justification by Faith through the Imputation of the Righteousness of Christ, explained, confirmed and vindicated. Lond. 1677. qu. [Bodl. 4to. W. 14. Th.] Briefly answered by the aforesaid Tho. Hotchkis in a Postscript at the end of the second part of his Discourse concerning imputed Righteousness. Lond. 1678. oct.

The Causes, Ways and Means of Understanding the Mind of God as revealed in his Word with Assurance therein. And a Declaration of the Perspicuity of the Scriptures, with the external Means of the Interpretation of them. Lond. 1678. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 144. Th.]

The Church of Rome no safe Guide: or Reasons to prove that no rational Man, who takes due Care of his eternal Salvation, can give himself up to the Conduct of that Church in Matters of Religion. Lond. 1679. qu. [Bodl. 4to. J. 38. Th.]

Χριστολογία: or, a Declaration of the glorious Mystery of the Person of Christ, God and Man: with the infinite Wisdom, Love and Power of God in the Contrivance and Constitution thereof. As also of the Grounds and Reasons of his Incarnation, &c. Lond. 1680. qu.

A Continuation of the Exposition of the Epistle of Paul the Apostle to the Hebrews, viz. on the 6, 7, 8, 9, and 10th Chapters. Wherein, together with the Explication of the Text and Context, the Priesthood of Christ as typed by those of Melchisedeck and Aaron with an Account of their distinct Offices, &c. are declared, explained and confirmed. Lond. 1680. fol. [Bodl. B. 9. 3. Th.] This is the third vol. of Exposition on Hebrews.

A brief Vindication of the Nonconformists from the Charge of Schism, as it was managed against them in a Sermon preached before the L. Mayor; by Dr. Stillingfleet Dean of S. Paul's. Lond. 1680. qu. A character, first of this answer, 2. of Mr. Baxter's, which is in qu. 3. Of the Letter written out of the Country to a Person of Quality in the City. 4. Of B. Alsop's book call'd Mischief of Imposition. 5. Of The Rector of Sutton committed with the Dean of Paul's, or, a Defence of Dr. Stillingfleet's Irenicum, &c. against his late Sermon entit. The Mischief of Separation, against the Author of The Christian Temper (said to be written by John Barret M. of A.) in a Letter to a Friend; I say the respective characters of these five answers to Dr. Stillingfleet's sermon before-mention'd, together with that of The peaceable Design renewed, &c. wrote by John Humphrey (with which Dr. Stillingfleet begins first) are to be found in the preface to the said doctor's Unreasonableness⁷ of Separation, &c. Which characters as are thus given, are reflected on by a short piece entit. Reflections on Dr. Stillingfleet's Book of the Unreasonableness of Separation. Lond. 1681. qu. Written by a conformist minister in the country, in order to peace.

⁴ Printed at Lond. 1680. qu.

⁵ Lond. 1680. qu.

⁶ Ib. 1680. qu.

The Nature and Efficacy of the Sacrifice of Christ, as typ'd by all the Sacrifices of the Law, the Erection of the Tabernacle according to the heavenly Pattern; with the Institution of all its Utensils and Services; their especial Signification and End, &c. Lond. 1681.

An Enquiry into the original Institution, Power, Order, and Communion of Evangelical Churches, the first Part. Lond. 1681. qu. [Bodl. A. 1. 14. Linc.]

Answer to a Discourse of the Unreasonableness of Separation, written by Dr. Stillingfleet—— Printed with the Enquiry.

Discourse of the Work of the holy Spirit in Prayer, with a brief Enquiry into the Nature and Use of mental Prayer and Forms. Lond. 1681. oct.

An humble Testimony unto the Goodness and Severity of God in his Dealing with sinful Churches and Nations: or, the only Way to deliver a sinful Nation from utter Ruin by impendent Judgments: in a Discourse on Luke 13. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5. Lond. 1681. oct. Printed with the Discourse of the Work, &c.

The Grace and Duty of being spiritually minded; declared and practically improved. Lond. 1681. 82. qu. This is the sum of certain sermons.

A brief Instruction in the Worship of God, and Discipline of the Churches of the New Testament, by Way of Question and Answer, with an Explication and Confirmation of those Answers. Lond. 1682. oct. &c.

Meditations and Discourses on the Glory of Christ, in his Person, Office and Grace, with the Difference between Faith and Sight, applied to the Use of them that believe. Lond. 1683. 84. &c. oct. Opus posth.

"A Continuation of the Exposition of the Epistle of Paul the Apostle to the Hebrews, viz. on the 11, 12 and 13 Chapters, compleating that elaborate Work, &c. with an Index of the Scriptures explain'd in this Vol. &c. together with a Table to the 3d Volume, preceding this, &c." Lond. 1684. fol. [Bodl. B. 9. 4. Th.]

Treatise of the Dominion of Sin and Grace; wherein Sin's Reign is discovered, in whom it is, and in whom it is not; how the Law supports it, how Grace delivers from it, by setting up its Dominion in the Heart. Lond. 1688. oct.

The true Nature of a Gospel Church and its Government; wherein these following Particulars are distinctly handled. 1. The subject Matter of the Church. 2. The formal Cause of a particular Church. 3. Of the Policy of the Church in general, &c. Lond. 1689. qu. [Bodl. C. 7. 3. Linc.] Afterwards came out certain Animadversions on the said book, written as was thought by Mr. Edm. Ellis of Devonshire.

A brief and impartial Account of the Nature of the Protestant Religion, its present State in the World, its Strength and Weakness, with the Ways and Indications of the Ruin or Continuance of its public national Profession. Lond. 1690. qu.

Continuation, or the second Part of that Book formerly printed, the Difference between Faith and Sight, being Meditations and Discourses concerning the Glory of Christ apply'd unto converted Sinners, and Saints under spiritual Decays, in two Chapters from John 17. 24. Lond. 1691. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. F. 29. Linc.]

"Two Discourses concerning the Holy Spirit and its Works, &c." Lond. 1693. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 266. Th.] Our author Dr. Owen, with Dr. Tho. Jacomb, Dr. Will. Bates, Dr. Jo. Collings, Mr. Pet. Vinke, Joh. How, Dav. Clarkson,⁹ and Ben. Alsop, did undertake in June 1682 to finish the English Annotations of the Holy Scripture, in 2 vol. in fol. which were began by Matthew Pole or Poole, and carried on by him to the 58th chapt. of Isaiah, and there is no doubt but that Owen did his share in that work; ¹ who also hath written pre-

⁹ [David Clarkson coll. Trin. A. B. 1664: A. M. aul. Clar. 1648. BAKER.]

See Calamy's Life of Baxter, page 288; and Birch's Life of Tillotson, page 4, 397.]

¹ [Calamy corrects Wood's mistake as to this point in the following words: 'He' (Poole) also wrote a volume of English Annotations on the Holy Scripture; intending to have gone thro' it if God had spar'd his life: but he went no farther than the 50th chapter of Isaiah. Others undertook to compleat his work, but the Oxford collectour hath mistaken their names, for he mentions Dr. Bates, Dr. Jacomb, Mr. Clarkson, and Mr. Alsop, as persons concern'd in it, without any ground in the world. He says, he did not doubt but Dr. Owen also had his share in the work. But they who are to be influenced by his positive assertions, and much more by his doubts, are in a fair danger of being bewilder'd. In opposition to his doubtful one, I'll here add a true list of the compleaters of that useful work. The 59th and 60th chapters of Isaiah were done by Mr. Jackson of Moulsey. The notes on the rest of Isaiah, and on Jeremiah, and Lamentations, were drawn up by Dr. Collins. Ezekiel by Mr. Hurst. Daniel by Mr. Cooper. The Minor Prophets by Mr. Hurst. The Four Evangelists by Dr. Collins. The Acts by Mr. Vinke. The Epistle to the Romans by Mr. Mayo. The Two Epistles to the Corinthians, and that to the Galatians, by Dr. Collins. That to the Ephesians by Mr. Veal. The epistles to the Philipians and Colossians, by Mr. Adams. The two epistles to the Thessalonians, by Mr. Barker. The epistles to Timothy, Titus, and Philemon, by Dr. Collins. That to the Hebrews, by Mr. Obadiah Hughes. The epistle

⁷ Ib. 1681. qu. sec. edit.

⁸ [An abridgment of the whole of this Exposition on the Hebrews was printed in four volumes, 8vo. Lond. 1790, with a life of the author, &c. by Edward Williams.]

faces and epistles before divers books, by way of recommendation, among which are his and Dr. Tho. Goodwin's epist. before Dr. T. Taylor's works. A preface also to the Exposition of the Song of Solomon, written by Jam. Durham sometime minister of the gospel in Glasgow.—Printed 1669. in qu. An epist. commend. (with another by Mr. Baxter) to The Christian's daily Walk in holy Security and Peace, written by Hen. Scudder.—Printed 1674, the eleventh edit. An ep. by way of recom. to A new and useful Concordance of the Holy Bible, &c. Another before The Ark of the Covenant, and a large preface to The true Idea of Jansenism, as I have already told you in Theoph. Gale, &c. But as for Jo. Bradshaw's Ultimum Vule, being the last Words that are ever intended to be spoke of him; as they were delivered in a Sermon preach'd at his Interment, printed in two sh. in qu. and said to be written by Joh. Owen, D. D. time-server general of England, is not his, but fathered upon him by one who desired then to make sport in the great city. At length he the said Dr. Owen having spent most of his time in continual agitation to carry on the cause, to promote his own interest, and gain the applause of people, he did very unwillingly² lay down his head and die at Eling near Acton in Middlesex on S. Bartholomew's day in sixteen hundred eighty and three, having a little before been knowing of, and consenting to, the presbyterian plot that was discovered some time before his death: whereupon his body was conveyed to a house in S. James's, where resting for some time, was, on the 4th of Sept. following, attended by about 20 mourners and 67 coaches that followed, to the fanatical burying place called by some Tyndale's burying place, joyning on the north side to the New Artillery Garden near London; where it was buried at the east end thereof. Soon after was an altar tomb of free-stone erected over his grave, covered with a black marble plank, with a large inscription thereon, part³ of which runs thus, Johannes Owen S. T. P. Agri Oxoniensi oriundus, patre insigni Theologo. Theologus ipse insignior, & seculi hujus insignissimis annumerandus: communibus humanarum literarum suppetiis, mensura parum communi instructus; omnibus quasi ordinata Ancillarum serie suæ jussis familiari Theologiæ, &c.—Obiit Augusti 24. anno à partu virgineo 1683. Ætat. 67. Besides this John Owen, I find another of both those names, chaplain to Henry lord Grey of Ruthen, author of Immoderate Mourning for the Dead prov'd unreasonable and unchristian, &c. Sermon on 2 Sam.

of James, two epistles of St. Peter, and the epistles of St. Jude, by Mr. Veal. The three epistles of St. John by Mr. Howe. And the book of the Revelation by Dr. Collins. Ejected Ministers, ii, 14—15.]

² [Abominably false, as appears by the letter dictated to his wife, and written two days before his death, to Charles Fleetwood esq. MACRO.]

And see his Life, page xxxvii. Bodl. 8vo. C. 83. Jur.]

³ [See the whole in his Life.]

VOL. IV.

12. 21, 22, 23. Lond. 1680. in oct. and perhaps of other things. [748]

[The Character of Imagery in the Church of Rome laid open, or an Antidote against Popery, written in the Year 1682, in Answer to this Question—How is the practical Love of Truth, the best Preservative against Popery? Lond. 1712, 8vo.]

Seventeen Sermons, (with the dedication at large, together with the doctor's life.) Lond. 1720, 2 vol. 8vo. RAWLINSON.

There is a good head of Dr. Owen by Vertue, prefixed to his works folio, 1721; another by R. White, and a third, a mezzotinto, by J. Vanderelde.]

WILLIAM GUISE, or GUISIUS [or GISE⁴] as in his book following he is written, son of John Guise, was born of a knightly family⁵ living at Abloads court near to Gloucester in Gloucestershire, became a commoner of Oriel coll. an. 1669, aged 16 years, afterwards fellow of that of All-s. master of arts, and in holy orders. In 1680 he resign'd his fellowship, being about that time married and in great esteem for his oriental learning, but soon after cut off by the small-pox to the great reluctance of all those who were acquainted with his pregnant parts.⁶ After his death Dr. Edw. Bernard Savilian professor of astronomy published a book which Mr. Guise turn'd into Lat. and illustrated with a commentary,⁷ entit.

Misnæ Pars; Ordinis primi Zeraim Tituli septem. Ox. 1690. qu. Before which is put the translation into Latin by Dr. Edw. Pocock of Mosis Maimonidis præfatio in Misnam. Mr. Guise died in his house in S. Michael's parish in Oxford, on the third of Sept. in sixteen hundred eighty and three, and was buried in that chancel called the College Chancel in St. Michael's church within the said city. Soon after was set up a monument over his grave at the charge of his widow named Frances,

⁴ [For so he spells himself in the blank leaf of his Erpenius, in which he has written several notes. See it Bodl. C. 7. 4. Art. As also his Gravii Elementa Ling. Persicæ, 1649, with notes by himself and Golius, Bodl. Mar. 119.]

⁵ [Elmore, a mansion house of the Gises, antient by their owne lineal descent, being in elder times of Apsety-Gise neare Brickhill: and from the Beauchamps of Holt, who acknowledge Hubert de Burgo, earl of Kent, beneficious to them, and testifie the same by their armories. WOOD, MS. Note in Ashmole.]

⁶ [Joh. Henr. Otho in præfat. Lex. Rabb. 'Sequitur (inquit) par amicorum ex Anglia, D. Bernhardus, colleg. D. Johan. Oxon. socius, et in academia mathematicum prof. et D. Gulielmus Gise, colleg. Orientalis socius, viri stupendæ eruditionis, in quibus eleganter habitat omnis literatura Orientalis, præcipue in D. Gise ferme ad miraculum usque. Vix enim ullum in universo orbe terrarum genus est idiomatis, cujus extent monumenta consecrata perennitati literarum, quod non assiduitate laboris, ætate nondum 24 annos supergressus, pervestigari.' Königius, Bibliotheca vetus et nova, pag. 348.]

⁷ [The whole of which is inserted in Surenhusius's edition, Amsterdam, 1698, folio. Bodl. C. 5. 4. Th.]

daughter of George Southcote of Devonshire, esq; with an inscription thereon, beginning thus, MS. Gulielmi Guise Equestri apud Glocestrenses familia orti, è Coll. Oriel. in Coll. Omn. Anim. asciti, Linguar. (præcipue Orientalium) peritissimi, Critici, Rhetoris, Mathemat. Theologi, in omnibus adeo eximii, ut raro quisquam in singulis; in juventute, ut raro quisquam in senio: quem, ne perfectionis humanæ apices transiret, &c.

[A few of Guise's MSS. are among the Marshian MSS. such as a transcript of the Koran, with a collation (Marsh 533), and several volumes of excerpta historical and geographical.]

HENRY BOLD, fourth son of Will. Bold of Newstead in the parish of Buriton in Hampshire, sometime capt. of a foot company, descended from the ancient and genteel family of the Bolds of Bold-hall in Lancashire, was born in Hampshire, elected probationer fellow of New coll. from Winchester school 1645, or thereabouts, ejected thence by the parliamentary visitors in 1648, and afterwards going to the great city, became a member of the examiner's office in chancery, and excellent at translating the most difficult and crabbed English into Latin verse. He hath written,

Poems Lyrique, Macaronique, Heroique, &c. Lond. 1664. oct. Ded. to col. Hen. Wallop of Farley Wallop in the county of Southampton; and to the ingenious he saith thus—If thou wilt read, so; if not so: it is so, so, and so farewell—Thine upon liking H. B. Among these poems is Scaronides; or Virgil Travestie,⁸ &c. He hath also written,

*Latin Songs with their English: and Poems.*⁹ Lond. 1685. oct. Collected and perfected by capt. Will. Bold his brother. This Hen. Bold died in Chancery-lane near Lincolns-inn on the 23d of Oct. (being the first day of the term) in sixteen hundred eighty and three, aged 56 or thereabouts, and was buried in the church at Twyford (West Twyford) near Acton in the county of Middlesex. I shall make mention of another H. Bold in the FASTI an. 1664.

WILLIAM SCROGGS, son of Will. Scroggs, was born in a market town in Oxfordshire called Dedington, became a commoner of Oriel coll. in the beginning of the year 1639, aged 16 years, but soon after was translated to that called Pembroke, where being put under the tuition of a noted tutor, became master of a good Latin stile, and a considerable disputant. Soon after, tho' the civil war broke forth, and the university emptied thereupon of the greatest part of its scholars, yet he continued there, bore arms for his majesty, and had so much time allowed him, that he proceeded master of arts in 1643. About that time he being designed for a divine, his father procured for him the reversion of a good parsonage; but so it was that he being engaged in that honourable, tho' unfortunate, expedition of Kent, Essex, and Colchester, an. 1648, wherein, as I have been credibly informed, he was a captain of a foot company, he was thereby disengaged from enjoying it. So that entering himself into Greys-inn, studied the municipal law, went thro' the usual degrees belonging to it, was made serjeant at law 25 June 1669 and knighted; and the same year on the 2d of Nov. he was sworn his majesty's serjeant. In 1678, May 31, he was made lord chief justice of the king's bench, upon the resignation of sir Richard Rainsford; but not long after his advancement, the popish conspiracy was discovered: so that his place obliging him to have the chiefest hand in bringing some of the principal conspirators concern'd therein to public justice, he, in several tryals of them, behaved himself with so undaunted a courage and greatness of spirit, giving such ample testimony of his true zeal for the protestant cause, that he gained thereby for a while an universal applause throughout the whole nation, being generally esteemed as a main patriot and support of his country, whose all seem'd then (especially to the fanatical party) to lye at stake, and to be threatned with apparently impendent ruin. But at length the implacable and giddy-headed rabble being possess'd with an opinion, that he had not dealt uprightly in the tryals of some of the conspirators (he mitigating his zeal when he saw the popish plot to be made a shooing-horn to draw on others) which caused articles of impeachment to be drawn up against him (read in the house of commons and ingrossed,¹ and on the 17th of Jan. 1680 sent up to the house of lords) he was removed from his high office about the eleventh of April 1681, meerly to stop their mouths, and so obtain quietness. Whereupon sir Francis Pemberton, knight,² was sworn to the said office on the next day,³ as it seems, and the day following that he paid his duty to his majesty. Soon after sir William retired to his estate at Weald-hall near Burntwood in Essex, where he enjoyed himself for a time in a sedate repose. He was a person of very excellent and nimble parts, a good orator and a fluent speaker, but his utterance being

¹ [See them Bodl. P. 1. 16. Jur.]

² [F. P. coll. Eman. conv. 2. adm. in matric. acad. Cant. Dec. 17, 1644.]

F. P. coll. Eman. A. B. 1644-5. Reg. Acad. Cant. BAKER.]

³ [Pemberton's rise was so particular, that it is worth the being remembred: In his youth he mixed with such lewd company that he quickly spent all he had; and ran so deep in debt that he was cast into a jayl, where he lay many years: but he followed his studies so close in the jayl, that he became one of the ablest men of his profession. Burnet, Hist. of his own Time, i, 501.]

⁸ [I have a copy of the book of this date, but nothing of Virgil in it. At the end he says, expect a second part. Q^y if ever published? MORANT.]

⁹ [A Poem to his Sacred Maj. K. Cha: II, at his happy Return. fol. Lond. 1660. Q^y if in the 8vo. edit.]

It begins—'So comes the sun.' MORANT.]

accompanied with some stops and hesitancy, his speeches affected more in the reading, than they did when heard with the disadvantage of his delivery. Under his name were printed, Several speeches, as (1.) "Speech to the Lord High Chancellor of England at his Administring the Place of one of his Majesty's Justices of the Court of Common Pleas.—Lond. 1676. 1 sh. and half in fol. [Bodl. P. 1. 16. Jur.] (2.) "Speech before the L. Chancellor, when he was made L. Ch. Justice of the King's-Bench.—Printed in half a sh. in fol. (3.) "Speech in the King's-Bench in Westm. Hall on the first Day of Mich. Term. 1679. Lond. 1679. in 3 sh. in fol. Answer'd by an idle fellow, and remarks made on it, in one sh. in fol. entit. A New Year's Gift for Justice Scroggs, &c. He hath other speeches extant, as I shall tell you by and by.

Notes on the Writing found in the Pocket of Laur. Hill, when he and R. Green were executed, 21 Feb. 1678.—Pr. in one sh. in fol.

Answer to the Articles against him, given in by Titus Oates and Will. Bedloe in Jan. 1679. Lond. 1680. in two sh. and an half in fol. He hath also several discourses, arguings, and speeches printed in divers tryals and condemnations while he was lord chief justice, as in (1.) The Tryal of William Staley Goldsmith, for speaking Treasonable Words against his Majesty, &c. 21 Novemb. 1678. Lond. 1678. fol. (2.) Tryal of Edw. Coleman, Gent. for Conspiring the Death of the King, Subversion of the Government, &c. 28 Nov. 1678. Lond. 1678. fol. This Coleman was, as I have heard, a minister's son, had been bred in Cambridge,⁴ and was some years before reconcil'd to the ch. of Rome by a R. priest.⁵ (3.) Tryal of Will. Ireland, Thomas Pickering, and Jo. Grove for Conspiring to Murder the King, &c. 17 Dec. 1678. Lond. 1678. fol. (4.) Tryal of Rob. Green, Hen. Berry, and Laur. Hill for the Murder of Sir Edmond-bury Godfrey, Knight, &c. 10 Feb. 1678. Lond. 1679. fol. (5.) Tryal and Condemnation of Tho. White alias Whitebread, Provincial of the Jesuits in England, Will. Harcourt, pretended Rector of London, John Fenwick, Procurator of the Jesuits in Engl. John Gavan, alias Gaven, and Ant. Turner, all Jesuits; for High-Treason in conspiring the Death of the K. the Subversion of Government, &c. 13 and 14 of June 1679. Lond. 1679. fol. (6.) Tryal of Rich. Langhorne, Esq; Counsellor at Law, for Conspiring the Death of the King, &c. 14 June 1679. Lond. 1679. fol. (7.) Tryal of Sir George Wakeman, Bart. Will. Marshall, Will. Rumley and Jam. Corker, Benedictine Monks, for High-Treason, in Conspiring the Death of the King, &c. 18 July, 1679. Lond. 1679. fol. But the generality of people supposing that Scroggs had dealt very unjustly with Wakeman, in letting him go free, and not condemning him to be hang'd, came out Observations on the Tryals of the said Persons, by one that called himself Tom Tickle-foot the tabourer, late clerk to justice Clodpate—Lond. in 3 sh. in fol. In which pamphlet the author intimates as if Scroggs was a butcher's son. Soon after this came out two other pamphlets to the same purpose, one entit. The Tickler tickled, in 2 sh. and an half in fol. and the other A Dialogue between Clodpate and Tickle-foot, in 3 sh. in fol. both reflecting on Scroggs, as also a piece of poetry that was published at that time called Scroggs upon Scroggs, in tw. sh. and an half in fol. (8.) Tr. Conviction and Condemnation of Ad. Brommich and Will. Atkins for being Romish Priests, at Stafford Assize, 13 Aug. 1679; and of Charles Kerne another R. Priest, at Hereford Assize 4 of Aug. the same Year. Lond. 1679. in 5 sh. in fol. (9.) Tr. and Condemnation of Lionel Anderson alias Munson, Will. Russel alias Napier, Charles Parris alias Parry, Hen. Starkey, Jam. Corker, and Will. Marshall for High-Treason as Romish Priests, &c. together with the Tryal of Alex. Lumsden a Scotch Man, and the Arraignment of David Joseph Kemish for the same Offence, &c. 17 Jan. 1679. Lond. 1680. fol. (10.) Tryal of Sir Tho. Gascoigne Bart. for High-Treason in conspiring, &c. 11 Feb. 1679. Lond. 1680. fol. Which sir Thomas being found guiltless and set at liberty, he left the nation, and settling for a time among the Engl. Benedictine monks at Lambspring in Germany, was there seen and visited by Will. Carr an English gent. sometime consul for the English nation in Amsterdam, in his rambles in those parts; of whom he makes⁶ this mention—'From the prince's court (meaning of Hessen) I directed my journey to Hanover, taking Lambspring in my way, a place where there is a convent of English monks; and there I met with a very aged worthy and harmless gent. sir Tho. Gascoigne, a person of more integrity and piety than to be guilty, so much as in thought, of what miscreants falsly swore against him in the licentious time of plotting,' &c. (11.) Tr. of Roger Earl of Castlemaine for High-Treason in Conspiring the Death of the King, &c. 23 Jun. 1680. Lond. 1681. fol. The reader is to note that this tryal was not published immediately after it was done, as all others were, but in Janu. following, which was more than half an year after the said tryal had been passed: and 'tis thought that it would never have been printed, had it not been to bring an odium upon Scroggs (to the end that he might be turned out of his office for his partiality, as 'twas by many thought, in the said tryal) for his too much baiting of Titus Oates, endeavouring (as they farther added) to lessen

⁶ In his Remarks of the Government of several Parts of Germany, Denmark, Sweedland, &c. Printed at Amsterd. 1688. in tw. p. 143.

⁴ [Ed. Coleman coll. Trin. Cant. A.B. 1655: A. M. 1659. Reg. Acad. Cant. BAKER.]

⁵ [See more of this Coleman in Burnet's Hist. of his own Time, i, 363, 393.]

his evidence. (12.) Tr. of Hen. Carc, Gent. upon Information brought against him, &c. churging him to be the Author of a scandalous, false, and malicious Book entit. The Weekly Packet of Advice from Rome; or the History of Popery, particularly of that of the first of Aug. 1680, wherein Scroggs is scandalized as to the Tryal of Sir Geo. Wake-man, &c. 2 Jul. 1680. Lond. 1680. fol. (13.) Tr. of Eliz. Cellier, &c. 11 Jun. 1680. Lond. 1680. fol. in 4 sh. In all which tryals our author Scroggs being chief judge and speaker, they were by his authority printed. At length he giving up the ghost at Weald-hall before-mention'd on Thursday the 25th of Octob. in sixteen hundred eighty and three, was buried in the parish church belonging thereunto (South-weald.) The late industrious Garter sir W. D. informed me by his letters dat. 28 Jun. 1684, that 'the said sir Will. Scroggs was the son of an one-ey'd butcher near Smithfield Bars, and his mother was a big fat woman with a red face, like an alewife, that he was a very ill-humour'd man, and, as I have heard, he would never pay his tythes—His boldness got him practice by the law, and some wealth, wherewith he purchased a lordship called Weald,' &c. But the reader must know, that the said person (sir W. D.) never speaking well of him after he had refused to pay the fees of his knighthood to the coll. of arms, of which he was to have had a considerable share, he is therefore desir'd to suspend his belief of the said character given of him the said sir W. Scroggs till farther proof may be made to the contrary.⁷

1683.

[751]

JOHN OLDHAM, son of Joh. Oldham a non-conformist minister, and he the son of Joh. Oldham sometime rector of Nun-eaton near Tetbury in Gloucestersh. was born at Shipton (of which his father was then minister⁸) near the said town of Tetbury, and in the same county, on the ninth day of Aug. 1653, bred in grammar learning under his father till he was nigh fit for the university, afterwards sent to the school at Tetbury, where he spent about two years under the tuition of Henry Heaven, occasion'd by the desire of one Yeat an alderman of Bristol,

⁷ [Burnet, if he may be believed, corroborates sir William Dugdale's account as to Scroggs's character. 'He was, (says the bishop) more valued for a good readiness in speaking well, than either for learning in his profession, or for any moral virtue. His life had been indecently scandalous, and his fortunes were very low. He was raised by the earl of Danby's favour, first to be a judge, and then to be the chief justice. And it was a melancholly thing to see so bad, so ignorant and so poor a man raised up to that great post.' Hist. of his own Time, i. 448.]

⁸ [He was also minister of Newton in Wiltshire, where he was silenced in 1662. He lived to a good old age, and continued preaching to a small congregation of dissenters, at Wotton-under-Edge, in Gloucestershire, and died in that neighbourhood (about 1725) without leaving any thing in print; though he left a good name behind him among all that knew him. Calamy, Ejected Ministers, Continuation, vol. ii, page 880.]

who had a son then there under the said master, whom Oldham accompanied purposely to advance him in his learning. This occasion'd his longer stay at school than else he needed, but conduced much to his after advantage. In the beginning of June 1670 he became a batler of S. Edmund's hall under the tuition of Will. Stephens bach. of div. where he was observed to be a good Latinist, and chiefly to addict himself to poetry, and other studies tending that way, to which the bent of his genius led him more naturally than to any other. Four years after he took the degree of bach. of arts, but went away and did not compleat it by determination. So that living for some time after with his father, much against his humour and inclinations, got to be usher of Croyden free-school in Surrey, where he continued for about three years: In which time he became acquainted with that noted poet for obscenity, and blasphemy, John earl of Rochester, who seemed much delighted in the mad, ranting, and debauched specimens of poetry of this author Oldham. Afterwards he was tutor to the grandsons of sir Edw. Thurland (a late judge) living near Reigate in Surrey, with whom he continued till 1681, and then being out of all business and employ, he retired to the great city, set up for a wit, and soon after became tutor to a son of sir Will. Hicks near London: where, at his leisure hours, by the advice and encouragement of Dr. Rich. Lower, he applied himself to the study of physie. At length being made known to that most generous and truly noble William earl of Kingston, he was taken into his patronage, lived with him in great respect at Holme-Pierpont in Nottinghamshire, where he made his last exit, as I shall tell you anon. This noted poet hath written,

Satyr upon the Jesuits (in number four) with a Prologue written in the Year 1679, upon Occasion of the Plot (Popish Plot) together with the Satyr against Virtue, and some other Pieces by the same Hand. Lond. 1681, 82. oct. The first satyr is called Garnet's Ghost, &c. which was printed against the author's consent.—Lond. 1679. in one sheet in fol. The Satyr against Virtue was committed to the privacy of two or three friends, from whose hands it stole out in print, against the author's knowledge—Lond. 1679. qu.

Some new Pieces never before published, viz. (1.) Horace his Art of Poetry imitated in English. (2.) Paraphrase upon Horace, Book 1. Ode 31. and Book 2. Ode 14. (3.) The Praise of Homer, an Ode. (4.) Two Pastorals out of Greek, Bion. One in Imitation of the Greek of Moschus, bewailing the Death of the Earl of Rochester, the other in Lamentation of Adonis, imitated out of the Greek of Bion of Smyrna. (5.) Paraphrase upon the 137th Psalm. (6.) Paraph. on the Hymn of S. Ambrose, Ode. (7.) A Letter from the Country to a Friend in Town, giving an Account of the Author's Inclinations to Poetry, in Verse. (8.) Upon a Printer that exposed him by printing a Piece of his, grossly mangled and faulty.—All these were printed in one vol. in oct. at Lond. 1681. He wrote also a Satyr, in Pindaric verse, supposed to be spoken by a Court-Hector: inserted in the poems of John earl of Rochester, printed 1680. p. 115: which is the same with his Satyr against Virtue before-mention'd.

[752]

Poems and Translations. Lond. 1683. oct.⁹

Remains, in Verse and Prose. Lond. 1684. oct. Which Remains consist of (1.) Counterpart to the Satyr against Virtue, in Person of the Author. (2.) Virg. Eclogue 8, the Enchantment. (3.) Verses to Madam L. E. upon her Recovery from a late Sickness. (4.) El. on the Death of Mrs. Katharine Kingscourt, a Child of excellent Parts and Piety. (5.) A Sunday Thought in Sickness. (6.) To the Memory of his dear Friend Mr. Charles Morwent: a large Pindaric. (7.) To the Memory of the worthy Gent. Mr. Harman Atwood: Pindaric. (8.) Character of a certain ugly old Purson. This last is the worst and most offensive of all the rest. These Remains are usher'd into the world by the commendatory poems of Joh. Dryden, esq; Thom. Flatman, Nahum Tate, Tho. Durfey, Tho. Andrews, and Tho. Wood of New coll. There is also an Anonym. with an eclogue, and another with an epitaph, on the author. As for Charles Morwent, on whom the large Pindaric before-mention'd was made, which makes about the third part of the Remains, he was born at Tetbury in Gloucestershire, his father being an attorney there, bred up in grammar learning under Mr. Th. Byrton, M. A. of Linc. coll. at Wotton under Edge in the said county, became a commoner of S. Edm. hall in 1670, and bach. of arts four years after. Soon after he retired to Gloucester, fell sick of the small pox, died of it, and was inter'd in the cathedral there, where there is a monument over his grave. He was a handsome, genteel and good-natur'd man, and very well beloved in the said hall. Our author Oldham made also a little poem, to which music was set by a doctor of that faculty, bearing this title, A second Musical Entertainment on Cecilia's Day, 22 Nov. 1684. The Words by the late ingenious Mr. Joh. Oldham, &c. set to Music in two, three, four, and five Parts. Lond. 1685. qu. By Dr. Joh. Blow master of the children, and organist to his majesty's chappel royal.¹ "In the great Historical, Geographical and Poetical Dictionary, &c. Lond. "1694. vol. 2. is this character of Mr. Oldham, "The darling of the muses, a pithy, sententious,

⁹ [There are several editions of Oldham's poems, but they are so made up by the bookseller, that it is almost impossible to distinguish one from another: that of 1703 I consider as a very good one, but the best was published in 3 vol. 12mo. by captain Edward Thomson, Lond. 1770. Vanderghucht engraved a head of Oldham, in flowing locks, and a long loose handkerchief round his neck.]

¹ [Obiit October 1708. GREY.]

"elegant, and smooth writer.—His translations "exceeded the original, and his invention seems "matchless. His Satyr on the Jesuits is of special "note, and he may justly be said to have excell'd "all the satyrists of the age.—Honour'd after his "death by an elegy made by Dryden poet laureat, "wherein he calls him the Marcellus of our tongue." To conclude: this most celebrated poet died in the house of his munificent patron at Holme Pierpont before-mentioned in sixteen hundred eighty and three, and was buried in the church there. Soon after was a monument put over his grave, with this inscription thereon, M. S. Jo. Oldhami Poetæ, quo nemo sacro furore plenior, nemo rebus sublimior, aut verbis felicius audax; ejus famam omni ævo propria satis consecrabit carmina. Quem inter primos Honoratissimi Gulielmi Comitis de Kingston Patroni sui amplexus variolis correptum, heu nimis immatura mors rapuit, & in coelestem transtulit chorum. Natus apud Shipton in agro Glocestrensi, in Aula S. Edmundi Graduat. Obiit die Decembris nono, An. Dom. 1683. Ætatis 30.

1683.

ROBERT CROSSE, son of Will. Crosse of Dunster in Somersetshire, was born there, or at least in that county, became either batler or commoner of Linc. coll. in Mich. term 1621, aged 16 years, where employing his studies in philosophy and disputation, took the degree of bach. of arts. On the 14th of Decemb. 1627 he was elected fellow of the said coll. so that taking the degree of master the next year, he entred into holy orders, became a great tutor and Aristotelian, and much noted in the university for a learned man. In 1637 he was admitted to the reading of the sentences, and being puritanically inclined, sided with the presbyterians in the beginning of the civil wars. In 1643 he was nominated one of the assembly of divines, took the covenant, and sometimes sate among them, and in 1648 submitting to the parliamentary visitors, he was named and appointed by the committee for the reformation of the university to succeed Dr. Sander-son in the king's professorship of divinity of this university; but he refusing to accept it, had soon after the rich vicaridge of Great Chew near Pensford in Somersetshire conferr'd on him. So that resigning his fellowship in 1653, he settled at Chew, and in the next year was constituted an assistant to the commissioners appointed by parliament for the ejecting of ignorant and scandalous ministers and school-masters (as they were then called by the faction) in Somersetshire. In 1660, at the restoration of king Charles II. he conformed, and because there was no body to claim his living, he continued there to the time of his death. While he remained in the university he was accounted a noted philosopher and divine, an able preacher, and well vers'd in the fathers and schoolmen; but when he lived in the country, he had (if you'll believe his conceited anta-gonist² Glanvill) 'a reputation for learning among his neighbours, and was accounted a philosopher in the Peripatetic way,——and by employing his younger years in the philosophy of disputation, had gained³ to himself the reputation of a great scholar, and a disputant among his country admirers,' &c. But these and other his foolish commendations of him that follow, as that he is a 'person that understands the quiddities and hæccieties, the præcissiones formales and the objectivæ, the homogeneities, and heterogeneities, the categorematices and the syncategorematices, the simpliciter and the secundum quids, &c. meerly to undervalue his learning, because of his undervaluing him (Glanvill) the Royal Society and experimental philosophy, I shall now pass by as needless to insert, and tell you that he wrote,

[753]

Exercitatio Theologica de Insipientia Rationis humanæ, Gratiâ Christi destituta, in Rebus Fidei; 1 Cor. 2. 14. Oxon. 1655. qu. [Bodl. B. 16. 6. Line.] I desire the reader now to know, that after Mr. Joseph Glanvill had settled himself in the city of Bath, and had written certain things against Aristotle, and the academical way of education, 'twas the desire of some neighbouring scholars that our author Crosse a noted philosopher after the ancient way, should be brought acquainted with him. In the year therefore 1667 Glanvill was conducted to his house at Great Chew, where after the usual civilities were passed, Crosse did in a sufficient manner vindicate Aristotle; and knowing Glanvill to be one of the Royal Society, and an undervaluer of academical learning as to Aristotle and his philosophy, he did plentifully then declaim against the proceedings of that society. Glanvill thereupon being surprized, he did not then much oppose him, but afterwards by letters and common discourses he did to the purpose, especially against this hypothesis of Crosse, that 'Aristotle had more advantages for knowledge than the Royal Society, or all the present age had, or could have, and for this strong reason, because he did totam peragraræ Asiam,' &c. Whereupon fell out a great difference between them; and Mr. Hen. Stubbe then a summer-practitioner of physic at Bath, bearing no good will to the conceited proceedings of Glanvill, took Crosse's part and encouraged him to write against the virtuoso. Soon after our author Crosse provided a book, which Glanvill⁴ call'd a fardel, tho' Stubbe not, but a good and seasonable book, yet rejected by the licensers (as Glanvill adds) both at Oxford and London, for its incomparable railing and impertinence. However Glanvill obtaining the contents of it, sent it in a private letter to Dr. Nath. Ingelo fellow of Eaton coll. near Windsor, who sending it also to a friend in London he caused it to be printed, and entitled The Chew Gazette, and dispersed the copies (an 100 only, for no more were printed) into private hands, to the end (as Glanvill⁵ says) that 'his shame might not be made public,' &c. that 'a specimen also of the learning he shews in school-scrap and little ends of verse, and children's phrases (which are all his reading) might be discovered.' After the letter was abroad, Crosse wrote ballads against him, and made him and his society ridiculous; while other wags at Oxon, who seemed to be pleased with the controversies, made a dogrel ballad on them and their proceedings; the beginning of which is,

'Two Gospel knights
Both learned wights
And Somerset's renown a,
The one in village of the shire
But vicaridge too great I fear,
The other lives in town a, &c.

Mr. Glanvill tells⁷ us also, that our author Crosse hath written a book called Biographia, which gives rules, how lives are to be written, &c. to correct Dr. Fell for his way of writing the life of Dr. Hammond, because he denied a license to print his book. At length Mr. Crosse having lived to a fair age, departed this mortal life about 4 of the clock in the morning of the 12th of Decemb. in sixteen hundred eighty and three, and was buried in his church of Chew magna before-mention'd, leaving then behind him the character among grave and sober persons of an able theologist and philosopher.

GEORGE RITSCHEL, the eldest son of George Ritschel a Bohemian, by Gertrude his wife; was born at Deutschkana in the borders of Bohemia, on the 13th of Feb. styl. nov. an. 1616, sent by his relations when 17 years of age to the university of Strasburg, where he continued about 7 years. At length his father dying, and Ferdinando II. driving the protestants out of his dominions, he, rather than he would conform to the ch. of Rome, agreed with his younger brother, that he should have the estate to which he was heir, conditionally that he would furnish him with money to travel into foreign parts. Which being agreed to, our author G. Ritschel went into England, and settling for a time in Oxford, was there, on the 3d of Decemb. 1641, entred into the publ. or Bodleian library under this form, 'Georgius Ritschel Deutschkanan. Bosellus;' but the rebellion breaking openly out in the year following, he went to the Hague, Leyden, and Amsterdam. In 1643 he travelled into Denmark, where he spent above an year at Copenhagen and Sorø, and in 1644 he visited Poland, and from Dantzick

² Jos. Glanvill in his Plus ultra, &c. Lond. 1658. oct. pag. 2.

³ Ibid. p. 118.

⁴ Ibid.

⁵ In his Prefatory Answer, p. 2.

⁶ Ibid. p. 187, 188.

⁷ Ibid. page 211.

he went into England, where continuing for some time in London, journeyed thence to Oxon, took up his quarters in Kettle hall (a member of Trin. coll.) became a severe and constant student in the Bodleian library, and wrote and published a book during his stay in the university, as I shall anon tell you; but whether he took a degree therein, it appears not. After he had left the university, he became chief master of the free-school at Newcastle upon Tyne; whence, after he had continued there several years, he was removed to the vicaridge of Hexham in Northumberland, where he continued minister almost 28 years. He hath written, Contemplationes Metaphysicæ ex Natura Rerum & rectæ Rationis Lumine deductæ, &c. Oxon. 1648. oct. [Bodl. Svo. R. 16. Art. BS.] dedicated to sir Cheyney Culpeper, and Nich. Stoughton, esq. Before which is a preface to shew what metaphysics are, and their use. This was reprinted at Frankfurt in 1680, by the care of Magnus Hesenthalerus the late famous professor of Wirtemberg, with an epistle dedicatory of the said Hesenthalerus to Wolfgangus principal officer to the duke of Wirtemberg, with the title changed thus, Georgii Ritschel Contemplationes Metaphysicæ, quas Rerum ex Natura, rectæq; Rationis Lumine deductas, Oxoniæ Anglorum 1648 olim publicatas ipsummet per Autorem auctas, revisas, emendatas: ab amica Magni Hesenthaleri Manu impetratas Exquisitio plurium Literatorum voto, &c. He hath also written another book entit.

[755] Dissertatio de Ceremoniis Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ, quâ Usus earum licitus ostenditur, & à Superstitionis & Idolatriæ Crimine vindicatur. Lond. 1661. oct. [Bodl. Svo. B. 185. Linc.] This book, which got him great credit with his diocesan Dr. Jo. Cosin, is commended by Dr. Durell in his S. Eccles. Anglicanæ Vindiciæ. Afterwards at the request of the said Hesenthalerus, our author Ritschel sent to Wirtemberg his Ethica Christiana, in 2 vol. qu. with another Latin quarto called Exercitationes sacræ, which Hesenthalerus desired, and promised to take care of the printing them, and engaged his son to take the like care, if he should die before they were began: Whether they were printed is not yet certain. He also at his death left with his son two MSS. ready for the press, one De Fide Catholica, and the other Against the English Quakers both in qu. and in Latin. This learned author, who for a time had been tutor in his travels to the sons of the prince of Transylvania, died on the 28th of December in sixteen hundred eighty and three, and was buried in the chancel of the church of Hexham before mentioned, sometime a cathedral dedicated to S. Andrew; in the vicaridge of which his son named George Ritschel lately of S. Edm. hall succeeded him. Soon after was a monument put over his grave, with this inscription thereon: Sub hoc marmore sacræ reconduntur reliquæ Georgii Ritschel, Patria Bohemi, religione reformati, qui sæviante in 1683.

Protestantes Ferdinando secundo, omnibus gentilitiis hæreditatibus exutus, sed Argentorati, Lugduni Batavorum, aliarumq; Academiæ exterarum spoliis onustus, quicquid eruditionis in istis florentissimis Musarum Emporiis vixit, secum detulit Oxonium, an. Dom. 1644, qua celeberrima Academia consummatis studiis aliorum commodò studere cœpit; & contemplationibus metaphysicis, vindiciisq; ceremoniarum Eccles. Anglicanæ, aliisq; scriptis eruditissimis editis. toto orbe statim inclaruit. Tanta fame auctus Ecclesiam Augustaldensem ad quam electus erat, & cui præfuit annos plus minus 27 magis Augustam & tantum non cathedralem, qualis olim fuerit, reliquit, &c. You may read more of the encomiums of this worthy person in the sermon preached at his funeral by one Major Algood rector of Simonbourne in Northumberland, and in an elegy on his death at the end of it.—Printed at Lond. 1684. qu.

FRANCIS BAMPFIELD, third son of John Bampffield^a of Portimon in Devons. esq. was born in that county, became a commoner of Wadham coll. in 1681, aged 16 years, took the degrees in arts, that of master being completed in 1688, and afterwards holy orders from a bishop. "He was presented to a living in Dorsetshire, and in the beginning of the unhappy rebellion (1641) was a zealous man for loyalty and the king's party. So that he doubted whether he might salvâ conscientia pay any tax impos'd by the parliament, and consulted Dr. Ironside (afterwards bishop of Bristol) about that question. He publicly read the Common Prayer longer than any minister in Dorsetshire. Afterwards Mr. Baxter turn'd him to the parliament party,⁹ and" he was at length, on the death of William Lyford, minister of Shirebourne in Dorsetshire, having before taken the engagement; an. 1653, where he continued, carrying on the trade among the factious people, not without great disturbance from quaking witches, as he pretended, till the act of uniformity cast him out, an. 1662: Afterwards he lived in the said town for some time, kept conventicles, was imprison'd¹ for so doing several times, and forced to remove his quarters. At length retiring to London, the common refuge of such people, he preached in conventicles there, was several times committed upon that account, and continued a prisoner for about the ten last years of his life, at several times. He was always a person so strangely fickle and unsteady in his judgment, that he was first a church-man, then a presbyterian, afterwards an independent, or at least a sider with them, an anabaptist, and at length, almost a compleat Jew, and what not. He was also so enthusiastical and

^a Reg. Matric. Un. Ox. PP. fol. 257. b.⁹ [This is Dr. Barlow's account. See it in MS. Bodl. A. 20. 16. Th.]¹ See The fourth Plea of Conformists for Nonconformists, p. 44, 45

canting that he did almost craze and distract many of his disciples by his amazing and frightful discourses. He hath written,

[756]

*His Judgment for the Observation of the Jewish, or seventh-day Sabbath;*² with his Reasons and Scriptures for the same. Sent in a Letter to Mr. Will Ben of Dorchester, &c. Lond. 1672 [Bodl. 8vo. B. 299. Th.] and 1677. oct. See more in Will. Ben under the year 1680. vol. iii, col. 1274, who by one³ of his persuasion is commended for a pious man, for his holiness of life and for his dexterous preaching.

All in one. All useful Sciences and profitable Arts in one Book of Jehovah Aelokim, copied out, and commented upon in created Beings, comprehended and discovered in the Fulness and Perfection of Scripture-Knowledges. The first Part—Printed 1677 in 45 sh. in fol. [Bodl. A. 20. 16. Th.] The design of which fantastical and unintelligible book is for the advancement and augment of useful arts, and of profitable sciences in a scripture way, and that all philosophy he taught out of the scripture, and not from heathen authors. The author shews himself dissatisfied with his academical education, and is clearly against that way; and would, if he could, have his own idea take place: and vainly endeavours to represent the many pretended inconveniencies of those methods, which have been so long established in our universities, saying⁴ that ‘enthusiastic phantasms, humane magistralities, self-weaved ratiocinations, forc’d extractions, indulg’d sensations, and unsettling scepticisms have laid, some of the most, claim to the highest advance of humane learning, that hath been hitherto made.’ ‘Tis full of bombast great swelling and forc’d language, and oftentimes unintelligible.

The House of Wisdom. The House of the Sons of the Prophets. An House of exquisite Enquiry, and of deep Research: where the Mind of Jehovah Aeloin in the holy Scripture of Truth, in the original Words and Phrases, and their proper Significancy, is diligently studied, faithfully compared, and aptly put together for the farther Promoting and higher Advancing of Scripture Knowledge, of all useful Arts, and profitable Sciences, in the one Book of Books, the Word of Christ, copied out and commented upon in created Beings. Lond. 1681. in 7 sh. in fol. In which fantastical book, the author would have the Hebrew tongue and language to be the universal character over all the inhabited earth, to be taught in all schools, and children to be taught it as their mother language. He proposes a way for the erection of academies to have it taught, and all philosophy to proceed from scripture, to have all books translated into that language, and I know not what. What other things he hath written and published I cannot tell, nor any thing else of him, only (1) That he having been convicted, and committed for preaching at Pin-makers-hall in London, was brought on the 24th of Feb. 1682 to the sessions held at the Old Baily; where being tendred the oaths, he said that the king of kings forbad him to take them, and thereupon was re-committed to Newgate prison. (2) That he was brought thither again about the 18th of April 1683, and refusing them, was sent to Newgate, from whence he came. (3) That he and one Griffith, Reynolds, and Warner, who had lain a long time in Newgate for refusing the oaths of allegiance and supremacy, were on the 18th of January 1683 indicted for the same, and found guilty at the Old Baily, and lastly that our author Bampffield dying in the said prison of Newgate, on Saturday the sixteenth day of February, in sixteen hundred eighty and three, aged 70 years, his body was two or three days after followed with a very great company of factious and schismatical people to his grave, in the new burying-place bought by the anabaptists in Glass-house-yard joyning to Aldersgate-street in London.

² [His brother Thomas Bampffield wrote on the same subject and was answered by Dr. Wallis in his Defence of the Christian Sabbath, 2 parts 1692, 1694, 410. GREY.]

³ Fred. Lossius medic. Dorchest. in Observat. Medicinal. Lond. 1672. oct. lib. 1. Observ. 5. p. 9.

⁴ In All in one, &c. p. 3.

1684.

“ASTON COCKAINE, son of Tho. Cockaine, esq; (buried in the church of S. Giles in the Fields, near London) by Anne his wife, daughter of Joh. Stanhope of Elvaston knight, was born of a knightly and ancient family at Ashbourne in the Peake of Derbyshire, on the 28th of Decemb. 1608, educated in both the universities; especially in that of Cambridge, and therein in Trin. coll. [757] of which he was fellow commoner, as he himself confesseth in one of his works, and therefore I was sometime doubtful whether I should put him in these ATHENE; yet considering that he had the degree of M. of A. conferr’d on him in this university in the time of the civil broils, I did therefore allot him a place among the Oxonians. After he had left the university he went to the inns of court, where continuing for some time for fashion sake, he afterwards travelled with sir Ken. Digby into France, Italy, Germany, &c. Upon his return he married,⁵ wrote an account of his travels, but did not print it, lived the greatest part of his time in a lordship belonging to him called Pooley in the parish of Polesworth in Warwicksh. addicted himself much to books, and the study of poetry, and spent much of his time in the delights of the muses. During the time of the civil wars he suffered much for his religion (which was that of Rome) and the king’s cause, pretended then to be a barronet made by king Charles I. after he, by violence, had left the par-

⁵ [Anne, daughter of sir Gilbert Kniveton of Mercaston, co. Derby.]

"liament, about 10 Jan. 1641, yet not deemed so
"to be by the officers of arms, because no patent
"was enrolled to justify it, nor any mention of it
"made in the docket-books belonging to the clerk
"of the crown in chancery, where all patents are "taken notice of, which pass the great seal. This "person, I say, mostly lived at Pooley, and some"times in the great city, was esteemed by many an "ingenious gent. a good poet and a great lover of "learning, yet by others a perfect boon fellow, by "which means he wasted all he had. His works
"are,

"*A Masque:—presented at Brethie in Derby-
"shire on Twelfth-Night 1639.* This is printed
"in the body of his poems."

"*A Chain of Golden Poems, imbellished with
"Wit, Mirth and Eloquence—*Another title put
"to these runs thus, Choice Poems of several "Sorts.

"Epigrams in three Books.

"The obstinate Lady; a Comedy. Lond. 1657,
"4to. and in the year following.

"Trappolin suppos'd a Prince; Trag. Com.
"—Taken from an Italian trag. com. call'd
"Trappolin Creduto Principe. Afterwards pub"lished by some plagiarist under the title of *A Duke
"and no Duke.* All these before going were "printed at Lond. 1658 in oct. and afterwards⁷ in "1669, with

"*The Tragedy of Ovid—*and had a new title
"put to, with sir Aston's picture before, them (no
"genteel face) by Franc. Kirkman bookseller, a "great trader in plays. 'Tis said by some that sir
"Aston was author of Tyrannical Government,
"trag. com.⁸ and of Thersytes, an interlude,⁹ but I "think they are mistaken, as others do the like.
"Sure I am that he translated into English an excel"lent Italian romance called Dianea,¹ printed at

⁶ [And reprinted in the Topographer. HASLEWOOD.]

⁷ [Poems with the obstinate Lady & Trappolen supposed a Prince: by S. Aston Cockayne Bart. Whereunto is now added, The Tragedy of Ovid, intended to be acted shortly. Printed for Phil. Stephens &c. 8vo. 1662. with his bust laureated and four lines underneath, and a poem to the author at the beginning by Tho^o. Bancroft. OLDYS.]

⁸ [Tyrannical Government anatomized, or a Discourse concerning civil Counsellors: being the Life and Death of John the Baptist, and presented to the King's most excellent Majesty, by the Author. Lond. 1642, 4to. This was republished by Francis Peck, in 1740, as the production of Milton (but without any sufficient authority) under the title of Baptistes, a sacred Dramatic Poem.]

⁹ [Wood was perfectly right in his supposition. The industrious researches of Mr. Haslewood have enabled me to contradict the report that sir Aston Cockayne was the writer of this interlude, which appeared nearly a century before he flourished. A new Enterlude called Thersytes. Thys Enterlude folowynge dothe declare howe that the greatest Boasters are not the greatest Doers.—Imprinted at London, by John Tysdale, and are to be solde at hys Shop in the upper Ende of Lombard strete, in Alhallowes Church Yarde neare unto Grace Church. See extracts from it in the British Bibliographer, vol. i, page 173.]

¹ [Dianea: an excellent new Romance. Written in Italian Vol. IV.

"Lond. 1654. [Bodl. 8vo. L. 10. Art. BS.] At "length after he had lived beyond the age of man,
"yielded up his last breath at Derby, upon the "breaking of the great frost in Feb. in sixteen
"hundred eighty and three: whereupon his body
"being conveyed to Polesworth in Warwickshire
"before-mention'd, was privately buried there on "the 13th of the same month in the chancel of the "church there. His lordship of Pooley, which had "belonged to the name of Cockayne from the time
"of king Richard II, was sold several years before
"he died to one Humphrey Jennings esq; at which "time sir Aston reserv'd an annuity from it for him"self during his life. The fair lordship of Ash-
"bourne also was some years ago sold to sir William
"Boothby bart."

[See an account (chiefly drawn from his own works) of sir Aston Cockayne, with a very minute list of the most interesting poems in his book, in the British Bibliographer, vol. ii, pages 450—463. The head mentioned by Wood has been reingraved, by C. Wilkin, for the same work.]

THOMAS GAWEN, son of a minister of the city of Bristol of both his names, was born in a market town in Gloucestershire called Marsfield, educated in Wykeham's school near Winchester, made perpetual fellow of New coll. an. 1632, aged 22 years, took the degrees in arts, holy orders, travelled, was at Rome, and accidentally sometimes fell into the company of John Milton the antimonarchist. After his return, he became chaplain to Dr. Curl bishop of Winchester, who gave him a prebendship in that church, and the rectory, as I conceive, of Exton in Hampshire he being then much valued for his learning, Greek and Latin poetry. About the latter end of 1642, having the year before left his fellowship, he was appointed by the said bishop to be tutor to his son, then a commoner of Magd. coll. where being esteemed a person of admirable breeding, his company was much desired and courted by reason of his travels and discourse, which savoured at that time nothing of popery, but rather an aversion from it; of which great notice was taken among those with whom he commun'd. Afterwards upon the delivery up of his charge, and a foresight of the ruin of the church of England, he travelled again to Rome with the heir of the Dorcestrian Pierponts, spent some time there and in other parts of Italy, and returning thro' France, met with an intimate friend of his

by Geo. Francisco Loredano a noble Venetian. In four Books. Translated into English by Sir Aston Cockayne. London, Printed for Humphrey Moseley, at the Sign of the Princes Arms in St. Pauls Church-yard, 1654. Ded. to Lady Mary Cockayne vicecountess Cullen—'My best of friends colonell Edward Stamford, gave me the author, and intreated me to teach him our language.' Oldys in his MS. Notes to Langbaine says there was an edit. of Dianea in 8vo. 1643.]

K

1684.

[758]

(then lately of Magd. coll.) at Paris, with whom having several conferences, that person found his discourse changed, and some tincture therein of the Romish dye. Whereupon he acquainting Dr. Steph. Goffe of the person, he desired his company, but could not by any means persuade him to come within the verge of the court of the queen mother of England then there, and the reason of it was, as they conceived, because he would keep his opinion undiscovered, to the end that he might afterwards gain some profit from the church of England. After his majesty's return, he was restored to what he had lost, became rector of Bishops-stoke in Hampshire and of Fawley, but the last he never enjoyed, because not inducted thereunto. About that time being discovered to be what he was, a Roman catholic, he willingly left all he had, and to prevent danger that might ensue from his clerical brethren, he procured himself, by the endeavours of Dr. Goffe and lord abbat Mountague, to be sworn a servant to Henrietta Maria the qu. mother before-mentioned. Afterwards he went a third time to Rome, married an Italian woman well born, and had a child by her; but because he had nothing with her, left her and the child, and returned to his native country, his wealth being kept for the children of his brother, who was then P. of the P. P. at London. About that time he took up his quarters in the city of Westminster, was in some trouble about the plot, 1679, lived a retired life, a perpetual student in religious controversies, and wrote many things, of which some are extant, as,

A brief Explanation of the several Mysteries of the holy Mass, and of the Actions of the Priest celebrating, very necessary for all Roman Catholics, for the better understanding thereof. Lond. 1686. oct.

Certain Reflections upon the Apostles' Creed touching the Sacrament.

Divers Meditations and Prayers, both before, and after the Communion.—These two last, go and are bound with the Brief Explanation, &c. Other things also which he left behind him, that are not as yet, I suppose, extant, are (1) A Treatise of mental Prayer. (2) How to gain a Jubilee or Indulgence. (3) Of the Name of God Jehovah. (4) Meditations belonging to spiritual Exercise. (5) Treatise touching the Reading of Saint's Lives, &c. And among the translations into Latin which he made, was Joh. Cleaveland's poem call'd The Rebel Scot; and among those from Spanish into English, The Life of S. Vincent of Caraffa the General of the Society of Jesus. He died in his house situated in the Pall-Mall within the liberty of the city of Westminster, on the 8th day of March in sixteen hundred eighty and three, and was buried in the church of S. Martin in the Fields, within the said city, leaving then behind him the character among men, especially those of his persuasion, of a learned and religious person.

1684.

THOMAS GORE was born of an ancient and genteel family living at Aldrington alias Alderton in Wilts. an. 1631, at which place his ancestors, who originally came from Whitlegh near Melkesham in the said county, have lived about 300 years. In the time of the rebellion he was educated in grammar learning at Tetbury in Gloucestershire under Mr. Tho. Tully, where being rip'ned for the university, became a commoner of Magd. coll. in the month of May 1647, under the tuition first of Joh. King fellow of that house, and afterwards, with leave from the president, under the said Mr. Tully fellow of Queen's coll. After he had continued in Magd. coll. more than three years, and had perform'd his exercise for the degree of bach. of arts, he retir'd to Lincoln's inn, whence after he had spent some time in the municipal laws, he receded to his patrimony at Alderton, where prosecuting his natural genius which he had to heraldry and antiquities, wrote and published these things following.

[759]

A Table shewing how to blazon a Coat of Arms ten several Ways.—Printed 1655 on one side of a single sheet, and taken verbatim, as it seems, from Joh. Fern's book called The Blazon of Nobility, &c.

Nomenclator Geographicus Latino Anglicus, & Anglico-Latinus alphabeticè digestus; complectens plerorumq; omnium M. Britannicæ & Hibernicæ Regionum, Comitatum, Episcopatum, Oppidorum, Fluviorum; &c. Nomina & Appellationes, &c. Oxon. 1667. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. A. 136. Art.] To which the author did afterwards add many other things, with an intention to come out with another edition.

Series alphabetica, Latino-Anglica, Nomina Gentilitiorum, sive Cognominum plurimarum Familiarum, quæ multos per annos in Angliâ floruerunt: è Libris quæ Manuscriptis quæ Typis excusis, aliisque antiquioris Aevi Monumentis Latinis collecta. Oxon. 1667. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. A. 136. Art.] This book was afterwards crept into a thick quarto, by the additions of the etymologies of the words and many little annotations concerning the arms of the said families, but before the author could put it into the press, he was snatch'd away by death.

Catalogus in certa Capita, seu Classes, alphabetico Ordine concinnatus, plerorumque omnium Authorum (tam antiquorum quàm recentiorum) quæ de Re heraldica, Latinè, Gallicè, Ital. Hispan. Germ. Anglicè scripserunt. Oxon. 1668. in 4 sh. and an half. [Bodl. DD. 45. Th.] To which the author making many additions, with prefatory discourses of arms and armory, it was printed again at Oxon. 1674 in 16 sh. in qu. [Bodl. 4to. U. 6. Art.] After this the author growing wealthy, and noted for a rich man, became high-sheriff of Wilts. an. 1680, whereupon suffering in his reputation by some of his neighbouring gentry, he wrote and published,

Loyalty displayed, and Falshood unmask'd: or, a just Vindication of Tho. Gore Esq; High-Sheriff of the County of Wilts. in a Letter to a Friend. Lond. 1681. in one sh. qu. He gave up the ghost at Alderton before-mention'd, on the 31st of March (Easter-Monday) in sixteen hundred eighty and four, and was buried in the church there, among the graves of his ancestors, leaving then behind him several pieces of heraldry of his own composure, collections of arms out of several churches and houses which he had made in his journeys, additions to, and corrections of, the books that he had published, and a choice collection of heraldry books, and books relating to that faculty, as well printed as in MS.

1684.

WILLIAM CLARKE, son of George Clarke, by his wife the sister of Will. Prynn esq; was born at Swainswyke near Bath in Somersetshire, became a commoner of Oriel coll. an. 1657, aged 17 years or thereabouts, took one degree in arts 1661, and on the 30th of Mar. 1663 was made fellow of his house. About that time applying his mind solely to the study of physic, left his fellowship three years after, retired to his native country, and practised it in the city of Bath, where I saw him in 1678, and his book entitled,

The Natural History of Niter: or, a philosophical Discourse of the Nature, Generation, Place and artificial Extraction of Niter, &c. Lond. 1670. oct. Translated into Latin, and printed beyond the seas, after a full account of it had been made public in the Philosophical Transactions, numb. 61. p. 2008. Afterwards the author retired to Stepney near London in Middlesex, where he practised his faculty with good success, and dying on the 24th of Apr. in sixteen hundred eighty and four, was buried in the church there on the 27th of the same month. He was usually called there Dr. Clark; but whether he ever took that degree elsewhere, I cannot tell. I am sure he was only bach. of arts of this university.

1684.

[760]

DANIEL WHISTLER, son of Will. Whistler of Elvington in the parish of Goring in the dioc. of Oxford, was born at Walthamstow in Essex, educated in grammar learning in the free-school at Thame, admitted prob. fellow of Merton coll. in Jan. 1639, aged 20 years or thereabouts; where going thro' the severe exercise then kept up, proceeded in arts four years after. About that time obtaining leave of his society to travel, he crossed the seas to Holland, took the degree of doctor of phys. at Leyden, an. 1645, and returning the year following to his coll. was incorporated doctor of his faculty in this university 1647. Afterwards he submitted to the power of the visitors appointed by parliament, kept his fellowship (tho' absent) became superior reader of Lynacre's lecture, but read not, because he was practising his faculty in London; and in 1653 he went as chief physician to the embassy made by Bulstrode Whitlock into Sweedland.

After his return he was made fellow of the coll. of physicians, fellow of the royal society when first instituted, and at length upon the removal of Dr. Tho. Cox for being whiggishly inclined, he was made president of the said college, about S. Luke's day 1683. He hath written and published, Disputatio medica inauguralis de Morbo puerili Anglorum, quem Patrio Idiomate Indigenæ vocant The Rickets, quam Deo Uppetias ferente, &c. Lond. 1645 and 1685 qu. This noted doctor, tho' he had married a rich widow, and did obtain about 1000l. per an. by his practice, many years before his death, yet he died in the coll. of physicians very much in debt, and worse than nothing, on Sunday the 11th day of May in sixteen hundred eighty and four: whereupon his body was buried but a little better than in private, towards the upper end of the north isle or alley joyning to the church called Christ-church in London, which is near the said coll. of physicians.

1684.

[Being well skilled in the mathematics, he was chosen professor of geometry in Gresham college, in 1648, being the fourth professor in that faculty, who had been successively elected from Merton college. He continued to hold his fellowship at Oxford together with his professorship. Upon his marriage in 1657 he resigned his professorship. His book of the Rickets was published five years before Dr. Glisson's book came out upon the same subject. MACRO.

See a long letter from Whistler to the protector, Oliver Cromwell, dated Upsal Feb. 18, 1653, in the Thurloe State Papers, ii, 104.]

THOMAS LYE, son of Tho. Lye or Leigh, was born at Chard in Somersetshire, 25th of Mar. 1621, entred a servitour of Wadh. coll. under his learned and faithful tutor Mr. George Ashwell in Mich. term 1636, elected scholar thereof 29 Jun. in the year following, took one degree in arts by the name of Tho. Leigh (by which name also he had been matriculated) went afterwards to Cambridge,* when Oxford was garrison'd for his majesty, took the degree of master of arts there in July 1647, being then or lately master of the school at Bury S. Edm. in Suffolk, returned afterwards to Oxon for preferment, was made chaplain of Wadh. coll. and incorporated master of this university by the name of Tho. Lye, in the month of May 1649. Soon after he was made minister of Chard before-mentioned, and on the 24th of Aug. 1651 he preached a farewell sermon, as being under the sentence of banishment, because he would not swear against the beloved covenant. In 1654 he was appointed one of the assistants to the commissioners of Somersetshire for the ejection of such whom the saints then called scandalous, ignorant and insufficient ministers and schoolmasters. In 1658, upon the receipt of a call, he entered on the pastoral charge of Allhallows church in Lombard-street in London, on the 20th of November or thereabouts; and by act of parliament of the 14th of March 1659, he was made one of the approvers of ministers according to the presbyterian way: which act being soon after annulled, upon a foresight of his majesty's restoration, he himself two years after was ejected for nonconformity. He hath extant, Several sermons, as (1) The fixed Saint, held forth in a Farewell Sermon at Allhallows in Lombard-street 17 Aug. 1662; on Phil. 4. 1. Lond. 1662. qu. [Bodl. C.7.15. Linc.] It was reprinted the same year in oct. among other Farewell Sermons at Bartholomewtide, with his picture, very like him, with other pictures of nonconformists, that then preached in and near London, set in the title. (2) Sermon on Luke 17. 10.—Printed in The Morning Exercise against Popery, preached in Southwark. Lond. 1675. qu. (3) By what Spiritual Rules may Catechising be best managed; on Prov. 22. 6. Printed in The Supplement to the Morning Exercise at Cripple-gate. Lond. 1674. and 76. qu. [Bodl. C. 1. 6. Linc.] (4) The true Believer's Union with Christ; on 1 Cor. 6. 17.—Pr. in The Morning Exercise at S. Giles's in the Fields near Lond. in May 1659. Lond. 1676. qu. In which Morn. Exer. one John Tillotson hath also a sermon.

* [Tho. Lee coll. Eman. A. M. Cant. 1646. Reg. Acad. Cant. BAKER.]

[761]

An Explanation of the shorter Catechism, composed by the Assembly of Divines 1647. With a plain and familiar Method of instructing the younger Sort in that Catechism. Lond. in octavo. Several times printed.

The Child's Delight: together with an English Grammar. Lond. in octavo. Several times printed.³

A new Spelling-book: or reading and spelling English made easy: wherein all the Words of our English Bible are set down in an alphabetical Order and divided into their distinct Syllables. Together with the Grounds of the English Tongue laid in Verse, wherein are couch'd many moral Precepts. Lond. 1674. oct. &c. What other sermons or books are published under his name, I know not, nor any thing else of him, only that he dying at Bednal-green near London, on the seventh day of June in sixteen hundred eighty and four, was buried in the church of Clapham in Surrey; in which town he had usually held forth in conventicles with Dr. Hen. Wilkinson, commonly called Long Harry, and Will. Bridge, sometime minister of Yarmouth.⁴ He also, for a better livelihood, instructed the sons of nonconformists.

³ [I have seen an edition of this little book 12mo Lond. 1684; the imprimatur dated Feb. 14, 1669-70. It is dedicated to the able and industrious instructors of youth in England in a somewhat long epistle. In this the author says 'The materials of it I have digg'd out of other's mines, and cast them into such a mould, as I hope and pray, that through a smile from on high they may be of use. The composure of the posie is mine, but the flowers I have cropt out of the gardens of such as are, and that justly, men of renown, and famous in their generation. Such as are Dr. Wilkins now bishop of Chester, Dr. Owen, Dr. Wallis, Dr. Nulton, Mr. Price, Mr. Coot, Mr. Row, T. H. and others—Besides these I have more than once waded through the whole English tongue, as it lies lockt up in Dictionaries and Concordances, and have made it my work to reduce every symphonous syllable thereof to its proper root and fountain.']

1684.

JOSHUA SPRIGGE, son of Will. Sprigge sometime servant to Will. lord Say, afterwards steward of New coll. was born at Banbury in Oxfordshire, became a commoner of New inn in Midsummer term an. 1634, aged 16 years, left it without a degree, journied into Scotland, and became master of arts at Edinburgh, and a preacher. A little before the rebellion began he retired to London, was a preacher at S. Mary Alderm. afterwards took the covenant, was made minister of S. Pancras church in Soperlane, and at length a retainer to sir Tho. Fairfax general of the parliament army. In 1648 he was constituted one of the fellows of Alls. coll. by the committee and visitors appointed by parliament to reform the university, and in the year following was incorporated M. of A. as he had stood at Edinburgh. While he continued in Alls. coll. he was of civil conversation, but far gone in enthusiasm; and blamed much by some of the fellows then there, for his zeal of having the history of our Saviour's ascension curiously carved from stone over that coll. gate, to be defaced, after it had remained there since the foundation of that house. About that time he was esteemed also a noted independent, and afterwards very well known to be a great favourer of factious and blasphemous persons, particularly that grand impostor James Naylor quaker, in whose behalf, he did, in the head of an hundred men, deliver a petition in favour of him to Oliver lord protector. After the king's return, he retired to an estate which he had purchased at Crayford in Kent, lived privately there, and frequented conventicles. At length upon the death of James lord Say, which was in the latter end of 1673, he married his widow named Frances, daughter of Edward viscount Wimbledon, with whom he had great familiarity, to the jealousy of her husband, during the time of her first husband. But she being a holy sister, and kept, or caused to be kept, conventicles in her house, they, upon trouble ensuing, removed to Highgate near London, where our author Sprigge died, as I shall tell you anon. He hath extant these things following, viz.

Several sermons, viz. (1) God a Christian's All; himself nothing, on Gen. 5. 24.—Printed 1640. (2) A Testimony to approaching Glory, in 5 Sermons delivered at S. Pancras in Soper-lane. Lond. 1649. second edition. In which sermons are contained several blasphemies, as certain^s pamphlets inform us. See more in Joh. Owen. (3) A further Testimony, &c. Printed in oct. This I have not yet seen, (4) The dying and living Christian, &c. on Rom. 14. 8. Lond. 1648. oct. and others, as 'tis probable, but such I have not yet seen.

⁴ [See a letter from this William Bridge to Henry Scobell dated Aug. 16, 1665, on the state of the independents and presbyterians in Norfolk; in Peck's Desiderata Curiosa, lib. xiii, page 13.]

[762]

Anglia rediviva; England's Recovery: Being the History of the Motions, Actions and Successes of the Army under the Conduct of Sir Tho. Fairfax Knight, Capt. General of all the Parliament Forces in England. Lond. 1647. fol. [Bodl. K. 4. 15. Art.] Characterized falsely by an outlandish^o author to be opus rude & moles indigesta, &c. This book goes under the name of J. Sprigge, but if a knowing⁷ author says true, Nat. Fiennes second son to Will. lord Say had a chief hand in compiling the said book.

Certain weighty Considerations humbly tendred and submitted to the Consideration of such of the Members of the high Court of Justice for the Tryal of the King, as they shall be presented unto. Lond. 1648.^s in two sh. in qu. [Bodl. C. 15. 3. Line.] "Mr. Ashmole has left an account that on a fast at "Whitehall 21 Jan. 1648, which was about a fortnight before the king was beheaded, Mr. Joshua "Sprigge preach'd—His text was 'He that sheds "blood, by man shall his blood be shed'—After "he had done, Mr. Foxley stept up, and his text "was 'Judge not lest ye be judged'—And after "him Hugh Peters, whose text was, 'I will bind "their kings in chains;' which being much to the "purpose, and for doing justice on the king, was "esteem'd by the auditory as amends for the former "two sermons—Whether this sermon of Joshua "Sprigge was printed I cannot tell."

Solace for Saints in the saddest Times—Printed in oct. This I have not yet seen.

News of a new World from the Word and Works of God, compared together; evidencing that the Times of the Man of Sin are legally determined, and by the same Right the Days of the Son of Man are already commenced; with an Account of the Times of Gog and Magog, and of the three last Viols. Lond. 1676. oct. Besides these, he hath other things, without doubt, extant, but I cannot yet in all my searches find them out. He died at Highgate before-mention'd in the month of June in sixteen hundred eighty and four: whereupon his body being carried to Crayford aforesaid, was buried in the church there. About a fortnight after his beloved wife Frances dying, was, I presume, buried near him. So that the estate of him the said Joshua Sprigge went to his younger brother William, who hereafter is to be mention'd as a writer.

RICHARD HAYTER, son of Will. Hayter⁹ of the city of Salisbury,¹ was born in Wilts. became a com. of Magd. hall in 1628 aged 17 years, took the degrees in arts, retired to Salisbury, lived there as a layman, and wrote

The Meaning of the Revelation: or, a Paraphrase with Questions on the Rev. of the holy Apostle and Evangelist John the Divine, &c. wherein the Synchronisms of Mr. Joseph Mede, &c. are called into Question, &c. Lond. 1675. qu. [Bodl. B. 2. 13. Line.]

Errata Mori. The Errors of Henry More Doct. of Divinity contained in his Epilogue annex'd to his Exposition of the Revelation of S. John, in which these Questions are debated, &c.—This was made ready for the press in Apr. 1683, and another book, but whether yet printed I cannot tell. He died on the 30th of June in sixteen hundred eighty and four, and was buried in the parish church of S. Thomas in Salisbury; which is all I yet know of him.

"HENRY IANSON, HIANSON or EYANSON, "son of sir Brian Ianson of London (sometime a "commoner of Magd. coll.) and he the second son "of sir Brian Ianson of Beaconsfield in Bucks, "knight, was born in Warwickshire as the matriculation^a book tells us, became a gent. com. of "Bal. coll. an. 1631 or thereabouts, aged 15 years, "took one degree in arts, and another in the civil "law, and in 1638 he became fellow of Alls. coll. "at which time he said he was a Middlesex man "born, and so it stands in one of the registers of "that college. In 1641 he proceeded in the civil "law, and in the year following, being esteemed a "person of good credit and account, he was one of "those that were entrusted with the carriage of the "money which the university of Oxon lent to his "majesty king Charles I. then at, or near, York; "at which time he was raising forces for his own "defence, after the members of the long parliament "had began to raise forces against him. Afterwards "Dr. Ianson took up arms for his majesty's cause, "was an officer, (for which afterwards he suffered) "and by him made a baronet, as he himself used to "report, tho' his name is not enroll'd, and so consequently stands not in the catalogue of baronets. "After the murder of that king, and upon an infallible foresight that the church of England "would be quite ruin'd by the several factions then 1684.

[763]

1684.

^s The Beacons quenched, &c. Lond. 1652. qu. p. 13. And The Beacons flaming, &c. Lond. 1652. p. 20. 21.

⁶ Georg. Hornius in epist. ad lectorem antelibrum cui tit. est Rerum Britannicarum Lib. 7, &c. Ludg. Bat. 1648. oct.

⁷ Clem. Walker in his History of Independency—Printed 1649. Sect. 12. p. 32.

⁸ [There being only one hundred copies appointed to be printed for that purpose. WANLEY.]

⁹ [Mr. Will. Hayter taught school in Exeter. Qn. if the same? WOOD, MS. Note in Ashmole. Certainly not: See the following note.]

¹ [Fishmonger. So he is stiled in an old deed wherein mention is made both of the father and son penes J. Bowle. N. B. The date of the deed is Aug. 14. 1639. BOWLE.]

² Reg. Matric. Univ. Oxon. PP. fol. 223. a.

"dominant, he renounced his religion and turn'd
 "Roman catholic in his travels beyond the seas,
 "lived little better than obscurely, as having not an "estate suitable to the degree of baronet, and a
 "wife with no fortune, and several children, which "made some of his contemporaries wonder how he "could find any leisure or repose to write books.
 "He hath published,

"Philanax Anglicus: or, a Christian Caveat
 "for all Kings, Princes and Prelates, how they
 "entrust a Sort of pretended Protestants of Inte"grity, or suffer them to commix with their Go"vernment; shewing plainly from the Principles
 "of all their Predecessors, that it is impossible to "be at the same Time Presbyterians and not "Rebels, with a compendious Draught of their "Portraiture, &c. Lond. 1663. oct. second edit.
 "I say this book, which he (sir Hen. Ianson) pub"lished, he did only correct and put additions to
 "it, with a courting and flourishing epistle, sub"scribed with the name of Tho. Bellamy; whereby
 "he dedicates it to Dr. Gilbert Sheldon then bishop
 "of London, sometime warden of Alls. coll. with "whom he had been acquainted many years before:
 "But the said sir Henry was so far from being au"thor of that book (of which some of his friends
 "do confidently averr that he was, as he himself
 "hath several times done) that it was written by a
 "certain Anonymus before 1633, in which year it "was first of all published in oct. or tw. and then
 "all or mostly taken from a book entit. Jerusalem
 "and Babel: or the Image of both Churches,
 "written by Matth. Patenson a Rom. priest, in the "latter end of the reign of king James I. who had "mostly collected⁴ it from the answers of Anti-"Cotton and Joh. Brierley priest. But this the "reader is to know, that that edition of it which "came out in 1663 being look'd upon as a new "thing, it was therefore answer'd by Dr. Peter du "Moulin preb. of Canterbury in a book entit. A
 "Vindication of the Sincerity of the Protestant Re-
 "ligion in the Point of Obedience to Sovereigns,
 " &c. which was several times printed at Lond. in
 "qu. Sir Hen. Ianson hath written,

"Jonas Redux: or, a Divine Warning-piece
 "shot from the Fort-royal of Nineveh, to all "Cities, Countries, Kingdoms and Empires, to "exhort them to be careful how they do admit of "the Dominion of Sin within their respective Ter"ritories, lest they fall into the like Danger. Lond.
 "1672. qu. This book, which was published under "the name of Jonas Anglicus, is an heroic poem
 "elegantly written in Latin, with the version into "English against each page. What other things
 "he hath published or written I cannot tell, nor "any thing else of him, only that he died poor
 "about 1684."

1684.

³ See in the preface to a book written by Hen. Foulis entit.
The History of the Romish Treasons and Usurpations, &c.

PETER GUNNING, son of Peter Gunning minister of How in Kent, by Eleanor Trest his wife (a Kentish woman of a good family) was born at How on the eleventh, and baptized on the 16th of January 1613, bred up in the free-school at Canterbury, where being found remarkably ripe for the university, he was at 15 years of age sent to Clare hall in Cambridge, of which house he was soon after made fellow; having been, from his first admittance, very much in the eye of all that university, as having been never wanting in any kind of exercise either grave or jocose, as also noted for one whose extraordinary parts and indefatigable industry and study promised great things. After he was master of arts he took upon him the cure of Little S.
 Mary's church in Cambridge, chosen to it by the master and fellows of Peter house, all colleges being ambitious some way or other to make him theirs.
 When the grand rebellion began, or at least about to begin, he was very zealous in opposing the attempts of the then spreading schism and troubles, and did not forbear to protest publicly against the faction when it was most formidable. In a sermon also at S. Mary's in Cambridge, he vehemently and convincingly urged the university to publish a formal protestation against the rebellious league:
 And being occasionally about that time in Kent (upon a short visit to his mother lately then a widow) he was hunted about and forced to lye in woods, and at length was imprison'd for having assisted some forces, belonging to the king at Tunbridge, with the charity he had moved a neighbouring congregation to by two sermons. Thence he was forced to his college to take the covenant; which he resolutely denying to do, was thrown out of his fellowship*. But before he left Cambridge, he with Mr. Barrow, afterwards bishop of S. Asaph,
 Mr. Ward afterwards bishop of Salisbury, and Mr. John Barwick, with two or three others, did write a resolute and well penn'd treatise against the covenant, which was afterwards published.⁵ In the beginning of the year 1644, if not before, he with the said Mr. Barrow, his great companion and fellow-sufferer, journied to Oxon, then his majesty's head-quarter, and being forthwith made known to that most worthy patron of learning Dr. Rob. Pink warden of New coll. he entred them chaplains of that house, where they had lodging and diet. In July the same year, Mr. Gunning was incorporated master of arts of this university, but whether Mr. Barrow was, or took any other degree, it appears not in the public register. About the same time Mr. Gunning became [764]

⁴ [They tell me from Clare hall that Dr. Tillotson was not put in fellow there till about 1651. WOOD, MS. Note in Ashmole.]

⁵ [See a full account of this tract in the Life of Barwick,
 Lond. 1724, page 34, &c.]

curate for Mr. Jasp. Mayne at Cassington, four miles north-west distant from Oxon, in which service continuing about two years, he endured several affronts and abuses by the parliamentarian soldiers from Abingdon and elsewhere, either by interrupting him with base language, or by pulling him out of the church. Besides the constant duty at New coll. and his reading prayers and preaching every Sunday at Cassington, he sometimes preached either before the king, or parliament sitting at Oxon. In consideration of which he was one of those many that had the degree of bach. of divinity confer'd upon him, and accordingly was admitted on the day before the garrison of Oxon was surrendered for the use of the parliament: So that he having been incorporated, and afterwards admitted to a superior degree with us, is the reason why I now put him among the Oxford writers, tho' indeed Cambridge is more properly his mother. After the surrender of Oxon, he undertook the charge and tuition of Christopher, afterwards, lord Hatton and sir Franc. Compton, in both whom, he instill'd most excellent principles of loyalty. Afterwards he was chaplain to sir Rob. Shirley father of Rob. (which last was made lord Ferrers of Chartley) who settled on him about 100*l.* per an. for his life, being more particularly moved thereunto for his great abilities, and the learning which he shew'd in the silencing a popish priest, with whom he held two or three set disputations for the satisfaction of his patron and others that engaged him in them. Not long after sir Rob. Shirley dyed in the Tower, having been committed to that place for his loyalty; so that thereupon Mr. Gunning betaking himself to the holding a constant congregation in the chappel at Exeter-house in the Strand, did, by his reading the English liturgy, preaching, and administring, assert the cause of the church of England with great pains and courage, when the parliament was most predominant: and his sermons and prayers being performed very regularly according to the ancient usage of the church, great numbers of well-affected and honest people flocked to them, as others did to other loyal preachers in several parts in, and near, the city of London, whereby thousands being confirmed in the communion of the church of England, as in other parts of the nation, was thereby frustrated and taken away the groundless reproach cast upon the true protestants by the romanists that their church was lost. Besides these his labours, for which he was often sent for and reprov'd by the usurper Oliver, he would on the week days look out all sorts of sectaries and dispute with them openly in their own congregations: Nor was there any considerable sect, whether presbyterian, independent, anabaptist, quaker, brownist, socinian, &c. but that he held with them, some time or other, a set public disputation in defence of the church of England. About the time of the king's restoration he was possess'd of the rectories of Cotesmore in the county of Rutland⁶ and of Stoke-Brewen in Northamptonshire,⁷ which he long before had title to, but kept out for his loyalty. The vicaridge of S. Martin's in the Fields in Westminster was first design'd him, and a prebendship of Canterbury:⁸ the last he had, but the other not, as being thought more for the service of the public to fix him for a while in the university of Cambridge, where being first made D. of D. and master of Corp. Ch. coll. and soon after of S. John's, he was for a little while Margaret professor;⁹ and as soon as Dr. Ant. Tuckney was removed, he was made reg. professor of divinity as the fittest man for that chair that could be then chosen, to settle the university right in their principles again, after many corruptions had crept in there by means of the rebellion. I say that he did not only succeed the said Tuckney in the divinity chair,¹ but also in the mastership of S. John's coll. who having been lawfully ejected from both, as having had no right title to either, yet such was the goodness of Dr. Gunning that he allowed him a very considerable annuity during his life. Which act of his, being excellent and singular, is here remembred to his everlasting fame, and the rather for this reason, that no presbyterian or independent was ever known to allow any loyalist, whose places they had occupied for several years, the least farthing, but rather rejected and avoided them, vilified, scorn'd and exposed them to the plebeians, as empty, formal, and starch'd nothings. These things I have known, and do remember them as done in this university, and the like without all doubt was used at Cambridge:

⁶ [Petrus Gunning S. T. P. ad rect. de Cottesmore, ex pres. Rogeri Heath armig. die 20 Dec. 1660. Reg. Petrib. 10 Martii 1669, Nich. Onley cler. ad rect. de Cottesmore in com. Rotel. per promot. Petri Gunning ad ep. Cicestr. ex pres. regis. Reg. Henshaw Ep. Petrib. KENNET.]

⁷ [19 Apr. 1670, Will. Rolf cler. ad rect. de Stoke Bruern com. North'ton, per promot. Petri Gunning S. T. P. ad ep. Cicestr. Reg. Petriburg. KENNET.]

⁸ [An. 1660 he was admitted canon of Canterbury; to whom succeeded Dr. J. Tillotson 1669. BAKER.]

⁹ [Peter Gunning D. D. sometime fellow of Clare hall, and successively master of Corpus Christi and St. John's coll. admitted Marg. prof. by the king's letters, 1660, grounded upon his sufferings and deserts. Catal. of Profes. KENNET.]

¹ [A Letter of Mr. Tho. Baker B. D. dat. Cambridge June 13, 1727, to me. Dr. Calamy in his account vol. ii, page 78, saith 'upon the death of Dr. Arrowsmith he (Dr. Tuckney) was chosen regius professor. It was upon the resignation of Dr. Arrowsmith Dr. Tuckney was elected regius professor, Feb. 1, 1655, and so entred upon the Black Book, and attested by the electors. Resignatio doctoris Arrowsmith data est Jan. 10, 1655 (Ex orig. sub sigillo). Intimatio vacationis per resignationem D. Arrowsmith data est Jan. 12, 1655 (Ex orig.) Dr. John Arrowsmith was buried Febr. 24, 1658. (Reg. Omn. Sanctorum.)]

Petrus Gunning S. T. P. electus regius professor S. theol. in acad. Cant. Junii 22, 1661. (Black Book.) Intimatio vacationis per cess. Ant. Tuckney S. T. P. data est Junii 13, 1661 (Ex orig.) Petrus Gunning S. T. P. admiss. magister coll. Jo. Jun. 25, 1661. KENNET.

See also Kennel's Register and Chronicle, page 600, in marg. as well as the letter from the king for Dr. Tuckney's quiet recession.]

and yet so it is, that some of the dregs of these men that yet remain among us,¹ have not been content with the king's clemency to keep their places to this day, but take all occasions, upon the least interruption in the nation, to breed faction among us, jealousies in the people of the violent coming in of popery, make continual clamours after preferment, as if they had deserv'd it as well as sufferers, and I know not what. But now to return to the worthy person whom we are further to mention: Be it remembered therefore that upon the death of Dr. Hen. King he was promoted to the see of Chichester; to which being consecrated on the sixth day of March (the third Sunday in Lent) an. 1669, sate there till the death of Dr. Benj. Laney bishop of Ely, which hapning towards the latter end of 1674, he was translated to that see, on the fourth day of March the same year, with a particular acknowledgment from his majesty of his steadiness to the church, having kept up the face thereof in the worst of times. In all the several preferments that he went thro' from the first to the last, he was first thought of by his prince or patron, before he himself made any application whatsoever. While he continued in Cambridge he was a constant preacher, and looked upon as so unblameable in his life and practice, that his sehismatical and factious adversaries were sorry that they could not possibly fasten the least spot on him. He was admired by great scholars, as well abroad, as at home, for his profound divinity, was noted much also in England for his diffusive charity;² for what he had not spent in his life-time by supplying scholars at Cambridge, by his large endowments and bountiful benefactions in that place, by his great sums laid out on his sees, as well as formerly on his livings, by his daily relieving at his door from his table all sorts of indigent and distressed persons, and by privately supplying others with a plentiful hand, he disposed the remainder by his last will and test. to be laid out for the augmentation of poor vicarages. Under his name go these things following,

A Contention for Truth: in two several public Disputations before thousands of People in the Church of S. Clement Danes, without Temple-Bar, on the 19th and 26th of Nov. (1657) between Mr. Gunning on the one Part and Mr. (Hen.) Denn³ on the other, concerning the Baptism of Infants, whether lawful or unlawful. Lond. 1658. qu.

¹ [Dr. Jo. Wallis, Geo. Reynel, &c. Wood, MS. note in Ashmole.]

² [1675, Mar. 14; Given towards rebuilding the Herald's office, by Lord bishop of Ely, Dr. Gunning, 10l. KENNEDY.]

³ [Denn published a tract called A Quaker no Papist, and therein misrepresented the conference (next mentioned) and was answered by Mr. Tho. Smith of Christ coll. Camb. in his Gagg for the Quakers. See Dr. Tagwel's (master of Jesus Camb.) Reformation of the Church of England, according to the Canons of the Council of Nice. This (Dr. Tagwel's) tract is a very curious piece, and in the preface there is an exact account of the conference. Printed 4to. 1688. WATTS.]

Schism unmask'd: or a late Conference betwixt Mr. Pet. Gunning and Mr. John Pierson Ministers, on the one Part, and two Disputants⁶ of the Romish Persuasion on the other. Wherein is defin'd, both what Schism is, and to whom it belongs, &c. Paris 1658. in tw. [Bodl. 8vo. B. 193. Th.] This conference is said to have been began in May 1657. The large preface to it was written by two catholic disputants, who published the whole, and 'tis presum'd not so fairly on the protestant's side, as in truth and justice they ought to have done. "Upon the title of this book bishop Barlow noted thus. 'I am told that John White (author of a Letter to a Person of Honour in Vindication of himself and his Doctrine—printed 1659. oct.) was he who did principally manage and put out this disputation.' To which he afterwards added this note—'Others say his name was Spenser (the same who answer'd Dr. Laud's book) and Dr. Lenthall was his associate, who was first of Christ's coll. in Cambridge, then fellow of Pembroke hall, a preacher and in orders—Afterwards turning papist, would have profess'd the civil law, but his superiors made him profess physie, and a physician now he is 1663—This Dr. Breton master of Emanuel coll. (who was at the debate) assures me.' A Jesuit who went by the name of Spenser a Lincolnshire man is said to be the author of Questions propounded for Resolution of unlearned Pretenders in Matters of Religion, to the Doctors of the prelatical, pretended re-form'd Church of England.—Paris (alias Lond. as it seems) 1657 octavo 4 sh."

View and Corrections of the Common Prayer, An. 1662,—At which Mr. Baxter, if I mistake not, carped.

The Paschal or Lent-Fast Apostolical and perpetual. Lond. 1662. qu. [Bodl. A. 1. 2. Linc.] This at first was but a sermon preached before the king, who forced it into the press by his repeated commands; and thereupon he added so much to it, as to make it a compleat treatise on that subject.

Appendix containing an Answer to the late printed Objections of the Presbyterians against the Fast of Lent.—printed with the former book. See in the FASTI 1669 among the incorporations, in Will. Saywell. At length, this worthy bishop, who continued single all his days, wholly addicted to his studies and the service of God, and had made preaching and doing all the good offices proper to a bishop so much his delight, that, according to the usual saying, he died in his calling; did surrender up his pious soul to God on Sunday the sixth day of July in sixteen hundred eighty and four; whereupon his body was buried with due solemnity in the cathedral church of Ely. As Dr. Fr. Turner sometime fellow of New coll.⁷ succeeded him in the mastership of that of S. John's chiefly by his means, so did he likewise in the bishoprick of Ely; between whom there passed many affectionate endearments. Much more may be said of this most pious and learned bishop, but he being not totally ours, I shall omit it, and commend you to his large character given of him in a book entit. A Discourse delivered in two Sermons in the Cathedral at Ely, in Sept. 1684, &c. p. 4, 5, &c. Written, spoken and published by Humph. Gower D.D.⁸ master of S. John's coll. in Cambridge (in the place of Dr. Turner before-mention'd) and one of the prebendaries of Ely, printed 1685. in qu.

⁵ The same, as it seems, who was afterwards bishop of Chester.

⁶ [One of the disputants of the Romish persuasion was William Johnson alias Terret. See Baxter Of the true Church, p. 1. 3. BAKER.]

1684.

[767]

[Peter Gunning admitted into Clare hall 1629, where he had a double scholarship. A. B. 1632. Elected fellow on New-years-day the same year. A. M. 1635. S. T. B. at Oxford 1646, where he continued 'till the surrender: after lived with the viscountess Falkland, then with lord Hatton. In the year 1656, sir Rob. Shirley settled an annuity of 100 pounds on him for life, in whose house he continued 'till his death in the Tower. After continued publicly officiating for the church of England (with his assistant Mr. William Chamberlain) 'till the restoration. In 1660 he was made king's chaplain, D. D. and preb. of Cant. and about Christmas inducted into the parsonage of Stoke-Bruerne and Cotesmore, by the presentation of lord Hatton and sir Edward Heath. This is the bishop's own account, agreeing pretty well. BAKER.]

There was published in Bibliotheca Literaria, numb. 2, in 1722, A Letter from Bishop Gunning to Archbishop Sheldon concerning the Power of Metropolitans. LOVEDAY.

There are two heads of Gunning: one by Loggan, the other (a mezz.) by J. Smith.]

⁷ [Franciscus Turner cler. A. M. admittend. ad rect. de Therfield com. Hartf. subscripsit articulis 20 Dec. 1664. Autogr. MS. KENNET.]

⁸ [Son of Stanley Gower, of whom see the preface of bishop Usher's 18 Sermons, printed Lond. 1660. See his life of Richard Rothwell amongst Clark's Lives. See his attestation to Dr. Owen's Treatise of Redemption, or Salus Electorum, &c. printed 1648. BAKER.]

Humphrey Gower was educated in Paul's school under Samuel Cromleholme, with whom he removed from Dorchester free-school to this of Pauls. He has left in his will twenty pounds rent-charge out of his Triplove estate in Cambridgeshire, after the death of his executor, for exhibitions towards the maintenance of two indigent scholars, which shall be sons of clergymen, and educated in one or both of these schools. He died in St. John's college, Cambridge, and is buried in the college chappel with this inscription. MS. Deposium Viri admodum reverendi Humfredi Gower, S. T. P. Coll. Div. Johannis Præfeti, S. Theol. pro Domina Margareta Professoris, Ecclesiæ Eliensis Canonici; Qui Collegium per annos triginta et amplius strenue ac feliciter regebat. Obiit 27 Martii anno Domini 1711: Ætatis suæ 74. MACRO.]

WILLIAM DURHAM, son of Joh. Durh. of Willersley near Campden in Gloucestershire, was born there, educated in grammar learning under one Mr. Sturby who kept a private school at Broadway in the same county, became a student of New inn in 1626, aged 15 years, took the degrees in arts, holy orders, and when about an years standing in the degree of master, he was made curate to Dr. Thom. Bunbury rector of S. Mary's church in Reading. In the beginning of the civil war he left that place, retired to London, and there, after some short stay, was chosen preacher of the rolls in Chancery lane, at which time he took the covenant. From thence, by a presentation, he went into Berks, and became rector of Burfield, being about that time bach. of divinity, and thence was translated to the rich rectory of Tredington in Worcestershire, which before, I cannot say immediately, had been enjoyed by Dr. Will. Smith sometime warden of Wadham coll. After his majesty's restoration he was ejected thence to make room for Dr. Jos. Crowther of S. John's coll. who before had obtained a presentation thereunto: whereupon our author Durham retiring to London, lived there for some time without a cure. At length upon his conformity to the church of England, sir Nich. Crispe presented him to the rectory of S. Mildred's in Bread-street⁹ within the city of London (to which parish, that of S. Margaret Moses was joyned after the dreadful fire in the said city) where he finished his course. He hath extant, Several sermons, as (1) Maran-Atha: The second Advent, or Christ's Coming to Judgment, an Assize Serm. at Warwick, 25th of July 1651. on Jam. 5. 9. Lond. 1652. qu. (2) Serm. before the Artillery Company at S. Andrew's-undershaft, 30 Aug. 1670; on 1 Cor. 16. 13. Lond. 1671. qu. [Bodl. 4to. B. 92. Th.] (3) Sermon before the L. Mayor and Court of Aldermen at S. Mary le Bow, 21 Nov. 1675; on Prov. 29. 1. Lond. 1676. qu.

A serious Exhortation to the necessary Duties of Families and personal Instruction, for the Use of Tredington Parish—Printed in 1659. in tw.

The Life and Death of that judicious Divine and accomplished Preacher Rob. Harris D. D. lately President of Trinity Coll. in Oxon, &c. Lond. 1660. oct. He died on the seventh day of July in sixteen hundred eighty and four, and was buried in the chancel of the church of S. Mildred before-mention'd, in a vault belonging to the ministers thereof, just under the communion table.

[Among bishop Barlow's books in the Bodleian,¹ is a sermon ascribed to this author, and if it be the

⁹ [Will. Durham S. T. B. admiss. ad eccl. S. Mildredæ Breadstreet, 23 Feb. 1663, per nonconform. Ric. Adams; ad pres. Nicolai Crisp militis. Reg. Lond.

¹ Fra. Bridge S. T. P. ad eand. 29 Jul. 1684, per mort. Will. Durham; ad pres. regis. KENNET.]

¹ [See it marked C. 8. 20. Linc.]

1684.

same William Durham (which I doubt) who was a member of New Inn, it adds somewhat to Wood's account: Encouragement to Charity. A Sermon preached at the Charter House Chapel Dec. 12, 1678, at an Anniversary Meeting in Commemoration of the Founder. By William Durham, D. D. (sometimes Scholar of that Foundation) and Chaplain to his Grace the Duke of Monmouth. Lond. 1679. 4to.]

ROBERT SHARROCH a minister's son " (descended from a genteel family living near Truro " in Cornwall)" was born at Aldstock near to, and in the county of, Buckingham, educated in Wykeham's school near Winchester, admitted perpetual fellow of New coll. an. 1649 or thereabouts, took the degrees in the civil law, that of doctor being compleated in 1661, became afterwards rector of Horewood in Buckinghamshire, ² prebendary of Winchester, rector of Bishops Waltham in Hampshire, a justice of peace for that county, and at length archdeacon of Winchester in the place of Dr. Walt. Darrell deceased; in which dignity he was installed 28 Apr. 1684, being then accounted learned in divinity, in the civ. and com. law, and very knowing in vegetables and all pertaining thereunto. He hath published,

The History of the Propagation and Improvement of Vegetables, by the Concurrence of Art and Nature: shewing the several Ways for the Propagation of Plants usually cultivated in England, as they are increased by Seeds, Off-sets, Suckers, &c. Oxon. 1660 and 1672 oct. [Bodl. 8vo. J. 45. Art.] An account of which book you may see in the Philosophical Transactions, numb. 84. p. 5002.

[768] Hypothesis de Officiis secundum humanæ Rationis dictata, seu Naturæ Jus, unde Casus omnes Conscientiæ, quatenus Notiones à Naturâ supersunt, dijudicari possint, &c. Oxon. 1660. oct. In this he writes against the Principia and Rationes of Hobbes of Malmesbury, belonging to ethics and politics. This book came out at Oxon again, in 1682 in a large oct. [Bodl. 8vo. B. 376. Line.] with many additions to it, with the title a little alter'd and enlarg'd, and dedicated to the king.

Judicia (seu Legum Censura) de variis Incontinentiæ Speciebus, &c. Oxon. 1662. in a large oct. [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 318. Th.]

De Finibus Virtutis Christianæ. The Ends of Christian Religion, &c. justified in several Discourses. Oxon. 1673. qu. [Bodl. 4to. J. 37. Th.] contained in ten sermons. He also reviewed and compared with several copies Provinciale vetus Provinciæ Cantuariensis, cum selectioribus Linwoodi Annotationibus. Oxon. 1664. in a thick oct. [Bodl. 8vo. N. 63. Line.] He concluded his last day on the eleventh of July in sixteen hundred eighty and four, and was buried in the church of Bishops Waltham before-mention'd. In his archdeaconry was installed Tho. Clutterbook D. D. rector and vicar of South Stoneham near Southampton, in his prebendship Sam. Palmer M. A. sometime of Mert. coll. and in Bishops Waltham succeeded Franc. Morley M. A. of Ch. Ch. great nephew to Dr. Morley bishop of Winton, who about the same time had a prebendship bestowed on him in the said church of Winton on the resignation of Dr. Geo. Beaumont, by the said bishop.

² [Robertus Sharrock I.L.D. admittend. ad rect. de Whorwood-Magna in com. Buck. subscripsit artic. 29 Junii, 1665. Ex Autogr. MS. KENNET.]

WILLIAM MASTER, second son of sir Will. Mast. of Cirencester in Gloucestershire knight, was born there, admitted bach. fellow of Mert. coll. from that of Ch. Ch. by the committee of parliament and visitors of the university, 25 Mar. 1650, being then an undergraduate; took the degree of master of arts about two years after, and under the name of a student in theology did publish these two things following, he being then 26 years of age.

Essays and Observations Theological and Moral. Wherein many of the Humours and Diseases of the Age are discovered and characterized, &c. Lond. 1653. oct.

Drops of Myrrhe: or Meditations and Prayers. —These are printed with the former book, and are fitted to divers arguments in that work. Afterwards the author was beneficed at Woodford Rowe in Essex, was bach. of divinity, rector of S. Vedastus in Foster-lane in Lond. and a minor preb. in S. Paul's cathedral; but what else he published, I cannot yet find. He died in the month of Sept. or thereabouts, in sixteen hundred eighty and four, and was buried in the church of Woodford before-mentioned. By his last will and test. he gave to the univ. of Oxon 5*l.* per an. to have two sermons preached every year in S. Mary's church there, viz. one on Shrove Sunday and the other on the last Sunday in June.

[Will. Masters admiss. ad rect. de Woodford com. Midd. 13 Feb. 1660—Ad eccl. de South-church com. Essex, 3 Jul. 1666, quam resign. 1667; coll. ab. archiep. Cant. ad eccl. S. Vedasti Foster-lane, Lond.

1663, 17 Jul. Gul. Master A. M. coll. ad preb. de Chamberlains-wode, per mortem Gul. Heywood S. T. P. Reg. London.

Will. Masters coll. ad preb. de Cadington major in eccl. Paul. 14 Febr. 1666, per promot. Joh. Dolben ad epat. Roffen. successit in ead. Will. Stanley S. T. P. 18 Sept. 1684, per mort. Masters. KENNET.

Master married Susannah eldest daughter of Job Yate, rector of Rodmorton, Gloucestershire. He (Master) gave to the vicar of Preston, Gloucestersh. the impropriation thereof, to the value of 58*l.* per ann. WATTS.

1684.

1684.

It is probable this is the same William Masters mentioned in the Life of Bishop Bull as vicar of Preston, who married Mr. Bull to Mrs. Bridget Gregory, according to the form prescribed in the book of prayer, the use of which was then forbidden under a great penalty. See Nelson's Life of Dr. George Bull, page 45.]

"NATHANIEL HODGES, son of Thom. Hodges vicar of Kensington near London, (of whom is mention made in the FASTI of this vol. an. 1642,) was bred as it seems in Westminster school, became student of Ch. Ch. by the favour of the visitors, an. 1648, took the degrees in arts, entred on the physic line, took the degrees in that faculty, an. 1659, went to London, practised and continued there during the violent raging of the plague in 1665; by which he obtained a great name and practice among the citizens, and was about that time made fellow of the coll. of physicians. He wrote,

"Vindiciæ Medicinæ & Medicorum. An Apology for the Profession and Professors of Physic, &c. Lond. 1660. oct.³

Clar.
1684.

"ΛΟΙΜΟΛΟΓΙΑ: sive Pestis uiperæ apud Populum Londinensem grassantis Narratio historica.⁴ Lond. 1672. oct. He was living in 1684, and died poor in Ludgate prison about that time."

[In the church of St. Steph. in Walbrook, against the wall in the north isle, a plain grey marble monument, with this inscription in capitals.

Disce dies numerare tuos, nam præterit ætas
Furtivo pede, sinceram fugit umbra quietem,
Quarens mortales nati ut succumbere possint,
A tergo lictor, dum spiras victima mortis;
Ignoras horam qua te tua fata vocabunt;
Marmora dum spectas, perit irrevocabile tempus.
Hoc jacet in tumulo Medicus Nathanael Hodges,
In spe cælorum, nunc terræ filius, olim
Qui fuit Oxonii, scriptis de peste superstes.

Natus Septemb. 13. Ann. Dom. 1629.

Obiit 10 Junii 1688.

At the top of the monument these arms. Or, a crescent sable and chief of the 2^d impal. On a pyle gu. 3 fleurs de lis or. WANLEY.]

GEORGE MORLEY, son of Francis Morley, esq; by Sarah Denham his wife, sister to sir Joh. Denham one of the barons of his majesty's Exchequer, was born in Cheapside within the city of London, on the 27th of Feb. 1597. He lost his father when he was six years of age, his mother

³ [A copy in the Bodleian dated Lond. 1655. 8vo. J. 78. Linc.]

⁴ [Translated into English, and published in 1720, by Dr. John Quiney, who added An Essay on the different Causes of Pestilential Diseases, and how they become contagious, &c. Bodl. 8vo. D. 70. Med.]

when 12, and that little patrimony that he was born to, by his father's being engaged in other men's debts. At 14 years of age, or thereabouts, he was elected one of the king's scholars of the coll. at Westm. and in the beginning of the year 1615 he became student of Ch. Ch. "under the tuition of "Mr. John Wall," where with very great industry running thro' all the classes of logic and philosophy, he took the degrees in arts. After he had continued in that royal foundation seven years in the degree of master, he was invited by Robert earl of Caernarvon and his lady to be chaplain in their house, where he lived till he was 43 years of age, without having, or seeking, any preferment in the church. After this, he was preferred to the rectory of Hartfield in Sussex, which, being a sinecure, he exchanged with Dr. Rich. Steuart, then clerk of the closet to his majesty, for the parsonage of Mildenhall near Marlborough in Wiltshire. But before he had that charge, he had a prebendship of Ch. Ch. bestowed on him by the king (to whom he was chaplain in ord.) an. 1641, which was the only preferment he ever desired, and of which he gave the first year's profit to the king, towards the charge of his wars, which were then commenc'd against him by a prevalent party of presbyterians in the long parliament: At the beginning of which he preached one of the first solemn sermons before the commons, but so little to their gust and liking, that they commanded all the rest of the sermons, but not his, to be printed. Yet after this, being then doctor of divinity, he was nominated one of the assembly of divines by both houses, as Dr. Prideaux B. of Worcester, Dr. H. Hammond, &c. were, but neither he, or either of them, appeared among them. As for his part, he always remained with his majesty, did him what service he could, as long as the war continued. After which he was employed by his majesty, then a prisoner at Hampton Court, to engage the university of Oxon not to submit to the illegal visitation, that had been began, but for the present intermitted, because of the violent proceedings of the army. Which affair he managed with such success, that the convocation did presently pass an act for that purpose, but with one dissenting voice only, tho' they were then under the power of the enemy, that is, the parliament forces. After this, he was chosen by the members of the university, with some other assistants named by himself, to negotiate the making good of their articles which were framed at the surrender of the garrison of Oxon, to the said forces: which he did to that degree, as to gain time for the getting in of their rents, and to dispose of themselves, I mean as many of them as were resolved not to submit to their new masters. Soon after, he was one of the first that was deprived of all that he had in Oxon, or elsewhere, for not submitting to them, tho' he was offer'd by one of the grandees of the house of commons, to keep all that he had, without being put to say or do, or subscribe any thing against his conscience, if he would but then give his word only, that he would not actually appear against them or their proceedings.⁵ See in Hist. & Antiq. Univ. Oxon. lib. 1. 391. a. b. 393. a. 394. a. 395. a. 396. a. &c. After this he was one of the divines that was sent for by the king to assist at the treaty in the isle of Wight; which proving ineffectual, he resolved (having first assisted the gallant Arthur lord Capell, as his confessor, before his execution, in the beginning of Mar. 1648) to quit his country and find out the young king, and never to return till he and the crown and the church were restored. With this resolution he left England in the 51st year of his age, and found him at the Hague, where he was graciously received by him. From thence he went first with him into France, and from thence with him to the Scotch treaty at Breda, and there preach'd the last sermon that the king heard before he went into Scotland: whither being not suffer'd to carry any of his own divines with him, he the said Dr. Morley went thereupon to the Hague, and after some short stay there, he went with his dearest friend Dr. Jo. Earle to live at Antwerp, where they continued together in the house of sir Charles Cotel master of the ceremonies, for the space of one year or thereabouts. At which time sir Charles being called thence to be steward to the queen of Bohemia, and Dr. Earle to attend on his highness James duke of York then in France, Dr. Morley continued still in Antwerp with the lady Frances Hyde (her husband sir Edw. Hyde being then ambassador for the king in Spain) and all the time he was there, which was about three or four years, he read the service of the church of England twice every day, catechiz'd once a week, and administred the communion once a month to all the English in the town, who would come to it, as he did afterwards at Breda for 4 years together in the same family. But betwixt his going from Antwerp and his coming to Breda, he was invited by the queen of Bohemia to the Hague to be her chaplain: And he thereupon knowing her condition to be necessitous, thought himself so much therather oblig'd both in conscience towards God, and in duty to the royal family (for she was sister to king Charles I.) to wait on her, and accordingly he did, and readily officiated both in her family, and in the English church there, about two years and an half, without expecting or receiving any salary or gratuity at all for so doing. There, as in all other places, where he lived, especially at Breda, he was blest with a retirement full of satisfaction to himself, and with many opportunities of doing much good to others also. For besides

[769]

[770]

⁵ [As specious as this was, he rejected it, detesting even the appearance of a rebel, and being cut out of opportunity of serving and assisting the king. He was then dispossessed by force, and turned also out of his living of Mildenhall. He was threatened to be taken into custody for not submitting to the reformers; and was, at length, imprisoned for a time. MACRO.]

the constant reading of the prayers of the church, his catechizing of young persons, his administering the holy sacraments, and his devoutest supplications for the king and the church in private, he visited the sick and buried the dead, and relieved many, whom their loyalty had impoverished. His learned acquaintance abroad were Andr. Rivet, Dan. Heinsius and Claud. Salmasius, whom he often visited; to the last of which, then abiding at Leyden, the king sent our author Morley to give him thanks in his name for the apology he had published for his martyr'd father, but not with a purse of gold as Joh. Milton the impudent Iyer reported. But his acquaintance was more intimate with the famous Sam. Bochart, to whom he wrote a Latin letter from Paris, declaring his reasons of not coming to the French congregation: To which Mr. Bochart printed an answer in Latin the year following. (Samuelis Bocharti Epistola, quæ respondetur ad tres Quæstiones: De Presbyteratu & Episcopatu, &c. Par. 1650. tw. was written to Dr. George Morley.) And as he was zealous for the church, so he was also for his royal master, witness the large epistle he wrote in Latin to Triglandius to vindicate his master from the false aspersion of popery. For his friends at home (of whom he never lost any but by death only) were eminent both for parts and quality: the chiefest of which were Lucius lord Falkland, and sir Francis Wenman of Oxfordshire, both long since dead, and Edward earl of Clarendon, who died long after them. Among the clergy were Dr. Rob. Payne, Dr. H. Hammond and Dr. Rob. Sanderson (late bish. of Linc.) who were all canons of Ch. Ch. at the same time with him. To these may be added many more, as Mr. W. Chillingworth, Dr. Gilh. Sheldon archb. of Cant. Dr. Earle of Salisbury, &c. with the two last of which he kept a constant friendship for above 40 years, and enjoyed the company of Dr. Earle very often abroad, which made his banishment less tedious to him. After his majesty's return, this most worthy person Dr. Morley was first made dean of Ch. Ch. (being then chapl. to the dutchess of York) whence, after he had restored those that had been illegally ejected in 1648, &c. and had filled up the vacant places, he was called to be bishop of Worcester, to which see he was consecrated in the abbey church at Westm. on the 28th of Octob. 1660, and in the beginning of the next year had the honour to preach the king's coronation sermon, and soon after was made dean of the chapel royal in the place of Dr. Sheldon. In 1662 he was upon the death of Dr. Duppa translated to the see of Winchester (confirmed therein 14 May the same year) where he hath truly verified the saying that the king gave when he bestowed the said bishoprick on him, that he would never be the richer for it. For besides his expences in building and repairing his palace at Winchester, he hath laid out much more than the supplies the parliament gave him in the act, which impowered him to lease out Waltham park, and his tenements which were built out of Winchester House in Southwark. He spent 8000*l.* in repairing the castle at Farnham, before the year 1672, and afterwards spent more, and above 4000*l.* in purchasing Winchester House at Chelsea to annex it to the see, which when he came to, he found not an house to dwell in, yet afterwards left two fair ones to his successors. At that time also he had not purchased one foot of land or lease, as if he had taken more care to enrich the poor than his relations, and what his benefaction was to the coll. that gave him education, you may see in Hist. & Antiq. Univ. Oxon. lib. 2. p. 285. a. In the first year of his translation he visited his diocese in person, and went into the isle of Wight, where had not been a bishop before, in the memory of man. In July 1664 he came to Oxon and visited in person those colleges which of right belonged to him as bishop of Winchester, was received, and entertained with great solemnity in all, only in Ch. Ch. coll. finding stubbornness he bound some to their good behaviour. Daniel Agas one of the fellows, who had been educated there under the presbyterians, accused the bishop of injustice before his face, for granting and sending letters to the coll. in behalf of Tho. Turner (son of Dr. Th. Turner) to come in scholar, for which his impudence he was put out of commons for three weeks. This most worthy doctor, who was most famous for his great charity and benefaction while he sate at Winchester, was a person of approved and thoroughly tried loyalty, not of the number of those lukewarm irreligious temporizers, who had learn'd politiciely to shift and quit their principles to make them suit to the times, and so plially to tack about, as still to be ready to receive whatever revolution and turn of affairs should happen, and by an easy submission to that government which was uppermost, always to stand fair for promotion under a succession of continued usurpations, tho' of a quite different nature and complexion. He was so firmly settled in, and fixed to, the ch. of England, that he constantly bore up against, and became impregnable either by the attempting allurements of a splendid papacy, or the reproachful and ignominious treatment of the ruder disciplinarian party. He had courage enough to own a persecuted church, and an exil'd prince, and as he vindicated on all occasions the honour and dignity of the former, both against the open assaults and batteries of her professed adversaries, and the more sly and undermining insinuations of her pretended friends; so did he act with no less vigour, by leaving no projects unattempted, which carried in them any reasonable probability of success, whereby he might effect his majesty's restoration to his crown and just rights: which altho' managed with his utmost skill, industry and best interest, yet fell short of his design. And as he was a constant adherer to his master in his sufferings, who reposed so great confidence in his experience'd fidelity, as to admit him to the honourable privacy of his most important and weighty concerns, so he was upon, and since, the restoration, rewarded by him, as I have before told you, for his many eminent and good services done by himself, and, upon his engagement, by others, for the royal cause and family. He was a great Calvinist, and esteemed one of the main patrons of those of that persuasion. He was a good and pious prelate, who by temperance and a regular exercise did arrive to a good old age, having enjoyed ease and quiet for many years, since that time he was forced to eat his bread in foreign countries. In the 74th year of his age, and after, he was without any remarkable decay, either in his limbs or senses. His usual course then was to rise about 5 of the clock in the morning, winter and summer, and to go to bed about eleven at night, and in the coldest mornings never to have a fire, or warm his bed at night. He eat but once in 24 hours, and had never either gout, stone, stangury, or head-ach, but enjoyed almost a constant health from his infancy, having never kept his bed for any sickness, but twice only. Afterwards his grinders began to cease, and those that looked out of the windows began to be darkned, and other infirmities followed to conduct him to his long home, where, that he might safely arrive, and that it might be to him a place of everlasting rest and happiness, he did humbly in his last days beg all good men's prayers. As for his works of learning, they are these.

[771]

[772]

Sermon at the Coronation of K. Ch. II. in the Collegiate Church of S. Peter in Westm. 23 Apr. 1661; on Prov. 28. 2. Lond. 1661. qu.

Letter to a Friend in Vindication of himself from Mr. Baxter's Calumny. Lond. 1662. qu. in six sh. and an half. [Bodl. B. 12. 13. Linc.] The writing of which was occasion'd by some passages in Mr. Baxter's address to the inhabitants of Kederminster before his book entit. The Mischief of Self-ignorance in the Benefits of Self-acquaintance. These reflected on that account which our author Morley had before briefly, both in a sermon at Kederminster (soon after he, as bishop of Worcester, had prohibited Baxter to preach there) and in a conference held in his own house with him, in the presence of Dr. Warnstry dean of Worcester concerning a very groundless and dangerous exception made by the commissioners of the presbyterian persuasion (appointed by his majesty to meet others of the episcopal divines at the Savoy in the Strand, an. 1661. to review the common prayer in order to a design'd accommodation between both parties) against a solid, sound position at that time laid down in a due and regular form of reasoning by the commissioners nominated to appear in the church's behalf. But as to the letter before-mention'd Baxter in his Second Part of the Nonconformists Plea for Peace, &c. and in his Apology for the Nonconformists Ministers, &c. endeavours to answer some parts of it, and the bishop (Morley) is mention'd by name among of Magd. hall he was admitted to the same degree an. 1648, being about that time a minister in Salisbury. Afterwards settling at Newbury in Berks, where he was much resorted to by those of the presbyterian persuasion, he was constituted one of the assistants to the commissioners of that county, for the ejection of such, whom that party and the independents then (1654) called scandalous, ignorant and insufficient ministers and schoolmasters. After the restoration of his majesty king Charles II. he became one of his chaplains, and a canonry of Windsor was offer'd to him, but he bogling long with himself, whether he should take that dignity or not, it was at length bestowed on a son of the ch. of England. Soon after being silenc'd by virtue of the act of conformity (for he seem'd then to hate a surplice⁷ and the common prayer) he preached in private to the brethren, but being often disturbed, and imprison'd once or twice, he, at length, by the persuasion of some of his friends, took holy orders from the hands of Dr. Earle bishop of Salisbury, in the church of S. Peter in the East in Oxon, in Octob. 1665, with a resolution to be conformable to the church of England. But finding not preferment, suitable to his desire, to be conferr'd upon him, and a grand neglect and scorn of the brethren, he return'd to his former opinion (which some then call'd his rags) and preached several times in conventicles to the great disturbance of the government, the peace of Newbury and the neighbourhood. When the proclamation for toleration or indulgence of religion was issued out 15 of March 1671, he became so audacious, that he did not only preach publicly in the market place there to the brethren, but disturbed, or caused to be disturbed, the good people in their going to church. Upon the breaking out of the popish plot an. 1678, when then the fanatics took all advantages to promote their respective interests, he did then appear more public again to the disturbance of the peace, preached every Sunday in a conventicle at Highcleere in Hampshire, and generally once in a week at Newbury before-mention'd, which is not far off that place. At length upon the breaking out of the presbyterian plot in June 1683, he sculk'd and retired to Inglefield in Berks, where, as I have been informed, he constantly, if his health permitted him, frequented the public service of the church of England and sermons in the church there, to the time of his death. He hath written,

[775]

Justification by Faith: or, a Confutation of that Antinomian Error, that Justification is before Faith, &c. Lond. 1652. qu. 'Tis the sum of a sermon preached at Salisbury, and is contained in 3 or 4 sh. of paper.⁸ It must be now known that one

Tho. Warren parson of Houghton in Hampshire preached at a Wednesday's lecture in Salisbury in April 1652, and therein letting fall several passages which Will. Eyre a minister in that city then present conceived to be very wide from the orthodox faith; did desire a conference with him after its conclusion. Which being accordingly held with him, they parted without any satisfaction to each other. The next day Eyre preached in the same place, and maintained what he had disputed upon the day before. Whereupon our author Woodbridge being much concern'd at the matter (for he was present at all these transactions) took Warren's part, preached the next Wednesday following on the same subject that Warren had done before. Afterwards he and Eyre, at a conference about the matter in the public meeting place after sermon, made it a public quarrel, and defied each other. So that Woodbridge being much concern'd at it, he published the aforesaid sermon, and entitled it, Justification by Faith, &c. in the body of which is contained the contents of the disputation with him by W. Eyre before-mention'd. The famous Rich. Baxter saith⁹ that 'the sight of the said sermon of Mr. Woodbridge of so much worth in so narrow room, did cause him to bless God that the church had such a man, and especially Newbury, who had so excellently learned a pastor before (meaning Dr. Twysse) who had mistaken so much in this very point'—Also¹ that 'the said sermon is one of the best, easiest and cheapest preservatives against the contagion of this part of antinomianism of any,' &c. But by the way I must tell the reader that as the said Mr. Baxter was enclining² to arminianism, so our author Woodbridge was in some points, who hath farther written,

The Method of Grace in the Justification of Sinners, against Mr. Eyre his Vindicia Justificationis gratuita, &c. Lond. 1656. qu. [Bodl. A. 10. 14. Line.]

The Apostolic Protestant Doctrine of Justification by Faith asserted——Printed with The Method of Grace, &c.

Church Members set in Joynt: or, a Discovery of the unwarrantable and disorderly Practice of private Christians, in usurping the peculiar Office and Work of Christ's own Pastors, viz. public Preaching, &c. Lond. 1656, 57. qu. He also preached an excellent sermon before king Charles II. while he was his chapl. on Acts 17. 11. but whether printed I cannot yet tell: sure I am that he published Moses and Aaron: or, the Rights of the Church and State, containing two Disputations, &c. penn'd by James Noyes sometimes of Newbury in New England——Lond. 1661. At length this Mr.

[776]

⁷ [He was one of the commissioners at the Savoy, and very desirous of an accommodation. He was addicted to no faction, but of a catholic spirit. MACRO.]

⁸ [Imprimatur Edm. Calamy, May 26, 1652: epistle to the reader by James Cranford. KENNET.]

⁹ In his preface to his Admonition to Mr. W. Eyre, and in his epist. before his Directions for Comfort.

¹ In the commendatory epist. to Mr. Woodbridge's sermon.

² See more in his Confession of Faith, &c. Printed at Lond. 1655. p. 6.

1684.

Woodbridge, who was accounted among the brethren a learned and mighty man, and had brought upon himself a very ill habit of body by his too too much agitation for the cause, gave up the ghost at Inglefield before-mention'd, on the first day of November, in sixteen hundred eighty and four: whereupon his body being attended by multitudes of dissenters to Newbury, was buried in the church there on the fourth day of the same month. As for Tho. Warren before-mention'd, he also wrote against Mr. Eyre in a book entit. Unbelievers no Subjects of Justification, nor mystical Union, vindicated against Mr. Eyre's Objections, in his Vindiciæ Justificationis gratuita, with a Refutation of that antifidean and antievangelical Error, asserted therein, viz. The Justification of a Sinner before, or without, Faith. Printed in qu. He hath also two or more sermons extant, and perhaps other things.

JOHN DALE, son of Anth. Dale of Gilfield in Yorkshire, was born there, or in that county, became a student in Qu. coll. an. 1634, aged 15 years, or thereabouts, where continuing till he was bach. of arts, was elected into a Yorkshire fellowship of Magd. coll. In 1648 he submitted to the authority of the visitors appointed by parliament, and in the year after he became bach. of divinity, and kept pace with the men then and afterwards in power, that is, with presbyterians and independents. About the time of his majesty's restoration he was presented by the president and fellows of his coll. to the rectory of Stanlake in Oxfordshire, and soon after, upon an exchange for another in Yorkshire, was inducted into the rectory of Longworth in Berks (near Stanlake) but deprived of it soon after for simony. He hath written and published, 1684.

The Analysis of all the Epistles of the New Testament, &c. Oxon. 1652. oct. and had written another book, as I have heard, fit for the press, but was never printed. He died at Stanlake before-mention'd, on the 14th day of Novemb. in sixteen hundred eighty and four, and was three days after buried in the chancel of the church there. Soon after the pres. and fell. of the said coll. presented to the said rectory of Stanlake one of their society named Thomas Smith, D. D. who keeping it not long surrendred it up to the college.

SETH BUSHELL, son of Adam Bushell, was born at Kuerdin in the parish of Leyland near Preston in Amoundernaes in Lancashire, became a commoner of S. Mary's hall in 1639, continued there till about the time that the univ. and city of Oxon were garrison'd for the king, and then retired to his own country. In 1654 he returned for a time, and took both the degrees in arts in that year, being then, as it seems, minister of Whitley in Yorkshire; and in 1665 he took the degree of bach. of div. at which time he was minister of Euxton in his own county. Afterwards proceeding in that faculty, he became vicar of Preston, and in the three last years of his life vicar of Lancaster, where he finished his course. He hath published,

VOL. IV.

Several sermons, as (1) A warning Piece for the Unruly, in two Serm. on 1 Thes. 5. 14. at the Metropolitcal Visitation of the most Rev. Fath. in God Richard L. Archb. of York, held at Preston in Lanc. and there preached. Lond. 1673. qu. (2.) The Believer's Groan for Heaven, preached at the Funeral of the Right Honourable Sir R. Houghton of Houghton Baronet, at Preston in Amoundernaes, on 2 Cor. 5. 2. Lond. 1678. qu. And another preached on the 25th day of the first month an. 1658, which George Fox, quaker, answers in his book entit. The great Mystery of the great Whore unfolded, &c. Lond. 1659. fol.

Cosmo-meros, The worldly Portion: or the best Portion of the wicked, and their Misery in the Enjoyment of it opened and applied. Lond. 1682. in tw. It is the substance of several sermons, under some abridgments, on Luke 16. 25.

Directions and Helps in Order to a heavenly and better Portion, enforced with many useful and divine Considerations—Printed with Cosmo-meros, &c. At length giving up the ghost at Lancaster in sixteen hundred eighty and four, was buried in the church there, and soon after had this epitaph put over his grave, P. S. Exuvias en hic deposuit Seth Bushell, SS. Th. Pr. Deo & Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ reformatæ usquam devotissimus, utrique Carolo angustissimis temporibus piè fidelissimus, familiæ suæ, quibusq; notus fuerat, meritò charissimus: postquam hanc suam ecclesiam vitâ inculpabili & assiduis concionibus per triennium fæliciter rexisset, quo tempore (inter alia pietatis specimina) Parochi domum modò corruituram & instauravit & auxit. Immortalitati verò natus, cœloq; maturus, spe resurrectionis terris valedixit, anno salutis 1684, ætatis 63. die Novemb. sexto.

[See an account of a MS. Latin sermon at St. Mary's in Oxford, and a Latin dissertation De Redemptione, by Seth Bushell, in my 21 vol. of MS. Collections (in the British Museum) page 121. COLE.]

NICHOLAS LOCKYER, son of Will. Lock. of Glastenbury in Somersetshire, was born in that county, entred either batler or commoner of New inn in 1629, aged 17 years, took the degree of bach. of arts, but whether that of master it appears not: And about the same time entring into holy orders according to the church of England, had some cure conferr'd on him, but upon the change of the times, occasion'd by the iniquity of the presbyterians, he closed with, preached frequently among, them, took the covenant, and afterwards preaching among the independents he took the engagement. On the 10th of Dec. 1653, he was one of the independent ministers that were presented to the parliament, to be sent commissioners by three in a circuit, for the 1684.

M

[777]

ejecting and settling of ministers according to the rules then prescribed, but that project taking not effect, he was appointed one of the commissioners by Oliver in the latter end of the said year, for the approbation of public preachers. In June 1654, he being then fellow of Eaton coll. in great favour with Oliver (to whom he was chaplain) and entrusted in several commissions, the then delegates of the university ordered that 'he the said Mr. Lockyer sometime of New inn, and master of arts of 12 years standing, might have the degree of bach. of divinity confer'd on him,' but whether he was admitted to that degree, or was ever master of arts of this university, it appears not, as it is told you before. In the latter end of 1658,³ he became provost of Eaton coll. in the place of Franc. Rouse deceased, was deprived of it at his majesty's restoration; and two years after, when the act of conformity was published, he lost an ecclesiastical benefice: so that carrying on the trade of conventicling and plotting, he was shrewdly suspected, with Ph. Nye, to have had a hand in that stupendious tragedy intended to be acted by the fanatical saints on the king, royal family, court and loyal party, in Nov. 1662, for which George Phillips, Tho. Tongue, &c. suffered death. He hath written,

Several sermons, as (1.) Fast Sermon before the House of Commons 28 Oct. 1646; on Isa. 53. 10. Lond. 1646. qu. (2.) Fast Sermon before the House of Com. Aug. 1659—This I have not yet seen, and therefore know not the text. The sum of other sermons do here follow.

A Divine Discovery of Sincerity, according to its proper and peculiar Nature, &c. Lond. 1643.⁴ oct. delivered in three sermons on 2 Cor. 11. 12.

[778]

Baulm for bleeding England and Ireland: or, seasonable Instructions for persecuted Christians, &c. Lond. 1643, 49. oct. contained in the sum or substance of 20 sermons on Colos. 1. 11, 12.

England faithfully watch'd within her Wounds: or Christ as a Father sitting up with her Children in their sowning State. Lond. 1646. qu. painfully preached on Colos. 1.

Christ's Communion with his Church Militant. Lond. 1647. oct. and 1672, [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 79. Th.] which is the fifth edition: First preached and afterwards published for the good of God's church in general. The said fifth edit. which is in oct. also, hath the author's picture before it in a cloak, with 4 verses engraven under it.⁵ The two first of which run thus,

Note well the substance of this shade so bright,
Lo, 'tis a burning and a shining light.

An Olive Leaf: or, a Bud of the Spring, viz.

³ [Elected provost of Eaton 14 Jan. 1658; admitted 1 Febr. So Th. Martin. TANNER.]

⁴ [First printed 1640, 8vo. ded. to his aunt, lady Bridget Lyddall. TANNER.]

⁵ [By Hollar.]

Christ's Resurrection, and its End, viz. the Correction of Sinners, and a Christian's compleat Relief. Lond. 1650. oct.

A Stone cut out of the Mountain: A Lecture Sermon preached at Edinburgh, concerning the Matter of visible Church—Printed in tw.⁶ Refuted by Jam. Wood a Scotch man in his pamphlet published 1654. qu. I mean the same James Wood who was afterwards professor of div. and provost of S. Salvator's coll. in the university of St. Andrew, who died about the year 1664. Whether he be the same Jam. Wood who was chaplain to, and a constant companion with, the most noble James marquess of Montross, when he made his first war against the covenanters in Scotland, and accompanied him when he left that nation, after his majesty king Charles I. had commanded him to lay down his arms and disband, I know not. Quære.

Spiritual Inspection: or, a Review of the Heart: needful for this loose and lascivious Season.—Pr. in oct.

The young Man's Call and Duty—Pr. in a small oct.

Useful Instructions for the People of God, in these evil Times. Lond. 1656. oct. Delivered in 22 sermons.

"Some seasonable Queries upon the late Act against Conventicles. Tending to discover, how much it is against the express Word of God, the positive Law of the Nation, the Law and Light of Nature, and Principles of Prudence and Policy. And therefore adjudged by the Law of the Land to be void and null, &c.—Printed 1670. qu. 2 sh. [Bodl. C. 12. 4. Linc.] Dr. Barlow's note in the title runs thus—I am told (by one who should know) that Mr. Lockyer (a nonconformist minister) was the author of this seditious pamphlet—He is now, June 9, 1670, fled beyond sea."

A Memorial of God's Judgments Spiritual and Temporal: or Sermons to call to Remembrance, &c. Lond. 1671. oct. First preached in six sermons, and then published for public use. What other things he hath published I cannot tell, nor do I know any thing else of him, only that he spending his last days at Woodford in Essex, where he kept, or at least frequented, conventicles, died a wealthy man on the 13th of March or thereabouts, in sixteen hundred eighty and four: whereupon his body was buried some days after in the chappel of S. Mary of Matfellow, commonly called Whitechappel near London, leaving then behind him two daughters called Abigail and Elizabeth.

[Nic. Lockyer A. B. ex aula Novi Hospitii Oxon. incorporat. Cantabr. 1635.

⁶ [A little Stone out of the Mountain; Church Order briefly opened; a Lecture-sermon preached at Edinburgh concerning the Matter of a Visible Church. Leith, 1652, printed in 12mo. RAWLINSON.]

Nic. Lockyer coll. Eman. A. M. Cantabr. 1636.
Reg. Acad. Cant. BAKER.]

[779]

NATHANAEL HEIGHMORE, son of a father of both his names, sometime rector of Candel-purse or Cundel-purse in Dorsetshire, was⁷ born in the parish of Fordingbridge in Hampshire, elected scholar of Trin. coll. in 1632, took the degrees in arts, studied physic, admitted bach. of that fac. in 1641, and in the latter end of the next year was actually created doctor thereof. Afterwards retiring into the country, settled at length at Shirebourne in Dorsetshire; where and in the neighbourhood he became famous for the happy practice in his faculty, and for the great love that he expressed to the clergy of those parts; from whom, as 'tis said, he never took a fee, tho' much employed by that party. This person, whose memory is celebrated by divers authors, hath written,

Corporis humani Disquisitio anatomica. Hag. Com. 1651. fol. To which he afterwards added an appendix, but before he could perfect it to his mind he died.

The History of Generation; with a general Relation of the Manner of Generation as well in Plants, as Animals. Lond. 1651. oct.

Discourse of the Cure of Wounds by Sympathy. —Pr. with The Hist. of Gen.

De hysterica Passione & de Affectione hypochondriaca; Theses duæ. Oxon. & Amstel. 1660. oct.

De hysterica & hypochondriaca Passione Responsio Epistolaris ad Doctorem Willis, Medicum Londinensem celeberrimum. Lond. 1670. qu. He also discovered a new ductus in the testicles, but whether published in a book by it self, I know not. He died on the 21st of March in sixteen hundred eighty and four, and was buried in the chancel of the church of Candel-purse before-mentioned, near the body, as I suppose, of his father. Afterwards was laid a plain marble stone over his grave, with this inscription thereon. Positæ sunt hic reliquæ viri admodum docti Nathanaelis Heighmore in Med. Doctoris; in spem resurrectionis ad vitam æternam. Qui obiit Martii 21. An. Dom. 1684. Ætatis suæ 71.

1684.

"THOMAS GRANTHAM was born in, or at least descended from those of his name in, Lincolnshire, became a student in this university in 1626, took one degree in arts as a member of Hart hall an. 1630, but whether that of master in this university it appears not. I take this person to be the same who afterwards entred into holy orders, had some little cure bestowed on him before the grand rebellion broke out, and the same person, who when it did break forth, sided with the dominant party, and was successively of several opinions, and at length an anabaptist, which opinion in his last days he left. This person, who in some of his books writes himself master of arts, I find to be curate of High Barnet in Hertfordshire before the said rebellion began, and after of Easton near to Tocester in Northamptonshire, and author of these things following,

⁷ Reg. Schol. & Soc. Coll. Trin. sub an. 1632.

"Several sermons, viz. (1.) A Marriage Sermon called a Wife mistaken, or a Wife and no Wife, or Leah instead of Rachel; on Gen. 29. 25. Lond. 1641. qu. &c.

"A Motion against Imprisonment: wherein is proved that Imprisonment for Debt is against the Gospel, against the Good of the Church and Commonwealth. Lond. 1642. Quære, whether this was not written by another Tho. Grantham.

"Treatise against Infant-Baptism—This I have not yet seen, and therefore I know not whether that be the true or full title: ⁸ sure I am that the book was answer'd by Joh. Horne minister of Lin Alhallowes in Norfolk, in a certain hook whose title partly runs thus, The Cause of Infants maintained, against such as would defraud them of their Interest in the Church or Kingdom of God: or, a Reply to Mr. Tho. Grantham, &c. Lond. 1675. qu. It was also answer'd by Joh. Barret, ⁹ M. A. a nonconformist minister of Notingham, sometime of Eman. coll. in Cambridge, in his Few Notes upon T. G.'s (Tho. Grantham) Antiqueries, with an Abstract of Mr. Baxter's plain Scripture-proof for Infants Church Membership and Baptism, &c. Tho. Grantham hath also written,

"Christianus Primitivus: or, the ancient Christian Religion in its Nature, Certainty, Excellency and Beauty (internal and external) particularly consider'd, asserted and vindicated, from the many Abuses which have invaded the sacred Profession, by human Innovation, or pretended Revelation, &c. with divers Cases of Conscience discussed and resolv'd. Lond. 1678. fol. [Bodl. D. 3. 8. Th.]

"The Loyal Baptist: or, an Apology for the baptised Believers, &c. delivered in two Sermons upon 1 Pet. 2. 17. Lond. 1674 and 1684. qu. [Bodl. C. 11. 1. Linc.] I find one Tho. Grantham M. A. of Peter house in Cambridge, who after the restoration of king Charles II. professed the speedy way of teaching the Hebrew, Gr. and Lat. tongues in the Barbican in London, at the

Clar.
1684.

[780]

⁸ [An Answer to Mr. Thomas Grantham's Book called a Dialogue between the Baptist and the Presbyterian. By Martin Finch, Pastor of a Church of Christ in Berwick. Lond. 1691.

Infant Baptism Vindicated from the Exceptions of Mr. Thomas Grantham. By Sam. Petto, Minister of the Gospel in Sudbury. Lond. 1691. Both these are to be found Bodl. 8vo. E. 96. Linc.]

⁹ [Guil. Barret, Anglus, scripsit Jus Regis, Basil, 1612. 8vo. BAKER. A Robert Barret wrote The Theorike and Practike of moderne Warres, discoursed in Dialogue-wise. Lond. 1598.]

“sign of the Hoishoe, and author of a little pamphlet entit. Charles the Second, Second to none, Lond. 1661. in one or two sh. in qu. Whether this Thom. Grantham be the same with Tho. Grantham before-mention'd, who wrote himself M. of A. I cannot tell. This Tho. Grantham M. A. of Peter house, taught boys in London to speak Latin at 13 years of age. He printed a book concerning the teaching of children sooner, which was dedicated to the parl. about 1650, in two sheets. Edm. Wylde, esq; of Bloomesbury hath the book. He taught 14 boys, and would have no more, and they learned but 4 hours in the day, then play'd, but spoke Latin. Sir Edw. Partridge's son, yet living (1680) was one of his scholars, and the boys of Paul's school and others were ready to knock Mr. Grantham's boys on the head—Mr. Grantham wrote a Mastix against the schoolmaster.”

[A friendly Epistle to the Bishops and Ministers of the Church of England for plain Truth and sound Peace between the pious Protestants of the Church of England, and those of the baptized Believers. Written with the Advice of divers Pastors and Brethren of the baptized Congregations. By Tho. Grantham. London, 1680. Bodl. 8vo. C. 710. Linc. sent to bishop Barlow by the author.]

ROBERT WOOD was born in the parish of Pepper-harrow near Godalming in Surrey, educated in grammar learning in the school at Eaton near Windsor, was made one of the Eaton postmasters of Merton coll. in 1642, took the degree of master of arts seven years after, having a little before submitted to the authority of the parliamentary visitors, elected fellow of Linc. coll. by their order, dated 19 Sept. 1650, in the place of Thankful Owen made president of S. John's coll. went afterwards with the leave of his society into Ireland, and became a retainer to Henry Cromwell lord lieutenant of that kingdom, who sent him as a spy into Scotland to give him an account how affairs stood there. Afterwards he returned into England, became one of the first fellows of the coll. at Durham, founded by Oliver protector an. 1657, a great commonwealth's man, and a frequenter of the Rotacub of Jam. Harrington. After his majesty's restoration, he was turn'd out of his fellowship of Linc. coll. by the king's commissioners, and thereupon going into Ireland again, he, for lucre sake (for he was a covetous person) expressed his loyalty so much, that he became doctor of phys. there (and of the law as I have heard) and chancellor of two diocesses, whereof Meath was one. So that purchasing an estate in that country, which he afterwards sold to buy one at Sherwill in Essex, he settled for a time in England, and became teacher of the blue-coated-children in Ch. Ch. hospital in London in the art of mathematics and navigation. At length giving up that place, he went again into

Ireland, and was made one of the commissioners of his majesty's revenue, and at length accomptant-general to the commissioners of the said revenue there, which he held at the time of his death, being then one of the royal society in England. Will. Oughtred the famous mathematician saith¹ of this Dr. Wood (who had been sometimes his scholar) that he is ‘philosophiæ atq; medicinæ studiosus, vir optimus atq; doctissimus, qui non calamo solum, & scriptorum examinatione, nequid forte nihi in computationibus erroris exciderit, amicum præstitit officium, sed etiam bene maximam horum partem (meaning his Clavis Mathematica) Anglicè non ita pridem edendam transtulit.’ Besides which he hath written,

The Times mended: or, a rectified Account of Time by a new Luni-solar Year; the true Way to number our Days. Lond. 1681. in 4 sh. and an half in fol. An account and abstract of which is in the Philosophical Collections, written by Mr. Rob. Hook, numb. 2. p. 27. an. 1681.

A new Al-mon-ac fur ever; or a rectified Account of Time (beginning with March 10. an. 1681) by a Luni-solar Year, or by both Luminaries: that is, by the Moon's monthly Course primarily; so as the first of the Month shall always be within about a Day of the Change, and yet adjusted to the Sun's yearly Course also, viz. keeping within about a Week thereof at a Medium. Described in, and Dedicated to the most noble Order of the Garter. —Printed the same year, with the Times amended, &c. An account of which is also in the said Philosophical Collections, p. 26. He also wrote some things in mathematics, not yet published; one piece whereof he was pleased, out of great friendship, and for long acquaintance sake, to dedicate to Mr. George Tollet, a teacher of gentlemen in London the faculty of mathematics. This Dr. Wood died at Dublin in Ireland on the ninth day of April in sixteen hundred eighty and five, aged 63, or thereabouts, and was buried in St. Michael's church there, notwithstanding he had desired his friends, some days before his death, that he might be buried in the church-yard of the parish church where he should happen to dye, thinking that churches were the less wholesome for corps being buried in them.

THOMAS OTWAY, son of Humph. Otway rector of Wolbeding in Sussex, was born at Trotin in that county, on the 3d of March 1651, educated in Wykeham's school near Winchester, became a commoner of Ch. Ch. in the beginning of 1669, left the university without the honour of a degree, retired to the great city, where he not only applied his muse to poetry, but sometimes acted in plays,²

¹ In his pref. to the reader before his Clavis Mathemat. &c. Oxon. 1652. edit. tert.

² [He does not seem to have obtained any reputation as an actor. On the contrary, we find from Downes's Roscius Anglicanus, that in 1672 he failed in the character of the king

[781]

1685.

whereby he obtained to himself a reputation among the ingenious, and a comfortable subsistence to himself, besides the favour and countenance of Charles Fitz-Charles commonly called Don Carlos earl of Plymouth, one of the natural sons of king Charles II. In 1677 he went in the quality of a cornet, with the new rais'd English forces design'd for Flanders; but getting little or nothing by that employment, returned with the loss of time to London, where he continued to the day of his death, by writing of plays and little poetical essays. He was a man of good parts, but yet sometimes fell into plagiarism, as well as his contemporaries, and made use of Shakespear, to the advantage of his purse, at least, if not his reputation. After his return from Flanders, which was in a poor condition, Rochester the biting satyrist brought him into his Session of Poets thus:

Tom Otway came next, Tom Shadwell's dear zany,
And swears for heroics, he writes best of any;
Don Carlos his pockets so amply had fill'd,
That his mange⁶ was quite cur'd and his lice were all kill'd.

But Apollo had seen his face on the stage,
And prudently did not think fit to engage
The scum of a playhouse, for the prop of an age.

As for his works, which have been approved by the generality of scholars, a catalogue of them follows, Alcibiades, a Tragedy. Lond. 1675, 87. qu. 'Tis writ in heroic verse, and was the first fruits of the author's labours.

Don Carlos Prince of Spain, Trag. Lond. 1676: 79.

Titus and Berenice, Trag. Lond. 1677. qu.

Cheats of Scapin, a Farce—Printed with Tit. and Ber.

*Friendship in Fashion, a Comedy.*⁷ Lond. 1678. qu.

The Poet's Complaint of his Muse; or a Satyr against Libels, a Poem. Lond. 1680. qu.

The History and Fall of Caius Marius; Trag. 1680. qu.

The Orphan; or the Unhappy Marriage; Trag. Lond. 1680, 84, [1685, 1703,] &c. qu.

"The Prologue of the City Heiress, or Sir Tim. Treacall. 1681."

in Mrs. Behn's Forced Marriage; or the Jealous Bridegroom.]

⁹ Ger. Langbaine in his Account of the English Dramatic Poets, &c. Oxon. 1691. p. 396.

⁴ In the Poems of Joh. Earl of Rochester, printed 1680. p. 113.

⁵ Tho. Shadwell a dram. poet, afterwards poet laureat to king Will. and qu. Mary.

⁶ He returned from Flanders scabbed and lowsy, as 'twas reported.

⁷ [Johnson (Lives of the Poets) tells us, that this comedy was, upon its revival at Drury-lane in 1740, hissed off the stage for immorality and obscenity.]

The Soldiers' Fortune; Com. Lond. 1681. qu.

Venice preserv'd; or, a Plot discovered. Lond. 1682. qu.

The Atheist; or, the second Part of the Soldiers Fortune. Lond. 1684. qu.

Windsor Castle, in a Monument to our late Sovereign King Charles II. of ever blessed Memory; a Poem. Lond. 1685. in 4 sheets and a half in qu.

He also translated from Lat. into English, The Epistle of Phœdra to Hippolytus, in Ovid's Epistles, translated by several Hands—Lond. 1680, 81. oct.

Also The sixteenth Ode of Horace, in a book entit. Miscellany Poems, containing a new Translation of Virgil's Eclogues, Ovid's Elegies, Odes of Horace, &c. Lond. 1684. oct. In which Miscellany Poems, is our author Otway's Epistle to R. D.

in verse, p. 218. He Englished also, The History of Triumvirates; the first Part of Julius Cæsar, Pompey and Crassus. The second Part of Augustus, Antony and Lepidus. Being a faithful Collection from the best Historians and other Authors, concerning that Revolution of the Rom. Government, which happened under their Authority,

Lond. 1686. oct. Written originally in the French language. At length after he had lived about 33 years in this vain and transitory world, made his last exit in an house on Tower-hill (called the Bull as I have heard) on the 14th of Apr. in sixteen hundred eighty and five: whereupon his body was conveyed to the church of S. Clement Danes within the liberty of Westminster, and was buried in a vault there. In his sickness he was composing a congratulatory poem on the inauguration of king James II.

[⁶ I have heard at Cambridge that Otway went to St. John's college in that university, which seems very probable, from a copy of verses of Mr. Duke's to him, between whom there was a fast friendship to the death of Mr. Otway.] Jacobs, Poetical Register, 1719, page 193.

Whereas Mr. Thomas Otway sometime before his death made four acts of a play; whoever can give notice in whose hands the copy lies, either to Mr. Thomas Betterton, or Mr. William Smith at the theatre royal, shall be well rewarded for his pains. Gazette, Nov. 29: Observer, Nov. 27 and Dec. 4. 1686. In 1719, a tragedy called Heroick Friendship was printed as Otway's, though certainly not his production. His works were collected and publ. in 2 vol. 1712 and 1718; and in 3 vol. 1722, 1757, and lastly in 1812. The best portrait of him is that engraved by Houbraken.

There is a small head, coarsely engraved, but with much spirit, by Lud. Du Guernier, which is prefixed to his works printed in 1712.]

THOMAS MARSHALL, or MARESCHALLUS, as in his Observ. in Evang. he writes himself, son of a father of both his names, was born at Barkbey in Leicestershire, educated there in grammar learning under Francis Foe vicar of that town, entered a batler in Linc. coll. in Mich. term, an. 1640, aged 19 years, and on the 31st of July in the year following he was elected one of Rob. Trapp's scholars in that house: much about which time he being a constant auditor of the sermons of the most learned and religious primate of Ireland Dr. Usher, delivered in Allhallowes church joyning to his coll. his affections were so exceedingly wrought upon, that he was always resolv'd from thenceforth to make him the pattern of all the religious and learned actions of his life, and therefore ever after he could not endure those that should in their common discourse and writings reflect in the least on that sacred prelate. Soon after Oxford being garrison'd upon the breaking out of the rebellion, he bore arms therein for his majesty, in the regiment of Henry earl of Dover, at his own proper cost and charges, and therefore in 1645, when he was a candidate for the degree of bach. of arts, he was admitted thereunto without paying fees. But upon the approach of the parliamentary visitation he left the university, went beyond the seas, and became preacher to the company of English merchants at Rotterdam and Dort, in the place of Henry Tozer deceased. In 1661 he was admitted bach. of div. and four years after publishing Observations on the Evangelists, did thereby revive his memory so much in his college, that the society chose him fellow thereof without his knowledge or seeking,⁸ 17 Dec. 1668. In the year following he proceeded in his faculty, was elected rector of his college an. 1672, upon the promotion of Dr. Crew to the see of Oxon, and afterwards was made chaplain in ordinary to his majesty. In the month of May, an. 1680, he became rector of Bladon near Woodstock in Oxfordshire, and upon the promotion of Dr. Frampton to the see of Gloucester, he was nominated dean of that church in Jan. 1680; in which deanery being installed on the 30th of Apr. 1681, he gave up Bladon in Feb. 1682. He was a person very well vers'd in books, was a noted critic, especially in the Gothic and English Saxon tongues, a painful preacher, a good man and governour, and one every way worthy of his station in the church. He hath written,

[782]

1685.

Observationes in Evangeliorum Versiones perantiquas duas, Gothica scil. & Anglo-saxonica, &c. Dordrecht. 1665. in a thick large quarto. [Bodl. 4to. E. 6. Th. BS.]

The Catechism set forth in the Book of Common-prayer, briefly explained by short Notes, grounded upon holy Scripture. Oxon. 1679. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. Rawl. 613.] and several times after. The said short notes were drawn up and composed by our author upon the desire and motion of Dr. John Fell bishop of Oxon, to be used by the ministers of his diocese in the catechising of the children of their respective parishes. In other editions that followed soon after, was added An Essay of Questions and Answers framed out of the same Notes, for the Exercise of Youth, by the same hand; which catechism with notes and essay, were translated into Welsh by John Williams a Cambridge scholar, tutor to a certain person of quality in Jesus coll. in this university——Printed at Oxon. 1682. oct. "This Dr. Tho. Marshall did write An Epistle for the English Reader, set before Dr. Tho. Hyde's translation into the Malayan language of The four Gospels of our Lord Jesus Christ and the Acts of the holy Apostles——Oxon 1677. qu. "which epistle is contain'd in a sh. and a half." He the said Dr. Marshall did also take a great deal of pains in completing the large English life of the aforesaid Dr. Usher (published by Rich. Parr sometime fellow of Exeter coll.) but died before it was published; which hapning suddenly in his lodgings in Linc. coll. early in the morning of the 19th of Apr. (being then Easter Sunday) in sixteen hundred eighty and five, was buried in that chancel, commonly called the college chancel, of the church of Allhallow's alias Allsaints within the city of Oxon. By his last will and test.⁹ he gave to the public library of the univ. of Oxon, all such of his books, whether manuscript or printed, that were not then in the said library, except only such that were in his said will otherwise disposed: and the remaining part to Linc. coll. library, I mean such that were not there, at that time, already, &c. Also so much money, which was raised from his estate, that came to 600*l.* and more, he gave to the said college; with which was purchased fourteen pounds per an. a fee farm rent, issuing out of the manor of Little Dean in Gloucestershire, and twelve pounds per an. a rent-charge, out of some lands in Brill in Bucks. Which benefaction three scholars of Linc. coll. do now successively enjoy. In his deanery succeeded Will. Jane D. D. can. of Ch. Ch. and the king's professor of div. in this univ. of Oxon; and in his rectory of Linc. coll. Fitz-herbert Adams bach. of div. and fellow of the said house,¹ who hath since been a considerable benefactor thereunto, and may in time be a greater. Besides the said Tho. Marshall (who was always taken to be an honest and conscientious puritan) was another of both his names, author of The King's Censure upon Recusants, that refuse the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper; delivered in three serm. Lond. 1654. qu. [Bodl. 4to. M. 11. Th. BS.] and of other things.

⁸ [See Memoirs of the Life of Mr. John Kettlewell. Lond. 1718, 8vo. page 33.]

JOHN MARSHAM, second son of Tho. Marsham citizen and alderman of London, descended from the ancient family of his name in Norfolk, was born in the parish of S. Bartholomew in London, 23 August 1602, educated in the coll. school at Westminster under Dr. John Wilson, became a commoner of S. John's coll. under the tuition of Mr. Tho. Walker (afterwards master of Univ. coll.) in the beginning of the year 1619, took the degrees in arts, that of master being completed in 1625, in which year he went into France and wintered at Paris. In the two following years he visited most parts of that nation, and of Italy, and some of Germany, and then returned to London. In 1629 he went thro' Holland and Gelderlandt to the siege of Baldoc or Balduck, and thence, by Flushing, to Bologne and Paris to attend sir Tho. Edmonds, ambassador extraordinary, to swear the peace at Fountaine Bleau. During his abode in London he studied the municipal laws in the Middle Temple, and in 163½ he was sworn one of the six clerks in chancery. In the beginning of the civil war he left London, followed his majesty and the great seal to Oxon, and thereupon was sequestred of his said place by the members of parl. sitting at Westminster, plundered, and lost to an incredible value. After the surrender of the garrison of Oxon and the declining of the king's cause, he returned to London and compounded among several hundred of royalists for his real estate: At which time he betook himself wholly to his studies and lived in a retired condition. In the beginning of the year 1660 he served as a burgess for the city of Rochester in that happy parliament that recalled the king, and took away the court of Wards; about which time being restored to his place in chancery, he had the honour of knighthood conferr'd upon him on the first of July 1660, being then of Whornplace "in the parish of Cuckstone" in Kent, and three years after was created a baronet. He was a person well accomplish'd, exact in histories whether civil or prophane, in chronology and in the tongues. Pere Simon calls him in a preface to a work of his 'le grand Marsham de Angleterre,' and monsieur Corcaoy the king of France his libr. keeper, and all the great and learned men of Europe his contemporaries, acknowledge him to be one of the greatest antiquaries and most accurate and learned writer of his time, as appears by their testimonies under their hands and seals in their letters to him, which would make a vol. in fol. He hath written,

⁹ [He made Mr. John Kettlewell his executor, and left him 20*l.* and all his Socinian books.]

¹ [He was preb. of Durham 1685, and rector of Washington, June 27, 1719.]

Diatriba Chronologica. Lond. 1649. quarto. [Bodl. 4to. M. 61. Art. Seld.] Most of which was afterwards remitted into the book that follows:

Chronicus Canon Aegyptiacus, Ebraicus, Græcus & Disquisitiones. Lond. 1672. fol. [Bodl. H. 2. 11. Art.] This was reprinted in Lower Germany in qu. with a new index, and preface, wherein are given to the author very great encomiums by a foreigner unknown to him. There are many things worthy to be inserted thence, which, for brevity's sake, I shall now pass by. He also wrote the preface set before the first vol. of Monasticon Anglicanum. Lond. 1655. which he entit.

ΠΡΟΠΤΑΑΙΟΝ Johannis Marshami. Printed in seven sheets and an half in fol. but much disliked and disrelish'd by some of the Rom. cath. party, but why, I cannot tell. He also left behind him at his death unfinish'd, (1) Canonis Chronici Liber quintus: sive Imperium Persicum. (2) De Provinciis & Legionibus Romanis. (3) De Re nummaria, &c. At length departing this mortal life (at Bushy-hall in Hertfordshire) on the 25th day of May, in sixteen hundred eighty and five, his body was thereupon conveyed to Cuckstone near Rochester beforemention'd (where he had an estate) and buried in the church there.² He left issue behind him, begotten on the body of Elizabeth daugh. of sir Will. Hammond of S. Albans in East Kent, two sons, viz. sir John Marsham now of Cuckstone baronet, who is writing The History of England, much more exact, as 'tis said, than any yet extant, and sir Robert of Bushy-hall knight, who succeeded his father in the place of six clerk. In the possession of the first of these two is sir John's library, which tho' diminished by the fire that hapned in London 1666, yet it is considerable and highly to be valued for the exquisite remarks in the margin of most of the books; and in the possession of the other is his cabinet of Greek medals, as curious as any private collection whatsoever.

ANDREW ALLAM, the son of a sufficient plebeian of both his names, by Bridget Derling his wife, was born at Garsingdon near to, and in the county of, Oxon, in April 1655, and baptized there on the 23d of the same month, educated in grammar learning in a private school at Denton in the parish of Cudesdon near to his native place, under a noted master named Will. Wildgoose mast. of arts of Brasen-n. coll. (much fam'd for his dexterity in pedagogy) became a batler of S. Edmund's hall in Easter term 1671; where had it not been his misfortune to fall under the tuition of a careless and crazed person, he might have prov'd a prodigy in several sorts of learning. After he had taken the degrees in arts, he became a tutor, moderator, a lecturer in the chappel, and at length vice-principal of his house. In all which offices he behaved himself much to the credit, honour and flourishing thereof. In 1680, at Whitsontide, he entred into holy orders, and in 83 he was one of the masters of the schools, which last place he executed with very great judgment and prudence. He was a person of eminent virtues, was sober, temperate, moderate and modest even to example. He understood the controversial writings between conformists and nonconformists, protestants and papists, far beyond his years, which was advanc'd by a great and happy memory: And I am persuaded had he not been taken off by the said offices, he would have gone beyond all of his time and age in those matters, and might have proved an useful and signal member to the church of England, for which he had a most zealous respect. He understood the world of men well, authors better, and nothing but years and experience were wanting, to make him a compleat walking library. His works that are extant are (1) The learned preface, or epistle to the reader, with a dedicatory epistle in the printer's name, set before The Epistle Congratulatory of Lysimachus Nicanor, &c. to the Covenanters of Scotland, &c. Oxon. 1684. (2) The epist. with the account therein of Dr. Rich. Cosins's life, set before the said Cosins's book, entit. Ecclesiae Anglicanae Politeia in Fabulas digesta. Oxon. 1684. in a thin fol. The ded. epist. to sir Leolin Jenkins in the printer's name was written by Christopher Wase superior beadle of law in the univ. of Oxon. (3) The epistle before, with a review and correction of, the book entit. Some plain Discourses on the Lord's Supper, &c. Written by Dr. George Griffith bishop of S. Asaph—Oxon. 1684. oct. (4) Five or six sheets of his own handwriting and composure, containing corrections in, and addit. to, a book entitled—Angliae Notitia; or, the present State of England, &c. written by one³ who had been also of S. Edm. hall. They were made by Mr. Allam in the edit. of that book, printed at Lond. 1684. and were all, as I presume, inserted in that edition which came out at that place in 1687, but without any acknowledgement (with shame be it spoken) from the author of that Notitia, who neither returned those thanks that he ought, out of common civility, to have done, or granted him his company or acquaintance, when he went to Lond. to desire it, purposely to communicate such things by word of mouth, which he could not, without great trouble, by his pen, concerning various matters in that book. (5) He also began, and made divers additions to Helvicus his Historical and Chronological Theatre, as occasion required, and would have quite finished the Supplement at the end, from 1660 to 1685, had he not been cut off by cruel death. These things were printed with that author at Lond. 1687. fol. But the reader is to understand, that whereas there was a column in that book of the said edition 1687, made to contain the names of the famous Jesuits, from the first foundation of their order, to the year 1685, which was not in any of the Latin editions, 'twas not done by Allam, but by a busy body, nor that passage under the year 1678 which runs thus. Titus Oates discovers a pretended Popish Plot. (6) He had laid the foundation of a Notitia Ecclesiae Anglicanae; wherein he would have spoken of the foundation of all cathedrals, with a touch of their statutes and customs.⁴ Which done, to set down the names of the present bishop, dean, archdeacon, canons and officers of each cathedral, but death also prevented the finishing this. He also many times lent his assisting hand to the author of this present work, especially as to the Notitia of certain modern writers of our nation, while the said author was day and night drudging after those more ancient. For the truth is (which hath been a wonder to him since his death) he understood well what he wanted and what would be fit for him to be brought into this work, which none else in the university could (as he and the author knew full well to their great reluctance) or would give any assistance or encouragement. Further it must not be forgotten that he translated into English, The Life of Iphicrates, written in Latin by Corn. Nepos, and remitted into the book of lives of that author, translated by several Oxford hands,—Oxon. 1684. oct. p. 99, &c. At length after a great deal of fear of, and avoidance from, the disease called the small-pox, he was in unseasonable weather overtaken by it: so that being not able to overcome its encounters, he did surrender up his spotless soul (being too worthy for this world and the people he lived with) and was wedded to his saviour Jesus Christ, on the 17th of June (about noon) in sixteen hundred eighty and five: whereupon his body was buried the same day, late at night, at the west end of the church of S. Peter in the East in Oxon, under the south wall, joyning on the south side of the tomb-stone of Silv. Wood.

² [See Thorpe's Registrum Roffense, 1769, page 771.]

[785]

³ [Edward Chamberlain.]

1685.

[786]

ROBERT WHITEHALL, son of Richard Whitehall sometime bach. of div. of Ch. Ch. afterward rector of Agmundesham commonly called Amersham and of Addington in Bucks, was born at Amersham, educated mostly in Westminster school under Mr. Richard Busby, became student of Christ Church in 1644, or thereabouts, ejected thence by the parliamentary visitors in 1648 for giving this answer to, when required of, them, whether he would submit to their authority,

My name's Whitchall, God bless the poet,
If I submit, the king shall know it.

But he cringing afterwards to his country-men and neighbours, the Ingoldsbies, especially to Rich. Ingoldsby the regicide (before whom he often acted the part of a mimic and buffoon purposely to make him merry) he was, upon submission made to the committee for regulating the univ. of Oxon, put in by them bach. fellow of Merton coll. an. 1650. Afterwards he proceeded in arts, was terræ filius with Joh. Glendall of Brasen-n. coll. 1655, entred on the physie line, and by virtue of the letters of Rich. Cromwell chancellor of this univ. of Oxon, he was actually created bach. of physie in 1657. "In August that year he had leave from the society of "Merton coll. to go into Ireland at the desire of "Henry Cromwell (to teach a school.)" Since which time he made divers sallies into the practice of physie, but thereby obtained but little reputation, and lesser by his poetry, to which he much pretended, having been esteemed no better than a meer poetaster and time-serving poet, as these things following partly shew.

⁴ [These papers I think Dr. Kennett perus'd after his death, and extracted from them several materials, which will be of great service to him in a book he is now upon concerning the foundation of churches in England. HEARNE.]

The Marriage of Arms and Arts, 12 July 1651; being an Account of the Act at Oxon to a Friend. Lond. 1651. 'Tis a poem in one sh. in qu. and hath in the title the two letters of R. W. set down, being then, as since, generally reported to be his; and he would never positively deny it. The occasion of the writing of it was this, viz. That an act having not been solemnized for several years before; it became such a novelty to the then students of the university (most of which had been put into places by the visitors) that there was great rudeness committed by them and the concourse of people in getting into places and thrusting out strangers, during all the time of that solemnity, in S. Mary's church. Whereupon the vice-chancellor Dr. Greenwood of Brasen-n. a severe and choleric governor, was forced to get several guards of musquetiers out of the parl. garrison then in Oxon, to keep all the doors and avenues, and to let no body in, only such whom the vicech. or his deputies appointed. There was then great quarrelling between the scholars and soldiers, and thereupon blows and bloody noses followed.

Carmen gratulatorium Olivero Cromwell in Protectorem Angliæ inaugurato, 1653. Printed in half a sheet on one side.

Carmen Onomasticon Gratulatorium Richardo Cromwell in Cancellarii Officium & Dignitatem feliciter electo, An. 1657. Pr. in half a sh. on one side. [Wood's study, numb. 423.]

The Coronation, a Poem. Lond. 1661. in one sh. in qu.

Carmen gratulatorium Edvardo Hide, Equiti aurato, summo Angliæ & optato Oxoniæ Cancellario, &c. Printed on one side of a sheet in Latin and English, an. 1660.^s

Urania, or a Description of the Painting of the Top of the Theatre at Oxon, as the Artist laid

^s [Whitehall, who had extolled Oliver Cromwell, and compared his son Richard to another Cæsar, made no difficulty in congratulating Oxford on the restoration of Charles the second.

Erect thy erect, triumphant Oxford, see
The tutelary Gods take care of thee,
And call one home from banishment to steer
Thy shipwreck'd barque, and be thy mariner:
One thou maiest trust, whose faith two kings have prov'd
Hence the delight of all, and most belov'd.

Carm. Grat. Edvardo Hide, folio, Wood's study, Numb. 423, 34.]

VOL. IV.

his Design. Lond. 1669 in 3 sh. in fol. &c. [Wood's study, num. 423.]

Verses on Mrs. Mary More, upon her sending Sir Tho. More's Picture⁶ (of her own drawing) to the Long Gallery at the public Schools in Oxon. Oxon. 1674. on one side of a large half sheet. [Wood's study, numb. 423.]

Ἐξάστιχον Ἑρὸν. Iconum quarundam extranearum (numero 258) Explicatio breviuscula, & clara apprimè Epheborum aliquot prænobilium in Usum exculpta, quæ ad SS. Scripturas alliciantur. Quibus singulis accessit Symbolum, cum Sententiolâ concinnâ ex Autoribus Græcis & Latinis depromptâ. [787]
Being an Epigrammatical Explanation of the most remarkable Stories throughout the Old and New Testament after each Sculpture or Cut. Oxon. 1677 in a large and thick quarto. It must be noted that the author had brought from Holland as many cuts of the Old and New Testament that cost him 14*l*. Each cut he caused to be neatly pasted in the middle of a large quarto paper, on which, before, was printed a running title at the top, and six English verses at the bottom to explain the cut or picture. Which being so done, in twelve copies only, he caused each to be richly bound, and afterwards presented a very fair copy to the king, and the rest mostly to persons of quality: of which number was Charles son and heir of John Wilmot earl of Rochester, for whom he pretended 'twas chiefly compos'd.

Gratulamini mecum. Or, a congratulatory Essay upon his Majesty's Recovery. Lond. 1679. in one sh. in fol. Written upon his majesty's being freed from an ague at Windsor, in Sept. 1679.

The English Rechabite: or, a Defiance to Bacchus and all his Works. A Poem in 67 Hexastichs, &c. Lond. 1681. in four sh. in fol. See more of him in his old friend Edm. Gayton, vol. iii, col. 757. a poet of the like stamp. This Mr. Whitehall died on the 8th day of July, in sixteen hundred eighty and five, and was buried the next day in the south part or isle of Merton college church, having for several years before hang'd on that house, as an useless member.

JOHN ROBERTS, son and heir of Richard lord Roberts of Truro in Cornwall, was born in that county, entred a fellow commoner of Exeter coll. under the tuition of Dr. John Prideaux, an. 1625, where he continued two years or more, and after his father's death he succeeded him in his honour. In the beginning of the grand rebellion raised by a prevalent party of presbyterians in that unhappy convention, afterwards called the long parliament, he adhered to the cause that was then by them carried on, was made a colonel in the army of Robert earl of Essex, and governor for a time of the garrison of Plymouth in Devonshire, against his majesty's forces, "fought desperately at Edgehill fight, and "after at Newbery where he was field-marshal; he "was also some time lieutenant of Exeter and Devonshire;" but when he afterwards beheld how things would terminate, he withdrew and acted little or nothing during the times of usurpation. After his majesty's restoration, he retired to the court, and in 1662 was made lord privy seal in the place of William lord Say deceased; but giving not that content which was expected, he was sent into Ireland to be lord lieutenant there, in Sept. 1669, and his government being disliked, he was recalled in May following. In Octob. 1679 he was made lord president of his majesty's council upon the removal of Anthony earl of Shaftsbury, and soon after he was made earl of Radnor. He hath written, 1685.

⁶ [This is a mistake: the picture which Mrs. More sent is evidently a copy of Cromwell, earl of Essex. Walpole, Anecdotes of Painting in England, vol. iii, page 148. edit. 1765.]

N

A Discourse of the Vanity of the Creature; grounded on Eccles. 1. 2. Lond. 1673. oct. and one, or more books, as I have been inform'd, fit for the press. He died at Chelsea near London on the 17th day of July in sixteen hundred eighty and five; whereupon, about eight days after, his body was conveyed to Lanhednock near Bodmin in Cornwall, and buried in the church there.

[The lord Roberts was a man of a more morose and cynical temper than the earl of Manchester; he was just in his administration, but vitious under the appearances of virtue: learned beyond any man of his quality, but intractable, stiff and obstinate, proud and jealous. Burnet, Hist. of his own Time, i, 98.

Among the Harleian MSS. are several notes historical and political by this nobleman. See the Catalogue, Numb. 2224, 2237, 2243, 2325, 5091, &c. and 2294.]

[788]

"THOMAS MORE OF DE LA MORE, was the "son of John More of Paynes farme or court in the "parish of Teynton near Burford in Oxfordshire, "but descended from the ancient and genteel family "of his name living sometime at More, alias Northmore, alias More S. Dennis, alias Moreton by "Newbridge, &c. near Whitney, in the same county, "became one of the portionists of Merton coll. in "1627 or thereabouts, continued there till he had "taken one degree in arts, and then retiring to S. Alb. hall for a time, was entred a student in Grey's "inn in Holborn near London, where making considerable proficiency in the common law became a "barrester. But the puritanical rebellion breaking "out soon after, he took up arms for the parl. became a gent. of the guard to Robert earl of Essex "the general of the forces belonging to the said "parl. took the covenant, and was made lieutenant "to a troop of horse belonging to capt. Rich. Aylworth under the command of col. Edw. Massie, "afterwards a lieutenant reformado of another troop, "and at length cornet to the life-guard belonging to

"sir Tho. Fairfax, the general of the said forces in "the place of Essex. But this person being naturally or hereditarily crazed, which was not a "little increas'd by an high conceit of his own wit, "and good parts, and therefore much pitied by "scholars, and gentlemen of breeding that knew "him; he could never attain to any perfection either "in his profession of the law, or soldiery, but lived "always after under the character of a mad-man; "yet being sometimes very sober, when kept from "his cups, and of moderate and excellent discourse, "caused Dr. Skinner bishop of Worcester, who had "not received full information of the man, to confer "holy orders upon him; for which he being much "blamed, made him repent of the fact. This person hath written and published several effects of a "craz'd head, among which are,

"The English Catholic Christian: or, the "Saint's Utopia: A Treatise consisting of four "Sections, 1. Jchovah's Resolution. 2. Of the "Common Law. 3. Of Physic. 4. Of Divinity. "Lond. 1649. qu. written in 1641, and dedicated "with a large epist. dated in Feb. 1646 to king "Charles. In the title of this book the author "writes himself Thom. de Eschallers de la More, "as having been descended from the Eschallers "of Whaddon or Waddon near Royston in Hertfordshire.⁷

"True old News from several Papers, Certificates, Copies, Scripts, Transcripts, Monuments, Records, Original Deeds, &c. Lond. 1649. qu. "In which rambling pamphlet is an account of "many parts of the author's life. He hath written "several other impertinent things not worthy to be "mention'd, and hath also translated into English, "Vitu et Mors Edwardi II. written by sir Tho. de la More, living in the reign of king Ed. II. and "III. which person as the translator used to say "was of the same family from whence he himself "was descended. But this translation, was not, as "I presume, ever made public. This gent. who "had one of his ribs broken, in his mad fits, by a "fall down stairs at Burford, died of it about "Michaelm. in sixteen hundred eighty and five, "whereupon his body was buried at Teynton before-mentioned. His elder brother Will. More was "one of the life-guard belonging to Robert earl of "Essex, and his younger called Francis was a citizen of London, but being distracted also, was "kept many years in the hospital of Bethlem near "that place.

1685.

"MORGAN GODWIN, son of Dr. Morgan "Godwin canon of Hereford, son of Dr. Franc. "Godwin sometime bishop of that place, became a "commoner of Brasenn. coll. in Midsummer term "1661, aged 20 or thereabouts,⁸ afterwards one of

⁷ [Cambridgeshire. COLE.]

⁸ [1640, Morgans filius Morgani Godwin LL. doctoris et rectoris Ecclesiae de Bicknor Anglicana (English Bicknor,

"the students of Ch. Ch. and bach. of arts, which "was the highest degree he took in this university.
 "About which time entring into holy orders he be"came a minister in Virginia under the government
 "of sir Will. Berkley, and continued there in good "liking for several years. Afterwards returning "to his native country became beneficed near Lon"don, where he finished his course. He hath
 "written,

"*The Negro's or Indian's Advocate, suing for "their Admission into the Church: or, a Persua-
 "sive to the Instructing and Baptizing of the "Negroes and Indians in our Plantations; shew-
 "ing, that as the Compliance therewith can pre"judice no Man's just Interest, so the wilful and
 "neglectful Opposing of it, is no less than a mani-
 "fest Apostacy from the Christian Faith.* Lond.
 "1680. octavo. [Bodl. 8vo. C. 298. Linc.]

"Letter to Sir Will. Berkley, giving an Account "of the State of Religion at the Beginning of the "late Rebellion.—This is printed with the *Negro's
 "Advocate*, and the rebellion there mention'd was "in Virginia.

"Supplement to the Negro's Indian Advocate.
 "Lond. 1681. in 1 sh. and an half in qu.

[789]

"*Trade preferr'd before Religion, and Christ
 "made to give place to Mammon; represented in
 "a Sermon relating to the Plantations.* Lond.
 "1685. qu. It was first preached at Westm. ab-
 "bey, and afterwards in divers churches in Lon"don."

ARTHUR ANNESLEY, son of sir Francis Annesley, baronet, lord Mount-Norris and viscount Valentia in Ireland, was born in Fish-shamble street in S. John's parish within the city of Dublin, on the tenth day of July, an. 1614, became a fellow commoner of Magd. coll. in 1630, or thereabouts, continued there under the tuition of a careful tutor three years or more, and having laid a sure foundation in literature, to advance his knowledge in greater matters, he returned to his native country for a time. In 1640 he was elected⁹ knight for Radnorshire to serve in that parliament which began at Westm. 3 Nov. 1640, but his election being questioned, Charles Price esq; then elected also, was voted by the committee of elections to stand as more lawfully elected, yet soon after he left that parliament and followed the king to Oxon, where he sat in that called by his majesty. In the time of the rebellion our author Annesley was entrusted by both houses of parliament, or appointed by them one of the commissioners for the ordering and governing the affairs in Ireland, an. 1645 or thereabouts, and became¹ instrumental

(Gloucestershire) et Elizabethæ uxoris eius, baptizatus fuit secundo die Decembris. Ex Regist. Bicknor Angl.]

⁹ List of the Names of the Long Parliament, an. 1640. likewise of the Parliament holden at Oxon. 1643. Lond. 1659. oct.

¹ True Account of the Proceedings betwixt James Duke of Ormond and Arthur Earl of Anglesey, &c. p. 9.

there to preserve the British and Protestant interest, country and garrisons from being swallowed up by Owen O'Neill's barbarous army, or falling into the body of Irish hands, &c. Afterwards he went into England, complied with the parliament, Ol. Cromwell and his party, took the oath called the engagement,² as before he had the covenant: But when he saw that king Charles II. would be restored to his kingdoms, he then, when he perceived that it could not be hindred, struck in and became instrumental for the recalling of him home, as many of his persuasion did, and thereupon they soothed themselves up and gave it out publicly, that they were as instrumental in that matter, as the best of the royal party, nay they stuck not to say, that if it was not by their endeavours his majesty would not have been restored. At that time³ he was made a privy counsellor, and, to shew his zeal for his majesty's cause, he procured himself to be put in among the number of those justices or judges to sit first at Hicks's-Hall and afterwards at the Old Baily on the regicides, where one of them, named Adrian Scrope, did reflect upon him, as 'twas by all there present supposed, and of others too, as having before been misled as well as himself, as I have told you in Anthony earl of Shaftsbury, under the year 1682. In the year following (1661) a little before his majesty's coronation, he was by letters patent bearing date on the 20th of April created a baron of this kingdom by the title of lord Annesley of Newport-paynel in Bucks (of which town one Thom. Annesley great uncle to sir Franc. Annesley before-mention'd had been high constable) as also a count by the title of earl of Anglesey, as coming more near to his name, than another place, or town. Afterwards he enjoying certain offices of trust, was, at length, made lord privy seal about the middle of Apr. 1673, and kept it till August 1682, at which time he was deprived of it (some have thought unjustly) for several reasons, as I shall anon tell you: whereupon retiring to his estate at Blechingdon in Oxfordshire, which he, some years before, had purchased, vindicated himself by writing an account of the whole proceeding of that affair, as I shall tell you by and by. He was a person very subtil, cunning and reserv'd in the managery and transacting his affairs, of more than ordinary parts, and one who had the command of a very smooth, sharp and keen pen. He was also much conversant in books, and a great Calvinist, but his known countenance and encouragement given to persons of very different persuasions in matters of religion, hath left it somewhat difficult, at least in some men's judgments, peremptorily to determine among what sort of men, as to point

[790]

² [Not so: see A Letter to William Lenthall, Speaker to the Rump, from Mr. Annesley, expostulating with him on account of his being excluded the House for not taking the Engagement. Printed in a pamphlet entitled England's Confusion.] of religion, he himself ought in truth to have been ranked. Yet it is to be observed that he did not dispense his favours with an equal hand to all these, the dissenting party having still received the far largest share of them, who did all along generally esteem him and his interest securely their own, especially after the popish conspiracy broke out, when then, out of policy, he avoided and shook off his numerous acquaintance of papists, as it was notoriously observed by them, and of other pretenders to politics, merely to save themselves, and to avoid the imputation of being popishly affected. As for his published writings they are these,

³ [Feb. 1659. Wood, MS. Note in Ashmole.]

The Truth unveiled, in Behalf of the Church of England, &c. being a Vindication of Mr. Joh. Stundish's Sermon (on 2 Cor. 5. 20.) preached before the King, and published by his Majesty's Command. Lond. 1676 in 3 sh. in qu. This being an answer to some part of Mr. Rob. Grove's Vindication of the conforming Clergy from the unjust Aspersions of Heresy, containing some reflections on the said sermon; was replied upon by the said Grove⁴ in a treatise entit. Falshood unmask'd, &c. Lond. 1676 in 3 sh. and an half in qu.—Besides which reply was another thing wrote against it call'd A Letter to the Author of the Vindication of Mr. Standish's Sermon, &c. which answer triumphs over his lordship's book with as much wit and sharpness as Andrew Marvel did over Sam. Parker.

Reflections on that Discourse which a M. of Arts (once) of the Univers. of Cambridge, calls Rational. Presented in Print to a Person of Honour, An. 1676, concerning Transubstantiation—Printed with Truth unveiled, &c. Which discourse was also answer'd by another, in a piece entit. Roman Tradition examined, as it is urged as infallible against all Men's Senses, Reason and holy Scripture, &c. Lond. 1676. qu.

A Letter from a Person of Honour in the Country, written to the Earl of Castlchaven: Being Observations and Reflections upon his Lordship's Memoirs⁵ concerning the Wars in Ireland. Lond. 1681. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. C. 622. Linc.] Which letter coming into the hands of James duke of Ormond, and finding himself and his government of Ireland therein reflected upon, with great disadvantage, as he thought; he wrote and published a letter to the earl of Anglesey, dated at Dublin, 12 Nov. 1681, to vindicate himself. Anglesey thereupon made a reply in another, and printed it with Ormond's letter at Lond. about the beginning of Apr. 1682, both contained in two sh. in fol. Ormond therefore represented the case in writing to the king, on the 17th of June following: which being read openly before the council then sitting at Hampton-Court, his maj. declared that he would hear the matter thereof in council; and did order that a copy of the said representation should be delivered to Anglesey, and that he appear and make answer thereunto, at a council to be holden at Whitehall, on the 23d of the said month. In obedience to this, Anglesey, tho' much troubled with the gout, appeared, made a short speech to his majesty in vindication of himself, bandied the matter with Ormond, and then put in his answer to Ormond's representation or complaint against him. These things being done, another council was held 13 July, at which time Ormond delivering a paper to the board containing several charges against him, it was then ordered that a copy of it should be sent to Anglesey, and that he return an answer thereunto on the 20th of the said month, at Hampton-Court. But no council being then held (notwithstanding Anglesey had made answer to Ormond's particular charges against him the next day) the matter was deferr'd till the 27th of the same month. Another council being therefore there held on that day, the charges and answers were debated. Which done, and the lords concerned being withdrawn, this resolution passed by the council on Anglesey's Letter to the Earl of Castlchaven, viz. That 'it was a scandalous libel against his late majesty, against his now majesty, and against the government.' When the parties, or lords concern'd, were call'd in again, the lord chancellor only told Anglesey that the king conceived him faulty in the clause, pag. 32. of the said letter to the earl of Castlehaven, wherein the committees of the parliament of Ireland were mention'd as having been in the intrigues of the popish faction at court. After which a farther hearing was appointed to be on the 3d of August following, but Anglesey continuing extream ill of the gout, and finding himself prejudg'd by the lords of the council on the 27th of July, he wrote a letter on the 2d of Aug. to his majesty; which being openly read in council the next day, he did in some manner (as 'twas said) resent it for some passages therein, yet nothing appear'd entred to be done thereupon. Afterwards the earl of Castlehaven (James Touchet) was called in several times and question'd about his Memoires; which he acknowledging to be his, the said book in conclusion was by his majesty and council judged to be a scandalous libel against the government. On the 9th of the said month of Aug. 1682, the privy seal, by command from his majesty, was taken away from Anglesey by sir Leolin Jenkins principal secretary of state, without any farther hearing, and was given to George marquess of Halifax. Besides the aforesaid Letter of the Earl of Anglesey written to the Earl of Castlehaven, containing Observations, &c. was another book published entit. Brief

[791]

⁴ [1667, 21 Feb. Rob. Grove S. T. B. coll. ad eccl. de Winnington per mortem Silvestri Adams. Reg. London.

1669, 2 Sept. Rob. Grove S. T. B. admiss. ad rectoriam de Langham com. Essex, per mortem, ad pres. regis ratione ducat. Lancast. Ib.

1669, 15 Oct. Rob. Grove S. T. B. coll. ad rector. de Aldham com. Essex. Ib.

1670, 18 Febr. Rob. Grove coll. ad eccl. S. Andr. Under-shaft, per mort. — Grigg. Ib. KENNET.]

⁵ Printed at Lond. 1681. in oct.

Reflections on the Earl of Castlehaven's Memoirs, &c. written by Dr. Edm. Borlase (author of The Hist. of the execrable Irish Rebellion, &c.) and printed at Lond. 1682. oct. But the said author, who commends Anglesey's Letter, was not regarded. Afterwards our author Anglesey wrote,

A true Account of the whole Proceedings betwixt James Duke of Ormond and Arthur Earl of Anglesey before the King and his Council, &c. Lond. 1682. in 18 sh. in fol. and

A Letter of Remarks upon Jovian. Lond. 1683. in two sh. in qu. which Jovian was wrote by Dr. George Hicks dean of Worcester. In the latter end of the year 1685* he began to be admitted into the favour of king James II. but being about three weeks after seized with a quinsy in his throat, died soon after, as I shall anon tell you, leaving behind him *The History of Ireland, MS.*⁷ and

The King's Right of Indulgence in spiritual Matters with the Equity thereof asserted.—Which book being put into the hands of Hen. Care, he caused it to be published at London in Nov. 1687. in 10 sh. and an half in qu. with the date of 1688 put at the bottom of the title. So that that person, who in the time of the popish plot had shew'd himself the most bitter enemy in the nation against the papists and duke of York, by publishing The Weekly Pacquet of Advice from Rome, and other things, was, when the said duke came to the crown, taken so much into favour, as to be made a tool to print

* [Sir Peter Pett in his ep. ded. to my lord Anglesey's Memoirs, 8vo. reflects on this account, and says he was admitted into his majesty's favour before (1686) and Mr. Ryley after his lordship's death shew'd me this in his lordship's Diary—viz. On March 8, 85; Spent most at home in business and duty. In the evening was private with my lord Sunderland my good friend; and then was with the king a full hour at Mr. Chiffenches, who was very kind, free and open in discourse. Said he would not be priest-ridden. Read a letter of the late king. Said I should be wellicome to him. KENNET.]

⁷ [His lordship's excellent library received no inconsiderable addition from a curious manuscript of his lordship's writing, I mean his History of the late Commotions and Troubles of Ireland; beginning with the rebellion in the year 1641, and containing all the treaties, negotiations, seiges and battles; in short, all the memorable transactions and revolutions, till his majesty's most happy reestablishment in 1660. But this history, by what mischance it has hapned so, I have not been able as yet to inform myself, is now missing, and the loss of it can never be sufficiently regretted by any one that considers the great abilities of the noble author. I will not say, it had the ill fortune to fall into some hands who stifled it purposely for their own sakes, lest, if published, it should have exposed their mismanagement and treachery; but certain it is, that none of his lordship's friends can tell what is become of it; so that whether it is actually destroyed for fear of telling some unlucky truths, or whether it is still in being, but unworthily confined to some obscure corner, I dare not pretend to determine. Preface to The Privileges, &c. hereafter mentioned. Bodl. 8vo. R. 31. Jur.]

matters for the abolishing of the test and penal laws, the publishing of which book was one.

"Memoirs, intermix'd with moral, political, and historical Observations, by Way of Discourse in a Letter (to sir Pet. Pett) to which is prefix'd a Letter written by his Lordship during his Retirement from Court in the Year 1683—Lond. 1693. oct. publish'd in July, by sir Pet. Pett knight,⁸ advocate-general for the kingdom of Ireland." At length after our author Arthur earl of Anglesey had acted the part of a politician "and ran with the times" for more than 45 years, he gave way to fate in his house in Drury-lane within the liberty of Westminster, on Easter-Tuesday the 6th of Apr. in sixteen hundred eighty and six: whereupon his body being conveyed to Farnborough in Hampshire, where he had an estate, was buried in the church there. He left behind him a choice library of books,⁹ which were exposed to sale, by way of auction, in Oct. Nov. &c. following.

[The Earl of Anglesey's State of the Government and Kingdom prepared and intended for his Majesty King Charles II. in the Year 1682, but the Storm impending, growing so high, prevented it then. With a short Vindication of his Lordship from several Aspersions cast upon him in a pretended Letter that carries the Title of his Memoirs. By Sir John Thompson, Baronet. Lond. 1694, in 4to. Bodl. C. 6. 7. Line.

The Privileges of the House of Lords and Commons argued and stated, in two Conferences betwixt

⁸ [But if his lordship, together with the publick, has been a sufferer, by having the above mentioned history (of Ireland) which he compiled with so much exactness and impartiality, suppress or stifled by some of his enemies, he has been no less injur'd by one that stiles himself his good friend; I mean by sir Peter P—— who a few years ago printed some of his lordship's scatter'd and unfinish'd papers, which 'tis plain he never intended for the publick view, and gave them the specious title of my Lord Anglesey's Memoirs; far from deserving any such name they were only the effect of a few vacant hours in the country, and written with no other design by his lordship, than to relieve his melancholy moments, and amuse himself under a long and tedious indisposition. Preface to The Privileges, &c. Bodl. 8vo. R. 31. Jur.]

⁹ [To lay up a noble magazine of learning for himself and his posterity, his lordship with incredible expence and pains had got together one of the most valuable collections of books that perhaps was ever seen in Europe, consisting of the choicest volumes written in all faculties, arts and languages; and tho' it had the ill fate to be dissipated after his death in a publick auction, which was none of his lordship's fault, yet it ought to be mentioned to his everlasting honour, that he was one of the first peers of England, that took care to furnish himself with a judicious and well chosen library, in which he has happily been followed since by several persons of the highest rank and quality. This admirable collection my lord Anglesey kept at his country seat at Blechington near Oxford, and after the example of the Borromeos, the De Puy's, the Telliers and Colberts, of other countries, design'd that it should never go out of his family, but be inviolably preserved in the same. And as things of this nature are the more useful, as they are the more communicated, that the gentlemen of the neighbouring university should have free recourse to it whenever they had occasion. Preface, p. 6.]

both Houses, April 19, and 22, 1671. To which is added a Discourse, wherein the Rights of the House of Lords are truly asserted. With learned Remarks on the seeming Arguments and pretended Precedents offered at that Time against their Lordships. Written by the right honourable Arthur, Earl of Anglesey, late Lord Privy Seal. London, Printed and sold by J. Natt, near Stationer's Hall, 1702, 12mo. pp. 179+24.

There is a tolerable head of lord Anglesey, engraved by Bocquet from a drawing in the collection of R. Bull, esq. in Park's edit. of Walpole's Royal and noble Authors.]

[792]

" RICHARD EEDES, born at Feckenham in Worcestershire, became either clerk or choirister of C. C. coll. an. 1626, took one degree in arts, became curate of Cleeve or Clyve in Gloucestershire at Michaelmas 1632, proceeded in arts in 1635, continued at Clyve in good esteem for his conformity till the grand rebellion broke out, at which time following the presbyterian cant became eminent in those parts among such who called themselves the godly, and subscribed to the goodness and usefulness of the covenant. About the year 1647 he became vicar of Beckford near Cleeve, where continuing till about two years before the restoration of king Charles II. he did by the persuasion of a parliament captain, who had a farm in Cleeve, return to his old cure at Cleeve, where I find him in 1660, deluding himself then with the hopes of being rector thereof after the death of the ancient incumbent then upon the place. But the rector and those hopes being dead and vanished, he continued his ministry there in the vacation of that living till the memorable Bartholomew's-day, an. 1662, and then being deceived with expectation of an idle dispensation for his nonconformity to the habits and ceremonies of the church, he silenced himself, yet dwelt nevertheless for several years at Cleeve, where he duly frequented the prayers and other offices of the church, as much as his age would give him leave. Some few years before his death he removed to Gretton in the parish of Winchcombe in Gloucestershire, where he finished his course, as I shall tell you anon. He hath published,

" Several sermons, as (1) Great Salvation by Christ Jesus, &c. on Heb. 2. 3. Lond. 1656. oct.
 "(2) Serm. on 1 Pct. 2. 7. &c. To the Great Salvation is a prefatory poem, and therein these four verses,

" The whole is out of order, church and state,
 " In my prognosticks this is England's fate.
 " The land will mourn, and men will find it true,
 " Till Cesar come, who will give God his due.

" He hath also written and published,

" Christ exalted, and Wisdom justified: or the Saint's Esteem of Jesus Christ, as most precious,

" handled; and their wise Choice and Subjection to him, as their Lord and Saviour, vindicated. Lond. 1659. oct. commended to the world by the epistle of Mr. Rich. Baxter. Mr. Eedes died in the communion of the church of England at Gretton before mention'd in the beginning of April " in sixteen hundred eighty and six; whereupon " his body being conveyed to Cleeve by a vast " crowd of those who knew and loved him, was " interred on the sixth day of the same month, in " the middle of the north-side of the church there."

1686.

JOHN DOLBEN, son of Will. Dolben D. D. was born at Stanwick in Northamptonshire, of which his father was rector, elected a student of Ch. Ch. from Westm. school, an. 1640, aged 15 years, bore arms for a time in Oxon, when made a garrison for his majesty; and having made proof of his courage in that service, he was appointed an ensign, and at length a major in one of the armies belonging to his majesty; but after the surrender of Oxford, the declining of the king's cause, and his army disbanded, he returned to Christ Church again, and took the degree of master of arts in 1647, and the next year was ejected from his student's place by the visitors appointed by parliament. Soon after, he took to wife Catherine daughter of Ralph Sheldon (elder brother to Dr. Gilb. Sheldon then lately warden of Alls. coll.) with whom he lived during the time of usurpation in S. Aldate's parish in Oxon, and assisted Mr. Joh. Fell in keeping up the orders and ceremonies of the church of England in a private house opposite to Merton coll. church. After the king's restoration he was installed canon of Ch. Ch. 27 Jul. 1660, in the place of John Pointer then ejected, and soon after was created doctor of divinity: At which time the uncle of his wife being bishop of London and in great favour with the king, he was upon his recommendation, deservedly made not only archdeacon of London in the place of Dr. Tho. Paske deceased, but afterwards clerk of the closet and dean of Westminster, upon the promotion of Dr. Earle to the see of Worcester; in which last dignity he was installed 5 Dec. 1662. In 1666 he was made bishop of Rochester in the place of Dr. Warner deceased, to which see being consecrated in the archb. chappel at Lambeth on the 25th of Nov. the same year, he had then liberty allowed him by his majesty to keep his deanery in commendam. Afterwards he became almoner to his majesty, and at that time and before, that place was manag'd to the benefit of the poor with great justice and integrity. At length upon the death of Dr. Sterne archb. of York, he was, by virtue of the king's conge d'eslire, elected to that see 28 July 1683, and soon after, viz. Aug. 16, being translated thereunto in the archb. chappel at Lambeth, was on the 23d of the same month enthronized. He was a man of a free, generous, and noble disposition, and withal of a natural bold and happy eloquence. As he imitated his uncle bishop Williams in the greatness of his parts and abilities, so he by a certain hereditary right succeeded him in his honours, both in his deanery of Westminster, and his archbishoprick of York. He was not very careful to print his sermons, which much deserve to be published; but such as are set forth are these.

[793]

Several sermons, viz. (1) Sermon before his Majesty on Good-Friday at Whitehall, 24 March 1664. on Joh. 19. Part of the 19th Ver. Lond. 1665. qu. [Bodl. 4to. L. 70. Th.] (2) Sermon before the King on Tuesday 20 June 1665, being the Day of solemn Thanksgiving for the late Victory at Sea, on Psal. 54. 6, 7. Lond. 1665. qu. [Bodl. 4to. R. 42. Th.] (3) Sermon before the King 1666, on the like Occasion, on Psal. 18. 1, 2, 3. Lond. 1666. qu. &c. He died of the small-pox on the eleventh day of April in sixteen hundred eighty and six: whereupon his body was conveyed from Bishops-Thorp to York, and there interr'd in the cathedral. When he was promoted to the see of York Dr. Francis Turner succeeded him in Rochester, and Dr. Tho. Sprat in the deanery of Westminster: and an year and a half after his death, Dr. Tho. Lamplugh bishop of Exeter succeeded him in the see of York, as I shall tell you elsewhere. Soon after was put a large and comely monument over his grave, with this inscription¹ thereon.

Hic situs est
Johannes Dolben, filius Gulielmi S. Th. Professoris, Ex antiqua familia in Cambria septentrionali oriundus,
Natus Stanvici in Agro Northampton. Mart. 20.
A. D. 1624.
Anno ætatis 12 Regiam scholam Westmonast.
auspicato ingressus,
Singulari istius loci genio plenus, 15 exivit
In numerum Alumnorum Ædis Christi Oxon electus.
Exardente bello civili
Partes regias secutus est, in pugna Marstonensi Vexillarius.
In defensione Eboraci graviter vulneratus,
Effuso sanguine consecravit locum
Olim morti suæ destinatum.
A. D. 1656. à Rev. Episc. Cicestrensi sacris ordinibus initiatuS,
Instaurata Monarchia factus est Ædis Christi
Canonicus,
Deinde Decanus Westmonasteriensis.
Mox Carolo II. Regi optimo ab Oratorio Clericus,
Episcopus postea Roffensis
Et post novennium Regis Eleemosynarius.
Anno deniq. 1683. Metropol. Eboracens. honore cumulatus est.

¹ [This epitaph was made by Leonard Welsted B. D. chaplain to his lordship and afterwards vicar of Newcastle upon Tyne, which was the archbishop's option upon the consecration of Th. Smith bishop of Carlisle. GREY.]

Hanc provinciam ingenti animo & pari industria administravit,
Gregi & Pastoribus exemplo,
Intra 30 circiter menses seculi laboribus exhaustis
Cœlo tandem maturus
Lethargia & Variolis per quadriduum lecto affixus.
A. D. 1686, æt. 62, Potentis. Princ. Jac. II. altero, die dominico
Eodem die quo præeunte anno sacras Synaxes
In Eccles. sua Cathed. septimanatim celebrandas instituerat, Cœlo fruebatur.
Mæstissima conjux, magni Gilberti Cantuariensis
Archiep. Neptis,
Ex qua tres liberos suscepit, Gilbertum, Catharin.
& Johan.
Monumentum hoc posuit
Desideratissimo Marito.
In æde Christi sub illius auspiciis partim extractâ, Bromleinsi Palatio reparato, in Cænobio Westmon.
conservato;
In Senatu & Ecclesiis, Eloquentiæ gloriâ; in Dio-cæsibus suis Episcopali diligentia,
In omnium piorum animis, justâ veneratione semper victuro.

[John Dolben admitted into orders by the bishop of Chichester in 1656, collated to the prebend of Cadington-major April 29, 1661; to the archdeaconry of London 11 Oct. 1662; collated by the dean and chapter of St. Paul's to the vic. of St. Giles without Cripplegate 15 Nov. 1662; installed dean of Westminster 5 Dec. 1662. KENNET.

In 1660 he was made rector of Newington cum Britwell, in Oxfordshire, at the king's presentation. In 1664 he was elected prolocutor of the lower house of convocation. MACRO.

There is a very good, and a scarce, mezzotinto engraving of archbishop Dolben, sitting with Fell and Allestree, by D. Loggan, large size.]

WILLIAM COVENTRIE, fourth son of Tho. lord Coventrie, sometime keeper of the great seal of England, by Elizabeth his wife, daughter of John Alderley of London, was born either in the city or suburb of London, became a gent. com. of Queen's coll. in the beginning of the year 1642, aged 14 years; but leaving that house without a degree, he travelled beyond the seas, and at his return seemed to adhere to the cause of king Charles II. After his restoration he was elected a Burgess for the town of Great Yarmouth in Norfolk, to serve in that parliament which began at Westm. 8 May 1661, and two years after was actually created doctor of the civil law of this university, being about that time secretary to his royal highness James duke of York. In 1665, Jun. 26, he received the honour of knighthood from his majesty, and was afterwards sworn one of his majesty's most honourable privy council, being then esteemed, upon all accounts, qualified for noble employments; for at that time, if I mistake not, he was secretary to the navy; (the said duke being then general at sea, in the wars against the Dutch) by which employment he got a considerable estate in money, which ever after kept up his port according to his quality. But at length behaving himself displeasing to the said duke, when there was need of him, he was removed from his service: whereupon settling at Minster Lovel near Whitney in Oxfordshire, became much respected by the neighbouring gentry; for whose sake, he was the first that found out a way for the ease of him, or them, that should bear the office of shrievelty: For whereas before, it was usual for the high-sheriff to expend four or five hundred pounds ere he could be quit of his office, he then (in Octob. 1675) by certain articles which he framed,² and were afterwards sub-

[794]

²[Sept. 23, 1675. Oxon.—We whose names are underwritten observing notwithstanding a statute made in the time of king Charles that now is for the preventing the unnecessary and unlawfull charges of sheriffs yet that such persons as have since that time bin sheriffs in this county of Oxon, have made great expences contrary to the said law which wee suppose to have proceeded from the apprehensions they have had that those who should begin the reformation might bee lyable to sensure as men more avaricious then those who proceeded in the same soe that through want of good example the law is contemned and broken

It is therefore agreed by all the persons whose names are here underscribed that noe one of the persons who shall subscribe to these articles shall when hee is made sheriffe of the said county have above Thirty Liverymen nor under Twenty men for his attendance either at the assizes or att any other time or place where his presence as sheriffe of the said county shal bee required Of which thirty the livery men that are to bee provided by such gentlemen as are subscribers to these articles shal bee parte

That when any of the said subscribers shall bee made sheriffe of the said county the livery shal bee a plaine grey cloath coate edged and lined through with greene and a black hatt And shall as often as any of the said subscribers shall bee sheriffs of the said county bee as neere and much a like both in colour cloath and otherwise as can bee reasonably bought and made likewise every livery shall bring with him a javelin suiteable

That when any of the said subscribers shall bee made sheriffe of the said county, every other of the said subscribers shal provide one man habited in such a livery as aforesaid to attend such sheriffe at the assizes for the said county And shall beare the chardges both of such livery men and his horse during the assizes Those subscribed in the first colunne to attend the Winter assizes and those in the second colunne to attend the Sumer assizes

That when any of the said subscribers that shal bee sheriffe of the said county hee shall at the assizes for the said county and during the time of such assizes dine at an ordinary and not make any invitation of any person whatsoever nor keepe any undersheriffes' table which said ordinary shall not exceed fower shillings for meate beere and ale And all wine at that ordinary shal be paid for by those that call for it and before it bee used or spent And the ordinary for the servants Twelve pence and no more

That when any of the said subscribers shall bee made sheriffe of the said county every other of the said subscribers in the first colunne shall perpetually accompany such sheriffe at the winter assizes for the said county And those in the second colunne at the summer assizes And every one of the said subscribers during the said assizes shall dine at the same table with such sheriffe and pay for his owne ordinary and scribed by the gentry to stand to, brought that sum to 50 or 60*l*. and the first high-sheriff of Oxfordshire that enjoyed the benefit of the said articles, was sir Edm. Fetyplace of Swinbroke near Burford baronet, who was elected to that office in Nov. the same year. "In the beginning of June 1667, sir Will. Coventrie, with George duke of Albemarle, &c. were appointed commissioners for executing the office of lord treasurer of England, lately void by the death of Thomas earl of Southampton. Sir Will. Temple of Sheen in his Memoirs of what pass'd in Christendom from the War begun 1672 to the Peace concluded in 1679.—Lond. 1692. 2d edit. octavo, tells his readers, p. 389, that 'Sir Will. Coventrie had the most credit of any man in the house of commons (when the popish plot broke out) and I think the most deservedly, not only for his great abilities, but for having then been turn'd out of the council and treasury to make way for the lord Clifford's greatness and the designs of the cabal. Hedespis'd the French alliances, and bent upon engaging England in a war with that crown and assistance of the confederates, and was now (1678-9) extreemly dissatisfied with the conclusion of the peace (1679) and with the ministry (meaning the chief ministers at court) that he thought either assisted, or at least might have prevented, it; and in these dispositions he was like to be follow'd by the best and soberest part of the house of commons.' Among several things which lie the said sir Will. Coventrie wrote, and published, without his name set to them, are these.

England's Appeal from the private Cabal at proper chardges And in case by reason of any very urgent and extraordinary occasion any one of the said subscribers shall bee hindred from coming in person to accompany the sheriffe in such manner as is before mentioned That then hee shall send some other gentleman to represent him and accompany the sheriffe as himselfe ought to have don and to pay as himselfe should doe if hee were personally present

That when any one of the said subscribers shal bee made sheriffe of the said county hee shall give noe present or gratuity either to the judges themselves or to any other servants officers or attendance nor to any trumpeter that shall come the circuite or pretend to attend or waite upon the judges through the circuite

For the makeing the attendance on the sheriffe more equall to all the subscribers it is agreed that those that attend at the winter assizes the first yeare shall attend at the summer assizes the next yeare and soe vice versa every yeare

That none shal bee admitted to subscribe to these articles after hee is pricked sheriffe

That noe subscriber that hereafter shall bee nominated sheriffe shall receive any money or other gratuity from the person hee shall nominate to be his undersheriffe other then the usuall covenants for the due execution of his office and the chardges in procuring the patent and quietns

Since these articles the subscribers have agreed with Mr Wood for 3*l* a piece to find thirty liverys and mainteyne the men and horses at every assize for three years which hee hath done for six years past and now this assizes July 8 I have subscribed to pay 3*l* for three years to come. Transcribed by Hearne from a paper communicated to him by Mr. Loveday, MS. Collections, vol. cxliv, page 21.]

Whitehall to the great Council of the Nation, the Lords and Commons in Parliament assembled.—Printed 1673. in 7 sh. in qu. The cabal was a word unluckily falling out of the first letters of the names of the five chief persons then in the ministry, that is lord Clifford, Arlington, Buckingham, Ashley, and Lauderdale: The chief men of making so great a king as they pretended, by beginning the Dutch war and French alliance.

[795]

Letter written to Dr. Glib. Burnet, giving an Account of Cardinal Pole's secret Powers: From which it appears that it was never intended to confirm the Alienation which was made of the Abbey-Lands. To which are added two Breves that Card. Pole brought over, and some other of his Letters, that were never before printed. Lond. 1685. in five sheets in qu. [Bodl. C. 11. 2. Linc.] He hath also written another thing, to which his name was set, entit.

1686.

The Character of a Trimmer. His Opinion of 1. The Laws and Government. 2. Protestant Religion. 3. The Papists. 4. Foreign Affairs. Lond. 1689. in six sh. in qu. sec. edit. the first of which had not his name set to it.³ At length this honourable knight retiring to Tunbridge Wells in Kent for the sake of the water there to cure his distemper, died at Somerhill near thereunto, of the gout in the stomach, which the physicians took to be the stone, on Wednesday the 23d of June in sixteen hundred eighty and six: whereupon his body was conveyed to Penshurst in the said county, and buried in the church there. He bequeathed 2000*l.* to the French protestants that were then lately come into England upon their expulsion from their own country upon account of religion, and 3000*l.* for the redemption of captives at Algiers, as the current report then went, appointing Dr. Compton bishop of London, and Dr. Jo. Fell bishop of Oxon, overseers of his gift.

JOHN FELL, son of Dr. Samuel Fell sometime dean of Ch. Ch. by Margaret his wife, daughter of Tho. Wyld of the Commandery in the suburbs of Worcester esq. was born at Sunningwell near to Abingdon in Berks "or Longworth as I have been "informed by a kinsm.⁴ of his" educated mostly in the free-school at Thame in Oxfordshire (founded by John lord Williams) made student of Ch. Ch. an. 1636, aged eleven years, took the degrees in arts,⁵ that of master being compleated in 1643, about which time he was in arms for his majesty within the garrison of Oxon, and afterwards was an ensign.

³ [See Echard page 1082, b. This piece is in the Miscellanies of the Marquiss of Halifax, whose mother was sister to sir Will. Coventrie. LOVEDAY.]

⁴ [Mr. Jones his nephew. Wood, MS. Note in Ashmole.]

⁵ [See archbishop Laud's dispensation allowing Fell one term, in order to proceed to his degree of B. A. in the Hist. of the Chancellorship, page 211. Fell is there termed 'a youth of known desert.']

In 1648 he was turn'd out of his place by the parliamentary visitors, being then in holy orders; from which year, to the king's restoration, he spent his time in Oxon in a retired and studious condition, partly in the lodgings of his brother-in-law Mr. Tho. Willis in Canterbury quadrangle pertaining to Ch. Church, and afterwards partly in his house situate and being over-against Merton coll. church; wherein he and others kept up the devotions and orders of the church of England, administred the sacrament and other duties to the afflicted royalists then remaining in Oxon. After the king's restoration he was installed canon of Ch. Ch. in the place of Ralph Button ejected, on the 27th of July 1660, and dean of the said church on the 30th of Nov. following, being then one of his majesty's chaplains in ordinary, and doctor of divinity by actual creation. By his constant residence in Oxon in the time of usurpation, he could not otherwise but behold with grief to what a miserable condition the whole university, and in particular those of his quondam coll. were reduced to as to principles in religion, and he knew that things could not be reformed suddenly, but by degrees. His predecessor Dr. Morley, in that short time that he governed the coll. restored the members thereof then living, that had been ejected in 1648, and such that remained factious Dr. Fell either removed or fixed in loyal principles; yet when the organ and surplice were restored, there were not wanting those that to the great concern and resentment of the dean, Dr. Dolben, Dr. Allestree, and others, us'd both of them with contempt and indignity. As by his unwearied diligence he endeavour'd to improve his coll. with learning and true religion, so also to adorn it with buildings; for no sooner he was settled, but he took upon him a resolution to finish Wolsey's great quadrangle. The north side of it which was left void and open in Wolsey's time, was began to be supplied with buildings suitable to the rest of the quadrangle, by his father Dr. S. Fell, and was by him the coll. and benefactors, carried on to the top, and had all the frame of timber belonging thereunto laid; but before the inside could be finished and the top covered with lead, the civil war began. In that condition it continued expos'd to weather till the reformers took place, who minding their own concerns, and not at all the public, took the timber away and employed it for their private use. This imperfect building, I say, was, by the benefaction of Dr. Joh. Fell, the then present canons, and others of the house, as also by the benefaction⁶ of certain generous persons that had been formerly members thereof and of others, quite finished for the use of two canons, together with that part between the imperfect building on the north side of the great gate, and the N. W. corner of the said quadrangle. The next fabrick that he undertook was that in the chaplain's quadrangle, and the long range of building joyning thereunto on the east side. For whereas Philip King auditor of Ch. Ch. had built very fair lodgings of polish'd free-stone about 1638, in, or very near that place, whereon the said long range was afterwards erected, they were by carelessness burnt on the 19th of Nov. 1669, and with them the south east corner of the said quadrangle, besides part of the lodgings belonging to the canon of the sec. stall, which was blown up with gun-powder to prevent the spreading of the fire towards the library, treasury and church. These buildings being burnt and blown up, were by the care of Dr. Fell rebuilt, viz. the east side of the chapelin's quadrangle, with a straight passage under it, leading from the cloister into the field, which was finished in 1672, and the long range before-mention'd, in 1677 and 78. The third fabrick, which by his care was also erected, were the lodgings belonging to the canon of the third stall, situate and being in the passage leading from Wolsey's quadrangle, to that of Peckwater, which were finishing in 1674. And lastly the stately tower over the great and principal gate next to Fishstreet, began on the old foundation (laid by Wolsey) in June 1681, and finished in November 1682, mostly with the moneys of benefactors, whose arms are with great curiosity engraven in stone on the roof that parts the gatehouse and the belfry. To this tower was translated from the campanile of the church, the bell called Great Tom of Christ Church, after it had been several times cast, an. 1683, and on the great festival of the 29th of May 1684, it first rang out, between 8 and 9 at night; from which time to this, a servant toles it every night at 9, as a signal to all scholars to repair to their respective colleges and halls, as he did, while 'twas in the campanile. In 1666, 67, 68, and part of 69, Dr. Fell was invested with the office of vicechancellor, in which being settled, his first care was to make all degrees go in caps, and in public assemblies to appear in hoods. He also reduced the caps and gowns worn by all degrees, to their former size or make, and ordered all cap-makers and taylors to make them so; which for several years after were duly observed, but now, especially as to gowns, an equal strictness is not observed. His next care was to look narrowly towards the performance of public exercise in the schools, and to reform several abuses in them; and because coursing in the time of Lent, that is the endeavours of one party to run down and confute another in disputation, did commonly end in blows, and domestic quarrels (the refuge of the vanquish'd side) he did by his authority annul that custom. Since that time as those public disturbances, which were the scandal of the university, did cease; so likewise that vehemence and eagerness in disputations which was increas'd by those intestine broils having lost the incentives of malice, feuds and contentions did in great measure abate, and at length fall. However Dr. Fell, that he might as much as possibly support the exercises of the university, did frequent examinations for degrees, hold the examiners up to it, and if they would, or could, not do their duty, he would do it himself to the pulling down of many. He did also sometimes repair to the ordinaries (commonly called wall lectures from the paucity of auditors) and was frequently present at those exercises called disputations in Austins, where he would make the disputants begin precisely at one, and continue disputing till 3 of the clock in the afternoon; so that upon his appearance more auditors were then present, than since have usually appeared at those exercises. It was his endeavour before, and while, he was vicechancellor, as also the endeavours of some of his friends and fellow-sufferers, to reduce the university to that manner and form, as to preaching, disputing, discipline, opinion, &c. as 'twas while Dr. Laud was chancellor thereof; but because of the twenty years interval, wherein a most strange liberty, looseness in manners and religion had taken place, they could not do it; and I remember that many made it a ridiculous thing, that he and they should in the least think of such a matter, which a whole age could not do, nor that also, unless a succession of good kings came, that should be of the same mind and opinion with Charles I. of ever blessed memory. He was a most excellent disciplinarian, kept up the exercise of his house severely, was admirable in training up youth of noble extraction, had a faculty in it peculiar to him, and was much delighted in it. He would constantly on several mornings in the week take his rounds in his coll. go to the chambers of noblemen and gent. commoners, and examine and see what progress they made in their studies. He constantly frequented divine service in public four times in a day, and had, besides, prayers twice every day in his own family. He ^{* Was a most} was the most zealous man of his ^{zealous favourer} time for the church of England, ^{of the ch. of Eng-} and none, that I yet know of, did ^{land. First edit.} go beyond him, in the performance of the rules belonging thereunto. He was a great encourager and promoter of learning in the university, and of all public works belonging thereunto, witness not only the edifices before-mentioned, but his solicitation for the building of the public theatre, to the end that the house of God might be kept free for its own use: He likewise advanced the learned press, and improv'd the manufacture of printing in Oxford in such manner as it had been designed before by that public-spirited person Dr. Laud archb. of Canterbury; and certainly it would have been by him effected, as other matters of greater concern relating to religion and learning, had not the iniquity of the restless presbyterians prevented him. He was also a person of a most generous spirit, undervalued money, and disburs'd it so freely upon learned, pious and charitable uses, that he left sometimes for himself and his private use little or nothing. He was an eager defender and maintainer of the university and its privileges (especially while he executed the office of vicechancellor) against the oppugners of them, and always endeavour'd to advance its liberties; for which he often gained the ill opinions of the citizens. He was a bold and resolute man, and did not value what the generality said or thought of him so that he could accomplish his just and generous designs: which being too many to effect, was the chief reason of shortning his days. His charity was so great that he was a husband to the afflicted widow, a father to the orphan, and a tender parent to poor children. He constantly allowed an yearly pension to a poor man of S. Thomas's parish in the suburbs of Oxon, purposely that he should teach gratis 20 or 24 poor children of that parish to read; some of which he afterwards bound apprentices or made scholars. He was a person of

[796]

⁶ See Hist. & Antiq. Univ. Oxon. lib. 2. p. 285. a.

[797]

* Of an unspotted great morals and virtues, spent his life, and unquestionable reputation. time in celibacy, * "and was never known to be an admirer of women, unless it were for their virtues." On the 8th of Jan. 1675 he was elected bishop of Oxon by the chapter of Ch. Ch. by virtue of a conge d'eslire sent to them from his majesty, and on the sixth of Febr. following, being then Shrove Sunday, he was consecrated in the chappel of the bishop of Winchester at Chelsea near London; at which time liberty was given to him to keep his deanery in commendam,⁷ purposely to keep him in his coll. that he might do farther good therein, and in the university. No sooner was he settled in his see, but he betook himself to the rebuilding the palace belonging thereunto, at Cudesden near Oxon; whereupon examining what had been done in order to it by any of his predecessors, which was no considerable matter, he undertook and finished it, as I have told you in the second vol. col. 895, yet enjoyed but a little time in it. As for his works pertaining to learning, they are these,

"In Laudem Musices Carmen Sapphicum."

[798]

The Life of the most Learned, Rev. and Pious Dr. Hen. Hammond. Lond. 1661. [Bodl. 8vo. B. 85. Linc.] &c. oct. Before which time, he was supposed to be author of The Interest of England stated: or a faithful and just Account of the Aims of all Parties now pretending; distinctly treating of the Designments of the R. Cath. Royalist, Presbyterian, Anabaptist, &c. Printed in 1659 in two sh. in qu. but how true it is, I cannot tell, because I heard of it but very lately, and that from no considerable hand. It was answered by March. Neeldham as I have told you in my discourse of him.

The Vanity of Scoffing; in a Letter to a Gent. Lond. 1674. qu. No name is set to it, only then generally reported to be his.

Responsio ad Epistolam Thomæ Hobbes Malmsburienensis. See at the end of Hist. & Antiq. Univ. Oxon.

Several sermons as (1) The Character of the last Days, preached before the King; on 2 Pet. 3. 3. Oxon. 1675. qu. (2) *Serm. preached before the H. of Peers, 22 Dec. 1680. being the Day of solemn Humiliation; on Matth. 12. 25.*⁸ Oxon. 1680. qu. [Bodl. 4to. U. 34. Th.] &c.

Account of Dr. Rich. Allestree's Life—This is in the preface before the said doctor's Forty Sermons, published by our author Dr. Fell, who also reviewed and illustrated with marginal notes the works of S. Cyprian, which he published under this title Sancti Cypriani Opera recognita & illustrata, per Johannem Episcopum Oxoniensem. Pr. 1682. fol. in the printing house joyning on the east side of the theatre, erected at the charge of the university of Oxon on the motion of Dr. Fell, an. 1674. To which book were added Annales Cyprianici, by Dr. John Pearson bishop of Chester. He also translated into English Of the Unity of the Church. Printed also in the same house 1681. qu. Written originally by S. Cyprian. See more of his works in Pat. Young in the FASTI vol. i, col. 308. and in Ger. Langhaine vol. iii. col. 447. and Tho. Willis vol. iii. col. 1048. Dr. Fell also published or reprinted every year while he was dean of Ch. Ch, viz. from 1661 to the time of his death, a book, commonly a classical author, against new-years tide⁹ to distribute among the students of his house. To which books he either put an epistle, or running notes, or corrections. These I have endeavoured to recover, that the titles might be known and here set down, but in vain. The first piece which he published of the incomparable author of The whole Duty of Man, was The Ladies Calling; before which he put an epistle to the reader, giving an account after what a private manner the copy thereof, accompanied with a letter, was conveyed to his hands. This epistle is left out in the folio edit. of that author's works, as also Dr. Hammond's epistle before The whole Duty of Man, and that of Dr. Humph. Henchman before The Gentleman's Calling, which two books had been published by the said doctors. Dr. Fell also published in the year 1675 two other pieces written by the same author, viz. The Government of the Tongue, and The Art of Contentment, and last of all The lively Oracles given to us, &c. which was first printed at Oxon. 1678. oct. In 1684 all the works of the said excellent author were printed together in a pretty large folio, and fair character, at Oxon and London. The whole Duty of Man, the Decay of Christian Piety, and The Gentleman's Calling (which altho' published by Dr. Henchman some years before

⁷ [Bishop Fell had liberty to hold also in commendam the mastership of the hospital of S. Oswald in Gloucester. TANNER.]

⁸ [Both these sermons were reprinted in 8vo. Lond. 1746.]

⁹ [As was done also by Dr. Charlet, master of University college. WATTS.]

[799]

1686.

The Decay of Christian Piety, is in this edit. placed after it) make the first part, which is printed at London, and the four pieces above-named make the second part, printed at Oxon. Before the whole volume is placed a general preface of Dr. Fell's composition; wherein among other things he points at no less than five spurious pieces, which have expressly, or by a designed implication boldly usurp'd on the name and authority of this unknown celebrated author. In this edition of his works compleat, Dr. Fell hath inserted in the margin of the four last pieces, which make the second part of the said vol. (if not too, of The Gent. Calling, and The Decay of Christian Piety) the heads and contents of each section, with useful marginal abbreviations, which were till then wanting in all the parts, except only in The whole Duty of Man. He caused also at his own proper charge the Hist. and Antiq. of the Univ. of Oxon. to be translated into Latin, and kept two men¹ in pay for doing it, besides what he did himself, which was considerable, and the author, which was less: And being so done he caused it, at his own charge also, to be printed with a good character on good paper; but he taking to himself liberty of putting in and out several things according to his own judgment, and those that he employ'd being not careful enough to carry the whole design in their head as the author would have done; it is desired that the author may not be accountable for any thing which was inserted by him; or be censur'd for any useless repetitions or omissions of his agents under him. At length this most godly, learned and zealous person, having brought his body to an ill habit and having wasted his spirits by too much zeal for the public,² he surrendered up his pious soul to God, to the great loss of learning, and of the whole university, about three of the clock in the morning of the tenth of July (being then Saturday) in sixteen hundred eighty and six, leaving then behind him the general character of a learned and pious divine, and of an excellent Grecian, Latinist and philologist, of a great assertor of the church of England, of another founder of his own college, and of a patron of the whole university. He was buried on the 13th day of the same month in the divinity chap. which is the isle most northward from the choir of the cathedral of Ch. Ch. in a little vault built of brick, under the dean's seat on the right hand, and under the seats adjoining eastward: His

¹ [These were Richard Peers of Christ church, and Richard Reeve of Trinity college, afterwards master of Magdalen school. See on in these ATHENÆ, under the years 1690 and 1693.]

² [He was a man of great strictness in the course of his life, and of much devotion. He was a little too much heated in the matter of our disputes with the dissenters, but as he was among the first of our clergy that apprehended the design of bringing in popery, so he was one of the most zealous against it. He had much zeal for reforming abuses, and managed it perhaps with too much heat, and in too peremptory a way. Burnet's Hist. of his own Time.]

monument long since promis'd by his executors, is yet to be expected.

[

M. S.

Johannes Fell, S. T. D.
Longworthiæ Bercheriensium natus, in hanc Ædem
a Decano patre admissus,
Alumnus undecennis,
Magistralē togam ante induit,
quam sumeret virilem,
sacros ordines

Diaconatûs, vacillante ecclesiâ, Presbyteratûs, penitus eversâ, ausus est suscipere.

Et Ecclesiæ reliquias eâ fovit curâ quæ prælusisse videatur Episcopatui.
Spectatâ

in utrumque Carolum fide, a filio tandem restaurato

Tutelam hujus Ecclesiæ Decanus accepit.

Et huic tantæ plusquam par Provinciæ Episcopatum una Oxoniensem feliciter administravit.

Sed dum salutis publicæ intentus negligeret suam, ab Ecclesiâ iterum periclitante desideratus est.
Natus Jun. 23, A. D. 1625.

Diaconus A. D. 1647

Decanus A. D. 1660

Presbyter A. D. 1649

Episcopus A. D. 1675.

Mortuus Jul. 10, A. D. 1686.

Monumentum sibi fieri vetuit
Beatissimus Pater.

Posuere

Thomas Willis et Henricus Jones,
e duabus sororibus nepotes, pietatis esse arbitrati

huic uni ejus mandato non obtemperare.

Prædicandum sibi

minime censuere hunc talem Virum;

Meliorem quam ut vellet laudari,

Majorem quam ut posset.

Desideratissimi Patris pietatem, non hoc saxum

sed hæc testentur mœnia;

munificentiam hujus loci ædificia;

liberalitatem alumni:

Quid in moribus informandis potuit, hæc
Ædes;

Quid in publicis curis sustentandis, Academia

Quid in propagandâ religione Ecclesia,

Quam feliciter juventutem erudierit, Procerum Familiæ;

Quam præclare de Republicâ meruerit, tota Anglia;
Quantum de bonis literis, universus Orbis literatus.

Vitæ Rusticæ Laudes, a Joh. Fell S. T. P. jam
Episc. Oxon. Among the MSS. of the rev. Mr.

Polhill of Bishops-Storford, now in the hands of the rev. Mr. Bye. LOVEDAY.

Grammatica Rationes, sive Institutiones Logicae. Oxonii e Theatro Sheldoniano Anno Dom. 1673. This is commonly ascribed to Fell.

A Specimen of several Sorts of Letter given to the University by Dr. John Fell late Lord Bishop of Oxford. To which is added the Letter given by Mr. F. Junius. Oxford, Printed at the Theatre, A. D. 1693. 8vo.

There are three paintings of Fell, Dolben and Allestree, as engraved by Loggan; one in the possession of sir William Dolben, a second in the hall at Christ Church, and the third in the hands of the rev. Edmund Goodenough, student of that house.

JOHN JONES, son of John Jones of Llangellian in Denbighshire, became a student in New inn, in act term 1675, aged 20 years, was translated afterwards to Trin. coll. and as a member thereof taking the degree of bach. of arts, 1681, was soon after made usher of the free-school at S. Alban's in Hertfordshire, where, as in the university, he was esteemed a good Latin poet. He hath written, Fanum S. Albani Poema Carmine Heroico. Lond. 1683. in 4 sh. in qu. dedic. to sir Harbottle Grimston knight and bart. master of the rolls. He died in sixteen hundred eighty and six, and was buried in the large church of S. Alban before-mention'd, with this epitaph soon after put over his grave. H. S. E. Johannes Jones Wallus, Scholæ S. Albanensis Hypodidascalus literatissimus. Qui, dum Ecclesia hæc Anno 1684 publicis impensis instauraretur, exseculpsit sibi quoque monumentum; quod inscripsit Fanum S. Albani, Poema Carmine Heroico, hoc lapide, hæc Æde, ævoque perrennius omni, &c.

JOHN BENNET, son of a father of both his names, was born in S. Margaret's parish within the city of Westminster, elected from the coll. school there, a student of Ch. Ch. an. 1676; took one degree in arts, and wrote,

Constantius the Apostate: Being a short Account of his Life, and the Sense of the Primitive Christians about Succession. Wherein is shown the Unlawfulness of excluding the next Heir upon the Account of Religion; and the Necessity of Passive Obedience, as well to the unlawful Oppressor as legal Persecutor. Being a full Answer to a late Pamphlet entit. Julian the Apostate, &c. Lond. 1683. oct. "Bp. Barlow's note on this book runs thus. 'Many mistakes are in this book, but no medium or material argument at all to prove it unlawful for the king and parliament to seclude a popish successor.'" Afterwards the author proceeded in arts, studied physic, and dying of a violent fever on the 6th of Octob. in sixteen hundred eighty and six, was buried on the south side of the body of the cathedral of Christ Church in Oxford.

"JACOB ALLESTRY, son of Jam. Allestry a bookseller of London, but undone by the grand conflagration that hapned there in the beginning of Sept. 1666, educated in Westminster school, entred into Ch. Ch. in act term 1671, aged 18, and in the next year was elected student thereof. Afterwards he took the degrees in arts, was music-reader in 1679, and terræ filius in 1682, both which offices he performed with very great applause, being then accounted a good philologist and poet. He hath written

"Divers poems, one of which, entit. What art thou, Love! was printed in a book entit. Examen Poeticum. The third Part of Miscellany Poems, &c. Lond. 1693. oct. p. 178. He also had the chief hand (as I have been informed) in making the Verses and Pastoral, which were spoken in Oxford theatre, 21 May 1681 by Will. Savile second son of George earl (afterwards marq.) of Halifax, and George Choldmondley second son of Robert viscount Kellis (both of Ch. Ch.) before James duke of York, his dutchess and the lady Anne. Which Verses and Pastoral were afterwards printed in the said Examen Poeticum. p. 181, 182, 183, 184, 185, &c. But this person Ja. Allestry being exceedingly given to the vices of poets, his body was so much macerated and spent by juvenile extravagances, that he retired to an obscure house in Fish-row in S. Thomas's parish in the suburb of Oxon, which was inhabited by a nurse or tender of sick people, where continuing incognito about 7 weeks, died in a poor condition and of a loathsome disease, on Friday the 15th of Octob. in sixteen hundred eighty and six. Whereupon his body being carried towards the church of S. Thomas by four poor men in the evening of the next day, it was buried in the yard belonging thereunto, near the east end of the chancel."

WILLIAM GOULD was born of genteel parents at Parhams farm in the parish of Alston in Wiltshire, entred a com. of Oriel coll. 19th of May 1658, where being extravagant in his life and conversation, was forc'd thence, but taking up in time, and making a thorough reformation in himself, obtained the chancellor's letters for accumulating the degrees in arts, an. 1666, wherein I find this character of him, that 'he is a man of very good parts and learning and well qualified to do service in the church,' &c. But whether he was admitted bach. or master of arts, it appears not. About that time being in holy orders, he became rector of Kenn near Exeter, a most loyal and orthodox person and a good preacher. He hath published,

Several sermons, as (1) Domus mea, Domus Orationis, preached at S. Peter's in Exeter; on 1686.

[800]

1686.

1686.

ing a copy in the preceding!

1686.

Matth. 21. 13. Lond. 1672. qu. (2) Conformity according to the Canon justified, and the new Way of Moderation reprov'd, preached in the Cathedral Church of S. Peter in Exeter, at the Visitation of Anthony Bishop of Exeter; on 1 Cor. 14. 20. Lond. 1674. qu. (3) The Generosity of Christian Love; on 1 Cor. 13. 5. Lond. 1676. qu. (4) The primitive Christian justified, and Jack Presbyter reprov'd; or a Scripture Demonstration, that to be innocent and persecuted is more eligible than to be prosperously wicked. preached in his Abbey Church of Bath; on Job. 26. 21. Lond. 1682. qu. He died in the latter end of Octob. in sixteen hundred eighty and six, and was buried on the first of Novemb. in the church of Kenn before-mention'd, where there is a monument and epitaph over his grave.

[801]

THOMAS JACOMBE son of Joh. Jac. was born at Burton Lazars near to Melton Mowbray in Leicestershire, became either a batler or a commoner of Magd. hall in Easter term, an. 1640, aged 18 years, left it upon the eruption of the civil wars, went to Cambridge, and, taking the covenant, became fellow of Trin. coll. there,³ in the place of a loyalist ejected; and having the degree of master of arts in that university conferr'd on him, became a person of high repute, (as one⁴ of his persuasion tells us) for his good life, good learning and excellent gravity, greatly beloved of the then master, who lov'd an honest man and a good scholar with all his heart. About that time taking orders according to the presbyterian way, he retired to London, and much about the same time that he became minister of S. Martin's church joyning to Ludgate, he became one of the assistants to the commissioners of London for the ejecting of such whom the faction then called scandalous, ignorant and insufficient ministers and schoolmasters. From that time to his silencing, he was a very zealous person for promoting the cause, and in very great esteem by those of his persuasion, as the aforesaid author tells us, 'for his piety, parts, prudence, sound, judicious, practical, spiritual, substantial preaching:' yet another⁵ of a contrary persuasion, who lived afterwards, as now, in very great esteem for his loyalty and learning, represents⁶ him to have been 'the prettiest, nonsensical, trifling goosceap that ever set pen to paper.' On the 14th of March 1659 he was one of those zealots, who, by act of parliament, were appointed approvers of ministers according to the presbyterian way, before they were to be settled in church livings; but that being soon after laid aside upon his majesty's restoration, he himself was ejected from S. Martin's and laid aside also for nonconformity at Bartholomew tide in 1662, he being about that time doct. of divinity. Afterwards he followed the trade of conventicling, for which he was brought several times into trouble, and at length became chaplain to the countess of Exeter, in whose service he died. He hath extant,

Several sermons, as (1) Enoch's Walk and Change, funeral Sermon on Gen. 5. 24. preached at the Burial of Mr. Rich. Vines sometime Master of Pembr. Hall. in Cambridge, in the Church of S. Laurence Jewry, London, 7. Feb. 1655. Lond. 1657. qu. third edit. [Bodl. B. 3. 2. Linc.] To which our author Jacombe hath added A short Account of the Life and Death of Mr. Rich. Vines. (2) The active and public Spirit, preached at S. Paul's 26 Oct. 1656; on Acts 13. former Part of the 36 Vers. Lond. 1657. qu. [Bodl. 4to. J. 2. Th. BS.] (3) God's Mercy for Man's Mercy, preached at the Spittle before the L. Mayor, Aldermen, &c. of Lond. on Matth. 5. 7. Lond. 1657. qu. [Bodl. 4to. J. 2. Th. BS.] (4) Two farewell Sermons at Bartholomew tide, on John 8. 29. Lond. 1662. oct. His picture is before the title, among other pictures of nonconformists that preached farewell sermons in London. (5) Several Sermons preached on the whole eighth Chap. of the Epistle to the Romans: eighteen of which were preached on the first, 2d 3d and 4th verses of the said chapt. Lond. 1672. 3. qu. [Bodl. 4to. W. 62. Th.] This is sometimes called his Commentary on the eighth Chap. to the Romans. (6) How Christians may learn in every State to be content; on Phil. 4. 11. This is in The Supplement to the morning Exercise at Cripplegate. Lond. 1674. and 76. qu. (7) The Covenant of Redemption; on Isa. 53. 10. This is in The morning Exercise methodiz'd, &c. preached at S. Giles's in the Fields, in May 1659. Lond. 1676. qu. (8) The upright Man's Peace at his End, opened in a fun. Discourse (or Serm.) 8 Dec. 1681. upon the Death of Mr. Matth. Martin Citizen of London. Lond. 1682. qu. &c. He hath also written,

³ [Admissus prius in coll. Jo. Cant. Oct. 28, 1642.

Tho. Jacombe Leicestrensis, filius Jo. J. de Burton Laizures in com. prædict. plebei; natus ibid. educatus in schola publica Newarcensi sub magistro Ed. Gamble per duos annos et dimid. deinde in aula Magdal. Oxon. ut patet per test. infra scriptum, annos natus 18 et quod excurrit, admissus est subsizator sub m^{ro} Clark tutore et fidejussore ipsius Oct. 28, 1642.

⁴ Tho. Jacombe ex aula Magd. matriculatus est 1640, in termino paschalis. Ita testor Math. Crosse, bedellus superior in facultate juris.

⁵ These are to signify that Tho. Jacombe, during his aboad in Magd. hall, hath behaved himself orderly and studiously, performing all scholastical exercises, that he was there lyable unto, with good approbation. And so with my wishing of his well-doing, I give him leave to place himself in any coll. or hall in Cambridge Oct. 10, 1642. Jo. Williamson, Josh. Crosse, Henr. Wilkinson.

Tho. Jacombe coll. Jo. A. B. 1643.—Coll. Trin. A. M. 1647. Reg. Acad. BAKER.]

⁶ Sam. Rolle a nonconformist in his Prodromus, or the Character of Mr. Will. Sherlock's Book called A Discourse of the Knowledge of Jesus Christ, &c. Lond. 1674. oct. p. 15.

⁵ Will. Sherlock, D. D.

⁶ Ib. in Prodrom. p. 15.

A Treatise of holy Dedication both personal and domestic; recommended to the Citizens of London upon their entring into their new Habitations. Lond. 1668. oct. This was written after the grand conflagration of London, and published after the citizens had returned to their habitations when rebuilt.

A short Account of the Life of Mr. Will. Whittaker late Minister of S. Mary Magd. Bermondsey in Southwark. Lond. 1674. 5. oct. This is set before Mr. Whittaker's eighteen Sermons preached upon several Texts of Scripture. Dr. Jacombe also was one of the eight nonconforming ministers that undertook in 1682 to finish the English Annotations on the holy Scriptures, in two vol. in fol. began by Matthew Pool and by him carried on to the 58th chapter of Isaiah; and no doubt there is but that he did his share in that great work. At length he giving way to fate in the house of Frances countess of Exeter, situate and being in Little Britain, on the 27th of March (being then Easter Sunday) in sixteen hundred eighty and seven, was buried five days after in the church of St. Anne within, and near, Aldersgate, in the city of London, in the presence of very many, as well conformist, as nonconformist, divines.⁸ I find one Sam. Jacombe bach. of div. to have been sometime fellow of Qu. coll. in Cambridge,⁹ and afterwards minister of S. Mary Woolnoth in Lombard-street in London in the times of usurpation, author of two or more sermons, of which one is entit. Moses his Death, preached at Ch. Church in London at the funeral of Mr. Edw. Bright minister there.¹—Lond. 1657. qu. Which S. Jacombe, who was buried in his own church of S. Mar. Woln. on the 17th of June 1659, I take to have been brother of the before-mention'd Dr. Tho. Jacombe.

EDWARD SHELDON, a younger son of Edw. Sheldon of Beoley in Worcestershire esq; was born there, on the 23d of Apr. 1599, became a gent. com. of Gloc. hall in the time of Dr. Hawley principal thereof, about 1613, where spending three or more years, did afterwards travel beyond the seas, and became master of two languages (besides the Lat.) at least. Some years after his return, he settled on his patrimony at Stratton near to Cirencester in Gloucestershire, which at length he lost, or was forced to quit, for the cause of king Charles I. and for his religion, in the time of the grand rebel-

⁷ [Quidam Will. Whitaker, admissus socius coll. Regin. Cant. virtute ordin. parlam. 1644. Reg. Coll. Regin. BAKER.]

⁸ [Jacombe left a very valuable library, which was sold by auction for thirteen hundred pounds.]

⁹ [Sam. Jacombe A. B. Leicestrensis electus socius coll. Regin. Cant. Martii 1, 1648. S. T. B. Cantabr. coll. Regin. 1658. Reg. Acad. BAKER.]

¹ [Moses his Death opened and applied in a Sermon at Christ Church London at the Funeral of Mr. Edward Bright Minister there, by Mr. Sam. Jacomb. M. A. Pastor of Mary Woolnoth, London. In 410. KENNET.]

lion raised and carried on by restless people. He hath translated from French into Engl. (1) The holy Life of Gaston Joh. Bapt. de Renty a Nobleman of France. Lond. 1658. oct. mangled by an Irish priest when it went to the press. It was printed there again with corrections, an. 1683. oct. (2) The Rule of Cath. Faith, &c. Lond. 1660. [Bodl. 8vo. B. 192. Linc.] there again (tho' said in the title to be printed at Paris) with its old date, an. 1672. both in oct. This book was originally written by Franc. Veron D. D. (3) Christian Thoughts for every Day in the Month. Lond. 1680. in tw. (4) The Counsels of Wisdom: or, a Collection of the Maxims of Solomon, &c. with Reflections on the Maxims. Lond. 1680. oct. in two parts.² Dedie. by the translator to qu. Katherine. This Mr. Sheldon, who spent most of his time in studies and devotion, paid his tribute common to the condition of the living, in a good old age, in his house situate and being in S. James's-street near to S. James's-house, within the liberty of Westminster, on the 27th of March in sixteen hundred eighty and seven:

Whereupon * his funeral and * His body was buried in the chappel belonging to the said house of S. James's, but his body was laid in the vault under the chappel at Somerset-house, near his son-in-law sir Sam. Tuke. He had several sons, among whom Lionel Sheldon a benedictine, doct. of divinity, and chaplain to Anne dutchess of York, after she had changed her religion for that of Rome, was one, and Dominick Sheldon another, lately a colonel of horse, of prudent and courageous conduct in Ireland, in the army of king Jam. II. against that of king Will. III. "He had also a younger son call'd "Ralph Sheldon an equerry to king James II. who "stuck close to him in the worst of times, particu- "larly when he and Mr. Dalabady duke of Berwick, " (husband to Mrs. Mary-Anne Delabady dry "nurse to Josepha Maria the queen) went with him "privately from Rochester early in the morning of "the 23d of Dec. 169— to Dover, whence they "were transported to France, where Ralph Sheldon "continued constantly with him." Among his daughters were Mary (one of the dressers belonging to queen Katherine) wife of sir Sam. Tuke of Cressing-Temple in Essex knight and bart. a person sometimes of compleat honour and ingenuity, a colonel in the army of his majesty king Charles I. and one of the prime officers in that noble and generous expedition of Kent, Essex and Colchester, an. 1648, (for which he had like to have lost his life) afterwards a sufferer for his religion and loyalty, author of that celebrated trag. com. called The Adventures of five Hours. Lond. 1662. 64 and 1671. qu.³ He died at Somerset-house in the Strand near Lond. Jan. 26 1673,⁴ and was buried in the vault under the chap. at Somerset-house. He the said Mr. Sheldon had another dau. named Frances who was one of the maids of honour to qu. Katherine before-mention'd; and he was uncle to Ralph Sheldon of Beoley esq; commonly called Great Sheldon.

² [This book was originally written by monseigneur Fouquet, sometime lord high treasurer of France, in the reign of Lewis XIV. See Leake's translation of the whole work, p. xv. LOVEDAY.]

[803]

“GEORGE VILLIERS, son and heir of George, duke, marquess and earl of Buckingham, was born in Wallingford-house opposite to Whitehall in the parish of S. Martin in the Fields within the liberty of Westminster, on the 30th of January 1627, and was christened there on the 14th of Feb. following by Dr. Will. Laud then bishop of Bath and Wells; but in the year following, upon the murder of his father, he became duke, marq. and earl of Bucks, &c. After he had been carefully trained up under several tutors, he was sent to Cambridge for a time, and afterwards travelled with his brother the lord Francis under the conduct of Will. Aylesbury esq; son of sir Tho. Aylesbury, bart. After his return, which was after the time that the grand rebellion broke forth, he was conducted to Oxford to his majesty then there, entred into Ch. Ch. and had a tutor allotted to him, being then 15 years of age, but whether he wore the gown of a nobleman I cannot say, because most of the junior scholars had thrown off their gowns to serve his majesty within the garrison of Oxon. After the cause of king Charles I. declined, he stuck to his son king Charles II. was with him in his exile, and at the battle at Worcester 1651; where being forced to shift for himself, as most of the vanquish'd royalists did, escaped and got beyond the seas, and soon after was made knight of the most noble order of the garter. Afterwards he stole over into England, made court to lady Mary the daughter and heir of Thomas lord Fairfax and married her the 19th of Nov. 1657, whereby he obtained all or most of his estate, which before he had lost. After the restoration of king Charles II. at which time he was then possess'd of 200000*l.* per an. as I have heard, he became one of the gent. of the bed-chamber, one of the privy-council, lord lieutenant of Yorkshire, and at length master of the horse. In 1666 he maintained secret correspondence by letters and other transactions, tending to raise mutinies among some of his majesty's forces, and stir up sedition among his people and other traitorous designs and practices, &c. which being discovered and made known to his majesty and his privy-council, Buckingham

³ [It was richly dress'd; took 13 nights successively: and the earl of Bristol is said to have joined in it. Other editions are 1663, 1704. OLDYS.]

⁴ [Wood has given a different date in his first edit. but has altered it, as it now stands, on the authority of Ralph Sheldon.]

“withdrew and absconded: Whereupon on the 8th of March the same year his majesty issued out a proclamation for his discovery and apprehension, but for the present in vain. At length yielding himself, and making an humble submission to his majesty, his majesty did on the 13th of Sept. 1667, receive him into his favour and restored him to his place in the council and in the bed-chamber. In the beginning of June 1671 he was installed chancellor of the university of Cambridge, and in the same year was sent ambassador to the French king (he being then accounted the most vain and fantastical person of any nobleman in the nation to please that great prince) who taking a liking to his person and errand, entertained him very nobly for several days together, and in conclusion gave him his sword and belt set with pearls and diamonds to the value of 40000 pistoles,⁵ as the account of his entertainment, which I have seen in MS, attests. About the same time our king seeing that whilst he got nothing but blows by sea, the French got all by land, he sent the said duke of Bucks, Hen. lord Arlington and George lord Halifax to the French king, keeping his court at Utrecht, 15 June 1672, but with instructions as secret and dark as those of making the war, and about the 21st of July 1672 they return'd into England, having effected nothing as to the states of Holland. At that time being one of the cabal at Whitehall, did at the re-sitting of the parliament in the beginning of Feb. following, endeavour in a speech to throw off the odium of the war with the Dutch from himself upon the lord Arlington another of the cabal, and in June or Jul. 1674 he resigned his chancellorship of Cambridge; whereupon James duke of Monmouth did succeed him. At that time Buckingham being a great favourer of fanatics, he did in the beginning of Nov. 1675 put up a bill in favour of them, which was assented to. Upon the 16th of Feb. 1676 he (Buckingham) James earl of Salisbury, Anth. earl of Shaftsbury and Philip lord Wharton were sentenced by the house of lords to be committed prisoners to the Tower, under the notion of contempt, for that they refused a recantation for what the day before was spoken by them, viz. that Buckingham (just after the king had ended his speech to both houses at their then meeting) endeavouring to argue from law and reason that the long prorogation was null'd, and that the parliament was consequently dissolv'd, was seconded by Salisbury, Shaftsbury and Wharton. For which reason I say, and for endeavouring to raise sedition, they were sent to the Tower. See more in Anthony Ashley Cooper earl of Shaftsbury, among the writers, in this volume, col. 75. Upon the breaking out of Oates's plot, he the said Buck-

[804]

⁵ [Improbable: perhaps livres. COLE.]

“ingham did side with the faction, and endeavoured
“with other discontented lords to take all oppor“tunities to vex and cross the king; for which they “got the ill-will of the royalists and all such that “wished peace. He hath written,

“An Epitaph upon Thomas late Lord Fairfax
“—Printed in half a sheet in fol. The beginning “of which is,

“Under this stone doth lye
“One born for victory, &c.

“The Rehearsal, a Comedy.—This, which “was first of all acted on the 7th of Dec. 1671, was “several times afterwards printed in qu. and the “fourth edition came out in 1683. He had therein,
“as ’twas then said, the assistance of Dr. Tho.
“Sprat his chaplain, Mart. Clifford⁶ and Samuel
“Butler alias Hudibras in the composing thereof.
“But the author or authors having took too much “liberty in abusing the poet laureat John Dryden “ (who is call’d therein Mr. Bayes) and several of “his plays, that person therefore requited the duke
“to the full in his excellent poem entit. Absalom and “Achitophel, printed at Lond. 1681 in a thin fol.
“ (and afterwards in qu.) where in p. 17 he gives “him this character, under the name of Zimri.

“Some of their chiefs were princes of the land,
“In the first rank of these did Zimri stand:
“A man so various, that he seem’d to be
“Not one, but all mankind’s epitome.
“Stiff in opinions, always in the wrong;
“Was every thing by starts, and nothing long:
“But in the course of one revolving moon,
“Was chymist, fidler, statesman and buffoon.
“Then all for women, painting, rhiming, drinking;
“Besides ten thousand freaks that dy’d in thinking.
“Blest madman, who could every hour employ,
“With something new to wish, or to enjoy!
“Railing and praising were his usual theames;
“And both (to shew his judgment) in extremes;
“So over violent, or over civil,
“That every man, with him, was God or devil.
“In squandering wealth was his peculiar art,
“Nothing went unrewarded but desert.
“Beggard by fools, whom still he found too late,
“He had his jest, and they had his estate.
“He laught himself from court, then sought relief
“By forming parties, but cou’d ne’er be chief:
“For, spight of him, the weight of business fell
“On Absalom and wise Achitophel.
“Thus, wicked but in will, of means bereft;
“He left not faction, but of that was left.

“Thus the poet: which character, being by all,
“who knew, or had heard of the duke, esteemed

⁶ [He had been master of the Charter house; was buried in the chancell of St. Margarets, Westminster, Dec. 13, 1677, where the duke of Buckingham design’d him a monument. TANNER.]

“very just and compleat, I shall not, nor can I, add “any more to it. Now whereas the generality of “people think that Mr. Dryden was bastinado’d at “Will’s coffee-house in Covent-Garden for the said “character, by the endeavours of the duke, is false.
“For so it was, that in Nov. (or before) an. 1679,
“there being An Essay upon Satyr spread about
“the city in MS. wherein many gross reflections
“were made on Ludovisa dutchess of Portsmouth
“and John Wilmot earl of Rochester, they there“fore took it for a truth that Dryden was the au“thor: whereupon one or both hiring three men to “cudgel him, they effected their business in the said
“coffee-house at 8 of the clock at night on the 16th
“of Dec. 1679; yet afterwards John earl of Mul“grave was generally thought to be the author.
“Howsoever it was, sure I am that the duke of “Bucks did not cause him to be beaten, but wrote,
“or caus’d to be wrote, Reflections on the said “Poem called Absalom and Achitophel, which being “printed in a sheet of paper, was, tho’ no great “matter was in it, sold very dear. In which the “author commends those that Mr. Dryden discom-“mends, and discommends those which he com“mends. The duke of Buckingham hath also “written,

“A short Discourse upon the Reasonableness of “Mens having a Religion, or Worship of God.
“Lond. 1685. qu. in 3 sh. and an half: [Bodl. C.
“9. 2. Linc.] three editions of it came out that “year. Soon after the first edit. came out, A short “Answer to his Grace the D. of Buckingham’s
“Paper concerning Religion, Toleration, and Li- “berty of Conscience. Lond. 1685. in 6 sh. and an “half in qu. written by Anon. whereupon the duke
“made a buffooning reply entit.

“The D. of Buckingham his Grace’s Letter to “the unknown Author of a Paper entit. A short “Answer, &c. Lond. 1685. in one sh. in fol. Im“mediately after was published by Anon. A Reply
“to his Grace the Duke of Buckingham’s Letter to
“the Author of a Paper entit. A short Answer, &c.
“Lond. 1685. in one sh. in fol. Afterwards came “out several pamphlets pro and con, written by “other hands, which I shall now omit; only tell “you that in defence of Buckingham came out one “who calls himself the Pensylvanian, meaning Will.
“Penn; and another with his Apology for the “Church of England against the Duke of Buck- “ingham’s Seconds, written by E. B. esq; the same
“with Edm. Bohun, as it seems. The D. of Buck“ingham hath also written,

“A Demonstration of the Deity—This which “is in prose I have not seen, nor know any thing
“of it, only that it was published about half a year “before the author’s death. He hath also various “poems scattered in several books, as a copy on two “verses of a poem written by a person of honour, “viz. Mr. Edw. Howard, which is in Examen “Poeticum. The third Part of Miscellany Poems.

" Lond. 1693. p. 166. And a translation out of " something of Horace, beginning, 'Fortuna sævo
 " læta negotio,' &c. which is in The annual Mis-
 " cellany for the Year 1694, being the fourth Part " of the Miscellany Poems, p. 108. I have also " seen in manuscript several of his speeches spoken
 " in parliament, but whether any extant I cannot " tell, besides (1.) His Speech at a late Conference.
 " Lond. 1668. 1 sheet in qu. (2.) His Sp. in the " House of Lords 16 Nov. 1675, beginning, 'My " lords, there is a thing called property,' &c. Am-
 " sterd. alias London, 1675, one sheet qu. [Bodl.
 " B. 2. 1. Linc.7]

" There was also published A Letter of this
 " Duke's to Sir Tho. Osborn.

1687. " At length concluding his last day in his house
 " in Yorkshire on the sixteenth day of Apr. in six" teen hundred eighty and seven, his body there-
 " upon was conveyed to Westminster, and buried " in the chappel of king Hen. 7. within the limits
 " of S. Peter's church there, near, as I suppose, to " the body of his father, having by that time con" sumed the most part of the estate left to him by " his said father, notwithstanding the great estate he " had by the marriage of his lady. In 1679 came " out against him a ballad and a litany,⁸ both printed
 " in single sheets on one side. The last of which
 " entit. The Litany of the D. of B. contains many " shrewd truths, and the notorious actions of his " life, as the ballad partly does. And after his " death were published one or more elegies."

[The Works of his Grace George Villiers, late
Duke of Buckingham, Lond. 1715, 12mo. 2 vol.
 Another edition Edinburgh 1754, a third, and the best, in 2 vol. 8vo. London for Evans, 1775.

The Chances, a Comedy, Lond. 1682, 4to. This was merely an alteration of the comedy bearing the same title written by Beaumont and Fletcher. The title page says 'corrected and altered by a person of honour,' and this person was well known to be the duke of Buckingham.

I give the following lines from a MS. in the hand-writing of Anthony a Wood in the Ashmole Museum.

Verses made by the Duke of Buckingham on the 20th of Julij, 1665 addrest to his Mistris.

Tho' Philis your preuailing charmes,
 Hath forc't my Delia from mine armes,

⁷ [Two Speeches. 1. The Earl of Shaftsbury's Speech in the House of Lords the 20th of October 1675. 2. The D. of Buckingham's Speech in the House of Lords the 16th of November 1675. Together with the Protestation, and Reasons of the several Lords for the Dissolution of this Parliament; Entred in the Lord's Journal the Day the Parliament was prorogued, Nov. 22d 1675. Amsterdam, Printed Anno Domini 1675. three sheets in 4to. Both these were reprinted in 1693 in folio, in State Tracts; being a Collection of several Treatises relating to the Government. Privately printed in the Reign of K. Charles II.]

⁸ [In Butler's Genuine Remains, by Thyer, vol. 2, page 72,

Think not your conquest to maintaine,
 By rigor or unjust disdayne.
 In vaine, fare nimph, in vaine you striue,
 For Love douth seldome Hope suruiue.
 My hearte may languish for a time,
 As all beautyes in their prime
 Have justifi'd such crueltye,
 By the same fate that conquered mee.
 When age shall come, att whose command
 Those troopes of beautye must disbande,
 A rivaul's strength once tooke away,
 What slaues so dull as to obey?
 But, if you will learne a nobler way
 To keepe this empire from decay,
 And their for euer fix your throne,
 Bee kinde, but kinde to mee alone.]

THOMAS WASHBOURNE, a younger son of Joh. Washbourne of Wychenford in Worcestershire, esq; was born there, entred a commoner of Baliol coll. in the beginning of the year 1622, aged 16 or thereabouts, took the degrees in arts, being then esteemed a tolerable poet; ⁹ holy orders, and in 1636 he was admitted to the reading of the sentences. In the time of the rebellion he had a pre-bendship in the cath. ch. of Gloucester conferr'd upon him, and suffer'd for the royal cause, but when his majesty king Charles II. was restor'd, he was settled and installed in it, actually created doctor of divinity, and became rector of Dumbleton in Gloucestershire. He hath written and published,

[806]

Divine Poems. Lond. 1654. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. W:
 12. Th. BS.]

Several sermons, as (1.) Serm. at the Funeral of Charles Cocks, Esq; one of the Masters in Chancery; on Psal. 90. 9, 10. Lond. 1655. qu. [Bodl.
 B. 3. 2. Linc.] (2.) The Repairer of the Breach, preached in the Cathedral of Gloucester 19 May 1661, being the Anniversary of his Majesty's Birthday, and happy Entrance into his Imperial City of London; on Isa. 58. 12. Lond. 1661. qu. &c. He died on the sixth day of May in sixteen hundred eighty and seven, and was buried in our Lady's chappel within the cathedral church of Gloucester.
 Soon after was a little monument set up on the wall over his grave, with an inscription thereon, wherein
 'tis said that he was 'Theologus vere Christianus, vere primitivus, per annos 44 Eccl. Cath. Gloc. Pre-bendarius,' and that he desired to have this written on his mon. that he was 'primus Peccatorum, mi-nimus Ministrorum Dei,' &c.

1687.

EDMUND HALL was born, and educated in grammar learning, within the city of Worcester, entred into Pemb. coll. in 1636, aged 16, left the univ. before he took a degree, sided afterwards with the forces raised by the parliament against his mais the character of 'A Duke of Bucks,' said to be intended for this nobleman.]

⁹ [See a sufficient specimen in British Bibliographer, vol.
 iv, p. 45.]

jesty king Charles I. took the covenant, and at length became a captain among them. When the king's cause declined and the war ceased, he retired to his coll. was made fellow thereof, and in 1649 he took the degree of master of arts; much about which time he express'd himself an enemy to Oliver for his diabolical proceedings, and was thereupon committed to custody, as I shall tell you anon. About that time he became, tho' a Calvinist, a conceited and affected preacher several years in these parts, kept pace with the leading men during the interval, complemented with the times at his majesty's restoration, and endeavoured to express his loyalty, yet could not endure to be called captain. Afterwards he became minister of a market town in Oxfordsh. named Chipping-Norton, where being much frequented by the neighbourhood, obtained the character, from some, of a fantastical, and from others, of an edifying, preacher. About the latter end of 1680, the rectory of Great Risington near North Leech in Gloucestershire falling void, it was conferr'd upon him by sir Edm. Bray, knight, and soon after he took to him, in his elderly years, a fair and comely wife. His sermons preached before the university of Oxon, had in them many odd, light and whimsical passages, altogether unbecoming the gravity of the pulpit: and his gestures being very antic and mimical, did usually excite somewhat of laughter in the more youthful part of the auditory. His works are these,

Lazarus's Soars lick'd—Written against Dr. Lazarus Seaman, who affirmed in a book published about 1648, that an usurper ought to be submitted to, proving it from Christ's paying tribute money to Cæsar.

* Lingua Testium. Manus Test. Digtus Test. These three pamphlets, the titles of which at large, I could never get from the author, were wrot by him against Oliver, &c. First edit.

"*Manus Testium Movens;
"or a Presbyterian Gloss upon
"many of those obscure Prophetic Texts in Canticles,
"Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel,
"Daniel, Habakkuk, Zachary,
"Matthew, Romans, and the "Revelations, which point at "the great Day of the Witnesses Rising, Antichrists Ruin, and the Jews Conversion, near about this Time; wherein M. Nath. Homes, with the Rest of the Independent Antichristian Time-servers are clearly confuted, and out of their own Writings condemned, &c.
"To this book may be joined Lingua Testium, being its proper preface. Printed 1651. qu.

"Testis Mundus Catholicus.

"Lingua Testium: wherein Monarchy is proved
"(1.) To be Jure Divino. (2.) To be Successive
"in the Church, &c. Printed in the Year of the
"Beasts of the Earth's Reign, 1651. qu. both fantastical things.—Weldon wrote against Lingua Testium."

These pamphlets were wrote by him against Oliver, to shew that he had slain the witnesses, was very antichrist, and impossible for him to reign above three years and an half: Whereupon being imprison'd by the council of state, continued there twelve months, and then with much ado, upon good bail given, he obtained his liberty.

A Scriptural Discourse of the Apostacy and the Antichrist, by Way of Comment, upon the twelve first Verses of 2 Thes. 2, &c. in 4 Parts—Printed 1653, in about 20 sheets in qu. with a preface to it of about four. [Bodl. 4to. L. 8. Th. BS.]

Discourse of slaying the Witnesses, and the immediate Effects thereof—Printed with the former. These two last he wrote while he was a prisoner.

Sermon at Staunton-Harcourt Church in the County of Oxon, at the Funeral of the Lady Anne Harcourt, who deceased 23 Aug. 1664; on Ezek. 24. 16. Oxon. 1664. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 18. Th.]

A Funeral Spcech at her Grave—Printed with the Sermon. This lady Anne Harcourt, daughter of sir Will. Waller, sometime a general of one of the parliament's armies, was the wife of sir Philip Harcourt, knight, son and heir of sir Simon. Which Philip dying at, or near, London, was buried by her about the 12th of Apr. 1688, leaving then a son behind him named Simon, recorder of Abingdon. Our author Mr. Hall, died in the month of August or thereabouts, in sixteen hundred eighty and seven, and was buried in the chancel of the church at Great Risington before-mention'd. His elder brother, Thomas Hall, I have at large mention'd already among these writers, under the year 1665, vol. iii, col. 677.

[807]

1687.

WILLIAM PETTY, son of Anthony Petty a clothier, was born in a little haven town in Hampshire called Rumsey, on the 26th of May 1623, and while a boy he took very great delight in spending his time among artificers there, as smiths, carpenters, joyners, &c. whose trades, in some respects, he understood so well in short time at twelve years of age, that he could work at them. At that time he went to the grammar school there, had some smattering in the Latin, and at about 15 years of age he entred into the Greek tongue. Soon after he went to Caen in Normandy, and with a little stock of merchantdizing that he then improved, maintained himself there, learned the French tongue, and at 18 years of age the arts and mathematics. Afterwards he retired to Paris, studied anatomy, and read Vesalius with Hobbes of Malmsbury, who lov'd his company exceeding well, and was not wanting on all occasions to forward his pregnant geny. So that in short time being accomplished with such parts of learning that began then to be in great esteem in England, he returned (after he had visited the Netherlands) into England, and on the 6th of March 1647, a patent was ordered for him, by the members of parliament, to endure for 17 years, to teach his art of double writing. At that time, being a man of fortune, he sided with the people then in authority, went to Oxon when the great rout of loyal scholars was made by the parliamentary visitors, settled there for some time, followed the faculty of physic, exercised anatomy and chymistry much among young scholars, to his and their great benefit, and became deputy professor of anatomy for Dr. Thom. Clayton, who being possess'd with a timorous and effeminate humour, could never endure the sight of a mangled or bloody body. On the 7th of March 1649 he, by the commendatory letters of certain persons then in authority, written to the delegates of the university, was actually created doctor of physic, he being in the next year made fellow of Brasen-n. coll. in the place of Nath. Hoyle bach. of divinity, and in Dec. 1650 his name was wonderfully cried up for being the chief person in the recovery to life of one Anne Green, who was hang'd in Oxford castle on the 14th of the same month, for making away her bastard child; at which time, instead of recovering her, he intended to have her made an anatomy. In the beginning of January following, he was unanimously elected anatomy professor of the university, upon Clayton's renouncing his interest therein, purposely to serve him, and shortly after, he was not only made one of the coll. of physicians at London, but music professor of Gresham coll. which last place he obtained by the interest of his dear friend capt. Joh. Graunt. In 1652, being recommended to the parliament to be one of the surveyors of Ireland, he procured a patent for that purpose, and in Aug. the same year he took a voyage thither, practised his faculty in Dublin among the chief of that city, got to be clerk of the council there, and secretary to the lord lieutenant. In Dec. 1654 he began to survey (for which he received 365*l.* per an.) which was done in ten months time or thereabouts, with that exactness, that there was no estate to the value of 60*l.* per an. but he did exactly shew it to its true value, and made maps of all that he had done. Those that he employed for the geometrical part, were ordinary persons, that circumambulated with their box and needle, not knowing what they did, but our author Petty knew right well how to make use of their labours. 'Tis said that by this employment he obtained an estate in Ireland worth about 10000*l.* per an. but a great part of it being refunded, because their former owners were declared innocent, as to the then late rebellion, he had left him about 5 or 6000*l.* yearly, and could from Mount-Mangorton in Kerry behold 50000 acres of his own land. But this survey was but a single proof of the great elevation of his understanding genius, which like a meteor moved above the sphere of other mortals. In Jan. 1658 he was elected one of the burgesses of Westlow in Cornwall to serve in Richard's parliament, which began at Westm. on the 27th of the same month, wherein he was a considerable actor, as I have heard; but that parliament being soon after dissolved, and Richard laid aside, he went into Ireland, whence returning after his majesty's restoration, and introduced into his presence, his majesty was much pleased with his ingenious discourses, and seemed to be delighted in him. About that time the royal society being instituted, he was appointed one of its first members, and afterwards one of the council belonging thereunto, being then esteemed the prime person to advance experimental philosophy and mechanics. On the 11th of Apr. 1661 he received the honour of knighthood from his majesty, and did afterwards (as some say) design to be earl of Kilmore in Ireland, but that project, which he knew the effect would cause great envy, came to nothing. In the beginning of the year 1663 he became famous in Ireland by the success of his new invention of the double-bottom'd ship, against the judgment and resolution of almost all mankind; for in July the same year, when first the ship adventur'd from Dublin to Holyhead, she stayed there many days before her return, and 'twas pleasant to consider how her adversaries insulted, and having first established the conclusion, that she was cast away, did afterwards discourse the several necessities why it should be so. Some said it was impossible her mast could be sufficiently planted against a strong gale, others said she was gone to land at O. Brasile, &c. But her return in triumph with those visible advantages above other vessels, did check the derision of some, and becalm'd the violence of others, the first point having been clearly gain'd that she could bear the seas. She then turned in against wind and tide into that narrow harbour (Holyhead) amongst the rocks and ships with such dexterity, as many ancient seamen did then confess they had never seen the like. About the same time Thomas earl of Ossory and other persons of honour were embarked in her, and drove to and again within the bar near Dublin. It then blew very hard, insomuch that a small Holland vessel (famous for a good sailer) which set sail with her, was in appearance after looked upon to be over-set, whilst she inclined not above half a foot more to one side than another, so that it was truly then called 'The Pad of the Sea.' It appeared very much to excel all other forms of ships, in sailing, in carriage, in security and many other such benefits, but at length in its return home from a certain voyage, it was destroyed by a common fate, and by such a dreadful tempest, as overwhelmed a great fleet the same night: So that the ancient fabric of ships had no reason to triumph over that new model, when of 70 sail that were in the same storm, there was not one escaped to bring the news. In a word, tho' this invention succeeded not, while it was only supported by private purses, it will (as one¹⁰ observes) undoubtedly produce great effects, if ever it shall be retrieved upon the public stock of the nation, &c.

[808]

[809]

¹⁰ Tho. Sprat in The Hist. of the Royal Society, &c. Lond. 1667. qu. part 2. p. 240.

A model of it (tho' lost) was given by the inventor thereof to the royal society, made with his own hand, and it is at this day kept in the repository at Gresham college. To conclude, he was a person of an admirable inventive head, of a prodigious working wit, and of so great worth and learning, that he was both fit for, and an honour to, the highest preferment. He hath written,

Advice concerning the Education of Youth, &c. Lond. 1647. qu. Written to Mr. Sam. Hartlib under the two letters of W. P.

Advice for the Advancement of some particular Parts of Learning. Lond. 1648. written to Sam. Hartlib. This title, which I have received from a second hand, may be (for I have not yet seen it) the same with the Advice before-mentioned.

A Brief of Proceedings between Sir Hierom Zanchy and him, with the State of the Controversy between them. Lond. 1659. in 2 or 3 sh. in fol. The articles then put up against him relating to his actions in Ireland, were (1.) That he the said doctor Petty had received great bribes. (2.) That he had made a trade of buying debentures in vast numbers against the statute. (3.) That he had gotten vast sums of money, and scopes of land by fraud. (4.) That he had used many foul practices, as surveyor and commissioner, for setting out lands. (5.) That he and his fellow-commissioners had placed some debentures in better places than they could claim, denying right to others. (6.) That he and his fellow-commissioners had totally disposed of the army's security; the debt still remaining chargeable on the state. All which were, according to the said Brief of Proceedings, cleared by Petty: what the event of the matter was I cannot have.

✓ Reflections upon some Persons and Things in Ireland, by Letters to and from him (Doct. Petty) with Sir Hierom Zanchy's Speech in Parliament. Lond. 1660. oct. written mostly against his busy and envious antagonist Zanchy, of whom I shall speak elsewhere.

A Treatise of Taxes and Contributions: shewing the Nature and Measures of Crown-lands, Assessments, Customs, Poll-moneys, Lotteries, Benevolence, &c. Lond. 1662 [Bodl. A. 3. 5. Linc.] and 67. in about 10 sh. in qu. [Bodl. B. 22. 10. Linc.]

Discourse made before the Royal Society 26 Nov. 1674, concerning the Use of duplicate Proportion, in sundry important Particulars. Lond. 1674. in tw. [Bodl. 8vo. Y. 7. Art.] See in the Philosoph. Transact. num. 109. p. 209. "A sharp and severe censure of this discourse, made by Dr. Th. Barlow, you may see in his Genuine Remains, &c. Lond. 1693. oct. p. 151, 152."

A new Hypothesis of springing, or elastic Motions—Printed at the end of the said Discourse.

An Apparatus to the History of the common Practices of Dying—See in The Hist. of the Royal Society, written by Tho. Sprat.—Lond. 1667. qu. part 2. p. 284, &c.

Treatise or Discourse about the Building of Ships—It was presented by the author in MS. to the R. Society about 1665, contained in about a quire of paper of his own writing; but William lord Brouncker, president of the council pertaining to that society, took it away and kept it in his possession till 1682 and after, perhaps to the time of his death, saying it was too great an arcanum of state to be commonly perused. The author, tho' he had no copy of it by him, yet Dr. Rob. Wood, who lived in Ireland, had one.

Colloquium Davidis cum Anima sua (accinente Paraphrasin in 104 Psalmum) de Magnalibus Dei. Lond. 1679. in two sh. in fol. This thing, which is in Latin hexameter, was composed by the author 25 of March 1678, under the name of Cassid. Aureus Minutius.

Political Arithmetic; or a Discourse concerning the Extent and Value of Land, People, Buildings, Husbandry, Manufacture, Commerce, Fishery, Artizans, Seamen, Soldiers, public Revenues, &c. as the same relates to every County in general, and more particularly to the Territories of his Majesty of Great Britain, and his Neighbourhoods of Holland and France—This was presented in MS. by the author to his majesty Charles II. and sir Joseph Williamson had a copy of it, but was not printed till Mich. term 1690. 'Tis in oct. as the other volumes of Pol. Arithm. are.

Another Essay in Political Arithmetic concerning the Growth of the City of London: with the Measures, Periods, Causes, and Consequences thereof, an. 1682. Lond. 1683. 86. in 3 sh. in oct.

Observations upon the Dublin Bills of Mortality, 1681. and the State of that City. Lond. 1683. in 3 sh. in oct. He had also long before assisted, or put into a way, John Graunt¹ in his writing of Nat. and Pol. Observations of the Bills of Mortality of Lond.

Maps of Ireland, being his actual Survey of that whole Kingdom—These were printed in fol. 1685, and were then valued at 2l. 10s. in quires.

Essay concerning the Multiplication of Mankind. Lond. 1686. oct. With this was printed the second edit. of Another Essay in Pol. Arith. &c.

Further Observations upon the Dublin Bills; or Accounts of the Houses, Hearths, Baptisms and Burials of the City. Lond. 1686. oct.

Two Essays in Political Arithmetic, concerning the People, Housing, Hospitals of London and Paris; with Observations on the Cities of London and Rome. Lond. 1686, 7. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. M. 203. Art.]

Five Essays in Political Arithmetic, viz. 1. Objections from the City of Rey in Persia, and from Monsieur Aurout, against two former Essays an-steer'd, and that London hath as many People, as Paris, Rome, and Ronen put together. 2. A Comparison between London and Paris in 14 Particulars. 3. Proofs, that in London within its 134 Parishes in the Bills of Mortality, there live about six hundred ninety six thousand People. 4. An Estimate of the People, &c. Lond. 1687. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. M. 203. Art.]

¹ [April 18, 1674, died major Jo. Graunt, of the jaundies; buried Apr. 22, in St. Dunstan's, West; as it is reported, a Roman Catholic. R. Smith's Obituary. BAKER.]

A Treatise of Taxes and Contributions, particularly fitted for the State of Ireland—Lond. 1691. qu. Printed in a book entit. A Collection of three State Tracts, &c.

Treatise of Naval Philosophy, &c. Lond. 1691. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. M. 201. Art.] Qu. Whether the same with the Treatise or Disc. about Building of Ships, before-mention'd.

The Political Anatomy of Ireland, &c. Lond. 1691. oct.

Verbum Sapienti: or, an Account of the Wealth and Expence of England, &c. Lond. 1691. oct. This is animadverted upon in a pamph. entit. A Letter from a Gent. in the Country to his Friend in the City, &c. Lond. 1692. qu.

"Sir Will. Petty has also publish'd many things
"in the Philos. Transactions, viz.

"Experiments to be made relating to Land Carriage. Phil. Trans. num. 161. 20 pt. 1694.

"Some Queries whereby to examine Mineral Waters. Phil. Transact. Dec. 20. 1694. num. 166.

"A Miscellaneous Catalogue of mean, vulgar, cheap, and simple Experiments. Phil. Trans. 167. 28 Jan. 1684.

"An Extract of two Essays in Political Arithmetic, concerning the comparative Magnitudes, &c. of London and Paris. Ib. numb. 183, 186.

"A further Assertion of the Propositions concerning the Magnitudes, &c. of London, contained in two Essays in Political Arithmetic mentioned in the Phil. Transact. nu. 183. together with a Vindication of the said Essays from the Objections of some learned Persons of the French Nation, in numb. 185. Nov. and Dec. 1686. Phil. Transact.

"What a compleat Treatise of Navigation should contain, drawn up in the Year 1685. Phil. Trans. nu. 198. Mar. 1693."

This learned virtuoso sir Will. Petty died in his house in Piccadilly-street, almost opposite to St. James's church, within the liberty of Westminster, of a gangreen in his foot, occasion'd by the swelling of the gout, on the sixteenth day of Decemb. in sixteen hundred eighty and seven: whereupon his body was carried to Rumsey, the place of his nativity, and buried in the church there near the bodies of his father and mother. By his wife Elizabeth daughter of sir Hardress Waller, knight, and relict of sir Maurice Fenton, he had issue two sons, viz. Charles, created baron of Shelborne in Ireland soon after his father's death, and Henry, and a daughter named

Anne. He had also a natural daughter more like to him than any other of his children, who was an actress in the duke's playhouse an. 1680, and after. Could I have seen sir Will. Petty's life, written by himself, which is in MS. in the hands of his brother in law Waller, I might have spoken more fully and punctually of him, but the owner of it living remote from the author of this book, and altogether unknown to him, he could never gain a sight of it.

[See some curious anecdotes of sir William Petty in Aubrey's Lives, publ. at the end of Letters from the Bodleian Library, 1813; as well as his most singular will in Chalmers's Biographical Dictionary. Many of his manuscripts are in the British Museum. I have never seen any engraving of him that deserves to be recorded.]

THOMAS PITTIS, son of a father of both his names, a captain sometimes of the trained bands in the isle of Wight, was born at Knighton there, became a commoner of Trin. coll. in the latter end of 1652, took one degree in arts, and then translated himself to Linc. coll. where he was esteemed by his contemporaries a tolerable disputant. Afterwards he took the degree of master, and was made one of the terræ filii, but his speech being much disliked by the godly party of those times, he was expel'd the university an. 1658. Afterwards he was prefer'd to the rectory of Gatcombe in the isle of Wight, took the degree of bach. of div. 1665, became vicar of the parish of Holy Rood in Southampton by the favour of Dr. Morley bish. of Winchester, made lecturer of Christ Church in London, (being about that time one of his maj. chapl. in ord.) proceeded in div. in 1670, and had the rectory of Lutterworth in Leicestersh. bestowed on him by the king, which he exchanged with the successor of Mr. Rob. Clarke (sometime of Linc. coll.) for the rectory of S. Botolph without Bishopsgate, London.² So that before his death he was rector of Gatcombe, chapl. in ord. to his majesty, lecturer at Ch. Church, and rector of S. Botolph before-mention'd. His works are these,

A private Conference between a rich Alderman and a poor Country Vicar, made public. Wherein is discoursed the Obligation of Oaths, which have been imposed on the Subjects of England. Lond. 1670. oct.

Several sermons, as (1.) Serm. before the Artillery Company; on Luke 3. 14. Lond. 1677. qu. (2.) An old Way of ending new Controversies, preached to the Comptroller and Gentlemen of the Society of the Inner Temple, 8 Jan. 1681. on 1 John 2. former Part of the 24th Ver. Lond. 1682. qu. &c.

A Discourse of Prayer: wherein this great Duty

² [Tho. Pittis S. T. P. admiss. ad eccl. S. Botolphi extra Bishopsgate, Lond. 1 Nov. 1678, per resign. Rob. Clarke; ex coll. episcopi Lond.

Zachens Isham S. T. P. ad eand. 1688, per mort. Tho. Pittis. KENNET.]

is stated, so as to oppose some Principles and Practices of Papists and Fanatics; as they are contrary to the public Forms of the Church of England, established by her Ecclesiastical Canons, and confirmed by Acts of Parl. Lond. 1683. oct.

A Discourse concerning the Tryal of Spirits: wherein Enquiry is made into Men's Pretences to Inspiration, for publishing Doctrines in the Name of God, beyond the Rules of Sacred Scripture, in Opposition to some Principles of Papists and Fanatics, as they contradict the Doctrine of the Church of England, defined in her Articles of Religion, established by her Ecclesiastical Canons, and confirmed by Acts of Parliament. Lond. 1684. oct. dedic. to sir Edw. Worsley, knight,³ deput. gov. of the isle of Wight. This Dr. Pittis died on the 28th of Decemb. (Innocents day) in sixteen hundred eighty and seven; whereupon his body was conveyed from the parish of S. Botolph before-mentioned in the isle of Wight, and there buried at * Knighton before-mentioned.

* West Cowes as I have been informed. First edit.

CLEMENT BARKSDALE, son of Joh. Barks. was born at Winchcombe in Gloucestershire on S. Clement's day, 23 Nov. 1609, educated in grammar learning in the free-school at Abingdon in Berks. entred a servitour in Mert. coll. in the beginning of Lent term 1625, but making little stay there, he translated himself to Glouc. hall under the tuition and patronage of Deg. Whear the principal, where continuing a severe student several years, he took the degrees in arts, entred into the sacred function, and in 1637 he supplied the place of chaplain of Lincoln coll. at the church of Allsaints, commonly called Alhallowes in the city of Oxon. But being called thence the same year, he was made master of the free-school at Hereford, vicar choral there, and in short time after vicar of Alhallowes in that city. In 1646 in the garrison of Hereford which had been a little before surprized by the parliam. forces, he was rescued out of the danger of that time, and placed at Sudeley Castle near the place of his nativity, where he exercised his ministry, and submitted to the men in power: And after that he sheltered at Hawling in Cotswold, where he taught a private school with good success. After the king's restoration, he was, by his majesty's gift, settled in the parsonage of Naunton near Hawling and Stow on the Wold in Gloucestershire, which he kept to the time of his death. He was a good disputant, a great admirer of Hugh. Grotius, a frequent preacher, but very conceited and vain, a great pretender to poetry, and a writer and translator of several little tracts, most of which are meer scribbles: the titles follow,

³ [He was knighted by king Charles II. for attempting to forward his father's escape, when a prisoner in Carisbrook Castle, in the isle of Wight. WATTS.]

Monumenta literaria: sive Obitus & Elogia doctorum Virorum, ex Historiis Jac. Aug. Thuani. Lond. 1640. qu. [Bodl. 4to. B. 88. Th.] and several times after with addit. or corrections, in oct. [Lond. 1671, Bodl. 8vo. R. 28. Med.]

A short Practical Catechism out of Dr. Hammond, with a Paper Monument. Lond. 1649. oct.

Adagilia Sacra Novi Testamenti, selecta & exposita ab Andr. Schotto. Oxon. 1651. in tw. They were drawn into a compendium by Barksdale.

Nympha Libethris: or the Cotswold Muse, presenting some extempore Verses to the Imitation of young Scholars. In four parts. Lond. 1651. oct.⁴ [Bodl. Gough, Gloucester, 27.] I have a book in my study entit.—Annalia Dubrensia. Upon the yearly Celebration of Mr. Rob. Dover's Olympic Games upon Cotswold Hills, &c. Lond. 1636. qu. [Bodl. Gough, Gloucester, 7.] This book, which hath the running title on every page, of Cotswold Games, consists of verses made by several hands on the said Annalia Dubrensia, but nothing of the Cotswold Muse of Barksdale relates to them, which some, that have only seen the title of it, think to be the same. The said games were begun, and continued at a certain time in the year for 40 years by one Rob. Dover an attorney of Barton on the Heath in Warwickshire, son of Joh. Dover of Norfolk, who being full of activity, and of a generous, free, and public spirit, did, with leave from king Jam. I. select a place on Cotswold Hills in Gloucestershire, whereon those games should be acted. Endimion Porter, esq; a native of that county, and a servant to that king, a person also of a most generous spirit, did, to encourage Dover, give him some of the king's old cloaths, with a hat and feather and ruff, purposely to grace him and consequently the solemnity. Dover was constantly there in person well mounted and accoutred, and was the chief director and manager of those games frequented by the nobility and gentry (some of whom came 60 miles to see them) even till the rascally rebellion was began by the presbyterians, which gave a stop to their proceedings, and spoiled all that was generous or ingenious elsewhere. The verses in the said book called Annalia Dubrensia were composed by several poets, some of which were then the chiefest of the nation, as Mich. Drayton, esq; Tho. Randolph of Cambridge, Ben. Johnson, Owen Feltham, gent. capt. Joh. Mennes, Shakerley Marmion, gent. Tho. Heywood, gent. &c. Others of lesser note were Joh. Trussel, gent. who continued Sam. Daniel's History of England, Joh. Monson, esq; Feryman Rutter of Oriel coll. Will. Basse of Moreton near Thame in Oxfordshire, sometime a retainer to the lord Wenman of Thame Parke,⁵ Will. Denny, esq;

⁴ [From the scarcity of this volume an edition, limited to forty one copies, was printed in 1816 under the care of sir Egerton Brydges. HASLEWOOD.]

⁵ [Basse wrote some lines on the death of Shakspeare prefixed to the first folio edition of his plays, 1623, and since

1687.

[812]

[813]

&c. Before the said book of Annalia Dubrensis is a cut representing the games and sports, as men playing at cudgels, wrestling, leaping, pitching the bar, throwing the iron hammer, handling the pyke, leaping over the heads of men kneeling, standing upon their hands, &c. Also the dancing of women, men hunting and coursing the hare with hounds and grey-hounds, &c. with a castle built of boards on a hillock, with guns therein firing, and the picture of the great director capt. Dover on horseback, riding from place to place. But all this being spoken by the by, let us proceed with the remaining titles of books written by Barksdale.

Life of Hugo Grotius. Lond. 1652. in tw. Taken from Meursius his Athenæ Bataviæ, and other authors that occasionally speak of that learned person.

Noctes Hibernæ: Winter Nights Exercise. The first Night; being seven Decads of sacred Sentences put into English Verse. Lond. 1653. in one sh. in oct.

V. Cl. Elogia Anglorum Camdeniana. Lond. 1653. in about two sheets in oct. Taken from those Elogia which Camden sets down at the end of every year of his Annals of Qu. Elizabeth.

The Disputation at Winchcombe, 9 Nov. 1653. Oxon. 1653. oct. This disput. was between Barksdale, then minister of Sudeley, respondent, and Christoph. Helme⁶ minister of Winchcombe, and Joh. Wells min. of Tewksbury, opponents. It was printed again at London 1654, with some papers both before and after, containing several letters and other matters; published by N. N. The said papers being reviewed, wherein are contained Some short Notes concerning the Government of the Church, the Liturgy and Forms of Prayer, Ordination and Power of Ministers, were reprinted at Lond. 1657. oct.

An Oxford Conference of two young Scholars, touching their Studies. Lond. 1659. in one sh. in oct.

A modest Reply, in three Letters, touching the Clergy and Universities. Lond. 1659. oct.

Several sermons, as (1.) The Sacrifice; at S. Mary's in Oxon; on Psal. 51. 17. Lond. 1655. oct. (2.) The King's Return; at Winchcombe, 24 May 1660; on 2 Sam. 15. part of the 25th Verse. Lond. 1660. qu. (3.) Sermon at Glocest. on Psal. 122. 6. Oxon. 1680. qu. &c.

Of Contentment, a little Treatise. Lond. 1660 in 24s. and 1679, which is the fourth edit.

reprinted frequently. He was the author of several other poems, and, it would seem, meditated a collection of them in a printed volume, which has not been discovered. In Warton's Life and Remains of Bathurst, 8vo. 1761 is a poem by Dr. Bathurst 'to Mr. William Basse, upon the intended publication of his poems, Jan. 13. 1651.'

⁶ [Mr. Peck in his Desiderata Curiosa, vol. ii, lib. xiii, page 30, says his true name was Carn. Helme, and not Christopher: but the same person, with all his super-exactitude, does not observe that he is called by Mr. Smith in his Obituary, Charles Helmes, at page 42, lib. xiv. COLLE.]

In Defence of the Liturgy. Oxon. 1661. in one sh. in qu.

Memorials of worthy Persons. Two Decads. Lond. 1661. in tw. [Bodl. 8vo. B. 22. Th. BS.] The third decad was printed at Oxon. 1662. in oct. The fourth there also, 1663. in oct. [Both these Bodl. 8vo. B. 23. Th. BS.]

A Remembrancer of excellent Men, &c. Lond. 1670. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. W. 78. Th.] This, which goes for the fifth decad, contains the characters of 9 divines, and one lay-man, taken, and scribed as the rest of the decads were, from the sermons preached at their funerals, their lives, and characters occasionally given of them, in public authors.

Masora. A Collection out of the learned Master Joannes Buxtorfius's Commentarius Masorcticus. Lond. 1665. oct.

Collection of Scriptures illustrated by Mr. Rich. Hooker. Lond. 1675. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 145. Th.]

Three Ministers communicating their Collections and Notions touching several Texts, at their Weekly Meetings. Lond. 1675. oct.

Letter touching a College of Maids, or a Virgin-Society.—Written 12 Aug. 1675. Printed in half a sh. in oct.

Hugonis Grotii Annotationes selectæ, ad VII Capita S. Matthæi. Oxon. 1675. in two sh. in oct.

Behold the Husband-man. A short Discourse on Jam. 5. 7. Lond. 1677. in tw. [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 152. Th.]

Learn to Die, a little Discourse. Lond. 1679. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 147. Th.]

Bezæ Epitaphia Selecta. Lond. 1680. oct. Angl. Lat.

Sententiæ Sacræ. Lond. in oct. Angl. Lat.

Aurea dicta. The King's gracious Words for the Protestant Religion of the Church of England, collected from his Majesty's Letters, Speeches, &c. Lond. 1681. in 3 sh. in qu.

Memorials of Alderm. Whitmore, Bish. Wilkins, Bish. Reynolds, and Alderm. Adams. Lond. 1681. in 3 sh. in oct. Collected from the sermons preached at their funerals.

Religion in Verse. Ox. 1683. in 1 sh. in oct.

The old Gentleman's Wish, or the reformed old Gentleman.—Printed on half a side of a sheet of paper 1684.

Of Authors and Books—Pr. on one side of half a sh. of paper, 1684.

Century of sacred Distichs, or Religion in Verse. Ox. 1685. oct. Part 1.

A grateful Mention of deceased Bishops—Pr. on one side of a broad sh. of paper 1686. Written, as the two former papers, in dogrel rhyme; and other things of the like stamp.

He hath also translated from Lat. into English, (1.) A Discourse 1. of God and his Providence. 2. Of Christ, his Miracles and Doctrine. Lond. 1652.

⁷ [See Warton's Life of Bathurst, page 158, note.]

[814]

in tw. sec. edit. Written originally by H. Grotius. There were some annotations put on that Discourse by Barksdale. (2.) H. Grotius his Judgment in sundry Points controverted, out of his Vote for the Churches Peace: Printed with the former translation. (3.) The Mourner comforted, written also by way of an epist. consolatory by the said H. Grotius: Printed also with the former. (4.) Of Authority in sacred Things. Lond. 1651. oct. (5.) Part of the Law of War and Peace. Pr. in oct. (6.) For the Truth of Christian Religion, &c. the first part. Lond. 1669. in tw. fourth edit. (7.) Against Paganism, Judaism, Mahomatism, &c. the sec. part. —Lond. 1676. oct.⁹ (8.) Part of the Hebrew Commonwealth. Lond. 1653. in tw. Written by Pet. Cuneus. (9.) The learned Maid, or whether a Maid be a Scholar? A Logic Exercise. Lond. 1659. oct. Written by Anna Maria à Schurman, whose picture is before the said translation, aged 52 years, an. 1659. (10.) A Conference of Faith. Lond. 1679. in tw. Written by Sebast. Castelio. (11.) Of Obedience, his modest Apol. and Defence of himself. Printed with the Conference, and written originally by the said Castelio. (12.) S. Cyprian of Virgins, of Prayer and of Patience, also S. Basil of Solitude. Lond. 1675. oct. &c. He also published something of Will. Higford, as I have told you in him, under the year 1657, vol. iii. col. 429, and several little things written by other persons, which I have not yet seen. At length Mr. Barksdale having lived to a fair age, he concluded his last day on the 6th January or thereabouts, in sixteen hundred eighty and seven, and was buried in the chancel of the church at Naunton in Gloucestershire before-mention'd, leaving then behind him the character of a frequent and edifying preacher, and a good neighbour.

SAMUEL PARKER, an eminent writer of his time, was born in the ancient borough of Northampton in the month of Sept. 1640. His father was John Parker, who having been bred towards the law, he betook⁹ himself, as his best practice, to be a sub-committee man, or as the stile ran, one of the assistant-committee in Northamptonshire in the time of the rebellion. Afterwards scraping up wealth, and gaining credit thereby, he became one of the number of those that gave sentence against Arthur lord Capell, Rob. earl of Holland, and James duke of Hamilton, who were all beheaded. In 1650 he published a remarkable book called, The Government of the People of England, precedent and pre- sent, &c. and by virtue of a return dated 21 June 1655, he, by the name of Joh. Parker of the Temple, one of the commissioners for the removing obstructions at Worcester House in the Strand near London, was the next day sworn serjeant at law, Oliver being then lord protector. On the 18th of Jan. or thereabouts, an. 1659, he was appointed by the parliament one of the barons of the court of Exchequer, but being soon after removed thence, before, or at, the restoration of king Charles II. we heard no more of him afterwards, "only that he was again regularly made serjeant at law by the endeavours of lord chancellor Hyde, at the first call "after the restoration of king Charles II." As for Samuel whom we are farther to mention, he was by the care of his parents, severe puritans and schismatics, puritannically educated in grammar learning at Northampton, and being made full ripe for the university, he was by them sent to Wadham coll. in midsummer or act term 1656, and being by them committed to the tuition of a presbyterian tutor, he did, according to his former breeding, lead a strict and religious life, fasted, prayed with other students weekly together, and for their refection feeding on thin broth, made of oatmeal and water only, they were commonly called groxcellers. He and they did also usually go every week, or oftner, to an house in the parish of Halywell near their college, possessed by Bess Hampton an old and crooked maid that drove the trade of laundrey; who being from her youth very much given to the presbyterian religion had frequent meetings for the godly party, especially for those that were her customers. To this house I say (which is commonly called the ninth house belonging to Mert. coll.) they did often resort, and our author Parker was so zealous and constant a hearer of the prayers and sermons there held forth, a receiver of the sacraments and such like, that he was esteemed one of the precioussest young men in the university. Upon the king's return in 1660, being then bach. of arts, he was for some time at a stand what to do, yet notwithstanding he did pray, cabal and discourse to obstruct episcopal government, revenues and authority; but being discountenanc'd in his doings by the then warden of his college, Dr. Blandford, who, as 'tis said, did¹ expel him, but false, he went to Trinity college, and by the prevailing advice of Dr. Ralph Bathurst a senior fellow thereof he was² rescued from the chains and fetters of an unhappy education, which he afterwards publicly avouched in print. So that ever after being a zealous anti-puritan and strong assertor of the church of England, did cause an abusive and foul-mouth'd³ author to say that he was worse than his

[815]

⁸ [Hugo Grotius's Defence of Christian Religion. Against Paganism, Judaism, Mahometism. Together with some Account of the three former Discourses. For God, Christ, Scripture. Newly collected and translated by C. B. London, Printed for John Barksdale Book-binder next door to the Five Bells in New street. 1678. Bodl. 8vo. Z. 123. Th.]

⁹ Andr. Marvell in his Rehearsal transpos'd, second part. —Lond. 1673. p. 74.

VOL. IV.

¹ So Lew. du Moulin in his book entit. Patronus bonæ Fidei, &c. Lond. 1672. p. 18.

² See Sam. Parker's epist. dedic. before his Free and impartial Censure, &c.

³ Lew. du Moul. before-mentioned in his Specim. contra Durellum. in Patron. bon. Fid. p. 19.

contemporary Foulis (meaning Henry Foulis of Lincoln college) the original of whose name tho' stinking and foul, as he saith, and in nature foul, yet he was always the same person in principles, that is, a bitter enemy against the presbyterians. In 1663 our author Parker proceeded master of arts as a grand compounder and a member of Trin. coll. and afterwards entering into holy orders he was frequently in London, and became, as 'tis said, chaplain to a nobleman and a great droller on the puritans, &c. In 1665 he published his Tentamina, and dedicating them to Dr. Sheldon archb. of Canterbury made himself thereupon known to that great person. About that time he became fellow of the royal society, and in 1667, just after Easter, leaving Oxford for altogether, he was summoned to Lambeth the Michaelmas after, and being made one of the chaplains to the said archbishop, was thereby put into the road of preferment. In June 1670 he was installed archdeacon of Canterbury, in the place, as it seems, of Dr. W. Sancroft, and on the 26th of Nov. following he had the degree of doct. of div. conferr'd on him at Cambridge, at which time William prince of Aurange or Orange was entertained there. On the 18th of Nov. 1672 he was installed prebendary of Canterbury as he himself hath told me, and about that time had the rectories of Ickham and Chartham in Kent bestowed on him. In the beginning of 1685 he resigned his prebendship, purposely to please his friend Dr. John Bradford, but that person dying about 6 weeks after his instalment, Dr. Joh. Younger of Magd. coll. in Oxon did succeed him by the favour of Josepha Maria the royal consort of king James II. to whom he had spoken an Italian oration in the said coll. when she was entertain'd at Oxon, 1683. On the 17th of October 1686 he was consecrated bishop of Oxon at Lambeth in the place of Dr. Fell deceased, and had liberty then allow'd him to keep his archdeaconry in commendam with it. Before I go any further with this person, the reader is to understand these brief things following, viz. that after the death of Dr. Hen. Clark president of Magd. coll. a citation was stuck up to warn the fellows to an election of a new governour, but before the time was come to do it, came a mandamus from king James II. to the society, to elect to that office a junior master of arts named Anth. Farmer formerly of Cambridge, then *A. M. of the said coll. but the society taking little or no notice of it, they elected according to their statutes one of their society named Joh. Hough bach. of div. on the 15th of April 1687; whereupon his majesty resenting the matter, it was tried and discussed before his ecclesiastical commissioners newly erected by him: Before whom there were then attested such vile things relating to the life and conversation of Farmer, that he was thereupon laid aside. On the 22d of June following the said ecclesiastical commissioners removed Mr. Hough from his place, which was notified by a paper stuck up on the west door of the chappel, on the 2d of August following, subscribed by the said commissioners; whereupon his majesty sent his mandate of the 14th of the said month to elect Dr. Sam. Parker bishop of Oxon, to be their president; but they being not in capacity to elect him because of their oaths and statutes, his majesty sent to Oxon three commissioners to examine matters and put his mandate in execution. So that after they had sate in the coll. two days, examined affairs and had commanded Dr. Hough thrice to deliver up the keys of the president's lodgings, which he refused; they thereupon installed in the chappel the proxy of Dr. Parker, (Will. Wiggins, clerk) president, with the usual oaths: which being done they conducted him to the president's lodgings, broke open the doors, after thrice knocking, and gave him possession, 25 Octob. 1687. On the 2d of November following Dr. Parker took possession of them in his own person, being then in a sickly condition, where he continued to the time of his death which was shortly after, as I shall tell you anon. So that whereas he was first a presbyterian and afterwards a true son of the church of England, he was then esteemed by the generality, especially when his Reasons for abrogating the Test were published, very popishly enclined. It was about that time said⁴ that 'he seemed very much to favour the cath. cause——that he proposed in council, whether it was not expedient that at least one college in Oxford should be allowed Catholics, that they might not be forced to be at such charges, by going beyond the seas to study——The same bishop inviting two noblemen (R. Cath.) to a banquet, drank the king's health, to an heretical baron there, wishing a happy success to all his affairs; and he added, that the faith of the protestants in England seemed to him but to be little better than that of Buda was before it was taken; and that they were for the most part meer atheists that defended it,' &c. Thus a certain Jesuit of Liege to another at Friburg, in a letter⁵ dat. 2 Feb. 1687. And father Edm. Petre another Jesuit one of the privy council to king Jam. II. tells⁶ us in the same month that 'the bishop of Oxon has not yet declared himself openly: the great obstacle is his wife, whom he cannot rid himself of, his design being to continue bishop, and only change communion, as it is not doubted but the king will permit, and our holy father confirm: tho' I do not see how he can be further useful to us in the religion in which he is, because he is suspected, and of no esteem among the heretics of the English church: nor do I see that the example of his conversion is like to draw many others after him, because he declared himself so suddenly. If he had believ'd my counsel, which was to temporize for some longer time, he would have done better, but it is his temper, or rather zeal, that hurried him on, &c. But to let pass these and other matters which are related of him by that party, the Roman Catholics, I shall proceed to give you an account of his published writings, which are these.

⁴ In the Third Collection of Papers relating to the present Juncture of Affairs in England, &c. published at Lond. in Dec. 1688. p. 11.

⁵ Ibid.

⁶ Ib. p. 17, 18.

Tentamina Physico-Theologica de Deo, sive Theologia Scholastica, &c. Lib. 2. Lond. 1665. qu. [Bodl. B. 2. 5. Linc.] This book (an account of which is in the Philosophical Transactions numb. 18.) is answer'd by Nat. Fairfax M. D.⁷ in his book entit. Of the Bulk and Selvedge of the World. [Lond. 1674. Bodl. 8vo. P. 166. Art.] These Tentamina are much enlarged in a book, in a large qu. entit. Disputationes de Deo, &c. as I shall tell you by and by.

[817]

A free and impartial Censure of the Platonic Philosophy. Lond. 1666. qu. [Bodl. 4to. E. 19. Th.] Ox. 1667. oct. At which time, as his adversary tells⁸ us, he was proclaimed under the hand of another masquerade divine 'The wonder of his age.'

An Account of the Nature and Extent of the divine Dominion and Goodness, as they refer to the Origenian Hypothesis concerning the Pre-existence of Souls, &c.—This book, which is printed with the Free and impartial Censure, is briefly reflected on by anon.⁹ in a book entit.—Deus justificatus: or, the divine Goodness vindicated, &c. Ox. 1667. Lond. 1668. oct.

A Discourse of Ecclesiastical Polity, wherein the Authority of the Civil Magistrate over the Consciences of Subjects in Matters of external Religion is asserted, &c. Lond. 1669. [Lond. 1670, in Balliol coll. library. 1671, Bodl. 8vo. W. 69. Th.] 79. oct. Of which book hear what Mr. Baxter¹ says—'I can shew you a manuscript of one both impartial and truly judicious, even the late judge Hale, expressing so great dislike of that debate (The Friendly Debate) and Ecclesiastical Polity, as tending to the injury of religion it self, that he wisheth the authors would openly profess that they would write for themselves, and no more so abusively pretend it is for religion,' &c. "Against this book and its author quickly came out a pamphlet entit. Insolence and Impudence triumphant: Envy and Fury enthron'd: the Mirror of Malice and Madness, in a late Treatise entit. A Discourse of

⁷ [Dr. Calamy, page 803, says, he was called Dr. Fairfax; he was a preacher among the dissenters, I presume, had not that degree, being stiled by the Dr. only Mr. Fairfax. BAKER.]

⁸ Andrew Marvell in Rehearsal Transpos'd. Second part. p. 323.

⁹ [And in another entitled No Præexistence, or a Brief Dissertation against the Hypothesis of Human Souls, Living in a State Antecedaneous to this. By G. W. A. M. Lond. 1667. 4to.]

¹ In his Second Defence of the Nonconformists, &c. Lond. 1681. p. 187.

Ecclesiastical Polity, &c. or the lively Portraiture of S. P. limn'd and drawn by his own Hands, &c. being in short a Collection of some of his intemperate Revilings and prophane Satyrs, &c. Lond. 1669. Printed in two sh. and an half.

Toleration, discussed in two Dialogues.—Lond. 1670. qu. W. 75. Th. in Bib. Bal. qu.

A free and impartial Enquiry into the Causes of that very great Esteem and Honour the Nonconformist Ministers are in with their Followers. Lond. 1673. octavo."

A Defence and Continuation of Ecclesiastical Polity, &c. (against Dr. Owen) Together with a Letter from the Author of The Friendly Debate. Lond. 1671. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. B. 276. Th.] On the said book (Ecclesiast. Polity) and Reproof to the Rehearsal, a certain Scotchman named Robert Ferguson a divine of some note, hath written reflections in a book entit. A sober Enquiry into the Nature, Measure and Principle of Moral Virtue, &c. Lond. 1673. oct.

A Discourse in Vindication of Bishop Joh. Bramhall and the Clergy of the Church of England, from the Fanatic Charge of Popery: together with some Reflections upon the present State of Affairs, &c.—This discourse was published by way of preface to a treatise of the said bishop.—Lond. 1672. and by it self in oct. Lond. 1673. In the said discourse or book is a great deal of railery against Dr. Joh. Owen his doctrine and writings, but more especially against some passages of his book Of Evangelical Love, Church Peace, &c. and much said in defence of that sharper way which he took in his former answer to the doctor, and somewhat against Baxter's Grotian Religion discovered. Whereupon our author Parker being esteemed by the nonconformists a forward, proud, ambitious and scornful person, was taken to task, purposely to clip his wings or take him shorter, by their buffooning champion Andrew Marvell sometime one of John Milton's companions, in a book which he published entit. The Rehearsal transpos'd: or Animadversions upon a late Book entit. A Preface shewing, &c. Lond. 1672. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. C. 118. Linc.] Which title, The Rehearsal, &c. was taken from a comedy then lately published by George duke of Buckingham called The Rehearsal, wherein one Mr. Bayes acteth a part. Afterwards our author Parker wrote an answer to Marvel, who stiles him throughout his book Mr. Bayes, entit.

A Reproof to The Rehearsal Transpos'd, in a Discourse to its Author. Lond. 1673. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. A. 41. Linc.] Besides which answer came out five more against Marvell, viz. (1) Rosemary and Bayes: or Animadversions upon a Treatise called The Rehearsal transpos'd, &c. Lond. 1672. in 3 sh. in qu. (2) The Transposer rehears'd; or the fifth Act of Mr. Bayes Play, &c. Oxon 1673. oct. Written by Rich. Leigh sometime commoner of Queen's coll. (3) Gregory Father-Greybeard with his Vizard off; or News from the Cabal in some Reflections, &c. in a Letter to our old Friend R. L. from E. H. Lond. 1673. oct. subscribed Edm. Hickeringhill. (4) A common-place Book out of The Rehearsal transpos'd, digested under these several Heads, &c. Lond. 1673. oct. (5) Stoohim Bayes; or some Animadversions upon the Humour of writing Rehearsals transpos'd. Oxon. 1673. oct. All, or most of which answers (which were to the first part of The Rehearsal Transpos'd) were wrote in a buffooning, hurlesquing and ridiculing way and stile; in which fashion of writing, Marvell himself had led the way. Besides Marvell's answer to the said preface of Dr. Parker, I find another small piece wrote against it, partly entit. The Authority of the Magistrate about Religion discussed; in a Rebuke to the Prefacer of the late Book of Bishop Bramhall's, &c. Lond. 1672. oct. by J. H. supposed to be John Humphrey. Before I go any farther, the reader is to note that this pen-combat exercised between our author and Marvell was briskly managed with as much smart, cutting and satirical wit on both sides, as any other perhaps of late hath been, they endeavouring by all the methods imaginable, and the utmost forces they could by any means rally up, to blacken each others cause, and to set each other out in the most ugly dress: (their pieces in the mean while, wherein was represented a perfect trial of each others skill and parts in a jerking, flirting way of writing, entertaining the reader with a great variety of sport and mirth, in seeing two such right cocks of the game so keenly engaging with sharp and dangerous weapons) And it was generally thought, nay even by many of those who were otherwise favourers of Parker's cause, that he (Parker) thro' a too loose and unwary handling of the debate (tho' in a brave, flourishing and lofty stile) laid himself too open to the severe strokes of his sneering adversary, and that the odds and victory lay on Marvell's side: Howsoever it was, it wrought this good effect upon our author, that for ever after it took down somewhat of his high spirit, insomuch that tho' Marvell in a second part replied upon our author's reproof, yet he judg'd it more prudent rather to lay down the cudgels, than to enter the lists again with an untowardly combatant so hugely well vers'd and experienc'd in the then, but newly, refin'd art (tho' much in mode and fashion almost ever since) of sportive and jeering buffoonry. And moreover it put him upon a more serious, sober and moderate way of writing in other good treatises, which he since did set forth, and which have proved very useful and beneficial to the public. The reader may be pleas'd now to know by the way, for here I think it very proper to be brought in and no where else, that the said Andrew Marvell² was son of

[818]

Andrew Marvell the facetious, yet Calvinistical, minister of Kingston upon Hull in Yorkshire, that being very well educated in grammar learning was sent to Cambridge, particularly, as I conceive, to Trin. coll. where obtaining the mastership of the Latin tongue became assistant to Joh. Milton when he was Latin secretary to Oliver, and very intimate and conversant with that person. A little before his majesty's restoration the burghers of his native place of Kingston before mention'd did choose him their representative to sit in that parliament that began at Westminster the 25th of April 1660, and again after his majesty's restoration for that which began at the same place, 8 May 1661, and they loved him so well that they gave him an honourable pension to maintain him. From which time to his death, he was esteemed (tho' in his conversation very modest and of few words) a very celebrated wit among the fanatics, and the only one truly so, for many years after. He hath written, besides the two parts of The Rehearsal transpos'd, (1) A book entit. Mr. Smirk, or the Divine in mode, being certain Annotations upon the Animadversions on naked Truth; together with a short historical Essay concerning general Councils, Creds and Impositions in Matters of Religion. Lond. 1676. qu. Which Historical Essay, was afterwards printed by it self in fol. The person whom he calls Mr. Smirk, author of Animadversions on Naked Truth, was Dr. Franc. Turner head or master of S. John's coll. in Cambridge, conceiv'd and taken by Marvel to be a neat, starcht, formal and forward divine. (2) The Rise and Growth of Popery, &c. Lond. 1678. fol. The second part of which, from the year 1677 to 1682, was penn'd by Rob. Ferguson before mention'd; said to be printed at Cologne, but really at Lond. 1682. qu. This Andrew Marvell, who is supposed to have written other things, as I have told you in Joh. Denham, vol. iii, col. 827. died on the 18th of August 1678, and was buried under the pews in the south side of the church of S. Giles in the Fields, near London. Afterwards his widow published of his composition Miscellaneous Poems. Lond. 1681. fol. which were then taken into the hands of many persons of his persuasion, and by them cried up as excellent. Soon after his death one Benj. Alsop a conventicling minister about Northampton and after at Westminster did put in very eagerly to succeed Marvell in buffoonry, partly expressed in his Antisozzo written against Dr. Will. Sherlock, in his Melius inquirendum against Dr. Joh. Goodman³ (chaplain in ordinary to king

[819]

Andr. Marvel coll. Trin. art. bac. 1638-9.

Andr. Marvel coll. Eman. A. M. 1608. Pater, ut opinor, And. M. BAKER.]

³ [Inter presbiteros rite ordinatos in loco convenienti in parochia S. Botolphi extra Aldgate Lond. 13 Febr. 1660,—Joh. Goodman S. T. B. Hezekiah Burton, et Sam. Lowe artium magistri. Reg. Sanderson, Linc.

1662, 5 Jun. Joh. Goodman S. T. B. admiss. ad vicar. de

² [Andr. Marvel admissus in matriculam acad. Cant. coll. Trin. Dec. 14, 1633. Reg. Acad.

Charles II. and rector of Hadham) his Serious and compassionate Enquiry, &c. and in his Mischief of Impositions against Dr. Stillingfleet's sermon entit. The Mischief of Separation, &c. In all which pieces, upon little or no ground pretending to wit, he took more than ordinary pains to appear smart, but the ill-natur'd jokes did still commonly hang off; and when he violently sometimes dragg'd them into a sentence, they did not in the least become their place, but were a disgrace to, rather than an ornament of, his seemingly elaborate and accurate periods. This person took upon him to act a part; for the due and laudable performance of which; neither the natural bent of his own genius, nor any acquired improvements this way, have in any measure tolerably qualified him, notwithstanding the poor well-wisher to punning laboured under all these discouraging disadvantages, that he did still courageously go on in a way of pleasing, and at the same time, exposing, himself, and furnish'd his readers with matter only of laughter at him, and not at those whom he endeavoured to vilify, and was in 1682, and after, cried up as the main witmonger surviving to the fanatical party, which argued a great scarcity of those kind of creatures among them, when such little things, as this person, were deemed by them fit for that title. As for the other books which our author Parker hath written, the titles are these.

Disputationes de Deo, & Providentia divina. Disp. 1. An Philosophorum ulli, & quinam Athei fuerunt, &c. Lond. 1678. qu. [Bodl. 4to. D. 77. Th.] In which is much of his Tentamina de Deo involved. See a character of this book and its author in Dr. Hen. More's Præfatio generalissima set before the translation of the first tome of his Philosophical Volume.—Lond. 1679. fol. One Antonius le Grand a Cartesian philosopher of great note, now, or lately, living in London (author of 1. Institutio Philosophiæ secundum Principia D. Renati Descartes, &c. much read in Cambridge, and said in the title to be wrote 'in usum juventutis academicæ.' 2. Historia Naturæ, and thirdly of a small piece in tw. maintaining a great paradox, called De Carentia Sensus & Cognitionis in Brutis, &c.) published a book against some passages in the said Disp. de Deo, in which our author hath impartially examined and deservedly censur'd certain principles of the Cartesian philosophy as grossly atheistical, and destructive of religion. This piece of Le Grand is entit. Apologia pro Renato Descartes, &c. Lond. 1679. oct. "This Anton. Le Grand was Watford com. Hertford, per mort. Will. Davenant, ad pres. Arth. com. Essex. Reg. Lond.

1674, 22 Dec. Joh. Goodman S. T. P. coll. ad eccl. de Hadham per mort. Tho. Henchman S. T. P.

1675, 8 Apr. Joh. Barrow A. M. admiss. ad vicar. de Watford, per cessionem Joh. Goodman S. T. P. ad pres. Arthuri com. Essex. KENNET.]

⁴ Printed at Lond. 1680. qu. fourth edit.

⁵ Pr. at Lond. 1680. qu. sec. edit.

"born at Doway in Flanders, bred a Dominican "friar, lived in London several years, being there "over the mission. He is now (Aug. 1695) tutor "to the eldest son and heir of — Farmer of Tus- "more in com. Oxon. where he now lives."⁶

A Demonstration of the divine Authority of the Law of Nature and of the Christian Religion, in two Parts. Lond. 1681. qu. [Bodl. GG. 54. Th.]

The Case of the Church of England briefly stated, in the three first and fundamental Principles of a Christian Church. 1. The Obligation of Christianity by divine Right. 2. The Jurisdiction of the Church by divine Right. 3. The Institution of Episc. Superiority by divine Right. Lond. 1681. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. B. 72. Line.]

[820]

An Account of the Government of the Christian Church in the first six hundred Years. Particularly shewing, 1. The Apostolical Practice of diocesan and metropolitical Episcopacy. 2. The Usurpation of Patriarchal and Papal Authority. 3. The War of two hundred Years between the Bishops of Rome and Constantinople, of universal Supremacy. Lond. 1683. octavo. [Bodl. 8vo. Godwin 288, subtt.]

Religion and Loyalty: or a Demonstration of the Power of the Christian Church within it self, Supremacy of Sovereign Powers over it and Duty of passive Obedience or Non-resistance to all their Commands, exemplified out of the Records, &c. Lond. 1684. octavo. [Bodl. 8vo. C. 187. Line.]

Religion and Loyalty. The second Part: Or the History of the Concurrence of the imperial and ecclesiastical Jurisdiction in the Government of the Church, from the Beginning of the Reign of Jovian, to the End of Justinian. Lond. 1685. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. C. 422. Line.]

Reasons for abrogating the Test, imposed upon all Members of Parliament, 30 Oct. 1678. Lond. 1688. qu. [Bodl. Rawl. 4to. 92.] This book was licensed by Robert earl of Sunderland secretary of state under king Jam. II, on the 10th of December 1687, and on the 16th of the said month it being published, all or most of the impression of 2000 were sold before the evening of the next day. Several answers,⁷ full of girds and severe reflections on the author, were soon after published, among which was one bearing this title, Samuel Lord Bishop of Oxon his celebrated Reasons for abrogating the Test, and Notions of Idolatry, answered by Samuel Archdeacon of Canterbury. Lond. 1688, in about six sheets in qu. [Bodl. C. 9. 5. Line.] Written by John Philipps nephew by the mother to John Milton.

A Discourse sent to the late K. James, to persuade him to embrace the Protestant Religion, with a

⁶ [So Mr. Constable. WOOD, MS. Note in Ashmole.]

⁷ [Transubstantiation a peculiar Article of the Rom. Catholic Faith, in Answer to Bish. Parker's Reasons for abrogating the Test. Lond. 1688. Bodl. C. 9. 5. Line.]

1687.

Letter to the same Purpose. Lond. 1690. in about 5 sh. in qu. [Lond. 1714. Bodl. 8vo. C. 732. Linc.] It was usually said that he was also author of A modest Answer to Dr. Stillingfleet's Irenicum. Lond. 1680. oct. and of another thing called Mr. Baxter baptized in Blood; and reported by⁸ A. Marvell to be author also of Greg. Father Greybeard before mentioned; but let the report of these matters remain with their authors, while I tell you that this our celebrated writer Dr. Sam. Parker dying in the president's lodgings in Magd. coll. about seven of the clock in the evening of the twentieth day of March in sixteen hundred eighty and seven, was buried on the 24th of the same month in the south isle or part of the outer chappel belonging thereunto. In the see of Oxford succeeded Timothy Hall, as I shall tell you elsewhere; in his presidentship Bonaventure Gifford a Sorbon doctor and a secular priest, bishop elect of Madaura (in partibus infidelium) who being installed therein by proxy 31 of March 1688, took possession of his seat in the chappel, and lodgings belonging to him as president, on the 15th of June following; and in his archdeaconry succeeded, in the beginning of 1688, one Dr. John Batteley of Cambridge.⁹

[Reverendi admodum in Christo Patris Samuelis Parkeri, Episcopi non ita pridem Oxoniensis de Rebus sui Temporis Commentariorum Libri quatuor, e Codice Manuscripto ipsius Authoris manu castigato nunc primum in Lucem editi. 8vo. Lond. 1726, again 1735, and translated into English and printed Lond. 1727, in 8vo. with this title; Bishop Parker's History of his own Time, in four Books Faithfully translated from the Latin Original By Thomas Newlin, M. A. vicar of Beeding in Sussex, and late Fellow of Magdalen College in Oxford.

See too much of this bishop's character and of his tergiversation, in Burnet, who I fear is in the present (though not in every) instance, to be relied on.]

WINSTON CHURCHILL, son of John Churchill of Wotton Glanville in Dorsetshire, descended from those of his name living sometimes at Churchill in Somersetshire, was born in London, became a convictor of S. John's coll. in the beginning of the year 1636, aged 16 years, left it without a degree, adher'd to the cause of his maj. in the time of the rebellion, and afterwards suffer'd for it.

⁸ In his sec. part of The Rehearsal transpos'd, p. 121.

⁹ [Who was also collated to the first preb. in Canterbury Nov. 5, that year. He had the rectory of Hunton 1683, the chancellorship of Brecknock 1684, the rectory of Adisham 1684, and the mastership of Eastbridge hospital 1689. TANNER.]

Jo. Batley, coll. Trin. admissus in matriculam acad. Cant. Jul. 5, 1662. Reg. Acad. BAKER.

Batley was chaplain to archbishop Tillotson, and published the archb. sermons after his death. WATTS.]

[821]

In the beginning of the year 1661 he was chose a burgess for Weymouth in Dorsetshire (being then of Minterne in that county) to serve in that parliament which began at Westminster the 8th of May the same year, was made fellow of the Royal Society soon after, and in the latter end of 1663 a knight. About that time he became a commissioner of the Court of Claims in Ireland, and had afterwards a clerkship of the Green Cloth conferr'd upon him, from which being removed in the latter end of 1678, was soon after restored to it again. This person, tho' accounted a worthy gent. in many respects, a great royalist, and a sincere lover of his majesty and the church of England, yet a nameless and satirical¹ author tells us that he was a pensioner in the aforesaid parl. (which continued till 24^{*} Jan. 1678) and a principal labourer in the great design of popery and arbitrary government, that he preferred his own daughter to the duke of York, and had got in boons 10000l: also that he had published in print that the king may raise money without his parliament. The book, wherein he mentions that passage, is entit.

^{*} July 1679.
First edit.

Divi Britannici: Being a Remark upon the Lives of all the Kings of this Isle, from the Year of the World 2855 unto the Year of Grace 1660. Lond. 1675. folio. [Bodl. D. 9. 11. Art.] In the said book (which is very thin and trite) are the arms of all the kings of England, which made it sell among novices, rather than for the matter therein. The aforementioned passage of raising of money, being much resented by several members of parl. then sitting, the leaf of the remaining copies wherein it was, was reprinted without that passage, purposely to please and give content. This worthy gent. sir Winst. Churchill died on the 26th of March in sixteen hundred eighty and eight, being then eldest clerk-comptroller of the Greeneloth, and was buried three days after in the ch. of S. Martin in the Fields within the city of Westminster. He had a son commonly called colonel John Churchill, who had been much favoured by James duke of York, and by him and his endeavours first promoted in the court and state. This person was by the favour of king Charles II. created a baron by the name and title of John lord Churchill of Ay-mouth in Scotland, in the latter end of Nov. 1683, at which time were also created (1) Edward viscount Camden, earl of Gainsborough, (2) Coniers lord Darcy, earl of Holderness, (3) Thomas lord Windsor governor of his maj. town and garrison of Kingston upon Hull, earl of Plymouth, (4) Horatio lord Townsend, viscount Townsend of Raynham, (5) Sir Tho. Thynne baronet, baron of Warmister and viscount Weymouth, (6) col. George Legg of his 1688.

¹ Author of A seasonable Argument to persuade all the Grand Juries of England to petition for a new Parliament, &c. printed in quarto. 1677. p.7.

majesty's most honourable privy council and master general of the ordnance, baron of Dartmouth, and (7) William lord Allington constable of his majesty's Tower of London, baron of Wymondley in England. After the decease of king Charles II. the said lord Churchill was much favoured by the said duke, then king by the name of James II, and by him promoted to several places of trust and honour; but when his help was by him required, he deserted him in the beginning of Nov. 1688, and adhered to the prince of Orange then arrived in the west parts of England. In the month of Feb. following, the said prince being then king of England by the name of William III. he was by him appointed to be one of his privy council among divers honourable persons then named and appointed also, and in the beginning of April 1689 he was created earl of Marlborough; at which time were also created and advanced to great honours these persons following, viz. (1) prince George of Denmark and Norway, to be baron of Okingham, earl of Kendal and duke of Cumberland, (2) Charles marquess of Winchester, to be duke of Bolton, (3) William Bentick esq. (a Dutch-man) groom of the stole to his maj. to be baron of Cirencester, visc. Woodstock and earl of Portland, (4) Thom. vis. Fauconberg to be earl of Fauconberg, (5) Charles visc. Mordant, to be earl of Monmouth, (6) Ralph lord Mountague visc. Mount Hermer, to be earl of Mountague, (7) Henry Sidney esq; to be baron of Milton and visc. Sidney of Sheppy in the county of Kent, (8) Rich. visc. Lumley of Waterford in Ireland, to be visc. Lumley of Lumley Castle in the county pal. of Durham, and (9) Hugh visc. Cholmondley of Kellis in Ireland, to be baron Cholmondley of Namptwich in Cheshire. Afterwards John earl of Marlborough went into Ireland, was a lieut. gen. there, and did his maj. good service in the wars had against the army of king James II. in that country, and afterwards returned full fraught with honour and glory, and continued in the good opinion of many for some time. At length upon some distaste taken against him, the reason why let the statesmen and politicians tell you, he was deprived of all his places and employments by his maj. king William III. about the middle of January 1691, viz. of his place of lieut. general, his command of capt. of the third troop of guards, of his regiment of fusileers, and of his place of gentleman of the bed-chamber.

GEORGE STRADLING, fourth son of sir John Stradling of S. Donats Castle in Glamorgan-shire knt. was born there, became a com. of Jesus coll. in Lent term 1636, aged 15 years, took one degree in arts, was elected junior collector of the bachelors in Lent 1643, chosen fellow of Alls. coll. two years after, proceeded in arts, and kept his fellowship during the times of trouble and usurpation, being then accounted a rare lutinist, and much valued by Dr. Wilson the music professor. After the king's restoration he was made chaplain to Dr.

Sheldon bish. of London, and was actually created D. of D. in 1661. On the 30th of July 1663 he was install'd a preb. of West. On the 22d of July 1671 he was installed chantor of the cath. church of Chichester, and on the 21st of Dec. 1672 he was installed dean thereof, in the place of Dr. Nath. Crew promoted to the see of Oxon. He hath written,

Sermons and Discourses upon several Occasions. Lond. 1692. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. E. 15. Linc.]

Sermon on Joh. 19. 15. Lond. 1675. qu. [Bodl. 4to. D. 19. Th.] He died on the 19th of April, in sixteen hundred eighty and eight, and was buried near the choir of S. Peter's, commonly called the Abbey church, within the city of Westminster. In his deanery succeeded one Dr. F. Hawkins minister in the Tower of London.

[1660, 19 Dec. Georgius Stradling A. M. admiss. ad preb. de Wenlocksburn per promot. Brian Walton ad episc. Cestr. ad pres. regis. Reg. London.

1660, 11 Jan. Geo. Stradling A. M. coll. ad rect. de Fulham: succ. Tho. Turner S. T. P. 7 Maii 1688 per mort. Geor. Stradling.

Geor. Stradling S. T. P. admiss. ad rect. de Hanwell cum Capella de Brentford annexa 25 Feb. 1661, quam resignavit ante 11 Mar. 1663. Reg. Lond.—Admiss. ad vic. S. Bridgetæ Lond. 23 Apr. 1672, quam resign. ante 12 Jan. 1673. Fra. Hawkins S. T. P. coll. ad preb. de Wenlocksburn 3 Dec. 1688 per mort. Geor. Stradling. KENNET.]

HENRY KEEPE, son of Charles Keepe sometime an officer in the exchequer, and in the army of king Charles I. against his rebels, was born in Fetter, commonly called Fetter, lane, in the parish of S. Dunstan in the West in London, entered a gent. com. in New inn in Midsummer term, an. 1668, aged 16 years, departed without a degree conferr'd on him, went to the Inner Temple, studied the municipal law, and wrote, Monumenta Westmonasteriensia: or an historical Account of the Original, Increase and present State of S. Peter's or the Abby-Church of Westminster. With all the Epitaphs, Inscriptions, Coats of Arms, and Achievements of Honour to the Tombs and Grave stones, &c. Lond. 1682. oct. [Bodl. Gough, Westm. 11.] In which book is involved Reges, Reginae, Nobiles & alii in Ecclesia collegiata B. Petri Westmonasterii sepulti, usque ad An. 1600, published by W. Camden, as I have elsewhere told you. These Monumenta Westm. were afterwards describ'd at full with a pencil, and were design'd to be engraven on copper plates, and the book to be enlarged to a folio. Which work being very chargeable to be carried on, there were papers of proposals printed to obtain money from such that would subscribe to them; but what the event of the matter was I cannot tell.

The Genealogies of the high-born Prince and Princess George and Anne, of Denmark, &c. shewing the lineal Descent of those two noble and illustrious Families, &c. from the Year of Grace M, to the present Year MDCLXXXIV. &c. Lond. 1684. oct.

[823]

1688.

A true and perfect Narrative of the strange and unexpected finding the Crucifix and gold Chain of that pious Prince S. Edward the King and Confessor, which was found after 620 Years interment, &c. Lond. 1688. in 5 sh. in qu. Published under the name of Charles Taylour gent. and by him dedicated to king Jam. II. by an epistle set before it, wherein the author tells us that his father had served in the quality of a cornet of horse in sir W. Courtney's regiment in all the wars against his enemies: And in the book it self, p. 5, he tells us that he had belonged to the quire of Westminster 18 years. He the said H. Keepe hath also made some collections of antiquities relating to York, as some booksellers have told me, but such I have not yet seen. He died in Carter-lane near S. Paul's cath. in London, about the latter end of the month of May in sixteen hundred eighty and eight, and was buried in the church of S. Gregory joyning to the said cathedral. This person had changed his name with his religion for that of Rome, in the reign of king James II. his lodgings also several times, and died, as I have heard, but in a mean condition.

JOHN BARBON, son of Euseb. Barbon of Holcott in Northamptonshire, was born there, admitted a poor scholar of Exeter coll. 7 Sept. 1640, aged 16 years, and took the degrees in arts, that of master being conferr'd on him in Feb. 1647. The next year he was expell'd by the visitors, and living afterwards in a mean condition, became much about the time of his majesty's restoration vicar of Dallington, and at length rector of Pitchford commonly called Pisford, in Northamptonshire, where he ended his days. He hath written,

The Liturgy a most divine Service; in Answer to a late Pamphlet stiled Common-prayer Book no divine Service. Wherein that Author's 27 Reasons against Liturgies are wholly and clean taken away; his 69 Objections against our ven. Service-book are fully satisfied, &c. Oxon. 1663. qu. with a large preface to it. [Bodl. 4to. B. 3. Th. BS.]

1688.

Defence of Episcopacy.—This is printed with the former, and was wrote in way of answer to the said author's 12 arguments against the bishops. This writer, Mr. Barbon, who was well read in various authors, died on the 23d of June in sixteen hundred eighty and eight, and was buried in the church at Pisford beforemention'd. He had some time before wrote the life of his wife, but because there were some trifling stories in it, it was not printed.

WILLIAM FULMAN, the son of a sufficient carpenter, was born in a town famous for the birth, or at least habitation, of sir Phil. Sidney, called Penshurst in Kent, in the month of Nov. 1632, and being a youth of pregnant parts while the most learned Dr. Hammond was parson of that place, he took him into his protection, carried him with him to Oxon in the time of the troubles, procur'd him a chorister's place in Magd. coll. and caused him to be carefully educated in grammar learning in the school joyning to that house, under the tuition of Mr. William White the vigilant master thereof: And being there well grounded in school learning, that worthy doctor put him upon standing for a scholar's place in Corp. Ch. coll. where shewing himself an exact proficient in classical learning, was forthwith elected in 1647; and put under the tuition of an excellent tutor but zealous puritan, named Zach. Bogan. The next year he was ejected, among other young men, by the parliamentary visitors, to the great loss of his learning; and tho' his patron Dr. Hammond was involved in the same fate, yet he took him closer to him, and made him his amanuensis, in which office he found him very serviceable and useful. After he had arrived to the state of man, he became, by that doctor's endeavours, tutor to the son and heir of the ancient and genteel family of Peto of Chesterton in Warwickshire, where he found a comfortable harbour during the time of the church of England's disconsolate condition. At length, upon his majesty's return, he was restored to his scholarship, was actually created master of arts, and made fellow of his house; where continuing several years a severe student in various sorts of learning, was, upon the death of Mr. Rich. Samwais, presented by the president and fellows of his coll. to the rectory of Meysey-Hampton near Fairfield in Gloucestershire, where he finished his course. He was a most zealous son of the church of England, and a grand enemy to popery and fanaticism: He was a most excellent theologist, admirably well vers'd in ecclesiastical and profane history and chronology, and had a great insight in English history and antiquities; but being totally averse from making himself known, and that choice worth treasured up in, his great learning did in a manner dye with, him. Had his indulgent patron lived some years longer, or he himself had taken those advantages as others did for their promotion in the church upon account of their sufferings for the royal cause, he might without doubt have been a dean; but such was the high value that he set upon himself and his sufferings, that he expected preferment should court him and not he it. Besides also he had not in him a complaisant humour, unless sooth'd up, flattered or admired, neither any application, whether to advantage himself in learning, experience, or for his own commodity, and therefore not known, and so consequently, as his merits deserved, not so much admired, as otherwise he would have been. He wrote much, and was a great collector, but published little, as

[824]

Academia Oxoniensis Notitia. Oxon. 1665. qu. Published again in the same vol. at London 1675, [Bodl. 4to. C. 66. Art.] with very many additions and corrections taken from Historia & Antiquitates

Univ. Oron, published the year before; the several sheets of which, as soon as they were wrought off from the press, were by its author sent to Mr. Fulman at Meysey-Hampton.

Appendix to the Life of Edm. Stanton D. D. wherein some Passages are further cleared, which were not fully held forth by the former Authors. Lond. 1673. in 1 sh. in oct. Written upon the publication of the partial life of that doctor by one Rich. Mayow a nonconformist divine. See more in Edm. Stanton under the year 1671.

Corrections of, and Observations on, the first Part of The History of the Reformation of the Church of England. Which corrections and observations are remitted into the Appendix to the sec. vol. of the said History of the Reformation, written by Gilb. Burnet D. D.—Lond. 1681. fol. p. 411. &c. But the reader may be pleased to know that some of the said Observations are omitted, and others curtail'd, to the great dislike of their author,² who had applied himself with very great care and diligence for several years, on the like subject of The History of Reformation, and so consequently was abler to judge more critically of such a matter than other persons. He also reviewed the whole copy of the sec. vol. of the said History of the Reformation before it went to the press, and with great judgment did correct such errors that he found in it. He also with great pains sought after, and found out, the Works of King Charles I. of ever blessed memory, and collected them into one large vol. with intentions to write the life of that most religious prince, and to set it before them; but he being unexpectedly taken with the small pox, the bookseller R. Royston employed Rich. Perinchief D. D.³ to draw up a history of it. Which being so done, not without the notes of Fulman, it was printed before the said collection, with the name of Perinchief to it, an. 1662. fol. and so consequently the whole work was look'd upon and esteemed as due to him, which otherwise was to have been due to Fulman. Our author also did take a great deal of pains in writing the life of the famous Joh. Hales of Eaton, and had obtained many materials towards it,⁴ but for want of application to persons for farther information of the man, that work was left imperfect. Also the life of his founder Rich. Fox bishop of Winchester, with an account of the learned men, writers, bishops, &c. of C. C. coll. but for want of application also, and endeavours to obtain record from several offices in London and Westminster, to which I did often advise him, and tell him where matter might be had, that work was also left imperfect: And what he did as to the publication of the works of Dr. Hammond, I have already told you in the life and character of that person. At length this our learned author being overtaken with a malignant fever, in a very unseasonable time, which he did not, nor would take care to prevent the danger that might ensue, died of it at Meysey-Hampton early in the morning of the 28th of June in sixteen hundred eighty and eight, leaving then behind him a great heap of collections, neatly written with his own hand, but nothing of them perfect. All which being afterwards conveyed to C. C. coll. to be, according to his desire, put into the archives of the library of that house, what had it been for those that had the care, to have permitted the author of this work the perusal, of them, when they could not otherwise but know that they would have been serviceable to him in the promotion of this work, then almost ready for the press? But such is the humour of the men of this age, that rather than they'll act a part for the public good and honour of learning, they'll suffer choice things to be buried in oblivion. Mr. Fulman, who died to the reluctancy of many learned men, was buried in the church-yard, at the east end of the chancel of the ch. at Meysey-Hampton before-mentioned, near to the body of his then late wife, named Hester, granddaughter, by the father,⁵ of Dr. Rog. Manwaring sometime bishop of S. David's.

[Fulman published the first volume of the Hist. Anglic. Scriptores, which is done with greater accuracy than Gale's two volumes. LOVEDAY.

See an ill character, as to temper, of Mr. Fulman, by bishop Burnet, in his letter from the bish. of Sarum to the bish. of Lich. and Cov. on account of Mr. Hen. Wharton's Specimen of Errors in Burnet's Hist. of the Reformation, published in 1693, page 11. COLE.

The observation of Wood as to the difficulty of access to the MS. papers of Fulman is by no means applicable to the fellows of Corpus in the present day; since the editor of the new edit. of the ATHENÆ has been permitted to have a very ample perusal of this accurate and judicious antiquary's collections. This will plainly appear in many parts of this work and its continuation. In the mean time the following general catalogue of Fulman's Adversaria may be useful to fellow labourers in the same vineyard of antiquarian literature.

Fulman's MS. collections are contained in XXII volumes, of which XX are in quarto, and the remaining II in 8vo.

Vol. 1. Rerum Anglicarum Index Chronicus ab Ann. 449 ad Ann. 1688.

⁵ [Hester, wife of William Fulman, dan. of Tho. son of Rog. Manwaring; see in Rees Prichard 1644. Wood, MS. Note in Ashmole.]

R

² [See Burnet's Hist. of the Reform. vol. ii, pref. p. 2: and vol. iii, introduction page 3.]

³ [1671, 1 Febr. Rich. Perinchief S. T. P. admiss. ad eccl. S. Mildredæ una cum ecclesia S. Mariæ Colechurch, ad pres. regis. Reg. London.

Jo. Williams A. M. ad eccl. S. Mildredæ Poultry, 4 Sept. 1673, per mort. Ric. Perinchief. Reg. Henchman. KENNET.]

⁴ [See one of these materials printed by Walker in his Sufferings of the Clergy, part ii, page 94.]

VOL. IV.

Vol. 2, 3. Memorials of English Affairs from 1253 to the End of 1687.

These volumes consist of state papers, speeches, letters, &c. many very curious, some in an early hand, though the greater part are transcripts by Fulman.

Vol. 4. (a) Notitia Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ.

(b) Collectanea Regia, sive Henrici VIII, Edwardi VI, Elizabethæ Regina, et Jacobi I, Epistolæ variæ.

(c) Papers on the Power of Princes and Parliaments.

(d) English Antiquities, Etymologies, and Genealogies.

Vol. 5. Notitia Monastica, sive Notæ quædam de Monasteriis Anglicanis, præcipue Glastonensis, Malmesburiensis, Canobii S. Swithuni Winton. atque Hidæ extra Winton.

Vol. 6. (a) Vita Thomæ Becket, Bede, et Gildæ.

(b) Libellus Johannis Menglynch de Perquisito.

(c) De Sancto Edmundo.

(d) De Sede Episcopali et antiquis Episcopis Bathon. et Wellen.

(e) Gul. Malmesburiensis De Sancto Aldhelmo Liber.

(f) Liber Adilwlf Lindisfarnensis Ecclesiæ Monachi de Abbatibus ejusdem Ecclesiæ.

Vol. 7. Collectanea quædam de Universitate Oxon. ab Ann. 1312, ad Ann. 1687.

Vol. 8. (a) Fasti Oxonienses ab Ann. 1500, ad Ann. 1685.

(b) Excerpta e Registris Congreg. et Convoc. Oxon.

Vol. 9, 10, 11. Historia Collegii Corporis Christi Oxon.

Vol. 12. Memorials and Remains of Bishop Sanderson, Dr. Hammond, and John Hales.

Vol. 13, 14. Memorials and Remains of learned and famous Men.

Vol. 15. Memorials and Remains of English Poets.⁶

Vol. 16. Letters from and to Mr. William Fulman.

Vol. 17, 18. Collectanea Theologica.

Vol. 19. Excerpta varia ex S. Patribus aliisque Scriptoribus.

Vol. 20. Miscellaneous Collections, containing

⁶ [In this volume I find the following metrical epitaph by Fulman himself. There is no clue to the name of the person thus commemorated.

Stay, passenger; come not too neere
This holy heap of earth: for here
Nymphæa lyes. The rest, o Fame,
Is thine: yet adde not to her name
The empty style of great, or faire,
But, Virtue dead without an Heire.

This sayd; what needs it to renew
That title which is still her due?
Among the blessed snules above,
The Queen of Beauty and of Love.

W. F.]

Letters from the Popes 1131 to 1667; Extracts from Pamphlets, and several Anecdotes of Authors and Books.

Vol. 21. (a) Historical Notes of the great Rebellion from 1640, to 1653.

(b) Notes on the Roman Calendar.

Vol. 22. Various Collections, viz.

(a) An English Calendar.

(b) On Prayer.

(c) S. Francis Testamentum, &c.

(d) Memorials of the Family of the St. Clarks.

(e) Memorials of learned Persons.]

ROBERT CARY son of George Cary of Cockington in Devonshire gent. was born *
"at Berry Pomeroy in that county," * Born there.
adm. to the commoners table in Exeter First edit.

coll. 4 Oct. 1631, aged 16 years, where continuing till Oct. 1634. was then adm. scholar of Corp. Ch. coll. and in the year after took the degree of bach. of arts; but whether he was ever fellow of the said house, I know not. In 1638 he was licensed to proceed in arts, and in Nov. 1644, he, as a kinsman to Will. marquess of Hertford, chane. of the univ. of Oxon, was actually created doctor of the civ. law by virtue of his letters then read in convocation. Afterwards he became rector of Portlemouth near Kingsbridge in Devonshire, and archdeacon of Exeter, being then accounted very learned in curious and critical learning. He hath written Palæologia chronica: A chronological Account of ancient Time, in three Parts, 1. Didactical. 2. Apodeictical. 3. Canonical. Lond. 1677. fol. A large account of which is in the Philosophical Transactions, numb. 132. pag. 808, 809, &c. "John Milner S. T. bach. of Cambridge published A "Defence of Archbishop Usher against Dr. Rob. "Cary and M. Is. Vossius &c. Cambridge, 1694. "oct." What other things he hath written I know not, nor any thing else of him, only that he dying at East Portlemouth before-mentioned in sixteen hundred eighty and eight, was buried on the nineteenth day of Septemb. the same year in the church there.

1688.

THOMAS FLATMAN an eminent poet of his time, was born in Aldersgate-street in the suburb of London, educated in grammar learning in Wykeham's school near Winchester, elected fellow of New coll. in 1654, left it before he took a degree, retired to the Inner Temple, of which he became a barrister, and equally ingenious in the two noble faculties of poetry and painting or limning,⁷ as several ⁷ [Oldys addressed the following epigram to Flatman upon the three faculties in which he was skilled, viz. Law; Painting; and Poetry.

Should Flatman for his client strain the Laws,
The Painter gives some colour to the cause;
Should critics censure what the Poet writ,
The pleader quits him at the bar of wit.]

choice pieces shew; the titles of the former of which are these,

A Pindarique Ode on the Death of the truly and valiant and loyal George Duke of Albemarle late General of his Majesty's Forces, &c. Lond. 1670. in 3 sh. in fol. reprinted in his Poems and Songs following.

Poems and Songs. Lond. 1674. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. I. 47. Art.] there again with additions and amendments, 1676. oct. and lastly with more additions in oct. 1682. with his picture before them.

A Pindarique Ode on the Death of Thomas Earl of Ossory. Lond. 1681. in 2 sh. in fol. Which earl (the eldest son of James duke of Ormond) died at Westminster to the great grief of many, at about 7 of the clock in the evening of the 30th of Jul. 1680. This poem, that pleased the author best, as it did the generality, was printed in the last edition of his Songs and Poems. Soon after the publication of the said Ode, it was read and perused by the said duke, who being in an high manner pleased with it, he sent to the author a mourning ring, with a diamond in it, worth 100*l.* as a reward for his labour and ingenuity.

[826] "On the Death of Prince Rupert, a Pindarique Ode. Lond. 1685. in 2 sh. in folio."

On the Death of King Charles II. a Pindarique Ode. Lond. 1685. in two sh. in fol. At the latter end of which are Gratulatory Verses on King James II. In the year 1660 came out under the two letters of T. F. a book called—Virtus rediviva. A Panegyric on the late King Charles the First of ever blessed Memory, attended with several ingenious Pieces from the same Pen. Whether Thom. Flatman was the author* of these poems I cannot justly tell, because they are not among his Songs and Poems. In the next year was published a piece in prose, entit. Don Juan Lamberto: or, a comical History of the late Times, with a wooden cut before it containing the pictures of giant Desborough with a great club in his right hand and of Lambert, both leading, under the arms, the meek knight, i. e. Richard Cromwell; which book vending very fast, a second part was added by the same hand, with the giant Husonio before it, and printed with the second impression of the first part. Lond. 1661. qu. To both which parts (very witty and satirical) tho' the disguis'd name of Montelion Knight of the Oracle, &c. is set, yet the acquaintance and contemporaries of Th. Flatman always confidently aver'd that he the said Flatman was the author of them. "Montelion's Almanack came out in 1660, "61, 62. The first wrote by Joh. Philips as he "confesses in his Mere. Verax: or the Prisoner's Prognostication for the Year 1675. The two "other Montelions for 1661, 62, are supposed to "have been writ by Tho. Flatman, esq." He also translated from Lat. into English, The Epistle of Laodamia to Protesilaus; which is in Ovid's Epistles translated from Lat. into Engl. by several hands.—Lond. 1681. oct. sec. edit. At length, he having lived to the age of 53 or thereabouts, gave way to fate in his house in Fleet-street, Lond. on the eighth day of Decemb. in sixteen hundred eighty and eight, and was three days after buried in the church of S. Bride alias Bridget, near to the rails of the communion-table, under a grave-stone with inscription and verses thereon, which he had sometime before caused to be laid on his son, there buried. This person (whose father, a clerk in the chancery, was then living in the 80th year of his age or more) was in his younger days much against marriage, to the dislike of his said father, and made a song describing the cumbrances of it, beginning thus:

* [Wood has before (vol. iii, col. 1097,) ascribed this vol. to the right author, who was Thomas Ford.]

1688.

Like a dog with a bottle ty'd close to his tail,
Like a tory in a bog, or a thief in a jail, &c.

But being afterwards smitten with a fair virgin, and more with her fortune, did espouse her 26 Nov. 1672; whereupon his ingenious comrades did serenade him that night, while he was in the embraces of his mistress, with the said song.

[Flatman was A. M. of Cambridge, by the king's letters, dated Dec. 11, 1666; being then A. B. of Oxford, as is there said. BAKER.

There is a letter of Flatman's to Dr. Sancroft, dated from Catherine hall, Cambridge, May 13, 1667. TANNER.

He is said to have writ Heracitus Ridens. GREY.

A Thought of Death.

When on my sick bed I languish,
Full of sorrow, full of anguish,
Fainting, gasping, trembling, crying,
Panting, groaning, speechless, dying,
My soul, just now about to take her flight
Into the regions of eternal night,—

Oh tell me you,
That have been long below,
What shall I do?
What shall I think, when cruel death appears,
That may extenuate my fears?
Methinks I hear some gentle spirit say,
Be not fearful, come away!
Think with thy self that now thou shalt be free,
And find thy long expected liberty!
Better thou mayest, but worse thou canst not, be
Than in this vale of tears and misery.
Like Cæsar, with assurance then come on,
And unamaz'd attempt the laurel crown
That lyes on t'other side death's rubicon.]

SETH WARD, a most noted mathematician and astronomer of his time, was born in a little market town in Hertfordshire called Buntingford, and on the 15th of Apr. 1617 was baptized there. His father was an attorney of good repute⁹ among his neighbours, who perceiving his son very forward to learn, he taught him common arithmetic, and caus'd him to be carefully educated in grammar learning. When he was fitted for the university he was sent to Sidney coll. in Cambridge, where he became servitor to Dr. Sam. Ward¹ master of that house, who being much taken with his ingenuity and industry, as also with the suavity of his nature, did soon after make him scholar of the said house: And because he was of the same surname, many supposed that he was of kin, occasion'd by the doctor's great kindness to him: But there was no relation at all between them,² only the consimilitude of their dispositions, which made a greater tie of friendship than blood perhaps could do. His geny was then much inclining to the mathematics, which being, as 'twere, natural to him, he quickly and easily obtained them. Mr. Cha. Scarborough, then an ingenious young student and fellow of Caius coll. in the same university, was his great acquaintance, and both being equally students in that faculty and desirous to perfect themselves, they took a journey to Mr. Will. Oughtred³ living then at Albury in Surrey, to be informed of many things in his Clavis Mathematica, which seemed at that time very obscure to them. Mr. Oughtred treated them with great humanity, being very much pleased to see such ingenious young men apply themselves to those studies, and in short time he sent them away well satisfied in their desires. When they returned to Cambridge, they afterwards read the Clav. Math. to their pupils, which was the first time that that book was read in the said university. Mr. Laur. Rook a disciple of Oughtred, I think, and Mr. Ward's friend, did admirably well read in Gresham coll. on the sixth chapt. of the said book, which obtained him great repute from some, and greater from Mr. Ward, who ever after⁴ had an especial favour for him. In 1643 he with the master and several of his coll. were, for the king's cause, imprison'd in S. John's coll. in Cambridge, and ejected from their several places; much about which time he and Mr. P. Gunning, Mr. Is. Barrow, Mr. Jo. Barwick, &c. did write a well pen'd treatise against the covenant, which was made public. After his release, he was civilly and kindly received by his friend and neighbour Ralph Freeman of Aspden in Hertfordshire, esq; and upon the ceasing of the civil war, he was entertained in the quality of a chaplain to Thomas lord Wenman of Thame Park in Oxfordshire. In 1649, his mind being then changed as to orthodox principles, he, by friends made to the committee for the reformation of the university of Oxon, became astronomy professor thereof, in the place of Mr. Joh. Greaves then ejected (who, upon an infallible foresight that he should be turn'd out, put Ward upon it, to gain it, because he would be sure, as far as his power lay, to get an able successor) and about that time he entred himself a gentleman commoner in Wadham coll. for the sake of Wilkins then warden of that house. In Oct. the same year he was incorporated master of arts, and admitted to his professorship, and soon after took the independent oath called the engagement,⁵ the effect of which was to be faithful to the commonwealth of England, as it was then established without a king or house of lords. In 1654 he proceeded D. of D.⁶ in which year Mr. Joh. Wallis⁷ the other Savilian professor proceeding also, fell out a controversy between them (occasion'd by Wallis) who should have seniority: which being decided by the vicechanc. on Ward's behalf, Wallis went out grand compounder, and so got superiority, as I shall largely tell you in the FASTI of that year. In 1656 or thereabouts he obtained of Dr. Brownrigg, the silenc'd bishop of Exeter, the chantorship of that church then void, and in the year following gaining an interest among the fellows of Jesus coll. he was elected by them to be their principal, upon the resignation of Dr. Mich. Roberts, but Franc. Howell of Exeter coll. an independent got it from him by his interest used to Oliver the protector. In 1659 he was elected president of Trin. coll. by a majority of fellows, made by the interest of Dr. Ralph Bathurst, but being soon after forced to leave that place to make room for the right owner Dr. Han. Potter,⁸ who had in a most woful manner endured great hardship, from the time of his ejection in 1648, the politician retired to the great city, where he became minister of S. Laurence in the Jewry, upon the promotion of Reynolds to Norwich, and in the same year (1660) he was installed in his place of chantor of Exeter. At that time it was his endeavours to make his loyalty known by being imprison'd at Cambridge, by his ejection, his writing against the covenant, and I know not what. About that time he became a member of the royal society and soon after dean of Exeter, where being settled, he wound himself in a short time, by his smooth

[827]

⁹ [His father's name was John Ward; his grandfather lived near Ipswich, and lost a considerable hereditary estate there; his mother's maiden name was Dalton. Pope's Life of Ward, page 4.]

¹ [He died September 7, 1643; Seth Ward attending him at his last moments, when he expired saying 'God bless the king and my lord Hopton.' Pope, Life, &c. page 14.]

² [He was recommended to Dr. Ward by Mr. Alexander Strange, vicar of Buntingford. Pope, ut supra, p. 7.]

³ [Will. Oughtred admitted in King's college 1593; beneficed at Albury in Surrey: died Jun. 12, 1660, aged 87. See Antiq. of Surrey vol. iv, pages 70, 72. BAKER.]

⁴ [See my MS. Collect. vol. xv, page 164. COLE.]

⁵ [See Pope's Life of Ward, pp. 20, 21.]

⁶ [Incorporated at Cambridge D. D. 18 Mar. 1658. BAKER.]

⁷ [Jo. Wallis coll. Eman. A. M. Cant. 1640. BAKER.]

⁸ [Hannibal Potter S. T. B. ad ecel. de Wotton dioc. Petrib. ex pres. regis, die 10 Dec. 1625. Reg. Dove, Ep. Petrib. KENNET.]

[828]

language and behaviour, into the favour of the gentry of the neighbourhood. In 1662 Dr. Gauden bishop of Exeter being translated to Worcester, he was by the endeavours of a considerable party of the gentry of Devonsh. (who were of the house of commons) advanced to that see: And being consecrated thereunto 20 July 1662, sate there but few years; for on the death of Dr. Hyde, he was translated to Salisbury 12 Sept. 1667. In 1671, Nov. 25, he was made chancellor of the most noble order of the garter, by the restitution of king Charles II. after that place had been occupied by lay-persons about 154 years. He was a benefactor to the royal society, gave a pendulum clock thereunto which goes for a week together, to perpetuate the memory of his dear and learned friend Laur. Rook.⁹ Also, about 1672 he gave a considerable sum of money towards the making of the river at Salisbury navigable to Christ Church in Hampshire, and in 1679 he bestowed 1000*l.* on Sidney coll. in Cambridge.¹ In 1683 he built an hospital or college at Salisbury for the entertainment of ten poor widows of ministers of God's word, and in 1684 he built an alms-house at the place of his nativity for four ancient men, and four ancient women, who had lived handsomely, and brought by misfortune to poverty, &c. His works, as to learning, are these,

A Philosophical Essay towards an Eviction of the Being and Attributes of God, the Immortality of the Souls of Men, and the Truth and Authority of Scripture. Oxon. 1652. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. A. 18. Art. BS. 1655, Bodl. 8vo. W. 10. Th. BS.]

De Cometis, ubi de Cometarum Natura disseritur. Nova Cometarum Theoria, & novissima Comete Historia proponitur. Praelectio Oxonii habita. Oxon. 1653. qu. [Bodl. 4to. W. 11. Art. Seld.]

Inquisitio in Ismaelis Bullialdi Astronomiae Philolaicae Fundamenta. Printed with the book De Cometis.

Idea Trigonometricae demonstratae in Usus Juventutis Oxon. Oxon. 1654. qu. [Bodl. 4to. W. 11. Art. Seld.] The method of which, mention'd in the preface to this book, Mr. Oughtred challenged for his.

Vindiciae Academicarum. Containing some brief Animadversions upon Mr. Joh. Webster's Book, stiled The Examen of Academics. Oxon. 1654. qu. [Bodl. BB. 18. Art. Seld.] Before this book² is an epistle written to the author by one who subscribes himself N. S. i. e. John Wilkins of Wadh. coll. being the two last letters of both his names.

Appendix concerning what Mr. Hobbes and Mr.

⁹ [In Dr. Pope's Life of Bishop Ward 8vo. 1697, the xvii chapter is of Mr. Rooke:—Born in Kent, educated in Cambridge—the greatest man in England for solid learning—he died in 1662—the epitaph prepared by Dr. Bathurst; the inscription on the clock given by B. Ward. KENNET.]

¹ [This is a mistake. BAKER.]

² [Wrote by H. D. i. e. Seth Ward, those being the two last letters of his name. LOVEDAY.]

Will. Dell have published on the same Arguments.

—Printed at the end of Vindiciae Academicarum. As for Dell he had been educated in Cambridge; and Webster, who was then, or lately a chaplain in the parliament army, had, as I conceive, been educated there also: See in Thom. Hall. under the year 1665, among the titles of his books vol. iii, col. 679. and in Will. Erbury, an. 1654. vol. iii, col. 361.

In Thomae Hobbii Philosophiam Exercitatio Epistolica, ad D. Joh. Wilkinsium Guardianum Coll. Wadhami. Ox. 1656. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. W. 3. Art. BS.]

Appendicula, ad Calumnias ab eodem Hobbio (in sex Documentis nuperrimè editis) in Authorem congestas, Responsoria. Printed with the Exercitatio epistolica.

Astronomia Geometrica, ubi Methodus proponitur qua primariorum Planetarum Astronomia, sive Elliptica, sive Circularis possit Geometricè absolvi. Lond. 1656. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. P. 199. Art.]

Several sermons, as (1) Against Resistance of lawfull Powers, preached 5 Nov. 1661. on Rom. 13. 2. (2) Against the Antiscripturists, pr. 20 Feb. 1669, on 2 Tim. 3. 16. (3) Concerning Sinfulness, Danger and Remedies of Infidelity, pr. 16 Feb. 1667, on Heb. 3. 12. “Lond. 1670. oct.” [Bodl. 8vo. C. 624. Line.] (4) Sermon before the H. of Peers at Westm. 10 Oct. 1666; on Eccles. 11. 9. (5) Serm. concerning the Strangeness, Frequency and Desperate Consequence of Impenitency, preached 1 Apr. 1666, soon after the great Plague; on Rev. 9. 20. (6) Serm. against Ingratitude; on Deut. 32. 6. (7) An Apology for the Mysteries of the Gospel, preached 16 Feb. 1672; on Rom. 1. 16. Some of which sermons having been severally printed at several times, were all printed in one vol. at Lond. 1673, 74. oct. and then said to have been all preached at Whitehall, except the fourth. (8) The Christian's Victory over Death, preached at the Funeral of George Duke of Albemarle, &c. in the Collegiate Church of S. Pet. West. 30 Apr. 1670; on 1 Cor. 15. 57. Lond. 1670. qu. [Bodl. 4to. B. 92. Th.] (9) The Case of Joram, preached before the H. of Peers, 30 Jan. 1673. on 2 Kings 6, last Verse. Lond. 1674. qu. He also collected, viewed and reviewed the Determinationes Theologicae, Tractatus de Justificatione and Praelectiones de Peccato originali of Dr. Samuel Ward before-mention'd, which he caused to be printed and published at London. In the beginning of the year 1683 arose a controversy between him the said Dr. Ward bishop of Salisbury and Dr. Tho. Pierce dean of the cathedral church there, occasion'd by the denial, upon the first asking of Pierce for a prebendship in the said church for his son Robert: which denial being much resented by Pierce, notwithstanding the reversion of it had been before promised by the bishop, he studied revenge, and forthwith rais'd a controversy by maintaining that the king had right of giving and hestowing of the dignities in the church of Salisbury, and not the bishop. Which controversy being laid before his majesty's commissioners for ecclesiastical *promotions, they ordered Dr. Pierce to write a narrative of that matter; which being done, Dr. Ward answered it, but 'twas not printed: whereupon Pierce wrote A Vindication of the King's Sovereign Rights, &c. which was printed at Lond. 1683 in 12 sh. in fol. Afterwards the controversy being carried on by the black and dismal malice of Pierce,⁴ it did so much discompose the bishop, especially by the several journeys to London in unseasonable time and weather, that by degrees his spirits were exhausted, his memory gone, and totally unfit for business. About a month before he died, he took very little sustenance, and lived only on the stock, and died a skeleton; which hapning in his house at Knightsbridge near London on Sunday morn. the sixth of January, being the day of Epiphany, in sixteen hundred eighty and eight, his body was afterwards conveyed to Salisbury and buried in the cathedral there. What epitaph he hath over his grave, I know not, notwithstanding I have more than once sent for it;⁵ and therefore take this character of him given by Mr. Oughtred in his pref. to Clavis mathem. running thus.—Vir prudens, pius, ingenuus, nec mathesi solum, sed & omni politionis literaturæ genere, cultissimus, &c. He tells us there that he was the first in Cambr. that expounded his Clav. Math. and that he had taken a large journey to see him in his hidden and retired condition, at which time, by his importunate desire, he did correct, add many things to, and republish his said book of Clav. Math. There had been formerly several learned letters passed between him, and Ballioldus and Hevelius, which are yet kept private.

[829]

³ [Printed Lond. 1670. Bodl. 8vo. C. 624. Line.]

* Affairs. First edit.

[Seth Ward filius Johannis Ward attornati, Buntingfordia in com. Hertf. natus, ibique literis grammatic. per septennium opera mag. Tho. Acres, mag. Hatley, mag. Jo. Meriton institutus: 16 ferme ætatis agens, admissus est sub rev. coll. præfecto doctore Ward, Dec. 1; et postea traditus est in tutelam magistro Carolo Pendreth. Reg. Coll. Sidn.

Seth Ward Coll. Syd. A. M. 1640. Reg. Acad.

One S. Ward has wrote Magnetis Reductorium printed 1639; dedicated to the king: first printed 1637. This was S. Ward of Ipswich. BAKER.

The Life of the right reverend Father in God Seth, Lord Bishop of Salisbury, and Chancellor of the most noble Order of the Garter. With a brief Account of Bishop Wilkins, Mr. Lawrence Rooke, Dr. Isaac Barrowe, Dr. Turbervile, and others.

⁴ [See Dr. Pierce's character in Baxter's Life, p. 279, 280 &c. BAKER.]

⁵ [See it printed in Pope's Life of Ward, 1697, page 184, but as it is very long, and withal 'erroneous,' it may content the reader to be referred to that work for a sight of it.]

Written by Dr. Walter Pope, Fellow of the Royal Society.

———*Quid foret Iliæ,
Mavortisque gener, si taciturnitas
Obstaret meritis invida Romuli?* Hor.

London: Printed for William Kiblerwhite, at the Swan in St. Paul's Churchyard, 1697.

This is a very strangely written, yet in many respects a curious and entertaining, volume. The author contrives to give a good deal of information in quaint language, and digresses pleasantly enough to talk of all the bishop's friends as well as his own. He has been very severe on Anthony a Wood, and very unjustly so, as will be shewn in the proper part of this work. For this crime Pope was abundantly chastised in An Appendix to the Life of the right rev^d. Father in God Seth, Lord Bishop of Salisbury; Written by Dr. Walter Pope, F. R. S. in a Letter to the Author. London: Printed for E. Whitlock, near Stationers Hall, 1697.

See a head of Ward by D. Loggan, dated 1678.]

THOMAS CARTWRIGHT, son of Tho. Cartwright sometime schoolmaster of Brentwood in Essex, was born in the antient borough of Northampton on the first of Sept. 1634, educated in the school there, and being puritanically educated under presbyterian parents, was sent to Magd. hall, where spending two terms in the study of logic, was forcibly put into Queen's coll. by the visitors appointed by parliament, an. 1649, and at that time was put under the tuition of Mr. Tho. Tully. Afterwards he was made * chapl. of the coll. for a time, when he left the house, (having before been ordained priest by Dr. Robert Skinner bish. of Oxon) he became vicar of Walthamstow in Essex, and a very forward and confident preacher for the cause then in being. In 1659 I find him chaplain to Joh. Robinson esq; alderman and then sheriff of London and a preacher at S. Mary Magd. in Milkstreet, but whether he did then enjoy the vicaridge of Barking in Essex, which he did after his majesty's restoration, I cannot tell.⁶ After the king's return he shew'd himself very forward to express his loyalty, was made domestic chaplain to Henry duke of Gloucester, procured himself to be actually created D. of D. tho' not of full standing for it, was made preb. of Twyford in the cathedral church of S. Paul,⁷ minister of S. Thomas Apostle in London, preb. of

⁶ [1660, 11 Aug. Tho. Cartwright A. M. admiss. ad vicar. de Barking, per mortem Ric. Hall, S. T. P. ad pres. regis.]

⁷ 1689, 13 Jun. Leopoldus Finch A. M. admiss. ad vicar. de Barking, com. Essex. per mort. Tho. Cestr. episcopi. Reg. London. KENNET.]

⁸ [1665, 20 Apr. Tho. Cartwright S. T. P. coll. ad preb. de Twyford, per mort. ult. preb. Reg. Lond.

Lucas Boileau S. T. B. admiss. ad preb. de Twyford in eccl. Paul 17 Jan. 1686, per promot. Thomæ Cartwright, ad ep. Cestr. KENNET.]

[830]

Shalford in the church of Wells, and chaplain in ord. to his majesty. In Nov. 1672 he was installed prebend of Durham, struck in on the death of Dr. Tully his quondam tutor, and was made dean of Rippon in the latter end of 1675. Afterwards putting in with great boldness, before his seniors, for a bishoprick, particularly for that of S. David, but put aside by Dr. L. Womack, was at length made bishop of Chester on the death of the most learned and religious Dr. John Pearson: to which see being consecrated, with Dr. Lloyd to S. David, and Dr. Parker to Oxon, at Lambeth, on the 17th of Octob. 1686, had liberty then allowed to him to keep the vicaridge of Barking and the rectory of Wigan in Lanc. which he before had obtained, in commendam with his bishoprick. In the next year, he being then in favour with king James II. and ready upon all occasions to run with his humour, purposely to obtain a translation to a better bishoprick, he was by him not only added to the number of ecclesiastical commissioners, but also appointed one of the three delegates or commissioners (sir Rob. Wright ch. just. of the Kings-bench, and sir Thomas Jenner one of the barons of the exchequer, being the other two) to go to Oxon, to examine and determine⁸ the affairs relating to Magd. coll. and what they did there in ejecting the president and fellows thereof, a book entit. An impartial Relation of the illegal Proceedings against S. Mary Magd. Coll. in Oxon, &c. Lond. 1689. qu. sec. edit. collected by a fellow of that coll. will at large tell you. At that time this bishop making it his sole endeavours to be gracious with the then great and leading men, and to shew himself in all public assemblies, particularly in those wherein the Rom. cath. bishops were consecrated, he gained the ill-will so much of the sons of the church of England, that when the prince of Orange made his expedition into England, he, out of fear of suffering for what he had acted, and of the insults of the rabble (then committing great disorders in London and most parts of the nation) did withdraw himself in private, sculk, and in a disguise fled into France; where repairing to his royal master king James II. then lately come thither, to avoid imminent danger in England, had by him, upon the news of Dr. Ward's death, the bishoprick of Salisbury conferr'd on him: and while he abode at S. Germain's he did usually read the liturgy of the church of England in his lodgings to such protestants that came thither to him. Afterwards he went with his said master towards Ireland, landed there on Tuesday the 12th of Mar. 1688, and on Sunday following being at Cork, he received the sacrament from the hands of the bishop of that place. On Palm Sunday, Mar. 24, he went to Dublin with the king, and on Easterday, and the octaves of Easter 1689 he again received the sacrament at Ch. Ch. there, from the B. of Meath, to which ch. B. Cartwr. went daily to prayers. Afterwards being overtaken with the country disease called the flux or dysentery, he finished his course there, as I shall anon tell you. He hath extant.

⁸ [For this his son was afterwards refused a fellowship at Magdalen. See Compleat Hist. of England, vol. iii, page 515, note b.]

Several sermons, as (1) God's Arraignment of Adam, on Gen. 3. 9. Lond. 1659. qu. (2) Serm. before the King at Whitehall on Jude 22. 23. Lond. 1676. qu. [Bodl. 4to. D. 42. Th.] (3) Sermon in the Cath. Ch. of S. Pet. in York before the Judges of Assize; on Judges 17. 6. Lond. 1677. qu. (4) Sermon preached at Holy-Rood House 30 Jan. 1681. before her highness the Lady Anne; on Acts 7. 60. Edinb. and Lond. 1682. qu. The author was then with James duke of York, who, with his royal consort and the lady Anne his daughter were retired to that place upon the command of his majesty, to put a stop to the fury of the faction, then driving on their designs upon prosecution of the popish plot. (5) Sermon preached to the Gentlemen of Yorkshire at Bow Church. Lond. 24 June, 1684; on Prov. 24. 21, 22. Lond. 1684. qu. (6) Sermon preached upon the anniversary Solemnity of the happy Inauguration of K. Jam. II. in the Collegiat Church of Rippon, 6 Feb. 1685; on 1 Kings 8. 66. Lond. 1686. qu. [Bodl. C. 7. 16. Linc.] He hath also extant a Serm. on 2 Chron. 7. 9, 10. and another On Rev. 14. 13. which I have not yet seen: And there is also extant under his name A Sp. spoken to the Society of Magd. Coll. 16 Nov. 1687; which (much commended) with several of his Discourses, you may see in An impartial Relation, &c. before-mentioned. At length after he had declared himself to be a member of the communion of the church of England, in which he had always lived, had taken the blessed sacrament and the churches absolution, he surrendered up his soul to God at Dublin on Monday morning 15 of April in sixteen hundred eighty and nine. On the day before in the afternoon, while the ven. minister that usually attended him was at church, the titular bishop of Clogher and dean of Ch. Ch. made his lordship a visit; and after the first civilities were past, one of them in Latin desired him to be mindful of eternity, and to prepare for death. His servant⁹ being present, answer'd them that 'his lordship had prepared himself already.' They afterwards told him in Latin 'there was but one God, one faith, one church.' To which the bishop replied, 'I believe so, and hope that I have made my peace with God.' They again repeated, 'There is but one God, one church,' intending, as was supposed, to enlarge upon that subject: whereupon the bishop answer'd somewhat short, 'I know all this as well as you, but I am not able to answer you for the failing of my spirits; and therefore I desire you to forbear talking with me any more about this, for I have done already what, I hope, is necessary for my salvation.' Hereupon they seeing they could not effect any thing with him, nor engage him in a discourse, took their leaves, and they themselves gave out, that the bishop of Chester was dying, and that he would dye a protestant. As soon as he was dead, the said bishop's servant acquainted Will. earl of Powis and Dr. Anth. Dopping bishop of Meath with his death, who, with the earl of Longford, took care for his funeral after this manner. On Tuesday Apr. 16, the body was carried early in the morning from the house where he died, to that of the B. of Meath, which was near, where several rooms were hung with black; and that where the body lay was furnished with many lights in sconces, and eight large tapers on stands about the body, which was covered with a fair velvet pall. In the afternoon all the nobility, clergy, judges and gentry, of both religions, that were in town, among whom were the earl of Powis and the lord chancellor, came thither: and about six in the evening his body was carried in a velvet herse drawn with six horses cloathed in black, and attended by the king at arms, the aforesaid company in near 30 coaches, and a multitude of common people, to Christ Church in Dublin, where the sub-dean and choir met the body at the church door, and sung it into the choir, which was very much crowded. The service was solemnly performed with several anthems, and the body afterwards interr'd in the north-east end of the choir, by the bishop of Meath in his episcopal habit. It was then commonly reported that king Jam. II. did nominate Dr. Jam. Arderne¹ dean of Chester to succeed Dr. Cartwright in his bishoprick; but how true, I cannot tell. Sure it is, that king Will. III. being then in the throne, he nominated to that see Dr. Nich. Stratford dean of S. Asaph,² who thereupon was consecrated thereunto in the bishop of London's chappel at Fulham near London, on the 15th of Sept. 1689.

1689.

[831]

⁹ [Moses Skepper, who was afterwards secretary to archbishop Sharp. GREY.]

[An Answer of a Minister of the Church of England to a seasonable and important Question proposed to him by a loyal and religious Member of the present House of Commons: viz. What Respect ought the true Sons of the Church of England, in Point of Conscience and Christian Prudence, to bear to the Religion of that Church whereof the King is Member. London, 1687. This minister,

¹ [See my MS. Collections, vol. xxxv, p. 220. COLE.]

² [Nicholas Stratford born at Hemel Hempstead in Hertfordshire, son of Nicholas Stratford draper, and Anne his wife, baptized Sept. 8, 1633.

Nich. Stratford cler. S. T. B. admittend. ad preb. S. Margaretæ in Leycestr. subscr. ardic. 26 Martii 1670. Ex Autogr. MS. KENNET.

1673: Upon Dr. Hum. Lloyd's promotion to Bangor, Dr. Nicholas Stratford, formerly fellow of Trinity coll. succeeded in the deanery of St. Asaph. HUMPHREY'S Catalogue of the Deans of St. Asaph. publ. by Hearne in Otterbourne, &c. 8vo. 1732.]

says bishop Barlow, is supposed to be the lord bishop of Chester, i. e. Cartwright; but he denies it. Many and pernicious errors in it. See the book, with bishop Barlow's notes. Bodl. B. 12. 11. Line.

Cartwright was a man of good capacity, and had made some progress in learning. He was ambitious and servile, cruel and boisterous: And, by the great liberties he allowed himself, he fell under much scandal of the worst sort. He had set himself long to raise the king's authority above law, which he said was only a method of government to which kings might submit as they pleased; but their authority was from God, absolute and superior to laws, which they might exert, as oft as they found it necessary for the ends of government. So he was looked on as a man that would more effectually advance the design of popery, than if he should turn over to it. Burnet, Hist. of his own Time, vol. i; page 695.

J. Becket engraved a head of bishop Cartwright, in large folio.]

"CHARLES GOODALL, a most ingenious young man of his age, son of Dr. Ch. Goodall fellow of the coll. of phys. at London, was born at S. Edm. Bury in Suffolk, educated in grammar learning in Eaton coll. school, became a student in this univ. in Lent term 1688, aged 17 years, and soon after one of the portionists or postmasters of Merton coll. but soon cut off to the great reluctance of his tender parent, and of all those who were acquainted with his pregnant parts. There are extant of his composition,

"Poems and Translations written upon several Occasions, and to several Persons. Lond. 1689. oct. He died much lamented on the eleventh day of May in sixteen hundred eighty and nine, and was buried in the south isle or part of Merton coll. church."

1689.

JOHN SHAW, a minister's son, was born at Bedlington in the county pal. of Durham, educated in grammar learning for the most part under Tho. Ingmethorp rector of Great Stainton in the said county, was, at his first coming to the university, entered a student in Qu. coll. but making little stay there, he became a batler of that of Brasen-nose, 2 Apr. 1629, aged 15 years or thereabouts, took one degree in arts, and retiring soon after to his native country, took holy orders and exercised the ministry for some years in the northern parts of England. In 1645 he was instituted and inducted rector of Whalton in Northumberland, but not then admitted, because he was esteemed by the faction a zealous royalist. Afterwards, with much ado, he obtained the church of Bolton in Craven in Yorkshire, which being worth but 50l. per an. (supposed then enough to maintain a malignant minister) he was permitted to keep it during the sad affliction of the church of England. In 1661, his maj. king Charles II. being then settled in the regal throne, he was admitted to the church of Whalton by John lord bishop of Durham, was about the same time made preacher of the parochial chappel of S. John in the town and county of Newcastle upon Tyne, and chosen a member of the convocation for Yorkshire (as he was again in 1679) and procurator cleri for the arch-deaconry of Northumberland. He hath written,

[832]

The Pourtraicture of the Primitive Saints in their Actings and Sufferings according to S. Paul's Canon, Heb. 11. One part whereof, to verse 23, was preached at Newcastle 1652. The other, from verse 22 to the end, was preached at the same place, an. 1659.—Both which were afterwards published in qu.

Origo Protestantium: or, an Answer to a Popish Manuscript of N. N's, that would fain make the Protestant Catholic Religion bear Date at the very Time when the Roman Popish commenced in the World, wherein Protestancy is demonstrated to be elder than Popery. Lond. 1677 [Bodl. 4to. B. 68. Th.] and 79. qu.

Answer to the Jesuit's Letter—Printed with the former book, and the Jesuit's Letter with it.

No Reformation of the established Religion. Lond. 1685. oct. This loyal, religious and learned person died on the 22d of May in sixteen hundred eighty and nine, and was buried in the chap. or church of S. John in Newcastle before-mention'd, just before the altar. Soon after his ingenious son Joh. Shaw, belonging to the cath. church of Norwich, bestowed an epitaph on his father's marble, part of which runs thus, Hic quod remanet Johannis Shaw hujus Ecclesiae Pastoris, Deo, Ecclesiae, Patriae, Regi pie fidelis, &c. Besides this John Shaw was another of both his names and time, "formerly " of Christ coll. in Cambridge," minister of Hull in Yorkshire,³ author of several sermons, among which are (1) Britannia rediviva: or, a sovereign Remedy to cure a sick Commonwealth, preached in the Minster at York before the Judges at the Assize, 9 Aug. 1649. (2) The Princess Royal, preached at the same Place before the Judges 24 Mar. 1650, &c. And among other things he hath published a book entit. Mistress Shaw's Tomb-stone; or the Saint's Remains, being a brief Narrative of some few remarkable Passages in the holy Life and happy Death of Mrs. Dorothy Shaw the Wife of Mr. John Shaw, who died on the 10th of Dec. 1657. Lond. 1657. oct.

WILLIAM ANNAND, son of Will. Annand

³ [This John Shaw left behind him a manuscript account of his own life and of the times he lived in, for the use of his son; this MS. falling into the hands of Calamy, has been abridged for his Ejected Ministers, vol. ii, page 823, &c. Shaw was born June 23, 1608, and died April 19, 1672. Besides the three things mentioned by Wood, he wrote also some sermons, Two Clean Birds; on Lev. 14. 4, 8.—A broken Heart; on Ps. 51. 16, 17.—The three Kingdom's Case; on Isa. 42. 24, 25.]

parson of Air, the head-burgh royal of the shire of Air in the dioc. of Glasgow in Scotland, was born in the said burgh an. 1633, and being 5 years of age was conveyed by his father with his family into England, in the time of the great rebellion and presbyterian tyranny an. 1638, they being forced to make their escape thither on account of their loyalty to their prince and their adherence to the episcopal government then established by law in that kingdom. He was descended of the Annands of Auchterellon, an ancient family in the shire of Aberdeen and parish of Ellon, but now their estate there is out of their hands. In 1651 our author W. Annand became a scholar of Univ. coll. and tho' then put under a presbyterian tutor and discipline, yet he took all occasions to frequent sermons preached by loyal persons in, and near, Oxon. In 1656, he being then bach. of arts he took holy orders according to the church of England from the hands of Dr. Thomas Fulwar bishop of Ardfert or Kirry in Ireland, in the beginning of Aug. and the same year we find him preacher of God's word at Weston on the Green near Bister in Oxfordshire, where he found great encouragement from sir Fr. Norris lord of that town. After he had proceeded in arts, he became vicar of Leighton Budezard in Bedfordshire, where continuing in good repute for his ready and edifying way of preaching till 1662, he then went, in the quality of a chaplain, with his grace John earl of Middleton lord high commissioner of Scotland, when he left the court at Whitehall to go to that kingdom. In the latter end of 1663 he was instituted to the Tolbooth church at Edinburgh, where continuing several years, was transplanted to the Trone church of that city, which is also a prebendship. In Apr. 1676 he was by the presentation of his majesty, under his royal hand, with the privy seal of his kingdom of Scotland appended thereto, made dean of Edinburgh, and on Oct. 1, an. 1685, he commenced doctor of div. in the university of S. Andrew. His works, as to learning, are these,

Fides Catholica: Or the Doctrine of the Cath. Ch. in eighteen grand Ordinances, referring to the Word, Sacraments and Prayer, in Purity, Number and Nature, catholicly maintained, and publicly taught against Heretics of all Sorts. Lond. 1661, [Bodl. B. 18. 3. Linc.] 62. in a pretty thick qu.

Solutions of many proper and profitable Questions suitable to the Nature of each Ordinance, &c.—Print. with Fides Catholica, &c.

Panem quotidianum: or, a short Discourse tending to prove the Legality, Decency, and Expediency of set Forms of Prayer in the Churches of Christ, with a particular Defence of the Book of Common-Prayer of the Church of England. Lond. 1661. qu. [Bodl. B. 18. 20. Linc.]

Pater Noster. Our Father, or the Lord's Prayer explained, the Sense thereof, and Duties therein, from Scripturc, History and Fathers methodically cleared, and succinctly opened. Edinb. 1670. oct.

Mysterium Pictatis: or, the Mystery of Godliness, &c. Lond. 1671. oct.

Doxologia; or, Glory to the Father, the Churches Hymn, reduced to glorifying the Trinity. Lond. 1672. oct.

Dualitas: or, a twofold Subject displayed and opened, conducing to Godliness and Peace in order: First Lex loquens, the Honour and Dignity of Magistracy, with the Duties thereupon, &c. Secondly, Duorum Unitas, or the Agreement of Magistracy and Ministry at the Election of the Honourable Magistrates at Edinburgh, and Opening of the Diocesan Synod of the Rev. Clergy there. Edinburgh 1674. qu. He died at about one of the clock in the morn. of the 13th of June in sixteen hundred eighty and nine: whereupon his body was conveyed in the evening of that day, to the vestry of that part of S. Giles's church which is called the High Church of Edinburgh, (in which church, as dean, he did ordinarily preach) at the very same time that duke Gordon surrendered up the castle there to the convention. On the 15th of the said month he was honourably interr'd in the Grey-friers church, but without a funeral sermon, because not permitted by the presbyterians, in whose hands the magistracy then was. As his life was pious and devout, so was his sickness and death to the great comfort of those then present with him. He received his viaticum from the hands of Dr. Alex. Monro principal of king James's coll. of Edinburgh; and his colleague in S. Giles's church named Dr. John Strachan professor of div. at Edenb. did assist after the manner of the church of England. They and several other ministers and laics communicating then with him, he regretted with tears the overthrowing of their church, saying, 'he never thought to have outlived the church of Scotland, yet hoped others should live to see it restored,' &c. His father Will. Annand before-mentioned, lived very obscurely divers years after he came into England: but at length obtaining the vicaridge of Throwley in Kent 1649, and afterwards the rectory of Leveland in the same county, the usurper then ruling, he caused his son to be educated in learning in a good condition.

RICHARD SHERLOCK was born [Nov. 11, 1612⁴] at Oxton [in-Werrall] in Cheshire, and originally (as 'tis said) a student in Magd. hall, where he obtained a part of acad. learning.⁵ Thence he was translated to Trin. coll. near Dublin, where he proceeded master of arts in 1633, entred into the sacred function, and soon after became minister of several small parishes in Ireland, united together, and yield-

⁴ [BAKER.]

⁵ [His mother sent him first to Oxford, and afterwards, upon the account of a less expensive education, to Trinity coll. near Dublin. Life, p. 2. BAKER.]

ing no more than 80*l.* per an. At length upon the breaking out of the rebellion in that country, he journeyed into England and became chaplain to a regiment of his majesty's forces at Nainptwich in Cheshire: But that place being taken by the parliament forces in Jan. 1643, he retired to Oxon, where he became chaplain to the governor of the garrison there, and at length, by the favour of Dr. Pink warden of New college, he was made one of the chaplains of that house, much about the time that P. Gunning and Is. Barrow were made chaplains also. In 1646 he had the degree of bach. of div. conferr'd on him, in consideration of several sermons that he preached either at court, or before the parliament in Oxon; but in the year 1648, or thereabouts, being thrown out of his chaplain's place by the visitors, he became curate for Dr. Jasp. Mayne in an obscure village called Cassington near Woodstock in Oxfordshire, who allowing him 16*l.* per an. for his pains (for the vicaridge there is esteemed to be worth but 50*l.* yearly) he gave a good part thereof away to the poor of that place. At length leaving that cure, upon the ejection of the doctor, about 1652, he went into Lancashire, became chaplain to sir Rob. Bindlosse of Borwick-hall in the parish of Warton, baronet; where, as long as he continued, he was very much troubled with the people called quakers, against whom he wrote several things, as I shall tell you anon. After the restoration of king Charles II. an. 1660, he was made doctor of div. of the univ. of Dublin, and about that time⁶ by the favour of his honourable patron Charles earl of Derby (whose chaplain he was) rector of Winwick in Lancashire, 'a place⁷ among other fat benefices of England of greatest name.' He was a person of a most pious life, exemplary conversation, of great charity, hospitality, and so zealous a man for the church of England, that he was accounted by precise persons popishly affected, and a papist in masquerade. He hath written and published,

The Quakers wild Questions objected against the Ministers of the Gospel, &c. briefly answered. Lond. 1654. oct. 1656. qu. [Bodl. 4to. S. 7. Th. BS.] Animadverted upon by a noted quaker called Rich. Hubberthorne, in a book entit. A Reply to a Book set forth by the Priest of Borwick-hall in Lancashire, called Rich. Sherlock, &c. Lond. 1654. qu. and by another more noted than he, named George Fox, in his book called, The great Mystery of the great Whore unfolded, &c. Lond. 1659. fol. p. 242, 243, &c.

A Discourse of the Holy Spirit, his Workings and Impressions on the Souls of Men—This is also against the quakers.

⁶ [See Journals of the House of Lords, 1660, June 20, whence it appears that Sherlock was possessed of the rectory previous to that time: he was then restored to a fifth part of the profits till such time as he should try his right to the parish, against Mr. Jessop the then incumbent. See also Kennet's Register and Chronicle, page 185.]

⁷ Cambden in his Britannia in Lanc.

Discourse of Divine Revelation, mediate or immediate.

Discourse of Error, Heresy and Schism.—These three last pieces are printed with The Quakers wild Questions, &c.

The Principles of holy Christian Religion: or, the Catechism of the Church of England Paraphras'd, &c. Lond. 1656. oct. Written for the use of Borwick-hall. The thirteenth impression⁸ of this book came out at Lond. 1677. oct.

Sermon preached at a Visitation held at Warrington in Lanc. 11 May 1669, on Acts 20. 28. Lond. 1669. qu. [Bodl. 8vo. M. 208. Th.]

Mercurius Christianus. The Practical Christian: a Treatise explaining the Duty of Self-examination, &c. Lond. 1673. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. B. 304. Th.]

Confessions, Meditations, and Prayers, in Order to the Receiving of the holy Communion of the Body and Blood of Christ.—Printed with Merc. Christ.

The second Part of the Practical Christian, consisting of Meditations and Psalms, illustrated with Notes, or Paraphrased; relating to the Hours of Prayer, &c. Lond. 1675. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 45. Th.]

The Practical Christian: or the devout Penitent. A Book of Devotion containing the whole Duty of a Christian in all Occasions and Necessities, &c. in 4 Parts. 1. Of Self-Examination, Confession of Sins, &c. 2. Of the Communion of the holy Body and Blood of Christ. 3. Of the Hours of Prayer and occasional Meditations. 4. Of the four last things, Death, Judgment, Hell and Heaven. Lond. 1676, 77, &c.⁹

Several short, but seasonable, Discourses touching common and private Prayer, relating to the public Offices of the Church, &c. Oxon. 1684. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. M. 208. Th.] &c. This book contains, 1. The Irregularity of a private Prayer in a public Congregation, which was first printed 1674, in 4 sh. in qu. 2. Dr. Steuart's Judgment of a private Prayer in public, &c. 3. A Discourse of the Differences between long Prayers prohibited, and Continuance in Prayers commanded. 4. Meditations upon our going to Church, with short Directions for our Demeanor in the House of God, &c. 5. Sermon preached upon the Archbishop of York's Provincial Visitation at Warrington. At length this most holy, zealous, mortified and scrupulous Dr. Sherlock having spent all his time in holy and chaste celibacy, surrendered up his most pious soul to God in sixteen hundred eighty and nine, and was buried on the 25th of June within the chancel, at the first entrance into it out of the body of the church at Winwick before-mention'd; at which time his friend and acquaintance Tho. Crane, M. A. preached his funeral sermon, which being extant you may see a full account therein of the great piety, charity, hospitality, strictness of life, &c. of him the said Dr. Sherlock. Some years before his death he caused his grave-stone to be laid in that place where his body was afterwards buried, and ordered for his epitaph, to be engraved in brass and fix'd upon his stone, this following, 'Exuvie Richardi Sherlock S. T. D. indignissimi hujus Ecclesie Rectoris; Obiit 20 die Junii, anno ætatis 76. an. dom. 1689. Sal infatuatum conculate.' Whereupon a certain person¹ reflecting upon it, and much honouring his pious memory, did subjoin and add this further inscription, 'En viri sanctissimi modestia! Qui Epitaphium se indignum inscribi volebat; eum vita & merita ejus laudes omnes longe superarent.' In the rectory of Winwick succeeded Thom. Benet, M. A. fellow of Univ. coll. lately one of the proctors of this university, now master of the said coll.

1689.

WILLIAM THOMAS, son of John Thomas, was born on the bridge in the parish of S. Nicholas in the city of Bristol, on the second day of Feb. 1613, educated in grammar learning at Caermarthen in Wales, by the care of his grandfather recorder of that town, became a student in S. John's coll. in Mich. term 1629, thence translated to that of Jesus, (of which he was made fellow when bach. of arts) proceeded in that faculty, took holy orders, and before the civil war began, he became vicar of Penbryn in Cardiganshire. Afterwards being sequestered for his loyalty, he taught school at Laughern in Caermarthenshire, where, after a while, he read the common-prayer and preached, yet not without some disturbance occasioned by Oliver's itinerant preachers. After his majesty's restoration in 1660, he became chaunter of the cathedral church of St. David, in the place of Dr. Griff. Higgess deceased, was actually created doct. of divinity, made chaplain to James duke of York, and about that time had the living of Llanbedder in the valley, in Pembrokeshire, conferr'd upon him. In 1665, Nov. 25, he was installed dean of Worcester in the place of Dr. Tho. Warmestry deceased, and about that time he gave up Llanbedder for the rectory of Hampton Lovet, six miles distant from Worcester. On the 27th of January 1677 he was consecrated (with Dr. Sancroft to the see of Cant.) bishop of S. David, at which time liberty was given him to keep his deanery in commendam with it, and in the mid-

⁸ [Eleventh edit. Lond. 1673, Bodl. 8vo. B. 302. Th.]

⁹ [The practical Christian, &c. sixth edit. corrected and enlarged, printed Lond. 1713. 8vo. with the author's life wrote by Tho. Sodor and Man, containing 14 pages.

He died some months after the revolution. It would be impertinent to say, what he would have done, had he lived a few weeks longer, in a case, in which he was exceedingly reserved. He never would be prevailed with to shave his beard, after the king was murdered. BAKER.]

¹ [Mr. Henry Prescott of Chester. BAKER.]

dle of Aug. 1683 he was translated to the see of Worcester in the place of Dr. James Fleetwood deceased, where he sate to the time of his death in good respect from the clergy and laity. He hath written,

Several sermons, as (1.) Serm. at the Assize at Caermarthen, on Exod. 20. 16. Lond. 1657. qu. [Bodl. C. 7. 16. Line.] (2.) Serm. before the Right Honourable the Lords assembled in Parliament, in the Abbey Ch. of S. Pet. Westm. upon the Fast-day appointed 10 Apr. 1678; on Luke 13. 3. Lond. 1678. qu. (3.) The Mammon of Unrighteousness detected and purified, preached in the Cathedral of Worcester 19 Aug. 1688; on Luke 16. 9. Lond. 1689. qu.

[836] Apology for the Church of England in Point of Separation from it. Lond. 1678, 9. oct. Written in the time of usurpation.

A Pastoral Letter to his Clergy of Worcester Dioc. about Catechising.—Printed, with many things expung'd, since his death. It was, as 'tis said, written in answer to Dr. G. Burnet bishop of Salisbury his Pastoral Letters about Oaths, an. 1689.

Roman Oracles silenced: or the prime Testimonies of Antiquity produced by Hen. Turbervil in his Manual of Controversies. Lond. 1691. Published in the beginning of Mar. 1690. [Bodl. C. 2. 14. Line.] This worthy bishop Dr. Thomas died on the 25th of June, in sixteen hundred eighty and nine, and was buried according to his desire in the north east corner of the cloyster belonging to the cathedral church of Worcester, at the foot of the steps, in the way from the deanery to the cathedral. Soon after was a plain stone laid over his grave with this inscription² thereon, Depositum Gulielmi Thomas S. T. P. olim Decani Wigorniensis indigni, postea Episcopi Menevensis indignioris, tandem Episcopi Wigorniensis indignissimi, meritis tamen Christi, ad vitam æternam resurrectionis candidati.——Sanctissimus & doctiss. Præsul, pietatis erga Deum, erga Regem fidelitatis, charitatis erga Proximos illustre exemplum expiravit. An. redemptionis MDCLXXXIX, Ætatis LXXVI, Junii XXV, & moribundus hoc quicquid supra est epitaphii pro modestia sua tumulo inscribi jussit.

[A cat. of books printed for Rob. Clavell at the end of Dr. Den. Greenvill's Advice to a young Student at his Admission into a Coll. in Oxon. thus

Bishop of S. David's Vindication of Bishop's Right to vote in capital Cases. This book was printed 1680, and he that was then bishop of S. David was Dr. Will. Thomas. I have it; but there is a great deal of law and little divinity in it, which makes me think, t'was writ by Tho. Turner, and not the bishop.

The Regulating of Law Suites, Evidences and Pleadings. An Assize Serm. preached at Caer-

² [The first part wrote by himself; the latter part by a friend. MACRO.]

marthen, 16 Mar. 1656; on Exod. 20. 16. Lond. 1657, 4to. WOOD.

An Apology for the Church of England, in Point of Separation from it, By the Reverend Father in God, William Lord Bishop of St. Davids. London, Printed for William Leach, at the Crown in Cornhil, near the Stocks Market, 1679. 8vo. Bodl. 8vo. N. 41. Line.³

Two days before his death he sent for his dean, Dr. Hickes, and declared to him his resolution rather to burn at a stake than to take the new oath to the government. He was under suspension after the revolution, but never deprived. MACRO.]

THOMAS MANWARING, a younger son of Philip Manwaring, esq; was born of an ancient and genteel family in Cheshire, either at Over Peover or Baddily, on the 7th of Apr. 1623, became a commoner of Brasen-n. coll. 24 of Apr. 1637, where continuing about 3 years, receded without an academical degree to his father's house, and after the death of his elder brother became heir to the lands of his ancestors. In the time of the grand rebellion he sided with the dominant party, took the usual oaths then prescribed, was sheriff of Chester in the reign of Oliver, an. 1657, and after the restoration of king Charles II. he was created a baronet 22 Nov. 1660. He hath written and published,

A Defence of Amicia Daughter of Hugh Cyvelioek Earl of Chester, wherein is proved that she was not a Bastard. Lond. 1673. oct. Written against sir Pet. Leycester.

A Reply to an Answer to The Defence of Amicia, wherein is proved that the Reasons alledged by Sir Pet. Leycester concerning her Illegitimacy are invalid, &c. Lond. 1673. oct.

An Answer to Sir Pet. Leycester's Addenda. Lond. 1674. oct. He died in the month of July in sixteen hundred eighty and nine, and was buried by his wife, father and mother, in a vault under a chappel on the north side of the chancel of the church of Over-Peover before-mentioned. See more in Peter Leycester under the year 1678, vol. iii. col. 1173.

"SAMUEL HARDY was entred a student of "Wadham coll. in 1655 or thereabouts, took one

³ [As for the rise of the composure of it: Having had a conference, and therein an amicable dispute, with a profest pastor of a separate church (in the time of the protector's usurpation) he shortly after sent to me a large letter fraught with arguments for vindicating his separation from the church of England. I determin'd for some months to wave any reply to it, being not the enquiry of a disciple or seepick, for satisfaction, but rather the challenge (in effect) of an adversary, for victory, for triumph. I persisted in the same resolution, till I was advertised that my silence was interpreted conviction in judgment, and that the letter whilst unanswered, was concluded unanswerable.]

In the Bodleian Catalogue this book is improperly ascribed to William Lucy, Thomas's predecessor.]

1689.

"degree in arts 1659, and having had his education
"among presbyterians and independents, became
"afterwards a presbyterian preacher in several "places, particularly at Weymouth, and afterwards
"at Newbury in Berkshire. He hath written,

"*A Guide to Heaven; shewing that it is every "Man's indispensable Duty and Interest to secure
"Heaven for himself; because whosoever misseth
"it, and is lost, is utterly undone and miserably
"wretched, and the whole World is nothing to him,
"to help or comfort him: and the Man that is "saved is unspeakably and eternally blessed, &c.—*
"This book consists of two parts or vol. in oct. the "last of which was printed at Lond. 1688, but when "the first came out I cannot tell. He died in six"teen hundred eighty and nine or thereabouts,
"which is all I know of him, only that according
"as he had been educated, so he died, that is, a "nonconformist."

1689.

SAMUEL DERHAM, son of Will. Derham of Weston, called by some Weston subter Wethele, near Camden in Gloucestershire, was born in that county, entred a student in Magd. hall in Mich.
term 1672, aged 17 years, took the degrees in arts, entred on the physic line, took one degree in physic,
and published,

[837]

Hydrologia Philosophica: Or, an Account of Ilmington Waters in Warwickshire, with Directions for drinking of the same. Oxon. 1685. oct. [Bodl.
8vo. N. 53. Med.]

*Experimental Observations touching the Original of compound Bodies—*Printed with Hydr. Philos.
Afterwards he proceeded in his faculty, had then, and before, some practice in it, and dying of the small pox on the 26th of Aug. in sixteen hundred eighty and nine, in his house in S. Michael's parish within the city of Oxon, was buried at the upper end of the north chancel of the church belonging to the said parish.

1689.

"JAMES FAREWELL, son of Thomas Farewell of Horsington in Somersetshire, gent. became
"com. of Wadh. coll. in Easter term, an. 1684,
"aged 18 years, left it without a degree, went to
"Lincoln's-Inn to study the common law, and "wrote,

"*The Irish Hudibrass, or Fingallian Prince,
"taken from the sixth Book of Virgil's Æneids,
"and adjusted to the present State of Affairs.*
"Lond. 1688-89. oct. He died of the small-pox in "or near Lincoln's Inn, in sixteen hundred eighty
"and nine, leaving then behind him the character
"among his acquaintance of a witty young man and
"a tolerable poet."

1689.

OBADIAH GREW was born at Atherston in the parish of Manceter in Warwickshire, in November 1607, partly educated in grammaticals under
Mr. Joh. Denison his uncle, admitted a student in

Bal. college under the tuition of Mr. Rich. Trimmell, an. 1624, took the degrees in arts, holy orders at 28 years of age from the hands of Dr. Robert Wright bishop of Coventry and Lichfield, and had some cure I presume bestowed on him in his own country.
In the beginning of the civil war, he sided with the presbyterians, took the covenant, and about that time became, upon the desire of the mayor, aldermen and principal citizens of Coventry, minister of the great parish of S. Michael in that city: In which place the soundness of his doctrine (as those of his persuasion have told me) the sanctity and prudence of his conversation, the vigilancy and tenderness of his care, were of that constant tenor; that he seemed to do all that, which S. Gregory wrote a-whole book (De Cura Pastoralis) to tell us it should be done. By which means he ever obtained the love and respects of the city of Coventry, and his ends for their good, amongst the citizens thereof. Of his integrity and courage also, they farther add this instance, viz. 'In the year 1648, when Oliver Cromwell, then lieut. general of the forces in England, was at Coventry, upon his march towards London, the said Ob. Grew took his opportunity to represent to him the wickedness of the design then more visibly on foot, for taking off the king, and the sad consequences thereof, should it take effect; earnestly pressing him, to use his endeavours to prevent it; and had his promise for it: And afterwards when the design was too apparent, he wrote a letter to him to the same purpose, and to mind him of his promise. Which letter was conveyed by an honest gent, (since mayor and alderman of Coventry, now, or lately, living) to a messenger then waiting at Whitehall, and by him delivered into Cromwell's own hand,' &c. In 1651 he accumulated the degrees in divinity, and in the next year he completed that of doctor by standing in the Act; much about which time he preached the Concio ad Clerum with applause. In 1654 he was appointed one of the assistants to the commissioners of Warwickshire for the ejection of such whom they then called scandalous, ignorant and insufficient ministers and schoolmasters, and continued after, till his majesty's restoration, in good repute among the precisians. He hath written,

A Sinner's Justification by Christ: or, the Lord Jesus Christ our Righteousness. Delivered in several Sermons on Jer. 23. 6. Lond. 1670. oct.

*Meditations upon our Saviour's Parable of the prodigal Son, being several Sermons on the 15th
Chapter of S. Luke's Gospel.* Lond. 1678. quarto.
Both written and published at the request, and for the common benefit, of some of his quondam parishioners of S. Michael in Coventry. What other things he hath written, that are fit for the press, I know not, nor any thing else of him, only that he died on the 22d of Octob. in sixteen hundred eighty and nine, and that his body was buried in the chancel of the said church of S. Michael. This divine was [838]

1689.

the father⁴ of Dr. Nehemiah Grew⁵ a physician of good note and practice in London, whose published works are so well known and valued, that divers of them have been translated into Latin and French, by learned foreigners; and many eminent persons both at home and abroad, have returned him their thanks with great respect: and it is believed that he hath still much under his consideration relating both to philosophy and the practice of physic. Among several things that he hath written and published are (1) Museum Regalis Societatis: Or, a Description of the natural and artificial Rarities belonging to the Royal Society and preserved at Gresham Coll. Lond. 1681. fol. (2) The Anatomy of the History of Plants and Vegetables. Lond. 1683. fol. &c.

JOHN GOAD, son of Joh. Goad of Bishops-gate-street in London, was born in St. Helen's parish there, 15 February 1615, educated in Merchant-Taylors school, elected scholar of S. John's college, and admitted in his due course and order by the just favour of Dr. Juxon the then president, an. 1632. Afterwards he became fellow, master of arts, priest, and in 1643 vicar of S. Giles's church in the north suburb of Oxon by the favour of the pres. and fellows of his coll. where continuing his duty very constant, during the time that the garrison was besieged by the parliament forces, did undergo great dangers by canon bullets that were shot from their camp adjoining, in the time of divine service. On the 23d of June 1646 he was presented to the vicaridge of Yarnton near Oxon, by the chancellor and masters of this university, by virtue of an act of parliament begun at Westminster 5 November, 3 Jac. I. disabling recusants from presenting to church livings, and in the year following he was, in consideration of his sermons preached either before the king, or parliament, at Oxon, or both, actually created bach. of divinity. In 1648 he was solicited by Dr. Franc. Cheynell one of the visitors appointed to visit the university of Oxon, to return to his college and fellowship, he having heard of, and partly known the great worth and merit of him; but, because he would not conform himself to the new directory, he refused to go, and with much ado keeping Yarnton till the king's restoration, did then, contrary to his friends expectation, take the offer of Tonbridge school in Kent: But being scarce settled there, he was in July 1661 made chief master of Merchant-Taylors school in London. In which place continuing with good success and great applause till April 1681, at which time the great and factious city was possess'd, by the restless presbyterian ministers, of the sudden introduction to popery among them, he was summoned to appear before the chief heads of the society of Merchant Taylors. In obedience to which summons he appearing, and then charged with certain passages savouring of popery in his Comment on the Church of England Catechism [inculcated into their pates by certain factious capricious who gaped after his place⁶] which he made for the use of his scholars, he was by them discharged, with a considerable gratuity in plate from them. The particulars of this affair being too many for this place, you may see them at large in a postscript to a book entit. Contrivances of the Fanatical Conspirators, in carrying on the Treasons under Umbrage of the Popish-Plot, laid open: with Depositions, &c. Lond. 1683. in 8 sh. in fol. written by Will. Smith a school-master of Islington near London, who stiles therein Mr. Goad a pious and learned person, so extraordinarily qualified (for his profession) that a better could not be found in the three kingdoms. Mr. Goad being thus dismissed he took a house in Piccadilly in Westminster; to which place many of the genteeler sort of his scholars repairing to be by him farther instructed, he set up a private school, which he continued to or near the time of his death. In the beginning of 1686, king Jam. II. being then in the throne, he declared himself a Rom. Cath. having many years before been so in his mind, for in December 1660 he was reconcil'd to that faith in Somerset-House by a priest belonging to Hen. Maria the queen mother, then lately return'd from France. This person, who had much of primitive Christianity in him, and was endowed with most admirable morals, hath written,

⁴ [See Noble's Continuation of Granger, vol. i. pp. 349—351, for some account of a very rare engraved portrait of Mrs. Helen Grew, wife of Dr. Obadiah Grew, together with some account of her life. To this I would add, that it appears almost certain that the rev. William Sampson, her first husband, was the W. S. author of Virtus post Funera vivit, a rare tract, of which an account is given in the Restituta, vol. iv, page 321. The Sampsons have an article in Calamy, from which a few particulars might have been learned of Mr. Will. Sampson, of whom little or nothing seems to have been known by the writer in the Restituta. I am not aware where Granger collected his information concerning this lady, which I have had opportunity of confirming, as far as the genealogy goes, by the evidence of wills. HUNTER.]

⁵ [Nchem. Grew aul. Pemb. art. bac. (Cant.) 1661. BAKER. He died suddenly in London, March 25, 1712, and a funeral sermon was preached for him by Mr. John Shower, which was printed. RAWLINSON and GREY.]

Several sermons, as (1) Ἡ ἡμέρα ἐκείνη. An Advent Sermon preached at S. Paul's, on Luke 21, 30. Lond. 1664. qu.⁷ (2) Πάντα δοκιμάζετε. Sermon of the Tryal of all Things, preached at S. Paul's; on Thes. 5. 21. Lond. 1664. qu. &c.

Genealogicon Latinum. A previous Method of Dictionary of all Latin Words (the Compounds only excepted) that may fruitfully be perused before the Grammar, by those who desire to attain the Language in the natural, clear and most speedy

⁶ [WOOD, MS. insertion in his own copy; Mus. Ashmole.]

⁷ [Dedicated to Nicholas Delves, esq. Mr. Will. Jeston, Thomas Cole, Edmund Fabian, and George Nodes, wardens of the merchant-tailor's company; dated from their school 19 Dec. 1662. RAWLINSON.]

Way, &c. for the Use of the Neophyte in Merchant-Taylors School. Lond. 1676. oct. sec. edit.

Declamation, whether Monarchy be the best Form of Government—This is at the end of a book entit. The English Orator, or Rhetorical Descants by Way of Declamation. Lond. 1680. oct. written by William Richards of Trinity coll. in Oxon. But the grand work which he laboured in from about the year 1650, to the time that it was published, but hindered from finishing it sooner, thro' the manifold avocations and the vastness of the enterprize, is that entit.

Astro-Meteorologica: or Aphorisms and Discourses of the Bodies Celestial, their Natures and Influences, discovered from the Variety of the Alterations of the Air, temperate or intemperate, as to Heat or Cold, Frost, Snow, Hail, Fog, Rain, Wind, Storm, Lightnings, Thunder, Blasting, Hurricane, &c. Lond. 1686. fol. The whole discourse is founded on sacred authority and reason. About the time of his death was published of his composition, Autodidactica: or a practical Vocabulary, being the best and easiest Method, yet extant, for young Beginners, to attain to the Knowledge of the Latin Tongue. Lond. 1690. oct. and after his death was published under his name,

Astro-Meteorologia sana; sive Principia Physico-Mathematica, quibus Mutationum Æris, Morborum Epidemicorum, Comelarum, Terræ Motuum, aliorumque insigniorum Naturæ Effectuum Ratio reddi possit. Lond. 1690. qu.⁸ with his picture before it, very much resembling him while living, aged 62. an. 1677. He also wrote a book Concerning Plagues, their Natures, Numbers, Kinds, &c. Which, while in printing, was burnt in the dismal conflagration of London, an. 1666.—“Among Mr. Ashmole’s “books MS. 367 is a Diary of the Weather at “London from July 1. 1677, to the last of Octob. “1679. by this Mr. Goad.” At length this learned and religious person concluding his last day on Monday the 28th of Octob. (S. Simon and Jude) about 5 of the clock in the morning, in sixteen hundred eighty and nine, was buried on the Wednesday following among the graves of his relations in the church of Great S. Helens in Bishopsgate-street in London. Soon after were published several elegies on his death, two of which I have seen: One was made by Joshua Barnes bach. of div. of Cambridge, which begins thus,

Can then a father of our Israel die
And none step forth to sound an elegy?

The other was made by his great admirer James Wright of the Middle Temple esq; the beginning of which also is this.

Goodness inspire me, while I write of one,
Who was all goodness; but alas! he’s gone.

^f [See article EDWARD WAPLE.]

THOMAS SYDENHAM, son of William Sydenham of Winford Eagle in Dorsetshire, esq; was born there, became a commoner of Magd. hall in Midsummer term, an. 1642, aged 18 years or thereabouts, left Oxon while it was a garrison for his majesty’s use, and did not bear arms for him as other scholars then and there did, went to London, fell accidentally into the company of a noted physician called Dr. Tho. Cox, who finding him to be a person of more than ordinary parts, encourag’d and put him into a method to study physic at his return to the university. After the said garrison was delivered to the parliament forces he retired again to Magd. hall, entred on the physic line, was actually created bachelor of that faculty in the Pembrokeian creation, in April 1648, having not before taken any degree in arts; and about that time subscribing and submitting to the authority of the visitors appointed by parliament, he was, thro’ the endeavours of a near relation, made by them fellow of Alls. coll. in the place of one of those many then ejected for their loyalty. After he had continued for some years there in the zealous prosecution of that faculty, he left the university without the taking of any other degree there; and at length settled in Westminster, became doctor of his faculty at Cambridge,⁹ an exact observer of diseases and their symptoms, famous for his practice, the chief physician from 1660 to 1670, and in his last days licentiat or permissus of the college of physicians. He was a person of a florid stile, of a generous and public spirit, very charitable, and was more famous, especially beyond the seas, for his published books, than before he had been for his practice, which was much lessened after the year 1670, when then he was laid up with the terrible disease of the gout. He was famous for his cool regimen in the small-pox, which his greatest adversaries have been since fore’d to take up and follow. He was also famous for his method of giving the bark after the paroxysm in agues, and for his laudanum. He hath written,

Methodus Curandi Febres propriis Observationibus superstructa, &c. cui etiam accessit Sectio quinta de Peste sive Morbo pestilentiali. Lond. 1668. oct. second edit. more large and corrected than the former, “which came out in 1666 in qu.”

Observationes Medicae circa Morborum acutorum Historiam & Curationem. Lond. 1676. 85, oct. with his picture before them. An account of these Observations are in the Philosophical Transactions. num. 123. p. 568, and a just character in Dr. William Cole’s epistle to our author, printed with Dissert. Epist. following.

Epistolæ responsoriæ duæ. Prima de Morbis epidemicis ab An. 1675. ad An. 1680. Written to Rob. Brady doct. of physic, master or head of Caius coll. in Cambridge, and the king’s professor of physic

[840]

⁹ [Tho. Sydenham, ex aula Pembr. Cant. med. doct. Cant. an. 1676. Reg. Acad. BAKER.]

there. Secunda de Luis Venereæ Historia & Curatione. Written to Henry Paman doctor of physic, fellow of S. John's college in Cambridge, public orator of that univ. and professor of phys. in Gresham coll. Both these epistles were printed at Lond. 1680. and 85. oct. with two short epistles set before them written by the said doctors, Brady and Paman, which our author answers.

Dissertatio Epistolaris ad Spectatiss. & doctiss. Virum Guliel. Cole M. D. de Observationibus nuperis circa Curationem Variolarum confluentiam, necnon de Affectione Hysterica. Lond. 1682. [Bodl. 8vo. K. 62. Med.] 85. oct. The three last books were reprinted at Amsterdam, 1683. oct. with several corrections in them. [Bodl. 8vo. D. 56. Med.]

Tractatus de Podagrâ & Hydropse. Lond. 1683. [Bodl. 8vo. K. 61. Med.] 85. oct. All which books were reprinted at Lond. 1685. with an useful index.

Schedula Monitoria de novæ Febris Ingressu, Lond. 1686. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. M. 182. Art.]

"Processus integri in Morbis ferè omnibus curandis. Lond. 1693, & 1695. oct.

"Graphica Symptomatum Delineatio una cum quamplurimis Observatione dignis.¹⁰

"De Phthisi, &c." This learned doctor died in his house in the Pall-mall in the suburbs of Westminster, on the 29th of Decemb. in sixteen hundred eighty and nine, and was buried in the south isle near to the south door of the church of S. James's there. He had an elder brother,* "sometime gent. com. of 1689.

[841]

* He had an elder brother named William Sydenham,¹ an active man in the rebellion against K. Ch. I. was a colonel of horse and foot, governor of Weymouth² and Melcombe Regis, and commander in chief in Dorsetshire; afterward one of O. Cromwell's council and a lord of his other house, had a great command in the isle of Wight, was one of the lords commissioners of the treasury, a great rumper, and one of the committee of safety, &c. First edit.

"Trin. coll. and afterwards, as I conceive, of one of the inns of court, in both which places he obtained education fit for a gent. of birth and descent, as he was; in the beginning of the grand rebellion, he became a captain³ of a troop of horse, in defence of the blessed cause, and in that quality, I find him a defendant in the garrison of Poole in his own country, against the royal party, an. 1643; at which time —earl of Craford a Scotchman dealt with him privately to obtain that garrison for the king's use, gave him a reward, with a promise of a greater, and preferment, when the matter was effected. At an hour therefore appointed, Craford came to the town with 500 horse and some foot; Sydenham and the governor, whom he acquainted with

"it, let Craford and half his men into the town, and then letting fall a chain, shut out the rest, whereupon they fell upon those that had entred, kill'd and took them prisoners. Afterwards Sydenham's name being highly cry'd up, and being also about that time a recruiter in the long parliament to serve for Melcomb in his own country, he became a major, went courageously on with the cause, was made governor, as I conceive, of Poole, and in a skirmish near that place with the royal party, he kill'd one major Williams that commanded them, who as he said had a little before killed his mother, and so satisfied himself with that act of revenge. In the latter end of the year 1644, I find him a colonel, and about that time governor of Melcomb Regis, and Weymouth as 'tis² said, and a chief commander in Dorsetshire, by which he augmented his revenue to some purpose. In 1653 he was member of the little parliament to serve for Dorsetshire, as he was for that parliament held 1654 and 56, was one of Oliver's privy council, one of his lords, and capt. governor of the isle of Wight, one of the lords commissioners of the treasury, one of Richard's lords, one of the council of state, after his deposition a great rumper, one of the committee of safety, &c."

"THOMAS HARLACKENDEN, son of Walter Harlackenden of Hollingbourne in Kent, esq; descended from an ancient and genteel family of his name living now, or lately, at Harlackenden in the parish of Woodchurch in the same country, became a commoner of Univ. coll. with his kinsman Tho. Culpeper, in the beginning of the year 1640, aged 15 years, continued there as long as he did, travelled beyond the seas, and returned with him. After his majesty's restoration he became a recruiter of that parliament which began at Westminster the 8th of May 1661, to serve for the borough of Maidstone in Kent, where running with the court-party to obtain his majesty's designs, had allowed to him a pension; which, as a libellous⁴ author saith, was his only livelihood. He hath written,

"Animadversions on general-material-Passages, written by Sir Nath. Powell, Bt. entit. A summary Relation of the past and present Condition of the upper Levels lying in the Counties of Kent and Sussex; together with a more exact Narration of the State of those Levels. Lond. 1663. qu. What other things he hath written I know not, torical Collections, Part iii, vol. 2. page 286. an. 1643, where he is called captain Francis Sydenham.]

² "Mystery of the Good Old Cause briefly unfolded, &c." Lond. 1660. oct. p. 30. 31."

³ "Mr. Blount's Oracles, p. 91."

⁴ The author of A seasonable Argument to persuade all the Grand Juries in England to Petition for a new Parliament: Or, a List of the Principal Labourers in the great Designs of Popery and Arbitrary Power, &c. printed 1677 in qu. p. 11.

¹⁰ [Processus Integri in Morbis ferè omnibus curandis, a Do Thoma Sydenham, M. D. conscripti. Quibus accessit graphica Symptomatum Delineatio. Lond. 1693, 8vo. Bodl. 8vo. N. 64. Med.]

¹ [See an account of the whole affair in Rushworth, His-

1689. "nor any thing else of him, only that he dying in sixteen hundred eighty and nine, was buried in the church of Woodchurch beforementioned among the graves of his ancestors."

[842]

HENRY HURST, a late noted preacher of the nonconformist's party, son of Henry Hurst sometime vicar of Mickleton in Gloucestershire, was born there, entred a batler of Magd. hall after the surrender of the garrison of Oxon to the parliament forces; and being puritannically educated from his childhood, he submitted to the power of the visitors when they came to reform, or rather deform, the university, an. 1648. In the latter end of the next year he was made by them probationer-fellow of Mert. coll. where, as in the public schools, he shew'd himself a quick, dexterous and smart disputant. After he had taken the degrees in arts, he became a frequent preacher in these parts (without any orders from a bishop) especially in the church or chappel of S. Cross at Halywell in the suburbs of Oxon, where he was much frequented by those of his persuasion, and sometimes by others too, for his edifying way of preaching. Much about the time of his majesty's restoration he left the college and preached in London with the good approbation of those of his party. So that upon the vacancy of the church of S. Matthew in Friday-street in London, he was, by the majority of the parishioners votes, elected the rector thereof.^s In 1662 he was ejected at Bartholomew-tide for nonconformity; whereupon taking all opportunities, he preached in conventicles, for which he was sometimes brought into trouble. In the latter end of the year 1671, when then an indulgence of liberty was granted to nonconformists, he preached openly in London and sometimes at his native place, where those of his party would usually say that the gospel was then come among them: But that indulgence being soon after annull'd upon the petition of the parliament made to his majesty, he return'd to his customary preaching in private, and about 1675 his preaching being much admired by Eliz. countess of Anglesey, he was taken into the service of her family, and made chaplain to her lord; with whom he continued several years. Upon the breaking out of the popish plot in September 1678 he shewed himself very active in aggravating the concerns thereof, in his preachments and common discourses: and it was usual with him to vent his mind in conventicles (not without some passion) many things savouring of treason. But when the fanatical, which was generally call'd the presbyterian, plot broke out in June 1683 he skulk'd, being closely sought after, and was several times in danger of being brought into trouble. When king James II. came to the crown, and another indulgence was soon after allowed, he preached openly again, and continued his lectures in and near London to the time of his death. His works are these.

Several serm. as (1) The Inability of the highest Improved natural Man to attain a sufficient and right Knowledge of indwelling Sin, discovered in three Sermons preached at S. Mary's in Oxford, all on Rom. 7. latter Part of the 7th Ver. Oxon. 1659. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. H. 13. Th. Seld.] The running title on the top of every page is The natural Man's Blindness. In an epistle to the reader set before them (which cut the very sinews, as 'tis said, of Pelagius and Socinus in some of their doctrines) written by one of the author's persuasion named Hen. Wilkinson D. D. prin. of Magd. hall, is this character given of the author, viz. that he was sufficiently known to him and many others to be a godly, learned, and orthodox divine, and that through his modesty, and low opinion of himself, did deny, for a long time, his consent to the making of those sermons of public use, &c. (2) Whether well composed religious Votes do not exceedingly promote Religion? on Psal. 116. 12. and 14.—This is the thirteenth sermon in The Morning Exercise at Cripplegate, preached in Septemb. 1661—Lond. 1661. qu. (3) Kings and Emperors not rightful Subjects to the Pope; on Acts 26. 2.—This is the third sermon in The Morning Exercise against Popery, preached by nonconformists in conventicles in Southwark—Lond. 1675. qu. (4) The faithful and diligent Servant of the Lord, a Funeral Discourse on the Death of Mr. Tho. Cawton; on Luke 12. 43. Lond. 1677. qu. (5) How we may best cure the Love of being flattered? on Prov. 26. 28. in the continuation of The Morning Exercise, 1682. (6) How we may enquire after News, not as Athenians, but as Christians, for the better managing our Prayers and Praises for the Church of God? on Acts 17. 21.—Preached in oct. 1689. [Lond. 1690, Bodl. C. 2. 30. Line. page 400. of the fourth vol. of Casuistical Morning Exercise.]

The Revival of Grace, in the Vigour and Frangency of it, by a due Application of the Blood of Christ, as a Sacrifice, a Testator, and bearing a Curse for us; particularly each for the exciting and encreasing the Graces of the believing Communicant. Lond. 1678. octavo. [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 98. Th.] Dedicated to his patron Arthur earl of Anglesey.

Annotations upon Ezekiel and the twelve lesser Prophets—In continuation of Mr. Pool's Annotations of the holy Scripture. At length this learned and religious nonconformist preaching in a conventicle or meeting-house in, or near, Covent-Garden within the liberty of Westminster, on a Lord's day April 13, was taken with an apoplectical fit: whereupon being conveyed to a goldsmith's house adjoining, expired the next day, ascending, as 'twere, from the pulpit to the throne, in sixteen hundred and ninety, aged 61, or thereabouts. Afterwards his body was buried in the yard (near the sun-dial within the railles) belonging to the church of S. Paul within the said Covent Garden (wherein he before had buried three of his children) at which time Richard Adams master of arts sometime fellow of Brasen-n. college (a nonconformist divine) preached his funeral sermon. Which being extant the reader may see more of the person at the latter end thereof p. 21, 22, &c.

[843]

^s [Hen. Hurst A. M. admiss. ad ecel. S. Mathei Friday-street, Lond. 11 Mar. 1660, ex coll. episc. Lond.

Edw. Wakeman cler. ad eand. admiss. 28 Aug. 1660, per inform. Henrici Hurst. Reg. KENNET.]

ABRAHAM WRIGHT, son of Rich. Wright citizen and silk dyer of London, son of Jeff. Wright of Longborough in Leicestershire, was born in Blackswan-alley in Thames-street in the parish of S. James Garlickhith, in London, on the 23d of Decemb. 1611, educated in grammar learning partly in Mercers-Chappel school in Cheapside, but mostly in Merchant-Taylor's school under Dr. Nich. Grey, elected scholar of S. John's coll. an. 1629 by the endeavours of Dr. Juxon president there, who finding him to be a good orator, especially in proper and due pronounciation (which in his elderly years he retained in his sermons and public offices) favoured him then and afterwards in his studies. In 1632 he was elected fellow, and having then a genie which enclined him to poetry and rhetoric, did, while bach. of arts, make his collection of Delitiæ Poetarum, being then esteemed also an exact master of the Latin tongue, even to the nicest criticism. On the 30th of Aug. 1636, at which time Dr. Laud archb. of Canterbury entertained the king and queen at S. John's coll. he spoke an English speech before them when they entred into the library to see, and he entertained in, it at a dinner; and after dinner he was one of the principal persons that acted in the comedy called Love's Hospital, or The Hospital of Lovers, presented before their majesty's in the public refectory of that house. The chief actor was the author Mr. George Wilde, and the others, who were all of that house, were John Goad, Humphry Brook (now one of the coll. of physicians) Edmond Gayton, John Hyfield, &c. On the 24th of September 1637, our author Wright took holy orders from Dr. Francis White bishop of Ely in the chappel at Ely-House in Holbourn near London, and on the 22d of December 1639 he was ordained priest by Dr. Bancroft bishop of Oxon in Ch. Ch. cathedral; at which time he preached the sermon, which was afterwards printed with 4 more; And it being then well approved, and thereupon he accounted an elegant preacher, was the reason why he did frequently appear in S. Mary's pulpit in Oxon, before the city of London at S. Paul's, and before king Charles I. when he resided in Oxon, in the time of the grand rebellion. In 1643 he took to him a wife from Yarnnton near Oxon, and in Aug. 1645 he became vicar of Okeham in Rutlandshire, by the favour of Dr. Juxon bishop of London, and thereupon received institution from Dr. Towers bishop of Peterborough; but as for induction he altogether refused, because he was then to have taken the covenant; so one Benjamin King a parliamenteer was put into that vicaridge. Afterwards Mr. Wright went to London and resided there in a retired condition till after the decollation of king Charles I. About that time sir George Grime or Graham of Peckham near Camberwell in Surrey gave him entertainment in his house: and because he would not be idle, he instructed sir George's son in Latin and Greek learning, read the common-prayer on all sundays and holydays, and on principal feasts he preached and administred the sacraments. About 1655 he was prevailed with to leave Peckham and to live in London, where he was chosen by the parishioners of S. Olave in Silver-street to be their minister and to receive the profits of that little parish, of which he was in effect the rector, tho' formally to take actual possession of the living he would not, (as his nearest relation hath told me) because he would avoid oaths and obligations. This employment he kept four years, and preached constantly twice every Sunday, once there, and once in some other church, baptized and buried according to the common-prayer (as the relator adds) and gave the sacrament according to the liturgy of the church of England: whereupon being esteemed one of the cavalier ministers of London, as Dr. J. Hewit, Dr. J. Pearson, &c. were, had his share in troubles and was once or more examined for keeping intelligence with the loyal party. About our Lady-day in 1659 he left S. Olave's church, to prevent new impositions and engagements then offer'd to such as were in any public ministry, and applyed himself to his private studies. After his majesty's restoration, Benj. King before-mention'd did by his hand and seal, 2 Aug. 1660, resign up all his title and pretensions to Okeham, whereupon he returned in Oct. following and had peaceable possession delivered to him of the church there. A little before he had left London to go to Okeham, he was offer'd to be chaplain to the queen of Bohemia only sister to king Charles II. but he waved that honour and went to Okeham. He was a person of open and profess'd affections for conformity and no favourer of sectaries and their conventicles, and therefore not belov'd by the dissenters of his parish, which was always full of them. His life and conversation was sober and reserv'd, was a man very charitable to widows and fatherless children, and gave money to them and others, amounting to the twentieth part of the true value of his living. His works as to learning, are these,

Delitiæ Delitiarum, sive Epigrammatum ex optimis quibusque hujus novissimi Seculi Poetis in amplissima illa Bib. Bodleiana, & pene omnino alibi extantibus ἀνθολογία in unum Corollum connexa. Oxon. 1637. in tw. [Bodl. 8vo. F. 56. Art.]

Five Sermons in five several Stiles or Ways of Preaching. The first in Bishop Andrews's Way, before the late King upon the first day of Lent.

The second in Bishop Hall's Way, before the Clergy, at the Author's own Ordination in Ch. Ch. in Oxon. The third in Dr. Mayne's and Mr. Cartwright's Way, before the University at S. Mary's in Oxford. The fourth in the Presbyterian Way, before the City at S. Paul's in London, and the fifth in the Independent Way, never preach'd. Lond. 1656. oct. The first is on Matth. 9. 15. (2) On Deut. 33. 8. (3) On Cant. 2. 2. (4) On Luke 16. 9. (5) Luke 9. 23. The chief end in printing these sermons, was first to shew the difference between the university and city breeding up of preachers, and to let the people know that any one that hath been bred a scholar is able to preach any way to the capacity and content of an auditory. And secondly that none can do this, but they only that have had such education: yet notwithstanding, ordinary capacities are more taken with cloak and lay-men's preaching, than that of the gown.

A practical Commentary or Exposition upon the Book of Psalms, wherein the Text of every Psalm is practically expounded according to the Doctrine of the Cath. Church, in a Way not usually trod by Commentators; and wholly applyed to the Life and Salvation of Christians. Lond. 1667. fol. &c.

Practical Commentary upon the Pentateuch or five Books of Moses. Lond. fol. He also made a collection of poems, which he entit.

Parnassus biceps. Or several choice Pieces of Poetry, composed by the best Wits that were in both the Universities before their Dissolution. Lond. 1656. oct. The epistle before them in the behalf of those then doubly secluded and sequestred members, was written by the collector Wright, and those verses of his composition in the said book are in p. 1. 54. 121. 122. 126 and 128. He hath also compleated other books, which are not yet printed, as (1) A comical Entertainment called The Reformation, presented before the university at S. John's coll. Written while he was an under-graduate. (2) Novissima Straffordii: sive Quæstio Straffordiana, prout à Parlamento exercebatur. 'Tis a narrative of Tho. earl of Strafford's tryal, written in pure Latin and stile of Tacitus. (3) Several Sermons, besides an imperfect collection towards the compleating A practical Commentary on the other Parts of the Bible, besides what he had already done, some books whereof are finished. This Mr. Wright, who refused, for quietness and solitude sake, several preferments in the church after his majesty's restoration, departed this mortal life in a good old age on Friday the ninth of May in sixteen hundred and ninety, and was, on the Sunday following, buried in the church at Okeham before-mentioned. He left behind him a son named James Wright born at Yarnton near to, and in the county of, Oxon, in the house of James Stone, father to his mother Jane, entred in 1666 (without being educated in any univ.) into the society of New inn near London; from whence he removed three years after to the Middle Temple, where, at the end of the usual time of study, he was called to the bar. This person hath written and published, "A compendious View of the late Tumults and Troubles in this Kingdom (England) by Way of Annals for 7 Years, &c." Lond. 1685. oct." The History and Antiquities of the County of Rutland, collected from Records, ancient Manuscripts, Monuments on the Place and other Authorities, illustrated with Sculpture. Lond. 1684. in a thin fol. To which was put an Addition—Lond. 1687 in 2 sh. and an half in fol.⁶ "He hath also translated from Latin into English and epitomized, Monasticum Anglicanum: or the History of the ancient Abbies, and other Monasteries, Hospitals, Cath. and Collegiate Churches in England and Wales, &c." Lond. 1693. fol. collected by Rog. Dodsworth and Will. Dugdale in three vol. and by Wright epitomized "in one." He hath also published little trivial things of history and poetry,⁷ meerly to get a little money, which he will not own.

[Add to Abraham Wright

Sales Epigrammatum, being the choicest Distichs of Martiall's fourteen Books of Epigrams, and of all the chief Latin Poets that have writ in these two last Centuries together with Cato's Morality made English. Lond. 1663, 12mo. RAWLINSON.

See some English lines by him in Flos Britannicus Veris novissimi Filiola Carolo et Maria nata xvii Martii Anno 1636. Oxon. 1636, 4to.]

THEODORE HAAK was born at Newhausen

⁶ [Farther Additions to the History and Antiquities of the County of Rutland. By the same Author. Lond. 1714. fol. See a very compleat copy of the whole work, which, when perfect in the three parts, is very rare, Bodl. H. 9. 14. Art.]

⁷ [Wright was by no means a despicable antiquary, and he was a tolerable poet. The following may be added to his productions:

A new Description of the City of Paris, in two Parts; out of French. Lond. 1687. 8vo.

Historia Histrionica: An historical Account of the English Stage, shewing the ancient Use, Improvement, and Perfection of dramattick Representations, in this Nation. In a Dialogue of Plays and Players. Lond. 1699, 4to. very scarce.

A Poem, being an Essay on the present Ruins in St. Paul's Cathedral. Lond. 1668, 4to.

The Choir, the Rebuilding of St. Paul's Cathedral. Lond. 1697, fol.

Phoenix Paulina: a Poem on the new Falrick of St. Paul's Cathedral. Lond. 1709, 4to.

Burley on the Hill, a Poem, Dedicated to the right honourable the Earl of Nottingham. 4to. no place or date.

Verses anniversary to the venerable Memory of his ever honoured Father. Lond. 1690. 8vo.

Country Conversations, being an Account of some Discourses that happened in a Visit to the Country last Summer, on divers Subjects: chiefly, Of modern Comedies, of Drinking, of translated Verse, of Painting and Painters, of Poets and Poetry. Lond. 1694. 12mo.

Several of his letters to Hearne, written in a very kind and friendly strain, are preserved, among the correspondence of that antiquary, in the Bodleian.]

near Wormes in the Palatinate, on the day of S. James S. V. an. 1605, educated in grammar, and in the reform'd religion in those parts, travelled into England in 1625, retired to Oxon about the beginning of Aug. the same year, while the two houses of parliament were sitting there, continued half an year in obtaining academical learning, and afterwards at Cambridge as much. Thence he went and visited several cities and recesses of the muses beyond the seas, returned in 1629, became a commoner of Gloucester hall, continued there near three years, but took no degree, and soon after was made a deacon by Dr. Jos. Hall bishop of Exeter. In the time of the German wars he was appointed one of the procurators to receive the benevolence money which was raised in several diocesses in England to be transmitted to Germany, which he usually said was a deacon's work, and when the wars broke out in this nation he seemed to favour the interest of parliament, having been always calvinistically educated. The prince elector did afterwards kindly invite him to be his secretary, but he, loving solitude, declined that employment, as he did the residentship at London for the city of Hamburgh, and for Fred. III. king of Denmark, &c. The reader may be pleased now to understand that when the synod of Dort was celebrated in 1618, care was then taken that the most learned and pious divines of the United Provinces should make a new and accurate translation of the BIBLE, and annotations to be put thereunto: In which work they were assisted by many eminent and able divines from most of the reformed churches, and particularly from England by Dr. Geo. Carleton bishop of Chichester, Dr. Jo. Davenant B. of Sarum, Dr. Hall B. of Exon. Dr. Sam. Ward of Cambr. &c. by whose great and assiduous labours, jointly for many years together, the said annotations were compleated, and came forth in print first, an. 1637. These annotations, I say, commonly called the Dutch annotations, being thought very fit, and of great use, by the assembly of divines sitting at Westm. to be translated into English by the hand of Th. Haak, it was ordered and ordained by the lords and commons assembled in parl. 30 of March 1648, for the encouragement of the said undertaker Theod. Haak, that he, or whom he should assign, should have the privilege of printing and vending the said annotations for the space of 14 years: which term should begin from the time of the first impression. So that none else, under what pretence soever, should be permitted to intermeddle in printing the whole, or any part thereof, upon the pain of forfeiting a thousand pounds to the said Theod. Haak, &c. Afterwards the work going forward, and the whole Englished by Haak, it came out with this title The Dutch Annotations upon the whole Bible, together with their Translation according to the Direction of the Synod of Dort, 1618. Lond. 1657. in two vol. in fol. Before which, is an exact narrative touching the work, and the said translation. Besides the translation of this great work, Mr. Haak hath translated into High Dutch several English books of practical divinity, as (1) Of the Deceitfulness of Man's Heart, written by Dan. Dyke. (2) The Christian's daily Walk, &c. written by Hen. Scudder. (3) The old Pilgrim, being the Hist. of the Bible, written by Anon. but not yet printed, as other translations, which he had made, are not. He also translated into High Dutch in blank verse, half the poem called Paradise Lost, written by Joh. Milton; which coming into the hands of J. Seobald. Fabricius the famous divine at Heidelberg, he was so much taken with it, that in a letter sent to the translator he tells him — 'incredibile est quantum nos omnes afficerit gravitas stili & copia lectissimorum verborum,' &c. He also made ready for the press before his death about 3000 proverbs out of the Germ. into the English tongue, and as many into the Germ. from the language of the Spaniard, who are famous for wise sayings and had most part of them from the Arabians. This Mr. Haak, who was several years fellow of the royal society, hath observations and letters in the Philosophical Collections, which were published in the beginning of May 1682, and perhaps in the Transactions, Quære. At length this virtuous and learned person departing this mortal life in the house of his kinsman Fred. Slare or Slear. M. D. situate and being in an alley joyning to Fetter-lane, on Sunday the ninth day of May. in sixteen hundred and ninety, was buried three days after in a vault under the chancel of S. Andrew's church in Holbourn near London: At which time Dr. Anth. Horneck, a German, preached his funeral sermon, wherein were delivered several remarks of Mr. Haak's life; but that sermon being not yet extant, I cannot therefore refer you to it. Among the many great and learned acquaintance which Mr. Haak had, were prince Rupert, Dr. Usher primate of Ireland, Dr. Williams archb. of York, Joh. Selden, Dr. Hall bishop of Exeter, Dr. Prideaux B. of Wore. Dr. Walton B. of Chester, Dr. Wilkins B. of the same place, Briggs and Pell mathematicians, Dr. W. Alabaster the poet (whose manuscript called Elisæus he had by him, and kept it as a choice relique of his deceased friend to the time of his death) sir Will. Boswell ambassador at the Hague, who encouraged him to keep and continue his correspondence with the learned Merseanus,⁸ and others of later time.

JOHN RUSHWORTH was born of genteel parents in the county of Northumberland, educated for a time in this university in the latter end of the reign of king Jam. I. but left it soon after without being matriculated, and retiring to London, he entered himself a student in Lincolns-inn, of which he became a barrister. But his geny then leading him more to state affairs than the common law, he began early to take in characters speeches and passages at conferences in parliament and from the king's own mouth what he spake to both houses, and was upon the stage continually an eye and an ear witness of the greatest transactions. He did also personally attend and observe all occurrences of moment during the eleven years interval of parliament, in the star-chamber, court of honour and exchequer chamber, when all the judges of England met there upon extraordinary cases; and at the council table when great causes were tried before the king and council. Afterwards when matters were agitated at a great distance, he was there also, and went on purpose, out of curiosity, to see and observe the passages at the camp at Berwick, at the fight at Newborne upon Tyne, with the Scots at the treaty at Rippon and at the great council at York, an. 1640. Soon after, when that parliament called the long parliament began, which was on the 3d of Nov. the same year, he was chosen an assistant to Hen. Elsing clerk of the commons house, by which means he was privy afterwards to all circumstances in their proceedings: And both houses having confidence in, they sent their addresses by, him to the king then at York, being forced thither by their violent proceedings: And it so fell out that he rode several times with that expedition between London and that city, which is 150 miles, that he performed the journey in 24 hours. In 1643 he took the covenant, and was a great man among the presbyterians; and being near of kin to sir Thomas Fairfax (for his father and mother were natives of Yorkshire of antient extract) he became secretary to him when he was made generalissimo of the parliament forces; in which office he obtained, or at least might have so done, what wealth he pleased, which might, had he husbanded it well, have supported his necessities in his last days. In 1646, when the garrison of Oxon was besieged by the said generalissimo, his help was sometimes required, and when the treaty for the delivery of it up for the use of the parliament was in agitation, he was often posting to London upon inter-messages and fatigues, till it was concluded. In 1649 he attended his master (then lord Fairfax) with several great officers of note to the university of Oxon, where being all splendidly entertained by the then chief members thereof of the presbyterian and independent persuasion, he was actually created master of arts, and at the same time, he, as a member of Queen's coll. was made one of the delegates to take into consideration the affairs then depending between the citizens of Oxon, and members of the said university. After his lord had laid down his commission as general, he took up his quarters for some time in Linc. inn, and being in great esteem by the men of those times, he was in January 1651 constituted one of the committee to consult about the reformation of the common law. In 1658 he was chosen a burgess for Berwick upon Tweed, (near to which place he had received his first breath)

⁸ [Pere Mersenne. COLE.]

[847]

to serve in that parliament called Richard's parl. which began at Westm. 27 Jan. the same year, and again for the same place for that which commenced 25th of Apr. 1660, but for that which began in May 1661 he was not. In Sept. 1667, at which time sir Orl. Bridgman was made lord keeper of the great seal, he was by him made his secretary, and continuing in that office so long as his lord kept his, he was then again in a capacity of enriching himself, or at least to lay up something for a wet day. Afterwards when the popish plot broke out and the presbyterians and other discontented people began to be dominant, he was elected burgess for the same place to serve in that parl. which began 6 Mar. 1678, as he was afterwards for that which commenced 17 Oct. 1679, and for the Oxford parl. that followed; he being then, as always before, esteemed no great friend to the church of England and prelacy. After the dissolution of Oxford parliament, he lived very retiredly and obscurely within the city of Westminster; but at length being committed prisoner for debt to the Kings-hench, he finished his course there, as I shall anon tell you. His works are these,

Historical Collections of private Passages of State, weighty Matters in Law and remarkable Proceedings in five Parliaments. Beginning the 16th Year of K. James, An. 1618, and ending the fifth Year of K. Charles, An. 1629, digested in order of Time. Lond. 1659. fol. There again by stealth, bearing the same date, an. 1675. When the author was fitting this book for the press he made use of certain manuscripts in the hands of Bulstr. Whitlock one of Oliver's lords, and when it was finished he presented it to the view of Oliver himself, but he having no leisure to peruse it, he appointed the said Whitlock to do it Jan. 1657, and accordingly running it over more than once, he made some alterations in, and additions to, it. After it was finished at the press, he dedicated the book to Richard Cromwel then lord protector.⁹

[848]

Historical Collections. The second Part, containing the principal Matters which hapned from the Dissolution of the Parl. on the 16th of Mar. 4 Car. 1. 1629, untill the Summoning of the other Parliam. which met at Westm. 13 Apr. 1640, with an Account of the Proceedings of that Parl. and the Transactions and Affairs from that Time, untill the Meeting of another Parl. on the 3d of Nov. following. With some remarkable Passages therein, during the first six Months, &c. Lond. 1680. in two vol. in fol. At the end of the last is a large appendix, containing star-chamber reports, for the years 1625, 26, 27, and 1628, articles of peace, entercourses and commerce, with several other things.

The Tryal of Thomas Earl of Strafford, L. Lieutenant of Ireland, upon an Impachment of

⁹ [This dedication is never found except with the very early copies, for Rushworth cancelled it at the restoration. See it in the Bodleian copy, and in another at St. John's college.]

High Treason by the Commons assembled in Parliament, in the name of Themselves and all the Commons of England: begun in Westm. Hall 20 Mar. 1640, and continued before Judgment was given until the 10th of May 1641, &c. Lond. 1680. fol. To which is added a short account of some other matters of fact transacted in both houses of parl. precedent, concomitant, and subsequent to the said tryal, with some special arguments in law relating to a bill of attainder.—But the publisher of the said collections, having, as 'tis said, concealed truth, endeavoured to vindicate the then prevailing distractions of the late times, as well as their barbarous actions, and with a kind of rebound to libel the government at second hand: it pleased Joh. Nalson LL. D. of Cambridge to publish in vindication of the real truth An impartial Collection of the great Affairs of State; from the beginning of the Scotch Rebellion, an. 1639, to the Murther of K. Ch. I. &c. Printed at Lond. in two vol. in fol. The first extending to the end of 1641, was printed an. 1682, and the other to the said murther, an. 1683; both published by his maj. special command, &c. Afterwards were Reflections made on the said Impartial Collection by Rog. Coke, esq; a descendant from sir Edw. Coke the great lawyer, printed with his Treatise of the Life of Man, &c. Lond. 1685. fol. This Dr. Nalson, who was an eminent historian, and otherwise well qualified, hath written besides the former volumes, (1) The Countermine: or, a short, but true Discovery of the dangerous Principles, and secret Practices of the dissenting Party, especially the Presbyterians: shewing that Religion is pretended, but Rebellion is intended. And, &c. Lond. 1677. oct. &c. (2) The common Interest of King and People, shewing the Original, Antiquity and Excellency of Monarchy compared with Aristocracy and Democracy, and particularly of our English Monarchy: and that Absolute, Papal and Presbyterian Popular Supremacy are utterly inconsistent with Prerogative, Property and Liberty. Lond. 1678. oct. (3) A true Copy of the Journal of the High Court of Justice, for the Tryal of K. Ch. I. as it was read in the H. of Commons, and attested under the Hand of Phelps, Clerk to that infamous Court. Lond. 1684. fol. With a large introduction by the said Nalson. He hath also translated into English, The History of the Crusade; or, the Expeditions of the Christian Princes for the Conquest of the Holy Land. Lond. 1685. fol. Written originally in French by the fam'd monsieur Maimbourgh. What other things he hath written or translated I know not as yet, or any thing else of him,¹ only that he died at, or near, the city of Ely on the 19th of March, or thereabouts (according to the English account) an. 1685. to the great loss of the true sons of the church of England, of which he had been a zealous member. Our author Rushworth hath also written,

¹ [Nalson was rector of Dodington and prebendary of Ely. He died March 24, 1685-6, and was buried in Ely cathedral, where is a large inscription, which may be seen in Willis's Cathedrals, page 388. See also Bentham's Hist. of Ely, p. 262. See a letter from Dr. Nalson to Mrs. N. on the imprisonment of the bishops, dat. June 14, 1688, in Gutch's Collectanea Curiosa, i, 360. She afterwards married John Cremer gent. and died 1717. Append. to Bentham, p. 49.]

"Historical Collections the 3d Part, Vol. 2. containing the principal Matters which hapned from the Meeting of the Parliament 3 Nov. 1640, to the End of 1644, &c. Lond. 1692. fol."

The History of the Civil War of England—This which is the fifth vol. is in MS. and not yet published.²

[849]

Several Letters to the Parliament, and to particular Members thereof—These he wrote while the war continued, and were subscribed by himself and not by gen. Fairfax as the printed copies shew. What other books he hath written I know not, nor any thing else of him, only that he spent the six last years (or thereabouts) of his life in the prison called the King's bench in Southwark, where being reduced to his second childship, for his memory was quite decayed by taking too much brandy to keep up his spirits, he quietly gave up the ghost in his lodging in a certain alley there, called Rules Court, on Monday the twelfth of May in sixteen hundred and ninety, aged 83 years or thereabouts. Whereupon his body was buried on Wednesday following, behind the pulpit, in the church of S. George within the said borough of Southwark.

He had * several daughters, * No son, only daughters. First edit. virtuous women, of which one was married to sir Franc. Vane of the north.

1690.

HENRY WILKINSON junior, commonly called Dean Harry, son of Will. Wilk. of Adwick, or Adwick-street in the west riding of Yorkshire, priest; was born there, an. 1616, instructed mostly in grammar learning in Edw. Silvester's school in Allsaints parish within the city of Oxon, entred a commoner of Magd. hall in 1631, took the degrees in arts, entred into holy orders, and became a noted tutor in, and moderator or dean of, his house. At length upon the eruption of the civil war in 1642, he left the university, adher'd to the parliament party, took the covenant and became a forward and frequent preacher among them. After the garrison of Oxon was surrendered to the parliament forces, he returned to the university, and by the authority of the then dominant party he was created bach. of divinity, made principal of his hall and moral philosophy reader of the university. Afterwards we find him one of the most frequent and active preachers among the presbyterians in the university, whether at S. Mary's, S. Martins' commonly called Carfax, S. Pet. in the East, &c. being then doct. of divinity, and took all the ways imaginable to make his house flourish with young students. At length the act of conformity being published in 1662, he, rather than conform, left his principality (tho' persuaded to the contrary by some of the heads of the university, purposely to keep him there, because he was a good disciplinarian) and lived for some time in these parts. Afterwards, upon the receipt of a call, he lived by the help of the brethren at Buckminster in Leicestershire, where he exercised his gifts in conventicles, as he did afterwards at Gosfield in Essex, and in 1673 and after, at Sybill-Henningham near to that place, and at length at Great Connard near Sudbury in Suffolk; at which last place he finished this mortal life, as I shall tell you by and by, having before suffered by imprisonments, mulets and loss of his goods and books for preaching in conventicles against the act. He was a zealous person in the way he professed, but oversway'd more by the principles of education than reason. He was very courteous in speech and carriage, communicative of his knowledge, generous, and charitable to the poor; and so public spirited (a rare thing in a presbyterian) that he always minded the common good, more than his own concerns. His works as to learning are these, Conciones tres apud Academicos Oxonii nuper habita. Oxon. 1654. oct. The first is on Psal. 119. 9. The second on Eccles. 2. 1. and the third on 1 Pet. 4. 11.

² [Historical Collections the fourth and last Part in two Volumes: Containing the principal Matters which happened from the Beginning of the Year 1645, to the Death of King Charles the First 1648. Wherein is a particular Account of the Progress of the Civil War to that Period, impartially related. Setting forth only Matter of Fact in Order of Time, without Observation or Reflection. London, 1701, fol. with portrait of the author by R. White: reprinted, as were all the other volumes, in 1721.]

Brevis Tractatus de Jure divino Dicit Dominici. Lond. 1654. 58. oct.

Conciones sex ad Academicos Oxonienses. Lond. 1658. oct. Among which are the former three.

De Impotentia liberi Arbitrii ad Bonum spirituale. } Oxon. 1658. oct.
Epistolarum Decas. } Print. with Conc.
Oratio habita in Schola moralis Philosophiæ. } Sex.

Conc. duæ ap. Ox. nuper habita. Lond. 1659. oct. Both on 1 Cor. 16. 22.

Concio de Brevitate opportuni Temporis Oxon. habita ad Bac. Die Cinerum, 7 Mar. 1659. Lond. 1660. qu. preached on 1 Cor. 7. 29.

Several English sermons, as (1) Sermon at Haseley in the County of Oxon, at the Funeral of Margaret, late Wife of Dr. Edw. Corbet Pastor of Haseley; on Col. 1. 27. Ox. 1657. oct. (2) Three Decads of Sermons lately preached to the University in S. Mary's Ch. in Oxon. Ox. 1660. qu. (3) Several Sermons concerning God's All-sufficiency, and Christ's Preciousness. Lond. 1681. oct. &c.

Catalogus Librorum in Bibl. Aul. Magd. Oxon. Ox. 1661. oct.

The Doctrine of Contentment briefly explained, and practically applied in a Treatise on 1 Tim. 6. 8. Lond. 1671. oct.

Characters of a sincere Heart, and the Comforts thereof, collected out of the Word of God. Lond. 1674. oct.

Two Treatises concerning (1) God's All-Sufficiency. (2) Christ's Preciousness. Being the Substance of some Sermons long since preached in the Univ. of Ox. Lond. 1681. oct. These two treatises are the same with the Several Sermons before-mention'd, with some alterations in, and additions to, them, purposely to please his friend and favourer (one of his persuasion) called Joh. Clark of S. Edm. Bury esq; by a dedication to him, set before them.

Praelectiones Morales. MS. in Magd. hall library. They are his lectures that he read in the moral philosophy school while he was public reader of that lecture. At length, after the latter part of the life of this zealous theologian had been spent in trouble and adversity for the cause he professed, he very devoutly surrendered up his soul to God at Great Connard before-mention'd, on the 13th day of May in sixteen hundred and ninety: whereupon his body being conveyed to Mildin or Milding near Lavenham in Suffolk, by very many persons of his persuasion, and by some others too, was buried in the church there on the 15th day of the same month.³ Soon after was a stone laid over his grave, with a short inscription thereon.

1690.

"THOMAS BAKER, son of James Baker of "Ilton in Somersetshire (steward or bailiff, as I "have heard, to the loyal family of the Strangwaies "of Dorsetshire,) was born in Somersetshire, at "Ilton I think, became a batler of Magd. hall in "the beginning of the year 1640, aged 15 years or "thereabouts, where he received a puritanical edu- "cation, elected scholar of Wadham coll. 27 Apr. "1645, did some little petite service for his maj. "within the garrison of Oxon, was admitted bach. "of arts on the 10th of Apr. 1647, left the coll. "without compleating that degree by determination, "and was neither chaplain or fellow of the same "house, as some of his antient acquaintance have "informed me that he was. Afterwards thro' some "little employments he became minister of Bishop's "Nympton (Nymet Episcopi) in Devonshire, "where he lived many years in a most retired and "studious condition in carrying on his profound "knowledge in the mathematical faculty, yet not "known, nor valued in the neighbourhood for his "great knowledge, till this book was by him pub- "lished, viz.

"The Geometrical Key: or, the Gate of Equations unlock'd; or, a new Discovery of the Construction of all Equations, howsoever affected, not exceeding the fourth Degree, viz. of Linears, ³ [In Great Milton church in Oxfordshire.

The Memory of the Just is blessed.

Sacred to the glory of God and to the blessed Memory of that eminent Servant of Jesus Christ, Mrs. Elizabeth Wilkinson, late wife to Dr. Henry Wilkinson, Principal of Magdalen Hall in Oxford. Dec. 8, 1654, of her age 41. KENNET.]

1690.

[851]

"Quadratics, Cubics, Biquadratics, and the Finding of all their Roots, as well false as true, without the Use of Mesolabe, Trisection of Angles, without Reduction, Depression, or any other previous Preparations of Equations, by a Circle, and any (and that one only) Parabole, &c. Lond. 1684. qu. in Lat. and English. A laudable account of this book is in the Philosophical Transactions, numb. 154. Mar. 20. an. 1683. Mr. Baker died at Bishop's Nympton on Thursday the fifth of June in sixteen hundred and ninety, and was buried in the church there. A little before his death, the members of the royal society sent him some mathematical queries: to which he returned so satisfactory an answer, that they gave him a medal with an inscription full of respect. What the queries were I know not: sure I am that he kept the medal by him as a great honour to the time of his death; and now it is kept by his son Mr. Jam. Baker beneficed in Somerseshire. There was one Thomas Baker late rector of St. Mary the Mere in Exeter, who printed a sermon⁴ entit. The Spiritual Nursery deciphered; on 1 Pet. 2. 2. Lond. 1651. qu."

EZEKIEL HOPKINS, son of the curate of Sandford, a chapel of ease to Crediton, in Devonshire, was born there, became a chorister of Magd. coll. 1649, aged 16 years or thereabouts, usher of the school adjoining when bach. of arts, chaplain of the said coll. when master, and would have been elected fellow, had his county been eligible, in all which time he lived and was educated under presbyterian and independent discipline. About the time of his majesty's restoration he became assistant to Dr. Will. Spurstow minister of Hackney near London, with whom he continued till the act of conformity was published; at which time being noted for his fluent and ready preaching, some of the parishioners of S. Matthew Friday-street in London would have chosen him to be their rector, but Mr. Henr. Hurst another candidate carried that place away from him by a majority.⁵ Afterwards the parishioners of Allhallows, or else of S. Edmund, in Lombard-street did elect him to be their preacher, but the bishop of London would not admit him, because he was a popular preacher among the fanatics. Afterwards he went to the city of Exeter, where he became minister of S. Mary's church there, and much approved and applauded for his elegant and dexterous preaching by Seth bishop of that city. At length John lord Roberts hearing him accidentally preach to his very great delight, he did afterwards freely offer to him the place of chaplain when he went in the quality of lord lieutenant of Ireland, an. 1669. Which office he very freely accepting, went accordingly with him, and in the latter end of that year, or in the beginning of the next, he was by that lord made dean of Raphoe. Soon after the said lord being recalled into England, he recommended his chaplain to his successor, who also taking especial notice of, conferr'd on, him the bishoprick of Raphoe, an. 1671, so that by virtue of letters pat. dat. the 27th of Octob. the same year, he was consecrated thereunto the 29th of the same month. In the latter end of Octob. 1681 he was translated to London Derry in the place of Dr. Mich. Ward deceased; where continuing till the forces in Ireland under the earl of Tirconnel stood up in the defence of king James II. against king William III. he retired into England in 1688, and in Sept. 1689 he was by the parishioners of S. Mary Aldermanbury in London elected to be their minister, upon the removal of Dr. Stratford to the see of Chester. He hath written,

⁴ [Preached at Mercer's chapel, London, Feb. 9, 1650. TANNER.]

[See col. 273.]

Several sermons, as (1) The Vanity of the World; on Eccles. 1. 2. Lond. 1661. oct. (2) Serm. at the Funeral of Algernon Grevill, Esq; second Brother to the right hon. Rob. Lord Brook, who departed this Life Jul. 21, at Magd. Coll. in Oxon, and was buried at Warwick on the 6th of Aug. 1662; on Eccles. 9. 5. Lond. 1663. qu. (3) Sermon preached at Ch. Ch. in Dublin Jan. 31. an. 1669; on 1 Pet. 2. 13, 14. Dubl. 1671. qu. All which were reprinted at Lond. 1685. oct. (4) Serm. on John. 7. 19. (5) Serm. on Gal. 3. 10.—These two last were printed at the end of the Exposition following.

An Exposition on the ten Commandments. Lond. 1692. qu. [Bodl. C. 2. 24. Linc.] Published in the beginning of Aug. 1691. with his picture before it, [by R. White] by the care of Dr. Edw. Wetenhall bishop of Cork and Ross, author of the epistle before it, dated at Peckham place, 1671.

"An Exposition of the Lord's Prayer, with a Catechistical Explication thereof by Way of Question and Answer, for the Instructing of Youth. To which is since added some Sermons on Providence, and the excellent Advantages of Reading and Studying the holy Scriptures. Lond. 1692. qu. [Bodl. C. 2. 24. Linc.]

"A second Vol. of Discourses, or Sermons, on several Scriptures, Lond. 1693. oct." [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 264. Th.⁶] This B. Hopkins died on the 19th day of June in sixteen hundred and ninety, and was buried on the 24th of the said month in the church of S. Mary Aldermanbury before-mention'd. He had an elder brother named John, bach. of arts of Wadham coll. who died before he took the degree of master, and a younger called James, bach. of arts of Corp. Ch. coll. who dying also before he was master of arts, in Octob. or thereabouts, an. 1663, was buried at Hackney near London. They were all three comely and ingenious persons, and beloved of their contemporaries in their respective colleges.

⁶ [Bishop Hopkins's works were collected and published in folio Lond. 1701, with an engraved portrait by J. Sturt: and again in 4 vol. 8vo. Lond. 1809.]

[852]

1690.

THOMAS FRANKLAND, a Lancashire man born, was entred a student in Brasennose coll. on the first of May, an. 1649, aged 16 years, took a degree in arts, and in 1654 was made fellow thereof. Afterwards proceeding in his faculty, he became a preacher (tho' not in episcopal orders) in those parts. In 1662 he was admitted one of the proctors of the university, and in the year after, being then in holy orders, he was with much adoe (his grace being denied three times, as I shall tell you elsewhere) admitted to the reading of the sentences. Afterwards he applied his studies to the faculty of physick, settled in London, and pretended to be a doctor of that faculty of Oxon, when he was in the company of Cambridge men, and to be doctor of Cambridge, when in the company of Oxford men. At length being a candidate to be fellow of the coll. of physicians, which he could not be without being doctor, he produced a forged certificate or diploma to attest that he was doctor of that faculty, and thereupon he was at length admitted fellow of the said coll. and afterwards was censor thereof. But he being of an haughty, turbulent and huffing spirit, and therefore much dislik'd by the society, especially the juniors, some of them, whom he had much displeased, were resolved to take him shorter and humble him. Whereupon, they having received a hint that he was no doctor, they sent privately to Dr. Jam. Hyde the king's professor of physick and Mr. Ben. Cooper the public registry of the univ. of Oxon, that they would search the registers thereof, and certify them whether he the said Tho. Frankland ever took the degree of doctor of phys. among them: whereupon they, upon their search, finding no such matter, did accordingly certify them of it. Afterwards they sent a Latin letter to the vicechancellor, doctors, proctors and masters of the university to acquaint them with the forgery of the said Thom. Frankland, desiring them withall that they would certify the president and community of the coll. of physicians that he was no doctor of phys. of their university, which they accordingly did, in Nov. 1677. However this being a just reason for his ejection, yet notwithstanding, by the connivance of the seniors of the said college he did continue afterwards among them, but lost much of his credit, and practice too, as I have heard. This person, who was esteemed a good scholar while he continued in Oxon, hath written and published,

The Annals of K. James and K. Charles the First, containing a faithful History and impartial Account of the great Affairs of State, and Transactions of Parliament in England, from the tenth of K. James, 1612, to the eighteenth of K. Charles, 1642. Wherein several Passages, relating to the late Civil Wars (omitted in former Histories) are made known. Lond. 1681. in a large folio. It was also commonly reported, that he was author of a book entit. The Honours of the Lords Spiritual asserted, and their Privileges to vote in Capital Cases in Parl. maintained by Reason and Precedents, &c. Lond. 1679. in 7 sh. in fol. but how true I cannot tell. Quære. He died in the prison called the Fleet in London, about Midsummer, in sixteen hundred and ninety, and was buried in the middle isle of the church of S. Vedastus in Foster-Lane within the said city, as I have been lately informed thence.

VOL. IV.

1690.

“ RICHARD PEERS, son of a father of both his names of the city of Down in Ireland, was educated in grammar learning for a time in that country, but his father being not in a capacity, as to wealth, to make him a scholar, he bound him to his own trade, with intentions to make him a tanner, as he was; but the son being weary of that employment, gave his father the slip, ran away, and obtaining a prosperous gale, arrived at, or near to, Bristol, where seeking out a near relation, was by him entertained for the present. At length, upon examination of his proficiency in learning, being found capable of being a scholar, he was by his said relation sent to school (to Dr. Jer. Taylor, as 'tis said, then living in Caermarthenshire, sed Quære) to be instructed in grammar learning, and afterwards by the intercession of the said doctor and other friends he was sped a king's scholar in the college school at Westminster, and became favour'd by the master thereof Dr. R. Bushy of great renown. In the year 1665, our author Peers being then above 20 years of age, and over ripe for the university, he was elected student of Ch. Ch. where making a hard shift to rub out (for 'twas usual with him to make the exercise of idle scholars, either for money or something worth it from the buttry book) he took the degrees in arts, and afterwards being elected superior beadle of that faculty, and of physick in the place of Franc. White deceased, on the 21st of Sept. 1675, he, instead of prosecuting his studies, took to him a wife, and enjoyed the comforts of the world. In the latter end of the reign of king James II. he applied his mind to the study of physick, having been secretly informed that his beneficial place was to be bestowed on a person more agreeable with those times; but fearing his bulk and fatness, which he had obtained by eating, drinking and sleeping, would hinder his practice, he quitted that project (tho' he was licensed to practise physick,) and was resolved, when turn'd out, to withdraw into the country, and teach a private school. This person hath written and published,

[853]

“ Four small Copies of Verses, made on sundry Occasions. Oxon. 1667. in 3 sh. in qu. The first is on Dr. Jo. Fell's return from electing students from Westminster school to be placed in Ch. Ch. in May 1666.

“ Description of the seventeen Provinces of the Low Countries and Netherlands. Oxon. 1682.

“ fol. of large royal paper. 'Tis the fourth vol. of

U

"the English Atlas,⁷ adorn'd with maps, and "printed at the theatre, at the charge of Moses Pitt
 "of London bookseller.

"*A Catalogue of all the Graduates in Divinity,
 "Law and Physic, and of all Masters of Arts, and
 "Doctors of Music; who have regularly pro-
 "ceeded, or been created, in the University of
 "Oxon, between the 10th of Oct. 1659 and the 14th
 "of July 1688.* Oxon. at the theatre 1689. oct.
 "[Bodl. 8vo. F. 13. Th.]

"*A Poem in Vindication of the late public Pro"ceedings, by Way of Dialogue between a high
 "Tory and a Trimmer. To which is added the "high Tory's Catechism.*—Printed in 3 sh. in "fol. He also translated into English, *The Life
 "of Alcibiades*, published among *The Lives of il-
 "lustrious Men*, written in Latin by Cornel. Nepos,
 "done into English by several hands.—Oxon.
 "1684. oct. He had also a considerable hand in "the translating from English into Lat. Historia "& Antiquitates Univers. Oxon; but in the be"ginning of his undertaking, he being much to "seek for such a version that might please Dr.
 "Fell the publisher of that history, that doctor
 "therefore did condescend so far as to direct and "instruct him in it (while the author, being made
 "a tool, was forced to stand still) and not only so,
 "but to correct with great pains what he had done,
 "so much sometimes, that that doctor's hand-writ"ing being more seen in the copy than that of the "translator, the copy was sometimes transcrib'd
 "twice before it was fit to go to the press. At "length the translator, by his great diligence and "observation, overcoming the difficulties, became a
 "compleat master of the Latin tongue, and what "he did was excellent, yet always to the last 'twas
 "overseen and corrected by the publisher, who took
 "more than ordinary liberty to put in and out what
 "he pleased, contrary to the will of the author.
 "[854] "This Rich. Peers died in his house in Halywell
 "near Oxon on the 11th day of August in sixteen
 "hundred and ninety, and was buried in the church
 "of S. Aldate within the city of Oxon among the "graves of the relations of his wife, leaving then
 "behind him several unfinish'd pieces in manuscript,
 "with a desire that they might be kept secret:
 "Among which was the Alphabetical Dictionary
 "at the end of the Real Character of Dr. Joh.
 "Wilkins, which had been much improved by him
 "with great additions."

1690.

JOHN CAVE, son of Joh. Cave impropiator and vicar of Great Milton in Oxfordshire, was born at Stoke-Line near Bister in the same county, educated in the free school at Thame, became demy of Magd. coll. an. 1654, and on 24 Sept. 1660, he being then bach. of arts, was elected fellow of that of Lincoln: At which time conforming himself to the rites and ceremonies of the church of England, notwithstanding he had been disciplin'd under presbyterians and independents, he afterwards took the degree of master, and entred into holy orders. Afterwards he was made rector of Cold Overton commonly call'd Coleorton in Leicestershire, and chaplain to Dr. Crew when he was made bishop of Durham. Which doctor bestowing on him the church of Gateside near Newcastle upon Tyne, he afterwards changed it with Rich. Werge for Nailston in Leicestershire: which with Coleorton and a prebendship of Durham (which he also obtained by the favour of the said bishop) he kept to his dying day. He hath published

Several sermons, as (1) A Sermon preached at the Assizes in Leicester, 31 Jul. 1679; on Micah 4. 5.
 Lond. 1679. qu. (2) Sermon to a country Audience on the late Day of Fasting and Prayer, Jan. 30; on 1 Tim. 2. Ver. 1, 2. Lond. 1679. qu. [Bodl. C.
 8. 20. Linc.] (3) The Gospel preached to the Romans, in four Sermons, of which two were preached on the 5th of Nov. and two on the 30th of Jan. all on Rom. 1. 15. Lond. 1681. oct. (4) The Duty and Benefit of Submission to the Will of God in Afflictions, two Sermon. on Heb. 12. 9. Lond. 1682.
 qu. [Bodl. Mar. 187.] (5) *King David's Deliverance and Thanksgiving; applyed to the Case of our King and Nation; in two Sermons, the one preached on the second, the other on the ninth of Sept. 1683, the first on Psal. 18. 48. the second on
 Ps. 18. 49.* Lond. 1684. qu. (6) *Christian Tranquillity: Or the Government of the Passions of Joy and Grief, Sermon upon the Occasion of the much lamented Death of that hopeful young Gent. Mr.
 Franc. Wollatson (Wollaston) an only Son and Heir to a very fair Estate, preached at Shenton in Leicestersh.* Lond. 1685. qu. This Mr. Cave died in the beginning of Octob. in sixteen hundred and ninety, aged 52 years or thereabouts, and was buried in the church at Coleorton before-mention'd. In his prebendship succeeded Sam. Eyre, D. D. of Lincoln coll.

JOHN MAYNARD, the eldest son of Alex.
 Mayn. of Tavistock in Devons. esq; was born there, became a commoner of Exeter coll. in the beginning of the year 1618, aged 16 years or thereabouts, took the degree of bach. of arts, but before he determined, or completed that degree by determination in Schoolstreet, he went to the Middle Temple, studied the municipal law, was called to the bar, and, being a favourite of Will. Noy attorney general, was much resorted to for his counsel. In the year 1640, he was chosen a burgess for Totness in his county, to serve in that parliament that began at Westm. 13 Apr. and again for the same place, to serve in that parliament that began there 3 Nov.
 following: In which last, being noted for his activity, and readiness in pleading, he was appointed one of

⁷ [See more of this book under the life of WILLIAM NI-CHOLSON.]

[855]

the committee to draw up evidence against the most noble Thomas earl of Strafford, whom afterwards he baited to some purpose in the name of the commons of England. Afterwards he managed the evidence against Dr. Laud archb. of Cant. took the covenant, was one of the lay-men nominated in the ordinance of the lords and commons to sit with the ass. of divines, got then much by his practice, and became a considerable gainer in a circuit that was appointed by order of parliament, an. 1647.⁸ In 1653 (1 Oliv. protect.) he was by writ dated 4 Feb. called to the degree of serjeant at law, having before taken the engagement, and on the first of May following he was by patent made the protector's serjeant, and pleaded in his and the then cause's behalf against several royalists that were tried in the pretended high court of justice, wherein several generous cavaliers and noble hearts received the dismal sentence of death. Afterwards he continued in great repute under that usurper, was settled in his place of the protector's serjeant by let. pat. under the great seal of England, continued so in Richard's reign, and obtained wealth as he pleased, "and was made "one of the council of state 1659." After his maj. restor. in 1660, he wheeled about, struck in with his party, took those oaths that he had done before to king Ch. I. and by writ dated in the beginning of June he was called again to the degree of serjeant, was made the king's serjeant by the corrupt dealing of a great man of the law on the 9th of November, and knighted on the 16th of the same month, an. 1660; at which time he was appointed one of the judges, but by several excuses he got clear off from that employment. In the beginning of 1661 he was elected burgess of Beralston in Devonshire to sit in that parliament that began at Westm. 8 of May in the same year, wherein for some time he shewed himself a loyal person: But when he saw to what end the several affairs and interests of men tended, the increase of pensioners therein, and popery in the nation, he stood up for the good of his country, and thereupon was esteemed by some a patriot. After that parliament was dissolv'd, he was elected a burgess in his own country to serve in the next three parliaments that were called by king Charles II. and in that which began on the 17th of Oct. 1679 (which, because of several prorogations, did not sit till 21 of Oct. 1680.) he was one of the committee appointed to manage the evidence against William viscount Stafford, impeached of high-treason relating to the popish plot, but being then an aged man, he was not so eager in that employment, as he was before against Strafford. When king James II. came to the crown, he was chosen burgess for Beralston again, to sit in that

⁸ [I attended the house, and Mr. Maynard and I talking of our circuit gains, he told me that he got in the last circuit seven hundred pounds, which I believe was more than any one of our profession ever got before. Whitelock's Memoirs, page 273.]

parl. that begun at Westm. 19 May 1685; and when the prince of Orange became king by the name of Will. III. he, with Anth. Kecke of the Inner Temple, esq; and Will. Rawlinson serjeant at law, were on the 2d of March or thereabouts, an. 1688, constituted lords commissioners of the great seal of England. In the year following he was chosen burgess for Plymouth to sit in that parl. that began at Westm. 20 March 1689, but being then grown very infirm by his great age, he gave up his place of commissioner soon after: whereupon their majesties did in the beginning of June 1690 constitute sir Joh. Trevor, knight, speaker of the house of commons, the said W. Rawlinson, then a knight, and sir Geo. Hutchins, commissioners of the said great seal, and on the third of the said month, being all three sworn, their majesties were pleased to deliver to them the seal, with their commissions. This sir Joh. Maynard was a person, who, by his great reading and knowledge in the more profound and perplexed parts of the law, did long since procure the known repute of being one of the chief dictators of the long robe, and by his great practice for many years together did purchase to himself no small estate. And however obnoxious he hath rendred himself on other accounts, yet I judge my self, out of the sense of public gratitude, obliged to speak here thus much in his just vindication, viz. that he did always vigorously espouse the interest and cause of his mother the university of Oxon (contrary to what others of his profession, on whom she hath laid equal engagements, have too commonly done) by always refusing to be entertained by any against her: and when ever persons delegated by her authority, for the management of her public litigious concerns, have applyed themselves to him for his advice and assistance, he did most readily yield both, by acting his best on her behalf.⁹ This sir Jo. Maynard hath these things following extant under his name.

Several Discourses in the Management of the Evidence against Thom. Earl of Strafford.

Several Discourses in the Management of the Evidence against Will. Archb. of Cant.—These Discourses you may see at large in the Collections of¹ Joh. Rushworth.

Speech to both Houses of Parliament 24 of Mar. 1640, in Reply upon the Earl of Strafford's Answer to his Articles at the Bar. Lond. 1641. qu. See in the tryal of the said count upon an impeachment of high treason, published by Jo. Rushworth, esq; wherein are many arguings of this our author Maynard: of whom and his actions relating thereunto, are these verses² extant,

⁹ [See a letter from Dr. Bathurst to the vice-chancellor of Cambridge, Dr. Jo. Spencer, relative to the right of the universities to printed books, in which he says, that serjeant Maynard has been found a true friend to universities. Life of Bathurst, page 107.]

¹ See also in An impartial Collection of the great Affairs of State, &c. published by Jo. Nalson, LL. D.

[856]

The robe was summon'd, Maynard in the head,
In legal murder none so deeply read:
I brought him to the bar, where once he stood,
Stain'd with the (yet un-expiated) blood
Of the brave Strafford, when three kingdoms rung
With his accumulative active tongue, &c.

Other verses of him are also in another poem entit. A Dialogue between the Ghosts of the two last Parliaments, at their late Interview; published in the beginning of Apr. 1681, which for brevity's sake I shall now omit.

Speech at the Committee at Guildhall in Lond. 6 Jan. 1641. concerning the Breaches and Privileges of Parliament. Lond. 1642. in one sh. in qu.

London's Liberty: or, a learned Argument of Law and Reason before the L. Mayor and Court of Aldermen at the Guildhall, an. 1650. Lond. 1682. fol. See more in sir Matth. Hale, vol. iii. col. 1093.

Reports and Cases argued and adjudged in the Time of K. Ed. 2. and also divers Memoranda of the Exchequer in the Time of K. Ed. I. Lond. 1679. in fol. published according to the ancient MSS. then remaining in the hands of him the said sir Jo. Maynard.

Speech and Arguings in the Tryal of Will. Vise. Stafford, &c.—See the said Tryal printed at Lond. in fol. 1683, wherein are also several of his discourses. At length after this sir Jo. Maynard had lived to a great age, and had acted Proteus-like in all changes to gain riches and popularity, he gave up the ghost³ in his house at Gonnersbury in the parish of Eling in the county of Middl. on the ninth day of Octob. in sixteen hundred and ninety; whereupon his body, attended by certain officers of arms and a large train of coaches, was in a few days after buried in the church at Eling. In his time lived also another sir Joh. Maynard, knight of the Bath, and second brother to the lord Maynard, chose burgess for Lestithel or Lestuthiel in Cornwall to sit in that unhappy parl. that began at Westm. 3 Nov. 1640, wherein expressing a pique to the army by endeavouring to have them disbanded an. 1647, he was by them impeached of high-treason, turn'd out of the house of commons and committed prisoner to the Tower of London. He was a zealous covenanteer, a sharp⁴ antagonist to the independent faction, and hath some little things extant going under his name: among which is A Specch in the H. of Commons, wherein is stated the Case of Lieu. Coll. Joh. Lilbourne, &c. Lond. 1648. qu. These things I thought fit to let the reader know, because both these Maynards have been taken for each other in history. Whether this last be the same sir Jo. Maynard who was of Graveney in Surrey, and died in the beginning of the year 1664. or thereabouts, I know not as yet. Quære. Another Joh. Maynard I have mention'd under the year 1669. vol. iii. col. 892, but he was a divine: and another I find, who was a Devonian born, bred in Exeter coll. and afterwards was made rector of Goodleigh in his own country, but this person, who died at Goodleigh in 1627, hath not published any thing.

1690.

² In The Ghost of the late House of Commons, to the new one appointed to meet at, &c. published about the 19th of March 1680.

³ [Serjeant Maynard by will devised to the countess of Suffolk, the lord Gorge, and the defendant Colchester and their heirs, to the use of them and their heirs, all his several manors and lands upon the trusts after-mentioned; and then directs that after the death of the countess his wife, they should convey part of the estate to Hobart for ninety-nine years (if he so long lived) remainder to his wife as to part for life, remainder to the first son for life, and other part of his estate in like manner to his granddaughter the countess of Suffolk and her issue male for life, with a cross remainder on failure of issue male of either of them. Vernon's Cases in Chancery, vol. ii, page 644. Lond. 1728, folio.]

"ROBERT LOVEL, a Warwickshire man
"born, became student of Christ Church by the fa"vour of the visitors appointed by parliament an.
"1648, took the degrees in arts, that of master
"being compleated in 1653, and afterwards divert-
"ing himself with the pleasant study of botany,
"wrote and published,
" *Enchiridion Botanicum: or, a compleat Her-
"ball.* Oxon. 1659, in a thick oct. [Bodl. 8vo. A.
"25. Med. BS.]

" Introduction to Herbarism.
" Appendix of Exotics.
" Universal Index of Plants,
" shewing what grow wild in Eng"land. } Printed with
" Ench. Botan.

" A compleat History of Animals and Minerals,
" with their Place, Natures, Causes, Properties
" and Uses, &c. Oxon. 1661. in a thick oct. Af"terwards he retired to Coventry, profess'd physick,
"and had some practice therein, lived a conformist,
"and died in the communion of the church. He "was buried in the church of the Holy Trinity
"within the said city of Coventry on the sixth day
"of Novemb. in sixteen hundred and ninety, leaving
"then behind him a brother named Salathiel Lovel,
"sometime after recorder of London, serjeant at "law, and a knight. I find another Rob. Lovel
"who was sometime minister of Hurst near Read-
"ing in Berks, afterwards a minister in London,
"and the same, I think, who was curate of All-
"hallows Barkin an. 1625, author of *Two so-
"vereign Salves for the Soul's Sickness, delivered*
" in certain Sermons in Hurst Church in Berks;
" on Joh. 5. 14. Lond. 1621. qu. [Bodl. 4to. D. 41.
"Th.] and of other things, as the Bodleian Cata-

[857]

1690.

⁴ See more in a book entit. The Lawes Subversion: or, Sir Jo. Maynard's Case truly stated, Lond. 1648. qu. written by Joh. Howldin, gent.

⁵ [Printed again with The Differences of Vegetables, at Oxford 1665, Bodl. 8vo. D. 62. Med.]

"logue will partly tell ye, but whether this Rob. Lovel was an Oxford man by education, I cannot yet justly tell you."

RICHARD LOWER, the late eminent physician, was born of a genteel family at Tremere near Blissland and Bodmin in Cornwall, elected from the college school at Westminster a student of Ch. Ch. an. 1649, aged 18 years or thereabouts, took the degrees in arts, that of master being compleated in 1655, entred upon the physic line, and practised that faculty under Dr. Tho. Willis, whom he helped, or rather instructed, in some parts of anatomy, especially when he was meditating his book De Cerebro, as I have elsewhere told you. In Apr. 1664 he, in his travels with the said doctor to visit patients, made a discovery of the medicinal water at East Throp commonly Astrop near Kings-Sutton in Northamptonshire, the doctor being then, as usually, asleep or in a sleepy condition on horseback. Afterwards, our author Lower imparting his discovery to the doctor, they in their return, or when they went that way again, made experiments of it, and thereupon understanding the virtue thereof, the doctor commended the drinking of it to his patients. Soon after the water was contracted into a well, and upon the said commendations, 'twas yearly, as to this time it is, frequented by all sorts of people. In 1665 our author Lower took the degrees in physic, practised the transfusion of blood from one animal into another, and, as if he had been the first discoverer, took the invention of it to himself in his book De Corde, but mistaken, as I have told you elsewhere. See my discourse of Franc. Potter, under the year 1678. vol. iii, col. 1156. However the members of the royal society took the hint from his practice, and made experiments of it in the year following. In 1666 he followed Dr. Willis to the great city, and settling at first in Hatton-Garden, practised under him and became fellow of the said society. Afterwards, growing famous, he removed to Salisbury-court near Fleetstreet, and thence to Bow-street, and afterwards to King-street near Covent-Garden; where being much resorted to for his successful practice, especially after the death of Dr. Willis, an. 1675, he was esteemed the most noted physician in Westminster and London, and no man's name was more cried up at court than his, he being then also fellow of the coll. of physicians. At length upon the breaking out of the popish plot in 1678 (about which time he left the royal society, and thereupon their experiments did in some manner decay) he closed with the whiggs, supposing that party would carry all before them: But being mistaken, he thereby lost much of his practice at and near the court, and so consequently his credit. At that time a certain physician named Tho. Short⁶

[858]

⁶ [Tho. Short filius Guil. S. clerici de Easton in com. Suff. grammaticis instructus in schola de Edmundi Burgo sub a R. C. struck in, and carried all before him there, and got riches as he pleased; but he dying in the latter end⁷ of Sept. 1683, most of his practice devolved on Dr. Joh. Radcliffe.⁸ The works of Dr. Lower are these,

Diatriba Thomæ Willisii Med. Doct. & Profess. Oxon de Febris Vindicatio, contra Edm. de Meara. Lond. 1665. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. A. 44. Med. BS.] Amstel. 1666. in tw. An account of this book you may see in the Philos. Transactions, num. 4. p. 77.⁹

Tractatus de Corde; item de Motu & Colore Sanguinis & Chyli in eum Transitu. Lond. 1669, [Bodl. 8vo. U. 15. Med.] 70. oct. &c. Lond. 1680. oct. fourth edit. Amstel. 1669, 71. oct. An account also of this book you may see in the said Transactions, num. 45. p. 909, &c. num. 73. p. 2211.

Dissertatio de Origine Catarrhi & de Venæ Sectione. This was printed at first with the book De Corde, and afterwards by it self—Lond. 1672. oct. An account also of it is in the said Transactions. This learned doctor Lower died in his house in King-street near Covent-Garden, on Saturday the 17th day of January in sixteen hundred and ninety; whereupon his body being conveyed to St. Tudy near Bodmin in Cornwall (where some years before he had purchased an estate) was buried in a vault under part of the south side of the church there. By his last will and test. he gave (as it was then said) 1000*l.* to S. Bartholomew's hospital in 1699.

magro. Stephens, annos natus 14 admissus est subsizator sub magro. Frost, tutore ejus, 25 Febr. 1649. Reg. Coll. Jo. Cant.

Tho. Short coll. Jo. A. B. Cant. 1653. Reg.

We have a mandate (orig.) for Tho. Short, sometime of St. John's college to be doctor of physic, dated June 26, 1668. BAKER.

He was by education a Rom. cath. but yet such a libertine in that religion, that he wrote two discourses, one against the pope's infallibility, and the other against transubstantiation, which went about in MS. and for which the priests and Jesuits not only suspected, but hated, him very much. He was very familiar and friendly with Dr. Tenison, minister of his parish, avoiding all disputes in matters of religion, and often staying to join in the office of the visitation of the sick. He was one of the physicians admitted to inspect the body of king Charles II. and upon the spot made such shrugs and intimations of his being apparently poison'd, that king James did never rightly countenance him. And in his following conversation was so free and open upon that matter, that he was himself poison'd by one who feicht him to a patient below the Tower, and gave him a cordial to bear his passage the better on the water; which he found to operate when he got back thro' the bridge, and sent for physicians the next morning, and told his case. KENNET.]

⁷ [Sept. 28. RAWLINSON.]

⁸ [Jo. Radcliff natus Wakefeldiæ in agro Ebor. an. 1653, literis institutus ibid. admissus in coll. Univers. in acad. Oxon. an. 1665, dein socius coll. Lincoln. Ob. Nov. 1, 1714; sepultus in ecclesia B. Mariæ Oxon. BAKER.]

⁹ [In the first edition Wood ascribed a Letter concerning the present State of Physick, Lond. 1665, to Lower, which he, afterwards discovering to be written by another person, erased from his own copy in the Ashmole museum.]

London, 500*l.* to the French protestant refugees, 500*l.* to the Irish prot. refugees, 50*l.* to the poor of the parish of S. Paul in Cov. Garden, 40*l.* to the poor of two parishes in Cornwall where he had land,¹ &c. He then left behind him two daughters, one called Loveday, the other Philippa, both then unmarried. Sir Will. Lower the poet was of the same family, and born also at Tremere, but when he died his estate did not go either to the father or brethren of the doctor, which was then much regreted by the family.

[Mem. I have heard Dr. Tenison archb. of Cant. say often, that Dr. Lower was his special friend, and had the protestant interest very much at heart, and was for that reason a great lover of news, and used to shew that humour in every visit he made. He went very often to Nell Gwynne, and would pick out of her all the intrigues of the court of king Charles II. He was heartily against a popish successor, and against the proceedings of the court of king James II, that the king himself was used often to complain of him, and say, he did him more mischief than a troop of horse. KENNET.]

“ THOMAS PIERCE, son of Joh. Pierce, was born in a market town in Wilt. called Devises, (of which borough his father had several times been mayor) educated mostly in grammar learning under William White in the free-school joyning to Magd. coll. great gate, was first one of the choiristers for several years, then demy of the said coll. an. 1639, aged 17 years, and after he was bach. of arts he became fellow. In 1644 he proceeded master of that faculty, being then esteemed a good poet, and well skill'd in the theory and practice of music, and in 1648 he was ejected from his fellowship by the committee for the reformation of the university of Oxon, upon information and suspicion that he wrote a sharp libel against the parliam. visitors then sitting in the said university. Afterwards he became rector of Brington in Northamptonsh.² which he kept during the reigns of Oliver and Rich. Cromwell, and was much followed and admired for his smooth and edifying way of preaching. At

¹ [The last will and testament of Dr. Richard Lower.

Item I give to the French protestants now in or near London five hundred pounds to be distributed amongst such as shall need it most, by Dr. Freeman, minister of St. Pauls, Covent Garden aforesaid, and by Dr. Tennison, minister of St. Martins-in-the-fields, in the said county of Middlesex.

Item I give unto the Irish protestants now in or neer London, five hundred pounds to be distributed among such as shall be thought to need it most, by the said Dr. Freeman and Dr. Tenison.

Item I give unto Bartholomew hospital one thousand pounds. KENNET.]

² [He lived in the family of Dorothy countess of Sunderland, as tutor to her only son Robert earl of Sund. secretary of state to king James II. By her he was presented to Brington some time before 1616. Dedic. to his Sinner impleaded. TANNER.]

length, after the restoration of king Charles II. (to whom he was chapl. in ord.) he became canon of Canterbury, was actually created D. of D. by virtue of the king's letters, in the beginning of Aug. 1660; installed preb. of Langford manor in the church of Lincoln on the 25th of Sept. following, and in the year after he became president of Magd. coll. on the decease of Dr. Joh. Oliver.³ But the true government of that house being much interrupted and disturb'd, while he sate at the stern there (he being more fit for the pulpit than to be a governor) he did, upon the promise of some other preferment, resign that office,⁴ and

³ [Advice from Oxford, that on Wednesday Octobr. 30. that most learned and reverend Dr. John Oliver, dean of Worcester and president of Magdalen college in Oxford, was buried in that college chapel with great solemnity, the whole university attending his corps, with large expressions of universal sorrow for so unvaluable a loss; whose memory is precious to all that knew him, either in his academical exercises and offices, or when domestic chaplain to that renowned martyr William lord archbishop of Canterbury, or since all along these last worst times. He was strangely desirous to leave this world, though few alive had such temptations to stay in it: for he lived to see himself head and governor of the college he was bred in, and his own scholar lord high chancellor of England, as well as of the university, Edward earl of Clarendon, to whom he gave a legacy as a grateful memorial, seal'd up in a paper, besides which and two or three legacies to his nephews, niece, and servants: all that God had sent him since his majesty's restauration (for till then he was stripp'd of all) he gave wholly to pious uses, either to the poor, or reparation of churches, viz. of St. Paul's, Winchester, Worcester, and to the college.—This most learned, meek and pious person was a Kentish man born, and originally of Merton college, was afterward successively demy and fellow of that of Magdalene, where his eminence in learning and orthodox principles in religion being conspicuous, he was taken into the service of Dr. Laud, archbishop of Canterbury, and by him made his domestick chaplain, and promoted in the church; but losing all in the time of the rebellion, he was elected president of his college in April 1644, upon the advancement of Dr. Frewen to the see of Litchfield. In the latter end of 1647 he was turned out of his presidency by the committee of lords and commons for the reformation of the university of Oxon, and in the beginning of the next year, by the visitors themselves in their own proper persons, so that afterwards living obscurely and in great hardship, he wanted the charities which he before hestowed on the poor and the publick, being in a manner the object of charity himself. On the 18th of May 1660, he was by authority of parliament restored to his presidency, and on the 22nd of the same month he took possession thereof, being the first of all loyal heads that was restored to what they had lost in this university. Soon after he was by his majesty's favour (upon the motion of the earl of Clarendon formerly his pupil) nominated dean of Worcester in the place of Dr. Richard Holdsworth who died 1649, in which dignity he was installed September 12th 1660, and kept it to the time of his death, which happening Octobr. 27th 1661, was buried in Magdalen college chapel.—A good benefactor to his college, to which his two immediate predecessors Wilkinson and Goodwin, who were thrust in by the parliament and Oliver for their saintship and zeal to the blessed cause, gave not a farthing, but rak'd and scrap'd up all that they could get thence, as the rest of the saints then did in the university.—Kennet, Register and Chronicle, page 552.]

⁴ [Mag. coll. Apr. 3, 1672.

⁵ My eyes are grown sore with the damps of this place;

[859]

"upon the promotion of Dr. Ralph Brideoake to the see of Chichester, he was installed dean of Salisbury 4 May 1675, which dignity he kept to his dying day. He was a person well read in authors, whether civil or prophane, of a florid stile, a zealous son of the ch. of England, tho' originally a Calvinist, but above all a most excellent preacher, whether in the English or the Lat. tongue. The quicker pregnancy of his parts, the ingenious keenness of his pen, and the compleat excellency of his learning, many of his greatest adversaries did often confess and acknowledge, but oftner found experiment in those most notorious overthrows and palpable foils which he gave them. He was a resolute maintainer of the antient establishment of the English church, and a stout assertor of her due rights, especially in such a time, when it was accounted matter of the deepest guilt to have so much courage, as either to own the one, or publicly to appear in defence of the other. He, Hammond and Heylyn (all formerly of Magd. coll.) were the chiefest champions among the old, regular and conformable clergy, who victoriously engaged many of the most specious and plausible pamphleteers, whose scurrilous and violent libels, the rank liberty of the boundless press midwiv'd into the miserably torn and distracted nation. He was a person very well read and exercis'd in the quinquarticular controversies; the warmer and too passionate debate of which between some eminent divines, as not being managed with a sufficient allay of charity, moderation and temper, hath now for about a century of years, begat, as well in England, as in foreign countries, unseasonable broils and unhappy contests of a very dangerous consequence. A noted⁵ author of his time saith that he (Pierce) "is one, whom, for his polite parts of wit and learning, I have, and do, respect." His works are these.

"A third and fourth Part of Pegasus: taught by Bankes his Ghost to dance in the Doric Mood, to the Tune of Lachryma. In two Letters from Oxford, first of July 1648.—These were printed in one sh. in qu. The first part of Pegasus was written by way of letter, dated 18 Apr. 1648, by Tho. Barlow of Qu. coll. but who was the author of the second part, I know not as yet. He subscribes himself Basilus Philomusus, as our author Pierce did to his third and fourth part, which are very sharp against the parl. visitors.

"Caroli rē Managirs ΠΑΛΙΤΤΕΝΕΣΙΑ.—printed 1649. in one sh. in oct. The beginning which, with the love I bear to privacy, and greater freedom from secular cares, hath been a chief cause of my resigning this dignity.' So in a letter from Dr. P. among Dr. Hen. More's Letters, Lond. 1694, 8vo. page 41. LOVEDAY.]

⁵ "Dr. Edw. Reynolds in the entrance of his epistle placed "before Will. Barlee's book called Correptory Correction, &c."

"is, I come, but come with trembling, lest I prove, &c. It was reprinted with other things of the same author, as I shall tell you anon.

"A correct Copy of some Notes concerning God's Decrees, especially of Reprobation. Lond. 1655: Oxon. 1671-72. quarto. This book was written in 1654.

"The Siuner implacaded in his own Court; wherein are represented the great Discouragements from Sinning, &c. Lond. 1656. in tw. This was printed again in 1670 in qu. and had added to it, The Love of Christ planted upon the very same Turf, on which it had been once sup- planted by the extream Love of Sin. "The divine Purity defended, or a Vindication of some Notes concerning God's Decrees, especially of Reprobation, from the Censure of Dr. Reynolds in his Epistolary Preface to Mr.⁶ Barlee's Correptory Correction. Lond. 1657. qu. [Bodl. 4to. P. 10. Th. BS.]

"The divine Philanthropy defended against the declamatory Attempts of certain late printed Papers, entit. A correptory Correction. Lond. 1657-58. qu. The same year (1658) the said Barlee published, A necessary Vindication of the Doctrine of Predestination formerly asserted, together with a full Abstursion of all Calumnies cast upon the late Correptory Correction by Mr. Tho. Pierce.

"The Self-Revenger exemplified in Mr. Will. Barlee: by Way of Rejoynder to the first Part of his Reply, viz. The unparalleled Variety of Discourse in the two first Chapters of his pretended Vindication. Lond. 1658. qu.

"An Appendage touching the Judgment of James Lord Primate of Armagh, irrefragably attested by the Certificates of Dr. Brian Walton, Mr. Herb. Thorndike and Mr. Pet. Gunning, sent in a Letter to Dr. Nicholas Bernard—This is printed with The Self-Revenger, &c.

"Self-condemnation exemplified in Mr.⁷ Whitfield, Mr. Barlee and Mr. Hickman, with occasional Reflections on Calvin, Beza, Zuinglius, Piscator, Rivet and Rollock, but more especially on Dr. W. Twisse and Mr. T. Hobbes. Lond. 1658. qu.

"An additional Advertisement of Mr. Baxter's Book entit. The Grotian Religion discovered, &c. —This is printed with Self-condemnation, &c.

"Several sermons, as (1) The Badge and Cognisance of Christ's Disciples, preached at S. Paul's Church before the Gentlemen of Wilts. on—Lond. 1657-58. qu. This I have not yet seen. (2) The grand Characteristic; on Joh. 13. 35. Lond. 1658. qu. (3) The Lifelessness of Life on the other Side of Immortality (with a timely Ca-

[860]

⁶ "Will. Barlee rector of Brockhole in Northamptonshire."

⁷ "Tho. Whitfield rector of Bugbrook near Northampton."

“veat against Procrastination) &c. preached at the funeral of Edw. Peyto of Chesterton in Warwickshire esq; on Job 14. 1. Lond. 1659-60. qu. (4) “England’s Season for Reformation of Life; on Rom. 13. 12. Lond. 1660. qu. (5) Serm. at S. Margaret’s in Westm. before the honourable the House of Commons the 29th of May, being the Anniversary Day of the King’s and Kingdom’s Restoration; on Deut. 6. 12. Lond. 1661. qu. (6) Concio Synodica ad Clerum Anglicanum ex Provincia præsertim Cantuar. in Æde. Paulina Lond. habita 8. Id. Maias, 1661—Lond. 1661. qu. (7) The primitive Rule of Reformation, preached before his Majesty at Whitehall, 1 Feb. 1662, in Vindication of our Church against the Novelities of Rome; on Matth. 19. 8. Lond. 1663. qu. In which year were six editions of this sermon published. It was translated and printed in foreign languages, and answered by H. Cressey, and Joseph Symonds a Jesuit; which last was a good Lat. poet, and hath one or more tragedies extant. He died a few years after and was buried in S. Pancrass church near Holborn in Middlesex. I find one Joseph Symonds a minister in Ironmonger-lane in London, and in 1641 to be pastor of a church in Rotterdam, which, I suppose, is quite different from the former. (8) A seasonable Caveat against the Danger of Credulity, in our Trusting the Spirits before we try them, preached before the K. at Whitehall, on the first Sunday in Feb. 1678; on 1 Joh. 4. 1. Lond. 1679, and 1689, qu. &c.

“The Christian’s Rescue from the grand Error of the Heathen, touching the Fatality of all Events, in five Books. Lond. 1658. qu. [Bodl. 4to. P. 10. Th. BS.]

“The new Discoverer discovered: By Way of Answer to Mr. Baxter his pretended Discovery of the Grotian Religion, with the several Subjects therein contain’d. Lond. 1659. qu. [Bodl. B. 5. 10. Line.]

“*An Appendix, containing a Rejoynder to divers Things in The Key for Catholics, and the Book of Disputations about Church-Government and Worship—*This is printed with The New Discoverer, &c.

“*A Letter to Dr. Heylyn concerning Mr. H. Hickman and Mr. Ed. Bagshaw—*printed also with The new Discoverer. That part in the said letter concerning Mr. Hickman is an answer to, or animadversions on, his book of The Justification of the Fathers and Schoolmen, &c. And that part concerning Mr. Bagshaw is a vindication of himself, as being not the author of the Reflections on his Practical Discourse, &c.

“An impartial Enquiry into the Nature of Sin, in which is proved its positive Entity or Being, partly extorted by Mr. Hickman’s Challenge, &c. Lond. 1660. qu. [Bodl. B. 20. 9. Linc.]

“An Append. in Vindication of Dr. Hammond,

“*with the Concurrence of Dr. R. Sanderson, the Oxford Visitors impleaded—*This is printed with An impartial Enquiry, &c.

“*Postscript concerning some Dealings with Mr. Baxter—*And this also.

“*A true Account of the Proceedings (and of the Grounds of the Proceedings) of the President and Officers of S. Mary Magd. Coll. in Oxon, against Dr. Yerbury lately Fellow of the same—*printed 1663 in 3 sh. in fol. The reader is to note, that after our author Dr. Pierce was taken from the pulpit to govern the said coll. (of which he was no way fit, as it afterwards appeared) he bred such a disturbance there by his domineering, putting out of commons, expelling, &c. that few members thereof were at rest. At length he, executing his power on Dr. Hen. Yerbury a senior fellow thereof and doct. of phys. by often putting him out of commons, and at length by expelling him (for which action most people cried shame) he (Dr. Pierce) did therefore publish the said Account, but was soon after answer’d by Dr. Yerbury by another, not printed, but in MS.

“The same year were published two lampoons or libels; the first entit. Dr. Pierce his Preaching confuted by his Practice, &c. the other Dr. Pierce his Preaching exemplified in his Practice, &c. both written in favour of Pierce. But in them being divers reflections on Yerbury, he animadverted on them in MS, and shewed plainly, that Joh. Dobson fellow of the said coll. (one of Pierce’s creatures) was suspected to be the author of them, as it afterwards appeared, especially of the first, yet Pierce was the approver, and had a hand in them.

“A Specimen of Mr. Cressy’s Misadventures against his Sermon entit. The Primitive Rule, &c.—This is in a letter of approbation of, and before, Dr. Joh. Sherman’s book entit. The Infallibility of the Holy Scripture asserted, and the pretended Infallibility of the Church of Rome refuted, in Answer to two Papers and two Treatises of Father Johnson a Romanist, about the Ground thereof. Lond. 1664. in a thick qu. This Dr. Sherman had suffer’d many things and well, for his king and country: and was one in whom learning and religion had for many years met, and had equal shares. See more in Will. Neile, an. 1670. vol. iii, col. 902.

“The signal Diagnostic, whereby we are to judge of our own Affections, and as well of our present as future Estate. Lond. 1670. [Bodl. 4to. C. 56. Th.] 79. qu.

“A Collection of Sermons upon several Occasions, &c. Lond. 1671. qu. [Bodl. 4to. P. 84. Th.] In which are involved all the sermons before-mentioned except The grand Characteristic, &c. and A seasonable Caveat, &c.

“A Parænesis touching the Sermon entit. The Primitive Rule, &c. and the Discourse which “follows of Rome’s pretended Infallibility—printed

“with A Collection of Sermons, &c.

“A Decade of Caveats to the People of England,
“of general Use in all Times, but most seasonable
“in these, &c. Lond. 1679. qu. This book is a “collection of sermons against popery and the schis“matical separation of our dissenters, mostly preached
“in the cath. ch. of Salisbury. The first of them
“is entit. A seasonable Caveat against the Dangers “of Credulity, &c. preached before the king at “Whitehall, as I have before told you. This came “out a little before the said Decade, and ’tis here
“made the first of the said sermons.

“Pacificatorium Orthodoxæ Theologiæ Corpus- “culum, sive brevis Juniorum sacris Ordinibus “initiendorum ad summam Doctrinam Manuductio, “&c. Lond. 1683. oct. This came out again with “the title altered, 1684.

“The Law and Equity of the Gospel, or the “Goodness of our Lord, as a Legislator: Delivered
“first from the Pulpit in two plain Sermons, with “others tending to the same End. Lond. 1686. qu.
“[Bodl. 4to. B. 16. Th. BS.]

“The grand Enquiry to be made in these Inquisi- “tive Times, together with the Resolution of Paul
“and Silas, &c.—printed with The Law and “Equity, &c.

“A Preservative against Ambition, printed also “with The Law and Equity, &c.

“In the beginning of the year 1683 arose a con“troversy between the said Dr. Pierce dean of “Salisbury and Dr. Ward bishop thereof, concern“ing the bestowing and giving of the dignities of “the said church of Salisbury, whether by the king
“or bishop. Dr. Pierce wrote a Narrative in behalf “of the king, by order and command of the king’s “commissioners appointed for ecclesiastical promo“tions, and Dr. Ward thereupon did answer it in “another Narrative, neither of which were printed;
“whereupon Pierce came out with a pamphlet entit.

“A Vindication of the King’s Sovereign Right:
“together with a Justification of his Royal Exer- “cises thereof, in all Causes and over all Persons “Ecclesiastical (as well as by Consequence) over
“all Ecclesiastical Bodies corporate and Cathedrals:
“more particularly applied to the King’s Free- “chappel and Church of Sarum, upon Occasion of “the Dean of Sarum’s Narrative and Collections
“made by the Order and Command of the Lords
“Commissioners appointed by the King’s Majesty
“for Ecclesiastical Promotions. By Way of Reply
“to the Answer of the Lord Bish. of Sarum, pre- “sented to the aforesaid honourable Lords: The “first Part, &c.—Lond. 1683. fol. in 12 sh. printed
“to save the labour of transcribing copies. What “other parts follow’d I know not, sure I am that “this is written in the name of a third person, and “that about the same time he (Dr. Pierce) was sup-“pos’d to have had a hand in a libel or libels “against E. P. (Pocock) one of the prebendaries of
VOL. IV.

“the ch. of Sarum in the place of Dr. Jo. Gurgamy “deceased; who was protected by bishop Ward.
“He was also suppos’d (but I think not true) to be “author of (1) Evangelium armatum. A Specimen
“or short Collection of several Doctrines and Po- “sitions destructive to our Government both Civil “and Ecclesiastical, preached and vented by the “known Leaders and Abettors of the pretended “Reformation, such as Edm. Calamy, Will. Jenkyn, “Tho. Case, Rich. Baxter, Jos. Caryll, Steph.
“Marshall, and others. Lond. 1663. qu. (2) “Fratres in malo, or, The matchless Couple, repre- “sented in the Writings of Edward Bagshaw and “Hen. Hickman, in Vindication of Dr. Heylyn
“and Mr. Pierce. Lond. 1660. qu. said in the title
“to be written by M. O. bach. of arts. He also did “correct, amend and compleat for the press a large “folio entit. Annales Mundi, &c. see in Hugh Ro“binson; under the year 1655, vol. iii. col. 395.
“and did translate from English into Latin, His “Majesty’s (K. Ch. I.) Reasons against the pre- “tended Jurisdiction of the High Court of Justice,
“which he intended to deliver in writing on Mon-
“day, 22 January 1648.—printed 1674, 75. qu.
“At the end of which are of Dr. Pierce his compo“sition, these things following, (1) A Latin Epitaph
“on K. Ch. I. (2) The Epitaph of Dr. Henry “Hammond, beginning, Henricus Hammondus ad
“cujus nomen assurgit, &c. see more in the said
“Henry Hammond, an. 1660. vol. iii. col. 499. (3)
“The Epitaph of Jeffrey Palmer Attorney-General
“to K. Ch. II. and of Margaret his Wife. See in “the FASTI under the year 1643. (4) The Epitaph
“of Sir Philip Warwick. See in the FASTI under “the year 1638. besides five other epitaphs on “several persons, and An Elegy on the Murder of “K. Ch. I. which I have before mention’d. (5)
“Several Hymns; which have vocal compositions
“of two or more parts set to them by Nich. Lanier, “Arthur Philips organist of Magd. coll. and Dr.
“Will. Child organist of Windsor. That which “hath a vocal composition set to by Lanier is A “Funeral Hymn to the Royal Mart. 30 Jan. 1648.
“At length this noted and eminent author dying
“on Saturday the 28th of March in sixteen hun“dred ninety and one, was buried in the church“yard at Tydworthe or Tudworth near Ambers“bury in Wiltshire (where several years before he “had purchased an estate) at which time was given “into the hands of every person invited to the “funeral (instead of gloves or rings) a book with a “black cover, composed formerly by Dr. Pierce, “entit. Death considered as a Door to a Life of “Glory, penn’d for the Comfort of serious Mourners,
“and occasion’d by the Funerals of several Friends;
“particularly of one who dyed at Easter: And of “the Author’s own Funeral in Antecessum. This “book, which is in quarto, was printed at London
“for the author’s private use, but when, it ap“pears not, either in the title, or at the end. In 1691.

[863]

“the deanery of Salisbury succeeded Rob. Woodward doctor of law; in the canonry of Canterbury, which had been held by the said Dr. Pierce, succeeded Dr. Zacheus Isham of Ch. Ch. in Oxon. and in his prebendship of Linc. Will. Offley M. A. of King's coll. in Cambridge, and domestic chaplain to Dr. Tho. Barlow bishop of that see. Afterwards was erected over Dr. Pierce's grave a fabric or roof, supported by four pillars of free-stone representing a little banquetting-house; in the middle of which is a plain stone lying over his grave with this inscription thereon, Depositum Thomæ Pierce D.D. qui placidè obdormivit in Domino Jesu, 28 Mar. 1691. On a brass plate fastned to the roof within side is this engraven, made by Dr. Pierce a little before his death. ‘Here lies all that was mortal, the outside, dust and ashes of Tho. Pierce D.D. once the president of a college in Oxford, at first the rector of Brington cum membris, canon of Lincolne and at last dean of Sarum: who fell asleep in the Lord Jesus Mar. 28. an. 1691. but in hope of an awake at the resurrection. He knew himself, and taught others, that all the glorify'd saints in heaven cannot amount to one saviour, as all the stars in the firmament cannot make up one sun. Therefore his only hope and trust was in the Lord Jesus, who shall change, &c. Phil. 3. 21.—Disce, viator, perinde esse, seu fragile frangi, seu mortale mori.’

[Add to Pierce—

An effectual Præscription against the Anguish of all Diseases and against all other Afflictions to which the Nature of Man is subject, penn'd, published and approved from the Authors experience. (by Dr. Keane and Dr. Thos. Smith) Oxford 1691. 4to. 3 sheets and half. TANNER.

A Letter containing a further Justification of the Church of England against the Dissenters by one of the Reverend Commissioners for the Review of the Liturgy at the Savoy 1661. Lond. 1682. oct. RAWLINSON.

In the last vol. of the London (Walton's) Polyglot, printed in 1657, the 15th article is Variantes Lectiones ex Annotatis Hug. Grotii, in universa Biblia, cum Ejusdem de iis Judicio, collectæ Opera ac Studio Tho. Piercii. LOVEDAY.]

“WILLIAM DENTON, the eighth and youngest son of sir Tho. Denton of Hillesden in Buckinghamshire knt. was born at Stow in the same county in the month of Apr. 1605, became a commoner of Magd. hall in Mich. term, an. 1621, took one degree in arts, lived with, and practised physic for some time under, a noted physician in Oxon, called Dr. Hen. Ashworth. Afterwards taking the degrees of that faculty in 1634, he left Oxford, and retiring to London was sworn physician to king Charles I. in Ap. 1636, attended him in the Scotch expedition, an. 1639, and lived and practised his faculty in London and Westminster

“during the times of rebellion and usurpation. After the restoration of king Charles II. he was sworn physician in ord. to him, became honorary fellow of the college of physicians, and much respected by some for his knowledge in his faculty. He hath written several things, but nothing of his faculty, viz.

“Horæ Subsecivæ: or, a Treatise shewing the Original, Grounds, Reasons, and Provocations necessitating our Sanguinary Laws against Papists made in the Days of Queen Elizabeth, &c. Lond. 1664. quarto. [Bodl. 4to. C. 30. Art.]

“The burnt Child dreads the Fire; or, an Examination of the Merits of the Papists, relating to England, mostly from their own Pens, in Justification of the late Act of Parliament, for preventing Dangers which may happen from Popish Recusants. Lond. 1675. qu. [Bodl. 4to. M. 22. Th.]

“Jus Cæsaris & Ecclesiæ vere dictæ: or, a Treatise wherein Independency, Presbytery; the Power of Kings, and of the Church, or of the Brethren in Ecclesiastic Concerns, Government and Discipline of the Church; and wherein also the Use of Liturgies, Toleration, Connivance, Conventicles or private Assemblies, &c. are discours'd, &c. Lond. 1681. fol. [Bodl. A. 14. 7. Th.] In the preface to this odd and rambling work the author mentions R. P. J. S. and P. W. to have written against his two former books, but whether either of those three was Tho. Blount of the Inner Temple, who answered one of them in a little treatise of one sheet, I cannot tell.

“An Apology for the Liberty of the Press.—This, which is printed in one sh. in fol. and more, is printed with Jus Cæsaris, &c. before mentioned.

“Nil dictum quod non dictum prius. The Case of the Government of England Established by Law, impartially stated and faithfully collected from the best Historians, Precedents of former Ages and Authorities of Records. Lond. 1681. oct. This is said in the title to be written by W. Denton esq; but whether he be the same with Dr. Will. Denton our author, I cannot justly say, because in the catalogue of works written by him, which he sent me in Aug. 1686, no such book appears therein, “Jus Regiminis: Being a Justification of defensive Arms in general, and consequently our Revolutions and Transactions to be the just Right of the Kingdom. Lond. 1689. fol. ded. to king William III. and queen Mary.

“Some Remarks recommended unto Ecclesiastics of all Perswasions. Lond. in fol. He also translated from Italian into English, A Treatise of Matters beneficiary. Lond. 1680. fol. generally thought to have been originally written by F. Paolo Sarpi, and so the translator takes it to be, but Dr. Tho. Comber sometime of Sidney Sussex

[864]

1691.

"coll. in Cambridge, who answers it, as to its principal parts, gives⁸ reasons, shewing that he cannot be the author. At length Dr. Denton dying full of years in Covent-Garden within the liberty of Westminster, about the ninth day of May in sixteen hundred ninety and one, his body was conveyed to Hillesden near Buckingham before mention'd, and was buried in the church there among the graves of his name and relations. He left behind one daughter named Anne, then the wife of George Nicholas gent. a younger son of sir Edw. Nicholas sometime secretary of state under king Charles I. and II.

"HERBERT CROFT, the third son of sir Herbert Croft knt. who was⁹ grandson of sir Jam. Croft knt.¹ sometime comptroller of the house to qu. Elizabeth and of her privy council, and he² great grandson to sir Rich. Croft knt. treasurer of the house to king Edw. IV. all of Croft Castle in Herefordshire, the possession of their ancient family (mostly knights) who³ have there for a long time flourished in great and good esteem, was born at Great Milton near Thame in Oxfordshire, in the manor-house near the church, belonging then to sir Will. Green, on the eighteenth day of October an. 1603, his mother named Mary (daughter and co-heir of Anthony Bourne of Holt-Castle in Worcestershire esq;) being then in her journey towards London; educated in grammar learning in Herefordshire, and afterwards sent to the⁴ university of Oxon, about 1616, but to what house of learning therein, unless Christ Church, I cannot tell, for I do not find him then matriculated. Soon after his father sent for him to Doway in Flanders, where he then was, as I have told you in the second vol. of these ATHENÆ, col. 318: and soon after sent him to the English coll. of Jesuits at St. Omers, where by the authority of his father, and especially by the persuasions of fath. Joh. Floyd⁵ a Jesuit (the same who wrote himself Daniel e Jesu and fell⁶ foully upon Will. Chillingworth for his apostacy, (as he calls it) that is for his returning to the church of England) he was brought to the Rom. obedience and made a perfect catholic. And altho' his father was a good man, yet he coun-

⁸ "In his preface to his Historical Vindication of the divine Right of Tithes, &c. against Mr. Jo. Selden's Hist. of Tithes—Lond. 1681. qu."

⁹ "So in the pedigree of Croft of Croft-Castle in my custody."

¹ [Who got from the see of Canterbury A. D. 1570, the great wood of Longbreach; recovered to the see again by archb. Whitgift. See Strype's Life of Archbishop Parker, page 316. WATTS.]

² "So the pedigree before mentioned."

³ "W. Camden in his Britannia in Herefordshire."

⁴ "See in The English Spanish Pilgrim, &c. written by Jam. Wadsworth, printed the second time at Lond. 1630. cap. 3."

⁵ "In the Ecclesia ingenii humani Debellatrix, Audomar. 1631. qu."

"selled his son, tho' bred among Jesuits, not to turn Jesuit: yet notwithstanding some of the society found out a way to draw him unto them (as an author⁶ of little or no note tells us) 'which was a subtle and crafty one indeed, viz. to entice him to take the spiritual exercise, which he refused not, being a matter of honour amongst the catholics to enter into,' &c. After he had ran thro' the several classes of logic and philosophy, his father sent him into England to do for him some business relating to his estate, but before he returned, his father died; whereupon he travelled into several countries, promoted his studies in the sacred faculty, and became many ways accomplished, whether you took him as a gentleman, or as a scholar. At length returning into England to look after his concerns, he was by the prevailing advice and arguments of Dr. Tho. Morton bishop of Durham reconciled to the church of England. Soon after upon the desire of Dr. Laud he went to Oxon, was admitted into Ch. Ch. and as a member thereof matriculated in the university. On the 21st of Nov. 1635, he, by his dean, did supplicate, as a student in div. in a convocation then held, that 'it might be graciously dispensed with him that the ten years time which he had spent in the study of divinity in foreign nations might be reckoned to him as if he had studied in this university, and that after he had performed his exercise, requisite by the statutes, for the degree of bach. of div. he might (tho' he had not taken the degree of master, or entred into holy orders in due time) have his grace proposed in congregation to be admitted to the reading of the Epistles of S. Paul, or of the sentences.—This being granted, he did perform his exercise very accurately and learnedly, as Dr. Tho. Washbourne, sometime preb. of Gloucester, who was one of his opponents, did usually report. In 1636 he was admitted to the reading of the sentences, that is, to the degree of bach. of div. became about that time minister of a church in Gloucestershire, and rector of Harding in Oxfordshire. In the beginning of the year 1639 he was appointed chaplain to the earl of Northumberland in the Scotch expedition, and on the first of Aug. the same year he was col-lated (on the resignation of Will. Townson) to the prebendship of Minor pars Altaris in the church of Salisbury. In the beginning of the year 1640 he was admitted doctor of div. being about that time chaplain to his maj. king Charles I. who was so well satisfied with his integrity and loyalty, that he afterwards intrusted him with his secret commands to several of the great officers in his army, to the hazard of his life, and in the same year he became the eighth prebend. of the seventh stall in the church of Worcester on the death of John Charlet. In the year 1641, July 10, he

[865]

⁶ "J. Wadsworth, as before, cap. 3."

" was installed canon of Windsor, in the place of
 " Dr. Joh. Pocklington then lately deprived of all " his spiritualities by order of parliament, and in " the latter end of 1644 he became dean of Here-
 " ford in the place of Dr. Jonathan Browne de-
 " ceas'd, as I have told you in the FASTI under the " year 1630. In the time of the most barbarous
 " and unnatural rebellion he was divested of all his " spiritualities, and was constrained to a very narrow
 " fortune.⁷ In which condition remaining till his " majesty's return to his kingdoms, an. 1660, he was " then restored to his deanery and other spirituali-
 " ties which before he had left. On the 27th of " Dec. 1661 he was nominated by his maj. bishop
 " of Hereford in the place of Dr. Nich. Monke
 " deceased; to which see being consecrated on the " 9th of Feb. following (Shrove-Sunday) in the " archbishop's chappel at Lambeth (Dr. Jasper
 " Mayne of Ch. Ch. preaching then the consecra-
 " tion sermon) he became afterwards much véné-
 " rated by the gentry and commonalty of that dio" cese for his learning, doctrine, conversation and " good hospitality; which rendred him a person in " their esteem fitted and set apart by God for his " honourable and sacred function. Which prefer-
 " ment being in his time scarce worth 800*l.* per an.
 " yet it being the country of his ancestors, and of " very many of his relations, he was so well satisfied
 " with it that he refused the offer of greater prefer-
 " ment by king Charles II. as it was well known by " most of his contemporaries at court, where he " served as dean of his majesty's chappel royal from
 " the 8th of Feb. 1667 to the beginning of March
 " 1669; when being then weary of a court life or
 " (in truth) finding but little good effect of his pious
 " endeavours there,⁸ he retired to his episcopal see,
 " where by his strict rules in admission to holy
 " orders, especially that of priesthood, and in con-
 " ferring the dignities of the church, he dissatisfied
 " many more of the clergy, than he obliged, for no

⁷ [Soon after the taking of Hereford, this excellent doctor preaching at the cathedral there, inveighed boldly and sharply against sacrilege; at which, some of the officers then present (so little doth a guilty conscience need an accuser) began to mutter amongst themselves; and a guard of musqueteers in the church, were preparing their pieces, and asked whether they should fire at him; but colonel Bireh the governour prevented them. The confusions, at that time, were such, that he received little or no profit from his deanery, betwixt the nomination, and the dissolution of the cathedrals; and afterwards must have been constrained to live upon charity, had not the fair estate of the family devolved upon him by the death of his brother sir William Croft. During great part (at least) of the usurpation, he resided with sir Roland Berkley, at Cotheridge, in Worcestershire; having been divested of all his preferment. Walker, Sufferings of the Clergy, part ii, page 34.]

⁸ [Crofts, bishop of Hereford, was made dean of the chapel in the room of Morley. Crofts was a warm devout man, but of no discretion in his conduct: so he lost ground quickly. He used much freedom with the king: but it was in the wrong place, not in private, but in the pulpit. Burnet's Own Times, vol. i. page 258. London 1724.]

" solicitations could prevail with him to admit any to
 " be prebendaries of that church but such that lived
 " within his diocese, that the duty of the church
 " might not be neglected, and the small livings aug" mented. He would often please himself with the " effecting this pious design of having all the digni-" taries and prebendaries to live within his own
 " diocese, (which he lived to accomplish) hoping " that this example would influence his successors to " take the same course. He made but little public
 " shew of his charity, as many that are truly prudent
 " and pious do not, but they that were privy to " his concerns know it was very ample, in aug-
 " menting small livings, and relieving many in dis" tress, besides a weekly dole to 60 poor people at " his palace gate in Hereford, whether resident there
 " or not; for his country-house being situated in the " center of his diocese, he spent much time there,
 " where he was no less charitable in relieving the " poor and visiting the sick in the neighbouring pa" rishes, as 'tis very well known. He was very " friendly and loving to his clergy, a tender father,
 " and the best of husbands: And as for his learn" ing, which was not common, the books that he " wrote (the titles of which follow) do shew that he " was not altogether conversant in divinity but other " parts of learning.

" The naked Truth: or, the true State of the primitive Church. Lond. 1675. qu. Ibid. 1680.
 " fol. The appearance of this book at such a time
 " (1675) was like a comet. 'It drew (as one saith)
 " the eyes of all that could look upon it. It was a
 " divine manifestation of a primitive Christian spirit
 " of love. And certainly, as that pious endeavour
 " hath encreased his (the author's) comforts, so he
 " hath not lost all his labour; for since that, we " have had more overtures of peace, than we heard
 " of in many years before of discord and troubles,
 " from the learned in the church of England,' &c.
 " Thus a certain lukewarm conformist (quoted here
 " in the margin) in behalf of the nonconformists,
 " who, as they before had a great esteem for John
 " Hales his book Of Schism, so as much, if not more
 " now, for this, which they characterize with grand
 " encomiums. Will. Jenkyn, one of the principal " heads of them while he lived, stiles¹ it, among " others, 'tractatus egregius,' and Andr. Marvell,
 " who, after he had² termed the author of it 'judi-
 " cious, learned, conscientious, a sincere protestant,
 " and a true son, if not a father of the church of " England,' and that by the writing thereof he had " highly engaged the people of England, saith³ of " the book it self, that 'tis a treatise, which if not [866]

⁹ " Edw. Pearse in his book entit. The Conformists Plea for Non-conformists, &c. Lond. 1682. qu. in the first and " second page of the preface."

¹ " In his Celeusma, p. 9."

² " In his preface to his book entit. Mr. Smirke, or the Divine in Mode, &c."

³ " Ibid. p. 3."

“for its opposer (meaning Francis Turner, whom he calls Mr. Smirke) needs no commendation, being writ with that evidence and demonstration of spirit, that all sober men cannot but give their assent and consent to it, unask’d. It is a book of that kind, that no Christian scarce can peruse it, without wishing himself to have been the author, and almost imagining that he is so; the conceptions therein being of so eternal idea, that every man finds it to be but a copy of the original of his own mind,’ &c. The said book making a great noise at its first publication, it was soon after answered by several persons, as (1) by Franc. Turner D. D. head or master of S. John’s coll. in Cambridge, in a book entit. Animadversions on a Pamphlet entit. The Naked Truth, &c.—Printed twice in 1676. in qu. [Bodl. 4to. D. 42. Th.] (2) By the author of Lex Talionis: or, the Author of The Naked Truth, stript Naked. Lond. 1676. qu. [Bodl. 4to. D. 42. Th.] supposed then to be written by Dr. Pet. Gunning bishop of Chichester; concerning which book, the author⁴ before-mention’d saith thus: ‘But as to a new book fresh come out, entit. The Author of The Naked Truth stript Naked (to the fell or to the skin) that hieroglyphical quibble of the great gun in the title page will not excuse bishop Gunning; for his sermon is still expected—I guess that the word Fell, included before in the parenthesis, to allude to Philip Fell fellow of Eaton coll. who was generally then supposed to be the author of Lex Talionis before-mention’d, at its first coming forth, tho’ some (as I remember) said that Dr. Will. Lloyd dean of Bangor was the author of it. The said bishop Gunning, soon after the publishing of The Naked Truth, preached a smart and learned sermon at court before the king against it, which was much talked of afterwards and expected in print, being commanded, as ’twas said, by his maj. to do it: And therefore it gave occasion to A. Marvell before quoted to say that B. Gunning’s sermon is still expected. (3) By Gilb. Burnet D. D. in his book called A modest Survey of the most considerable Things in a Discourse lately published entit. The Naked Truth. Lond. 1676. qu. [Bodl. 4to. B. 20. Th.] This, I say, was written by Dr. Burnet (tho’ his name is not set to it) because I have seen it reckoned as his,⁵ in a

⁴ “Andr. Marvell in Mr. Smirke, &c. p. 76. being the last page.”

⁵ [And now I am upon the subject of latitude, I will beg leave of the reader to tell him a story of toleration, or comprehension, (for the difference sometimes is not great between them) which in the end will touch a little on our preacher; of whom I must observe once for all, that it is his opinion that an historian who favours his own side is to be forgiven, though he puts a little too much life in his colours, when he sets out the best side of his party, and the worst of those from whom he differs; and if he but slightly touches the failures of his friends, and severely aggravates those of the other side, though in this he departs from the laws of an

“catalogue of those books written by him, put at the end of another by a bookseller, to shew that such books were sold by him. Thus far for the answers of the said book called The Naked Truth, which, as I understand by a letter written by a knowing gent. a neighbour of bishop Croft in Herefordshire, dat. 13 June 1676, was then lately (as he was credibly inform’d) translated into French by the Hugonets, who are at great variance about it, some liking it; others not, &c. The reader may be now pleased to know, that besides the aforesaid pamphlet entit. The Naked Truth, have been other parts since published bearing the said title, but not written by the same author; and such are these, (1) The Naked Truth; the second Part. In several Enquiries concerning the Canons and Ecclesiastical Jurisdiction, &c. Lond. 1681. in 17 sh. in fol. which book, with A Vindication of the Naked Truth, the second Part; against the trivial Objections of one⁶ Fulwood in a libelling Pamphlet called Leges Angliæ, &c. were written by Edmund Hickerhill rector of exact historian, yet this bias is so natural, that if it lessens the credit of the writer, yet it doth not blacken him. Reflections on the History of Varillas, p. 7, 8. This shews how apt he is to favour his own friends, and his own party, beyond what is just and true: and being a known latitudinarian, by his own rule we can never safely trust him when he commends or defends any of his friends of that side; and it was upon the score of latitudinarianism, and mystical devotion, that he loved to extol Dr. Layton, though by some canons he hath cited in his history of the right of princes he was an usurper of the see of Glasgow, as Dr. Tillotson was esteemed to be in a more offensive degree of the see of Canterbury. But to return to his admired Dr. Layton, he was so great a libertine in comprehension, that he freely offered to receive the ejected presbyterian ministers without episcopal ordination, if they would come in, and to transact all things in the government of the church with his presbyters by plurality of suffrages, strictly speaking as if he were no more than a presbyter among them. Archbishop Burnet, into whose chair he intruded, told Dr. Gunning bishop of Ely this story of his intruder, and he wondering that any bishop should give up that power without which he could not act as bishop, asked Dr. Burnet of the truth of it, which he positively denied. This denial of his obliged the good archbishop for his vindication to refer bishop Gunning to a book which he had left with a friend, for the truth of what he had told him of the comprehensive latitude of Dr. Layton. I saw the book and remember it was printed at Glasgow, and it so fully satisfied the bishop that he took it home with him; but before he went made some reflections on the want of ingenuity in Dr. Burnet and concluded his animadversions upon him with a trick he shew’d himself. It relates to a book called Naked Truth; which the bishop intended to answer. Dr. Burnet, among others, hearing of it, come to wait upon him; and when that discourse arose between them he asked the bishop upon what volume he intended to make his answer, he who was one of the most frank and communicative men in the world, told him how he would answer it from part to part: which the doctor observing with design, carried every thing away, and being a swift and ready writer, printed his answer to it, before the other had finished his. Hickes, Discourses upon Dr. Burnet and Dr. Tillotson; occasioned by the late Funeral Sermon of the former upon the latter. London 1695, page 22.]

[867]

⁶ “Francis Fulwood archd. of Totness.”

" Allsaints church in Colchester,⁷ first a pensioner of " S. John's coll. in Cambridge, then in 1650 junior
 " bach. fellow of Gonvill and Caius college, soon
 " after a lieutenant in the English army in Scot" land, then a captain in major gen. or gen. major
 " Geo. Fleetwood's regiment when he was the " Sweedish ambassador in England for Carolus
 " Gustavus, and afterwards author of *Jamaica re-
 " vived with all the Ports, Harbours, &c. thereunto
 " belonging*, &c. Lond. 1661. oct. sec. edit. (2)
 " *The third Part of Naked Truth: or some serious
 " Considerations that are of high Concern to the " ruling Clergy of England, Scotland; or any " other Protestant Nation*, &c. Lond. 1681. in 11
 " sh. in fol. There is no name to it; but a noted⁸
 " author, who calls it a posthumous book, saith 'twas
 " written by Dr. Worsley, meaning Dr. Benj. Wors-
 " ley, whose library was expos'd to sale, by way of " auction, 13 May 1678. (3) *The fourth Part of " Naked Truth: or, the Complaint of the Church
 " to some of her Sons for Breach of her Articles*,
 " &c. Lond. 1682. in 10 sh. in fol. By whom this " was written, I know not, only so far that he was a
 " legal son of and sincere conformist to the church
 " of England. Much about which time came out
 " *The black Nonconformist, discovered in more
 " Naked Truth*, &c. Lond. 1682 in a thin fol. writ" ten by Hikeringhill before-mentioned. To all " these I may add *The Catholic Naked Truth: or,
 " the Puritan's Convert to Apostolical Christianity*,
 " Printed 1676. qu. To which are the initial letters
 " of W. H. set, that is Hubert commonly called
 " Berry, sometime of Cambridge, who took orders
 " from the bishop of Ely, but leaving his religion
 " soon after, he went beyond the seas and spent " some time among the Jesuits. Afterwards return" ing into England, wrote several books of which " the said Cath. Naked Truth was one. About " which time being betrayed to Dr. Compton bishop
 " of London by one Laurence a servant to Will.
 " Knott a bookbinder of S. James's in Westminster,
 " was for some time kept in custody, but at length

⁷ [Sub hoc Marmore
 jacet

Reverendus admodum * Dominus
 Edmundus Hickeringill,
 Tam Marte quam Mercurio clarus
 Quippe qui terra marique militavit non sine Gloria;
 Ingeniique vires scriptis multiplice
 Argumento insignitis
 Demonstravit
 Sanctis tandem ordinibus initiatus,
 Hujusce Parochiæ 46 annos Rector;
 Vitam, spe meliore fretus,
 Intrepide reliquit,
 Nov. 3^o Anno Dom. 1708
 Ætatis vero suæ 78.

* Admodum is filled up, and the space is now left void.
 WANLEY. See Morant's History of Essex, Append. to Colchester, page 21.]

⁸ " Rich. Baxter in his Second true Defence of the mere " Nonconformist, &c. Lond. 1681. qu. cap. 2. p. 11."

" no proof appearing that he was a Rom. priest, he " was set at liberty. The said Laurence, by the " way it must be noted, had left the protestant reli" gion and turned papist, but being afterwards
 " reconciled to the English church again, he did do " much mischief to the papists in betraying them to " the magistrate. Soon after there was another " pamphlet published entit. *Naked Truth: or " Truth manifesting it self in several Particulars
 " for the Removing of Hindrances, &c. given forth
 " by Way of Question and Answer*, printed 1674
 " in oct. There is no name set to the book, but " upon my perusal of it, I find the author to be pos-
 " sess'd with quaking principles, and therefore it
 " may really be called The Quakers Naked Truth.
 " As for other things which our author bishop
 " Croft hath written and published are these follow" ing, viz.

" Several sermons, as (1) *Sermon on Isaiah 27
 " last verse, preached before the Lords assembled in
 " Parl. upon the Fast Day appointed, 4 Feb. 1673.*
 " Lond. 1674. qu. (2) Serm. preached before the " K. at Whitehall, 12 Apr. 1674; on Phil. 1. 21.
 " Lond. 1675. qu. (3) *A Legacy to his Diocese:
 " or, a short Determination of all Controversies we " have with the Papists by God's holy Word.* Lond.
 " 1679. qu. contained in three sermons, on Joh. 5:
 " 39. To which is added, A Supplement to the " preceding Sermons: Together with a Tract con" cerning the holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.
 " [Bodl. 4to. J. 42. Th.] (4) *A second Call to a
 " farther Humiliation; being a Serm. preached in
 " the Cath. Ch. of Hereford, 24 Nov. 1678; on 1
 " Pet. 5. ver. 6.* [Lond. 1678, Bodl. 4to. J. 39. Th.]
 " 79. qu.

" *A Letter written to a Friend concerning Popish
 " Idolatry.* Lond. 1679. qu.

" Some Animadversions on a Book entit. The " Theory of the Earth. Lond. 1685. oct. [Bodl.
 " 8vo. C. 154. Linc.] which Theory was written by " Tho. Burnet a Scot,⁹ who succeeded Will. Erskyne
 " esq; in the mastership of Sutton's hospital near " London, about the beginning of 1685,¹ since
 " which time he took upon him the sacred function.

" A short Discourse concerning the Reading his " Majesty's late Declaration in Churches. Lond.
 " 1688. in two sheets in qu. This pamphlet coming " into the hands of a certain courtier, he commu" nicated it to king Jam. II. who, upon perusal,

⁹ [He was born at Croft in Yorkshire. GREY.]

¹ [Dr. Burnet was chosen master of the Charter-house by the interest of the duke of Ormonde, to whose grandson the earl of Ossory he had been governor; the bishops, who were of the number of the electors, had made exceptions to him, that though he was a clergyman, he went always in a lay-habit, but the duke being satisfied that his conversation and manners were worthy of a clergyman in all respects, and thinking these to be much more valuable than the exterior habit, insisted so strongly in his favour, that he was at last chosen. Carte, Life of James Duke of Ormonde. London 1736, vol. ii, page 546.]

[868]

1691.

"commanded so much as concern'd the reading of "the declaration (which was for the indulging of "consciences) to be printed, but suppressed all that "he said against taking off the test and penal laws.
 "At length after this most worthy and godly bishop
 "had lived to a great age,² partly in adversity, but "mostly in prosperity, he surrendred up his soul to
 "the Almighty, in his palace at Hereford on the "18th day of May in sixteen hundred ninety and
 "one, whereupon his body was buried in the cath.
 "ch. there,³ and Dr. Gilb. Ironside bishop of Bristol
 "was soon after translated to the said see of Here-
 "ford. In the preface to the last will and testament
 "of the said bishop Croft I find these words: 'And "I do in all humble manner most heartily thank "God, that he hath been most graciously pleased by "the light of his most holy gospel to recall me from
 "the darkness of popish errors and gross supersti-
 "tions, into which I was seduced in my younger
 "days, and to settle me again in the true ancient
 "catholic and apostolic faith professed by our church
 "of England, in which I was born and baptized,
 "and in which I joyfully die with full assurance by
 "the merits of my most blessed Saviour Jesus to "enjoy eternal happiness,' &c. By his said will he "settled 1200*l.* and the product thereof, for ever for "several charitable uses, as therein are directed, of "which 14*l.* per an. he appointed for an augmenta-
 "tion to the church of Yarpoll in Herefordshire:
 "Upon which also he settled lands to the value of
 "10*l.* per an. and upon the church of Croft in the "said county 12*l.* per an. for ever. All which were

² [In his epistle to his first sermon (Legacy to his Diocese) he saith he is past 75, so that he was born about 1602 or 3. In præf. to Animadu. he saith he is in 82 of his age. Fulman, MS. in Corpus library, vol. xiv. page 45.]

³ [The bishop married Anne, daughter of Dr. Jonathan Browne dean of Hereford (his predecessor) and left behind him one son, Herbert. The following character of this prelate is given by Mr. Browne Willis. He was a man, says this author, of exemplary charity, and had so strict a regard to his cathedral, that no solicitations could ever prevail on him to admit any person whatever to be prebendary thereof, but what lived within his diocese; which having accomplished and compleated himself, by introducing a set of prebendaries, all of his diocese, he hoped his successors would follow his example; which certainly, had they done, would have been of extraordinary benefit, and beyond any thing, kept up the dignity of the mother church, by spreading the interest of its members, to influence the gentry, &c. to support the fabrick, as well as encouraged the clergy to live hospitably, and exemplary in their cures, to recommend themselves to their bishops to prefer them—He died at Hereford, May 18th 1691, and was buried May 28th following, in his own cathedral, with this inscription on his grave-stone, within the communion rails:

Depositum Herberti Croft, de Croft, Episcopi Herefordensis, obiit 18 die Maii, A. D. 1691. Ætatis suæ 88, in vita conjuncti.

The last words allude to his lying next dean Benson, at the bottom of whose grave-stone, is this, In morte non divisi, the two grave-stones, having hands engraven on them, conjoined, reaching from one to the other. Cathedrals, vol. 2. page 629.]

"constantly paid by him for several years afore-
 "going. He had three brothers named William,
 "James and Robert, who all lived to serve their "king and country in the wars during the reign of "king Charles I. under whom they all served as
 "colonels, and for their stout and faithful service,
 "the two eldest were⁴ knighted by him. The "first (sir William) was killed at Stoke Castle near
 "Ludlow in Shropshire on the 9th of June 1645,
 "and the second sir James lived to the year 1659,
 "after he had suffer'd much for his loyalty to his
 "king. The said bishop Croft left behind him a "son of both his names, educated in the condition
 "of a commoner in Magd. coll. in this university,
 "afterwards created a baronet by his maj. king
 "Charles II. on the 18th of Nov. 1671, being then
 "a gentleman of good parts and judgment, a zealous
 "protestant according to the church of England,
 "and of good esteem in his own country, as appears
 "by his being twice elected knight of Herefordshire
 "to serve in parliament, viz. for that which began
 "at Westm. 20 Mar. 1689.—

"EDWARD POCOCK son of Edw. Pocock
 "bach. of div. of Magd. coll. was born in the parish
 "of S. Peter in the East, within the city of Oxford,
 "an. 1604, baptized there on the 8th of Nov.⁵ the "same year, educated mostly in grammar learning
 "under Rich. Butcher LL. B. in the free-school at
 "Thame in Oxfordshire, founded by John lord
 "Williams, became a commoner of Magd. hall, an.
 "1618, elected scholar of Corp. Ch. coll. two years
 "after,⁶ took the degrees in arts,⁷ was made fellow
 "of the said coll. and having a natural genius to the "knowledge of the tongues travelled for several "years into the Eastern parts of the world.⁸ After "his return he took the degree of bach. of div. and
 "much about the same time was appointed by Dr.
 "Laud archb. of Cant. his first reader of the Arabic
 "lecture founded by him, an. 1636. The year
 "after he was sent by the said archb. to Constan-
 "tinople to seek for books of the Eastern tongues,
 "and to improve his knowledge in them. After his [869]

⁴ "So I have been informed by sir Herb. Croft bart. son "of bishop Croft, but the reader is to know that William
 "occurs knt. in the pedigree of the Crofts made 1629."

⁵ "So in the parish register of S. Peter in the East,
 "Oxon."

⁶ [December 11, 1620. Life of Edward Pocock, by Twells, prefixed to Pocock's works, Lond. 1740, folio.]

⁷ [B. A. Nov. 28, 1622; M. A. March 28, 1626.]

⁸ [About the year 1629, he was appointed chaplain to the English merchants at Aleppo. He was however far from delighted with his office, or with the situation in which he was fixed:—"My chief solace," says he in a letter to a friend,
 "is the remembrance of my friends and my former happiness when I was among them. Happy you that enjoy those places, where I so often wish myself, as I see the barbarous people of this country. I think that he that hath once been out of England, if he get home will not easily be persuaded to leave it again. There is nothing that may make a man envy a traveller." Life, page 4.]

“ return he obtained of his college the rectory of “ Childrey in Berks, married,¹ and at length upon
 “ the death of Dr. Joh. Morris he became Hebrew “ professor, and so consequently canon of Ch. Ch.
 “ in the beginning of the year 1648, by the favour
 “ of the king then a prisoner in the isle of Wight,
 “ and afterwards of the committee of parliament for
 “ the reformation of the university of Oxon, in which “ committee the learned Selden being one, shewed “ himself then a real friend to our author Pocock,
 “ who, tho’ he then submitted to the visitors ap“ pointed by the parliament to reform, or rather “ deform, the university, yet about the latter end of “ 1650, or in the beginning of 1651, he was ejected
 “ from his canonry and Hebrew professorship for re“ fusing the independent oath called the engage“ ment. Afterward he retired to Childrey, and “ came over to Oxford in the Lent and long vacation
 “ (during which times he lived as a fellow commoner
 “ in Baliol coll.) to read his Arabic lecture, which he “ was suffered to keep, because there was then no “ person in the university fit to perform the same.
 “ However he was not long after in danger of losing “ that rectory for want of sufficiency, which was “ alledged against him by some of the ignorant com“ missioners and their assistants of Berkshire ap“ pointed by Oliver the protector, to eject such whom
 “ the said saints then (1654) called scandalous, ig“ norant and insufficient ministers and schoolmasters;
 “ but by the endeavours of Dr. Joh. Owen dean of “ Ch. Ch. and other doctors of the university, who “ knew the great merits of the person, he was, by “ their intercession, and satisfaction given to the “ commissioners by them of his great learning, suf“ fered to continue in his said rectory. After the “ king’s return in 1660 he was restored to his ca-“ nonry, actually created doctor of divinity, and “ became famous and much admired at home and “ beyond the seas for his great knowledge in the “ Oriental tongues, and for the books by him pub“ lished. He is honourably mention’d by Jo. Ger“ hardus on Peter, and other outlandish men, who “ held him in high value. His learned notes in his “ Specimen Hist. Arab. and miscellaneous notes in “ Port. Mosis do give very good evidence of his “ great abilities: And it was then hoped by all cu“ rious men (when this last was published) that as “ he had very learnedly and profitably handled the “ places of scripture, which he, therein, treateth of,
 “ so he would improve² his knowledge in the Oriental “ tongues for the illustrating of divers passages of “ scripture, which he accordingly hath admirably
 “ well done to the great content of noted critics.
 “ The publisher³ of Delphi Phoenicizantes stiles

² [In 1643. Life, page 22.]

¹ [He married, in the beginning of 1646, Mary, daughter of Thomas Burdett esq. of West-Wortham in Hampshire, by whom he had six sons and three daughters.]

³ “ See in A Treatise of Religion and Learning, &c. by Edw. Leigh, lib. 5.”

⁴ “ Edm. Dickinsonus, cap. 10.”

“ him an excellent man, not to be named without an “ honourable preface for his modesty, candor, and “ all kind of literature, that he is the ornament of “ the university, the phoenix of the Arabic tongue,
 “ &c. He hath published,

“ Versio & Notæ ad quatuor Epistolas Syriacæ,
 “ viz. ad Petri secundam, Johannis secundam, & “ tertiam, & Judæ unam, ex MSS. in Bib. Bod.
 “ nunc primum deprompt. Lugd. Bat. 1630. in qu.
 “ [Bodl. 4to. T. 17. Th. Seld.]

“ Specimen Historiæ Arabum, sive de Arabum “ Populis eorumque Moribus cum Notis. Oxon.
 “ 1648 [Bodl. 4to. Z. 7. Art. Seld.] and 50. [Bodl.
 “ 4to. A. 37. Art. Seld.] in qu.⁴ Joh. Golius in his “ pref. to Lex Arab. calls this book opus præclarum,
 “ and the author doctissimus.

“ Porta Mosis Arab. Lat. cum append. Notarum “ Miscellaneâ ad varia S. Scripturæ Loca. Oxon.
 “ 1655. in qu. [Bodl. 4to. P. 7. Th. Seld.]

“ De Ratione variantium in Pentateucho Arabico
 “ Lectionum. This is in the sixth vol. of the Pol“ yglot Bible.

“ Versio ac Notæ ad Tograi Carmen Arabicum.
 “ Oxon. 1661. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. L. 81. Art.]

“ Commentary on Micah and Malachy. Oxon.
 “ 1677. in a thin fol. [Bodl. C. 10. 6. Th.]

“ Com. on the Prophecy of Hosea. Oxon. 1685.
 “ [Bodl. C. 10. 4. Th.]

“ Com. on the Prophecy of Joel. Ox. 1691, “ [Bodl. C. 10. 5. Th.] 92. fol.

“ Epistolæ variae ad doctiss. Viros. Some of these “ are extant in several books.

“ Masseceh Beracoth for the use of the students
 “ of Ch. Ch. qu.⁵

“ He hath also translated into Lat. (1) The Annals
 “ of Eutychius, under this title, Contextio Gemma- “ rum, sive Eutychii Patriarchæ Alexandrini An- “ nales, illustriss. Johanni Seldeno rē Maxaplræ “ Chorago, interprete Edwardo Pocockio, &c. Oxon.
 “ 1659. in a thick oct.⁶ This book is in Arabic and “ Lat. (2) De Veritate Religionis Christianæ.
 “ Oxon. 1660. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. G. 2. Th. BS.] writ“ ten originally by Hugo Grotius, and by Pocock “ translated into Arabic, with annotations. (3) His- “ toria Dynastiarum. Oxon. 1663. qu. written in “ Arabic by Greg. Abul. Pharajus, and translated

⁴ [There is another edition having the following title: Specimen Historiæ Arabum, &c. accepit Historia veterum Arabum ex Abu'l Feda: cura Ant. I. S. de Sacy. Edidit Jos. White, S. T. P. Ædis Christi Canon. &c. Oxonii, 1806. 4to. This edition has a portrait of the author, engraved by W. N. Gardiner, from a painting in the Bodleian library.]

⁵ [Masseceh Beracoth, Titulus Talmudicus, in quo agitur de Benedictionibus, Precibus & Gratiarum Actionibus, adjecta versione Latina, in Usus studiosorum Literarum Talmudicarum in Æde Christi. Oxoniæ, 1667. 8vo. Bodl. 8vo. C. 711. Linc. But quære if this be not Samuel Clarke's. See these ATHENÆ, vol. iii. col. 883.]

⁶ [I fancy here must be some mistake. Pocock's trans. of Eutychius was printed in two volumes in 4to. Oxon. 1656. 1654: The second volume being printed before the first. See them Bodl. BB. 2, 3. Art. Seld. On the word Chorago, see Reliquiæ Hearnianæ, sub. an. 1705.]

"by Pocock into Lat. with an append. or supplement. For the printing of this work the ven. convocation of this university did confirm⁷ the decree of the delegates thereof that 140*l.* should be employed to do it, 16 May 1660. (4) Mosis Maimonidis Prefatio in Misnam, translated from Arabic into Lat.⁸ See in Will. Guise, under the year 1683. col. 114. He translated also great part of the Liturgy of the Church of England into Arabic⁹ at the request of Dr. Huntingdon, which was printed, but most of the copies were sent into Turkey. At length this eminent author Dr. Pocock dying in his lodgings in Ch. Church on Thursday the tenth of September (very early in the morning) in sixteen hundred ninety and one, was buried in one of the north isles joyning to the choir of the cath. ch. there. On the 14th of Nov. following, Rog. Altham bac. of div. of Ch. Ch. was installed canon in his place, and about that time had the Hebrew professorship conferred on him; and on the 22d of Decemb. following that, Tho. Hyde D. D. of Qu. coll. was elected into his professorship of Arabic. Afterwards was a monument of white marble set up (at some distance from his grave) on the north wall of the north isle or alley joyning to the body of the cathedral, with the bust of the defunct (in a square cap) over it, and thereon this inscription following, Edwardus Pocock S. T. D. (cujus si nomen audias, nil hic de fama desideres) Natus est Oxoniæ Nov. 8. an. Dom. 1604, socius in Collegium Corp. Christi cooptatus, 1628, in Linguae Arabicæ Lecturam publicè habendam primus est institutus, 1636, deinde etiam in Hebraicam Professori Regio successit 1648. Desideratissimo marito Sept. 10. 1691, in Cælum reverso, Maria Burdet, ex qua novenam suscepit sobolem, tumulum hunc mœrens posuit."

[The theological Works of the learned Dr. Pocock, sometime Professor of the Hebrew and Arabic Tongues in the University of Oxford, and Canon of Christ Church; containing his Porta Mosis, and English Commentaries on Hosea, Joel, Micah, and Malachi. To which is prefixed an Account of his Life and Writings never before printed; with the Addition of a new general Index to the Commentaries, by Leonard Twells, M. A. Rector of the United Parishes of S. Matthew's Friday-Street, and St. Peter's, Cheap, and Prebendary of St. Paul's, London.

⁷ "Reg. Convoc. Univ. Oxon. an. 1660. p. 26."

⁸ [This is a republication of one of the discourses that compose the Porta Mosis, and that in Latin only. LOVE-DAY.]

⁹ [Liturgia Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ Partes præcipuæ; viz. Preces matutinae & vespertinae; Ordo administrandi Cenam Domini; Ordo Baptismi publici una cum ejusdem Ecclesiæ Doctrina, triginta novem Articulis comprehensa: nec non Homiliarum Argumentis: in Linguam Arabicam traductæ. Opera Edwardi Pocock S. Th. D. Lingg. Hebraicæ & Arab. in Academia Oxon. Professoris. Oxoniæ Typis & Impensis Academia 1674. Bodl. Mar. 313.]

don. London printed for the editor, &c. 1740, in two volumes fol.]¹

¹ [Notwithstanding the length of the following extracts I cannot refrain from giving the reader a character of Pocock as drawn by the celebrated John Locke, in a letter dated July 23, 1703, addressed to Mr. Smith of Dartmouth.

"So extraordinary an example, in so degenerate an age, deserves for the rarity, as I was going to say, for the incredibility of it, the attestation of all that knew him, and considered his worth. The Christian world is a witness of his great learning, that, the works he published would not suffer to be concealed; nor could his devotion and piety be hid, and be unobserved in a college, where his constant and regular assisting at the cathedral service, never interrupted by sharpness of weather; and scarce restrain'd by downright want of health, shewed the temper and disposition of his mind: but his other virtues and excellent qualities had so strong and close a covering of modesty and unaffected humility, that, though they shone the brighter to those who had the opportunities to be more intimately acquainted with him, and eyes to discern and distinguish solidity from shew, and esteem virtue, that sought not reputation, yet they were the less taken notice of, and talked of by the generality of those, to whom he was not wholly unknown: not that he was at all close and reserved, but on the contrary, the readiest to communicate to any one that consulted him. Indeed he was not forward to talk, nor ever would be the leading man in the discourse, though it were on a subject that he understood better than any of the company, and would often content himself to sit still and hear others debate in matters which he himself was more a master of. He had often the silence of a learner where he had the knowledge of a master, and that not with a design, as is often, that the ignorance any one betrayed, might give him the opportunity to display his own knowledge with the more lustre and advantage, to their shame, or censure them, when they were gone; but these arts of triumph and ostentation, frequently practised by men of skill and ability, were utterly unknown to him: it was very seldom that he contradicted any one, or if it were necessary at any time to inform any one better, who was in a mistake, it was in so soft and gentle a manner, that it had nothing of the air of dispute or correction, and seemed to have little of opposition in it. I never heard him say any thing that put any one that was present the least out of countenance; nor ever censure, or so much as speak diminishingly of any one that was absent. He was a man of no irregular appetites:—though he was a man of the greatest temperance in himself, and the farthest from ostentation and vanity in his way of living, yet he was of a liberal mind and given to hospitality, which considering the smallness of his preferments, and the numerous family of children he had to provide for, might be thought to have out-done those who made more noise and shew. His name, which was in great esteem beyond sea, and that deservedly, drew on him visits from all foreigners of learning, who came to Oxford to see that university: they never failed to be highly satisfied with his great knowledge and civility, which was not always without expence. Though at the restoration of king Charles, his merits were so overlooked or forgotten, that he was barely restored to what was his before, without receiving any new preferment then or at any time after; yet I never heard him take any the least notice of it, or make any the least complaint, in a case that would have sorely grated on some men's patience, and have filled their mouths with murmuring and their lives with discontent. But he was always unaffectedly cheerful, no marks of any thing that lay heavy at his heart, for being neglected, ever broke from him; he was so far from having any displeasure lie concealed there, that whenever any expressions of dissatisfaction for what they thought hard usage broke from others in his presence, he always diverted the discourse, and if it were any body with whom he might take that liberty, he silenced it."

"JOHN FLAVEL, son of Rich. Flavel some"time minister of Haseller in Warwickshire, and "afterwards of Willersey near Camden in Glouces-
 "tershire was born in Gloucestershire, became a ser-
 "vitor or batler after the rendition of the garrison
 "of Oxon for the use of the parliament, in Univer"sity college, where continuing about two years,
 "he, by virtue of a call, set up for a preacher, with"out any orders from a bishop, at Dipford in De-
 "vonshire, and there obtained the character among "factious people of a precious young man. Then
 "he removed to a sea-port town in that county
 "called Dartmouth, where, for a few years before
 "the act of conformity, he was assistant to the vicar
 "in the church of Tounstall, and one of the then
 "lecturers in the chappel of S. Saviour annext.
 "After S. Bartholomew's day, an. 1662, which the "nonconformists called The black day, his ordinary
 "residence was at Dartmouth, where he became "famous in his conventicle, for a popular kind of
 "canting rhetoric kept up, and with his utmost "industry increased the separation, grew rich by "marrying wives, and his continual complaining of "persecution." [—a great dissembler. He obtained not only more disciples than ever John Owen the independent, or Rich. Baxter the presbyterian did, but more wives than both (four at least in number according to the custome of the saints) by which he obtained a very considerable estate. He was an unparaleld impudent plagiarist; did not stick to rob (if I may so speak) in the face of the sun, as any with visible marks of dislike. Though he was not a forward, much less an assuming talker, yet he was the farthest in the world from sullen and morose; he would talk very freely and very well of all parts of learning, besides that wherein he was known to excel; but this was not all: he could discourse very well of other things. He was not unacquainted with the world, though he made no shew of it. His backwardness to meddle in other people's matters, or to enter into debates where names and persons were brought upon the stage, and judgements and censures were hardly avoided, concealed his abilities in matters of business and conduct from most people.

 But yet I can truly say, that I knew not any one in that university, whom I would more willingly consult in any affair that required consideration, nor whose opinion I thought better worth the hearing than his, if he could be drawn to enter into it, and give his advice. Though in company he never used himself, nor willingly heard from others, any personal reflections on other men, though set off with a sharpness that usually tickles, and by most men is mistaken for the best, if not the only, seasoning of pleasant conversation, yet he would often bear his part in innocent mirth, and by some apposite and diverting story, continue and heighten the good humour. I do not remember that in all my conversation with him, I ever saw him once angry, or to be so far provoked, as to change colour, or countenance, or tone of voice; displeasing accidents and actions would sometimes occur: there is no help for that: but nothing of that kind moved him, that I saw, to any passionate words, much less to chiding for clamour. His life appeared to me one constant calm. To conclude, I can say of him, what few men can say of any friend of theirs, nor I of any other of my acquaintance, that I do not remember I ever saw in him any one action that I did, or could in my own mind, blame, or thought amiss in him.' Life, by Twells, page 24.]

curious reader may discern from those books which he hath published: The titles of most of which I shall anon set downe (and in the meane time tell you, that a few dayes before he died, he being at a general meeting of the dissenting ministers of Devonshire, met at Topsham, was chosen moderator of that assembly: which office he the more readily accepted, because that he might have the better opportunity to carry on the blessed uniting work, as he called it.
 After the election he wrote a letter the same morning that he died at night, to an eminent dissenting minister living in London, to give him an account of the proceedings of that meeting. What I have further to note of this person, before I speak of his works is (1) That before the restoration of K. Ch. 2.
 he took all occasions to preach against him, his cause and every little thing that he could meet with that made against him, he usually published it to his disciples either in the pulpit or in his common discourse. (2) That it was his usual course to raile against episcopacy, bishops, the church of England, its orthodox sons, royalists and what not to promote his wicked, and run down their just, cause. (3) That after his majesty's restauration and S. Bartholomew's day, in 1662, he preach'd sedition several times in his private conventicle, and when an indulgence for dissenters was granted, in the latter end of 1671, he spoke his mind more openly, what before it had conceived. (4) That when his Popish, which some called Oates's plot broke out, it was usual with him to vent matters savouring of treason in his weekly sermons or cants, which he and his factious brethren ridiculously make their only religion; and lastly, that after K. Will. came to the crown, and another indulgence then granted, he plied his talent so much that he left not one stone unmoved whereby he might increase the separation: But behold whilst he was in the height of these his diabolical machinations he was suddenly, and as I may say justly, cut off from the face of the living and was no more seen. His works that are published are mostly these: 2] "Here
 "follow most of the works which he hath pub-
 "lish'd,

"Husbandry Spiritualized: or, the Heavenly
 "Use of Earthly Things, consisting of many plea-
 "sant Observations, pertinent Applications and
 "serious Reflections, &c. Lond. 1669. qu. [Bodl.
 "4to. S. 66. Th.]

"Choice occasional Meditations upon Beasts,
 "Birds, Trees, Flowers, Rivers, and several other
 "Objects. This is printed with the former book.

"Navigation Spiritualized: or, a new Compass
 "for Seamen, consisting of 32 Points of pleasant
 "Observations and serious Reflections. Lond. 1671,
 "77. oct.

"Spiritual Poems—Printed with the Navig.
 "Spirit.

² [WOOD, MS. insertion in bishop Tanner's copy of the ATHENÆ, in the Bodleian library.]

See
 vol. 11
 207

[871]

" The Fountain of Life opened: or, a Display of Christ in his Essential and Mediatorial Glory; wherein the Impetration of our Redemption by Jesus Christ is orderly unfolded as it was begun, carried on, and finished by his Covenant-Transaction, Mysterious Incarnation, &c. Lond. 1672, 73. qu. This is the sum of several sermons.

" A Token for Mourners: or, the Advice of Christ to a distressed Mother, bewailing the Death of her dear and only Son, &c. Lond. 1674. &c. in oct. and tw.

" Several sermons, as (1) *A Saint indeed,*³ or the great Work of a Christian; on Prov. 4. 23. Lond. [1673. Bodl. 8vo. G. 94. Th.] 1675, 85. in tw. (2) The grand Evil discovered, or the deceitful Heart tried and cast, being the Substance of some Sermons on Jer. 17. 9. Lond. 1676. oct. To which is added, The Way of the Heart's Working, and precious Remedies against its Devices. (3) The Seaman's Companion, wherein the Mysteries of Providence, relating to Seamen, are opened, &c. in six practical and suitable Sermons. Lond. 1676. oct. (4) Divine Conduct, or the Mystery of Providence; &c. on Psalm 57. 2. Lond. 1678. 79. oct. (5) The Touchstone of Sincerity, or the Signs of Grace and Symptoms of Hypocrisy, &c. on Rev. 3. 17, 18. Lond. 1678, 79. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 115. Th.] 'Tis the second part of A Saint indeed, &c. (6) Mount Pisgah, Serm. preached at the public Thanksgiving 14 Feb. 1688. for England's Delivery from Popery; on Deut. 3. 24, 25. Lond. 1689. qu.

" Sacramental Meditations upon 12 select Places of Scripture, wherein Believers are assisted in preparing, &c. Lond. 1680. 90. oct.

" The Method of Grace, in bringing home the Eternal Redemption, contrived by the Father and accomplished by the Son, thro' the effectual Application of the Spirit to God's elect, being the second Part of Gospel Redemption, &c. Lond. 1680. qu.

" Preparations for Sufferings: or, the best Work in the worst Times; wherein the Necessity, Excellency, &c. Lond. 1682. oct.

" Two Treatises: the first of Fear, the second the righteous Man's Refuge in the Evil Day. Lond. 1682. oct.

" The Reasonableness of personal Reformation, and the Necessity of Conversion, the true Methods of making all Men happy in this World, and in the World to come, &c. Lond. 1691. in tw. Re-flected upon by Mr. Edm. Ely.

" England's Duty, &c. Lond. 1689. This I have not yet seen.

" A sure Tryal of a Christian State—This is

³ [I have seen an edition Lond. 1671, and even this probably was not the first, for the dedication ('to the flock of Jesus Christ in Dartmouth, over whom the Holy Ghost hath made me an overseer' as he says,) is dated 'from my study at Ley in Slapton, Octob. 7, 1667.']

" added to a book entit. Helps for Faith and Patience in Times of Affliction, in 3 Parts, &c. by Jam. Burdword late minister in Dartmouth. Lond. 1692, 3.

" An Exposition of the Assembly's shorter Catechism, with practical References from each Question. Lond. 1693. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. E. 20. Line.]

" Remains—These consist of two sermons, and were published with an epistle before them to the reader after the author's death, by a fanatic preacher in Totness called Joh. Galpine sometime a student in Exeter coll. among presbyterians and independents, during the reign of Oliver, afterwards in New inn, where he took the degree of bach. of arts, 1658, but left that house and the university without compleating that degree by determination, which was to be done in Lent time that year. In the 127th page of the said Remains, the author Flavel steals a piece of wit from the learned Joh. Hales of Eaton. The sense of which is set forth by an emblem in the frontispiece in the second edit. of the said Mr. Hales his Golden Remains; over the sculpture are these words, *'Like Spirits in the Minerals, with all their Labour nothing is done.'*⁴ The said Joh. Flavel died at Exeter in the month of June in sixteen hundred ninety and one, aged 61, and was buried in the church at Dartmouth on the 29th day of the same month, being accompanied to his grave by very many dissenters. In the epistle before his Remains aforesaid I find these words. As for the manner of his (Flavel's) death, it was very sudden and surprizing, he being as well that day, in the evening of which he died, as he had been for divers years before. Towards the end of supper he complained of a deadness in his hand, so that he could not lift it to his head; at which his wife and friends about him were struck with some astonishment, using what means they could to recover it to its former strength, but instead thereof, to their terror and amazement, he was seiz'd in his thigh and all one side of his body, &c.' By which it appears, that he died suddenly of an apoplexy or a dead palsey, being then about to go to Taunton to preach at an assembly of nonconformist ministers, and to carry on according to his usual and violent course the matter of separation and dissention.

" HENRY MAURICE, son⁵ of Tho. Maur. minister of Llangristiolis in the isle of Anglesey (by his wife a near relation of the honourable family of Bulkley the principal family of that isle) son of Maurice an eminent divine and a noted Hebritian in his time in Wales, was born at Llangristiolis before-mentioned, educated in the free-school at Beaumaris, under Tho. Moyle, a learned and ingenious person, admitted a member

⁴ [See Milton's Poems, by Warton, ed. 8vo. 1785, page 188.]

⁵ [See the first vol. of these ATHENÆ, col. 667, line 21.]

" of Jesus coll. in the beginning of the year 1664,
 " aged 16, being then put under the tuition of Tho.
 " Ellis bach. of div. and fellow of that house. After " he had taken the degree of bach. of arts he was " elected fellow, at which time he was much taken
 " notice of for his early parts and extraordinary
 " learning; and after he had proceeded in that faculty,
 " he was by his principal and society appointed cu-
 " rate of their church at Cheltenham in Gloucester-
 " shire, (still retaining his fellowship) where being
 " provoked by some malepert Socinians armed with " arguments by secret hands of the greatest ability
 " of that party, he managed a controversy with them
 " in writing so successfully, that he gained to him" self great reputation, and was admired even by his " adversaries, who sent after him to Jesus coll. frequent
 " letters full of great respect and commendations.
 " After he had held his curacy about two years, he " retired to his private studies in his college, where " growing eminent for virtue and learning, he was " desired by his great friend and patron sir Leolin
 " Jenkyns to attend him in his embassy to Neomagin
 " (whither he was sent plenipotentiary, an. 1675)
 " in the quality of chaplain, with whom remain" ing about three years beyond the seas, he improved " himself much in the conversation of eminent per" sons, in viewing the Netherlands, the lower parts
 " of Germany, and in the knowledge of several mo" dern languages. After his return into England,
 " he lived for some time in the family of sir Leolin
 " at Doctors Commons and sometimes in Jesus coll.
 " untill the year 1680, at which time he was by the " most reverend father in God William lord archb.
 " of Canterbury made his domestic chaplain, in which " office he continued till the said archb. removed " from Lambeth palace (for refusing the oaths to " king Will. III. and qu. Mary) to the Palsgrave-
 " head-court near Temple Bar, within the liberty of " Westminster, 23 June 1691. By the said archb.
 " he was in such a particular manner esteemed for " his great learning and faithful service, that he
 " bestowed on him the rectory of Chevening in Kent,
 " afterwards the sine-cure rectory of Llanderillo in " the diocese of S. Asaph, next the treasurership of " Chichester (in which he was installed 7 Jan. 1681)
 " and last of all the rectory of Newington near Dor" chester in Oxfordshire on the death of Dr. Will.
 " Brabourne, (instituted therein about the beginning " of Apr. 1685) and thereupon he gave up Cheven-
 " ing, being then doctor of divinity. In Octob.
 " 1689 he was by the clergy of the dioc. of Oxon
 " elected their representative in the convocation to " be held at Westm. in the month following, in " which convocation he was eminently active, as all
 " who knew the transactions of it, may remember.
 " On the 18th of July 1691 he was elected Margaret
 " professor of the university of Oxon, upon the pro" motion of Dr. Joh. Hall to the see of Bristol, and " in right of that place he was installed prebendary
 " of Worcester within few days after. He was a [873]

" person of incomparable learning, and unblemish'd
 " virtue. His vivacity and quickness of parts,
 " joined with a solid judgment, was admirable: to
 " which was added an extraordinary memory, and " a clear and ready wit. In preaching few have " exceeded him in eloquence and strength of reason,
 " altho' he scarce ever employed above two hours
 " meditation in composing a sermon, nor ever com" mitted any thing to writing, except that sermon
 " preached before the king, and some short notes of " a sermon preached to the university of Oxon not " many days before his death. But above all, his " memory ought to be esteemed for his eminent
 " zeal and affection towards the established doctrine
 " and discipline of the church of England, and his
 " invincible courage in defending and supporting it
 " whensoever occasion offered: to which may be " added, that those who had the happiness to enjoy
 " his particular friendship, knew him to be the best
 " of friends. His works that are extant are these,
 " " A Vindication of the Primitive Church, and
 " " Diocesan Episcopacy: in Answer to Mr. Bax-
 " " ter's Church History of Bishops and their Coun-
 " " cils abridg'd: as also to some Part of his Treatise
 " " of Episcopacy. Lond. 1682. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. Z.
 " " 181. Th.] By which book it appears that no man
 " hath dealt better with, or become more victorious
 " over, Mr. Rich. Baxter, than our author Maurice,
 " or more exposed his learning and small insight
 " into antiquity. But notwithstanding this, Mr.
 " Baxter replied upon him in a piece entit. The " true History of Councils enlarged and defended,
 " against the Decrets of a pretended Vindication of
 " the Primitive Church, &c. Lond. 1682. qu. Our " author Maurice in some part of his preface to the " above named Vindication, having made some ex" ceptions against a pamphlet wrote against Dr. E.
 " Stillingfleet, entit. No Evidence for Diocesan
 " Churches, or any Bishops without the Choice or " Consent of the People in the Primitive Times,
 " &c. Lond. 1681. qu. (which pamphlet was as" cribed to Mr. David Clarkson a learned noncon" formist, who afterwards disown'd it.) The true
 " author thereof, whosoever he was, returned an " answer, plac'd at the end of Mr. Baxter's book
 " even now mention'd, to what concern'd him in the " said preface, under the name of Diocesan Churches
 " not yet discovered, &c. Lond. 1682. qu. Dr.
 " Maurice hath also published,
 " " A Sermon preached at Whitehall before the
 " " King 30 Jan. 1681; on Isa. 37. 3. Lond. 1682.
 " qu. [Bodl. C. 7. 16. Line.]
 " " The Antithelomite: or an Answer to certain
 " " Queries of the Duke of Buckingham, and to the
 " " Considerations of an unknown Author concern-
 " " ing Toleration. Lond. 1685. qu. in 10 sh. and " an half.
 " " The Project, &c. written upon occasion of the " " Popish Judges haranguing in their Circuits
 " " against the established Religion. Lond. 1688. qu.

"Doubts concerning the Roman Infallibility. Lond. 1688. qu.

"Letter to a Member of the House of Commons, concerning the Bishops lately in the Tower, and now under Suspension. Lond. 1689. qu.

"Remarks from the Country upon the two Letters relating to the Convocation, and Alterations in the Liturgy. Lond. 1689. qu.

"Defence of Diocesan Episcopacy; in Answer to Mr. David Clarkson's Book entit. Primitive Episcopacy. Lond. 1691. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. F. 27. Linc.]

These are all the books that Dr. Maurice hath published, unless the report be true that he wrote Animadversions on the History of the Rights of Princes. Lond. 1682. qu. which History was writ by Dr. Gillb. Burnet, who soon after answered the Animadversions in 3 sh. in qu. At length this learned and worthy doctor dying suddenly in his house near Newington before-mentioned (his breath being stoppt with the extravasation of blood in the lungs) on the 30th of Octob.

in sixteen hundred ninety and one, was buried in the chancel of the church there on the 6th of Nov. following.⁶ In his Margaret professorship succeeded Tho. Sykes bach. of div. of Trin. coll. in his rectory of Newington Dr. Royse provost of Oriel, and in his treasurership of Chichester one

—— Barker of Cambridge. Besides this Hen. Maurice, I find another of both his names rector of Tyingham in Bucks, author of An impartial Account of Mr. Joh. Mason of Water-Stratford and his Sentiments. Lond. 1695. in 9 sh. and an half in qu. but this H. Maurice was bred in Cam-

⁶ [Newington being thought too obscure a place, the following inscription was erected to his memory on a monument in Jesus college chapel, Oxon.

M. S.

Viri integerrimi, æternum colendi
Henrici Maurice, S. T. D. in hac Acad. Prof. Marg.

Hujus Collegii olim Socii

Eximii Decoris, atque Ornamenti,

Dubium enim an naturæ dotibus instructor,

An animi virtutibus fuerat :

Utrisque certè instructissimus :

Sagaci ingenio, acri judicio

Memoria felici fretus ;

Humaniorum Literarum curriculum

Nec perfunctoriè emensus ;

Ad sanctiora seriò properavit studia,

Evasitque plane consummatissimus,

Cum vita, tum voce Theologus.

Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ decus fuit et Column

Cujus fidem sanctissimis moribus ornavit

Et jura scriptis egregiis asseruit.

Schismaticos late grassantes adortus,

fudit et fregit : Disciplinam vindicavit,

Primævus ipse, Primævam.

Professoriam recens adeptus Lauream,

Pensumque grande meditant

Inopina prorsus intercesserunt Fata

Heu quam præmatura !

Apoplexia corrept. Ob. 3. Cal. Nov. MDCXCI. Æt. XLIV.

Nat. est in Insula Monæ,

Sepul. in Eccl. Par. de Newington, in Agr. Oxon.

cujus fuerat Rector meritissimus.]

"bridge. He published the said book that it might,

"by God's blessing, detect error and becalm faction,

"in those chiefly, who esteem a general rendezvous

"upon earth a better enjoyment than heaven's

"triumph ; who look upon all government as anti-

"christian, and think it their duty to despise do"minion, that they may set up themselves and

"Christ together. A very intimate friend to Dr.

"Hen. Maurice was the learned Mr. Henry Whar-

"ton, who was descended from an ancient and gen-

"teel family, son of Mr. Edm. Wharton, was born ⁷

"at Worstead in Norfolk (where his father was

"sometime vicar) educated in Gonvill and Caius

"coll. in Cambridge, took the degrees in arts, pre"sented or commended for a rarity to archb. San-

"croft, who conferring sacred orders on him when "he was 22 years of age, the said archb. took him

"into his service at the age of 23, and made him

"one of his chaplains. Afterwards, for his en-

"couragement, he gave to him the rectory of Char-

"tham in Kent, and the vicaridge of Minster in the "isle of Thanet, where he kept curates, while he

"busied himself about the public concerns of learn"ing. During the time that he continued chaplain

"to that archbishop, there was an inseparable

"friendship and intimacy contracted between him

"and the aforesaid Dr. Henry Maurice. They "studied together, and communicated to each other

"their thoughts, on those works which they pub-

"lished to their great honour ; and in Mr. Whar-

"ton's Defence of Pluralities some of Dr. Maurice's

"neat and florid dashes with his pen are discernable

"in it, especially to those of Jesus coll. in Oxon

"that knew the way of writing of that person ;

"who also stick not to say, that he had a hand in

"composing the first part of it. This Mr. Wharton

"was a man of admirable gifts, great modesty and

"affability, and gave such early indications of his

"parts in the university of Cambridge, and after"wards in London, that the learned looked on him

"as a person born for the advancement of learning.

"He was a zealous lover of the church of England,

"its doctrine and discipline, and a learned vindi-

"cator of it against popery, as it appears by several

"discourses set out by him in the reign of king

"James II. His Discourse of the Celibacy of the "Clergy was written by him when he was very

"young ; wherein with nervous reasons and variety

"of reading is made manifest, that it was one of the "most admirablest vindications of the marriage of "the clergy, that ever was set out. This Mr.

"Wharton hath written,

"Treatise of the Celibacy of the Clergy, wherein

"its Rise and Progress are historically considered.

"[Lond. 1688, 4to. Bodl. C. 11. 10. Linc.]

"The Pamphlet entit. Speculum Ecclesiasticum,

"an Ecclesiastical Prospective Glass, considered in

⁷ [He was born with two tongues, each of same form and bigness : the lower tongue withered away by degrees. See Abridg. of Philosophical Transactions, x, 939.]

"its false Reasonings and Quotations. Lond.—
[1688. Bodl. C. 7. 7. Linc.] There are added,
"by way of preface, two farther answers, the first
"to the defender of the Speculum, the second to
"the half sheet against the six conferences.

"The Enthusiasm of the Church of Rome demonstrated in some Observations upon the Life of Ignatius Loyala (founder of the Jesuits order).
"These four pamphlets before-mention'd were publish'd in the reign of king Jam. II. at which time
"the Roman cath. writers were endeavouring to "advance their religion, and decry that of protestants.

"A Specimen of some Errors and Defects in The History of the Reformation of the Church of England, written by Gilb. Burnet, D. D. now Lord Bishop of Sarum. Lond. 1693. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. B. 95. Linc.] published under the name of
"Anthony Harmer.⁶ Afterwards, viz. in the latter end of 1692 was published a pamphlet entit. A Letter writ by the Lord Bishop of Salisbury to the L. Bishop of Cov. and Litchfield (Dr. W. Lloyd) concerning a Book lately publish'd, call'd, A Specimen of some Errors and Defects in the Hist. of the Reformation of the Church of England. Lond. 1693. qu. [Bodl. C. 5. 1. Linc.] In which pamphlet the author Dr. Burnet bishop of Salisbury reflecting in a gross manner (by way of back-blow) on the author of Ath. & Fasti Oxon. (Mr. A. Wood) that author therefore under the name
"of E. D. did soon after answer the said letter in a
"pamph. entit. A Vindication of the Historiographer of the University of Oxford and his Works, from the Reproaches of the Lord Bishop of Salisbury in his Letter writ to the Lord Bishop of Cov. and Litchfield, concerning a Book lately publish'd, &c. Lond. 1693. qu. published in Apr. that year.⁹ Mr. Wharton hath also written,

"*A Defence of Pluralities,*¹ &c. Lond. 1692. oct.²
"Soon after came out a thing entit. The Case of Pluralities and Non-residence rightly stated: in a Letter to the Author of a Book called, A Defence of Pluralities, &c. Lond. 1694. oct. but who the author of it was, I cannot yet tell.

"Historia de Episcopis & Decanis Londinensibus: necnon de Episcopis & Decanis Assarensibus: a primâ Sedis utriusque Fundatione ad An. 1540. Lond. 1695. oct. [Bodl. Gough, Lond. 264, cum notis manuscriptis viri doctissimi Tho. Baker, coll. Joh. Cant. socii ejecti.]

"Appendix duplex Instrumentorum quorundam

⁶ [Dr. Samuel Pegge conjectures that this name should be Wharmer; as Anthony Wharmer is the anagram of Henry Wharton, A. M. See Ten Centuries of Observations.]

⁹ [Printed again in the first vol. of these ATHENÆ.]

¹ [This hath been since answered by Dr. Newton, principal of Hertford college, in Oxford, in a book intitled Pluralities Indefensible, Lond. 8vo. WHALLEY.]

² [Bodl. 8vo. G. 159. Art. Second edit. Lond. 1703, Bodl. Godw. 284. Sub.]

"insignium, ad utrumq; Historiam spectantium.
"Pr. with the former.

"Appendix ab incunato Seculo 14. ad Annum usq; 1517—This is at the end of Scriptorum Ecclesiasticorum Historia Literaria a Christo Nato usq; ad Seculum xiv. facili Methodo digesta, &c. Lond. 1689. fol. written by Will. Cave, D. D. and canon of Windsor. [Bodl. Z. 1. 14. Th.]

"Auctarium Historiæ Dogmaticæ Jacobi Usserii Armachani de Scripturis & sacris Vernaculis. Lond. 1689. qu. This is at the end of a book entit. Jacobi Usserii Armachani Archiep. Historiæ Dogmaticæ inter Orthodoxos & Pontificios de Scripturis & sacris Vernaculis. Lond. 1690. qu. which last book Mr. Wharton did describe, digest, and added thereunto notes besides the Auctarium before-mention'd.

"He also published, (1.) A brief Declaration of the Lord's Supper, written by Dr. Nich. Ridley bishop of London, during his imprisonment: with some Demonstrations and Disputations, concerning the same argument, by the same author Ridley. (2.) A Treatise proving Scripture to be the Rule of Faith, written by Reginald Peacock bishop of Chichester, long before the reformation, about 1450: to which Mr. Wharton also put a preface. These two pamphlets were published in the reign of king James II. (3.) Anglia sacra: sive Collectio Historiarum, partim antiquitus, partim recentior Scriptorum, de Archiepiscopis & Episcopis Angliæ, a prima Fidei Christianæ Susceptione ad Annum MDXL. Lond. 1692. in 2 vol. or parts in fol. The first part is 'de Archiep. & Episcopis Ecclesiarum cathedralium, quas Monachi possederunt,' and the second contains 'Plures antiquas de vitis & rebus gestis præsulum Anglicorum Historias sine certo ordine congestus.' In some part of these two volumes Mr. Wharton owns a design of writing the life of Rob. Grosthead bishop of Lincoln. (4.) History of the Troubles and Tryal of the most Rev. Father in God Dr. Will. Laud Archb. of Canterbury, &c. Lond. 1695. fol. See more in William Laud. In the preface to this hist. written by Mr. Wharton, he mentions a design of his publishing another volume of memoirs relating to the said archb. Laud.³ He hath also drawn up some materials

³ [It was printed after Wharton's death with the following title: The second Volume of the Remains of the most reverend Father in God and blessed Martyr, William Laud, Lord Arch-Bishop of Canterbury, written by himself. Collected by the late learned Mr. Henry Wharton and published according to his Request by the reverend Mr. Edmund Wharton, his Father. London, 1700; folio. This volume contains 1. An Answer to the Speech of the right honourable William Lord Viscount Say and Seal, &c. spoken in Parliament, upon the Bill about Bishop's Power in civil Affairs and Courts of Judicature. Anno 1641.

2. A Speech delivered in the Star-Chamber, on Wednesday the fourteenth of June 1637, at the Censure of J. Bastwick,

"for writing the life of Dr. Will. Sancroft archb. of "Canterbury, with several other matters relating "to history, but whether they'll ever see light, I "cannot tell.⁴ At length this learned and worthy
"divine having brought his body into very great "infirmities by too much lucubration and concerns
"for the public, which he minded more than those "of his own, died, to the great reluctance of all
"learned men, and the true sons of the church of "England, on the fourth day of March an. 1694,
"according to the English account: whereupon his "body was buried in the abbey church of S. Peter
"at Westminster, and some time after was put up "against the wall near the west end of the south
"isle a small white marble monument with this in"scription,

"H. S. E.

"Henricus Wharton. A. M.

"Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ Presbyter;

"Rector Ecclesiæ de Chartham;

"Necnon Vicarius Ecclesiæ de Minster;

"In Insulâ Thanato, in Diocesi Cantuariensi,

"Reverendissimo et Sanctissimo Præsuli,

"Wilhelmo Archiepiscopo Cantuariensi,

"A sacris Domesticis:

"Qui multa ad augendam et illustrandam

"Rem Literariam,

"Multa pro Ecclesiâ Christi

"Conscripsit:

"Plura Moliebatur.

"Obiit 3^o Nou. Mart. A. D. MDCXCIV.

"Ætatis suæ XXXI.

[876]

"THOMAS BARLOW, son of Rich. Barlow,
"was born at Lang-hill in the parish of Orton in
"Westmorland an. 1607, but from what family of "that name descended, I know not, tho' he himself

H. Burton, and W. Prinn; concerning pretended Innovations in the Church, by the most reverend Father in God William Laud, then Arch-Bishop of Canterbury.

3. An historical Account of all material Transactions relating to the University of Oxford from Arch-Bishop Laud's being elected Chancellor, to his Resignation of that Office, written by himself.

⁴ [He published besides (1) Bede's Commentaries on Genesis, and Song of Habakuc. Adhelim's Book of the Praise of Virginity, corrected and revis'd. (2) Life of Cardinal Pole, Disceplation between ye Embassadors of England and France in ye Council of Constance. (3) Mr. Strype's History of Archbishop Cranmer. See *Dart's Antiquities of Westminster-
Abbey*, vol. 2. p. 95. LOVEDAY.

*Fourteen Sermons preach'd in Lambeth Chapel before the most reverend Father in God Dr. William Sancroft, late Lord Archbishop of Canterbury, By the learned Henry Wharton,
M. A. Chaplain to his Grace. With an Account of the Author's Life.* Lond. 1697. 8vo. with a head of Wharton by R. White.

Born November 9, 1664; received his first education under his father; admitted pensioner of Gonvill and Caius coll.
Cambr. (of which house his father had been fellow) 17 Feb.
1679-80: elected scholar of that coll. at Michaelmas 1680.
B. A. 1683-4. M. A. July 1687. First tutor to lord Arundel of Trerice, then chaplain to archb. Sancroft.]

"hath several times told me that he was extracted
"from the ancient house of Barlow in Lancashire.
"In 1624 he was sent from the free-school at Ap-
"pleby in his own country, then taught by Will.
"Pickring, to Queen's coll. being put under the "tuition of Mr. Tho. Lough, he afterwards became "successively a poor serving child, tabarder, then
"M. of A. and fellow an. 1633. Two years after "he was metaphysic reader of the university, whose
"lectures being much approved, were afterwards
"published for the benefit of scholars. When the "garrison of Oxon was surrendred for the use of "the parl. an. 1646, he sided with the men then in "power, and by the favour of col. Tho. Kelsey dep.
"governor of the said garrison (to whom he made "application) he kept his fellowship during the "parliamentarian visitation an. 1648. as in like "manner did Joh. Houghton of Brasen-n. coll. Tim.
"Baldwin of Alls. who with Barlow had presented "to the wife of the said Kelsey certain gifts. In "1652 he was elected head keeper of Bodley's li"brary in the place of John Rouse deceased, and
"about that time was made lecturer of Church-hill
"near Burford in Oxfordshire. In 1657 he was "admitted to the reading of the sentences, and in "the latter end of the same year was elected provost
"of his coll. upon the death of the learned Dr.
"Langbaine. After the restoration of king Charles
"II. he procured himself to be one of the commis"sioners appointed first by the marquiss of Hertford
"chanc. of the university (afterwards by his ma"jesty) for the restoring those members unjustly
"ejected an. 1648. In Aug. the same year (1660)
"he was not only actually created D. of D. among "the royalists, but designed Margaret professor
"upon the ejection of Hen. Wilkinson senior, to "which he was elected in the next month in 1662.
"He was made archdeacon of Oxon in the place of "Dr. Bart. Holyday deceased, there having before "been (as afterwards was) a controversy about the "dignity between him and Dr. Tho. Lamplugh,
"which was decided for Barlow by the itinerant
"justices in their assizes at Oxon on the first day "of March 1663. So that he being installed in "that dignity on the 13th of June 1664, thought
"thereupon that he was put into the road to gain
"higher preferment, and after long expectation he "procured the bishoprick of Lincoln, tho' (as was "then said) not by the consent of archbishop Shel-
"don, but thro' the intreaties of certain temporal
"lords attending his majesty, and by the endea-
"vours of both the secretaries of state, Hen. Co"ventry, esq; and sir Jos. Williamson, both some"times of his coll. and the first his pupil before he "was elected fellow of All-souls, so that on the 22d
"of Apr. an. 1675, being the very day that Dr.

⁵ "In his Genuine Remains, &c. Lond. 1693. p. 256."
[See also what he afterwards said in Dr. H. More's Letters, Lond. 1694, 8vo. p. 35.]

[877]

“ Fuller bishop of Linc. died (after several discourses that passed between his majesty and certain persons of honour then present, concerning the person to be preferred) Dr. Barlow was introduced into the presence of his majesty, and had the grant of that see, and forthwith kissed his majesty’s hand for the same. On the 27th of June following he was consecrated to the said see, not in Lambeth chappel, but in that belonging to Ely house in Holbourn near London; but all the while he was a bishop, he never was at Lincoln, or visited any part of his diocese in his own person; the reason of the former was (as he saith) because he had no house there, and that Bugden is in the center of his diocese, yet that Lincoln might not think him unkind, or that he neglected them, he sent them 100*l.* of which 50*l.* was to go to the church, and the other 50*l.* to the city, since which time he gave the city 20*l.* towards their expence in renewing their charter. When the plot called by some Oates’s plot, and by others the popish plot, broke out in Sept. 1678, he the said bishop Barlow, who had before been a seeming friend to the papists, became then a bitter enemy to them, and to the duke of York. But when the duke was proclaim’d king after the decease of king Charles II. he took all opportunities to express his affection towards him, among others writ, as was said, reasons for reading his majesty’s declaration for liberty of conscience. After that king withdrew himself into France to avoid imminent danger in Dec. 1688, he was one of those bishops that very readily voted that he abdicated his kingdoms, took the oaths to king William and queen Mary, and no bishop was more ready than he to put in and supply the places of those of the clergy of the diocese that refused the oaths, just after the time was terminated for them to take the same, which was the 2d of Feb. 1689.⁶ He was esteemed by those that knew him well, to have been a thorough paced Calvinist, tho’ some of his writings shew him to have been a great scholar, profoundly learn’d both in divinity and the civil and canon law. Arthur earl of Anglesey in his Memoirs, p. 20. saith, ‘ I never think of this bishop and of his incomparable knowledge, both in theology and church history, and in the ecclesiastical law, without applying to him in my thoughts, the character that Cicero gave Crassus, viz. Non unus e multis, sed unus inter omnes, propè singularis.’ He hath publish’d, “ Pietas in Patrem; or a few Tears upon the lamented Death of his most dear and loving Father Rich. Barlow late of Langhill in Westmorland, who died 29 Dec. 1636. Oxon. 1637. in two sh. and an half in qu. In this little book are copies of verses also on the death of the said

⁶ [The day of deprivation was Feb. 1, 1689-90. LOVE-DAY.]

“ Rich. Barl. made by Matthew Wilkinson, Tho. Tully, Lancelot Davies, and Tho. Smith nephew to the said Rich. Barlow; (afterwards bishop of Carlisle) all which were then members of Qu. coll.

“ Exercitationes aliquot Metaphysicæ de Deo. Oxon. 1637 and 1658. qu.

“ Pegasus, or the flying Horse from Oxford: bringing the Proceedings of the Visitors and other Bedlamites there, by the Command of the Earl of Montgomery.—printed at Montgomery, heretofore called Oxford, in one sh. in qu. ’Tis written by way of letter, dated at Oxon. 18 Apr. 1648. With this is printed another letter in one sheet and an half, dated at Oxon 17 Apr. 1648, and subscribed by Basilus Philomusus, but who that was Dr. Barlow could not tell me. See in Tho. Pierce.

“ Popery: or, the Principles and Positions up-proved by the Church of Rome, are very dangerous to all; and to Protestant Kings and Supream Powers more especially pernicious, &c. in a Letter to a Person of Honour. Lond. in Decemb. 1678. qu. and there again in Apr. 1679. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 156. Th.] &c. This book is (1.) reflected on in another entit. The Compendium: or a short View of the late Tryals in Relation to the present Plot against his Majesty and Government, &c. Lond. 1679. qu. p. 76, 77. written by Rog. Palmer earl of Castlemain; which reflections are answer’d in a preface to a book entit. A Memento for English Protestants, &c. (2.) Answer’d in a book entit. Four Letters on several Subjects to Persons of Quality. The fourth being an Answer to the Lord Bishop of Lincoln’s Book entit. Popery, &c. printed 1686 in a thick oct. It was written by Peter Walsh an Irish man, born at Moor town in Kildare about the year 1610, of the order of S. Francis, prof. of div. a very learned and moderate person; ⁷ who died (at London as it seems) in September an.

⁷ [The humble Remonstrance, Acknowledgment, Protestation, and Petition of the Roman-catholick Clergy of Ireland, subscribed and recommended from London this third Day of February 1661, by Father Peter Walsh, Procurator of the said Roman Catholick Clergy of Ireland; with his ample Account, and Answers to the Exceptions taken against it. See Kennet, Reg. and Chron. page 620.

Peter Walsh was the honestest and learnedest man I ever knew among them. He was of Irish extraction, and of the Franciscan order: and was indeed in all points of controversy almost wholly protestant: but he had senses of his own, by which he excused his adhering to the church of Rome: and he maintained, that with these he could continue in the communion of that church without sin: and he said that he was sure he did some good staying still on that side, but that he could do none at all if he should come over. He thought, no man ought to forsake that religion in which he was born and bred, unless he was clearly convinced, that he must certainly be damned if he continued in it. He was an honest and able man, much practised in intrigues, and knew well the methods of the Jesuits, and other missionaries. Burnet’s Own Times, vol. i, page 195.]

[878]

" 1688,⁸ and was buried in the church of S. Dunstan in the West. (3.) Translated into Latin under this title, Papismus Regiæ Potestatis Eversor, &c. Lond. 1681. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. A. 1. Linc.] which translation was made by Rob. Grove bach. of div. sometime fellow of S. John's coll. in Cambridge, afterwards chapl. to Dr. Humph. Henchman bish. of Lond. lecturer and rector of S. Mary Axe in that city, the first of which he resign'd, and stuck to the other, finding it too hard to preach twice on each Sunday two different sermons in the same place. He commenced D. D. in 1681, and is now bishop of Chichester.⁹

" A Letter concerning Invocation of Saints, and Adoration of the Cross: writ 10 Years since to Joh. Evelyn of Deptford, Esq; Lond. 1679. qu. [Bodl. 4to. Z. 11. Th.] It was published in the latter end of Dec. 1678, at which time the R. Catholics being much troubled upon account of the popish plot, this letter was then printed to make their trouble the greater.

" The Rights of the Bishops to judge in capital Cases in Parliament cleared, &c. Lond. 1680. oct. This book, which contains much reading in the common law, was an answer to two books then lately published; the first of which was entit. A Letter from a Gent. to his Friend, shewing that the Bishops are not to be Judges in Parliament in Cases Capital, printed 1679. oct. written by Denzill lord Holles; and the other, A Discourse of the Peerage and Jurisdiction of the Lords Spiritual in Parliament, &c. Tho' no name be set to this book, yet many reported then that it was written by our author Dr. Barlow, and some by Tho. Turner of Greys-inn.

" Brutum Fulmen: Or, the Bull of P. Pius V. concerning the Damnation, Excommunication, and Deposition of Qu. Elizabeth; as also the Absolution of her Subjects from the Oath of Allegiance; with a peremptory Injunction, upon Pain of an Anathema never to obey any of her Laws or Commands: with some Observations and Animadversions upon it. Lond. 1681. qu. [Bodl. MM. 15. Th.] To this (of which there are two edit.) is annexed the bull of P. Paul 3. containing the damnation, excommunication, &c. of king Henry 8.

" A Discourse concerning the Laws Ecclesiastical and Civil, made against Heretics by Popes, Emperors, and Kings, Provincial and General Councils, approv'd by the Church of Rome, shewing (1.) what Protestant Subjects may expect to suffer under a Popish Prince acting according to those Laws. (2.) That no Oath or Promise of " *such a Prince can give them any just Security that he will not execute the Laws upon them.*¹

" Lond. 1682. qu. There is a pretty large preface to it against persecuting and destroying heretics, and some things said in favour of dissenters. To this discourse and preface tho' there be no name set, yet when they were published in Nov. 1681, the public and constant report was that they were written by Dr. Barlow bishop of Lincoln.

" *Letter for the putting in Execution the Laws against Dissenters, written in Concurrence to that which was drawn up by the Justices of the Peace of the County of Bedford,*² dat. 14 of Jan. 1684.

" A few plain Reasons why a Protestant of the Church of England should not turn Roman Catholic. Lond. 1688. in 6 sh. and an half in qu. Dr. Joh. Battely the licenser would not suffer several sheets to pass, and thereupon they were omitted.³

¹ [This will prove too much, as the bishop himself had swallowed oaths at different periods, of very different complexions. COLE.]

² [See Calamy's Life of Howe, page 104.]

³ [Mr. Godwin hath inserted the following MS. letter from archbishop Sancroft on this subject, in his copy of the tract, now in Bodley, (Popish Controversy, N^o. 110.)

My L^d.

I have read over yo^r learned and useful book to my great advantage. And concerning it say, in y^e first place, in general, that it will be y^e vainest thing in y^e world to print it and think to conceal yo^r name. There is no man verst in yo^r books, but in reading a tenth part of this will as plainly discover it to be yo^r as if THOM. LINCOLN were texted in y^e title-page literis uncialibus. Yo^r books are like the sisters in y^e poet, Facies non omnibus una, nec diversa tamen, qualem decet esse sororem. Seneca said well, Oratio est vultus quidam animi. When a man speaks, and especially when he writes (you know how to do it) there is a certain air and countenance in his discourse, by which they that observe well may discover him. Besides other characters y^e broad fringes and phylacteries in yo^r margin, and y^e authors you chiefly trade in, yo^r marshalling yo^r arguments in battle array, in τάξι & ἐπιτάξει, in divisions and subdivisions, per phalanges et manipulos, nay yo^r very phrases, sure I am, I'll become yo^r proselyte, do as manifestly discover y^e author, as y^e great lip doth the Austrian family, or y^e Roman nose some other. So that if you publish it without yo^r name it will be said of you—Fugit ad salices sed se cupit ante videri. Next for my chaplain, I can easily distinguish his pen from that of his amanuensis, and I must needs say, I find him exceedingly either courteous or timorous. Wherever he finds impiety or tyranny, or blasphemy, charged on o^r adversaries, he mollifies them into fainter expressions, tho' y^e crimes are so legible in y^e foreheads of those men that all y^e water in y^e Tyber will never wash them out. The same I say of their idolatries, which I find blotted out, I think by him p. 13, line antepen. And I had certainly restor'd it but that I find yo^r 5th reason of o^r separation, p. 60th and so on, is taken wholly from their idolatries. In all which there is not, that I can find, one stroke of his pen, or one drop of his ink. So that as I conjecture, y^e true reason, why he hath demurred to the imprimatur (besides that he knows it not to be yo^r l^dship's) is for y^e sake of that chapter, which is indeed Locus vel lubricus vel scopulosus. Yo^r l^dship may proceed with him as you think good: for me, I'll take no notice, that I have seen yo^r book, tho' he should bring it to me, as perhaps

Z

⁸ [March 1687, 8. See Henry earl of Clarendon's Diary, page 34.]

⁹ [Consecrated bp. of Chich. Aug. 30, 1691, and dying 7 cal. Octob. 1696, was buried in that cathedral, ætati. 62. RAWLINSON.]

"Several miscellaneous and weighty Cases of Conscience learnedly and judiciously resolved," viz. 1. Of Toleration of Protestant Dissenters. 2. The King's Power to pardon Murder. 3. Objections from Gen. 9. 6. answered. 4. Mr. Cottington's Case of Divorce, with the Judgments of Dr. Allestrey, Dr. Hall, Sir Rich. Lloyd, Sir Rich. Raines, Dr. Oldys, and the Doctors of the Sorbonne, upon the same. 5. For Toleration of the Jews. 6. About setting up Images in Churches. 7. An Dominium fundatur in Gratia? &c. Lond. 1692. oct. Dr. Barlow's picture (not at all like him) is set before this book, which was published by sir Peter Pett without the knowledge of his domestic chaplains, Will. Offley and Hen. Brougham, masters of arts and prebendaries of Lincoln, who have all Dr. Barlow's original manuscripts lying by them.

[879]

"Genuine Remains, containing divers Discourses Theological, Philosophical, Historical, &c. in Letters to several Persons of Honour and Quality, &c. Lond. 1693. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 290. Th.] This book, which was published by sir Peter Pett with an epist. to the reader before it of his writing, begins with a large treatise⁶ containing *Directions to a young Divine for his Study of Divinity and Choice of Books,*⁷ &c. This learned person hath also written and extant, (1.) A Letter to Mr. Joh. Tombes in Defence of Anabaptism which is inserted in one of the said Tombes his books. This I have not yet seen, only quoted in A Treatise of Baptism, printed at Lond. 1674. in oct. second edit. cap. 7. p. 63. written by Hen. D'anvers, who cites the said letter for his purpose. (2.) A Tract to prove that true Grace doth not lye so much in the degree, as in the Nature of it. This is the sixteenth chap. (being the last) of a book entit. Sincerity and Hypocrisy, &c. Oxon. 1658. oct. written by Will. Sheppard, esq. of whom I shall speak more anon, he will. In y^e mean time I have subjoin'd a few emendations, or queries rather, upon 3 or 4 places, together with y^e kind respects of

Yo^r very affectionate friend and brother

W. Cant.

Lambeth-H.

July 11th. 1687.]

⁴ [Birch's Life of Boyle, page 300.]

⁵ [This was reprinted at Lond. in 1714, 8vo. on the occasion of a painted altar-piece sett up in Whitechapell church by Dr. Welton. RAWLINSON.]

⁶ [This large treatise was published by Offley from the original MS. in a quarto pamphlet, at Oxford 1699. LOVE-DAY. See it Bodl. 4to. B. 105. Th.]

⁷ [Vid. preface by sir Peter Pett to bp. Barlow's Genuine Remains, and p. 181. 183, where are 2 critical letters by the bp. on the works of Mr. A. Wood with hints of answering some parts of his Antiquities. COLE.]

Two Letters; concerning Justification by Faith only, to a Minister in his Diocess, published from the original Copy, with the Minister's Letter that occasioned them. Lond. 1701, 8vo. RAWLINSON.]

"and in the mean time tell you that that chap. is the best part of all the book, having very good quotations in it, whereas the rest of the chapters have few or none, and that it is answer'd by Rich. Baxter, in a book entit. Of saving Faith: that it is not only gradually, but specifically distinct from all common Faith. The Agreement of Rich. Baxter with that very learned consenting Adversary (Tho. Barlow) that hath maintained my Assertion by a pretended Confutation in the End of Serjeant Sheppard's Book of Sincerity and Hypocrisy. Lond. 1658. qu. published in the beginning of April that year. As for the said Will. Sheppard, who was an intimate acquaintance of Dr. Barlow, he was born at⁸ Whitminster in Gloucestershire, educated an attorney in one of the inns of chancery, studied afterwards in the Inner Temple, called to the bar, and much frequented for his counsel and advice by the godly party in the time of the grand rebellion. In 1656 he was made serjeant at law by Oliver by a writ dated 25 Oct. the same year, and on the 29th of Sept. 1659 he was made a judge in Wales, by the then usurpers. He hath written The Parson's Guide: or the Law of Tythes, &c. Lond. 1670. in tw. and several other things, as the Oxford or Bodley's catalogue will tell you. He died on the 26th of March 1674, and was buried in the church at Hempsted in Gloucestershire. (3.) A Preface touching the Conspiracy of Gunpowder Treason. This is set to a book entit. The Gunpowder Treason, with a Discourse of the Manner of its Discovery, &c. Lond. 1679. oct. The substance of this preface is in his Genuine Remains, p. 383, 384, &c. This learned bishop died at Bugden in Huntingdonshire on the eighth day of Octob. in sixteen hundred ninety and one, and was buried on the eleventh of the said month on the north side of the chancel belonging to the church there, near to the body of Dr. Rob. Sanderson sometime bishop of Lincoln, and according to his own desire, in the very grave of Dr. Will. Barlow sometime bishop of the said place; to whose memory as well as his own is erected a marble, with this following inscription thereon; which he himself, a few days before his death, made. Exuviae Thomæ Barlow S.T.P. Collegii Reginensis Oxon. præpositi, Protobibliothecarii Bodleiani, Archidiaconi Oxoniensis, pro Dom. Margareta Comitissa Richmondia S. Theol. professoris, Episcopi (licet indigni) Lincolnensis, in spem lætæ resurrectionis. Epitaphium hoc moriens composuit, tumulum rev. prædecessoris Gulielmi Barlow rabie fanaticâ ruiturum sumptibus propriis, extruxit. Obiit 8 die Octob. 1691. an. ætatis suæ 85. He gave all such books in his own library to that of

⁸ "So I have been informed by his widow, who in her letter dated in Octob. 1688, told me that serjeant Sheppard was born at Whitminster, which is spell'd Wheatenherst, in Gloucestershire."

1691.

“Bodley, which were not there already, at the time of his death; and the remaining part he gave to Queen’s coll. where the society have at their great expence erected a noble pile of buildings on the west side of their coll. to receive them, an. 1694. He gave all his manuscripts of his own composition to his two domestic chaplains, Will. Offley and Hen. Brongham M. of A. and prebendaries of Lincoln, and desired that they would not make public any of his writings after his decease. He also gave to them all his Greek Lat. and Engl. Bibles, &c.”

[The very learned Dr. John Taylor, chancellor of Lincoln and archdeacon of Buckingham, at the end of his Commentarius ad L. Decemvirelem de inope Debitore in Partis dissecando, p. 31 and 47, Cantabr. 4to. 1742. has published 2 treatises by bish. Barlow, the one under this title following in Latin and the other in English: Explicatio Inscriptionis Græcæ in antiquo Marmore inter Marmora Arundeliana Oxoniæ, 1668 speciatim Περὶ τῶν Νεκρολογίων.

Directions for the Study of the English History and Antiquities. On the last of which the learned editor, in his preface p. xvii. passes this censure, calling it an hasty performance; extemporanea quædam, ut videtur commentatio; in quâ nonnulla adnotassem, sunt enim quædam adnotanda; si per temporis angustias licuisset. Unum illud vehementer rogo atq. oro, ut, cum ille nonnulla inclementer, iracundé, atq. etiam protervé dixerit nolisistam fabam in me cudere. COLE.]

“RICHARD PARR, a younger son of Richard Parr a Devonian born, who being sent into Ireland by king James I. to be a minister there after Tyrone’s rebellion, fixed himself in the town of Fermoy in the county of Cork, where Rich. Parr, whom we are further to mention, was born, an. 1617, his mother being then 55 years of age. Afterwards the father removed to Castle-Lyons in the same county, and caused this his son to be educated in grammar learning by an Irish priest, who and others of the same profession, were the only schoolmasters at that time for the Latin tongue in Ireland. In 1635 our author Rich. Parr was sent into England, and in Mich. term the same year he was entred a poor scholar or servitor of Exeter coll. at which time being recommended to the care of Dr. Prideaux the rector, for his forwardness and great ingenuity, was, by his endeavours, chosen, while bach. of arts, chaplain-fellow of that college, an. 1641. In 1643 the learned Dr. Usher primate of Ireland was a lodger in the same house, being driven to take sanctuary at Oxon by the civil wars; who taking notice of Mr. Parr then a junior master and a frequent preacher in Oxon, he made him his chaplain, and took him with him in the latter end of that year to Cardiff and S. Donate in Glamorganshire. At which places continuing in the ser-

“vice of that learned and pious prelate till the said wars were terminated, he attended him then to London, and soon after became vicar of Ryegate in Surrey by the presentation of one Rog. James gent. whose sister he married, being a widow of a plentiful fortune. In 1647 I find him to be one of the ministers of Surrey that subscribed to the lawfulness of the covenant, in a pamphlet that then was printed, containing the contents of the said covenant and the names of the ministers of Surrey that set their hands to it; yet the friends and intimate acquaintance of the said Mr. Parr have averr’d that he never took the said covenant, tho’ much press’d so to do by the committee sitting in Goldsmith’s hall in London. In 1649 he resign’d his fellowship of Exeter coll. and continued chaplain to the said Dr. Usher till that learned person died. Afterwards he became vicar of Camerwell in the said county of Surrey, rector of S. Mary Magd. in Southwark for a time, and after his majesty’s restoration he was actually created doctor of divinity. About which time the deanery of Armagh was offered to him, and soon after a bishoprick in Ireland, but refusing both, he contented himself only with a canonry of Armagh. He was so constant and ready a preacher at Camerwell, that his preaching being generally approved, he broke two conventicles thereby in his neighbourhood, that is to say that by his out-vying the presbyterians, and independents in his extemporaneous preaching, their auditors would leave them and flock to Mr. Parr. In this course of constant preaching at Camerwell he continued near 38 years, in all which time he was esteemed a person of great piety and of so regular and unblemish’d conversation, that even the nonconformist party could not pick up any thing to object against him on that account, they having generally esteemed him a moderate person, chiefly, as I conceive, because he was a Calvinist. This person hath published “Several sermons, as (1) The Judges Charge, preached before the Judges of the Assize at S. Mary Overy’s in Southwark; on 2 Chron. 19. 6, 7. Lond. 1658. qu. (2) Christ’s gracious Intention to Sinners, &c. on Luke 19. 41, 42. Lond. 1661. oct. (3) Sermon at the Funeral of Dr. Robert Bretton, 20 Feb. 1671; on Matth. 24. 46. Lond. 1672. qu. This Dr. Rob. Bretton was minister of Deptford in Kent, and was there buried.

“Christian Reformation; being an earnest Persuasion to the speedy Practice of it; proposed to all, but especially designed for the serious Consideration of his dear Kindred and Country-men of the County of Cork in Ireland and the People of Ryegate and Camerwell in Surrey. Lond. 1660. oct.

“The Life of the most Rev. Father in God, James Usher late Lord Archb. of Armagh, Pri- 1691.

[881]

"mate and Metropolitan of all Ireland: with a Collection of 300 Letters between the said Lord Primate and most of the eminent Persons for Piety and Learning in his Time, both in England and beyond the Seas, &c. Lond. 1686. fol. [Bodl. A. 9. 19. Th.] See more in Tho. Marshall under the year 1685, col. 172. This religious and learned person Dr. Parr died at Camerwell on the second day of Novemb. in sixteen hundred ninety and one, and was according to his desire buried in the yard belonging to the church there together with his wife: Soon after was a stone laid over his grave, with an epitaph engraven thereon, whereon 'tis said that 'he was in preaching constant, in life exemplary, in piety and charity most eminent, a lover of peace and hospitality, and in fine, a true disciple of Jesus Christ.' To which may be added that he was a person of a generous, genteel temper, exceeding good-natur'd, and charitable to all sorts of people, inasmuch that those of his own nation, tho' of a different profession in religion, were often relieved by him, &c.

"THOMAS HIGGONS, son of Dr. Thomas Higgons, sometime rector of Westburgh in Shropshire, and a minister in Shrewsbury, (by Eliz. his wife daugh. of Rich. Barker of Hamond in the said county, sister and coheir to Andr. Barker) was born in Shropshire, became a commoner of S. Albans hall in the beginning of the year 1638, aged 14 years, at which time he was put under the tuition of Mr. Edw. Corbet fel. of Mert. coll. and lodged in the chamber under him in that house. Afterwards he left the university without a degree, retired to his native country,⁹ and whether he bore arms either for the king or parliament I cannot tell. Sure I am that after the death of Robert the last earl of Essex, and captain general of the parliament forces, he married his widow named Eliz. the daugh. of sir Will. Pawlet of Edington in Wilts. kt. one of the natural sons of William the third marquess of Winchester of that family, and that in the latter end of the year 1658 (he living then at Grewel in Hampshire) was elected a Burgess for Malmsbury in Wilts. to serve in that parl. called by Richard the protector, that met at Westm. on the 27th of Jan. the same year. After his majesty's restoration he was elected Burgess for New Windsor in Bucks, to serve in that parl. that began at Westm. on the 8th of May 1661. in which being observed to be one of the court party, had, as a certain¹

⁹ [In his funeral oration on the countess of Essex, he says, that within a year or two, after the taking of Oxford, being then newly return'd out of Italy, he married the countess. COLE.]

¹ "The author of A seasonable Argument to perswade all the Grand Juries in England to petition for a Parliament: or a List of the principal Labourers in the great Design of Popery and Arbitrary Government, &c. Printed 1677. p. 3."

"author tells us, a pension allowed to him of 500*l.* per an. besides 4000*l.* which he had in gifts. Afterwards he was knighted, and in the beginning of the year 1669 he was sent envoy extraordinary to his highness John George duke of Saxony with the garter, which his maj. king Charles II. had then sent to, and conferr'd on, him; and about four years after he was sent envoy extraord. to Venice, where he continued about three years. In the year 1685 (1 Jac. II.) he was elected Burgess for S. Germans in Cornwall to serve in that parl. which began at Westm. on the 19th of May the same year, being then accounted a loyal and accomplished person and a great lover of the regular clergy. He hath written and published, A Panegyric to the King. Lond. 1660, in three sh. and an half in fol. This, with other verses, written by him, that were scatter'd in several books, obtained him the name, among some, of a poet.

"Oration at the Interment of Elizabeth the Countess Dowager of Robert Earl of Essex— This I have not yet seen.²

"The History of Isuf Bassa Captain-General of the Ottoman Army at the Invasion of Candia. Lond. 1684. oct. &c. He also translated into English The Venetian Triumph; on which translation Mr. Edm. Waller hath an ingenious poem, in his Poems on several Occasions. He died suddenly of an apoplexy in the king's-bench court, being there summoned as a witness to appear in a cause depending between Eliz. dutchess of Albe-marle and John earl of Bath, on the 24th of Novemb. in sixteen hundred ninety and one,³ whereupon his body being conveyed to Winchester, was buried in the cathedral church there on the 3d of Dec. following, near the reliicks of his first wife, Eliz. countess dowager of Essex, before-mention'd. He then left behind him a widow named Bridget daugh. of sir Bevil Greenvill of Stow in Cornwall, and sister to sir Joh. Greenvill 1691.

² [On the south side of Winchester cathedral, lies the countess of Essex, under a grey marble with two coats of arms, viz. Essex's impaling Powlet's, and this inscription:

Quicquid Reliquum est
Eliz. Essexiæ Comitissæ
Hic Deponitur.
Filia fuit Gul. Pawlett. Mil.
et Roberti Essexiæ Com. Coniux:
Post ejus obitum transiit
in alias Nuptias,
Cum Thoma Higgons Mil.
Obiit Penult. Augusti A. D. 1656
et hic Sepulta, Oratione
Funebri a Marito ipso
More Priseo Laudata Fuit.

Gale's Antiquities of Winchester, page 41. London 1715. 8vo]

³ [It was printed at London in 1656. See these ATHENÆ, vol. iii. col. 192, note.]

⁴ [Gale, Antiq. of Winch. page 40, dates his death one year later. "Here lieth the body of Sir Thomas Higgons, who died the 24th of November 1692."]

[882] " earl of Bath, besides several children ' that he had
" by both his wives.

" SAMUEL LEE, the only son of Samuel Lee
" of Fishstreet-hill in London a haberdasher of " small wares, was born there in 1625, but de" scended, as I conceive, from the ancient and gen-
" teel family of Lee in Cheshire, was entred a com-
" moner of Magd. hall (he having received some " academical education elsewhere⁵) about the latter
" end of 1647, in expectation of a fellowship from
" the parliamentary visitors, then about to sit in
" Oxon, under pretence of reforming the university.
" On the 14th of Apr. 1648 he was actually created
" master of arts in the Pembrochian creation then
" made; about which time he was recommended
" by the committee (sitting in Westminster for the " reformation of the said university) to the said
" visitors for a fellowship of Alls. coll. but the fel" lowships of that coll. having been supplied by " them, they settled him in a fellowship of Wadham
" coll. on the 3d of Octob. the same year. In the " latter end of the year 1650 he was elected by his " society one of the proctors of the university for " the ensuing year, but he being not of sufficient
" standing in the degree of master for that office,
" the said visitors dispensed with it by their order,
" and forthwith when the day came, whereon he " was to be installed, he, according to their order,
" was admitted on the 9th of April 1651. About
" that time he became a frequent preacher in and
" near Oxon, without any orders from a bishop, was
" preferr'd by Oliver to the ministry of S. Botolph's
" church near Bishopsgate in London, but ejected
" afterwards thence by the rump parliament, who " placed in his room one ——— Sympson an ana-
" baptist. Afterwards our author Lee was made
" lecturer of Great S. Helens church in London,
" being then rather an independent than presbyte" rian, yet professed neither. After the restoration " of king Charles II. he was not silenc'd for non" conformity, because he had no preferment to lose,
" but lived on an estate of inheritance in Bisseter
" Kings-end in the parish of a market town called
" Bisseter in Oxfordshire, where he sometimes kept
" conventicles. In 1678, or thereabouts, he re" moved to Newington Green near London, where
" he carried on his profession for some years, and in " June 1686 he went with his family to New Eng" land, where dwelling for the most part in New
" Bristol carried on his profession without trouble
" or controul. But at length upon the receipt of a

⁵ [Two of his sons were educated at Oxford, 1st Thomas a demy of Magdalen coll. turn'd papist in king James II. reign, was made fellow, but ejected at the revolution; followed king James, first into Ireland, then into France, and after the death of king James became lord chancellor to the pretender upon the death of the duke of Melfort. 2d, Bevil mentioned hereafter. WATTS.]

⁶ [His earlier instruction he received in St. Paul's school.
CALAMY.]

" call he return'd to Old England in the reign of " king Will. III. was taken near his journey's end,
" and carried into captivity where he ended his " course, as I shall anon tell you. He hath written,
" Chronicon Cestrense: An exact Chronology of
" all the Rulers and Governors of Cheshire and
" Chester, both in Church and State, from the Time
" of the Foundation of the City of Chester to this " very Day, &c. Lond. 1656. [Bodl. 9. 1. 13. Art.]
" It is added to the Description of Cheshire, called
" The Vale Royal of England, written by Will.
" Smith and Will. Webb, gentlemen, and pub" lished in folio with cuts by Dan. King.

" Orbis Miraculum. Or the Temple of Solomon
" portrayed by Scripture Light. Lond. 1659. fol.
" [Bodl. AA. 61. Art.]

" Several sermons, as (1) How to manage secret
" Prayer, that it may be prevalent with God to the " Comfort and Satisfaction of our Souls; on Matth.
" 6. 6. This sermon is in The Supplement to the " Morning Exercise at Cripplegate. Lond. 1674.
" [Bodl. C. 1. 6. Linc.] and 76. qu. (2) The Vi-
" sibility of the true Church; on Matth. 16. 18.
" This is in The Morning Exercise against Po-
" pery, &c. in Southwark. Lond. 1675. qu. (3)
" Sermon on Rom. 10. 1. It is one of the sermons
" in The Morning Exercise at Cripplegate, Lond.
" 1661. (4) The great Day of Judgment, preached
" at the Assizes at New Bristol in New England,
" on ——— printed 1694. 95, with an introduction
" by Cotton Mather.

" Contemplations on Mortality, &c. Lond. 1669.
" octavo.

" The Triumph of Mercy in the Chariot of " Praise: A Discourse of secret and preventing
" Mercies. Lond. 1677. in tw. [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 123.
" Th.]

" Ecclēsia gemens: or, two Discourses on the " mournful State of the Church, with a Prospect
" of her dawning Glory; exhibited in a View of " two Scriptures representing her as a Myrtle
" Grove in a deep Bottom, or as a Knot of Lillies
" among the Thorns. Lond. 1678. 79. in tw.

" Dissertation concerning the ancient and suc-
" cessive State of the Jews, with some Scripture
" Evidences of their future Conversion and Esta- " blishment in their own Land. Lond. 1678. 79. in " tw. This is printed with ——— Israel Redux. or
" the Restoration of the Jews, containing an Essay
" upon some probable Grounds that the present
" Tartars near the Caspian Sea, are the Posterity
" of the ten Tribes of Israel, written by Giles
" Fletcher, LL. D.

" The Joy of Faith: or, a Treatise opening the " true Nature of Faith, its lowest Stature and Di-
" stinction from Assurance; with a preliminary
" Tract, evidencing the Divinity of the sacred
" Scriptures. [Boston in New England 1687⁷]
" Lond. 1689. octavo.

⁷ [RAWLINSON.]

[883]

1691.

"He also wrote in the name of Hen. Hall the printer, Epistola Lectoribus chronographicis præsertim Oxoniensis Academiae florentiss. Alumnis, &c. Set before Chr. Helvicius his Theatrum Historicum, &c. printed at Oxon in fol. 1651; the beginning of which is, 'Cum exemplaria Helvici,' &c. and also penn'd Tractatulus ad Periodum Julianam spectans, &c. written in the name of the said printer to the reader, and hath this beginning 'Nemo tam præpostero conatu,' &c. which Tractatulus doth immediately follow the said Epistola Lectoribus in the said edition. Our author Lee also continued the said Theatrum Historicum of Helvicius, from about the year 1630 to 1651 and from thence again to 1662, when then again it was reprinted the sixth time. In which edition of 1662 Mr. Lee did put, of his writing, Tractatulus de Antiquitate Academiae Oxon, printed in a folio leaf and placed between Epist. Lectoribus, and Tractatulus ad Period. Which two last are, each of them, printed also in half a sheet in fol. Mr. Lee hath also fitted for the press the works of some other persons, among which are those of John Row, as I have elsewhere told you. At length this learned nonconformist returning with his family to Old England, they were, with the ship wherein they were harboured, taken by a French privateer near their journey's end, in the month of Novemb. in sixteen hundred ninety and one: so that they being all conveyed to S. Maloes a seaport town in Upper Bretagne in France, our author Lee was so much overwhelmed with grief for his captivity and loss of his money and goods, that he died in a manner heart-broken: whereupon being denied Christian burial, because he refus'd to die in the faith of the Roman see, was obscurely buried about Christmas following in a poor piece of ground joyning to a river's side near to that city, where we shall leave him to expect the last trump, unless any of his relations will hereafter remove his body to his native country of England."

[After his Death were published Contemplations upon Mortality, wherein the Terrors of Death are laid open for a Warning to Sinners, and the Joys of Communion with Christ for Comfort to Believers. Lond. 1699, 8vo.

A Discourse of the Nature, Property and Fruit of the Christian Faith in several Chapters: With a præliminary Defence of the divine Authority of the holy Scriptures, and of the Deity of Christ. Lond. 1702, 8vo. RAWLINSON.

He was a considerable general scholar, understood the learned languages well, spoke Latin fluently and elegantly, was well vers'd in all the liberal arts and sciences, was a great master in physick and alchymy, and no stranger to any part of polite and useful learning. He had an open hand of charity to relieve the necessities of the poor, and was highly bountiful to the Hungarian ministers when they were in England some years before he left it. For the times proving dangerous, and he being but of a timorous temper, left a good estate behind him about the year 1686, for the sake of peace, and a quiet mind, and sailed to New England, where he was receiv'd with respect, and chosen pastor of a congregation at Bristol. He did not continue there much above three years: for hearing of the glorious revolution in 1688, he was willing to taste the fruits of it in his native country, and soon determined to return back thither, nay he grew so impatient of any longer stay in America, that he with great hazard travell'd to Boston to take ship with his wife and family, and in the midst of winter set sail for old England. There happen'd an occurrence upon this occasion that deserves a remark. A few nights before his going on board the ship he was to sail in, he told his wife he had view'd a star, which according to the rules of astrology presag'd captivity; wishing a few days might pass before the sailing of the ship, for which he prevail'd with the captain, though without acquainting him with the reasons of his request. He had studied the astrological art, and when he became acquainted with it durst not approve it, and burnt near an hundred books, the design of which was to give an insight into it, and he would freely inveigh against it, therein treading in the steps of his wise and pious tutor the bishop, who in some of his works reflects pretty severely on such speculations. Mr. Lee at length, notwithstanding the presage, pursued his voyage, and in his passage met with such opposition from the winds, that the captain observ'd and declared he had never known the like before for thirty years together. The ship was driven upon the coast of Ireland, where being met and attack'd by a French privateer, they fought for some hours. Their ship was set on fire several times, and in no small danger of sinking, and at length intirely disabled, and so they were forced to surrender themselves prisoners. They were continued cruising for some weeks after, expos'd to all extremities of wind and weather, and about Christmas the ship was carried as a prize into St. Maloe's in France, and he and his wife and daughter and two servants were kept there for some time: but the rest of them, unknown to him, were shipp'd off for England, while he by the king's order was kept behind. Hereupon, through grief to have his wife and child taken from him, and to be left alone in a country where he was a perfect stranger, he presently fell into a fever, of which he died in a few days, in the possession of those very enemies whom he all his days had the most dreaded, but in the arms of the compassionate Jesus, in the sixty-fourth year of his age.⁸

"DAVID LLOYD, son of Hugh Lloyd, was born at Pant Mawr in the parish of Trawsvynydd

⁸ [Calamy, Ejected Ministers, Continuation, page 54.]

"in Merionethshire, on the 28th of Sept. 1635, educated in the free-school at Ruthen in Denbighshire, became a servitor of Oriel coll. in 1652 (at which time and after he performed the office of janitor of the said coll.) took one degree in arts, and by the favour of the warden and society of Merton coll. became rector of a small town called Ibston near Watlington in the diocese of Oxon, in the beginning of May an. 1658. In the next year he proceeded in arts, but keeping Ibston not long, he went to London, and became reader of the Charter-house under Dr. Tim. Thurstross. Afterwards he retired to Wales and became chaplain to Dr. Is. Barrow bishop of S. Asaph, who, besides several preferments in that diocese, gave him a canonry in the said church; in which he was instituted 26 August 1670. On the 14th of Aug. 1671 he was instituted vicar of Abergeley, and on the same day, as is supposed, he was instituted prebend of Vaynol in the said church of S. Asaph, at which time he resigned his canonry to Mr. Rich. Turbridge. Afterwards he exchanged Abergeley for the vicaridge of Northop in Flintshire, where settling, he taught the free-school, and continued there till towards his latter end. In his younger years he delighted much to write and publish books, but whether for fame or money, or both, I know not. Sure it is that having been then a conceited and confident person, he took too much upon him to transmit to posterity the memoirs of great personages in his States-men and Favourites, and in his Memoirs of the Lives, &c. without quotation and authority; whereby he hath obtained among knowing men not only the character of a most impudent plagiarist, but a false writer and meer scribbler, especially upon the publication of his Memoirs, wherein are almost as many errors as lines. At length having been sufficiently admonish'd of his said errors, and brought into trouble for some extravagancies in his books,⁹ he "left off writing, retired to Wales, and there gave himself up to the gaining of riches. His works are these,

"Modern Policy complicated: or, the public Actions and Councils both Civil and Military of his Excellency the Lord General Monk under the general Revolutions since 1639 to 1660. Lond. 1660. oct. The last half of this book treats of the restoration of king Charles II. and on the top of every leaf of the book is this title Modern Policy, the second Part.

"The Pourtraicture of his Sacred Majesty Charles the II. in three Books, beginning from his Birth 1630, unto this present Year 1660. Lond. 1660. oct. wherein is interwoven a compleat history (as the author says) of the high-born dukes of York and Gloucester.

"The Countess of Bridgewater's Ghost, &c. Lond. 1663. This countess named Elizabeth wife of John earl of Bridgewater, and daughter and sole heir of James Cranfield earl of Middlesex, dyed in childbed on the 14th of June 1663, and Prynne a member of it, and rather than be troubled with him, the prosecutors thought fit to let fall the suit against Mr. Lloyd.]

[Wood must be wrong here: The countess of Bridgewater was Elizabeth, second daughter to William marquis of Newcastle. In Gaddesden church, Hertfordshire, is the following inscription to her memory.

D. D.

To the sacred memory of the late transcendently virtuous Lady, now glorious saint, the right Honourable Elizabeth, Countess of Bridgewater. She was second daughter to the right Honourable William, Marquis of Newcastle, and wife to the right Honourable John, Earl of Bridgewater, and whose family she hath enriched with a hopeful issue, six sons, viz John Viscount Brackley, her eldest; Sir William Egerton, second son, both Knights of the honourable order of the Bath, Mr. Thomas Egerton a third; Mr. Charles Egerton, her fourth, Mr. Henry Egerton her fifth, Mr. Steward Egerton her sixth son; and three daughters, viz. Mrs. Frances Egerton, her eldest, the Lady Elizabeth her second; and the Lady Catherine Egerton her third daughter, of all which children three: viz. Mr. Henry Egerton her fifth son, Mrs. Frances Egerton her eldest, and the Lady Catherine Egerton her third daughter lye here interred, dying in their infancy; the rest are still the living pictures of their deceased mother and the only remaining comforts of their disconsolate father. She was a Lady in whom all the accomplishments both of body and mind, did concur to make her the glory of the present, and example of future ages: her beauty was so unparalleled, that it is as much beyond the art of the most elegant pen, as it surpasseth the skill of several the most exquisite pensils (that attempted it) to describe and not to disparage it: she had a winning and an attractive behaviour, a charming discourse, a most obliging conversation: she was so courteous and affable to all persons, that she gained their love, yet not so familiar to expose herself to contempt: she was of a noble and generous soul, yet of so meek and humble a disposition, that never any woman of her quality was greater in the world's opinion and less in her own; the rich at her table daily tasted her hospitality; the poor at her gate her charity: her devotion most exemplary, if not inimitable, witness (besides several other occasional meditations and prayers full of the holy transports and raptures of a sanctified soul) her divine meditations upon every particular chapter in the bible, written with her own hand and never (till since

[884]

⁹ [Extract from an original letter to Wood (in bishop Tanner's copy of these ATHENÆ) signed 'your unknown servant J. W.'

'As for what hooks he (Lloyd) wrote, I believe there is no man alive can give any tolerable account of them, unless perhaps there be somebody who belonged to the bookseller who published them. I have sometime asked him concerning them, and he freely gave me an account thereof, which I cannot remember, but to supply this defect, I will tell you 2 story's relating to the matter. He was twice in troubles, for something he had written, one time a certain countess being reflected on in the title page of his book, her friends called him in question for it and he came off by proving that tho' he wrote the book, the bookseller put to it a title page of his own invention, which he thought would make the book sell the better. And another time some in great place were highly offended at some passages in a book he had written which reflected on the prevalence of popery at court, for which when he was called to account, he had no way left but to make out the matter of fact and (besides other proofs) he quoted for it a book of Mr. Prynne's, to whom he referred himself to make it appear. The parliament was then sitting

“and leaving behind her the character of a most religious and virtuous lady, our author Lloyd did therefore publish the said book, meerly to make her a pattern for other women to imitate: But the earl being much displeased that the memory of his lady should be perpetuated under such a title, and by such an obscure person, who did not do her the right which was due, he brought him into trouble, and caus'd him to suffer six months imprisonment.

“Of Plots, &c. Lond. 1664. qu. published under the name of Oliver Foulis.

“The Worthies of the World: or, the Lives of the most heroic Greeks and Romans compar'd; by that learned and great Historiographer Plutarch of Cheronca. Englished and abridged according to the Directions of Photius Patriarch of Constantinople in his Bibliotheca, fol. 245. Lond. 1665. oct.

“Dying and dead Men's living Words: or, a fair Warning to a careless World (being a Collection of most excellent Sayings by the greatest and wisest Men in all Ages, as well ancient as modern) Lond. 1665 and 82. in tw.

“The Statesmen and Favourites of England since the Reformation, &c. during the Reigns of K. Hen. VIII. K. Ed. VI. Q. Mary, Q. Eliz. K. Jam. I. and K. Ch. I. Lond. 1665 and 70 in a her death) seen by any eye but her own, and her then dear, but now sorrowful husband, to the admiration both of her eminent piety in composing and of her modesty in concealing. Then she was a most affectionate and observing wife to her husband, a most tender and indulgent mother to her children, a most kind and bountiful mistress to her family. In a word, she was so superlatively good, that language is too narrow to express her deserved character: her death was as religious as her life was virtuous; on the 14th day of June, in the year of our Lord 1663, of her own age 37, she exchanged her earthly coronet for an heavenly crown. Prov. 31. 28, 29. Her children rise up and call her blessed, her husband also and he praiseth her.—Many daughters have done virtuously but thou excellest them all.

In the same church.

Here lies interred John Earl of Bridgwater, Viscount Brackley, Baron of Ellesmere and one of the Lords of the privy council and Lieutenant of the county of Bucks and Hertford and custos rotulorum of both, to King Charles the second and King James the second, who desired no other memorial of him but only this, that having (in the 19th year of his age) married the Lady Elizabeth Cavendish, daughter to the then Earl, since Marquess and after that Duke of Newcastle, he did enjoy (almost 22 years) all the happiness that a man could receive in the sweet society of the best of wives, till it pleased God in the 44th year of his age to change his great felicity into as great misery, by depriving him of his truly loving and intirely beloved wife who was all his wordly bliss; after which time humbly submitting to, and waiting on the will and pleasure of the Almighty, he did sorrowfully wear out 23 years, 4 months and 12 days and then on the 26th day of October, in the year of our Lord 1686, and in the 64th year of his own age, yielded up his soul into the merciful hand of God who gave it. Job. 13. 15. Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him. Chauncy's Hist. of Hertfordshire, Lond. 1700. page 555.]

“thick oct.^o Many of these favourites are remitted into the Memoirs, which I shall anon mention.

“Wonders no Miracles: or, Mr. Valentine Greatracks Gift of Healing examined, &c. Lond. 1666. qu. [Bodl. B. 15. 8. Linc.] written upon occasion of a sad effect of stroaking, the 7th of March 1665, at one Mr. Edw. Cresset's house in Charterhouse-Yard, and upon the noise that Mr. Hen. Stubbe's book made, entit. The miraculous

“Conformist, &c.

“Memoirs of the Lives, Actions, Sufferings and Deaths of those noble, reverend, and excellent Personages that suffered by Death, Sequestration, Decimation and otherwise for the Protestant Religion, and the great Principle thereof, Allegiance to their Sovereign, in our late intestine Wars, from the Year 1637 to the Year 1660, and from thence continued to 1666, with the Life and Martyrdom of K. Ch. I. Lond. 1668. fol.

“[Bodl. A. 20. 6. Th.] At the end of this book he promises, in an advertisement there set down, to publish hereafter (1) Church Worthies: or, the Lives of the Archbishops, Bishops, Doctors and eminent Divines since the Reformation. (2) State Worthies: or, Observations on the Statesmen and Favourites of England since the Reformation, &c. being, as I presume, the same with The Statesmen and Favourites, before-mention'd, augmented. But the Memoirs of the Lives, &c. finding cold entertainment amongst men of authority and knowledge, because of the infinite errors in them as to time, place and action, the author received a prohibition, as I have been informed, of proceeding any further.

“Exposition on the Catechism and Liturgy, divided into so many Parts, as there are Sundays in the Year.—This I have not yet seen.

“Treatise of Moderation—Nor this. In the year 1674, I was informed by letters from a certain person living in the vicinity of Northop, that our author Lloyd desired to be known to posterity, as to his writing of books, only for the two last here mention'd,² The Worthies of the World, and The Statesmen and Favourites of England, &c. At length finding his health to decay about half a year before he dyed, he retired to the place of his nativity, where surrendering up his last breath on the 16th of Feb. in sixteen hundred ninety and one, was buried the third day after at Traws-vinnydd or Trausfynydd in Merionethshire before mentioned. Since my writing of these matters, I have been informed by one that knew him well,

² [Reprinted in two vols. 8vo. Lond. 1766, edited by sir Charles Whitworth.]

³ [Mr. David Lloyd would frankly enough acknowledge, what history, and other books he had written, tho', at the same time, he would express no great esteem of his youthful performances. He lived to read over the first vol. of ATHENÆ OXONIENSES, which he was highly taken with. HUMPHREYS.]

[885]

1697.

“ that he was a very industrious and zealous person,
 “ charitable to the poor and ready to do good offices
 “ in his neighbourhood, that he commonly read the “ service every day in his church at Northop, when “ he was at home, and usually gave money to such “ poor children as would come to him to be cate“ chised.

“ WILLIAM MOREHEAD was born at ——— “ educated in Wykeham’s school, became fell. of “ New coll. 1656, aged 19 or more, and wrote, “ Lachrymæ, sive Valedictio Scotiæ sub Discer-
 “ sum clariss. prudentiss. et pientiss. Gubernatoris
 “ D. Georgii Monachi in Anglia revocati. Lond.
 “ 1660, in 8 sh. and an half in qu. The Latin on “ one side and the English on the other. Most if “ not all of this book was written by the author
 “ before he was bach. of arts. Afterwards being “ sen. collector of the bachelors in 1660 and taking “ the degree of master, he entred into holy orders, “ was a preacher for some time in these parts, and at “ length by the favour of his coll. he became rector
 “ of Bucknell near Bister in Oxfordshire, and by the “ favour of sir Tho. Spencer of Yarnton rector of “ Whitfield in Northamptonshire. He died at Buck“ nell, as it seems, about the 18th of Feb. in sixteen “ hundred ninety and one, and was there buried.
 “ Qu. What other things he hath written and pub“ lished I cannot tell.

“ RICHARD BURNEY, son of John Burney
 “ a merchant of Kingston upon Hull in Yorkshire, “ was born and educated in grammar learning,
 “ there, became either clerk or chorister of Corp.
 “ Chr. coll. by the favour of Dr. Jackson the pre“ sident thereof, an. 1632, aged 18 years, took one “ degree in arts, and then by the intercession of “ Dr. Walt. Balcanquall he became chaplain to the “ countess dowager of Denbigh. After her death “ (which hapned in France, being then with qu.
 “ Hen. Maria) he served the cure of Penshurst in “ Kent, Dr. Hammond being then sequestred from “ the profits of that rectory, and afterwards was “ curate of Tudeley and Capell in the said county;
 “ which two livings he served about two years, and “ at length removed to Old Romney, where con“ tinuing till 1657, at what time he was forced “ thence, he went to Canterbury and was the same “ year presented to the rectory of S. Mildred’s in “ the said city; in which remaining till 1671, he “ was then put forth, and, by the favour of the “ dean and prebends of Canterbury, was presented “ to the rectory of Allsaints in that city, and in “ 1673 had the rectory of S. Peter’s there added and “ conferr’d on him. He hath written

“ An Answer or necessary Animadversions upon
 “ some late impostumate Observations invective

“ [Guil. Moreheade, gener. fil. matric. term. Hil. 1656, e coll. Novo. Reg. Matric. W. fol. 74, b. Reg. Matric. AH.
 pag. 144.]

VOL. IV.

“ against his sacred Majesty, bearing the Face of “ the Public, but boldly penn’d and published by a “ Bravado. Lond. 1642. qu.

“ K. Charles the Second his most sacred Majesty, “ presented to the right honourable Houses of Par- “ liament in their next Session, &c. delivered in “ eight Sermons in S. Mildred’s Church in Can- “ terbury, beginning the Sunday before Lent and “ ending on Easter-day; on Prov. 8. 15. Lond.
 “ 1660. qu. Each sermon hath a particular title, “ viz. the first, The Fountain of Regality, &c. and “ all wrote in a vaunting and bombast stile. What “ other things he hath published I know not, and “ therefore I shall only say this, that he dying on “ the first of April in sixteen hundred ninety and “ two, was buried in the chancel of the church of S.
 “ Peter before-mention’d, on the 5th day of the same “ month, leaving then behind him the character of “ a vain-glorious and weak person, and a son named “ John. In the rectory of S. Peter’s church suc“ ceeded him Mr. Charles Kilbourne, and in All-“ saints Mr. Humph. Brailsford.

“ ELIAS ASHMOLE, the only son and child
 “ of Simon Ashmole of the city of Litchfield in “ Staffordshire sadler (by Anne his wife daughter “ of Anthony Bowyer of Coventry draper) son of “ Tho. Ashmole sadler sometime sheriff, and once “ junior, and twice senior, bailiff of the city of Litch“ field (by Anne his wife) who died 1620, was born
 “ in S. Michael’s parish in the said city of Litch“ field, on the 23d of May 1617, and baptized on “ the 2d of June following in S. Mary’s church
 “ there, bred in grammar learning and became one “ of the choiristers of the cathedral church in that “ city, being at that time instructed in prick-song
 “ by the famous Michael East bach. of music. In “ 1633 he was sent for up to London and en“ couraged there in his virtuous inclinations by “ Jam. Pagit esq. pusne baron of the Exchequer,
 “ who had married to his second wife Bridget sister
 “ to the mother of Elias Ashmole. In Mich. term “ 1638 he became a solicitor in Chancery, had good “ practice, and did the business of his profession for
 “ the honourable Pct. Venables baron of Kniderton “ in Cheshire. In the beginning of Feb. 1640 he “ was admitted a member of Clement’s inn, and on “ the eleventh of the same month he was sworn an “ attorney in the Common Pleas. In the latter end
 “ of August 1642, at which time the city of London
 “ was involved in great broils, he retired to Smal-
 “ wood in Cheshire, where he followed his studies
 “ in a retired and repos’d condition, and in the latter “ end of 1644 he went to Oxon (then the chief seat
 “ of his majesty king Charles I.) was entred into “ Brasen-n. coll. had a chamber there, and followed “ his studies in that coll. and the public library in “ natural philosophy, mathematics, astronomy and “ astrology. On the 9th of May 1645, having then “ newly contracted acquaintance with George Whar-

[886]

1692.

A A

[887]

ton the astrologer, he was made one of the five gentlemen of the ordnance in the garrison there, had the command of the East-Lyne and Dover-Piere in that garrison assigned to him, and in the middle of Dec. 1645 he was made one of the commissioners of the excise of the city of Worcester. About the 12th of March following he was made a captain in the regiment of foot of Jacob lord Astley at Worcester, and in June 1646 he was constituted comptroller of the ordnance in that city. But the said city being surrendered for the use of the parliament on the 23d of July following he retired to his former place in Cheshire, absconded there till Octob. following, and then going privately to London, was there, by Mr. Jonas More, brought acquainted with Will. Lilly, and soon after with Joh. Booker, both noted astrologers, by whose company he improved himself much in astronomy and astrology, was by them introduced to the astrologer's yearly feast, and esteemed among them as one of the fraternity. In 1647 he retired to Englefield in Berks, where for a time he lived very studiously, and in 1648 he entred upon the study of plants, and in few months became an eminent botanist. About that time having some estate settled upon him by a lady of that county, whom he afterwards married, was sequestred of it because of his loyalty, but soon after the sequestration was taken off, and became a great friend to his old acquaintance capt. George Wharton, who being then a prisoner in the Gatehouse at Westm. for writing satirical matters against the usurpers, for which serjeant John Bradshaw intended to hang him, he was by the endeavours of Will. Lilly (put upon it by Ashmole) made to Bulstr. Whitlock, released: For which great courtesy done by Lilly, Wharton made a genteel return of thanks in his epistle before his Hemeroscopion for the year 1651, and in another that followed stiled Ashmole his 'Oaken Friend,' not only because he was instrumental for his release, but also that he had supplied him with monies, and lent him and his wife gratis the use of his house at Bradfield in Berks. Afterward our author Ashmole lived for a time in the Black-Fryars in London, and in 1651 he began to learn seal-graving, casting in sand and goldsmith's work. At which time he being very knowing in chymistry and accounted a great Rosy Crucian, Will. Backhouse of Swallowfield in Berks, esq; who had a fondness for, communicated to, him several secrets in that faculty, which ever after caused Ashmole to call him father. In Feb. 1651 he learned Hebrew of Rabbi Solomon Frank, and on the 10th of March 1652 his father Backhouse opened himself very freely to him the secret. On the 13th of May 1653 his said father lying sick in Fleetstreet over-against S. Dunstan's ch. in London, and not knowing whether he should live or dye, did about 11 of the clock in the morning tell Ash-mole in syllables: which he bequeathed to him as a legacy. Afterwards Backhouse recovering, told him his mind more openly, and lived at Swallowfield several years after. On the 25th of July 1653 he became acquainted with Great Selden, who, finding him a man of parts, encouraged him in his studies, and was very civil to him to the last. In 1655 he entred upon the study of English antiquities; on the 11th of Novemb. 1657 he was admitted a member of the Middle Temple, and in the beginning of the year following he began to collect materials from the records of the Tower of London for the composing of his admirable book of the Garter. In Sept. 1658 he journeyed to Oxon, and on the 10th of that month he began to make a description of the coines given to the public library there, by that most public spirited man Dr. Laud archb. of Canterbury and others; which description being reduc'd into several books, I shall hereafter mention them among his writings. On the 18th of June 1660, his maj. king Charles II. being then restor'd, he had the grant of Windsor herald made to him by his majesty, who having a great kindness for him did commit to his custody and care his ancient coyns and medals to be catalogu'd, describ'd and explain'd, and at that time it was ordered by his maj. that he should take his diet at the waiter's table. On the 3d of Sept. 1660 he became comptroller of his majesty's excise, and on the 2d of Nov. following he was called to the barr in the Middle Temple, was admitted within few days after, but never pleaded or practised his profession. On the 15th of January the same year he was admitted fellow of the Royal Society, and on the 9th of Feb. following a warrant was signed by the king for his being secretary of Surynhem. In June 1664, the White office being opened, he was made comptroller thereof, and in the beginning of June 1668 the lords commissioners of the treasury did appoint him to execute the office of accomptant-general in the excise, and country accomptant. On the 19th of Aug. 1669 (he having then newly left Oxon where he had been to see the solemnity of the opening of the Theatre) his grace passed the ven. convocation of doctors and masters of the university, to be doctor of physick, and on the 2d of Nov. following being diplomated, his diploma was conveyed to him at London by Dr. Tho. Yate principal of Brasen-n. coll. In 1672 his most excellent book entit. The Institution, Laws and Ceremonies of the most noble Order of the Garter, being finished, he presented a copy thereof richly bound to his majesty king Charles II. on the 8th of May the same year, who very graciously receiving it, he gave him as a reward for his labours 400*l.* out of the custom of paper. Afterwards presenting it to the several companions of the said most noble order, as well to those beyond as within the seas, it found a fair reception “ from, and the author was very nobly rewarded by,

[888]

 “ some of them, as I shall tell you hereafter, and “ afterwards was visited and complimented in his “ lodgings in the Middle Temple and in his house
 “ at South Lambeth in Surrey by the ambassadors
 “ and envoys of such kings and princes beyond the “ seas, to whom he had sent his said book, and after“ wards by many noble persons for his extraordinary “ worth and parts, and for the most admirable and “ invaluable treasure of rarities lying by him. In “ July 1675 he resigned his place of Windsor her“ ald, and in the latter end of the next year he “ might have been Garter principal king at arms in “ the place of sir Edw. Walker deceased, had he “ stirr’d in it, for his maj. was very willing that he “ should have that office conferr’d on him. About
 “ the latter end of Octob. 1677 he made a motion
 “ to several heads of this university, that he would “ bestow on it all his rarities that he had obtained
 “ of a famous gardener called Joh. Tradescant a “ Dutchman and his wife, all his coynes and med“ als and all his MSS, conditionally that they “ would build a fabric to receive them: which “ motion being well accepted and applauded, they “ promis’d him so to do. On the 26th of Jan. 1678
 “ a fire breaking out in the chamber next to his “ lodgings in the Middle Temple, his said lodgings “ were utterly consum’d, and thereby he suffered an “ irreparable and invaluable loss, which indeed was “ ours, as the sequel will tell you. By letters from “ sir Will. Dugdale garter king at arms, dated 13
 “ May, 1679, I was informed that ‘ his losses were “ exceeding great, all his library of printed books, “ which was very large, was consumed, and many “ other things of value; but all his chief manuscripts “ escaped, he having them at S. Lambeth: So “ likewise his gold coyns and gold medals, but those “ of silver were all melted and have cost him as “ much as the worth of them in weight, in digging
 “ among the ruins, sifting the rubbish and hiring
 “ the silver-smiths to wash the dust. The copper “ coins are found, but miserably defaced, &c.’ By “ Mr. Ashmole’s letter also, which I received by the “ hands of Dr. Rob. Plot in the latter end of Dec.
 “ 1683, I was informed that ‘ his chambers in the “ Middle Temple were burnt in the great fire there
 “ in Jan. 1678, wherein was a library of books, the “ collection of 33 years, mostly from abroad; a “ collection of near 9000 coins and medals ancient “ and modern, being the gathering of 32 years.
 “ Also a large collection of ancient evidences and “ seals of the English nobility and gentry. All
 “ the great seals of England from the conquest “ hitherto, with many of the religious houses both
 “ in England and Scotland; those of England hang“ ing at their several instruments. That he lost
 “ also there his observations upon history, coins, “ medals, heraldry and some other subjects, being “ the effects of his studies for about 30 years, which “ lay there in his said chambers for improvement

“ as he had leisure: And also divers valuable pieces
 “ of antiquity, and sundry curiosities both of art
 “ and nature, &c. In the said library, which I have “ several times viewed and partly perused, I have “ seen a large thick paper book, which you may “ call a double folio (near a yard long) containing “ on every side of the leaf two, three or more pic“ tures or faces of eminent persons of England and “ elsewhere, printed from copper cuts pasted on “ them, which Mr. Ashmole had with great cu“ riosity collected: and I remember he has told “ me that his mind was so eager to obtain all faces,
 “ that when he could not get a face by it self he “ would buy a book wherein a face was set before
 “ it, meerly for the face’s sake: which being done
 “ he would tear out the face or picture, paste it in “ the said book, and write under it from whence it “ was taken. This book was also consumed by the “ said fire. I have also seen another folio as large
 “ as the former, containing the pictures of proces“ sions at coronations, marriages, interviews, fune“ rals, &c. printed from copper cuts and pasted
 “ or fastned therein; and another large folio con“ taining, as I remember, the prospects of cities, “ towns, houses, &c. Both which were also lost;
 “ as also many subterranean antiquities, as rare “ stones, such as Dr. Plot describes in his Natural “ History of Oxfordsh. and Staffordshire, besides “ a most admirable piece of antiquity made in the “ British times, viz. a chizel or ax framed from a “ flint stone, before the framing or working of iron
 “ was invented: the picture of which you may see “ in The Antiquities of Warwickshire illustrated,
 “ by Will. Dugdale, in his discourse of the town “ called Oldbury in that county. But now let’s “ proceed: on the fifteenth day of May (Thursday) “ 1679, the first stone of that stately fabric, after“ wards called Ashmole’s Musæum, was laid on the “ west side of the theatre, and being finished by the “ beginning of March 1682, were put therein, on “ the 20th of the same month, about 12 cart loads “ of rarities sent to Oxon by Mr. Ashmole: Which “ being fixed in their proper places by Rob. Plot “ LL. D. who before had been intrusted with the “ custody of the said musæum, were first of all “ publicly viewed on the 21st of May following by “ his royal highness James duke of York, his royal “ consort Josepha Maria, princess Anne, and their “ attendants, and on the 24th of the same month by “ the doctors and masters of the university. In a “ convocation held on the 4th of June following “ (1683) were letters openly read whereby Mr.
 “ Ashmole gave for ever to the univ. of Oxon. all
 “ the said rarities, notwithstanding he had been “ courted by others to bestow them elsewhere, and “ that others had offer’d great sums for them:
 “ Whereupon a Lat. letter of thanks pen’d by him,
 “ who was then dep. orator, being publicly read,
 “ was forthwith sent to Mr. Ashmole at S. Lambeth,
 “ who, in the beginning of March following, did

[889]

“ receive a green staff sent by the steward of S.
 “ Thomas hospital in Southwark signifying that he “ was elected one of the governors thereof. In the “ latter end of Octob. 1686, he was invited to the “ bench in the Middle Temple, but refused it; and “ in July 1690, his body being then much out of “ order and brought very low by divers indispositions “ contracted together in it, he came with his wife to “ Oxon, was received there with great observance,
 “ and on the 17th of the same month was sump“ tuously entertained by the vicech. and heads of “ houses at a noble dinner in the long room of rari“ ties within the said museum; at which time was “ an eloquent speech spoke before him and the said “ heads by Edw. Hannes M. A. of Ch. Ch. the chy“ mical professor. And now having almost brought “ him to his last stage, I must take leave to tell the “ reader that he was the greatest virtuoso and curioso
 “ that ever was known or read of in England before “ his time. Uxor Solis took up its habitation in his “ breast, and in his bosom the great God did abun“ dantly store up the treasures of all sorts of wisdom
 “ and knowledge. Much of his time, when he was “ in the prime of his years, was spent in chymistry;
 “ in which faculty being accounted famous, did “ worthily deserve the title of Mercuriophilus An“ glicus. And being eminent for botany several “ books of that subject were dedicated to him, as “ others of astrology, &c. were. Mr. Ashm. hath “ written,

“ *Annotations on several Poetical Pieces of our “ famous English Philosophers, who have written
 “ the Hermetic Mysteries in their own Language, “ illustrated with Figures.* Lond. 1652. qu. [Bodl.
 “ 4to. A. 2. Med. BS.] The names of the said “ philosophers are Tho. Norton, George Ripley, “ Pearce the black monk, Richard Carpenter, Abrah.
 “ Andrews, Tho. Charnock, Will. Blomefield, Edw.
 “ Kelley, knt. Tho. Robinson, &c. Before these “ authors and annotations, Mr. Ashmole hath put “ Prolegomena, which is excellently well done, if “ not too much canting or Rosy-crucian language “ therein, as there is in some of the annotations.
 “ This work bears the general title of Theatrum “ Chymicum Britannicum.

“ *The Proceedings on the Day of the Coronation
 “ of King Charles II.* This I have not yet seen,
 “ and therefore I know not in what vol. it is “ printed.

“ The Institutions, Laws and Ceremonies of the “ most noble Order of the Garter. Lond. 1672. fol.
 “ [Bodl. T. 3. 10. Th.] adorned and illustrated “ with many admirable cuts to the great charge of “ the author, who was shortly after inform'd that a “ copy of it was repos'd in the pope's Vatican at “ Rome. Several copies of this book were after its “ publication presented by the author to the compa“ nions of the said most noble order: Among whom “ Christierne king of Denmark being one, he sent “ to him by the hands of Tho. Henshaw, esq; agent

“ there from king Charles II. a gold chain with a “ medal hanging to it, an. 1674. Whereupon Mr.
 “ Ashmole shewing it to his majesty, his majesty
 “ commanded him to wear it; which he accordingly
 “ did in some public solemnities that followed.
 “ Another copy also being by him sent to Frederick “ William prince elector of the empire and marquess
 “ of Brandenburg, that prince was so exceedingly “ taken with it, that he had not only sent to the author
 “ by the hands of sir Rob. Southwell envoy-extra“ ordinary to him, an. 1680, a golden chain of 90
 “ philagreen links in great knots most curiously “ worked, with a gold medal hanging to it, contain“ ing on one side his father's picture, and on the “ other an escutcheon of his arms, but took order
 “ that it should be translated into the Dutch lan“ guage; but whether it was so, I cannot yet tell,
 “ for I have not yet seen it.

“ Familiarum illustrium Imperatorumque Ro“ manorum Numismata, Oxoniæ in Bodliana Bib“ liotheca Archivis, descripta & explanata. This “ work, which is contained in three folio manu“ scripts, was by the author finished, an. 1659, and “ by him given to the public library at Oxon. in “ 1666, where they yet remain. The originals
 “ or copies of these are in Mr. Ashmole's museum.
 “ Description and Explanation of the Coins and “ Medals belonging to K. Ch. II. This is a MS.
 “ in one vol. and doth lye and is reposed in the “ king's cabinet of coins and medals.

“ *The Arms, Epitaphs, fenestral Inscriptions,
 “ with the Draughts of the Tombs, &c. in all the “ Churches in Berkshire.*—This book, which is a “ large folio and written with the author's own hand,
 “ an. 1666, and all the representations therein tricked
 “ with great curiosity, was by him collected in 1664,
 “ 65, after he had been appointed deputy marshal
 “ by sir Edw. Byshe clar. king of arms to visit the “ said county of Berkshire. The original is in the “ library in Ashmole's Museum, nu. 850, as also
 “ the original of the visitation of the said county
 “ made by him, nu. 851, and a copy of both bound “ together is in the coll. of arms, commonly called
 “ the heralds office in London.

“ The Arms, Epitaphs, fenestral Inscriptions, “ with the Draughts of some Tombs, &c. in some s [Printed at London, with large additions, in 3 vol. in 8vo. 1719. RAWLINSON.]

This is printed by E. Curl in 3 vols. 8vo. under the title of Ashmole's History and Antiquities of Berkshire; but they are interpolated throughout, there being several things after Ashmole's death; so that one knows not what is Ashmole's and what not. The publisher and interpolator was Dr. Richard Rawlinson. LOVEDAY.

Ashmole's Berkshire was printed in 3 vol. 8vo. Lond. 1719.
 1723, and in folio, Reading 1736. Another edition was undertaken and began to be printed about the year 1814, by the rev. Charles Coates, author of a Hist. of Reading, but this was stopped by the death of the editor. There are two copies of the first edition in the Bodleian library, with MS.
 notes; one with those of Dr. Rawlinson, the other by E.
 Rowe Mores.]

" Churches, and Houses in Staffordshire.—This book, which is in fol. written for the most part by Mr. Ashmole's hand, was collected partly when he accompanied Will. Dugdale, esq; Norroy king of arms in the visitation of his province, an. 1662, 63. 'Tis in the library in Ashmole's museum, nu. 853.

" The Arms, Epitaphs, fenestral Inscriptions, with the Draughts of Tombs, &c. in several Churches in Cheshire, Shropshire, Derbyshire, Nottinghamshire, &c.—This book which is in fol. written by Mr. Ashmole, was collected when he accompanied the said Norroy in the visitation of his province, an. 1662. 1663, &c. This is in the said library nu. 854.

" History of the Antiquities of the Castle, Chapel, Colledge and Town of Windsor.

" Divers Collections, Remarks, Notes on Books and MSS. in his Muswum. See the printed Catalogue.

" He also translated from Lat. into English, (1) De Mundi Catastrophe, written by Joh. Franc. Spina, but when or where printed or in what vol. the translator in his letter did not tell me, only that he joyned to it a translation of Ambr. Merlin's Prophecy, &c. (2) Fasciculus Chymicus, &c. written by Arth. Dee. This translation bears the title of Chymical Collections, expressing the Ingress, Progress and Egress of the secret Hermetic Science out of the choicest and most famous Authors. To this translation is added another made by Ashmole, entit. Arcanum: or, the grand Secret of Hermetic Philosophy, &c. written by a concealed author. Both these were printed at Lond. in one vol. in oct. an. 1650, and said to be made English in the title by James Hasolle (Elias Ashmole) esq; Qui est Mercuriophilus Anglicus. Before the title is the picture or shoulder-piece of Ashmole standing on an altar, whereon is written on the forepart Mercuriophilus Anglicus, and above the picture is a hand coming out of the clouds holding before the translator's face a scrawl, with an astrological scheme thereon; and under all are four English verses partly describing the picture, made by the most beloved friend of the translator Tho. Wharton doct. of phys. Before these two translations Mr. Ashmole hath put prolegomena, in two sh. far'd with Rosy-crucian language and 'dedicated to all ingenious elaborate students in the most divine mysteries of hermetic learning.' Mr. Ashmole also did publish a learned treatise of the philosopher's stone, entit. The Way to Bliss, in three Books. Lond. 1658. qu. [Bodl. 4to. R. 13. Th.] pen'd by an unknown author living in the reign of qu. Elizabeth. He had received the copy from his father Will. Backhouse who was the owner of it, purposely to do right to the author thereof, because they both had met with a pretended copy of the said Way to Bliss, ready fitted for the press: which, upon perusal, Mr. Ashmole found mutilated with many imperfections, much injured by several incongruous additions made up of some scatter'd shreds and fragments collected from the whole work: and besides intended that the world should take it for the child of one Eugenius Theodidactus (that is, Joh. Heydon who had then lately married the widow of Nich. Culpeper the astrologer) being (by rebaptization) called The Wiseman's Crown, or Rosy-crucian Physick: under which title, notice was given of its coming abroad by another book, I mean Jo. Gadbury's almanack for the year 1658. All which considered, together with the zeal that Mr. Ashmole had for the noble science of chymistry, and regret to see so able a champion thereof, viz. the unknown author of the said Way to Bliss, thus totally, thus nefariously rob'd and spoiled of his honour, he therefore did publish the perfect copy. Which matter and reason being divulg'd to the world by Mr. Ashmole in his epistle to the reader set before the said Way to Bliss; Joh. Heydon thereupon did put out a book (being then about 30 years of age) entit. The Idea of the Law, characterized from Moses to K. Ch. &c. Lond. 1660. oct.⁶ In the preface to which he with great boldness tells the reader that Mr. Ashmole made public a book called The Way to Bliss, in three Books, very deficient and imperfect, for that which he had published had four books, &c. At length this eminent virtuoso Mr. Ashmole dying in his house in South or Little Lambeth, was buried at the east end of the south isle joyning to the church of Great Lambeth in Surrey, on the 26th of May (Corpus Christi day) in sixteen hundred ninety and two. Soon after was a marble stone laid over his grave, with this inscription thereon. Hic jacet inclytus ille & eruditissimus Elias Ashmole, Lichfieldiensis Armiger, inter alia, in Republica, munera, Tributi in Cervisia Controrotulator, Feialis autem Windsorienis titulo per annos plurimos dignatus. Qui, post duo connubia, in Uxorem duxit tertiam, 1692.

⁶ [This J. Heydon published in 1665 a book entit. 1. The Harmony of the World. 2. Theomagia, or the Temple of Wisdom. 3. The Holy Guide. 4. The Heavently Christian Christal. Currier or Elhavareuna & Psonthan phachia. 5. The Throne of Light. 6. A Rosycrucian Theomogical Dictionary, with an admirable Hebrew Grammar and the Signification of every Letter made plain in Greek, Latin and English. All these said to be written by 'John Heydon gent. φιλενομος, a servant of God, and secretary of Nature.' WATTS.

Besides these, Heydon wrote Eugenius Theodidactus. The propheticall Trumpeter sounding an Allarum to England. Lond. 1655. 12mo.

A new method of Rosie-Crucian Physick. Lond. 1658. 4to. The Rosie-Crucian Axiomata, or general Rules to know all Things, past, present, and to come. Lond. 1660. 12mo.

The holy Guide, leading the Way to the Wonder of the World. Lond. 1662. 8vo.

A Rosie Cross uncovered. Lond. 1662. 8vo.

The wise Man's Crown: or the Glory of the Rosie Cross. Lond. 1664. 8vo.

A Quintuple Rosie Crucian Scourge for the Correction of George Thompson. Lond. 1665, 4to.]

“ Elizabetham Gulielmi Dugdale Mil. Garteri principalis Regis Armorum filiam, obiit 18 Maii 1692, anno ætatis 76, sed durante Musæo Ashmoliano. Oxon. nunquam Moriturus. Soon after Mr. Ashmole's death, his widow Elizabeth, who seemed to have had a great love and fondness for her husband, (which was sometimes before company expressed) married a lusty man called John Reynolds a stone-cutter, but had no issue by him. Mr. Ashmole bequeathed to the university of Oxon one thousand seven hundred fifty and eight books, whereof there are in manuscript 620, and of them are 311 folios; but the best elixir that he enjoyed, which was the foundation of his riches, wherewith he purchased books, rarities and other things, were the lands and joyntures which he had by his second wife called Mary, sole daughter and heir of sir Will. Forster of Aldermaston in Berks, knight of the Bath; which Mary was first married to sir Edw. Stafford of Bradfield in the said county knight; afterwards to Thom. Hamlyn pursevant or officer of arms, and thirdly to sir Thom. Manwaring of the Inner Temple knight, sometime steward of Reading: After whose death Mr. Ashmole taking her to wife on the 16th of Nov. 1649 enjoyed her estate, tho' not her company for altogether, till the day of her death, which hapned on the first of Apr. 1668.”

[In 1717 was printed at Lond. in a small 8vo. Memoirs of the Life of that learned Antiquary Elias Ashmole, Esq. drawn up by himself by Way of Diary; with an Appendix of original Letters. The publisher was Charles Burman. This was reprinted, with Lilly's life, in 8vo. 1774.

Prefixed to The Antiquities of Berkshire, was a short account of the author drawn up by Dr. Rawlinson, who tells us that a life of Ashmole was 'expected, and indeed as some say, promised, from the accurate pen of a prelate who makes no inconsiderable figure in the church of England, and owes his present grandeur and future hopes, to the generosity of Mr. Ashmole, who assisted and encouraged him by a liberal education at school, and in the university, by which he was fitted for the mitre, he now deservedly wears.' This was Dr. George Smalridge, bishop of Bristol, who thus addresses his patron:

Reverendissimo et doctissimo Eliæ Ashmoul armigero et Mæcenati suo plurimum colendo.
Εὐδαίμωνεϊν.

Pupillis Deus ipse pater: Tu proximus illi,
Quo, patre defuncto, liberiore fruor.
Quem mors felicem fecit, Natura parentem
Mi dedit: at patrem te Deus ipse dedit.
In nos ter miseros tua movit pectora numen,
Quos cepit motus mens generosa tua,
Non mihi concessum est, te gratesolvere dignas;
A Patre cœlesti præmia digna feras.

Tui favoris studiosissimus
Georgius Smalridge.

There is a bust of Ashmole by Faithorne, another and very neat print by an anonymous hand, and a third by Vandergucht, the plate of which is in the Bodleian library.]

“ GERARD LANGBAINE, son of Dr. Ger. [892] “ Langbaine sometime provost of Queen's coll. was “ born in the parish of S. Peter in the East, within “ the city of Oxon, on the 15th of July 1656, educated in grammar learning at Denton in the parish
“ of Cudesdon near Oxon, under a noted master “ called Will. Wildgoose, M. A. bound an apprentice to a bookseller called Nevil Simmons living in “ S. Paul's church yard in London, but soon after “ called thence by his mother, on the death of his “ elder brother named Will. Langbaine, and by her “ entred a gent. com. of Univ. coll. in Mich. term “ 1672, where tho' put under the tuition of a good “ tutor, yet by his mother's fondness he became idle,
“ a great jockey, married, and run out of a good “ part of the estate that had descended to him.
“ But being a man of parts, he afterward took up, “ lived for some years a retired life near Oxon, improved much his natural and gay geny that he had “ to dramatic poetry, and at first wrote little things “ without his name set to them, which he would “ never own. Afterwards he wrote and owned,
“ The Hunter: a Discourse of Horsemanship.
“ Oxon. 1685. in a large oct. This is put at the “ end of a third edition of a book entit. The Gentleman's Recreation, in four Parts, viz. Hunting, Hawking, Fowling, Fishing, &c. whereunto “ is prefix'd a large Sculpture, giving easy Directions for Blowing the Horn: with an Abstract at “ the End of each Subject of such Laws as relate “ to the same. This Gentl. Recreation, &c. was “ wrote, as Mr. Langbaine hath told me, by one “ colonel Cook of Gloucestershire: which if true,
“ then do I take him to be the same with Edw. Cook
“ a colonel sometimes in the long parliament army,
“ who lived mostly at Highnam or Higham near the “ city of Gloucester, and the same col. Cook, who “ when he saw to what ends the said army aimed at, “ viz. to take away the life of king Charles I. to “ extirpate his family and set up themselves, he “ became a convert of integrity, highly valued that “ blessed prince, and did all that lay in his power
“ to save his life. He did usually attend the said “ king at Newport in the isle of Wight during the “ treaty there between him and his parliament, “ was there when the said king was, to the amazement and horror of all royalists, hurried thence to “ Hurst Castle in the latter end of Nov. 1648, at “ which time his maj. laid his commands on the said “ colonel to commit to writing the manner of his “ seizure, and of his being carried away to the said
“ castle; which accordingly he did. This col. Cook “ died at London, on the 29th of January 1683,
“ and was buried on the 2d of Feb. following at “ Highnam before-mention'd. In the beginning of “ March 1689, was published of the said colonel's

" writing Certain Passages which hapned at Newport in the Isle of Wight, Nov. 29, 1648, relating to King Charles I. Lond. 1690. in 4 sh. and an half in qu. In which pamphlet are several things worth reading that were never before published. Mr. Langbaine hath also written, "Momus Triumphans, or the Plagiaries of the English Stage, expressed in a Catalogue of Comedies, Tragedies, &c. Lond. 1688. in 5 sh. in qu. [Bodl. 4to. A. 6. Th.] published in Nov. 1687. Which title, with the book it self, with a large preface of 15 pages of Langbain's writing, being published by another hand contrary to the mind of the author and 500 of the copies sold, he caused another title to be put to the rest of the copies (with an advertisement against the first) running thus.— "A new Catalogue of English Plays, containing Comedies, Tragedies, Tragi-Comedies, Operas, Masques, Pastorals, Interludes, Farces, &c. both Ancient and Modern, that have ever yet been Printed, to this present Year 1688. To which are added the Volumes and best Editions, with divers Remarks of the Originals of most Plays, and the Plagiaries of several Authors. Lond. 1688, published with the advertisement next following the title, in the beginning of Dec. 1687.⁷

⁷ [This work had, on its first appearance, two distinct title pages; the one, printed for Nicholas Cox, and are to be sold by him in Oxford: MDCLXXXVIII.; the other, printed for N. C. and are to be sold by Sam. Holford, at the Crown in the Pall Mall. 1688. As the copies now in circulation are usually found with one of these titles, there must have been many sold before the author altered the same to A new Catalogue, &c. which might be suspected as a bookseller's device to give an impetus to the remainder of the impression. The author sought to enforce a different belief by the following spirited 'Advertisement: 'The itch of writing, which unhappily had infected me, is now unexpectedly turn'd to a tetter; which is likely to destroy my reputation, if not taken in time: but I hope a little ink (the common remedy) will both prevent its spreading, and absolutely cure it. This brat, of which I am now ashamed to own myself the author, is published to the world under the heathenish name of Momus Triumphans. I wish I knew my obliging gossips who nam'd it, that I might thank them, as they deserv'd, for their signal kindness. I have endeavour'd to be inform'd, who these friends were, from my bookseller, but he pleads ignoramus; and ask him the reasons of this title, he answers me like sir John Falstaff, 'Though reason were as plenty as blackberries, he would give no man a reason on compulsion. Thus not being able to trace it further, and which is worse, five hundred copies being got into huckster's hands, past my recovery, I am forc'd to sit down with patience, and must depend upon this apology, that my friends may not think me lunatick (as they might with reason were this title my own) and my enemies have occasion to say, this just revenge was inflicted on me by Apollo, for abusing his sons, the poets. But whoever the author was, I dare swear, he thought, he had infinitely obliged me, in dubbing me a squire: a title, no more my due than that of doctor is to a mountebank; and which I receive with the same kindness as a crooked man would that of my lord. 'Tis happy for the printer that I am a patient man, and no poet; for otherwise he might expect as severe dealings from me (for not printing the genuine title page, and for those gross errors which have all along escaped the press) as Ly-

" This Catalogue, wherein great reading is expressed in the margin of every page, is the bass or cambras from Archilochus; or one of his own trade from the famous Oldham. But to shew my self in charity with him, I forgive him, as freely, as I would be forgiven by my readers: upon condition that he (in part of satisfaction) print the following errata for the preface, which makes it, as it is unintelligible, to use a mollifying term for nonsense. G. Langbaine.'

This labour of Langbaine had been preceded by An exact and perfect Catalogue of all the Playes, with the Author's Names, and what are Comedies, Tragedies, Histories, Pastoralls, Masks, Interludes, more exactly printed than ever before, appended to the first edition of the comedy called the Old Law, by Massinger, Middleton and Rowley; and an alphabetical catalogue in same year was published with Goffe's tragi-comedy of the Careless Shepherdess. Another list compiled by Francis Kirkman, the bookseller, was printed about 1661, who continued and reprinted it with the tragi-comedy of Nicomede in 1671. The number of dramatic pieces therein enumerated was 806; and Kirkman, in his advertisement, says—'I really believe there are no more, for I have been these twenty years a collector of them, and have conversed with and enquired of those that have been collecting these fifty years.' Langbaine, in the preface to Momus Triumphans, remarks, that 'about nine years after, the publisher of this catalogue reprinted Kirkman's, with emendations, but in the same form.' This article of Langbaine's I have never seen. In addition to other improvements of classification, &c. Langbaine gave, in notes to each title, a reference, in most instances, to where the plot was borrowed from, which he enlarged copiously in compiling the Account of the English Dramatic Poets, 1691.

In 1688 Langbaine had been master of above nine hundred and fourscore English plays and masques, besides drolls and interludes; and having read most of them, was become a competent critic of the coincidence of scenes and characters, and apparent plagiarisms. These he attempted to point out largely in the English Dramatic Poets, but he has not escaped himself without censure. Mr. Scott characterises this research as 'malignant assiduity.' (Dryden's Works, vol. ii. p. 292.) And Mr. D'Issraeli observes, he 'read poetry only to detect plagiarism.' (Calamities of Authors, vol. ii. p. 274.) However, it is to be remembered, that Warton, whose judgment must not be hastily impeached on any occasion, pronounced this book 'a good ground-work for a new publication on the same subject and plan, and which has merit as being the first attempt of the kind.' (Hist. of Eng. Poetry, vol. ii. Emendations, sig. h 2.) Oldys made a copy of that work the common-place repository for all his copious emendations to the lives of the various authors, which were transcribed into interleaved copies, by bishop Percy; Geo. Steevens, now in possession of sir E. Brydges; Isaac Reed, in Mr. Heber's library; and Mr. Malone, with Mr. Boswell. Another copy with Winstanley, Gildon, Jacob, &c. with similar notes, is in my possession.

What occasioned the injudicious attack in the English Dramatic Poets, upon Dryden, is scarcely known. For a knowledge of this literary secret we are indebted to an anonymous critic that flourished contemporary with our author, who believed something like a justification of the great bard necessary. 'When (says the critic) you first publish'd your little inventory of plays, it seems some wag or other about the town, was pleased to cap your design with the title of Momus Triumphans: and being conscious to yourself of disingenuity and portly language to Mr. Dryden in your preface, you pitch't upon him as the likeliest godfather to your book, and accordingly, right or wrong, ran full tilt at him in your next edition, in the dialect of a northern barg, just. You were, sir, before-hand assured of the silence of your adversary (knowing he must descend so far below himself to cope with you)

[893]

“ground-work of another book written by the said Mr. Langbaine entit.

“An Account of the English Dramatic Poets: or, some Observations and Remarks on the Lives and Writings of all those that have published either Comedies, Tragedies, Tragi-Comedies, Pastorals, Masques, Interludes, Farces or Operas in the English Tongue. Oxon. 1691. in a thick oct. This book, with Momus Triumphans, was mostly composed from a collection of about a thousand printed plays and masques, besides drolls and interludes which he had been master of, while he lived in his private retirement at Wick and at Hedington near Oxon. On the 14th of August 1690, Mr. Langbaine was elected inferior beadle of arts of this university in consideration of his ingenuity and loss of part of his estate, and on the 19th of Jan. following he was elected superior beadle of law, in the place of Mr. Christopher Wase, who died on the 29th of Aug. going before: From which time to the election of Mr. Langbaine the place was kept void in hopes of a fit person to be obtained to execute the office of architypographus, but in vain, which office was formerly joyned to the superior beadle'ship of law, as I have elsewhere told you. While he was superior beadle he wrote and published an Appendix to a Catalogue of all Graduates in Divinity, Law and Physic, &c. written and published by Rich. Peers superior beadle of arts and physie: which Appendix contains the names of all the proceeders in div. law and phys. in this university from the 14th of July 1688, (where Peers left off,) to the 6th of Aug. 1690. At length our author Langbaine giving way to fate on the 23d of June in sixteen hundred ninety and two, was buried in the body of the church of S. Peter in the East within the city of Oxon. I have been informed by him and others that he had written The Hermaphrodite, a Novel, which perhaps may be the same with The Gallant Hermaphrodite, an 1692.

and upon this confidence have attack't him with so much rudeness, and so unlike a gentleman, that you seem, for want of other ammunition, to have discharged your excrements at him.' Whether this censure, conveyed in the vulgar idiom of that period, might have been successfully replied to by our author, is uncertain: it was published as a letter, or long review of the Account of the Dramatick Poets, in Nn. 3 of a new weekly paper called the Moderator, on Thursday, June 23, 1692, the same day, as appears above, when Langbaine, careless of censure or of praise, gave his ear alone to the summons for another and a better world.

In Pearson's Catalogue, 1788, there is notice of a work by Langbaine, that escaped the research of Wood:

Lot 3055. The English Rogue, by Fra. Kirkman, with cuts, 1688.

Lot 3056. Another copy, with the second part by Gerard Langbaine, with the portraits of Langbaioe and Rich. Head. 1674-88.

Some mistake has arisen here, there not being any known portrait of Langbaine, but a vile one of Kirkman may be that intended. HASLEWOOD.]

“amorous Novel. Lond. 1687. oct. translated from the French of Sieur de Chavigny: But Quære.

“THOMAS SPARK, [or SPARKS] son of Archibald Spark minister of Northop in Flintshire, was elected from Westminster school one of the students of Ch. Ch. an. 1672, aged 17 years, took the degrees in arts, holy orders, and preached sometimes in these parts. Afterwards he became chaplain to sir George (afterwards lord) Jeffries, who, when lord chancellor, did advance him to several spiritualities, but in what order or time I cannot tell. When our author Spark died, he was rector of Ewehurst near Guilford in Surrey, rector of Norton called by some Hogs-Norton near Bosworth in Leicestershire, prebendary of Lichfield and of Rochester and doctor of divinity. He hath published, “Notæ in Libros sex Novæ Historiæ Zozini Comitiss. Oxon. 1679. oct. This is dedicated to his master Dr. Richard Bushy, and translated into English by another hand.—Lond. 1684. oct.

“Lucii Coelii Lanctantii Firmiani Opera quæ extant, ad Fidem MSS. recognita, & Commentariis illustrata. Oxon. 1684. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. W. 22. Th. BS.] At the end of which is Dissertatio de Ripa striga ad Lanctant. de Morte Perscutorum, written by Hen. Dodwell, M. A. This Dr. Spark (who hath extant also a Visitation Sermon preached before the Bishop of Winchester at Guilford 22 July 1691; on 1 Cor. 1. 10.) died in the city of Bath (to which place he had retired to obtain health by the waters there) on the seventh day of Septemb. in sixteen hundred ninety and two, and was buried in the great church there dedicated to S. Peter and S. Paul, leaving then behind him the character of a learned man, but confident and forward without measure: and that by his excesses and too much agitation in obtaining spiritualities he brought himself into an ill disposition of body, which, contrary to his expectation, brought him, in the prime of his years, to his grave.

1692.

“HENRY HICKMAN, a Worcestershire man born, received his first academical education in S. Catherine's hall in Cambridge, where taking the degree of bach. of arts, retired to this university in the latter end of 1647, and settling himself for a time in Magd. hall, obtained the next year, by the favour of the visitors appointed by parl. a demy's place, and soon after a fellowship of Magd. coll. About that time taking the degree of master of arts, he became a preacher without any orders from a bishop, and exercising his function in S. Aldate's church in Oxon, and then at Brackley in Northamptonshire, was much resorted to by the men and women in the time of interruption and usurpation. In 1658 he was admitted to the reading of the sentences, i. e. to the degree of “bach. of div. but in the year when king Charles II. was restored, an. 1660, he being outed of his fellowship to make room for the right owner, he went into Holland where he composed his Apoloogia pro Ministris, &c. Afterwards returning into England, he retired to his native country, and at a place near Sturbridge he took to him disciples and read to them logic and philosophy, contrary to the statutes of this university if he had been sworn to them. But being soon weary of that employment, he went into Holland again, and settled at Leyden, preached several years in the English church there, and enjoyed his liberty as he pleased. He was a person several ways learned, much conversant in books, a leading man and pillar of his party, but altogether a severe enemy to the ceremonies of the church of England. A certain^a author of another persuasion is pleased to stile him ‘a plagiarist, a meer sycophant, a splenetick and hypocondriacal person, one also that is twelve times in a year troubled with deliriums, and therefore his writings are not to be regarded,’ &c. He hath written,

[894]

“A Justification of the Fathers and Schoolmen, &c. being an Answer to so much of Mr. Tho. Pierce’s Book called ‘Ἀποκατάξεις as doth relate to the Opinion of the said Fathers touching the Positivity of Sin. Oxon. 1658, 59. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. H. 15. Th. BS.] Which book, as a certain author⁹ saith, was patched up and composed from these authors following, viz. 1. From Dr. Heylin’s Antidotum Lincoln. 2. From The new Enclosures broken down, &c. written by Mr. Will. Morice. 3. From Jo. Goodwin’s Triumviri. 4. From The Way to the true Church, &c. by Dr. Fr. White, &c. but most of all from two common storehouses, Mr. Prynne’s Anti-Arminianism and Canterbury’s Doom, &c.

“An Advertisement concerning a Clause in Dr. Heylin’s Examen Historic.—Printed at the end of A Justification of the Fathers, &c.

“Brevis Refutatio Tileni, at the end also of A Just. of the Fathers, &c. Before I go any further the reader is desired to know that Laur. Womack D. D. wrote a book called The Examination of Tilenus before the Tryers, &c. in order to his intended settlement in the office of a public preacher in the commonwealth of Utopia, and thereunto annexed The Tenets of the Remonstrants touching the five Articles voted, stated and imposed, but not disputed at the Synod of Dort, &c. Lond. 1658. in tw. The said doctor having in this pretended examination of the feigned Tilenus sufficiently exposed both the tryers of those times, as also the principles of the Calvinists, and shewed

“also how extream partial those of the Arminian persuasion (as they do almost every where in their writings complain) were dealt withal at the synod of Dort, Mr. Rich. Baxter thereupon reflected and animadverted upon this Tilenus junior in the preface to his Discovery of the Grotian Religion, &c. Lond. 1658. oct. Soon after Mr. Tho. Pierce in An additional Advertisement, &c. added at the end of his Self-condemnation exemplified in Mr. Whitfield, Mr. Barlee and Mr. Hickman, &c. wrote upon the first Sight of Baxter’s Discov. of the Grot. Religion, saith in an advertisement at the end, that he had not the happiness to know Tilenus in the least degree; and that if possibly he be alive to undertake his own cause against Mr. Baxter, the world will find ’twill be but impar congressus. Hereupon our author Mr. Hickman in his *Justification of the Fathers*¹ before-mention’d is angry that Mr. Pierce had given so honourable a character of Tilenus, whom our author calls Ethiopian scribbler, poor fellow, &c. and says, that ‘he casts the highest scorn that is upon the tryers, making them to ask such questions of those that come before them, as in all probability never came into their thoughts to ask, which is such a piece of impudence, as no one hath ventured to imitate him in, but that Ishmael of Coleman-street (Joh. Goodwin) whose hand being against all men, hath provoked all men, even the pamphleteer (March. Nedham) to lift up a hand against himself.’ Soon after Dr. Womack came out with a second piece (for he afterwards owned himself in print to be the author of this, and the former wrote under the name of Tilenus) entit. Arcana Dogmatum Anti-Remonstrantium: or, the Calvinists Cabinet unclosed: In an Apology for Tilenus against a pretended Vindication of the Synod of Dort, at the Provocation of Mr. R. Baxter held forth in the Pref. to the Grotian Religion, together with a few Drops on the Papers of Mr. Hickman. Lond. 1659. in tw. The said papers of Mr. Hickman are his Justification of the Fathers, &c. before-mention’d, and these drops are let fall on those that are in the prefatory epistle to his old friend Mr. Baxter before his Arcana Dogmatum, &c. and that which is said against Mr. Hickman in this pref. epist. is answer’d by him at the end of his Lat. sermon, in his Brevis Refutatio Tileni before-mention’d. The next book that our author Hickman published was,

“A Review of the Certamen Epistolare between Pet. Heylin D. D. and Hen. Hickman B. D. Lond. 1659. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. B. 382. Line.] published under the name of Theophilus Churchman. “Laudensium Apostasia: or, a Dialogue, in which is shewn that some Divines risen up in our Church since the Greatness of the late Archb. are

^a “Joh. Durell in his Vindicia S. Eccles. Anglicanae cap. 2. p. 100, 101.”

⁹ “Tho. Pierce in his Letter to Dr. Heylin concerning Mr. Hickman, &c. at the end of his New Discoverer, &c. p. 280, 281, &c.”

VOL. IV.

¹ “Page 21. in the second edit.”

"in sundry Points of great Moment quite fallen off from the Doctrine received in the Church of England. Lond. 1660. qu. A character of which book given by Steph. le Moyne, one of the ordinary preachers to the reformed congregation of Roan written in a letter to Dan. Brevint the same year that that book came out, you may see in Dr. Durell's book entit. Vindiciæ S. Eccles. Angl. &c. cap. 12. p. 100. Mr. Hickman also is supposed to be author of these two things following, viz.

"A Letter to a Friend tending to prove, 1. That valid Ordination ought not to be repeated. 2. That Ordination by Presbyters is valid. Lond. 1661. qu. [Bodl. A. 14. 12. Linc.]

"Append. containing Animadversions made upon a lately published Discourse of Mr. Joh. Humphrey concerning Re-ordination.—Tho' these two last things are said in the title to be written by R. A. yet Mr. Hickman was supposed by many learned men to be the author of them; who hath also written,

"Historia quinque-articularis exarticulata: or, Animadversions on Dr. Heylin's Quinquarticular History, &c. Lond. 1661, 62. and 1674. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. M. 23. Art.]

"Apologia pro Ministris in Anglia (vulgo) Nonconformistis an. 1662. Aug. 24 die Bartholomæi dicto ejectis, adversus Argutiolas putridasque Calumnias Durelli, Ellisii, aliorumque. Eleutheropoli an. æræ Bartholomææ, 2^o & 3^o, in tw. and oct. Our author Hickman's name is not set to it, but all scholars have hitherto taken it to be his. A character of which you may see in a book entit. Actio in Schismaticos Anglicanos, &c. Lond. 1672. p. 4. written by Matth. Scrivner contemporary with our author in S. Catherine's hall in Cambridge, and placed at the end of his Apologia pro S. Ecclesiæ Patribus adversus Joh. Dallam de Usu Patrum, &c. As for Ellisius (Joh. Ellis) before-mention'd in the title of Apologia, &c. he was sometimes fellow of S. Catherine's hall in Cambr. proctor of that university, chaplain to archb. Abbot, lecturer or preacher in the town of Cambridge before the grand rebellion began, at what time he was known by the name of Joh. Ellis junior. Afterwards he was made one of the rectors of Waddesdon in Bucks, and at length sole rector of that place upon his writing and publishing of a book entit. St. Austin imitated; or, Retractions, &c. Lond. 1662. qu. In which he retracts some part of a sermon which defended the war against the king, preached before the house of commons 22 Feb. 1642, and soon after published with this title The sole Path to a sound Peace; on Micah 5. Ver. 5. Lond. 1643. qu. As also so much of his answer entit. Vindiciæ Catholicæ: or, the Rights of particular Churches asserted against Mr. Sam. Hudson Minister of Capell in Suffolk, an. 1647, as concerned the maintaining of the then or since practised independency. He was looked upon as a very pious and learned man, altho' our author Mr. Hickman in his Apologia pro Ministris, &c. brands him with that infamous name of apostate, barely for renouncing some of his former rebellious and independent principles upon his return into the bosom of the church of England. But this I would have the nonconformists know, that before a small piece of his entit. The Pastor and Clark, &c. Lond. 1659. in tw. containing a reply to the clerk of his parish, who had drew him forth into a disputation in writing touching infant baptism, are prefix'd his thoughts concerning what he then judged erroneous and mistaken both in his sermon before-mention'd and in his Vindiciæ Catholicæ, &c. promising moreover in the last paragraph a larger explication (if it should seem convenient) of that brief palinody. This was done by him purely out of a sincere conviction that he had been before grossly misguided in some very material and momentous points, and at such a time also, when there was not the least probability or prospect of the happy restoration; and so not made public only for his own greater lucre and profit, which some nonconformists have falsely and uncharitably objected against him as the true reason of his change. What he obliged himself here to perform, was soon after very faithfully made good much to his own credit and reputation in the Retractions that followed. He died very aged, and was buried at Waddesdon about the beginning of Nov. 1681, whose character and account of his return to the church of England in 1662, you may see in Jo. Durell's answer to the preface of Hickman's Apologia, and in the 19th chap. of his Vindiciæ S. Eccles. as also in Scrivner's Actio in Schismaticos, p. 5. &c. This Joh. Ellis was father* to Philip Ellis consecrated a titular bishop in S. James's chap. within the liberty of West. 6 May 1688.

"The Danger of the House of Feasting, and Benefit of the House of Mourning.—Printed 1666. in tw.

"Bonasus Vapulans: or, some Castigations given to Mr. Joh. Durell for fouling himself and others in his English and Lat. Book, wrote by Way of Letter to a Friend. Lond. 1672. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. A. 115. Linc.] written, as 'tis said in the title, by a country scholar who is generally supposed to be our author Mr. Hickman. However by what is said, that the author thereof had spent three years and no more in Cambridge, when Dr. Heylin's Examen Epistolare was published, (which was in 1659) it cannot be he; for by that time, our author had spent in both the universities about 16 years. This is the same, (some few alterations being made) with a fanatical scribble publish'd open and bare-fac'd to the world entit. The Non-

[896]

* [By one of the three daughters of Henry Wilkinson, mention'd vol. iii, col. 231.]

"conformists vindicated from the Abuses put upon them by Mr. Durell and Mr. Scrivner, &c. Lond. 1679. oct. It is said in this book (which is put under the name of Hen. Hickman³ in the Term Catalogue, 1681. numb. 4.) that it contains some animadversions on the books of those two authors, soon after they came forth, in two letters to a friend (who could not hitherto to get them published) containing also some remarks upon the celebrated conference at Hampton Court.⁴ Our author Hickman is supposed to be author of Speculum Sherlockianum, &c. Lond. 1674. oct. being an answer to Dr. Will. Sherlock's book entit. A Discourse concerning the Knowledge of Jesus Christ, &c. and in one or more auction catalogues, particularly in that of Dr. Joh. Arthur, printed in 1682, Mr. Hickman is said to be the author of it. See in Joh. Owen, col. 106. This author Mr. Hickman died at Leiden about Michaelmas A. D. 1692.

1692.

[897] "JOHN MARCH, a late faithful son of the ch. of England, and a zealous assertor of its doctrine and discipline, was born in Newcastle upon Tyne, educated in grammatical learning there under Mr. George Ritschel, became a commoner of Qu. coll. under the tuition of Mr. Thom. Tully an. 1658, aged 17 years or thereabouts, removed with him in the latter end of the same year to S. Edm. hall, he the said Mr. Tully being then principal thereof, took the degrees in arts, became a noted tutor, and for several years vice-principal of the said hall. In the month of June 1672 he was presented by the warden and fellows of Merton coll. to the vicaridge of Emildon in the county of Northumberland, void by the death of Will. Cox, M. A. and in the latter end of the year following, he was admitted to the reading of the sentences. Afterwards he became lecturer of S. Nicholas church in Newcastle, chaplain to Dr. Crew bishop of Durham, and on the death of Mr. Joh. Naylor (sometime of S. Alb. hall) he was made vicar of the said church, an. 1679; about which time he was constituted proctor for the diocese of Durham in a convocation of the clergy. He was a very diligent pastor of the flock committed to his charge (as a learned⁵ author tells us) and that not only in the course of his public ministry, from which without some necessary occasion he very rarely absented himself, but also in his private converses: for besides that every Lord's day in the evening he generally spent a considerable portion of time in instructing the youth of his parish, (from which pious and charitable exercise,

³ [Hickman was not the author of this book, but Mr. Barret of Nottingham. MACRO.]

⁴ [In this book there are several animadversions on Heylin's Hist. of the Presbyterians. WATTS.]

⁵ "Dr. Joh. Scott in his preface to Sermons preached on several Occasions, by our author Joh. March."

"he very rarely suffered himself to be diverted, even by the visits of his best and greatest friends) besides which, I say, his known abilities in resolving cases of conscience, drew after him a great many good people, not only of his own flock, but from remoter distances, who resorted to him as a common oracle, and commonly went away from him intirely satisfied in his wise and judicious resolutions, &c. His works that are extant (not that I shall take notice of his poetry) are

"Several sermons, as (1.) Sermon before the Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, Sheriffs, &c. of Newcastle upon Tyne, 30 Jan. 1676; on Judges 19. 30. Lond. 1677. qu. (2.) The Encania of S. Anne's Chappel in Sandgate: or a Serm. on Psalm 34. 11. preached 3 May 1682, before the Mayor, Aldermen, &c. of Newcastle upon Tyne, upon their erecting a School and Catechistical Lecture for the Instruction of poor Children, &c. Lond. 1682. in qu. (3.) The false Prophet unmask'd; or the Wolf stript of his Sheeps Cloathing; in a Serm. preached before the Mayor, Aldermen, &c. of Newcastle upon Tyne, 30 Jan. 1682; on Matth. 7. 15, 16. Lond. 1683. qu.

"A Vindication of the present great Revolution in England, in five Letters between him and James Welwood Doct. of Phys. occasioned by a Sermon preached by Mr. March 30 of Jan. 1688. Lond. 1689. qu. This Jam. Welwood, a Scotchman born, and a practitioner of his faculty in Newcastle, was afterwards author of Observator Reformatus; in one of which, expressing certain matters reflecting on the parliament, or else derogatory to their privileges, was committed to the custody of a serjeant at arms, &c. in Nov. 1691. He is no true friend to the church of England.

"Sermons preached on several Occasions. Lond. 1693. oct. published with a preface to, and his picture before them, by Joh. Scott, D. D. They are in number twelve, the first of which is on Psal. 76. 7. the second on Rev. 2. 5, &c. and the last which he preached 27 Nov. 1692, (being the Sunday before he died) is on Heb. 2. 3. He gave way to fate, to the great reluctancy of all that were inwardly acquainted with him, about the beginning of December in sixteen hundred ninety and two, and was buried, as I presume, in his church of S. Nicholas before-mention'd, leaving then behind him this character, that his conversation was in all respects so sober and regular, so pure and incorrupt, that those that spoke worst of him could not bespatter him with an immorality. Besides this John March was another of both his names, who was admitted to the degree of bach. of the civil law, as a member of S. Edm. hall, on the 27th of Nov. 1682, but whether he be the same with Joh. March a barister of Greys-inn, I know not; nor could Joh. March the divine before-mention'd inform me, as knowing nothing of him. The said Joh. March the barister hath “ published (1.) Reports, or new Cases, taken in the 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th Years of K. Ch. I. with divers Resolutions and Judgments given upon solemn Arguments, and with great Deliberation, &c. Lond. 1648, &c. qu. [Bodl. 4to. A. 20. Jur.] (2.) Amicus Reipub: Or an exact and speedy Course to Justice and Right, and for preventing and determining of tedious Law-Suits, &c. Lond. 1651. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. P. 64. Jur.] ‘Tis dedicated to the monster of men Joh. Bradshaw serjeant at law, and lord-president of the council of state. The author seems to be an approver of the late pretended reformation in the time of the rebellion, and of the actions of the then usurpers. (3.) Actions for Slander: or a methodical Collection under certain Grounds and Heads, of what Words are actionable in the Law and what not. To which are added Awards or Arbitraments: wherein is principally shewed what Arbitraments are good in Law and what not. Printed in oct. in two parts. This was afterwards reviewed and enlarged with many useful additions, by W. B. Lond. 1674. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. F. 27. Jur.]

1692.

[898]

“ JOHN CHETWIND, the eldest son of Dr. Edw. Chetw. by Helena his wife, dau. of sir Joh. Harington of Kelston near the city of Bath, was born at Banwell in Somersetshire, as I have been informed, admitted commoner of Exeter coll. 27 of Apr. 1638, aged 15 years, took one degree in arts, left the college in Jul. 1642, closed with the presbyterians (not without the advice of his uncle Joh. Harington, esq;) and returning thereunto for a time, when the visitors appointed by parliament, was admitted M. of A. in Oct. 1648, having before, or about that time, taken the covenant. Afterwards he was one of the joint-pastors for the city of, and parish of S. Cuthbert in, Wells, and was a zealous man in the way that he then professed; but upon the restoration of king Charles II. he wheeled about, took orders then, if I mistake not, from a bishop, became vicar of Temple in the city of Bristol, and one of the public lecturers of that city, the former by the patronage, the other by the gift, of the mayor, sheriffs, aldermen and council of that city. About which time he was made one of the prebends of the cath. ch. there, and was much frequented, especially by the precise party, for his way of preaching. He hath published

“ Several sermons, as (1.) Serm. at the Funeral of Mr. Sam. Oliver Pastor of Wells; on Ezek. 1. 5, 6. Lond. 1653. qu. [Bodl. B. 3. 2. Linc.] (2.) The Watch charged: or, a Warning to God's Watchmen, Sermon on Ezek. 3. 7. preached at Bridgewater in Som. 29 Sept. 1658, which was a Day set apart for Ordination, and the general Meeting of the associated Ministers in that County. Lond. 1659. oct. (3.) Eben-Ezer, A “ thankful Remembrance of God's Mercy in preserving England from the Gun-powder Treason, an. 1605, on ——— Lond. 1682. qu. (4.) A Memorial for Magistrates, preached in the City of Bristol 12 of Oct. at the Assize; on Ecclesiast. 12. Ver. 13, 14. Lond. 1682. qu.

“ Anthologia Historica: containing 14 Centuries of memorable Passages, and remarkable Occurrences; collected out of the English, Spanish, Imperial and Jewish Histories, and several other Authors and Writers. Lond. 1674. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. M. 117. Art.] This book was published again in the said vol. an. 1691, with this title, Collections Historical, Political, Theological; collected out of the most famed Authors of all Sorts of Learning, digested into fifteen Centuries: To which is annex'd, a Century of Legendary Stories. Our author Chetwind also did in the year 1652 design to write A Discourse concerning the Nature and Work of Conscience, for the use of the lady Jane Pile, widow of sir Fr. Pile of Colingborne in Wilts, baronet, but understanding then that preparations were making by an abler judgment on that subject, he therefore did suspend for some time the publishing of his conceptions; and whether they were afterwards published, I cannot tell. He also did make extant, A brief View of the State of the Church of England, as it stood in Qu. Elizabeth's and K. James's Reign, to the Year 1608, being a Character and History of the Bishops of those Times, &c. Lond. 1653. oct. written by our author's (Chetwind) mother's father, called sir Joh. Harington before-mentioned, author of (1.) Witty Epigrams in 4 Books. Lond. 1618, 33. fol. (2.) Orlando Furioso, in English heroical Verse. Lond. 1591. fol. the author then being 30 years of age. (3.) An Apology for Poetry, &c. which sir John dying at Kelston near Bath, was buried in the chancel of the church there (without any monument over him) on the first day of Decemb. an. 1612. See more of him in the second vol. of this work, col. 557. He left behind him a son of both his names (but not a knight) quite contrary to his humour, being a zealous presbyterian, if not worse, as it sufficiently appeared in the time of the grand rebellion against king Charles I. See more of him in this work, vol. iii. col. 895. As for the aforesaid Brief View of the State, &c. which was taken to be an additional supply to Dr. Fr. Godwin's Catalogue of Bishops (which was first published an. 1601) is as tart against married bishops, as Godwin's Catalogue is against those that were single before the reformation: and having many things therein relating to the said married bishops and others, which would not have passed the press during the times of peace and flourishing of the clergy, the publisher therefore took advantage and sent it flying abroad; which a sincere royalist, or one that was not a presbyterian, would not have done.

1692.

"Our author Mr. Chetwind died on Friday morning of the 30th of Decemb. in sixteen hundred ninety and two, and was buried in the chancel of Temple church within the city of Bristol on the third of Jan. following (being then 70 years of age wanting 25 days) at which time Mr. Will. Manning preached his funeral sermon."
[Chetwind was vicar of Hanbury co. Gloucester 1686. TANNER.]

"PAYNE FISHER, or as he writes himself in some of his books Paganus Piscator, the son of Payne Fisher, one of the captains of the life-guard belonging to king Charles I. while he was in Oxon, by Mary his wife the eldest daughter of sir Tho. Neale, was born at Warnford in Dorsetshire, in the house of the said sir Tho. Neale, became a commoner of Hart-hall in act or midsummer term an. 1634, aged 18, continued there three or more years, under the severe tuition of two tutors, and then going to Magd. coll. in Cambridge, took one degree in arts, at which time his great inclinations to poetry were discern'd by his contemporaries. But this person having a rambling head, he threw off his gown, went into Brabant, and trail'd a pike in the garrison of Bolduc: but his continuance there being very short, he return'd and became an ensign in the army raised by king Charles I. against the Scots, an. 1639, in which expedition he became acquainted with Rich. Lovelace the poet. Upon the disbanding of that army he went into Ireland, and was made successively an ensign, lieutenant, and captain-lieutenant under sir Joh. Clotworthy, afterwards viscount Masarene. Thence he returned into England, and landing in Cumberland, he was, by letters recommendatory which he brought with him from Ireland from the lord Chichester, made major in the regiment of foot belonging to sir Patrick Curwen, bart. one of the deputy lieutenants of the said county of Cumberland. Soon after, by command of prince Rupert, he conducted 300 men out of that regiment for the relief of the then besieged city of York in the beginning of Jul. 1644, and immediately after began that terrible battel on Marston-moore, wherein he was partly engaged. At that time the Scotch army spreading themselves like locusts all over Westmorland and Cumberland, he was forced to leave his command, and thereupon being destitute of means and money, he retired in private to London, lived there by his wits, favoured by his pen the successful rebellion, and, as a true time-server, (incident to most poets) ingratiated himself so much with the great men then in power, that he did homage to, and became at length poet laureat (or as he himself used to say, scribbler) to Oliver the protector of England, a pretended lover of musicians and poets, but the niggardliness and incompetency of his reward, shewed that he was a personated act of "greatness, and that private Cromwell did govern prince Oliver. After his majesty's restoration he turned about, endeavoured to express the great sufferings that he had endured for his loyalty, but his palpable flatteries of the great men in the interval being notoriously known, he could obtain nothing but what his wits procured, lived always poor, as not knowing the true value of money, and void of a prudential foresight, and running himself much in debt endured several years imprisonment in the Fleet, and became the object of charity. He had a very good command of his Latin pen, it being as 'twere natural to him, and was esteemed by many judicious persons an excellent Latin poet, as many things of that faculty, which he wrote purposely to flatter great persons to obtain rewards, shew. His usual way when he had written and printed a book, was to write many dedication papers to be put before them as occasion served, or his necessities required relief. As to his Deus & Rex, to his Elogia Sepulchralis, his Armachanus redivivus, The Tombs, Mon. &c. in S. Paul's Ch. and took all occasions to write epitaphs or sepulchral elegies purposely to present them to the sons, grandsons, and other relations of the parties deceased, mostly for lucre sake, and partly out of private ambition. But this the reader may be pleased to know, that as he loved to flatter great persons, so he himself lov'd to be flattered by his equals, or such that had admiration for him; yet take him out from that learning he had, he was guilty of many weaknesses, extravagancies, and infirmities. The things that he hath written are many, but he never cared to have several of them known, as being more willing that they should sink into oblivion, than in the least be remembred; whereby it was manifest, that he was ashamed of those things which he had written during the time of usurpation. Most of them follow, "Marston-Moore: sive de Obsidione Prælioque Eboracensi Carmen, Lib. 6. Lond. 1650. qu.

"Miscellanea quædam Poetica.
"Threnodia in Memoriam Ferdinandi Fisheri Turmæ Equestris Præfecti &c. Gallie. Carm.
"These two last are printed with Marston-Moore.
"Irenodia gratulatoria, sive illustriss. amplissimique Viri Oliveri Cromwellii &c. Epinicion—
"Lond. 1652. qu. dedicated to Joh. Bradshaw president, and the rest of the council of state.
"Ad invictiss. Virum Edm. Ludlovium nobiliss. Hyberniarum Hypostrategum &c. cum versus Jernam proficisceretur Soteria.
"In Obitum Edvardi Popham Carmine Acrosticho peroratum. These two are printed with Iren. grat. and the last is in Lat. and Engl. verse.
"Oratio anniversaria in Diem Inaugurationis sereniss. Principis Olivari D. G. Angl. Scot. & Hybern. Prepotentissimi Protectoris. Habita in

[900]

[901]

" Aula Medii Templi Decembris decim. sept. 1655.
 " Lond. 1655. in 5 sh. or thereabouts in fol. dedi" cated to Joh. L'Isle one of the keepers of the " great seal belonging to Oliver.

" Epitaphium sive Elog. sepulchrale Gul. Freke
 " Domini de Hannington in Agro Wilts. Printed " on one side of a large sh. of paper. 1657.

" Pæan Triumphalis; upon the second Inau- " guration of his Highness the Lord Protector.
 " Lond. 1657.

" Epitaph of Rob. Blake, late General at Sea.
 " —Printed with Pæan Triumph. It was also " printed by it self in Latin on one side of a sheet
 " of paper, an. 1658.

" Threnodia triumphalis, in Obitum sereniss.
 " nostri Principis Olivari, Angliæ, Scotiæ &c. nu-
 " peri Protectoris &c. Lond. 1658. fol. A trans-
 " lation of this into English is printed with it, pur-
 " posely and peculiarly for those who have relation
 " to, and are honorers of, the most illustrious and " renowned family of the Cromwells. At the end
 " follows Poema in Elegantissima Poemata jam-
 " pridem vulgata, necnon elimatissimam Pane-
 " gyrim Olivarianam nuper editam, Viri verè
 " Prænobilis & Eruditiss. Dom. Edm. Walleri de
 " Bekonsfield.

" Epinicion: vel Elogium felicissimi sereniss.
 " fortiss. Lodovici 14, Galliæ & Navarræ Regis
 " &c. pro nuperis passim Victoriis in Flandriæ;
 " præcipue pro desideratissimâ Reductione Dun-
 " kirki, capti reductique sub Confederatis Auspiciis
 " Franco-Britannorum, printed in 7 sh. in a large
 " thin fol. but not said where or when. The king
 " of France's picture is set before it, and the mar-
 " gin of every leaf is adorned with a cut containing
 " the arms of France, drums, swords, helmets,
 " bucklers, canons, &c. At the end of the book is " in praise of the work a French copy of verses
 " made by Pet. de Cardonnel, and another by F.
 " de Marsys. A Lat. copy also by M. A. la Ba" styde de la Crois, and another by Edw. Ben-
 " lowes.⁶

" Carmen ad Clerum, à nuperis Londini Flam-
 " mis ereptum.

" Soteria pro Valetudine recuperatâ Ducis in- " victiss. Georgii Ducis de Albemarle.

" Epinicion in Victoriam navalem Venetum con-
 " tra Turcas.

" Apobaterion in Adventum Legationemque Prin-
 " cipis de Ligne Claudii Moralli.

" Epitaphium { Roberti } Comitum de Lind-
 " Montacuti } sey.

" Both printed on one side of a large sh. of paper
 " an. 1668. The former died of his wound re" ceived at the battle of Edghill, 23 Octob. 1642,

" the other at Kensington near London, 25 Jul.
 " 1666.

" Elogium Sepulchrale pro Victoriosiss. Georgio
 " Monacho, Britannia Generalissimo, &c. printed " on one side of a sheet of paper, an. 1670.

" Elog. Sepulch. pro Edvardo Comite Sandovici,
 " qui Maii 28. An. 1672. in illa fatali Naumachia
 " sublatus est. Pr. on one side of a sh. of paper.

" Deus, & Rex, Rex, & Episcopus: vel in " Unionem Coronæ cum Mitra, Mitra cum Corona.
 " Lond. 1675. qu. Some copies have this title,
 " Deus, & Rex, Rex & Episcopus; Carmen ad
 " Clerum.

" Elogia Sepulchralia nonnullorum Primpila-
 " rium. Lond. 1675. qu. Several of these elegies
 " or epitaphs were before printed by themselves.
 " At the end of these elegies is a little thing entit.
 " Parentatio generosis Manibus Ferdinandi Fisheri
 " Eq. aur. juxta Monam Insulam An. 1646. Nau-
 " fragio absorpti. 'Tis a Gallic ode written by Pet.
 " de Cardonel to his loving brother 'Payne Fisher
 " inter Anglos poetas & milites primpilaris.

" In Honorem Legationis & ampliss. Meritu
 " Excellentiæ suæ Josephi Williamson Agri Cum-
 " briensis Eq. aur. &c. Lond. 1675. qu. Sec. edit.
 " with addit. there again 1677. with addit.

" Catalogue of most of the memorable Tombs,
 " Gravestones, Plates, Escocheons, or Atchieve-
 " ments in the demolish'd or yet extant Churches of " London, from S. Katharine's beyond the Tower,
 " to Temple-Bar; the Out-parishes being included.
 " Lond. 1668. qu. This is a confused piece, with" out time or place, as having therein no date to " any tonib or grave-stone, or the name of the " church or chappel wherein the tombs and grave-
 " stones are remaining. 'Tis mostly taken from Jo.
 " Stow's Survey of London.

" Armachanus redivivus: vel in Aprilis 17 Diem
 " Funeris reverendiss. pientiss. eruditiss. Jacobi
 " Usserii Armachiæ Archiepiscopi, Hyberniciæque
 " nupero Primatis &c. Oratio Anniversaria, an.
 " 1655. hab. ad Acad. Oxon, in Aula magna Ædis
 " Christi, &c. Printed at London about the year
 " 1681 in qu. and dedicated chiefly by the author
 " to John lord Roberts earl of Radnor. At the end
 " is a large epitaph made by the said author on
 " Thomas earl of Ossory, eldest son of James duke
 " of Ormond, dedicated to sir James Boteler of " Linc. Inn. Our author, by leave obtained of the " protector, did go purposely to Oxon to speak the " said speech, not only before the members of Ch.
 " Ch. but any others of the university that would " take the pains to go to their common refectory to " hear him. But a great part of the undergraduates,
 " especially of the said house, having received a
 " sufficient character of the vain and conceited
 " humour of the author, as being little better than " a braggadocio, they did so much disturb him by
 " humming, hissing, stamping, grinning, &c. that " he was deterr'd from coming a second time. How-

⁶ [This is a very fine book. The author's presentation copy to bishop Barlow, with one of his dedicatory prefaces, printed as Wood has told us for the purpose, is in the Bodleian.]

"ever what he had done, he caused to be put in "the common news-book called Mercurius Poli-
"ticus, redounding much to his honour; whereupon
"a certain⁷ poet could not forbear to say,

"——Pagan Fisher, who erst made a speech
"To shew that he could versify and preach;
"And put it in the news-book too, for all
"To know, how he was jeer'd in Christ Church
"hall.

[902]

"Our author Fisher hath also written and collected,
" The Tombs, Monuments, and Sepulchral In-
"scriptions lately visible in S. Paul's Cathedral,
"and S. Faith under it: compleatly rendred in "Latin and English, with several Historical Dis-
"courses on sundry Persons intombed therein.
"Lond. 1684. or thereabouts, in qu. The work is "mostly taken from The History of S. Paul's Ca- "thedral, &c. Lond. 1658. fol. written by Will.
"Dugdale.

"Epitaphium, vel Elog. Sepulch. inclyti Chi-
"barchæ Henrici Norwood de Luckhampton in
"Com. Gloc. qui obiit 1689. Printed at Lond. on "one side of a large sheet of paper 1690. Several "other things of the like stamp he hath written,
"some of which are printed, and some not, as (1.)
" Descriptio luculenta Turris Londinensis, written
"in heroic verse. (2.) Epithalamium in Nuptias
" eruditiss. Juvenis Thomæ Peck de Spiæford Com.
" Norf. Armigeri & lectiss. Virginis Lucie Ball,
" Filiæ spectatiss. Petri Ball Eq. aur. (3.) Elogia
" Nobilium nonnullorum Funebria. (4.) Ad illus-
" triss. Principem Rupertum, Ducem Terræ Ma-
" rique bellocissimum. (5.) In Legationes nobiliss.
" Denzelli Holles, Baronis de Ifield. (6.) Ad ho-
" noratiss. Hen. Coventry ad Suecos olim Legatum.
" (7.) Ad honorabilem Carolum Bertie, Legatum à
" Danis redeuntem. (8.) Ad ornatiss. Justinianum
" Pagit, Arm. Custodem Brevium. (9.) Ad orna-
" tiss. Tho. Neale à Peregrinationibus redeuntem.
" (10.) Ad eruditiss. Edm. Waller, Poctarum sui
" Sæculi Principem. (11.) Ad ornatiss. Tho. Hig-
" gons Eq. aur. ad Venetos Legatum. (12.) Ad
" eruditiss. Petrum Pett Eq. aur. Reg. Hibern.
" Regis Advocatum generalem. (13.) In nuptias
" Ornatiss. & Eruditiss. Joh. Wolrych Arm. &
" Mariæ Griffith. (14.) In Adventum Hen. Ma-
" riæ nuper Angliæ Reginæ Matris. (15.) In
" Hortos & Hospitalitatem Leonardi Bilson in Ma-
" pledurham Com. Southamp. Arm. (16.) Ad Dom.
" pereruditum Gul. Petyt Int. Templ. J. C. (17.)
" Ad Dom. Joh. Gadbury Astrologum Angliæ pe-
" ritis. (18.) In Auth. Hor. Elogium meum Ducis
" *Albemarliæ vili-pendentem, Satyra, &c.*⁸

⁷ "Sam. Woodford in his verses set before Naps upon
" Parnassus, Lond. 1658. oct."

⁸ [Fisher wrote a copy of Latin verses before Pecke's Par-
" nassi Puerperium, 1659, in which vol. is an English epigram by Pecke 'to his loving friend Mr. Payn Fisher.']

"He also wrote a Book of Heraldry printed at
"Lond. 1682. oct. wherein are a many coats of arms
"of such gent. to whom he presented a copy to ob"tain a reward.

"The Anniversary Ode on his sacred Majesty's
" Inauguration, in Lat. and Engl. Lond. 1685. 1
"sh. in qu. from the Fleet under the generous ju"risdiction of Rich. Manlove, esq; warden thereof.
" A Gratulatory Ode for Peace, afterwards En-
"glished by Tho. Manley. See Winstanley's book
"of poets, p. 192, 193. Payne Fisher died in the "Old Bayly (in a coffee-house) on the 2d of Apr.
"1693, and was buried in the yard belonging to S.
"Sepulchre's church on the 6th of the same month.

1693.

"JOHN DAVIES, son of Will. Davies, was "born in Kidwelly in Carmarthenshire on the 25th
"of May 1625, entred a student in Jesus coll. 16
"May 1641, continued there till Oxford was gar-
"rison'd for his majesty's use, and then being taken "away by his relations, he was sent to S. John's
"coll. in Cambridge, where being trained up under
"presbyterians, made him ever after, till his ma"jesty's restoration, keep pace with the times of "usurpation. While he continued there (where
"he became acquainted with that great prodigy of "early parts Joh. Hall of Durham, who patronized
"and was beneficial to him) he learn'd the French
"tongue, and afterwards going into France, became "so compleat a master of that language, that upon "his return, settling in London (where he continued
"till some of the last years of his life) did make it
"his livelihood to translate books from French into "English; most, if not all of which, you shall "have as they follow; and putting dedicatory and "other epistles to them, gained much relief by "them.

"(1.) Treatise against some of the Principles of
" Renatus des Cartes. Lond. 1654. oct. 'Twas
"translated from a French MS. (2.) The extra- " vagant Shepherd: an Anti-Romance. Lond.
"1654. fol. (3.) Letters. Lond. 1655. in tw. writ-
"ten by M. Voiture. (4.) The History of Magic,
" by Way of Apology, &c. Ibid. 1656, 57. oct.
"written by G. Naudeus library-keeper to cardinal
"Jul. Mazarine. (5.) Lcs Provinciales: or the " Mystery of Jesuitism. Lond. 1656. in tw. There "again with additions, 1658. in tw. and again in "1679 in oct. (6.) Apocalyps: or a Discovery of " some notorious Heretics. Lond. 1657. oct. This "is adorn'd with the effigies in sculpture of the "said heretics, and added to the Pamsebeia of A.
"Rosse. The same was afterwards reprinted se"veral times. (7.) Three Novels. Lond. 1657. oct.
"written by M. Scarron. (8.) A further Discovery
" of the Mystery of Jesuitism. Lond. 1659. in tw.
"Tis a collection of several pieces. (9.) Journal
" of Proceedings between the Jansenists and the " Jesuits. Lond. 1659. qu. (10.) Hymen's Prælu-

[903]

"dia: or, Love's Master-piece, being the seventh,
 "eighth, ninth and tenth Parts of that so much ad-
 "mired Romance, entitled Cleopatra. Lond. 1658.
 "fol. (11) Hymen's Prædudia: The eleventh and "twelfth Parts of Cleopatra. Lond. 1660. fol. (12)
 "Some of the last Parts of the Romance called
 "Celia. Lond. 1659. fol. (13) A Treatise of the "Sibyls, &c. Lond. 1661. fol. written by David
 "Blondell. (14) Four Novels. Lond. 1662. oct.
 "by Mr. Scarron: which Novels, with the three "before-mention'd, were all then printed together,
 "and reprinted in 1667. oct. (15) The History
 "of Algier and Slavery there. Lond. 1662. oct.
 "(16) The Voyages and Travels of the Ambassa-
 "dors from the Duke of Holstein to the great
 "Duke of Muscovy and King of Persia: Began "in the Year 1633, and finish'd in 1639. Lond.
 "1662. fol. (17) The Travels of Joh. Albert de
 "Mandelslo from Persia into the East Indies, and "from thence into England; began in the Year
 "1633 and finish'd 1650. Lond. 1662. fol. Both
 "written originally by Adam Olearius secretary to "the embassy. The said Joh. Albert was also a "gent. belonging thereunto; and the two said books
 "were reprinted in 1669. fol. (18) Some of the "latter Volumes of the Philosophical Conferences
 "of the Virtuosi in France. Lond. 1661. fol. (19)
 "La Picara: or, the Triumphs of Female Sub-
 "tily. Lond. 1664. oct. (20) The Art how to "know Men. Lond. 1665. oct. written by Sieur de "la Chambre counsellor to his majesty of France,
 "and his physician in ordinary. (21) The Roman
 "History. Lond. 1667. oct. written by Luc. Flornus,
 "and reprinted several times afterwards. (22) The "Egyptian History, treating of the Pyramids, the "Inundation of the Nile and other Prodigies of "Egypt, according to the Opinions and Traditions "of the Arabians. Lond. 1667. oct. This, which "was afterwards reprinted, was originally written
 "by Murtadi the son of Gaphiphus, and afterwards
 "rendred into French by Monsieur Vallier Arabic
 "professor to the king of France. (23) The un-
 "expected Choice, a Novel. Lond. 1670. oct. writ"ten by Monsieur Scarron. (24) Observations on
 "the Poems of Homer and Virgil, A Discourse re"presenting the Excellencies of those Works," [and
 "the Perfection in general, of all heroick Action.]
 "Lond. 1670, [and 1672,] oct. (25) The Life and
 "Philosophy of Epictetus, with the Emblem of "humane Life, by Cebes. Lond. 1670. oct. Therein
 "is Cebes's Tablet in Sculpture. (26) Epictetus
 "Junior: or, Maxims of modern Morality, in two "Centuries. Lond. 1670. in tw. [Bodl. 8vo. H. 56.
 "Art.] This is said in the title to be collected by "Joh. Davies, and not translated. (27) An His- "torical Account of the Ceremonies of the vacant
 "See: Or, a true Relation of what passeth at "Rome upon the Pope's Death, with the Proceed"ings in the Conclave for the Election of a new

"Pope, &c. Lond. 1671. oct. (28) Prudential Reflec-
 "tions, moral Considerations, and Stoical Maxims
 "in three Centuries. Lond. 1674 in tw. written "originally in the Spanish tongue, and thence put "into French by a R. F. of the society. (29) Po- "litical and Military Observations, &c. Lond.
 "1677. in tw. (30) Medicina Statica: or, Rules
 "of Health, in eight Sections of Aphorisms. Lond.
 "1677. in tw. written by Sanctorius, chief pro"fessor of physic at Padua. (31) The History of "the inner Part of the Scraglio. Lond. 1677. fol.
 "This is at the end of monsieur Tavernier's voy-
 "ages. (32) Instructions for History: with a
 "Character of the most considerable Historians,
 "ancient and modern. Lond. 1680. oct. (33) Pin-
 "dar and Horace, the two ancient Lyric Poets,
 "compared. Lond. 1680. oct. by monsieur Blon-
 "dell tutor in the mathematics to the Dauphin of "France, translated from French into English.
 "He hath also translated into English (1) The "History of Caribby Islands; viz. Barbadoes, S.
 "Christophers, Mevis, S. Vincent. printed in fol.
 "[1666] and illustrated with divers pieces of sculp-
 "ture. (2) Three Spanish Novels, 1. All Covet
 "all Lose. 2. The Knight of the noble Order of "the Marigold. 3. The Trepanner trepann'd.
 "(3) The History of Appian of Alexandria, in two "Parts The first consisting of the Punic, Syrian,
 "Parthian, Mithridatic, Illyrian, Spanish and "Hanniballic Wars. The 2d containing five
 "Books of the Civil Wars of Rome. printed in fol.
 "These three translations I have not yet seen, and "therefore I cannot tell from what language they "were translated.
 "He also published certain books written by "other persons, to which he put epistles, or dedi-
 "cations, or both: as (1) Letter of Liberty and
 "Necessity. Lond. 1654. in tw. written by Tho:
 "Hobbes of Malmsbury. (2) Paradoxes. Lond.
 "1653. in tw. written by J. de la Salle, alias John
 "Hall of Greys-inn. (3) The right Hand of Chris- "tian Love offer'd, &c. printed 1655 in twenty-
 "fours. (4) Astrea: or, the Grove of Beatitudes,
 "printed 1665. in tw. exemplified in sculpture. (5)
 "The ancient Rites and Monuments of the Monas-
 "tical and Cathedrul Church of Durham. Lond.
 "1672. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. B. 288. Linc.] which book
 "was collected, as 'tis said, out of ancient manu-
 "scripts, about the time of the suppression: yet if "it be the same with A Description of all the an- "cient Monuments, Rites and Customs belonging "to the monastical Church of Durham, before the "Suppression, which was given in manuscript to "the library belonging to the cathedral ch. of Dur-
 "ham by Dr. Joh. Cosin bishop of Durham, 'tis
 "there said that it was written, 1597. Now con"trary to both these dates and times, there is men"tion made in the printed copy, p. 47, that 'Nevill's
 "cross near to Durham was broken down and de-

[904]

“faced in the year 1639.’ The private character given of this book at its first publication, by a severe Calvinist and afterwards a bishop,⁹ which I have seen written under his own hand, runs thus. ‘Liber hic omnino Apochryphus, μυστικός et Legendæ putidæ plurimum, veræ Historiæ (praxi et cultu Monachorum supersticioso exceptis) parum habet, adeo ut mirari subit, insectiam ejus qui condidit, impudentiam ejus qui edidit, et ἀεφία et negligentiam (veritati et ecclesiæ Anglicanæ damnosam) qui prælo permisit.’ (6) Hierocles upon the golden Verses of Pythagoras, teaching a virtuous and worthy Life. Lond. 1657. oct. Before this book, which was Englished by Joh. Hall before-mentioned, our translator John Davies hath put of his own writing An account of John Hall and His Works. What else he hath translated and published I know not, or any thing else of him, only that concluding his last day at Kidwelly where he was born, was buried on the north side of the church there, near the chancel, on Saturday the 22d of July (S. Mary Magd. day) in the year sixteen hundred ninety and three, leaving then behind him the character of a genteel, harmless and quiet man, but whether any other translations or books to be published I know not.”

1693.

[The History of Henry surnamed the Great, King of France. Written in French by the Bishop of Rodez; made English by J. D. Lond. 1672. Svo. TANNER.]

“SAMUEL MASTERS son of George Master, gent. was born, and bred in school learning, within the city of Salisbury, became com. of Wadham coll. 1662, aged 16 years, afterwards fellow of Exeter coll. and when M. of A. and in orders, preacher at Stanton Harcourt and South Ley in Oxfordshire. Afterwards he was admitted bach. of divinity, was made preb. of S. Paul’s and Lichfield, chaplain the earl of Radnor, and preacher to the hospital and precinct of Bridewell near London, where he continued to his last in good reputation. He hath published

“The Duty of Submission to divine Providence, in all its Dispensations: Described and recommended from the Example and Argument of Job. Lond. 1689 in 8 sh. in oct. It is founded on Job. 2. 10.

“Several sermons, as (1) A Discourse of Friendship, preached at the Wiltshire Feast in S. Mary le Bow Ch. 1 Dec. 1684; on Prov. 17. 17. Lond. 1685. qu. (2) The Christian Temper: or Moderation described and recommended, &c. preached before the Lord Mayor, &c. in Guild-hall Chap. 26 Jan. 1689; on Philip. 4. 5. Lond. 1690. qu. —He died in the city of Bath (where he had

⁹ [Bishop Barlow. See the MS. note before his copy in the Bodleian, from which I have added a few words omitted in the former edit.]

“been for some time to recover his health) on the twelfth day of Sept. in sixteen hundred ninety and three, and was buried there, in the great church dedicated to S. Peter and S. Paul, as I have been informed by one of his near relations.

1693.

“RICHARD REEVE, son of Will. Reeve, was born in the parish of the Holy Trinity within the city of Gloucester on the 22d of June 1642, became lame on his left side when he was a quarter old, occasion’d by a palsy; which lameness being incurable he was by his parents bred up to learning. He was educated in the school of S. Mary de Cript in Gloucester, where he spent four years, and afterwards was removed by his parents to the school belonging to the cath. ch. under Mr. Will. Russel, where being made full ripe for the university at 16 years of age, yet he did not go thither because of the several revolutions of the government. In Lent term 1661 he became a servitor of Trin. coll. and soon after was made one of the lord Joh. Craven’s exhibitioners, and taking one degree in arts he was made usher of the school joyning to Magd. coll. great gate. In 1667 he was gained to the church of Rome, and in dislike of that of England he took the sacrament according to the Rom. cath. way, in the house of George Napier esq; joyning to the church of Halywell in the north suburb of Oxon. In 1668 he proceeded in arts, and upon the election of Joh. Curl to be probat. fellow of Magd. coll. in 1670 he became chief master of the said school, and much frequented by the youth of these parts: which place he keeping till S. Tho. day 1673, did, with leave from the president of Magd. coll. then resign it. In the month of Aug. 1674, he left his country and relations and went to Doway, where being friendly received into the priory of the English Benedictines, lived there privately as a convictor one year or more. In 1675 he became a monk of the order of S. Benedict, and from that time to 1685 he did instruct English youths in the said priory in humanity, poetry, rhetoric and Greek. In the said year (1685) he left Doway and went into France, and there spent two years or more in a little monastery called La Cell, twelve leagues distant from Paris and situated in the county of Le Brie in the diocese of Meaux. From thence, by the command of his superior, he was called into England, an. 1687, to be by the king’s authority re-established in his former place of schoolmaster of Magd. coll. But he having no inclination to be engaged in such an unsettled state at that time, he was by a royal mandate sent to settle in his native city of Gloucester in the mastership of the blue-founded-hospital of sir Tho. Rich, with an augmentation of 100l. per an. salary from his majesty, wherein he was to instruct popish youths. But before he was well settled there, he was driven thence by the coming into England of

[905]

"the prince of Orange: and taking sanctuary at
 "Bourton on the Water in Gloucestershire, in the "house of Charles Trinder (who was the Rom.
 "Cath. recorder of Gloc.¹) he was seized on, on the "12th of Dec. 1688, and brought back to Gloucester
 "in a calash, where, in the castle he was kept a
 "prisoner eight months, as a priest and Jesuit, tho'
 "not in orders. On the 10th of Aug. 1689 he was "set at liberty, and then retired for a time to the "same place, from whence he was taken. After"wards he went to Kiddington in Oxfordshire, to "the house there of sir Charles Browne his some"time scholar, thence to Oxon on the 30th of Aug.
 "1689, and thence to London, afterwards to West"minster. He was accounted a perfect philologist,
 "admirably well vers'd in all classical learning, a
 "good Grecian, and has been so sedulous in his "profession of pedagogy, that he hath educated 60
 "ministers of the church of England and about 40
 "Rom. priests, as I have often heard him say:
 "And having been lame from the beginning, as I
 "have before told you, so consequently taken off
 "from the rambles of the world, he spent his time
 "altogether in studies, and devotion. He hath
 "published,

"Carmen Panegyricum, eminentiss. et reveren- diss. Principi Philippo Howard Cardinali de Norfolc. &c. Duac. 1675. in twenty pages in fol.
 "the beginning of which is,

"'Musa triumphali toties exercita penso,' &c.

[906]

"The said verses were spoken by a student, to, and
 "before, the said cardinal, when he visited the "English coll. of Benedictines at Doway, ded. to S.
 "Gregory, in his journey towards Rome to be "inaugurated.

"Megalasia sacra in Assumptione magnæ Matris
Dei in B. V. Sodalitate recitata, coram RR. P. P.
Capitularibus Congregationis Anglo-Benedictinæ ibidem congregatis. Duac. 1677. This book con"tains about 500 verses in 6 sh. or thereabouts,
 "and were recited by Will. More son of sir Hen.
 "More of Fawley in Berksh. and the prime student "in the school of poetry in the said coll. of Bene-
 "dictines at Doway.

"Carmen Jubilæum ad R. P. Josephum Frere
Ecclesiæ Coventriensis Priorem Missam Jubileam celebrantem, Æt. suæ 82. An. 1678. Duac.
 "(1678) in about 2 sheets in qu.

"Ad ornatisimos Viros D. Dq; eximios Jacobum
Smithæum et Edvardum Pastonum, Anglos,
Laurea in Theologia Doctorali insignitos in Col-legio Anglorum Duaci, Carmen gratulatorium.
 "Duac. 1682. in about two sh. in qu. The said

¹ [Who published a Speech made at his Entrance on that Office 8 Jan. 1687, shewing the Unsuccessfulness as well as unhappy Effects of all Severities for Matters of Religion and the Inconsistency of Tests with the very Being of Government. Fol. for R. Taylor. WATTS.]

"Jam. Smith had been a secular priest of the English
 "coll. at Doway, and was consecrated a titular
 "bishop in the queen dowager's chap. at Somerset-
 "House, on Sunday the 13th of May 1688.² As "for Paston he was then rector or president of the "English seculars at Doway.

"Rhetorica universa, Carmine conscripta.—
 "This is yet in MS, and contains 800 verses.

"Poemata Miscellanea.

"Athanasius Anglicus: or, the Life of S. Wil- frid surnamed the Great, Archb. of York, com-prizing the History of the primitive Church of England for the first Century after its Conversion to the Christian Faith, by S. Augustin Monk of the holy Order of S. Benedict.—This is as "yet in MS, and was composed by the author,
 "because when he had entred himself into religion
 "he changed his Christian name to Wilfrid, and "by the name of Father Wilfrid he was afterwards
 "known among the fraternity. He had also a con"siderable hand in the translation of Hist. et Antiq.
 "Univ. Oxon. which he took upon him at the "desire of Dr. Joh. Fell. This Mr. Reeve died on "the last day of Oct. in sixteen hundred ninety and
 "three, and was buried on the 2d of Nov. in the "church of S. Martin in the Fields, within the "liberty of Westminster, as I have been informed
 "by Helen Jones widow, in whose house (situated
 "in Berkley-street near Picadilly within the said
 "liberty) he died. Contemporary with Rich. Reeve
 "in Trin. coll. was one Charles Somner son of Joh.
 "Somner of Midhurst in Sussex, who before he "took a degree left the coll. about 1665 aged 20,
 "went to Doway, where he became a Benedictine
 "monk in the priory of English Benedictine monks
 "there, and afterwards was sent into the mission of "England.

"JOHN MARTIN, son of a father of both his "names, who was a school-master in a little market
 "town called Meere in Wilts, was born there, be"came a batler of Trin. coll. in Lent term, an.
 "1637, aged 17 years, with hopes of obtaining a "scholarship there by the favour of Dr. Hannibal
 "Potter the president of that house, (upon whose "account he first settled there) but that design
 "failing, his father caused him to be entred into
 "Oriel coll. where, being put under a careful tutor,
 "he took one degree in arts, an. 1640. In 1642
 "the civil war began, and whether he bore arms for "his maj. within the garrison of Oxon, or was called "home by his relations, I know not. Sure I am
 "that having a benefice promis'd him, he took
 "priestly orders from the hands of Dr. Rob. Skin-

² [He was afterwards settled at York, and designed to be made archbishop of York, that see having lain vacant two years and eight months. Le Neve, Lives of the Arch-Bishops of York, p. 269, where is an account of the seizing bishop Smith's crozier, with all the utensils for the Popish service. WATTS.]

[907]

“ner bishop of Oxon in Trin. coll. chap. on the “21st of Dec. an. 1645, and two days after he was “instituted vicar of Compton Chamberlayne in “Wilts by the presentation thereunto of sir Joh.
 “Penruddock, who gave him also the lecturer’s “place in the church there. Afterwards being “settled, as much as the then times could permit,
 “he continued there in good repute, till he was,
 “among other religious and conscientious divines,
 “ejected for refusing the presbyterian covenant.
 “Being thus depriv’d by unreasonable men, he “rented a little farm at Tysbury, lived as a grazier
 “in the times of usurpation, was knowing and con“senting to the generous, yet unfortunate, insur“rection of the cavaliers at Salisbury in the latter “end of 1654, at which time they were headed by “the most loyal and valiant colonel Joh. Penrud“dock son and heir of the aforesaid sir Joh. Pen“ruddock; for which he the said Mr. Martin “suffer’d for a time by a close imprisonment, and “had without doubt gone to pot, could the rebels
 “have found sufficient witnesses that he had been “engaged in the said plot or insurrection. How“ever being made one of the trustees for the estate
 “of the said colonel, he, by his prudence, preserv’d
 “it from sequestration, was in a condition to cherish
 “his distressed family and take his children under “his roof. He was a person of great modesty, well “skill’d in the Latin, Greek and Hebrew languages,
 “and vers’d in all such learning as was neces“sary to make him a compleat divine, and there“fore after the restoration of his majesty king “Charles II. when ancient learning begun to be in “repute again, he became much esteemed by the “ministers and loyal gentry of his neighbourhood, “was restored to what he had lost, and by the “favour of Tho. Freek esq; was made rector of “Melcomb Horsey in Dorsetshire in January an.
 “1660. When Dr. Earl was translated from Wor“cester to Salisbury, he made choice of our author
 “Martin to preach his primary visitation sermon,
 “and intended his farther promotion in the church,
 “but being untimely taken away, his design failed.
 “However, when Dr. Seth Ward became bishop of “that place he collated him to the prebendship of “Yatsbury in the church of Sarum by the resigna“tion of Mr. Dan. Whitby, on the 10th of Dec.
 “an. 1668 (about which time he made him his “dean rural for the deanery of Chalke) and soon “after, upon a vacancy, the dean and canons would “have elected him canon resident, but his modesty “would not permit him to give them any encourage“ment. In the month of Octob. 1675 he was “made chaplain to Charles earl of Nottingham, and “in the beginning of Oct. 1677 he was collated
 “by the said bishop Ward (who had a singular “respect for him and his learning) to the preben“dship of Preston in the said church of Sarum;
 “which prebendship with his rectory, vicaridge
 “and lecture (little enough for such a modest

“and learned person, and so great a sufferer for “his loyalty as Mr. Martin was) he kept for some “time after the prince of Orange came to the crown.
 “At length sticking to his old principles and deny“ing the oaths of allegiance to him and his queen, “was depriv’d of all, except his lecture, which “being worth about 30*l.* per an. was all that he had “left to keep him till the time of his death,³ as was “reported; but Bp. Burnet in the Vindication of “his Sermon at Dr. Tillotson’s Burial, p. 62.
 “saith: ‘Mr. Martin was continued by me in his “living to his death, which happened two years “ago, and I still paid him the income of his pre-“bend out of my purse. He would not indeed “take the oaths, but he would never join in the “schism with the rest of the non-jurors, whose prin“ciples and practices he said to me he detested.’
 “He hath written and published,
 “Several sermons, as (1) Hosanna: A Thanks- “giving Sermon, intended to have been preached
 “28 June 1660, &c. on Psal. 118. 22, 23, 24, 25.
 “Oxon. 1660. qu. It is dedicated to Will. marq. of “Hertford, and lady A. P. meaning, I suppose, “Arundella Penruddock mother to col. Joh. Pen“ruddock. (2) Lex pacifica: or, God’s own Law
 “of determining Controversies; on Deut. 17. 12.
 “Lond. 1664. qu. It was preached at the assizes
 “at Dorchester for the county of Dorset the 5th of “Aug. 1664, and is ded. to sir Matth. Hale lord “chief justice of the Exchequer, sir Joh. Archer
 “one of the justices of the Com. Pleas and to Tho.
 “Freek esq. high sheriff of Dorsetshire, &c.
 “Go in Peace: containing some brief Directions
 “for young Ministers in their Visitation of the “Sick, useful for the People in their State both of “Health and Sickness. Lond. 1674. in large tw.
 “Mary Magdalen’s Tears wiped off: or, the “Voice of Peace to an unquiet Conscience, &c.
 “Lond. 1676. octavo. Written by way of letter
 “to a person of quality, and published for the com“fort of all those that mourn in Zion. He hath “written other things fit for the press, which per“haps may in time see light. At length this worthy “divine dying at Compton Chamberlayne before“mention’d, on the third day of Novemb. in sixteen “hundred ninety and three, was buried in the chan“cel of the church there, leaving then behind him
 “the character among those that well knew him of “a modest learned divine, and altogether fitting of “a greater station in the church than he enjoyed
 “after the restoration of his maj. king Charles II.
 “&c. as I have been informed by that primitive “Christian, faithful and generous friend Nich. Mar“tin master of arts and vice-principal of Hart hall, “near of kin to the said John Martin.

“SAMUEL THOMAS, son of Will. Thomas

³ [From hence to the end of the quotation seems impossible to be wrote by A. W. LOVEDAY.]

[908]

1693.

“sometime rector of Ubley in Somersetshire, was “born there, became scholar of Peter house in Cam“bridge by the covenanting party, about 1643, “took one degree in arts there, went to Oxon in “1651, was made fellow the same year (if I mistake
 “not) of S. John’s col. and being then four years “standing bachelor was incorporated in the same “degree in the month of Aug. and in Dec. follow“ing he took the degree of master of arts. In 1660
 “he was put out of his fellowship by the king’s “commissioners, to make room for a certain person
 “who had been ejected from the said coll. in 1648,
 “and soon after he was by the favour of Dr. Jo.
 “Fell made chaplain or petty-canon of Ch. Ch. and “at length, on the death of Rich. Washbourne B.D.
 “an. 1672, chantor of the said church. About that “time he was vicar of S. Thomas’s parish, and “afterwards curate of Halywell, both in the suburbs
 “of Oxon; in which places he was much frequented
 “for his edifying way of preaching. In 1681 he “became vicar of Chard in his native county, and “soon after preb. of Compton Episcopi in the church “of Wells by the favour of Dr. Pet. Mew bishop of “that place; and therefore he is to be numbred
 “among those who have corpses and jurisdictions “peculiar, as being ordinary of the place. He was “a person constant and laborious in the work of the “ministry, much conversant with, and known in, “books, as well ancient as modern, a stout and “heartly assenter of the established constitutions of “the ch. of England, (whatever those opinions were “which he entertained before the restoration of “king Charles II) against both the open assaults,
 “and the more subtle and sly insinuations of all “sorts of adversaries. He was well read in the dis“ciplinarian and Arminian controversies, a stiff “opposer of the severe and rigid doctrines of Jo.
 “Calvin, so far as they relate to the five points, the “hot and intemperate discussing of which in some “neighbouring countries, have not long since so far “influenc’d state-affairs, as to give rise to civil com-
 “motions, and those too of very dangerous conse“quences, and unhappy differences at home about “these matters. And being managed by ill design“ing and turbulent incendiaries, did contribute at “least in some measure towards our own late unna“tural broils. But yet that which adds a lustre to,
 “and crowns all other accomplishments how great “soever, was the unblameableness of our author’s “deportment and strictness and regularity of his “life. After king Will. III. came to the crown he “became one of those conscientious divines who “denied the oaths of allegiance and supremacy to “him and his queen; and in that opinion of non-“obedience to them he continued to his last day.
 “He hath published,

“The Presbyterian unmask’d: or, Animadver- “sions upon a Nonconformist Book called The In- “terest of England in the Matter of Religion,
 “&c. Lond. 1676. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. S. 205. Th.]

“The name of Sam. Thomas is not set to this book,
 “but it was well known he was the author, and he “himself would never absolutely deny it. See more “under Joh. Corbet, an. 1680. vol. iii, col. 1265.

“Large Preface against Rich. Baxter and other “Nonconformists, to a Book entit. The new Dis- “temper, &c. Lond. 1680. oct. See more under “Tho. Tomkins an. 1675, vol. iii, col. 1047.

“The Charge of Schism renewed against the “Separatists, in Answer to the Renewer (John “Humphrey) of that pretended peaceable Design,
 “which is falsly called, An Answer to Dr. Stillin- “fleet’s Sermon, &c. Lond. 1680. qu. See more
 “in Joh. Humphrey hereafter.

“The Dissenter disarm’d: or, a melius inqui- “rendum upon a Nonconformist Book, viz. The “Interest of England in the Matter of Religion,
 “&c. Lond. oct. in 195 pages. This is the same “book which our author S. Thomas did before “entitle The Presbyterians unmask’d, &c. only “here the title is changed, to dress it up for sale,
 “and called a second part to Dr. Tho. Tomkins’s “second edit. of his New Distemper, with Mr.
 “Thomas’s large preface prefix’d. But our author’s “preface is left out in this second edition the better
 “to conceal the cheat.

“Animadversions upon a late Treatise entit.
 “The Protestant Reconciler, &c. Lond. 1683. oct.
 “our author’s (Thomas) name is not set to this book,
 “only generally reported to be his. ’Tis said in the “title to be written by ‘a well-wisher to the church’s “peace,’ &c.

“Remarks on the Preface to The Protestant “Reconciler, in a Letter to a Friend. Lond. 1683.
 “in 8 sh. in qu. The letter is dated 28 Feb. 1682,
 “but there is no name set to it.⁴ What other “things Mr. Thomas hath written, or what he hath “translated I cannot tell, nor do I know any thing “else of him, only that he dying suddenly at Chard “before-mention’d, on Saturday the 4th of Nov. in “sixteen hundred ninety and three, aged 66 or “thereabouts, was buried in the chancel of the ch.
 “there, on the 15th day of the same month, leaving “then behind him the character of a good and “learned man, and of one every way qualified for “his function.⁵

“JAMES HARRINGTON, the son of a father
 “of both his names of Waltham-Abbey in Essex, “was born in ——— educated in the coll. school at “Westminster, elected student of Ch. Ch. in 1683, “aged 19 years, and soon after was entred a mem“ber of the Inner Temple. In 1690 he proceeded “master of arts, being then a barrister, and much

⁴ [The initial letters S. T. of his name are set to my copy at the end. COLE. So in the Bodleian copy, 4to. S. 32.
 Jur.]

⁵ [Thomas was the very intimate friend of bishop Bull, who resided for two years with his father, after quitting the university. See Nelson’s Life of Bull, 23, 211.]

[909]

1681.

1693.

"frequented by clients for his wonderful and pregnant knowledge in the common law, being more forward in it at 27 years of age, than another at 40. He hath written,

"Some Reflections upon a Treatise called Pictas Romana et Paris. Lately printed at Oxon. Oxon. 1688. qu. [Bodl. 4to. C. 116. Th.]

"A Vindication of Protestant Charity, in Answer to some Passages in Mr. E. M's Remarks on a late Conference—printed with the Reflections.

"By the said E. M. the reader is to understand him to be Edward Meredith, son of a father of both his names, minister of Landulph in Cornwall, bred in the coll. school at Westminster, elected student of Ch. Ch. an. 1666, aged 18 years, left it without taking a degree, and afterwards became secretary to sir Will. Godolphin when he was ambassador in Spain, and a strict Rom. Cath. Mr. Harrington hath also written,

"The Case of the University of Oxford; shewing that the City is not concern'd to oppose the Confirmation of their Charters by Parliament. Presented to the House of Commons on Friday the 24th of Jan. 1689. Oxon. 1690 in fol. and qu. [Bodl. 4to. M. 13. Th.] The fol. contains 2 sh. and the qu. 2 and an half."

"The Case of the University of Oxford—The beginning is 'This university enjoyed at the first institution,' &c. This is printed on a broadside of a sh. of paper, and is quite different from the former case.

"Some Queries concerning the Election of Members for the ensuing Parliament. Lond. 1690. in one sheet in qu. These were printed about the 24th of Feb. 1689, and the said parl. began at Westm. on the 20th of March following. Mr. Harrington's name is not to it, but he gave me a copy as his, 26th Feb. 1689. He hath also written,

"A Letter from a Person of Honour at London, in answer to his Friend in Oxfordsh. concerning the ensuing Election of Knights of the Shire for that County.—It was written about the beginning of March 1689, in behalf of Mountague lord Norris and sir Rob. Jenkinson bart. to be elected knights on the 10th of the said month, when then the election was to begin: And it takes notice of a false and seditious libel which pretends to give a list of those men who voted against any change of the succession, entit. A Letter to a Friend, upon the Dissolution of the late Parliament and calling a new one, &c. Mr. Harrington tells us in his letter that 'the said libel was wrote by a papist, and that with no other design, than to divide their majesties subjects; and thereby to make room for the common enemy,' &c. The said letter of Mr. Harrington, with two notes of the disowning of "the said false and seditious libel, called A Letter to a Friend, subscribed by the vicechancellors of Oxon and Cambridge, with the presentment of the grand jury of Oxfordsh. at the assizes at Oxon the 5th of March 1689 against the said libel, was printed in one sh. in fol. the next day, and publicly dispersed. Mr. Harrington hath also written,

"A Defence of the Rights and Privileges of the University of Oxford, containing an Answer to the Petition of the City of Oxford, 1649. Oxon. 1690, in 4 sheets in qu. It was printed the 24th of April that year.

"An Account of the Proceedings of the right rev. Father in God Jonathan Lord Bishop of Exeter in his late Visitation of Exeter Coll. in Oxford. Oxon. 1690. in 7 sh. and an half in qu. It was first published at Oxon. on the 23d of Sept. the same year, and in Oct. following it was answered or examined by Dr. Arth. Bury.

"A Vindication of Mr. Jam. Colner, Bach. of Physic and Fellow of Exeter Coll. in Oxon, from the Calumnies of three late Pamphlets, 1. A Paper published by Dr. Bury (viz. An Account of the unhappy Affair.) 2. The Account examined.

"3. The Case of Exeter Coll. related and vindicated. Lond. 1691. in 6 sh. and an half in qu. [Bodl. C. 6. 14. Linc.] It was first expos'd to sale in Oxon on the 5th of May the same year.

"This last pamphlet here mention'd, viz. The Case of Exeter Coll. related and vindicated, was writ, (as I have heard) by one Joseph Washington⁷ of the Temple, a favourite of sir Joh. Somers lord keeper; who dying in or near the Temple, was buried in the church belonging to the Temple, on the first of March 1693.

"A Defence of the Proceedings of the right rev. the Visitor and Fellows of Exeter Coll. in Oxford, with an Answer to 1. The Case of Exeter Coll. related and vindicated. 2. The Account examin'd. Lond. 1691, in 7 sh. in qu. [Bodl. C. 6. 14. Linc.] It was first expos'd to sale at Oxon on the 12th of May in the same year, and at the end is A Copy of the Proceedings of Dr. Edw. Master upon the Commission of Appeal.

"Reasons for reviving and continuing the Act for the Regulation of Printing—printed on one side of a broad sheet of paper, in January or thereabouts, 1692. He the said Mr. Harrington wrote also the preface to the first vol. of ATHENS

⁷ [I see not why Wood should have said one Joseph Washington. To have been the intimate friend of Somers gave him surely some consequence, though it might not raise his character in Anthony's esteem. He was son to Robert Washington of Leeds, and grandson to Darcy W. of Adwick-le-street in the county of York, esq. a justice of the peace. See Ducat. Leod. 102, 103. HUNTER. I do not believe my author intended any disrespect by his thus nominating Washington: he does the same by lord Molesworth in col. 402.]

⁶ [To the 4to. was prefixed an answer to the Petition of the City of Oxford, mentioned in the next col.]

1693.

Oxon. and the Introduction to the second. As also the Preface, with an Account of the Author (Dr. George Stradling) set before Sermons and Discourses upon several Occasions. Lond. 1692. oct. written by the said Dr. Stradling. At length this worthy gentleman Mr. Harrington dying within the precincts of Lincoln's Inn (to which place he had translated himself, about four or five months before he expired) on the 23d of Nov. in sixteen hundred ninety and three, his body thereupon was conveyed to Oxon, and buried on S. Andrew's day under the north wall of the north transept joyning to the body of the cathedral of Ch. Ch. there. His death was much deplor'd by those that knew him, because 1. That he was a prodigy, considering his age, in his knowledge of the common law. 2. That he was a person of excellent parts, and 3. That he was very honest in his dealing, and of a good and generous nature."

[Some original letters of Harrington's will be found among Ballard's MSS. in the Bodleian, Vol. xxii.]

"LEWIS ATTERBURY, son of Franc. Atterbury rector of Middleton alias Milton in Northamptonshire,^a (who had subscribed to the lawfulness of the covenant among other ministers of Northamptonshire an. 1648) was born in that county, became student of Ch. Ch. about the beginning of the year 1647 aged 16 years or more, submitted afterwards to the authority of the visitors appointed by the parliament, took the degrees in arts, became a preacher in the times of usurpation, rector of Middleton's Keyns near Newport-Paynell in Bucks, chaplain to Henry duke of Gloucester after his majesty's restoration, and doctor of divinity.⁹ He hath extant

[911]

"Several sermons, as (1) A good Subject: or the right Test of Religion and Loyalty, preached the 17th of July, the last Summer Assizes at Buckingham, &c. on Prov. 24. 21, 22. Lond. 1684. qu. (2) The Ground of Christian Feasts, with the right Way of keeping them, preached at a Meeting of several Natives and Inhabitants of the County of Bucks, in the Parish Church of S. Mary le Bow, 30 Nov. 1685, on [1 Cor. 5. 8.] Lond. 1686. qu. with others, as I conceive, but such I have not yet seen.

"Babylon's Downfall: or, England's happy Deliverance from Popery and Slavery. Lond. 1691. qu. This book is the substance of a sermon preached at Guild-Hall chap. before the lord mayor and aldermen the 28th of June 1691, and also at Middleton the 17th of Feb. 1688. on [Rev. 18. 2.] This person having been much given to law suits, was drown'd not far from his habitation, in his return from London after the end of the term, in the beginning of December, in sixteen hundred ninety and three: whereupon his body

^a [Buckinghamshire.]

⁹ [Dec. 1, 1660.]

1693.

"was conveyed, as I suppose, to Middleton Keyns before-mention'd, commonly called Milton, and there buried. He had a son of Ch. Ch. of both his names, who proceeded doctor of the civil law, an. 1687, and is now (1691) lecturer of S. Mary Hill. And another named Francis M. A. of the same house, whom I shall hereafter mention.

"GEORGE ASHWELL, son of Rob. Ashwell of Harrow on the Hill in Middlesex, was born in the parish of S. Martin near Ludgate in London, on the 8th of Nov. an. 1612, became scholar of Wadham coll. an. 1627, took the degrees in arts, was elected fellow of the said house, and became a noted tutor there. In the time of the grand rebellion he continued in Oxon, preached several times before the king, court and parliament, and therefore had the degree of bach. of div. conferr'd on him a little before the surrender of the garrison of Oxon, an. 1646. Afterwards submitting to the power of the visitors appointed by parliament, an. 1648, he became rector of Hanwell near to Banbury in Oxfordshire, on the death of Dr. Rob. Harris, in the latter end of 1658, having before been, if I mistake not, chaplain in the family of sir Anth. Cope lord of Hanwell. This Mr. Ashwell, who was a quiet and pious man, and every way worthy of his function, had been an excellent logician and of a very rational head and understanding, was also well read in the fathers and schoolmen, and therefore much valued by divines whose learning lay that way. He hath written,

"Fides Apostolica: or, a Discourse asserting the Received Authors, and Authority of the Apostles Creed. Oxon. 1653. in oct. [Bodl. 8vo. A. 6. Th. BS.]

"A double Appendix, the first touching the Athanasian, the second touching the Nicene Creed—printed with Fides Apostolica. Mr. Rich. Baxter having censured some things in the said Fid. Apost. in his Gildas Salvanius: The reformed Pastor, &c. Lond. 1657 in oct. repenteth in the preface to his Catholic Theology, &c. Lond. 1675. fol. that he published any thing against the said piece called Fides Apostolica, &c.

"Gestus Eucharisticus; concerning the Gesture to be used at the Receiving of the Sacrament. Oxon. 1663. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. B. 23. Th. BS.]

"De Socino et Socianismo Dissertatio. Oxon. 1680. oct. [Bodl. Rawl. 8vo. 285.] This is but a piece, and that too the least, of a far greater work quite finish'd and lying by the author in MS: the title of which is De Judice Controver-

¹ [With many manuscript notes. At the back of the title the following note in lord Oxford's hand. 'This book I bought out of Dr. South's study. The notes are the doctor's own writing. Edw^d. Harley, Janu. 29, 1718-19.' There was another title-page bearing date 1693, to some copies, but the book is the same impression as that of 1680.]

" siarum et Catholica Veritatis Regula : which was
 " ventur'd abroad before hand, as a specimen to " try its fortune. The author knew not whether " the whole would come out entire, because of the " chargeableness of printing it, and of the uncer" tainty and danger of the times, which favoured
 " neither the bookseller nor learning.

" De Ecclesia Romana Dissertatio, Pars Operis
 " multo majoris. De Judice Controversiarum, &c.
 " Oxon. 1688. qu. [Bodl. 4to. P. 19. Jur.] This " is another part, which was published at the desire
 " of Dr. Gilb. Ironside warden of Wadham coll.

" Answer to Plato redivivus, written by Hen.
 " Nevill. This is in MS. in the author's hand.

[912]

" He hath also translated from Latin into English,
 " Philosophus autodidactus: sive Epistola Abi Gia-
 " aphar Ebn. Tophail de Hai Ebn Yoklan, &c.

" Lond. 1686. oct. In which epistle is demon" strated by what steps and degrees humane reason,
 " improved by diligent observation and experience,
 " may arrive to the knowledge of natural things,
 " and from thence to the discovery of supernaturals,
 " more especially of God, and the concernments of
 " the other world. The said epistle was published
 " in Arabick and Latin by Edw. Pocock M. A. of " Ch. Ch. with the help of his learned father Dr.
 " Edw. Pocock. Oxon. 1671. qu. This Mr. Ash-
 " well died at Hanwell before-mention'd, on the 8th
 " day of Feb. in sixteen hundred ninety and three,
 " and was buried in the church of that place. Soon
 " after was an epitaph put over his grave, mostly
 " made by himself, beginning thus. Depositum
 " Geo. Ashwell SS. Th. Bac. et hujus Ecclesiæ per
 " 35 Annos Rectoris, &c.

1693.

" JOHN CONANT son of Robert Conant of " Bicton in Devonsh. was born in that county,
 " became a student in Exeter coll. in Lent term
 " 1626, aged 18 years, and made perpetual fellow
 " of the said house in July 1633,² he being then
 " bach. of arts. Afterwards proceeding in that " faculty, he entred into holy orders, and became a " preacher.³ On the 27th of Sept. 1647 he resign'd

² [He had not been long at Exeter, before his piety and diligence rendered him distinguished above all his cotemporaries; insomuch the learned rector Dr. Prideaux coming into the hall and hearing him dispute in logic or philosophy, was mightily taken with him; and at once, encouraged and applauded his industry, by this pretty witticism upon his name, which was much the mode of those times: Conanti nihil difficile. Prince, Worthies of Devon, page 224.]

³ [Prince, Worthies of Devon, page 224, says that the first place Conant exercised his faculty of preaching in was Lymington, that considerable incorporate town in Hampshire.
 On this and the rest of Prince's relation, Mr. Samuel Conant has written the following note in his own copy of the Worthies now in Exeter college library.

" This author was misinformed in some few things concerning Dr. Conant. For whereas he writes that the first settled place he exercised his talent in, was Lymington, that considerable market towne (as I take it) in Hampshire, some time before the year 1643, and that then he being bachelor of divinity, was constituted one of the assembly of divines

" his fellowship, he living then at Harfield (in Gloc.)
 " with my lord Chandois, to whom he was chaplain.
 " In June 1649 he was elected rector of Exeter
 " coll. on the death of Dr. Hakewill, where keeping " up a severe discipline, it flourished during his " time more than any coll. in Oxon. In 1654 he " proceeded in divinity, and in the latter end of " the same year he became the king's professor of " that faculty in the place of Dr. Hoyle deceased.
 " In 1657, and two years after, he executed the " office of vicechancellor, with due commendation,
 " and after his majesty's restoration in 1660 he
 " was discharg'd of his professorship to make room
 " for the right owner Dr. R. Sanderson. In 1662
 " he was ejected from his rectory of Exeter coll.
 " because he refused to conform to the ceremonies
 " and discipline of the church of England; but " afterwards, upon better thoughts, conforming, he " became vicar of Allsaints in the ancient borough
 " of Northampton in the place of Dr. Sim. Ford,
 " an. 1670 or thereabouts; where he continued to
 " the time of his death. On the 8th of June 1676
 " he was installed archdeacon of Norwich (in the " place of Mr. Joh. Reynolds deceased) which dig" nity was conferr'd upon him by Dr. Edw. Rey" nolds bishop thereof, whose daugh. he formerly had " married; and on the 3d of Dec. 1681 he was
 " install'd preb. of Worcester, in the place of Nath.
 " Tomkins deceased. He the said Dr. Conant was " a learned, pious and meek divine, an excellent
 " preacher, as his weekly lectures preached in Alls.
 " church in Oxon. for about 7 years before the " restoration of king Charles II. did shew, a good appointed by an ordinance of the lords and commons in parliament to meet at Westminster &c. The truth is, that not he, but his uncle Mr. John Conant bachelor of divinity and rector of Lymington, not a market town in Hampshire, but a countrey parish near Ilchester, a market towne in Somers-set, was constituted by the ordinance aforesaid one of the said assembly for that county, and that his nephew Mr. John Conant at a time when most of the scholars left Oxford, coming to his uncle's house, stayed and officiated there sometime after his uncle's departure to London, whither also, on his said uncle's resigning or leaving the rectory of Lymington aforesaid, he betook himself, and after sometime was chap-laine in a noblemen's family (the family of Brydges, then barons of Chandos, and since dukes) near Uxbridge in the county of Middlesex, preaching a lecture weekly in the said towne, having a liberal salary allowed him by the pious and religious lady of that family, till about the time that he was chosen rector of Exeter colledge in Oxford, as the author writes.

" And whereas the author writes that the Dr. leaving his rectorship and the university together on August the 24th 1662, retired to the house of his kinsman Mr. Samuel Conant in the countrey; this was not so, for he stayed in the city of Oxford some time, and afterwards went to Northampton or elsewhere, till after some yeares having satisfied his mind about conformity, he was chosen vicar of the great church at Northampton.

" And whereas the author writes that the Dr. was made archdeacon of Norwich, in the place of his brother in law
 Mr. John Reynolds deceased, it should have been in the place of Mr. John Reynolds his wife's uncle deceased.]

1693.

" Latinist and Grecian; and a profound theologist,
 " as his lectures and moderation, while reg. prof.
 " did manifest. He hath written,
 " Sermons preached on several Occasions. Lond.
 " 1693. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 254. Th.] They are " in number eleven, and the first is on Joh. 3. 19,
 " 20, &c. all published by Dr. Joh. Williams minister
 " of S. Mildreds in the Poultry within the city of " London.⁴ He died on Saturday the 10th of " March or thereabout in the year sixteen hundred
 " ninety and three, and was buried in the church of " Alls. in Northampton. He left behind him a son
 " of both his names, Dr. of the civil law, sometime
 " fellow of Mert. coll. now an eminent advocate
 " Doctor's Com.⁵ ingenious, and a person of good
 " parts."

[Hic juxta requiescit
 Johannes Conant S. T. P.
 E Devonias ortus
 Apud Oxonienses enutritus;
 Ibidem
 Collegii Exoniensis Rector,
 Academiae Professor Regius,
 Et tertio Vice-Cancellarius:
 Quibus valedixit, Anno 1662.
 Postea
 Archidiaconus Norvicensis,
 Ecclesiae Vigorniensis Præbendarius,
 Et hujus Ecclesiae Vicarius.
 Vir omnibus hisce Muneribus
 (Quorum nullum ambivit, plura refugit)
 Par et Superior.

Doctrina, Moribus, Pietate, non minus quam Annis

Consummatus, obiit
 Anno Ætatis Suae LXXXVI,
 Domini M.DC.XCIII,
 Mensis Martii Die XII.
 Elizabetha Uxor mœstissima Viro charissimo
 Hoc Marmor Amoris et Observantiæ Ergo
 Posuit.]

" WILLIAM JACKSON, son of Ralph Jack-
 " son, was born in Moulton in the province of Hoy-
 " land in Lincolnshire, educated in grammar learn" ing at Pinchbeck there, became a poor scholar of
 " Magd. col. in the beginning of 1637, aged 16

⁴ [Lond. 1693, oct. A second vol. was published in 1697, a third in 1698. Second edit. Lond. 1699 8vo. in 3 vol. A fourth vol. in 1703, fifth 1708, sixth 1722. The five first edited by John (Williams) bish. of Chichester, the last by Digby Cotes M. A. principal of Magdalen hall.]

⁵ [Friday August 23, 1723, died at his house at Kidlington near Woodstock John Conant Dr. of y^e civil law, and formerly fellow of Merton college. He was son of the famous Dr. John Conant, rector of Exeter college, who was a very learned divine, as this son of his was, also an ingenious man, and an eminent practitioner in Drs. Commons, as is observed in the 2d or spurious ed. of ATHENÆ OXON. tho' not so cha-racteriz'd in the 1st or genuine ed. HEARNE. MS. Collections, xcvi, p. 122.]

" years or thereabouts, took one degree in arts, and " then by the favour of his kinsman Dr. Jackson
 " pres. of C. C. C. he was made one of the Clay-
 " mondines of that of Brasen-n. where he continued
 " till he had performed all exercises requisite for
 " the degree of master, and had his grace according " to form from that coll. and the university, but his " father dying before he could be presented, and " his other friends failing him, he never attained to " that degree. Whereupon throwing aside his gown
 " he took up arms for his maj. king Charles I. was " made a cornet in a troop of horse and served in " the wars about 4 years. At length when the " king's cause declined, he taught a private school
 " at Cherlbury in Oxfordshire, where he continued
 " 8 years and an half. Thence he removed and " taught in the free-school at Bampton in the said
 " county; where continuing 7 years, he was by the " provost and fellows of Queens coll. prefer'd to be " master of the well endowed free-school at North
 " Leach in Gloucestershire. This person, who was " excellent in his profession of pedagogy, hath
 " written and published,

" Pueriles Confabulationunculae Græco-Latinæ.
 " Oxon. 1666. oct.

" Index Græcus & Latinus, in quibus omnia fere
 " Gr. & Lat. Vocabula, quæ in prædicto Opere oc-
 " currunt, comprehenduntur. This is printed
 " with the former book. He died at North Leach
 " before-mention'd on the 23d of May in sixteen
 " hundred ninety and four, and was buried in the " church there. In his school succeeded one George
 " Isles bach. of arts of Queen's coll.

" THOMAS ROGERS, son of John Rogers,
 " son of Tho. Rog. both rectors successively of " Bishops Hampton, alias Hampton super Avon, in " Warwickshire, was born at the said Bishops
 " Hampton on the 27th of Decemb. 1660, educated
 " in the free-school there, built and endowed with " the annual rent of 40l. per an. by Rich. Hill
 " sometime of Qu. coll. in Oxon and immediate pre" decessor of Tho. Rogers (grandfather to our au" thor) before-mention'd; wherein giving early no" tices of a youth of good parts was removed thence " to Trinity coll. in Lent term 1675, and put under " the tuition of Mr. Joh. Willis: But continuing
 " there not long, he translated himself to Hart hall,
 " took the degrees in arts, holy orders, and on Dies
 " Dominica in Albis, commonly called Low Sunday,
 " 1688, he was the petitioner in S. Mary's church
 " of the four Easter sermons, upon shorter notice
 " than usual, as I have heard; which exercise was
 " by him performed to the great satisfaction of the " auditory, without the least hesitation, or so much
 " as once consulting his notes. The truth is, he was " a person of extraordinary memory, which never " failed him either in the pulpit or in common con" versation; wherein it appeared that all he read
 " was his own, and would frequently quote not only

[913]

1694.

" his author (classical authors mostly) but the very
 " page of, if occasion required, it. He was made a " deacon by Dr. W. Thomas bishop of Worcester
 " in May 1684, and in the same month 1689 he " was ordained priest at Oxon by Dr. Bapt. Levinz
 " bishop of the isle of Man. On the 4th of Jul.
 " following, he was inducted to the small rectory of " Slapton near Towcester in Northamptonshire, (a " preferment that rather sought him, than he it,) of " which he died possessor. As his memory was great,
 " so he likewise shewed himself no less a master of " what he wrote, preaching usually in considerable
 " auditories without his notes, and yet never trusted
 " to an immediate invention. His stile was florid
 " and stately and bespoke him a master in the ele-
 " gancies of the English tongue, which he had con" tracted by a design'd intimacy with such authors
 " as were most likely to lead him into it. To add " to this, I must let the reader know it as an un-
 " questionable truth, that he was strictly firm to the " interest of monarchy, and a true son of the church
 " of England, as by law established, in opposition
 " to all extreams. He had also a warm indignation
 " at those who were for removing the ancient land" mark of property and prerogative, and for be" coming patriots by making incursions and inroads
 " upon the rights of their prince, as likewise at those " who called themselves protestants, and yet were " always grudging at, and undermining the church
 " of England, which is the bulwark of the protest" ant faith. His works, of which the four first are " poetry, are these,

" Lux Occidentalis: or, Providence displayed in
 " the Coronation of K. William and Qu. Mary,
 " and their happy Accession to the Crown of Eng-
 " land, with other Remarks. Lond. 1689. qu. 'Tis
 " a poem and very well written.

" The loyal and impartial Satyrst, containing " eight Miscellany Poems, viz. (1) The Ghost of " an English Jesuit, &c. (2) Looking on Father
 " Peters's Picture. (3) Eccibolius Britannicus:
 " or, a Memento to the Jacobites of the higher
 " Order, &c. Lond. 1693. in qu.

" A Poesy for Lovers: or, the terrestrial Venus
 " unmask'd, in four Poems, viz. (1) The Tempest,
 " or enchanting Lady. (2) The Luscious Penance,
 " or the Fasting Lady, &c. Lond. 1693. qu.

" The Conspiracy of Guts and Brains: or, an " Answer to the Twin-Shams, &c. Lond. 1693.

" This is poetry also, and very well written.

" A true Protestant Bridle: or, some cursory
 " Remarks upon A Sermon preached before the " right honourable the Lord Mayor and Aldermen
 " of the City of London at S. Mary le Bow, 30
 " Jan. 1693. in a Letter to Sir P. D. Lond. 1694.

" qu. Which sermon being preached by Will.
 " Stephens rector of Sutton in Surrey, our author
 " Rogers was by accident a hearer, and about 3 days
 " after this sermon was published, this Protestant
 " Bridle was published also.

VOL. IV.

" The Commonwealths-man unmask'd: or a just " Rebuke to the Author of the Account of Denmark.
 " Lond. 1694. in two parts in tw. [Bodl. 8vo. S.
 " 180. Art.] The said Account was written by one
 " Moldsworth of Dublin, and had to it besides
 " this answer two more at least, one of which was " written by Dr. Will. King lately of Ch. Ch. in
 " Oxon, entit. Animadversions on a pretended Ac-
 " count of Denmark. Lond. 1694. oct. The writing
 " of which Animadversions obtained him the secre-
 " taryship to Anne princess of Denmark, in Ja" nuary, an. 1694. As for The Commonwealths-
 " man unmask'd, the author of it dedicated it to " king Will. III. and being presented by him on " his knees, his majesty graciously accepted of it.
 " It takes notice of some antimonarchical positions
 " in the preface to that book, which being not well
 " resented he was thought a fit person to answer it
 " by some friends, who, upon reading of The Pro-
 " testant Bridle, had observed in him a warm and " not uncommendable zeal for some doctrines in the " church of England; which some people of late
 " would willingly run down. These are all the books
 " and pamphlets which he hath published, having " no name set to them, only at the bottom of the " epistle to The Commonwealths-man unmask'd, are " subscribed the letters of S. S. which are the two " last letters of both his names. Among them there " may be something perhaps may require the candor
 " of a reader, when 'tis known they come from a
 " divine: who, had he lived, would in all probability
 " have rewarded the world, for bearing with his " juvenilia. At length after he had spent some " weeks in London, partly upon the invitation of " some dear relations, and partly to give himself the " benefit of study and good conversation, he fell
 " sick of the small pox, and after 8 or 9 days strug-
 " ling with that disease he gave up the ghost in the " house of one Mr. Wright a schoolmaster, situate
 " and being in Bunhill Fields near to the Artillery-
 " Yard by London, on the 8th day of June in six" teen hundred ninety and four: whereupon his " body was buried in the church of S. Mary Overey
 " in Southwark, in the middle isle before the read" ing desk, without gravestone or monumental in" scription.

" JOHN TICKELL was born at Tavistock in
 " Devonsh. became a batler or servitor of New inn
 " after the surrender of the garrison of Oxon for " the use of the parliament, took one degree in arts
 " as a member thereof in June, an. 1649, and being " about that time made student of Ch. Ch. by the " visitors, was actually created master of arts in
 " Feb. 1651. In which year I find him a presby" terian preacher in Abingdon in Berkshire (having
 " about that time taken the engagement, as before
 " he had the covenant) and in 1654 an assistant to
 " the commissioners of the said county for the ejection
 " of such whom the godly party then called

D D

[915]

“ scandalous, ignorant and insufficient ministers and “ schoolmasters: in which office he was very fierce,
 “ and was esteemed the chief man that ejected Dr.
 “ Joh. Pordage from his rectory of Bradfield in the “ said county. Afterwards he retired to the city of “ Exeter, was a common assistant to the ministers
 “ there, and Mr. Down the minister of S. Petrock “ being an infirm man he commonly officiated there.
 “ Afterwards he refused to conform in 1662, but “ changing his mind, upon the advice of friends,
 “ he became minister of Barnstaple and afterwards
 “ of Withiecomb or Widecomb near Exeter, where “ he hath finished his course. He hath written,
 “ The bottomless Pit smocking in Familism, as “ may appear in a short Discourse on Gal. 1. 8, “ 9. Oxon. 1651, 52. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. H. 17. Th.
 “ BS.]

“ Brief Notes or Animadversions on Abiezer “ Copp's Recantation Sermon (as 'twere) at Bur- “ ford, 23 Dec. 1651.—This is printed with The “ bottomless Pit, &c.

“ Church Rules proposed to the Church in Abing-
 “ don and approved by them. Oxon. 1656.

“ Essay towards the Removing some Stumbling- “ blocks laid by Anabaptist Spirits in the Way of “ the Weak.

“ Few Anti-queries to Mr. Pendarves his Que- “ ries against our Churches and Ministry, in his “ Pamphlet called Arrows against Babylon, &c.—
 “ These two last things were printed with Church “ Rules, &c. What other books or pamphlets he “ hath extant I cannot tell, nor any thing else of “ the author, only that he dying suddenly of an “ apoplexy at Widecomb before-mention'd, (the “ rectory of which place he had before resign'd to “ his son) on the 30th of June being Saturday in “ sixteen hundred ninety and four, was buried in “ the church there, on the Wednesday following,
 “ July the fourth, as I have been informed by letters
 “ from the city of Exeter.”

1694.

[Add to Tickell A sober Enquiry about the new Oath enjoy'd on Non-Conformists, according to Act of Parliament. Oxford 1665, 4to. one sheet.
 RAWLINSON.]

“ ADAM LITTLETON a minister's son was “ born of an antient and genteel family⁶ (sometimes “ called Westcot) in Worcestershire, elected student
 “ of Ch. Ch. in 1647, ejected by the visitors ap“ pointed by the Long parl. in the year following,
 “ and soon after became usher of Westminster
 “ school, and afterwards carried on his profession
 “ elsewhere. In the beginning of 1658 he was made “ second master thereof, and after the restoration of “ king Charles II. he taught at Chelsea in Middle“ sex, of the church of which place he was also “ rector. In 1670 he accumulated the degrees in “ divinity, as I have told you in the FASTI under

⁶ [In the English preface to his Dictionary, he speaks of his worthy progenitor who wrote the Tenures. LOVEDAY.]

“ that year, (where is a just character given of him
 “ by Humphrey bishop of London) being then “ chaplain in ord. to his maj. and preb. of West“ minster, of which church he was afterwards sub-“ dean.⁷ This person, who in his Dictionary which “ came out in 1678 stiles himself Capellanus Pala- “ tinus, hath written,
 “ Tragi-comadia Oxoniensis, Printed in one sh.
 “ in qu. 1648. [Bodl. C. 12. 13. Linc.] 'Tis a Lat.
 “ poem written on the mad proceedings of the vi“ sitors at Oxon appointed by parliament. The “ beginning of which is 'Devictas Aquilas, gemit-“ namque in clade ruinam,' &c. Tho' the general “ report was then that it was written by Adam Lit“ tleton, yet Dr. Tho. Barlow frequently said that “ the author of it was Joh. Carrick a student of Ch.
 “ Ch. and he noted it in the copy of that poem which “ was in his study.

“ Pasor metricus, sive Voces omnes Novi Testa- “ menti primegeniæ Hexamotris Versibus compre- “ hensæ. Lond. 1658. qu. in Gr. and Lat.

“ Diatriba in octo Tractatus distributa, in quâ “ agitur deflectendi, derivandi & componendi Ra- “ tionalia. This is printed with Pasor Metricus.

“ Elementa Religionis, sive quatuor Capita ca- “ techetica, totidem Linguis descripta, in Usus “ Scholarum. Lond. 1658. oct.

“ Complicatio Radicum in primavâ Hebræorum “ Lingvâ. This is printed with Elem. Religionis.

“ Solomon's Gate: or, an Entrance into the “ Church, being a familiar Explanation of the “ Grounds of Religion, contained in 4 Heads of “ Catechism, viz. The Lord's Prayer, Apostles
 “ Creed, ten Commandments and the Sacraments.
 “ Lond. 1662. oct.

“ Lingvæ Latinæ Liber Dictionarius Quadri- “ partitus. A Latin Dictionary in four Parts. 1.
 “ An English-Latin. 2. A Latin-Classical. 3. A “ Latin-proper. 4. A Lat. barbarous, &c. Lond.
 “ 1678.⁸ in a thick qu. reprinted with additions in “ 1685. qu.⁹

“ Sixty one Sermons, preached mostly upon pub- “ *lic Occasions; whereof five were formerly printed.*¹
 “ Lond. 1680. fol.

“ Sermon at a solemn Meeting of the Natives of
 “ the City and County of Worcester in the Church
 “ of S. Mary le Bow, 24 Jun. 1680. [on Psalm 37,
 “ 5.] Lond. 1680. qu.

⁷ [In 1685 Littleton had the curacy of St. Botolph, Aldersgate street, which he held about four years.]

⁸ [This is the first edition, of which the well-known anecdote of the word concurro, to condog, is related. I have seen a copy on large paper.]

⁹ [Third edit. Camb. 1693; fourth edit. improved from the several works of Stephens, Cooper, Holyoke, and a large MS. in three volumes of Mr. John Milton &c. Lond. 1715; fifth 1723, and again 1735.]

¹ [A Sermon preached in Lent Assizes holden for the County of Bucks, at Alesbury, March 8. 1670-1, being Ash-Wednesday. by Ad. Littleton. Lond. 1671, 4to. Bodl. 4to. R. 42.
 Th.]

[916]

" Dissertatio Epistolaris de Juramento Medicorum, qui ὉΡΚΟΣ ἸΠΠΟΚΡΑΤΟΥΣ dicitur. In qua Ven. Vir D. Baldwinus Hamey M. D. Veterem vulgarem Versionem improbens, aliam substituit novam, &c. Lond. 1693. qu.

" Preface to Cicero's Works.—Which works were printed in two vol. at Lond. 1681. fol.

" He translated from Lat. into English, and added notes to, under the name of Redman Westcot,² a book entit. Jani Anglorum Facies altera. Lond. 1683. fol. written by Joh. Selden; with which translation he published other matters of that author. See more in the life and char. of Joh. Selden, under the year 1654. vol. iii. col. 368, 375. Also from Greek into English The Life of Themistocles, in the first vol. of Plutarch's Lives. Lond. 1683. oct. He died on Sunday the first day of July or thereabouts, in sixteen hundred ninety and four, and was buried in the church at Chelsea in Middlesex before-mention'd.

" JOHN TRENCHARD son of Hen. Trench. of North Bradley in Wilts gent. became a commoner of S. Edm. hall in the beginning of the year 1679, aged 15 years, admitted B. of A. 28 Nov. 1682, entered into holy orders and became rector of Wraxhall in Somersetshire,³ and in 1692 or thereabouts, proceeded M. A. as a grand compounder. He hath published,

" A Sermon before the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of the City of London, preached at S. Mary le Bow, 29 May 1694; on Psal. 118. 22, 23, 24. Lond. 1694. qu. ded. to sir Will. Ashurst lord mayor of London.—He died of the small pox at Lond. in the house of Kettleby a bookseller living in Pauls-church yard, in July 1694.⁴

[Bishop Tanner in his copy of these ATHENS, has inserted the following additional life in the hand writing of Anthony a Wood.

JOHN TRENCHARD, son of Tho. Trenchard of Letchiot-Mattravers in Dorsetshire, gent. was borne of puritanical parents in Dorsetshire, became prob. fellow of New coll. in a civilian's place, an. 1665, aged 15 years or more; entered in the public library as a student in the civil law 22 Oct. 1668; went to the Temple before he took a degree, became barrester and counsellour. Busy to promote Oates his plot, busie against papists, the prerogative, and all that way. Parliament man for Taunton in Somersetshire, to sit in that parliam. that was to meet 17 Oct. 1679, but by several prorogations they did not sit till the 21 Oct. 1680; in which parl. he shew'd himself eager for the disinheriting of James the duke of York—Several of his debates in that parl. are printed. Concerned in the fanatical or presbyterian plot, absconded for a time thereupon in June 1683, afterwards imprisoned and released in that year. Concerned in Monmouth's rebellion 1688, pardoned by king James II. in his act of oblivion, but being an ungrateful person he shewed himself opposite to his proceedings during his raigne. He was very instrumental and forward in promoting the designes of Will. prince of Aurange, when he was about to invade England, and appeared openly on his side when he came into England. Called to the degree of serjeant at law by king William III, sworn serjeant at law 2 May 1689, and about that time was made chief justice of Chester: appointed one of the Welsh judges in Aug. knighted at Whitehall 29 Oct. 1689. Sworne secretary of state.....1693. (the Biogr. Brit. Suppl. 175, says March 3, 1691, in place of Henry lord viscount Sidney.)

A man of turbulent and aspiring spirit, never contented. He died on Saturday 27 April 1695. An astrologer told him formerly, that he should such a yeare be imprisoned, such a yeare like to be hanged, such a yeare be promoted to a great place in the law, such a yeare rise higher, and such a yeare die; which all came to pass, as he told Dr. Gibbons on his death-bed. You may read more of him and his actions in a pamphlet entit. A Letter to Mr. Secretary discovering a Conspiracy against the Laws and antient Constitutions of England, with Reflections on the present pretended Plot, dat. 9 Oct. 1694 and subscribed by A. B. printed in 5 sheets in 4to. double columes.]

" THOMAS GILBERT son of Will. Gilb. of Priss in Shropshire became a student in S. Edmund's hall, under the tuition of Mr. Ralph Morhall his countryman, in Mich. term 1629 aged 16 years, took one degree in arts, went into Ireland, where he had some mean employment for a time, returned and took the degree of master 1638. Afterwards he became minister of Upper Winchington in Buckinghamshire by the favour of Philip lord Wharton, but being schismatically inclined, he closed with the puritans in the beginning of their rebellion, was made vicar of S. Laurence church in Reading much about the time when he had taken the covenant; and afterwards turning independent he was actually created bach. of div. in the time of the parliamentary visitation. About that time he was prefer'd to the rich rectory of Edgmond in his native country of Shropshire, whence a royallist had been ejected; where shewing himself very active for the cause, and therefore much entrusted by the usurpers in various concerns, he was commonly called the bishop of Shropshire. In 1654 he was appointed by Oliver and his council an assistant to the commissioners of Shropshire, Middlesex and city of Westminster for the ejection of such whom the faction called scandalous, ignorant and insufficient ministers and schoolmasters. In which office he shew'd

* [Redman the English rendering of the Hebrew Adam, Westcot the sometime name of the family. LOVEDAY.]

³ [Trenchard was chaplain to the earl of Manchester. RAWLINSON.]

[917]

"himself very busy, forward and malepert against the loyal and orthodox clergy. After the restoration of his maj. king Charles II. he was ejected for non-conformity, and afterwards retiring to Oxon, lived obscurely many years with his wife in S. Ebbs parish, took all opportunities to preach in conventicles, retired often to do his duty that way in the family of the said Philip lord Wharton living at Winclington before-mention'd, and when a toleration or indulgence was granted to dissenters in the latter end of 1671, he, tho' a professed independent, did join with three nonconformist presbyterians, called Dr. Hen. Langley, Mr. Hen. Cornish, and Mr. Joh. Troughton to carry on a course of constant preaching (tho' in the face of the university) in a conventicle held by them in Thame-street in the suburb of Oxon, where our author Gilbert was esteemed by the scholars that frequented the said conventicle: out of novelty, the worse preacher of the four. See in John Troughton, an. 1681, col. 10. But that toleration being called in after it had endured about an year, he carried on the trade notwithstanding elsewhere, and was not wanting (as before) to give intelligence to the brethren, by writing of all transactions (mostly those that seemed bad) that had passed in the university of Oxon. At length being reduced to extremity in his last days, notwithstanding he had had many advantages for laying up for a wet day, he was forced to desire the charity of several heads of colleges, and of private persons in Oxon, which being allowed and given, he made a shift to rub out to the last. While he was of S. Edm. hall, he was esteemed a good philosopher, disputant and philologist, and afterwards when in orders and bach. of div. a good school-divine.⁴ He hath published,

"Vindiciæ supremi Dei Dominii (cum Deo) Initæ: sive Theses aliquot, & Thesium Instantiæ oppositæ nuper Doct. Audoeni Diatribæ de Justitia Peccati Vindicatrice, &c. Lond. 1655. in 3 sh. in oct.

"An Assize Sermon preached before the Lord Ch. Justice Glynn and Mr. Serjeant Earle Judges of Assize at Bridgnorth in Shropshire, 2 Jul. 1657, on Jam. 2. 12. Lond. 1657. qu. [Bodl. C. 8. 21. Linc.]

"England's Passing-Bell: pressing all People seriously to repent of their former Offences, as the oneliest Way left to avert those heavy Judgments which do seem to threaten the Nation.—

"This, which is a poem, was written after the plague year, fire of London and the Dutch war with the English, and was printed about the year 1675 in qu. 'Tis a rough and harsh piece of poetry, replenished with phanaticism and philosophical terms.

⁴ [See an anecdote of a dispute between Gilbert and Dr. South, in Calamy, Ejected Ministers, Continuation, p. 146.]

"Super auspiciatissimo Regis Gulielmi in Hiberniam Descensu & salvo ex Hibernia Reditu, Carmen gratulatorium. Printed in one sh. in qu. an. 1690, the author being then almost 80 years of age, as he tells you in the title.

"Epitaphia diversa. These are not printed in a book by themselves, but some only scatteredly, having been mostly made on such persons that were not of the church of England.

"He also wrote a large preface dialogue-ways, before Julius Secundus, a Dialogus; wherein he proves that piece to have been written by Erasmus. It was printed at Oxon^s 1669 in tw. and there again in 1680 in oct. The title to the said preface runs thus; 'super Dialogo bene prolixo, breve colloquium Dialogi potissimum Authori rimando destinatum, colloquentibus Critobulo, Bibliopola.' In the last edition, are before the said dialogue four copies of verses, partly on our author Gilbert and partly on Erasmus his dialogue: and also four more copies wrote by his procurement that are placed before the second edit. of Jani Alex. Ferrarii Euclides Catholicus, &c. published by Gilbert, together with the former. But here the reader may observe, that the true author of this Euclides is represented under a borrowed name for his own better security, being by birth an English man, and of a not ignoble family. He tells us also that he was bred up among the papists, and that after his conversion from popery he thought fit rather to expose their religion by such ironical sarcasms that are contained in this book, than by strength of reason and argument. Our author Gilbert did also translate into Latin a considerable part of Fr. Potter's book entit. An Interpretation of the Number 666, Printed at Amsterdam 1677, with a piece of Francis Brocard (sometimes secretary to pope Clem. VIII.) entit. An Alarum to all Protestant Princes, &c. giving an account of the plots and designs then (1603) on foot at Rome to reduce all the world to the papistical persuasion: which piece of Brocard was translated into English by Dr. Joh. Wallis, and printed at Lond. in qu. about 1679. Our author Gilbert had also a hand (as I have been informed) in those vile pamphlets called Anni mirabiles, &c. printed in qu. 1661, 1662, &c. At length after he had lived to be above 80 years⁶ of age, he gave up the ghost in his house in S. Ebbs parish on Sunday the 15th

[918]

⁵ [It is republished in Jortin's appendix to the Life of Erasmus, page 600. Dr. Jortin accuses Gilbert of mutilating the piece in some places, for fear of offending the royalists, and interpolating it in others, so that his edit. is of no credit or value. This piece (which is here taken from the celebrated Pasquilli 1544) was translated into English so early as 1535. Herbert, Typ. Antiq. 496.]

⁶ [Calamy says he was eighty three at the time of his death, but this must be a mistake; he was matriculated Nov. 13, 1629, (Reg. Matric. Univ. Oxon. PP. fol. 328, b.) an. æt. 16.]

1694.

"of July in sixteen hundred ninety and four;
"whereupon his body was buried in the chancel of "the church of S. Aldate commonly called S. Toles
"within the city of Oxon on the 17th day of the "same month."

[Mr. Richards of Mattingley, Hants, among the papers of chancellor Clarendon has a letter from this Gilbert to the earl of Annesley, then lord privy seal, dated Feb. 4, 1676, in which are enclosed two epitaphs of his own making, the one on the great Lightfoot, the other on Dr. Crosse, Sedleian professor of natural history in Oxford. LOVEDAY.]

See an obscure letter of Gilbert's to Hen. Scobell, in 1658, in Peck's Desiderata Curiosa, vol. ii. lib. xiii, p. 28. COLE.

A learned and accurate Discourse concerning the Guilt of Sin, Pardon of that Guilt, and Prayer for that Pardon, now published from his Manuscript, left by him some Years before his Death, with a Friend in London. Lond. 1708. oct. This piece had passed up and down (as the preface informs us) in MS. above 30 years, and a learned person said to the author of it, 'that it was worth a man's living a great while, tho' he did nothing else, but bring forth such a composure.' RAWLINSON.

In the Bodleian is a manuscript poem by this author hitherto unnoticed,

*Illustrissimo Gulielmo Henrico Nassavio, Serenissimi Aurangia Principi; in Re Militari, qua Terrestri, qua Maritima, pro Celsis admodum et Præpotentibus Fœderatorum Belgarum Ordinibus Duci invictissimo: et a Senatu Populoque Anglicano, Supremo Rerum ibidem Moderatori constituto; super Descensu in Angliam, Sibi, Nobisque, totique Orbi vere Christiano longè felicissimo; Thomæ Gilberti, Ministri pene Octogenarii, Carmen gratulatorium.*⁷

"HENRY NEVILL second son of sir Hen. Nevill of Billingbeare in Berks knight, was born there, became a commoner of Merton coll. in 1635, aged 15 years, and soon after translated himself to that of University, where he continued some years, but took no degree. In the beginning of the civil war, he travelled into France, Italy and other countries, whereby he advanced himself much as to the knowledge of the modern languages and men, and returning in 1645 or thereabouts, became recruiter in the long parliament for Abingdon in Berkshire.⁸ At which time he

⁷ [MS. Rawl. Misc. 336.]

⁸ [Standing for the county of Berks in one of Oliver's parliaments, the sheriff much injur'd him in the return: whereupon being willing so far to acknowledge the present authority as to prefer his action upon the Instrument of Government, he brought his action against the sheriff, whereupon chief-justice St. John, declaring to the jury how heinous a thing it was for a sheriff, who being but a servant to the county, should presume to impose upon them such members as he pleased to serve in parliament, which was the bulwark of the people's

"was very great with Harry Marten, Tho. Chaloner, Tho. Scot, Jam. Harrington and other zealous commonwealths men. In Nov. 1651 he was elected one of the council of state, being then a favourite of Oliver; but when he saw that person gaped after the government by a single person, he left him, was out of his favour, and acted little during his government. In 1658 he was elected burgess for Reading to serve in Richard's parliament which began at Westm. 27 of Jan. the same year; and when that person was deposed, and the rump parl. shortly after restored to sit in the house, there was a letter from king Charles II. then in exile, casually put⁹ into his hands to be presented to that junctio, in order for his restoration to his kingdoms, but the members thereof voting that it should not be opened or read in the house, they looked upon themselves afterwards, when they saw what gen. George Monk intended, as ideots and desperate fools. At that time he was a great rota-man, was one of the chief persons of Jam. Harrington's club of commonwealths-men, to instill their principles into others, he being then esteemed to be a man of good parts, yet of a factious and turbulent spirit; but after his majesty's restoration he sculk'd for a time,¹ and at length being seized, he was, among others, imprison'd, but soon after set at liberty. He hath published,

"The Parliament of Ladies: or, divers remarkable Passages of Ladies in Spring-Garden, in Parliament assembled.—Printed 1647 in two sh. in qu. Soon after was published The Ladies, a second Time assembled in Parliament. A Continuation of the Parliament of Ladies, &c. Printed 1647, in two sh. in qu. Written, I presume, by the same hand.

"Shuffling, Cutting and Dealing, in a Game at Pickquet, being acted from the Year 1653 to 1658, by Oliver Protector and others, &c.—Printed 1659. in one sh. in qu.

"The Isle of Pines: or, a late Discovery of a fourth Island near Terra australis incognita, by Hen. Cornelius Van Sloetten, &c. Lond. 1668. in 4 sh. and an half in qu. This, when first published, was look'd upon as a meer sham or piece of drollery.

"Plato redivivus: or, a Dialogue concerning Government, wherein by Observations drawn from other Kingdoms and States both ancient and modern, an Endeavour is us'd to discover the present politic Distemper of our own, with the Remedies. Lond. 1681. in oct. [Bodl. 8vo. G. 15. Linc.] This book, which was first published in liberties; the jury adjudged the sheriff to pay 1500*l.* damages to Nevil, and 100*l.* to the commonwealth. MACRO.]

⁹ "Jani. Heath in his Brief Chron. of the late intestine War, &c. Lond. 1663. part 3. under the year 1660."

¹ [He was at Florence and going to Rome Oct. 1664. TANNER.]

[919]

1694.

the month of Octob. 1680, against the resitting of the parliament, was very much bought up by the members thereof, and admired: But soon after, when they understood who the author was, (for his name was not set to the book) many of the honest party rejected, and had no opinion of it. It came out soon after (in the same year 1681) with additions, and was answered by W. W. in a book entit. Antidotum Britannicum: or, a Counter-pest against the destructive Principles of Plato redivivus; wherein his Majesty's Royal Prerogative is asserted. Printed in a little oct. As also by Tho. Goddard, esq; in a book entit. Plato's Demon, &c. Lond. 1684. oct. Our author Nevil also wrote the preface to Machiavell's Works, printed at London in English 1674 and 1680, wherein he endeavours to defend the errors and principles of the said Machiavell: and translated from Ital. into English Machiavell's Letter in Vindication of Himself and his Writings, brought by Nevill from Italy, an. 1645; which letter is placed at the end of the said Works.² He hath also written divers copies of verses, which are printed in several books, obtaining thereby among some people the name of a poet. But as for that pamphlet called his Poetic Offering, to which came out The Answer of Edw. Coleman's Ghost, printed in one sh. in fol. at Lond. in Dec. 1678, is not his, but fathered upon him. He lived 20 years before his death in lodgings in Silver-street near Bloomsbury market, died on Sept. 20. A. D. 1694, and was buried at Warfield in Berkshire.

ZACHARY MAYNE was born in the parish of S. Petrock commonly called S. Petherick's within the city of Exeter, was entred first into Christ Church, and afterwards by the favour of the visitors appointed by parliament, became demy of Magd. coll. but being desirous to obtain the degree of bachelor of arts before he was full standing for it, he procured letters from Ol. Cromwell chancellor of the university, to be directed to the vice-chancellor and convocation, that they dispense with the said Mayne for the want of two or three terms, as being a person eminently godly and of able parts, &c. which being done accordingly, and he admitted in the month of May 1652, he became the senior collector of the determining bachelors in the Lent following, and soon after fellow of his house, M. A. and a godly preacher in and near Oxon, and sometimes in the independent meeting, weekly kept in the lodgings of Dr. Tho. Goodwin president of Magd. coll. yet always a Socinian. What relates farther to this person and his opinion, I shall here set down as I find it in a letter by him written from Exeter to a worthy and orthodox minister of that diocese, which partly runs thus—'I remember you desired me sometime since, that I would write you some passages that I had observed in Dr. T. Goodwin, Dr. Jo. Owen, and Ol. Cromwell.—As for the sword man, I think he was no atheist, but a mighty enthusiast: one while very zealous, and another while very boon—I had his company with only one more for an hour or more, in which time he talked with us, but especially with my self as a private gentleman, without taking any great state upon him—He commended Dr. Goodwin to us as a person that had been greatly instrumental in spreading the gospel, and a great luminary in the church—At the same time I had a letter of recommendation to him from the said Dr. Goodwin, tho' the doctor knew that I could not answer the tryers by reason of Socinian doubts—Dr. Goodwin was indeed a very great friend, and as a father to me. I lived in the same college with him seven years, and was of the number of those that joined with him as an independent congregation, and accordingly was pitched upon by him to be a lecturer in Shrewsbury in Shropshire, and to promote the congregational way. But, as I told you, I left it in the same place, and gave no disturbance to the town, but I bless God I had a fair reception and acceptation there with all. There I got acquaintance with Mr. Will. Jones (afterwards a judge) who would have brought me acquainted with Dr. H. Hammond then living about 12 miles from Shrewsbury, and would have procured for me an ordination by the bishop of Bangor (Dr. W. Roberts) upon such terms as I should be satisfied in. But then soon upon these thoughts Oliver died, and I returned thither no more. All the seven years that I was in the college with Dr. Goodwin, I was (by the grace of God) working my self out of enthusiasm, which I had deeply imbib'd from my infancy: and I frequently threw in objections in our meetings (which were once a week under Dr. Goodwin's superintendency) where we discoursed ex tempore upon a divinity question—At last I made it a solemn proposal to Dr. Goodwin to be dismiss'd from their society, or rather declared to him that I judged not my self as obliged to them more than others by any relation I had entered into as a member of their society: and I remember his answer was, he could not dismiss me into the world,' &c. Thus he; who declared also to the said orthodox minister, that 'when he was an independent preacher, his conscience would never permit him to administer either of the sacraments, being sensible that he had no authority so to do,' &c. After the restoration of king Charles II. he was turn'd out of his fellowship of Magd. coll. to make room for a royalist who had been ejected in 1648, at which time our author being then from a Socinian become an Arrian, came at length, by a free consideration of the scriptures, “Treatise of Justification, &c. Lond. 1662. in oct.

² [An absurd forgery. RAWLINSON.]

[920]

“and a subduing of the prejudices of his education, to be fully convinc’d of the truth of the catholic faith concerning the holy trinity. Whether he ever took orders from a bishop I cannot tell, or whether he was a preacher or lecturer of any church. Sure I am, that about 1671 he began to teach school at Dalwood in Dorsetshire, where he continued to teach (some little interruption excepted) till he came to Exeter, where by the favour of the mayor and chamber he became master of the free-school there, and taught with good success for about the six last years of his life. He hath written,

“S. Paul’s travelling Pangs, &c.—Printed 1662. in oct. These two I have not yet seen, and therefore I cannot give you the full titles.

“The Snare broken: or, the natural and eternal Deity of the Son of God, as also of the Holy Ghost, asserted. Oxon. 1692. in two sh. in qu. It was written by the author about 10 or 12 years before that time, and upon this occasion published, viz. the author being suspected (for some former miscarriages) to be a Socinian, was question’d by several as being such. And a friend of his intimating so much to him, he told his friend that he could sufficiently disprove that calumny by a paper that had lain by him these ten years: whereupon the said friend desiring to see it, it was communicated to others for their satisfaction: one of whom, that had been greatly prejudic’d against the author, upon sight of it, earnestly desired of him in a pressing letter that he would publish it for the common good. To whom he replied, that if he would print it, he would give him the copy, with his permission to publish it, if he thought it might be of any use; whereupon it was made public by Edm. Elys a nonjuring minister living at Totness in Devonshire, with a Lat. epistle before it, written by the said Elys, and an English epistle set before that, which is directed to the publisher, and written by Franc. Lee, M. A. of S. John’s coll. in Oxon.

“Sanctification by Faith vindicated: in a Discourse on the seventh Chapter of the Epistle of S. Paul to the Romans, compared with the sixth and eighth Chapters of the same Epistle. Lond. 1693. in 14 sh. or more in qu. [Bodl. C. 6. 9. Linc.] There is a preface to it written by Rob. Burscough master of arts, and vicar of Totness before-mentioned; and at the end are two little appendixes by the author, who hath also written another book, which is yet in manuscript, Concerning the Salvability of the Heathens, and of Universal Redemption by Jesus Christ. This cost the author, as he hath said, the loss of 60*l*. He preached the sum of it in S. Mary’s church in Oxon; and Dr. Owen being an auditor, he presently went and complained of him and his sermon to Dr. Jo. Conant then vice-chancellor, who con-“ven’d him before him, and was in danger of expulsion from the university. Upon this he went to London, and by advice stayed there a full quarter of a year, till the middle of May 1660, at which time Dr. Joh. Oliver going from London to Oxon, to take possession of the presidentship of Magd. coll. he went with him; a little before which time Dr. Goodwin went to Eaton coll. for a time; and in Aug. following our author Mayne was ejected; who dying at Exeter on the eleventh day of November in sixteen hundred ninety and four, aged 63 or thereabouts, his body thereupon was conveyed to Dalwood in Dorsetshire before-mention’d, and there buried; leaving then behind the character of a great lover of the present established government, and of one well pleased with the great revolution made by the prince of Orange, whom he did greatly adore. He lived, as I have been informed from Exeter, very amicably with his neighbours, who represented him as a very honest and good man—That he conform’d as a layman, was generally well esteemed for the sanctity of his life, and therefore deserv’d the character of a good man,³ &c.

“JOHN SCOTT, son of Tho. Scott a sufficient grasier, was born, as I have been informed, in the parish of Chepinham in Wiltshire, served as an apprentice in Lond. much against his will for about 3 years, but his geny being naturally inclined to vertue and good letters, he left his trade, retired to Oxon, and became a commoner of New Inn under the tuition of Mr. Christop. Lee in 1657 (being then about 19 years of age) where making great proficiency in logicals and philosophicals, departed without a degree conferr’d on him, took holy orders, and through some mean employment became minister of S. Thomas’s in Southwark, afterwards rector of S. Peters le Poor in Broad-street in London, lecturer of a church in Lombard-street, and at length vicar or rector of S. Giles’s in the Fields in Middlesex, in the place of Dr. Jo. Sharp: at all which places he obtained a great name, and was much resorted to for his most admirable way of preaching. In 1685 he proceeded in divinity, and since the coming to the crown of king Will. 3. he became canon of Windsor in the place of Dr. John Fitz-Williams a non-juror, in Apr. 1691,⁴ and might

³ [He had a son, a physician of Northampton, whom I knew, and who died in August 1750, aged about 73. WHALLEY.]

⁴ [Ant. Wood is mistaken, when he says, that Dr. Scott became canon of Windsor in the place of Dr. John Fitz-Williams a nonjuror in April 1691. For it was John Hartcliffe who obtained that prebend, upon the deprivation of John Fitz-Williams. The editor of the second volume of our author’s Practical Discourses informs us, that the earl of Nottingham procured for him a little recess from the toil and labours of his weighty employment; but doth not say how. Biographia Britan. vi, 3602.]

1694.

[921]

“ have soon after been a bishop,⁵ had not some “ scruples hindred him. He had⁶ many vertues in “ him of no ordinary growth, as may easily be per“ ceived in his much applauded work of The Chris“ tian Life, &c. And as to his piety towards God, “ his social virtues (as his own distinction is) were “ those for which we shall be most sensible of our “ loss in him, for his kindness, and humanity, and “ amicable disposition, and affability, and pleasant-
 “ ness of temper, and condescension and sincerity,
 “ and readiness to do all good offices for any that “ had recourse to him. He exhausted much of his “ time in helping others, and laying out for their “ advantage the authority which he had gained; as “ also in giving counsel and directions, and in ce-“ menting amity and peace. He delighted as much “ in doing any friendly turn, as if the profit had “ redounded to himself. He was a common father
 “ to the persecuted and afflicted, a true, stedfast,
 “ and a faithful friend. His eloquent, solid and “ fervent preaching commanded the applauses of “ men, and his constancy in it procured their love.
 “ He was frequent in it, diligent in his pastoral “ charge, industrious in resolving cases of conscience,
 “ and so restless in applying himself to the labours
 “ of his calling, that he wasted himself by degrees,
 “ and could not be satisfied without doing his duty.
 “ When popery began to get ground in the reign
 “ of king James II. he was one of those worthy “ champions that defended it with an upright zeal:
 “ and whatsoever her fate might be, he was chained
 “ to her fortunes by his reason and conscience, and “ would ever esteem it more eligible to be crushed
 “ in pieces by her fall, than to flourish and triumph
 “ on her ruins. This rev. and learned divine hath “ published these things following,
 “ Several sermons, as (1) Sermon on Ephes. 6.
 “ 11. preached before the Military Company at S.
 “ Clem. Danes 25 Jul. 1673. Lond. 1674. qu. (2) “ Serm. on Luke 9. 56. pr. before the Lord Mayor
 “ and Court of Aldermen at Guild-hall Chap. on “ the 5th of Nov. 1673, in Commemoration of Eng- “ land's Deliverance from the Gun-Powder-Trea- “ son. Lond. 1674. qu. (3) Sermon preached be- “ fore the Artillery Company of Lond. 15 Sept.
 “ 1680, at S. Mary-le-Bow on—Lond. 1680, 81.
 “ qu. (4) Serm. preached at the Funeral of Dr.
 “ Will. Crown 23 Oct. 1684, at S. Mildred's Church
 “ in the Poultry, on Matth. 25. 46. Lond. 1685.
 “ qu. This Dr. W. Crown, who entitles himself of [922] “ Brokswood in Herefordshire, and of Kymston in “ Hampshire, was doctor of phys. of Camb. and “ one of the royal society, of which he much me-

Scott had the following preferment, not mentioned by Wood:—the perpetual curacy of Trinity in the Minorities, and the prebend of Bromesbury in the church of St. Paul, to which he was collated March 14, 1684.]

⁵ [See Abr. Hill's Letters, page 135.]

⁶ “ Dr. Zach. Isham in his Sermon preached at the Fu- “ neral of Dr. Joh. Scot, &c. Lond. 1695. qu. at the end.”

“ rited. He hath made ingenious and excellent “ observations De Ovo, long before Malpigijs his “ book upon that subject was extant, which are “ published at large by Mr. H. Oldenburgh in his “ Philos. Transactions: as likewise a most curious “ theory of Muscular Motion, published in Mr. R.
 “ Hook's Philos. Collections. num. 2. I have seen
 “ a large Latin elegy written on him, beginning
 “ thus, ‘Abit virtus sed non extinguitur morte,’
 “ &c. which being printed I shall now pass it by.
 “ (5) Serm. before the L. Mayor and Court of Al- “ dermen at Guildhall Chap. 16 Dec. 1683. on Prov.
 “ 24. 21. Lond. 1685. qu. (6) Serm. preached “ before the L. Mayor and Alderm. of the City of “ Lond. at S. Mary-le-Bow 26 Jul. 1685, being
 “ the Day of public Thanksgiving for his Majesty's “ late Victory over the Rebels; on 2 Sam. 18. 28.
 “ Lond. 1685. qu. [Bodl. 4to. R. 86. Th.] (7)
 “ Serm. pr. at the Assizes at Chelmsford in Essex
 “ 31 Aug. 1685, before Sir Tho. Street, Knight,
 “ one of the Judges of the Com. Pleas; on Rom.
 “ 13. 1. Lond. 1686. qu. [Bodl. 4to. R. 86. Th.]
 “ (8) Serm. before the L. M. Aldermen and Citizens
 “ of Lond. at the Ch. of S. Mary-le-Bow, 2 Sept.
 “ 1686, being the Anniversary Fast for the dread- “ ful Fire in the Year 1666; on Joh. 5. 14. Lond.
 “ 1686. qu. [Bodl. 4to. R. 86. Th.] (9) Serm. pr.
 “ at the Funeral of Sir Joh. Buckworth in the Par.
 “ Ch. of S. Peter's le Poor in Broad-street 29 Dec.
 “ 1687; on Eccles. 11. 8. Lond. 1688. qu. [Bodl.
 “ 4to. A. 40. Th.] (10.) Serm. pr. at the Fun. of “ Sir J. Chapman late L. Mayor of Lond. at S.
 “ Laurence's Ch. 27 Mar. 1689; on Eccles. 8. 1.
 “ Lond. 1689. qu. (11) Serm. pr. at Fulham 13
 “ Oct. 1689, at the Consecration of Edw. B. of “ Worc. Sim. B. of Chich. and Gilb. B. of Bristol;
 “ on Jer. 3. 15. Lond. 1689. qu. (12) Serm. pr.
 “ before the Qu. 22 May 1692, upon Occasion of “ the late Victory obtained by their Majesties Fleet
 “ over the French; on Psal. 50. 14. Lond. 1692.
 “ qu.
 “ The Christian Life from its Beginning to its “ Consummation in Glory: together with the se- “ veral Means and Instruments of Christianity “ conducing thereunto, with Directions for private “ Devotion and Forms of Prayer, fitted to the se- “ veral States of Christians. Lond. 1681. oct. and “ several times after. This book is much com- “ mended, as being wrote in a fine smooth neat “ stile.
 “ The Christian Life, Part 2. Wherein the “ Fundamental Principles of Christian Duty are “ assigned, explain'd, and proved, Vol. 1. Lond.
 “ 1685. oct. The second Vol. of this second Part,
 “ wherein the Doctrine of our Saviour's Mediation
 “ is explained and proved, was printed at Lond.
 “ 1686. oct. and both afterwards reprinted more “ than once. To these volumes of The Christian “ Life the author intended a continuation and a per- “ fection, had not providence put a stop to his useful

“ design, first by a long craziness, and then by taking him suddenly from us.

“ Certain Cases of Conscience resolved, concerning the Lawfulness of joining with Forms of Prayer in public Worship. Part 1. Lond. 1683, in 7 sh. and an half in qu. The second part of these cases was printed at Lond. the same year in 8 sh. in qu. and both remitted into the second vol. of a book entit. A Collection of Cases and other Discourses lately written to recover Dissenters to the Communion of the Church of England. Lond. 1685. qu. in 2 vol.

“ *Examination of Bellarmine's eighth Note concerning Sanctity of Doctrine.*⁷

“ The Texts examined, which Papists cite out of the Bible concerning Prayer in an unknown Tongue, in two Parts; which with The Examination of Bellarm. eighth Note, &c. were printed in qu. in the month of Oct. 1688, king James II. being then in the throne. [Bodl. C. 7. 5. Line.]

1694.

“ This worthy divine Dr. Scot died on Sunday the tenth of March in sixteen hundred ninety and four, whereupon his body was buried in the vicar's or rector's vault (as 'tis called) under part of the church of S. Giles before-mention'd on the 15th of the said month, leaving then behind him the character of a good and learned man, an excellent preacher, and one that had done much good in his calling.

“ If you are pleased to know further of this worthy person, you may consult the Sermon preached at his Funeral by Dr. Zach. Isham 15 Mar. 1694; towards the latter end. Printed at Lond. 1695. qu.”

[The Works of the reverend and learned John Scott, D. D. some-time Rector of St. Giles's in the Fields. In two Volumes. Containing the several Parts of the Christian Life; with his Sermons and Discourses upon many important Subjects. To which is added, A Sermon preach'd at his Funeral, by Z. Isham D. D. with a large Index of Texts of Scripture purposely insisted on, or occasionally explain'd: and an alphabetical Table of the principal Matters contained in the Whole. Lond. 1718, folio—with a portrait of the author, engraved by M. Vandergucht.]

[923]

“ RICHARD BUSBY, second son of Rich. Busby of the city of Westminster, gent. was born in Lincolnshire, educated in Westm. school in the condition of a king's scholar, elected student of Ch. Ch. in 1624, aged 17 years, took the degrees in arts, that of master being completed in 1631, at which time he was esteemed an exact Latinist and Grecian, and soon after better for oratory, when Roscius gave place to him in the “ part he acted in Will. Cartwright's comedy called The Royal Slave. On the first of Jul. 1639 he was admitted to the prebendship and rectory of Cudworth, with the chappel of Knowle annex'd, in the church of Wells, on the resignation of Will. Piers; about which time he was master of Westm. school: the profits of the first he lost in the time of the rebellion, but of the other he did not, because he submitted to the dominant party of those times.⁹ After the restoration of king Charles II. he became¹ preb. of Westminster, was actually created doctor of div. and had conferr'd upon him about that time² the treasurership and a can. resid. in the said ch. of Wells. He was a person eminent and exemplary for piety and justice, an encourager of vertuous and forward youth, of great learning and hospitality, and the chief person that educated more youths that were afterwards eminent in the church and state, than any master of his time. The things that go under his name, or reported to be his, tho' probably written by some of his ushers, are these,

“ A short Institution of Grammar for the Use of Westminster School. Camb. 1647. oct.

“ An English Introduction to the Latin Tongue for the Use of the lower Forms in Westm. School. Lond. 1659, &c. in oct.

“ Græcæ Grammaticæ Rudimenta in Usus Scholæ Westmonasteriensis. Lond. 1663, [Bodl. 8vo. N. 41. Art.] &c. oct.

“ Nomenclatura brevis reformata, adjecto cum Syllabo Verborum & Adjectivorum. Lond. 1667, 70, 72, &c. oct.

“ Duplex centenarius Proverbiorum Anglo-Latino-Græcorum. Printed with the Nomenclatura.

“ Græcorum Epigrammatum Florilegium novum, cum aliis veterum Poematis, &c. Lond. 1673, &c. oct.

“ Rudimentum Anglo-Latinum Grammaticæ literalis & numeralis, in Usus Scholæ Regiæ Westmonast. Lond. 1688. oct.

“ Rudimentum Grammaticæ Græco-Latinæ metricum, in Usus nobilium Puerorum in Scholâ regiâ Westmon. Lond. 1689. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. C. 201. Linc. and, with additions, Lond. 1722. 8vo.]

“ He hath also published for the use of Westminster school the Satyrs of Juvenal and Persius, and the Epigrams of Martial, all with corrections and amendments, and castrated of their bawdy expressions. Those of Juv. and Pers. were published in 1656 in tw. and the epigrams Lond. 1661. tw.

“ He died on Saturday the 6th of Apr. in sixteen hundred ninety and five, aged 93 (as 'twas then reported) and was buried in Westminster Abbey.”

1695.

⁷ [See it in The Notes of the Church as laid down by Cardinal Bellarmine examined and confuted. Lond. 1688, 4to. page 173.]

⁸ “Reg. Matric. Univ. Oxon. PP. fol. 23. a.”

VOL. IV.

⁹ [See article OWEN PRICE, vol. iii, col. 943.]

¹ [Installed 5 July 1660. MORANT.]

² [Aug. 11, 1660. MORANT.]

" Discourse explaining the Nature of Edification, &c. Lond. 1684. qu.

" Several sermons, as (1.) Discourse explaining the Nature of Edification, &c. in a Visitation Sermon at Coventry 7 May 1684; on 1 Cor. 14. 12. Lond. 1684. qu. [Bodl. 4to. R. 58. Th.] (2.) Fun. Sermon for the Lady Frances Digby, who deceased at Coleshill 29 Sept. 1684; on Prov. 14. 32. Lond. 1684. qu. [Bodl. 4to. R. 58. Th.] She was buried at Coleshill on the 5th of Octob. the same year. (3.) The religious Loyalist, &c. Visitation Sermon at Coleshill in Warwickshire 28 Aug. 1685, being then the triennial Visitation of the Archb. of Canterbury, during the Suspension of Dr. Tho. Wood Bishop of Lichf. and Cov. on Matth. 22. 21. Lond. 1686. qu. (4.) Serm. preached at Coleshill in Warwickshire 24 Jan. 1685, on Occasion of the Death of Simon Lord Digby, who deceased at Coleshill 19 Jan. on [Heb. 6. 12.] Lond. 1686. qu.

" The practical Believer: or, the Articles of the Apostles Creed drawn out to form a true Christian's Heart and Practice. Part 1. Of the Nature and Certainty of Christian Faith and Knowledge of God: or, an Explication of the Divine Attributes of Providence, Part 2. Of the Knowledge of Jesus Christ. Lond. 1689.

" Of Christian Prudence, or religious Wisdom, not degenerating into irreligious Craftiness in trying Times. Lond. 1691. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. F. 29. Linc.] published about the beginning of March 1690.

" Christianity a Doctrine of the Cross, or Passive Obedience under any pretended Invasion of legal Rights and Liberties. [Lond. 1691. Bodl. C. 2. 22. Linc.]

" The Duty of Allegiance settled upon its true Grounds, according to Scripture, Reason, and the Opinion of the Church, in Answer to a late Book of Dr. Will. Sherlock, entit. The Case of Allegiance due to Sovereign Powers.

" Of Christian Communion to be kept on in the Unity of Christ's Church, and among the Professors of Truth and Holiness. And of the Obligations both of faithful Pastors to administer Orthodox and holy Offices; and of faithful People, to communicate in the same, &c. in 3 Parts. Lond. 1693. qu. This book, which was published in Feb. 1692, hath not the author's name to it, only report makes Mr. Kettlewell to be the author.

" A Companion for the persecuted: or, an Office for those who suffer for Righteousness: containing particular Prayers and Devotions for particular Graces, and for their private and public Wants and Occasions. Lond. 1694. in tw.

" A Companion for the Penitent, and for Persons troubled in Mind, consisting of an Office for the Penitent, to carry on their Reconciliation with God: and a Tryal or Judgment of the Soul for discovering the Safety of their spiritual Estate; and an Office for Persons troubled in Mind, and to settle them in Peace and Comfort. Lond. 1694. in tw. [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 277. Th.]

" Death made comfortable: or, the Way to dye well: consisting of Directions for a holy and happy Death. Lond. 1695. oct. published in the latter end of 1694.

" An Office for the Sick, and for certain Kinds of bodily Illness, and for dying Persons; and proper Prayers upon the Death of Friends. This was published with the former, and both composed by the author, in the time of his languishing.

" His Declaration and Profession made by Him at the Receiving of the Holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper 23 Mar. 1694.—Printed in half a sheet of paper. He died of a consumption in his lodging in Greys-Inn-Lane in Holbourn, on Friday the twelfth day of Apr. in sixteen hundred ninety and five: whereupon his body was conveyed in a hearse, attended with several coaches (wherein were between 30 and 40 nonjuring ministers, beside some gentlemen of quality) to the church of Allhallows Barkin near the Tower of London, and was there interr'd in the chancel, in the little vault or repository wherein the corps of archb. Laud had rested about 20 years. The office or service of his funeral was performed by Dr. Thomas Ken bishop of B. and Wells in his lawn sleeves; in which service he prayed for the king, queen, &c. This was on Monday the 15th of Apr."

[Kettlewell's works were collected in 1718, and printed at London in two volumes folio, with a life of the author by Dr. Hickes, who was his friend and adviser, and through whose means he was elected a fellow of Lincoln college, at the resignation of Dr. Ratcliffe. The circumstance of Kettlewell's success in opposition to the interest of Dr. Ratcliffe, who wished to secure the situation for a friend, is supposed by Dr. Hickes to have occasioned some alteration in the will of the former in prejudice to the college, to whom, as well as to Dr. Marshall the rector, he could never afterward be heartily reconciled.

Besides the pieces already noticed by Wood, the collection contains (1.) Five Discourses on so many very important Points of practical Religion, with a Preface and Character by Mr. Nelson, first printed London 1696, 8vo. (2.) An Office for Prisoners for Crimes; together with another for Prisoners of Debt. (3.) The great Evil and Danger of Profuseness and Prodigality.

Memoirs of the Life of Mr. John Kettlewell sometime Fellow of Lincoln College in Oxford, and Vicar of Coles-Hill in Warwickshire, in the Diocese of Litchfield. Wherein is contained some Account of the Transactions of his Time. Compiled from the Collections of Dr. George Hickes and Robert Nelson Esq. With several original Papers.

E E 2

[925]

1695.

Lond. 1718. 8vo. with a portrait of Kettlewell by Vander Gucht. The compiler was Dr. Francis Lee, ejected from his fellowship in St. John's soon after the revolution.

The following character was written by his friend Mr. Nelson, whose intimate knowledge of his manners and opinions makes his testimony peculiarly valuable. He was learned without pride, wise and judicious without cunning; he served at the altar without either covetousness or ambition; he was devout without affectation; sincerely religious without moroseness; courteous and affable without flattery or mean compliances; just without rigour, charitable without vanity; and heartily zealous for the interest of religion without faction. Dr. Hickes says, 'his great piety, useful learning, and solid judgment rendered him a public blessing, and a peculiar ornament of the church and age wherein he lived.']

"GEORGE TULLY, son of Isaac Tully of the city of Carlisle, gent. became a poor serving child of Queen's coll. in 1670, aged 17 years, took the degrees in arts, holy orders, became chaplain to Richard archb. of York, prebendary of Rippon, preb. of Fenton and Strenshall successively in the church of York, sub-dean thereof in the place of Dr. Rob. Field deceased, in Sept. 1680, preacher of S. Nicholas in Newcastle upon Tyne, and rector of Gateside near the said town; where, as also in Newcastle, he was respected and valued for his excellent way of preaching, and good deportment. He hath writ,

"A Defence of the Confuter of Bellarmine's second Note of the Church Antiquity against the Cavils of the Adviser.—Printed in the reign of king James II. [Lond. 1687. Bodl. 4to. Z. 56. Th.]

"An Answer to A Discourse concerning the Celibacy of the Clergy, printed at Oxford. Oxon. 1688. in a broad qu. [Bodl. C. 11. 8. Linc.] It was published at Ox. in the middle of March 1688.

"The Texts examined which Papists cite out of the Bible for the Proof of their Doctrine of Infallibility.—Printed in Feb. 1687. 3 Jac. 2. [Bodl. C. 7. 5. Linc.]

"Several sermons, as (1.) A Discourse concerning the Worship of Images, preached before the University of Oxon 24 May 1686, on Exod. 20. 4, and Part of the fifth Verse. Lond. 1689. qu. [Bodl. C. 7. 15. Linc.] for the preaching of which sermon he was suspended about Midsummer day following. In the dedicatory epistle to Henry lord bishop of London set before the said discourse, the author saith thus—'Nor shall I take occasion to reflect upon the venerable body, the dean and chapter of York, who were pleased immediately upon the receipt of a letter from the king (Jam. II.) to suspend me there for this discourse preached before the university of Oxon, and that without as much as the least summons, citation, or ordinary civility of a private letter to acquaint me with their summary proceedings against me, tho' 'twas visible enough, that as the management of their censure was unpresidential, and then a leading case; so had not been without fatal effects upon the clergy, had not your lordship, in a most generous and heroic manner, put a stop to it here in the very same case of the reverend dean of Norwich Dr. Joh. Sharp—My lord, as I had the honour (for such even then I esteemed it) to be the first clergy-man in England who suffered in those days (viz. in the reign of king James II.) in defence of our religion against popish superstition and idolatry, so I humbly beg, &c. The particulars in the said sermon against the papists were then represented to Mr. Obad. Walker master of University coll. who thereupon, as 'twas said, sent an account of them to some leading men about the king, who thereupon acquainted his majesty with them in an aggravating manner. Mr. Tully hath also published, (2.) Moderation recommended, preached before the L. Mayor and Court of Aldermen at Guild-hall Chappel 12 May 1689; on Philip 4. 5. Lond. 1689. qu. (3.) Sermon preached Oct. 19. an. 1690. before the right worshipful the Mayor, Aldermen, and Sheriffs of the Town and County of Newcastle upon Tyne, being the Day appointed for a general Thanksgiving for his Majesty's safe Return and happy Success in Ireland, on Prov. 29. 2. York 1691. qu. [Bodl. C. 2. 20. Linc.]

"Discourse of the Government of the Thoughts.—Printed in oct. 1693. [1694. Bodl. 8vo. E. 83. Linc.]

"He hath also translated from Greek into English, How to know a Flatterer from a Friend, which is one of the heads or chapters in the second vol. of Plutarch's Morals, translated from the Greek by several hands. Lond. 1684. oct. which vol. is dedicated by Mr. Tully to Dr. Joh. Dolben archb. of York. And from Lat. into English (1.) The Life of Miltiades, which is printed in a book entit. The Lives of illustrious Men. Oxon. 1684. oct. written in Lat. by Cornel. Nepos, and done into English by several hands. (2.) Life of Jul. Caesar. Lond. 1689. oct. written by C. Suetonius Tranquill. At length this worthy divine having brought his body into an ill habit, by labouring too much in his ministry, died of a consumption in the parsonage house at Gateside before-mentioned (which he had a little before repaired at the expence of above 200*l.*) on Wednesday the 24th of Apr. in sixteen hundred ninety and five, and was buried on Friday following, in the church there, leaving then behind him a widow and two children, and the character of a witty and a learned man, and it is generally believed by

[926]

1695.

“the inhabitants that they will never have one exceed him in Newcastle; the force of his eloquence, by those who were his auditors, and some of them at least are men of judgment, was own'd to have been extraordinary; there was an air of gentility, and a generous temper in every thing he did, which made up the other part of his character.

“HENRY VAUGHAN, called the Silurist from that part of Wales whose inhabitants were in ancient time called Silures, brother twin (but elder) to Eugenius Philalethes, alias Tho. Vaughan (mentioned in the third volume under the year 1665, col. 722) was born at Newton S. Briget, lying on the river Isea commonly called Uske in Brecknockshire, educated in grammar learning in his own country for six years under one Matthew Herbert a noted schoolmaster of his time, made his first entry into Jesus coll. in Mich. term 1638, aged 17 years: where spending two years or more in logicals under a noted tutor, was taken thence and designed by his father for the obtaining of some knowledge in the municipal laws at London. But soon after the civil war beginning, to the horror of all good men, he was sent for home, followed the pleasant paths of poetry and philology, became noted for his ingenuity, and published several specimens thereof, of which his Olor Iscanus was most valued. Afterwards applying his mind to the study of physie, became at length eminent in his own country for the practice thereof, and was esteemed by scholars an ingenious person, but proud and humorous. He hath written,

“Olor Iscanus. A Collection of some select Poems. Lond. 1650, 51. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. M. 5. Th. BS.]

“Silix scintillans: or, the bleeding Heart. Sacred Poems and private Ejaculations in two Books. — This book was twice printed, and in the second edit. are addit.

“The Mount of Olives: or, Solitary Devotions. Lond. 1652. oct.

“Thalia rediviva, Poems. These were ready for the press in 1673, but whether yet printed I know not. To which are added, Remains of Latin Poems, composed by his brother Eug. Philalethes. He also translated from Lat. into English, (1.) Of the Benefit we may get by our Enemies. This is a discourse written originally in the Greek by Plutarchus Chæronensis, and translated into Latin by Dr. Jo. Rainolds of C. C. coll. (2.) Of the Diseases of the Mind and Body, written in Greek by the said Plutarch, and put into Lat. by the said Dr. Rainolds. (3.) Of the Diseases of the Mind and of the Body, and which of them is most pernicious. The question stated and decided by Maxim. Tirius a Platonic philosopher; written originally in the Greek, and put into Lat. by the said Rainolds. These 3 translations here recited were printed with Olor Isea- “nus. (4.) The blessed State of Man, written in Lat. by Anselme, sometime archbishop of Canterbury. This translation was printed with The Mount of Olives. (5.) Two excellent discourses, 1. Of Temperance and Patience. 2. Of Life and Death. Lond. 1654. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. F. 2. Th. BS.] Written by Joh. Euseb. Nierembergius. (6.) The World condemn'd, written by Eucherius bishop of Lyons. (7.) Hermetical Physic: or, the right Way to preserve and restore Health. Lond. 1655. tw. [Bodl. 8vo. A. 30. Med. BS.] Written by Henr. Nollus chymist, &c. He hath also translated from Spanish into English, The Praise and Happiness of the Country Life, written originally by don Anton. Guevara bishop of Carthagea. This is also printed with Olor Iscanus. Our author Vaughan hath also published, The Life of Paulinus Bishop of Nola, collected out of his own Writings and other Primitive Authors. This was printed at the end of Two excellent Discourses, mention'd before under the fifth head, and of The World condemn'd under the sixth, and all with this general title, Flores Solitudinis, &c. He died in the latter end of April (about the 29th day) in sixteen hundred ninety and five, and was buried in the parish church of Llansenfreid about two miles distant from Brecknock in Brecknockshire.

[927]

1695.

“DANIEL BREVINT was born in the island of Jersey, educated in logic and philosophy at Saumur in France, made master of arts there on the 12th of Sept. 1634, constituted the first fellow of the French fellowship founded in Jesus coll. by king Charles I. incorporated master of arts as he had stood at Saumur, an. 1638, took holy orders, and in the time of the grand rebellion commenced by the puritans, he retired to his own country for safety; but being soon after ejected thence for refusing the covenant (as he was from his fellowship by the parl. visitors, an. 1648) he went as a volunteer exile into France, where being for some time minister of a congregated church in Normandy, became at length chaplain to the illustrious prince of Turin. About the time of the restoration of king Charles II. he came into England, was installed prebendary of Durham 15 Mar. 1660, and in 1661 he was created doct. of div. At length on the death of Dr. Honywood (which happened in Sept. 1681) he was made dean of Lincoln by the ecclesiastical commissioners in the middle of Octob. next ensuing, and was installed in that dignity on the 7th of Jan. following. He was a person of great reading, zealous for the church of England, and for

⁵ [Printed, with the preceding, Lond. 1651. Bodl. 8vo. M. 5. Ar. BS.]

⁶ [Printed Lond. 1654. Bodl. 8vo. F. 2. Th. BS.]

⁷ [Said to be collected in his sickness and retirement. MORANT.]

“ his life and learning truly praiseworthy. He hath written, “ Ecclesia primitiva Sacramentum & Sacrificium, a Pontificiis Corruptelis, & exinde natis Controversiis liberum, written at the desire of the illustrious princesses of Turen and Buellon.

“ Eucharistic Christianæ Præsentia realis, & Pontificia ficta, luculentissimis non Testimoniis modo, sed etiam Fundamentis, quibus fere tota S. S. Patrum Theologia nititur, hæc explosa, illa suffulta & asserta.

“ Pro serenissima Principe Weimariensi ad Theses Jenenses accurata Responsio.

“ Ducentæ plus minus Prælectiones in S. Matthæi xvv Capita, & aliorum Evangelistarum Locos hisce passim parallelos. The time when these four books were published, or in what volumes, sir Liol. Jenkyns, who had received them from the author in a letter sent to him, which was communicated to me, did not at all mention. He hath also written,

“ The Depth and Mystery of the Roman Mass. Oxon. at the Theatre 1672 [Bodl. 8vo. A. 132. Th.] and 73. in oct. in which last edition are several pages transpos'd to the injury of the book. In answer to this came out a book entit. Missale Romanum Vindicatum: or, the Mass vindicated from Dr. Dan. Brevint's calumnious and scandalous Tract. Printed 1674. oct. and dedicated by the author (R. F.) to the right worshipful, grave and reverend doctors of the famous university of Oxford, in a most flourishing epistle: wherein, after he has bestowed many encomiums upon the university, for its antiquity, learning, building, library, &c. doth deplore, ‘That such a magnificent structure of the unparallel'd theatre should be abused and defiled by such an unseemly imp, as the late Dr. Dan. Brevint has hatched under its roof (meaning his Miss. Rom.) printed without any license or approbation, wherein there is very little appears, which may beseeem a doctor of Oxford,’ &c.

[928]

“ The Christian Sacrament and Sacrifice, by Way of Discourse, Meditation, and Prayer, upon the Nature, Parts, and Blessings of the holy Communion. Oxon. 1673. in tw. &c.

“ Saul and Samuel at Endor: or, the new Ways of Salvation and Service, which usually tempt Men to Rome, and detain them there, truly represented and refuted. Oxon. 1674. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. Z. 54. Th.] Lond. 1688. in tw.

“ A brief Account of R. F. his Missale Vindicatum, &c. Printed with the first edit. of Saul and Samuel, &c. He died in May 1695.”

1695.

[Brevint was made rector of Brandspath upon the consecr. of bish. Wytshheart. TANNER.

See a strong recommendation of Brevint from the principal persons in the isle of Jersey, in Wilkins's Concilia, iv, 534. See also Laud's Account of his Chancellorship, pages 131, 143.]

“ DUDLEY LOFTUS, son of sir Adam Loftus sometime vice-treasurer of Ireland, and one of the lords of his majesty's council in that kingdom, was born in the castle of Refernam or Raffarnham [Rathfarnham] near Dublin (built by his great grandfather Dr. Ad. Loftus archb. of that place) admitted fellow commoner of Trin. college there an. 1635, took one degree in arts, at which time Dr. Usher primate of Ireland observing that he had made that proficiency in the study of the eastern and western languages, that before he was 20 years of age he was able to translate near as many languages into his mother tongue, he earnestly advised his father to send him to the university of Oxon, and there to encourage his advance in that study, affirming that there was a great use and a great want in the protestant church of able men, well vers'd and acquainted with the histories and languages of the oriental churches, and that by his acquaintance and correspondence with some eminent persons of those parts, he had discovered that more primitive purity of Christian religion might be got from the eastern than the western books, because the former had not been so corrupted by the heathens, as the western had been by the degenerated Christians. On these motions our author Dudl. Loftus was sent by his father to Oxon, and being entred into Univ. coll. he was incorporated bach. of arts in Nov. 1639, at which time entering on the law line with intentions of taking the degree of bach. of that faculty, he was persuaded by the society of the said coll. to take the degree of master, to the end that he might bear some public office under the proctor of that house, to be elected in the beginning of the year 1641; in which year his magisterial degree was to be compleated after the Act time. Afterwards being admitted ad regendum, he returned to Ireland with a resolution to take leave of his friends, and to improve his study by travelling into foreign parts, but was prevented by the horrid rebellion that broke out in that kingdom on the 23d of Octob. the same year (1641.) His father, sir Adam before-mention'd, being then vice-treasurer, and of the king's council, was necessitated to continue in Dublin, and employing his eldest son sir Arthur Loftus in the English army, garrison'd his castle of Raffarnham, and got the charge thereof to be committed by the then government on his other son Dudl. Loftus, of whom we are to make farther mention. This castle by its situation being a frontier to the city of Dublin against the barbarous mountaineers of the county of Wickloe, not only preserved the city from the incursions of that barbarous people, but also the English plantations of those parts. And it gave our author Loftus frequent opportunities of doing considerable execution on the common enemy, and continued so to do, and in the vigorous defence thereof till the Irish besieged

[929]

"Dublin; at which time he and his garrison were basely betrayed by some who pretended to take sanctuary with him. In consideration of these his eminent services done for the public, he was afterwards made senior master of the chancery by the government, and about that time was constituted by Dr. Ja. Usher primate of Ireland, vicar-general of that kingdom, and judge of the royal court of prerogative and faculties; all which he now (1693) enjoyeth, being past the 75th year of his age, and a doctor of the civil law of many years standing. He is a most noted person for his faculty, but more eminent for his great skill in the oriental languages, in which he transcends any of his countrymen, and therefore held in great admiration by the curiosi and critical persons in that country, and by those of England that knew him. Vir. doctiss. tam generis prosapia, quam linguarum orientalium scientia nobilis, as doctor Brian Walton tells us in his præface to Bib. Polyglot. Dr. Loftus hath written,

"The Proceedings observed in Order to, and in, the Consecration of the twelve Bishops at S. Patrick's Ch. in Dublin, the 27th of Jan. 1660. Lond. 1661. in one sh. in qu.

"Oratio funebris in Obitu D. Joh. Bramhall Hibernia Primatis, &c. printed 1663.

"Reductio Litium de Libero arbitrio, Prædestinatione et Reprobatione ad Arbitrium boni Viri. printed at Dublin. [1670. Bodl. Mar. 129.]

"Argument in the Case of Ware and Shirley. printed at Dublin. [1669. Bodl. Mar. 129.]

"Exhortatory Letter to a Lady of Quality—written in Ital.

"ΔΙΓΑΜΙΑΣ 'ΑΔΙΚΙΑ, &c. of the Marriage of the Lady Katherine Fitzgerald and Edw. Villiers Esq;—I have not yet seen this, only the answer made to it by Rob. Thompson LL. D. printed at Lond. 1677-78. qu. See in the FASTI to these ATHENÆ, under the year 1673. He also published under the name of Philo-Britannicus, at the request of sir Will. Parsons then one of the lords justices of Ireland, a book demonstrating that it was inconsistent with the English government, that the Irish, then in rebellion, should be admitted to their former condition with impunity, by topics drawn from principles of law, policy or conscience. He hath also written several resolutions of law, cases of conscience, and questions of school-div. and other fragments which he intends hereafter to make public. He is also labouring at annotations on all the general and provincial synods of Ireland, and at the history of the university of Dublin. He also translated (1) David's Psalms, from the Armenian language into Latin—Dub. 1661. oct. [Bodl. Mar. 399.] (2) The Ethiopie New Testam. into Latin.—This is in the Polyglot Bible, and was done by him at the request of the aforesaid lord primate of Ireland, and the famous Jo. Selden. (3) The Armenian

"printed Logic, into Lat. Dubl.—tw.⁸ (4) The Commentary on the four Evangelists, by Dionys. Syrus, out of the Syriac Tongue. (5) The Com. on S. Paul's Epistles, by Moses Bar Cepha, out of the same Tongue. (6) Com. on the general Epistles and Acts of the Apostles, by Gregor. Maphrino; which is deposited in MS. in the library at Trin. coll. near Dublin, and ready for the press. (7) History of the Eastern and Western Churches, by the said Maphrino, translated out of Syriac into Latin. (8) Several Chapters of Dionys. Syrus, his Comment. on S. John the Evangelist concerning the Nativity, Life, Death, Passion and Resurrection of our blessed Saviour—This was done at the request of the countess of Strafford, and printed at Dublin. qu. [1672. Bodl. Mar. 129.] (9) The Liturgies of the twelve Apostles, the Liturgy of S. Peter, the Liturgy of S. John the Evangelist, and the Liturgy of Dionysius the Arcopagite, out of the Syriac language, &c. To these Dr. Loftus hath added the Liturgy of Bar Sherushmon, and the Liturgy of Eustathius, as also The Ethiopie Liturgy, and The Ethiopie Office for the Cure of Diseases. All which liturgies were printed at Dublin 1693, under the title of Praxis Cultus divini juxta Ritus primævorum Christianorum. (10) The Comment. on the Gospel of S. Luke, by Jacobus Bar Tsalibi, into Latin, &c. (11) The Life of Abul Faragi out of Arabic into Latin. (12) The Sermons of Dionysius Syrus out of Syriac into Latin. (13) The History of Mar Abchi out of Syriac into Latin. (14) The History of the Invention of the Cross of our Saviour out of Armenia, printed at Dublin. He published some pieces of Aristotle's philosophy at Dublin. In 1677 he was about to set forth a translation of the Armenian Testament, or rather The History of the four Evangelists into Latin, with The History of Mark the Hermite, but whether extant I know not. He also translated from English into Ital. The Speech of James Duke of Ormond, which he made in Parliament assembled in Dublin the 17th of Sept. 1662, printed at Dubl. 1664. [Bodl. Mar. 129.] He died in the beginning of June in sixteen hundred ninety and five; and was buried by his relations in S. Patrick's church in Dublin.

"CHRISTOPHER MERRET, the son of a father of both his names, was born at Wincombe in Gloucestershire on the 16th of Feb. 1614, became a student in Gloucester-hall in the beginning of the year 1631, whence, after he had continued about two years, he translated himself to 1695.

⁸ [Logica, seu Introductio in totam Aristotelis Philosophiam ab Armenico Idiomate in Latinum versa; adjicitur Oratio dominica qua a Christo prolata aperti erant Coeli. Luc. 3. 21, e Syriaco versa. Dublinii 1657. 12mo. RAWLINSON.]

[930]

" Oriel coll. and as a member of that place took the " degree of bach. of arts, 1634. Afterwards retiring
 " again to Gloc. hall, apply'd his studies to the fa" culty of physie, took the degree of bachelor two " years after, and in 1642 was actually created
 " doctor thereof. About that time he went to the " great city, fell into considerable practice, and at " length became fellow of the coll. of physicians (of " which he was afterwards censor) and upon the " establishment of the Royal Society fellow thereof.
 " He hath published,⁹

" A Collection of Acts of Parliament, Charters,
 " Tryals at Law, and Judges Opinions concerning
 " those Grants to the Coll. of Physicians in London,
 " taken from the Originals, Law-Books and Annals.
 " Lond. 1660. qu. Much of this book is involved
 " in another entit. The Royal Coll. of Physicians
 " of London founded and established by Law, &c.
 " Lond. 1684. qu. published by Charles Goodall
 " doctor of physie.

" Pinax Rerum naturalium Britannicarum con-
 " tinens Vegetabilia, Animalia et Fossilia in hac
 " Insula reperta. Lond. 1665, [1667, Bodl. 8vo.
 " H. 32. Med.] &c. An account of which is in the " Philos. Trans. numb. 20.

" A short View of the Frauds and Abuses com- " mitted by Apothecaries in Relation to Patients
 " and Physicians, &c. Lond. 1669, [1670, Bodl.
 " 4to. C. 22. Med.] &c. qu. Answered by Hen.
 " Stubbe in his Medice, cura Teipsum, or, the " Apothecaries Plea, [in some short and modest
 " Animadversions upon a late Tract intituled A
 " short View of the Frauds, from a real well-wisher
 " to both Societies, 1671, 4to.¹⁰] which is replied
 " upon by Anon. in his Reflections on a late Book
 " entit. A Plea, &c.—Of the said Short View
 " and its author, Mr. Stubbe saith these things—
 " " I answered all that Dr. Merret had alledged,
 " and shewed his intollerable ignorance in that book;
 " and if we might take an estimate of his parts from
 " that writing, 'twould be manifest that he might " have better employed his time in studying the " method of physie, than in composing medicaments
 " —That after 30 years 'tis evident he understands
 " not the rudiments of that noble science, nor can " state a case therein, &c. Dr. Merret hath also
 " written,

" Self-conviction: or an Enumeration of the
 " Absurdities, Railings against the Coll. of Phy-
 " sicians in general, Nonsense, irrational Conclu-
 " sions, Falsities in Matter of Fact and in Quota-
 " tions, Concessions, &c. of a nameless Person. And " also in Answer to the Rest of Lex Talionis. Lond.
 " 1670. qu. [Bodl. 4to. C. 23. Med.]

" A short Reply to the Postscript of Hen. Stubbe,
 " shewing his many Falsities in Matter of Fact,

⁹ [Dr. Ch. Goodall died in 1712 and was buried in Kensington church. See Lysons, Environs of London, iii, 188.]

¹⁰ [RAWLINSON.]

¹ " In his Campanella revived, &c. p. 21."

" the Impertinence of his perverse Answer to some
 " Physicians that have written against Apothe-
 " caries, his Conspiracy with Apothecaries to defame
 " the Royal Society and many learned of the Nation.
 " Lond. 1670. in 4 sh. and an half in qu.

" Relation of Tin-mines, and working of Tin in " the County of Cornwall—See in the Phil. Trans.
 " num. 138. p. 494, &c.

" The Art of Refining, communicated to the " Royal Society.—See in the said Phil. Trans. num.
 " 142. an. 1678.

" Character of a compleat Physician or Na- " turalist. Lond. in one sh. in qu. He hath also " translated from Ital. into English, The Art of " Glass, how to colour Glass, Enamels, Lakes, &c.
 " Lond. 1662. oct. written by Ant. Neri. To which " is added by the translator An Account of the " Glass-drops, made by the Royal Society meeting
 " at Gresham Coll. He died in his house near to " the chappel in Hatton-Garden in Holbourne near " London, on the 19th of Aug. in sixteen hundred
 " ninety and five, and was buried 12 foot deep in " the church of S. Andrew in Holbourne." 1695.

[Some Observations concerning the Ordering of Wines, by Dr. Merret. Printed at the end of Walter Charlton's Discourses on the Wits of Men and concerning the various Sickneses of Wines. Lond.
 1692, 12mo.]

" JOHN HINCKLEY, son of Rob. Hineckley
 " of Coton in Warwickshire, was born in that county,
 " and his parents being puritanical, was puritani-
 " cally educated, and therefore possest with slight
 " thoughts of the king and his power. In mid" summer or act term^a 1634, aged 16 years, he was " admitted a student in S. Alban's hall, and com" mitted to the tuition of Mr. Rob. Sayce fellow of " Merton coll.: But before he was bach. of arts he " was converted from his aforesaid opinions by the " preaching of Dr. Pet. Wentworth of Bal. coll. in
 " S. Mary's church. About the time that he had
 " compleated the degree of master of arts he entred
 " into orders, was a retainer to the family of the " Purefoyes of Wadley near Faringdon in Berks,
 " vicar of Coleshull in the said county, afterwards
 " of Drayton in Leicestershire by the favour of " George Purefoy, esq; and at length rector of " Northfield in Worcestershire, prebendary of Wol" verhampton, and in 1679 bach. and doct. of div.
 " He was a person of a florid and oratorical stile,
 " had a pleasing way of preaching, not only to the " prelatical party, but to the schismatics, who several " times did resort to his sermons. He hath pub" lished

" Four Sermons, viz. the first at the Assizes at
 " Reading on Cant. 7. 4. the second at Abingdon
 " on Psal. 82. 1. and the other two at Oxon, on 1
 " Cor. 15. 10. and Psal. 58. 11. Oxon. 1657. in
 " oct. [Bodl. 8vo. H. 19. Th. BS.]

^a [July 4. Reg. Matric. PP.]

[932]

“ Matrimonial Instructions to Persons of Honour
 “ —Printed with the Four Sermons.

“ A Persuasive to Conformity, by Way of Letter
 “ to the dissenting Brethren. Lond. 1670. oct.

“ Sermon at the Funeral of George Purefoy the “ elder of Wadley in Berks, Esq; who was buried
 “ by his Ancestors at Drayton in Leicestershire, 21

“ Apr. 1661. on Gen. 25. 8. Lond. 1661. qu.

“ Epistola Veridica ad Homines Φιλοπρωτεύοντας.

“ Lond. 1659. qu. reprinted in his Fascic. lit. at “ Lond. 1680. in oct.

“ Oratio pro Statu Ecclesie fluctuantis, Printed
 “ with Epist. Veridica, &c.

“ Fasciculus Literarum: or, Letters on several “ Occasions. &c. Lond. 1680. oct. The first half

“ part of this book contains letters between Mr.

“ Baxter and our author, wherein many things are “ discussed which are repeated in Baxter's late Plea

“ for the Nonconformists. There are four in num“ ber wrote by each, and our author's third letter

“ was wrote soon after Baxter's book of Church

“ Divisions came forth, he having not only ob-

“ liquely reflected on, but let fall direct and down“ right expressions against, our author's second let“ ter, articulately signifying his discontent both of “ him (Hinckley) and his book. The reason of the “ publication of these letters 9 years after their first

“ penning, was occasion'd by that mean and scorn-

“ ful account which Baxter had given in many of “ his writings of our author's letters. The last of “ which letters was answer'd by Baxter in his Third

“ Defence of the Cause of Peace, &c. Lond. 1681.

“ oct. He died in the summer³ 1695.⁴

1695.

³ [Buried April 17. MORANT.]

⁴ [Dr. John Hinckley was father of Henry Hinckley, and he the father to Henry Hinckley M.D. of Magdalen college Cambridge, and of Hinckley hall, in Staffordshire, many years senior physician of Guy's hospital, who by his first wife Beata Hunt left a son John Hinckley, and by his second wife Elizabeth Boyse, another son Henry Hinckley, who succeeded to the property on the death of his brother John. This Henry left two sons, Henry Hinckley of Upper-Guilford-street, London, esq, and John Hinckley of the Inner Temple and Grays Inn, fellow of the society of antiquaries, author of translations of Link's Portugal; Decline and Fall of Venice, &c. and secretary to the Royal Institution of London, which John was found dead in his chambers in Grays-Inn in December 1814. See MS. Letters, vol. i, fol. 137.]

OXFORD WRITERS,

UNDER THEIR RESPECTIVE COLLEGES,

WHO WERE ALIVE AT MR. A. WOOD'S DEATH, 1695.

WRITERS OF UNIVERSITY COLLEGE.

BADIAH WAL-KER, son of William Walker of Worsperdate near Barnesley in Yorkshire, was born there, became a student in Univ.
coll. under the tuition of Abr.
Woodhead (whose servitor he was) in the latter end of 1631, aged 16 years

or thereabouts, took a degree in arts, was elected fellow of his coll. in 1635, and proceeding in his faculty, he entered into holy orders and became a noted tutor. After he had continued in his coll.
during the war, he was ejected from his fellowship by the visitors appointed by parliament, an.
1648; whereupon giving a farewell to his country for a time, he travelled beyond the seas, and spent a considerable time in Rome, whereby he advantaged himself much as to the knowledge of the world, men and languages. After his majesty's restoration, being put into his fellowship by the commissioners then appointed to visit the university, he travelled again with certain young gentlemen, spent more time in Rome, and, after his return, might have been elected master of his coll. on the death of Dr. Tho. Walker, an. 1665, but he refused it, and chose rather to live an obscure and retired life, than take that trouble upon him; yet after the death of Dr. Rich. Clayton (who had succeeded Dr. Walker in the mastership) he accepted of that office, rather than a stranger should come in (as 'twas designed) an. 1676. In the latter end of Octob. 1678, the popish plot being then discovered, and the generality of people much exasperated (especially upon the murder of sir Edmundbury Godfrey) there was a complaint made in the parliament-house against him for giving his assisting-hand (as Abr. Woodhead then lately deceased did) towards the training up of youths at Hogsdon alias Hoxton near London, in the Rom. Catholic principles, and that he had expressed himself very popishly affected in his notes on the Life of K. Alfred, then lately by him

[934]

“published (as I shall tell you anon) and therefore “he was esteemed not fit to govern a coll. but that “matter, by others of greater importance, soon after “came to nothing. In April 1679 sir Harbottle “Grimston spoke a speech in the parliament-house,
 “and therein took occasion to mention the printing
 “of certain books at the Theater in Oxon, as the “notes on K. Alfred's Life before-mention'd, wherein “were several matters (as he said) that savoured of “popery, and Hist. & Antiq. Univ. Oxon, wherein “also were certain things written that were against “the reformation made of the church of England
 “(which matter was put into his head by Dr. Gilb.
 “Burnet¹) besides a Bible wherein were many foul “faults: But this I speak by the by. On the 5th
 “of Jan. 1685, king Jam. II. having been scarce a “year in the throne, Mr. Walker repaired on a “sudden to London, purposely, as 'twas supposed
 “at Oxon, to be persuaded by the cabal at Somerset “house (who had sent for him) to declare openly
 “what he had been in mind many years before;
 “and returning to his coll. about the latter end of “the said month, he kept up close in his lodgings,
 “and did not frequent the coll. chappel as formerly
 “he did. About the beginning of March following,
 “when he understood that the report was current “that he was a Rom. Cath. and that it was put in “the French Gazette, he declared to many of his “friends and acquaintance that resorted to him that “he was really so; and thereupon the report flying “thro' the nation that ‘a head of a coll. in Oxon
 “had declared himself a papist,’ the presbyterians
 “and other malicious people did aggravate the matter
 “so much that they gave out that ‘all the univer“sity were papists,’ which giving great scandal to “many, caused some young divines in Oxon to “preach more against popery than formerly, par“ticularly Mr. — Edwards one of the chaplains
 “of Ch. Ch. when he preached at S. Mary's on “Palm-Sunday the 28th of March 1686. After“wards Mr. Walker became a by-word among the “protestants in Oxon and elsewhere, was abused to “his face when met with in the public streets and “lanes, and had songs made of him (Obadiah Ave “Maria) by the connivance of the magistrate. After “Mr. Walker had declared, he had private mass in “his lodgings, till such time as he could make and “furnish a chappel within the limits of his coll.:
 “which being done according to his mind, by con“verting two lower rooms on the east side of the “quadrangle for that purpose, he opened it for a “public use on Sunday the 15th of Aug. 1686, to “which resorted some scholars, some inhabitants
 “of Oxon, and many troopers that then quartered
 “therein: But the junior scholars and the mobile

¹ [Burnet in his notes on Wood's letter, see Hist. of Reform. iii, 391, append. says on this: ‘I do profess I do not remember that I ever mentioned your book to him: and sir Harbottle himself, when I asked him the question, said, he never heard me speak of it.’]

“looking upon it as a foppery, divers affronts were “given to the priest and auditory. In Octob. fol“lowing Mr. Walker obtained a license from his “maj. to print certain books lying by him, because “he knew they would not pass thro' the licenser's “hands, and in Jan. following that, he published
 “Two Discourses concerning the Adoration of our “Blessed Saviour in the Eucharist, &c. penn'd by “his quondam tutor Abr. Woodhead. But Mr.
 “Walker finding himself betrayed by the printer,
 “by permitting the said book to go away to another “hand sheet by sheet as soon as they were wrought “off, if not before, especially when an answer to the “said Discourses came out a month after they were “published, he set up cases of letters and a press in “the back-part of his lodgings, belonging to him as “master of Univ. coll. where he printed other works “of the same author, and would have printed many “more (all or most against the ch. of England) had “king James II. continued longer on the throne.
 “On the 7th of July 1687, the assizes being then “begun in Oxon, he the said Mr. Walker and Mr.
 “Joh. Massey dean of Ch. Ch. were nominated “justices of peace for the county of Oxon, and sate
 “as justices in the sessions and assizes that followed
 “so long as the said king continued in England:
 “And on the 9th of Nov. 1688, the prince of “Orange being then arrived in the West, Mr.
 “Walker left Oxon for Lond. to prevent the insults
 “of the rabble, which might follow (as they did) if “the said prince succeeded in his expedition; and “about a fortnight after his new printing-house and “chappel were cleared of all goods, stuff, and utensils
 “in them. On the 11th of Decemb. 1688, he with “Andr. Pulton the Jesuit and late schoolmaster at “the Savoy and others, who were riding in a coach “towards the sea-side in order to be transported to “France, but forced to return towards London, “because they heard that the rabble were up in “Kent purposely to seize on all the papists that “were flying beyond seas, were overtaken by “them, seized on, carried to Feversham, and com“mitted prisoners to the town-house or hall, and “soon after to the jayle, where they continued “till they were transmitted to London: and being “conveyed thither under guard, Mr. Walker was “committed prisoner to the Tower. On the 4th “of Feb. following Mr. Walker was declared non-“master of Univ. coll. for being a papist, by the “vicechancellor and doctors of the university of “Oxon, they then sitting in the common refectory,
 “of that house: which being done, they declared
 “the fellowships of Nath. Boys and Tho. Deane “masters of arts (two of Mr. Walker's disciples and “converts) void: and that being done also, they “declared void the revenues of a fellowship held by “Joseph Edwards alias Wakeman a Jesuit, chap“lain to Mr. Walker's chappel. And on the 15th
 “of the said month Edw. Ferrer M. A. and senior “fellow of the said coll. was elected master thereof

[935]

“ in the room of Mr. Walker. On the 25th of Oct. or thereabouts, an. 1689, the said Mr. Walker with sir Edw. Hales late constable of the said Tower (who had been taken in Kent in his flight with king James II. towards France, on the eleventh of Dec. 1688) and Charles his brother, &c. were brought from the Tower by an habeas corpus to Westminster-Hall and sued for bail, but instead of obtaining it they were sent for to the house of commons, where standing at the bar, Mr. Walker was charged by the said house (1) For changing his religion. (2) For seducing others to it, and (3) For keeping a mass-house in the university of Oxon. To which he made these answers.—“ I cannot say that I ever alter’d my religion, or that my principles do now wholly agree with those of the church of Rome. Mr. Anderson was my governor and director, and from him in my youth I learned those principles which I have since avowed. If they were popish, I have not changed my religion: And they will not be found to be wholly agreeable with the doctrine of the Rom. Cath. church. (2) I never seduced others to the Romish religion. All my books and precepts tend only to make men good moralists and good Christians: nor did I ever interest my self in persuading any body to this or that party. This will be plain to every body that reads my books of The Life of Christ, my book Of Education, my book Of Benefits, &c.—Parliam. Those very books are not without exceptions; many Popish doctrines are in them—Walker. I suppose not, gentlemen; my Life of Christ was licensed by the vicechancellor of Oxon, was revised by Dr. J. Fell who owned me for his friend, and who is sufficiently known to have been no papist, and it was perused by the present professor Dr. Jane—Parl. But there are alterations in it from the copy revised, allowed and licensed.—Walk. None, sirs; I appeal to all that reviewed it: there is no alteration in that book, no passages therein inserted that were expunged: and the like satisfaction shall be given in the rest of my treatises. (3) As to the chappel, it was not more my gift than the fellows of Univ. coll. King James requested it of us, and we gave a part of it of the coll. to his use. The employment of it was according to his command, and I am only concern’d, as being one that obeyed him in it, &c. Afterwards sir Hen. Goodrick a parliament man for Borough-brigg in Yorkshire spoke thus—“ I had the happiness to be bred up under Mr. Anderson, and the misfortune to be educated with Mr. Walker, and I affirm that he was not a man of those principles that Mr. Walker charges him with. Afterwards Mr. Walker was sent back again to the Tower for treason, as having changed his religion and seduced others so to do. At the same time sir Edw. Hales was remitted to the Tower also, but as for his brother Charles Hales

“ I.L. bac. sometime a gent. com. of Univ. coll. I think he was not. On the 31st of Jan. 1689, he with sir Edw. Hales were by habeas corpus brought from the Tower again to the King’s Bench bar, and there, upon good security given by each, they were bailed, and forthwith set at liberty, but both were afterwards excepted out of the act of pardon of king Will. III. and queen Mary, dated the 23d of May following. This Mr. Walker was a person, esteemed by those that knew him, and who were themselves known to be good judges, to be well qualified for the advancement and direction of collegiate and academical studies, having been one, who in his travels abroad, had (besides the great stock of various erudition and science amassed together in himself) by observation of foreign discipline, laws and customs of divers communities, and by conversation with their most eminent directors and professors, gained more experience in order to such an end, than can ever be possibly acquired by any meer home-bred education and industry, especially being made, as I may say, for such an employ by reason of his great prudence and discretion, his philosophical and unpassionate temper, and lastly his great love of a private and sedate life, joynd with a great hatred of idleness both in himself and others. This love of active solitude in him, was much improv’d and heightened by his afflictions (occasion’d by declaring himself a papist,) which did only give him the means and advantage of pursuing what he loves best, with a less distraction, verifying and experiencing in himself, what old S. Hierom did in his grot of Bethlehem after the like laborious age spent in learning and travels, that *“ senectus eorum, qui adolescentiam suam honestis artibus instruxerunt, veterum studiorum dulcissimos fructus metit.”*² The works of Mr. Walker are these,

“ Of Education, especially of young Gentlemen, in two Parts. Oxon. 1673. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. T. 90. Th.] It was printed twice in that year, and three times after at least.

“ Artis Rationis, maxima ex Parte ad Mentem Nominalium, Lib. 3. Oxon. 1673. oct. [Bodl. 8vo. T. 86. Art.]

“ A Paraphrase and Annotations upon the Epistle of S. Paul to the Romans, Corinthians and Hebrews—Oxon. 1674. in a large oct. [Dated 1675; Bodl. 8vo. B. 182. Th.]

“ God’s Benefits to Mankind. Oxon. 1680. qu. In the auction cat. of books sometime belonging to Ralph Button and Thankf. Owen, printed at Lond. 1681, this book is said to be written by the author of The whole Duty of Man.

“ Description of Greenland. Oxon. 1680. fol.

² “ S. Hierom ad Nepotian. epist. 2. in tom. 1.”

³ [This character was drawn up by one who subscribes himself R. R. and sent to Wood, with a letter, on Candlemas day 1692. The original is among Ballard’s papers in the Bodleian, vol. xxi, 62.]

"fited more by the conversation had with Abrah.
 "Woodhead and Obad. Walker (both then far from "being papists) than by his tutor. While he "remained in that coll. which was five years (but "took no degree) he made an excursion for about
 "9 months to the famous mathematician called "Will. Oughtred parson of Aldbury in Surrey, by "whom he was initiated in the study of mathe"matics, and afterwards retiring to his coll. for a
 "time, he at length went to London, was entred a "student in the Middle Temple; but when the "unhappy difference between the king and parlia"ment grew to that distance, that both parties were
 "in arms, his youthful zeal carried him, with his "mother's brother, to the king then at York, where
 "he staved some time; but being not sufficiently
 "provided with money and arms he went privately
 "to London to recruit himself, yet, it seems, he "carried his business not so privately, but a mes"senger took him into his custody the next morn"ing, and conveyed away not only him and his "horses, but his mother's coach-horses, jewels and
 "plate and what else he could find. At that time
 "he being committed to custody, he could not "recover his liberty, till he had given very good
 "security, by the intercession of Algernon earl of "Northumberland and Henry earl of Holland, never
 "to go to the king's army again; which being "effected he procured their pass to travel out of "England, and thereupon went into Holland and "made one campaign in the army of the prince of "Orange. Afterwards he passed into France, and "thence into Spain, where he went from one end of
 "it to the other twice. Thence he went into Italy,
 "where he spent most of his time at Rome, Padua,
 "and Venice, till a little before the murder of king
 "Charles I. and then he got leave to come for "England. Afterwards he returned again to the "Middle Temple, was called to the bar, but his "long absence and the sowre complexion of the "times quite discouraged him from the practice of "the common law. Upon the return of king Charles
 "II. he was made secretary of the French tongue
 "and gentleman of the privy chamber in ordinary
 "(being then also fellow of the Royal Society) and
 "so continued during the reign of king James II.
 "and part of that of king William III. But in "1691 or thereabouts, being then arrived beyond
 "the age of man, he gave himself up to a retired
 "and studious life in his house in Kensington near "London, where now (Jan. 1693) he lives. In the "beginning of the year 1672, the king sending a "splendid embassy to the court of Denmark, was "pleased to make choice of Mr. Henshaw to send "him as his secretary of the embassy, and an assistant
 "to Charles duke of Richmond, his ambassador
 "extraordinary, but the said duke unhappily dying
 "on the 12th of Dec. following, his maj. did after"wards order Mr. Henshaw to continue in the court
 "of Denmark in quality of his envoy-extraordinary,

"where he remained two years and an half, and
 "then with much ado he got leave to return to look
 "after his own affairs, which had suffer'd by his "absence. This Mr. Henshaw, who is extraordinary
 "learned and a great ornament of our nation, as a
 "noted⁷ author tells us (tho' names him not) hath

[938]

"written,
 "The History of the Making of Salt-Peter.
 "The History of Making Gun-Powder. Of these "two, which are animadverted upon by Hen. Stubbe,
 "you may see more in The Hist. of the Royal
 "Society, Lond. 1667, p. 260. 277. written by Dr.
 "Tho. Sprat. Our author Henshaw also (besides "several discourses extant in the Philos. Trans.)
 "did correct, digest and added many words (with "an epistle to the reader) to the dictionary of Dr.
 "Steph. Skinner entit. Etymologicon Linguae An-
 "glicanae. Lond. 1671. fol. In which book those "words and additions and explanations that have
 "the letter H. put to them, were done by our author
 "Henshaw a very noted critic, who also translated into "English The History of the great and renowned
 "Monarchy of China, &c. Lond. 1655. folio, writ-
 "ten in Italian, by F. Alvarez Semedo a Portuguese,
 "after he had resided 22 years at the court and "other famous cities of that kingdom. To which "is added, The History of the late Invasion and
 "Conquest of the flourishing Kingdom of the
 "Tartars, with an exact Account of the other Af-
 "fairs of China, till these present. Lond. 1655.
 "fol. And also fitted for the press and published
 "—Aero-chalinos: or, a Register for the Air,
 "of Fermentation, Chylification, &c. Lond. 1677.
 "in tw.; an account of which book (written by his "younger brother Dr. Nath. Henshaw who had "practised physick in Dublin) you may see in the
 "Philos. Trans. numb. 133. p. 834."

[In the chancel of the parish church of St. Mary, Kensington:—Near this place lyeth interred the body of Thomas Henshaw, esq. born the 15th day of June 1618. He married Anne, the younger daughter, and one of the coheirs of Robert Kipping⁸ of Tewdley, in the county of Kent, esq. by whom he had six sons and two daughters. Five of his sons, one daughter and his dear and virtuous wife who died Oct. 4, 1671, he buried by him. His daughter Anne, the only survivor, is now the wife of Thomas Halsey esq. of Gadesdon, in the county of Hertford. He had the honour to be gentleman in ordinary of the privy chamber to king Charles and James II. by the former he was employed some years as envoy-extraordinary to Christian V. king of Denmark, and was also French secretary to king James, and his present majesty king William. He departed

⁷ "Elias Ashmole in his epist. to the reader before The Way to Bliss, &c. Lond. 1658. qu."

⁸ [She was widow of — Daret, and was married to
 Tho. Henshaw at Kensington April 23, 1657, by justice Bradshaw. Lysons, Environs of London, 4to. 1795, vol. iii, page 216.]

this life at his house in this parish, on the second day of January 1699-1700, in the 82d year of his age.]⁹

"THOMAS CULPEPER, second son of sir Tho. Culpeper of Hollingbourne in Kent, knt. was born of an ancient and knightly family in Kent, entred a com. of Univ. coll. in the beginning of the year 1640, aged 14 years, created bach. of arts in 1643, and was senior collector in the Lent that year. Afterwards he travelled beyond the seas, and at his return was elected probationer fell. of Alls. coll. but soon after left that house, retired to his patrimony in Kent, and after the king's restoration received the honour of knight-hood. He hath written,

"Moral Discourses and Essays upon several Subjects. Lond. 1655. oct.

"Considerations touching Marriage. Lond. in qu. This I have not yet seen.

"A Discourse shewing the many Advantages, which will accrue to this Kingdom by the Abatement of Usury. Together with the absolute Necessity of reducing Interest of Money to the lowest Rate it bears in other Countries. Lond. 1668. qu.

"Short Appendix to the said Treatise.—printed with the Discourse before-mention'd. In answer to which, and another of the like nature written by J. C. came out an answer with this title, Usury at Six per Cent. examined and found unjustly charged by Sir Tho. Culpeper and J. C. with many Crimes and Oppressions, whereof tis altogether innocent, &c. Lond. 1669. qu. written by Tho. Manly gent. In the same year that sir Tho. Culpeper's book was published, came out another entit. Interest of Money mistaken: or, a Treatise proving that the Abatement of Interest is not the Cause of the Riches of the Nation, &c. Lond. 1668. qu. but who the author was I know not. Sir Thomas hath also written,

"The Necessity of abating Usury re-asserted: In a Reply to the Discourse of Mr. Tho. Manly, entit. Usury at Six per Cent. examined, &c. Lond. 1670. qu.

"Brief Survey of the Growth of Usury in England, with the Mischiefs attending it. Lond. 1671. in one sh. in qu.

"Humble Proposal for the Relief of Debtors, and speedy Payment of their Creditors. Lond. 1671. in one sh. in qu.

"Several Objections against the Reducement of Interest, propounded in a Letter, with the Answer thereunto. Lond. 1671. in one sh. in qu.

[939]

"He also wrote a preface to A Tract against the high Rate of Usury, presented to the Parliam. 1623. Printed the fourth time at Lond. 1668, which tract was wrote by his father sir Tho. Culpeper, as you may see in vol. iii. of this work, col. 533."

⁹ [Environ's of London, iii. 186.]

[Sir Tho. Culpeper died in 1697, leaving issue. His will is dated March 1695, and was proved Decemb. 7, 1697.]¹

"THOMAS STRODE, son of a father of both his names of Shipton-Mallet in Somersetshire,² gent. was born in that county, entred a commoner of University coll. under the tuition of Abr. Woodhead in the beginning of the year 1642, aged 16 years, continued there about two years, travelled for a time into France with his tutor, returned well accomplished, settled at Maperston in his own country, followed his natural geny to mathematics, and wrote

"A short Treatise of the Combinations, Elections, Permutations and Composition of Quantities, &c. Lond. 1678. qu.

"A new Speculation of the Difference of the Power of Numbers. Printed with the former book.

"New and easy Method to the Art of Dialling, 1. containing all Horizontal Dials, all upright Dials, reflecting Dials, &c. 2. The most natural and easy Way of describing the curve Lines of the Sun's Declination on any Place, &c. Lond. 1688. qu.

"TIMOTHY NOURSE a minister's son, was born at Newent in Gloucestershire, became a commoner of Univ. coll. about the beginning of the year 1654, took one degree in arts, was elected fellow of his coll. 19 Jan. 1658, and afterwards entring into holy orders when M. of A. he became a noted preacher, an admirer of Dr. Rob. South, and an imitator of him in his sermons and actions in the pulpit, as it was noted by many persons in the university. This person, who was a man of parts, but conceited, changed his religion for that of Rome, and therefore was deprived of his fellowship (he being then absent from his coll.) in the beginning of January, an. 1673. Afterwards settling in his patrimony in lived there a retired and studious life, suffered much upon the breaking out of the popish plot, and at length took to him a wife of his own opinion. He also wrote,

"A Discourse upon the Nature and Faculties of Man, in several Essays; with some Considerations of Occurrences of humane Life. Lond. 1686. in oct.³

"Discourse of Natural and Revealed Religion, in several Essays; or, the Light of Nature a Guide to divine Truth. Lond. 1691. oct. An account of this book you may see in The Works of the learned, or an Historical Account and im-

¹ [As I learn from the ready and kind communication of Charles George Young, esq. Rouge Dragon.]

² [See some account of the family in Collinson's Hist. of Somersetshire, vol. ii. page 210.]

³ [Hearne, MS. Collect. xvi, 56, mentions an edit. of this book 8vo. 1697, sed quære.]

"partial Judgment of Books, &c. for the month of Octob. 1691. numb. 33. written by J. de la Crose."

[Nourse was, as Hearne records,⁴ a gentleman of excellent parts, as well as a man of great probity and eminent virtues, and for that reason he continued buried of the college several years together, all which time he made it a considerable part of his business to rectify the accounts; which he performed so effectually, that he was often mentioned, with great veneration, among the society, in Hearne's day.

He died July 21, 1699, and was buried at Newent, Gloucester.⁵ He gave to the Bodleian library, all his coins and medals, whether of gold, silver or copper, in thankful remembrance of the obligations he had to that famous university. The coins amounted in all to 532; those were gold pieces 2, white 121, copper 409;⁶ they were some of the fairest and most valuable in the whole collection, and were chiefly Greek and Roman.⁷

He bequeathed such of his books as were wanting in University college, to the library of that society.

See the life of Wood, prefixed to vol. i. of these ATHENE, for an instance of Nourse's wavering in his religious principles, page lxxviii.

Campania felix or a Discourse of Husbandry, A. D. 1700, 8vo. vid. Hist. of the Works of the Learned, March 1700, p. 179.

This is ascribed to Nourse by Grey in his MS. notes to ATH. OXON.]

"FRANCIS NICHOLSON, son of Tho. Nich. of Manchester in Lancashire, became a servitor of Univ. coll. in the beginning of 1666, aged 16 years, took the degrees in arts, (that of bachelor 18 Jan. 1669, that of master June 4, 1673.) holy orders, and preached for a time in these parts, and afterwards near Canterbury; at which last place having had 12 phanatics or more within the limits of his parish, he, by his advice, brought them all to church except one. But so it was, that he having been pupil to Mr. O. Walker, some factious members of the university always took him to have something of a pope in his belly, especially when the effects of the popish plot were in prosecution from Oct. 1678, to Oxford parl. in the beginning of 1681. On Sunday 20 June 1680, Mr. Nicholson being then in the university, did preach at S. Mary's in the said Mr. Walker's turn on Psal. 58. 11. 'Surely there is a reward for the righteous;' and uttering these passages in his sermon, 'In consideration of which eternal punishment after repentance, holy church (where her discipline is in her hands) imposes penances on penitents, not only to satisfy other

⁴ [MS. Collections, viii. 223. and xv. 235.]

⁵ [Atkyns, Hist. of Gloucestershire, 1712, page 568.]

⁶ [Hearne's MS. Collections, bibl. Bodl. vol. 1, pages 99, 100.]

⁷ [Regist. Donat. Bibl. Bodl. vol. ii, p. 57.]

VOL. IV.

"Christians but also to appease divine displeasure, and through all the sufficient satisfaction of Jesus to escape sorer judgments by suffering supposed or voluntary severities,' &c. I say that uttering these passages in his sermon, none of the auditory took notice of them, only Dr. Joh. Wallis, who communicating his apprehensions to Dr. Bury (who had that day preached at Kidlington) they both complained to the vice-chancellor, who thereupon sent for Mr. Nicholson and desired a copy of his sermon, which he did soon after give unto him. The vicechancellor referred the matter to the professor, and several doctors of divinity, who examining it, told the vicechancellor he had preached false doctrine and must recant, Nicholson said not, and denied a recantation. So thereupon his name was sent to the bishops to stop his future preferment. After king James II. came to the crown he declared himself a Rom. Catholic, and acted in that concern at London and elsewhere during his reign. When the said king left the nation in Dec. 1688, Mr. Nicholson became a Carthusian in the English coll. of Carthusians at Newport in Flanders, and about the same time one Will. Hall, usually called father Hall a sec. priest and a noted preacher among the Rom. Catholic, son to Tho. Hall a cook in Ivy-lane near Paul's cathedral in London, did enter also, but Mr. Nicholson who was of a weakly constitution being weary of it and the severe rules belonging thereto, which his body could not undergo, he left that order about 1692. He hath written,

"The Doctrine of the Church of England, concerning the substantial Presence and Adoration of our blessed Saviour in the Eucharist asserted."

"A Vindication of two Discourses on that Subject, published at Oxon, from the Exceptions of a Sacramentary Answer printed at London." These two things are written by way of Appendix to Mr. A. Woodhead's book entit. A compendious Discourse on the Eucharist. As for the Sacramentary Answer, 'twas written by Mr. Will. Wake of Ch. Ch. as I have told you in Abr. Woodhead.

"THOMAS DEANE, son of Edw. Deane of Malden in Kent. (So Matric.) became a servitor of Univ. coll. in 1669, aged 15.^a—bach. of arts 4 June, 1673.—A. M. 27 May 1676.—A good tutor in the coll.—Elected fellow of the said coll. 4 Dec. 1684.—Declared himself a papist much about the same time that his master Mr. Ob. Walker did, in March, an. 1685, whose creature and convert he was—Did undergo several scorn and contempts from several members of the univ. from that time till his recess.—Upon the arrival

[940]

^a [See note ¹ in the ensuing col.]

"of the prince of Orange in England, he, with Mr. Joh. Massey dean of Ch. Ch. withdrew themselves privately from Oxon to avoid the tumult of the mob, 30 Nov. 1688. went to Lond.—Declared non-socius, 4 Feb. 1688.—Once or twice in prison at Lond. as a Jesuit or priest.—On the 18th of Dec. 1691 he stood in the pillory at Charing-Cross, (and as some say at Temple-Bar) under the name of Thom. Franks, a reputed Jesuit, for concealing a libel or pamphlet against the government, written by one that lodged in the same house wherein Dean did. He wrote, "Some Reflections in Answer to the Vindication of Martin Luther's Spirit, &c.

"His Vindication; being another Argument of the Schism of the Church of England. These two were printed at Oxon in Mr. Ob. Walker's lodgings, an. 1688. in two sh. in qu. and published about the beginning of June the same year. They were printed at the end of a thing reprinted and entit. The Religion of Martin Luther neither Catholic nor Protestant, proved from his own Works. See more in Franc. Atterbury, and in Abraham Woodhead."

[Dean was confined in the Fleet prison at the latter part of his life, for debt,⁹ but died at Malden, November 10, 1735, having subsisted for some years mostly on charity.¹]

"JOHN HUDSON son of Jam. Hud. was born at Widehope in Cumberland, became a poor serving child of Queen's coll. in the beginning of the year 1676, aged 14 years, afterwards tabarder and when master of arts² was made fellow of University coll. in the beginning also of 1686,³ where he became a noted tutor, an excellent Grecian, philosopher, &c. He wrote,

"Introductio ad Chronologiam: sive Ars Chronologica in Epitome redacta. Oxon. 1691. oct. Which being an extract from a book written by

⁹ [Dod Church History of England, vol. iii, Brussels, 1742, folio, part 8. page 462, col. 2.]

¹ [Gentleman's Magazine, 1735, vol. v, page 681; where he is very erroneously recorded as 108 years of age. By the Register of Matriculations, Univ. Ox. marked Ag, page 343, it appears that he entered at Univ. college October 19, 1669, then 18 years old. He subscribed to the articles and took the oath of supremacy Nov. 12, 1669, (on the same day with John Hough afterwards bishop of Worcester) when he was probably admitted servitor. Reg. Ae sub anno.

It clearly follows therefore, that he was eighty-four years old at the time of his decease.

The above account also corrects the person who transcribed Wood's paper, and made Deane 15 when he entered at University. I ascribe the error to the transcriber rather than to Wood, because I have invariably found the latter correct, whenever I have had occasion to make enquiry into his statements. I cannot give the same credit to the person employed by bishop Tanner to transcribe my author's original manuscript.]

² [Which degree he took Feb. 12, 1684; B. A. July 4, 1681.]

³ [March 29.]

"Dr. Beveridge, and made by Mr. Hudson for the use of his pupils, was never designed to be printed, but they committing a great many faults in transcribing it, he privately sent it to the press. He also hath published,

"M. Velleii Paterculi quæ supersunt, cum variis Lectionibus optimarum Editionum; doctorum Virorum Conjecturis & Castigationibus & Indice locupletissimo. Oxon. 1693. oct. This book, which hath set before it Annales Velleiani, written by Mr. Hen. Dodwell, was printed at the charge of Arthur Charlet, D. D. master of University coll. to be given to his scholars and friends at new year's day 1692.⁴ To this book Mr. Hudson did design to have added the entire notes of learned men, with several of his own observations; but the book it seems stole out without them. However he intends that they shall accompany it, if it comes to another impression.⁵ After the publication of Velleius Paterculus, he had prepared an Entropius for the press with the Greek paraphrase of Paanius; but after he had taken great pains in collating it with several manuscripts was oblig'd to defer the printing it by reason of his being put upon an edition of Thucydides. Whilst he was preparing Thucydides for the press, he encouraged Lichfield to print Erasmus's Dialogus Ciceronianus, correcting it, adding the epistles of Erasmus and others relating to the same argument, and made an index to it. He designs for the press an edition of Pomponius Mela, and the lesser Greek Geographers in several volumes,⁶ if he meets with encouragement.⁷

⁴ [Dr. Charlet gave Hudson ten pounds as an encouragement for his labour in preparing this volume. Biographia Britan. 2695.]

⁵ [This second edition appeared from the Theatre press in 8vo. 1711, and has 44 pages of notes added. The Annales Velleiani which were given with the first impression, are omitted in this second, having been printed by Dodwell himself, together with Annales Quinctiliani et Statiani, Oxon. 1698. Hudson dedicates his sec. ed. to sir Godfrey Kneller.]

⁶ [This account was sent to Wood by Hudson himself. See the original in bishop Tanner's copy.]

⁷ [This excellent work, fortunately for the learned world, did come forth, and as it is a book of the highest literary importance and is besides of very rare occurrence, I hope I may be allowed to give a compleat list of the contents of the four volumes, and this I cannot but hope will be useful.

VOL. I. Geographiæ Veteris Scriptores Græci Minores. Cum Interpretatione Latina, Dissertationibus ac Annotationibus. Vol. I. Oxoniæ, E Theatro Sheldoniano. MDCXCVIII. (title, with engraved frontispiece M. Burg. d. et sculp.)

Dedic. Nathanaeli Dunelmensi Episcopo, et Baroni Crewe de Stene. (pp. 4 not numbered.)

Lectori. (pp. 4 not numb.)

Henrici Dodwelli de Geographorum quos primum hoc Volumen continet, ætate et scriptis dissertationes. * (tit. lec-

* [The large paper copy in Ch. Church library has an additional title page to this portion, which I have never seen with any other:

Henrici Dodwelli de Geographorum, quos Primum Volumen complectitur, Ætate et Scriptis Dissertationes. (Plate of the Theatre Oxoniæ, E Theatro Sheldoniano, 1698.)

[In making additions to the life of Dr. Hudson I have had to encounter some considerable difficul-tori, & summa dissert. pp. 8 not numbered, dissertationes pp. 172 numbered.)*

1. Hannonis Carthaginiensium Regis Periplus. Interprete Conrado Gesnero. (tit. & testim. pp. 4 not num. pp. 6 num.)

2. Scylacis Caryandensis Periplus. † Interprete Isaaco Vossio. (tit. & test. pp. 6 not num. pp. 56 num.)

3. Agatharchidis Periplus Rubri Maris. Interprete Laurentio Rhodomanno. (tit. & test. pp. 2 not num. pp. 69 num.)

4. Arriani Periplus Ponti Euxini. Interprete Jo. Guilielmo Stuckio Tigurino. (tit. & test. pp. 2. not num. pp. 25 num.)

5. Arriani Periplus Maris Erythraei. Interprete Jo. Guilielmo Stuckio Tigurino. (tit. pp. 2 not num. pp. 38 num.)

6. Nearehi Parapulus ex Arriano. Interprete Bonavent. Vulcanio Brugensi. (tit. & test. pp. 2 not num. pp. 40 num.)

7. Marciani Heraeleotæ Periplus. Interprete J. H. (tit. & test. pp. 4 not num. pp. 60 num.)

8. Fragmentum Epitomes Undecim Librorum Artemidori Ephesii. (pp. 14 num.)

9. Elogia et Fragmenta Menippi Pergameni. (pp. 2 num.)

10. Fragmenta quedam Artemidori Ephesii, Item Testimonia de eodem, ex variis Auctoribus simul collecta. (pp. 13 num. ‡)

11. Ponti Euxini, et Mæotidis Paludis Periplus. Interprete Isaaco Vossio. (tit. pp. 2 not num. pp. 17 num.)

Annotationes, et Addenda. (pp. 86 num.)

Epistolæ et Præfationes prioribus Editionibus præfixæ. (pp. 8 num.)

Index. (pp. 18 not num.)

Auctores citati
Scriptores in Annotationibus emendati &c. } (pp. 4 not num.)
Omissa et Errata.

VOL. II. Geographiæ Veteris Scriptores Græci Minores. Cum Interpretatione Latina, Dissertationibus ac Annotationibus. Vol. ii. Oxonie, E Theatro Sheldoniano. MDCCIII. (title, with engraved frontispiece M. B. sculp.)

Ded. Præstantissimo Viro D. Philippo Sydenhami Baronetto. (pp. 4 not num.)

Lectori (pp. 4 not num.)

Henrici Dodwelli de Geographorum, quos Secundum hoc Volumen continet, Ætate et Scriptis Dissertationes. (tit. & summa dissert. pp. 6 not num. dissertationes, addenda, inserenda pp. 208 num.)

1. Dicæarchi Status Græciæ. Interprete J. H. (tit. & test. pp. 4 not num. pp. 26 num.)

2. Descriptio Montis Pelii, excerpta ex Dicæarchi Opere de Statu Græciæ. Interprete J. Alb. Fabricio, Lipsiensi. (pp. 5 numb. with the preceding, viz. p. 27—31.)

3. Isidori Characeni Mansiones Parthicæ. Interprete J. H. (tit. & test. pp. 2 not num. pp. 8 num.)

4. Seymini Chii, vulgo Marciani Heraeleotæ, Orbis Descriptio. Interprete Erasmo Vindingio Pauli F. (tit. & test. pp. 2 not num. pp. 42 num.)

5. Seymini Chii Fragmenta. (A Luca Holstenio collecta.) (pp. 14 numbered with the preceding, viz. p. 43—56.)

* [In the Ch. Ch. copy, before mentioned, is a cancel of page 172, (without its recto) having the following title, Opusculo primo Geographorum Volumine comprehensa. In the list of trentises to be printed in the succeeding volumes xv are promised, whereas in the page as it stands in the work there are only xiv recorded. Number v (that omitted) is Scymini Chii Periegesis, which tract however was afterwards given in vol. 2.]

† [This was animadverted upon by James Gronovius in his Geographica Antiqua, 4to. Lugd. Bat. 1700, who, in the same work, considers Dodwell's dissertation on the age of Scylax.]

‡ [Note, that the paging of the four preceding articles is continued, viz. from page 1 to page 89.]

ties arising from this circumstance, that all the contemporary intelligence was to be derived from the

6. Plutarchi Libellus de Fluviorum et Montium Nominibus, et de His quæ in illis inveniuntur. Interprete Ph. Jac. Maussaco. (tit. pp. 2 not num. pp. 50 num.)

7. Agathemerii Orthonis F. Compendiarium Geographiæ Expositionum Libri duo. Interprete Sam. Tennulio. (tit. pp. 2 not num. pp. 61 num.)

8. Chrestomathiæ ex Strabonis Geographicis. Interprete Hieronymo Gemusæo (tit. pp. 2. not num. pp. 229 num.)

Annotationes (pp. 44 num.)

Index

Auctores citati

Scriptores emendati &c. } (pp. 32 not num.)

Omissa

Errata.

VOL. III. Geographiæ veteris Scriptores Græci Minores. Accedunt Geographica Arabica &c. Vol. iii. Oxonie E Theatro Sheldoniano, MDCCXII.* (title with engraved frontispiece M. Burg. sculp.)

Ordo Contentorum (back of the title.)

Ded. L. Ant. Muratorio, serenissimo Duci Mutinensi a bibliotheca. (pp. 4 not num.)

Lectori (pp. 4 not num.)

1. Excerpta ex Dionysii Byzantii Anaplo Bospori Thracii (tit. pp. 2 not num. pp. 23 num.)

2. Anonymi Descriptio Ponti Euxini, Collecta ex Scymno, Arriano, et Marciano. Interprete J. H. (tit. pp. 2 not num. pp. 16 num.)

3. Expositio Totius Mundi et Gentium. (tit. & test. pp. 2 not num. pp. 20 num.)

4. Variæ Lectiones in Anonymum Ravennatem, Edit. Paris. an. 1688, ex Codice Urbinate Vaticanæ Bibliothecæ signato num. 678. (pp. 22 num.)

5. Ptolemæi Arabia ope Cod. MS. Vetustissimi et præstantissimi emendata. (pp. 32 num.)

6. Chorasmicæ, et Mawaralnahræ, Hoc est, Regionum extra Fluvium Oxum, Descriptio Abulfedæ Ismaelis, ex Tabulis Principis Hamah (tit. on page 1.)

Ded. Johannis Gravii Reverendissimo Præsuli Jacobo Usserio Archiepiscopo Armachano (on page 2.)

Lectori (from p. 3 to 17.)

Abulfedæ Proœmium (from p. 18 to 22.)

Abulfedæ Descriptio Chorasmicæ &c. (from p. 22 to p. 80.)

7. Abulfedæ Descriptio Peninsulæ Arabiæ. (from p. 1. to p. 22 num.)

8. Tabulæ Longitudinis et Latitudinis, cum Nominibus Locorum Arabiæ et Auctorum. Accedunt Climata. (from p. 23 to p. 76 num.)

9. Binæ Tabulæ Geographicæ una Nassir Eddini Persæ, altera Ulug Beigi Tatar. Opera et Studio Johannis Gravii. Oxonii E Theatro Sheldoniano MDCCXI. (tit. on page 77 not num.)

Ded. Johannis Gravii D. Edovardo Pocockio Amico suo charissimo et D. Thomæ Gratio Fratri suo amantissimo (p. 78 not num.)

Lectori (from p. 79 to 87 not num.)

Tabula Coajæ Nassir Eddinæ (p. 88 to 119 num.)

Tabula Vluga Beigi (from p. 120 to p. 151 num.)

10. Longitudo et Latitudo quarundam Urbium ex Cod. MS. in Bibliotheca Joannensium reposito (p. 152 not num.)

11. Excerpta ex Georgii Medici Chrysococæ Syntaxi Persarum per Ismaelem Bullialdum. (pp. 6 num.)

* [Lord Weymouth sent Dr. Hudson twenty pounds, as a present, in 1711, probably from hearing that he was a loser by his publications, though how he should be so, says Hearne in a letter to a friend, is a mystery to me, as he prints no books but what he knows beforehand he shall get well off.]

papers of our well-known Oxford antiquary, Thomas Hearne, a person whose intimate acquaintance and connexion with Hudson should have rendered his testimony of the greatest value. Unfortunately however Hearne quarrelled with Dr. Hudson some time before his death, and of this dispute he has left ample evidence in all his private writings (for he omits no opportunity of reviling him); so that the greatest caution must be observed in quoting Hearne's memoranda, or in subscribing to his opinions. The

12. Ptolemæi Tabula Longitudinis et Latitudinis Urbium insignium. (from p. 7 to p. 49 num.)

13. ΚΑΤΑΙΟΥ ΠΤΟΛΕΜΑΙΟΥ ΕΚΘΕΣΙΣ ΚΑΝΟΝΙΚΗ ΤΩΝ ΑΣΤΕΡΙΣΜΩΝ. (pp. 42 num.)

Index Locorum &c.

Index ad Arabica

Nomina Auctorum et Librorum } (pp. 18 not num.)
quos citat Abulfeda.

VOL. IV.* Geographiæ Veteris Scriptores Græci Minores. Cum Dissertatione in Dionysium, Annotationibus &c. Vol. iv. Oxoniæ, E Theatro Sheldoniano, MDCCXII. (title, with an engraved frontispiece M. Burg. sculp.)

Ded. Francisco Cherrio arm. † (pp. 3 not num.)

Lectori (pp. 3 not num.)

Henrici Dodwelli Dissertatio de Ætate et Patria Dionysii Periegetæ. (tit. & summa dissert. pp. 4 not num. dissert. pp. 67. num.)

1. Dionysii Orbis Descriptio; Cum Eustathii Commentariis, Paraphrasi Græca, et antiquis Prisciani et R. Festi Avieni Versionibus. (title & testimonies pp. 15, falsely numbered xiii—Descriptio Orbis pp. 198, falsely numbered 199. At p. 30 Libyæ sen Africa Tabula; p. 48 Europæ Tabula antiqua; p. 62, Græciæ Tabula antiqua; p. 115 Asiæ Tabula antiqua.)

2. Rufi Festi Avieni Descriptio Orbis Terræ. (pp. 36 num.)

3. Periegesis Prisciani. (pp. 28 num.)

4. Rufi Festi Avieni Ora Maritima (pp. 18 num.)

5. ΑΝΩΤΜΟΤ ΠΑΡΑΦΡΑΣΙΣ ΕΙΣ ΤΗΝ ΔΙΟΝΥΣΙΟΥ ΠΕΡΙ-ΗΡΗΣΙΝ (tit. pp. 2 not num. pp. 33 num.)

Scholia, variæ Lectiones, Annotationes, Emendationes, Conjecturæ (from p. 34 to p. 83 num.)

Indices et Errata (pp. 17 not numbered.)

Of this fourth volume it may be remarked, that, excepting the dissertation by Dodwell, the title, dedication and preface, it is nothing more than an edition of Dionysius printed at Oxon in 1710. Hudson, conceiving this book a fit supplement to the 3 vol. already published, procured the remaining copies and, adding the title, dissert. dedic. and preface, sent it forth to the world as the concluding portion of his Geographers.

It may also be stated, that an edit. of Dionysius with notes and the commentaries of Eustathius, together with Periegesis Prisciani, had been previously published at Oxford in 1697. This is frequently substituted for the genuine fourth volume, which however is now so exactly described, that it is presumed no mistake can occur.]

* [Dr. Hudson told Hearne that he had burnt the third and fourth vol. of his Geographers, because they would not sell, though he had printed off a supernumerary quantity of Dionysius's Periegesis, and that they paid for the impression. MS. Collections, lxxxiii, 162.]

† [The dedication of the fourth volume was design'd by the editor to Tho. Rawlinson esq. and his coat of arms engraved by Mr. Michael Burghers, for that end, of which there are more than one proof, but this was dropt by the avaritious editor, who hoped a larger gratification from Mr. Cherry of Shotesbroke. RAWLINSON, MS. Notes to the Athenæ.]

fact seems to be, that Hudson took much notice of Hearne, when he first began to be a student in the Bodleian, and treated him for a long time with marked kindness and liberality:—this friendship continued till Hudson, somewhat changed in his political principles, became angry at the inflexible Jacobitism of Hearne, and Hearne, on his side, detested the Dr. for having openly deserted a cause which he had always supposed him to favour secretly. Party spirit, at all times either the firm cement or the sure destruction of private friendship, at that moment ran particularly high, and it is probable that Hudson found it necessary to desert Hearne in order to render his own sincerity to the government unsuspected, and he did accordingly desert him till within a short period of his death, when to Hearne's great surprise he was sent for to St. Mary hall and received in a very friendly manner by his old friend and master, who commended his book then printing (Gul. Neubrigiensis Chron.) and gave him some communications for it. From this time Hearne says little in his pocket books about him, but he does not retract his former opinions, nor soften down the character before given. I have said thus much to prove that Hearne's account of Hudson would not have been a fair one, composed, as it was, under circumstances of peculiar irritation and dislike, and as my object is to speak the truth and not to gratify private spleen or indulge ill-natured curiosity, I think it will be allowed, that I am not to blame in rejecting the testimony of one who, though he knew much concerning Hudson, was decidedly biassed, from personal motives, in his disfavour.

The case of Hudson, when he was candidate for a fellowship of University, affords another instance of an attempt to set aside the statutes of a college, and one as I believe not before recorded. The master Dr. Obadiah Walker fancied that Hudson was not of a statutable county, and to remove the difficulty procured the following royal mandate^a—To our trusty and well-beloved the master and fellows of University college in our university of Oxon.

James R.

Trusty and well beloved, we greet you well. Having received a good character of John Hudson master of arts of Queen's college in this our university, and being informed that he is well qualified by his learning and good manners to be chosen fellow of your college, We have thought fit hereby, in a particular manner, to recommend him the said J. H. to you to be chosen accordingly a fellow of your college, in the place now vacant, notwithstanding his not being of the county required by the statute, or any other dissability, with all which we are pleased, and do hereby dispense in his behalf. And so, not doubting of your ready compliance herein, we bid you farewell. Given at our court at Whitehall the 21st day of March 1685-6 in the second year of our reign. By his majesty's command, Sunderland.

^a [Coll. MSS. P. B. iii, 119.]

It should be added, that Hudson refused to avail himself of this mandate, declaring that he would 'rather live by his wits, than come into a college, without the consent of the fellows.'

Hudson proceeded to the degree of bach. of div. and D. D. June 5, 1701, having on the 11th of April preceding been elected keeper of Bodley's library, vacant by the resignation of Dr. Tho. Hyde. His opponent was John Wallis of Magdalen college: the numbers polled were Hudson 194, Wallis 173.⁹

Hearne says, and no doubt from the information of Dr. Hudson himself, that the Dr. would certainly have succeeded Dr. Levins as professor of Greek, had not bishop Burnet used this argument for Dr. Humph. Hody, to king William; That he had writ for the government, whereas Hudson was rather suspected to be no friend to it.¹

In 1711 he was offered the place of principal of Gloucester hall, which he declined,² but soon after he was made, thro' the interest of Dr. Ratcliffe, principal of St. Mary hall, where he was admitted and installed Jan. 16, 1712-13. on the death of Will. Wyatt.³

Dr. Hudson resigned his fellowship June 14, 1711, having married April 2, 1710, Margaret, only daughter of sir Robert Harrison knt. an alderman and mercer of Oxford.⁴ This lady was the widow of Mr. Knapp, a barrister, and commoner of University college, by whom she had no issue. By Dr. Hudson she had one daughter Margaret, born July 24, bapt. Aug. 2, 1711,⁵ married July 29, 1731, to the rev. John Boyce (son of sir John Boyce alderman of Oxford) commoner of Ch. Ch. rector of Saintbury Gloucestershire.⁶

⁹ [Reg. Convoc. Bc. fol. 228.]

¹ [MS. Collections, v. 266. 'Dr. Charlett master of University college was brought into that place by the interest of Dr. Hudson, who might himself have had it, before Mr. Bennet, whom Dr. Charlett succeeded.' So Hearne. Again MS. Collect. v, 140, who when he wrote this note was on the best terms with 'the worthy Dr. Hudson,' as he calls him.]

² [Hearne, MS. Collect. xxx, 201.]

³ [RAWLINSON, MS. Continuation of Athenæ, 368.]

⁴ [Hearne insinuates that this was Hudson's second wife, and that he had been previously married to a Miss Biesley before he was elected librarian. MS. Collect. lviii, 187.]

⁵ [Hearne's MS. Collect. xxx, 240. cxlii, 123.]

⁶ [See a curious dispute on the subject of a contract of marriage supposed to have been entered into between Miss Hudson and a Mr. John Goole, vicar of Eynsham, Oxon. in Gentleman's Magazine iv, 553. Hearne mentions it frequently in his MS. Collections vol. cxxxix, p. 143; cxlii, p. 122, 140. He says, she was a very pretty young woman, of a very good fortune, and her husband of nearly the same age (cxxx, 111) whereas he owns Goole to have been about 44.]

Mrs. Hudson, after her second husband's death, married his friend Dr. Anth. Hall of Queen's college; she died in the latter end of Sept. 1731 and was buried in the chancel of St. Mary's church Sept. 25, near the body of Dr. Hudson.]

The publications of this indefatigable man, not already noticed, are,

1. Thucydides De Bello Peloponensiaco Libri octo. Oxoniae 1696, fol. Ded. to Thomas Tenison archbish. of Canterbury. A more exact or more beautiful edition of any classical writer has never appeared.

2. Dionysii Halicarnassensis Antiquitatum Romanarum Libri quotquot supersunt. Oxoniae, e Theatro Sheldoniano, 1704, 2 vol. folio. Ded. Georgio Hoopero episcopo Bathonio-Wellensi.⁷

3. Dionysii Longini de Sublimitate Libellus, cum Præfatione de Vita et Scriptis Longini, Notis, Indicibus, et variis Lectionibus. Oxoniae 1710, 8vo. sec. ed. 1718, third 1730.

4. Fabularum Æsopicarum Collectio, Quotquot Græce reperiantur. Accedit Interpretatio Latina. Oxon. 1718, 8vo. Ded. to John Bridges viscount Chandos, eldest son of James earl of Carnarvon.

5. *Flavii Josephi Opera quæ reperiri potuerunt omnia. Ad Codices fere omnes cum impressos tum Manuscriptos diligenter recensuit, nova Versione donavit, et Notis illustravit Joannes Hudsonus, S. T. P. Aula B. Mariæ Virginis Principalis, et Protobibliothecarius Bodleianus. Duobus Voluminibus. Oxonii, E Theatro Sheldoniano, 1720, folio. Ded. Jacobo Bruges duci de Chandos.*⁸ The work was published by Hudson's friend Anthony Hall of Queen's coll. who wrote a short preface, giving some account of the editor. Hearne, on the appearance of the edition, wrote a very severe note on this præfatiuncula,⁹ as he calls it, in which he says, and truly, there is not a word about Josephus, though much about Mrs. Hudson and her pretty little daughter.

Besides these we may mention that he superin-

⁷ [Dr. Hudson might very well have spar'd his prayer at the end of his dedication, that the archbishop may dye to make way for my lord of Bath and Wells. Whatever he hop'd or wish'd, he might, for the sake of good breeding, have kept it to himself; and his grace, to my knowledge, did not deserve it at his hands on any other account, but that he happen'd to be unsuccessful in his endeavours to promote him. Original Letter from Edmund Gibson, afterwards Bish. of Lincoln and London, to Dr. Charlett, dated Lambeth, Sept. 2, 1704. MS. Ballard, vi, 56.]

⁸ [Cum post multorum annorum laborem improbum, et magnos sumptus Josepho impensos, pæne languerem, Tu solus, vir illustrissime, benignitate tua me labantem excitasti, et munificentia tua effecisti, ut operi tam difficili, et laborioso par essem perficiendo: quapropter si quid fructus aut emolumenti ex meis vigiliis capiat respublica literaria, (capiet autem, uti spero, nonnihilo) id omne Tibi acceptum referri debere palam aperteque profiteor.—The munificence here alluded to, was a present of two hundred guineas which the duke of Chandos, then earl of Caernarvon, sent Hudson as an encouragement to his studies and a testimony of his lordship's opinion of his merit.]

Dr. Hudson told Hearne that dean Aldrich offered to lend him five hundred pounds without interest, if he should have occasion for money to print his Josephus. MS. Collections, xxvii, 190.]

⁹ [MS. Collections, 1720, vol. lxxxix, p. 129.]

tended the Greek and Latin text of the noble edition of Euclid, printed under the care of Dr. Gregory, at Oxford 1703. He transcribed also the Phænomena, and otherwise assisted the editor, as did Dr. Wallis, who wrote all that relates to the Musica. Dean Aldrich presented Dr. Gregory's son with a gratuity of twenty guineas for the dedication.¹

He also 'abridg'd Dr. Beveridge's Introduction to Chronology, when bach. of arts, which afterwards he printed for the use of his pupils, of which there are two impressions. He printed Erasmus's Dialogus Ciceronianus at Mr. Lichfield's press in Oxon, at his own charges. He printed also a Salust in 12mo at the theatre, with various lections; an accurate edition; it goes under the name of another, but the Dr. did it.' So Hearne, who wrote this note at a time when he was on terms of good understanding with Dr. Hudson, from whom he speaks of having received generous encouragement and extraordinary kindnesses.²

Indices Auctorum a variis Scriptoribus vel citatorum vel etiam laudatorum. Confecit Johannes Hudsonus S. T. P. MS. Rawl. in bibl. Bodl. Misc. 350.

The rude Draught of a Speech design'd to have been spoken by Dr. Hudson, before the Queen, if she had come to the publick Library. Hearne's MS. Collect. xii, 18.

Hudson wrote the inscription on the monument of Dr. Plott, printed before the second edition of his Hist. of Oxfordshire.³

Several letters from and to him are in the Bodleian: MS. Rawl. Misc. 316, MS. Smith 63, and in Hearne's MS. Collections.

Nothing now remains to be said but that he died about six o'clock on Friday morning, Nov. 27, 1719, having long lingered under a dropsical complaint, and was buried in the chancel of St. Mary's church on Decem. 1 following, the vice-chancellor (Dr. Shippen) Dr. Stratford, Dr. Terry, Dr. Clavering (canons of Ch. Ch.) Dr. Mather, (pres. of Corpus) and Dr. Gibson (prov. of Queen's) holding the pall. The following inscription is still visible on the pavement: M. S. Viri doctissimi Joannis Hudsoni S. T. P. Aulae B. M. V. Principalis, et Proto-bibliothecarii Bodleiani. Obiit Nov. 26, A. D. 1719. Aetatis 57.

He was supposed to die in very good circumstances. He had an estate at Horsepath near Oxford, and Hearne was told⁴ that he left above seven thousand pounds in money.

He gave a great number of books to the Bodleian during his life, the remainder he bequeathed to University college library, and such as were already in that collection were purchased by an Oxford bookseller. His MS. papers were afterwards sold by his widow to Mr. Wasse of Aynoe on the hill; so at least Dr. Charlett told Hearne.⁵

In the Bodleian library is the original picture of Hudson given (after much difficulty) by his wife. S. Gribelin engraved a folio plate from it, which after Hudson's death was altered to represent sir William Dawes!]

"JOHN POTTER, son of Tho. Potter of Wakefield in Yorkshire, became a servitor of Univ. coll. in the beginning of the year 1688,⁶ aged 14, became fellow of Linc. coll. in 1694, being then bach. of arts. He put Variantes Lectiones & Notae to Plutarch's book De audiendis Poetis, with the interpretation of Hug. Grotius.⁷ This book was printed at the theatre, 1694 in oct. at the charge of Arth. Charlett D. D. master of Univ. coll.⁸ and by him given as a new-years gift to the students of his house, and other of his friends, an. 1693. The notator Dr. Potter in his epistle before it to the reader saith thus, 'Totum

⁴ [MS. Collections, xevii, 42.]

⁵ [In Hearne's book of MS. Collections for 1707, vol. xvi, p. 81, is the following curious paper drawn up in Hearne's hand-writing, subscribed by Dr. Hudson, and duly witnessed, as to the disposal of his property in case of death. 'Dec. 13, 1707.

This day Dr. Hudson declar'd y^e half he has in goods and money, shall goe when he dies to y^e publick, meaning University coll. and y^e publick library, and y^e proportion is University coll. to have six parts, and y^e publick library four. What he leaves to the coll. is to be for scholarships, of which none to be capable but such as are born within y^e province of York.

I allow of this, witness my hand

J. Hudson
J. Nevile
Ric. Ibbetson
Tho. Hearne.

At the bottom of this Hearne subsequently wrote

Dr. Thomas Crosthwait was then also present. Dr. Hudson is since married to a young girl, the only daughter of sir Rob. Harrison of Oxford. He was married a little after Easter in 1710. She is about 25 years of age. May 20, 1711.

A little before he died he made a new will in 1711.]

⁶ [1688, 18 Maii Joh. Potter, fil. Th. P. Wakefield Ebor. paup. fil. an. nat. 14. Reg. Matric.]

⁷ [To this was added Basilii Magni Oratio ad Juvenes quomodo cum Fructu Legere possint Graecorum Libros, to which Potter gave notes and various readings, which were afterwards printed by Joan. Henr. Maius in his edit. of the Oratio. Franc. 1714, 4to.]

⁸ [In a letter to Dr. Charlett, dated Westminster Jan. 9, 1719-20, bishop Potter assures him that he is ready and desirous on all occasions to express his remembrance of the Drs. favour to him, when he lived under his government in University college. MS. Ballard ix, 61.]

¹ [HEARNE, MS. Collect. v, 178, 181.]

² [MS. Collect. ix, 213. sub an. 1706.]

³ [Ethices Compendium a Viro cl. G. Langbænio (ut festus) adornatum; et nunc demum cognitum et emendatum, Interpolationibus hinc inde sublatis, et Locis quamplurimis Integritati suæ restitutis. Accedit Methodus Argumentandi Aristotelica ad Logicam Mathematicam redacta disposuit et limavit & prælo reverendus doctissimusque J. H. S. T. P. Lond. 1721. 12mo. This is ascribed to Hudson by Dr. Rawlinson, but as I know not on what authority, I have not inserted it in my text.]

“opus debes eximio viro Arturo Charletto cuius hortatu susceptum est; viro inter præcipua Oxoniae nostræ ornamenta memorando, tam impense colit studia, studiosos amat, fovet, provehit; &c. He put also, Variantes Lectiones & Notæ ad Basilii magni Orationem ad Juvenes quomodo cum Fructu legere possint Græcorum Libros. Printed with the former book.”

[Potter at his first admission to University college was pupil to Mr. Bateman, and upon his death to Mr. Bingham, and received some instruction from Dr. Hudson.⁹ He took the degree of B. A. of Univ. coll. Jan. 23, 1691-2;¹ was elected fellow of Lincoln, Apr. 7, and admitted May 2, 1694;² ordained deacon in Magd. coll. chapel by bishop Hough Sept. 24, 1698; priest, by the same prelate, June 4, 1699,³ proceeded M. A. Oct. 16, 1694, B. D. July 8, 1704, D. D. April 18, 1706, and on the 23 June following resigned his fellowship.

In 1704 he was appointed chaplain to the archbishop of Canterbury (Tenison), with whom he resided at Lambeth.⁴ July 6, 1705, he was inducted to the rectory of Great Mongeham, Kent,⁵ to which he was presented by the archbishop: this he resigned in 1707, on obtaining the rectory of Monks Rishborough, in Buckinghamshire, to which he was instituted April 3, at the presentation of the archbishop, on the death of Dr. Hody.⁶ He afterwards had the rectory of Newington, Oxfordshire,⁷ and in 1708, being then chaplain in ordinary to queen Anne, was appointed regius professor of divinity and canon of Christ church. This he obtained through the interest of the duke of Marlborough,⁸ against Dr. Smalridge, who was strongly recommended to the queen by the opposite party. By the same interest he afterwards obtained the bishopric of Oxford, to which see he was elected May 6, and consecrated May 15, 1715.⁹

On the death of archbishop Wake, he was promoted to Canterbury, to which see he was elected Feb. 15 and confirmed Feb. 28, 1736-7. He filled this very important station for ten years, during which he was distinguished alike for piety, learning, and prudence.¹

⁹ [HEARNE, MS. Collect. ix, 136.]

¹ [Reg. Congreg. Univ. Oxon. Bc, fol. 272.]

² [RAWLINSON, MS. Notes to Ath. Oxon. page 951.]

³ [Ibid.]

⁴ [Biographia Britannica, 3417.]

⁵ [Hasted's Hist. of Kent, iii, 140.]

⁶ [“My lord archb. has absolutely determined to give Monks-Rishurrow to Dr. Potter, and to grant a dispensation to Dr. Sydal to hold the living he had, and which Dr. Potter leaves, together.” Original Letter from Edm. Gibson, (then chaplain to archbishop Tenison,) dated Feb. 8, 1706-7. MS. Ballard, vi, 61.]

⁷ [HEARNE, MS. Collect. liii, 161.]

⁸ [Apology for the Conduct of the Dutchess of Marlborough, page 175.]

⁹ [RAWLINSON.]

¹ [Whiston accuses him of pride and haughtiness, but much must be allowed for the prejudices of this writer. Archbishop Potter seems to have done no more than sustain

The archbishop died October 10, 1747, and was buried in the chancel of the parish church of Croydon, Surrey, where is the following inscription on a flat stone; Here lieth the Body of the most reverend John Potter D. D. Archbishop of Canterbury, who died Oct. 10th 1747. In the 74th year of his age.²

Dr. Potter married soon after he obtained the divinity professorship, I believe to a Miss Venner, grand-daughter of Thomas Venner the fifth monarchy-man,³ by whom he had a large family: of these four daughters and two sons only survived him.

Archbishop Potter's eldest son, John, was born in 1713, matriculated of Christ church, Dec. 1, 1727, and soon after appointed a canon student. He proceeded B. A. June 18, 1731; M. A. June 12, 1734; B. D. November 7, 1741; D. D. October 14, 1745. He was successively vicar of Blackburne, Lancashire, and of Elme cum Emmeth in the isle of Ely, archdeacon of Oxford, vicar of Lyd, rector of Chidingstone, prebendary of Canterbury, and rector of Wrotham in Kent; and finally dean of the cath. church of Cant. Early in life he married imprudently, on which account the archbishop left the bulk of his fortune to his second son. Dean Potter died at Wrotham September 20, 1770 aged 57, and was buried at Canterbury, as was his widow Martha, who survived him five years.

The archbishop's second son, Thomas Potter, was bred to the law, and appointed by his father to the registry of the province of Canterbury. He was also recorder of Bath, joint-vice-treasurer of Ireland and in parliament for Oakhampton, in Devonshire: he died at Ridgemont in Bedfordshire, June 17, 1759.

His daughters married, the eldest to Dr. Sayer archdeacon of Durham, the second to Dr. Tanner prebendary of Canterbury, the third to Dr. Milles dean of Exeter, and the fourth to Dr. Tenison prebendary of Canterbury.⁴

I now come to the archbishop's publications:

1. Lycophronis Chalcedensis Alexandra, cum Græcis Isaacii Tzetzis Commentariis. Accedunt Versiones, Variantes Lectiones. Emendationes, Annotationes, et Indices necessarii. Cura et opera Johannis Pottcri, A. M. et Collegii Lincolnensis Socii. Oxonii, e Theatro Sheldoniano, An. Dom. 1697. fol. Editio secunda, priori auctior, Oxon. 1702 ‘impensis Joannis Owemi.’ Ded. ‘viro omni eruditionis laude summe illustri, Joanni Georgio Grævio.’

2. Archæologia Græcæ: or the Antiquities of the respectability of his high office with becoming dignity and decorum. Though attached to a party and promoted by the interest of that party, no man seems to have possessed more political moderation than the archbishop.]

² [Lysons, Environs of London, i, 185.]

³ [See Granger, Biog. Hist. of England, iv, 206.]

⁴ [Hasted, Hist. of Kent, iv, 755: but see the Biographia Britannica, p. 3417, where it is asserted that the elder daughter married Dr. Tenison.]

Grecce. Vol. 1. Oxford 1697; vol. 2, 1698, 8vo.⁵ second edit. very much augmented and improved in 2 vol. Lond. 1706, 8vo. Printed again 1722, 1728, 1740, 1751, 1764, 1795, 1813. It was translated into Latin and printed in the Thesaurus of Gronovius, L. Bal. 1702. fol. Rawlinson says that Peter Vander Aa the bookseller employed some person to make the translation, and that Potter had nothing to do with it.

3. *A Discourse of Church-Government: Wherein the Rights of the Church, and the Supremacy of Christian Princes, are vindicated and adjusted.*⁶ Lond. 1707, 1711, 1753.

4. Clementis Alexandrini Operu quæ extant, Recognita et Illustrata per Joannem Potterum Episcopum Oxoniensem. Oxonii, E Theatro Sheldoniano, A. D. 1715. Sumptibus Georgii Mortlock, Bibliopole Londinensis. fol. 2 tom. Ded. Georgio Mag. Brit. Fran. et Hib. Regi.

5. Sermon preach'd before the honourable the House of Lords on the first of August 1715, being the Day on which his Majesty began his happy Reign. On Psalm 20, ver. 5. Lond. 1715. 8vo.

6. Charge to the Clergy of his Diocese (Oxford) at his Primary Visitation in July 1716. Lond. 1716, 4to.

7. Charge to the Clergy of his Diocese (Oxford) at his Triennial Visitation in July 1719. Lond. 1720. 4to and 8vo. This was replied to by the bishop of Bangor in a Postscript to An Answer to the Reverend Dr. Hase's Sermon intituled Church Authority vindicated. Lond. 1720, and defended by Potter in the following: Defence of the late Charge delivered to the Clergy of the Diocese of Oxford, July 1719, in a Letter to the said Clergy. Lond. 1720, 8vo.⁷

⁵ [Some copies have the date 1699.]

⁶ [As for Dr. Potter, I have heard the dean often mention him with respect, they mett several times, and the dean said, that the Dr. was as high and orthodox as to the power and discipline of the church as any man, and that he question'd not, but that he would shew it on all occasions: that he only wanted the polemical part to qualify him for being deservedly in the chair, but he would, in a year's time, be perfect master on't. Original Letter from W. Bishop of Grays Inn, to Dr. Charlett, dat. Januar. 3, 1707-8. MS. Ballard, xxxi, 43.]

⁷ [As to the notice the bishop of Bangor hath been pleased to take of me, I can only say at present, that I can easily forgive his calumnies, and as easily answer his arguments, and therefore have no reason to be much concern'd about it; nevertheless if my friends think it needfull, as they seem to do, some thing farther may be reply'd to him in a short time. Original Letter from the Bishop of Oxford, to Dr. Charlett, dated Feb. 2, 1719-20. MS. Ballard, Bibl. Bodl. ix, 62.]

I do not find the bish. of B. has gotten any ground by his manner of writing against the bish. of Oxford: whose establish'd credit and integrity are not at all diminish'd by what has been said against him. His lordship is very chearfull, and modestly tells me, he is not at all afraid of the charge made upon him; and I hope will in time convince the world of it. Original Letter from William Wake, Archbishop of Canterbury, to Dr. Charlett, dat. Feb. 4, 1719-20. MS. Ballard, iii, 83.

8. Sermon preach'd at the Coronation of King George II. and Queen Caroline in the Abbey Church of Westminster, October 11, 1727. On 2 Chron. 9. 8. Lond. 1727. 4to.

The Theological Works of the most reverend Dr. John Potter late Lord Arch-bishop of Canterbury, containing his Sermons, Charges, Discourse of Church-Government and Divinity-Lectures. Oxford 1753-54. 3 vol. 8vo. The first of these contains his sermons and charges; the second his Disc. on Ch. Govern. the third his divinity-lectures, delivered as regius professor.

Six original letters of bishop Potter to Dr. Charlett, MS. Ballard, in the Bodleian No. ix.

In the Bodleian is a very good original portrait of Potter by Hudson: it has been engraved by Vertue.]

WRITERS OF BALIOL COLLEGE.

“JOHN EVELYN of Says-Court in Kent son of Rich. Evelyn of Wotton in Surrey, esq; was born at Wotton on the 21st of Oct. 1620, educated in the free-school at Lewes in Sussex, became a gent. com. of Baliol coll. in the beginning of the year 1637, where he continued about 3 years in the studies of logic and philosophy. Thence he went to the Middle Temple, where he continued till the rebellion broke out to the great terror of the nation. In 1644, he, by the express leave of his maj. king Charles I. under his own hand dated at Oxon, travelled above seven years into the politer countries of Europe, and in his return thro' France he married the sole daughter and heir of sir Rich. Browne knight and baronet, then resident for his majesty king Charles II. with the French king. After his majesty's restoration he was elected fellow of the Royal Society, was made one of the commissioners (together with sir Thom. Clifford, afterwards lord treasurer of England, and other honourable persons) for the taking care of the sick and wounded sea-men and prisoners of war during all our conflicts with the Dutch and the French; and afterwards (amongst divers of the prime nobility) was made one of the council for foreign plantations, &c. In the year 1667, he, by his interest, obtained of the lord Hen. Howard that his antient marbles called Marmora Arundeliana standing in the garden belonging to Arundel house without Temple Bar within the liberty of Westminster should be given to the university of Oxford, which being effected to his mind, he had the solemn thanks of the university of Oxon, sent to him by the delegates thereof, and

The same prelate in another letter dated Mar. 3, says, ‘The controversy about church power seems now to be got into good hands, who I hope will do the subject justice, in writing upon it, I am sorry the good bishop of Oxford has been treated so unworthily, but his character is too well known to be injur'd by it.’]

"in 1669 had the degree of doctor of the civil law confer'd on him. In Decemb. 1685, he, with viscount Tiviot and col. Rob. Philips were constituted by his majesty commissioners of the privy-seal, during the absence of Henry earl of Clarendon, who about that time was made lord lieutenant of Ireland; which honourable office they enjoying till the month of March 1686, Henry lord Arundel of Wardour was sworn lord privy-seal on the eleventh day of the same month, at which time they were discharged. This Mr. Evelyn is an ingenious and polite person and most of all affects a private and studious life, and was the first of those gentlemen who earliest met for the promotion and establishment of the Royal Society, of which he was one of the council in 1682, &c. Of this person Dr. Burnet in his Hist. of the Reformation of the Church of England, part 2. lib. 3. p. 417. speaks thus. 'The most ingenious and virtuous gentleman Mr. Evelyn, who is not satisfied to have advanced the knowledge of this age, by his most useful and successful labours about planting, and divers other ways, but is ready to contribute every thing in his power to perfect other men's endeavours.' Mr. Evelyn hath published,

"An Apology for the Royal Party; written in a Letter to a Person of the late Council of State; with a Touch at the pretended Plea of the Army. — Lond. 1659. third edit. in 2 sh. in qu.

"A Panegyric at his Maj. Ch. II. his Coronation. Lond. 1661. fol.

"Fumifugium: or, the Inconveniences of the Air and Smoak of London dissipated; together with some Remedies humbly proposed. Lond. 1661. in 5 sh. in qu.

"Sculptura: or the History and Art of Chalcography. Lond. 1662. oct.⁸

"Sylva: or, a Discourse of Forest-Trees, and the Propagation of Timber in his Majesty's Dominions, &c. To which is annexed Pomona, or an Appendix concerning Fruit-Trees, in Relation to Cyder, &c. Lond. 1679. fol. third edit. The [first appeared in 1664, the] second came out in 1669. [third 1705,⁹ fifth 1729.]

⁸ [Reprinted, with a life of Evelyn, Lond. 175 . 8vo.]

⁹ [Sylva; or a Discourse of Forest-Trees and the Propagation of Timber in his Majesty's Dominions, as it was delivered in the Royal Society the 15th of October 1662 upon Occasion of certain Queries propounded by the honourable and principal Officers and Commissioners of the Navy, in two Books: Together with an historical Account of the Sacredness and Use of standing Graves. Terra, a Philosophical Essay of Earth, being a Lecture in course: To which is annexed, Pomona; or an Appendix concerning Fruit-Trees, in relation to Cyder; the making and several Ways of ordering it. Published by express Order of the Royal Society. Also Acetaria, or a Discourse of Sallets; with Kalendarium Hortense, or the Gardener's Almanack, directing what he is to do Monthly throughout the Year. All which Treatises are, in this fourth Edition, much enlarged and improved by the Author John Evelyn Esq. Fellow of the Royal Society. Lond. 1706, fol.

"*Public Employment and an active Life preferred to Solitude with all its Appanage,*¹ &c. Lond. 1667. oct.

"Kalendarium Hortense: or the Gardiner's Almanac, directing what he is to do Monthly throughout the Year, and what Fruits and Flowers are in prime. Lond. [1664] in oct. This book hath been printed at least seven times before the year 1684, with many useful additions by the author.

"The History of the three late famous Impostors, viz. Padre Ottomano pretended Son and Heir to the late Grand Seignior, Mahomet Bei a pretended Prince of the Ottoman Family, but in Truth a Valachian Counterfeit, and Sabatai Sevi the supposed Messiah of the Jews in the Year 1666, &c. Lond. 1669. oct. I know not yet to the contrary but this may be a translation.²

"Navigation and Commerce, their Original and Progress; containing a succinct Account of Traffic in general, the Benefits and Improvements of Discoveries, Wars and Conflicts at Sea, from the Original of Navigation to this Day, with special Regard to the English Nation, &c. Lond. 1674. oct.

"Terra: A Philosophical Discourse of the Earth, relating to the Improvement of it for Ve-

The best editions of Evelyn's excellent Sylva and Terra were published, with notes and engravings, by Dr. A. Hunter; the former at York 1776, the latter York 1787.]

¹ [This was in answer to sir George Mackenzie's Essay on Solitude, printed in 1665. Lord Orford says of the author, that he knew retirement in his own hands was industry and benefit to mankind; but in those of others, laziness and idleness. Perhaps the following portion of the concluding section of Evelyn's tract, affords one of the best examples of his spirited style of composition. That it is a very partial picture, will be readily allowed.

² Let us therefore rather celebrate public employment and an active life, which renders us so nearly allied to virtue, defines and maintains our king, supports societies, preserves kingdoms in peace, protects them in war, has discovered new worlds, planted the gospel, increases knowledge, cultivates arts, relieves the afflicted; and, in sum, without which, the whole universe itself had been still but a rude and indigested chaos. Or, if you had rather see it represented in picture, behold here a sovereign sitting in his august assembly of parliament, enacting wholesome laws; next him, my lord chancellor and the rest of the reverend judges and magistrates, dispensing them for the good of the people! Figure to yourself a secretary of state, making his dispatches and receiving intelligence; a statesman countermining some pernicious plot against the commonwealth: here a general bravely embattling his forces and vanquishing his enemy; there a colony planting an island, and a barbarous and solitary nation reduced to civility; cities, houses, forts, ships, building for society, shelter, defence and commerce! In another table, the poor relieved and set at work, the naked clad, the oppressed delivered, the malefactor punished, the labourer busied, and the whole world employed for the benefit of mankind. In a word, behold him, in the nearest resemblance to his almighty Maker, always in action and always doing good.' See a good paper by Brydges, on this little tract of Evelyn's, in Censura Literaria, l. 1.

³ [It certainly was not a translation, but an original composition by Evelyn. See Biographia Britannica, vol. v, page 620, note. Edit. Kippis.]

"getation and the Propagation of Plants, &c.
 "Lond. 1675. oct. 1679. fol. a laudable account of "which is in the Philosophical Transactions, numb.
 "119. p. 454.

"Treatise of the Dignity of Man, MS.

"Elysium Britannicum, MS.³

"This Mr. Evelyn hath also extant,

"A Letter to one of the Secretaries of the Royal

"Society, concerning the Damage done to his

"Gardens by the preceding Winter, dat. at Sayes

"*Court in Deptford, 14 Apr. 1684.*⁴ See in

"Philos. Transact. nu. 158. 20 Apr. 1684. He

"hath also translated into English, (1) Of Liberty

"and Servitude. Lond. 1649. in tw. (2) An

"Essay on the first Book of Lucretius Carus: or,

"a metrical Version and Notes on Lucretius his

"first Book De Rerum Natura. Lond. 1656. oct.

"On which translation Mr. Edm. Waller hath an "ingenious poem in his Poems on several Occasions.

"(3) The French Gardiner, instructing how to "cultivate all Sorts of Fruit-Trees, and Herbs for

"the Garden, together with Directions to dry and

"conserve them in their Natural, &c. Lond. 1658.

"in tw. and several times after. In most of the

"editions is added The English Vineyard vindi-

"cated, by Joh. Rose gardiner to his majesty king

"Charles II. with a Tract of the Making and Or- "dering of Wines in France. The third edition of "this French Gardiner, which came out in 1676,

"was illustrated with sculptures.⁵ (4) The Golden

"Book of St. Chrysostom, concerning the Educa- "tion of Children. Lond. 1659. in tw. (5) In- "structions concerning erecting of a Library, &c.

"Lond. 1661. oct. written by Gabr. Naudeus. (6)

"A Parallel of the ancient Architecture with the "Modern, and a Treatise of Statues, &c. Lond.

"1664. 2d edit. in fol. [third 1697, fourth 1733,]

"written by Roland Freart Sieur de Cambray. (7)

"An Idea of the Perfection of Painting. Lond.

"1668. oct. written by Rol. Freart before-men-

"tion'd."

[In the chancel of Wotton church, Surrey, on a tomb, shaped like a coffin; the following inscription:

Here lies the Body of JOHN EVELYN Esq. of this place, second son

³ [This probably is the great work mentioned by himself, in the preface to the Acetaria, under the following title: The Plan of a royal Garden. Describing and shewing the Amplitude of that Part of Georgicks which belongs to Horticulture.]

⁴ [Evelyn's garden received greater damage a few years after from Peter the great, czar of Muscovy, to whom he lent Sayes-court, when that prince was studying naval architecture in the dock-yard at Deptford in 1698. The royal visitant had no taste for horticulture, and amused himself by being wheeled through his landlord's ornamental hedges, and over his borders in a wheel-barrow! See Lysons, Environs of London, iv, 363.]

⁵ [Fourth ed. Lond. 1691.]

of Richard Evelyn Esq. who having serv'd the Publick in several Employments,⁶ of which that of Commissioner of the Privy Seal in the Reign of K. James the 2d was most honourable, and perpetuated his Fame by far more lasting monuments than those of Stone or Brass, his learned and useful Works, fell asleep the 27 day of February 1702, being the 86 Year of his Age, in full hope of a glorious Resurrection, thro' Faith in Jesus Christ.
 Living in an Age of extraordinary
 Events and Revolutions, he learnt
 (as himself asserted) this Truth, which pursuant to his Intention is here declared,

That all is Vanity which is not honest, and that there's no solid wisdom
 but in reall Piety.

Of five Sons and three Daughters, born to him from his most vertuous and excellent wife, Mary sole Daughter and Heiress of Sir Rich. Browne of Sayes
 Court near Deptford in Kent, onely one Daughter Susanna, married to William Draper Esq. of Ads-comb in this County, survived him, the two others dying in the Flower of their Age, and all the Sons very young, except one named John, who deceased 24 March 1698-9 in the 45 Year of his Age, leaving one Son John and one Daughter Elizabeth.

On a like tomb, at the head of the former,

MARY EVELYN,

The best Daughter, Wife, and Mother;

The most accomplish'd of Women,

Beloved, esteemed, admired,

and regretted by all that knew her,

is deposited in this Stone Coffin,

according to her own Desire as near as could be to her dear Husband

John Evelyn,

with whom she lived almost threescore Years, and surviv'd not quite three, dying

at London the 9 of Feb. 1708-9, in the 74th Year of her Age.

Add to the works of this excellent man and useful writer,

*Locorum aliquot insignium et celeberrimorum inter Romam et Neapolin jacentium 'ὑποδείξεις et Exemplaria. Domino Domo Thomæ Henshaw,
 Anglo, omnium eximiarum et præclarissimarum Artium Cultori, ac Propugnatori maximo, et συννοημένῳ ἀντὶ (non propter Operis Pretium, sed ut singulare Amoris sui Testimonium exhibeat) primas has ἀδοξασίας Aqua Forti cæcusas et insculptas Jo. Evelynus Delincator, D. D. C. Q. (R.*

⁶ [Treasurer of Greenwich hospital; appointed by king William III. Aubrey's Natural Hist. and Antiq. of Surrey, iv, 118.]

Hoare excud.) This, which was Evelyn's first performance, contains five etchings of places between Rome and Naples, done by Evelyn at Paris in 1649. It is very rare. He also etched a view of his own seat at Wotton and another of Putney in Surrey.

A Character of England, as it was lately presented in a Letter to a Nobleman of France; with Reflections upon Gallus castratus. Lond. 1651, 1659, 3d edit.

The State of France. Lond. 1652, 8vo.

The late News, or Message from Brussels unmasked. Lond. 1659, 4to.

The Manner of the Encounter between the French and Spanish Ambassadors, at the Landing of the Swedish Ambassador. 1660. Printed in a note in the Biographia Britannica v, 613, ed. Kippis.

Tyrannus: or the Mode. In a Discourse of Sumptuary Laws. Lond. 1661, 8vo.

Μυστήριον τῆς Ἀνομιᾶς, that is another Part of the Mystery of Jerusalem; or the new Heresy of the Jesuits, publicly maintained at Paris in the Collège of Clermont, the 12th of December 1661, declared to all the Bishops of France, according to the Copy printed at Paris: Together with the imaginary Heresy, in 3 Letters, with divers other Particulars relating to this abominable Mystery. Never before published in English. Lond. 1664, 8vo.

Mundus Muliebris; or the Ladies Dressing-Room unlock'd, and her Toilette spread. In burlesque. Together with the Pop Dictionary, compiled for the Use of the Fair Sex. Lond. 1690, 4to.

Monsieur De la Quintinye's Treatise of Orange-Trees, with the raising of Melons, made English by John Evelyn Esq. Pr. at the end of M. de la Quintinye's Compleat Gardener, Lond. 1693, fol.

Numismata: a Discourse of Medals, ancient and modern: Together with some Account of Heads and Effigies of illustrious and famous Persons, in Sculps and Taille-Douce, of whom we have no Medals extant; and of the Use to be derived from them: To which is added, a Digression concerning Physiognomy. Lond. 1697, fol.

Acetaria: A Discourse of Sallets, by J. E. S. R. S. Another of the Kalendarium. Lond. 1699, 8vo.

Letter to Mr. Aubrey, on his Natural History of Surrey, dated Feb. 8, 1675-6. Printed in the first vol. of that work, Lond. 1719, 8vo.

To these may be subjoined the following unpublished pieces:

A general History of all Trades.

Five Treatises, containing a full View of the several Arts of Painting in Oil, Painting in Miniature, Anealing in Glass, Enamelling and making Marble Paper.

There are several engraved portraits of Evelyn, the best of which are,

1. By R. Gaywood 1654.

2. R. Nanteuil.

3. T. Worlidge.

4. F. Bartolozzi.]

"EDMUND ELYS, son of a father of both his names by his wife Ursula, the daughter of Joh. Carew of Hacombe in Devonshire esq; (of a right antient and worthy family) was born at Hacombe, fitted for the university at Exeter, under Mr. Will. Hayter, sometime of Exeter coll. became a com. of Bal. col. in Lent term 1651, admitted probationer fellow of the said house, in the room of Mr. Tho. Careles, on the 29th of Nov. 1655, he being then bach. of arts, and after he had proceeded in that faculty he resigned his fellowship, on the 1st of Nov. 1659, in which year he succeeded his father in the rectory of East Allington in Devonshire, by the presentation of sir Edm. Fortescue bart. sometime fellow com. of the said coll. where continuing in good repute for his learning, and zeal for the church of England, till after king Will. III. came to the crown, was then deprived of it for refusing the oaths then appointed by the parliament for all persons that enjoyed places of trust to take. Afterwards retiring to Totness, lives now there (1693) in a studious and retired condition. He hath published

"Diva Poemata. Poetic Feet standing on holy Ground, &c. Lond. 1655. oct."

"Divine Poems, with a short Description of Christian Magnanimity. Oxon. 1658. oct."

"Miscellanea.—Oxon. 1658. oct. there again 1662. qu. They consist of orations, meditations, English and Latin verses, with his picture before the title.

"The quiet Soul; or the Peace and Tranquility of a Christian Estate. Two Sermons on Matth. 11. 29. Oxon. 1659. qu.

"The Opinion of Mr. Will. Perkins, and Mr. Rob. Bolton and others, concerning the Sport of Cockfighting. Oxon. 1660. in 2 sh. and an half in qu. In this book is a letter of sir Edm. Fortescue to the same purpose.

"Anglia Rediviva, Poema. Oxon. 1662. in two sh. in fol.

"Epistola ad Authorem Dissertationis cujusdam Sophistica, cui Titulus, Falth vindicated, &c.

"gregium istius Errorem redarguens, nempe Fidei Christianæ Certitudinem non provenire ab ipsa Voluntatis sancta Dispositione. Lond. 1668.

"qu.

"An Exclamation to all those that love the Lord Jesus in Sincerity, against an Apology written by an ingenious Person (Mr. Tho. Sprat) for

"Mr. Ab. Cowley's lascivious and profane Verses.

"—Lond. in qu.

"Amicitia, seu Explicatio quatuor istorum Pythagoræ Carminum τῶν δ' ἄλλων, &c.

"Amor Dei Lux Anima.

[944]

"Tentamen Theologicum de Fidei Christianæ Certitudine.—Lond. 1670. qu.

"Excerpta quadam è Libro Theologi eximii Thomæ Jacksoni cui Tit. A Treatise of the divine Essence and Attributes, quæ Sententiam suam, ac Catholicam Heresi Vorstianæ oppositam elucidant & confirmant. Lond. 1672. oct.

"Omnes qui audiunt Evangelium, idq; verum agnoscunt, sunt Gratiæ & Salutis capaces. Thesis in celeberrimâ Academiâ Oxon Explicata 13 Junii 1662. Lond. 1677. oct.

"Animadversiones in Aliqua Jansenii, atque etiam Calvinii Dogmata, Veritati prædictæ adversa. This is printed with the next book going before.

"Letter to Dr. Lew. Dumoulin, containing a charitable Reproof for his schismatical Book entit. A short and true Account of the several Advances of the Church of England towards Rome, &c. To which are added some seasonable Words to Mr. Baxter. Lond. 1680. in 4 sh. in fol.

"Epistola ad Sam. Parkerum S. T. P. Lond. 1680. oct. 'Tis concerning the book of Anton Le Grand. entit. Apologia pro Renato Des-Cartes. Lond. 1679. oct.

"Epistola ad Authorem Libelli cujusd. cui Tit. Dr. Stillingsfleet against Dr. Stillingsfleet.

"Breviuscula Parænesis, ad Authorem Celusmatis, seu Clamoris ad Theologos.—These two last things are printed with Epist. ad Sam. Parkerum.

"Summum Bonum: seu vera atque unica Beatitude Hominibus per Christum communicanda, sex Dissertationibus aliquatenus explicata. Lond. 1681. oct. Before which is an epistle of commendation written by Dr. Walt. Charlton.

"His Vindication of Himself for reading his Maj. late Declaration.—Lond. 1688. half a sh. in fol.

"Animadversions upon some Passages in a Book entit. The true Nature of a Gospel Church and its Government. Lond. 1690. in one sh. in oct. The said book which was animadverted upon, was written by Dr. John Owen.

"Dominus est Deus. Gloria æterna D. nostri Jesu Christi vindicata contra egregiam Errorum Farraginem, quæ inscribitur, Catechesis Ecclesiarum Polonicarum. Oxon. 1690. in one sh. in oct.

"Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ Filii Collatio cum doctiss. Viro, J. S.⁷ de Fidei Christianæ Certitudine. Oxon. 1690. oct.

"Epistola ad Scholasticos Oxonienses, qui se Membra Ecclesiæ Romanæ profitentur, 1688.

"Breviuscula Dissertatio de Oratione Dominica. These two last things were printed with Eccles. Angl. fil. Col. and all three make but two sh. in oct.

"A Vindication of the Honour of King Charles I. against the prodigious Calumnies of the Regicide Edm. Ludlow, published in what he calls A Letter from Major Gen. Ludlow to Sir E. S. &c. Oxon. 1691. in one sh. in oct.

"An earnest Call to the People of England to beware of the Temptations of the Regicide Ludlow, to correct the Guilt of the Murther of King Charles I. by a Conceit, that the shedding of that Royal Blood was no Murther, but an Act of Justice. Oxon. 1692. in one sh. and an half in oct.

"Reflections upon several Passages in a Book entit. The Reasonableness of a personal Reformation, and the Necessity of Conversion. Ox. 1692. in 1 sh. in oct. At the end of which is Mr. Elys his Letter to Mr. Joh. Galpine concerning his printed Encomium of Joh. Flavcl.

"Refutation of the Brief Notes on the Creed of St. Athanasius. To which is added an Animadversion upon the Postscript of an Anonymous Letter lately sent to the Author. Oxon. 1692. in 1 sh. and an half in oct.

"The Letter torn in Pieces: or a full Confutation of Ludlow's Suggestions, that King Charles I. was an Enemy to the State. Lond. 1692. in one sh. in qu.

"Dei incarnati Vindicia, contra varias execrabilis Hæretici Fausti Socini Blasphemias ac perniciosissimas Hallucinationes. Lond. 1693. in 4 sh. or more in qu.

"Reflections on some scandalous Passages in the Sermons (lately published⁸) concerning the Divinity, and Incarnation of Our blessed Saviour. Lond. 1693.

"Letters, Discourses, Epitaphs.—One of the said letters is written to Dr. Sherlock dean of St. Paul's, another to Mr. Rich. Bentley. The said Letters, Discourses, &c. are printed with Letters on several Subjects written by Dr. Hen. More (to Mr. Edm. Elys) with several other Letters. Lond. 1694. oct. In the said book are printed several letters of Dr. Tho. Pierce dean of Salisbury written to Mr. E. Elys, one from Dr. Barlow B. of Lincoln, and another or more from Dr. Rob. Sharrock, &c.

"Letter to the Author of a Book entit. Considerations on the Explication of the Doctrine of the Trinity. Oxon. in half a sh. in qu. 1694.

[His living was under sequestration and he forced to abscond about London in 1677, 8 and 9. In the King's Bench and other prisons 1680. Letters to archbishop Sancroft to borrow money or beg. TANNER.

'I have been lately at Shottesbrook, where Mr. Dodwell presented me with a printed Letter to Dr. Kennet concerning some of a fals Conceits that have been published by Dr. Wake subscribed 'your servant in the love of all truth and justice, Edmund Elys.' I remember to have received such a letter dated I think from Totnes about 18 months agoe, I neglected an answer because indeed I thought the writer non compos of it, and for that reason it seems, it is now printed in half a sheet, which perhaps I had never seen but from Dr. Dodwell.' Extract from an original letter from White Kennet to Dr. Charlett, dated Lond. Octob. 3, 1702. MS. Ballard, vii, 56.

⁷ [John Sergeant. LOVEDAY.]

⁸ [By Tillotson.]

Add to his works

The 2d Epistle to the truly religious and loyal Gentry of the Church of England, 1687, 4to.

Vindiciæ quorundam Roberti Barclaii Poematum, contra aliq. Argumentationes in eo Libro, cui Titulus est Anti Barclaius, ubi reperitur Illucidatio Veritatis de immediata et interna Revelatione, de Scripturis, de universali Redemptione. A Vindication of some Sentiments of Robert Barclay against the Arguments of a Book entituled Anti Barclaius, wherein the Truth of immediate and inward Revelation, of the Scriptures, of universal Redemption is but further explained. Lond. 1693, 4to. Dedicated, in two columnes, Lat. and Engl. to the worthy John Norris.

Three Letters to the Author of a Book entituled The Lords Day vindicated, or the first Day of the Week the Christian Sabbath, together with Animadversions on a railing Pamphlet entituled the Sauciness of a Seducer rebuked, or the Pride and Folly of an ignorant Scribbler made manifest. Lond. 1694, 4to.

Refutatio Erroris execrabilis Symbolum Nicænum impugnantis qui occurrit in fullaci isto Libello cui Titulus est Animadversions on Mr. Hill's Book. 1696. 4to.

A Letter to the honourable Sir Robert Howard, together with some Animadversions upon a Book entituled Christianity not mysterious. Lond. 1696. 8vo.

A Refutation of some of the false Conceits in Mr. Locke's Essay concerning Human Understanding, together with a brief Answer (in Latine) to the Arguments of Gerardus de Vries against the innate Idea of a God. Lond. 1697, 8vo. reprinted 1700, 8vo.

Letter to the Author of a virulent Libel. Lond. 1697, 4to.

Joannis Miltoni Sententiæ Potestati Regiæ adversantis Refutatio, cui annexæ sunt Animadversiones in execrabilem Libellum cui Titulus est Joannis Miltoni Angli Defensio secunda, contra infamem Libellum anonymum, cui Titulus Regii Sanguinis Clamor ad Cælum, adversus Parricidas Anglicanos. Lond. 1699. 8vo.

Verses written upon several Occasions. Exon. 1699. 8vo.⁹

Animadversiones in Sententiam Crellianam de Satisfactione Christi. Lond. 1699. 8vo.

⁹ [Pag. 14. 'Nov. 1698. In summum mortis subito casu oppetendæ periculum, equo, quo vehabatur, inter duos boves

Reflections upon a Passage concerning the Light within, against George Keith. Lond. 1699, 4to.

Reflections on some Passages in a Book entit. a Defence of the Snake in the Grass. Lond. 1700.

Parænesis ad Presbyterianos in Regno Scotia cui accesserunt Animadversiones in Thesin Fulmaniensem et L. Danaï Sententiam de Episcopi et Presbyteri Discrimine. Lond. 1700, 8vo.

In a book entit. Observations on several Books, Lond. 1700, 8vo. 1. A Letter to Mr. Locke, never answer'd. 2. An Answer to six Arguments produced by Dupin to prove that Passage in Josephus (in which there is such honourable Mention of Jesus Christ) to be spurious, together with some Reflections on a Passage in Cornelius Tacitus, and another in one of Pliny's Epistles concerning the Christian Religion, in a Letter to Mr. C. G.

Socinianismus purus Putus Antichristianismus: seu omnimodæ Socinianismi Iniquitatis Demonstratio. Lond. 1701, 8vo.

To all Persons in the Kingdom of Scotland who acknowledge the divine Right of Episcopacy, Jan. 18, 1703, a half sheet.

Two Letters to a Nobleman concerning the Passing of a Bill in Favour of the Kirk of Scotland, July 19, 1703, Jan. 15, 1703-4.

Reflections on an Exposition of the XXXIX Articles by Gilbert Burnet, Bishop of Sarum. Lond. 1704, 4to.

The Sum and Substance of a Latine Tract entituled Parænesis ad Presbyterianos in Regno Scotia: An affectionate Exhortation to the Presbyterians in Scotland to consider the Arguments that are produc'd to demonstrate the divine Right of Episcopacy. 1705. 4to.

Sacri Ordinis Episcopalis Vindiciæ contra cl. Salmasium. 1705. 4to.

A Letter to the Rev. Dr. John Edwards in Vindication of that excellent Book entituled The whole Duty of Man, against his unjust Censure. Aug. 16, 1705.

Animadversiones in aliqua Zanchii, Polani, et Scharpii Dogmata de Prædestinatione. Lond. 1706, 8vo.

Animadversiones in aliqua Gianserii, Gulielmi Twissi, Richardi Baxteri et Gerardi de Vries Dogmata quæ Doctrinæ Evangelicæ de Benevolentia divina Hominibus per Christum exhibita advertantur. Lond. 1706, 8vo.

Animadversiones in aliqua Johannis Cameronis Dogmata, quæ occurrunt in eo Libro cui Titulus est Amica Collatio de Gratia et Voluntatis humanæ Concussu in Vocatione et quibusdam annexis, instituta inter Dom. Danielelem Tilenum et Dom. Johannem Cameronem. Lond. 1706. 8vo.

conjugatos se ferociter gestante, ferocientibus etiam istis bovis: quo periculo involutus, alta voce Deum invocavit, et divino auxilio evasit, læso solummodo pede sinistro, ferrea catena quæ bovis erat alligata ei pedi frequentius ineussa, dum equo ac bovis calcitrantibus huc illic fuerit agitata. RAWLINSON.]

A Letter to his Grace the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury, together with a severe Reflection upon a Passage in a Book entitled The Authority of Christian Princes over their Ecclesiastical Synods asserted.

Edmund Elys his Complaint against the Bishop of Salisbury. A half sheet.

Edm. Elys his Address to the Bishop of Salisbury.

An Address to the Queen's most excellent Majesty against the Bishop of Salisbury.

Petri Daniclis Huctii Examinis Argumentationis Cartesianæ de Existentia Dei Examen. Lond. 8vo.

Part of a Letter to a learned Gentleman concerning the Fundamentals of Christianity. A broad half-sheet.

Complaint against Titus Oates.

Letter concerning Toleration.]

[945]

¹⁰ "WILLIAM BEACH, son of Rob. Beach of Steple Ashton in Wilts gent. became a com. of Trin. coll. in the latter end of 1661.—admitted bach. of arts 10 Apr. 1665.—Afterwards of Bal. coll. mast. of arts 10 Mar. 1667, as a member of Bal. coll. in which coll. he was allow'd a fellowship which he resign'd in 1671.—Afterwards was beneficed at one of the Orcheston's in Wilts. became bach. and doct. of div. 11 Jul. 1685, a compounder—Refused the oaths to king William III. and queen Mary, and therefore ejected from his living, or at least should be at Candlemas day" (1689). He is said to be the author of,

Reflections upon A Letter out of the Country to a Member of this present Parliament: occasion'd by a late Letter to a Member of the House of Commons, concerning the Bishops lately in the Tower, and now under Suspension.—Printed in one large sheet in qu. with double columns, in Jan. 1689, and subscribed by A. Z. The beginning is, 'Sir I am a great admirer of your writings,' &c. The Letter out of the Country on which the said Reflections are made, he takes to have been written by Dr. Gilb. Burnet bishop of Salisbury, and falls foul and abusive on him.—

"RICHARD CLARIDGE, son of Will. Claridge of Warmington in Warwickshire, became a student of Bal. coll. in Mich. term 1666, aged 16 years, adm. bach. of arts 14 June 1670, being then of St. Mary's hall, had a cure in the country, admitted M. of A. as a member of St. Mary's

¹⁰ [A full account of all the writers, from this place, will be found in the Continuation to these Athenæ under the respective year in which each person died, provided his decease took place subsequently to the year 1700. This plan has been recommended and is adopted in order to retain the chronological arrangement originally followed by Wood.]

¹ [Feb. 21, 1661-2.]

² [The day of deprivation was Feb. 1, 1689-90. LOVE-DAY.]

"hall 22 Feb. 1676, rector of Peopleton in Worcestershire.³ He afterwards turn'd an independent, and in 1692 open'd a meeting-house in Oxford for persons of that persuasion. He has wrote,

"A Looking-Glass for Religious Princes: or the Character and Work of Josiah, delivered in a Sermon on 2 Kings 23, 25. Lond. 1692. qu. The substance of it was preach'd at Pershore in Worcestershire 5 Apr. 1691.⁴

"CHARLES D'AVENANT, eldest son of sir Will. D'av. the poet, was born in Lond. or Westm. educated in grammar learning at Cheame in Surrey under Mr. George Aldrich of Cambridge, became fellow com. of Bal. coll. in Midsummer term 1671, aged 15 years, left it without a degree. At length going to Cambridge, or to Dublin, obtained by favour and money the degree of doctor of the civil law, and since practised at doctors commons. In 1685, he was elected Burgess for St. Ives in Cornwall to sit in that parliament that met at Westm. 19 of May the same year, being the first of king James II. and was about that time, as I conceive, jointly impower'd with the master of the revels to inspect the plays design'd for the stage, that no immoralities be presented. He wrote,

"Circe, a Tragedy. Lond. 1677 qu. The prologue to it was written by Jo. Dryden the poet laureat, and the epilogue by the hon. John Wilmot earl of Rochester, and the songs in it were printed by themselves in two sh. in qu. in the same year.

"An Essay upon Ways and Means of supplying the War. Lond. 1695. oct. published about the beg. of Dec. 1694.

"THEOPHILUS DOWNES, son of John Downes of Pursley in Shropshire gent. became a com. of Bal. coll. in the latter end of 1672, aged 15 years, bach. of arts 17 Oct. 1676, master of arts 10 Jul. 1679, fellow of Bal. coll.—ejected for not taking the oaths to king William and queen Mary 1690. travelled beyond the seas in 1692, and wrote

"An Answer to A Call to Humiliation, &c. Or,

³ [Anne, wife of Claridge, and a son named Richard, were buried at Upton Snodsbury, near Peopleton in 1676.]

⁴ [A Looking Glass for religious Princes: or the Character and Work of Josiah, delivered in a Sermon upon 2 Kings 23, Ver. 25. The Substance whereof was preached April 5, 1691 at Pershore in Worcestershire, wherein they may see that those Princes are only eminent in the Sight of God, who are truly religious, and turn to the Lord with all their Heart. That there is more required of such Princes than their own private Assent and Consent to the true Religion: That religious Princes cannot be capable of a greater Honour in this World than to be the Instruments of a godly Reformation among their Subjects: And, that the Word of God alone is the Rule to which both they and their People must attend in all Matters relating to Religion. Lond. 1691, 4to. RAWLINSON.]

"a Vindication of the Church of England from
"the Reproaches and Objections of Will. Wood-
"ward, in two Fast Sermons preached in his Con-
"venticle at Lemster in the County of Hereford,
"and afterwards published by him. Lond. 1690.

"qu.

"An Examination of Dr. Will. Sherlock's Ar"guments from Scripture and Reason in his Case
"of Allegiance.—

"The Nature of Allegiance. [Lond. 1691, 4to.]

[946]

"WRITERS OF MERTON COLLEGE.

"EDMUND DICKINSON, son of Will.
"Dickinson sometime fellow of Merton coll. after"wards rector of Appleton near to Abingdon in "Berkshire, son of Thom. Dick. formerly cook of "Eaton coll. near Windsor, was born at Appleton
"before-mention'd, educated in gram. learning in
"Eaton school, became one of the Eaton post-
"masters of Mert. coll. in the beginning of the year
"1642, aged 16 years, took one degree in arts, and "then with leave from the visitors, was, with 5
"other bachelors, legally elected prob. fellow of the "said house, an. 1648. The next year he was ad"mitted master of arts, entred upon the physic
"line, and in 1656 he took the degrees in that fa"culty, being then a practitioner thereof in these "parts. Afterwards the warden and fellows of "Merton coll. confer'd on him the superior reader's
"place of Lynacre's lectures, which he kept for "some years, and about that time spent much labour
"and money in the art of chymistry, kept an "operator, and gave out to his acquaintance, that "he would publish a book thereof, but as yet there "is nothing of that nature made extant by him. At "length after he had spent near 20 years in the "practice of physic in these parts; he removed to
"Westminster, became one of the coll. of physicians
"in London, and physician to his majesty's hous-
"hold at Whitehall, in 1684, and is now living
"1693. He hath publish'd,

"Delphi Phœnicizantes. Sive Tractatus, in
"quo Græcos, quicquid apud Delphos celebre erat
"(seu Pythonis & Apollinis Historiam, seu Pæa-
"nica Certamina, & Præmia, &c.) è Josue Histo-
"riâ, Scriptisq; sacris effinxisse Rationibus haud
"inconcinnis ostenditur, &c. Oxon. 1655. Roterd.
"1691, oct. This book is much valued by fo-
"reigners, and they speak very honourably of it,
"and its author.

"Diatriba de Noë in Italiam Adventu, ejusq;
"Nominibus Ethnicis.

"De Origine Druidum.

"Oratiuncula pro Philosophiâ liberandâ. Spoken
"in the public refectory of Merton coll. when he,
"according to the statute of that house, varied

"[The real author it seems was Henry Jacob. See vol.
iii, col. 331.]

"from the mind of Aristotle 10 Jul. 1653. These "three last things were printed, and go with Delphi
"Phœnicizantes, &c. an. 1655, and 1691, in which
"last year they were published at Rotterdam by "Tho. Crenius. Doctor Dickinson hath also

"written,

"Epistola ad Theodorum Mundanum Philo-
"sophum adeptum de quintessentia Philosophorum,
"& de vera Physiologia, una cum Questionibus
"aliquot de Secreta Materia Physica. Lond. 1686.
"The Answer of Mundanus is printed with it.

"EDWARD HINTON, son of a father of "both his names, doct. of div. and rector of Islip
"in Oxfordshire, was born in Surrey, at Maldon
"alias Meandon, as it seems, became a portionist
"of Merton coll. 1658, aged 17 years or there-
"abouts, took one degree in arts, and then trans-
"lating himself to St. Alban's hall, took the degree "of master as a member thereof, an. 1655. After"wards he became master of the free-school at "Witney in Oxfordshire, founded by Hen. Box a "druggist of London, continued there with good
"liking till 1684, in which year resigning that office,
"he went to Ireland, taught at Kilkenny, and at
"Dublin had the degree of doct. of div. confer'd on "him.

"He hath translated from Greek into English,
"The Apophthegms or remarkable Sayings of
"Kings and great Commanders, &c. Lond. 1684,
"in the first vol. of Plutarch's Morals, printed in
"oct.

"SAMUEL LEIGH, son of a father of both
"his names of Boston in Lincolnshire, esq; was
"entred a commoner of Merton coll. in Mich. term
"1660, aged 25 years, about which time he wrote
"a book entit.

"Samuelis Primitiæ: or, an Essay towards a
"metrical Version of the whole Book of Psalms—
"Lond. 1661. oct. This book, which hath his "picture before it, was composed by him, when at"tended with the disadvantageous circumstances of "youth and sickness. It is dedicated to his father-
"in-law Charles Potts, esq; son to sir Joh. Potts
"knt. and bart. who a little before had married his "mother Anne Leigh. Before this translation went "to the press, it was perused by one of the chief of "the presbyterian party called Tho. Manton D. D.
"who gave his mind of it thus—"I cannot but "admire it, that a gent. so young, and who hath "not yet passed the trivial school, should take off
"his mind from childish vanities, and engage in a
"work so grave and serious, and perform it with "such sharpness, is to me a wonder, and an hopeful
"presage, that in riper years, nothing but what is "excellent is to be expected from him."—Gabriel
"Sanger another noted presbyterian, who had
"perused the said version, tells us also, that he "cannot but highly commend the ingenuity and [947]

"diligence of the young gentleman, in this his undertaking; wherein appeareth such divine breathings, as are not ordinary in one of such tender years, and seem to be the first fruits of some further and larger achievements,' &c. To pass another grand encomium of the said version given by Joh. Turing of King's-street in Covent-Garden in Westminster, by way of epist. written to madam Anne Potts the translator's mother, I shall only say, that he left the university without a degree, retired to his patrimony, was living in 1686, but whether he hath written and translated other things, I cannot tell.

"THOMAS ALVEY a merchant's son of Lond. became postmaster of Mert. coll. in 1660. 61. art. bac. 11 Nov. 1662, prob. fell. of Mert. coll. in Jan. 1663—M. A. 14 May 1667, entred upon the phys. line, bach. of phys. 22 June 1669, Dr. of phys. 1 Jul. 1671, of the coll. of physicians, occurs censor thereof in 1683. His writings see in the FASTI of this vol. under the year 1671.

"HUMPHREY RIDLEY, son of Thom. Ridley of Mansfield in Nottinghamshire, became a student of Merton coll. in act term 1671, aged 18 years, at which time, or soon after, he was taken into the service of Dr. Rich. Trevor fellow of that coll. and ply'd the fiddle as much as the book. But leaving the university without a degree, he went to Cambridge, where (as I have heard) he was doctorated in physie. Afterwards going to London and practising physie there, became fellow of the coll. of physicians, and wrote,

"The Anatomy of the Brain, containing its Mechanism and Physiology: together with some new Discoveries and Corrections of antient and modern Authors upon that Subject. Lond. 1695. oct.

"A particular Account of animal Functions and muscular Motion.—Both these tracts which were published about the beginning of Dec. 1694, were dedicated to Dr. Joh. Lawson president of the coll. of physicians.

"ROBERT WHITEHALL, son of Rich. Whitehall, was born at Stanton Harcourt in coun. Ox. became a com. of New inn in the latter end of 1677 aged 14, afterwards by the favour of his uncle Mr. Rob. Whitehall, postmaster of Merton coll. 1679, art. bac. 24 Oct. 1682, art. mag. 11 Dec. 1684, went afterwards to New inn, took pupils, was curate at Stanton Harcourt, and afterwards became vice-principal of St. Mary's hall, and a tutor there. He hath printed,

"A Sermon concerning Edification in Faith and Discipline, preached before the Univ. of Oxon, 1 Sept. 1689, on 1 Cor. 14. Part of the 26th and last Verse. Oxon 1694. qu.

"WILLIAM COWARD, born in the city of Winchester, son of a father of both his names, by his wife.....sister of Dr. John Lamphire, became a com. of Hart hall in the month of May 1674, aged 18, admitted scholar of Wadh. coll. in the year following, adm. B. A. 27 Jun. 1677. adm. probat. fell. of Mert. coll. in Jan. 1679. master of arts 13 Dec. 1683. bach. of phys. 23 June 1685, Dr. of phys. 2 Jul. 1687, practised physie at Northampton, and afterwards in 93, 94, in Lombard-street in London. He hath wrote,

"De Fermento volatili Nutritio conjectura Rationis, qua ostenditur Spiritum volatilem Oleosum, & Sanguine suffusum, esse verum ac genuinum Concoctionis ac Nutritionis Instrumentum, &c. Lond. 1695. oct. He hath translated into Latin heroic verse the English poem called, Absalom and Achitophel. Oxon. 1682. in 5 sh. in qu. written by Joh. Dryden esq; poet laureat to king Charles II. Mr. Coward being school'd for it in the coll. and his poem not being taken in the university, the title of it was caused by Tho. Word of New coll. to be put in Thompson's Intelligence of the 13th of June 1682, as to have been written by Walt. Curle, of Hartford, gent. The translation of the said poem done by Franc. Atterbury and Franc. Hickman of Ch. Ch. was extol'd more than that of Coward.

"THOMAS LANE, son of Francis Lane of Glendon in Northamptonshire gent. of a genteel family in that county, educated in St. John's coll. in Cambridge till he was bach. of arts, retired afterwards to Oxon, became a com. of Ch. Ch. was incorporated bach. of arts 10 Oct. 1678, and by the endeavours of Mr. Will. Bernard of Mert. coll. he was elected and admitted prob. fellow of that house 1680; master of arts 13 Dec. 1683; bac. and Dr. of law 8 Jul. 1686. In Jan. 1687. (temp. Jac. 2.) the report was then that he was turned papist, was secretary to the earl of Carlisle ambassador into Hungary, to congratulate the coronation of the king there. In 1689 he was with king James II. in Ireland, was wounded and taken prisoner at the fight of Boyne in the year following, and kept for some time at Dublin. About 2 or 3 days before Easter in 169... he returned to his coll. and esteemed that place a comfortable harbour, of which before, by too much ease and plenty, he was weary and sick. Lives now (1694) at doctors commons, and is an advocate there. He had a hand in the Atlas which was published by Moses Pitt of London bookseller. He translated into English, The Life of Epaminondas, written in Lat. originally by Cornel. Nepos, Ox. 1684. oct.

"MARTIN HARTOP became commoner of Mert. coll. from Cambridge in 1680, admitted bac. of arts 26 Feb. 1683, admitted prob. fellow

" of the said coll. in the very beg. of Oct. 1684,
 " M. A. 19 June 1688, bach. of phys. 21 Nov.
 " 1689, travelled beyond the seas into Italy, went " to Leicester 1695 to practise physic there. He is
 " author of,

" A Letter from Naples to the Publisher of the " Philosophical Transactions: Together with an " Account of the late Earthquake in Sicily. This " is in the Philos. Transact. for the months of " July and August an. 1693, numb. 202, written
 " by Rich. Waller esq; fellow and secretary of the " royal society.

" EDWARD WELSHMAN, son of John
 " Welshman of Banbury in Oxfordshire, became a
 " com. of Magd. hall in midsummer or act term,
 " an. 1679, aged 14 years, adm. bac. of arts 24
 " Apr. 1683, adm. prob. fellow of Mert. coll. 1684,
 " adm. mast. of arts 19 June 1688. entred into holy
 " orders, and by the society of Mert. coll. was pre" sented to the rectory of Lapworth on the death
 " of Mr. Will. Cole. He hath wrote,

" A Defence of the Church of England from the " Charge of Schism and Heresy, as laid against it,
" by the Vindicator of the depriv'd Bishops (Mr.
 " Hen. Dodwell) Lond. 1692. qu.

" The Husbandman's Manual: directing him
" how to improve the several Actions of his Calling,
" and the most usual Occurrences of his Life, to the " Glory of God, and Benefit of his Soul. Lond.
 " 1695 in 7 sh. and half in oct. It was written for " the use of his parishioners of Lapworth in War-
 " wicksh. and was published the beginning of Oct.
 " 1694.

" WILLIAM NICHOLLS, son of Joh. Nich.
 " of Donington in Bucks, became a bachelor or com-
 " moner of Magd. hall in the latter end of the year
 " 1679, aged 15 years, translated afterwards to " Wadham coll. and as a member thereof took the " degree of bach. of arts 27 Nov. 1683. In the " very beginning of Oct. 1684 he was admitted
 " probationer fellow of Mert. coll. on the 19th of " June 1688 he was admitted master, and about
 " that time taking holy orders, he became chaplain
 " to Ralph earl of Mountague, and in Sept. 1691
 " rector of Selsey near Chichester in Sussex. In the " beginning of July 1692 he was admitted bach. of " div. He hath wrote,

" An Answer to an heretical Book called The
" naked Gospel, which was condemn'd and ordered " to be publickly burnt by the Convocation of the " University of Oxon, 19 Aug. 1690, with some " Reflections on Dr. Bury's new Edition of that " Book. Lond. 1691. qu.

" A short History of Socinianism. This is " printed with the Answer before-mention'd, and
 " both by an epist. dedicated to his patron; in " which that sir Ralph Winwood grandfather (by " the mother) to Ralph earl of Mountague made a
 Vol. IV.

" remonstrance and protestation against Vorstius
 " the Socinian's accession to the professorship of " Leyden. See in The History of Great Britain,
 " written by Arth. Wilson esq; Lond. 1653. p.
 " 120, 121, &c. Mr. Nicholls hath also written,
 " An Essay on the Contempt of the World, shew-
" ing first the Mistakes of Men concerning it,
" arising from Censoriousness, Ill-nature, Sickness,
" and Discontent. Secondly in what a due Con" tempt of the World consists. Thirdly the Reasons
" why we should condemn it. Lond. 1694. oct.

" EDWARD SOUTHWELL, son of sir Rob.
 " Southwell knt. sometime one of the clerks of the " privy council to king Charles II. was born in the " parish of St. Martin's in the fields, within the " city of Westminster, tutor'd in his father's house
 " under a private master till he went to Mert. coll.
 " of which he was gent. com. under the tuition of " Dr. Tho. Lane, about the beginning of king Jam.
 " II. Afterwards he travelled, returned an accom-
 " plish'd person, and by those that knew him ac-
 " counted doctissimus juvenis, and to have in him
 " all the consummate morals mention'd in the book
 " following which he Englished. On the 30th of " March, 1693, he was by his majesty's command
 " sworn clerk of the council extraordinary. He " hath translated into English An Account of Vir- " tue: or, Dr. Hen. More's Abridgment of Morals.
 " Lond. 1690. oct. It is done so well, and the " style is so masculine and noble, that I know not " as yet any book written in better English, espe" cially if you consider that it was done by one that " was scarce 21 years of age.

" WILLIAM BURNABY, son of a father of " both his names gent. was born in the parish of
 " in London, became a com. of Mert. coll. in " the beginning of the year 1691, spent two years
 " there, went to the Mid. Temple, did English with " another hand, The Satyr of Titus Petronius
" Arbiter a Roman Knight with its Fragments
" recovered at Belgrade. Lond. 1694. oct. W.
 " Burnaby and none else dedicates it to Hen. earl " of Rumney. —

" BENJAMIN PRATT, son of Rob. Pratt
 " gent. entred into Merton coll. in Midsummer or " act term 1692, aged 15 years. He hath pub-
 " lish'd,
 " Persuasives from the Creature to a perfect
" Resignation of the Will to God. Lond. 1695. in " tw.

WRITERS OF EXETER COLLEGE.

" ARTHUR BURY, son of Joh. Bury of " Heavitree in Devonshire, was born in that county,
 " entred a student in Exeter coll. in Lent term

[950]

" 1638, aged 15 years, elected probationer fellow thereof in 1643, being then bach. of arts: Afterwards he proceeded in that faculty, took holy orders, and being ejected by the visitors appointed by the parliament an. 1648, retired to his native country, married, and became rector of Pockington in Somersetsh. After the restoration of king Charles II. he was made preb. of the cath. church at Exeter, and on the resignation of Dr. Joseph Maynard rector of the said coll. an. 1665, he being then one of the king's chaplains. In the next year he took the degrees in divinity, and soon after became one of the vicars of Brampton in Oxfordshire, being then accounted a good preacher and scholar. He was afterwards ejected from his rectory of Ex. coll. for writing a book containing several matters of Socinianism, as I shall tell you by and by, but soon after restored. He hath written,

" Several sermons, as (1) The Bow; or the Lamentation of David over Saul and Jonathan, applyed to the Royal and blessed Martyr K. Ch. I. preached on the 30th of Jan. on Sam. 1. 18. Lond. 1662. qu. (2) The Danger of delaying Repentance, preached to the University at St. Mary's Church in Oxon. on New Years-day 1691, on Exod. 4. 24, 25, 26. Lond. 1692. qu. (3) Not Fear but Love, preached before the Governors of the Charity for Relief of poor Widows and Orphans of Clergymen; on Rom. 10. 15. Lond. 1682. (4) Sermon preached at the Anniversary Meeting of the Sons of Clergy-men, at the Church of Mary-le-Bow, 7 Dec. 1682. on — added to the sec. edition of The constant Communicant.

" The constant Communicant: A Dialogue, proving that Constancy in receiving the Lord's Supper is the indispensable Duty of every Christian. Oxon. 1681. 1683. oct.

" The naked Gospel: discovering (1) What was the Gospel which our Lord and Apostles preach'd. (2) What Additions and Alterations later Ages have made of it. (3) What Advantages and Damages have thereupon ensued. Part the first, of Faith. Lond. 1690. qu. said in the title to be written by a true son of the church of England, and yet in p. 83. (that I may omit other circumstances) he expressly denies the doctrine of the church of England; to the truth whereof, he, at his ordination, had subscribed. This book was first made public in the beginning (in Apr.) of the same year: And tho' it is said in the title page to be printed at London, yet it was really printed at Oxon, by virtue of the author's authority, as being the pro-vice-chancellor. But before 20 copies of it had been dispersed, the author, by the persuasion of some of his friends, made certain alterations, for the best as he thought, in one or more sheets in the middle of the said book; and thereupon several copies so altered

" were exposed to sale. Yet in the month of May following, the remaining copies of the impression not alter'd, were dispers'd abroad. On the 26th of July next ensuing, Jonathan bishop of Exeter, visitor of Exeter coll. did for the publication of that book and other matters eject the author from his rectory of that coll. and thereby laying open a way for other miseries to follow on the learned author, certain masters of the universities, like valiant Sanchopanca's, endeavour'd to make his fall the greater, by subscribing to several petitions by them drawn up to be given to the vice-chancellor for further execution to be done, for the author's writing the said book. One of them was read before the vice-chancellor in the apodyterium on the 5th of August, at which time there being a congregation, the masters promoted it therein; but he being unwilling to proceed against the author or book barely upon that petition, another subscribed by about 60 masters was delivered in the said apod. by Mr. Jo. Beacham of Trin. coll. to the said vice chan. he being then about to enter the house of convocation. So that upon these their eager resolutions, there was a meeting of the heads of the houses on the 18th of the said month of Aug. who coming to a result what to do in the matter, there was assembled a full convocation the next day, wherein the doctors and masters passing their judgment and decree, that in the said book called The Naked Gospel were certain impious and heretical propositions repugnant to the chief mysteries of faith in the cath. church, especially in that of England; it was, after the dissolution of that convocation, publicly burnt in the school-quadrangle. About three days after the author of it dispersed in manuscript,

" An Apology for writing The Naked Gospel. — The beginning of which is, 'The design of this book, and the occasion of it were as followeth,' &c. He hath also written,

" An Account of the unhappy Affair which hath drawn such Clamours, as decry him, and his Assessors in behalf of one of the Fellows, who they say is injuriously, or at least too severely expelled—published in half a sheet of paper in double columns, in Feb. 1689. The fellow's name was Mr. Jam. Colmer bach. of phys. who was expelled for having a bastard: And the Account &c. was answer'd by Jam. Harrington of Ch. Ch. in his Vindication of Mr. Jam. Colmer, &c. Dr. Bury hath also written,

" The Account examined: or a Vindication of Dr. Arth. Bury &c. Lond. 1690 in 5. sh. in qu. This pamphlet (which was published in Octob. the same year) was to vindicate himself from the calumnies, as he saith, of a pamphlet entit. An Account of the Proceedings of Jonathan Bishop of Exeter in his late Visitation of Exeter Coll. in Oxf. written by the said Jam. Harrington, who also answer'd this Account examined, &c. in his

[951]

" Vindication of Mr. Jam. Colmer, &c. and in his Defence of the Proceedings of the Visitor and Fellows of Exeter Coll. in Ox. which was published in qu. on the 12th of May 1691. Dr. Bury hath also written

" The Case of Exeter Coll. in the Univ. of Oxon related and vindicated. Lond. 1691. in 10 sh. and an half in qu. This pamphlet, which was published in Januar. 1690, was also answer'd by the said Mr. Harrington in his said Vindication of Mr. Colmer, and Defence of the Proceedings, &c. But it is thought by others, that this Case was written by Joseph Washington of the Temple, esq;

" The Doctrine of the holy Trinity placed in its due Light, by an Answer to a late Book entit. Animadversions upon Dr. Sherlock's Book, &c. Lond. 1694. qu. (Nov. 1693.)

" The Doctrine of the Incarnation of our Lord asserted and explain'd. All in 8 sh. and half.

" THOMAS LONG, son of Rich. Long, was born in the parish of St. Laurence within the city of Exeter, became a servitor in Exeter coll. under the tuition of Mr. Rich. Newte fellow thereof (afterwards double-vicar of Tiverton in Devon.) in Lent term 1638, aged 17 years, took the degree of bach. of arts in 1642: At which time the city of Oxon being garrison'd for the use of his majesty king Charles I. he left the university, retired to his own country, and became vicar of St. Laurence Clist near Exeter. After the restoration of king Charles II. he was by virtue of his letters actually created bach. of div. and soon after was made preb. of Exeter. He was a person well read in the fathers, Jewish and other antient writings, and much conversant with the works of the more modern authors, as having been well skill'd in the writings of the several sorts of English separatists, especially of the presbyterians; the great danger and destructiveness of their rebellious principles and practices (reducing them into faithful historical narratives from their first origin and source quite down to these times) few, if any, have fully and truly represented in their proper colours, fairly examined or more clearly refuted and set out. He hath also undergone that very toilsome drudgery of reading many or most of Mr. Richard Baxter's books, and hath published reflections and animadversions on several of them. He was always a great loyalist (if not a sufferer too for that cause,⁶) and in the following pieces set out by him, hath mostly appeared in defence of the church of England against some of her inveterate adversaries of the Geneva stamp and brood. He hath wrote

⁶ [He was offered the bishopric of Bristol 1684 by archbishop Sancroft, but refused it on account of his age and great family. TANNER.]

" An Exercitation concerning the Use of our Lord's Prayer in the public Worship of God. Lond. 1658. oct.

" A View of what hath been said by Dr. John Owen concerning that Subject—Printed with the Exercitation. What the said doctor hath said, you may see in the 667th page of his Vindiciæ Evangelicæ, &c. in which place the doctor returns answer to Joh. Biddle's Twelve Questions, and the Answers thereunto: And our author (Long) his Replies to Dr. Owen begin in the 133d page of the aforesaid Exercitation.

" Calvinus redivivus: or, Conformity to the Church of England in Doctrine, Government and Worship, persuaded by Mr. Calvin. Lond. 1673 oct. In this book the author hath plainly wrested one main prop and support of the presbyterian's cause out of their hands, by proving irrefragably out of the genuine works of Calvin, that he, however by them still very loudly cried up as one of the chiefest and most learned patrons of presbytery, doth notwithstanding this their boasting noise of having so great a man on their side, allow most, if not all, of the so much controverted constitutions and usages established in the ch. of Eng.

" History of the Donatists. Lond. 1677. oct.

" The Character of a Separatist: or, Sensuality the Ground of Separation. Lond. 1677. oct.

" The Pharisees Lesson; on Matth. 9. 13.

" Examination of Mr. Hales's Treatise of Schism—These two last are printed with The Character of a Sep. But the said Examination being only a touch or specimen of a greater matter to come, he put out this,

" Mr. Hales's Treatise of Schism examined and censured. Lond. 1678. oct. The writing of which was occasion'd by a new edition of it published with some other Posthumous Miscellanies in the name of Mr. Hales, to open, saith our author in the entrance of his preface, a magazine to arm an implacable party, giving it commission (in despite of authority) to go thro' the land, hoping therewith, as with Alexander's sword, when all other arguments have failed, to cut the Gordian knot of our present peace and unity in pieces.

" Mr. Baxter's Arguments for Conformity, wherein the most material Passages of The Treatise of Schism are answer'd—which Arguments of Mr. Baxter (printed with the next book going before) are collected chiefly out of two of his more moderate Pieces, viz. Cure of Church Divisions, and Christian Directory.

" The Nonconformist's Plea for Peace impleaded, in Answer to several late Writings of Mr. Baxter, and others, &c. Lond. 1680. oct. Which writings of Mr. Baxter are (1) His First Part of the Nonconformist's Plea for Peace, &c. printed at Lond. 1679. oct. (2) The Second Part of the Non. &c. Lond. 1680. qu. (3) His Only Terms

[952]

"of Concord, Lond. 1679. oct. and (4) His Moral Prognostication, &c. pr. in qu. Which last is reflected on in the postscript to our author's Non-conform. Plea before-mention'd. Soon after Mr. Baxter came out with a defence of his writings, which begin in p. 7. of his Third Defence of the Cause of Peace, &c. ending p. 146. of the same; printed at Lond. 1681. oct. which part is thus entit. 'There is a law against lying, to which we must conform: or, truth pleaded for peace against the many falshoods of an unarmed impleader.'

"Several sermons, as (1) Sermon against Murthering, preached in the Cath. Ch. of St. Peter in Exon. 29 May 1680; on Eccles. 7. 10. Lond. 1680. qu. (2) King David's Danger and Deliverance: or, the Conspiracy of Absolom and Achitophel defeated, preached in the Cath. Ch. of Exon, 9 Sept. 1683. being the Day of Thanksgiving appointed for the Discovery of the late Fanatic Plot; on Psal. 64. 9. Lond. 1683. qu. (3) The Original of War: or, the Causes of Rebellion, preached in the Castle of Exeter 15 Jan. 1683. on Jam. 4. 1. Lond. 1684. qu. (4) Moses and the Royal Martyr K. Ch. I. parallel'd, preached on the 30th of Jan. 1683. in the Cath. Ch. of St. Pet. in Exeter, on Lond. 1684 qu.

"The Unreasonableness of Separation: the second Part. Or a farther impartial Account of the History, Nature and Pleas of the present Separation from the Communion of the Church of England, begun by Edw. Stillingfleet, D. D. Dean of Pauls, continued from 1640, to 1681, with special Remarks on the Life and Actions of Mr. Rich. Baxter. Lond. 1682. qu. This was wrot by way of reflection on the said Mr. Baxter's Church History—Third Defence of the Cause of Peace—Of Episcopacy—Letters between him and Dr. Hinckly—Second Defence against Dr. Stillingfleet—Apology for the Nonconformists Preaching, &c. and on many of his former books.

"No Protestant but the Dissenter's Plot, discovered and defeated: Being an Answer to the late Writings of several eminent Dissenters, &c. Lond. 1682. oct. This is an answer to the general preface, wrote by Mr. Steph. Lobb, placed before the book entit. A Reply to the Defence of Dr. Stillingfleet, (which defence was wrote by Dr. Will. Sherlock) being a Counterplot for Union between the Protestants, in opposition to the Project of others for Conjunction with the Church of Rome, wrote by Joh. Humphrey, Steph. Lobb, and the anon. author of the Reflections on Dr. Stillingfleet's Book, &c. See in Joh. Humphrey. Which three authors Dr. Will. Sherlock answer'd in the preface to his Defence, &c. It is also an answer to Jo. Humphrey's last half sh. containing Materials for Union.

"Vindication of the primitive Christians in Point of Obedience to their Prince, against the "Calumnies of a Book entit. The Life of Julian the Apostate; written by Eccebolius the Sophist. Lond. 1683. oct.

"The Doctrine of Passive Obedience clear'd, in Defence of Dr. Hicks.

"An Appendix, being a more full and distinct Answer to Mr. Tho. Hunt's Preface and Postscript.

"The Life of Julian enlarged.—These three last things are printed with the Vindication of the Primitive, &c.

"History of all the Popish and Fanatical Plots and Conspiracies against the established Government in Church and State in England, Scotland and Ireland; from the first Year of Q. Elizabeth's Reign to this present Year 1684, with seasonable Remarks. Lond. 1684. oct. 'Tis also reported that he was author of "The Letter for Toleration deciphered, and the Absurdity and Impiety of an absolute Toleration demonstrated, by the Judgment of Presbyterians, Independents, and by Mr. Calvin, Mr. Baxter, and the Parliament in 1662. Lond. 1689-90. The said Letter for Toleration was written by Joh. Lock bach. of physick, sometime student of Ch. Ch. Mr. Long hath also written,

"Vox Cleri: or, the Sense of the Clergy concerning the Making of Alterations in the Liturgy. Lond. 1690. sec. edit. in qu.

"Remarks on the Discourse concerning the Ecclesiastical Commission and several Letters for Alterations.

"Historical Account of the whole Proceedings of the present Convocation.—These two last were printed with Vox Cleri, and all answered by two persons or more, of whom Dr. Will. Payne of Cambridge was one, rector of S. Mary of Matfallon commonly called White Chappel near London.

"An Answer to a Socinian Treatise, called The Naked Gospel, which was decreed by the University of Oxon in Convocation, Aug. 19. An. 1690; to be publicly burnt, as containing divers heretical Propositions. Lond. 1691.

"Postscript, in Answer to what is added in the Edition just published—printed with the Answer before-mention'd.

"Dr. Walker's true, modest and faithful Account of the Author of ΕΙΚΩΝ ΒΑΣΙΛΙΚΗ, strictly examined and demonstrated to be false, impudent and deceitful. In two Parts: the first disproving it to be Dr. Gauden's, the second proving it to be K. Charles the First's. Lond. 1693. qu.

"THOMAS SPEED, son of Rich. Speed of Shirbourne in Dorsetshire, was admitted a batler or sojourner of Exeter coll. in Mich. term 1640, aged 17 years. He wrote an epistle against the ministers, which was answer'd by Will. Thomas. See Will. Thomas, vol. iii, col. 799, who was “replied upon by George Fox the quaker, ibid.

 “There was also an answer against Will. Thomas, “rejoin’d by Th. Speed, vindicated in the behalf
 “of Speed by G. Fox, ibid. He left Exeter coll.
 “without a degree, took the covenant, and became “minister of S. Philip’s church in Bristol, lived “upon it till about 1650, left his ministry and “turned merchant, being blamed for so doing, and “all people took him to be a man of no religion, “therefore turned quaker, and is a great patron of “them, worth 40000*l.* lives well, eats and drinks
 “well, served all in plate. He preached a thanks“giving sermon at S. Austin’s in Bristol for the “victory over king Charles II. at Worcester, which “was printed, and afterwards reprinted.

[954]

“RICHARD IZACKE, son of Samuel Izacke
 “of the city of Exeter, gent, was born there, ad“mitted commoner of Exeter coll. 20 Apr. 1641, “aged 17 years, left it because of the eruption of “the civil war, in the latter end of the next year, “without the taking of any degree. Afterwards “settling in his native country, he became cham“berlain of the city of Exeter 1653, and town-clerk
 “in 1682, or thereabouts. He hath written, “Antiquities (or Memorials) of the City of “Exeter. Lond. 1677, in a large oct. and printed
 “in a close small character. As he hath retrieved
 “many things relating to that ancient and famous “city, which would have been otherwise lost, so “hath he committed many foul errors therein,
 “which a curious and critical reader may easily “discern.⁷

“PETER WYCHE, the eldest son of sir Pet.
 “Wyche, knight, comptroller of the household to “king Charles I. was born in London, admitted “fellow-commoner of Exeter coll. on the 29th of “Apr. 1643, aged 15 years, left the said house in “Octob. 1644, went to Trin. hall in Cambridge,
 “and there took the degree of M. of A. and after“wards travelled. About the time of the restora“tion of king Charles II. he received the honour
 “of knighthood, was incorporated M. of A. of this “university in 1663 (being then of the royal so“ciety) and afterwards was employed in several “embassies by his majesty, particularly as envoy
 “to the court of Muscovy, 1669, resident at Ham-“burgh, &c. from which last he returned in 1681, “&c. He is the author of

“The World Geographically describ’d in fifty
 “two Copper Plates. Lond. 1687, &c. made up in “cards.

“He hath also translated from Portuguese into “English, (1) The Life of Don John de Castro
 “Vice-Roy of India, wherein are seen the Portu- “guesc’s Voyages in the E. Indies, their Discoveries
 “and Conquests there, &c. Lond. 1664. fol. Writ-

⁷ [Other editions Lond. 1681, 1724, 1731, 1734, 1741.]

“ten by Jacintho Freire of Andrada. (2) A short “Relation of the River Nile, of its Source and “Current, of its Overflowing the Campagna of “Egypt, till it runs into the Mediterranean, &c.
 “Lond. 1669. oct. translated out of a Portuguese
 “MS. at the desire of the royal society. The said “sir Pet. Wyche the father, was son of Rich. and “he the son of another Rich. descended from the “Wyches of Davenham in Cheshire, was originally “a merchant, and for twelve years time I find him
 “ambassador for his majesty of England at Con“stantinople. Afterwards he was made comptroller
 “of his majesty’s household, and of his privy council
 “in the time of the rebellion. And dying at Oxon
 “in the beginning of Dec. was buried on the 7th of “the same month 1643, in the S. isle joyning to the “choir of the cath. of Christ Church there, leaving
 “then behind him Jane a daughter married to sir
 “Joh. Greenville earl of Bath, and Peter and Cyril, “afterwards knights.

“GEORGE BULL, son of a father of both his “names by Elizabeth Perkyns his wife, was born “within the city of Wells in Somersetshire on the “25th of March 1634, became a sojourner of “Exeter coll. on the 10th of Jul. 1648, continued
 “there till January 1649, and then left the univer“sity without the honour of a degree. At which “time sojourning in the house of Mr. Hen. Jeanes “rector of Chedzoy in the same county, did, under “him, improve his knowledge much in academical
 “learning. Afterwards entering into holy orders, “he was by the favour of Dr. Nicolson bishop of “Gloucester made rector of both the Siddingtons “near to Cirencester in Gloucestershire, and in “1678 one of the preb. of Gloucester by the en“deavours of Dr. Joh. Tillotson. In 1686 he was “made archdeacon of Llandaff in the place of one
 “E. Gamage, as it seems, deceased; and the same “year had the degree of D. of D. conferr’d on him.
 “His stay, as you see, in this university was so “short, that one would think that it had been in“sufficient to have laid a competent foundation, on “which to have raised so noble a superstructure of “solid learning, which he hath since abundantly “discovered. But the excellency of his riper and “more pregnant parts, seconded by severe industry,
 “and unwearied diligence, hath compensated in “some measure that loss which he sustained, thro’
 “his removal hence so soon. He made quick ad“vances, and an early proficiency in some of the “more abstruse and untrodden paths of theology
 “(the first and ruder draught of his Harmonia,
 “&c. being framed when he was but 27 years of “age) and took not up in his studies, as many have “done, and do still, with systematical divinity,
 “whose authors being mostly foreigners of a late “date, and commonly no great friends to the doc“trine, much less to the discipline, of our church,
 “and generally espousing a cause, and siding with

[955]

"a party, do employ their utmost care in arbitrary definitions, and dogmatical conclusions, set out in a more plausible dress, cunningly to scatter throughout the whole their darling notions, by this means the better to win upon the unwary reader and gain his easy and ready assent. This very preposterous method, our author often condemns in his writings, as setting out at the wrong end, he himself still desiring to drink of the untainted and uncorrupt fountains of pure primitive antiquity. I shall not interpose my judgment so far as positively to determine whether preference be to be given to Dr. Th. Tully, or this our author Dr. Bull, as to the greater strength and validity of the argumentative part of each others pieces. Yet this I conceive without the least fear of the charge of presumption may be affirmed, that our author's book is wrote in a far more terse, polite, and easy stile, than the others, which is rough, harsh, and seems to have been compos'd with much labour and pains. Our author vindicates himself, and all others of his persuasion, very^a clearly from the doctor's unjust imputation of their being inclined in some points towards popery and Socinianism; and a learned English treatise of his, shortly expected from the press (which was highly commended by Dr. Will. Jane the king's professor of div. in his public act-lecture an. 1682, chiefly directed against some heterodox and Platonical notions concerning the trinity maintained by Dr. Ralph Cudworth master of Christ's coll. in Cambridge,^b and Hebrew professor of that university, in some part of his book entit. The Intellectual System of the World, &c. in opposition to the whole interrupted current of antiquity) will manifestly evidence to the world that he is very far from being a favourer of the Socinian doctrines. He hath wrote,

"Harmonia Apostolica, seu binæ Dissertationes, quarum in priore, Doctrina D. Jacobi de Justificatione ex Operibus explanatur & defenditur. In posteriore Consensus D. Pauli cum Jacobo liquido demonstratur. Lond. 1669. qu. Besides Dr. Barlow's reading against this book in the public school of divinity an. 1669, &c. and Dr. Tully's book called Justificatio Paulina, wrote chiefly against it, Joseph Truman bach. of div.^c and a nonconformist near Nottingham (the learned author of some sermons on Rom. 3. 24, 25, 26. called^d The great Propitiation, &c. and of A

"Discourse^e of natural and moral Impotency, &c.) published an answer to it bearing this title, An Endeavour to rectify some prevailing Opinions contrary to the Doctrine of the Church of England, &c. Lond. 1671. oct. in which year he died. Our author Bull's appendix to his examination of the 17th animadversion, together with his answers to the 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, and 23 animadversions, do overthrow the foundations of this piece of Truman. And as to Mr. Tombes's Animadversions on this Harmonia, he seems by giving the following account, to take no other notice of it than by contempt, saying, 'in quo authoris confidentia cum inscitia, ita certare videtur, ut utra superior sit difficile dictu, non est quod author ille sibi metuat à Bulli cornibus & insultibus.' A foreign writer, Sam.^f Maresius, hath an ill opinion of it, and saith that the author thereof, tho' he professes himself a priest of the church of England, yet he is more addicted to the pontificians, remonstrants and Socinians, than to the orthodox party. The said Harmonia was wrote by its author when he was but 27 years old, as I have before told you, but he did not publish it till some years after, within which time he often examined it very strictly. The book he dedicated to Dr. Nicolson bishop of Gloucester, and in the epistle he saith, that 'whilst it was but in writing, it was submitted to his perusal, and that he upon his deliberate reading each part approved and commended it.' Which saying of our author being question'd, as to its truth, by Mr. Truman before-mention'd, in the very close of his aforesaid book against him, our author in the 118th page of his Apologia checks his rashness severely for entertaining so unjust and uncharitable suspicion of him as to this, and then not to stick to make so public declaration of it concerning a person lying under no ill report or fame. Our author Dr. Bull hath also written,

"Examen Censuræ: sive Responsio ad quasdam Animadversiones antehac ineditas, in Librum cui tit. est Harmonia Apostolica, &c. Lond. 1676. qu.

"Apologia pro Harmonia ejusq; Authore, contra Declamationem Tho. Tullii S. T. P. in Libro nuper Typis evulgato, quem Justificatio Paulina inscripsit. Printed with the Examen. This contains a full answer only to the four first chapters of Dr. Tully's book, and to his Short Dissertation at the end thereof. The remainder, he saith, is sufficiently satisfied in his several answers to the 22 Animadversions of an Anonymous Divine; which Animadversions are placed all along before the respective answers applyed to them. And although he^g saith, that upon the first news of his

^a "In his Apol. pro Harmonia, &c. from p. 10. to p. 18."

^b [Dr. Cudworth had the vicarage of Ashwell, the gift of archbishop Sheldon, and the lord chancellor (1678) gave him a small prebend at a great distance from Cambridge. TANNER.]

^c [Jos. Truman aul. Clar. art. mag. 1654: but he does not occur B. D. Collect. Tho. Baker S. T. B. Kennet's Reg. & Chron. 907.]

^d "Printed at Lond. 1669 and 1672. oct."

^e "Printed at Lond. 1675, oct. second edit. with additions left under the author's own hand."

^f "In his System Theol. &c. edit. Groning. in qu. p. 594."

^g "In his epistle to the reader before the whole."

“adversary’s death (Dr. Tully) he presently took “care to expunge out of his papers, which then “remained unprinted, several things which were “spoken more sharply against him, as taking no “pleasure to contend with the dead, much less to “insult over their ashes, which was such a kind of “barbarity, to which he was always most averse,
 “yet notwithstanding in the second page of his pre“face before Apologia, &c. after a very mean, dis“dainful, and most reflecting account of the doctor’s “performance in his aforesaid book, he thinks fit to “set it out after this most bitter manner, viz. ‘Liber “phaleratis verbis, vacuis rhetoricationibus, tragicis
 “extra causam dictis, sophismatis, sarcasmis, &
 “perquam (vera loquar) manifestis calumniis con-“flatus,’ &c. Dr. Bull hath also written,

“Defensio-Fidei Nicænæ, ex Scriptis quæ ex“tant, Catholicorum Doctorum, qui intra tria “prima Ecclesiæ Christianæ Secula floruerunt,
 “&c. Oxon. 1685. qu. dedicated to Dr. Joh. Fell “bishop of Oxon. In this book the author ani“madverts on Nucleus Historiæ Ecclesiasticæ, “written by Christoph. Sandius, the sometime noted “Socinian.

“*Judicium Ecclesiæ Catholicæ trium primorum
 “Seculorum, de Necessitate credendi quod Dominus “noster Jes. Christus sit verus Deus, assertum “contra M. Simonem Episcopium aliosque.* Oxon.
 “1694: first published at Oxon 10 Jul. 1694.

“JOHN QUICK, a Devonian born, near to “Plymouth, as it seems, became a servitor of Ex“eter coll. in 1653, aged 17 years, or thereabouts,
 “took one degree in arts in Octob. 1657, departed “without compleating it by determination, and “having been educated under a presbyterian go“vernour and tutor, he carried on their principles
 “first in his own country, where he was silenced
 “for nonconformity an. 1662, and afterwards in or “near London, where he now (1694) lives and has “a congregation of such that are of his own mind.
 “He is the author of “Several sermons, as (1) The Test of true God-“liness, preached at the Funeral of Philip Harris

 “late of Alston in Devonshire Esq; the 10th of “Aug. 1681, Lond. 1681, 82. qu. &c.

“*The Young Man’s Claim to the Sacrament of
 “the Lord’s Supper,* &c. Lond. 1691.

“*Synodicon in Gallia reformata: or, the Acts, “Decisions, Decrees and Canons of those famous “national Councils of the reformed Churches of “France; being (1) A most faithful and impartial “History of the Rise, Growth, Perfection and De“cay of the Reformation in that Kingdom, with “its fatal Catastrophe upon the Revocation of the “Edict of Nantz 1615. (2) The Confession of “Faith and Discipline of those Churches, &c.
 “Lond. 1692. fol. The whole was collected and “composed out of original manuscript acts of synods,*

“a work never before extant in any language, in “two volumes.

“GIDEON HARVEY, born in Surrey, at“tained to the Latin and Greek tongues in the Low “Countries, became a commoner of Exeter coll. the “23d of May 1655, where he studied philosophy
 “for some time under the tuition of a noted tutor.
 “Afterwards he went to Leyden in Holland, and “there had one collegium theoreticum and two col-
 “legia practica under professor Vander Linden,
 “two collegia anatomica under professor Van Horne,
 “and one collegium botanicum under professor “Vorstius. He was also instructed there in the “chymical art by a German, and learned there also “the practical part of surgery and the trade of an “apothecary. After this he passed into France to “improve himself by visiting the sick of the cha“rity hospital every day for some months together.
 “Thence he made the petit tour, and in his way he “took the degrees in physic, and passed also a “course of chymistry with monsieur Bartlet. From “France he returned to Holland, where he was “admitted fellow of the coll. of physicians at the “Hague, as it appears by their dispensatory in “print, being then physician in ord. to king Charles “II. in his exile. After some months he returned “to London, whence he was sent in the latter end “of July 1659 with a commission to Flanders to “be physician (or doctor-general as they commonly “phrase it) to the English army there, where he “continued till he was tired of that employment,
 “and then took his course for Italy thro’ Germany, “passed away some time at Padua, Bologna and “Rome: and having seen the other chief cities,
 “came back thro’ Switzerland and so down the Rhine
 “to Colen. Thence into Holland and soon after “into England, where he continued with success in “his practice, became physician in ord. to his maj.
 “and took all occasions to carp at the coll. of phy“sicians, endeavouring by all means possible to ex“pose the practice of several of the most eminent “physicians thereof. After king Will. III. came “to the crown he was made physician of the Tower.
 “He liv’d in S. Dunstan’s-court in Fleet-street in “1670, and in Hatton-garden in 1675. He hath
 “written,

“Psycheologia: or, a Book of Souls——In“tended by the author to be put in the second part “of the book following.

“Archeologia Philosophica nova: or, New Prin“ciples of Philosophy, containing 1 Philosophy in “general, 2 Metaphysics or Ontology, &c. Lond.
 “1663 in two parts, in a pretty thick quarto, with “his picture before it.

“Morbus Anglicus: or, an Anatomy of Con“sumptions, containing the Nature, Causes, Sub“ject, Progress, &c. of them. Lond. 1671. in tw.
 “sec. edit. Other editions followed.

[958]

" Brief Discourses of Melancholy, Madness and Distraction, occasion'd by Love.

" Certain new Remarks touching the Scurvey, and Ulcers of the Lungs.—These two last are printed with Morb. Angl.

" Little Venus unmask'd: or, a perfect Discovery of the French Pox; comprising the Opinions of most ancient and modern Physicians, with the Author's Judgment: And Observations upon the Rise, Nature, Subjects, Causes, Kinds, Signs and Prognostics of the said Disease, and several Ways and Methods of curing that Disease, and the Running of the Reins. Lond. 1671. in tw.

" with the author's picture before it. A fourth edition of this book came out in 1676, with large additions of new matter, and A new Tract of a Scorbutic Pox; A second Tract of a Mangy Pox; A third of an Hectic Pox, and an Appendix of the Venereal Gout; together with their several Cures. The fifth edition comprises, The French Pox with all its Kinds, Causes, &c. also the Running of the Reins, Shanker, Bubo, Glands and their Cures; and what is the chief Art, &c. To which is added, An Appendix containing new Observations and Discourses upon the Venereal Disease, never before published, made known or discoursed by any Author, &c. with many Alterations. Lond. 1685. tw.

" Great Venus unmask'd: or, a more exact Discovery of the French Disease, and virulent Running of the Reins, with the several Methods of curing them. Lond. 1672. in large oct. with his picture before it. This is the sec. edition, and contains all or most of Little Venus unmask'd, as I conceive.

" De Febribus Tractatus theoreticus, et practicus præcipue, quo Præxin curandarum Februm continuarum modernam esse Lethiferam et barbaram, abunde patefit. Lond. 1672. 3. oct. This book was translated into English by J. T. with this title, A Theoretical and chiefly practical Treatise of Fevers, &c. Lond. 1674. oct. surveyed by the author and approved by him.

" The Disease of London: or, a new Discovery of the Scurvey, comprizing the Nature, manifold Differences, various Causes, Signs, Prognostics, Chronology, and several Methods of curing the said Disease by Remedies both Galenical and Chymical. Lond. 1674. oct. It was also added to the before-mention'd book of fevers.

" Anatomical Observations and Discourses on Convulsions, Palsies,—printed with The Disease of London, &c.

" The Family Physician, and the House Apothecary; containing, 1. Medicines against all such Diseases People usually advise with Apothecaries to be cured of. 2. Instructions, whereby to prepare at your own Houses, &c. with the Prices of all Drugs, &c. Lond. 1676. 78. in tw.

" Casus Medico-chirurgicus: or, a most memorable Case of a Nobleman⁶ deceased. Wherein is shewed his Lordship's Wound, the various Diseases survening, how his Physicians and Surgeons treated him, how treated by the Author, after my Lord was given over by all his Physicians, &c. Lond. 1678 and 1685 in tw.

" The Conclave of Physicians; detecting their Intrigues, Frauds and Plots against their Patients, &c. Lond. 1683. in tw.

" A peculiar Discourse of the Jesuits Bark: The History thereof, with its true Use and Abuse.

" A Narrative of an eminent Case in Physic

" —These two last things are printed with The Conclave, &c. The said Conclave of Physicians is a most bitter and scurrilous invective against the coll. of physicians in London, which he calls an association, combination or confederacy; and by transferring his raillery and story to Paris, endeavours under that disguise to expose the society the more securely. The introduction rants at the whole body, calling the president pope, and the fellows cardinals. The book it self mostly points at many gross mistakes and abuses, as he pretends, and by him said to be committed by several eminent members in their practice, &c. Soon after came out a mean piece of poetry entit. Gideon's Fleece: or, the Sieur de Frisk. An Heroic Poem, &c. Lond. 1684. in 5 sh. in qu. written, as 'tis said, on the cursory perusal of a late book called The Conclave of Physicians, by a friend to the muses, i. e. Tho. Guidott, who then protested that he never had the honour to be of the coll. of phys. or had any encouragement from them to write.

" A new Discourse of the small Pox, and malignant Fevers; with an exact Discovery of the Scurvey, comprizing the Nature, manifold Differences, Causes, Signs, &c. and several Methods of curing the said Disease, &c. Lond. 1684. in tw.

" Anatomical Observations on Convulsions, Palsies, Apoplexies, &c. with their several Methods of Cure and Remedies.—printed with A new Discourse, &c.

" The Second Part of the Conclave of Physicians, further discovering their Intrigues, Frauds and Plots against their Patients, &c. Lond. 1685. 6. in tw.

" Peculiar Discourse, containing the Apothecaries and Surgeon's Capacity and Pretensions to practise Physic equal with the Doctor's—

" printed with The second Part of the Conclave, &c. The Art of curing Diseases by Expectation, with Remarks on a supposed great Cure of Apopleptic Fits. Lond. 1689. in tw.

⁶ "Charles lord Mohun."

[959]

" Useful Observations on Coughs, Consumptions, Stone, Dropsies, Fevers and Small-pox, with a Confutation of Dispensatories and other various Discourses in Physic—printed with The Art of Curing, &c.

" DENIS GRENVILL or GREENVILLE, a younger son of the most loyal and valiant sir Bevil Grenvill of Kilkhampton in Cornwall knt. and brother to sir John Grenvill, the first earl of Bath of his name, was born of an ancient and knightly family living in the county of Cornwall, admitted fellow com. of Exeter coll. the 22d of Sept. 1657, actually created M. of A. after the restoration of king Charles II. and marrying about that time Anne the daughter of Dr. Joh. Cosin bishop of Durlham had several spiritualities conferr'd on him by that worthy bishop, as the rectories of Easington and Elwick in the county pal. of Durham, the archdeaconry of Durham, to which he was collated on the death of Dr. Gabr. Clark, the 19th of Sept. 1662, and preb. of Durham.⁷ In 1670 he was actually created D. of D. being then, as several years before, chapl. in ord. to his maj. and on the 14th of Dec. 1684 he was installed dean of Durlham in the place of Dr. Joh. Sudbury who died about the beginning of that month. In the month of May or thereabouts, 1691, he was ejected from his deanery because he refused to take the oaths of allegiance and supremacy to king William III. and queen Mary, and Dr. Tho. Comber of Cambr. succeeded him. Whereupon Dr. Grenvill going to his master king Jam. II. in France, had, as I was informed by letters thence, the archbishoprick of York conferr'd on him by that king, void by the death of Dr. Tho. Lamplugh. In April 1695 he returned into England incognito.

" He is the author of several sermons, as (1) The compleat Conformist: or, seasonable Advice concerning strict Conformity and frequent Celebration of the holy Communion, preached on the 7th of Jan. being the first Sunday after the Epiphany, 1682, in the Cath. Ch. of Durham; on John 1. 29. Lond. 1684. qu. To which is added Advice: or, a Letter written to the Clergy of the Archdeaconry of Durham, to the same Purpose. (2) Sermon preached in the Cath. Ch. of Durham, upon the Revival of the ancient, laudable Practice of that, and some other Cathedrals, in having Sermons on Wednesdays and Fridays, during Advent and Lent; on Rom. 13. 11. Lond. 1686. qu. This sermon was preached on the 2d of Dec. 1685, being the first Wednesday in Advent.

" Counsel and Directions divine and moral: In

⁷ [He was fellow of Eton college, and had a living in the south, 1662. SANCROFT. Rector of Sedgfield val. 600*l.* per ann. 1669. TANNER.]

" plain and familiar Letters of Advice to a young Gentleman his Nephew, soon after his Admission into a College in Oxon. Lond. 1685. oct. His said nephew was named Thomas, a younger son of sir Thomas Higgons knight, by Bridget his second wife, sister to the said Dr. Den. Grenvill, which nephew had been newly entred a student in Magd. coll. who among his companions made sport with that book.

" NARCISSUS MARSH was born at Hannington near Highworth in Wilts. elected probationer-fellow of Exeter coll. from Magd. hall, the 30th of June 1658, being then bach. of arts. Afterwards taking the degrees in divinity,⁸ he became principal of St. Alban's hall,⁹ where by the good discipline that he kept up and maintained, made it flourish more than it had done for many years before, or hath since his departure under his successor Dr. Tho. Bouchier alias Butcher, who minding the settling of a family and adding land to land to his seat at Hanborough near Oxon, it doth in a woful manner decay, and no face of a hall or house of learning left. In the month of December 1678, Dr. Marsh was by the endeavours of Dr. Joh. Fell (whom he in high manner adored, and by him was ruled) promoted to the provostship of Trinity coll. near Dublin, upon the advancement of Dr. Mich. Ward to the bishoprick of Ossory, and in the beginning of the year 1683 to the see of Fernes and Leighlin on the death of Dr. Rich. Boyle. To which being consecrated at Ch. Ch. in Dublin on the 6th of May the same year (as he himself hath told me) sate there till the month of Decemb. 1690, at which time he was translated to the archiepiscopal see of Cashell. He hath written,

" Institutiones Logicæ in Usum Juventutis Academicæ Dublinensis. Dubl. 1681. in oct. He also added the Greek text, and some tables and schemes, to Manuductio ad Logicam written by Philip du Trieu—Oxon. 1678. oct. and also some few illustrating notes on Gassendus his small tract De Demonstratione, printed with the before-mention'd Manuductio. This person, who was well skill'd in the practical part of music, did, while fellow of Ex. coll. and prin. of S. Alb. hall, keep a weekly meeting or consort of instrumental, and sometimes of vocal music, in his lodgings for such who were conversant and delighted in that faculty, purposely to refresh his mind and senses, after they were in a manner doz'd and tired out with philosophical and theological studies. And hath publish'd,

⁸ [M. A. July 13, 1660; B. D. Dec. 12, 1667; D. D. June 23, 1671.]

⁹ [He was appointed to this situation May 12, 1673, previously to which he had been chaplain to Seih Ward, bishop of Salisbury, and to lord chancellor Hyde, as well as one of the additional proctors to preside over the university at the visit of king Charles II. in 1665.]

" An Introductory Essay to the Doctrine of Sounds, containing some Proposals for the Improvement of Acoustics—presented to the Royal Society in Dublin, the 12th of Mar. 1683.—
" In the Philos. Trans. of the royal society at Lond. num. 156. Feb. the 20th 1683.

" GEORGE TREBY was born at or near Plympton in Devonshire, admitted a com. of Exeter coll. the 8th of June 1660, aged 16 or thereabouts, and in the latter end of Aug. following he translated himself to the fellow's table, that is to the table of fellow or superior-commoner, being then, as before, pupil to Mr. Will. Paynter alias Cambourne. But before he had taken a degree he retired to the Middle Temple, became barrester, and resorted to by clients for his eminent knowledge in the common laws of England. In the year 1679, he being chose burgess for Plympton in Devonshire, to serve in that parliament which began at Westminster on the 17th of Octob. (as he had been before, I suppose, for that which began on the 6th of Mar. 1678) he was appointed chairman for the committee of secrecy relating to the farther discovery of the popish plot, and in the year following (1680) in the latter end of Nov. he was appointed one of the managers of the evidence against William viscount Stafford, who, a little before, had been impeached of high treason by the house of commons, for being ingaged in the said plot. In Dec. following, when sir Geo. Jeffreys was put out of his recordership of London, for having before been a stickler against petitions to the king for the sitting of the parliament, he was by the majority of the citizens elected into his place, and about the 20th of Jan. following his maj. was pleased to confer the honour of knighthood upon him. In Feb. following that, he was chose burgess for Plympton beforemention'd to sit in that parliament which began at Oxon, the 21st of Mar. 1680, and in the beginning of Oct. 1683, when then the scales were turn'd by the eruption of the presbyterian or fanatical plot, he was discharg'd of his recordership. In Dec. or Jan. 1688, the prince of Orange being then declared king, he was restored to his recordership, and about the same time was elected burgess for Plympton to serve in that parliament which was summoned by the said prince to meet at Westm. on the 22d of Jan. the same year. In the beginning of March following (1688) he was made solicitor-general, Hen. Pollexfen esq; being at the same time made attorney-general; and in the beginning of May 1689, at which time the said Pollexfen (then a knight) was advanced to the lord chief justiceship of the common pleas, he was made attorney-general; and in his place of solicitor-general was at the same time put Joh. Somers, esq. sometime a gent. com. of Trin. coll. In April 1692, he with others being " called to the degree of serjeant at law, were sworn at the chancery-bar on the 27th of the said month, and on the 2d of May following he was sworn before the commissioners of the great seal lord ch. just. of the common-pleas; about which time he resigned his recordership of the city of London. At the same time also sir Joh. Somers was sworn attorney-general, and Tho. Trevor esq; solicitor-general. He published,

" A Collection of Letters and other Writings relating to the horrid Popish Plot, printed from the Originals. Lond. 1681. fol.

" The second Part of the Collection of Letters and other Writings, &c. Lond. 1681. fol.

" Truth vindicated: or, a Detection of the Aspersions and Scandals cast upon Sir Rob. Clayton and Sir Geo. Treby, Justices; and Slingsby Bethel and Henry Cornish Sheriffs of the City of London, in a Paper published in the Name of Dr. Francis Hawkins Minister of the Tower entit. The Confession of Edw. Fitzharris, Esq; &c. Lond. 1681 in 4 sh. in qu. No name is set to this pamph. only the then general report was, that it was written by sir Geo. Treby. It was answer'd by the said Dr. Hawkins of Cambridge university in vindication of the Confession, in A Narrative, being a true Relation of what Discourse passed between Dr. Hawkins and Edw. Fitzharris Esq; late Prisoner in the Tower. Lond. 1681. in 3 sh. in fol.

" Speech to the Prince of Orange the 20th of Decem. 1688, in the Name of the L. Mayor, Alderm. &c. of the City of London to congratulate his safe Arrival at St. James's—The beginning of this is, 'May it please your highness, the lord mayor being disabled by sickness, your highness is attended by the aldermen and commons of the capital city of this kingdom, deputed to congratulate your highness upon this great and glorious occasion,' &c. A copy of this speech, wherein he much flatters and adores that prince, you may see in the Fourth Collection of Papers relating to the present Juncture of Affairs in England, &c. published in the latter end of Decemb. 1688. in qu. p. 33, as also in The History of the Desertion, &c. Lond. 1689. qu. p. 114, 115, written by Edm. Bohun, esq. He the said sir G. Treby hath also extant,

" Pleadings and Arguments in the Court of the King's Bench upon the Quo warranto, touching the Charter of the City of London; with the Judgment entred thereupon. Lond. 1690. fol. These are intermix'd with the Pleadings and Arguments of Mr. Heneage Finch, Sir Rob. Sawyer and Mr. Hen. Pollexfen.

" WILLIAM GOSTWYKE, the son of Gabriel Gostwyke minister of North-Taunton in Devonshire, became batler or sojourner of Exeter college in April 1661, took his degrees in arts

[961]

"and became rector of Purley in Berkshire, where
"he writ,

"Pray for the Peace of Jerusalem—Serm.
"preached at S. Mary's in Reading, at the Visitation
"of the Rev. Mr. Will. Richards Archd. of "Berks, the 12th of Apr. 1692; on Psal. 122.
"Ver. 6. Lond. 1692. qu. Dedicated to Gillb. bp.
"of Sarum, wherein is an encomium of Mr. Will.
"Richards.

"JOHN GRAILE, son of a father of both his "names, minister of Tidworth in Wilts, was born "in the city of Salisbury and educated there for a "time in grammar learning under one Tho. Hunt.
"Afterwards retiring to Oxon he spent some time
"in the free-school near Magd. coll. under the "tuition of Mr. Tho. Smith, who fitting him for
"academical learning, he became a battler of Exeter
"coll. under the tuition of Mr. Will. Paynter in "Lent term 1664, aged 16 years. After he had "taken the magisterial degree he became tutor to
"sir Joh. Langham's children for a time, afterwards
"chaplain to sir Joh. Hobart of Norfolk, by whom,
"as it seems, he was preferr'd to the rectory of "Bleckling in that county. He is the author of "The true and real Violation of Property; of-

"fer'd to Consideration in some expostulatory
"Queries concerning the criminal and mischievous
"Nature of those unjust Practices, whereby just "Possessions, Rights or Dues are injuriously in"vaded, detained or diminished. Lond. 1683. oct.

"Three Sermons preached in the Cathedral of "Norwich, and a fourth at a parochial Church in "Norfolk. The first entit. The Reformation of "our selves; on Jer. 35. 15. The second, called "Pious Reverence towards God and the King; on "Prov. 24. 21, 22. The third, called Just abhor-
"rence of usurping Republicans; on Prov. 28. the "former Part of the 2d Ver. The fourth, entit.
"Duc Affection to the Monarchy, on Prov. 28. the "latter Part of the 2d Ver. Lond. 1685. oct.

"THOMAS HOLDSWORTH of Exeter coll.
"took the degree of M. of A. in 1672, and became "rector of North-stoneham near Southampton. He
"hath written,

"Impar Conatui: or Mr. J. B. (Bradley) the "Author of an Answer to the Animadversions on "the Dean of S. Paul's (Dr. Sherlock) Vindication
"of the Trinity, rebuk'd and prov'd to be wholly
"unfit for the great Work he hath undertaken.
"With some Account of the late scandalous Ani-
"madversions on Mr. Hill's Book entit. A Vindi-
"cation of the primitive Fathers against the Im-
"putations of Gilbert Lord Bp. of Sarum, &c.
"Lond. 1695. qu. in 11 sh. published in Oct. or "before—written by way of letter to the rev.
"Mr. R. E.

"PHILIP FALLE, son of Tho. Falle of the "isle of Jersey, was born in that isle, became a

"com. of Exeter coll. in Mich. term 1669, aged 14
"years, translated himself afterwards, for the sake
"of Dr. Narcissus Marsh, to S. Alb. hall, and as a "member thereof took the degrees in arts, that of "master being compleated in 1676. Afterwards
"he took holy orders, retired to his native country,
"and became rector of S. Saviour's there, and af"terwards deputy from the states of the said island
"to their majesties king William III. and queen
"Mary. He is the author of "Several sermons, as (1) Sermon preached at S.

"Hilary's in the Isle of Jersey, the 10th of April
"1692, on Luke 3. 14. Lond. 1692. qu. dedicated "to his diocesan Henry bish. of London. (2) Ser-
"mon at Whitehall. the 30th of Dec. 1694, on—
"Lond. 1695. qu. (3) Sermon before the Lord
"*Mayor, the 21st of April 1695. on—*Lond.
"1695. qu.

"An Account of the Isle of Jersey, the greatest
"of those Islands that are now the only Remainder "of the English Dominions in France, with a new
"and accurate Map of that Island. Lond. 1694.
"oct.¹

"JOHN NORTHLEIGH, son of a father of
"both his names of Exminster in Devonshire, gent.
"was born at Hamburgh, his father being a mer"chant residing there, became a sojourner of Exeter
"coll. in Lent term 1674, aged 17 years, took the "degree of bach. of the civil law in 1681, and in "the beginning of the year following became a "member of Magd. coll. in Cambridge and soon
"after fellow of that of King's, and about that time
"a student of the Inner Temple. He was after"wards Dr. of phys. of Cambridge, and now (1693)
"practises physic in the city of Exeter. He hath
"written,

"Exercitationes Philologicae tres: prima In-
"fanticidium, Poema Credulam exprimens Matrem
"delirantibus Astrologorum Insomniis, et pia quã-
"dam Crudelitate dereptam, Prolem suam inter-
"fecisse. Secunda Spes extatica, sive Sperantis
"Plausus et Ovatio. Tertia Philosophia vind-
"cata, sive Pauperis Philosophi contra Divitem
"superbe Calumniantem Defensio. Oxon. 1681.
"qu. The last is an oration.

"The Parallel: or, the new specious Association
"an old rebellious Covenant. Closing with a Dis-
"parity between a true Patriot and a factious As- "sociator. Lond. 1682 in 9 sh. in fol. The name "of the author is not set to this piece, for which "Dr. Laur. Womack seems to be sorry in² these "words, in a citation from him.—an excellent
"person, whose name his own modesty or pru-

¹ [Reprinted, with great additions, Lond. 1734 8vo.]

² "In his Letter containing a further Justification of the "Church of England against the Dissenters. Lond. 1682 in
"oct. p. 59."

“ dence, as well as the iniquity of the times keeps “ from us, &c.

“ A genteel Reflection on the Modest Account,
“ and a Vindication of the Loyal Abhorrrers from
“ the Calumnies of a factious Pen. Lond. 1682. in “ 5 sh. in fol. These two last, which are smart, brisk
“ and ingenious pieces, were published in the latter “ end of the year 1681, and soon after our author “ went to Cambridge.

[963]

“ The Triumph of our Monarchy over the Plots
“ and Principles of our Rebels and Republicans, “ being Remarks on their most eminent Libels.
“ Lond. 1685. in a thick oct.

“ SAMUEL WESTLEY or WESLEY, son of “ Joh. Westley of Whitechurch in Dorsetshire, was “ educated in grammar learning in the free-school
“ at Dorchester in the same county under Mr. Hen.
“ Dolling, where being fitted for the university was “ sent to Exeter coll. became a servitor there about
“ the beginning of Mich. term, an. 1684, aged 18
“ years,³ and in the next year he published,

“ Muggots: or, Poems on several Subjects never “ before handlea. Lond. 1685. oct. It hath before
“ it the picture of a young man, writing on a table
“ with a lawrel round his head, and a maggot on “ the forehead. The dedication is to Mr. Dolling
“ before-mention'd, and the author hath put notes
“ upon every poem. Afterwards he took the degree “ of bach. of arts, entred into holy orders, had some “ employment in or near London, and afterwards “ became rector of South-Ormesby in Lincolnshire, “ where he wrote

“ The Life of our blessed Lord and Saviour
“ Jesus Christ. An heroic Poem, dedicated to her
“ sacred Maj. Lond. 1693. fol. adorned with va“ rious cuts.

“ Elegies on the Queen (Mary) and Archbishop “ (Tillotson) Lond. 1695. in 8 sh. in fol. published “ in the beginning of March 1694. The said Sam.
“ Westley is grandson to [Bartholomew] Westley
“ the fanatical minister sometime of Charmouth in “ Dorsetshire, at what time (1651) the lord Wilmot
“ and king Charles II. had like to have been by “ him betrayed, when they continued incognito in “ that county.

“ THOMAS WISE, son of John Wise of Dor“ chester in Oxfordshire, was admitted of Exeter “ college in Mich. term 1687.—afterward pro“ ceeded in arts, and translated from French into “ English

“ The Art of knowing one's Self: or, an En- “ quiry into the Sources of Morality. Oxon. 1695,
“ in two parts oct. written originally by Dr. Ab-“ badie.

³ “ Written by Anthony earl of Shaftsbury.”

⁴ [He was born November 1602. MS. Sancroft. TAN-NER.]

WRITERS OF ORIEL COLLEGE.

“ JAMES BROWNE, son of a father of both
“ his names of Magotsfield or Mangersfield in Glo“ cestershire, became a student of Oriel coll. in “ 1634, aged 18 years or thereabouts, took one de“ gree in arts in 1638, but before he took that of “ master he left the university, became a great ram“ bler in the time of the rebellion as well in mind
“ as in body, was a chaplain, as I have heard, in “ the parliament army, and took all occasions to “ disturb orthodox men with his disputes. But after “ the return of king Charles II. he changed his “ mind, and became orthodox, and so continued, as “ I presume, to the time of his death. He hath “ written,

“ Antichrist in Spirit—This I have not yet “ seen, and therefore I cannot give you a larger title
“ of it, nor when or where 'twas printed, or in what “ volume. All that I can say of it is, that it was “ animadverted upon by that notorious and leading “ quaker George Fox, in his book entit. The great “ Mystery of the great Whore unfolded, &c. Lond.
“ 1659. fol. p. 259, 260. Mr. Browne hath also “ written,

“ Scripture Redemption freed from Men's Re- “ strictions; being an Answer to a Book published
“ by Mr. Will. Troughton, entit. Scripture Re- “ demption restrained and limited, &c. Lond.
“ 1673.

“ The Substance of several Conferences and “ Disputes had in England, Wales, and Scotland,
“ about the Death of our Redeemer, &c.—This “ is printed with Scripture Redemption, &c. In “ the title of which, he says, that he was now (1673)
“ a preacher of the faith, which once he destroyed.
“ There was another Jam. Browne living in this “ university in our remembrance, a most notorious “ fellow and a bigotted presbyterian, or independ“ ent, or both; made clerk of the schools by the “ visitors appointed by the parliament in the place “ of a great loyalist and a very good servant to the “ university called John Gilliver an. 1648 or 49.
“ This Brown, who was an informer to the visitors
“ and to the parliament soldiers in Oxon during “ their stay there, from the time of the surrender of “ the garrison thereof, to the return of king Charles “ II. concerning the actions and intentions of the “ royalists in and near Oxon (for which he was often
“ in danger of braining) hath written The Trades-
“ man's Kalendar of Accompts, &c. printed at Oxon
“ 1647, in one or more sh. in oct. and several times
“ after; and I think other things of accompts; in “ which (give the devil his due) he was excellent.
“ After his majesty's restoration he was turn'd out
“ of his clerkship, lived partly in Halywell for se“ veral years, and afterwards at North-merc near “ Oxon, where he dyed. In both which places he [964]

“taught arithmetic and accompts to the sons of “fanatical persons.

“EDMUND THORNE was born at Winchcombe in Gloucestershire, became a servitor of “Oriol coll. in 1653, took the degree of bach. of “arts Dec. the 17th, an. 1657, became afterwards
“fellow of Oriol college, then master of arts, July
“the 2d 1661. He published,

“*A Funeral Sermon upon the much lamented
“Death of Coll. Edw. Cook, who died in London “Jan. the 29th and was buried in the Chappel at “Highnam (or Higham) near Gloucester, on the “second of Feb. 1683, on Rev. 14. 13. Lond. 1684. qu.*

“JOHN HOLT, eldest son of sir Tho. Holt
“knt. serjeant at law, by Susan his wife daughter “of Joh. Peacock of Chawley near Commore in “Berks,⁵ was born in a market town called Thame
“in Oxfordshire, and educated in Abingdon school, “while his father was recorder of that town—“Qu. He became com. of Oriol coll. under the “tuition of Mr. Franc. Barry 1658, aged sixteen, “went to Gray’s inn before he took a degree, where “he became barrester. About the 12th or 13th of “February, 1685, he was made recorder of London, “in the place of sir Tho. Jenner, made one of “the barons of the exchequer, and a knight by the “favour of king James II.—removed thence, I “think, because he would not give his hand towards “the taking away the test. But The Detection of “the Court and State of England by Roger Coke
“—Vol. 2. lib. 5. p. 455, gives this account of “it, ‘And tho’ king James II. had no other wars,
“but against the laws and constitutions of the nation,
“yet he would have the act of the 1. 2. Ed.
“6. 2, which makes it felony without benefit of “clergy, for any soldiers taking pay in the king’s “service, in his wars beyond sea, and upon sea, or “in Scotland, to desert his officer, to extend to this “army thus raised by king James II. (an. 1687, “or about the latter end of 1686) and because the “recorder of London, sir J. Holt, would not expound
“this law to the king’s design, he was put “out of his place, and so was sir Edw. Herbert “from being chief justice of the king’s bench, to “make room for sir Rob. Wright to hang a poor “soldier upon this statute, and afterwards this statute
“did the work without any farther dispute.’
“In 1686, April 23 or thereabouts, he was called “to the degree of serjeant at law with many others.
“Ibid. eod. temp. the king’s serjeant at law. In “1689, May 4 or thereabouts, king William III.
“made him lord chief justice of the king’s bench.
“In 1689, Sept. 26, he was sworn of the privy “council at Hampton-Court.

“JOHN BRANDON, son of Charles Brandon

⁵ [See these ATHENÆ, vol. iii. col. 950.]

“a physician of Maidenhead in Berkshire, was born,
“as I have been informed, at Bray-wyke near “Windsor in the same county, entred a commoner
“in Oriol coll. 15 Feb. 1661, aged 17 years or “thereabouts, took one degree in arts, entertained
“for some time certain heterodox opinions, but afterwards
“being orthodox, entred into holy orders, “lived at Wargrave in his own country, became “rector of Finchamsted there, and one of those “ministers who us’d to preach a lecture at Reading “every Tuesday. He is the author of, “*Everlasting Fire no Fancy: being an Answer “to a late Pamphlet entit. The Foundations of “Hell-Torments shaken and removed, &c. wherein “the Author’s Considerations are considered and “his Cavils censur’d; together with a practical “Improvement of the Point, and the Way to escape

“the Damnation of Hell. Lond. 1678. qu.* The “title of the said Foundations of Hell-Torments, “&c. runs thus, *Of the Torments of Hell. The “Foundation and Pillars thereof discovered, “searched, shaken and removed: with many infallible
“Proofs, that there is not to be a Punishment
“after this Life for any to endure, that shall never “end, &c. Lond. 1658. in tw. and once or twice “after; written by an anabaptist (as I have been “informed by a bookish man) called Samuel Richardson,*
“who had before been author of Some brief “Considerations on Dr. Featley’s Book entit. The “Dipper dipt, &c. Lond. 1645. qu. The said “book also was long before answer’d by one Nich.
“Chewney, M. of A. in a book entit. *Hell with the “Everlasting Torments thereof asserted. (1)
“Quod sit, that there is such a Place. (2) Quid “sit, what this Place is. (3) Ubi sit, where it is, &c.
“Lond. 1660.* Mr. Brandon hath also written,
“Happiness at Hand: or, a plain and practical “Discourse of the Joy of just Men’s Souls, in the “State of Separation from the Body. Lond. 1687.
“oet. This book, which is dedicated to Dr. Rob.
“Woodward chancellor of the bishop’s court at “Salisbury, was written for the instruction of weak “Christians, and for the comfort of the afflicted.

“GEORGE ROYSE son of Will. Royse of “Martock in Somersetshire, was born there, became “a semi-commoner of S. Edmund’s hall in the beginning
“of Apr. 1671, aged 16 years, elected fellow of Oriol
“coll. when bach. of arts, entred into holy orders
“when master, became chaplain to Rich. lord Wenman
“of Oxfordshire, afterwards to George earl of Berkley, “then in ord. to his majesty king William III. (and “his qu.) with whom he went as chaplain into Ireland
“when he went to reduce that kingdom from king James “II. and his forces in the beginning of June 1690.
“After his return he was made chaplain domestic to “Dr. Tillotson archb. of Canterbury, who gave him
“the rectory of Newington in Oxfordshire, on the “death of Dr. Hen. Maurice in Nov. 1691. On [965]

" the first of Dec. following he was elected provost
 " of Oriel coll. on the death of Dr. Rob. Say, and " in the latter end of Feb. 1693 became dean of " Bristol on the death of Dr. W. Levet. He hath
 " printed,

" Several sermons, as (1) *Sermon preached before
 " the L. Mayor and Aldermen in Guildhall Chap-
 " pel, on Good-Friday, Mar. 29. an. 1689; on 1
 " Cor. 6. 14. Lond. 1689. qu. (2) Sermon preached
 " before the K. and Qu. at Whitehall, 28 Dec.
 " 1690; on 1 Joh. 5. latter Part of the third Verse.
 " Lond. 1691. qu. (3) *Serm. preached before the
 " K. at Belfast in Ireland, 14 June 1690, on Heb.
 " 11. former Part of the 33d Verse. Lond. 1691.
 " qu.

" WILLIAM TALBOT son of a father of both
 " his names of the city of Lichfield, esq; descended
 " from an antient and noble family, became a gent.
 " commoner of Oriel coll. in the very beginning of " the year 1674, aged 15 years, and in the year fol" lowing spoke a good speech in the encaenia (like
 " a child) that was none of his own. Afterwards
 " he took the degrees in arts, entred into orders,
 " married one.....Crisp's dau. (an attorney) living
 " in Chippingnorton, and was beneficed. At length
 " upon the coming to the crown of William prince
 " of Orange, he was by the endeavours of his kins-
 " man Charles Talbot earl of Shrewsbury, in great
 " favour with that king, promoted to the deanery
 " of Worcester in the place of the learned and reli" gious Dr. G. Hickes ejected from that dignity for " refusing the oaths to the said king and his queen,
 " in Apr. 1691. and in June following was diplo-
 " mated doctor of div. by Dr. Jo. Tillotson, archb.
 " of Canterb.⁶ He hath printed,

" Several sermons, as (1) *A Serm. in the Cath.
 " Ch. of Worcester upon the monthly Fast-Day,
 " 16 Sept. 1691; on Amos 4. 21. Lond. 1691. qu.
 " (2) Sermon preached before the Qu. at Whitehall,
 " 26 Feb. 1691; on Habak. 1. 13. Lond. 1692.
 " qu. (3) *The Unreasonableness and Mischief of " Atheism, preached before the Qu. at Whitehall,
 " on Friday 30 March 1694; on Psal. 14. 1. Lond.
 " 1694. qu.

WRITERS OF QUEEN'S COLLEGE.

" WILLIAM TROUGHTON, who writes
 " himself of Westmoreland, as having been born in " that county, was bred a scholar in Oxon as he " used frequently to say, but in what house there,
 " I cannot tell. True it is, that one Will. Trough-
 " ton a Cumberland man born, son of a father of " both his names of Wayberthwait in the said
 " county, priest, was matriculated in the university

⁶ [And created D. D. by diploma from the university of Oxford 8 Aug. 1699. RAWLINSON.]

" as a member of Qu. coll. in Mich. term 1634;
 " aged 20 years, but this person I cannot affirm to " be the same with the former, because their coun" ties differ. After Will. Troughton had left the " university without a degree, at which time he was " schismatically inclined, he became chaplain to " colonel Rob. Hammond governor of the isle of " Wight, an. 1647, and having occasion to be in " the presence-chamber while his majesty king
 " Charles I. was a prisoner in Carisbrook Castle,
 " the king would enter into disputation with him,
 " and he also with great confidence would answer
 " his majesty, as I have elsewhere⁷ told you. In
 " 1651, I find Will. Troughton to be minister of " Onlipp alias Wanlipp in Leicestershire, and soon
 " after minister of S. Martin's church in the city of " Salisbury, where the tradition is among the an-
 " tients, that he had been by trade a glover, and by " profession a notorious independent; and that " being a zealous brother for the cause, he shew'd
 " himself very forward in suppressing the insurrec-
 " tion of the generous cavaliers, when they rose to " deliver their enslaved country from bondage under
 " the conduct of the truly valiant and noble colonel
 " sir Joseph Wagstaff, col. Joh. Penruddock, Mr.
 " Hugh Grove, col. Rich. Bowle, maj. Henry
 " Clark, &c. on the 11th of March 1654; and at " that time, and after, became a bitter enemy in his
 " canting prayers, preachings and discourses against
 " the exil'd king's royal cause, malignants, as he
 " call'd them, and every thing that made for loyalty
 " or the church of England. After the restoration " of his maj. king Charles II. he was silenced and " put to trouble by some of the generous royalists
 " of Salisbury (of which matter is a pitiful and silly
 " story in the first vol. of Annus Mirabilis, which " was published in the beginning of Aug. 1661. p.
 " 73. numb. xiii) and after St. Bartholomew's day,
 " an. 1662, he retired to the city of Bristol, where
 " he had a gathered conventicle, continued there
 " some years, and thence removed to London, where " he carries on the same trade, if living. He hath
 " written,

" *Saints in England under a Cloud and their
 " Glory eclipsed in this Life: or, the Case of De" sertion briefly stated. Lond. 1648. oct.*

" *Scripture Redemption restrained and limited:
 " or, an Antidote against Universal Redemption in " ten Reasons or Arguments. Lond. 1652. oct.
 " answer'd by Jam. Browne.*

" *The Mystery of the Marriage Song and Mu" tual Spiritual Embraces between Christ and his " Spouse opened, in an Exposition with practical
 " Notes and Observations on the 45th Psalm.
 " Lond. 1656. oct. dedicated to the lord deputy of " Ireland, Charles Fleetwood, by an epist. dated at
 " New Sarum, 22 Apr. 1656.*

" *Causes and Cure of sad disconsolate Thoughts
 " in Christians, &c. Lond. 1676. 77. in tw.*

⁷ " In Joh. Troughton, an. 1681. vol. iv. col. 11.

[967]

"SAMUEL ANELEY, or as he lately wrote himself ANNESLEY, son of Joh. Aneley of Haseley in Warwickshire, was born (as the matric.^a book of the university tells us) in that county, admitted a student in Qu. coll. in Mich. term 1635, aged 15 years or thereabouts. At which time being put under the tuition of Mr. Tho. Lough, he seldom or never drank any beer, only water, and with much ado (being naturally dull, yet industrious) got to be bach. of arts, notwithstanding he that presented him to that degree (who did swear that he knew him to be aptus, habilis & idoneus) did take a hard oath for him. Afterwards he left the university without completing that degree by determination, an. 1639, took holy orders from a bishop,⁹ fell in with the rebellious times, preached long and loud, and at length getting the rich living of Cliffe in Kent (which belonged to an honest man, Dr. Griffiths, ejected thence¹) worth 300*l.* per an. was actually created doctor of the civil law, in one of the Pembrochian creations, an. 1648. and the reason why he had that degree confer'd on him, was because the aforesaid living is a peculiar, and hath a great jurisdiction belonging to the incumbent, who is to keep a court there several times in an year relating to testaments, marriages, &c. When he was created doctor, his contemporaries in Qu. coll. looked upon that act as the most scandalous thing in nature, because they knew very well that he knew nothing of the law. Nay, some of the gravest fellows there (particularly Dr. Barlow) have said it divers times in my hearing, when I was composing Hist. & Antiq. Univ. Oxon. that if the said Sam. Aneley could then have told the meaning or definition of Pandectæ, he should have freely had their votes to go out doctor of law. But so it was, that for his money, and favour of those in authority, he had that degree confer'd on him, as others then had degrees in other faculties that knew little or nothing of learning, to the great disgrace of the university. On the 26th of Jul. in the same year (1648) he preached a sermon before the house of com. in S.

^a "Lib. Matric. PP. fol. 95. b."

⁹ [He went into orders, says Calamy, that he might, with the authority of a minister, act the part of a chaplain in the ship called the Globe, under the earl of Warwick, at that time lord high admiral. Calamy has printed the certificate of his ordination, which bears date 18 December 1644. Ejected Ministers, Contin. p. 66.]

¹ [Calamy says that Annesley's predecessor was one 'whose life and conversation was notoriously scandalous,' upon which Dr. Walker remarks that if Dr. Griffiths Higgs be the person, the assertion is a vile and detestable calumny. Calamy took his account from Dr. Williams' sermon at Annesley's funeral, and is willing to suppose that the person whom Annesley succeeded was not Higgs, but some other incumbent, and that Williams's censure may be just. It is however certain that Griffiths Higgs was the ejected person, and that Annesley came to Cliff upon his ejection, so that the calumny rests with Dr. Williams.]

"Marg. ch. in Westminster, wherein he persuaded them to do justice upon the king, and not to treat with him any more, yet highly extolled and affirmed the obligation of the covenant. Whereupon it was ordered by the same house that thanks should be given to him, and that his sermon should be forthwith printed; which accordingly was done. Afterwards he took the engagement, ran with the Oliverian party, became preacher of the word in the church of S. John the Evangelist in Fridaystreet, preacher at Paul's, pastor of S. Giles's near Cripplegate in London, and on the 14th of Mar. 1659 he was appointed by act of parl. one of the commissioners for the approbation and admission of ministers of the gospel after the presbyterian mode; but that act soon after vanished when his majesty king Charles II. was restored. After the act of conformity was published in 1662, he refused to conform and thereupon lost his spiritualities, turned a preacher in conventicles, and carried on that trade to almost the time of his death. He published

"Several sermons, as (1) Fast Serm. before the House of Commons at St. Margaret's in Westm. on Job. 27. 5, 6. Lond. 1648. qu. This is the sermon which I have mention'd before. (2) Communion with God, in two Sermons preached at Paul's: The first on the 3d of Sept. 1654, on Psal. 73. 25, 26, and the second on the 25th of Mar. 1655 on the same Text. Lond. 1655. qu. (3) The first Dish at Wiltshire Feast, &c. preached on the 9th of Nov. before many Hundreds of worthy Citizens of Lond. born in that County; on 1 Chron. 12. 38, 39, 40. Lond. 1655. qu. (4) Sermon on Acts 24. 16. Lond. 1661. 'Tis the first serm. in The Morning Exercise at Cripplegate, printed 1661, as I shall tell you anon. (5) Sermon at the Funeral of Mr. Will. Whittaker late Minister of Magdalen Bermondsey in Southwark; on Zechar. 1. 5, 6. Lond. 1673. oct. (6) How we may attain to love God with all our Hearts, Souls and Minds, on Matth. 22. 37, 38. Lond. 1674 and 76. qu. This is in The Supplement to the Morning Exercise at Cripplegate, as I shall tell you by and by. (7) Sermon on Heb. 8. 6. Lond. 1676. qu. In The Morning Exercise methodiz'd, published by Tho. Case. (8) Of Indulgences; on Heb. 10. 14. Lond. 1675. qu. 'Tis the 19th sermon in The Morning Exercise against Popery, published by Nath. Vincent. (9) Sermon at the Funeral of the Reverend Mr. Tho. Brand on Joshua 1. 2. at the end of the said Mr. Brand's life, by this Dr. Aneley. Lond. 1692. oct.

"He hath also collected and published, The Morning Exercise at Cripplegate; or, several Cases of Conscience practically resolved by sundry Ministers. Lond. 1661. qu. dedicated with an epistle before it to his beloved parishioners of S. Giles's Cripplegate. The first sermon therein

[968] "is his, as I have before told you; and the tenth, which is on Matth. 7. 12. and entit. Wherein lies that exact Righteousness which is required between Man and Man, was preached by Mr. Joh. Tillotson,* then a nonconformist, since gainer of

* [In bishop Tanner's copy of the ATHENÆ is the following account of Tillotson in Wood's own hand-writing, and composed in his very worst humour. It is sufficiently curious to preserve in this place; nor at this time, when Tillotson's character is so well established, can there be any sufficient reason for its suppression.

Dr. Joh. Tillotson, of whome, by the way I desire that the reader know these things following. He was borne at Wakefield in Yorkshire, an. 1629, and educated in grammar-learning in those parts. In 1645 he became a student in Clare hall in Cambridge, being then or soon after, put under the tuition of a noted presbyterian called David Clarkson, who after his majesties' restoration became a zealous nonconformist, and was living in Lancashire in 1682. During the time he was undergraduat he had his education mostly and conversation under, and with, presbyterians and independents, took the covenant, and was esteemed a pretious young man, and of great hopes of doing good and honour for and to the blessed cause. When he had spent near 4 yeares there, he took the degree of bach. of arts at midsomer to qualifie him for a fellowship, which he obtained by a mandate from the rump parliament, it being the same fellowship, as I have been informed, from whence the most loyal Dr. Pet. Gunning had been ejected for not taking the covenant. While he was bach. of arts he was very magisterial in the government of the house over his equals and undergraduates, and was looked upon as the chief of that party, which by distinction were called 'new fellows.' One instance of his spite against the old fellows, was that he tampered with the sizers to put their hands to some articles drawne up by himself against some of the loyallists among them, in order to eject them from their fellowships, particularly against one Mr. Peale &c. I have been informed by one of his contemporaries* of that hall, that upon the thanks-giving day for Cromwell's victory at Worcester, an. 1651, Tillotson then being bach., Clare fellow, and a great leading and forward man, among the zealots for the blessed cause in that house, to take great care in ordering that to the hall-grace, which related to the giving of thanks for benefactors, should be added a clause to this effect; 'that thanks be given for the late victory obtained by his excellency Oliver Cromwell generalissimo of the parliament forces against Charles Stuart at Worcester fight.' About that time he took the engagement, and when master of arts, he was perpetual bursar, and took upon him the government of the house with great conceit, and was the occasion of keeping alwaies one or more fellowships void, pretending to pay the debts of the said house, but ran it farther in. Afterwards being esteemed abroad a beloved brother for the cause, he was pitched upon by Edm. Prideaux attorney general under prince Oliver to be tutor or guid to his son, who was in the yeare 1682 a factious gentleman living neare Taunton-Deane in Somersetshire. During his attendance on Prideaux, or soon after, Dr. John Hewitt preacher at S. Gregories church neare S. Pauls cathed. in London was beheaded for conspiring against the then power and authority, in the beginning of June 1658; whereupon this person Mr. Tillotson who was esteemed by the godly party as a fit man to succeed him was cried up by that party, and who should be the most forward of them to do it but Sam. Gellibrand, a bookseller living in S. Pauls church-yard, a most notorious schismatick of that time. But so it was, that the matter being ill resented by the loyal drapers living in the said yard, Mr. Tillotson, after one or considerable preferments. Our author Aneley hath collected also and published The Supple-

two month's attendance, thought it fit in prudence to give up the place. At that time he was a preacher here and there in London, and in May 1659 I find him one of the godly ministers who held forth in the morning exercise at S. Giles in the fields, neare London, as one of his sermons made extant shew. See in the fourth volume of ATHENÆ OXON. col. 135 in Tho. Lye. About that time he was a curat in an obscure village in Hertfordshire, as my informer tells me, but after the restoration of king Charles 2 he retired to London, and was one of the godly ministers who held forth at Cripplegate in the morning exercise there, and one of his sermons which he then preached on Matth. 7. 12, was published among other sermons preached there, by Dr. Sam. Aneley, all which beare this title The Morning Exercise at Cripplegate or several Cases of Conscience practically resolved by sundry Ministers, printed at Lond. 1661, in 4to. In 1662 the act of uniformity came out, and therefore he being silenced, he continued a nonconformist for some time, and preached frequently in conventicles. In one of his sermons, which was very severe against conformity, he had this passage (as Mr. George Gifford minister of S. Dunstons in the East usually reported) viz. 'that conformists were white surplices but had black soules' &c. About that time he was about to quit the ministry, and betake himself to a lay employment, but so it fell out, that he and several other godly divines called the saints, holding a consultation in order for conforming, Dr. Seth Ward was pitched upon as the only fit man to satisfie them in their scruples of conscience relating thereunto: who, after some pause on the matter, did it with this evasion, 'that they might lawfully do it, because the sense of the act of conformity extended no farther than to a personal compliance without their being any wayes obliged to press conformity on others' &c. Upon this Mr. Tillotson tacked about, expressed himself a conformist, took the oathes as a loyal minister, whereby the former oathes that he had taken became as almanacks out of date. Much about that time Mr. Sam. Fairclough sometimes of Queens coll. in Cambridge a great and noted nonconformist was removed from the rectory of Ketton in Suffolk worth 200l. per an. for nonconformity. Mr. Fairclough desired his parishioners, who were greatly desirous of his continuance with them, being now about to leave them, to joyne with their patron (Sir Sam. Barnardiston a great separatist) and himself, in settling some time apart to seek God, that he would send another pastor, one after his own heart, which they did, and Mr. Fairclough did also in private give himself earnestly to beg of God that he might have such a successor as that he himself might not be wanted. Indeed upon the removal of so eminent a person, it could be no easie thing for the patron to provide a man who might beare any proportion to him who had left them. An universall search in both the universities, and in the city and country was made for a man that might rise in his place, and might tread in his steps. At length this rev. and learned Mr. Tillotson was recommended to the patron, as a person of great worth and abilities, a man of a moderate and candid and of a large and generous temper: To him therefore was the presentation given, whereby much of the loss was repaired; it being also no small ease to the heart of their former minister that a man of that worth did succeed him. What continuance Mr. Tillotson made there I know not, sure I am that he was lecturer of S. Laurence church in the Jewry, while Dr. Wilkins was minister there, whose wife's daughter named . . . French, dau. of Dr. Pet. French by Robina his wife, sister to Oliver Cromwell, sometimes lord protector, he took to wife, and had several children by her. Afterwards wee find Mr. Tillotson preacher to the societie of Lincoln's inne, in which employment he continued several yeares, became doctor of div. and one of the chaplaynes in ord. to king Charles 2. While he continued preacher there, he was one of Dr. Joh.

* Simon Lowth a minister in Canterbury.

"ment to the Morning Exercise at Cripplegate,
"with an epist. of his writing before it. The first

Wilkins's club for a comprehension and limited indulgence for dissenters in religion, schismatically managed against the canons of the church, as being done without their diocesan or metropolitan. This club being generally knowne among the clergie of London, the diocesan and metropolitan did admonish Wilkins and Tillotson of it: notwithstanding which, after Wilkins's death, Tillotson and others, namely Dr. Will. Bates, Mr. Rich. Baxter and other non-conformists did renew the same designe, and their place of meeting was in the chamber of that great trimmer and latitudinarian Dr. Hezekiah Burton in Essex house, without Temple barr, being then the habitation of sir Orl. Bridgman, to whome Burton was chaplayne then, and while he was lord keeper. This modell of comprehension which was by them drawn up is mention'd in one of the pamphlets which Mr. Baxter afterwards published. On the 14 of Nov. 1672 this Dr. Tillotson who had wound himself into great favour at the court, by his florid behaviour and pretended moderation, was installed deane of Canterbury (in the place of Dr. Tho. Turner deceased) on the 14 of Nov. 1672, while antient and true hearted loyallists, who had lost all they had for his majestie's cause, and sometimes blood also and libertie, were contented with scraps or very meane preferment: and about that time became fellow of the royal society. In 1677 he was made canon resident of S. Pauls cathedral, in the room of Dr. Edw. Stillingfleet, made deane thereof, and in the next yeare the popish plot breaking out, he did in the heat thereof take upon him on his owne private account to pull down the Glory and Jesus motto over the altar in the choir at Canterbury, which had been set up after the restoration of king Charles 2 by Dr. Tho. Pierce, Dr. P. Gunning and other of the loyal canons; and this he did to ingratiate himself with the vulgar, who thereupon cried him up for a great reformer of scandal and superstition. The chapter had made a vote that the whole sept should be taken downe and a richer set up in the room: upon which this deane Tillotson took it for an advantage and pretended to take downe the glory and inscription without any other alteration. There is a statute belonging to the church of Canterbury which does oblige by oath the dean and every canon at their admission to bow low and reverently at their comming in and going out of the choir; but when the said plot broke out and the factions partly thereupon endeavoured to turne the scales of government in the prosecution and aggravation thereof, Dr. Tillotson to please the faction, and so consequently keep his place, if the times had turned, did not at all bow at his comming in and going out, but rather bend backwards, as in contempt, meerly as the then canons and others of the choir supposed to oblige the phanaticks, whom he alwaies favoured on every opportunity. In Sept. 1689 (the prince of Aurange being then in the throne) he became deane of S. Pauls cathedral upon the promotion of Dr. Stillingfleet to the see of Worcester, afterwards clerk of the king's closet, and at length archbishop of Canterbury, (to which see he was consecrated in the church of S. Marie-le-Bow on the 31 of May 1691) upon the deprivation of the most conscientious and religious archprelate Will. Saneroft D. D. who afterwards lived two or more yeares in a most retired and devout condition, being then esteemed by the non-jurors and others too a most holy confessor. Dr. Tillotson died at Lambeth of the dead palsey at about 3 of the clock in the afternoon of the 22 of Nov. 1694, and was buried on the 30 of the same month in the chancel of the church of S. Lawrence in the Jewry in London, at which time preached his funeral sermon Gilbert lord bishop of Salisbury, which being made public you may see much at the latter end thereof of the great worth of him the said Dr. Tillotson, who having in his life time published many books and sermons, I should here set downe their titles, but being too many for this place, I shal now pass them by.]

VOL. IV.

"sermon in it is his, as I have told you already.
"See more of him in Rich. Allein, col. 15.

[Dr. Annesley died in the 77th year of his age, December 31, 1696. His funeral sermon was preached by Dr. Daniel Williams, who printed it, with some account of his life and character. De Foe also wrote a character of him which is printed in the collection of that author's works. It should be recorded to his credit, that of all gifts, salaries and incomes whatever, Annesley always laid aside the tenths for charity, before any part was spent.

Dr. Annesley had a very large family; Dr. Manton baptizing one of his children, enquired how many he had, to which he replied, that he believed it was two dozen, or a quarter of a hundred. Duntton, the bookseller, married one of his daughters, Elizabeth, who died in 1697.]

"HENRY COMPTON, a younger son of
"Spencer earl of Northampton, descended from an
"antient and noble family living at Compton Vineat,
"commonly called Compton in the hole near Brailes
"in Warwickshire, was, as I have been informed,
"born there, became a nobleman of Queen's coll.
"an. 1649 or thereabouts, where continuing about
"3 years, retired and liv'd with his mother at Gryn-
"don in Northamptonshire. Afterwards he tra"velled beyond the seas, and at his return, which "was after the restoration of king Charles II. he "became a cornet in the royal regiment under the "command of Aubrey earl of Oxford. At length
"being persuaded to take holy orders, which was
"the readiest way to preferment for the younger
"sons of noblemen, he went to Cambridge, where "he was actually created master of arts. After"wards entring into orders, and obtaining a grant
"of the next canonry of Ch. Ch. in Oxon, he re"tired again to this university in the beginning of "the year 1666, and entring himself a canon-com-
"moner of the said house, by the advice of Dr.
"Joh. Fell the dean thereof, was in Apr. the same "year incorporated in this university in the same "degree, and in the year following he was upon
"the death of Dr. Will. Lewis made master of the "hospital of S. Cross near Winchester. On the "24th of May 1669 he was installed canon of Ch.
"Ch. in the place of Dr. Rich. Heylin deceased,
"and in the same year he took the degrees in di-
"vinity. On the 20th of Octob. 1674, he was "elected bishop of Oxford by the dean and chapter "of the church, upon the translation of Dr. N.
"Crew to Durham, and on the 6th of Decemb. fol"lowing was consecrated thereunto in the arch-
"bishop's chappel at Lambeth. In July or there-
"abouts, 1675, he was made dean of the royal
"chappel on the death of Dr. Blandford bishop of "Worcester, and in Decemb. following being trans-
"lated to the see of London on the death of Dr.
"Henchman, was confirmed therein on the 18th of

L L

"the same month." This translation was much promoted by some of the politic clergy, because they knew him to be a bold man, an enemy to the papists, and one that would act and speak what they would put him upon, which they themselves would not be seen in, as many prime papists used to say. On the 22d of Januar. following (1675) he was sworn one of the lords of his majesty's privy-council, and continued in good repute in that office till the death of king Charles II. But when king James II. came to the crown he was dismiss'd, for having before and then, behaved himself cross to him, as also from the deanery of the royal chappel, on the 16th of Decemb. 1685. On the 6th of Sept. 1686 he was suspended ab officio episcopi by the ecclesiastical commissioners lately appointed by his majesty, because he did not, when commanded, suspend Dr. Joh. Sharp minister of S. Giles's in the fields near London, for preaching against his majesty's declaration, and soon after were three bishops, viz. Durlham, Rochester, and Peterborough, commissioned to officiate in the spiritualities of the diocese of London. On the 23d of Sept. 1688, the prince of Orange being about to make his expedition into England, he was releas'd from his suspension, and when he was landed, he threw off his episcopalia and shew'd himself very active in the habit of a commander, till that prince came to Whitehall to take possession of the throne. On the 14th of Feb. or thereabouts, 1688, he was made privy councillor to the said prince, then king, by the name of William III. and in the beginning of Sept. 1689 he was impowred to act as archb. of Canterbury, because the then archb. refused to take the oath of allegiance to the said king. About the 21st of Nov. following he was elected prolocutor for the upper house of convocation of the clergy, to take into their consideration the alteration of common prayer in favour of the dissenters, and expressed himself forward enough in that matter. He hath published,

"A Treatise of the holy Communion. Lond. 1677, in oct. His name is not set to it.

"Letter to the Clergy of the Dioc. of London, concerning Baptism, the Lord's Supper, Catechism, &c. Lond. 1679. This letter, which is dated 25 Apr. 1679, was printed on one side of a sheet.

"Second Letter to the Clergy of the Dioc. of Lond. concerning. 1. The holy Communion. 2. Prayers in an unknown Tongue. 3. Prayers to Saints, &c. Lond. 1680. This letter dated at Fulham 6 Jul. 1680, was printed on one side of a sheet of paper. Afterwards came out 4 more letters concerning other matters, and each printed

[969]

³ [He held in commendam with the bishoprick of Oxford the canonry of Christ Church, the mastership of S. Cross and the rectory and vicarage of Witney. TANNER.]

"on one side of a sheet of paper. At length all six being printed together, had this title put to them; Episcopalia: or, Letters of Henry Bishop of London to the Clergy of his Diocese. Lond. 1686. in oct. The last of the said letters is dat. at Fulham 18 Apr. 1685.

"He hath translated from Italian into English, The Life of Donna Olympia Malduchini, who governed the Church during the Time of Innocent X, which was from the Year 1644 to 1655. Lond. 1667, written originally by abbot Gualdi.

"And from French into English The Jesuit's Intrigues: with the private Instructions of that Society to their Emissaries. Lond. 1669. in 9 sh. in qu. The first was translated out of a book privately printed at Paris: The second, (Private Instructions) was lately found in manuscript in a Jesuit's closet after his death; and both sent in a letter from a gent. at Paris, to his friend in London.

"CLEMENT ELLIS or ELIS, son of Ellis steward to Dr. Barnab. Potter bishop of Carlisle, was born near Penrith in Cumberland, became a servitor of Qu. coll. under the tuition of Mr. Tho. Tully, an. 1649, afterwards a poor serving child, tabarder, and when master of arts, fellow of the said house. After the restoration of his maj. king Charles II. he became household chaplain to William marquis (afterwards duke) of Newcastle, who confer'd on him the rectory of Kirkby in Nottinghamshire, where he now (1694) continues in great repute for his religion and learning. He hath published,

"Piæ Juventuti sacrum. An Elegy on the Death of the most virtuous and hopeful young Gentleman George Pitt, Esq. Oxon. 1658. in 4 sh. in qu.

"Poem to the King's most excellent Majesty, on his happy and miraculous Return to the Government of his three (now) flourishing Kingdoms. Lond. 1660. in two sh. in fol.

"Several sermons, as (1) Sermon preached 29 May 1661, the Day of his Majesty's Birth and happy Restoration, &c. preached before William Marq. of Newcastle in his House of Welbeck, on Psal. 118. 22, 23, 24. Oxon. 1661. qu. (2) Religion and Loyalty inseparable, preached at the Assizes held at Nottingham, 5 Sept. 1690; on Prov. 24. 21. Lond. 1690. qu. (3) The Christian Hearer's first Lesson, preached at S. Mary's Church in Nottingham. 4 Oct. 1694; on 1 Cor. 3. 7. Lond. 1694. qu.

"The Gentile Sinner: or, England's brave Gentleman characteriz'd, in a Letter to a Friend. Oxon. 1660. oct. Afterwards came out several editions of it, with corrections and additions.

"Catechism, wherein the Learner is at once taught to rehearse and prove all the main Points of Christian Religion. Lond. 1674. oct.

g
J

[970]

" Short and plain Discourse, useful to confirm the Weak and Unlearn'd in his Belief of the Being of God, and the Truth of Scripture.—Printed with the Catechism.

" The Vanity of Scoffing: in a Letter to a witty Gentleman. Lond. 1674. in 5 sh. in qu. There is no name set to it, only common report makes Cl. Ellis the author.

" Christianity in Short: or, the Way to be a good Christian, recommended to the Use of such as want either Time or Capacity for reading longer or learned Discourses. Lond. 1682. in twelves, and several times after.

" A Grammar.

" Right Foundation of Quietness, Obedience, and Concord, discovered in two seasonable Discourses, shewing. 1. The Folly of Man's Decrees. 2. The Stability of God's Counsel. 3. The Practice of true Humility; on Prov. 19. 21. and on Philip. 2. 3. Lond. 1684. oct.

" The Communicant's Guide: shewing a safe and easy Way to the Lord's Table: in Compassion to the poorer and weaker Sort of Christians. Lond. 1685. in tw.

" Rest for the heavy laden; promised by our only Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ to all sincere Believers, &c. Lond. 1686. in tw.

" Letter to a Friend; reflecting on some Passages in A Letter to the Dean of Paul's in Answer to the arguing Part of his first Letter to Mr. G. (Tho. Godden).—Printed 1687, in the time of king James II. See in what I have said of Joh. Sargeant and his works in my discourse of Dan. Whitby.

" The Reflector's Defence of his Letter to his Friend, against the furious Assaults of Mr. Joh. Sargeant in his Second Catholic Letter, &c. See there again.

" The Protestant resolv'd: or a Discourse shewing the Unreasonableness of his turning Rom. Catholic.—These three last pamphlets were written in the reign of king James II.

" Necessity of serious Consideration and speedy Repentance, as the only Way to be safe, both living and dying. Lond. 1691. oct.

" The Lambs of Christ fed with sincere Milk of the Word, in a short Scripture Catechism. Lond. 1692. oct.

" LANCELOT ADDISON son of Lancelot Add. a minister of God's word, was born at Mauldismearburne in the parish of Crosby-Ravensworth in the county of Westmorland, received his last preparations for the university in the grammar school at Appleby in the same county, sent by his relations to Qu. coll. in 1650, where he became a poor child, then tabarder, and when master of arts was made choice of to be one of the terrae filii for the act that was celebrated in 1658, but

" his speech reflecting much on the then saints in the university, he was brought upon his knees and made his submission and recantation for what he had said. Soon after he left the university and lived near Petworth in Sussex, where he continued till the restoration of his maj. king Charles II. Dr. Hen. King, who was at that time bishop of Chichester, being made sensible by the gentry of Sussex, how serviceable he had been among them (by a constant inculcation of loyal principles, when there was no small danger to own them) took him into his care, and would have certainly conferr'd upon him preferment, had he not been invited from him to go in the quality of a chaplain to Dunkirk, an employment he accepted of contrary to the sentiments of that worthy prelate. He stayed at Dunkirk till it was given up to the French by the English, an. 1662, or thereabouts, and from thence coming into England he was presently solicited to go for Tangier, and accordingly going, he staid there several years, being unwilling to leave that place till he had perfectly settled the affairs of the church, and provided for the security of the protestant religion, and put the management thereof in such an easy and safe method, as any might be able to maintain, what he had so well established. About the beginning of the year 1670 he came for England, with full purpose to return again to Tangier; but things were so contrived at home, that another being put into his place, he was disappointed of returning, and had been thereby wholly frustrated of a livelihood, had not a worthy knight, acquainted with his circumstances, bestowed upon him the small rectory of Mileston near to Amesbury in Wiltshire; whither he presently retired, and betook himself to a studious life. Afterwards he became præb. of Minor pars Altaris in the church of Salisbury in the place of Marmaduke Good deceased, chaplain in ord. to his majesty, and in 1675 he took both the degrees in divinity. In 1683, he being then, as I conceive, archdeacon of Coventry, the commissioners appointed for ecclesiastical affairs, did upon the death of Dr. M. Smalwood grant the deanery of Lichfield to him, in consideration of his former service at Tangier, and his losses by fire in Wiltshire. The books that he hath written, which were the effects of his retired life at Mileston, are these.

" West Barbary: or, a short Narrutiv of the Revolutions of the Kingdom of Fez and Morocco, with an Account of the present Customs, sacred, civil and domestic. Oxon. 1671. oct.

" The Primitive Institution: or, a seasonable Discourse of Catechizing. Wherein is shewn the Antiquity, Benefit and Necessity thereof. Together with its Suitableness to heal the present Distempers of this national Church. Lond. 1674. &c. in tw.

[971]

" The present State of the Jews: wherein is contained an exact Account of the Customs secular and religious. Lond. 1675, 76, &c. in tw.

" A Summary Discourse of the Misna, Talmud and Gemara.—Printed with the former book.

" A modest Plea for the Clergy; wherein is briefly considered the Original, Antiquity and Necessity of that Calling. Together with the spurious and genuine Occasions of their present Contempt. Lond. 1677. oct.

" The first State of Mahometism: or, an Account of the Author and Doctrine of that Imposture. Lond. 1678. oct.

" The Life and Death of Mahomet, the Author of the Turkish Religion, being an Account of his Tribe, Parents, Birth, &c. 1679. oct. 'Tis the same with the former, only the title alter'd.

" An Introduction to the Sacrament: or, a short, plain and safe Way to the Communion Table; being an Instruction for the worthy receiving of the Lord's Supper. Collected for, and familiarly address'd to, every particular Communicant. Lond. 1681. in tw. &c.

" A Discourse of Tangier, under the Government of the Earl of Tiviot, &c. Lond. 1685. qu. sec. edit.

" The Communicant's Assistant, being a Collection of Devotions to that Purpose. Lond. 1686. in tw. &c. He also wrote,

" The Catechumen: or an Account given by the young Person of his Knowledge in Religion, before his Admission to the Lord's Supper, as a Ground Work for the right Understanding of the Sacrament. Lond. 1690. &c. in tw.

" JOHN BRYDALL a Somersetshire man born, became a commoner of Qu. coll. in Mich. term 1651, aged 16 years or thereabouts, took one degree in arts 1655, left the university without completing it by determination, settled in Linc. inn, and became a barrester, but not bach. of law of this university, and whether of Cambridge I cannot tell. After his majesty's restoration he became secretary to sir Harb. Grimston master of the rolls, set up for a gentleman of eminent loyalty, and published,

" Speculum Juris Anglicani: or, a View of the Laws of England, as they are divided into Statutes, common Law, and Customs: incidently of the Customs appertaining to the City of London, together with Resolutions on several of them, given by the Judges at Westminster. Lond. 1673. oct.

" Jus Sigilli: or, the Law of England touching the four Seals, viz. Great Seal, Privy, Exchequer and the Signet. Lond. 1673. oct.

" Jus Imaginis apud Anglos: or, the Law of England relating to the Nobility and Gentry,

" faithfully collected and digested for common Benefit. Lond. 1675. oct.

" Jus Criminis. A compendious Collection of the Laws of England, touching matters Criminal. Lond. 1675. oct.

" Camera Regis: or a short View of London, containing the Antiquity, Fame, Walls, Bridges, Rivers, Gates, Tower, Cathedral, Courts, Customs, &c. of that renowned City. Lond. 1676. oct.

" Decus & Tutamen: or, a Prospect of the Laws of England, purposely framed for the Safe-guard of the King's Majesty, &c. To which are added peculiar Notes upon the Judgment of High Treason, &c. Lond. 1678. in tw. or oct.

" An Abridgment of the Laws of England, touching Treasons, Rebellions, Murders, Conspiracies, burning of Houses, Poisonings and other Capital Offences, &c. Lond. 1678, 79. oct.

" Jura Coronæ: His Majesty's Royal Rights and Prerogatives asserted against Papal Usurpations, and all other Antimonarchical Attempts and Practices. Lond. 1680. oct.

" JAMES TYRRELL, eldest son of sir Timothy Tyrrell of Shotover near Oxford knight, by Elizab. his wife sole daughter and heir of the most learned and religious Dr. Jam. Usher archb. of Armagh and primate of Ireland, was born (of an ancient and knightly family) in Great Queen-street in the parish of S. Giles's in the fields, in Middlesex, in the month of May, an. 1642. educated chiefly in the free-school at Camberwell in Surrey, entered a gent. com. of Qu. coll. 1657, continued there three years under the tuition of Mr. Tho. Tully, and Mr. Tim. Halton, went thence to the Inner Temple, was actually created M. of A. in 1663, called to the bar about two years after, but made no profession of the common law. Afterwards marrying he retired to his patrimony at Okeley near Brill in Buckinghamshire, was made one of the deputy-lieutenants and justices of the peace for that county: in which offices he continued till king James II. turned him and the rest out of commission, for not being assisting to take away the penal laws and test. He hath published,

" Patriarcha non Monarcha: or, the Patriarch unmonarch'd; being Observations on a late Treatise and divers other Miscellanies, published under the Name of Sir Rob. Filmer, Baronet, in which the Falseness of those Opinions that would make Monarchy jure divino are laid open, and the true Principles of Government and Property (especially in our Kingdom) asserted. Lond. 1681. oct.

" [See Censura Literaria, vol. i. p. 165, note, where an edition printed at Lond. 1673, is noticed.]

" A brief Disquisition of the Law of Nature, according to the Principles and Method laid down in the reverend Dr. Cumberland's (now Lord Bishop of Peterborough) Latin Treatise on that Subject: as also his Confutations of Mr. Hobbes's Principles put into another Method, with the Author's Approbation. Lond. 1692. oct.

" Bibliotheca politica: or, a Discourse by Way of Dialogue whether Monarchy be jure divino? Dialogue the first. Lond. 1691. qu. published about the beginning of March 1691. Besides this are nine more dialogues in qu. the second is, whether there can be made out from the natural or revealed law of God any succession to crowns by divine right? The third is, whether resistance of the supream powers by a whole nation, or people, in cases of the last extremity can be justified by the law of nature, or rules of the gospel? The fourth is, whether absolute non-resistance of the supream powers be enjoined by the doctrine of the gospel, and was the ancient practice of the primitive church, and the constant doctrine of our reformed church of England? The fifth is, whether the king be the sole supream legislative power of the kingdom; and whether our great councils and parliaments be a fundamental part of the government, or else proceeded from the favour and concession of former kings? The sixth and seventh is, whether the commons of England represented by knights, citizens and burgesses of parliament were one of the three estates in parl. before the 49 of Hen. III. and 18 of Ed. I.? The eighth is, a continuation of the former discourse concerning the antiquity of the commons in parliament, wherein the best authorities for it are proposed and examined, with an entrance upon the question of non-resistance, &c. The ninth dialogue is concerning these two questions, (1) whether by the antient laws of this kingdom, as well as by the statutes of the 13th and 14th of king Charles II. all the resistance of the king, or of those commissioned by him are expresly forbid, upon any pretence whatsoever? (2) Whether all those who assisted his present majesty king William III. either before or after his coming over into England, are guilty of the breach of this law? The tenth, which came out in 1693, is on these questions, (1) Whether a king of England can ever fall from, or forfeit his royal dignity for any breach of an original contract, or wilful violation of the fundamental laws of the kingdom? (2) Whether king William (commonly stiled the conqueror) did by the conquest acquire such an absolute unconditioned right to the crown of this realm, for himself and his heirs, as can never be lawfully resisted; or forfeited by any male-administration or tyranny whatsoever? The eleventh dialogue, which was published in 1694, is on these three questions, (1) In what sense all civil power is derived from God, and in what " sense may be also from the people? (2) Whether his present majesty king William, when prince of Orange, had a just cause of war against king James II.? (3) Whether the proceedings of his present majesty, before he was king, as also of the late convention, in respect of the said king James, is justifiable by the law of nations, and the constitution of government? The twelfth dialogue, which came out about the beginning of 1694, is on these following questions, (1) Whether the vote of the late convention, wherein they declared the throne to be vacant, can be justified from the ancient constitution and customs of this kingdom? (2) Whether the said convention declaring king William and queen Mary to be lawful and rightful king and queen of England, may be justified by the said constitution? (3) Whether the act passed in the said convention after it became a parliament, whereby Roman catholic princes are debarred from succeeding to the crown, was according to law? The thirteenth and last dialogue, which came out also about the beginning of 1694, is on these following questions, (1) Whether an oath of allegiance may be taken to a king or queen, de facto, or for the time being? (2) What is the obligation of such an oath, whether to an actual defence of their title against all persons whatsoever, or else to a bare submission to their power. (3) Whether the bishops who refused to take the oath of allegiance to their present majesties, could be lawfully deprived of their bishopricks? All which dialogues are collected out of the best authors, as well antient as modern. The general title put to them when the last dialogue was published is this, Bibliotheca Politica: or, an Enquiry into the antient Constitution of the English Government, both in Respect of the just Extent of the Regal Power, and the Rights and Liberties of the Subject, &c. At which time was also added an alphabetical index to the whole work.

" An Appendix to the Life of the Lord Primate Usher, containing a Vindication of his Opinions and Actions in Reference to the Doctrine and Discipline of the Church of England, and his Conforming thereunto, from the Aspersions of Peter Heylin D. D. in his Pamphlet called Respondet Petrus. This Appendix, which contains 33 pages in fol. is printed at the end of The Life of Dr. Ja. Usher L. Primate of Ireland, published by Rich. Parr D. D.—Lond. 1686. fol. Our author Tyrrell hath also published a book entit. The Power communicated by God to the Prince, and Obedience required of the Subject. Lond. 1661. qu. Pen'd by the said Dr. Usher, and by Mr. Tyrrel, dedicated to king Charles II.

" THOMAS HYDE, son of Ralph Hyde a minister, descended from the Hydes of Norbury

[974]

“ in Cheshire, was born at Billingsley (of which his father was then minister) four miles distant from Bridgnorth in Shropshire, on the 29th of June 1636, who, from his youth, having had a natural inclination to the Eastern languages, did begin to study them under his father, and afterwards in the year 1652 being admitted a student in King’s coll. in Cambridge he there met with the famous Abra. Wheelock, who being a most admired linguist did encourage and promote him in his Orientalian studies. After he had continued a little more than a year in that college, Mr. Wheelock conveyed him to London, made him one of the correctors of the Polyglot Bible, then about to be published by the learned Dr. Brian Walton afterwards bishop of Chester, he being the sole cause and contriver of setting forth that excellent work. Besides Mr. Hyde’s attendance in the correction of it, he set forth the Persian Pentateuch, as I shall tell you anon, and was helping in correcting the Arabic, Syriac, and Samaritan languages therein, and in collating various exemplars, as it is mention’d in the preface of the said work. In 1658 Mr. Hyde went to Oxon, and was admitted a student in Qu. coll. where he was soon after made Hebrew reader, which he yet (1694) keeps. In the beginning of Apr. 1659 the chancellor of the university (Rich. Cromwell) sent his letters to the members thereof in his behalf, which say that he is of full standing since his admission into the university of Cambridge, for the degree of master of arts, that he hath given public testimony of his more than ordinary abilities and learning in the Oriental languages, &c. Whereupon the delegates of the said university ordered on the 12th of the same month that he should accumulate the degree of master of arts by reading only a lecture in some of those languages, and that he have such fees remitted to him as belong to the university, &c. which order being confirm’d by the convocation on the same day, he was admitted master the next, and soon after was made second keeper of the Bodleian library in the place of Hen. Stubbe ejected. In Dec. 1665 he was by the suffrages of the doctors and masters elected head keeper of the said library on the resignation of Dr. Tho. Lockey, and in Oct. the next year was collated to the prebend of Yatminster secunda in the church of Salisbury on the death of Dr. Joh. Wall. On the 14th of Dec. 1678, he had the archdeaconry of Glocester (void by the death of John Gregory) confer’d on him by Prichett bishop of that place (whose wife was nearly related to the first wife of Hyde) and on the 3d of Apr. 1682 he was admitted Dr. of div. On the 22d of Dec. 1691 he was elected Arabic professor on the death of Dr. Edw. Pocock. The first of his labours that were published in print, was the part which he bore in the Polyglot Bible, printed at Lond. 1657: wherein he transcribed

“ the Persian Pentateuch out of the Hebrew characters, in which it was first printed at Constantinople, into the proper Persian characters; which by archb. Usher was then judged impossible to have been done by a native Persian, because oftentimes one Hebrew letter answer’d to divers Persian letters, which were hard to know. The same he afterwards translated into Latin, which was very well applauded by many. What he farther did in that work, is specified in the preface of it by the said Dr. Walton in these words.—
“ Nec prætereundus est D. Thom. Hyde summæ spei juvenis, qui in linguis Orientabilis supra ætatem magnos progressus fecit, quorum specimina dedit tum in Arabicis, Syriacis, Persicis, &c. corrigendis, tum in Pentateucho Persico characteribus Persicis describendo, qui antea solis Hebraicis extitit, ejusque versionem Latinam concinnando. The other works that he afterwards performed, the titles of them follow.

“ Versio Latina e Lingua Persica, & Commentarii in Observationes Ulugh-Beigi de Tabulis Longitudinis & Latitudinis Stellarum fixarum. Oxon. 1665. qu. together with Mohamedes Tixinus his Tables of the Declension and Ascension of the fixed Stars. It is a small part of a larger astronomical treatise of the said Ulugh, whereof there be divers Persian MSS. in Oxon. out of which this is translated, like as another hath formerly been by Joh. Greaves.

“ Catalogus Impressorum librorum Bibliothecæ Bodleianæ in Academia Oxon. Oxon. 1674. fol.

“ Epistola de Mensuris & Ponderibus Serum sive Senensium, &c. Oxon. 1688. oct. This is printed at the end of Dr. Edward Bernard’s book entit. De Mensuris & Ponderibus antiquis Libri tres. As also Epistola N. F. D. de Mariane Salomonis, annex’d thereunto by Dr. Hyde.

“ Annotatiuncula in Tractatum Alberti Bobovii Turcarum Imp. Mohammedis IV. olim Interpretis primarii de Turcarum Liturgia, Peregrinatione Meccana, Circumcisione, Ægrotorum Visitatione, &c. qu. Subjungitur Castigatio in Angelum a Sancto Joseph, Carmelitarum discalceatorum in Perside Præfectum olim generalem. Oxon. 1690. qu.

“ Versio Latina e Ling. Heb. & Notæ criticae & Geographicae in Itinera Mundi cosmographica, per Abr. Pristol (vel Peritsol.) Oxon. 1691. qu. With this is reprinted the former book, viz. Annotatiuncula, &c.

“ He also published, (1) Quatuor Evangelia & Acta Apostolorum Linguâ Malaicâ, Characteribus Europæis. Oxon. 1677. qu. (2) De Ludis Orientalibus Libri duo, &c. Oxon. 1694. oct. The first book of these two is divided into two parts; the first of which parts contains Mandragorias, seu Historia Shahiludii, &c. which is in Latin, and the second part Hist. Shahiludii, &c. which is in Heb. and Lat. This last was written UB.

P (M.)

Hyde
B ✓

Bob.

P

Ev. ✓

[975]

Hyde

“ by three Jews, viz. Rabbi Abraham Abben-Ezra, “ Rabbi Bonsenior Abben-Jacha, and by any-“ mus. Before the first of which parts Dr. Hyde “ hath put, of his composition, an epist. to the “ reader, a brief of the contents of the first book, a “ monition concerning the corrupt name of Oxon,
 “ and general prolegomena concerning Shahilude;
 “ and before the second part is put an Armilus-“ trium, &c. both which are dedicated to Sidney “ Godolphin baron of Rialton. This Historia Sha- “ hiludii had been published by it self in oct. at “ Oxon. an. 1689. The second book containing “ Historia Nerdiludii, hoc est dicere, Truncolorum,
 “ &c. Before which Dr. Hyde had a dedicatory
 “ epistle to John Hamden son of Rich. Hamden “ esq; a preface to the reader, and a brief of the “ contents of the book. He hath also translated
 “ The four Gospels of the Lord Jesus Christ, and
 “ the Acts of the holy Apostles into the Malayan “ Tongue. Oxon. 1677. qu. ded. to the hon. Rob.
 “ Boyle esq; at whose charge it was printed. Be“ fore this book Dr. Tho. Marshall rector of Linc.
 “ coll. hath an epist. for the reader dat. 9. Aug.
 “ 1677. printed in one sh. and half in qu.

“ Now in the year 1694 under the press by Dr.
 “ Hyde,

“ In Historiam Plantarum Oxoniensem Anno- “ tationes Nominum singularum Plantarum Lin-
 “ guâ Arabicâ & Persicâ & Turcicâ. The said
 “ history or herbal is in a large folio by Jacob Ro-
 “ bart, in pursuance of a former volume published
 “ by Dr. Morison.

“ Books of Dr. Hyde now in 1694 ready for the “ press,

“ Historia Religionis Veterum Persarum eorum-
 “ que Magorum, cum Zoroastris Vitâ & Præceptis “ ejusque de Christo Vaticanus. Unâ cum Speci-
 “ mine veteris Linguae & Scripturæ Persicæ jam “ postliminiò restituendæ. qu.

“ Historiæ Ægypti naturalis curiosæ de Anima- “ libus, Plantis, &c. Compendium Arabicæ & La- “ tinæ, cum Iconibus & Notis, oct.

“ Chinnuch seu Catechismus Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ “ Hebraicæ versus cum Notis. oct.

“ Books by Dr. Hyde designed for the press if “ he lives to finish them, he having already done “ something towards all of them.

“ 1. Grammatica pro Linguâ Persicâ. qu.

“ 2. Lexicon Persico Latinum. qu. crassiori.

“ 3. Lexicon Turcico Latinum. qu. crassiori.

“ 4. Nomenclator Mogôlo-Tataricum, cum Gram- “ maticâ ejusdem Linguae.

“ 5. Dissertatio de Tatariâ. Item Historia “ Churtitudii: & Dissertatio de Numerorum Notis “ earundemque Origine & combinandi Ratione, “ Doctrinâ novâ. oct.

“ 6. Curiosa Chinensia & Selanensia. oct.

“ 7. Historia Gemmarum Arabicæ & Latinæ, cum
 “ Notis. oct.

“ 8. Historia Tamerkanis Arabicæ & Latinæ,
 “ cum Notis. qu.

“ 9. Liber Bustân Persicæ & Latinæ, cum No- “ tis. Liber elegantissimus Autore Scheia Shadi.
 “ qu.

“ 10. Divini Poëtæ Hâphix Opus Persicæ &
 “ Latinæ, cum Notis. qu.

“ 11. Abulphedæ Geographia Arabicæ & Latinæ,
 “ cum Notis. qu.

“ 12. Liber Bahâristân eloquentissimo Stylo con- “ scriptus, meri Ingenii Specimina continens, Li- “ brum Gulistân aquans, si non superans, Persicæ
 “ & Latinæ, cum Notis. qu.

“ 13. Maimonidis Liber More Nevochim tran- “ scriptus ex Characteribus Hebraicis quibus à “ Maimonide scriptus est, in proprios Arabicos, cum “ novâ Versione & Notis, Arabicæ & Latinæ. qu.
 “ majori & crassiori.

“ 14. Historia Regum Persicæ ex ipsorum Mo- “ numentis & Autoribus extracta. qu.

“ 15. Annotationes in difficiliora Loca Biblica
 “ ex literaturâ Orientali. qu. crassiori.

“ 16. Periplus Marium Mediterranei & Archi- “ pelagi Turcicæ & Latinæ cum Circulo Ventorum
 “ in variis Linguis Arabicâ, Persicâ, Chinensi,
 “ &c. oct.

“ 17. Zoroastris Perso-medi Opera omnia ma- “ thematico-medico-physico-Theologica Persicæ & “ Latinæ, folio.

“ 18. Liber Erdaviraph-name Persica & Latine.
 “ qu.

“ 19. Lexicon Hebraicum emendatum ex MSS.
 “ Lexicis Rabbi Pirchon, R. Jonæ, & R. Jesaiæ “ atque ex Collatione cum Linguis Arabicâ & Per- “ sicâ & aliis Linguis Orientalibus, qu.

“ 20. Cælum Orientale Arabico-Persicum atque
 “ Occidentale Græco-Latinum, unâ cum Saphii “ Figurationibus Stellarum duplici Situ, prout in “ Cælo & prout in Globo apparent, cum earum No- “ minibus secundum harum Gentium Doctrinam.
 “ qu.

“ 21. Commentarius in Pentateuchum Arabicæ, “ Auctore Mansûr Syro-Arabe ex Scripturâ Ger- “ shumi in Arabicam transcriptus & Latinitate “ donatus. qu.

“ 22. Urbium Armeniæ Nomenclaturæ ex eorum “ Geographiâ excerptæ, &c.

“ 23. Varia Chinensia sc. eorum Idololatria, “ Opiniones de Deo & de Paradiso, atque de Ge- “ hennâ & de Gradibus & Modis supplicii; de “ eorum Literaturâ & Libris & Chariâ, & de im- “ primendi Modo atque Antiquitate, &c. omnia ex- “ cerpta ex Ore & Scriptis nativi Chinensis Shin
 “ Fo-burgh. oct.

“ 24. Varia Selanensia, ubi Insulæ Selan (vulgò “ Batavis Ceylon) Historica quadam & vocabula- “ rium genuinis eorum Characteribus exaratum
 “ cum eorum Alphabeto & aliis Rebus. oct.

“ 25. Bantamense Alphabetum à Legato Scrip-

[976]

"tum cum Literarum Potestate & Numerorum
" Notis. oct.

" 26. Notæ Arithmeticæ variarum Gentium, ubi
" tatum Notarum Origo & combinandi Ratio doce-
" tur. oct.

" 27. Dialogi Arabico-Persico-Turcici, Latine
" versi. oct.

" 28. Liber de Turcarum Opinionibus in Rebus
" Religiosis Turcicè & Latine. oct.

" 29. Utilia mensalia sc. quid in Conversatione
" Convivali decorum est; Arabicè & Lat. oct.

" 30. Rivola Lexicon Armenicum cum Linguis
" Orientalibus (sc. Arabicâ Pers. & Turcicâ) Col-
" latum & in Margine Notatum. qu.

" 31. Evangelium Lucæ & Acta Apostolorum
" linguâ & Characterè Malaico. qu.

" This learned man also translated into English
" the letters of several eastern kings and princes
" sent to king Charles II. king James II. and king
" William III.

" JOSEPH HAYNES, or HEYNES, matricu-
" lated as a servitor of Qu. coll. 3 May 1689. Mr.
" J. Tirrel saith he is a great actor and maker of " plays—but I find him not either in Langbain, or " term cat.

" WILLIAM WYCHERLEY, the eldest son
" of Dan. Wych. of Clive in Shropshire, became a " fellow com. of Qu. coll. a little before the restora" tion of king Charles II. but wore not a gown, only
" lived in the provost's lodgings, was entred in the " public library under the title of philosophiæ stu-
" diosus in Jul. 1660. being then about 20 years of " age, departed without being matriculated, or a " degree confer'd on him, having been by Dr. Bar-
" low reconcil'd to the protestant religion, which he " had a little before left in his travels beyond the " seas. Afterwards he retired to the Inner Temple,
" where, for his admired plays and poetry, being
" numbred among those of the first rank, became
" noted among the wits of the city, particularly to
" John earl of Rochester, who brings him into his " poem called A Session of Poets, thus,

" Brawny W . . . was the next man shew'd his face,
" But Apollo e'en thought him too good for the " place,
" No gentleman writer, that office shou'd bear, }
" 'Twas a trader in wit, the lawrel shou'd wear, }
" As none but a citty, e'er makes a lord mayor. }

" Elsewhere in the⁶ poems of the said earl he is
" thus characterized.

⁵ " In his Poems on several Occasions, printed 1680. p.

" 111."
⁶ " Ibid. p. 42."

" Of all our modern wits, none seems to me
" Once to have toucht upon true comedy,
" But hasty Shadwell and slow Wycherley. }

[977]

" He hath written and published,
" Love in a Wood: or, St. James's Park, Co-
" medy. Lond. 1672. qu.

" The Gentleman Dancing-Master, Comedy.
" Lond. 1673. qu.

" Plain-Dealer, Com. Lond. 1677. qu. Of which " play and its author Joh. Dryden the poet laureat
" gives a good character.

" Country Wife, Com. Lond. 1683. qu.

" JOHN MILL, son of Thomas, son of John
" Mill, or Milln of Banton near Shapp in West-
" moreland, was born at Shapp, became a poor
" serving child of Queen's coll. an. 1661. tabarder
" when bac. of arts, and fellow when master. Af" terwards taking holy orders, he became a florid
" preacher, and a noted tutor, a minor prebendary
" of the cath. ch. at Exeter, when Dr. Lamplugh " became bishop of that place (to whom he was
" chaplain) rector of Blechingdon in Oxfordshire
" on the death of Hen. Denton, in Aug. 1681, (he " being then bach. of div.) and in the beginning of
" Dec. following he was licensed to proceed in the " said faculty. About that time he became chap" lain in ord. to his majesty king Charles II. and " on the 5th of May 1685 was elected and admitted
" principal of St. Edmund's hall in the place of Dr.
" Tho. Crostwait removed thence.

" He hath published, A Sermon preached on the " Feast of the Blessed Virgin Mary at St. Martin's
" in the Fields in Westminster; on Luke 1. 28.
" printed at the Savoy. 1676. qu.

" JOHN HAWLES, son of Tho. Hawles gent.
" was born in the close within the city of Salisbury,
" educated in Wykeham's school near Winchester,
" became a com. of Queen's coll. in the beginning
" of 1662, aged 17 years, left the university with" out a degree, became a student in Lincoln's inn,
" a barrester and person of note for his profession;⁷
" upon the turn of the times made by the prince of " Orange, he became a great Williamite, and wrote
" this book following by way of reflection on the " injustice (as he thought) of certain judges and " other persons in the latter end of king Charles
" II. and beginning of king James II. In Oct.
" 1691, he stood in competition with sir Barthol.
" Showers for the recordership of London, but lost
" it. He hath published

" Remarks upon the Tryals of Edw. Fitzharris,
" Steph. Colledge, Count Conningsmarke, the Lord

⁷ [After 'profession' Wood wrote but ill-natured, turbulent and inclining to a republic. This was taken out by bishop Tanner.]

" Russel, Col. Alg. Sydney, Hen. Cornish, and Charles Bateman; as also of Shaftsbury's Grand Jury, Wilmore's Homine replegiendo, and the Award of Execution against Sir Tho. Armstrong. Lond. 1689. fol. It was publish'd about the beginning of March 1688. He also wrote "A Reply to a Sheet of Paper entit. The Magistracy and Government of England Vindicated: Or, a Justification of the English Method of Proceedings against Criminals: By Way of Answer to The Defence of the late Lord Russel's Innocence, &c. Lond. 1689. fol.

" ANTHONY HORNECK was born at Bachweach^a in the lower Palatinate in Germany, bred in the university of Wittemberg, of which he was made master of arts, retired to Oxon in 1661, and in the middle of March 1663 being incorporated in this university in the same degree, was soon after made one of the chaplains of Queen's coll. by the favour of Dr. Tho. Barlow the provost (who also exhibited to his studies) where continuing for some years (in which time he supplied the curatship of All-saints church in Oxon) he retired to London, became minister of St. Mary-le-Strand and the precinct of the Savoy, within the liberty of Westminster, chaplain to Christopher duke of Albemarle, doctor of div. of Cambridge in 1681, purposely to oblige the said duke, who had then a prospect of being shortly after made chancellor of that university, as he was. About that time our author Horneck became prebendary of Exeter, and in June or July 1693 preb. of Westminster in the room of Dr. Sam. De l'Angle deceased, being then chaplain in ord. to their majesties king Will. and queen Mary. He is a frequent and florid preacher, and very popular in London and Westminster; and hath published,

" The Great Law of Consideration: or, a Discourse, wherein the Nature, Usefulness and absolute Necessity of Consideration, in Order to a truly serious and religious Life, are laid open. Lond. 1676. oct. Afterwards, being corrected and enlarged, it was reprinted an. 1677, 78, &c. oct.

" Letter to a Lady revolted to the Romish Church, &c. Lond. 1678. in tw.

" The happy Ascetick: or, the best Exercise. Lond. 1681, &c. oct. The 3d edit. of this, and the letter following, is corrected and enlarged, with Prayers at the End of each Exercise. [Lond. 1693. 8vo.]

" Letter to a Person of Quality concerning the holy Lives of the Primitive Christians—— printed with The happy Ascetick.

" The Fire of the Altar: or, certain Directions how to raise the Soul into holy Flames, before, at, and after the Receiving of the blessed Sacra-

" ment of the Lord's Supper; with suitable Prayers and Devotions. Lond. 1683, &c. in tw.

" Dialogue betwixt a Christian and his own Conscience, concerning the true Nature of the Christian Religion——This is prefixed to The Fire of the Altar, before-mention'd.

" Delight and Judgment: or, a Prospect of the great Day of Judgment, and its Power to damp and imbitter sensual Delights, Sports and Recreations. Lond. 1683. oct.

" The Exercise of Prayer: or, a Help to Devotion. Being a Supplement to the happy Ascetick, or best Exercise: containing Prayers and Devotions, suitable to the respective Exercises; with additional Prayers for several Occasions. Lond. 1685. &c. oct.

" The First-fruits of Reason: or, a Discourse shewing the Necessity of applying our selves betimes to the serious Practice of Religion. Lond. 1685. oct.

" The crucified Jesus: or, a full Account of the Nature, End, Design and Benefit of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, with necessary Directions, Prayers, Praises and Meditations, to be used by Persons who come to the holy Communion. Lond. 1686. oct.

" Advice to Parents, &c. Lond. 1690.

" Several sermons, as (1) Sermon preached at the Funeral of Mrs. Dorothy St. John, fourth Daughter of the late Sir Oliv. St. John, Kt. and Bt. of Woodford in Northamptonshire, in the Parish Church of St. Martin's in the Fields, 24 June 1677; on Rom. 8. 20. Lond. 1677. qu.

" (2) God's Providence in the Midst of Confusions, represented in a Serm. at the Savoy, 30 Jan. 1681, being the Anniversary of the Martyrdom of King Charles I. on Psalm 99. 1. Lond. 1682. qu.

" (3) Sermon preached at Fulham in the Chappel of the Palace, upon Easter-day 1689, at the Consecration of Gilbert Lord Bishop of Sarum, on 2 Tim. 1. 6. Lond. 1689. qu. (4)

" The Nature of true Christian Righteousness, Serm. preached before the King and Queen at Whitehall, 17 Nov. 1689; on Matth. 5. 20. London 1690. qu. (5) The Happiness of being saved from the second Death, preached at the Funeral of the pious and virtuous Lady Arabella

" Lacy late Wife of Will. Yate Esq; who was interred at Shipton (under Wood) in Oxfordsh. 2 Apr. 1695; on Rev. 20. 6.——Lond. in the Savoy 1695. qu.

" He also translated out of the German language into English, A wonderful Story or Narration of certain Swedish Witches, which is in a book written by Jos. Glanvill, entit. Sadducismus Triumphans, &c. published by Dr. Hen. More: In the second edition of which book is a preface to The wonderful Story of the Swedish Witches more correct and full; where also is an addition of a new relation from Sweedland, translated by

M M

[978]

^a [Baccharack.]

[979]

"our author Horneck out of the German language above what was in the former edition. Dr. Horneck also translated from the French into English, An Antidote against a careless Indifferency in Matters of Religion; being a Treatise in Opposition to those, that believe that all Religions are indifferent, and that it imports not what Men profess. Wherein the vulgar Objections of Atheists, Scepticks, Libertines, Latitudinarians, &c. are succinctly answer'd. Lond. 1693. (oct.) with an introduction by Dr. Horneck; who also with Dr. Gillb. Burnet published, The last Confession, Prayers, and Meditations of Lieutenant John Stern, delivered by him on the Cart immediately before his Execution, to Dr. Burnet. Together with the last Confession of George Borosky, signed by him in the Prison, and sealed up in the Lieutenant's Pacquet. With which, an Account is given of their Deportment, both in the Prison and at the Place of their Execution, which was in the Pall-Mall on the 10th of March, in the same Place in which they had murdered Tho. Thynn, Esq; on the 12th of Feb. before, An. 1681. Lond. 1682. in 7 sh. or more in fol. Which book or pamphlet, tho' said in the title to be written by Gillb. Burnet and Anth. Horneck, doctors of div. yet in the advertisements to the 129th number of The Loyal Intelligence, published by Nath. Thompson, 'tis said that the book was translated out of High Dutch into English by Anth. Horneck; who also collected and published Some Discourses, Sermons and Remains of Mr. Jos. Glanvill—Lond. 1681. qu. to which our author put a short preface; as also another larger before a book entit. The true Interest of Families: or, Directions how Parents may be happy in their Children, and Children in their Parents, &c. Lond. 1690. 92. in tw. Written by a divine of the church of England, viz. James Kirkwood rector of Astwick in Bedfordshire."

[Horneck was M. A. 15 March 1663; tutor to the duke of Albemarle's son; rector of Doulton in Devonshire at the presentation of that duke, went into Germany in 1669. RAWLINSON.

The duke of Albemarle gave Horneck the living of Doulton in Devonshire. In 1671 he was chosen preacher at the Savoy, upon which he resigned his living in Devonshire, being irreconcilable to pluralities and non-residence. He and Dr. Beveridge had the chief direction of the religious societies, which began to be formed in the reign of James the second. MACHO.

The last preferment Horneck received was a prebend in the church of Wells, to which he was presented by Dr. Kidder bishop of that see, Sept. 1694.

He died of the stone, at his house near Westminster abbey, January 31, 1696-7, in the 56th year of his age, and was buried in the abbey adjoining.

Add to Horneck's works

Questions and Answers concerning the Two Religions, that of the Church of England, and that of the Church of Rome: intended for the Use and Benefit of the younger Sort of People. 1688. Published likewise in French by C. G. Delamothe, one of the ministers of the French church in the Savoy; and again in 1723 in French and English, in opposite columns, at the charge of the commissioners of the proselites, by the means of J. Chamberlaine esq. their treasurer; to whom I communicated the English edition which for a long time had been in vain sought after. WATTS.

Several Sermons upon the fifth of St. Matthew being Part of Christ's Sermon upon the Mount. Lond. 1720. 8vo. RAWLINSON.

An Answer to the Soldier's Question: What shall we do?

"THOMAS MACHEL (malus catulus) son of Lanc. Mach. of Crakenthorp in Westmoreland, matric. Feb. 5. 1663-4. afterward became a poor serving child, tabarder and fellow of Queen's coll. Afterwards he was minister of Kirby-Thore in Westmoreland. He hath written

"A Letter to Sir Will. Dugdale, dat. 25 Mar. 1684. concerning some Antiquities found at Kirby-Thore—This letter is in the Philos. Transact. nu. 158—Apr. 20. an. 1684.

"Survey, or Antiquities of Westmoreland—MS.

"JOHN FLOYER, son of Rich. Floyer of Hintes in Staffordshire, esq; became a com. of Queen's coll. in the beginning of the year 1664, aged 15 years, took the degrees in arts, that of master being completed in 1671, entered on the physick line, took the degrees in that faculty, practised in the city of Litchfield, became a knight, and much in esteem in those parts for his practice. He hath published

"The Touchstone of Medicines, wherein is discovered the Virtues of Vegetables, Minerals and Animals, &c. Lond. 1687. in two vol. in oct. The first vol. is divided into 3 parts. (1) Of Tastes and Odors in general. (2) A philosophical Essay how to discover the Virtues of Plants, whether spontaneous in England, or found in Gardens and Shops. (3) Of the Tastes and Smells of the Products of Vegetables, viz. Gums, Rosins, Turpentine. The second vol. contains 4 parts. (1) Of the Taste and Virtues of Minerals, and the Similitude of their Principles to those of Vegetables. (2) Of the Tastes and Virtues of Animal Medicines, and the Origin of Animal Humours. (3) Containing the Classes of Specifics, which are distinguished by their Oyls and the Humours which are correct. (4) A new Method for distinguishing Plants into Classes; by their Tastes and Smells—This second vol. was "printed at Lond. 1691. oct. To which was added

"by the author,

"*An Appendix, wherein the Animal Medicines
"are reduced into a Scheme by their Tastes; the "Mineral are also digested under their several "Tastes, and many Observations are added which "were omitted in the preceding Parts.*

"RICHARD LEIGH, a younger son of Edw.
"Leigh of Rushall in Staffordshire esq; became a
"com. of Queen's coll. in Lent term 1665, aged 16
"years, took one degree in arts, and then going to "London became one of the players belonging to "the play-house, either of king Charles II. or of "James duke of York. He hath written

"*The Transposer rehearsed: or, the fifth Act
"of Mr. Baye's Play: Being a Postscript to the "Animadversions on the Preface to Bishop Bram-*
"hall's Vindication. Oxon. 1673. oct.

"*A Censure of the Rota: On Mr. Dryden's
"Conquest of Granada.* Oxon. 1673. in 3 sh. in
"qu.

"Poems upon several Occasions, and to several "Persons. Lond. 1675. in a thin oct.

"JOHN OLLYFFE, son of a father of both
"his names of Arundell in Sussex, became a batler
"of Qu. coll. in Lent term an. 1667, aged 20 years
"or more, having before spent about 3 years in "studying logic and philosophy in Cambridge:
"Afterwards translating himself to New inn, took
"the degree of bach. of the civil law, holy orders,
"and afterwards became rector of Almer in Dorset-
"shire. He hath published

"*England's Call to Thankfulness for her great
"Deliverance from Popery and Arbitrary Power,
"by the glorious Conduct of the Prince of Orange
"(now King of England) in the Year 1688; in "a Sermon preached at Almer in Dorsetshire 14
"Feb. 1688; on Psalm. 126. 3.* Lond. 1689. qu.

"*A brief Defence of Infant Baptism, with an
"Appendix, wherein is shewed, that it is not ne"cessary that Baptism should be administred by "Dipping.* Lond. 1694. in qu.

"ROBERT BURSCOUGH, son of Tho. Burs-
"cough of Cartmel in Lancashire, was born there,
"became a servitor of Queen's coll. an. 1668, aged
"17 years, took one degree in arts, became vicar of "Totness in Devonshire, master of arts 1682, a
"learned man, zealous for the church of England,
"and very exemplary in his life and conversation.
"He is author of

"*A Treatise of Church Government: occasion'd
"by some Letters lately printed concerning the "same Subject.* Lond. 1692. oct. This is an an"swer to The Nature of Church Government
"freely discussed, &c. written by Rich. Bur-
"thogge.

"Preface to a book entit. Sanctification by Faith

"vindicated, &c. Lond. 1693. qu. written by "Zachary Mayne.

"WILLIAM NICHOLSON, son of Joseph
"Nich. minister of Plumland in Cumberland, be"came a student in Qu. coll. in Midsummer term
"an. 1670, aged 15 years, afterwards a poor serving
"child, and when tabarder and bach. of arts, sir
"Joseph Williamson then one of the secretaries of "state sent him to travel into Germany, where he "did undergo many and great hardships, and in "his return he visited France. In 1679 he pro"ceeded in arts, and forthwith was made fellow of "his college; about which time he became chaplain
"to Dr. Edw. Rainbow bishop of Carlisle, who in "the year 1681 gave him a canonry in the church
"of Carlisle, a benefice in Cumberland, and in "Sept. 1682 the archdeaconry of Carlisle, in the "place of Tho. Musgrave resigning. He hath
"written

"Description of Poland.

"Descript. of Denmark—These two are in the "first vol. of The English Atlas, printed at Oxon.
"1680. fol.

"Description of Part of the Empire of Ger-
"many, viz. the upper and lower Saxony, the "Dukedomes of Mecklenburgh, Bremen, Magd-
"burgh, &c. the Marquisates of Brandenburg,
"and Misnia, with the Territories adjoining, the "Palatinate of the Rhine, and the Kingdom of "Bohemia. Oxon. 1681. fol. This is the second
"vol. of The English Atlas, published by Moses
"Pitt bookseller, and by him dedicated to qu. Ca-
"tharine the royal consort of king Charles II.

"Description of the remaining Part of the Em- "pire, viz. Schwabenn, the Palatinate of Bavaria,
"Archdukedome of Austria, Kingdom of Hungary,
"Principality of Transilvania, the Circle of West-
"phalia; with the neighbouring Provinces. Oxon.
"1683. fol. This is the third vol. of The English "Atlas, dedicated by the said Moses Pitt to Beatrix
"dutchess of York.

"Several sermons, as (1) *Sermon preached in
"the Cath. Ch. of Carlisle on Sunday the 15th of "Feb. 1684, being the next Day after King Jam.
"II. was proclaimed King in that City; on Prov.
"24. 21.* Lond. 1685. qu. dedicated to Philip
"Musgrave esq; one of the clerks of the privy-
"council, &c.

"This William Nicholson is also author of *A "Letter to Mr. Obad. Walker Master of Univ.
"Coll. concerning a Runic Inscription at Beau-
"castle*—dat. at Carlisle 2 Nov. 1685. Pub"lished in the Phil. Transact. nu. 178. Dec. 1685.
"and also of a *Letter to Sir Will. Dugdale con"cerning a Runic Inscription on the Font at Bride-
"kirk*.—dat. at Carlisle 23 Nov. 1685—Ibid.

"HUMPHREY SMITH, son of Jasper Smith
"of Chewstoke near Bristol in Somersetshire, was
"M M 2

[980]

[981]

"born there, became a batler or servitor of Qu.
"coll. an. 1671, aged 16, took the degrees in arts,
"and being esteemed a very sober and learned man,
"was made vicar of Dartmouth in Devonshire,
"where his life and conversation is extraordinary
"sober and exemplary. He hath publish'd

"*Two Funeral Sermons preached in St. Sa-
"viour's Church in Dartmouth; on Psal. 39. 6.
"and on Eccles. 4. 2. Together with a Preface,
"giving some Account of the Reasons why they "were made public.* Lond. 1690. qu. It seems "that the author being abus'd and back-bitten by "a notorious schismatic of Dartmouth called John
"Flavell, and his disciples, for various matters men-
"tion'd in those sermons, he therefore published
"them, and gave reasons for what he had done.

"HUGH TODD, son of Tho. Todd of Hutton
"in Cumberland clerk, was born at Blencow in the "same county, became a poor scholar of Queen's
"coll. in the beginning of the year 1672, aged 14
"years, afterwards a poor serving child, and when
"bach. of arts, tabarder of the said house. On the "23d of Dec. 1678, he was elected fellow of Uni-
"vers. coll. and proceeding master of arts soon
"after, he became chaplain to Dr. Tho. Smith
"bishop of Carlisle, one of the four canons of Car-
"lisle, an. 1685, and in the same year was insti"tuted vicar of Stanwix in the diocese thereof.
"In 1693 he proceeded doctor of div. He hath
"written

"The Description of Sweden—This is in the "first vol. of The English Atlas, printed at Oxon.
"1680. fol.

"*Notitia Ecclesiae Cathedralis Carlolensis: una
"cum Catalogo Priorum, dum Conventualis erat,
"& Decanorum & Canonicorum quum Collegiata.
"Notitia Prioratus de Wedderhall; cum Catalogo
"omnium Benefactorum qui ad ambas has sacras
"Aedes struendas, dotandas, & ornandas Pecuni-
"am, Terras & Ornamenta, vel aliqua alia Be-
"neficia, pie & munificè contulerunt.* These two,
"which are in a quarto MS, were written in 1688,
"and by their author dedicated to the dean and
"chapter of Carlisle.

"*History of the Diocese of Carlisle, containing "an Account of the Parishes, Abbies, Nunneries,
"Churches, Monuments, Epitaphs, Coats of Arms,
"Founders, Benefactors, &c. with a perfect Cata"logue of the Bishops, Priors, Deans, Chancellors,
"Archdeacons, Prebendaries, and of all Rectors
"and Vicars of the several Parishes in the said
"Diocese.*—This was written in 1689, and is
"as yet in MS.

"He hath given *An Account of a Salt Spring,
"and another Medicinal Spring on the Banks of "the River Wear, or Ware, in the Bishoprick of "Durham,* in Philos. Transact. nu. 163. 20 Sept.
"1684. written by way of letter without date.

"He hath also translated from Lat. into English,

"The Life of Phocion, printed in a book entit.
" The Lives of illustrious Men. Oxon. 1684. oct.
"written in Lat. by Cornelius Nepos. N ✓

"EDMUND HALLEY, son of Edm. Halley
"a soap-boiler and wealthy citizen of London, was "born in a place called Haggerston on the back-
"side of Hogsden alias Hoxton in the parish of St.
"Leonard Shoreditch in Middlesex, on the 29th of "Octob. 1656, educated in grammar learning in St.
"Paul's school under Dr. Tho. Gale, where he "perfectly learned the use of the celestial globe.
"In act or Midsummer term 1673 he became a "commoner of Qu. coll. having then not only good
"skill in the Lat. Gr. and Heb. tongues, but so "much knowledge in geometry as to make a com-
"pleat dial. At 19 years of age he solv'd this "useful problem in astronomy, never done before,
"viz. From three Distances given from the Sun,
"and Angles between, to find the Orbe. This is "in a tract which I shall anon mention entit. *Me-
"thodus directa & Geometrica*, &c. for which his "name will be ever famous. After he had spent
"some years in Qu. coll. he retired to the house of "his father, of whom gaining leave, he took a "journey to the island of Sancta Helena, purely
"upon the account of advancement of astronomy,
"to make the globe of the southern hemisphere
"right, which before was very erroneous, as having "been done only by the observations of ignorant
"seamen. At his return thence, where he had "staid some months, he presented his planisphere,
"with a short description, to his majesty king
"Charles II. who was very well pleased with it,
"but received nothing but praise for his reward.
"In 1678 he added a spectacle-glass to the shadow-
"vane of the lesser arch of the sea-quadrant (or "back-staff) which is of great use, because that spot
"of light will be manifest when you cannot see any
"shadow: And in Nov. the same year, having pro-
"cured letters from his majesty, to be directed to "the vice-chancellor and masters of Oxon (wherein
"are several things said to his honour and praise,
"as I have partly elsewhere told you) he was, in
"the beginning of Dec. following, actually created
"master of arts. On the first of Decemb. 1680 he "took a journey to Paris, being at that time one of "the royal society, and in 1686 became secretary
"thereof. He hath publish'd

"*Methodus directa & Geometrica, cujus Ope
"investigantur Aphelia, Eccentricitates, Propor-
"tionesq; Orbium Planetarum primariorum, atque
"supposita Aequalitate Anguli Motus, ad alterum
"Ellipseus Focum, ab Astronomis hactenus usur-
"patâ.* This is in the Philosophical Transactions
"numb. 128. p. 683, 684, &c. an. 1676.

"Observations concerning the Spot in the Sun,
"appearing in July and August 1676—which
"Observations, with those of Mr. Joh. Flamstead
"of Derby concerning the said matter, are in [982]

- "the Phil. Transact. - numb. 128. p. 687. an.
 "1676.
 " Observations concerning Occultation of Mars
 " by the Moon, made at Oxon 21 Aug. 1676—
 "These also are in the said Transact. numb. 129.
 "p. 724.
 " Catalogus Stellarum Australium, sive Sup-
 " plementum Catalogi Tythonici, exhibens Longi-
 " tudines & Latitudines Stellarum fixarum, quæ
 " prope Polum Antarcticum sitæ, in Horizonte
 " Uraniburgico Tythonis inconspiciæ fuere, ac-
 " curato Calculo ex Distantiis supputatus, & ad
 " An. 1677. completum correctas. Lond. 1679 qu.
 "An account of this book is in the said Trans-
 " actions, numb. 141. p. 1032, 1033, &c.
 " Appendicula de Rebus quibusdam Astronomicis.
 "—Ibid.
 " Planisphærium Celeste: contained in two He- " mispheres of the Heavens. Lond. 1679. qu. pro-
 " jected and amended by his great pains and " accurate observations. Those stars in the south
 " were observed by him at Sancta Helena. Those " in the north were laid down by him from the " Tythonic tables, with some corrections of his " own.
 " Zodiacus Stellatus, cujus Limitibus Planeta-
 " rum omnium visibiles Viæ comprehenduntur:
 " Being very useful at all Times to find out the
 " Places of Planets, wherein may be seen their
 " daily Motions, and their Appulses to the fixed
 " Stars accurately laid down. Lond. 1679. qu.
 "An Account of some very considerable Obser" vations made at Ballasore in India, serving to " find the Longitude of that Place, &c.—This " account is in the Philosophical Collections written " by Mr. Robert Hook, numb. 5. pag. 124. an.
 "1681.
 "A Correction of the Theory of the Motion of " the Satellite of Saturn—In the Phil. Transact.
 " numb. 145. Mar. 1681.
 "A Theory of the Variation of the magnetical
 " Compass—In the said Phil. Transact. numb.
 "148. an. 1683.
 " Philosophical Transactions.—These begin " with numb. 179. Jan. 1685. at what time Dr.
 " Will. Musgrave left off, and were by him carried " on to numb. 195, Dec. 1692. and in Jan. follow" ing Rich. Waller esq; secretary of the royal soc.
 " began with numb. 196.
 "A Theory of Tides at the Bar of Tunking—
 " Philos. Transact. numb. 162. 20 Aug. 1684.
 "Discourse concerning Gravity, and its Pro" perties, wherein the Descent of heavy Bodies, and
 " the Motion of Projects is briefly but fully handled:
 " Together with the Solution of a Problem of great
 " Use in Gunnery—numb. 179. Jan. 1685-6.
 "Discourse of the Rule of the Decrease of the " Height of Mercury in the Barometer, according
 " as Places are elevated above the Surface of the " Earth, &c. Ib. 181. May 1686.
 " Historical Account of the Trade-winds, and " Monsoons, observable in the Seas between and
 " near the Tropics, with an Attempt to assign the " physical Cause of the said Winds—Ib. nu.
 "183. an. 1686.
 " De Constructione Problematum solidorum sive
 " Æquationum tertiæ vel quartæ Potestatis, &c.
 " Dissertationum—Ib. 188. Jul. Aug. 1687.
 "An Estimate of the Quantity of Vapour raised
 " out of the Sea by the Warmth of the Sun, &c.
 " Ib. nu. 189. Sept. Oct. 1687.
 " De Numero Radicum in Æquationibus solidis
 " & biquadratricis, sive tertiæ ac quartæ Potes-
 " tatis, earumque Limitibus, Tractatus—Ib.
 " nu. 190. Nov. 1687.
 " Ephemeris ad Annum a Nativ. Dom. 1688. &
 " ad Longitudinem Urbis Londinensis, ex novis
 " Hypothesibus exactissimè supputata & Reg. Soc.
 " dicata. Lond. 1688. in one sh. in oct.
 "An Account of the Circulation of the watry
 " Vapours of the Sea, and of the Cause of Springs
 " —In the Philosoph. Transact. for the months
 " of Jan. and Feb. an. 1691. numb. 192. p. 468.
 "Discourse tending to prove at what Time and " Place Julius Caesar made his first Descent upon
 " Britain—This was read by our author Halley
 " before the royal society, and is remitted into the " said Phil. Transact. for the months of Mar. Apr.
 " May and June, 1691. numb. 193. p. 495.
 " De visibili Conjunctione inferiorum Planeta-
 " rum cum Sole, Dissertatio Astronomica—In " the said Phil. Trans. for the months of Mar.
 " Apr. May and June. numb. 193. p. 511.
 " Emendationes & Notæ in tria Loca vitiosè
 " edita in Textu vulgato naturalis Historiæ C.
 " Plinii—In the same Trans. for the month of Jul.
 " Aug. and Sept. numb. 194. p. 535.
 "An Account of the Measure of the Thickness
 " of Gilt-wire, together with a Demonstration of " the exceeding Minuteness of the Atomes or con-
 " stituent Particles of Gold, as it was read before
 " the Royal Soc.—In the same numb. of Transact.
 " p. 540.
 "An Account of the several Species of infinite
 " Quantity, and of the Proportions they bear one to " the other, as it was read before the Royal Soc.—
 " Philos. Transact. nu. 195. 19 Oct. 1692.
 "An Account of the Cause of the Change of the " Variation of the magnetical Needle, with an Hy" pothesis of the Structure of the internal Parts of " the Earth; as it was proposed to the Royal Soc.
 " —Ibid.
 "A Discourse concerning the proportional Heat " of the Sun in all Latitudes, with the Method of " collecting the same—Phil. Transact. nu. 203.
 " an. 1693.
 "An Instance of the Excellence of the modern " Algebra, in the Resolution of the Problem of " finding the Foci of Optic-Glasses universally—
 " numb. 205. 1693.

" Some Queries concerning the Nature of Light, and diaphanous Bodies, proposed to the R. Soc. numb. 206. Dec. 1693.

" Methodus nova aecurata & facilis inveniendi Radices Equationum quarumcunque generaliter, sine pravia Reductione—numb. 210. May 1694.

" Mons. Cassini's Tables for the Eclipses of the first Satellite of Jupiter, reduced to the Julian Stile, and Meridian of London.—numb. 214. Dec. 1694.

" An Estimate of the Degrees of the Mortality of Mankind, drawn from curious Tables of the Births and Funerals at the City of Breslaw; with an Attempt to ascertain the Price of Annuities upon Lives—Ph. Trans. num. 196. an. 1692.

" Further Consideration on Breslaw Bills of Mortality, &c. num. 198. Mar. 1693.

" Account of several Experiments made to examine the Nature of the Expansion and Contraction of Fluids, by Heat and Cold, &c.

[984]

" JOSEPH FISHER, born at Whitridge in Cumberland, was matriculated of Queen's coll. in Mich. term. 1674, was afterwards M. A. and fellow of that college, and by them presented to the vicaridge of Burgh on Stannore 1694. He hath printed

" The Honour of Marriage: or the Institution, Necessity, Advantages, Comforts and Usefulness of a married Life; set forth in a Sermon 27 Jan. 1694. at Seven-Oak in Kent, on Heb. 13. 4. Lond. 1695. qu. ded. to his quondam pupil Mr. Thom. Lambard; by his epistle dat. in Broadstreet Lond. where he then lived in a merchant's house, being a lecturer or curate in London near that place.

" HENRY BROUGHAM, son of Hen. Br. of Scales in Cumberl. esq; (high sheriff of Cumberland 1693) became a poor serving child of Qu. coll. in act or Midsummer term 1681, aged 16 years, was afterwards tabarder and fellow of that college, and chaplain to Dr. Barlow bish. of Linc. who gave him a prebend. in that church a little before his death. He was one of the pro-proctors of the univ. in 1693, 94, 95. He was said to be the author of " Reflections on a late Book entit. The Genuine Remains of Dr. Tho. Barlow late Bishop of Lincoln, falsely pretended to be published from his Lordship's original Papers. Lond. 1694. qu.

" Catalogue of Socinian Writers—both these are contained in 6 sh. and an half in qu.—Before which is an epistle written to Dr. Fuller chancellor of Lincoln by Will. Offley sometime chaplain to Dr. Barlow, dat. at Middleton Stony in Oxfordsh. 23 Jun. 1694, which epist. with the Reflections written by way of letter dat. from Qu. coll. 20 June 1694, are written against sir Peter

" Pett for publishing the said Remains, as not genuin or authentic.

[Brougham had the prebend of Asgarby in the church of Lincoln, to which he was installed Sept. 30, 1691, and retained to his death which happened March 29, 1698. He was buried in Queen's college chapel.]

" EDMUND GIBSON, son of Edm. Gib. of Knipe in Westmorland, became a poor serving child of Qu. coll. an. 1686, aged 17 years, took the degree in arts.—He hath published

" Librorum Manuscriptorum in duabus Insignibus Bibliothecis; altera Tenisoniana, Londini; altera Dugdalhana, Oxonii; Catalogus. Oxon. 1692. qu. published about Christmas in 1691.

" He also reviewed and illustrated with notes, a book entit. Polemo-Midinia Carmen Mucaronicum. Oxon. 1691. qu. written by Will. Drummond a Scot. To which is added Jacobi Quinti

" Regis Scotorum Cantilena Rustica, vulgo Inscripta Christ's Kirk on the Green: which hath notes put on it by Mr. Gibson, who also did from " three manuscripts, and eight printed copies; amend and add various lections to M. Fabii Quintilianii De Institutione Oratoria, Lib. 12. &c. Oxon.

" 169... qu. ded. to Hen. Worsley gent. com. of St. Edm. hall, a younger son of sir R. Worsley of Appledorcome in Hampshire, baronet. And also

" translated into Lat. Chronicon Saxonicum, seu Annales Rerum in Anglia precipue gestarum, a Christo nato, ad Annum usque MCCLIV. deducti.

" Oxon. 1692. qu. Before which he put a preface, and after it a chronological index of things; as " also rules to find out the original of the names of places, with the explanation of names, places, and men, mention'd in the said Chron. Sax. He hath

" also translated into Lat. and augmented with a new dissertation a book entit. Julii Caesaris Portus Iccinus illustratus, sive 1. Gulielmi Somneri

" ad Chiffletii Librum de Portu Iccio Responsio. 2. Caroli Du Fresne Dissertatio de Portu Iccio.

" Oxon. 1694. oct. ded. to White Kennet A. M. vice-principal of St. Edm. hall.

" THOMAS TANNER, son of a father of both his names vicar of Market Davington in Wilts, became a student in Qu. coll. in Mich. term 1689, aged 15, admitted clerk of that house in 1690, and bach. of arts in act term 1693, entred into holy orders at Christmas 1694, became chapl. of All-s. coll. in January following. He hath written

" Notitia Monastica: or a short History of the religious Houses in Eng. and Wales—Ox. 1695. oct. publish'd in the beginning of that year.

WRITERS OF NEW COLLEGE.

" JOHN COLE, son of John Cole, a minister

[985]

“ of God’s word, was born at Adderbury, became “ prob. fell. of New coll. from Wykeham’s school
 “ 1643, aged 19 or more, taught the grammar “ school there in the cloister, turn’d out by the “ visitors before he took a degree, lived afterwards
 “ at Wolverhampton in Staffordshire, taught there,
 “ and married, but not to his content. He had a “ chief hand in translating from French into English “ — Hymen’s Præludia; or Love’s Master-piece:
 “ Being that so much admired Romance, entit.
 “ Cleopatra, in 12 Parts, publish’d in fol. by Rob.
 “ Loveday.

“ WILLIAM HUGHES was born at Farmin-
 “ ton near North-Leach in Gloucestershire, his “ father — Hughes being then rector of that “ place, became a batler or servitor of Linc. coll.
 “ about 1641, and bred there under a puritanical
 “ tutor and discipline; but before he took a degree,
 “ he sided with the puritans or presbyterians, and “ when they broke out into an open rebellion against “ the king, he left the university, became a chaplain
 “ in the parliament army, a preacher up of sedition
 “ and rebellion, a villifier of his majesty and his “ cause, styling him and his followers downright “ papists, bloody men, blood-suckers, &c. and was “ not wanting on all occasions and in all times to “ carry on the blessed cause. When the war was “ terminated, he retired to Oxon for a time, was “ actually created master of arts, as a member of “ Linc. college in the Pembrochian creation, an.
 “ 1648, and soon after was made one of the chap“ lains of New coll. or, as he and his son us’d to “ say, fellow, by the power of the visitors; which,
 “ I presume, is false. After he had continu’d there
 “ an year or more, he obtained for the great service
 “ he had done for the said cause, the rich rectory
 “ of Hinton near Faringdon in Berkshire, upon the “ ejection of one Hill for his loyalty, took the en“ gagement, (as before he had took the covenant)
 “ flattered Oliver the general of the parliament
 “ army, in his writings, (1652) and told⁹ the world,
 “ that he had been for Christ’s interest and com“ mon-wealth under his command, justified the “ murder of king Charles I. of ever-blessed memory,
 “ and applauded the happiness of those times, when “ the change, as he said, was for the better, and “ that those eminent promises did hasten for ac“ complishment for binding kings with chains, and “ nobles with links of iron, &c. In 1654 he was,
 “ by ordinance of the usurping power, appointed
 “ one of the assistants to the commissioners of Berk“ shire, for the ejection of those that were by the “ godly party called scandalous, ignorant, and in“ sufficient ministers and schoolmasters; in which “ office he shew’d himself sufficiently severe, if not “ malepert, against those orthodox persons; and so

“ carried on the presbyterian and independent cause
 “ till a foresight of the happy restoration of king “ Charles II. which being effected, he was forced to “ leave his living at Hinton for the right owner:
 “ Afterwards he retired for a time to the factious
 “ town of Abingdon in Berkshire, and did what lay “ in his power to animate the people thereof in their “ seditious principles. Thence he removed to Woo-“ burne or Uburne near Great Wycomb in Buck“ inghamshire, where he was patroniz’d by Philip “ lord Wharton, (who has a seat there) and lived
 “ as a nonconformist, preaching in conventicles:
 “ and thence, if I mistake not, to Clapham in Sur“ rey, which he made our English Israel; and there
 “ I find him in 1670, teaching school without “ licence: of which matter hear what a¹ noted
 “ author saith — ‘ There was one Tho. Hughes, “ several years since, that had a licence to teach a “ school at Clapham in Surrey, in a school-house
 “ that was erected by the parish. He staid there a “ while, and then went his way: and then Mr.
 “ William Hughes took upon him to officiate there
 “ in the place of Thomas Hughes, under colour of “ his license: and so continued till Michaelmas “ term, an. 1683, appeared at visitations, as the “ schoolmaster of Clapham; and at one visitation “ exhibited the said Thomas Hughes’s license: but “ in conclusion it was made appear, that our Wil“ liam-ap-Thomas had no license at all, and he “ himself confessed as much.’ — And in another² “ place the said noted author saith thus: — ‘ Will.
 “ Hughes, I tell you, did personate Thomas Hughes.
 “ He entred upon the school without a license, un“ der that pretext before his ordination; and he “ continued it after: And if you will not believe “ me, go to Doctors Commons, and you shall have “ his word for it,’ &c. In 1677 I find him preacher
 “ to St. Thomas’s hospital in Southwark, and after “ the year 1680 he conformed to the church of “ England, was, as it seems, re-ordain’d, or, as the “ said³ author tells us, entred upon episcopal or“ ders, seemed so great a convert (tho’ really he “ was not so in his heart) that, as he adds, ‘ In “ Michaelmas term 1683 he, the said Will. Hughes, “ prosecuted his namesake Tanner of Clapham for “ not coming to church, and receiving the sacra“ ment according to law; and prosecuted also Mr.
 “ George St. Cleer for teaching a private school in “ the said Tanner’s house, without license, having “ had, it seems, the late earl of Shaftsbury to his “ friend,’ &c. After his conforming he, the said
 “ Mr. Hughes, became hospitallier of St. Thomas’s “ hospital in Southwark, where he preached like a “ trimmer several times, and therefore once in “ danger to be turn’d out thence, and afterwards “ became minister of Kinnbolton in Huntingdon-

[986]

⁹ “ See in the second vol. of The Observer, written by “ Roger Lestrangle, esq; numb. 128.”

¹ “ Id. Rog. Lest. in eod. vol. num. 163.

² “ Ibid. numb. 164.

³ “ Ibid. numb. 161.

⁴ “ Ibid. numb. 163.”

“shire. He was a person of good natural parts,
“but his principles inconstant; a good preacher,
“but his doctrine not totally orthodox, nor his in“structing of youth good. He publish’d

“Several sermons, as (1.) *Magistracy God’s Mi“nistry: or, a Rule for Rulers and Peoples due “Correspondence, preached at the Midsummer As-“sises in Abingdon 1651; on Rom. 13. 4. Lond.
“1652. qu. dedicated to Oliver Cromwell, lieut.
“general of the parliament army. This sermon is “several times reflected upon, as a dangerous piece
“of rebellion and treason, by Roger Lestrangle, in “his sec. vol. of The Observer, numb. 128, 163, “165, &c. (2) *Summons to Sinners, for thinking “seriously on their Ways, and turning from their “Sins to God without Delay, in several Sermons, “founded on Psal. 119. 59, 60. preached at St.
“Thomas’s Hospital in Southwark, Lond. 1682.
“oct. &c. I shall make mention of other sermons “anon.

“*Munster and Abingdon: or, the open Rebellion
“there, and unhappy Tumult here, (bred in the “same Womb) that from Sleidan’s Comm. Lib.
“10, this from Eye and Ear Witnesses, &c. Oxon
“1657, oct. The rebellion at Munster is a trans“lation made by Mr. Hughes from Sleidan’s Comm.
“lib. 10, and the tumult at Abingdon in Berkshire, “occasioned by the anabaptists, upon the sepulture
“of Joh. Pendarves, the Corypheus of them, there,
“in the latter end of Sept. and beginning of Oct.
“1656, was of the said Hughes’s own composition.*

“*Disputationes Grammaticales, cum super Re“gulis Liliannis de Nominum generibus Verbo-“rumque prateritis & supinis, tum Robinsonianis “de Heteroclitis, in Scholarum Usum concinnata.
“Lond. 1671. oct.*

“Fellowship with God——printed 1671, in “oct. This, which I have not yet seen, was made “public under the name of W. Hughes, the same, “without doubt, with our author.

“*The Man of Sin: or, a Discourse of Popery, “wherein the numerous and monstrous Abomina-
“tions, in Doctrine and Practice, of the Romish “Church, are, by their own Hands, exposed so to “open Light, that the very Blind may see them,
“and Antichrist in Capitals engraven on them, &c.
“Lond. 1677. qu.*

“Endeavour for Peace among Protestants.
“Lond. 1680. qu. This is animadverted upon by “Roger Lestrangle in his second vol. of The Ob-“servator, numb. 129, 161, 162. &c. wherein that “author, among other things, saith, that ‘tis ‘an “endeavour rather for confusion than peace,’ &c.

“*Discourse of Pluralities (with the Appendant “Non-Residence) evincing the great Evil in taking
“and necessary Duty of forsaking them, &c. Lond.
“1680. qu. This is also animadverted upon by “the said author in the same vol. num. 163, 164,
“&c. who saith that ‘the whole drift of it is, the “turning of the people’s hearts against the govern-*

“ment both ecclesiastical and civil.—For ‘tis ma“nifest, that under colour of taxing the most con“siderable dignitaries of our church, for having “more benefices than one, his business is, to make “them appear unworthy of having any at all. And “he has carried on this malevolence in so coarse a “manner too, that he has not left room for any “man that is a plurilist (as he calls them) to speak
“a good word for Mr. Hughes, without wounding “himself,’ &c.

“*Two Sermons preached on the ninth of Sept.
“1683. (being the Thanksgiving-day) at S.
“Thomas’s Hospital in Southwark; on Psal. 21.
“1. Lond. 1684. qu. This also is animadverted “upon by the said Mr. R. Lestrangle, in the said
“2d vol. of The Observer, num. 125, 126, 127, “128, 163, 165. Among which places he saith
“that the said sermons ‘are rather an apology for “dissenters, than a reproof of them—that the “scope of them is to fasten a brand of infamy and “disloyalty upon the assenters, &c. That he shews “himself to be a man of both churches,’ &c. At “the end of which sermons is a little thing written
“by our author Hughes, entit.*

“A candid Plea to a cruel Charge——against “the said Mr. Lestrangle, for his reflecting and “animadverting on him and his former writings.
“This also is answered and animadverted upon in “The Observer, vol. 2. num. 161, 162, 163, 164, “165.

“*A practical Discourse of Silence and Submis“sion, shewing that good Men should possess their “Souls in Patience under the severest Providences;
“and particularly in the Loss of dear Relations, “preached at S. Thomas’s Hospital in Southwark;
“on Psal. 39. 9. Lond. 1694. oct. Besides the “said Will. Hughes, I find others of both his “names that were writers, as Will. Hughes of “Grey’s inn, esq; a barrister at law, author of “divers abridgments of law books and of other “things pertaining to the common law, among “which, is a book entit. Hughes’s Queries: or, “choice Queries for Moots, &c. Lond. 1675. oct.
“At which time the author had, as it seems, been “several years dead. Whether he be the same
“with Will. Hughes a Glamorgansh. man born,
“who was a student in Jesus coll. 1604, aged 21 “years, or with another of the same name who was “a Caermarthenshire man born, and a student of “the said coll. in the year 1605, aged 17 years, I “cannot tell, qu. Another Will. Hughes hath “written several things pertaining to husbandry
“and gardening, as (1) *The compleat Vineyard:
“or an excellent Way for the Planting of Vines
“according to the German and French Manner, “&c. printed several times in oct. one edition of “which came out in 1670. (2) *The Flower-Gar“den, shewing briefly how most Flowers are to be “ordered, &c. printed several times, one edition “whereof came out in 1671, 72. in tw. (3) The

" American Physician: or, a Treatise of the Roots, Trees, Shrubs, Fruits, Herbs, &c. growing in the English Plantations in America, &c. Lond. 1672. in tw. Another Hughes I find who was ejected for non-conformity from his benefice at Marlborough in Wiltshire after the restoration of king Charles II.

" HUGH DAVIS son of — Davis cook of Wykeham's coll. near Winchester, was born in the parish of — within the city of Winchester, educated in the school there, and thence was elected fellow of New coll. an. 1651 aged 19 years or thereabouts. Afterwards he became rector of Dummer in Hampshire, and in the year after he took the degree of bach. of the civil law. After the restoration of king Charles II. he was made chaplain to George duke of Bucks. He hath written,

" De Jure Uniformitatis Ecclesiasticæ: or, Three Books of the Rights belonging to an Uniformity in Churches. In which the chief Things of the Laws of Nature and Nations, and of the Divine Law, concerning the Consistency of the Ecclesiastical Estate with the Civil, are unfolded. Lond. 1669. fol.

[988]

" FRANCIS TURNER son of Dr. Tho. Turner sometime dean of Canterbury, by Margaret his wife, daughter of sir Fran. Windebank principal secretary of state to king Charles I. alias the martyr, was born — educated in grammar learning in Wykeham's school near Winchester, elected prob. fellow of New coll. in 1655, took the degrees in arts, holy orders, became chapl. to James duke of York, residentiary of S. Paul's cathedral in London, doct. of div. in 1669, and master of S. John's coll. in Cambridge, on the resignation of Dr. Pet. Gunning, an. 1670; which headship he holding till Christmas 1679, he then resign'd it because of a faction in that coll. Whereupon he was succeeded therein by Humphrey Gower, D. D. and chaplain to Dr. Gunning before mention'd who was then bishop of Ely. On the 20th of July 1683 he was installed dean of Windsor, in the room of Dr. Jo. Durel deceased, and on the 11th of Novemb. following was consecrated in the archbishop's chapel at Lambeth to the see of Rochester (with Dr. Laur. Womack to that of S. David) upon the translation thence of Dr. Dolben to York; about which time being made lord almoner to his majesty had liberty to keep Windsor in commendam with that see. On the 16th of July 1684 he was translated to Ely, on the death of Dr. Gunning, and was confirmed therein in the church of S. Mary le Bow in London, on the 23d of Aug. following; about which time he was made president of the society of the sons of the clergy. On the 8th of June 1688 he was one of the six bishops,

VOL. IV.

" besides the archb. of Cant. that were committed prisoners to the Tower of London for contriving, making and publishing a seditious libel against his majesty (king James 2) and his government, that is, for subscribing a petition to his said majesty, wherein he and the rest of the said bishops shewed the great aversness that they found in themselves to the distributing and publishing in all their churches his majesty's late declaration for liberty of conscience, &c. where continuing till they were publicly tried for the same libel in Westminster hall, were, to the great joy of the true sons of the church of England, released thence on the 15th of the same month. The names of the other bishops that were imprisoned and tried (besides Dr. Sancroft archb. of Canterbury) were Dr. W. Lloyd bish. of S. Asaph, Dr. Jo. Lake bish. of Chichester, Dr. Tho. Ken bish. of Bath and Wells, Dr. Tho. White bish. of Peterborough, and Dr. Jonath. Trelauney bish. of Bristol. About Candlemas in 1690, Dr. Turner was depriv'd of his bishoprick of Ely for not taking the oaths of allegiance and supremacy to king William III. and queen Mary: whereupon Dr. Sim. Patrick was translated thereunto from Chichester. In Dec. 1691 there was a pretended discovery of a pretended plot of the Jacobites or nonjurors, whereupon some of them were imprisoned: and Dr. Turner being suspected to be in the said pretended plot, he withdrew and absconded. He is said to be the author of

" Animadversions on a Pamphlet entit. The naked Truth: or, the State of the primitive Church. Lond. 1676 qu. which was printed twice in that year. Dr. Turner's name is not set to the said Animadversions, neither is the author's name to that of Naked Truth. So that our author being then altogether ignorant, saith thus, of him, that wrote Naked Truth in the beginning of his Animad. — 'I suspected its author for some youngster, that had been dabling among the Socinian writers, and was ambitious of shewing his half talent in the way — I was quickly delivered from this jealousy by his orthodox contradictory expressions in other places — But I find he is one of the men of the second rate (as I take leave to stile him) that hardly ever saw the second consequence,' &c. Soon after came out Andr. Rivet junior, alias Andr. Marvell, with a book entit. Mr. Smirk: or, the Divine in mode, being certain Annotations upon Animadversions on Naked Truth, &c. Lond. 1676. qu. Which name of Smirk he gave Dr. Turner, because in his conception he was a neat, startch'd and formal divine. He hath also published

" Several sermons, as (1) Sermon preached before the King on the 30th of Jan. 1687, being the Martyrdom of King Charles I. of blessed Memory on Lam. 4. 19, 20. and Part of the 21st Verse. Lond. 1681. qu. (2) Sermon before the [989]

N N

“ Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen, at Guild-“ Hall (happel, the 7th of May 1682, on 1 Tim.
 “ 1. 2. Lond. 1682. qu. (3) Serm. before the “ King in the Cath. Church of Winchester; upon “ Sunday the 9th of Sept. 1683. Being the Day
 “ of public Thanksgiving for the Deliverance of “ his sacred Majesty's Person and Government from
 “ the late treasonable Conspiracy; on Psal. 144. 9, “ 10. Lond. 1683. qu. (4) Serm. before Sir Hen.
 “ Tulse Lord Mayor of London, and Court of Al- “ dermen, &c. at the Parish Ch. of S. Bridget, the “ 31st of Mar. being Euster-Monday 1684; on “ Luke 14. Ver. 13, 14. Lond. 1684. qu. (5)
 “ Sermon before the King on Easter-day, on Hosea
 “ 6. 2, 3. Lond. 1684. qu. (6) Sermon before the “ King at Whitehall, the 5th of Nov. 1684. on “ Rom. 3. 8. Lond. 1685. qu. (7) Sermon at the “ Anniversary Meeting of the Sons of the Clergy- “ men in the Church of S. Mary le Bow, the 4th
 “ of Dec. 1684; on Gen. 18. Ver. 19. Lond. 1685.
 “ qu. (8) Sermon before the King at the 30th of “ Jan. 1684, being the Fast for the Martyrdom of “ King Charles I. of blessed Memory, on — “ Lond. 1685. qu. (9) Sermon before King Jam.
 “ II. and Queen Mary at their Coronation in “ Westm. Abbey the 23 of April 1685; on 1 Chron.
 “ 19. 23. Lond. 1685. qu. This was soon after “ translated into French, by one that writes himself
 “ C. d. B. O. d. R. a Londres, and by him published “ in May or June following.

“ Letters to the Clergy of the Diocese of Ely—
 “ One of which, dated the 4th of August 1686,
 “ which was before and preparatory to his visita“ tion, was printed at Cambr. 1686, in 3 sh. and “ an half in qu. A second letter was dat. in Octob.
 “ (about the 24th day) following, &c.

“ THOMAS KEN, son of Tho. Ken an attor“ ney of London, was born at Little Berchamstede
 “ in Hertfordshire, an. 1635, educated in Wyke“ ham's school near Winchester, entred a student “ in Hart hall in 1656, and in the year after he was “ admitted prob. fellow of New coll. where his to-“ wardliness towards good letters and virtue were “ observed by the seniors. Afterwards he took the “ degrees in arts, holy orders, and became chaplain
 “ to William lord Maynard comptroller of his ma“ jesty's household. At about three years standing “ master, he was elected fellow of the coll. near “ Winchester, and soon after was made chaplain to “ George bishop of that city, who prefer'd him to “ the rectory of Brixton in the isle of Wight, af“ terwards to a prebendship in the church of Win“ chester (installed therein the 1st of June 1669)
 “ and at length to another parsonage in Hampshire “ worth about two or three hundred pounds per “ an. But this last, after he had held a little while,
 “ he resigned it into his lordship's hands, under “ pretence of conscience, thinking he had enough “ without it. In 1674 he travelled to Rome in the “ company of his kinsman Isaac Walton the son, “ then bach. of arts of Ch. Ch. (since chaplain to “ Seth bishop of Salisbury) and in the year follow“ ing he return'd, whereby he lost the favour of “ many of his former auditors, supposing that by “ that journey he had been ting'd with popery, but “ altogether mistaken. In 1679 he proceeded in “ divinity, being about that time chaplain in ord.

 “ to his maj. went into Holland for a time and was “ chaplain to Mary princess of Orange, and in the “ beginning of 1684 he accompanied in the quality
 “ of a chaplain George lord Dartmouth to Tangier,
 “ being at that time commission'd by his majesty
 “ to demolish that garrison. After his return he “ was nominated by his maj. bishop of Bath and “ Wells, upon the translation thence of Dr. Mews
 “ to Winchester: whereupon being consecrated “ thereunto at Lambeth by the archbishop of Cant.
 “ and his assistants, on the 25th of Jan. (being the “ day of the conversion of S. Paul) an. 1684, did “ his homage to his majesty the next day. On the “ 8th of June 1688, he with five other bishops (be“ sides the archbp. of Cant.) were committed pri“ soners to the Tower of London for subscribing a “ petition to his majesty king James II. wherein he “ and the rest shew'd the great averseness that “ they found in themselves to the distributing and “ publishing in all their churches his majesty's late “ declaration for liberty of conscience, &c. where “ continuing till they were publicly tried for the “ same (being esteem'd a seditious libel against his “ maj. and his government) in Westm. hall, were
 “ to the great joy of the true sons of the church of “ England released thence on the 15th of the same “ month. About Candlemas in 1690 this worthy “ bishop Dr. Ken, who was esteem'd by many for “ his great charity, constant preaching, great de“ votion and obliging demeanor, was depriv'd of his “ bishoprick for not taking the oaths of allegiance
 “ and supremacy to king William and queen Mary;
 “ whereupon that bishoprick being bestowed on Dr.
 “ Rich. Kidder after Dr. Will. Beveridge had re“ fused it, he was consecrated thereunto on the 30th “ of Aug. 1691. King James II. who seemed to “ have a respect for him, usually said that as Dr.
 “ Ken was the best preacher among the protest“ ants, so father Will. Hall (son of Tho. Hall a “ cook sometime living in Ivy-Lane near S. Paul's “ in London) was the best among the catholics. He “ hath written,

“ A Manual of Prayers for the Use of the “ Scholars of Winchester Coll. and all other devout
 “ Christians. Lond. 1681. in tw.”

“ Several sermons, as (1) Sermon preached at
 “ the Funeral of the Right Honourable the Lady “ Margaret Maynard, at Little Easton in Essex,
 “ the 30th of June 1682; on Prov. 11. 16. Lond.
 “ 1682. qu. (2) Sermon preached in the Cath. Ch.

* [The first edition was Lond. 1674. RAWLINSON.]

“ of Bath, on Ascension Day May the 5th An.
 “ 1687 — which sermon tho’ not extant that I “ know of, yet there were animadversions made “ upon it by way of answer, by a Rom. Cath. who “ writes himself F. I. R. C. I.—Lond. 1687 in 3
 “ sh. and an half in qu. In which Animadv. de“ dicated to king James II. was never so much ig“ norance and impudence in so small a pamphlet “ expressed, as the true sons of the church of Eng“ land usually said.

“ An Exposition on the Church Catechism: or,
 “ Practice of divine Love, composed for the Diocese
 “ of Bath and Wells. Lond. 1685. oct. This was “ soon after revised and printed in a larger cha“ racter.

“ Directions for Prayer, taken out of the “ Church Catechism — printed with the Exposi- “ tion.

“ A pastoral Letter to the Clergy of the Diocese
 “ of Bath and Wells, concerning their Behaviour
 “ during Lent, dat. the 17th of Feb. 1687. Lond.
 “ 1688 in one sh. in qu.

“ RICHARD PARSONS son of Will. Parsons
 “ LL. Dr. mention’d in the FASTI, the first vo“ lume, was born at Birchanger in Essex, educated “ in Wykeham’s school near Winchester, became “ fellow of New coll. in 1657, aged 18 years or “ more, without any probation because of kin to “ the founder, took a degree in the civil law the “ 8th of April 1669, was chancellor of the diocese
 “ of Gloucester 1669—qu. and doctor of the civil “ law the 25th of June 1687. He hath made col“ lections towards the history of Gloucestershire.

“ RALPH BOHUN was born at ——— edu-
 “ cated in Wykeham’s school near Winchester,
 “ elected prob. fell. of New coll. in 1658, aged 19 “ years or thereabouts, took the degrees in the civil “ law, that of doctor being completed in 1685, at “ which time he was rector of ———. He hath
 “ written,

“ Discourse concerning the Origine and Pro- “ porties of Wind, with an historical Account of “ Hurricanes, and other tempestuous Winds. Oxon.
 “ 1671. oct.

“ RICHARD MORTON a minister’s son, was “ born at ——— became a batler or com. of Magd.
 “ hall. in 1652, afterwards one of the chaplains of “ New coll. master of arts, and chaplain in the fa“ mily of Foley in Worcestershire. Afterwards “ shewing himself a nonconformist when the act of “ uniformity was published, he studied physick, ob“ tained the degree of doctor of that faculty an.
 “ 1670, at which time the prince of Orange was “ entertain’d in Oxon, and when then several per“ sons that were not well-wishers to the church of “ England had degrees conferr’d on them. After“ wards he lived in the Grey Fryars at London,

“ practised his faculty, and became fellow of the [991] “ coll. of physicians. He is the author of “ Phthisiologia, seu Exercitationes de Phthisi “ tribus Libris comprehensa, totumque Opus variis

 “ Historiis illustratum. Lond. 1689, in a large “ octavo. This book was translated into English
 “ and printed in octavo. anno 1694.

“ Exercitationes de Morbis universalibus acutis, “ Lond. 1692 oct. with his picture before it. There “ is some account given of this book in the Philos.
 “ Trans. num. 199. April 1693.

“ Exercitatio de Febribus inflammatoriis uni-
 “ versalibus. Lond. 1694. oct. with his picture “ before it, differing from the former.

“ STEPHEN PENTON [who hath a rambling
 “ head⁶] was born in the city of Winchester, edu“ cated in grammar learning in Wykeham’s school “ adjoining, elected prob. fellow of New coll. in “ 1659, took the degrees in arts, holy orders, had
 “ the rectory of Tingewick in Bucks conferr’d on “ him by the warden and society of his coll. made “ chaplain to Rob. earl of Aylesbury and tutor to “ the son of the lord Bruce, became principal of S.
 “ Edm. hall 1675, afterwards lecturer at Churchill
 “ in Oxfordshire, and at length, after his resignation “ of his principality for health’s sake in 1683, be“ came rector of Glimpton in the said county. Af“ terwards rector of ——— in Yorkshire by the gift
 “ of the earl of Aylesbury: whereupon he left “ Glimpton about Christmas an. 1693. This per“ son hath written

“ A Discourse concerning the Worship of God “ towards the holy Table or Altar. Lond. 1682. in “ 9 sh. in oct.

“ The Guardian’s Instruction: or, the Gentl-
 “ man’s Romance. Lond. 1688. in 5 sh. in tw. It “ was written for the diversion and service of the “ gentry, and dedicated to the English gentry.

“ Apparatus ad Theologiam in Usu Academia-
 “ rum. 1. Generalis. 2. Specialis. Lond. 1688. oct.

“ New Instructions to the Guardian: shewing
 “ that the last Remedy to prevent the Ruin, advance
 “ the Interests and recover the Honour of this “ Nation. (1) A more serious and strict Educa- “ tion of the Nobility and Gentry, &c. with a Me- “ thod of Institution from three Years of Age, to “ twenty one. Lond. 1694. oct.⁷

“ JOHN HARISON or HARRISON, eldest son
 “ of sir Rich. Harison of Hurst near Okingham in “ Berkshire, knt. by Dorothy his wife daugh. of “ Will. Dean of Nether-coate in Oxfordshire, gent.
 “ was born at ——— educated in Wykeham’s school
 “ near Winchester, elected prob. fellow of New coll.

⁶ [So Wood wrote, but omitted by bishop Tanner.]

⁷ [Mr. Stephen Penton, a very worthy and noted man, who not only publishd The Guardian’s Instruction—but (even latterly) A Hornbook, or A, B, C. for Children.
 Knight, Life of Colet, p. 145.]

" in 1659, took the degrees in the civil law, that of " doctor being compleated in 1671, and afterwards
" became rector of Pulborough in Sussex, preb. of " Chichester in Oct. 1676, and rector of Crowndale
" in Hampshire. He hath published,

" The true Englishman; being a Vindication of " those many Loyal Addresses presented to his Maj.
" for his late gracious Declaration: In Answer to " An impartial Account of the Nature and Ten- " dency of the late Addresses. Lond. 1681. qu.

" Another answer came out about the same time,
" with this title Protestant Loyalty fairly drawn;
" in an Answer to a Pair of scandalous and popish
" Pamphlets: The first entit. A Dialogue at Ox-
" ford between Tutor and Pupil, &c. The other
" entit. An impartial Account of the Nature and " Tendency of the late Addresses. Lond. 1681. qu.

" written, as 'twas then reported, by one —
" Hanksey of Grey's inn, sometime of S. John's
" coll. in Cambridge. Dr. Harison also published,
" A Thanksgiving Sermon for the Discovery of
" the late Fanatical Plot, the 9th of Sept. 1683;
" on 2 Sam. 18. 28. Lond. 1683. qu. What other " things he hath published I know not, nor any " thing else of him, only that he was elder brother
" to Dr. Will. Harison master of the hospital of S.
" Cross. I find another Joh. Harrison who was " accounted a learned and eminent divine, author
" of A Vindication of the holy Scriptures, or, the " Manifestation of Jesus Christ the true Messiah
" already come, &c. Lond. 1656. oct.

[992]

" EDWARD YONG, son of Jo. Yong of " Woodhay in Berkshire, gent. was born at Bramp-
" ton in Yorkshire, educated in Wykeham school
" near Winchester, elected prob. fellow of New
" coll. in 1661, aged 19 years or more, took one
" degree in the civil law 1668, entred into holy
" orders, became chaplain to Thomas earl of Os-
" sory, fellow of Wykeham's coll. near Winchester,
" preb. of Gillynham Minor in the church of Sa-
" lisbury, in Sept. 1682, chaplain in ordinary to " their majesties king William III. and queen Mary.
" He hath published

" Several sermons, as (1) Sermon preached be-
" fore the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of the City
" of London, at Guildhall Chap. the 17th of Feb.
" 1677; on Psal. 52. 7. Lond. 1678. qu. (2)
" Sermon preached before his Majesty at White-
" hall, the 29th of Dec. 1678; on Joh. 15. 22.
" Lond. 1679. qu. (3) Sermon preached before the " Lord Mayor and Aldermen of London, at Guild-
" hall Chap. the 4th of Feb. 1682; on Matth. 5. 3.
" Lond. 1683. qu. (4) Sermon preached at Lan-
" beth, the 25th of Jan. 1684, at the Consecration
" of the Right Rev. Father in God Thomas (Ken)
" Lord Bishop of Bath and Wells; on 2 Tim. 1.
" 6. Lond. 1685. qu. dedic. to William archbishop " of Canterbury. (5) Sermon exhorting to Union
" in Religion, preached at Bow-Church the 20th of

" May 1688; on Joh. 16. 31, 32. Lond. 1688. qu.
" (6) Sermon preached before the Queen at White-
" hall, on Easter-day, 1693; on 1 Thes. 4. 18.
" Lond. 1693. qu. (7) Serm. concerning the Wis-
" dom of God, preached at Salisbury on Sunday
" the 30th of July 1693, being the Time of the
" Assizes; on Job. 28. 28. Lond. 1693. qu. (8)
" The Great Advertisement, that a religious Life
" is the best Way to present Happiness, in two
" Sermons preached at Whitehall, the first on Sun-
" day the 15th, the second on Sunday the 22d of
" April 1694, and both on Psal. 37. 4. Lond. 1694.
" qu. (9) Two Assize Sermons preached at Win-
" chester. The first on the 26th of Feb. 1694,
" Jam. Hunt of Popham esq; being sheriff of the " county of Southampton, on Heb. 4. 13. Lond.
" 1695. qu. The sec. on the 14th of July 1686,
" Charles Wither of Hull being sheriff, &c. on 2
" Chron. 19. 6. — Lond. 1695. qu. (10) Picty's
" Address to the Magistrate. Serm. at the Assizes
" held at Winchester the 11th of July 1695, on 1
" Tim. 2. 2. (For all that are in authority.) Lond.
" 1695. qu.

" Amoris Christiani MNHMONETTICON: sive
" Concio ad Clerum habita in Visitatione metropo-
" litical Eccl. Cath. Sarisburiensis 12. Jul. 1686;
" in Joh. 13. 34, 35. Lond. 1686 in tw. This " sermon was translated into English at the instance
" of Edm. Waller the poet, by W. Atwood, esq;
" under this title The Idea of Christian Love,
" Lond. 1688. oct. with a large paraphrase on the " said Mr. Waller's Poem of Divine Love: To " which are added some copies of verses from that " excellent poetess Mrs. Anne Wharton the wife of " Thomas lord Wharton, and one of the daughters
" and co-heirs of sir Hen. Lea of Dichley in Ox" fordshire, bt. I find one E. Young who is now,
" or at least was lately, a schoolmaster in London,
" author of The compleat English Scholar, &c.
" several times printed, but he is not to be taken to " be the same with the former person.

" EDWARD HERBERT, younger brother to " Arthur Herbert earl of Torrington, and both the " sons of sir Edw. Herbert of London kt. was edu-
" cated in Wykeham's school near Winchester,
" elected prob. fellow of New coll. in Aug. 1665,
" aged 19 years or thereabouts, took one degree in " arts, went to the Middle Temple, studied the " municipal law, was made a barrester, and after" wards became attorney-general in Ireland, chief " justice of Chester in the place of sir George Jef-
" freys, made lord chief justice of the king's bench,
" a knight the 19th of Feb. 1683, and upon the " promotion of sir Joh. Churchill to the mastership
" of the Rolls in the room of sir Harbottle Grim-
" ston decaas'd; he was made attorney to James
" duke of York. On the 16th of Oct. 1685, he " was sworn lord chief justice of the king's bench,
" and one of his majesty's (king James II.) most [993]

“honourable privy council; whereupon sir Edw. Lutwich serjeant at law was made lord chief justice of Chester: In the beginning of 1686 he was constituted one of the ecclesiastical commissioners by the said king, and accordingly did sit among them in Aug. following; and about the 22d of April 1687 he was removed to the common pleas, because that he would not expound a law to the king's mind, viz. to do justice on a soldier that deserted his colours in the new-raised army of the king. After the said king had left England, he follow'd him into France, and thence into Ireland, and afterwards into France again. He hath written, in vindication of himself,

“A short Account of the Authorities in Law, upon which Judgment was given in Sir Edward Hales his Case. Lond. 1689. qu. This account was examined, and answered by W. Atwood, a barrister, and animadverted upon by sir Robert Atkins, knt. of the Bath, then late one of the justices of the common-pleas. The answer to it by W. Atw. is entit. The Lord Chief Justice Herbert's Account examined: wherein it is shewn, that those Authorities in Law, whereby he would excuse his Judgment in Sir Edward Hales his Case, are very unfairly cited, and as ill applied. Lond. 1689. qu. And that of sir Robert Atkins runs thus, An Enquiry into the Power of dispensing with penal Statutes: together with some Animadversions upon a Book written by Sir Edw. Herbert, &c. entit. A short Account, &c. Afterwards this worthy person, sir Ed. Herbert, who was a great lover of king James II. and an adherer to him in the worst of times, was one of those many persons that were excepted out of the act of indemnity or pardon of their majesties king William III. and queen Mary, dated 23 May 1690.

“WALTER HARRIS, son of Walter Harris, cordwainer, was born in the parish of — within the city of Gloucester, educated in grammar learning in Wykeham's school near Winchester, admitted perpetual fellow of New coll. without serving a year or years of probation, because he was of kin to the founder thereof, an. 1666, aged 19 years or more, and four years after he took one degree in arts. But this person whom I always took to have an unsettled head, or, as we usually say, a worm in his pate, began to have thoughts of changing his religion upon these pretended motives, (1) The lively memorials of popery in statues and pictures on the gates and in the chapel of New college. (2) His reading a book called A Guide in Controversies, especially the fifth part thereof, being a vindication of the council of Trent.—These being his chief motives (tho' the first is a very poor one) he, about the same time that he read the Guide before-mention'd, received much encouragement to leave

“his college for the sake of the Roman catholic religion that he was then bent on, from the discourses and example of Mr. Rich. Reeve, master of the grammar school joining to Magd. coll. (whom he could never afterwards name, but with a particular respect, because he knew he had no manner of temporal motive to quit his all for religion's sake, besides the preservation of a good conscience) whereupon resigning his fellowship in Aug. 1673, went afterwards to Doway and Paris, at the last of which places he took, as I suppose, the degree of doctor of physic. In 1676 he returned into England, settled in London, and practised his faculty among the Roman catholics. At length the Popish plot, call'd by some Oates his plot, breaking out in Sept. an. 1678, and thereupon all the Rom. catholics being soon after banish'd London, he turn'd about to secure himself, took the oaths, and, as 'twas then said, the sacrament. Soon after, in token of this his reconciliation to the church of England, he wrote in January the same year

“A Farewell to Popery; in a Letter to Dr. Nicholas, Vice-chancellor of Oxford, and Warden of New Coll. shewing the true Motives that withdrew him to the Romish Religion, and his Reasons of his Return to the Church of England: concluding with some short Reflections concerning the great Duty of Charity. Lond. 1679. qu. He was then advised to direct his letter to the said Dr. Nicholas, because he had been formerly his friend.⁸ Afterwards our author Harris gained much practice among the phanatics, was made physician in ord. to his majesty king William III. fellow of the coll. of physicians, and in 1689 censor thereof. He hath written, “Pharmacologia Anti-empirica: or, a rational Discourse of Remedies both Chymical and Galenical; wherein Chymistry is impartially represented, &c. Lond. 1683. oct.

“Remarks on the Causes and Cure of the Gout, the universal Use of the Cortex, or Jesuit's Powder, and the notorious Impostures of Empirics and Mountebanks.—This is printed with Pharmacologia.

“The Diseases of Infants, &c.—This was written in Latin, which I have not yet seen, was Englished by W. C. M. S. with a preface in vindication of the work. Lond. 1694. He also translated from French into English (1) New and curious Observations on the Art of curing the Venereal Disease, and the Accidents that it pro-

⁸ [Wood had written the following—and was not only then an eager prosecutor of quiet people in Oxon, that were his majesties good subjects, but a favourer of the saints or factious people then militant, tho' ashamed of it afterwards, when the parliament was first prorogued, and then dissolved, to prevent the designs of those saints in gaining their ends by the said plot.—Afterwards &c.]

This sentence omitted by bishop Tanner,]

[994]

“duces in all its Degrees, explicated by natural and mechanical Principles, &c. Lond. 1676. oct. written by monsieur de Blegny, chirurg. in ord. to the French queen. An account of this translation is in the Philosophical Transactions, numb. 125. p. 622. (2) A Course of Chymistry, containing the easiest Manner of performing those Operations that are in Use in Physic, &c. Lond. 1677. oct. written by Nich. Lemery. (3) An Appendix to a Course of Chymistry: being additional Remarks to the former Operations. Together with the Process of the volatile Salt of Tartar, and some other usual Preparations. Lond. 1680. oct.

“THOMAS MANNINGHAM, son of Rich. Man. rector of Mychelmersh in Hampshire, was born ——— elected prob. fellow of New coll. from Wykeham's school, an. 1669, aged 18 years or more, took the degrees in arts, (that of master being completed in 1677) holy orders, and forthwith became a highflown preacher, and for some time tutor to sir John Robinson, bart. eldest son of sir John Robinson, sometime lieutenant of the Tower near Lond. but this his being tutor was not at Oxon, but elsewhere. Soon after, by the divine providence of God, and the free unconditionate generosity of that noble and loyal patriot sir John Norton, he was comfortably placed in an agreeable station in the church, viz. in the rectory of East Tysted in Hampshire, an. 1680, or thereabouts. Where being settled, he was passionately desirous to collect himself, to be known to few, and to be envied by none, &c. In 1684 he having had liberty granted to him to preach once or twice before his majesty and the court, his majesty did so well approve of his preaching, that he gave him, upon his desire, the grant of a prebendship of Winchester, upon the promotion of Dr. Th. Ken to the see of Bath and Wells. But it proving to be the gift of the lord-keeper, one Tho. Fox, a jun. master of Christ Church obtain'd it by the importunity of friends. In the latter end of Nov. 1684 he was made preacher of the Rolls, in the place of Dr. Gilb. Burnet, who was outed thence for certain matters spoken in a sermon preached in the chapel belonging to the said Rolls, on the 5th of the said month of Nov. and for his favouring William lord Russell before and after his tryal for high-treason, an. 1683. Afterwards our author Manningham became lecturer at the Temple, doctor of div. by the diploma, I think, of the archbishop of Cant. and upon the promotion of Dr. Joh. More to the see of Norwich, rector of St. Andrew's church in Holborn near Lond. and about that time chaplain in ord. to their majesties king William III. and queen Mary. He hath published

“Several sermons, as (1) Serm. before Sir Rob.

“Clayton Lord Mayor of Lond. at Guildhall Chap. 7 Dec. 1679; on Psal. 119. 67. Lond. 1680. qu. (2) Praise and Adoration, Serm. on Trinity-Sunday before the University of Oxon 1681; on Psal. 103. 1. Lond. 1682. qu. (3) Serm. preached at the Hampshire Feast, on Shrove-Tuesday 16 Feb. An. 1685; on Phil. 4. 8. Lond. 1686. qu. (4) Serm. at the Funeral of Sir Joh. Norton at East Tysted in Hampshire, on ——— Lond. 1687. qu. It was preached in the winter time 1686. (5) Sermon concerning Publick Worship, preached before the Queen on Wednesday 23 March 1691; on Isa. 56, latter Part of the seventh Verse, Lond. 1692. qu. (6) Comparison between a sincere Penitent and a just Person, preached before the Queen at White-Hall 8 March 1692; on Luke 15. 7. Lond. 1693. qu. (7) Of religious Prudence, preached before the Queen at White-Hall, on Sunday 17 Sept. 1693; on Prov. 8. 12, former Part. Lond. 1694. qu. (8) Of the Sincerity and Integrity of the Heart, preached 28 Feb. 1693; on Psal. 139. 23, 24. Lond. 1694. qu. Besides other serm. as one at the Rolls on the day of the martyrdom of king Charles I. 30 Jan. and another at the Rolls 29 May, being the restoration of king Charles II. but these two I have not yet seen.

“Two Discourses: The first shewing how the chief Criteria of Philosophical Truth, invented by speculative Men, more eminently serve divine Revelation, than either Philosophy or natural Religion. The second, manifesting how all the Foundations of the intellectual World, viz. Reason, Morality, Civil Government, and Religion, have been undermin'd by Popish Doctrines and Policies. Lond. 1681. These two discourses are only the effect of two sermons, the first preached in the church of St. Peter in the East in Oxon, in the time of Lent 1678, and the other in New coll. chapel, 5 Nov. 1680.

“A short View of the most gracious Providence of God in the Restoration and Succession. Lond. 1685. in qu.

“Two short Discourses: The first concerning Truth. The second shewing Popery one great Cause of Atheism. Lond. 1689. in tw.

“WILHELM MUSGRAVE, son of [Charlton] Musgrave, was born at ——— in Somersetshire, but descended from the antient martial and warlike family of his name living in Westmorland, became probat. fellow of New coll. in 1675, aged 18 years or thereabouts, took a degree in the civil law 1682, entred on the phys. line, became a member of the royal society, elected secretary of the royal society in the place of Dr. R. Plot, about the latter end of Novemb. 1684, and was sec. to the philos. convent. at Oxon, took the degree of bach. of phys. in 1685, proceeded in that faculty in 1689, and in 1691 went to the “city of Exeter, and practis’d his faculty there,

“in the room of Dr. Bidpord deceased. He hath
“written

“*An Account of the Cutting out of the Cæcum
“of a Bitch.*—This is in the Philos. Transact.
“numb. 151. an. 1683.

“Philosophical Transactions——They begin
“with numb. 167, Jan. 1684, at which time Dr.
“R. Plot left off, and are carried on to numb. 178
“inclusive, Dec. 1685, at which time he left off,
“and Mr. Edm. Halley began with numb. 179.
“Mr. Musgrave dedicated his year of transactions
“to Fulk Grevil lord Brook.

“Letter to Dr. Martin Lyster, wherein he en“deavours to prove, that the Lacteals convey Li“quors that are not white.——In the Philos.
“Transact. numb. 166, Nov. 1684.

“THOMAS WOOD, son of Robert Wood,
“gent. was born in the parish of St. John Baptist “within the city of Oxon, sped a child in Wyke“ham’s coll. near Winchester 12 Aug. 1675. elected “prob. fellow of New coll. (from S. Alb. hall) in “the latter end of August 1679, aged 18 years, “took a degree in the civil law, entred a student in “Grey’s inn, call’d to the bar by his kinsman lord “chief justice sir John Holt in Easter term 1694.
“He hath written,

“*A Dialogue between Mr. Prejudice, a dissent“ing Country Gentleman, and Mr. Reason, a “Student in the University: being a short Vindi“cation of the University from Popery, and an “Answer to some Objections concerning the Duke
“of York.* Lond. 1682, in 3 sh. and an half in qu.
“The dissenting Casuist: or, the second Part “of a Dialogue between Prejudice, &c. Lond.
“1682, in 5 sh. in qu.

“Juvenalis redivivus: or, the first Satyr of “Juvenal taught to speak plain English. A Poem,
“Lond. 1683, in 5 sh. and an half in qu.

“A Pindaric Ode upon the Death of his sacred “Majesty King Charles II, Oxon 1685, in two sh.
“in fol. dedicated to James earl of Abingdon. “He “hath also copies of verses printed by way of com“mendation on several authors, as on J. Oldham’s “poems, on White Kennet’s translation of Morise “Encomium.

“Anglie Notitia, sive præsens Status Angliæ “succinctè enucleatus. Oxon. 1686, in tw. in two “parts. Of this book, which is mostly a transla“tion from The present State of England, written “by Dr. Edw. Chamberlayne, you may see an ac“count in The Universal Historical Bibliothecæ, “&c. for the month of January, 1686, printed at “Lond. 1687, chap. 7. p. 49. written by Edm.
“Bohun, esq; He also translated from the original “Greek into English, Several Odes of Anacreon, “being partner with Mr. Francis Willis of New “coll. in a design to translate the rest of the odes,
“of which Abr. Cowley and Jo. Oldham had set

“such excellent patterns. The odes that fell to “Mr. Wood’s share to translate, were the 3, 22, “26, 27, 28, 30, 31, 35, 38, 49, and 50. The rest
“were done by Mr. Willis, except those of Cowley
“and Oldham.

“ROBERT EYRE, son of Will. Eyre of Box
“in Wilts, gent. was bred in Wykeham’s school “near Winchester, became probat. fellow of New “coll. in 1676, aged 19 years or more. bach. of “arts April 1, anno 1680. master of arts Jan. 14, “1683. In holy orders. Afterwards fellow of “Wykeham’s coll. near Winchester. He pub“lish’d

“A Discourse concerning the Nature and Sa“tisfaction of a good and inoffensive Conscience: “Sermon preached in the Cathedral Church at “Winchester, at the Assizes held there 11 April “1693; on Acts 24. 16. Lond. 1693. qu.

“CORNELIUS NORWOOD, son of Robert
“Nor. of Stanmore in Middlesex, was in 1679
“matric. of New coll. where he went out bach. of “law 1686, (now fellow of Winton coll.) was grand“son to Cor. Bec, bookseller; and is said to be the “author of

“*Divine Eloquence: or, an Essay upon the “Tropes and Figures contained in the holy Scrip“tures; and reduced to the proper Titles of Rhe“toric. Also several Texts of Scripture, which “fall in with the Figures, are briefly interpreted.
“Especially those that seem to favour the Papist
“or the Socinian.* Lond. 1694. in tw.

“FRANCIS WILLIS, son of Hugh Willis,
“master of the free-school at, and vicar of, Thame
“in Oxfordshire, was born there, educated in “Wykeham’s school near Winchester, became per“petual fellow of New coll. at his first entry therein,
“as being a founder’s kinsman, an. 1680, aged 17 “years, took the degrees in arts, entred on the “physic line, took the degrees in that faculty, prac“tised in Oxon. He publish’d

“Divers poems, as (1) To the God of Love. (2)
“To Floriana, with others which you may see and “read in a book entit. Miscellany Poems and “Translations by Oxford Hands. Lond. 1685.
“oct. from page the 8th to the end of page 26. and “from p. 184 to 198.

“Two Pindaric Odes.——The first inscribed to “James earl of Abingdon; the other is against “sensual pleasure. These two are in the said “Miscellany Poems, from page 27 to the end of “p. 37.

“Synopsis Physicæ, tam Aristotelicæ, quam “novæ, ad Usus Scholæ accommodatæ. Lond.
“1690. oct. dedicated to Nich. Fatius Duillierius.
“He hath also publish’d several translations, as (1) “Anacreon done into English out of the Original “Greek. Oxon 1683. oct. with the life of Anacreon

“before it. Those pieces of Anacreon that are “done by Abr. Cowley in his works, are in this “Anac. inserted, and a new translation of them
 “not attempted by Mr. Willis. The ode of Ana“creon (called the Cup) paraphrased, is in Joh.
 “Oldham’s poems, as done by him, the said Oldham.
 “—Lond. 1683. oct. See more in Tho. Wood
 “of New coll. (col. 557.) who was assistant or part“ner with Mr. Willis in his translation of Anacreon “before-mention’d. (2) Translations out of Ca- “tullus, Tibullus, and Propertius. These are in “the said Miscellany Poems, from p. 1. to the end
 “of p. 7. besides something of Horace and Seneca “paraphrased in p. 189, 192, 196, &c.

[997]

“THOMAS FLETCHER, fellow of New “coll. bach. of arts 1690, possessed of the donative
 “of Fairfield in com. Somerset, 1694. He hath “publish’d
 “Poems on several Occasions, and Transla- “tions: wherein the first and second Books of Vir- “gil’s Aeneis are attempted in English. Lond.
 “1692. oct.—By Thom. Fletcher, B. A. of New “coll.

WRITERS OF LINCOLN COLLEGE.

“GEORGE ROGERS, son of George Rogers,
 “of the city of London, doctor of physick, second “son of Francis Rogers of Dartford in Kent, was “born in London, became a commoner of Lincoln “college in the beginning of 1635, aged 17, or “thereabouts, took the degrees in arts, studied “physick, travelled into Italy, took the degree of “Dr. of physick at Padua, return’d, and was incor“porated at Oxon in 1648. Afterwards he settled
 “in London, practis’d his faculty, became fellow of “the college of physicians, and president thereof in “1689. He hath publish’d

“Oratio anniversaria habita in Theatro Col- “legii Medicorum Londinensium, 18 Octob. & D.
 “Lucæ Festo, 1681, in Commemorationem Bene- “factorum à Doctore Harveio, aliisque munificis “Viris Fæminisque eidem Collegio præstitorum,
 “Lond. 1682, qu.

“Oratio in Gymnasio Putavino habita prid. cal.
 “Maii, An. 1646, Doctore Gradu suscepto. This “is printed with Orat. anniv. and at the latter end
 “are placed six copies of verses, called Laureæ “Apolloniæ; among which is a copy of Joh. Eve“lyn of Says-court, and another of Edm. Waller “of Beconsfield. One Francis Rogers, D. D. jus“tice of peace in Kent, the only surviving son of “Rich. Rogers, D. D. sometime suffragan bishop
 “of Dover, and dean of Canterbury, died 23 July, “1638. Whether this Francis be the same with
 “the former Francis, grandfather to our author, “Dr. G. Rogers, I know not.

“WILLIAM SPRIGGE, son of a father of “both his names, and younger brother to Joshua “Sprigge, mention’d in the fourth volume, col.
 “136, was born in or near Banbury in Oxfordshire,
 “made fellow of Linc. college by the recommenda“tions of Ol. Cromwell, chancellor of the university,
 “on the 11th of Dec. 1652, he being then bach. of “arts. In 1655 he proceeded in that faculty, and “in 1657 became one of the first fellows of the col“lege at Durham, founded by the said Oliver:
 “But that college being annull’d in 1659, he re-“tir’d to Linc. coll. and being ejected thence in the “year following by the king’s commissioners, he “settled for a time in Grey’s inn (of which he was “then barrister) and had some reliance, relating to “his profession, on James duke of York. But “soon after, being invited into Ireland, he settled
 “in Dublin, follow’d his profession, married, and “liv’d there till his brother Joshua died, an. 1684, “much about which time he settled at Crayford in “Kent, where, I think, he now lives. He hath
 “written

“Philosophical Essays, with brief Advisos; ac- “commodated to the Capacity of the Ladies and “Gentlemen, sometime Students of the English
 “Academy, lately erected at London, &c. Lond.
 “1657 in tw.

“Miscellaneous Discourses.

“An Appendix of Advice to Students—These “two last are printed at the end of Phil. Essays.

“A modest Plea for a Common-wealth against “Monarchy: In which the genuine Nature and “true Interest of a Free-state is briefly stated: It’s “Consistency with a national Clergy, mercenary “Lawyers, and hereditary Nobility, examined;
 “together with the Expediency of an Agrarian,
 “and Rotation of Officers, asserted. Lond. 1659.
 “qu.

“Apology for younger Brothers, the Restitution
 “of Gavelkind, and Relief of the Poor; with a “Lift at Tythes, and Reformation of the Laws
 “and Universities, and a Conclusion.—This,
 “which was printed with A modest Plea, &c. were “both published in Aug. 1659; but being full of “faults, were corrected and printed in oct. in De“cember following. They were greedily bought “up, and taken into the hands of all curious men,
 “and being by them highly commended, some ma“licious persons there were, particularly Henry “Stubbe of Christ Church, that reported, that “William Sprigge was not the author of them, but “Franc. Osbourne, who died in Feb. 1658; some “of whose papers coming after his death into the “hands of the said Sprigge, his intimate acquaint“ance, he published them therefore as his. Yet
 “all that knew Sprigge well, knew him to be an “ingenious man, and able to write such a book, as “elsewhere it hath been told you. They were an“swer’d in a pamphlet entit. A modest Reply, in- “Answer to the Modest Plea for an equal Com-

[998]

“ monwealth, against Monarchy: Lond. 1659, in 3 sheets in qu. written in three letters to a worthy gentleman. But our author Sprigge looking upon it as an inconsiderable piece, never made answer or reply thereunto. He hath also written, “ The Royal and happy Poverty: or a Meditation on the Felicities of an innocent and happy Poverty, grounded on Matth. 5. 3. Lond. 1660, oct. It was by him preached while he was at Durham. What else he hath published since his abode at Dublin, and afterwards at Crayford, I know not.

“ HENRY ROSE was born at Pyrton, near to Watlington in Oxfordshire; became a servitor or poor scholar of Linc. coll. in the latter end of 1656, took a degree in arts, and then was elected into the number of fellows of that house about 1662. Afterwards proceeding in his faculty, he entered into holy orders, and was made minister of All Saints church in Oxon. But running much into debt, and marrying beneath himself, left his fellowship and church (being then bach. of div.) about 1674, retired to Lond. where he liv’d obscurely for a time, and at length to Ireland, where he was living in 16—. While he continu’d in the university he was esteem’d a good preacher, and an ingenious man, and one that much deserv’d the title of virtuoso, and therefore the more pitied by those that knew his worth, for the calamity that befel him. He hath written “ A Philosophical Essay for the Re-union of Languages; or, the Art of knowing all by the Mastery of one, Oxon 1675, in 5 sheets and an half in oct. It was first publish’d in Oxon in Oct. 1674, the author having then left Oxon.

“ EDWARD WETENHALL was born within the city of Litchfield, educated in the coll. school at Westminster, and thence elected scholar of Trinity college in Cambridge, an. 1655, where taking the degree of bachelor of arts, and performing certain exercise for that of master, he removed to Oxon, entered himself a commoner of Lincoln college, and was not only incorporated bachelor of arts in June 1661, but performing the remaining part of his exercise, took the degree of master in the month following. About that time he entered into holy orders, became minister of Combe near Woodstock, by the favour of the rector of his coll. and afterwards petty-cannon of Exeter, and master of the high-school there. In 1669 he was admitted bach. of div. and about that time going into Ireland, he became first schoolmaster of the public school at Dublin, then curate of S. Warburgh’s, and afterwards chanter of Christ Church there. In 1678, Feb. 3, he was, by letters pat. then dated, made bishop of Cork and Ross, upon the death of Dr. Edward Singe, alias Middleton, who was bp. of Cork, VOL. IV.

“ Cloyne, and Ross, and was consecrated in the cathedral of the Holy Trinity, alias Christ-church, in Dublin, on the 23d of March following. He hath publish’d “ Several sermons, as (1) A Sermon against Neutrality, preach’d at the Visitation of Dr. Robert Cary, Archdeacon of Exon, at S. Mary’s in Exon, on Friday in Easter Week 1663; on 1 Kings 18. 21. Lond. 1663. qu. (2) Miserere Cleri: A Sermon presenting the Miseries of the Clergy, and assigning their true Causes in order to Redress, preached in the Cathedral Church of Exon, at the Assizes 26 July 1668; on Jer. 15. 10. Lond. 1668. qu. (3) Sermon setting forth the Duties of Irish Protestants, arising from the Popish Rebellion, An. 1641, and the Irish Tyranny 1688, preached before the Lord Lieutenant and the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, &c. in Ch. Ch. in Dublin, 23 Oct. 1692; on 2 Cor. 9. 10. Lond. 1693. qu.

“ Enter into thy Closet: or, a Method and Order for private Devotion, &c. Lond. 1666, in tw.

“ Appendix concerning the frequent and holy Use of the Lord’s Supper.—printed at the end of the former book.

“ Two Discourses of the Furtherance of Christian Piety and Devotion, &c. Lond. 1671, in tw.

“ The Catechism of the Church of England with marginal Notes, plainly setting forth its Meaning, and proving the same out of holy Scripture, for the Use of Children, Lond. 1678. oct.

“ Of Gifts and Offices in the public Worship of God: a Treatise in three Parts, endeavouring an impartial Account, what was in the inspired Age of the Church, what succeeded in the more ordinary State, what reasonably may be allowed now, in Prayer, Singing, Preaching, &c. Lond. 1678. Dublin 1679, in oct.

“ The Protestant Peace-maker: or, a seasonable Persuasive to all serious Christians, who call themselves Protestants, that, laying aside Calumnies and all exasperating Disputes, they would pursue Charity, Peace and Union, as the only Means now left us of Safety and Reformation of the public Manners. Lond. 1682. qu. This Protestant Peace-maker is the substance of two sermons, the first on 2 Sam. 15. 11. and the second, which is entit. The Cry of Holiness for Peace, (being an assize sermon) is on Heb. 12. 14. In the said book, being several things spoken in favour of dissenters, one Edward Pearse, minister of Cottesbrook in Northamptonshire, a zealous conforming nonconformist, saith thus of the author and his work,—The honourable ambassador of peace speaks home, and from his heart,

9 “ In The Conformist’s Third Plea for the Non-Conformists Lond. 1682. qu. in the pref. p. 2.”

O O

[999]

"and shall for ever set high in the esteem of all the sons of peace.

"Postscript or Notes on Mr. Rich. Baxter's, and some other late Writings for Peace.—printed with The Protestant Peace-maker. The writings which he means, are Mr. Baxter's book called, An Apology for the Nonconforming Ministry. Lond. 1681. qu. and Mr. John Humphrey's Tracts tending towards Peace. Of which postscript our author Pearse before-mention'd saith¹ thus—'Although the bishop of Cork and Ross (Wetenhall) hath done very well in dealing faithfully with Mr. Baxter, yet he did ill in not dealing fairly with that book,' meaning his Apology. Mr. Baxter soon after answer'd the said postscript, as to what concerns him therein, in a piece called, A Detection of Edward Lord Bishop of Cork and Ross in Ireland, Lond. 1682. qu. printed with his True History of Councils enlarged and defended, &c.

"A Judgment of the Comet which became first generally visible at Dublin, 13 Dec. 1680.—Dubl. 1682. qu. 8 sh.

"A practical and plain Discourse of the Form of Godliness, visible in the present Age, and of the Power of Godliness: how and when it obtains: how denied and oppressed, &c. Lond. 1683. oct.

"Scripture authentic, and Faith certain. A Discourse which may serve for an Answer to divers late Aspersions on the Integrity of Originals, and Validity of our modern Translations. Lond. 1686. oct.

"An earnest and compassionate Suit for Forbearance to the learned Writers of some Controversies at present, &c. Lond. 1691. qu.—This was publish'd after Dr. W. Sherlock's book entit. A Vindication of the Doctrine of the Holy Trinity was made extant, by a melancholy stander-by, (meaning Wetenhall). Afterwards the said doctor putting out a new book called An Apology for writing against the Socinians, our author Wetenhall put out this book following,

"The Anti-apology of the melancholy Stander-by: in Answer to the Dean of S. Paul's (Dr. Sherlock) late Book falsly styl'd, An Apology for writing against the Socinians, &c. Lond.—printed 1693. qu.

"One Edward Wetenhall publish'd

[1000]

"The Wish, being the tenth Satyr of Juvenal, paraphrastically rendred in Pindaric Verse, (by a person sometime fellow of Trin. coll. Dublin) Dublin 1675. in qu.

"ABEDNEGO SELLER, son of Richard Sellar, was born in Plymouth in Devonshire, became a servitor of Line. college in the beginning of the year 1662, aged 15 years or thereabouts, left the "college without a degree, and after he had past through some mean employment, became rector of Combeintin-Head within the deanery of Kenn in Devonshire. At length being esteemed a man of parts, and therefore in a capacity to do the church of England service, had a benefice in London bestow'd on him; which he keeping till after king William III. came to the crown, lost it because he was a non-juror. He publish'd

"Remarks relating to the State of the Church of the three first Centuries: wherein are intersperst Animadversions on John Howe's View of Antiquity, &c. Lond. 1680. in oct. This book, which shews its author to be a man of good learning, and considerably read in the fathers, is dedicated to Dr. William Cave, of Cambridge.

"The devout Communicant assisted with Rules for the worthy receiving of the blessed Eucharist: together with Meditations, Prayers, and Antithems, for every Day of the holy Week. In two Parts. Lond. 1685, 86. in tw.

"A plain Answer to a Popish Priest, questioning the Orders of the Church of England. Lond. 1688. in one sh. in qu. Afterwards Tho. Fairfax, a Jesuit of S. Omers, of the Fairfaxian family in Yorkshire, and one of the fellows of Magd. coll. (who were put in by king James II.) came out with a pamphlet entit. Some Reasons tending to impartial People, why Dr. Henry Maurice, Chaplain to his Grace of Canterbury, ought not to be traduc'd as a Licenser of a Pamphlet entit. A plain Answer to a Popish Priest, &c. It was printed in half a sh. in qu. at the end of Twenty one Questions further demonstrating the Schism of the Church of England, &c. printed in the lodgings of Mr. Obadiah Walker, within the precincts of Univ. coll. an. 1688. Soon after our author Mr. Sellar came out with a second edition of A plain Answer, &c. and to it did annex

"An Answer to the Oxford Animadvertiser's Reflections. Lond. 1688. qu. in 5 or 6 sh.

"Remarks upon Popery mis-represented, with Reference to the deposing Doctrine.—printed in the reign of king James II.

"SAMUEL HILL, son of William Hill of South Petherton in Somersetshire, became a servitor of Lincoln college in the latter end of 1662, aged 14 years, translated himself afterwards to S. Mary's hall, and, as a member thereof, was admitted bach. of arts on the 15th of Novem. 1666, which was the highest degree which he took here. Afterwards retiring to his native country, became at length rector of Kilmington there, and much esteem'd for his learning and zeal for the church of England. He hath written

"The Catholic Balance: or, a Discourse determining the Controversies concerning (1) The Tradition of Catholic Doctrines. (2) The Pri-

¹ "In his Conformist's Third Plea, &c. p. 28."

"macy of St. Peter, and the Bishop of Rome. (3)
 "The Subjection and Authority of the Church in "a Christian State. Lond. 1687. in qu.

"De Presbyteratu Dissertatio quadripartita,
 "Presbyteratus sac. Originalis, Naturam, Titu-
 "lum, Officia & Ordines ab ipsis Mundi Primor-
 "diis usque ad Cathol. Eccles. consummatam
 "Plantationem complectens, &c. Lond. 1691. oct.

"A Vindication of the primitive Fathers against
 "the Imputations of Gilbert Lord Bishop of Sa-
 "rum, in his Discourse on the Divinity and Death
 "of Christ, &c. Lond. 1695. in oct. published in "the beginning of that year. But bishop Burnet,
 "angry at this book, complains to the bishop of "London, that his chaplain, (R. Altham, lately
 "proctor of Oxon) should license such a book full
 "of scurrility, whereupon the said Mr. Altham was "forced to make a submission or recantation. To "this book of Mr. Hill's came out two answers that "year: (1) Animadversions on Mr. Hill's Book,
 "entit. A Vindication, &c.—Lond. 1695. in 8 sh.
 "and an half in qu. in a letter to a person of qua"lity, dated April 1695. (2) Remarks of a Uni- "versity Man upon a late Book falsely called, A
 "Vindication of the primitive Fathers, &c. Lond.
 "1695. in 5. sh. in qu. publish'd about the 5th of "June 1695.

[1001]

"GEORGE HICKES, (Hickesius) was born "in the same parish, wherein Rog. Ascham, the "famous Grecian and orator, received his first "breath, viz. in the parish of Kirby-Wiske, in the "north-riding of Yorkshire, in the month of June
 "an. 1642, educated in the grammar school at "North Allerton in the same county, admitted a
 "servitor of S. John's coll. in Apr. 1659, and soon
 "after was translated to that of Magdalen, where "continuing in the same capacity till he was bach.
 "of arts, he went to Magd. hall, and, as a member "of that house, he did compleat that degree by de"termination. On the 23d of May 1664 he was "elected fellow of Linc. coll. and in Dec. the year
 "following he was admitted master of arts. In "Oct. 1673 he began a voyage beyond the seas, in
 "the quality of a tutor to a young gentleman,
 "whereby he much improved himself, as to the "understanding of places, men, and manners. He "spent 18 months in travelling to and fro in France
 "and Switzerland, and was at Geneva. At Paris
 "he became acquainted with Hen. Justell, who "sent by him, when he was about to return to his "country, the original MSS. in Greek² of the Ca-
 "nones Ecclesiae Universalis (then lately put forth
 "by his father Christopher) to the university of
 "Oxon, as a present for the Bodleian vatican, where "they now are. Soon after the university sent him
 "a diploma, whereby he was actually created doc"tor of the civil law. In the month of May 1675,

² [See in the FASTI, the second volume, under the year
 1675, among the creations.]

"our author Hickes was admitted bachelor of div.
 "being about that time rector of St. Ebbe's church "in Oxon, in the place of Will. Pindar, and in "Sept. in the year following, he became domestic
 "chaplain to John duke of Lauderdale, through
 "the recommendation of Henry bishop of London,
 "and with him continued till Sept. 1680. In "June 1677, he attended the said duke into Scot-
 "land, during his commission in that kingdom;
 "and while he remained there, hapned the tryal of "Mr. James Mitchel, for having attempted to mur"der the archbishop of S. Andrews; whereupon
 "he wrote and publish'd a book called Ravillac
 "redivivus, which occasion'd him (by some menaces
 "given out) to disguise himself under a feigned
 "name and character, to secure himself from the "murderous Scottish whiggs. During his attend"ance there, the archbishop of S. Andrews (Dr.
 "Jam. Sharpe) and other bishops, did, in comple-
 "ment to him, but more especially to his patron,
 "offer him the degree of doctor of divinity at S.
 "Andrews; which his grace the duke approved so "well, that he was obliged to accept it, and accord-
 "ingly he sent his son-in-law and servants with him
 "thither, where he was dignified with that honour
 "in a full convocation of the doctors, professors,
 "and masters. About that time also, the said
 "archb. of S. And. did, in his own name, and in "the name of the church of Scotland, present to "him (as an acknowledgment of the services he did
 "that church) the councils in 18 volumes in fol. set "forth by Philip Labbeus and Gabr. Cossartius at "Paris, anno 1672. In Dec. 1679 he was actually
 "created doct. of div. of the university of Oxon,
 "and on the eleventh of June 1680 was installed
 "prebendary of Worcester, in the place of Mr.
 "Will. Thornborough deceased, bestowed upon "him by his majesty, 'for the services he had done
 "the public, during the duke of Lauderdale's com"mission in Scotland.' Soon after in the same year
 "he was made vicar of Allhallows Barkin, near the "Tower of London, upon the death of Dr. Edw.
 "Layfield, archdeacon of Essex, late vicar of that "place, and in Dec. (the same year also) he gave "up all right that he had to his fellowship in Linc.
 "coll. he being about that time made chaplain in "ordinary to his majesty. In Aug. 1683 he was "made dean of Worcester in the place of Dr. W.
 "Thomas, bishop of S. Davids, who kept that dig"nity in commendam with his bishoprick, till he "was translated to Worcester, and on the 13th of "Oct. following he was installed. In the latter end
 "of 1690, or beginning of 91, he was deprived of "his deanery, for refusing to take the oaths of al"legiance and supremacy to king William III. and "queen Mary, so that retiring to London, he liv'd
 "privately there, and near it. He is a person much
 "conversant in the fathers, councils and other an"cient authors, an excellent divine and preacher,
 "and one who hath by a nice and curious exact-

[1002]

"ness diligently searched and ransack'd, if not all,
 "yet at least the chiefest and most considerable
 "both old and modern authors of the sectarian
 "party, in order throughly to inform himself of the "true design, genuine bent and tendency, of their "more generally received principles: the result of "which accurate enquiry was, that he plainly dis"covered some of them to clash and interfere with
 "the main branches of Christianity, and others di"rectly to strike at the very foundation and root of "all peace, order and well-settled establishments:
 "And in the several representations of these, his
 "dealings with his adversaries have been so fair
 "and just, that I think they themselves cannot "complain of them, because he never chargeth upon
 "them any positions without referring the reader
 "to the particular places of those many treatises,
 "in which they are evidently avowed and abetted,
 "unless it should be esteemed a fault (as I know it
 "commonly is by some of them) openly to shew
 "their tenents naked and bare-fac'd, stript of all
 "that specious varnish and paint, with which their "authors usually gild and dress them up; so that
 "by an easy glibness they might be swallowed down
 "the more eagerly: or unless it should be deemed
 "a crime, by timely cautions against, to endeavour
 "to prevent those dangerous consequences, the nat"ural issues and products of many of their doc-
 "trines, which are no less than to involve in con-
 "fusion and blood the most flourishing kingdoms,
 "and to lay waste with desolation and ruin the best
 "temper'd constitution in the world. Perhaps the "maintainers of these destructive persuasions vainly
 "expected to have had their trayterous schemes and "projects worded in soft, gentle and tender ex-
 "pressions, and that they should have been com-
 "plimented, hug'd and caressed, for their many
 "rude attempts upon the government, and bar-
 "barous assaults made on the public administra-
 "tions. Our author's calling faction, schism and "rebellion by their right names, incens'd Samuel
 "Johnson, the late author of the so much cele"brated piece of The Life of Julian the Apostate,
 "&c. that he thought fit to single out, and en-
 "counter him above all others. But the doctor
 "hath, with an unquestionable clearness, laid open
 "his folly, ignorance, weakness, and pernicious
 "drifts of his traiterous scribble, in the learned
 "reply to it which I shall anon mention. Altho'
 "these are the only eminent ornaments which can "be possibly discovered, whereby to recommend it,
 "yet for all this its pretended worth and excellence
 "hath been with a vaunting noise industriously
 "proclaim'd in defiance of all opposition, almost
 "throughout the whole nation, as a main prop and
 "impregnable bulwark of their cause, which plainly
 "shews what great encouragement some misguided
 "persons give all such good works, as the resist"ance of lawful authority, and libelling in ridicule
 "and buffoonry the most primitive and Christian

"practice of passive obedience are accounted by "them, where or by whomsoever they are counte-
 "nanc'd and pleaded for. He the said Dr. Hickes
 "hath written and published

"Several sermons, as (1) The strongest Tempta-
 "tions are conquered by Christians: or, a Dis-
 "course concerning Temptations, preached before
 "the Lord-Mayor of London and Court of Alder-
 "men, 14 Jan. 1676, on 1 Cor. 10. 13. Lond.
 "1677, and 83. qu. (2) The Spirit of Enthu- "siasm exorcised, preached before the Univers. of
 "Oxon on Act Sunday, 11 July 1680; on 1 Cor.
 "12. 4. Lond. 1680, 81, &c. qu. (3) Peculium
 "Dei. A Discourse about the Jews, as the peculiar
 "People of God, before the Aldermen and Citizens
 "of London, 6 Feb. 1680; on Rom. 9. 4, 5. Lond.
 "1681, &c. qu. (4) The true Notion of Persecu-
 "tion stated, preached at the Time of the late Con- "tribution for the French Protestants; on 2 Cor.
 "4. 9. Lond. 1681. qu. (5) The Moral Shechi-
 "nah: or, a Discourse of God's Glory, preached
 "at the Yorkshire Feast in Bow Church 11 June
 "1682; on 1 Cor. 10. 32. Lond. 1682. qu. (6)
 "Discourse of the Sovereign Power, at St. Mary
 "le Bow, 28 November 1682, before the Artillery
 "Comp. of London; on Rom. 4. 13. Lond. 1682,
 "83. qu. (7) Sermon before the Lord-Mayor, Al-
 "dermen, and Citizens of London, 30 Jan. 1681;
 "on Acts 17. 7. Lond. 1682, &c. qu. On which
 "some scatter'd reflections in his Life of Julian the
 "Apostate, &c. particularly in the ninth chap.
 "which is of passive obedience, our author Hickes
 "made answer thereunto in a book called Jovian,
 "as I shall tell you anon. (8) Sermon in the "Church of St. Bridget on Easter-Tuesday, Apr.
 "1. An. 1684, before the Lord-Mayor, Court of "Aldermen, and Governors of the Hospitals, upon
 "the Subject of Alms-giving, on Heb. 13. 16. Lond.
 "1684. qu. (9) Sermon preached in the Cath.
 "Church of Worcester 29 May 1684, being the "Anniversary Day of His Majesty's Birth and "Restoration; on Psal. 14. 7. Lond. 1684. qu.
 "Ravillac Redivivus, being a Narrative of the "late Tryal of Mr. Jam. Mitchel, a Conventicle-
 "Preacher, who was executed 18 January 1677,
 "for an Attempt which he made on the sacred Per-
 "son of the Archb. of S. Andrews. Lond. 1678.
 "qu. This, afterwards being augmented and en"larged by anon. was reprinted at Lond. 1682.
 "fol.

"An Account of the Tryal of that most wicked
 "Pharisee Maj. Tho. Weir, who was executed for "Adultery, Incest, and Bestiality.—This is "printed with the former book, and in the second "edition of them both, is added An Appendix, con- "taining an exact Relation of the Proceedings
 "before the Lords, of the Articles against Charles
 "Maitland, of Halton, Treasurer-Depute, for "Perjury, having given a false Testimony at the "Trial of James Mitchel; written by anon. and printed in two sh.

"The Spirit of Popery speaking out of the Mouths of Fanatical Protestants: or, the last Speeches of Mr. John Kid and Mr. John King, two Presbyterian Ministers, who were executed for High Treason at Edinburgh, on the 14th of August 1679, &c. Lond. 1680. fol.

"History of the Archb. of St. Andrews, (Dr. James Sharp) his Murder.—This is printed with The Spirit of Popery. As our author, Dr. Hickes, hath elsewhere pointed at many principles espoused by, and are very current among, our English separatists (and those too, not reckoned of the wildest sort) which are altogether inconsistent with the common security of government; so he hath in this piece (The Spirit of Popery) recounted doctrines equally, if not more, destructive of the same, collected from the applauded writings of some of the more sanctified and fiery zealots of the Scotch presbytery: And fully to evince that those really are not harmless and innocent tenets, which they never draw into answerable practices, he exemplifies them in such licentious, beastly, and most scandalous immoralities, taken out of the authentic records of several of their consistories, which, I think, have much outdone, as well the antient Gnostics, as any of the later most impure sects, which have cast a most impure blot, and lasting stain on Christianity.

"Jovian: or, an Answer to Julian the Apostate. Lond. 1683. It was printed twice in that year oct. For which work he is much celebrated by the laureat³ poet; but by one who calls himself a person of honour, in his Letter of Remarks upon Jovian, Lond. 1683, in two sheets in qu. he is not at all. Our author (Hickes) is vindicated from the exceptions of Julian against him in The Apostate Protestant, &c. Lond. 1682. qu. from p. 42 to p. 48, wrote by Dr. Edw. Pelling, sometime of Trin. college in Cambridge, and in April 1683, made, as it seems, prebend of Westminster, in the room of the honourable John North, deceased. We may here take notice, that the author of Julian hath been answer'd by several pens, viz. (1) John Benet of Ch. Ch. in Oxon, in his Constantius the Apostate, &c. Lond. 1682, 83. oct. (2) By Tho. Long in his Vindication of the primitive Christians, &c. (3) By Anon. or, as some think, by Edw. Meredith, in his book entit. Some Remarks upon a late popular Piece of Nonsense, called Julian the Apostate, &c. Lond. 1682, in a thin fol. (4) By the author of The Triumph of Christianity: or, the Life of Cl. Fl. Julian the Apostate: with Re- marks, contained in the Resolution of several Queries. To which are added Reflections upon a Pamphlet called, Seasonable Remarks on the Fall of the Emperor Julian. And on Part of a late pernicious Book entit. A short Account of the Life of Julian, &c. Lond. 1683. oct. Though no name is set to this book, yet Joh. Dowell, sometime master of arts of Christ's coll. in Cambridge, was generally taken to be the author. Dr. Hickes hath also written

"The Case of Infant-Baptism in 5 Questions.
 "(1) Whether Infants are incapable of Baptism?
 "(2) Whether Infants are excluded from Baptism by Christ? (3) Whether it is lawful to separate from a Church, which appointeth Infants to be baptized? (4) Whether it be the Duty of Christian Parents to bring their Children unto Baptism? and (5) Whether it is lawful to communicate with Believers, who were baptized in their Infancy? Lond. 1683, in 14 sh. in qu. This book is the fifth case in another book entit. A Collection of Cases, and other Discourses, lately written to recover Dissenters to the Communion of the Church of England. Lond. 1685. qu. in two vol. In the second of which is the said Case of Infant-Baptism.

"Seasonable Advice to the Citizens, Burgesses, and Free-Holders of England, concerning Parliaments, and the present Elections. Lond. 1685, in 5 sh. and an half in qu. It was publish'd about the beginning of March 1684.

"An Apologetical Vindication of the Church of England; in Answer to those who reproach her with the English Heresies and Schisms, &c. Lond. 1687. qu.

"Speculum B. Virginis: A Discourse of the due Praise and Honour of the Virgin Mary—publish'd in the reign of king James II.

"Institutiones Grammaticæ Anglo-Saxonicæ & Moeso-Gothicæ, Oxon. 1689. in a large qu. To which is added Grammatica Islandica, written by Ranulph. Jonas, and Etymologicon Britannicum, by Dr. Edw. Bernard. Hence in the life of Franc. Junius set before the book entit. De Pic-tura Veterum, written by Joh. Georg. Grævius, printed in fol. at Rotterdam 1694, this author is thus mention'd:—'Post Junium, cum ille viam munisset ad has quatuor linguas longo situ squallidas, (viz. Gothic. Francic. &c.) & sepultas revocandas in lucem rei literariæ bono, viz. pereruditus, Georgius Hickesius ecclesiæ Anglicanæ presbyter, semitam a Junio factam ingressus, Institutiones Grammaticas Anglo-Saxonicas & Gothicas conscripsit, quibus adjecit Rudolphi Jonæ Grammaticam Islandicam, & Catalogum veterum Librorum Septentrionalium, qui in Anglia habentur, quorum magna pars debetur Francisco Junio.

³ "Joh. Dryden in his Vindication: or, the Parallel of the French League and English, &c. Lond. 1683. qu. p. 39."

"GEORGE WHEELER, son of col. Charles Wheeler of Charing in Kent, was born there “ became a commoner of Linc. college under the “ tuition of Mr. George Hickes, in Lent term an.

 “ 1667, aged 17 years or thereabouts, and after“ wards a gent. commoner; but before he had a “ degree conferr’d on him, he went to travel, and “ in the company of Dr. James Spon of Lyons took “ a voyage from Venice to Constantinople, thro’ the “ Lesser Asia, and from Zant thro’ several parts of “ Greece to Athens, and from thence into Attica, “ Corinth, Baotha, &c. Some time after his re“ turn, he did, as a testimony of his respects and “ kindness to his mother the university of Oxon, “ bestow upon her divers pieces of antiquity, which “ he had collected in his travels, to be deposited as “ monuments there. Whereupon the members “ thereof did, in a full convocation, confer on him
 “ the degree of master of arts, in the very begin“ ning of the year 1683, (as it is elsewhere told “ you) he being then a knight. Soon after he took “ holy orders, and about the 12th of Dec. 1684 he “ was instal’d preb. of Durham, upon the promotion “ of Dr. Dennis Grenvil to the deanery of that “ place, vacant by the death of Dr. Sudbury; and “ afterwards was made vicar of Basingstoke. He “ hath written

[1005] “ *A Journey into Greece in the Company of Dr.
 “ Spon of Lyons, in six Books. (1) A Voyage
 “ from Venice to Constantinople, &c. Lond. 1682, “ fol. printed with variety of sculptures.*

“ An Account of the Churches and Places of As“ sembly of the primitive Christians, from the “ Churches of Tyre, Jerusalem, and Constanti“ nople, described by Eusebius, and ocular Ob“ servations of several very antient Edifices of “ Churehes yet extant in those Parts; with a sea“ sonable Application. Lond. 1689.

“ JAMES PARKINSON, son of James Par“ kinson, was born in a market-town called Witney
 “ in Oxfordshire, became a servitor of Brasen-nose “ college in the beginning of 1669, aged 16 years, “ admitted scholar of Corp. Ch. coll. in January
 “ 1670, ejected thence for abusing some of the re“ lations of Dr. R. Neulin the president, and for “ saying that it was a scandalous matter to be a “ Neulin, &c. Afterwards he went to Gloucester
 “ hall, took the degree of bachelor of arts in April “ 1674, and soon after translating himself to that “ of Hart, he did, as a bach. of arts of that house,
 “ speak an excellent speech in the encaenia, cele“ brated in the theatre 10 Jul. in the same year;
 “ which, being very well approved, it was the chief “ matter that recommended him to a fellowship in “ Linc. coll. in Nov. following. So that being ad“ mitted M. of A. in Nov. 1675, (about which time
 “ he entred into holy orders) he became a noted “ tutor there, and much respected by many for his “ good natural parts. But so it was that he being “ complain’d of at a public meeting of the rector
 “ and fellows of the said college, for holding, main“ taining, and defending some unwarrantable and “ seditious principles, and accused of several things “ which were ever esteemed by all honest and well-

 “ affected persons as inconsistent with, and destruc“ tive of, the then present government in church
 “ and state, he was, after the rector, Dr. Marshal, “ would have nothing to do with the matter, (for “ which he gained the ill-will of the fellows, and “ the reput abroad of a favourer of fanatics) com“ plained of to the pro-vicechancellor Dr. Halton;
 “ who, after examination of the fellows of Linc.
 “ coll. upon their oaths, bound him over to appear “ at the assize following: which being come (3 “ Sept. 1683) he appeared before the judge, and “ after the indictment was read, he pleading not “ guilty, his tryal was put off till the assize follow“ ing. But the very next day after he had pleaded “ not guilty, the said pro-vicechanc. sent for, and “ told him, he must expel him according to orders
 “ that he had receiv’d from the superior power:
 “ which being effected by his programna stuck up
 “ in all public places 6 Sept. 1683, he within 7 days “ after receded from the university, and went to “ London. He hath publish’d

“ *An Account of his Expulsion from the Uni“ versity of Oxon in the late Times. In Vindica“ tion of him from the false Aspersions cast on him
 “ in a late Pamphlet entit. The History of Passive “ Obedience. Lond. 1689. in 2 sh. and an half in “ qu. The said History was said to be written by “ Dr. Geor. Hickes.*

“ *The Fires continu’d in Oxford: or, the Decree
 “ of the Convocation for burning The Naked Gos“ pel, considered.*—Written by way of letter to a “ person of honour, dat. 30 Aug. 1690, and printed
 “ about a week or fortnight after in two sh. in qu.
 “ The name of Ja. Parkinson is not set to it, only “ common report makes him the author. The Nak.
 “ Gosp. was written by Dr. Arth. Bury.

“ *Examination of Dr. Will. Sherlock’s Book
 “ entit. The Case of Allegiance due to Sovereign “ Powers stated and resolved. Lond. 1691. in 4 “ sheets in qu. This book was first publish’d in “ Dec. 1690. About the same time he publish’d
 “ A Dialogue between a Divine of the Church of “ England and a Captain of Horse, concerning Dr.
 “ Sherlock’s late Pamphlet entit. The Case of Al“ legiance, &c. ’Twas printed in half a sheet in “ two columns like to a gazette.*

“ WALTER LEIGHTONHOUSE was born
 “ at Alford in Lincolnshire, educated in Magd. coll.
 “ in Cambridge till he was bach. of arts: after“ wards going to Oxon, and incorporated in that “ degree in May 1677, was elected fellow of Linc.
 “ coll. on the second day of June following. In “ 1680 he proceeded in arts, was afterwards made “ chaplain to Theophilus earl of Huntingdon, and “ rector of Washingburgh near Linc. preb. of Lin“ coln. He hath publish’d

[1006]

“Several sermons, as (1) The Duty and Benefit of frequent Communion, preach'd at St. Peter's Church in Lincoln, upon Passion-Sunday; on Luke 22. 19. Lond. 1689. qu. (2) Sermon preached at the Assizes held at Lincoln 6 March 1691. before Sir John Holt, Lord Chief Justice of England; on 2 Cor. 19. 6, 7. Lond. 1692. qu. (3) Hope in God, the only Support in Affliction, Sermon preached 7 April 1695, at Stapleford in Leicestershire; on Psalm 27. 13, 14. —Dedicated to the lady Sherard, by his epistle dated at Wasingburgh.⁴

“THOMAS EASTON, son of John Easton of Bickley in Devonshire, became a student of Linc. coll. in the latter end of 1677, aged 16 years, took the degrees in arts, that of master being completed in 1684. and afterwards became minister of Nymet Episcopi in his own country. He hath publish'd

“A Sermon preached at the Funeral of Joh. Milford, Esq; of Nym. Episc. in the Dioc. of Exeter; on Psal. 103. 15, 16. Lond. 1692. qu. The said Jo. Milf. died by a fall from a horse, aged 18 years, and was buried at Southampton 27 June 1692.

“MARTIN STRONG, son of James Strong of Riston in Somersetshire, became servitor of Linc. coll. in the latter end of 1680. aged 17 years, took the degrees in arts, that of master being completed in 1687, and afterwards became vicar of Yeovil in his own country. He hath written,

“The Indecency and Unlawfulness of baptizing Children in private, without Necessity, and with the public Form. Lond. 1692. qu.

“Brief Exhortation to the constant Receiving of the Lord's Supper—printed with the former book, and both contained in 3 sheets.

WRITERS OF ALL-SOULS COLLEGE.

“HENRY BIRKHEAD, or BIRCHEADUS as he writes himself, son of Joh. Birkh. was born in the parish of St. Gregory near St. Paul's cathedral in London, educated in grammar learning under the famous Mr. Tho. Farnabie, entred a com. of Trin. coll. in Midsummer term an. 1633 aged 16 years, admitted scholar thereof on the 28th of May 1635, and shortly after was seduced by a Jesuit, and conveyed to St. Omers by one who called himself Kemp, a member of the Jesuits coll. there: But being regained to the church of England, he was by the endeavours of that

⁴ [Reprinted by his son, a fellow of King's college in Cambridge, in 1714, at Lond. 8vo. RAWLINSON.]

“public-spirited man Dr. Laud archbishop of Canterbury elected fellow of All-s. coll. an. 1638, he being then bach. of arts, and esteemed a good philologist. Afterwards he proceeded in that faculty, was made senior of the act celebrated in 1641, entered on the law line, kept his fellowship during the times of usurpation, and had liberty allowed him by the delegates of the university in Apr. 1653, to propose a dispensation in the ven. convocation for the taking of the degree of doctor of physic (not that of law) by accumulation, conditionally that he perform all exercises requisite thereunto, but whether he did so, or took that degree it appears not. After the restoration of king Charles II. he resigned his fellowship, became registry of the diocese of Norwich (which he resigned in 1681) had a chamber in the Middle temple, lived some time there and elsewhere in a retired and scholastical condition for many years. This person, who was always accounted an excellent Latin poet, a good Grecian, and well vers'd in all human learning, hath written and publish'd “Poemata in Elegiaca, Iambica, Polymetra Antitechnemata & Metaphrases, membranatim quadripartita. Oxon. 1656. oct.

“Otium Literarum. Sive Miscellanea quædam Poemata, &c. 1656. oct. These are printed with the Miscellanea of Hen. Stubbe. He also published with a preface, some of the philological works of Hen. Jacob, an. 1652, as I have told you in the life of that person, under the year 1652, vol. iii. col. 332. And also written several Latin elegies, on divers loyal persons that had suffered for the cause of king Charles I. which are scatteredly printed in various books, under the covert letters, sometimes of H. G. I find one Henry Birkhead who wrote a tragedy called Cola's Fury, or Lirenda's Misery. Lond. 1646. qu. the subject of which is the Irish rebellion, that broke out on the 23d of Oct. 1641, but the said Birkhead was no acadennian, only a merchant of Bristol.

“EDWARD LITTLETON, a younger son of sir Adam Littleton of Stoke-Milburge in Shropshire, bart. was born in that county, educated in Westminster school, became a com. of St. Mary's hall in the beginning of 1641, aged 15 years, or thereabouts, and in 1647 he was elected fellow of All-souls coll. Soon after he submitted to the authority of the visitors appointed by the parliament, proceeded in arts in 1649, and in 1656 he was installed senior proctor of the university, being about that time entred a student in Lincoln's inn. About 1664 he left the university, settled in the said inn, and within three months after his first residence there, he was called to the barr: at which time the benchers were pleased to “ signify, that, in honour to the university which “ he had govern’d, they were ready to dispense with “ him, either for time or exercise, but he wanted

 “ neither. In 1666 he went to the island of Bar“ badoes with William lord Willoughby of Parham,
 “ as his secretary, and the king’s attorney for that “ island, and about three years after he married a “ lady there of a plentiful fortune, was made a “ judge to administer the law, and so continued in “ that quality 12 or 13 years. In 1683 he with his “ family return’d to London, where he now (1694)
 “ resides, with the character of agent for the island
 “ of Barbadoes, confer’d upon him by their gover-“ nour, council and assembly. He hath written,

“ De Jurcentute, Oratio habita in Comitibus
 “ Oxonienſibus. Lond. 1664. in 10. sh. in qu. This “ oration was spoken by him when he was rhetoric “ reader of the university of Oxon. It was re“ printed at Lond. with corrections, an. 1689. in “ qu.

“ The Groans of the Plantations: or a true Ac- “ count of their grievous and extreme Sufferings
 “ by the heavy Impositions upon Sugar and other “ Hardships; relating more particularly to the “ Island of Barbadoes. Lond. 1689. in 4 sh. and “ an half in qu.

“ Observations on the Wars in Hungary, 1689.

“ The Management of the present War against “ France consider’d, 1690.

“ The true Causes of the Scarcity of Money,
 “ with the proper Remedies for it. 1690. reprinted “ 1692.

“ Project of a Descent upon France. 1691.

“ A Proposal of some Ways for raising of “ Money. 1691.

“ A Proposal for repairing and maintaining the “ Highways. 1692.

“ The Descent upon France further recommend- “ ed. 1694.

“ JOSEPH KEBLE, son of Rich. Keble ser-“ jeant at law (appointed with Bulstrode Whitlock,
 “ and Joh. Lisle commissioners of the great seal,
 “ in Feb. 1648) was born near Ipswich in Suffolk, “ made fellow of All-souls coll. (from that of Jesus
 “ where he first studied) by the visitors appointed “ by parliament, an. 1648, admitted bach. of the “ civil law, an. 1654. and afterwards settling in “ Grey’s inn, became a barrister, and at length a “ bench. He hath written,

“ An Explanation of the Laws against Recu- “ sants, &c. abridged. Lond. 1681. oct.

“ An Assistance to Justices of the Peace, for the “ easier Performance of their Duty. Lond. 1683.
 “ fol.

“ The Statutes at large in Paragraphs and “ Sections, or Numbers, from Magna Charta, until “ this Time, &c. Together with the Heads of “ Pulton’s and Rastal’s Abridgements in the Mar-

“ gin, and the Addition of above 1000 new Re- “ ferences from other Books of the Law, &c. Lond.
 “ 1676. and 1681. in a large fol.

“ Reports in the Courts of the King’s Bench at “ Westminster, from the 12th to the 30th Year of “ King Charles II. in three parts or vol. &c. Lond.
 “ 1685. fol.

“ Table of the principal Matters contained in “ the Reports in the Court of the King’s Bench at “ Westm. from the 12th to the 30th Year of King
 “ Charles II. &c. Lond. 1690. fol. with new useful “ alphabetical tables of the names of all the cases,
 “ &c.

“ PETER PETT, son, grandson, and great-“ grandson of Peter Pett (which last, who was “ grandson of Peter Pett of Cumberland, had been “ master-builder in the navy-royal to queen Mary,
 “ and afterwards to queen Elizabeth) was born at “ Deptford in Kent, educated in St. Paul’s school
 “ in London, afterwards in Sidney coll. in Cam“ bridge till he was bach. of arts; whence going to “ Oxon. an. 1647. he was entred a student in Pem“ broke college, and in the year following became “ fellow of that of All-souls by the favour of the “ visitors, and incorporated in the same degree.
 “ Afterwards he entred on the law-line, took the “ degree of bach. of the civil law, and some years
 “ after was admitted a student of the common-law
 “ in Grey’s inn, continuing still fellow of All-souls
 “ coll. till about an year before his majesty’s restora“ tion, and then he settled for good and all in the “ said inn. Afterwards, being esteemed a man of “ parts, he was elected fellow of the royal society at “ its first foundation, was soon after made advocate
 “ general to king Charles II. his heirs and succes“ sors for the kingdom of Ireland, chosen a member “ of the house of commons for that kingdom, and “ at length received the honour of knighthood from “ James duke of Ormond lord lieutenant thereof.
 “ He hath written

“ In Obitum Joannis Reynoldi, qui in Angliam “ nuper remigrans Naufragio interiit, ΘΡΗΝΩΔΙΑ.
 “ Printed on one side of a large sheet of paper at “ Lond. 1657. This John Reynolds, who had “ spent 3 years in study in the university of Cam“ bridge, was a captain for the parliament in the “ grand rebellion, afterwards, when the war was “ ceas’d, he became commissary general in Ireland, “ was made a knight by Oliver the protector, on
 “ the eleventh of June 1655, and afterwards a co“ lonel in the expedition at Mardike: whence re“ turning towards England, in a Dutch pink in a “ stormy night on the 12th of Dec. 1657, was cast “ away on Goodwin-Sands, in the prime of his years.
 “ With him perished coll. Will. White, Will. De-“ vaux student of Ch. Ch. in Oxon, secretary to the “ said coll. Reynolds, and certain inferior officers.
 “ Sir Pet. Pett hath also written

[1008]

" A Discourse concerning Liberty of Conscience
 " —Printed 1661. in oct. under the letters of
 " R. T. being the two last letters of both the names
 " of Peter Pett.⁵

⁵ [Birch, in his Life of the Hon. Robert Boyle, 8vo. 1744, gives an account of the occasion of this book. The whole passage is so interesting that I shall not omit it: 'Mr. Boyle had possessed himself with such an amiable view of Christianity, separated from either superstitious practices or the sourness of parties, that as he was fully persuaded of the truth of it, he rejoiced in every discovery which nature furnished him with to illustrate it, or to take off the objections against any part of it. He always considered it as a system of truths, which ought to purify the hearts, and govern the lives of those, who profess it. He loved no practice which seemed to lessen that, nor any nicety, which occasioned divisions amongst Christians. He thought, that pure and disinterested Christianity was so bright and glorious a system, that he was much troubled at the disputes and divisions, which had risen about some lesser matters, while the great and the most important, as well as most universally acknowledged truths were by all sides almost as generally neglected, as they were confessed. He loved no narrow thoughts, no low or superstitious opinions in religion; and therefore as he did not shut himself within a party, so neither did he shut any party out from him. His zeal was lively and effectual in the greatest and truest concerns of religion; but he avoided to enter far into the unhappy breaches, which had long weakened as well as distracted Christianity, any otherwise, than to have a great aversion to all those opinions and practices, which seemed to him to destroy morality and charity. He had a most particular zeal against all severities and persecution upon the account of religion; and I have seldom, says bishop Burnet (Funeral Sermon page 27) observed him to speak with more heat and indignation, than when that came in his way. He did thoroughly agree with the doctrines of our church, and conform to our worship; and he approved of the main of our constitution; but he much lamented some abuses, that he thought remained still among us. And Dr. Thomas Dent, prebendary of Westminster, who was a particular friend of his, observes, (Letter to Dr. William Wotton) that he always heard him express his judgment and inclination to the church of England; but he was for moderation to those, who dissented from us, and not to force tender consciences, for which he seemed to express great averseness. He had frequent conferences on this subject with the present archbishop (Tenison), bishop of Sarum (Burnet), but particularly the late bishop of Worcester, the learned Dr. Stillingfleet, for whose depth of learning and solid judgment he had always the greatest value and esteem. Sir Peter Pett likewise affirms that he was peculiarly warm in his expressions against persecution on account of religion; and relates, that soon after the restoration Mr. Boyle and he discoursing of the severities practised by the bishops towards the puritans in the reign of king Charles I. and of those, which were returned upon the episcopal divines, during the following usurpations; and being apprehensive, that the restored clergy might be tempted by their late sufferings to such a vindictive retaliation as would be contrary to the true measures of Christianity and politics, they came at last to an agreement, that it would tend to the public good, to have something written and published in defence of liberty of conscience. Mr. Boyle undertook to engage Dr. Thomas Barlow, whose judgment in that point he very well knew, to treat of the theological part of the question; and desired sir Peter to write of the political part; which the latter consented to, on condition that Mr. Boyle would let him read his manuscript to him before it was committed to the press, and give him his opinion about the whole. Mr. Boyle frankly promised this, and was willing to state the fact of the allowance of liberty of conscience in foreign parts.

VOL. IV.

" The happy future State of England: or a
 " Discourse by Way of Letter to the late Earl of " Anglesey, vindicating him from the Reflections of
 " an Affidavit, published by the House of Com-
 " mons, An. 1680, by Occasion whereof, Observa-
 " tions are made concerning infamous Witnesses.
 " The said Discourse likewise contains various " political Remarks and Calculations, referring to
 " many Parts of Christendom, with Observations
 " of the Number of the People of England, and of " its Growth in Populousness, in Trade, &c. Lond.
 " 1688. fol. This book, which was published in " Hillary term 1687, was dedicated to Rob. earl of " Sunderland lord president of the privy-council,
 " &c.

" A casuistical Discussion of the Obligation of " the King, his Heirs and Successors, wherein
 " many of the moral Offices of absolute and uncon-
 " ditional Loyalty are asserted, &c.—Or thus;
 " The Obligation resulting from the Oath of Su-
 " premacy, to assist and defend the Pre-eminence
 " or Prerogative of the dispensative Power belong-
 " ing to the King, his Heirs and Successors. In
 " the Asserting of that Power, various historical
 " Passages occurring in the Usurpation after the " Year 1641 are mention'd, &c. This, which is " printed with the former book, is dedicated to " George marquess of Halifax. But these two " books, which are printed and bound together,
 " lying dead on the bookseller's hands, a new title
 " was put before them, in the place of that title
 " before the first book, which partly runs thus;
 " A Discourse of the Growth of England in Popu-
 " lousness and Trade since the Reformation. Of
 " the clerical Revenue, and the same asserted to be

But afterwards considering that Mr. John Dury, who had spent many years in his travels, especially in the northern parts of Europe, when he was engaged in his scheme for reconciling the Lutherans and Calvinists, was capable of writing on that subject with more extent and exactness, than himself, he prevailed upon Mr. Dury to write upon it, and rewarded him for it, and delivered the treatise drawn by him to sir Peter, who published it at the end of his own in 1660 (though the booksellers, according to their custom, antedated in the title-page 1661) and inscribed both those treatises with the last letters only of the writer's names. But he did not print Dr. Barlow's discourse upon the same subject, because as, on the one hand, it would not, how strong soever its reasonings were, be sufficient to restrain the rigorous measures resolved upon against the nonconformists, so, on the other, it might expose the doctor to the resentment of his brethren, whom he had offended by writing, just before the restoration, a letter to Mr. John Tombes, the famous anabaptist, in which he had expressed some prejudice against the practice of infant baptism, and by refusing, even after the restoration, to retract that letter, notwithstanding he was in danger of losing, by that refusal, his station in the university of Oxford, and all his hopes of future preferment. However his discourse abovementioned was published after his death, under the title of The Case of a Toleration in Matters of Religion in a collection entitled Several miscellaneous and weighty Cases of Conscience learnedly and judiciously resolved by the Right Rev. Dr. Thomas Barlow &c. Lond. 1692. 8vo.]

P P

[1009]

"reasonable and necessary here. Of the Numbers of the People of England, founded on the Poll Bills, and the Bishops Survey, in the Year 1676. Of the Bills of Mortality, and political Observations thereon. Of the Necessity of future public Taxes for the Support of the Government, and our Religion, &c. Lond. 1689, written by way of letter to a person of honour, i. e. to Arthur earl of Anglesey.

"Several letters to Dr. Thom. Barlow, one of which is at large printed in his Genuine Remains. p. 360, &c. Sir Peter Pett hath also published, with an epistle dedicatory to the lord Altham, a book entit. Memoirs intermixt with moral, political, and historical Observations, &c. Lond. 1693. oct. written by Arthur earl of Anglesey.⁶ See other things that he hath published in Tho. Barlow."

[Anno 1645, Petrus Pett filius Petri Pett regi Carolo archinaupégi (sive primarii fabri navalis) natus Deptfordiæ in Cantio, præceptorem habuit Grenovici magistrum Young per triennium anno ætatis 15 vel 18 (litura obducitur) admissus est pensionarius minor Junii 28. tutore Th. Dillingham theologiæ baccal. solvit 5s. Regist. Coll. Sidney. Cant.

Sir Peter Pett had a design to write the life, and publish the works, of lord Falkland. See his pref. to Bishop Barlow's Remains, and the book p. 324, 5. BAKER.

Sir Peter Pett hath also written Speech to his Majesty K. James 2, at Whitehall 25 May 1688. The beginning of it is 'May it please your majestie, I finding that your maj. is now going to counsell' &c. It was spoken just after William marquis of Powis had delivered unto him a petition of many inhabitants in Wapping, Shadwell, Rateliff, Lyme-house, and Blackwall, to the end that his majestie would revoke the pattent w^{ch} Henry earl of Clarendon had unworthily procured in the names of Sam. Keck and Rob. Heyton from K. Ch. 2. about two years before his death of the shoare of the Thames joyning to the said townes, and of all the houses in those townes which are situated in the street by the Thames side for several miles from the Tower of London, which grant of the pattent if he could have made good would have been worth to him 100,000lbs. per ann. a fair addition to his crack'd and ill-gotten estate. The said speech of sir Peter Pett, is, with the king's answer thereunto, in a book entit. The State of the Protestants in Ireland under the late K. James his Government. Lond. 1692. qu. p. 32. 33, &c. written by a learned divine of the church of England, called Charles

⁶ [This was answered by sir John Thompson bart. in A short Vindication of his Lordship from several Aspersions cast upon him, in a pretended Letter that carries the Title of his Memoirs; appended to The Earl of Anglesey's State of the Government and Kingdom; &c. Lond. 1694, 4to. See vol. iv. col. 186.]

Lesley, son of Dr. Joh. Lesley, sometimes the most loyal bishop of Raphoe and afterwards of Clogher. His majestie's answer to the said speech which related to the address before mentioned expresses a wisdom as profound as the sea it self. Wood's MS. in Bishop Tanner's Copy.

Answer to a Legal Question, If a Deacon above the Age of 23 Years and under the Age of 24, may, according to the Ecclesiastical Law of this Realm, be ordained a Priest? MS. in the Bodleian, Ballard xi, 14. Two letters from him to Anthony a Wood in the same MS.

Letter from Pett to John Dunton, the bookseller, in the memoirs of that singular person by Mr. Nichols, Lond. 1818, p. xvii. Dunton says of sir Peter Pett, that he was a great scholar, well accomplished for conversation, because of his natural fluency and the fineness of his wit.⁷ He died in April 1699.]

"JOHN CAWLEY, son of Will. Cawley of the city of Chichester gent. was, by the endeavours of his father, made fellow of All-s. coll. (from that of Magd.) by the visitors appointed by parliament, an. 1649, took the degrees in arts, that of master being compleated in 1654, and whether he became a preacher soon after, without any orders confer'd on him by a bishop, I cannot tell. Sure I am that after his majesty's restoration he became a great loyalist, disown'd the former actions of his father who had been one of the judges of king Charles I. when he was tried for his life by a pretended court of justice, rayled at him (being then living in a sculking condition beyond sea) and took all opportunities to free himself from having any hand or any thing to do in the times of usurpation. About which time having married one of the daughters of Mr. Pollard of Newnham Courtney, who had been well known to archb. Sheldon, he became rector of Dedcot or Dudecot in Berksh. rector of Henley in Oxfordshire, and in the beginning of March 1666 archdeacon of Lincoln on the death of Dr. Raphael Throcmorton. He hath written

The Nature and Kinds of Simony discussed. Wherein is argued, whether letting an ecclesiastic Jurisdiction to a Lay-surrogate under a yearly Pension reserved out of the Profits, be reducible to that Head. And a Sentence in a Cause depending about it near six Years in the Court of Arches is examined. Lond. 1689. in 5 sh. in qu.

"One Will. Cawley, son of a gent. of Sussex, was matriculated as a member of Hart-hall, in Apr. 1621, aged 18 years; whether this be the same with Will. Cawley, who was one of the judges of king Ch. I. and reported by some writers to have been a brewer of Chichester, I cannot tell. There was also one Will. Cawley of the Inner Temple esq; who hath written

⁷ [Life and Errors, edit. Nichols, p. 178.]

" The Laws of Queen Elizabeth, King James and King Ch. I. concerning Jesuits, seminary Priests, Recusants, &c. and concerning the Oaths of Supremacy and Allegiance, explained, by divers Judgments and Resolutions of the reverend Judges. Together with other Observations on the same Laws. To which is added the Statute of 25 Car. 2. Cap. 2. for preventing Danger which may happen from Popish Recusants— Lond. 1680. fol.—Abridged by Joseph Keble of Grey's inn—Lond. 1681. oct.

" RICHARD BURTHOGGE born in Plymouth (where his father was a gunner) bred up in grammar learning at Exeter under Mr. Hayter, became either a servitor or choristor of All-s: coll. in 1654, took one degree in arts 4 years after; completed it by determination as a member of Linc. coll. went afterwards beyond the seas, was doctorated in physic at Leyden, returned to his native country, married, buried his wife, took to him a second wife who was a widow of the parish of Totness in Devonshire, on whose joynure he lives at Bowden near to that place, as he hath done above 20 years, practises physic, and by that and wiving he hath obtained a pretty foul estate. This person, who always kept pace with the fanatics, temporiz'd with the papists in the reign of king James II. and therefore was made a justice of peace for Devonshire, which office he kept under king Will. III. as being a favourer of fanatics. He is look'd upon as a person of considerable learning, and of no less pride and ambition. He hath written " Divine Goodness explicated and vindicated from the Exceptions of the Atheist; wherein also the Consent of the gravest Philosophers, with the holy and inspired Penmen, in many of the most important Points of Christian Doctrine is fully vindicated. Lond. 1670. 72. oct. dedicated to Andr. Trevill esq; whom the author, then living at Bowden, calls father.

" Causa Dei: or, an Apology for God: wherein the Nature of Punishments in general, and of infernal Ones in particular are displayed, the evangelical Righteousness explicated and settled, the Divinity of the Gentiles, both as to Things to be believed, and Things to be practised, adumbrated, and Ways whereby it was communicated, plainly discovered. Lond. 1675. oct.

" Organon Vetus & Novum: or, a Discourse of Reason and Truth, wherein the natural Logic common to Mankind is briefly and plainly described. Lond. 1678. oct.

" An Argument for Infants' Baptism, deduced from the Analogy of Faith and Harmony of the Scriptures; in which, in a Method wholly new, and upon Grounds not commonly observed, both the Doctrine of Infant-Baptism is fully asserted, and the Objections against it are obviated. Lond. 1683. oct.

" Vindiciae Pado-Baptismi: or, a Confirmation of an Argument lately emitted for Infant-Baptism. Lond. 1685. oct. written by way of letter to a rev. divine of the church of England, viz. Edm. Elys.

" Prudential Reasons for repealing the Penal Laws against all Recusants, and for a general Toleration. Lond. 1687. in two sh. in qu. There is no name set to it, only said in the title to have been pen'd by a protestant person of quality. This was answer'd by Joh. Prince vicar of Berry-Pomery near Totness.

" The Nature of Church Government freely discussed, &c. in 3 Letters—Answer'd by Rob. Burscough vicar of Totness in a book entit. The Nature of Church Government: or, a Vindication of Diocesan Episcopacy, &c. Lond. 1692. oct.

" An Essay upon human Reason and Nature of Spirits—Lond. 1694. oct. dedicated to Mr. Joh. Lock.

" GABRIEL TOWERSON, a Middlesex man born, became a commoner of Qu. coll. under the tuition of Mr. Tho. Tully in Mich. term, an. 1650, took the degrees in arts, that of master being completed in 1657, elected fellow of All-souls coll. in 1660, about which time he entered into holy orders. Afterwards he became rector of Welwynne in Hertfordsh. and about 1677 doctor of div. by the favour as it seems of Dr. Sancroft archb. of Canterbury, rector of the church of St. Andrew Undershaft in London, an. 168... where he hath a good name for his edifying way of preaching and exemplary life and conversation. He hath written

" A brief Account of some Expressions in St. Athanasius his Creed. Oxon. 1663. in one sh. and an half in qu.

" An Explication of the Decalogue or ten Commandments, with Reference to the Catechism of the Church of England. To which are premised by Way of Introduction several general Discourses concerning God's natural and positive Laws. Lond. 1676, and 81, fol. This is called the second part, tho' it came out first.

" Explication of the Catechism of the Church of Eng. Part I. containing an Explication of the preliminary Questions and Answers of it, and of the Apostle's Creed, together with an Introduction to the Whole, in a Discourse concerning Catechising, and the Catechism of the Church of England. Lond. 1678. 85. fol.

* [In this essay the author has advanced many things wholly new (more especially where he treats of the way and manner how spirits do appear) and concludes with reflections on Dr. Sherlock's notion about individuation. WANLEY.]

[1011]

"Explic. of the Cat. of the Ch. of Eng. Part III. containing an Explic. of the Lord's Prayer, with an Introduction and an Appendix to it." Lond. 1680. fol. dedicated to Dr. Sancroft archb. of Cant.

"Of the Sacraments in general, in pursuance of an Explication of the Catechism of the Church of England." Lond. 1687. oct.

"Of the Sacrament of Baptism in particular; of the Right of Baptism among the Heathen and Jews; and of the Institution of Christian Baptism, and of the Nature and Use of it among them." Lond. 1687. oct."

[1662, die ult. Octob. Gabriel Towerson clericus, A. M. admiss. ad rect. eccl. de Wellwyn, com. Hertford, per privationem Nicolai Greaves, S. T. P. ult. incumb. virtute actus uniformitatis legitime vacantem, ex pres. custodis et sociorum coll. Omn. Animarum Oxon. KENNET.⁹

Dr. Towerson was instituted to the rect. of St. Andrew Undershaft Apr. 20, 1692, on the promotion of Dr. Grove to the see of Chichester.

Add to his works:

A Sermon concerning vocal and instrumental Musick in the Church; as it was delivered in the Parish Church of St. Andrew Undershaft, upon the 31st of May 1696; being Whitsunday, and the Day wherein the Organ there erected was first made Use of: on Ephes. 5. Ver. 18 and 19. Lond. 1696, 4to.

He died in October 1697, aged about sixty two, and was buried at Welwyn in Hertfordshire: his funeral sermon being preached by Dr. George Stanhope, dean of Canterbury.]

"WILLIAM JOHNS, son of Nich. Johns of Matherne in Monmouthshire, became a chorister or clerk of All-s. coll. in Mich. term 1663, aged 19 years or thereabouts, went away without a degree, and became schoolmaster of Evesham in Worcestershire, where he continued several years with good applause, till he was called to be a minister of a church near that place where he now (1691) lives. He hath written

"The Traytor to Himself: or, Man's Heart his greatest Enemy, a moral Interlude in Heroic Verse, representing the careless, hardened, returning, despairing, and renewed Heart, with Intermarks of Interpretation at the close of each several Act." Oxon. 1678. qu. It was acted by the boys (but simply) of Evesham school at a breaking up, having been provided for the entertainment of the governours of the said school.

"JOHN WALROND, son of Thomas of Woodford-worthy in Devonshire, was entred in

⁹ [Regist. & Chronicle, page 812.]

"Exeter coll. 1673, afterward chose fellow of All-s. coll. where he proceeded in arts, was proctor of the univ. 1686, and now practises physic at Exeter. There is extant of his,

"A Poem (or copy of verses) on Death—in 5 stanzas contained in 4 leaves, in a book entit. "Poetic Miscellanies—Lond. 1691. oct. p. 30, 31, &c. written by Joh. Rawlet bac. of div. lecturer of St. Nicholas church in the town and county of New-Castle upon Tyne, which John Rawlet died there 28 Sept. 1686, aged 44.

"MATTHEW TINDALL, son of Joh. Tindall of Beer-Ferres in Devonshire, minister of God's word, became a com. of Linc. coll. in Lent term 1672, aged 15 years or thereabouts, translated himself to Exeter coll. took a degree in arts, was elected fellow of that of All-souls, took those in the civil law, that of Dr. being compleated in 1685, about which time (king James II. being then in the throne) he became a Rom. catholic, but after that king's leaving the nation, he returned to his former religion. He hath written "An Essay concerning Obedience to the supreme Powers, and the Duty of Subjects in all Revolutions, with some Considerations touching the present Juncture of Affairs." Lond. 1694. qu. This was published in Nov. 1693.

"An Essay concerning the Laws of Nations, and the Right of Sovereigns, &c." Lond. 1694 in 4 sh. in qu. This was published about the beginning of March 1693—to which is added in a 2d edition 1694, An Account of what was said at the Council-Board by the Civilians upon the Question, Whether their Majesties Subjects taken at Sea acting by the late King's Commission might not be looked upon as Pirates. Lond. 1694. qu. 2d. edit. being reflections on the arguments of sir T. P. (Pinfold) and Dr. Ol. (Oldish).

"JOHN NORRIS, son of a father of both his names of Aubourne or Aldbourne in Wiltshire clerk, was born as it seems at Collingborne, and educated in Winchester school, became sojourner of Exeter coll. in Mich. term an. 1676, aged 19 years, took one degree in arts 1680, and then was elected fellow of All-souls coll. Afterwards proceeding in that faculty he took holy orders, became rector of Newton St. Lo in Somersetshire, and afterwards of Bemerton near Salisbury in his own county. He hath written "An Idea of Happiness: in a Letter to a Friend, enquiring wherein the greatest Happiness attainable by Man in this Life doth consist." Lond. 1683. in 5 sh. and a half in qu.

"A Murnival of Knaves: or, Whigism plainly display'd, and burlesqu'd out of Countenance." Lond. 1683. in 5 sh. in qu.

"Tractatus adversus Reprobationis absolutæ

[1012]

"Decretum, nova Methodo, & succentissimo Compendio adornatus & in duos Libros digestus.
 "Lond. 1683, in 7 sh. in oct. What follows herein after the third chapter of the second book, is a declaration spoken in the schools a little before for the degree of M. of arts, commending the Roman senate for their banishing all mathematicians out of their dominions.¹

"Poems and Discourses occasionally written.
 "Lond. 1684. oct. Among which is reprinted An Idea of Happiness, before mention'd.

"A Collection of Miscellanies: consisting of Poems, Essays, Discourses and Letters occasionally written. Oxon. 1687. in large oct. The things in prose in this book are (1) Of the Advantages of Thinking. (2) Discourse concerning Perseverance in Holiness. (3) Discourse concerning heroic Piety, &c.

"The Theory and Regulation of Love: a moral Essay. Oxon. 1688. oct.

"Reflections upon the Conduct of humane Life, with Reference to the Study of Learning and Knowledge. Lond. 1689. oct. written by way of letter to an excellent lady, the lady Masham. This was reprinted again, with large additions, an. 1691. oct. &c.

"Reason and Religion: or, the Grounds and Measures of Devotion considered from the Nature of God, and the Nature of Man, in several Contemplations; with Exercises of Devotion applyed to every Contemplation. Lond. 1689. 92. oct.

"Christian Blessedness: or, Discourses upon the Beatitudes of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Lond. 1690. in a large oct. with the picture of king Will. III. before it.

"Reflections upon a late Essay concerning humane Understanding.—These Reflections, which are on the said Essay written by Joh. Lock, are printed at the end of Christian Blessedness.

"The Charge of Schism continued: Being a Justification of the Author of Christian Blessedness, for his charging the Separatists with Schism, notwithstanding the Toleration. Lond. 1691. in tw. written in a letter to a city friend.

"Practical Discourses upon several Divine Subjects.—vol. 2. and 3. in oct. The 3d vol. was printed at Lond. 1693.

"Two Treatises concerning the Divine Light: the first being an Answer to a Letter of a learned Quaker, which he is pleased to call A just Reprehension to John Norris for his unjust Reflections on the Quakers, in his Book entit. Reflections upon the Conduct of humane Life—The second

¹ [Upon the first coming out of the said book, the author (a conceited youngster) was look'd upon as over pert, bold and pragmatically daring to engage in so profound a controversy by publishing his little and raw judgment concerning the said decree. WOOD. So written by the author, but altered by bishop TANNER.]

"being a Discourse concerning the Grossness of the Quaker's Notion of the Light within, and their Confusion and Inconsistency in explaining it. Lond. 1692. oct.

"Spiritual Counsel: or, the Father's Advice to his Children. Lond. 1694. in tw. His name is not set to it, only report makes him the author.

"Letters concerning the Love of God, between the Author of the Proposal to the Ladies and Mr. John Norris, &c. 1695. oct. published by Joh. Norris in the beginning of Dec. 1694.

"Several sermons, as (1) Sermon preached before the Univ. of Oxon, in St. Peter's Church in the East, on Midlent Sunday, 29 Mar. 1685; on Rom. 12. 3. Oxon 1685. qu. dedicated to Hen. More of Christ's coll. in Cambridge. (2) Visitation Sermon on John 21. 15.—printed at the end of Reflections on the Conduct of humane Life, &c. He hath also translated from Latin into English Effigies Amoris, written by Rob. Waring of Ch. Ch.—Lond. 1682. in tw. This translation, which made Mr. Norris first known in the university, was by him entit. The Picture of Love unveil'd. There was another translation of the said book made by a different hand; an account of which you may see in the postscript to this translation of Mr. Norris. He also translated from Greek into Lat. (1) Hierocles upon the golden Verses of the Pythagorians. Oxon. 1682. oct. A translation of this was made long before by Joh. Hall of Durham, as I have told you at large elsewhere. (2) The four last books of The Institution and Life of Cyrus the Great, Lond. 1685. oct. written by that famous philosopher and general, Xenophon of Athens. The four first books were translated by Franc. Digby of Qu. coll.

[1013]

"JOHN HENRY LUSAN, son of Henry Lusan, was born within the city of Paris, left his native country upon account of religion, came into England, became a servitor of Pembr. coll. in 1687, aged 17 years or more, afterwards one of the clerks of All-s. coll. and when bach. of arts chapl. of New coll. left that place for a time to be tutor to a young gentleman in Wales called — Morgan, in the latter end of Aug. 1687.

"He hath translated from French into English, A Vindication of the Truth of Christian Religion, against the Objections of all modern Opposers. Lond. 1694. oct. written by Dr. Jam. Abbadie, and by the translator dedicated to Dr. Hen. Beeston warden of New coll.

WRITERS OF S. MARY MAGDALEN COLLEGE.

"JOHN MARSTON took the degrees in arts as a member of Magd. coll. that of master being "completed in 1633, and afterwards became rector

"of S. Mary Magdalen's in Canterbury. He hath "published,

"Sermon preached at S. Margaret's in Westminster before the House of Commons, on the 6th of Feb. 1641, on Joel 2. 12, and Part of the 13th Verse. Lond. 1642. qu."

[Marston in all probability died before Wood, as he was succeeded by William Lovelace, who himself died in August 1633. Hasted's Hist. of Kent, iv, 478.]

"SAMUEL FISHER, son of Tho. Fisher, minister of Stratford upon Avon in Warwickshire, was matriculated as a student of Queen's coll. 1634, aged 17, who being afterwards translated to that of S. Mary Magdalen, took the degrees in arts, that of master being completed 1640. This person I take to be the same with Sam. Fisher who writes himself M. of A. preacher at Brides, London, and of S. Mary's church in Shrewsbury, and at length (before the year 1655) preacher at Thornton in Cheshire, who published

"A Love Token for Mourners; teaching spiritual Dumbness and Submission under God's smarting Rod, in two Funeral Sermons. One at the Funeral of Mrs. Holgate, Wife of Mr. Will. Holgate Citizen and Haberdasher of London; on Psal. 39. 9. The other at the Funeral of Mrs. Baker, (on the same subject as it seems.) Lond. 1655. in tw.

"An Antidote against the Fear of Death, being Meditations in a Time and Place of great Mortality; which time and place was in July and Aug. 1650 at Shrewsbury, where he and Mr. Tho. Blake were executing their pastoral charge, both being then presbyterians and covenanters."

[Calamy notices Fisher as sometimes of Withington, afterwards of Shrewsbury, then rector of Thornton-of-the-More, whence he was ejected and silenced. He lived for many years at Bromicham, and there died, leaving the character of an ancient divine, an able preacher and of a godly life.²

He printed A Fast Sermon on Jan. 30, 1692-3.]

"WILLIAM JOYNER alias LYDE, second son of Will. Joyner alias Lyde of Horspath near to, and in the county of, Oxon, by Anne his wife, daughter and coheir of Edw. Lupworth doctor of phys. of Oxon, was born in the parish of S. Giles's in the north suburb of the said city in the month of Apr. an. 1622, and baptized there on the 24th of the said month, educated partly in the free-school at Thame, but more in that within the city of Coventry, elected demy of Magd. coll. in 1636, and afterwards fellow. But upon a foresight of the utter ruin of the church of England by the

² [Calamy, Ejected Ministers, ii. 124.]

"presbyterians in the time of their rebellion, he "changed his religion for that of Rome, renounced
"his fellowship in 1644, and being taken into the "service of the most noble Edward earl of Glamorgan, eldest son of Henry marquess of Worcester, he went with him into Ireland, and continued there till the royal cause declined in that country. Afterwards he accompanied that count in his travels into France and Germany, whereby he improved himself much as to the knowledge of men and various parts of learning. At length being commended to the service of the honourable Walt. Mountague, lord abbot of S. Martin near Pontois, continued in his family several years in the quality of a domestic steward, and was by that person much esteemed for his learning, sincere religion, and great fidelity. Afterwards returning to his native country, spent several years in Lond. in a most retired and studious condition; but upon the breaking out of the popish plot in 1678, being driven thence by the violent current of that time, he retired to Horspath before-mentioned, and continued there for some time, till by Joh. Nicholas⁴ the then vicechancellor of Oxon he was seized on for a Jesuit, or at least a priest, and by him bound to appear at the next quarterly sessions to be held in the Guildhall in Oxon in January 1678. But being then found to be a meer laical papist, he was freed from his troubles, and thereupon for his better quiet and security of his person, he retired to an obscure village in Buckinghamshire called Ickford, near to Thame in Oxfordshire, where he lived many years in a most obscure, retired, and devout condition. In 1687 he was restored to his fellowship of Magd. coll. by his maj. king James II. but outed thence after an year's enjoyment, and retired to his former recess, where his apparel, which was formerly gay, was then very rustical, little better than that of a day-labourer, and his diet and lodging were very suitable to it. In one of his letters sent to me dated 12 Apr. 1692, he told me that 'the present place of his residence is a poor thatch'd house, where the roof is of the same stuff in the chamber where he lodged, which he assur'd me was never guilty of paying chimney tax. However he hop'd that all this will not make a person neglected and despicable, who has formerly slept in the royal palaces of France under a roof fretted and embossed with gold, whereas this here (at Ickford) is doubly and trebly interweav'd only with venerable cobwebs, which can plead nothing

[1014]

³ [Youngest son of Edward first earl of Manchester: he was born in the parish of S. Botolph, Aldersgate, educated in Sidney college, Cambridge, and died about the end of the year 1669.]

⁴ [Collated by bishop Henchman to be master of Nicholas hospital near Salisbury, founded by Robert Bingham the bishop, 1245, and restored by James I. 1610. Dr. Nicholas died 1712.]

"of rarity besides the antiquity," &c. This great
 "devoto to retiredness and obscurity hath written,"
 "The Roman Empress, a Comedy. Lond. 1670.

"qu.
 "Some Observations upon the Life of Reginal-
 "dus Polus, Cardinal, of the Blood-Royal of Eng"land, sent in a Pacquet out of Wales, &c. Lond.
 "1686. oct.

"Various Lat. and English poems scattered in "several books, especially a large Engl. copy in
 "Horti Carolini Rosa altera, an. 1640.

"JOHN HOWE, a minister's son, and ne-
 "phew to Obad. Howe mention'd in this volume
 "under the year 1682, was born in Leicestershire,
 "became bible-clerk of Brasen-n. coll. in Mich.
 "term 1648, made soon after demy of Magd.
 "coll. by the parl. visitors, then fellow, and in "1652 he proceeded master of arts. About that "time he became a preacher, was made minister of "Great Torrington in Devonshire, married G.
 "Hughes his dau. of Plymouth, became lecturer of "S. Margaret's church in Westminster, known to "the leading men of those times for his frequent
 "and edifying preaching, and continued there till
 "the act of conformity ejected him. Afterwards
 "he lived in several places beyond and within the "seas, and at length in London, where he now con"tinues in great respect among the chief heads of "the presbyterians. He is a person of neat and "polite parts, and not of that sour and unpleasant
 "converse as most of his persuasion are: so mode-
 "rate also and calm in those smaller matters under "debate between the church and his party, (which "have been fiercely discussed by some very pas"sionate among them) that he hath not so much as
 "once in writing (as I know of) interested himself
 "in any fruitless and too busy quarrels of this kind,
 "but hath applyed himself wholly to more bene-
 "ficial and useful discourses on practical subjects,
 "in which undertaking he hath acquitted himself
 "so well (his books being penn'd in a fine, smooth,
 "and natural stile) that they are much commended
 "and read by very many conformists, who generally
 "have him in good esteem. But what is more re"markable in one of his sentiments of presbytery is,
 "that he is a great and strict Arminian, and hath
 "been opposed in that point by some of his own "way, as to other things. He hath written

"The Vanity of this mortal Life, or of Man
 "considered only in this present mortal State, on "Psal. 89. 47, 48. Lond. 1671, 72. in tw. The "epistle before it dated from Antrim 12 Apr. 1671,
 "is dedicated to Joh. Upton of Lupton in Devon-
 "shire, esq; his kinsman, wherein he saith that the "work was written on occasion of the death of An"thony Upton, son of the said John, who had lived "between 20 and 30 years in Spain.

"The Blessedness of the Righteous opened and "further recommended from the Consideration of "the Vanity of this mortal Life; on Psal. 17. 15.

 "and Psal. 89. 47. Lond. 1668 and 73. in oct.
 "which is the 2d or 3d edit.

"Treatise of Delighting in God, in two Parts,
 "from Psal. 37. 4. Lond. 1674. oct. The epist.
 "ded. to the magistrates and other inhabitants of "Great Torrington, is dated from Antrim 1 Sept.
 "1674.

"The Living Temple: or, a designed Improve"ment of that Notion, that a good Man is the "Temple of God. Lond. 1674. oct.

"Several sermons, as (1) Man created in a holy
 "but mutable Estate; on Eccles. 7. 29. preached
 "in the morning exercise at S. Giles's in the Fields
 "in May 1659, and made public in The Morning
 "Exercise methodiz'd, &c. Lond. 1676. qu. pub"lished by Tho. Case. (2) Funeral Sermon on "the Decease of Mrs. Margaret Baxter who died
 "28 June 1681; on 2 Cor. 5. 8. Lond. 1681. qu.
 "(3) Serm. at the Funeral of that faithful and "laborious Servant of Christ Mr. Rich. Fairclough
 "late of Bristol, who deceased 4 Jul. 1682, aged
 "61 Years, on—Lond. 1683. qu. (4) Funeral
 "Sermon for Mrs. Esther Sampson late Wife of "Hen. Sampson Doctor of Physic, who died 24
 "Nov. 1689; on Luke 13. 16. Lond. 1690. qu.
 "(5) Discourse relating to the much lamented
 "Death and solemm Funeral of Qu. Mary; on "Heb. 12. 23. latter Part. Lond. 1695. qu. ult.
 "of March or thereabouts, ded. to Rachel lady "Russel.

"The Reconcilableness of God's Prescience of
 "the Sins of Men, with the Wislom and Sincerity
 "of his Counsels, Exhortations, and whatsoever
 "other Means he uses to prevent them. Lond.
 "1677. oct. written by way of letter to the hon.
 "Rob. Boyle, esq; But Theoph. Gale being then "about to publish his Fourth Part of the Court of "the Gentiles, made some⁶ animadversions there-
 "on; whereupon our author Howe added to the "said book,

"A Postscript containing a Defence of the said
 "Letter, printed the same year, and added to those "copies of his letter that were not then sold. In "which postscript he saith⁷ something of Gale
 "which I shall now omit. See more in Tho. Dan-"son.

"A View of Antiquity presented in a short but "sufficient Account of some of the Fathers, &c.
 "Lond. 1677. oct. Some animadversions were "made on it, interspers'd in a book entit. Remarks
 "relating to the State of the Church of the three
 "first Centuries, printed in oct. written by Abedn.
 "Seller.

⁵ [Dedicated to the very reverend Richard Baxter. WAN-
 LEY.]

⁶ See in the said fourth part of the Court of the Gentiles, Lond. 1677. p. 522.

⁷ "Pag. 15."

"Of Thoughtfulness for To-morrow. Lond. 1681. oct.

"Appendix concerning the immoderate Desire of Foreknowing Things to come——These two tracts are dedicated to the lady Anne Wharton of Upper-Winchington in Bucks, who expressed a desire of seeing somewhat wrote on the same subject.

"Self-dedication; discoursed in the Anniversary Thanksgiving of a Person of Honour for a great Deliverance. Lond. 1682. in tw.

"The right Use of that Argument in Prayer from the Name of God on Behalf of a People that profess it, on Jerem. 14. 21. Lond. 1682. in 4 sh. in oct.

"The Redeemer's Tears wept over lost Souls, a Treatise on Luke 19. 41, 42. Lond. 1684. in tw.

"Appendix, where somewhat is occasionally discoursed concerning the Blasphemy against the Holy Ghost, and how God is said to will the Salvation of them that perish, printed with The Redeemer's Tears, &c. He was also one of the 8 nonconformists who in June 1682 did undertake to finish the English annotations of the holy scripture in two vol. in fol. which were begun by Matthew Poole, and carried on by him to the 58th chapt. of Isaiah. See more in Joh. Owen vol. iv, col. 112. and in Joh. Corbet vol. iii, col. 1267. One Joh. Howes,⁸ who seems to have been educated in Eman. coll. in Cambr. hath published; among several things, (1) Real Comforts extracted from moral and spiritual Things, Sermon on 1 Thes. 4. 18. Lond. 1660. qu. (2) Sermon preached at the Assizes at Northampton 9 Aug. 1669, wherein is asserted the Excellency of Religion against the Atheist, the Dignity of Royal Government against the Independent, &c. Lond. 1670. qu. But this author's surname differing from the other, he is not to be taken for the same. See in the FASTI, the second volume.

"THOMAS DANSON, a noted nonconformist of his time, was born in the parish of S. Mary-le-Bow in Cheapside within the city of London, educated first in a private school in the parish of S. Thomas Apostle, under one Thom. Wise a learned and industrious man, who instructed him in Latin and Greek, and afterwards under the care of Christian Ravis a German, professor of the Oriental tongues in London-house near S. Paul's church, who initiated him in the Hebrew, Chaldean, Syriac, and Arabic tongues. Thence he was sent to Oxon after the surrender of the "garrison thereof for the use of the parliament, was entered a student in New inn, made chaplain of Corp. Ch. coll. by the visitors appointed by parliament in 1648, took one degree in arts in the latter end of the year following, and then became fellow of Magd. coll. by the same authority. Afterwards being admitted to the degree of master by virtue of a dispensation by the then delegates of the university to quit him from certain exercises, which by reason of some indisposition he could not perform, he became a zealous preacher, preached for a time at Berwick upon Tweed, and afterwards was made minister of one of the churches at Sandwich in Kent, where he continued till 1660, at which time he was ejected, tho' he came in upon a vacancy by the death of the former incumbent. The reason of his ejection was, because he was presented to the said church by Oliver the protector an illegal patron, which Mr. Danson could not help, for he having usurped the power of chief magistrate, he presented to that place which had no patron, and that was his case, the patron being the dean of Canterbury, who was dead, or at least silenced, when he came in, and there was no other that succeeded him till the return of king Charles II. Soon after his ejection he was settled in a town called Sibton in Suffolk, but refusing afterwards to conform, he was ejected thence at S. Bartholomew's day 1662 for nonconformity. Afterwards he retired to London, preached there for a time, and then at Abingdon in Berkshire after the death of Dr. Henry Langley (who administered to the brethren at and near that place to the time of his death an. 1679.) and especially for this cause, that he had married the daughter of Dr. Tob. Garbrand a dissenting physician of that town: where continuing preaching and administering in private houses and sometimes in the town-hall (not without disturbance sometimes, especially when the fanatical plot broke out in 1683, when then he absconded) till about the beginning of Dec. 1692, was dismiss'd by the brethren, whereupon he went to——An⁹ author of his persuasion stiles him, 'vir doctissimus, totus rei domus zelo ardens,' &c. and all that were acquainted with him, knew him so to be; and many have said, that if his juvenile education had been among orthodox persons, and his principles consequent to it, he might have done more service for the church of England than for the nonconformists.¹ He hath published,

"The Quaker's Folly made manifest: or a true Relation of what passed in three Disputations in Sandwich. Lond. 1659, 60, and 64. in oct. This disputation was held on Apr. 12, 13, and 19. an.

⁸ "Will. Jenkyns in admonit. ante librum cui tit. est "Celeusma, &c."

¹ [It is not easy to say, whether this passage was intended for a commendation, or to his dispraise. Calamy, Ejected Ministers, Continuation, page 798.]

[1016]

⁸ [He signs himself 'John Howes minister of God's word at Abington,' to some verses Upon the much lamented Death of my worthy Friend, Mr. Peter Whalley, affixed to Death's Advantage, a Sermon preached at Northampton at the Funeral of Peter Whalley Esq. then Mayor of the said Town; by Edw. Reynolds D. D. Lond. 1657, 4to. In Christ Church library, A. 28. Pamph.]

" 1659. by our author Danson against Sam. Fisher, George Whitehead, and Rich. Hubberthorne, quakers.

" Narrative of the wicked and abominable Practices of the Quakers. This is printed with one of the editions of the former book.

" The Quaker's Wisdom not from above: or, a Defence of the said Disputation against George Whitehead. Lond. 1659. oct. He also published about the same time half a sheet against one Luke Howard a quaker, containing A Defence of some Matters of fact, which he had charged the Quakers with, by Certificates of credible Witnesses.

" A Synopsis of Quakerism: or a Collection of the Fundamental Errors of the Quakers, &c. with a brief Refutation of their most material Arguments, (and particularly Will. Penn's late Sandy Foundation shaken) and an Essay towards the Establishment of private Christians in the Truths opposed by those Errors. Lond. 1669. oct. which is the second edit. much revised and amended.

" Vindiciæ Veritatis: or, an impartial Account of two late Disputations between Mr. Danson late Minister of Sandwich in Kent, and Mr. Ives of London, upon this Question, viz. Whether the Doctrine of some true Believers final Apostacy be true or not? &c. Lond. 1672. oct.

" Appendix, in which the said Question is more fully resolved in the Affirmative, &c. printed at the end of Vindiciæ Verit. In the same year, wherein Vind. Ver. were published, was also printed, A Contention for Truth: or an impartial Account of two several Disputations. The one being on Monday the 12th of February, the other on Monday the 26th of the said Month, an. 1671, between Mr. Tho. Danson of the one Party, and Mr. Jer. Ives on the other, upon this Question, Whether the Doctrine of some true Believers, falling away totally from Grace, be true or no? &c. Printed 1672. oct. but who published it, unless a friend of Mr. Ives, who hath a letter to Mr. Danson set before it, dat. at Walbroke near Lond. 2 Mar. 1671. I know not. Qu. whether not put out by Mr. Ives himself.

" The Saint's Perseverance asserted and vindicated against it; occasioned by two Conferences upon that Point published by Mr. Ives. Lond. 1672. oct. This Ives was Jerem. Ives an Arminian anabaptist living then in Walbrook near London.

" A friendly Debate between Satan and Sherlock, containing a Discovery of the Unsoundness of Mr. Will. Sherlock's Principles in a Book entit. A Discourse concerning the Knowledge of Jesus Christ. printed 1676. in oct. which pamphlet being looked upon as very scandalous, was answer'd in Novemb. the same year by the said Mr. Sherlock then rector of S. George's church in Botolph-lane in London in a book entit. An VOL. IV.

" Answer to a scandalous Pamphlet entit. a Friendly Debate, &c. And by another person, (who is nameless) in the next year with this title, A Vindication of Mr. Sherlock and his Principles from the malicious Calumnies and Cavils of Mr. Danson in a late scurrilous Pamphlet entit. A friendly, &c. Lond. 1677. qu. Mr. Danson hath also written, A Defence of the late friendly Debate between Satan and Sherlock, against Mr. Will. Sherlock's Exceptions. Lond. 1677. oct.

" De Causa Dei: A Vindication of the common Doctrine of Protestant Divines, concerning Predestination (i. e. the Interest of God as the first Cause, in all Actions, as such, of all rational Creatures) from the invidious Consequences, with which it is burden'd by Mr. Joh. Howe in a late Letter and Postscript of God's Prescience. Lond. 1678. oct. See more in Joh. Howe. This book hath only the initial letters of T. D. set to it, because it was written against his intimate friend and fellow collegiate. Afterwards came out a book entit. Remarks upon a late ingenious Discourse, writ by one T. D. under pretence De Causa Dei, and of answering Mr. Joh. Howe's Letter and Postscript of God's Prescience, &c. affirming in the Protestant Doctrine, that God doth by efficacious Influences universally move and determine Men to all their Actions, even to those that are most wicked. Lond. 1678. oct. said to be written by a protestant, but whether by Joh. Howe. Qu. He also (Th. Danson) wrote the Parallela in Will. Jenkyn's book entit. Celeusma, &c. as Dr. Rob. Grove² tells us, who refuted it in his Parallela imparia, sive Specimen Fidei Celeusmaticæ, placed at the end of his Defensio suæ Responsionis ad nuperum libellum, qui inscribitur Celeusma, &c.

" A Friendly Conference between a Paulist and a Galatian, in Defence of Apostolical Doctrine and Justification by Faith without Works, &c. Lond. 1694. oct."

[Danson retired to London, where he died in 1694.³]

" ROBERT HOWARD, a younger son of Thom. earl of Berkshire, by Elizabeth his wife, one of the dau. and coheirs of William lord Burghley, son and heir of Thom. earl of Exeter, was a nobleman for a time of Magd. coll. under the tuition of Dr. Edw. Drope, as he himself used frequently to say; (yet he occurs not matriculated) which, I presume, was about 1641. Afterwards suffering as his father did, he became a knight after his majesty's restoration, one of the burgesses for Stockbridge in Hampshire to serve in that parliament which began at Westminster 8 May 1661, a favourer of Roman catholics, auditor

² " In his Defensio suæ Responsionis, &c. p. 3, 4, 9. 7. " 76."

³ [Calamy, Ejected Ministers, ii, 648.]

“of the receipts of the exchequer, or of his majesties treasury, worth as ’tis said 3000*l.* per an. and had other places and boons bestowed on him, and therefore numbred among the pensioners, or such that received pensions for the service they did his majesty king Charles II. in obtaining money from the parliament to supply him and his. In 1679 he was chosen burgess for Castle-rising in Norfolk to serve in that parl. which began at Westm. on the 17 of Octob. the same year and again for the same place to serve in that parl. which began at Oxon 21 Mar. 1680. After Will. prince of Orange came to take upon him the administration of the government, he was elected burgess again for Castlerising to sit in that parl. that began at West. 22d of January, an. 1688, was made one of the privy council about the 16th of Feb. following, took the usual oaths to him as the lawful king, chose a parl. man again for the same place, to serve in that convention which began at Westm. 20 March 1689, and so fiery and passionate abhorrer of all nonjurors that he disclaimed all manner of conversation and intercourse with any of that character. This person, who is equally conspicuous for the lustre of his birth and the excellency of his parts, is very positive in all things which he utters, and pretends to understand every thing in the world: which being very well known to all that he usually converses with, caused Thom. Shadwell the poet to point at him under the name of sir Positive At-all, one of the dramatis personæ in his comedy called The sullen Lovers, or the Impertinents, printed at Lond. 1670. qu. wherein also among the said persons is the lady Vaine a whore; which the wits then understood to be the miss of the said sir Rob. Howard, whom, after he had for some time kept, he made her his wife. In Feb. 1692, he being then in his elderly years, married one Mrs. Dives maid of honour to the queen. He hath published, “Poems: containing a Panegyric to the King, and Songs and Sonnets. Lond. 1660. oct.

“A Panegyric to General Monk. Printed with the Poems.

“The Blind Lady, a Comedy. Lond. 1660. oct.

“Committee, a Com. Lond. 1665. fol.

“Indian Queen, a Trag. Lond. 1665. fol. written in heroic verse.

“Surprisal, Trag. Com. Lond. 1665. fol.

“Vestal Virgin: or, the Roman Ladies, Trag. Lond. 1665. fol.

“Great Favourite: or the Duke of Lerma, Trag. Com. Lond. 1668. qu. These last five plays were reprinted in fol. an. 1692 with corrections, and the author’s picture before them.

“See in A seasonable Argument to persuade all the Grand Juries in England to Petition for a new Parliament, &c. Printed 1677. qu. p. 9. where ’tis said also, that his W. Uphill spends all, and now refuses to marry him.”

“The Duel of the Stags. Lond. 1668. qu. Reprinted in A Collection of Poems by several Hands, &c. Lond. 1693. oct. p. 65, 66, &c.

“The History of the Reigns of Edw. and Rich. II. with Reflections and Characters of their chief Ministers and Favourites. As also a Comparison between those Princes, Edw. and Rich. II. with Edw. I. and Edw. III. Lond. 1690. oct. written in 1685.

“Letter to Mr. Sam. Johnson occasioned by a scurrilous Pamphlet, entit. Animadversions on Mr. Johnson’s Answer to Jovian, in three Letters to a Country Friend. Lond. 1692. oct. At the end of this letter is reprinted the preface before The History of the Reigns of Edw. and Rich. II. before-mentioned, to the end that every thing may appear clearly to the reader, how little of that preface has been answer’d.

“The History of Religion. Lond. 1694. oct. He hath translated into English (1) The fourth Book of Virgil, of the Loves of Dido and Æneas. Lond. 1660. oct. (2) P. Papinius Statius, his Achilles, in five books. To every one of which books he hath put annotations. Lond. 1660. oct.

“JOHN FITZWILLIAMS was born in Coleman-street in London, became a servitor of Magd. coll. in 1651, demy soon after, bred among presbyterians and independents, took the degrees in arts, that of master being compleated in 1658, at which time he was a zealous follower of the presbyterian discipline, turn’d about at the king’s restoration, and became a great complier to the restored liturgy. In 1662 he became perpetual fellow, afterwards chaplain to Tho. earl of Southampton lord treasurer, bach. of div. 1666, chaplain to Dr. Morley bishop of Winchester, by whom he was preferr’d to the rectory of Brixton in the isle of Wight, in the room of Dr. Thom. Ken; doct. of div. 1677, tutor to Wriothsley Baptist, son of Edw. viscount Cambden, while he was a nobleman of Magd. coll. an. 1680, and after, he being about that time chaplain to James duke of York, afterwards rector of Cotenham near Cambridge, preb. of Windsor, a non-juror temp. Will. 3. and therefore lost all his spiritualities. He hath published,

“A Sermon preached at Cotenham near Cambridge on the 9th of Sept. 1683, being the Day set a-part for public Thanksgiving for the Deliverance of his Sacred Majesty and the Government from the late Treasonable Conspiracy; on Prov. 24. 21, 22.”

[Six Letters from Dr. Fitzwilliam to Lady Rachel Russell, are in a collection of her letters printed from the originals at Woburn-abbey, Lond. 1773, 4to. These shew the Dr. in a very amiable point of view. He died in London March 26, 1699, and was buried in the church of St. Dunstan’s in the west.]

"JOHN TYLER, born in Herefordshire, became a servitor of Magd. coll. about 1652, originally of Brasen-n. coll. Qu. when B. A. there, beneficed in Herefordshire. M. of A. and bach. of div. of Magd. coll. 15 May 1686. chaplain in ord. to their majesties king William III. and queen Mary, dean of Hereford in the place of Dr. G. Benson in Sept. 1692, a modest man, and a good preacher. He hath published,
"A Sermon preached before the Queen at Whitehall, 23 Mar. 1693, on 1 Joh. 3. Ver. 3. Lond. 1694. qu.

"JAMES CLIFFORD was born in the parish of S. Mary Magd. in the north suburb of Oxon, educated in Magd. coll. school, was chorister of the said coll. but took no degree in this university. After the restoration of king Charles II. he became petty canon of S. Paul's cathedral in London, reader in a church near Carter-lane, which is near the said cathedral, and afterwards chaplain to the honourable society of Serjeants inn in Fleetstreet, London. He hath published,

"Divine Services and Anthems, usually sung in the Cathedrals and Collegiate Choirs in the Church of England. Lond. 1663. oct.

"The Catechism, containing the Principles of Christian Religion." Lond. 1694. oct.

"Preparation Sermon before the receiving of the holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, preached in Serjeant's Inn Chappel in Fleetstreet, on....." printed with the Catechism.

"JOHN DOVER, son of captain John Dover of Barton-on-the-heath in Warwickshire, became demy of Magd. coll. in 1661, aged 15 years, departed without a scholastical degree, became a barrister of Grays inn, lived at Banbury in Oxfordshire, and practis'd his faculty, took holy orders about 1684, and became beneficed at Drayton near the said town, where he is resorted to by fanatical people. He hath written,

"The Roman Generals: or, the distressed Ladies. Lond. 1677. qu. 'Tis a play written in heroic verse and dedicated to Robert lord Brook. The plot, as far as it concerns history, may be read in Plutarch's lives of Cæsar and Pompey. He hath written one or two more plays, which are not yet printed.

"The White Rose: or a Word for the House of York, vindicating the Right of Succession, in a Letter from Scotland, 9 Mar. 1679. Lond. 1680. in 3 sh. in fol.

"THOMAS SMITH, son of John Smith, was

^b [The Catechism containing the Principles of Christian Religion, together with a preparation Sermon before the receiving of the holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, as it was preached in Serjeant's Inn Chapel in Fleetstreet, Lond. 1694. 8vo. RAWLINSON.]

"born in the parish of Allhallows Barkin near to the Tower of London, admitted batler of Queen's coll. in 1657 and soon after clerk, took the degrees in arts as a member of that house, that of master being conferr'd upon him in 1663, and in the same year he was made master of the free-school joyn'ing to Magd. coll. In 1666 he was made perpetual fellow of that college; at which time being much noted for his great skill in the oriental tongues, he was therefore commonly called, and the rather to distinguish him from others of his name there, Rabbi Smith, and by some Tograi Smith. In June 1668 he went as chaplain to sir Dan. Harvey ambassador for Constantinople, and in Dec. 1671 he returned thence. In 1676 he travelled into France, whence, after some short stay there, returning, he became chaplain to sir Joseph Williamson one of the secretaries of state; with whom living several years, and performing a great deal of drudgery for him, was at length by him dismiss'd without any reward. In 1679 he was designed to collate and publish the Alexandrian copy in S. James's library, and to have for his reward (as his maj. king Charles II. had promised) a canonry of Windsor or of Westminster, but that good work came to nothing. In 1683 he proceeded in divinity, and on the 20th of Dec. 1684 was elected rector of Stanlake in the dioc. of Oxon, by the president and society of Magd. coll. and about that time he was presented thereunto by them, but upon a dislike of that living he gave up all his interest therein in the next month following. In January 1687 he had a prebendship in the church of Heyghtbury in Wilts confer'd on him by Dr. Tho. Pierce dean of Salisbury, but afterwards lost it; and in Aug. 1688 he was depriv'd of his fellowship by Dr. Gifford the then new popish president of Magd. coll. because he refused to live among the new popish fellows of that house, he being then the senior bursar thereof. In Octob. following he was restored, but then again denying the oaths of supremacy and allegiance to king William III. and his queen, his fellowship was pronounced void by the president and fellows of his coll. 25 July 1692. He hath published,

"Diatriba de Chaldaicis Paraphrastis, eorumque Versionibus ex utraque Talmude & Scriptis Rabbiorum concinnata. Oxon. 1662. oct.

"Syntagma de Druidum Moribus ac Institutis." Lond. 1664. oct.

"Several sermons, as (1) Sermon preached before the Company of Merchants trading into the Levant, at S. Olaves Hart-street in Lond. 2 Jun. 1668; on 1 Pet. 3. 19, 20. Lond. 1668. qu. (2) Serm. of the Credulity of the Mysteries of the Christian Religion; on 1 Tim. 3. Part of the 16th Ver. Lond. 1675. qu. To which is added An Appendix containing a Dissertation about the Authenticalness of that famous Text in S. John's

[1021]

"first Epist. (3) Sermon concerning the Doctrine, Unity and Profession of the Christian Faith, preached in S. Mary's Ch. in Oxon; on Ephes. 4. 5. Lond. 1682. qu. To which is added, An Appendix concerning the Apostles Creed. (4) Sermon about frequent Communion, preached before the Univ. of Oxon, 17 Aug. 1679; on 1 Cor. 11. 26. Lond. 1685. qu.

"Epistolæ duæ, quarum altera de Moribus & Institutis Turcarum agit, altera septem Asiæ Ecclesiarum Notitiam continet. Oxon. 1672. oct. Two more epistles were afterwards added and all four printed at Oxon. 1674. oct. with this title Epistolæ quatuor, quarum duæ de Moribus &c. & duæ Asiæ Ecclesiarum & Constantinopolcos Notitiam continent. All which four epistles were rendred into English by this author with this title,

"Remarks upon the Manners, Religion, and Government of the Turks, together with a Survey of the 7 Churches of Asia, as they now lye in their Ruins, and a brief Description of Constantinople. Lond. 1678. oct.

"De Causis & Remediis Dissidiorum quæ Orbem Christianum hodie affligunt, Exercitatio Theologica in Rom. Cap. 4. Ver. 19. Oxon. 1675. qu.

"De Græcæ Ecclesiæ hodierno Statu Epistola. Oxon. 1676. oct. The second edit. of which came out with additions and corrections at Lond. 1678. qu. This epistle was translated into English by the author, with this title, An Account of the Greek Church as to its Doctrine and Rites of Worship. Lond. 1680. oct.

"An Account of the State of the Greek Church, under Cyrillus Lucaris Patriarch of Constantinople, with a Relation of his Sufferings and Death.

"Hymnus Matutinus, in Gr. and Lat. taken from the Alexandrian MS. These two last are printed at the end of De Græcæ Ecclesiæ hodierno Statu Epistola.

"Historical Observations relating to Constantinople. These are in the Philosophical Transactions, numb. 152. Oct. 20. an. 1683.

"Miscellanæ, in quibus continentur, (1) Præmonitio ad Lectorem de Infantum Communione apud Græcos. (2) Defensio Libri de Græcæ Ecclesiæ Statu contra Objectiones Authoris Historiæ Criticæ; &c. (3) Brevis & succincta Narratio de Vita, Studiis & Martyrio D. Cyrilli Lucaris, Patriarchæ Constantinop. (4) Commentatio de Hymnis Matutinis & Vespertino Græcorum. (5) Exercitatio Theologica de Causis Remediisque Dissidiorum, &c. Lond. 1686. oct. In these Miscellanies are some things, as you see, that were before printed.

"A Pacific Discourse: or, the Causes and Remedies of the Differences about Religion, which distract the Peace of Christendom. Lond. 1688.

"in about 5 sheets in qu. This is a translation for the most part from his book De Causis, Remediisque, &c. before-mentioned.

"Gulielmi Cambdeni Vita. Lond. 1691. in 9 sh. and an half in qu. To which is added, (1) The Epitaph of the said Cambden. (2) The Titles of the Books written by Cambden. (3) The Elogia and Testimonies given of him by learned Men. All these are set by our author Dr. Smith before V. Cl. Gulielmi Cambdeni & illustrium Virorum ad G. Cambdenum Epistole, cum Append. varii Argumenti, &c. Lond. 1691. qu. which epistles with Regis Jacobi I. Amaliū Apparatus, written by the said Cambden, and other things of that author, were then published by the said Dr. Smith.

"Miscellanæ, in quibus continentur Responsio ad nuperos D. Simonii in Libro super Fide Græcorum de Dogmate Transubstantiationis Cavillatione. Dissertatio, in qua integritas illius celeberrimi Loci 1 Epist. S. Joh. Cap. 5 Ver. 7. vindicatur. Defensio superioris Dissertationis contra Exceptionis D. Simonii in critica Historia Novi Testam. Commentarius in 2 S. Petri. Lond. 1692. qu.

"An Account of the City Prusia in Bithinia, and a Continuation of the Historical Observations relating to Constantinople. In the Philosophical Transactions, nu. 155. Jan. 1683.

"A Conjecture about an Under-Current at the Streights Mouth, read before the Oxford Society, 21 Dec. 1683. Philos. Transact. 158. Apr. 20. 1684.

"He also translated from French into English, The Life of S. Mary Magd. of Pazzi a Carmelite Nun. Lond. 1687. qu.

"JAMES SALTER, son of a father of both his names of the city of Exeter, became a servitor of Magd. coll. an. 1668, aged 18 years, left the university without a degree, retired to his native country, became a schoolmaster in Exeter, and vicar of S. Mary's church in Devonshire. He hath written,

"Compendium Græcæ Grammatices Chatichisticum, idque ejusdem Terminorum Explanatio, quæ facilius Pueri Linguae Elementa expressant. Lond. 1685. oct.

"The Triumphs of the holy Jesus: or, a divine Poem of the Birth, Life, Death and Resurrection of our Saviour. Lond. 1692. qu. in 4 sh.

"One Jam. Salter a Devonian was author of Caliope's Cabinet opened. Whercin Gentlemen may be informed how to adorn themselves for Funerals, Feasting and other heroic Meetings, &c. Lond. 1665. oct. whether this Jam. Salter be father to the former, or educated in this university, I cannot tell.

"SAMUEL JENEFAR, son of Joh. Jen. of [1022]

" Lond. gent. bred in Winchester school, became a clerk of New coll. in Jul. an. 1677, aged 19, afterwards commoner of Wadham, then demy of Magd. coll. Jul. 4, an. 1681, bach. of arts of Magd. coll. May 6, 1684, M. A. and fellow of Magd. coll. kept his fellowship in king Jam. II. reign and did not turn out. He translated from Lat. into English, The Life of Conon, printed in a book entit. The Lives of illustrious Men, written in Lat. by Cornel. Nepos. Lond. 1684. oct.

" HENRY GILMAN, M. A. of Magd. coll. did translate into English, The Life of Thrasybulus, printed in a book entit. The Lives of illustrious Men, written in Lat. by Cornel. Nepos. Lond. 1684. oct. which is in the said book, p. 74, 75, &c.

" JOHN SMYTH, son of a father of both his names of Barton in Gloucestershire, became a servitor of Magd. coll. in 1679, aged 17 years, took the degrees in arts, that of master being completed in 1686, about which time he was usher of the school joynning to Magd. coll. great gate. He hath published,

" Win her and take her: or old Fools will be meddling. Comedy. Lond. 1691. qu. dedicated by the author to Peregrine earl of Danby under the name of Cave Underhill an actor of plays. It hath been several times acted in the theatre royal by his majesties servants.

" Scarronides: or, Virgil Travesty. A mock-Poem on the second Book of Virgil's Æneis, in English Burlesque. Lond. 1691. oct.

" Odes Paraphras'd and imitated, in Miscellany Poems and Translations by Oxford Hands. Lond. 1685. oct. These reach from p. 64. to p. 92. and the first paraphrase is The xiii Chap. of Isaiah Paraphras'd: Pindaric ode in 15 stanzas.

" THOMAS YOULding, a younger son of Joh. Youlding sometimes a page of the presence and groom of the chamber to prince Charles; afterwards a sufferer for his cause, and an excise man in Oxon after the restoration of king Charles II.⁶ was born in the parish of S. John Baptist in Oxon, on the second day of January 1669, (in which parish I my self received also my first breath) educated in Magd. coll. school while he was a chorister of that house, was elected demy, an. 16... and in the year 16... probationer fellow. He is the author of

" Divers poems, as (1) Against immoderate

⁶ [In Merton college ante-chapel, Here lyeth the Body of John Youlding gentleman, who was Page of the Presence and Groom of the Chamber to Prince Charles: Who dyed the 25 of July 1670, in the 59 Year of his Age. Also of Abraham his Son, who died the 4 of Feb. 1669.

Le Neve, Monument. Angl. 1650—1718, page 87.]

" Grief; to a Lady weeping. 'Tis an ode in imitation of Casimire. (2) Hymn to the Morning, in Praise of Light, an ode. (3) Hymn to Darkness. (4) Human Life: supposed to be spoken by an epicure, in imitation of the second chapt. of the wisdom of Solomon. 'Tis a pindaric ode, and inscribed to the lord Hunsdon. (5) Against Enjoyment. (6) The Curse of Babylon. paraphrased from the 13th chapt. of Isa: a pind. ode. (7) To Mr. — Congreve, an epistolary ode occasion'd by his late play called The old Bachelor. (8) The Insect against Bulk. (9) To his Friend Capt. Chamberlain; in Love with a Lady he had taken in an Algerine Prize at Sea. In allusion to the fourth ode of Horace, lib. 2. All these poems are remitted into a book entit. Examens Poeticum, being the Third Part of Miscellany Poems, &c. Lond. 1693. oct. published by Joh. Dryden, esq.

" In the Annual Miscellany for the year 1694, being the fourth part of miscel. poems, &c. Lond. 1694. oct. he hath the following poems, viz. (1) To Mr. Watson on his Ephemeris of the Celestial Motions, presented to her Maj. (2) The Rape of Theutilla, imitated from the Lat. of Favian Strada. (3) An Ode for S. Cecilia's Day, 1693. composed, or music set to it, by Mr. Dan. Purcell. (4) The force of Jealousy. To a lady asking if her sex was as sensible of that passion as men, an allusion to O! quam cruentus fœminas stimulat dolor. Seneca's Hercules OEtus. (5) In Imitation of Horace, ode 22. Integer Vitæ, &c. (6) To his perjur'd Mistress, from Horace. Nox erat, & cœlo fulgebat luna sereno, &c. (7) Patroclus's Request to Achilles for his Arms, imitated from the beginning of the 16th Iliad of Homer.

" THOMAS TAYLOUR, son of Will. Taylour of Newton Regis in Warwickshire, became servitor of Magd. coll. an. 1686, aged 17 years, but that house being soon after dissolv'd upon the coming in of the popish fellows, by authority from king Jam. II, he became one of the clerks of Alls. coll. where continuing near an year, was upon the restoration of the protestant fellows to Magd. coll. made demy of that house. In 1694 he became vicar and schoolmaster of Bissester in Oxfordshire, upon the removal thence of Mr. Tho. Shewring to a benefice in Wilts. He translated from French into English (1) A Voyage to the World of Carthesius. Lond. 1692. oct. (2) Comparison of Thucydides and Livy. Lond. 1694. oct. written by monsieur Rapin.

" RICHARD WEST, son of Rich. West of Creiton in Northamptonshire, clerk, became a com. of Merton coll. in the latter end of the year (in Lent time) 1688, aged 17 years. Afterwards demy of Magd. coll. He hath written,

[1023]

" An Essay of Grief: with the Causes and Remedies of it. Oxon. 1695. in tw. published in the beginning of that year: 'tis mostly a translation as it seems.

" JOSEPH ADDISON, son of Dr. Lau. Addison dean of Lichfield, was born at Milston or Milestone near Amesbury in Wilts. became a com. of Qu. coll. in act term 1687, aged 15 years, then demy of Magd. coll. He is author of " Poem to Mr. Jo. Dryden, the 2d of June 1693 — In Examen Poeticum. The third Part of Miscellany Poems, &c. Lond. 1693. oct. p. 247, 248, &c.

" In the Annual Miscellany for the year 1694, being the fourth part of miscellany poems, &c. Lond. 1694. oct. Joh. Addison hath written, (1) A Translation of all Virgil's fourth Georgic, except the Story of Aristeus. p. 58, &c. (2) A Song for St. Cecilia's Day at Oxford. p. 134, &c. (3) The Story of Salmacis, from the fourth book of Ovid's Metamorphoses. p. 139, &c. (4) An Account of the greatest English Poets, to Mr. H. S. the 3d of Apr. 1694. p. 317, &c.

" FRANCES KNAPP, son of George Knapp of Chilton in Berkshire, gent. aged 16 years, was matriculated an. 1688, Dec. 16, of S. John's coll. in the next year chosen demy of Magd. coll. He is author of " An Epistle to Mr. B. in Verse, in the fourth part of Miscellaneous Poems. Lond. 1694. octavo p. 296, &c.

" HENRY SACHEVERELL, son of Joshuah Sacheverell of Marlborough in Wilts. clerk, became demy of Magd. coll. in 1687, aged 15, took the degree in arts. He translated into English verse from Virgil's first Georgic, beginning at Imprimis venerare Deos, &c. This poem, which is dedicated to John Dryden, esq; is in a book entit. — Examen Poeticum: Being the third Part of Miscellany Poems, &c. Lond. 1693. oct. p. 413, 414, &c.

WRITERS OF BRASEN-NOSE COLLEGE.

" RICHARD ADAMS, a minister's son in Worrall in Cheshire, was originally of Cambridge, where he was examined and admitted in arts the 26th of March 1644. Afterwards he went to Oxon, when the garrison thereof was surrendered to the parliament, was admitted a student of Brasen-n. coll. the 24th of March 1646, aged 20 years or more, and soon after made fellow thereof. In 1655 he left his fellowship, being about that time beneficed in Bread-street in London, and in 1662 he was removed thence for nonconformity: From which time to this he hath continued a " nonconformist preacher, and now liveth, if I mistake not, in Southwark near London. Under his name hath been published,

" Several sermons, as (1) The Duties of Parents and Children; on Col. 3. 20, 21. — 'Tis in the Supplement to The Morning Exercise at Cripplegate. Lond. 1674. and 76. qu. (2) Of Hell, on Matth. 24. 41. 'Tis in The Morning Exercise methodized, &c. preached at S. Giles's in the fields, in May 1659. Lond. 1676. qu. (3) How are the ordinary Means of Grace more certainly successful for Conversion, than if Persons from Heaven or Hell should tell us what is done there; on Luke 16. 31. p. 411, 412. in the 4th vol. of Caustistical Morning Exercise. (4) The Earthly and Heavenly Building; on 2 Cor. 5. 1. preached at the Funeral of Hen. Hurst M. A. &c. Lond. 1690. qu. He also and Edw. Veal or Veale did publish Steph. Charnock's book, entit. A Treatise of Divine Providence, &c. Before which they put an epistle to the reader, giving a short (but imperfect) account of the said Charnock's life. See in Steph. Charnock."

[Adams died February 7, 1697-8; and was author of the Exposition of the Epistle to the Philippians and Colossians, annexed to Pool's Annotations, and of a preface or epistle before a work by his brother Thomas Adams entit. The main Principles of the Christian Religion, in 107 Articles, 8vo. 1675.⁷ Calamy characterizes him as one of an excellent spirit, whose even and peaceful course was eminent for devotedness to God and benignity towards man; a very useful preacher and an ornament to his function.]

" HENRY HESKETH a Cheshire man born descended from those (if I mistake not) of Rufford; and they from those of Hesketh in Lancashire, was admitted a com. of Brasen-n. coll. in June 1653, aged 16 years, took one degree and then went his way. Afterwards he became rector of Charlwood in Surrey, vicar of S. Helen's in London, chapl. in ord. to king Charles I. He is author of

" Several sermons, as (1) Serm. before the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of the City of London at Guild-hall Chap. the 29th of Jan. 1677, on — Lond. 1678. qu. (2) Sermon before Sir Jam. Edwards Lord-Mayor, and Aldermen of London, &c. the 2d of Sept. 1679, being the Day of their Humiliation in Memory of the late dreadful Fire; on Lament. 3. 22. Lond. 1679. qu. (3)

⁷ [He addresses this work to the inhabitants of Woodchurch in Wirral, Cheshire, where he says that his grandfather Richard Adams was rector, and then by purchase patron of the perpetual advowson: and that six of his line and name were all devoted to the ministry, viz. Charles his father, his uncle Randal, himself, and three brothers Peter, Thomas, and Charles, who were born in the parsonage house.]

“ Serm. before the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of London, at Bow Church, the 2d of Sept. 1682, being the Day of their public Humiliation for the late dreadful Fire, on ——— Lond. 1682. qu.
 “ (4) The Importance of Religion to young Persons, preached at the Funeral of Sir Tho. Viner Bart. in Helen's Church, Lond. the 3d of May 1683; on Eccles. 11. 10. Lond. 1683. qu. (5)
 “ A private Peace-Offering for the Discovery and Disappointment of the late horrid Conspiracy against the King, &c. preached in S. Helen's Church the 8th of July 1683, on ——— Lond. 1683. (6) Sermon before the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of London, in the Church of S. Mary-le-Bow, on the 9th of Sept. 1683, being the Day of Thanksgiving for the Discovery of the late treasonable Conspiracy against his Majesty's Person and Government, on 1 Pet. 2. 15. Lond. 1684. qu. Serm. before the K. in his Royal Chappel at Windsor, 27 Jul. 1684; on Matth. 5. 17. Lond. 1684. quarto. (8) Sermon in his Maj. Chappel at Whitehall the 26th of July 1685, being a Day of Thanksgiving for the late Victory against the Rebels, on ——— Lond. 1685. oct.
 “ Picty the best Rule of Orthodoxy: or, an Essay upon this Proposition, That the Conductiveness of Doctrines to Holiness or Vice, is the best Rule for private Christians to judge the Truth or Falshood of them by, in a Letter to H. M. Lond. 1680. oct.
 “ The Charge of Scandal and giving Offence by Conformity, refell'd and reflected back upon Separation. Lond. 1683. in six sh. and an half in qu. This is the eleventh and the last case of a book, containing A Collection of Cases and other Discourses lately written to recover Dissenters to the Communion of the Church of England. Lond. 1685. qu. in 2 vol.
 “ The Case of Eating and Drinking unworthily stated; and the Scruples of Coming to the holy Sacrament upon the Danger of Unworthiness satisfied; being the Substance of several Sermons preached in the Parish Church of S. Helen, London. Lond. 1689, octavo.

[1025]

“ GEORGE VERNON, a Cheshire man born, was admitted a servitor of Brasen-n. coll. the 9th of Mar. 1653, aged 16 years, took the degrees in arts, holy orders, was made chaplain of Alls. coll. afterwards rector of Sarsden near Churchill in Oxfordshire, of Bourton on the Water in Gloucestershire, of S. John and S. Michael in the city of Gloucester. He is the author of “ A Letter to a Friend concerning some of Dr. Joh. Owen's Principles and Practices. Lond. 1670. qu.

“ Postscript to the Author (Sam. Parker) of the late Ecclesiastical Polity.

“ An Independent Catechism, made in Imitation of Dr. Owen's Catechism at the end of his Book “ against Mr. Joh. Biddle———These two are printed with A Letter to a Friend, &c.

“ Ataxiv Obstacleum; an Answer to certain Queries entit. Queries proposed, &c. Lond. 1677. oct. which Queries were written by sir Tho. Overbury of Bourton on the Hill in Gloucestershire. See in what is said of sir Tho. Overbury among the writers under the year 1614. vol. i.

“ The Life of the learned and reverend Dr. Pet. Heylin———This is set before his Historical and Miscellaneous Tracts. Lond. 1681, fol. Which life being drawn up by our author Vernon, it was afterwards corrected, enlarged and methodized by Dr. John Barnard who had married Dr. Heylin's daughter. But those corrections and enlargements being afterwards mutilated by Mr. Vernon, saith^a Dr. Barnard, or by Dr. Barlow bishop of Lincoln, and the bookseller saith^b Mr. Vernon, neither of them would own it as it there stands. And therefore it was, that Mr. Vernon came out to vindicate himself with

“ The Life of the learned and rev. Dr. Peter Heylin, Chapl. to K. Ch. I. and Ch. II. Monarchs of Great Britain. Lond. 1682. oct.

“ THOMAS MARSDEN, a minister's son of Lancashire, was admitted a student of Brasen-n. coll. the 25th of Nov. 1654, aged 17 years, became bach. of arts the 9th of Feb. 1657, and master of arts the 4th of July 1661———Afterwards chapl. to the English merchants at Lisbon in Portugal, and after his return became vicar of Walton in his native country of Lancashire. He was the author of a book entitled,

“ Roman Catholics uncertain, whether there be any true Priests or Sacraments in the Church of Rome: evinced by an Argument urg'd and maintain'd (upon their own Principles) against Mr. Edw. Goodal of Prescott in Lancashire,———printed in the reign of king Ch. II. (1687 qu.)

“ WILLIAM ASSHETON a minister's son was born in Lancashire, admitted a student of Brasen-n. coll. the 3d of July 1658, aged 16 years, at which time he was put under a presbyterian tutor; frequented, with Sam. Parker, the religious meetings in the house of Besse Hampton, an old decrepit laundress living in Halywell in the north suburb of Oxon; but his mind being alter'd as to those matters after the restoration of his majesty king Charles II. he was made fellow of his coll. in 1663, being then bachelor of arts. Afterwards proceeding in his faculty, he entred into holy orders, and was a preacher for some

^a See in Theologo-Historicus, or the true Life of Dr. Pet. Heylin, written by Dr. Barnard, p. 8, 9.”

^b So in the protestation made by Hen. Heylyn son of Dr. Pet. Heylyn and Geo. Vernon against the mutilated life of Dr. Heylyn, MS.”

[1026]

"time in these parts. At length being made chapl.
 "to James duke of Ormond chancellor of this uni"versity, he took the degrees in divinity, that of "doctor being conferr'd on him in Jan. 1673, at "which time he had 9 terms granted to him by "virtue of the said chancellor's letters, and in the "beginning of the month following he succeeded
 "Dr. Ben. Parry in the prebendship of Knares-
 "burgh in the church of York, being then or soon
 "after as it seems rector of Beckenham in Kent.
 "He hath written,
 " Toleration disapproved and condemned, by the
 " Authority and convincing Reasons of (1) the wise
 " and learned King Jam. and his Privy Council,
 " An. Reg. 2. (2) The honourable Commons assem-
 " bled in this present Parliament in their Votes,
 " &c. the 25th of Feb. 1662, &c. Oxon. 1670. qu.
 "Two edit. of it came out that year (besides one
 "by stealth in London) the second of which was
 "corrected and enlarged, with an additional preface,
 "wherein the nature of persecution in general, and
 "the unjust complaints of the dissenting party con"cerning it in particular, are distinctly considered.
 "Several sermons, as (1) The Danger of Hypo-
 " crisy, preached at Guild-Hall Chap. the 3d of " Aug. 1673; on Matth. 7. 21. Lond. 1673. qu.
 " The Cases of Scandal and Persecution; being " a seasonable Enquiry into these two Things, (1)
 " Whether those Nonconformists, who otherwise
 " think Subscription lawful, are therefore obliged
 " to forbear it, because their weak Brethren do
 " judge it unlawful. (2) Whether the Execution of
 " penal Laws upon Dissenters, for Non-communication " with the Church of England, be Persecution, &c.
 "Lond. 1674. and 76. oct. This is reflected on by "Mr. Rich. Baxter in his Apology for the Non- " conforming Ministry, &c. Lond. 1681. qu.
 " Postscript concerning a Gentlewoman per- " verted from Protestantism to Popery by some
 " Presbyterians—printed with The Cases of " Scandal, &c. 1676.
 " A seasonable Apology for the Honours and " Revenues of the Clergy. Lond. 1674. 76. oct.
 " The Judgment of King Charles I. concerning
 " Religion, Episcopacy, Reformation, and the " Rights of the Church. Lond. 1676. oct.
 " The Royal Apology: or, an Answer to The " Rebels Plea, &c. Lond. 1684. qu.
 " An Admonition to a Deist, occasion'd by some " Passages in a Discourse with the same Person.
 "Lond. 1685. in 5 sh. in qu.
 " The plain Man's Devotions, in two Parts,
 " being a Method of daily Devotions: To which is
 " added Devotions for the Lord's Day. Lond. 1689.
 "in 24.
 " The Country Parson's Admonition to his Pa-
 " rishioners, in two Parts, persuading them to " continue in the Protestant Religion, with Direc-
 " tions how to behave themselves, when any one
 " comes to seduce them. Lond. 1689, in 24.

" The plain Man's Reply to the Catholic Mis- " sionaries, &c.
 " Defence of The plain Man's Reply, &c.
 " Defence of The Country Parson's Admonition,
 " &c. These last four were all or mostly written
 " in the reign of king James II.
 " The Child's Monitor against Popery, Lond.
 "in 24, written to preserve the child of a person of "quality from being seduced by his popish parents.
 " A Discourse against Drunkenness. Lond.
 "1692 in tw. published pursuant to his majesty's "injunctions to suppress debauchery and pro-
 "phaneness.
 " A Discourse against Blasphemy, &c. Lond.
 "1694. the 3d edit. in tw.
 " A short Exposition of the preliminary Ques- " tions and Answers of the Church Catechism, being
 " an Introduction to A Defence of Infant-Baptism.
 "Lond. 1694. in tw.

"JOHN PRINCE, son of Bernard Prince by "Mary his wife, of the ancient family of the "Crockers of Linam in Devonsh. was born in the "abbey of Newnham in the parish of Axminster in "the said county, admitted a student of Brasen-n.
 "coll. in June, an. 1660, aged 17 years, took one "degree in arts, holy orders, and having served a "few years in the ministry, under one Mr. Arth.
 "Gifford at Bytheford in the same county, he went,
 "after his decease, to the city of Exeter, where he "was unanimously chosen minister of S. Martin's
 "church in the close; at which time he commenced
 "master of arts (as he told me) as a member of "Caius coll. in Cambridge. From Exeter he re-
 "moved to an ancient corporation called Totness,
 "where he continued vicar for about six years.
 "But the legal rights of that place being very small "(but little exceeding 20 marks per an.) and the "minister's maintenance (of course) being very pre-
 "carious and arbitrary, and (where faction abounds)
 "not like to continue, he was, by sir Edw. Sey"mour, late of Berry castle in Devonshire, bart.
 "translated to the vicaridge of Berry-Pomery (a "parish separated from Totness aforesaid, only by "the river Dart) where he now (1694) resides, in "great respect from the neighbourhood for his
 "edifying way of preaching and his great zeal and "love for the church of England. He hath writ-
 "ten,
 "Several sermons, as (1) Sermon preached at
 " Exeter in the Cathedral Church of S. Peter, at
 " the Visitation of Anthony Bishop of Exeter; on
 " 1 Tim. 4. 16. Lond. 1674. qu. (2) Seasonable
 " Advice to sober Christians, preached occasionally
 " at Totness in Devonshire the 11th of Sept. 1687,
 " on Mark. 4. former Part of the 24th Ver. And
 " he said unto them, Take heed what ye hear—
 "This sermon was sent to London with a design
 "that it should be printed, but some, into whose "hands it came, fearing it might somewhat offend

[1027]

“ the temporizing dissenters, advised a forbearance
 “ of the publication of it at that time. (3) The best
 “ Refuge in the worst of Times, certain Sermons “ preached at Berry-Pomeroy in Devonshire, on “ Whit-Sunday and Trinity-Sunday, An. 1688;
 “ when king Jam. the second's declaration for to“ leration was required to be published in parish-“ churches; (on Psal. 9. 9.)—written in six sheets
 “ and an half in quarto, and fit for the press. He “ hath also written,

“ An humble Defence of the Exeter Bill, for the “ uniting the Parishes and settling a Maintenance “ upon their Ministers, shewing the Equity and “ Easiness of it. Lond. 1674, in about five sheets
 “ in quarto, written by way of letter to a member “ of the house of commons.

“ A Letter to a young Divine, containing some “ brief Directions for composing and delivering of “ Sermons. Lond. 1692, in 3 sh. or more in oct.

“ The Imprudence and Unreasonableness of the “ prudential Reasons for repealing the Penal Laws
 “ against all Recusants, and for a general Tola-
 “ tion—This was written in 8 sh. in qu. an. 1687, “ against the said scandalous and virulent pamphlet “ entit. Prudential Reasons, &c. generally supposed “ to be written by Rich. Burthogge a temporizing “ Fanatico-Romanus, that is a fanatic in profession
 “ and an associate with papists in conversation. But “ the times then rendring it very difficult to get
 “ the said book (The Imprudence, &c.) printed, it
 “ was laid aside, till farther occasion might be taken
 “ to do it.

“ Look before you Leap: or, a Memento to the “ Freeholders of England, how they consent to part
 “ with the Test and penal Laws,—This, which “ was written in 4 sh. and an half in qu. an. 1687,
 “ was dispers'd in some hands in MS. but is not “ printed.

“ CHARLES LEIGH, son of Will. Leigh of “ Grange in Lancashire, minister of God's word, “ became a com. of Brasen-n. coll. under the tuition
 “ of Mr. James Hamer, the 7th of July 1679,
 “ aged — became bach. of arts the 24th of May “ 1683, left Oxon in debt, went to Cambr. and was “ there of Jesus coll. as Mr. Hamer thinks.— “ Took the degrees of master of arts, and Dr. of “ physick there, but now lives in London. He hath “ written

“ Letters and discourses in the Philos. Trans.
 “ viz. (1) Letter concerning some Experiments and “ Observations about the Natron of Egypt, and the “ Nitrian Water,—numb. 160. Jan. 1684. The “ letter was written to Dr. Rob. Plot director of the “ experiments to the philosophical society at Oxon,
 “ and one of the secretaries to the royal society.
 “ (2) Discourse concerning Digestion.—numb.
 “ 162. Aug. 1684, written by way of letter to the “ said Dr. Plot.

“ Phthisiologia Lancastriensis; cui accessit Ten-
 Vol. IV.

“ tamen Philosophicum de Mineralibus Aquis in “ codem Com. observatis. Lond. 1694. oct. an ac“ count of both which is in the Philos. Trans. num.
 “ 206. Dec. 1693.

“ JOHN BARNARD or BERNARD, son of Dr. [1028] “ Joh. Barn. sometime rector of Waddington near “ Linc. in Lincolnshire, by Lettice his wife daugh“ ter of Dr. Peter Heylin, became a student of “ Line. coll. elected fellow of Brasen-n. being then “ bach. of arts, an. 1682, aged 20 years; proceeded “ afterwards in his faculty, and entred into holy “ orders according to the church of England. In “ Dec. 1685 (king James being then in the throne)
 “ he took all occasions to talk at Bal. coffee-house
 “ in behalf of popery. Soon after declared himself
 “ a papist, and took the name of Joh. Aug. pro“ tected by the king in May 1686 for what he “ should do, or omit; to be dispenc'd from going
 “ to common-prayer, receiving the sacrament. Jan.
 “ 3, 1686, came a mandamus from the king, that “ he should succeed Mr. Halton of Qu. coll. in “ the moral phil. lecture—The mandamus was dated “ Jan. 1. 28 Mar. 1687, elected and adm. moral “ phil. reader. In Oct. 1688 he left the university,
 “ and soon after sent his resignation of his fellow“ ship of Brasen-n. coll. upon a foresight that the “ prince of Orange would turn the scales, as he did “ —resigned his moral phil. lect. by his writing “ dat. 5 Jan. 1688, and Will. Christmas of New “ coll. succeeded 11 Jan. 1688. went afterwards into “ Ireland when king James II. landed there, was “ taken notice of by him, talk'd with him, wrote
 “ some little things that were there printed. In “ Sept. 1690. he returned from Irel. came to “ Chester very poor and bare, was reconciled to the “ church of England as 'twas then said, maintain'd
 “ with dole for some time by the bishop of Chester, “ Stratford, Alm. Sept. 1690. This Mr. Joh. Aug.
 “ Bernard continued, corrected and enlarged with “ great additions throughout, &c. the great Geo.
 “ graphical Dictionary of Edm. Bohun, esq; Lond.
 “ 1693. fol. This said Mr. Bernard hath put be“ fore it, A Reflection upon le Grand Dictionnaire “ Historique, &c. or the great Historical Dict. of “ Lewis Morery, D. D. printed at Utrecht 1692,
 “ &c. And an account of this edition of the fol“ lowing book viz. Bohun's dict.

“ SAMUEL CATHERAL, son of Sam. Ca“ theral minister of Handley or Henley in Cheshire, “ descended from an antient family in that county,
 “ became servitor in Ch. Ch. to the honourable Mr.
 “ Hugh Cholmondely, son of Rob. viscount Kellis
 “ in Ireland, an. 1680, aged 19 years, translated “ himself to Brasen-n. coll. and was admitted a stu“ dent there 3 Dec. 1683—Admitted bac. of arts 3 “ June 1684—master of arts 17 June 1687, after“ wards chaplain to the said honourable person, “ who was made by king William III. baron of

R R

“ Namptwich in Cheshire in Apr. 1689; his father “ being then dead. He is author of “ A Sermon preached at the Funeral of the Lady “ Viscountess Dowager Cholmondeley at Malpas in “ Cheshire, on the last Day of Feb. 1691; on Numb.
 “ 23. 10. Lond. 1692. qu.

WRITERS OF CORPUS CHRISTI COL- LEGE.

“ JOHN BETTS, son of Edw. Betts by Do“ rothy his wife, daugh. of Joh. Venables of Rapley
 “ in Hampshire, was born in the city of Winches“ ter, educated in grammar learning there, elected “ scholar of Corp. Ch. coll. in Feb. 1642, took one “ degree in arts, and then being ejected by the “ visitors appointed by parliament, an. 1648, stu-
 “ died physic, took the degrees therein an. 1654, “ became eminent for the practice thereof in Lon“ don, especially among those of the Rom. cath.
 “ party (he being one himself) and physician in “ ord. to his maj. king Charles II. He hath writ“ ten

“ De Ortu & Naturâ Sanguinis. Lond. 1669.
 “ oct. To which was afterwards added Medicina
 “ cum Philosophia naturali Consensus. Lond. 1692.
 “ oct. After the first edit. of this book came out,
 “ it was reflected upon by George Thompson M. D.
 “ in his book entit. The true Way of preserving
 “ the Blood in its Integrity, &c. Dr. Betts also “ published Anatomia Thomæ Parri, annum cen- “ tesimum quinquagesimum secundum & novem
 “ Menses agentis, cum clariss. Viri Gulielmi Har- “ væi aliorumque adstantium Medicorum Regiorum “ Observationibus: Which book was drawn up by “ the said Dr. Harvey.

[1029]

“ JOHN BILLINGSLEY was educated mostly
 “ in St. John's coll. in Cambridge, whence coming “ with the rout to Oxon to obtain preferment in the “ visitation made by the parliament, an. 1648, was “ forthwith sped into a Kentish fellowship of Corp.
 “ Ch. coll. (as having been born in that county)
 “ and in the next year was incorporated bach. of “ arts, and admitted master of the said faculty.
 “ Afterwards taking orders from the presbytery, he “ became minister of Chesterfield in Derbyshire, “ where he was much followed and admired by “ those of his persuasion, yet much troubled by the “ quakers of those parts, with whom he had several “ disputes, particularly with that grand impostor “ James Naylor one of the chiefest of them, who “ published a disputation between himself and this
 “ our author Billingsley, whereupon Billingsley
 “ published

“ Strong Comforts for weak Christians, with “ due Cautions against Presumption: Being the “ Substance of several Sermons lately preached at “ Chesterfield in Derbysh. on Psal. 94. 19. Lond.

 “ 1656. qu.

“ The grand Quaker prov'd a gross Liar: or, a “ short Reply to a little Pamphlet entit. A Dispute “ between James Naylor and the Parish Teacher
 “ of Chesterfield, by a Challenge against him, &c.
 “ printed with Strong Comforts, &c. These two “ books coming into the hands of another noted
 “ quaker called George Fox, were by him animad-“ verted upon in his book entit. The great Mystery
 “ of the great Whore unfolded, and Antichrist's
 “ Kingdom revealed unto Destruction, &c. Lond.
 “ 1659. fol. pag. 123. After his majesty's restora“ tion, our author Billingsley was outed for non“ conformity, preached in conventicles, was often“ times disturbed and molested, and no doubt but “ imprisoned. He hath also published

“ The Believer's daily Exercise: or, the Scrip- “ ture Precept of being in the Fear of the Lord,
 “ examined and urged in four Sermons. Lond.
 “ 1690. oct.

“ EDWARD FOWLER, son of Will. Fowler
 “ the presbyterian vicar of Westerleigh near Bristol
 “ in Gloucestershire (ejected thence for nonconfor-“ mity after the restoration of king Charles II.)
 “ was born there, educated in grammar learning in “ the college-school at Gloucester, under William “ Russell who had married his sister, became clerk
 “ of Corp. Ch. coll. in the beginning of the year
 “ 1650, and being looked upon as a young man
 “ well endowed with the spirit, and gifted in ex-
 “ temporary prayer, was admitted one of the chap“ lains thereof on the 14th of Dec. 1653, and on “ the 23d of the same month he was admitted bach.
 “ of arts in the house of convocation. Afterwards
 “ he retired to Cambridge for a time, took the de“ gree of master of arts as a member of Trin. coll.
 “ there, and soon after returning to Oxon, was in“ corporated in the same degree in the beginning of “ July 1656; about which time he became chaplain
 “ to Amabella countess dowager of Kent, and by “ her was prefer'd to the rectory of Northill in “ Bedfordshire, where, I think, he wrote the book “ entit. The Design of Christianity, &c. Thence, “ after he had wheeled about with the times (as “ having been bred among presbyterians and inde“ pendants) he removed to the rectory of All-hal“ lowes in Breadstreet in London, became one of “ the preb. of Gloucester in the place of Will. Wash-
 “ bourne of Oriel coll. deceased, in Decemb. 1675, “ vicar of St. Giles's church near Cripplegate in “ London, on the death of Dr. Joh. Prichett bish.
 “ of Gloucester (who kept that church in commen-“ dam with his bishoprick) in the latter end of 1680,
 “ and in the next year he proceeded doct. of div. in “ 1685 fell out a controversy between him and “ some of his parishioners because, as they said, he “ was guilty of whiggism, that he admitted to the “ communion excommunicated persons before they

[1030]

“were absolv’d, &c. but Dr. Fowler pretending that all which they said or did were slanders and untruths, he therefore preached a sermon before them in his church of St. Giles on the 15th of Nov. 1685, which he published with a large vindicatory preface to it, as I shall tell you among the sermons following. But two of his parishioners, named Will. Newbery and Will. Edmunds, being concern’d in the said pref. they wrote A Letter to Dr. Fowler Vicar of St. Giles’s, &c. in Answer to his late vindicatory Pref. printed at Lond. in 2 sh. in fol. an. 1689. Soon after I was informed by letters, that on the 9th of Dec. following he was, after a tryal had been at Doctors Commons between him and some of his parishioners, suspended, because he had acted several things contrary to the canons of the church, &c. On the fifth day of July 1691 he was consecrated bishop of Gloucester, in the church of St. Mary-le-Bow, in the place of the most religious and conscientious Dr. Rob. Frampton, deprived for not taking the oaths to king William III. and queen Mary. He hath written,

“The Principles and Practices of certain moderate Divines of the Church of England, abusively called Latitudinarians (greatly misunderstood) truly represented and defended. Wherein (by the Way) some Controversies of no mean Importance, are sufficiently discussed, in a free Discourse between two intimate Friends. Lond. 1671. in oct. sec. edit.

“The Design of Christianity: or, a plain Demonstration and Improvement of this Proposition, viz. that the enduing Men with inward real Righteousness, or true Holiness, was the ultimate End of our Saviour’s Coming into the World, and is the great Intendment of his blessed Gospel. Lond. 1671. 76. &c. oct.

“Dirt wip’d off: or, a manifest Discovery of the gross Ignorance, Erroneousness, and most Unchristian and wicked Spirit of one John Bunyan, Lay-preacher in Bedford, which he hath shewed in a vile Pamphlet published by him against The Design of Christianity, &c. Lond. 1672. qu. The said John Bunyan, who is reported to have been a tinker in Bedford, was author of several useful and practical books; among which one is entit. The Pilgrim’s Progress from this World to that which is to come, &c. printed many times in oct. translated into French, and printed at Amsterdam 1685. in tw. and as I have heard into Dutch.

“Libertas Evangelica: or a Discourse of Christian Liberty. Being a further Pursuance of the Argument of The Design of Christianity, &c. Lond. 1680. oct.

“Several sermons, as (1) Sermon preached before the Judges, in the Time of the Assizes in the Cath. Ch. at Gloucester, 7 Aug. 1681; on 1 Tim. 1. 19. Lond. 1681. qu. published to put a stop

“to false and injurious representations. (2) A Discourse of Offences, in two Sermons, the 19th of Aug. and 2d of Sept. 1683, in the Cath. Ch. of Gloc. both on Matth. 18. Ver. 7. Lond. 1683. qu. published by reason of the heinous offence (as the author saith) that was taken at the former by some of that city, particularly the common council, who made a wonderful wise order thereupon (as he adds) which is verbatim at the end of it. Soon after came out Reflections upon the Act of Gloucester Common Council, which occasion’d Dr. Fowler’s printing his Discourse of Offences, &c. pr. at Lond. 1683. in one sh. in qu. To which is added A short Reply to the late scandalous Queries offer’d to the Rev. Dean of Canterbury (Dr. Jo. Tillotson) in less than one sheet. (3) Sermon preached at the general Meeting of Gloucestersh. Men, for the most Part Inhabitants of the City of Lond. in the Ch. of St. Mary-le-Bow, 9 Dec. 1684; on 1 Pet. 2. 17. Lond. 1685. qu. (4) The great Wickedness and mischievous Effects of Slandering, preached in the Par. Ch. of St. Giles’s, 15 of Nov. 1685; on Psal. 101. Ver. 5. Lond. 1685. qu. with a large pref. of the author dated Nov. 16. and conclusion, in his own vindication. (5) Sermon before the L. Mayor of Lond. and Court of Alderm. on Wednesday in Easter-week, in the Ch. of St. Andrew in Holbourn, being one of the Anniversary Spittal-Sermons; on Luke 16. 9. Lond. 1688. qu. (6) Serm. at Bow-Church 16 Apr. 1690, before the Lord Mayor and Court of Aldermen, &c. being the Fast-day; on Hosea 11. 8. Lond. 1690. oct. (7) Serm. before the Qu. at Whitehall, 22 Mar. 1690; on Jam. 2. 10. Lond. 1691. qu. (8) Serm. before the Lord Mayor, and the Court of Aldermen on Easter-Monday 1692, being one of the Anniversary Spittal-Serm. on Lond. 1692. qu. (9) Serm. at the Meeting of the Sons of the Clergy in St. Mary-le-Bow Ch. 6 Dec. 1692. on Joh. 13. 34. Lond. 1692. qu.

“The Resolution of this Case of Conscience, Whether the Church of England’s symbolizing so far as it doth with the Church of Rome, makes it lawful to hold Communion with the Church of England? Lond. 1683. in 7 sh. in qu. answered by anon. in a book entit. A modest Examination of the Resolution of this Case, &c. Lond. 1683. in 5 sh. in qu. written by way of letter to a friend. Dr. Fowler hath also written

“A Defence of The Resolution, &c. in Answer to a Book entit. A modest Examination, &c. Lond. 1684. in 7 sh. in qu.

“An Answer to the Paper delivered by Mr. Joh. Ashton at his Execution, to Sir Franc. Child Sheriff of London, &c. Lond. 1690. in 3 sh. in qu. There is no name to it, only report makes him the author. This Joh. Ashton, commonly called capt. Ashton, was a gent. of ancient extract in Lancashire, was cashier or treasurer to Maria

[1031]

"Beatricia, the royal consort of king Jam. II. who
 "for his just dealing and loyalty had a singular
 "respect for him. But he being taken, with the "most noble and generous sir Rich. Graham vice.
 "Preston, and Edm. Elliot gent. as they were "going in a yacht to France, in order to adhere to "the cause of king James II. in the beginning of "January 1690, they were all committed to cus"tody. Afterwards being brought to their tryal at
 "the sessions-house in the Old-Bayly, Ashton was
 "condemn'd to dye, and accordingly he suffer'd
 "death at Tyburn on the 28th day of the said
 "month of January 1690, at which time he deliv-
 "vered the paper before-mention'd to the sheriff,
 "written by him in his own vindication. He was "buried the next day late at night, in St. Faith's "church under St. Paul's cathedral in London, and "obtained the character from many persons then "called Jacobites of a loyal martyr. The said
 "paper, which contains his last speech which he in"tended to speak at Tyburn, was printed by stealth
 "in half a sheet in fol. in the beginning of March,
 "and soon after scattered about London streets in
 "the night-time, wherein he vindicates the virtue,
 "goodness, and innocency of the queen his mistress,
 "and the genuin birth of the prince of Wales.
 "About the 20th of the said month of March was "published the answer to it, reported to be written
 "by our author Fowler, as I have before told you,
 "and soon after came out another pamphlet by
 "stealth in vindication of the said Mr. Ashton,
 "entit. The Loyal Martyr, but who the author of "it was I know not. Qu. About the 6th or 8th of "April following was printed The second Part of "Mr. Ashton's Speech, with a farther Vindication
 "of the Prince of Wales: which being esteemed
 "very scandalous by the men then in power, the "attorney-general ordered the messenger of the "press to make diligent search after it. Dr. Fow"ler was also said to be the author of the following "books,

"The Texts examined which Papists cite out
 "of the Bible, for the Proof of their Doctrine
 "concerning the Insufficiency of the Scriptures,
 "and Necessity of Tradition—qu. imprimat. 24
 "Mar. 1687.¹

"Certain Propositions, by which the Doctrine of "the Holy Trinity is so explained, according to
 "the antient Fathers, as to speak it not contradic-

¹ [Wood has omitted in the list of this bishop's works The Texts which Papists cite out of the Bible for the Proof of their Doctrine of the Obscurity of the Holy Scriptures, examined. 4to. 1688.

Wood attributes to bishop Fowler a piece written by bishop Williams, intit. The Texts which Papists cite out of the Bible for the Proof of their Doctrines of the Insufficiency of Scripture and Necessity of Tradition examined. V. Peck's Complete Catalogue of all the Discourses written both for and against Popery in the Time of K. James II. 4to. Lond. 1735. No. 375 and 376. BOWLE.]

"tory to natural Reason. Together with a De- "fence of them, in answer to the Objections of a
 "Socinian Writer, in his newly printed Consi- "derations on the Explications of the Doctrine of
 "the Trinity, occasion'd by these Propositions,
 "among other Discourses. In a Letter to that
 "Author. Lond. 1694. in 4 sh. in qu. published
 "about the beg. of Nov. 1694.

"A second Defence of the Propositions, by which
 "the Doctrine of the Holy Trinity is so explained,
 "according to the antient Fathers, as to speak it
 "not contradictory to natural Reason. In Answer
 "to a Socinian Manuscript, in a Letter to a Friend.
 "Together with a third Defence of those Proposi-
 "tions, in Answer to the newly published Reflec-
 "tions, contain'd in a Pamphlet, entit. A Letter to "the Rev. Clergy of both the Universities. Lond.
 "1695. qu. Both by the author of those proposi-
 "tions: in 8 sh. in qu.

"A Discourse of the great Disingenuity and
 "Unreasonableness of repining at afflicting Pro-
 "vidences; and of the Influence which they ought to "have upon us, on Job. 2. 10. published upon Oc-
 "casion of the Death of Queen Mary; with a Pre-
 "face containing some Observations touching her
 "excellent Endowments, and exemplary Life. Lond.
 "1695. oct. published about the beg. of March
 "1694. He also published,

"A Form of sound Words; or a Scripture Ca-
 "techism, &c. Lond. 1673. 74. oct. written by Joh.
 "Worthington D. D. as also The great Duty of "Self-resignation to the divine Will. Lond. 1675.
 "oct. and Forms of Prayer for a Family, Lond.
 "1693. 94. oct. Both written by the said Dr.
 "Worthington.

"NICHOLAS HORSMAN a Devonian born,
 "and a minister's son, was admitted scholar of
 "Corp. Ch. coll. from that of Magd. on the 28th of "Jul. 1654, being then put under the tuition of "Joseph Alleine, as Joh. Roswell then lately had "been. Afterwards he became fellow, master of arts,
 "a preacher, and in 1667 bach. of divinity; but
 "two years after going the college-progress became
 "crazed by an unseasonable journey (late at night)
 "through certain marshes in Kent, and so continued
 "to his dying day, with an allowance from the col"lege in consideration of his fellowship. Dr. Joh.
 "Paris a physician of the said coll. being in the "company of the said progress, and infected with
 "the ill air of the said marshes, died soon after his "return; but the steward, who became dangerously
 "ill also after the return, recovered by the strength
 "of nature. Mr. Horsman hath written

"The spiritual Bee; or, a Miscellany of spi-
 "ritual, historical, natural Observations and occa- "sional Occurrences, applyed in divine Meditations.
 "Oxon. 1662. 67. &c. in oct.

"Mantissa de Historicis Gentium particularium
 "quâ, vetustioribus, quâ recentioribus, put into

[1032]

“ Deg. Whear’s book entit. Reflectiones Hyemales, “ printed at Oxon, 1662. in oct. pag. 151, &c.
 “ which book our author Horsman did then correct
 “ and review. See more in Deg. Wheare, an.
 “ 1647. He was kept distracted for some time
 “ within 2 miles of Bath—removed to Plymouth, “ where he was living 1689.

“ NATHANIEL VINCENT, younger brother
 “ to Tho. Vincent mention’d in the former part of “ this vol. was born in Hertfordshire, applied his “ muse to academical learning in Ch. Ch. in the “ beginning of 1651, where, before he was master
 “ of arts, he gave himself up to all manner of dis-“ soluteness and extravagancies. After he had “ taken that degree in 1657 he became one of the “ chaplains of Corp. Ch. coll. at which time some “ appearance of sobriety and religion was seen in “ him, and became exemplary in his conversation.
 “ Soon after he was nominated and appointed by “ Oliver the protector one of the first fellows of the “ college founded by him at Durham, but that “ foundation being soon after annull’d, he return’d
 “ to his coll. where continuing till the restoration of “ king Charles II. he left the university, and be“ came chaplain to sir Hen. Blount of Tittenhanger
 “ in Hertfordshire, (his lady being then fanatically “ inclined) where continuing more than 3 years, he “ retired to London, preached in private, and at “ length had a meeting-house built for him in the “ parish of St. Mary Magd. in Southwarke, about “ 1666. In which place he held forth and executed
 “ his function for several years after, unless at such “ times, when the due execution of the laws hath “ disturbed his assembly and imprison’d him, par“ ticularly in January 1682. In the year following,
 “ when the presbyterian or crop-ear’d plot was dis“ cover’d in June, he absconded, but at length was “ taken and imprison’d, and in 1685 being engag’d
 “ in Monmouth’s rebellion, he conceal’d himself se“ veral months in the west, but at length being “ taken, he was conveyed thence to London in the “ beginning of Feb. the same year, examined by his “ majesty’s council, and committed to Newgate.
 “ Afterwards when an indulgence was granted by “ king James II. and after by king William III.
 “ he retired to his meeting-house again, and there
 “ carried on his profession without interruption.
 “ He is a person of smarter, more brisk and florid “ parts, than most of his dull and sluggish frater“ nity can reasonably pretend to, of a facetious and “ jolly humour, and is a considerable scholar. He “ hath written

“ The Conversion of a Sinner, explained and “ applied from Ezek. 33. 11. Lond. 1669. oct.

“ The Day of Grace, discovered from Luke 19.
 “ 41, 42—printed with The Conversion, &c.

“ The Spirit of Prayer: or, a Discourse wherein
 “ the Nature of Prayer is opened, the Kinds of “ Prayer are handled, and the right Manner of “ Praying discovered: several Cases about this “ Duty are resolved, from Ephes. 6. 18. Lond.

 “ 1674. 84. &c. oct.

“ Direction for the attaining the Gift of Prayer
 “ —printed with The Spirit of Prayer.

“ A Hell and Heaven upon Earth: or, a Dis-
 “ course concerning Conscience. Lond. 1676. oct.

“ The little Child’s Catechism, in which the “ Principles of the Christian Religion are in plain

“ Words and short Answers laid down, and suited “ to the Memories and Understandings of Children.

“ Lond. 1681. in tw.

“ Several short Histories which may please and “ profit Children—printed with The little Ch.

“ Cat. &c.

“ The true Touch-stone, which shews both Grace
 “ and Nature: or, a Discourse concerning Self-

“ examination, by which, &c. Lond. 1681. oct.

“ Meditations relating to the Lord’s Supper— “ printed with The true Touch-stone, &c.

“ The most excellent Way to edify the Church of “ Christ: or, a Disc. concerning Love. Lond.

“ 1684. in tw.

“ The Principles of the Doctrine of Christ: or,
 “ a Catechism, in which is contained the Sum of “ Christian Religion, the Answers being 17 in “ Number, and in very plain Words. Lond. 1691.

“ oct.

“ A Catechism for Conscience, wherein the Con- “ sciences of the Ignorant, the Profane, the Young,

“ the meerly Moral, and the Hypocrite are examined
 “ —printed with The Principles, &c.

“ Several sermons, as (1) The Saint’s Triumph “ over the last Enemy, preached at the Funeral of “ Mr. Jam. Janeway, on 1 Cor. 15. 55. former “ Part. Lond. 1674. qu. and in a large oct. (2)

“ Serm. on 1 Cor. 14. 15. This sermon is the ninth
 “ in number in a book entit. The Morning Ex- “ ercise against Popery, &c. Lond. 1675. qu. which “ exercise containing 25 sermons, preached in our “ author’s conventicle or meeting-house by the most “ noted nonconformists in or near London, was “ published with an epistle before it, by our author

 “ N. Vincent, who hath, as I conceive, published

“ other of his sermons.

“ A Covert from a Storm: or, the Fearful en- “ couraged in the Day of Trouble—printed in a “ small oct.

“ Worthy walking, pressed upon all that have “ heard the Call of the Gospel—printed in a “ small oct. These two last I have not yet seen,

 “ and therefore I cannot tell when they were “ printed.

“ A Present for such as have been sick and re- “ covered: or, a Discourse of the Good that comes

“ out of the Evil of Affliction. Lond. 1693. oct.

“ This book is the effect of several sermons preached
 “ after his being raised from a bed of languishing.

“ Besides this Nath. Vincent is, or was lately, “ another of both his names, D. of D. and fellow of “ Clare-hall in Cambridge, and chaplain in ord. to “ his maj. author of The right Notion of Honour, “ Serm. preach'd before the King at Newmarket, 7

 “ Oct. 1674, at which time appearing in a long-“ periwig and holland-sleeves according to the then “ fashion for gentlemen, his majesty took notice of,
 “ and being scandaliz'd at it, commanded James “ duke of Monmouth chancellor of the univ. of “ Cambridge, that he cause the statutes concerning “ decency in apparel to be put in execution in that “ university, which accordingly was done.

“ THOMAS TURNER, a younger son of Dr.
 “ Tho. Turner, sometime dean of Canterbury, was “ born in the city of Bristol, became scholar of C.
 “ C. C. in the beginning of Octob. 1663.—Art.
 “ bac. 15 Mar. 1665.—Art. mag. 30 March 1669.
 “ —in orders, socius C. C. C. 24 Dec. 1672. bac.
 “ of div. 30 May 1677, installed archdeacon of Es“ sex, in the place of Dr. Edm. Layfield deceased,
 “ in January 1680,—Dr. of div. by composition 2 “ July 1683,—elected president of C. C. C. on “ the death of Dr. Neulin, 13 March 1687, chanor
 “ of St. Paul's cathedral in the place of Dr. Crowther
 “ deceased in Dec. 1689. He publish'd, “ Sermon preached in the King's Chapel at “ Whitehall, 29 May 1685; on Isa. 1. 26. Lond.
 “ 1685. qu.

[1034]

“ SAMUEL BARTON, son of John Barton, a “ minister, was born at Harisham in Kent, became “ a servitor of Magd. hall in Mich. term 1665, aged “ 17 years, admitted scholar of Corp. Ch. coll. in “ Novemb. 1666, took the degrees in arts, (bac. of “ arts 26 Oct. 1667, M. A. 4 March 1672) became “ fellow thereof, bach. of div. 1681. Afterwards “ chaplain of S. Saviour's in Southwark. He hath “ publish'd,
 “ Several sermons, as (1) Sermon preached be- “ fore the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of the City
 “ of London in Guild-hall Chapel, on Sunday 30
 “ Jan. 1688. Lond. 1689. qu. (2) Sermon preached
 “ before the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of the City
 “ of London, at St. Mary-le-Bow 27 Oct. 1692, “ being the Day of public Thanksgiving for the “ signal Victory at Sea, for the Preservation of “ his Majesty's sacred Person, and for his safe “ Return to his People; on Psal. 144. 10. Lond.
 “ 1692. qu.

“ JOHN BRADSHAW, son of Alban Brad-
 “ shaw² of Maidston in Kent, was born there, ad“ mitted scholar of Corp. Ch. coll. 20 April 1674, “ aged 15 years, expell'd thence in July 1677, for

² [He was an attorney, and clerk to Lambard Godfrey esq. who was recorder of Maidstone before the restoration, and appointed one of the commissioners for the county of Kent, for the ejecting of scandalous, ignorant and insufficient ministers and school-masters. Newton's Hist. & Antiq. of Maidstone, page 138.]

“ that he and Rob. Neulin, another scholar, (son of “ Tho. Neulin, minister of Bix in Oxfordshire, ne“ phew to Dr. Robert Neulin, president of the said “ coll.) did not only break into the chamber of a “ senior fellow thereof, call'd John Wickes, early “ in the morning on the 13th of the same month,
 “ and rob'd him, but also endeavour'd to murder
 “ him, then in his bed sleeping. For which fact
 “ being both apprehended, were secur'd in the col“ lege for one night: in which time Neulin, by the “ connivance of the said president, made his escape;
 “ but Bradshaw being committed prisoner to the “ castle at Oxon, and afterwards found guilty for “ what he had done at an assize held in the town “ hall there, was condemn'd to dye for the same, on “ the 27th of the same month of July. Afterwards
 “ being remitted to his prison, continu'd a whole “ year there, and then was repriev'd. This un“ grateful person, (for so I may justly call him, be“ cause he endeavour'd to murder his patron and “ benefactor) who was a perfect atheist and a de-“ bauchee ad omnia, retir'd afterwards to his own “ country, taught a petty school, turn'd quaker,
 “ was a preacher among them, and wrote and pub“ lished

“ The Jesuits countermin'd: or, an Account of “ a new Plot, &c. Lond. 1679, in 5 sh. in qu.
 “ When king James II. came to the crown he turned “ papist.

“ WILLIAM HALLIFAX, son of Joh. Hal-
 “ lifax a minister of God's word, was born at Spring-“ thorp in Lincolnshire, admitted servit. of Brasen-n.
 “ coll. 20 Feb. 1670, aged 15 years, became scholar
 “ of C. C. coll. in April 1674, bac. of arts 26 Oct.
 “ 1675, master of arts 22 Feb. 1678, fellow of C.
 “ C. C. in Dec. 1682. bach. of div. 24 Nov. 1687.
 “ He hath translated from French into English,
 “ The Elements of Euclid explain'd in a new, but “ most easy Method, Oxon. 1685. oct. written by “ F. Claud. Francis Millet de Chales of the society “ of Jesus.

“ HENRY HELLIER, son of Henry Hellier,
 “ was born at Chew-Dundrey in Somersetshire, be“ came scholar of C. C. coll. in the beginning of “ April 1677, aged 15 years, bac. of arts 12 May “ 1680, M. of A. 6 March 1682,³ fellow of C. C.
 “ coll. 1687, bac. of div.⁴—He publish'd

“ A Sermon preached before the University of “ Oxon, 4 Dec. 1687, concerning the Obligation of “ Oaths, on Psal. 15. 4. Oxon. 1688. qu. This “ was thought to reflect on king James II. for “ breaking his oath at his coronation.”

[Dr. Hellier was vice president of Corpus, at the time of his decease, which happened in December

³ [He was ordained deacon at Christ Church May 25, 1684. RAWLINSON.]

⁴ [Mar. 1. 1690, D. D. July 3. 1695.]

1697. Hearne has preserved a particular account of the circumstances that led to his death in one of his MS. diaries, which need not be given here. The same writer characterizes him as 'a very ingenious man, but of trimming principles.'

He wrote, besides the sermon already mentioned, A Treatise concerning Schism and Schismatics, wherein the chief Grounds and Principles of a late Separation from the Church of England are considered and answered. Lond. 1697. 4to.]

"WILLIAM SEVILL, M. A. and fellow of C. C. coll. in Oxon, hath publish'd A Sermon design'd for the Funeral of Edm. Wiseman, Esq; late of East Lockinge in the County of Berks, who was buried at Stevinton near Abingdon, 9 Novemb. 1694; on Rev. 14. 13.—printed 1694. qu. and published in the beginning of Dec. 1694. dedicated to Mary the relict of the said Edmund Wiseman. In the same month of December about the 14 or 15th day he fell distracted.

"EDMUND CHISHULL, son of Paul Chish. was born at Eyeworth in Bedfordshire, admitted scholar of C. C. coll. took the degrees in arts. He publish'd Gulielmo tertio Terra Marique Principi invictissimo, in Gallos Pugna navali nuperrime devictos; Carmen heroicum. Oxon. 1692. in 3 sh. in qu. Paul Chishull was bible-clerk of Queen's coll. Cambr. and there, as I think, he took the degree of bac. art.—admitted master of arts as a member of Pemb. coll. Oxon, 18 June 1634.

"WILLIAM DINGLEY, son of — Ding-ley, was born at Newport in the isle of Wight, educated in Wykeham's school, became scholar of C. C. C. in Apr. 1691, wrote, before he was bach. of arts, Poems on several Occasions, Originals and Translations.—printed 1694. oct. in 7 sh. and a half. The first poem in this book is, A Dialogue between Apollo and Daphne.—and in p. 20. is a poem On the excellent Translation of the first Book of Virgil's Æneis, by Mr. Th. Fletcher, Fellow of New Coll.

WRITERS OF CHRIST-CHURCH COLLEGE.

"HENRY KILLIGREW, the fifth and youngest son of sir Robert Killigrew, knt. chamberlain to the queen, was born at the manour of Hanworth, near Hampton-court in Middlesex, on the eleventh day of Feb. 1612, educated in grammar learning under Mr. Tho. Farnaby, in the parish of St. Giles's Cripplegate in London, became a commoner of Ch. Ch. in the year 1628,

"and soon after student, and when bach. of arts, one of the quadragesimal collectors. In July 1638 he was actually created M. of A. being then about to travel in transmarine parts, and entering afterwards into the sacred function, became a chaplain in the king's army, when his parliament had raised another against him. In the beginning of November 1642 he was actually created doct. of div. and soon after, in the same year, became chaplain to James duke of York, and prebendary of the twelfth stall in the church of Westminster, on the promotion of Dr. George Eglington to the deanery of Canterbury. Afterwards he suffered for many years, as others of the orthodox and loyal clergy did: in requital of which he was made, in the first year of the restoration of king Charles II. almoner to the said duke of York, superintendent to the affairs of his chapel; rector of Wheathamsted in Hertfordshire, and in the year following master of the Savoy hospital within the liberty of Westminster. He wrote in the 17th year of his age, while he was a com. of Ch. Ch.

"The Conspiracy, Trag. Lond. 1638. qu. It was designed for an entertainment of the king and queen at York house, at the nuptials of the lady Mary Villiers, daughter of George duke of Buckingham, and the lord Charles Herbert, son of Philip earl of Pembroke: and being afterwards acted at the Blackfryars in London, found the approbation of the most excellent persons which were in that time. Ben. Johnson was then alive, who gave a testimony to this piece, even to be envied; and Lucius viscount Falkland did much applaud it, considering the age of the author, who was then, when he made it, but 17 years old, as before 'tis said. This impression was printed without the author's consent, from a false and imperfect transcript, the original copy being with the author in Italy; so that it might rather be called the first design or foul draught, than a true copy. This occasion'd a new edition, and the publisher imposed on it a new title, that it might shew as little affinity as possible, to (what he calls) its antitype; styling it

"Pallantus and Eudora, Trag. Lond. 1652. fol. After our author, Dr. Killigrew, had retired from the court, he caused to be published

"Sermons preached partly before his Majesty at Whitehall, and partly before Anne Duchess of York, at the Chapel of S. James's. Lond. 1685. qu. They are in num. 22. the first of which, preached on Christmas day, is on 1 John 3. 5. and the last is on Lam. 3. 39. 40.

"Other sermons, as (1) Sermon preached before the King at Oxon, on Psal. 101. 1. Oxon 1643. qu. with the picture of king Charles I. before it, s "Gerard Langbaine in his Account of the Dramatic Poets, &c. printed 1691, p. 330."

“wrought off from a wooden cut. (2) Sermon preached the Sunday before Easter in Westminster-Abby; on Psal. 110. 7. Lond. in the Savoy 1689. qu. &c. This worthy Dr. Killigrew had a daughter named Anne, a Grace for beauty, and a Muse for wit, born in St. Martin's lane in Lond. in the latter end of the times of usurpation, a little before the restoration of king Charles II. and christned in a private chamber, when the offices in the common-prayer were not publicly allowed. Afterwards being tenderly educated, she became most admirable in the arts of poetry and painting. She was one of the maids of honour in the dutchess of York; but dyed of the small-pox, to the unspeakable reluctancy of her relations, and all others who were acquainted with her great virtues, in her father's lodgings within the cloister of Westminster-abbey, on the 16th day of June 1685, aged 25 or thereabouts, and was buried in the chancel of St. John Baptist's chapel in the Savoy hospital before-mention'd. Soon after were publish'd of her composition a book entit. Poems by Mrs. Anne Killigrew. Lond. 1686, in a large thin qu. wherein is nothing spoken of her, which (allowing only for the poetical dress) she was not equal to, if not superior: and if there had not been more true history in her praises, than compliment, her father would never have suffered them to pass the press. Before them is an ode made to her pious memory and accomplishments, by John Dryden poet laureat, and after it follows her epitaph engraven on her marble tomb, which is put over her grave, beginning thus: Heu! jacet, fato victa, quæ stabat ubique victrix forma, ingenio, religione, &c.

“SILAS TITUS, son of a father of both his names, of Bushy in Hertfordshire, gent. descended from a family called Tito in Italy, became a commoner of Ch. Ch. in Lent term 1637, aged 15, left that place after he had continued there about 3 years, and went, as I conceive, to one of the inns of court. In the time of the grand rebellion, when the parliament raised an army against their king, he became a captain, and a forward man, and when his majesty's cause declined, and he saw which way the independents took, he adhered closely to him, went with the commissioners appointed by parliament to his majesty at New Castle, and thence to Holdenby in Northamptonshire, where being much respected by the said commissioners, they sent him with an express to the parliament, in the beginning of June 1647, to acquaint them that his majesty was seized on there by cornet Joyce and his party, and carried thence away: For which his service, which was done with great celerity, the parliament gave him 50 pounds to buy him a horse. In December 1647 he was taken into favour for a time by Ol. Cromwell and the army, to persuade the king, then in

“the isle of Wight, to consent to the 4 votes of de-thronizing him; and after, or about that time that the king was beheaded, he left the nation, sought out the young king, and became one of the grooms of his bed-chamber. Afterwards he followed him into Scotland, being the only person of the English nation, except col. Rich. Greaves, another presbyterian that attended him there, (as a certain author reports) and afterwards being at Worcester fight, fled with the rest after that fatal battel, and escaped the fury of the fanatical army. In 1657 a new light sprang up; entit. Killing no Murder, &c. written by our author Titus, whereby the courage of Cromwell was somewhat quell'd, as I shall tell you anon; and after his majesty's restoration, being then one of the grooms of his bed-chamber, and a colonel, he was elected a recruiting burgess for Lestwithel in Cornwall, to serve in the parliament that begun at Westminster 8 May 1661; but was no pensioner in it, as others were. In 1678, when Oates his plot broke out, he shew'd himself zealous in the concerns thereof, sided with the rout, became an enemy to the prerogative, and in the year following did, with the consent of his majesty, resign his gromeship, upon a foresight perhaps of the turn of the times, intended by the presbyterians and fanatics, being then very dominant. In 1679 he was elected knight for Huntingdonshire to serve in that parliament that was to begin at Westminster 17 Oct. the same year, which did not sit till 21 Oct. 1680, wherein he was an enemy to the duke of York, and again for the same county to serve in the parliament that began at Oxon 21 March following. In the beginning of Nov. 1687 he was introduced by William Penn the quaker into the presence of his majesty king James II. and kiss'd his hand, in order to give his assistance towards the taking away of the test and penal laws, and in the middle of May 1688 all the report was, that he had finish'd a book fit for the press, wherein he made it appear, that the taking away the test and penal laws is the greatest happiness that can befall the nation, and a bulwark against popery. On the 4th of July following he, with sir John Trevor master of the rolls, and Christopher Vane, esq; were sworn members of his majesty's honourable privy-council, and upon the withdrawing of the said king in December following, he withdrew also. Afterwards he was chosen a burgess for Ludlow in Shropshire, which being questioned, his election was ratified, as it seems, by the committee of elections in Jan. 1690. qu. He hath written “Killing no Murder, &c. printed by stealth at London 1657. in qu. under the name of Will. Allen. This first edition I have not seen, but the second I have, which bears this title, Killing no Murder: with some Additions, briefly discoursed in three Questions; fit for public View,

[1037]

“to deter single Persons and Councils from usurping supreme Powers. printed at Lond. in 1659. in 2 sh. in qu. in a small close character. At its first coming out it was a terrible occurrence to Oliver the protector, amidst those ambages and suspense of a crown: By which it was proved, and that most evidently, that it was not only lawful, but honourable to slay that tyrant. It was⁶ esteemed a very ingenious and learned piece, and frightened Oliver exceedingly, who searched for it, as Herod did in another case, but it could not be discovered: and whosoever the author was, (which was not known till king Charles II. his restoration) the then royalists, and others look'd upon the book as excellent, and the author to deserve everlasting memory. It offers Oliver many convincing and satisfying reasons, why he should kill himself, and very fairly gives him his choice of hanging, drowning, or pistolling himself; shews him the absolute necessity of it, the honour he would gain by it, and, in a word, uses such arguments as might have prevailed upon any body but a hardned rebel. At its first coming out it was sold for 5s. whereas if it had been licensed, and treated of another subject, it would have been sold but for 6d. Cat. 1. p. 27. and because it was much applauded by the generality, it was therefore answered by a certain fanatical person, named Mich. Hawke of the Mid. Temple, gent. in a pamphlet entit. Killing is Murder and no Murder: or, an Exercitation concerning a scurrilous Pamphlet of one Will. Allen, a Jesuitical Impostor, entit. Killing no Murder, &c. Lond. 1657. in 8 sh. in qu. But tho' this was endeavoured to be cried up as an excellent piece by the fanatical party, yet the generality made slight of it. Sil. Titus hath also written, as 'tis said,

“A seasonable Speech made by a Member of Parliament in the House of Commons, concerning the other House, in March 1659, printed in 1 sh. in qu.—Mr. Allen tells me so,—but he was then no parliament man. Published in the beginning of April 1659, vide book of parliaments.

“Several Debates in Parliament.—Some of these are extant in a book entit. An exact Collection of the most considerable Debates in the House of Commons, at the Parl. held at Westminster 21 Oct. 1680. Lond. 1680. oct. p. 22, 24, 29, 58, 74. 147, 191. He also assisted Dr. Perinchief with certain materials relating to the life of king Charles I. especially for the two last years of his life.

[1038]

“GEORGE BERKLEY, son of George lord Berkley, descended of an ancient and noble family of his name living at Berkley in Gloucester-

“shire, was a canon-com. of Ch. Ch. for a time, a little before the grand rebellion broke out, as his father had been before: after whose death, which hapned in 1658, he succeeded him in his honour, became after the restoration of king Charles II. custos rotulorum for the counties of Gloucester and Surrey, of the privy-council to him, governor of the Levant-company, and at length by the said king created earl of Berkley, and on the 31st of July 1685 was sworn a member to the privy-council of king James II. He hath publish'd “Historical Applications, and occasional Meditations upon several Subjects. Lond. 1668, 1670, and with additions in 1680. all which impressions are in oct. On which book a most noted⁷ poet hath an excellent poem beginning thus:

“Bold is the man that dares engage
“For piety in such an age.

“In a certain auction cat. printed in May 1678, the said book is set down with this title, Divine Breathings: or, Soul-Thirstings after Christ. Lond. 1668, in twenty-fours. This most noble count hath also published “Speech to the Levant-Company at their annual Election, 9 Feb. 1680. Lond. 1681. in one sh. in qu.

“WILLIAM CROMPTON, son of a father of both his names, was born at Little Kymbell in Buckinghamshire, became a student of Ch. Ch. by the authority of the parliament visitors, an. 1648, took the degrees in arts, and became minister of Columpton in Devonshire, where continuing till after his majesty's restoration, was ejected for non-conformity, lived there, and sometimes at Exeter, carrying on at those places, and elsewhere, a constant course (if not hindred) of preaching in conventicles, especially in 1678, 79, &c. when the popish plot broke out, and the faction endeavoured to obtain their designs by it, when then he preached in despite of authority, as also when king James II. and king William III. reigned. He hath publish'd “Treatise of Prayer; wherein are discovered the Nature and Necessity of fervent Prayer, many Objections answered, several Cases of Conscience resolved, with Motives which powerfully urge to the Performance of this Duty, from this Text. James 5. 16. Lond. 1659. oct.

“A Remedy against Idolatry: or, a Pastor's Farewell to a beloved Flock, in some Preservatives against Creature-worship. Lond. 1667. oct.

“Brief Survey of the old Religion; which may serve as a Guide to all Passengers, yet Members of the militant Church, desirous to know and keep,

⁶ “Ja. Heath in his Brief Chron. of the Civil Wars of England, under the year 1657.”
VOL. IV.

⁷ “Edm. Waller in his Poems on several Occasions. Lond. 1668. p. 222, 223.”

"among divers Ways, the good old Way to Heaven.
"Lond. 1672. oct.

"*A Wilderness of Trouble, leading to a Canaan
"of Comfort: or, the Method and Manner of God's "dealing with the Heirs of Heaven in the Ministry
"of the Word, &c.* Lond. 1679. in tw.

"*Sovereign Omnipotence, the Saint's Security
"in evil Times, discoursed and concluded from
"Rom. 4. 17, 18.* Lond. 1682. oct.

"*The Justice of God asserted in seeming con-
"trariant Providences, and vindicated from the "Cavils of corrupt Men under them.*—This is "printed with Sov. Omnipotence, &c.

"*The Foundation of God, and the Immutability
"thereof, laid for the Salvation of his Elect, with "infallible Signs and Marks of Election, which "may serve as a Storehouse of Comfort to religious "Minds in this Season of Danger felt and feared,
"&c.* Lond. 1682. oct. One Mr. Crompton wrote

[1039]

"An Exposition on the fourth Article of the "Apostles Creed, Lond. 1658, or thereabouts, in
"oct. but whether it was written by our author
"Will. Crompton, I know not, because the title of "the said book was not sent by him to me among
"the titles of those books which he had written and "published, in his letters dated at Columpton in
"Oct. 1691, and on the 27th of Aug. 1694.

"FLEETWOOD SHEPPARD, son of Will.
"Sheppard, of Great Rowleright in Oxfordshire,
"gent. (by Mary his wife, daughter of sir Fleet-
"wood Dormer) and he the son of Will. Sheppard,
"of the same place, by Anne Osborne his wife, be"came a commoner of Magd. hall in 1650, and
"being made soon after one of the students of Ch.
"Ch. he took the degrees in arts. After his ma"jesty's restoration he retir'd to London, hang'd on "the court, became a debauchee and atheist, a
"grand companion with Charles lord Buckhurst,
"afterwards earl of Dorset and Middlesex, Henry
"Savile, and others. After Eleanor Quin or Guinn
"had a natural son by king Charles II. he became
"her steward, and afterwards to that nat. child
"called Charles earl of Burford, (since duke of St.
"Albans) and managed all their concerns. So "that by that employment coming to the know"ledge of the said king, he became one of his com"panions in private to make him merry. The rest
"were Henry Killigrew, son of Tho. Killigrew,
"grome of the bed-chamber, Henry Savile some"time one of the gromes of the duke of York's "bed-chamber, Hen. Guy cupbearer to his ma-
"jesty, Baptist May keeper of the privy purse,
"Charles lord Buckhurst earl of Dorset and Mid"dlesex, Joh. Wilmot earl of Rochester, when in "town, Joh. earl of Mulgrave, &c. All which "were the king's companions at most suppers in the "week, an. 1676, 77, &c. either in the lodgings of "Lodovisa dutchess of Portsmouth, or in those of "——Cheffing near the backstairs, or in the "apartment of Eleanor Quinn, or in that of Bapt.

"May; but he losing his credit,——Cheffing had
"the greatest trust among them.——When king
"James II. came to the crown, he then, as before,
"expressed his dislike of Fleet. Shep. as he did
"sometime before to king Charles II. After king
"William III. came to the crown, Mr. Sheppard
"became one of the gent. ushers and daily waiters
"to him, and on the death of sir Tho. Duppa,
"which hapned 25 Apr. 1694. he was made usher
"of the black-rod, and about that time knighted,
"for in the next letter he is called sir Fleet. Shep.
"but sir Phil. Carteret producing a patent for the "reversion, under king Charles II. his hand, there "was a law suit.* He is said to be the author of "The true and genuine Explanation of one of "King James's Declarations. The beginning of "which is, J. R. 'Whereas by misrepresentation,'

"&c.——This first came out in half a sh. in qu.
"and soon after with additions in half a sh. in fol.
"an. 1693.

"Several Poems.——scattered in several books.
[Sheppard died of an apoplexy at Rollright in Oxfordshire, September 6, 1698, and was buried in the chancel of that place.

In the Gentleman's Magazine for 1778, vol.
xlviii, p. 600, are two epitaphs on this person, one said to be written by himself. He was author of many poems, the principal of which, says Mr. Nicholls, was The Countess of Dorset's Petition to the late Queen Mary for Chocolate.]

"ROBERT HOOKE, son of John Hooke,
"sometime curate of Freshwater in the isle of
"Wight, was born there in July, and baptiz'd the "19th of the same month, an. 1635, and being "from his childhood ingeniously given, was sent to "the college school at Westminster, where, in one
"week's time, he made himself master of the first
"six books of Euclid, to the admiration of Mr.
"Busby his master, in whose house he lodged and "dicted. He also did there, of his own accord,
"learn to play 20-lessons on the organ, and in"vented thirty several ways of flying, as he and
"Dr. Wilkins of Wadham coll. have reported.
"About the year 1650 he was entred into Ch. Ch.
"and having not been a king's scholar at West"minster, was made one of the choristers of that "house, whose duty then in the choir was silenc'd.
"While he remained there, he assisted Mr. Tho.
"Willis the physician in his chymistry; who after"wards recommending him to Robert Boyle, esq;
"then living in Oxon, he became useful to him in "his chymical operations, read to him *Euclid's
"Elements*, and made him to understand Des-

* [This was only paying him one of his own tricks: Swift says, 'Old courtiers will tell you twenty stories of Killigrew, Fleetwood Sheppard and others, who would often sell places that were never in being, and dispose of others a good penny-worth before they were vacant.']

[1040]

"cartes's Philosophy. After the royal society was founded, he was not only made fellow, but, by the recommendation of the said Mr. Boyle, curator of the experiments of that society, which he performed with admiration. In 1663 he was, by the favour of the chancellor of this university, nominated (among others) to have the degree of master of arts to be conferr'd on him, but whether he was admitted or diplomated it appears not in the register. Afterwards he became geometry-professor of Gresham coll. and the first that performed the mechanical lecture, after it had been founded by sir John Cutler in the said coll. Some time after the conflagration of London, which hapned in 1666, he was chosen one of the two surveyors, (John Oliver the glass-painter being the other) for the ordering and contriving the rebuilding it, by which he obtained a good estate. He contrived the building of the new Bedlam near London, Mountague house in the parish of St. Giles's in the field, the college of physicians, and the theatre annex'd, the pillar on Fish-street hill in Lond. and was often used in designing other buildings, &c. As he is a person of a prodigious inventive head, so of great virtue and goodness: and as exceedingly well-vers'd in all mathematical and mechanical, so particularly in astronomical knowledge. But those things which he is to be commended for, relating to his invention, are the pendulum watch, much more useful than others, and the engine for the speedy working of division, &c. or for the speedy and immediate finding out the divisor. In the month of December 1691 he was created doctor of physick, by the power of Dr. John Tillotson archbishop of Canterbury. He hath written

"An Attempt for the Explication of the Phenomena observable in an Experiment published by the honourable Robert Boyle, Esq; in the XXXV Experiment of his Epistolical Discourse touching the Air. Lond. 1661. oct.

"Discourse of a new Instrument lately invented by him to make more accurate Observations in Astronomy, than ever were yet made, &c. Lond. 1661. qu.

"Method for making a History of the Weather—printed in The History of the Royal Society. Lond. 1667. qu. p. 173. written by Th. Sprat.

"Micrographia: or, some physiological Descriptions of minute Bodies made by magnifying Glasses, with Observations and Enquiries thereupon. Lond. 1665, &c. fol.

"Philosophical Observations, Experiments, and Discourses.—These are remitted into the several numbers of Philosophical Transactions.

"Attempt to prove the Motion of the Earth. Lond. 1674. in 4 sh. in qu. An account of this book is in the Philos. Transactions, numb. 101. p. 12.

"Animadversions on the first Part of the Ma-

"china cælestis of the learned and deservedly famous Astronomer Johan. Hevelius, Consul of Dantzick. Lond. 1674. qu.

"Explanation of some Instruments.—printed with the Animadversions. An account of these two books is in the Phil. Transact. numb. 109. p. 215.

"Description of Helioscopes, and some other Instruments. Lond. 1675, 76. qu. A laudable account of which is also in the said Phil. Transact. numb. 118. p. 440, &c.

"Lampas: or, a Description of some mechanical Improvements of Lamps and Water-pisces. Lond. 1677. qu.

"Some physical and mechanical Discoveries—printed with the Lampas, as also a postscript at the end reflecting on Mr. Hen. Oldenburg, secretary to the royal society, for not doing him (Mr. Hooke) justice in his Phil. Transactions. Soon after was put in the Philosophical Transact. numb. 129. p. 749, this note, 'Whereas the publisher of Phil. Trans. (Mr. Oldenburg) hath made complaint to the council of the royal society, of some passages in a postscript at the end of a book called Lampas, &c. reflecting on the integrity and faithfulness of the said publisher, in his management of the intelligence of the said society, the council thereupon hath thought fit to declare, that they knew nothing of the said book and postscript; and that the publisher hath carried himself faithfully and honestly in the management of the intelligence.'

"Lectures and Collections, &c. Lond. 1678. qu. The first lecture containeth observations on the comet in April 1677.

"Lectures de Potentia restitutiva: or, of Spring, explaining the Power of springing Bodies. Lond. 1678. quarto.

"Collections: viz. (1) A Description of Dr. Pappius (or Pappiers) Wind-fountain and Force-Pump, &c.—All which books from the Attempt to prove the Motion of the Earth, &c. to the Collections here mention'd, have this general title put before them—Lctiones Cutlerianæ: or, a Collection of Lectures Physical, Mechanical, Geographical and Astronomical, &c. Lond. 1679. qu. It must be now known that Henry Oldenburg before-mention'd (of whom I have spoken largely⁹ elsewhere) did begin to write the Philosophical Transactions of the Royal Society on the 6th of Mar. 1664, and carried them on to num. 136, dated the 25th of June 1677; and soon after, viz. in Aug. 1678, he died at Charlton near Greenwich in Kent, whereupon Nehemiah Grew doctor of phys. and fellow of the said society continued them from January following, with the numb. 137, and ended them in numb. 142 inclusive. Afterwards our author Hooke continued them, tho' seldom, under the title of

" In the FASTI, the second volume, col. 197."

S S 2

[1041]

" Philosophical Collections, containing an Account of such Physical, Anatomical, Chymical, &c. Observations, as have lately come to his Hands.—The first numb. begins in Octob. 1679, and the last which is the 7th was published in Apr. 1682; all in qu.—In the Philos. Trans. numb. 185. Novem. and Decem. 1686, is A Description of an Invention whereby the Divisions of the Barometer may be enlarged in any given Proportions, by this Mr. Rob. Hooke.

" HENRY BAGSHAW, a younger son of Edw. Bagshaw, esq; mention'd among the writers under the year 1662, volume iii. col. 944. was born at Broughton in Northamptonshire, elected student of Ch. Ch. from Westminster school, an. 1651, aged 17 years or thereabouts, took the degrees in arts, (that of master being compleated an. 1657) afterwards holy orders, and became a most noted preacher. In 1663 he went in the quality of a chaplain to sir Rich. Fanshaw knight and bart. ambassador in ordinary for Spain and Portugal, and continued with him till that worthy person died. After his return, he was made chaplain to Rich. archb. of York, was collated to the preb. of Barnby in the cathedral church there, on the death of Robert Bunning, the 12th of Aug. 1667, to the preb. of Fridaythorp on the death of Tho. Canon B. D. the 26th of May 1668, and on the 7th of July in the same year he was admitted bach. of divinity as a compounder. In 1672 he proceeded in that faculty, became chapl. to Tho. earl of Danby lord treasurer of England, rector of S. Botolph's church near Bishopsgate in London, which he exchanged with Rob. Clerk sometime fellow of Linc. coll. for the rectory of Houghton le Spring in the bishoprick of Durham (but Clerk after he had been there a little while died, 1679) and in 1681 July the 20th he was installed prebendary of Durham in the place of one Oldsworth of Cambr. decess'd. He hath publish'd,

" Several sermons, as (1) Sermon preached at Madrid the 4th of July 1666, stil. nov. on Heb. 12. 1. Lond. 1666. qu. occasion'd by the sad and much lamented death of sir Rich. Fanshaw knight and bart. of his majesty's most honourable privy-council, and his ambassador in ordinary to the court of Spain, &c. (2) The Excellency of primitive Government, preached at Guildhall Chap. at the Election of the Lord Mayor; on Isa. 1. 26. Lond. 1673. qu. (3) Sermon preached before the King at Whitehall, the 30th of Jan. 1675; on Psal. 37. Ver. 37. Lond. 1676. qu.

" Diatribæ: or, Discourses upon select Texts, wherein several weighty Truths are handled and applied against the Papists and Socinians. Lond. 1680. oct.

" ROBERT SOUTH was born at Hackney in " the county of Middlesex, educated in Westminster-school under Mr. Busby, where he obtained a considerable stock of grammar and philological learning, but more of impudence and sauciness. [1042] From thence he was elected student of Ch. Ch. in the year 1651, and before or about the time that he took the degree of bach. of arts, he was appointed to do some exercise in the public and spacious refectory of that house, viz. to speak a speech upon some great and signal occasion. When he had prepared it and made it proportionable to the transcendency of his parts and abilities, he gave out to several of his acquaintance, that he intended in that speech severely to lash the sectaries of his house and of the university. This being known abroad, and the day wherein he was to perform what he had prepared being come, it occasion'd a great concourse in the said refectory of the younger students, who were the greatest wits, but esteemed by the sectaries to be of the most profligate principles, both in that house and other houses in the university. To satisfy all their expectations, our author South came forth and address'd himself with a sufficient measure of confidence (whereof there was no want in him) to speak to this ingenious auditory: And indeed, the whole scope of his oration was (if you'll believe a¹ rank fanatic) 'little other than a most blasphemous invective against godliness, and the most serious and conscientious professors of it.' But before he had proceeded far in it, my author tells me that 'the hand of the Lord was stretched out against him, and he was suddenly surprized with such a qualm, as did disturb him afterwards at Whitehall,' as I shall tell you anon. Whereupon being constrained abruptly to break off, it was so great a discomfort to him, that he was scarce able to bear it, because first that he esteemed himself a person of great fame in the university, and secondly that it would be a great disparagement to him among the wits of his acquaintance. However this influence it had upon him, as it was observed by some persons then living in the university, that 'from that time he lay under some convictions of the evil of abusing those good parts which God had given him, in defaming those persons and things which the Lord doth testify his greatest approbation of:' and so from thenceforward he seemed to be much more serious than before, and by degrees insinuated himself into the good opinion of the then present dean of his house, Dr. Owen, as also with those of the presbyterian and independent party thereof. In 1657 he proceeded in arts, became a chief and eminent member of that society, ¹ "The author of Mirabilis Annus secundus: or the second Part of the second Year's Prodigies, &c. printed 1662. in qu. numb. 12. p. 34.

² "Ibid."

"preached frequently (I think without any orders)
 "and as he had opportunity he displayed his parts
 "to the utmost, in defence both of the doctrinal
 "and practical part of religion, and that too ac"cording to the strictest notion of both of them.
 "In his public sermons at S. Mary's (the university "church) he still appeared the great champion for
 "Calvinism against Socinianism and Arminianism:
 "and his carriage was such, and his parts so ex"ceeding useful and serviceable, that the heads of
 "that party were consulting how to give encour"agement to, and accumulate proportionable pre-
 "ferments upon, so hopeful a convert. But behold!
 "while these things were in consulting Oliver the "protector died, and the presbyterians then over-
 "topping the independents, he sided so much with "them, that he condemn'd and in a manner defied
 "Dr. Owen his dean, then accounted the head of "that party: whereupon the doctor plainly told "him that he was one that sate in the seat of the "scornful, &c. On the 24th. of July 1659, the "presbyterians then lifting up their heads, upon
 "some foresight had of the success of sir George
 "Booth in Cheshire, then about to rise and appear "openly to rescue his country from slavery, our "author South preached the assize-sermon at S.
 "Mary's, wherein he took occasion to speak of the "great disencouragement of learning, the oppression
 "of the ministry, ruin of the laws, &c. He also "spoke against the hypocrites and dissimulation of "those times, and did reflect upon Unton Croke a
 "colonel of a regiment of horse under the usurpers,
 "then quartering at Oxon, who with his factious party
 "kept a fast after dinner in his house in Grandpoole
 "in the south suburb of Oxon——'It is an easy "matter (said Mr. South) to commend patience
 "when there is no danger of any trial, or extol
 "humility in the midst of honours, to begin a fast
 "after dinner,' &c. Afterwards he told the large
 "auditory, 'Let Christ and truth say what they "will, if interest will have it, gain must be godli-
 "ness: If enthusiasm is in request, learning must "be inconsistent with grace. If pay grows short,
 "the university maintenance must be too great,' &c.
 "So much bitterness was then expressed against "the independents, that his sermon was attacked
 "by certain severe reprehenders, who, according to "the then canting way of discourse, charged it as "full of much wrath and darkness. The presby"terians were much pleased with the sermon, and
 "Dr. Reynolds who had been some years before
 "dean of Ch. Ch. being then in Oxon, and acci"dentally at the sermon, he did in his going out of "the church salute the preacher very kindly, em-
 "braced him and told him that what lay in his "power he would do it for him, or words to that "effect. In the latter end of the same year, when "it was visible that monarchy would return, upon
 "the success of Gen. Geo. Monk, he was something
 "at a stand, yet still was accounted a member of [1043]

"the fanatic ordinary; but when his majesty's re-
 "storation could not be withstood, then did he from
 "the pulpit exercise his gifts against the presbyte-
 "rians, as a little before he had done against the "independents, telling his auditory of their wry
 "faces, ill looks, puling tones, &c. All which was "to obtain the applause (and its consequences) of "the prelatial and loyal party, but as it fell out he
 "miss'd his ends, for by his too much concernment
 "and eagerness to trample upon them, the graver
 "sort of the said party would put their hats before "their eyes, or turn aside, as being much ashamed
 "at what the young man did utter. Not content "with this, he inform'd the leading men of the "royalists (who were soon after restored to their "places in the university) of the behaviours and
 "manners of those that had been the prime men in
 "the interval, and of such that had kept and occu"pied the places of those royalists, and left nothing
 "undone to ingratiate himself with them. In this "office Mr. South had more of his house that were
 "as zealous as he, namely Charles Pickering, Hen.
 "Bold, and Hen. Thurman masters of arts; who "tho' bibbing persons, yet did they comply so much
 "with the presbyterians and independents, that "they kept their places, tho' they deserved ejection
 "over and over; and on the change, at the restora-
 "tion, they wheel'd about and acted like Protei.
 "The last of these made it no conscience to utter "matter (esteemed then by some blasphemous) in "his sermon or sermons at S. Mary's; and in one
 "at Magd. parish church, on the 21st of Octob.
 "1660, he said to this effect, that 'tho' Christ did
 "and could pardon scarlet sins, yet he would not,
 "nor could not pardon sins of so deep a grain as "killing a king, &c. And in the conclusion he "said that 'he knew many of the auditory were "not offended at what he had said in his sermon,
 "and for those that were, he did not care so long
 "as ropes and sledges held good,' &c. There were "other persons of other colleges also, that strove,
 "as I may say, to outstrip the law, such I mean
 "that had been bred up among presbyterians and "independents, purposely to shew themselves loyal,
 "that thereby they might not only keep their places,
 "but be in after times, as they were, promoted to "considerable stations in the church. But these "persons being now beyond my purpose, I shall "proceed with my author Mr. South, who on the "10th of Aug. 1660 being elected the public orator
 "of the university, he tugged hard, such was the "high conceit of his worth, to be canon of Ch. Ch.
 "as belonging to that office; but was kept back by "the endeavours of the dean. This was a great
 "discontent to him, and being not able to conceal
 "it, he clamoured at it, and shewing much passion
 "in his sermons till he could get preferment, they "were therefore frequented by the generality, tho'
 "shun'd by some. This person, tho' he was a
 "junior master, and had never suffer'd for the [1044]

"royal cause, yet so great was his conceit, or so blinded he was with ambition, that he thought he could never be enough loaded with preferment, while others that had suffered much, and had been reduced to a bit of bread for his majesty's cause, could get nothing. Among these, who were many in the university after the said restoration, must not be forgotten Ralph Rawson bach. of divinity, turn'd out of his fellowship of Brasen-n. coll. by the visitors appointed by parliament an. 1648, who did afterwards, from that time till 1660, suffer great hardship, and narrowly escaped the halter, for being in sir George Booth's plot, and animating his party by his preaching to go on courageously and hold fast in their designs, &c. I say that this person could get nothing after his majesty's restoration but his fellowship, which made him so passionate, that he never appeared in S. Mary's pulpit without many complaints, insomuch that he was at last called the querulous divine.³ But now let's proceed: our author South being noted for his excellent oratory was taken into the service of Edward earl of Clarendon lord chancellor of England, and by him made his domestic chaplain, who being much delighted with a sermon that he had preach'd before him, he made way for him to preach the same sermon again before his majesty: and having first passed the scrutiny of so wise and learned a man, and so great and famous a counsellor, every one's expectation was heightened, and happy was he or she amongst the greatest wits in the town, that could accommodate their humour in getting convenient room in the chappel at Whitehall, to hang upon the lips of this so great an oracle. The day appointed being come, which was the 13th of Apr. 1662, for the acting this scene over again, our author ascends the pulpit, and the eyes of all were immediately fastned upon him. After he had performed his obeisance to his majesty, he named his text, which was Eccl. 7. 10. Say not then, what is the cause that the former days were better than these? For thou doest not enquire wisely concerning this. Then, after a witty preamble, he proceeded to the division of the words; and having performed that with great dexterity, he

³ [Rawson was a native of Cheshire: he is entered in the matriculation register, PP. fol. 149, b. as follows:

⁴ Novemb. 28. 1634, Radolph. Rowson, Cestrensis, fil. Rodolphi Rowson de Stockport in com. pred. pleb. an. nat. 16.]

Rawson repaired at his ejection from Oxford to Cambridge, where he became tutor to the celebrated Charles Cotton, who has gratefully celebrated his kindness in a translation of an ode of Johannes Secundus. After narrowly escaping punishment for his conduct at the rising of sir George Booth, he retired into Lancashire, where he went by the name of Fitz-Ralph, and was entertained by Thomas Preston esq. at whose house he kept a private meeting for the royalists, read the church service and administered her sacraments. He never received other reward at the restoration than a re-admission to his fellowship, and died distracted in 1684.]

"lays by the text for the present, and, according to the ancient and laudable manner, addressed himself to the bid-prayer; which being ended, he resumed his text, and attempted to handle the several parts of it. The prohibition in the text he laboured to enforce by an induction of particulars. The first was, that the pagan times were not better than these; then, the popish times were not, &c. But the last insisted on, was, the times of the late rebellion: and while he was endeavouring to evince that, which was indeed the main thing that he intended to handle, it pleased God, as the fanatic⁴ observed, that he was suddenly taken with a qualm, drops of sweat standing in his face as big as pease, and immediately he lost the use of his speech, only he uttered some few words to this effect, Oh Lord! we are all in thy hands, be merciful unto us; and then came down. The expectations of all being thus sadly disappointed, they were contented with the divertisement of an anthem, and so the solemnity of the service for that day was ended. In the mean time great care was taken of Mr. South, and by the use of cordials, and other means proper for him in that condition, he quickly recovered his spirits, and was every way as well again as before. To all which the fanatic⁵ adds this ——— 'And we should be glad to hear he were more sensible of the hand of God upon him at that time, wherein it is to be feared, he sought his own honour more than Christ's, and therefore met with this rebuke from the Lord, which indeed we should hope in charity had some great influence upon him; for the next Lords-day after, he appeared again before the same splendid auditory, and, as we were informed, he did, before hand, free his sermon from many of those luxuriations which before it was attended with, and brings it forth in a less whorish attire, than he had clothed it with the day before; and so, according to our best information, he went on and finished his discourse without the least disturbance or interruption,' &c. On the first day of Oct. 1663 there was a convocation of the university celebrated, and therein were the letters of his patron Edw. earl of Clarendon, chancellor of the said university, read in behalf of his chaplain Mr. South, to be created doctor of divinity; which being done, the bachelors of divinity and masters of arts were so amazed at such a matter, as first that the said person should venture upon such a degree being but six years standing in that of master, secondly that he should be so impudent to overtop a hundred of his seniors at least, and thirdly that he had not at all suffered for his majesty's cause, but rather that he had preached against it when he closed with the independents, they all stiffly denied ⁴ "Ibid. in lib. cui tit. Mirabilis Annus secundus, p. 33.

[1045]

⁵ "Ibid. p. 34."

“the passing of those letters, and were so resolute against their taking effect, that the house being in a tumult thereupon, the doctors of divinity who were generally consenting to the creation (for they were not to be overtop’d) did arise from their seats, and went down and mixed themselves among the masters to persuade them to yield their consents: but all being done in vain, they went to scrutiny. Which being done, the senior proctor according to his usual perfidy (which he frequently used in his office, for he was born and bred a presbyterian) did pronounce him, the said Mr. South, virtute juramenti sui passed by the major part of the house. Whereupon by the double presentation of Dr. Joh. Wallis, he was first admitted bachelor, then doctor of divinity. The chief persons concerned in this resolute action of denial, were Ralph Rawson of Brasen-n. coll. before-mention’d and Rob. Hawkins of that of Baliol, the first of which, if not both, did afterwards reflect upon the said undue proceedings in their public sermons. Afterwards our author South had a sinecure in Wales bestowed on him, and when the old earl of Clarendon (his patron) flew beyond sea to avoid an answer to divers articles of treason and misdemeanour drawn against him by the parliament an. 1667, he was made chaplain to James duke of York. In the latter end of Dec. 1670 he was installed canon of Ch. Ch. in the room of Dr. Rich. Gardiner deceas’d, and soon after was made preb. of Westm. In the summer time of 1676 he went in the quality of chaplain to Laurence Hyde esq; to Poland, at what time that gentleman was sent thither to christen the child of the king of that country, and to condole with the emperor upon the late empress’s death: The first of which compliments he performed for his majesty, but upon his coming from thence to Vienna he found the emperor married, and so passed on privately towards England. In 1678 Dr. South became rector of Islip in the diocese of Oxon, upon the death of Dr. Edw. Hinton, and in 1680 he rebuilt the chancel of the church belonging to that place, and exercis’d much his charity there; which rectory, sinecure, and two prebendships he keeps to this day, (Apr. 1. an. 1694) lives upon neither, as he has not done for about 20 years (unless residence for some time requires it) but upon his temporal estate at Caversham near Reading, in a discontented and clamorous condition for want of more preferment (as many people in Oxon think) or else respect and adoration which he gapes after. He hath written, “Musica incantans, sive Poema exprimens Musicæ Vires, Juvenem in Insaniam adigentis, et Musici inde Periculum. Oxon. 1655. 1667, &c. in 3 sh. in qu.

“Several sermons, viz. Twelve Sermons preached upon several Occasions; six of which were never “before printed. Lond. 1692. oct. These, which are called the first vol. of his sermons contain among the rest (1) Interest deposed and Truth restored: or, a Word in Season, preached at S. Mary’s in Oxon the 24th of July 1659, being the Time of the Assizes: as also of the Fears and Groans of the Nation in the threatned and expected Ruine of the Laws, Ministry and Universities; on Matth. 10. 33. Oxon. 1660. qu. 1679. oct. (2) Ecclesiastical Policy the best Policy: or, Religion the best Reason of State, preached at Lincoln’s Inn; on 1 Kings 13. Ver. 33, 34. Oxon. 1660. qu. &c. and 1679. oct. (3) Sermon in S. Paul’s Church, the 9th of Nov. 1662; on Gen. 1. 27. Lond. 1663. qu. Oxon. 1679. oct. The running title of this is, Man was created after God’s Image. (4) Sermon before the Court at Oxon in Ch. Ch. on Prov. 3. 17. Oxon. 1665. qu. Lond. 1679. oct. (5) Sermon at the Consecration of John Bishop of Rochester, in Lambeth Chappel, the 25th of Nov. 1666; on Titus 2. Ver. the last, printed at the Savoy near Lond. 1667, qu. Which sermons, with another on Joh. 7. 17. (never before printed) were all reprinted in oct. at Oxon 1679. The first of the other six sermons was preached at the consecration of a chappel an. 1667. on Psal. 87. 2.

“Twelve Sermons. Lond. 1694. oct. vol. 2. The first of which, entit. The Practice of Religion enforced by Reason, is on Prov. 10. 9. The second, entit. A Sermon preached before the University at Ch. Ch. in Oxon. is on Joh. 15. 15. &c. Animadversions on Dr. Sherlock’s Book, entit. A Vindication of the holy and ever-blessed Trinity, &c. Lond. 1693. qu.

“A Table of the Additions and Alterations made in the second Edit. of the Animadversions upon Dr. Sherlock’s Book of the Trinity. Lond. 1693. in two sh. in qu.

“Tritheism charged upon Dr. Sherlock’s new Notion of the Trinity. And the Charge made good, in an Answer to the Defence of the said Notion against the Animadversions upon Dr. Sherlock’s Book entit. A Vindication of the Doctrine of the holy and ever-blessed Trinity, &c. Lond. 1695. qu. published about the latter end of Apr. By a divine of the ch. of Engl. Dedicated to all the professors of divinity in the two universities in this kingdom of England.

“JOHN LOCK was born in a market town called Pensford in Somersetshire, whose father (of genteel fashion) being towards the law, and a steward or court-keeper to coll. Alex. Popham, caused his son to be educated in Westm. school, whence being translated to Ch. Ch. in 1651, was made one of the number of students, being then put under the tuition of a fanatical tutor. Afterwards he took the degrees in arts, but rather than take orders and be a minister according to the ch.

[1046]

“ of England, he entred on the phisic line, ran a “ course of chymistry and got sonie little practice in “ Oxon. In 1672 he became secretary to Anthony “ earl of Shaftsbury lord chancellor of England, “ stuck close to him when he was discarded, took “ the degree of bach. of phisic in 1674, and after“ wards was assisting to the said count in his desigus
 “ when the popish plot broke out, and carried on “ the trade of faction beyond and within the seas
 “ several years after. In 1683, when the crop-ear’d “ plot broke out, he left Oxon, and conveyed away “ then with him several letters and writings, without “ being search’d, otherwise had he been a favourer
 “ of the papists he would have been ransack’d to
 “ the purpose, and going beyond the seas into Hol“ land, he became a great companion with Ford
 “ lord Grey of Werk, Rob. Ferguson and other “ factious people at the Hague, he was complained
 “ of by the English resident there to Charles earl
 “ of Middleton secretary of state to his majesty king “ Charles II. who giving notice of it to Dr. Joh.
 “ Fell dean of Ch. Ch. and wondring that he should “ be suffer’d to keep any place of profit there, he “ was thereupon deprived of his student’s place in “ Nov. 1684. Afterwards when king James II.
 “ came to the crown and an indulgence was granted,
 “ he return’d, and when king William III. suc“ ceeded, he being look’d upon as a brother and a “ sufferer, was made secretary of war in the latter “ end of the year 1689. He was afterward one of “ the commissioners of appeal for the excise, and “ one of the commissioners for wine licenses, 1694.
 “ He hath published,

“ A Letter concerning Toleration, humbly sub- “ mitted, &c. Lond. 1689, in 9 sh. in qu. It had “ a little before been printed in Latin in Holland,
 “ and about the same time was translated into Dutch
 “ and French. See more in the FASTI an. 1666.

“ A second Letter concerning Toleration, &c.
 “ Lond. 1690, in 9 sh. and an half in qu.

“ An Essay concerning humane Reason, in 4
 “ Books. Lond. 1690. fol. dedicated to the most “ noble Thomas earl of Pembroke. A brief of this “ essay was printed, as I have been informed, in “ Latin two years before that time. The second “ edit. of the book was printed in fol. 1694, with “ the author’s picture before it.

“ Two Treatises of Government: In the former,
 “ the false Principles and Foundation of Sir Rob.
 “ Filmer and his Followers are detected and over- “ thrown. The latter is an Essay concerning the “ true Original, Extent and End of Civil Govern- “ ment — Lond. 1694. oct. 2d edit. corrected.

“ Some Thoughts concerning Education — “ Lond. 1693. oct. dedicated to Edw. Clark of “ Chipley, esq;

“ Some Considerations of the Consequences of the “ lowering of Interest, and raising the Value of “ Money, in a Letter to a Member of Parliament.
 “ Lond. 1694, 95. in oct.

“ The Reasonableness of Christianity, as deli- “ vered in the Scriptures — Lond. 1695. He is “ reported to be author of a pamphlet entit. A Huc
 “ and Cry after the Earl of Essex’s Blood: Which “ earl of Essex, named Arth. Capel, cut his own “ throat while he was a prisoner in the tower of “ London, the 13th of July 1683, he having been “ committed prisoner to that place as being suspected
 “ to be in the crop-ear’d plot, which was first dis“ covered on the 12th of June going before. Mr.
 “ Locke hath put out several other things without “ his name.

“ NATHANIEL BISBIE, son of Joh. Bisbie⁶ “ minister of Edsaston (Edston) in Shropshire (who “ subscribed to the lawfulness of the covenant in “ 1648) was elected student of Ch. Ch. from Westm.
 “ school, an. 1654, usually cours’d in the Greek “ tongue in the public schools, while under-graduate
 “ and bach. of arts, as Tho. Martin student of that “ house sometimes did, took the degrees in arts,
 “ and some time after the restoration of king Charles “ II. became rector of Long-Melford near to Sud-“ bury in Suffolk. In 1668 he took both the de“ grees in divinity, being then esteemed an excel“ lent preacher, and a zealous person for the church
 “ of England; but 1690 refusing to take the oaths
 “ of allegiance to king William III. and queen
 “ Mary, was deprived of his rectory. He hath pub“ lished,

“ Several sermons, as (1) The modern Pharisees:
 “ on Matth. 23. 15. Lond. 1673. qu. (2) Prose- “ cution no Persecution: or, the Difference between “ Suffering for Disobedience and Faction, and “ Suffering for Righteousness and Christ’s Sake, “ preached at S. Edmund’s Bury in Suffolk. 22 “ March 1681, being the Time of the general As- “ sizes there held; on Phil. 1. 29. Lond. 1682. qu.
 “ (3) Two Sermons. The first shewing the Mis- “ chiefs of Anarchy. The second the Mischiefs of “ Sedition: and both of them the Mischiefs and “ Treasons of Conventicles, preached at the Assizes
 “ held for the County of Suffolk 1682. The first
 “ is on Judges 17. 6. and the second on Numb. 26.
 “ 9. which last is entit. Korah and his Company
 “ prov’d to be the Seminary and Seed-plot of Sedi- “ tion. Lond. 1684. qu. (4) The Bishop visiting;
 “ on 1 Cor. 11. 34. preached at Bury S. Edmund
 “ before William Lord Bishop of Norwich, 3 May
 “ 1686. Lond. 1686. qu.”

[Of Bisbie I can learn nothing more than that he died September 16, 1695, and was buried at Melford.]

“ BENJAMIN WOODROFFE son of Tim.
 “ Woodr. (by Elizab. his wife dau. of Tho. Syl-

⁶ [Walker, Sufferings of the Clergy, part 2, page 41, takes notice of a John Bisby who was ejected from the prebend of Pipa-minor alias Pces, in the time of the civil wars.]

[1048]

“vester of Burford in Oxfordshire, gent.) son of “Rich. Woodroffe a minister of Wiltshire, but de“scended from those of his name (that are antient)
 “in Yorkshire, was born in a street called Canditch
 “in S. Mary Magd. parish in the north suburb of “Oxon (in an house there, opposite to the place “where the theatre was afterwards built) in the “month of Apr. 1638, educated in the college
 “school at Westminster, and made student of Ch.
 “Ch. an. 1656. After he had taken the degree of “master of arts, he became a noted tutor in the “college, and in 1669 was made chaplain to his “royal highness James duke of York, then high “admiral of England, and about the same time fel“low of the royal society. In 1672 he was chap“lain in the great ship called the royal prince, “being then the ship which was commanded by the “said admiral: in which year May 28 was the terri“ble fight off of Southwold-Bay betwixt the English
 “and Dutch, wherein the said admiral behaved “himself with undaunted courage. In the latter “end of Novemb. the same year he was made lec“turer of the Temple, and on the 17th of Dec.
 “following was installed canon of Ch. Ch. in the “place of Dr. Jasp. Mayne deceased: which can-“nonry was obtained for him of his majesty by his “most generous patron James duke of York, with “whom he was present in the same ship, in the ter“rible fight before-mention’d. Soon after by the “favour of Theophilus earl of Huntingdon (who “was his pupil in the earl’s house) he became vicar
 “of Piddletowne in Dorsetshire; which, after about “two years enjoyment, he gave up to his curate the “honourable John Fielding of the noble family of “the earl of Denbigh. Afterwards he became vicar
 “of Shrineham in Berkshire, by the favour of “Heneage earl of Nottingham, (to whose three “eldest sons, Daniel, Heneage, and William, he “had been tutor in Ch. Ch.) and about the same “time he became chaplain in ord. to his majesty.
 “In 1677 he was made prebendary of Lichfield,
 “and much about the same time rector of S. Bar-“tholomew’s near to the Royal Exchange within “the city of London. About the beginning of “Dec. 1688 he was nominated dean of Ch. Ch.
 “by king James II. upon the withdrawing thence
 “of Mr. Joh. Massey, and on the 15th of Aug.
 “1692 he was admitted principal of Gloucester-hall,
 “after the resignation of Dr. Byrom Eaton. It “must be now known, that the said antient recep“tacle of learning having lain void of students se“veral years, and ruined more, the said Dr. Eaton “resolv’d to resign all his interest therein, so that “he could get a man that would endeavour to make “it flourish. Whereupon Dr. Woodroffe, a person
 “of a generous and public spirit, being minded to “recover it from ruin, he took upon him the prin“cipality, bestowed several hundreds of pounds in “repairing it, and making it a fit habitation for the
 “Vol. IV.

“muses: which being done, he, by his great in“terest among the gentry, made it flourish with “hopeful sprouts. He hath written

“Somnium navale, sive Poema in Expeditionem
 “navalem adversus Belgas, sub Auspiciis Ducis “Eborac. An. Dom. 1672. confectam. Oxon. 1673.
 “in 2 sh. or more in fol.

“Several sermons, as (1) Sermon before the L.
 “Mayor and Aldermen of the City of London, at “Guildhall Chap. 26 Oct. 1679; on Psal. 11. 3.
 “Lond. 1679. qu. ded. to sir Jam. Edwards lord “mayor. (2) Sermon preached 30 Jan. 1684,
 “being the Fast for the Martyrdom of King
 “Charles I. of Blessed Memory; on Jer. 3. 8.
 “Lond. 1685. qu. ded. to king James II.

“The great Question to be considered by the “King and Parliament, how far Religion is con- “cerned in Policy or Civil Government. Lond.
 “1679. in 2 sh. in fol.

“The Fall of Babylon: or, seasonable Reflections
 “on the Novelties of Rome: with the Rise, Growth
 “and final Overthrow of Antichrist now at hand:
 “occasion’d by the Preface to a Treatise called,
 “Nubes Testium: or, a Collection of Primitive “Fathers giving Testimony to the Faith once de- “livered to the Saints, &c. Lond. 1690. qu.

“GEORGE HOOPER, born in Worcester“shire, educated in Westin. school, entred into Ch.
 “Ch. in 1657, and soon after became student “thereof. In 1664 he proceeded in arts, and af“terwards became chaplain to Dr. Morley bishop of “Winchester, in whose service continuing for some “time, he was promoted to that of Dr. Sheldon “archb. of Canterbury, who gave him the rectory
 “of Lambeth in Surrey, on the death of Dr. Tho.
 “Tomkins, an. 1675. In 1677 he proceeded in “divinity, and in the same year, as it seems, be“came chanter of Exeter in the room of Mr. Hen.
 “Bold deceased. Afterwards he attended, in the “quality of a chaplain, Mary princess of Orange, “being then rector of Woodhay in Hampshire, and “in 1691 he was (being chaplain to king William
 “and queen Mary) made dean of Canterbury upon “the promotion of Dr. Joh. Sharp to the sec of “York. He is the author of “Several sermons, as (1) Sermon before the L.

 “Mayor at Guild-hall Chap. 30 Oct. 1681; on “Gal. 5. 22, 23. Lond. 1682. qu. (2) Serm. be- “fore the K. at Whitehall, 5 Nov. 1681, on Matth.
 “22. 21. Lond. 1682. qu. (3) Serm. before the “Qu. at Whitehall, on Sunday Jan. 25 An. 1690;
 “on Luke 16 Ver. last. Lond. 1691. qu. (4)
 “Sermon before the K. and Q. at Whitehall, 14
 “Jan. 1693; on John 7. 17. Lond. 1694. qu.

“A fair and methodical Discussion of the first
 “and great Controversy between the Church of “England and Ch. of Rome, concerning the in- “fallible Guide, in 3 Discourses, &c. Lond. 1689.

T T

[1049]

“qu. The name of George Hooper is not to this “book, only common⁷ report makes him the “author.

“THOMAS KNIPE, a minister's son, was “born educated in Westm. school, elected “student of Ch. Ch. an. 1658, admitted bach. of “arts in Feb. 1660, when then he was dispensed
“with for the absence of 5 terms, during which time
“he did attend in his majesty's school at Westmin“ster. Afterwards he proceeded in that faculty, “was one of the ushers of the said school, and “upon Dr. Busby's death, chief master, in Apr.
“1695. He published,

“Ἀπολλοδώρου τῆς Ἀθηναίων Γραμματικῆς Βιβλιοθήκης, ἡ “περὶ Θεῶν Βιβλίον α'. In Usum Scholæ West- “monast. Lond. 1686. oct.

“WILLIAM WIGAN was born, I presume,
“at the Harrow in Greys-inn-lane, where his father
“sold ale and grew rich, educated in Westm.
“school, elected student 1659. bach. of arts, 22 “Mar. 1661. master of arts 23 Nov. 1664. vicar of “Kensington, and preb. of S. Paul's, chaplain to “their majesty's king William III. and queen
“Mary. He hath published,

“A Sermon before the King and Queen at White- “hall, 8 Jan. 1692; on Matthew 6. 34. last Part.
“Lond. 1693. qu.

“WILLIAM JANE son of Joseph Jane of “Liskard in Cornwall, gent. was born there, elected “student of Ch. Ch. from Westm. school, an. 1660, “aged 16 or thereabouts, took the degrees in arts,
“holy orders, became a lecturer at Carfax, chaplain
“to Dr. Compton bishop of Oxon, preb. of S.
“Paul's, and being bach. of div. was made canon of “Ch. Ch. on the death of Dr. George Croydon, in “which dignity he was installed on the eleventh of “July, an. 1678. In the year following he pro“ceeded in his faculty as a compounder, and on
“the 19th of May 1680 was admitted regius pro“fessor of divinity in the place of Dr. Rich. Al“lestry resigning. About the latter end of Apr.
“1685 he was nominated by king James II. dean
“of Gloucester in the place of Dr. Tho. Marshall “deceased, and on the 21st of Nov. 1689 (king “William III. to whom he was chaplain, being “then in the throne) he was elected prolocutor for
“the lower house of the convocation of the clergy,
“in order to make some alterations in the liturgy
“to please the dissenters: which election was ap“proved by the upper house of convocation on the “25th of the same month, at which time Dr. Hen.
“Aldrich dean of Ch. Ch. presented him to them.
“He hath published,

⁷ [Wood says he was commonly reported to be the author of the Discussion. It is printed in his works in folio. The title has 3 Discourses, but two only appear. BOWLE.]

“Several sermons, as (1) Sermon at the Conse- “cration of Dr. Hen. Compton Bish. of Oxon, in “Lambeth Chap. 6 Dec. 1674; on Acts 20. 28.
“Lond. 1675. qu. (2) Sermon on the Day of the “Public Fast, 11 Apr. 1679, at S. Margaret's “Westminster before the House of Commons; on “Hos. 7. 9. Lond. 1679. qu. (3) Serm. before
“the H. of Com. at S. Marg. Westm. on Thurs- “day the 26th of Nov. 1691, being a Day of pub- “lic Thanksgiving; on Psal. 96, 10. Lond. 1691.
“qu. (4) Sermon preached before the King and “Queen at Whitehall, in Nov. 1692; on Psal. 119.
“Ver. 106. Oxon. 1692. qu.

“The present Separation self-condemn'd, and “prov'd to be Schism: as it is exemplified in a “Sermon preached upon that Subject by Mr. Will.
“Jenkyns; and is farther attested by divers others
“of his own Persuasion. All produced in Answer “to a Letter from a Friend, &c. Lond. 1678. in “17 sh. and an half in qu. The name of Will.
“Jane is not set to this book, only said to be his,
“by the said W. Jenkyn in his Celeusma, seu
“Clamor ad Theologos Hierarchiæ Anglicanæ,
“&c. wrote by way of answer to Dr. Rob. Grove “his Vindication of the conforming Clergy from
“the unjust Imputation of Heresy, &c. and to the “former piece supposed to have been written by our “author Jane, who also is vulgarly said to be au“thor of

“A Letter to a Friend, containing some Queries
“about the new Commission for making Alterations
“in the Liturgy, Canons, &c. of the Church of “England, published in Octob. 1689, in one sh. in “qu. At London the said queries are called Ox- “ford Queries, and said there to be written by Dr.
“Will. Jane.

“Joseph Jane, the father before-mention'd, was “elected burgess for Leskard to serve in that par“liament which began at Westm. 3 Nov. 1640, but “leaving it afterwards upon their violent proceed“ings against his majesty, he retired to Oxon, sate
“in the parliam. there, an. 1643, and in the year “following we find him one of the commissioners
“in Cornwall for his majesty; who bearing a great “respect towards him for his prudence and loyalty
“lodged 6 nights together in his house at Leskard,
“in Aug. 1644, and one night in Sept. following;
“at which time Rob. earl of Essex the general of “the parliament forces was defeated, his army taken
“and dispers'd, and he himself forced to fly to “Plymouth in a cock-boat for the safety of his life.
“Afterwards when the king's cause declin'd, Mr.
“Jane suffered much, compounded I think for his “estate, and wrote,

“ΕΙΚΩΝ ΑΚΛΑΣΤΟΣ, The Image unbroken. A “Perspective of the Impudence, Falshood, Vanity,
“and Prophaneness published in a Libel entit.
“ΕΙΚΟΝΟΚΛΑΣΤΗΣ against ΕΙΚΩΝ ΒΑΣΙΛΙΚΗ.
“printed 1651 in a little char. in qu.

“ WILLIAM PENN, esq; son and heir of sir
 “ Will. Penn, knt, sometime high admiral of the “ English navy before the restoration of king Ch.
 “ II. and after his restor. admiral under James duke
 “ of York against the Dutch fleet, an. 1665, by “ Margaret his wife dau. of John Jasper of Roter-“ dam in Holland merchant: which sir Will. was “ born at Mynety in Wiltsh. where his father, “ grandfather, &c. lived in a wealthy condition. As
 “ for our William, whom we are farther to men“ tion, he was born on Tower-hill near London, on “ the 14th of Octob. 1644, educated in puerile
 “ learning at Chigwell in Essex, where, at eleven “ years of age, being retired in a chamber alone, he “ was so suddenly surprized with an inward comfort
 “ and (as he thought) an external glory in the “ room, that he has many times said, that ‘ from “ that time he had the seal of divinity and immor“ tality, that there was also a God, and that the “ soul of man was capable of enjoying his divine “ communications.’ Afterwards he went to a pri“ vate school on Tower-hill, and had, besides, the “ benefit of a tutor which his father kept in his “ house. In 1660 he was entred a gent. com. of “ Ch. Ch. and in the beginning of Mich. term (in “ Octob.) he was matriculated as a member of the “ univ. and a knight’s son. After two years stay
 “ there, where he delighted much in manly sports
 “ at times of recreation, he travelled into France, “ spent there two years more, and at his return was “ entred into Lincolns-inn to obtain some know“ ledge in the municipal law, where continuing till
 “ the plague began to rage in London, an. 1665,
 “ his father employed him in a journey to the duke
 “ of Ormond’s court in Ireland; but the diversions
 “ there being not able to suppress the strong mo“ tions of his soul to a more religious and retired “ life, he went to the city of Cork, where, whether “ purposely, or by accident, I know not, hearing
 “ one Tho. Low sometimes a laick of Oxon (but “ then a most noted quaker) preach, an. 1667, he “ was so thoroughly convinced of the simplicity and “ self-denial of the way of the people called quakers,
 “ that from thenceforth he heartily espoused that “ judgment and belief. This is the reason of his “ conversion as he used to tell his friends, but if “ you’ll believe a satyrical pamphlet entit. Ulmorum “ Acherons: or, the History of Will. Penn’s Con- “ version from a Gent. to a Quaker, &c. printed at “ Lond. in one sh. in qu. 1682, you’ll find that the “ reason of his turning quaker was the loss of his “ mistress, a delicate young lady, that then lived in “ Dublin, &c. or, as others say, because he refused “ to fight a duel. Howsoever it is, sure I am, that “ since the time of his being a quaker, he hath “ passed a life with great variety of cirenstances,
 “ as well with respect to good as evil report, in con“ troversies oral and written, in several imprison“ ments, once in Ireland, once in the Tower, three “ times in Newgate in London, &c. which hath

[1051]

“ made him known and esteemed to be the pride
 “ and Coripheus of the quakers. In Sept. 1670,
 “ his father, who had done many signal services for “ the king, died at Wansted in Essex, aged 49 “ years or more, and left this his son William an “ estate of about 1500*l.* per ann. in England and “ Ireland. In 1671 our author William Penn be“ ing released from a tedious imprisonment after “ his tryal, which I shall mention anon, he tra“ velled into Germany, and there again in 1677;
 “ where several persons were affected with his way:
 “ And notwithstanding the many odd adventures of “ his life, he hath several times found favour from “ his majesty king Charles II. divers of the nobility
 “ and many men of quality and learning. Now it “ must be known that the said king having been “ indebted to our author for services done to him
 “ by his father in the sum of 10000*l.* besides the “ interest of it for several years, he did in consi“ deration thereof, grant to him the said Will. Penn, “ esq; his heirs and assigns for ever, by his let. pat.
 “ bearing date on the fourth day of March 1680,
 “ all that tract of land in America, with all islands “ thereunto belonging, that is to say, from the be“ ginning of the fortieth degree of north latitude
 “ unto the forty third degree of north latitude,
 “ whose eastern bounds from twelve English miles “ above Newcastle (alias Delaware town) runs all “ along upon the side of Delaware river, which tract “ of land his maj. at the same time caused to be “ called Pennsylvania. In Nov. 1681 he was chosen “ fellow of the royal society, to the end, I suppose,
 “ that he might give the members thereof an ac“ count of things natural and experimental in the “ said tract of land, and on the 26th of Aug. 1682
 “ he went towards Deal to set out for Pennsylvania.
 “ On the 30th of the said month about morn. he “ took shipping at Deal, being then accompaniéd “ with as many quakers as he could get together to “ live with him there, where continuing about two “ years he returned into England about the begin“ ning of Octob. 1684. Soon after king Charles “ II. dying, he was taken into the favour of his “ successor king James II. and no man had his ear
 “ more than he, preached sometimes in conventicles,
 “ and especially on a particular time in Gracious-“ street, when an indulgence was granted by the “ said king, and in several discourses he would free “ himself from being a Jesuit or popish priest, which “ was alledged against him by several ministers of “ the church of England. In June 1690, when
 “ the French fleet appeared on our shore in order
 “ to fight the English, he was upon suspicion of “ taking part with king James II. imprison’d, as “ divers others were, where continuing till the latter “ end of Nov. following was released with Joh.
 “ Gadbury. On the 13th of Apr. or thereabouts
 “ 1691, he was brought out of Sussex by a guard
 “ of horse, and on the 30th ordered to an outlawry.
 “ He hath written,

[1052]

" A Guide to the Mistaken, and Temporizing rebuked, &c. Lond. 1668. in 8 sh. in qu. 'Tis an answer to Joh. Clapham.

" The sandy Foundation shaken, &c. Lond. 1668. in 6 sh. in qu. In this book, which is written against Tho. Vincent, are several things against the doctrine of the Trinity, (which he doth daringly blasphemise) of the impossibility of God's pardoning sin without plenary satisfaction, and the justification of imputative righteousness.

" Apology for the sandy Foundation, &c. printed 1669. in 2 sh. in oct.

" Truth exalted: or, a Testimony to Rulers, Priests, and Bishops. Lond. 1669. in 3 sh. in qu. Reprinted with additions, 1671.

" No Cross, no Crown: or several sober Reasons against Hat-honour, titular Respects, You to a single Person, with the Apparel and Re-creations of the Times, in defence of the poor despised Quakers, against the Practice and Objections of their Adversaries. Lond. 1669. in 24 sh. in qu. 'Twas afterwards reprinted with this title, No Cross, no Crown. A Discourse shewing the Nature and Discipline of the holy Cross of Christ, &c. Lond. 1682. oct.

" Serious Apology for the People called Quakers, &c. printed 1669. in 36 sh. in qu. This, which was written partly by W. Penn, and partly by George Whitehead another quaker, was written against Dr. Jer. Taylor and oneTims.

" Letter of Love to the young convinced. Printed in 1 sh. in qu.

" Seasonable Caveat against Popery, &c. printed 1669. in 8 sh. in qu.

" Advice to Mr. S. Hartlib for Advancement of some Parts of Learning. This is said to be written by Will. Penn, yet in the catalogue of such books published by him, written with his own hand, I find no such thing.

" The People's antient and just Liberties asserted, in his and Will. Mead's Tryal at the Sessions held in the Old Baily in Lond. on the 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, and 5th of Sept. 1670, against the most arbitrary Procedure of that Court. printed 1670. in 8 sh. in qu. In which book the reputation of sir Sam. Starling then lord mayor of London being severely reflected upon, he the said Starling put out a book against it entit. An Answer to the seditious and scandalous Pamphlet entit. The Tryal of Will. Penn, and Will. Mead at the Sessions held, &c. in 4 Sections. Lond. 1670, 71. in 5 sh. in qu. This sir Sam. Starling had been educated in acad. learning in Cambridge, which place he being compell'd to leave for refusing the Scotch covenant about 1645, retired to Greys-inn, where having performed his exercise for barrester, was refused admission to the bar, because he utterly refused to subscribe to the engagement: so that from 1650 to his majesty's return and afterwards he was a trader in the city of London.

" Truth rescued from Imposture, &c. printed 1670. in 6 sh. in qu. 'Tis a reply to sir Sam. Starling.

" The great Case of Liberty of Conscience debated and defended. pr. 1670. in 6 sh. in qu.

" New Witnesses proved old Heretics, &c. printed 1672. in 4 sh. in qu. 'Twas written against Lodowick Muggleton.

" The Spirit of Truth vindicated, &c. printed 1672. in 10 sh. in qu. 'Tis an answer to a Socinian.

" Plain Dealing with a traducing Baptist, &c. printed 1672. in 2 sh. in qu. 'Tis an answer to one Morse.

" Winding Sheet for Controversy ended, &c. printed 1672. in 1 large sh. in qu. 'Tis a reply to the said Morse.

" Propos'd Comprehension seriously to be considered, &c. printed 1672. in 1 sh. on one side.

" In the same year one Joh. Faldo wrote a book entit. Quakerism no Christianity, &c. whereupon our author Penn came out with this book following,

" Quakerism a new Nick-Name for old Christianity, &c. printed 1672. in 18 sh. in a large oct. Afterwards Faldo came out with a reply entit. A Vindication of Quakerism no Christianity, &c. with some remarkable Passages out of the Quaker's Church Registry, printed 1673. in oct. Soon after our author Penn put out a rejoinder entit. The Invalidity of Joh. Faldo, &c. pr. 1673. in 32 sh. in a large oct. He hath also written,

" Wisdom justified of her Children, &c. printed 1673. in 12 sh. in a large oct. This is an answer to Henry Hallywell's book entit. An Account of Familism, as it is revived and propagated by the Quakers, &c.

" Reason against Railing, and Truth against Fiction, &c. in Answer to Tho. Hicks's Two Dialogues between a Christian and a Quaker, &c. printed 1673. in 16 sh. in a large oct. This was answer'd by Tho. Hicks in a pamphlet entit. The Quaker condemn'd out of his own Mouth, &c. being a third Dialogue between a Christian and a Quaker. Whereupon our author Penn came out with " The Counterfeit Christian detected, &c. in Answer to Tho. Hicks's Third Dialogue. printed 1674. in 12 sh. in a large oct.

" Brief Return to Joh. Faldo's Curb. printed 1674. in 2 sh. in oct.

" The Christian Quaker and his divine Testimony vindicated. printed 1674. in 169 sh. in fol.

" Urim and Thummim: or, Light and Righteousness vindicated. printed 1674. in 2 sh. in qu.

" Just Rebuke to one and twenty learned and reverend Divines (so called) being an Answer to an abusive Epistle against the People called

[1053]

"Quakers, subscribed by Tho. Munton, Tho. Jacob, Joh. Yates, Sam. Smith, Rich. Mayo, &c. Lond. 1674. in 4 sh. in qu. Soon after came out Joh. Faldo with a pamphlet entit. One and Twenty Divines cleared of the unjust Criminals of Will. Penn, in his pretended Just Rebuke for their Epistle to a Book entit. Quakerism no Christianity. Lond. 1675. oct. About which time came out another book called Quakerism is Paganism, &c. Lond. in oct. written by W. R. and another called The Quaker's Quibbles set forth in two Explanatory Epistles to W. Penn, and G. Whitehead, concerning the last Meeting held in Barbican between the Baptists and Quakers, &c. Lond. in oct. Our author Penn hath also written
 "Christian Liberty desired, &c. printed 1674. in 1 sh. in qu. by way of letter to the states at Emden.
 "A solemn Offer to the Baptist to vindicate Truth. printed 1674. in one sh. on one side.
 "Naked Truth needs no Shift, &c. printed 1674 on one side of a sh. 'Tis an answer to a little thing called The last Shift, &c.
 "Libels no Proofs, &c. Lond. 1674. in 1 sh. on one side.
 "A Return to Jerem. Ives, his Sober Request, &c. Lond. 1674. in one sh. on one side.
 "Treatise of Oaths: or, not Swearing vindicated, &c. Lond. 1675. in 24 sh. in qu. Soon after came out The Anti-Quaker: or, a compendious Answer to a tedious Pamphlet, entit. A Treatise of Oaths, subscribed by a Jury of 17 Quakers, whose Names are prefix'd to it, together with the Fore-man of that Jury Will. Penn, &c. Lond. in qu. written by one who calls himself Misoreus.
 "England's present Interest, with Honour to the Prince and Safety to the People, &c. Lond. 1675. in 6 sh. in qu.
 "Saul smitten to the Ground: or, Matth. Hydes's Remorse, &c. Lond. 1675. in 2 sh. in qu.
 "The continued Cry of the Oppressed: or, Friend's Sufferings presented, &c. Lond. 1675. in 5 sh. in qu.
 "Epistola Consulibus Emdeni. printed 1675. in 1 sh. in qu.
 "The Skirmisher defeated, &c. Lond. 1676. in 6 sh. in qu. 'Tis an answer to a certain author.
 "Epistle to the Churches of Jesus. printed 1677. in 2 sh. in qu. Our author Penn is also supposed to be author of a seditious pamphlet entit. A Commentary upon the present Condition of the Kingdom, and its Melioration, printed 1677. in 6 sh. in qu. but whether true I cannot tell. He hath also written,
 "A brief Answer to a Foolish Libel, &c. printed 1678, in 4 sh. in qu.
 "To the Children of Light in this Generation, &c. Lond. 1678. in 1 sh. in qu.

"Address to Protestants in this Conjunction, in two Parts. Lond. 1679. qu.
 "One Project more for the Good of England, &c. Lond. 1679. in 3 sh. in fol.
 "Brief Account of the Province of Pennsylvania, lately granted by the King under the Great Seal of England, to Will. Penn and his Heirs and Assigns. Lond. 1681. in 2 sh. in fol. There again in 1682. in 2 sh. in qu.
 "Brief Account of the Province of Pennsylvania in America, &c. This, which is different from the former, is printed in half a sh. in fol. in a little character, and set at the end of The Articles, Settlement and Offices of the Free Society of Traders in Pennsylvania, agreed upon by divers Merchants, &c. Lond. 1682. in 4 sh. in fol. which articles were drawn up and published by Nich. More, James Claypole and Philip Ford quakers. Our author Penn hath also written,
 "The Frame of the Government of the Province of Pennsylvania, together with certain Laws agreed upon in England by the Governor and divers Free-men of the aforesaid Province, &c. printed 1682. in 3 sh. in fol. [1054]
 "His Letter to the Committee of the Free-Society of Traders of the Province of Pennsylvania, residing in London, containing a general Description of the said Province, its Soil, Air, Water, &c. Lond. 1683. in 2 sh. or more in fol. The letter is dated at Philadelphia 16 Aug. 1683.
 "An Account of the City of Philadelphia in the Province of Pennsylvania, newly laid out, with a Portraiture or Plat-form thereof. This is printed at the end of the said letter. While W. Penn continued in Pennsylvania, there was a report in England that he was turned papist, and that he died in that belief; occasioned by Tho. Hicks a protestant minister; whereupon Phil. Ford before-mention'd wrote, A Vindication of Will. Penn Proprietary of Pennsylvania from the late Aspersions spread abroad on purpose to defume him. Lond. 1683. in half a sh. in fol. in double columns. Our author Penn hath also written,
 "A Defence of the Duke of Buckingham's Book of Religion and Worship from the Exceptions of a nameless Author. Lond. 1685. in 5 sh. in qu. In the title 'tis said to be written by the Pennsylvanian, and the epist. to the reader before it is subscribed by W. P. But qu. whether he was the author.
 "Good Advice to the Church of England, Rom. Catholic, and Protestant Dissenter. In which it is endeavoured to be made appear that it is their Duty, Principle and Interest to abolish the Penal Laws and Tests. Lond. 1687. qu.
 "The great and popular Objection against the Repeal of the Penal Laws and Tests briefly stated and considered, and which may serve for an Answer to several late Pamphlets upon that Subject. Lond. 1688. in 3 sh. in qu.

" Letter, wherein he frees himself from being a Papist, Priest or Jesuit. 'Tis dated from Tedington, 24 Oct. 1688, and printed in a quarto paper, in answer to another letter whereby he is charged to be either of those. He is also reported to be author of A Dialogue between two Oxford Scholars. Lond. 1690. in 2 sh. in qu. but how true it is, I cannot tell you. Qu. The following things are fathered on Will. Penn.

" The Quaker's Advice to the Presbyterians: or, their evil Practices against the new established Government, in a Letter to a Gent. of the Black Cloak. Lond. 1681. in half a sh. in fol.

" William Penn's last Farewell to England.

" Being an Epistle containing a Salutation to all faithful Friends, &c. Lond. 1682. in 1 sh. in qu.

" The Quaker's Elegy on the Death of Charles late King of England. Lond. 1685. in 1 sh. in fol.

" EDWARD POCOCK son of Dr. Edw. Pocock, canon of Ch. Ch. became student of that house in 1661, took the degrees in arts, and was benefited in his native country of Berks. prebendary of Winterborn Earles in the church of Sarum on the death of Dr. Joh. Gurgany, in the beginning of Sept. 1675. Preb. of Durnsford in the said church on the death of Edm. Slye in the latter end of Aug. 1677. He published

" Philosophus autodidactus: sive Epistola Abi Giaapher Ebn Tophail de Hai Ebn Yokdan, &c. Oxon. 1671. qu. This, which was done in Arabic and Lat. with the help of his father, was translated into English by Mr. Geo. Ashwell, as I have elsewhere told you.

[1055] " DANIEL FINCH, eldest son and heir of sir Heneage Finch of Kensington in Middles. bart. became a gent. com. of Ch. Ch. in act term, an. 1662, aged 15 years or thereabouts, left it without a degree, went to the Inner Temple—a recruiter for the parliament that began at Westm. 8 May 1661, for Ludgershall in Wilts, in the room as it seems of sir Rich. Browne, knt. and bart. parliament man for the city of Lichfield to sit in that parl. which began at Westm. 17 Oct. 1679, but did not sit, because of several prorogations, till 21 Oct. an. 1680. parl. man for Litchfield, for Oxf. parl. that began to sit 2 Mar. 1680. Earl of Nottingham on the death of his father, one of the lords commissioners of the admiralty, and privy-counsellor. Entred upon the secretary's place of state, in the room of earl of Shrewsbury resigning 7 June 1690. 5 Dec. 1693, the king after he had been in council sent sir John Trenchard second principal secretary of state, to the earl of Nott. first principal secretary of state, to tell him, that he found it necessary for his service, that he should deliver up his commission. In obedience to this order, he went to the king at Kensington and surrendered it up, and the king received it with all manner of expression of esteem for his person and satisfaction in his conduct, whilst he was exercised in that employ. So that for the present sir Joh. Trenchard was the only secretary. Under his name are printed Several Speeches in the Debates in that Parliament, that began at Westm. 17 Oct. 1679, which did not begin to sit till 21 Oct. 1680. See book entit. Parliaments.^a

" HENRY ALDRICH, son of a father of both his names of the city of Westminster gent, was born there, educated in the college school at Westminster, was entred into Ch. Ch. in act term 1662, aged 15. Soon after became student, took the degrees in arts, holy orders, and became a noted tutor in his house. On the 15th of Feb. 1681 he was installed canon of Ch. Ch. in the room of Mr. Sam. Speed deceased, took both the degrees in divinity soon after, and on the 17th of June 1689 was installed dean of the said house in the place of Mr. John Massey. He is author of " A Reply to Two Discourses (lately printed at Oxford) concerning the Adoration of our blessed Saviour in the holy Eucharist. Oxon. 1687. qu.

" A Defence of Oxford Reply to two Discourses, &c. from the Exceptions made to it in the Second Appendix to A compendious Discourse of the Eucharist. Oxon. 1688. qu. which Second Appendix was written by Obad. Walker master of Univ. coll. and the Compend. Discourse by Abr. Woodhead.

" Artis Logicæ Compendium. Oxon. 1691, in a thin large oct. in 6 sh. with Aristotle's picture in the title page. It was began to be written several years before for the sake of the most hopeful youth Frederick Christian Howard his pupil, son to Charles earl of Carlisle. This book was soon after printed again with variations and additions.

" He also published (1) Zenophontis Memorabilium Libri quatuor. Oxon. 1690. in a large oct. with an old Lat. translation annex'd, corrected. (2) ΧΕΝΟΦΩΝΤΟΣ ΛΟΓΟΣ ΕΙΣ ΑΓΗΣΙΑΔΟΝ, &c. Oxon. 1691. oct. being his new-years gift, 1690. Gr. and Lat. (3) Aristæa Historia LXXII Interpretum. Oxon. 1692. oct. To which are added Veterum Testimonia de eorum Versione, by Edw. Bernard D. D. lately Savilian professor of astronomy.—Being the new-years book 1691. (4) ΧΕΝΟΦΩΝΤΟΣ ΠΕΡΙ ΙΠΠΙΚΗΣ, &c. Accessere Veterum Testimonia de Xenophonte—Oxon. 1693. oct. Gr. and Lat. being his new-years gift 1692.

" HENEAGE FINCH, second son of sir

^a [Wood here alludes to a volume of parliamentary speeches and proceedings in his own study, endorsed Parliaments.]

" Heneage Finch (afterwards earl of Nottingham) of the Inner Temple bart. and of Kensington in Middlesex, became a gent. com. of Ch. Ch. under the tuition of Mr. Benj. Wodroff in Mich. term an. 1664. aged 15 years, departed thence without a degree, went to the Inner-Temple, of which he was afterwards barrister, and in 1678 was chosen one of the burgesses for the university of Oxon (as he was several times after) to sit in that parliament which began at Westm. on the 6th of March the same year. In 168... he was made solicitor-general in the place of sir Francis Warrington, but removed thence about 21 Apr. 1686. to make room for sir Tho. Powis. He was chosen parliament man for Guilford in Surrey for the parl. of the 10th of May 1685. He hath written [1056]

" An Antidote against Poison; composed of some Remarks upon a Paper printed by the Direction of the Lady (Rachel) Russel, and mention'd to have been delivered by the Lord Will. Russell to the Sheriffs at the Place of his Execution. Lond. 1683. in two sh. in fol. His name is not set to it, only common report when it was extant made him the author.

" Pleadings and Arguments in the Court of the King's-Bench upon the Quo Warranto, touching the Charter of the City of London, with the Judgment entred thereupon. Lond. 1690. fol. These are intermixt with the Pleadings and Arguments of Sir George Treby, Sir Rob. Sawyer, and Mr. Henry Pollexfen.

" He hath also extant several arguings, and a large summing up of the evidence against Steph. College, in a book entit. The Arraignment, Tryal and Condemnation of Steph. College for High-Treason in conspiring the Death of the King, &c. Lond. 1681. fol. Which summing up of the evidence, is in p. 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, &c. of the said book. He hath also several arguings, and a large summing up of the evidence against William lord Russell, in a book entit. The Tryals of Tho. Walcot, Will. Hone, Will. Lord Russell, Joh. Rouse, and Will. Blague, for High-Treason for conspiring the Death of the King, &c. Lond. 1683. fol. Which summing up of the evidence is in p. 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60. of that book.

" EDWARD MEREDITH, son of Edward Meredith rector of Landulp in Cornwall, was born in that county, educated in Westm. school, entred into Ch. Ch. in Act term an. 1665, aged 17 years, and soon after was made student thereof. But leaving that house before he took a degree, was taken into the service of sir Will. Godolphin, and by him made his secretary when he went ambassador to Spain, where, or else before, he with his master changed their religion for that of Rome. In the year 1682 was published

" a pamphlet, generally then reported to be by him written, bearing this title,

" Some Remarks upon a late popular Piece of Nonsense called Julian the Apostate, &c. Together with a particular Vindication of his Royal Highness the Duke of York against many impudent Calumnies, foolish Arguments, false Reasonings, and Suppositions imposed upon the Public, from several scandalous and seditious Pamphlets; especially from one more notorious, and generally virulent than the rest, entit. A Tory Plot, &c. Lond. 1682. fol. I say that this pamphlet was generally then reported to be written by E. Meredith, but whether really so, I cannot justly say it. Howsoever it is, the author of it is said to be extremely guilty of ill, scurrilous, and abusive language. He was author also of

" Remarks on a late Conference between Andr. Pulton Jesuit, and Tho. Tenison D. D. &c. Lond. 1687. 88. qu. About which time came out A true Account of a Conference about Religion at Lond. 29 Sept. 1687, between Andr. Pulton Jesuit, and Tho. Tenison D. D., Lond. 1687. qu. written by the said Dr. Tenison; In which pamphlet are many things spoken of Edw. Meredith.

" ZACHEUS ISHAM, son of Tho. Isham minister of Barby in Northamptonsh. became a com. of Ch. Ch. in Lent term 1666, aged 15 years—(afterwards student) art. bac.—art. mag. 7 Apr. 1674. bach. div. 18 Jul. 1682. chapl. to Dr. Compton bishop of London. preb. of Paul's. rector of St. Botolph's Bishop's-gate. canon of Canterbury. D. D. 1689. He hath published, The Catechism of the Church: with Proofs from the New-Testament; and some additional Questions and Answers, divided into 12 Sections, for the Use of a Parish—Lond. 1695. oct. 2d edit.

" A daily Office for the Sick: compiled out of the holy Scripture and the Liturgy of our Church. Lond. 1694. oct. with " Occasional Prayers, Meditations, and Directions.—Ded. to Hen. bishop of Lond.

" A Sermon preached at the Funeral of the Rev. John Scot D. D. late Rector of St. Giles's in the Fields, 15 Mar. An. 1694; on Philip. 3. 20, 21. Lond. 1695. qu.

[1057]

" THOMAS GREY baron of Groby, son of Tho. Grey sometime baron of Groby, and he the eldest son of Henry lord Grey earl of Stamford, was born as it seems at Wirthorp in Northamptonshire near to Stamford before-mention'd, became a nobleman of Ch. Ch. in act term an. 1667, aged 13 years, created master of arts in the year following, and in 1673 he succeeded his grand“ father in the earldom of Stamford, but afterwards “ proved no great friend either to king Charles II.

 “ or king James II. In the beginning of the reign
 “ of the last I find him engaged, or at least suspected
 “ to be engaged, in Monmouth's rebellion. Jul.
 “ 26, 1685, the earl of Stamford, with the lord
 “ Brandon, and the lord Delamere, were committed “ prisoners to the Tower of London for high-treason “ —Gazet. 1685. nu. 2054. Ib. nu. 2110, 2111.
 “ freed thence in Feb. following. Gazet. 1686. nu.
 “ 2126. his pardon passed under the great-seal in “ the beg. of April—Let. dat. 10 May 1694, This “ night Tho. earl of Stamford was admitted of the “ qu. privy-council. He was the author of

“ A Speech at the general Quarter-Sessions held “ for the County of Leicester, at Michaelmas, An.
 “ 1690. Thomas Grey baron of Groby, father to “ this earl of Stamford, was one of the judges of “ king Charles I. of blessed memory; and being “ extremely troubled with the stone, was cut for it
 “ by an unskilful chirurgion at Wirthorp in North“ amptonshire, an. 1657, of which he died: other“ wise had he lived three years longer, there is no “ doubt but that either he would have suffer'd death,
 “ or perpetual imprisonment.

“ CHARLES HICKMAN, son of Will. Hickm.
 “ of Barnack in Northamptonsh. gent. was born in “ that county, became student of Ch. Ch. in 1667, “ aged 18 years or thereabouts, took the degrees in “ arts, holy orders, was rector of St. Ebbs church
 “ in Oxon for a time, afterwards chaplain to Charles “ duke of Southampton, and in 1680 to James lord
 “ Chandois, then going ambassador to Constan“ tinople. In 1684 he became chaplain to the lord
 “ lieutenant of Ireland, proceeded in divinity in the year “ following, and after king William and queen “ Mary came to the crown, he became one of their “ chaplains in ord. and in July 1692 lecturer of St.
 “ James's church within the liberty of Westminster.
 “ He succeeded Dr. Th. Spark in the rectory or “ ministry of Hoggshorton in Leicest. He hath “ published

“ Several sermons, as (1) Serm. before Sir Rob.
 “ Clayton Lord Mayor, at Guildhall Chap. 27
 “ Jun. 1680; on 1 Kings 18. 21. Lond. 1680. qu.
 “ (2) Serm. before George Earl of Berkley Gover- “ nour, and the Company of Merchants of England
 “ trading into the Levant Seas, 25 Jan. 1680; on “ Joh. 4. 21, 22, 23. Lond. 1681. qu. The pub“ lication of this sermon (preached in St. Peter's “ ch. in Broadstreet) was partly occasion'd (the earl “ of Berkley's commands also concurring) by some “ censures past thereon by certain carping ill
 “ wishers. (3) Serm. before the House of Commons
 “ at St. Margaret's Westm. on Sunday 19 Oct.
 “ 1690, being the Thanksgiving-day for the won“ derful Preservation of his Maj. Person; on Isa.
 “ 60. 10. Lond. 1690. qu. (4) Serm. before the

“ Qu. at Whitehall on Sunday 26 Oct. 1690; on “ Psalms 4. 4. Lond. 1691. qu. (5) Serm. preached
 “ before the Qu. at Whitehall, 2 Oct. 1692; on “ Deut. 30. 15. Lond. 1693. qu. (6) Serm.
 “ preach'd before the Qu. at Whitehall, on Wed- “ nesday the 15th of March 1692; on Philip 4. 11.
 “ Lond. 1693. qu. (7) Sermon preach'd at St.
 “ Bride's Church on St. Cecilia's Day, Nov. 22.
 “ 1695. being the Anniversary Feast of the Lovers
 “ of Music on Psalms 100. 1. publish'd at the Re“ quest of the Stewards. Lond. 1696. qu.

“ HUMPHREY PRIDEAUX, third son of “ Edmund Prid. of Padstow in Cornwall, esq; was “ born there, educated in Westminster school, en-“ tred into Ch. Ch. an. 1668, aged 18 years or “ more, and soon after was admitted one of the stu“ dents of that house. In 1675 he proceeded master
 “ in arts, and afterwards taking holy orders became “ rector of Bruggeset or Bridgset alias S. Clement “ near Oxon. In the month of Aug. 1681 he was “ made prebendary of Norwich (in the place of Dr.
 “ John Sharp then made dean of the church there)
 “ by the favour of Heneage earl of Nottingham lord “ chanc. of England, to whom he was chaplain, and “ in Feb. 1682 he became rector of Bladon with
 “ the chappel of Woodstock annex'd in Oxford“ shire, on the resignation of Dr. Tho. Marshall “ dean of Gloucester. In the beginning of 1686 he “ changed Bladon and Woodstock, for the rectory
 “ of Saham-Tony in the diocese of Norwich with “ Joh. Harsent B. D. sometime fellow of New coll:
 “ and proceeding doctor in divinity the same year,
 “ he became afterwards archdeacon of Suffolk. He “ hath published

“ Marmora Oxoniensia ex Arundellianis, Sel- “ denianis, aliisque conflata, cum perpetuo Com- “ mentario. Oxon. 1676. fol.

“ Appendix ad Marm. Oxon. This, which is “ printed with the former, contains the third part “ of the book.

“ The Validity of the Orders of the Church of “ England, made out against the Objections of the “ Papists, &c. Lond. 1688. qu. This consists of “ several letters written to a gentleman of Norwich.

“ He also translated from Hebrew into Latin, a “ certain book, which he illustrated with notes, “ entit. De Jure Pauperis & Peregrini apud Ju- “ daeos. Oxon. 1679. qu. Written by R. Moses “ Maimonides.

“ CHARLES ALLESTREE, son of Will.
 “ Allestr. of the borough of Derby gent. entred into “ Ch. Ch. in the beginning of the year 1671, aged “ 17 years, and was afterwards made student. In “ 1677 he proceeded in arts, and soon after taking “ holy orders, became vicar of Cassington near “ Woodstock in Oxfordshire, and afterwards of Da“ ventry in Northamptonshire. He hath published

[1058]

“ Several sermons, as (1) Sermon at Oxon before Sir Will. Walker Mayor of the said City, 26 Jul. 1685, being the Day of Thanksgiving for the Defeat of Monmouth's Rebellion; on Judges 5. 51. Oxon. 1685. qu. (2) The Desire of all Men: Sermon preached at Daventry in Northamptonsh. 5 Mar. 1694 (being the Day of Interment of the late Queen) before the Bailiff and Burgesses of the said Corporation; on Numb. 23. 10. Lond. 1695. qu.
 “ He hath also translated from Lat. into English, The Life of Eumenes, among The Lives of illustrious Men, written by Cornelius Nepos—— “ Oxon 1684. oct. p. 167, 168, &c.

“ THOMAS HERBERT, a younger son of Philip the second earl of Pembroke and Montgomery, by Catharine his second wife, daughter of sir Will. Villers late of Brokesby in Leicestershire bt. became a nobleman of Ch. Ch. in Lent term an. 1672, aged 16 years, but took no degree, nor was any degree confer'd on him: and after the death of his brother Will. heir to his father by his first wife, and the death of his elder brother Philip, which his father had by his second wife, he became earl of Pembroke in the latter end of Aug. an. 1683, and soon after married the daughter and heir of sir Rob. Sawyer attorney-general to king Charles II. After king William III. came to the crown, he sent him ambassador extraordinary to the states-general of the United Provinces.....and after his return he was sworn one of the privy-council, Oct. 14. 1689; became president of the royal society in the room of Joh. earl of Carbury, and was succeeded by sir Rob. Southwell. About the mid. of Nov. 1691, a commission came out to make Tho. earl of Pembroke and others, commissioners of the admiralty. —V. Alm. 1691. The privy-seal delivered to Thomas earl of Pemb. March 1, an. 1691, and then Charles lord Cornwallis was appointed commissioner of the admiralty in his place——Alm. Mar. 1692.

“ WILLIAM WAKE, son of William Wake of Blandford in the county of Dorset gent. was matriculated as a member of Ch. Ch. 28 Feb. 1672, being then aged 15 years. He took the degrees of bach. of arts in Oct. 1676, of master in Jan. 1679, went into holy orders, became doctor of divinity 1689; deputy clerk of the closet, and chaplain in ordinary to their majesties king William and queen Mary, preacher to the hon. society of Grey's inn, and canon of his house in the room of Dr. Henry Aldrich promoted to the deanery 1689. He is the author of Sermons and Discourses on several Occasions, Lond. 1690, in a large oct.—publish'd about the beginning of Decemb. 1689. Sermon 1. Of the
 VOL. IV.

Qualifications required in a profitable Hearing of God's Word; on Luke 8. Ver. 8. Preached at Grey's inn 1684. Sermon 2. Of the Benefit and Practice of Consideration; on Deut. 23. 29. Preached before the princess of Denmark 26 Feb. 1687. Sermon 3. Of the Devices of Satan; on 2 Cor. 2. 11. At Whitehall 26 Apr. 1688. Sermon 4. Of Stedfastness in Religion; on 2 Pet. 3. Ver. 17, 18. Before the prince and princess of Denmark. 5 Aug. 1688. Sermon 5. Of the Reasonableness and Terrors of the future Judgment; on Acts 24. 25. Before the princess of Denmark at Whitehall 12 May 1688. Sermon 6. Of the Causes of Men's delaying their Repentance; on Acts 24. Ver. 25. Before the queen at Whitehall 27 Feb. 1689. Sermon 7. Of the Danger of Men's delaying their Repentance: on the same Subject; viz. Acts 24. Ver. 25. Before the qu. at Whitehall. Sermon 8. An Exhortation to mutual Charity and Union among Protestants; on Rom. 15. Ver. 5, 6, 7. Before the king and queen at Hampton-Court 21 May 1689. Sermon 9. Of the Nature and Benefit of a public Humiliation; on Joel 2. 12, 13. preached at St. Marg. Westm. on a fast-day, 5 June 1689. Sermon 10. Of contending earnestly for the Faith, which was once delivered to the Saints; on Jude 3. preached at Mercers chap. 8 Jan. 1687. Disc. 1. Of the Nature and End of the holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper; on 1 Cor. 11. 24. preached at St. Paul's Covent-Garden, Dec. 30. 1688. Disc. 2. Of the Honour due to the blessed Virgin; on Luke 1. Ver. 48, 49. preached on lady day 25 March 1688.

“ At the end of this book is an advertisement of books published by the rev. Dr. Wake.

“ ‘ There having been lately a little trifling Discourse concerning the blessed Sacrament published and spread abroad in the name of Dr. Wake, dedicated to the princess of Denmark; it is thought convenient here to let the world know, how great an injury has been done to him in it. —To prevent such practices for the time to come, the reader is desired to take notice, that the doctor has yet published no other books than what are here subjoyned; nor will ever hereafter set his mark, where he is not willing to write his name.’

“ Printed for Rich. Chiswell.

“ 1. An Exposition of the Doctrine of the Church of England, in the several Articles proposed by the late Bp. of London (in his Exposition of the Doctrine of the Cath. Church.) qu.

“ 2. A Defence of the Exposition, &c.

“ 3. A second Defence of the said Exposition. The first part.

“ 4. Second Defence of the Exposition of the Doctrine of the Church of England, against Monsieur de Meaux and his Vindicator. The second part: not said there when printed.

U U

" 5. A Discourse of the holy Eucharist, &c.
 " 6. Two Discourses of Purgatory and Prayers
 " for the Dead.
 " 7. A Continuation of the present State of the " Controversy.
 " 8. Preparation for Death; being a Letter sent " to a young Gentlewoman in France, in a Distem-
 " *per, of which she died—*Lond. 1688. tw. (the " 4th edition.)
 " His books printed for Will. Rogers.
 " A Discourse concerning the Nature of Idolatry;
 " in which a late Author, viz. the Bishop of Ox-
 " ford's true (Dr. Parker) and only Notion of " Idolatry is consider'd and confuted. qu.
 " The Sum of a Conference between Dr. Claggett,
 " and F. P. Gooden, about Transubstantiation—
 " Published by this author (Will. Wake) with a " picture.
 [1060] " Printed for Rich. Chiswell, and Will. Rogers.
 " Two Sermons, one before the King and Queen,
 " the other before the Houses in this present Par- " *liament—*Both reprinted in this present col" lection.
 " Other tracts by the same author.
 " 1. A Sermon preached at Paris on the 30th of " Jan. Stil. vet. 1684.
 " 2. The present State of the Controversy.
 " 3. Sure and honest Means for Conversion of all
 " Hereticks; and wholesome Advice and Expedients
 " for the Reformation of the Church. The preface
 " by this author (meaning the pref. to it by Dr.
 " Wake.)
 " 4. A Letter from several French Ministers fled
 " into Germany, upon Account of the Persecution
 " in France, to such of their Brethren in England,
 " as approved the King's Declaration touching
 " Liberty of Conscience. Translated from the ori" ginal French, by Dr. Wake.
 " He also afterward published several other ser-
 " mons, viz. (1) Sermon before the Queen at White-
 " hall, 2 Apr. 1690, being the 5th Wednesday in
 " Lent, on 1 Tim. 5. 22. Lond. 1690. qu. (2)
 " Sermon preached before the Queen at Whitehall
 " 10 May 1691; on Hebr. 4. 1. Lond. 1691. qu.
 " (3) Of our Obligation to put our Trust in God,
 " rather than in Men, and of the Advantages of it
 " —Sermon preached before the honourable Society
 " of Grey's Inn, upon Occasion of the Death of Qu.
 " Mary. Lond. 1695. qu. fourth edition. March
 " ult. or thereabouts.

" PETER BIRCH, son of Tho. Birch of the " antient and genteel family of the Birches of Birch
 " in Lancashire, was born in that county, educated
 " in presbyterian principles, and afterwards retiring
 " with Andrew his brother to Oxon, an. 1670; they " lived as sojourners in the house of John Foulks
 " an apothecary in St. Mary's parish, became stu" dents in the public library, and had a tutor to in" struct them in philosophical learning, but yet dd

 " not wear gowns. At length Peter leaving Oxon
 " for a time, did afterwards return with a mind to " conform and wear a gown. Whereupon Dr. John
 " Fell taking cognizance of the matter, he procured
 " certain letters from the chancellor of the univer" sity in his behalf; which being read in a convo-
 " cation held 6 May 1673, you shall have the con-
 " tents of them as they follow. 'Peter Birch,
 " whom these letters concern, did lately live among
 " you, not so regularly either in relation to the " church, or the government of the university, as " he ought, yet withall, as I have understood, that " before he went from among you, he declared his
 " conformity to the church, by receiving the sacra-
 " ment publicly.—Immediately after he was called " away by his father, with whom he hath with great
 " importunity prevailed to permit him to return to " the university (tho' he was pressed to go to Cam-
 " bridge where he was sometime since matriculated)
 " chusing to testify his change of mind, and receive
 " his education there, where he had formerly lived
 " a dissenter.—'Tis my desire that he may be
 " bach. of arts after he has perform'd his exercise,
 " and to compute his time from his matriculation in " Cambridge, &c. The chancellor then told the " ven. convocation in his said letters, 'That when so " many run away from the church, you would think
 " fit to encourage one who addresseth himself a free
 " and thorough convert, &c. After the said letters
 " were read, there was some clamour in the house
 " against the passing of them; and Ralph Rawson
 " of Brasen-n. coll. concerning himself more than " the rest in the matter (for he said openly, that
 " fanatics are now encouraged, and loyalists set " aside, &c.) he got the ill-will of Dr. Joh. Fell,
 " who always shew'd himself forward in gaining " proselites, Dr. R. Bathurst and others of that " mind. On the 12th day of the said month of " May 1673 Pet. Birch was matriculated, as a mem" ber of Ch. Ch. he being then about 21 years of " age, and being soon after admitted bach. of arts,
 " he was made one of the chaplains or petty-canon
 " of that house by the said Dr. Fell. Afterwards
 " he proceeded in arts, preached several times in
 " and near Oxon, was curate of St. Thomas's pa" rish, afterwards rector of St. Ebbes church for a " time, and a lecturer at Carfax, and being recom-
 " mended to the service of James duke of Ormond,
 " he was by him made one of his chaplains. After" wards he became minister of St. James's church
 " within the liberty of Westminster, doctor of div.
 " an. 1688, chaplain to the house of commons in " 1689, prebend of Westminster in the place of Dr.
 " Sim. Patrick promoted to the see of Chichester,
 " in which dignity he was installed the 18th of Oct.
 " the same year. He hath published
 " Several sermons, as (1) Serm. before the House
 " of Commons on John 26. 3. printed at the Savoy

[1061]

“ 1689. qu. (2) Serm. before the House of Commons 30 Jan. 1693; on 2 Sam. 1. 21. Lond.
 “ 1694. qu. In the 20th page of which, were several matters running thus, which caused some of the said house, as 'twas then reported, to cry out Ad ignem. ‘Are not our very blessings all turn'd into a curse? Our boasted freedom is now only a liberty to bite and devour one another: our long cried up liberty of conscience, proves one of impiety, licentiousness and error, and at best serves for a step to dominion more than devotion: our laws are indeed open, but to the continual conspiracies of false witnesses, against the lives and fortunes of the innocent; but if the fountain also is troubled, as the many attempts to clear it insinuate, if there be wickedness in high places, or it were possible to believe the reports, of patriots that prefer others safety to their own; of fathers that were never sons, of guardians that sell their trust, or the like contradictions in morality, then weep that God's anger is not yet turned away, but his hand stretched out still, and the vengeance impending,’ &c. On the 20th of Feb. following or thereabout came out an answer to the said sermon entit. A birchen Rod for Dr. Birch: or, some Animadversions upon his Sermon preached before the Hon. House of Com. at St. Margaret's West. 30 Jan. 1693, &c. printed 1694. in 4 sh. in qu. This answer, wherein are many vile things against king Ch. the martyr, was supposed then to be penn'd by the authour of A Letter from Major Gen. Ludlow to Sir E. S. (Seymour) comparing the Tyranny of the first 4 Years of K. Ch. the Martyr, &c. See more in the FASTI, the first volume, col. 488.

“ JOHN LEWKENOR, the eldest son of sir John Lewkenor of West Deane in Sussex, knt. became a gent. com. of Ch. Ch. in act or midsummer term, an. 1673, aged 15 years. He hath written “ Metallus's three Dialogues. The first containing a factious Relation of a Journey to Tunbridge Wells. The second, a curious Description of the Place, Wells, and Country round it. The third is, of Translation, with Virgil's Dido and Aeneas translated. Lond. 1694. oct.

“ LANCELOT BLACKBURNE, the son of Richard Blackburne of London, was matriculated of Ch. Ch. 20 Oct. 1676, became master of arts 28 Jan. 1683, was after chaplain to Jonathan bishop of Exeter, and published

“ The Unreasonableness of Anger.—Serm. preached before the Queen at Whitehall 29 July 1694; on Eph. 4. 31, 32. Lond. 1694. qu.

“ THOMAS ARMSTEAD, son of Mich. Armistead of Shrewsbury, clerk, was entred into Ch. Ch. in the beginning of the year 1677, aged 15

“ years, and afterwards became student, took the degrees in arts, deprived of his student's place for being married, anno 1693. He was said to be the author of,

“ A Dialogue between two Friends, wherein the Church of England is vindicated in joining with the Prince of Orange in his Descent into England—This is printed in A ninth Collection of Papers relating to the present Juncture of Affairs in England, &c. published in the beginning of March at Lond. 1688, with the date at the bottom of the title of 1689.

“ JOHN PULTENEY, a younger son of sir Will. Pulteney of the city of Westminster, educated in the coll. school there, became a commoner of Ch. Ch. about 1677, but left it without a degree. He translated from French into English, A Treatise of the Loftiness or Elegancy of Speech. Lond. 1680. in tw. written originally in Greek by Longinus, and translated thence into French by mons. J. P. This translation is dedicated by an epistle to his elder brother William Pulteney, esq; in which he saith, that his brother was for some time educated in the French court, and since that in the English court; which two courts, as he farther adds, are the two fountains from whence the purity of either language doth naturally flow. He commends Longinus for loftiness of fancy, solidness of judgment, and elegancy of speech. Dec. 23, an. 1690, Will. Pulteney, esq; made under-secretary to — viscount Sydney secretary of state then sworn. So the letters — Aug. 1692, visc. Sydney lord lieutenant of Ireland, set forward towards Ireland, sir Cyril Wych and William Pulteney attended him as secretaries. Sir William Pulteney the father, formerly one of Jam. Harrington's rota club, and afterward several times a burgess for the city of Westminster, one of the commissioners of the privy-seal in the time of king William III. and at length nominated, as 'tis said, one of the judges of the common pleas, died suddenly on Sunday in the afternoon, Sept. 6, 1691, and was buried 4 or 5 days after in St. Anne's church in the city of Westminster. He also translated from Latin into English The Epistle of Hermione to Orestes, which is in a book entit. Ovid's Epistles, translated by several Hands. Lond. 1681. oct. sec. edit.

“ THOMAS BROWNE, son of Will. Browne of Newport, a market town in Shropshire, became a servitor of Ch. Ch. under the tuition of Mr. Tho. Spark, in act or midsummer term an. 1678, aged 15 years, left that house without any degree conferred on him, retired to the great city, and at length became master of the free school at Kingston upon Thames in Surrey, and a frequent and satirical writer. He hath printed,

" The Reason of Mr. Bays changing his Religion considered, in a Dialogue between Crites, Eugenius, and Mr. Bays. Lond. 1688. qu. in 5 sh. and an half.

" Reflections on the Hind and Panther. Lond. 1689. qu. which Hind and Panth. is a poem written by Joh. Dryden, esq;

" The late Converts expos'd: or, the Reasons of Mr. Bays's (Dryden) changing his Religion, considered in a Dialogue, Part 2. Lond. 1690. qu. The first part are the Reasons of Mr. Bays.

" Reflections on the Life of St. Xavier.

" Reflec. on the Life of Sebastian King of Portugal.

" Reflec. on the Fable of the Bat and Birds.—which reflections are printed with The late Converts expos'd, &c.

" The Weesils: a satyirical Fable giving an Account of some argumental Passages hapning in the Lyon Court about Weeselin's taking the Oaths. Lond. 1691. in 3 sh. and an half in qu. This poem, which was publish'd about the beginning of Decemb. 1690, was satyrically written against Dr. W. Sherlock, who scrupling to take the oaths of allegiance and supremacy to king William III. and queen Mary for some time, did at length take them. In the beginning of Dec. following came out A Whip for the Weesil: or, a Scourge for a satyirical Fop. Lond. 1690, in one sh. in qu. written in prose in vindication of the said Dr. Sherlock. Also The Weesil Trap'd, printed about the same time in qu.

" The Moralist: or, a Satyr against Sects. Lond. 1691. qu.

" Novus Reformator vapulans: or, the Welsh Levite tossed in a Blanket. In a Dialogue between Hick— of Colchester, Da. J...nes, and the Ghost of William Prynn. Lond. 1691. in 5 sh. and an half in qu. published about the middle of Jan. 1690. By Hick— is meant Edm. Hicker-ingil, sometime fellow of Gonville and Caius coll. in Cambridge, and afterwards rector of Allsaints in Colchester: and by Da. J...nes is meant David Jones, a Welshman, lately student of Ch. Ch. and afterward a bold and forward preacher in London.

" The Lacedemonian Mercury.—This was a continuation, as 'tis said, of the London Mercury, and began to come out in half sheets of paper in fol. on Mondays and Fridays 1691.

" The Salameana Wedding: or, a true Account of a swearing Doctor's Marriage with a Muggletonian Widow in Breadstreet; in a Letter to a Gent. in the Country. Lond. 1693, in half a sh. in qu. This letter, dated 18 Aug. 1693, is a bitter and obscene thing concerning the marriage of Titus Oates with Mrs. Margaret W. for which the author was seised on in the latter end of the said month in Cheapside, and brought into trouble for the same.

" The Life of King William III. King of England, from his Birth to his Landing in England. Lond. 1693. oct. This is at the end of a translation from French into English made by our author Browne, of The Lives of all the Princes of Orange, from William the Great, Founder of the Common-wealth of the United Provinces, written by Baron Maurier, an. 1682, and published at Paris by order of the French king. He hath also a copy of English verses on the ingenious translation of Lucretius made by Tho. Creech. Also (1) A Translation into Latin of an English Song set by Dr. J. Blow. (2) The Extravagant, a poem written in 1682. (3) A Paraphrase upon the 13th Ode in Horace lib. 4. Audivere, Lyce, &c. which three things are in Miscellany Poems and Translations by Oxford Hands. Lond. 1685. oct. from p. 58 to p. 63. He hath also translated from French into English, Miscellany Essays upon Philosophy, History, Poetry, Morality, Humanity, Gallantry. Lond. 1694. oct. written by monsieur de St. Euredmont. This translation, which goes under the name of the sec. vol. of Miscellany Essays, is dedicated by the translator to Robert earl of Sunderland. In this translation are other hands besides those of Mr. Browne, viz. Mr. — Savage and Mr. Manning, both of the Inner-Temple, &c. The last of which, who is the same with Francis Manning, translated from French into English, The Life of the Emperor Theodosius the Great. Lond. 1693. oct. written by A. Flechier for the use of the Dauphin.

" LEOPOLD WILLIAM FINCH, a younger son of Heneage earl of Winchelsea, was born at Constantinople, while his father was ambassador in Turkey, became a nobleman of Ch. Ch. about the beginning of 1678, fellow of Alls. coll. after he was bach. of arts, of which (when master) he was admitted warden in January an. 1686. Afterwards he became preb. of Canterbury, bach. of div. — He wrote the dedicatory epistle to James earl of Abingdon, set before The Lives of illustrious Men, written in Lat. by Corn. Nepos, and done into English by several hands. — Oxon. 1684. oct. He translated from Lat. into English, The Life of Hannibal the Carthaginian, Son of Hamilcar. — printed among the said Lives, p. 215, 216, &c.

" WILLIAM BROMLEY, eldest son of sir Will. Bromley, knight of the Bath, was born at Baggington in Warwickshire, became a gent. commoner of Ch. Ch. under the tuition of Mr. John Old, matric. in East. term an. 1679, aged 15, admitted bach. of arts 5 July 1681, went home and married, buried his wife, travel'd, was at Rome in 1688, and heard there of the prince of Orange's invasion before it was heard of in England, chose

" knight for Warwickshire for that parliament that met at Westminster 20 March 1689. He hath written

" Remarks in the grand Tour of France and Italy. Lond. 1692. oct. publish'd in the latter end of 1691. There was another Will. Bromley, who was son of Hen. Brom. of Holt in Worcestershire, esq; and became a gent. com. of Ch. Ch. in midsum. or act term 1673, aged 17.

" FRANCIS ATTERBURY, son of Dr. Lew. Atterb. rector of Middleton Keyns in Bucks, was born in that county, elected student of Ch. Ch. from Westminster school, anno 1680, aged 17 years, took the degrees in arts, entred into holy orders, became lecturer of S. Bride's, alias S. Bridget's, in London, chaplain in ord. to their majesties king William III. and queen Mary. He was the author of [1064]

" An Answer to some Considerations on The Spirit of Martin Luther, and the Original of Reformation, lately printed at Oxon. Oxon at the theatre 1687. qu. This book, which was published on the 10th of August the same year, was soon after reflected upon by way of answer by Tho. Deane, M. A. and fellow of Univ. coll.

" Several sermons, as (1) Sermon before the Queen at Whitehall 29 May 1692; on Psal. 50. 14. Lond. 1692. qu. (2) The Scornor incapable of true Religion, Sermon before the Queen at Whitehall 28 Oct. 1694; on Prov. 14. 6. Lond. 1694. qu. He also translated from English into Latin verse, at two years standing, a poem called Absalom and Achitophel. Oxon 1682. qu. written originally by John Dryden, esq; In this translation he had the assistance of Franc. Hickman, one of the students of Ch. Ch. of one year's standing. The Lat. translation bears this title — Absalon & Achitophel. Poema Latino Carminis donatum. printed in 5 sh. in qu.

" GEORGE CHOLMONDELEY, a younger son of Robert Cholm. visc. of Kellis in Ireland, descended from an antient family of his name, living at Cholmondeley in Cheshire, became a nobleman of Ch. Ch. in 1680. He hath written " Verses and a Pastoral spoken before the Duke and Dutchess of York, and Lady Anne, in Oxford Theater 21 May 1683. — These are printed in a book entit. Examen Poeticum. The third Part of Miscellany Poems, &c. Lond. 1693. oct. p. 181, 182, 183, 184, &c. published by John Dryden, esq; The elder brother of this George Cholmondeley, named Hugh, was created baron of Nantwich in Cheshire, by king William III. in April 1689, his father Robert viscount of Kellis being then dead.

" FRANCIS HICKMAN, son of sir William Hickman of Gainsburgh in Lincolnshire, bart.

" became a student of Ch. Ch. from Westminster school in Mich. term, an. 1681, aged 18 years, took the degrees in arts. He afterwards became a nonjuror, yet kept his student's place, because not mentioned in the late act. He had a hand in translating into Latin verse an English poem entit. Absalon & Achitophel — Lond. 1682. in 5 sh. in qu. The other hand was that of Franc. Atterbury.

" DAVID JONES, son of Matth. Jones of Caer-valloeh in Flintshire, was born in that county, educated in Westminster school, elected thence one of the students of Ch. Ch. an. 1681, aged 18 years, took one degree in arts, holy orders, retired to the great city, became a forward and frequent preacher and a lecturer there. But all things going not current with his mind, return'd to his college in Michaelmas term an. 1693, and in the next year proceeded in arts. He hath printed

" Several sermons, as (1) Sermon preached at Ch. Ch. in Lond. 2 Nov. 1690; on 1 Tim. 6. 17. Lond. 1690. qu. (2) Farewel Sermon preached to the united Parishes of S. Mary Woolnoth and S. Mary Wooll Church Haw in Lombardstreet, on [Gal. 4. 16.] Lond. 1691, 92. qu. Answered in A Discourse upon Usury: or, lending Money for Increase, &c. Lond. 1692. qu. (3) Serm. of the absolute Necessity of Family Duties, and the fatal Consequences of neglecting them, preached in Lombardstreet, on — Lond. 1691, 92. qu.

" WILLIAM KING, son of Ezech. King of Lond. gent. was elected student of Ch. Ch. from Westminster school in Mich. term an. 1681, aged 18 years, took the degrees in arts, entred on the law line, took the degrees therein, and became secretary to Anne princess of Denmark in January 1694. He hath publish'd

" Reflections on Mr. Varillas his History of Heresy, Book 1. Tom. 1. as far as relates to English Matters; more especially those of Wickliff. — printed in 1688. in 6 sh. in oct. Edward Hannes, another young student, had a hand in this book.

" Animadversions on a pretended Account of Denmark. Lond. 1694. oct. The preface to it is written by the auth. to Mr. Mouldsworth of Dublin, author of the Account of Denm. and, with the Animadversions, publish'd in the beginning of Aug. the same year. The title of the said Account of Denmark (which was printed three times before the said Animadversions were published) runs mostly thus, An Account of Denmark as it was in the Year 1692, more particularly of the Form of Government, how it came hereditary and absolute; the Condition, Customs, and Temper of the People, &c. Lond. 1692. oct. He hath translated from French into English, (1) New Memoirs and Characters of the two great Brothers, the Duke of Bovillon and Mareschal

[1065]

"Turenne. Lond. 1693. oct. written by Jam. de Langlade, baron of Saumieres. (2) The Life of Marc. Aurel. Antoninus the Roman Emperor, together with some select Remarks upon the said Antoninus his Meditations concerning himself, treating of a natural Man's Happiness, &c. as also upon the Life of Antoninus. Lond. 1692. oct. which life and remarks were written by monsieur and madam Dacier.

"WILLIAM SAVILE, second son of George, earl (afterwards marquiss) of Halifax, was born at Rufford in Nottinghamshire, became a nobleman of Ch. Ch. in Mich. term 1681, aged 16 years. He is author of

"Verses and a Pastoral, spoken before the Duke and Dutchess of York, and the Lady Anne, in Oxford Theater 21 May 1683.—These are printed in a book entit. Examen Poeticum. The third Part of Miscellany Poems, &c. Lond. 1693. oct. p. 181, 182, 183, 184, &c. published by John Dryden, esq;

"GEORGE SMALRIDGE, son of Thomas Smalridge, gent. was born in the city of Lichfield, elected from Westminster school student of Ch. Ch. an. 1682, took the degrees in arts, holy orders, made preb. of Lichfield an. 1693. He hath written

"Animadversions on the Eight Theses laid down, and the Inferences deduced from them, in a Discourse entit. Church Government, Part V. lately printed at Oxon. Oxon 1687. qu. Which book, called Church Government, was published the same year by Mr. Ob. Walker, having been written many years before by Mr. Abr. Woodhead.

"Auctio Davisiana Oxonii habita, per Gul. Cooper & Edward Millington Bibliopol. Lond. Lond. 1689 in 3 sh. in qu. This excellent Latin poem was written on the sale of the books of Rich. Davis, an ancient bookseller of Oxon, which were exposed to sale by way of auction in a large stone fabric, opposite to St. Michael's church in Oxon, near the north gate of the city, commonly called Bocardo.

"EDWARD HANNES, son of Edw. Hannes of the Devises in Wilts, gent. was elected student of Ch. Ch. from Westminster school in Mich. term, anno 1682, took the degrees in arts; entred on the physic line, practised, and became very forward in that faculty. In the beginning of the year 1690 he became public professor of chymistry in the univ. of Oxon, in the room of Dr. Plot resigning. He hath written

"Reflections on Mr. Varillas his History of Heresy, Book 1. Tom. 1. as far as relates to English Matters; more especially those of Wickliff.—printed in 1688 in 6 sh. in oct. Will. King, another young student of Ch. Ch. had a hand in it.

"Poemata Latina.—These are dispers'd in several books, especially in that entit. Musarum Anglicarum Analecta, &c. printed at the theater in Oxon 1690. in oct.

"LUKE BEAULIEU, or BOLIEU, was born in France, educated in his juvenile years in the university of Saumur, came into England upon account of religion about the year 1667, exercised his function there, was naturaliz'd, made divinity-reader in the chapel of St. George at Windsor, was a student in this university for the sake of the public library, an. 1680. and after became chaplain to sir George Jeffries while he was lord chief-justice of England, and afterwards while lord chancellor, bach. of div. in the beginning of July 1685, being then a member of Ch. Ch. and in October the same year became rector of Whitchurch near Henley upon Thames in Oxfordshire, in the place of Mr. Edm. Major deceased. Afterwards became prebendary of Gloucester. This person, who hath by his published writings usefully asserted the rights of his majesty king Charles II. and the church of England, hath writ several things, as well in French as English (chiefly against popery) among which are these, The infernal Observer: or, the Quickning Dead. This, which was written dialogue-ways, was translated from French into English. Lond. 1684. oct.

"Take heed of both Extrems: or, plain and useful Cautions against Popery and Presbytery, &c. Lond. 1675. oct. written by way of dialogue, in two parts.

"Discourse, shewing that Protestants are on the safer Side, notwithstanding the uncharitable Judgment of their Adversaries; and that their Religion is the surest Way to Heaven. Lond. 1689. qu.

"Several sermons, as (1) The Terms of Peace and Reconciliation betwixt all divided Parties, Sermon preached at the Assizes held for the County of Bucks at the Town of Wicomb, on the first of Jul. 1684. on Rom. 12. 18. Lond. 1684. qu. (2) Serm. before the L. Mayor and the Court of Aldermen at Guildhall, 27 Dec. 1685. on ——— Lond. 1686. qu.

"EDWARD WELLS, son of Edw. Wells of Corsham in Wilts, clerk, became student of Ch. Ch. from Westminster school in Mich. term an. 1686, aged 19 years or thereabouts, took the degrees in arts. He hath published, A Geographical Table containing the principal Countries, Kingdoms, Provinces, Islands, Cities, Towns, Rivers, &c. of the now known World; &c. Oxon. 1690. dedicated to sir Jam. Long of Draycot in Wilts, knight and baronet. This Geographical Table was also printed by it self in Latin

" at Oxon 1690, and by the author dedicated to " Rich. Hill bach. of div. and canon of Salisbury.

" CHARLES BOYLE, a younger son of Roger " earl of Orrery in Ireland, and he the son of an" other Roger the famous poet, was born at Chelsea
" in Middlesex, became a nobleman of Ch. Ch. in " act or midsummer term 1690, aged 15 years,
" took the degrees in arts. He translated from
" Greek into Lat. Phalaridis Agrigentinorum Ty-
" ranni Epistole. Before which he put, of his own " writing, the life of the said Phalaris in Latin, and " at the end Lat. notes on the said epistles: all " printed at Oxon. 1695. oct. It was printed by " the dean of Ch. Ch. and by him given as a new " years gift to his scholars an. 1694.

WRITERS OF TRINITY COLLEGE.

" WILLIAM SMITH, son of Rob. Smith of " Buckingham, son of Will. Smith, doctor of the " civil law as 'tis said, and commissary of Bucking-
" hamshire and Bedfordshire, was born in Buck-
" inghamshire, became a gent. com. of Trin. coll. in " Lent term 1634, aged 18 years, left it without
" the ceremony of a degree, went to the Mid.
" Temple, of which he was afterwards a barrester,
" elected a Burgess for Winchelsea to sit in that
" unhappy parliament that began at Westm. 3 Nov.
" 1640, was for a time against the prerogative, but " when he saw what destructive courses the mem" bers thereof took, he deserted it, went to the king
" at Oxon, was created doctor of the civil law in
" 1642, and sate in the parl. that was in the year
" following summoned by his majesty to sit there.
" About that time being a colonel he became go" vernor of Chepstow-castle in Monmouthshire, and " suffered upon the declining of the king's cause, as " other royalists did. After the restoration of king
" Charles II. he was elected Burgess for the town
" of Buckingham to sit in that parliament which " began at Westminster 8 May 1661, and on the " 10th of the same month was created a baronet by " the name of William Smith of Redcliff in Buck-
" inghamshire, esq; was made a justice of the peace
" for Middlesex, where he has an estate, and I " think is deputy lieutenant for Buckinghamshire.
" He hath published,

" Several speeches, as (1) Speech in the High
" Court of Parliam. concerning the regulating of
" the King's Majesty's Prerogative, and the Liber-
" ties of the Subject, &c. Lond. 1641. in 1 sh. in
" qu. (2) Speech in Parl. 28 Octob. 1641. against
" the late Times and Prerog. the beginning of " which is, ' Mr. Speaker, the last time we assem-
" bled, we sate like a coll. of physicians,' &c. (3)
" Speech to the Grand Jury concerning the putting
" the Laws in Execution against Popish Recusants
" and Conventicles. Lond. 1682. in 1 sh. and an

" half in fol. &c. with which is printed, A Discourse
" upon the Statute of the 3d of Hen. VIII. con- " cerning the Power of the Justices of Peace to im-
" panel Juries. In answer to the said Speech and
" Discourse came out a villanous pamphlet entit.
" The second Part of the Ignoramus Justices: or,
" an Answer to the scandalous Speech of Sir W. S.
" Baronet, spoken to the Grand Jury at the Ses- " sions of Peace held for the County of Middlesex
" at Hicks's-Hall on Monday 24 Apr. 1682. &c.
" Lond. 1682. in 5 sh. in qu. In which answer 'tis
" said that sir William had been a colonel in the late
" times against the king, &c. that he promoted ad" dresses to be given to Rich. Cromwell, that he " dealt unfaithfully in the trust put upon him as " agent or steward to the lady Cleveland or Went" worth, &c. His father Robert Smith was a great " sufferer for his loyalty, while he lived at Buck-
" ingham 1643 and 44. He lives sometimes at " Redcliff in Bucks, and sometimes at Stepney near
" Lond.

" NICHOLAS STRATFORD was born at
" Hempstead in Hertfordshire, admitted scholar of " Trin. coll. on the 17th of June 1652, aged 17
" years, fellow and master of arts in 1657. At " length taking holy orders, he became a noted
" preacher, and matching into the kindred of Dr.
" Dolben, bishop of Rochester, became by his en-
" deavours warden of the coll. in Manchester in " Lincolnshire, on the death of Mr. Rich. Heyrick,
" an. 1667, prebendary of Leicester S. Marg. in " the church of Lincoln in Apr. 1670, dean of S.
" Asaph upon the promotion of Dr. Humph. Lloyd
" to the see of Bangor an. 1673, in which year he " proceeded in divinity, and was made chapl. in " ord. to his majesty. In 1683 he became rector of " S. Mary Aldermanbury in London, in the place,
" as I conceive, of Dr. Benj. Calamy, son of Edm.
" the presbyterian, and in the beginning of 1684 he " resigned the wardenship of Manchester to Rich.
" Wroe B. D. of Jesus coll. in Cambridge, some" time chaplain to Dr. Joh. Pearson bish. of Ches" ter, who, as it seems, gave him a prebendship in " that church. On the 15th of Sept. 1689 he was " consecrated bishop of Chester, in the bishop of " London's chap. at Fulham, in the place of Dr.
" Tho. Cartwright, deceased. He hath published
" Several sermons, as (1) Sermon preached at
" the Assizes held at Chester 20 Sept. 1681; on
" Acts 24. Ver.—Lond. 1681. qu. dedicated to
" Joh. Pearson bishop of Chester, whose desire it " was that the said sermon should be sent to the " press. (2) Serm. before the King at Whitehall
" on Christmas-day 1682; on Rom. 8. 3. Lond.
" 1683. qu. (3) Of the Reverence due to God in " the public Worship, preached before the King and
" Queen at Whitehall 25 Mar. 1694; on Eccles.
" 5. 1. former Part. Lond. 1694. qu.

" A Dissuasive from Revenge: in a Discourse

"upon these Words, Repompence to no Man Evil
"for Evil, Rom. 12. 17. Lond. 1684. oct.

"Discourse concerning the Necessity of Reforma-
"tion, with respect to the Errors and Corruptions
"of the Church of Rome. The first part. Lond.
"1685. in 7 sheets and an half in qu. The second "part came out soon after by the same hand; but "whether a third, I know not.

"Discourse of the Pope's Supremacy, Part 1. in "Answer to a Treatise entit. S. Peter's Supremacy
"faithfully disscussed, according to the holy Scrip-
"tures and Greck and Latin Fathers, and to A Ser"mon of S. Peter preached before the Qu. Dowager
"on St. Peter and S. Paul's Day, by Tho. Godden,
"D. D. Lond. 1688. qu.

"The People's Right to read the holy Scripture
"asserted; in Answer to the sixth, seventh, eighth,
"ninth and tenth Chapters of the second Part of "The Popish Representer. Lond. 1688, 89. qu.

"The Lay-Christian's Obligation to read the "holy Scripture. Lond. 1688, 89. qu.

[1068]

"Examination of Bellarmine's fourteenth Note
"concerning the unhappy End of the Church's "Enemies.

"Charge to his Clergy at his Primary Visitation
"of the Dioc. of Chester. Lond. 1692. qu.

"DANIEL WHITBY, a minister's son, was "born at Rusden or Rushden in Northamptonshire,
"became a commoner of Trin. coll. in 1653, elected
"scholar of that house on the 13th of June 1655,
"aged 17 years, and nine years after that (he being
"then master of arts of 4 years standing) perpetual
"fellow. Afterwards he was made chaplain to Seth
"bishop of Salisbury, prebendary of Yatesbury in
"the cath. ch. there, in Octob. 1668, and in the "latter end of Nov. following, preb. of Husborn
"and Burbach in the same church. In the begin"ning of Sept. 1672 he was admitted chantor of "the said church, on the death of Mr. Joh. South,
"and in few days after he took both the degrees
"in divinity, being then or soon after rector of S.
"Edmund's church in Salisbury. He is a person
"very well read in the fathers, and in polemical
"divinity, especially as to the main part thereof
"which is directed against papists. He hath been
"all along so wholly devoted to his severer studies,
"that he hath scarce ever allowed himself leisure
"to mind any of those mean and trifling worldly
"concerns which administer matter of gain, plea"sure, reach and cunning. Also he hath not been "in the least tainted with those too much now-a-
"days practised arts of fraud, cousenage, and deceit.
"He hath published,

"Romish Doctrines not from the Beginning:
"or, a Reply to what S. C. (Serenus Cressy) a
"Rom. Catholic hath returned to Dr. Pierce's Ser"mon, preached before his Majesty at Whitehall 1
"Feb. 1662, &c. Lond. 1664. qu. This answer is "chiefly a collection out of the writings of many

"eminent champions of the protestant cause, who "had before abundantly satisfied all the reasons
"and citations alledged by Mr. Cressy.

"An Answer to Sure Footing, so far as Mr.
"Whitby is concern'd in it. Wherein the Rule and "Guide of Faith, the Interest of Reason, and the "Authority of the Church in Matters of Faith, are "fully handled and vindicated from the Exceptions
"of Mr. Sargeant, and petty Flirts of Fiat Lux.
"Oxon. 1666. oct.

"Answer to five Questions propounded by a Rom.
"Catholic; printed with An Answer to Sure Foot"ing. This Sure Footing in Christianity: or,
"Rational Discourse on the Rule of Faith, with "four appendices containing (1) Short Animadver-
"sions on Dr. Tho. Pierce's Sermon, (wherein the "author saith that Pierce was doubly overthrown
"by two learned persons, Cressy, and another whom
"I know not). (2) Animadversions on Mr. Whit-
"by's Romish Doctrines, &c. (3) Answer to Dr.
"Stillingsfleet's Book entit. A Rational Account of "the Grounds of Protestant Religion, &c. written
"in Defence of Archb. Laud his Relation of a Con"ference with Fisher the Jesuit, against the Author
"of Labyrinthus Cantuariensis. (4) Answer to "Dr. Jer. Taylor's Book entit. A Dissuasive from "Popery, were all written by Joh. Sargeant alias
"Smith, (printed at Lond 1664, 65. in oct.) who
"after he had perfected his studies in the English
"coll. at Lisbon in Portugal, as I have told you in
"Dr. H. Hammond in this volume, he was sent "into England on the mission, became one of the "champions for the cause there, wrote against Ham-
"mond, and Bramhall bishop of Derry in a book
"entit. Schism disarmed of the defensive Weapons
"lent it by Dr. Hammond and the Bishop of "Derry, &c. printed 1653 in a little oct. and at "Par. 1655. oct. at the end of which is Down
"Derry, or Bishop Bramhall's just Vindication of "the Church of England refuted; which book
"being replied to by them, came out another entit.
"Schism dispatcht: or, a Rejoynder to the Replies
"of Dr. Hammond and the Lord Derry, printed
"1657. oct. This last book was, as I have been "informed, wrote by one Martin Green or Grine,
"an Irish man born of English parents, afterwards
"rector of the coll. of Jesuits at Watton near S.
"Omers; but recurring to Nath. Sotvellus (South-
"well an English man) his continuation of Ale-
"gambe and Ribadencira's Bib. Script. Soc. Jesu,
"I find it not set down under his name: so that "making recourse to a certain Rom. cath. that "knew Sargeant well, he told me that Thom.
"Anglus ex Albiis (White) wrote it, and Sargeant
"had the name of it; sed quære, for 'tis among the "titles of such books that Mr. Sargeant wrote,
"which he himself sent me in a letter dated 29 Nov.
"1687. The said author also hearing that some "body was about to answer Sure Footing, wrote a "letter to him entit. A Letter of Thanks from the [1069]

“ Author of Sure Footing, to his Answerer J. T.
 “ (Jo. Tillotson) printed 1666. in a large oct. He “ hath also written (1) Faith vindicated from a “ Possibility of Falshood, against some part of a “ sermon of Mr. Tillotson’s, on Job 28. ver. 28.
 “ printed 1667. in a large oct. (2) The Method
 “ to arrive at Satisfaction in Religion, &c. printed “ 1671. in 3 sh. and an half in oct. (3) Reason
 “ against Raillery: or, a full Answer to Dr. Til- “ lotson’s Preface before his first Vol. of Sermons, “ printed 1672. oct. This preface vindicates the “ said sermons against Jo. Sargeant. (4) Error
 “ Non-plust: or, Dr. Stillingfleet shewn to be a “ Man of no Principles. With an Essay how Dis- “ courses concerning Catholic Grounds bear the “ highest Evidence. Printed 1673. oct. (5) A “ Method of Controversy, &c. This was turned “ into Latin, with a large preface to it, printed at “ Paris 1679. oct. and approved by the Sorbon.
 “ (6) Clypeus septemplex, &c. printed 1677. oct.
 “ (7) Vindiciæ contra Pet. Talbot, pr. 1678. oct.
 “ Both these Lat. treatises were written to explain
 “ and defend the author’s doctrine, which was ac“ cused of not being sound to the archb. of Paris
 “ and the Roman inquisition; before both which he “ came off with honour. (8) Of Devotion, &c. pr.
 “ 1680. oct. (9) A Letter to the D. of P. (Dr.
 “ Stillingfleet dean of Paul’s) in Answer to the ar- “ guing Part of his first Letter to Mr. G. (Tho.
 “ Godden or Gooden) pr. 1687. qu. This was an“ swered in A Letter to a Friend, &c. by Clem.
 “ Ellis. (10) A second Cath. Letter against the “ Reflections of Dr. Stillingfleet’s Defender, &c.
 “ pr. 1687. qu. This was answered in a pamphlet “ entit. The Reflector’s Defence, &c. in 4 dialogues, “ by the said Mr. Ellis. (11) A third Cath. Letter,
 “ in Answer to the arguing Part of Dr. Stilling- “ fleet’s second Letter, &c. pr. 1687. qu. About “ which time, or soon after, came out A Discourse
 “ concerning the Nature and Grounds of the Cer- “ tainty of Faith, in Answer to Jo. Sargeant’s
 “ Catholic Letters, written by Dr. Stillingfleet. (12) “ Answer to Dr. Stillingfleet’s Sermon preached at “ Guikhall Chap. 27 Nov. 1687. cutit. Scripture
 “ and Tradition compared. This was going to the “ press in the latter end of January the same year,
 “ and I think it was printed in qu. but I have not “ yet seen it. He also wrote a Lat. book entit.
 “ Statera appensa, &c. against an opinion of Thom.
 “ de Albiis, but this also, which was printed in a “ little oct. I have not yet seen. Upon the break“ ing out of the popish plot, Mr. Sargeant, by his “ majesty’s command, came from Holland into Eng“ land, to discover what he knew relating to that “ plot, and therefore in the beginning of Nov. 1679
 “ his majesty was graciously pleased to grant his “ pardon to him; whereupon he drew up a writing “ on the 11th of Feb. following, entitling it, The “ Information of Joh. Sargeant relating to the “ Popish Plot, which being reported to the house
 Vol. IV.

“ of commons on Saturday 26 of March 1681, ’twas “ ordered by them (together with the information
 “ of David Maurice) to be printed, and accordingly
 “ both of them were printed together in 2 sh. in “ fol. I have been informed that this Mr. Sar“ geant alias Smith hath divers other things lying “ now (1693) by him in manuscript, which he in“ tends to publish, being matters, as I conceive, of “ controversy. But all this I speak by the by. Now “ let’s proceed to the titles of the rest of the works “ written by our author Dr. D. Whitby, which are “ these,

“ An Endeavour to evince the Certainty of Chris- “ tian Faith in general, and of the Resurrection of “ Christ in particular. Oxon. 1671. oct.

“ A Discourse concerning the Idolatry of the “ Church of Rome, wherein that Charge is justified,
 “ and the pretended Refutation of Dr. Stillingfleet’s “ Discourse is answered. Lond. 1674. oct. This “ Discourse was wrote in defence of Dr. Stilling“ fleet’s book entit. A Discourse of the Idolatry
 “ practised in the Church of Rome, &c. against Dr.
 “ Tho. Godden’s answer thereunto, called Catho-
 “ licks no Idolaters, &c. Lond. 1671, 72. oct. Af“ terwards Dr. Stillingfleet also, who was the only “ person concern’d, answer’d this piece of Dr. God“ den in a book entit. A Defence of the Discourse,
 “ &c. against a Book called Catholicks no Idolaters,
 “ in two Parts. Lond. 1676. oct. respiting the other “ part in answer to the remainder of Dr. Th. God“ den his book to a farther opportunity; which the “ doctor saith he might the better do, because it “ had already received a sufficient answer from a “ learned and worthy person, meaning our author
 “ Dr. Whitby. We may here take notice that Dr.
 “ Tho. Godden before-mention’d, (who, as Dr. Stil“ lingfleet⁹ saith, was the most considerable adver“ sary that had appeared against him,) was born,
 “ as I have been inform’d, in London, of the same “ family with sir Adam Browne of Surrey (his right “ surname being Browne) bred in S. John’s coll. in “ Cambridge, where he was bach. of arts, but leaving
 “ the English church, he went to Lisbon in Por“ tugal, where spending some time in the English “ coll. was sent on the mission into England, became “ one of the chaplains to queen Katharine the royal “ consort of king Charles II. and lived in Somerset-“ house till the popish plot broke out. By letters “ dated 4 Dec. 1688, the nation being then in a “ hurry upon the coming to London of the prince “ of Orange to take possession of the throne, and the “ papists shifting for themselves, I was informed “ that Dr. Th. Godden the famous Roman catholic “ writer was buried on the first day of the said
 “ month, being then Saturday, but where, the said
 “ letters told me not. He died in or near Somerset-
 “ house in the Strand within the city of Westm.
 “ and therefore I suppose he was buried in the [1070]

⁹ “ In the pref. to the Defence of his Discourse, &c.”

" vault under the chappel belonging to the said house. Dr. Whitby hath also written,

" The Absurdity and Idolatry of Host-worship proved, by shewing how it answers what is said in Scripture and the Writings of the Fathers, to shew the Folly and Idolatry committed in the Worship of the Heathen Deities. Lond. 1679. oct.

" An Appendix against Transubstantiation, with some Reflections on a Book called, The Guide in Controversies, by R. H. (Ab. Woodhead) in a Sermon on Joh. 7. 47, 48, 49. Lond. 1679. oct. " The said book called The Absurdity, &c. with its Append. against Transub. together with the former book in defence of Dr. Stillingfleet, do evince the truth of those doctrines contained in the two great tests, one made in the 25th year against transubstantiation, and the other in the 30th year of king Charles II. which last requireth the renouncing of the several Roman catholic tenets refuted in these two books: and the performance of our author therein doth moreover justify the reasonableness and equity of imposing the said tests, as Dr. Whitby in his Appendix replies to what R. H. (author of those six parts in qu. which came out under the title of The Guide in Controversies) hath offer'd in his Rational Account, disc. 1. cap. &c. for transubstantiation. So he saith, that he hath likewise in the close of it laid the foundations of a sufficient answer both to that author's Rational Account, and his Discourse against Dr. Stillingfleet: to both which pieces he promises hereafter a more direct and fuller answer. The said sermon contained in this appendix was intended by the author to have been preached before the clergy, and was penned in confutation of R. H. the author of The Guide in Controversies, shewing that the most plausible arguments produced in his Rational Account against protestants, do more effectually conclude for Judaism against Christianity.

" The Protestant Reconciler, humbly pleading for Condescention to dissenting Brethren, in Things indifferent and unnecessary, for the Sake of Peace. And shewing how unreasonable it is to make such Things the necessary Condition to Communion. Lond. 1683. in a large oct. This book, to which his name is not put, was published in the latter end of 1682, and giving great offence to the orthodox clergy and others, it was answer'd (1) By Laur. Womack, D. D. in his Suffragium Protestantium: Wherein our Governours are justified in their Impositions and Proceedings against Dissenters, Meisner also, and the Verdict rescued from the Cavils and Seditious Sophistry of The Prot. Reconciler. Lond. 1683. oct. (2) By Dav. Jenner, B. D. sometime of Caius coll. in Cambridge, afterwards rector of Great Warley in Essex, preb. of Sarum, and chaplain to his majesty, in his—Bifrons: or, a new Discovery of Treason under the fair Face and Mask of Religion, and of Liberty of Conscience, &c. Lond. 1683, 84. qu. In which book in general, and in the title thereof, he saith that the author of the Protestant Reconciler designs nothing but to prove anarchy and confusion in church and state: that the author is guilty of treason, an encourager of the new plot, (that is, the presbyterian plot which broke out in June 1683) a giver out unto the people that the king and governors were and are the betrayers of their liberties, and therefore deserves death, &c. (3) By the author of An awakening Word to the Grand-Jury Men of the Nation. Lond. 1683, 84. qu. To which is added, A brief Comparison between Dan. Whitby and Titus Oates: the first protected in his Virulence to sacred Majesty, by one or two of his Fautors: the second punished for his Abuses of the King's only Brother, by the Loyal Chief Justice Jefferies. The first saved harmless in many Pre-ferments (three of which are in one Church of Sarum): the second fined in Mercy no more than 100000 Pounds. In the said pamphlet, which is a very virulent thing, the author saith, that after Dr. Whitby had published The Protestant Reconciler, the people did nick-name him Whigby, that also he was suspended, and at length made a pretended recantation, which cost him nothing but the pleasure of outwitting his governors, by a part acted in a comical way. About the same time was published a pamphlet entit. Three Letters of Thanks to The Protestant Reconciler, 1. From the Anabaptists at Munster. 2. From the Congregations in New-England. 3. From the Quakers in Pensylvania. But this was not all, for so it is, that in the said book called The Protestant Reconciler, there being a damnable doctrine, 'that the duty of not offending a weak brother is inconsistent with all humane authority of making laws concerning indifferent things,' it was therefore condemned by the university of Oxford in their convocation held 21 July 1683, and the book wherein it is was forthwith burnt by the hands of the university marshall in the schools quadrangle. See more in Sam. Thomas. Dr. Whitby hath also written

" The Protestant Reconciler. Part 2. earnestly persuading the dissenting Laity to join in full Communion with the Church of England, and answering all the Objections of the Non-conformists against the Lawfulness of the Submission unto the Rites and Constitutions of that Church. Lond. 1683. oct. written in answer to the first part, to stop the clamours of people against him.

" Ethices Compendium in Usus Academicæ Juventutis. Oxon. 1684. oct. ded. to the president, fellows, and scholars of Trin. coll. in Oxon.

" Treatise in Confutation of the Latin Service practised by the Order of the Trent Council con- "tinued in the Church of Rome. Lond. 1687. in 16 sh. in qu.

"The Fallibility of the Romish Church, demonstrated from the manifest Error of the second Nicene and Trent Councils, which assert that the Veneration and honorary Worship of Images, is a Tradition Primitive and Apostolical. Lond. 1687. in 11 sh. in qu. There is no name set to this book, only common report makes Dr. Whitby the author.

"A Demonstration that the Church of Rome and her Councils have erred; by shewing that the Councils of Constance, Basil and Trent, have in all their Decrees touching Communion in one Kind, contradicted the received Doctrine of the Ch. of Christ.

"Treatise of Traditions, Part I. where it is proved that we have Evidence sufficient from Tradition, 1. That the Scriptures are the Word of God. 2. That the Church of England owns the true Canon of the Books of the Old Test. 3. That the Copies of the Scripture have not been corrupted, &c. Lond. 1688. qu.

"Considerations humbly offer'd for taking the Oath of Allegiance to King William and Queen Mary. Lond. 1689. qu.

"Treatise of Tradition, Part II. shewing the Novelty of the pretended Traditions of the Church of Rome, as being 1. Not mention'd by the Ancients of their Discourses of Traditions Apostolical, only so called or so esteemed by them. Nor 2. in their avowed Rule or Symbol of Faith, &c. with an Answer to the Arguments of Mr. Mumford for Traditions, &c. Lond. 1689. qu.

"Discourse concerning the Truth and Certainty of the Christian Faith, from the extraordinary Gifts and Operations of the Holy Ghost, vouchsafed to the Apostles and Primitive Professors of that Faith. Lond. 1691. qu.

"Several sermons, as (1) Sermon on Matth. 6. 9. (2) Sermon preached at the Cath. Ch. of Sarum 1680, on 2 Tim. 3. 5. Lond. 1685. qu. (3) Serm. before the Militia of the County of Wilts, at their Marching against the Duke of Monmouth; on Tit. 3. 1. Lond. 1685. qu. (4) Sermon preached at the Election of the Mayor of Salisb. on Rom. 13. 1. Ibid. 1685. qu.

"Tractatus de vera Christi Deitate adversus Arii & Socini Hæreses. Lond. 1691. qu. dedicated to Dr. Ralph Bathurst, dean of Wells, and president of Trin. coll. as also to the fellows thereof.

"ABRAHAM CAMPION, son of ——— Campion, sometime beadle of div. (by his wife, sister of Dr. Fran. Cheynell) entred of Trinity college about 1656, became scholar and fellow of that coll. proctor of the university, and moral phil. read. and chaplain to the archbishop of Canterbury, rector of Monks-Risborough com. Bucks, preb. of Lincoln. He hath published

"Sermon concerning National Providence, preached at the Assizes held at Ailesbury in Bucks 13 March 1693, on Psal. 127. 1. Oxon 1694. qu. ded. to sir Joh. Holt. lord chief justice of England.

"WILLIAM RICHARDS, son of Ralph Richards, minister of Helmdon in com. Northamp. (who subscribed and gave his testimony to the lawfulness of the covenant an. 1648.) was born at Helmdon in Northamptonshire, became a student in Trin. coll. in the beginning of the year 1658, elected exhibitioner thereof 13 June 1661, aged 18 years or thereabouts, and soon after scholar. Afterwards taking the degrees in arts, and being made fellow, he entred into holy orders, preached for some time at Marston near Oxon, and at length became rector of his native place, and lecturer of S. Andrew's church in Newcastle upon Tyne, where he now (1693) resides a non-juror. He hath written

"The English Orator: or, Rhetorical Descants by Way of Declamation upon some notable Themes both Historical and Philosophical, in two Parts. Lond. 1680, &c. oct. and tw. He hath also written and published a witty book, but mostly feigned, entit.

"Wallography: or, the Briton described: being a pleasant Relation of a Journey into Wales, whercin are set down several remarkable Passages that occurred in the Way thither, &c. Lond. 1682. oct.

"He hath also translated into English the Nova Reperta, sive Rerum memorabilium recens Inventarum, &c. written originally by Guido Pancirollus, to which Mr. Richards put remarks and useful discourses upon it. This was ready for the press in Feb. 1690.

"THOMAS STAYNOE born in London, which is all that appears in the register, entred into Trin. coll. in the beg. of the year 1659, matric. 19 July 1659, adm. scholar of Trin. coll. 13 June 1661; bach. of arts 1663; A. M. 1666; adm. fellow 6 Jun. 1667: In orders: A noted preacher in Oxon. bach. of div. 1667: about that time canon of S. David's, and archdeacon of Caermarthen by the favour of bishop Lucy; married; became minister of Much Waltham in Essex by the gift of the coll. rector of S. Ethelburgh in Lond. vicar of Ch. Ch. in Lond. about 1688; chapl. in ord. to their majesties king William and queen Mary; archdeacon of Brecknock in 1693, so Notit. Angl. which came out in May 1694. He hath published

"Several sermons, as (1) Subjection for Conscience Sake, preached before the Lord Mayor

A Sermon preach'd at St. Mary-le-Bow, June 27, 1698, before the Societies for Reformation of Manners, in the City of London and Westminster. Published at their Request. Lond. 1698, 8vo.

He died in October 1698, and was buried at the new chapel in Westminster, where his funeral sermon was preached by bishop Williams.]

"THOMAS SALMON, the son of a father of both his names, of Hackney in Middlesex, was born there, admitted a com. of Trin. coll. on the 8th of April 1664, aged 16, took the degrees in arts, departed, and at length became rector of Maysal or Mepsal in Bedfordshire. He hath written,

"An Essay to the Advancement of Music, by casting away the Perplexity of different Cliffs, and uniting all Sorts of Music, as Lute, Viol, Violin, Organ, Harpsicord, Voice, &c. in one universal Character. Lond. 1672. oct. Soon after came out an answer to this book entit. Observations upon a late Book entit. An Essay, &c. Lond. 1672. oct. written by Matthew Locke, educated in the cathedral church at Exeter, afterwards composer in ord. to his majesty, and organist of the chap. belonging to queen Catherine the royal consort of king Charles II. But these Observations lying dead on the booksellers hands, was another title put to it running thus, The present Practice of Music vindicated against the Exceptions and new Way of attaining Music lately published by Tho. Salmon M. A. &c. To which is added (1) A very scurrilous, abusive and buffooning thing entit. Duellum musicum, written by Joh. Philipps. (2) A Letter from Joh. Playford to Mr. Tho. Salmon, by Way of Confutation of his Essay, &c. Lond. 1673. oct. Which Joh. Playford was then a bookseller, a trader in musical books and musical paper, and a practitioner in music, living near the church belonging to the Templars in London. As for M. Locke, who was a Roman catholic and an excellent organist, he was esteemed a person, tho' eminent in his way, not fit to stand in competition with Salmon, for Salmon's book being looked upon by scholars as an ingenious performance, the answer thereto, or observations on it was by them esteemed a dull thing. This Mr. Locke had before published A little Consort of three Parts, containing Pavans, Ayres, Corants, and Sarabands, for Viols and Violins, in two several Varieties. The first twenty are for two Trebles and a Bass. The last twenty for Treble, Tenor and Bass. Lond. 1656. qu. And afterwards he did carefully review — Melothesia: or, certain general Rules for playing upon a continued Bass, with a choice Collection of Lessons for the Harpsicord and Organ of all Sorts, never before published. Lond. 1673, 74. oct. See more of him in the FASTI the first vol. col. 337. and in the FASTI, the second vol. col.

"278. He died, as I have been informed by one of his acquaintance and persuasion, about the month of Sept. 1677. As for our author Salmon he hath also written,

"A Proposal to perform Music in perfect and mathematical Proportions, containing 1. The State of Music in general. 2. The Principles of present Practice, according to that Art. 3. The Tables of Proportions calculated for the Viol, and capable of being accommodated to all Sorts of Music. Lond. 1689. qu. approved by both the mathematic professors of the university of Oxford, with large remarks upon the said whole treatise, by the learned Dr. Joh. Wallis.

[1076]

"ELKANAH SETTLE, son of Joseph Settle of Dunstable in Bedfordshire, was born there, became a com. of Trin. coll. in Midsummer term, an. 1666, aged 18 years, being then put under the tuition of Mr. Abr. Campion fellow of that house; but before he took a degree he left it, retired to the great city, and improving the foundation of learning that he had laid there, especially in dramatic poesy, arrived at length to a considerable perfection therein, as by these tragedies, to which his muse is chiefly addicted, and trag. com. it appears,

"Cambyzes King of Persia, Trag.——This tragedy, in which he was assisted by William Butler Fyfe a gent. com. of Trin. coll. son of Will. Fyfe of Wedmore in Lancashire, esq; was acted at Oxen by the king's players, in the time of the act, an. 1671, being that year first of all published in qu. It was written in heroic verse, and founded on history.

"The Empress of Morocco, Trag. Lond. 1671 and 1673 with sculptures, &c. qu. For the writing of which two tragedies, he had the applause of some, the severe censure of others, and perhaps neither according to exact desert; to those that err on the right hand, that is, that over-praise, little is to be said: to the others it may be pleaded in his behalf, that his soaring up to too much affected and immoderate heights, which is taken by one to be his chief failing, may possibly be allayed by the more mature judgment of riper years, he being yet (1675) but a young man. He hath also written,

"Notes and Observations on The Empress of Morocco revis'd; with some few Erratas to be printed instead of the Postscript, with the next Edit. of The Conquest of Granada. Lond. 1674. qu. The said Conquest of Granada was written by Mr. Joh. Dryden, who, together with Mr. Tho. Shadwell and the author of the play called, Pandion and Amphigenia, as our author Settle supposeth, club'd to pen the Notes and Observa-

⁶ "Edw. Phillips in his Theatrum Poetarum, in the chapter of the modern poets, p. 38."

"tions on his Empress of Morocco: Upon which
 "he came out in vindication of it in this piece,
 "wherein he deals only with the first of these three,
 "and endeavours to fasten the like charge on him,
 "managed by a collection of pretended faults out
 "of his works.

"Love and Revenge, Trag. Lond. 1675. qu.

"The Conquest of China, Trag. Lond. 1676.
 "qu. written in heroic verse, and founded on his"tory.

"*Pastor Fido, or, the faithful Shepherd, a Pas-
 "toral or Com.* Lond. 1677. qu. written originally
 "in Latin by Guarini, and afterwards translated by "him, as I have elsewhere told you.

"Ibrahim, the illustrious Bassa. Trag. 1677.
 "qu. Mention of this is made by that biting sa-
 "tyrist John earl of Rochester in his poem⁷ called
 "A Session of the Poets, thus,

"Poet Settle, his tryal, was the next⁸ came about,
 "He brought⁹ him an Ibrahim, with the preface
 "torn out;
 "And humbly desir'd, he might give no offence;
 "God damn me, cries S——, he cannot write sense.

"Our author Settle hath also written,

"The Female Prelate: or, the History of the "Life and Death of Pope Joan, Trag. Lond. 1680.
 "qu.

"*An heroic Poem on the right honourable Thomas
 "Earl of Ossory.* Lond. 1681, in 10 sh. in fol.
 "This was published in Oct. 1680, and the said
 "earl died the 30th of July going before, whose "picture is set before the said poem.

"Fatal Love: or, the forc'd Inconstancy, Trag.
 "Lond. 1680. qu.

"*The Heir of Morocco, with the Death of Gay-
 "land.* Lond. 1682. qu. He hath also written and "published,

[1077]

"The Character of a Popish Successor, and "what England may expect from such an one.
 "Humbly offer'd to the Consideration of both "Houses of Parliament, appointed to meet at Oxon.
 "on the 21st of Mar. 1680. Lond. 1681. fol. and "a second time in the same vol. Soon after, in "opposition to, and to thwart which, was printed
 "*The Character of a Rebellion, and what England
 "may expect from one, &c.* Lond. 1681. in 5 sh.
 "in fol. and soon after A Character of the true blue "Protestant Poet, &c. (meaning Elk. Settle) printed "at London in one sh. in fol. in Apr. 1682. The "beginning of which is, 'One would believe it al"most incredible, that any out of Bedlam should "think it possible, a yesterday's fool, an errant
 "knave, a despicable coward, and a prophane
 "atheist, should be to day by the same persons, a

⁷ "Printed in his Poems on several Occasions, an. 1680.
 "oct. p. 112.

⁸ "Meaning Apollo."

"Cowley, a man of honour, an hero, and a zealous
 "upholder of the protestant cause and interest,' &c.
 "The author of this pamphlet proceeds farther to "tell the world of the meanness of his education,
 "and relations (most of whom are barbers) of the
 "baseness, falseness and mutability of his nature,
 "and other matters, too many to be here mention'd.
 "By which it also appears that our author Settle
 "clos'd with the Whigs, when they took advantage
 "to promote their cause upon the eruption of the "popish, or Oates's plot, and was ready to fall off
 "from, and return to, them, for his own advantage.
 "To the said Character of a Popish Successor,
 "came out soon after two answers, viz. the first was "called An Answer to a late Pamphlet entit. A "Character, &c. Lond. 1681, in 4 sh. and an half
 "in fol. but by whom written I know not. The "other is entit. *The Character of a Papist in Mas-
 "querade, supported by Authority and Experience,
 "in Answer to A Character of, &c.* Lond. 1681, in
 "eleven sh. in qu. written by Rog. L'estrage, esq.
 "Against these two answers our author Settle made "a reply in

"*A Vindication of The Character of a Popish
 "Successor, in a Reply to two pretended Answers
 "to it.* Lond. 1681, in 5 sh. in fol. Before the "title of which, is placed an advertisement to shew
 "that the author of *The Character of a Popish
 "Successor* was not the author of the second⁹ part "of it, which bore the same title and was newly "made extant before he published his Vindication.
 "Mr. Settle hath also written,

"*The Character of a Popish Successor com-
 "pleat: In Defence of the first Part against two "Answers, one written by Mr. L'estrage, called "The Character of a Papist in Masquerade, &c.
 "and another by an unknown Hand.* Lond. 1681.
 "in 11 sh. in fol. This is the smartest piece of the "two, yet L'estrage¹ says 'tis a pompous, wordy
 "thing, made up of shifts and suppositions, without
 "so much as an argument, either offer'd or answered
 "in stress of the question, &c. After these things
 "were published pro and con, came out at length
 "*Some short Reflections on some Passages in a late
 "Pamphlet called, The Character of a Popish
 "Successor, and Considerations thereupon, in a "Book entit. The Character of an honest Man,
 "whether styl'd Whig or Tory, and his Opposite,
 "the Knave——* Lond. 1683. in 5 sh. in fol. In "the beginning of which is given an account of the "first rise and origen of the distinguishing word
 "Whig. Who the author of this was, I know not:
 "he only calls himself 'a lover of truth and peace';
 "but whether our author Settle did answer this, I "know not; sure I am that the two parts of The "Character of a Popish Successor, were, with The ⁹ "Joh. Phillips was the author of the Second Part, &c.

¹ "In his Reply to the second Part of the Character of a "Popish Successor, Lond. 1681. qu."

[1078]

"Exclusion Bill and Black Box, burnt on the coronation night, the 23d of April 1685, (1 Jac. II.) by the sub-warden and fellows of Mert. coll. in a public bonfire made in the middle of their great quadrangle. He hath also written,

"The Medal revers'd. Lond. 1681. qu. See in the fourth vol. of ATHENEÆ, col. 76.

"Azaria and Hushai: A Poem. Lond. 1682. in 5 sh. and an half in qu. designed as an answer to Mr. Dryden's book called Absalom and Achitophel, notwithstanding he commends him in his preface for his sense and wit, as Edm. Hicckeringhill also doth in some part of his postscript. The name of Elk. Settle, or any other, is not set to this poem, but at its first publication it was generally rumoured to be Mr. Settle's work, and the author of The Character of the true blue Protestant Poet, &c. before-mention'd, tells us the like; but then again he saith that the said poem (which he calls a copy of verses of a libellous nature) was publish'd about 4 years ago. After this comes out The second Part of Absalom and Achitophel,² which, tho' not written by Joh. Dryden, yet our author Settle is switeht away therein under the name of Doeg.

"A Narrative. Lond. 1683, in 8 sh. in fol. The first part of it is concerning himself the author, as being for the tory cause: The second to shew the inconsistency and contradictions of Tit. Oates his True Narrative of the horrid Plot and Conspiracy of the Popish Party against the Life of his Sacred Majesty, &c. as also to magnify his royal highness James duke of York, and to shew that little danger can come to our property, if he should come to the crown. Which narrative was written according to a promise which he made in April 1683, at what time he the said Settle turned tory, and openly professed that he would shortly publish a narrative to shew the roguery of the whigs, and to make a sham of the popish plot out of Oates his Narrative and the several tryals of papists engaged in the said plot. Soon after came out Remarks upon Mr. Settle's Narrative, &c. Lond. 1683, in 3 or 4 sh. in fol. written by anon. shewing what Settle had been and then was: as also Reflections upon a Pamphlet entit. A Narrative, written by E. Settle, with a Vindication of the Proceeding of the Nation from the Aspersions cast upon them. Lond. 1683, in 5 sh. in fol. Which Narrative written by Mr. Settle, with the Remarks and Reflections upon it before-mention'd, were publish'd before the presbyterian or fanatical plot was discovered, which was in June 1683; much about which time our author Settle published,

"A Supplement to the Narrative: In Reply to the Dulness and Malice of two pretended Answers

² "Printed at London in a thin folio, 1682, the first edition, pag. 13."

"to that Pamphlet. Lond. 1683 in 5 sh. fol. which answers are the Remarks and Reflections before-mention'd. In the latter end of this supplement are some short strictures on a third answer to his Narrative, called, A Letter to Mr. Settle, occasion'd by his late famous recanting and Plot-ridiculing Narrative. Lond. 1683. in four sheets, and a flat denial that he was the author of, or had any hand in, that scandalous copy of verses called A Session of the Poets, remitted into the Poems on several Occasions written by John earl of Rochester, as the vulgar report was then when the said Session was written and published. Our author Settle hath also written,

"Animadversions on the last Speech and Confession of the late William Lord Russel. Lond. 1683, in one sh. in fol. published about the beginning of August the same year, in double columns. His name is not set to it, only common report makes Mr. Settle the author.

"A Panegyric on the loyal and honourable Sir George Jeffreys Lord Chief Justice of England. Lond. 1683, in four sh. and an half in fol.

"Remarks on Algernon Sidney's Paper delivered to the Sheriffs at his Execution. Lond. 1683, in one sh. in fol. published in the latter end of Dec. the same year. Mr. Settle's name is not set to it, only common report makes him the author. The said Algernon Sidney was a younger son of Rob. earl of Leicester, had been engaged from his youth in the 'good old cause,' that is, had been signally antimonarchical in the time of the grand rebellion against king Charles I. in which he was a prime officer: But at length being deeply engaged in the presbyterian plot before-mention'd, and thereupon brought to a tryal for his life and found guilty, was beheaded on a scaffold erected on Tower-hill near London, the 7th of Dec. 1683, at which time he delivered a paper containing his last words to the then sheriffs of London, Pet. Daniel and Sam. Dashwood, which was afterwards printed. Mr. Settle's Remarks before-mention'd, and Animadversions upon that paper, which were written by an unknown hand at the same time, were animadverted upon by another, in half a sh. of paper in fol. but who that other was I cannot tell, neither the author of the Reflections upon Col. Sidney's Arcadia; the Old Cause, being some Observations upon his last Paper given to the Sheriffs at his Execution, printed at Lond. in 3 sh. in fol. 1683⁴. Our author Settle hath also written,

"An Heroic Poem on the Coronation of the High and Mighty Monarch King James II. Lond. 1685. fol. The reader is desired now to know, that when Hen. Care author of The Weekly Pacquet of Advice from Rome, was drawn over from his fanatical principles, to write in the behalf of the papists during the reign of king James II. he was employed to write certain Mercuries in behalf

[1079]

“ of those times (as I have told you in Tho. James
 “ in the second vol. of these ATHENEÆ, col. 469.)
 “ who carrying them on till the time of his death,
 “ which hapned on the 8th of Aug. 1688, our au“ thor Settle continued them with the same title
 “ which Care had set to them, viz.

“ Public Occurrences truly stated.——They “ were printed weekly in half a sh. as a Gazette is,
 “ and the first that Mr. Settle wrote after Mr.
 “ Care’s death, was dated on Tuesday the 14th of “ Aug. 1688, num. 26, and by him carried on till “ Tuesday the 2d of Oct. following num. 34, when “ then they were prohibited to please the people,
 “ the prince of Orange being then about to make “ his expedition into England. Our author hath “ also written,

“ Distressed Innocence: or, the Princess of Per- “ sia, a Trag. Lond. 1691. qu.

“ Ambitious Slave: or, a generous Revenge.

“ Trag. Lond. 1694. qu. He also translated from “ Latin into English, The Epistle of Hypsipyle to “ Jason, printed in the English translation of Ovid’s
 “ Epistles——Lond. 1681. oct. 2d edit.

“ JOHN EVELYN, son of Joh. Evelyn of “ Sayes-court in Deptford, in the county of Kent, “ esq; became a gent. com. of Trin. coll. in Easter “ term an. 1668, aged 13 years, having been a so-“ journeyer for about two years before with the pre“ sident of that house; but before he took a degree
 “ he left the college, and improved that foundation “ that he had laid therein in his father’s house. The “ first blossoms of his youth appeared in a transla“ tion entit. Of Gardens, four Books. Lond. 1673, “ oct. written originally in Latin by Renatus Ra-“ pinus. Another translation he hath made into “ English entit. The History of the Grand Visiers, “ Mahomet and Achmet Coprogli, of the three last “ Grand Seigniors, their Sultanas and chief Fa- “ vourites; with the most secret Intrigues of the “ Seraglio, &c. Lond. 1677. octavo.

“ JOHN GLANVILL, son of Julius Glanvill,
 “ a younger son of judge John Glanvill, was born
 “ at Broad-Hinton in Wilts. became a com. of Tri“ nity coll. 1678, aged 14 years, admitted scholar “ thereof the 10th of June 1680, and after he was “ bach. of arts, stood for a fellowship of Alls. coll.
 “ in 1683, at which time Tho. Creech of Wadham “ coll. standing also, the latter carried it, which “ Glanvill took as a great affront, so conceited he “ was of his own parts. After he had taken the “ magisterial degree, and put aside from being fel“ low of Trin. coll. because he would be drunk and “ swear, he retired to Lincoln’s inn, became a bar“ rister. He is the author of

“ Some Odes of Horace imitated with Relation “ to his Majesty, and the Times. Lond. 1690. in “ one sh. and an half in qu.

“ Poem dedicated to the Memory, and lamenting
 Vol. IV.

“ the Death of her late Sacred Majesty of the Small- “ Pox. Lond. 1695.

“ He hath translated from Latin into English,
 “ Seneca’s Agamemnon. Act 1. To which is added,
 “ A Song. These are in a book entit. Miscellany “ Poems and Translations by Oxford Hands, Lond.
 “ 1685. oct. pag. 196. 199. As also from French
 “ into English, A Plurality of Worlds. Lond. 1688.
 “ oct. written originally by the author of the Dia- “ logues of the Dead.

“ In the Annual Miscellany for the year 1694, “ being the fourth part of Miscellany Poems, &c.
 “ Lond. 1694. oct. Mr. Glanvill hath (1) Trans- “ lations of Seneca’s Troas, Act. 2. Chorus. p. 306.
 “ &c. (2) Translation from Horace, Book 1. Ode
 “ 13, Cum tu, Lydia, Telephi, &c. p. 309. (3)
 “ Translation from Horace, Book 1. Ode 23. Vitas “ hinnuleo me similis, Chloe. p. 312. (4) Trans- “ lation from Book II. Ode 12. Nolis longa feræ “ bella Numantiae, &c. p. 314, &c.

“ THOMAS KNAGGS, M. A. lecturer in New“ castle, and chap. to Ford lord Grey, was of Trin.
 “ coll. He hath publish’d,

“ Sermon before the Lord Mayor and Court of “ Aldermen at Bow Church, the 5th of Nov. 1693,
 “ on Psal. 64. 9. Lond. 1693, dedicated to sir Will.
 “ Ashurst lord mayor.

“ THOMAS EDWARDS, son of Joh. Ed“ wards minister of Keynton in Herefordshire, be“ came a student of Jesus coll. in act or midsummer
 “ term 1686, aged 17, soon after a com. of Trin.
 “ coll. under the tuition of Dr. Tho. Sykes, after“ wards of Hart hall, took no degree, because he “ would not take the oaths. He is the author of “ Dialling made easy: or, Tables calculated for
 “ the Latitude of Oxford; but will serve without “ sensible Difference for most Parts of England,
 “ by the Help of which, and a Line of Chords, the “ Hour-lines may quickly and exactly be described “ upon most Sorts of useful Dials. Oxon. 1692. in “ oct.

“ Brief Directions for making two Sorts of “ Spot-Dials——printed with the former. His fa“ ther was sometime of Trin. coll. and terræ filius,
 “ an. 166——

“ RICHARD TRIPLET, son of Rich. Triplet,
 “ was born at Shipton (on Charwell) com. Oxon, “ entred a servitor of Trin. coll. in act term an.
 “ 1687, aged 17 or thereabout, killed by chance one “ Joseph Chevrington bible clerk of Merton, the “ 4th of July 1690, for which he held up his hand
 “ at the assizes following. He hath wrote a comedy,
 “ not yet printed.

“ FRANCIS MANNING, son of Tho. Man-
 “ ning of London, gent. was matriculated the 8th
 “ of March 1688, being then a com. of Trin. coll.

Y Y

[1080]

"under the tuition of Mr. Tho. Sykes. He hath translated into English, The Life of the Emperor Theodosius the Great—Lond. 1693. oct. written originally in French, by the famous abbot Flechier, now bishop of Nismes, of the French academy, for the use of the dauphin. ded. to Charles Duncomb, esq; by his epistle dated at Tuddington (com. Middlesex) the 1st of Januar. 1692. He hath something in the Gentleman's Journal.

WRITERS OF ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE.

"WILLIAM KILLIGREW, the eldest son of sir Rob. Killigrew, knight, chamberlain to the queen, son of sir William Killigrew of London, knight, (who died the 23d of Nov. 1622) the fifth son of Joh. Killigrew of Arwanack in Cornwall, was born at the manor of Hanworth near Hampton-court in Middlesex, in the month of May, an. 1605, became a gent. com. of S. John's coll. in Midsummer term 1622,³ where continuing about 3 years he travelled beyond the seas, and after his return was made governor of Pendennis-castle, and of Falmouth-haven in Cornwall, with command of the militia in the west part of that county. From thence he was called to the royal court to be one of the gentlemen ushers of the privy-chamber to king Charles I. (being then a knight) in which employment continuing till the grand rebellion broke out, he had the command given him of one of the two great troops of horse that guarded the king's person, during the whole war between that king and his parliament, was with him at Oxon, was actually created doctor of the civil law, an. 1642, and upon the declining of his majesty's cause, suffered much as other cavaliers did, and compounded for his estate. Upon the restoration of king Charles II. he was the first of his father's servants that he took to serve him in the place of gent. usher of his privy-chamber, and upon his marriage with donna Catherine of Portugal, he was placed her majesty's first vice-chamberlain, in which honourable office he continued 22 years. He hath written,

" The Siege of Urbin. "	} Trag. } Oxon.
" Scindra. ⁴
" Ormasdes, or Love "
" and Friendship. ⁵
" Pandora. Com. ⁶	} Com. } 1666.
	} fol.

"These four have been applauded (whether with justice or no, I leave to critics) by men, who have themselves been reputed eminent for poetry, among which Edm. Waller is one, who hath a

"poem⁷ written to our author sir W. Killigrew, upon his altering of Pandora from a tragedy into a comedy, because not approved on the stage. There is another play ascribed to our author, called, The Imperial Tragedy, Lond. 1669. fol. The chief part of which was⁸ taken out of a Latin play, and very much altered by him for his diversion. But upon the importunity of friends, he was prevailed with to have it publish'd, but without name, because many do censure plays according to the opinions of their author. He hath also a little poem extant,⁹ to which was a vocal composition of two parts, set by Hen. Lawes a most noted musician of his time. After our author had retired from court, in his declining age, he wrote,

"The artless midnight Thoughts of a Gentleman at Court; who for many Years built on Sand, which every Blast of cross Fortune has defaced; but now he has laid new Foundations on the Rock of his Salvation, &c. Lond. 1684. in oct. second edition with additions. It is dedicated to king Charles II. and besides 233 thoughts therein, are additions containing specimens of poetry.

"Midnight and daily Thoughts, in Prose and Verse. Lond. 1694. oct. with commendatory verses before it, particularly by H. Briket. He now (1693 July) lives in Westm. abbey with his brother Dr. Hen. Killigrew. He had a younger brother named Thomas Killigrew, born also at the manor of Hanworth, in the month of Feb. an. 1611. not educated in any university (and therefore wanted some learning to poise his excellent natural parts) but in the royal court, where he was page of honour to king Charles I. (for whose cause he suffered many years banishment from his native country) afterwards resident for king Charles II. with the republic of Venice, 1651,¹ and after his restoration one of the grooms of his bedchamber and master of the revels. He was a person in great esteem for his lepid vein of wit in conversation, and therefore beloved of king Charles II. whose jester he was while groom of his bed-

⁷ "In his Poems upon several Occasions."

⁸ "See in a book entitled An Account of the Dramatic Poets, written by Ger. Langbaine, p. 315."

⁹ [This 'little poem' is to be found in Lawes's Ayres and Dialogues, page 28, and is entitled Beauty Paramount. It begins.

Come, come, thou glorious object of my sight!

O my joy, my life, my only delight!]

¹ [King Charles was dissuaded by his ministers from having a resident at Venice, but, says lord Clarendon, he was afterwards prevailed upon, and appointed Killigrew, 'only to gratify him, that in that capacity he might borrow money of English merchants for his own subsistence; which he did, and nothing to the honour of his master; but was at last compelled to leave the republic, for his vicious behaviour, of which the Venetian ambassador complained to the king, when he came afterwards to Paris.' Life of Edward Earl of Clarendon, by Himself, Oxford, 1761, page 116.]

³ [Julii 4, 1623, Gul. Killigrew, Lond. fil. 1^{us} Rob. Killigrew de London præd. militis; an. nat. 16. Reg. Matric. P.P. fol. 106, b.]

⁴ [First printed Lond. 1665, 8vo.]

⁵ [First printed Lond. 1665, 8vo.]

⁶ [First printed Lond. 1664, 8vo.]

"chamber;² and much respected by all for the "generosity and good acts he did for several poor
 "cavaliers, that had in a woful manner suffer'd for "his majesty's cause. He hath written, (1) The "Prisoners, and Claricilla, two trag. com. Lond.
 "1641. oct. in commemoration of which, Hen.
 "Benet his nephew, (afterwards earl of Arlington)
 "Rob. Waryng, Will. Cartwright, &c. all masters
 "of arts of Ch. Ch. have verses put before them.
 "(2) The Princess: or, Love at first Sight, Trag.
 "Com. (3) The Parson's Wedding, Com. (4)
 "The Pilgrim, Trag. (5) Cecilia and Clarinda.
 "Trag. Com. in two parts. (6) Thomaso: or, the "Wanderer, Com. (7) Bellamira, her Dream,
 "Trag. Com. in two parts. (8) Claracilla, Trag.
 "Com.³ All which were printed at Lond. 1663.⁴

* [There are two anecdotes related of Thomas Killigrew, which shew that he was permitted to take great liberties with his sovereign, and at the same time prove that he used this privilege to a better purpose than most of Charles's facetious companions: The tales are as follow.

"When the king's unbounded passion for women had given his mistress such an ascendancy over him, that, like the effeminate Persian monarch, he was much fitter to have handled a distaff than to wield a sceptre, and for the conversation of his concubines utterly neglected the most important affairs of state, Killigrew went to pay his majesty a visit in his private apartments, habited like a pilgrim who was bent on a long journey. The king, surprised at the oddity of his appearance, immediately asked him what was the meaning of it, and whither he was going? To hell, bluntly replied Killigrew. Prythee (says the king) what can your errand be to that place?—To fetch back Oliver Cromwell (rejoined he) that he may take some care of the affairs of England; for his successor taketh none at all.

"Charles's fondness for pleasure, to which he almost always made business give way, used frequently to delay affairs of consequence, from his majesty's disappointing the council of his presence when met for the dispatch of business; which neglect gave great disgust and offence to many of those who were treated with this seeming disrespect. On one of these occasions, the duke of Lauderdale, who was naturally impetuous and turbulent, quitted the council-chamber in a violent passion, and meeting Killigrew presently after, expressed himself on the occasion in very disrespectful terms of his majesty. Killigrew begged his grace to moderate his passion, and offered to lay him a wager of a hundred pounds that he himself would prevail on his majesty to come to council in half an hour. The duke, surprised at the boldness of the assertion, and warmed by resentment against the king, accepted the wager; on which Killigrew immediately went to the king, and, without ceremony, told him what had happened; adding these words—I know that your majesty hates Lauderdale, though the necessity of your affairs compels you to carry an outward appearance of civility; now, if you choose to be rid of a man who is thus disagreeable to you, you need only go this once to council, for I know his covetous disposition so perfectly, that I am well persuaded, rather than pay this hundred pounds, he would hang himself out of the way, and never plague you any more. The king was so pleased with this observation, that he immediately replied, Well, then, Killigrew, I positively will go; and kept his word accordingly.]

³ [This is the same play mentioned above with The Prisoners: Claricilla.]

⁴ [The general title-page to the volume is dated 1664, though some of the plays were printed in the foregoing year and are so dated. The Bodleian has a fine copy of the book,

"fol. with his picture before them. He hath also
 "extant, A Letter concerning the Possessing and
 "Dispossessing of several Nuns in the Nunnery
 "at Touers in France. Dated at Orleans, the 7th
 "of Decem. 1635, and printed in 3 sh. or more in "fol. At length, having lived beyond the age of "man; died within the precinct of Whitehall; on
 "the nineteenth day of March, an. 1682, where-
 "upon his body was buried in the north cross isle
 "in the abbey church of S. Peter in Westminster,
 "having before had two wives, viz. Cecilia Croft
 "daugh. of sir Hen. Croft of Suffolk, and maid of "honour to queen Henrietta Maria, and a Dutch
 "lady. It was usually said of this noted person,
 "that when he took a pen in hand, it did not an"swer to the never-failing smartness he shew'd in "conversation: upon which account sir Joh. Den-
 "ham, a shrewd and severe judge, and a familiar
 "acquaintance with him and Abr. Cowley, passed
 "this censure upon their abilities and defects,

[1082]

"Had Cowley ne'er spoke, Killigrew ne'er writ,
 "Combin'd in one, they'd made a matchless wit."

[Sir William Killigrew died, at the advanced age of eighty-eight, in 1693, and was buried in Westminster abbey.

Wood records that Killigrew was the first of his father's servants whom Charles the second promoted to a situation near his person; and the following admirable letter of advice, addressed to his master immediately before the restoration, will shew that the monarch had just reason to applaud his wisdom and to reward his fidelity.

Sir William Killigrew to King Charles II.

Sir,

I hope your majesty will allowe me in their number who are very glad for your comminge into England, and one, that maye as reasonably as many others have hopes, by your favor, to gett some preferment or reparation for my losses, and make that my designe in my perticuler adress unto your majesty on the account of my neere relation to your father, and his favor to me grounded on his assurance, that I preferred his service before my owne interest; which this inclosed letter, all his owne hand writing, doth clearely shewe; which was the occasion for my so frequent walkinge with him at Oxford, of which your majesty was then a daily witness. And, sir, that I maye now make good my old carактер, I have no perticuler sute unto your majesty. I wish only to share in the generall good of the nation, and doe humbly begge leave to present unto your view and consideration these followinge conceptions, from a heart, that will ever preferr given by the author, whose arms and initials are richly stamped on the cover. The portrait is one of Faithorne's best productions.]

Y Y 2

your majesty's prosperety and the generall good before my private interest.

First, sir, your character is presented heere as the most polliticke prince livinge, that understands all the artes of a courte, and as capeable to make these nations happie as any of your predecessors have done. And from this those now at the helme of government doe raise arguments to dought their owne security; and will therefore bringe your majestie in on termes, such as maye looke like fetters unfitt to be imposed on their kinge, for whom they have so high a vallew; and at a tyme when the nation calls alowde for you, as the only cure for all their evells. But, sir, 'tis conseaved, that if your majesty doe putt on such golden fetters frankely, they will rather adorne then clogge your government; and instead of restraining your free hearte, you will have more power in a short tyme to grattefy and reward such as have merited favours from you. Sir, I doe not presume to sett your majesty a rule, but to offer unto your consideration some of the discourses, which the kinge your father did alowe me, in my frequent walkinge with him every morning at Oxford, when his condition was not so desperate as your's since has bein.

Suppose, sir, that you were now called in without any restrictions, how impossible a worke it would be, to please all those, that have really served your father and yourselfe, with them that will pretend to it. By what I frequently heare is the expectations of many, half the revennue of England will not doe it, did you come in a conqueror. For if your majesty doe but thinke on the numerous clergie, with their famelyes, and on the innumerable multitudes of all those that have suffred on your side, that will expect a reparation or recompence; naye, sir, it is evident, that all the people in generall doe looke, that you should bringe them peace and plenty, as well as a pardon for all those who have offended. And I doe feare, you will find it a harder matter to satisfie those that call themselves your frends, and those who really are so, then all those who have been against your majesty. Then, sir, when I consider who have lost a parte or all their estates, and have ventred far for you; such as maye justly pretend to greate places of trust, of honor and profit; and also, that some of the grandees heere, who have now done your worke, will expect the like from you; 'tis not your three kingdoms that will aford halfe enough places or imployments for them all, which will dissatisfie all those that miss of their hopes, in case your majesty have all at your disposinge. From such thoughts as these I gather, sir, that however your comminge in on termes may looke at first sight as a lesninge of your dignety, 'twill prove more advantageous to your future happiness, then to come in without conditions; for no sober man can repine, if your majesty doe not give what you have not power to give.

Next, sir, if you come to your crowne as freely as you are borne to it, how will you settle church-government at first, to please the old true Protestants? And how the Presbyterians who now call you in, when all other interests have failed to doe it? And how the Papists, who doe hope for a tolleration? How satisfie the Independents, the Congregation, and all the severall sortes of violent sectaries? Whereas if your majesty be tyed up by articles, none of all these can blame you for not answeringe their expectations.

Then, sir, for the militia by sea and land, how can your majesty let fall the greevous taxes, which the people groane under, and then defraye that vast expence? for though some perticuler persons doe desire your comminge for love to yourselfe, 'tis the generall affliction, that invites the generallety to wishe for your majesty, as the only remedy to remove their oppressions. But if the parliament takes the care and charge of the militia, the people can have no argument against what their owne trustees shall doe for the good and safety of the nation; and whatever the nation does well, will be honor to the kinge; and whatever miscarries, he will avoyd the blame this waye.

Then, sir, suppose you alowe the parliament to preffer halfe your councillors to you, and halfe your greate officers of state, they must be your servants, and confirmed by your greate seale, and attend on your person, and no dought will seeke your favor. And then, if any doe not discharge their trusts, they must answer it to those that preferred them to you; by which meanes your majesty will be well served in emulation by both partyes, and be free from the old custome of your predecessors, to have all your officer's faults layed to your charge; which lost our kinges their people's hearts more then all other thinges. So that 'tis humbly conseaved, if your majesty doe parte with some of these ornaments of your crowne for a while, your majesty maye be now much happier, then in these distracted tymes to have all fully in your owne power, accompanied with the evells, that will necessarily attend them for some yeares, till this giddy humore of the people be allayed by there experience in your majesty's happie reigne.

'Tis also humbly conseaved, if your majesty have a large yearely revennue settled for your owne and famelye's support, 'twill be of greater use to yourselfe and servants, than two millions a yeare to defraye the land sea militia with. By your owne private revennue your majesty will have enough to reward who you please, without controule, and maye in a fewe yeares laye up a treasure to your owne use; that instead of borrowing from your subjects, you maye at any time be able to lend your parliament a grand summe, if occasion require, and be reimbursed againe with love and thankses from the whole nation; and so become the father of your people, and lord of all their hearts; and thus invite them to compliment you into all your rights and royalties in fewe yeares; for when they see their kinge is become their best friend, who can they trust before him? A little honest arte, sir, this waye, would bringe you to more greateness and power, then any of your predcessors ever had; for the Englishe is to be wonne by kindness.

I am bould, sir, to shewe unto your majesty these heads (which I heare will be offered unto you) for argumentation with your owne heart, only because many tymes the conceptions of weake men have enlightened the judgements of wise princes. This is not fitt to be debated at your counceill; yet, sir, this discourse I have often entertained the kinge your father with in the garden at Oxford, when every body wondred what he could find to talke so much alone with me about. I looke not on myselfe, sir, as a fitt counsellor of state, nor have I any pretention to any preferment or rewarde: I doe knowe this discourse has nether eloquence nor arte to sett it out; but is really from a true heart, that loves you; 'tis my suite, sir, havinge noe other waye then my prayers and wishes to serve you in. I shall rejoice to see you happie; and if I thought any body else would offer these things unto your consideration, I would not have troubled your majesty with these rude lines. But havinge some reasons to aprehend, that some from hence maye give your majestie arguments not to accept of the conditions that will be offered you, on hopes that France and Spaine will bringe you in on better termes, which I shall ever doubt of their good-will to doe; or if they would, it is not very likely they can, because a forraine warre may unite these nations (now full of soldiers) to their utmost opposition, which is the only hope of the sectaries, which maye begett a hazarrdous newe warre. Whereas by comming in by consent and on articles, you will be welcome, and be secured by generall Monke and his army against all opposers, if any shall apeere; for who can meritt more your trust then he, who under God has done this great worke for you, beyond the indeavours or the hopes of all your friends, and who has refused the supreme power proffred and pressed upon himselfe?

Lastly, sir, I do humbly conseave, that your majesty may with honor and safety throwe yourselfe freely into the armes of your people, and rely on such conditions as they will think fitt for their kinge in honor to accept of, who is fully resolved to raise his owne happines on his subject's love; which I beleve your father's reign will shewe. Such a trust in them must in a short tyme begett their trust in you; and maye make them impose less at present: however, in my poor opinion, such a generall free offer is more then can be desired, and will be more honorable then by submitting to perticulers.

Now, sir, if all this that I have proposed be what you knewe before, 'tis more then I am acquainted with. My excuse is my affection to your majesty, without any designe for myselfe. There be so many, that have merited your favors, beyond any pretence of myne, that my only sute is, that your majestie will be pleased to pardon this presumption to give my opinion in this greate affare, which I doe not thinke fitt to have the aprobaton of any man in, but however my good-will be accepted, I shall ever live and dye, sir,

Your majestie's
Most affectionate, humble and obedient subject and servant,

W. KILLIGREW.

Horsely, Apr. 10, 1660.

Sir, I do humbly begge the return of the kinge your father's letter, which I keep as a testimony of his favour to me.]

"SAMUEL SMITH, son of Joh. Smith, gent. "was born in London, elected scholar of S. John's "coll. from Merchant-Taylor's school, an. 1638, "aged 18 years, and afterwards fellow. In 1642 "he took one degree in arts, left the university soon "after, closed with the dominant party, took the "covenant, preached for some years in Essex, and "was afterwards minister (in the reign of prince "Oliver) of S. Bennet Grace-Church in London, "where I find him in 1657, at what time he had "been master of arts by creation of two years stand- "ing. After his majesty's restoration he preached "elsewhere in London and became ordinary to the "prison called Newgate in London. He is the "author of "The Character of a weaned Christian: or, the "Evangelical Art of promoting Self-denial, &c. "grounded on Psal. 131. Ver. 2, 3. Lond. 1675. "oct.

"Account of the Behaviour of the Prisoners in "Newgate—These came out every month in "folio papers, in one or two sh. or more.

"Samuel in Sackcloth: or, a Sermon assaying to "restrain our bitter Animosities, and commending "a Spirit of Moderation, and a right Constitution "of Soul and Behaviour towards our Brethren, on "1 Sam. 15. 35. Lond. 1660. said to be written by "S. S. (perhaps Sam. Smith. Qu.)

"THOMAS WILLIS, born, as it seems, in the "county of Middlesex, but descended from those "of his name living at Fenny-Compton in War- "wickshire, bred in school learning under his father "Tho. Willis (mention'd among the writers of this "vol.) entred into S. John's coll. before the grand "rebellion occasion'd by the puritan broke forth, "left it when the said rebellion began, and return- "ing to his college after the surrender of the gar- "rison of Oxon for the use of the parliament, was "actually created master of arts, by virtue of the "letters of sir Tho. Fairfax general of the forces "belonging to the said parliament. Afterwards "being subservient to the men that were uppermost "in the times of usurpation, he became one of the "assistants to the comissioners of Middlesex and "the city of Westminster, for the ejection of such “whom the godly party then (1654) called scandalous, ignorant and insufficient ministers and schoolmasters, and was beneficed in that county. After the restoration of his majesty king Charles II. he turn'd about, became minister of Kingston upon Thames in Surrey, an. 1667, or thereabouts, chap. in ord. to his majesty, rector of Dunton in Bucks, and in 1670 was actually created D. of D. in the Orangian creation, he being then one of those, who were not, or had not been, true sons of the church of England, that procured by favour and money their names to be put into the roll to be created. He is the author of “Several sermons, as (1) A Prophecy of perilous Times, on 2 Tim. 3. 1. Lond. 1659. oct. (2) Help for the Poor, &c. this, which was printed 1665 in oct. I have not yet seen, and therefore I know not whether it be a sermon or not. (3) The Excellency of Wisdom, disclosing it self in the Virtues of a good Life, preached to the Natives of Warwickshire, on Prov. 4. 7, 8, 9. on their anniversary Feast-day in London, the 30th of Nov. 1675. Lond. 1676. qu.

“The Key of Knowledge, opening the Principles of Religion—Lond. in oct.”

[In the vicar's burial place, between St. Mary's chapel and the chancel, on the east wall of Kingston church, was the following inscription:]

M. S. Viri vere eruditi, fidelissimique pastoris Thomæ Willis S. T. P. rectoris de Dunton, in com. Buck. necnon vicarii de Kingston super Tham. qui fœminis duabus Hymenæos celebravit, Elizabetha et Susanna: a priore liberos 4, filiamque; a posteriore liberos 3 filiamque 1 suscepit. Stadio tandem non inutili peracto, hanc vitam pro meliore commutavit Octob. 8 Anno a Virginis partu 1692, Ætat. prorsus incertæ. Susanna relicta, mærens, amoris ergo posuit.]

[1083]

“EDWARD SCLATER, son of a father of both his names, of London, but descended from those of his name living at Selater or Slaughter in Gloucestershire, was born in Middlesex, became a student of S. John's coll. (a servitor in the hall I think) in 1640, aged 17, bore arms for his majesty while Oxon was garrison'd for his use, took the degrees in arts, that of master being conferr'd on him in 1647, suffered afterwards for the royal cause, taught school, and at length became minister of Putney in Surrey. He hath written,

“A Grammar for the Use of his School.

“A Vocabulary. In the beginning of the year 1686, king James II. being then in the throne, he declared himself a papist, and thereupon had liberty allowed him to put a curate into Putney, and allow him a salary from the 160*l.* per an. which he received there, mostly from placets: And about the same time wrote “Consensus Veterum: or, the Reasons of Edw.

“ [Aubrey's Nat. Hist. of Surrey, i. 25.]

“Sclater Minister of Putney for his Conversion to the Catholic Faith and Communion. Lond. 1686 in 14 sh. and an half in qu. Soon after came out two answers to it, one of which is entit. The Antiquity of the Protestant Religion, in Answer to Mr. Sclater's Reasons, and the Collections made by the Author of the Pamphlet entit. Nubes Testium, Part 1. Lond. 1687. qu. The other is entit.——Veteres vindicati, in an Expostulatory Letter to Mr. Sclater of Putney upon his Consensus Veterum, &c. wherein the Absurdity of his Method, and the Weakness of his Reasons are shewn, his false Aspersions upon the Church of England are wiped off, and her Faith concerning the Eucharist proved to be that of the primitive Church. Together with Animadversions on Dean Boileau's French Translation of, and Remarks upon, Bertram. Lond. 1687. qu. This Letter is dated the 1st of March, 1686. On the 5th of May 1689, being then Rogation Sunday, Dr. Gilb. Burnet bishop of Salisb. preached in the Savoy church within the liberty of Westm. at which time our author Sclater made a public recantation of the Roman catholic religion, and was re-taken into the bosom of the English church. Afterwards he lived privately near Exeter house or change.

“JOHN SPEED, son of Joh. Speed, doctor of physic, was born as it seems in Oxon, was elected scholar of S. John's coll. about the year 1643, ejected thence by the visitors appointed by the parliament, an. 1648, he being then bach. of arts and fellow. After the return of king Charles II. he was restored to his fellowship; about which time being a student in physic took both the degrees therein in 1666, and afterwards leaving his fellowship practised his faculty in and near Southampton, where he now (1694) lives in good repute. He hath written, “Batt upon Batt. A Poem upon the Parts, Patience and Pains of Bartholom. Kempster, Clerk, Poet, and Cutler of Holy-Rood Parish in Southampton.

“The Vision, wherein is described Batt's Person and Ingenuity, with an Account of the ancient and present State and Glory of Southampton——Both these were printed at London in two sheets in folio and afterwards in quarto, and esteemed very ingenious things.

“EDWARD PEARSE, a Welshman born, matriculated as a member of Jesus coll. the 7th of Nov. 1650—went that same year to S. John's coll. where he was servitor,—return'd to Jesus coll. before 1654, when he went out bach. of arts, took his master's degree 1657—went afterwards to London, was minister of S. Michael's church in Crooked-Lane, was patronized by sir Jam. Langham, who gave him Cottisbrook in Northamptonshire. He is the author of "The best Match: or, the Soul's Espousal to Christ opened and improved. Lond. 1673, 76, &c. in octavo and tw.

"The great Concern: or a serious Warning to a timely and thorough Preparation for Death, with Helps and Directions in order thereunto. Lond. 1673, 74, &c. oct. tw. recommended as proper to be given at funerals. The tenth edition of this came out in 1683.

[1084]

"A Beam of divine Glory: or, the Unchangeableness of God asserted, vindicated and improved. Lond. 1674. oct.

"The Soul's Rest in God, &c.—printed with A Beam, &c.

"The Conformist's Plea for the Nonconformists: or, a just and compassionate Representation of the present State and Condition of the Nonconformists; 1. as to The Greatness of their Sufferings. 2. Hardness of their Case. 3. Reasonableness and Equity of their Desires and Proposals. 4. Qualifications and Worth of their Persons. 5. Peaceableness of their Behaviour. 6. The Church's Prejudice by their Exclusion, &c. Lond. 1681. qu. Not said to be written by Edw. Pearce, but by a beneficed minister and a regular son of the church of England. The 2d edit. of this, with corrections and enlargements, came out in 1682, &c. qu.

"The Conformist's second Plea for the Nonconformists; wherein the Case of the Nonconformists is further stated, and the Suspension of the penal Laws against them, humbly moved, with all due Submission to the Magistrate. Lond. 1682. qu. Not said to be written by E. Pearce, but by a charitable and compassionate conformist.

"The Conformist's third Plea for the Nonconformists; argued from the King's Declaration concerning Ecclesiastical Affairs, grounded upon the approved Doctrine, and confirmed by the Authorities of many eminent Fathers and Writers of the Ch. of England. Lond. 1682. qu.

"His last Legacy. Lond. 1687, 88. oct. This is the second edit. of (1) A Beam of divine Glory, &c. (2) The Soul's Rest in God, very useful to quiet the Minds of Christians, when discomposed on Man's Mortality, and the Mutability of humane Affairs.

[Pearce died, at the age of sixty three, on the second of September 1694, at his rectory of Cottesbrook, and was buried on the fourth of the same month, in the chancel of that church. He was succeeded by his son John Pierce: His widow Elizabeth died August 4, 1705, and was interred in the same grave.⁷]

"EDWARD BERNARD, son of Jos. Bernard, gent. by Elizab. his wife, daugh. of Joh. Lenche or Linche of Wyche in Worcestershire, was born at Perry S. Paul, commonly called Paulers Perry near Towcester in Northampton-

⁶ [Bridges, Hist. of Northamptonshire, i. 556.]

shire, on the 2d of May, an. 1638, was elected scholar of S. John's coll. from Merchant-Taylor's school, an. 1655, afterwards fellow, and in 1667 proctor of the university. In the next year he became rector of Cheame in Surrey and travelled into Holland, and in the beginning of April 1673 became Savilian professor of astronomy on the resignation of sir Christopher Wren. In 1677 he made an excursion into France, was admitted doct. of div. in 1684, and the same year diverted himself again with the delights of Holland. In the beginning of the year 1691 he became rector of Brightwell near Wallingford in Berkshire,⁷ and thereupon, soon after, he gave up his professorship, and on the 8th of the ides of Aug. an. 1693, he took to him in his elderly years a young and comely wife, called Eleanor Howell, descended from the princes of that part of Wales called Ceretica, that is Cardiganshire. He is a person admirably well read in all kind of ancient learning, in astronomy and mathematics, a curious critic, an excellent Grecian, Latinist chronologer and Orientalian. He hath written,

"Lectiones variantes & Annotationes in quinque priores Libros Antiquitatum Judicarum. Oxon. 1686. fol. written by Fla. Josephus. His notes upon those books were too large and therefore disliked by Dr. Joh. Fell: And the author being weary of the work, did go no farther than his notes on the first five books, which caused an old theologist and a pretender to poetry to say in his dogrel rhimes.

"Savilian Bernard's a right learned man,
"Josephus he will finish when he can.

"The Longitudes, Latitudes, right Ascensions and Declinations of the chiefest fix'd Stars, according to the best Observers.—Philos. Trans. numb. 158. the 20th of Ap. 1684. In a letter dat. at Oxon, 6 Kal. Apr. 1684, written to Dr. Rob. Huntingdon provost of Trin. coll. near Dublin. "Observations of the solar Eclipse, Jul. 2. 1684, at Oxford, (in a letter to Mr. Joh. Flamsted)—Philos. Transact. nu. 164, 20 Oct. 1684.

[1085]

"De Mensuris & Ponderibus, Libri très. This was printed at the end of a book written by Dr. Edw. Pocock, entit. A Commentary on the Prophecy of Hosea, &c. Oxon. 1685. fol. which book De Mensuris, &c. being much corrected and augmented by the author, was reprinted at Ox. 1688. oct.

"Private Devotions and a brief Explication of the ten Commandments. Oxon. 1689. oct.

"Orbis eruditi Literatura a Characteres Samaritico deduct. This was printed at Ox. 1689 from a copper cut, on one side of a broad sheet of paper.

"Etymologicum Britannicum. This is printed

⁷ [Dr. Leopold Finch succeeded him in Brightwell.]

⁸ "Clem. Barksdale in his poem entit. Authors and Books, printed at Oxon, in half a sheet of paper on one side, in two columns, an. 1685."

"at the end of Dr. Geo. Hicks his book entit. Institutiones Grammaticæ Anglo-Saxonicæ, &c. Oxon. 1689 in a large qu.

"De maxima Solis Declinatione, & præcipuarum fixarum Longitudine & Latitudine. This is printed in the Philosophical Transactions, an. 1690.

"Chronici Samaritici Breviarium.⁹ This was printed in Actis Lipsiacis, at Lips. 1691. qu. pp. 167—173.

"Chronicon omnis Ævi. This is a large MS. in fol.

"Tabula Alphabetorum Orientalium & Occidentalium.

"Veterum Testimonia de Versione LXXII Interpretum. This is at the end of Aristæ Historiæ LXXII Interpretum, published by Dr. H. Aldrich at Ox. 1692. in oct.

"Librorum Manuscriptorum Academicarum Oxoniensis & Cantabrigiæ, & celeberrimum per Angliam Hiberniamque Bibliothecarum Catalogus, cum Indice Alphabetico, Cura Edwardi Bernardi. Philos. Trans. nu. 211. June 1694."

[The learned Dr. Thomas Smith, (who wrote a life of Bernard in Latin, which will be found at the end of Robert Huntington's Epistolæ, printed together with Bernard's Synopsis Veterum Mathematicorum Græcorum, Latinorum et Arabum, Lond. 1704 in 8vo.) thinks that Bernard's father was minister of Paulers-Perry—"qui in isto viculo, ut puto, sacrum parochii munus obibat." Wood, as has been seen, styles him a gentleman, although on what authority it will be difficult to determine, since he is entered in the registers of the university as ministri filius.¹⁰ The writer of his life in the Biographia Britannica supposes Bernard's father to have been rector of Paulers-Perry, but this again is not supported by any account we have of the incumbents of that parish. It is indeed most probable that he was curate to the gentleman who held the living in 1638.]

In 1648 Bernard was admitted into Merchant Taylor's school, of which William Dugard was the then master, a man (says Smith) ista arte nulli postponendus, quod ex ingenti virorum præclarissimorum numero, quorum animos præceptis suis, assidua diligentia, ac sapienti institutione ad virtutem, pietatem, omnigenamque doctrinam formavit, comperitissimum est. On his arrival at Oxford in 1655, he was placed under the care of Thomas Wiat then fellow of St. John's, afterwards proctor of the university and a prebendary of Salisbury, and his mathematical studies commenced under the tuition of the celebrated Dr. Wallis: Ab hisce laudatissimis auspiciis nihil, nisi grande et maxime laudandum, expectari poterat; neque hanc suorum spem aut expectationem frustratus est, says Smith, and indeed whatever could be effected by the union of extraordinary abilities and intense application, was achieved by Bernard; nor can any more just character of his literary acquirements be given than that already recorded by the honest testimony of his contemporary Wood. In 1658-9, February 12, he took his first degree of bachelor of arts, that of master April 16, 1662,² and bachelor of divinity June 9, 1668, in which last year he obtained licence from his college to travel: this permission to leave England was granted on the 26th of December, and he immediately proceeded to Leyden to consult Scaliger and Warner's MSS. and more especially The 5th, 6th, and 7th Books of the Conic Sections of Apollonius Pergæus, the Greek text of which being lost, they are only preserved in an Arabic version procured in the East by James Golius, and at that time in the hands of his heirs, who allowed him to make free use of it.³ After remaining about a year in Holland, during which time he became acquainted with, and much respected by, all the learned persons of that country, he returned to Oxford, and was appointed by sir Christopher Wren to be deputy professor of astronomy. He now also went through the various college offices⁴ of his own society, by whom he was presented to the rectory of Cheam in Surrey, December 13, 1672.⁵ Early in the ensuing year bishop Peter Mews, the president of St. John's, appointed him one of his chaplains, and would undoubtedly have farther preferred him, had he not accepted the professorship of astronomy just then vacant by the resignation of Wren. As by the statutes of sir Henry Saville, the professors are not allowed to hold any other office ecclesiastical or civil, Bernard not only gave up all hopes of future promotion, but was compelled to resign Cheam, which he did in May, 1673.⁶ He now devoted the whole of his time to the duties of his professorship and the prosecution of his literary designs, till the year 1676, when, at the recommendation of the earl of Arlington, he was sent into France by Charles

² [Utcunque consuetudo prorogandi gradum A. M. ad annum ab admissione in collegium octavum nuper obtinuerit, non infrequens tamen annis superioribus videtur (cujus exemplum Bernardus hoc loco) socios nostros ad gradum antedictum admittere anno post admissionem septimo. MS. Note by Dr. Derham.]

³ [He not only transcribed these three books with the diagrams, but wrote a Latin version and notes, which he intended to publish on his return, but did not meet with sufficient encouragement. But the book was at length printed in folio, Oxford 1710, by Dr. Edmund Halley, who has given a Latin translation of the three last books out of Arabic, and supplied the eighth.]

⁴ [College Register, iv, 752.]

⁵ [Not in 1668, as stated by Wood. See the Register of St. John's, vol. iv. sub anno.]

⁶ [College Register, iv. 164.]

⁹ [The real title is, Chronologiæ Samaritanæ Synopsis, in two tables; the first containing the most famous epochas and remarkable things from the beginning of the world; the second a catalogue of the Samaritan high-priests from Aaron. It was sent to Job Ludolphus, who published it in the Acta Eruditorum Lipsiensia.]

¹⁰ [Reg. in Archiv. W. fol. 210 b. et Ad. sub mense Julii 1655.]

¹ [I have in vain written to Paulers-Perry to ascertain the point by a reference to the parish register of that period.]

the second to be tutor to his natural sons, the dukes of Grafton and Northumberland, but not finding this occupation suit his habits, or himself adapted to the manners of the dutchess of Cleveland, he gave up the appointment after a year's residence at Paris,⁷ and returned to Oxford. In 1683 he again went into Holland to be present at the sale of Nicholas Heinsius's library, and he was received at Leyden with so great kindness by the professors and literary men of that university, that he would have been glad to have resided there altogether, if they had appointed him professor of the Oriental tongues; but this scheme failing, he returned to Oxford. About this time it was, that some proposals were made on Bernard's part to give up his professorship to Flamsteed or Halley, but though, according to Dr. Smith,⁸ the conditions were most just and honourable, the negotiation was not attended with success, and he was compelled to retain the office for several years afterwards, till, as has been before related, he procured Brightwell, by the favour of his old friend and patron Dr. Mews, then bishop of Winchester. Early in September 1696 he revisited Holland, for the third time, and again in the cause of literature; this was done contrary to the wishes and advice of his friends,⁹ and at a time when he was labouring under the stone, and otherwise debilitated by infirmities. But he resolved to attend in person at the sale of Golius's manuscripts,¹ and went accompanied only by his wife. It is probable that this voyage and the exertion hastened his death, for no sooner did he return than he fell into a consumption, which being accompanied by a dysentery, put an end to his life on the 12th of January 1696-7, before he was quite 59 years of age. He was buried, with the greatest respect, in the chapel of St. John's college, and the following inscription was, at his own desire, placed on a neat monument of white marble, with a heart carved in the centre,

HABEMUS COR BERNARDI:

E. B. S. T. P. Ob. Jan. 12. 1696.

In respect to Bernard's character I cannot do better than refer to the account given of him by Dr. Smith, who was his intimate acquaintance, and who speaks of him in the highest terms. As a scholar he well may be ranked amongst the first of the age in which he lived; as a divine he was strictly orthodox, but with the most charitable feelings towards dissenters of all denominations; and in private life few appear so amiable, none to have been more highly valued. It is indeed quite sufficient to refer to his correspondence in the Bodleian library to shew in what esteem he was held by the most virtuous as well as the most learned of his time. Pearson, Fell, Barlow, Graves, Loftus, Lightfoot, Guise, Wallis, Dodwell, Huntington, Cave, Hyde, Bentley, and Smith all bear testimony to his merit, and the records of his own college corroborate the general opinion by the insertion of his name with peculiar honour in the album of its worthies.

It remains only to notice such of his works both printed and inedited as have not been already recorded: These are,

1. Observata ex Græcis, Arabicis, Persicis, Judaicis, Latinisque Scriptoribus de Obliquitate Zodiaci. In the Philosophical Transactions. Nu. 163.

2. Notæ in Fragmentum Seguierianum Stephani Byzantini. Part of these were published by J. Gronovius at the end of his Exercitationes de Done, 1681.

3. Adnotationes in Epistolam S. Barnabæ. Published in bishop Fell's edition of that author.

4. He published also William Guise's Misnæ Pars prima, Ordinis primi Zeraim Tituli septem. Oxon. 1690, 4to.

5. ΕΤΚΑΕΙΔΟΥ ΤΑ ΣΩΖΟΜΕΝΑ: Euclidis Geometrarum Opera. Elementorum Geometriæ et Arithmeticæ Libri XV. [Cum Commentario Procli in primum.²] Datorum Liber, cum Prefatione Marini. Introductio Musica, cum Sectione Canonis. Optica, Catoptrica [et Phænomena] Omnia Græce et Latine. Edvardus Bernardus recensuit. Oxonia, E Theatro Sheldonio A. D. [date cut off, but. 1694.] Such is the title of Bernard's proposed 8vo. edition of Euclid, of which a specimen, and perhaps the only copy existing, is preserved in the Bodleian, together with a second specimen in folio, and a volume of MS. collections relative to that author. MS. Bodl. 886. 887.

The following are recorded by Dr. Smith as remaining in MS. at the author's death.

6. Calendarium Ecclesiasticum et Civile plerarumque Gentium. Entrusted, says Dr. Smith, by the author to a certain bookseller at Leipsic, who being at Oxford, promised to print it in Germany, but who betrayed his trust.

7. Large Commentaries on the private Devotions, drawn from the Ecclesiastics of the three first Centuries of Christians, and from the Gentile Authors Greek and Latin, and Oriental: or, as in another title by the author, Private Devotions, with a brief Explication of the ten Commandments, the Lord's Prayer and the Apostle's Creed, in seven Books.

8. Etymologicon Græcum et Latinum.

9. Lexicon Egyptiacum.

10. Lexicon Russicum.

11. Syntagma de Mathesi: sive Principia et Elementa Mathescos.

² [These words in brackets are inserted in the printed title in Dr. Bernard's own hand.]

⁷ [Dr. Bernard's Directions about the Duke of Gloucester's Education. MS. Smith, vol. iv. page 37.]

⁸ [Ibid., pag. 45.]

⁹ [Original Letter from Dr. Wallis to Dr. Smith, in the Bodleian.]

¹ [He purchased very largely for archbishop Narcissus Marsh, whose MSS. are now in the Bodleian.]

12. *Dissertatio de Literatura.*13. Linguarum Insularum Britanniae et Hiberniae Origines Persicae et Armenicae.

Of the books purchased by the university of Dr. Bernard's widow, a vast number contain copious notes in his own hand writing. His edition of the Polyglott Bible, in which were ample collations, notes, and scholia, was purchased by Olaus Wormius for 20*l.* and carried to Denmark: His Common Prayer, with the Constitutions and Canons Ecclesiastical, as well as the Thirty-nine Articles, of the edit. Oxford 1683, is in the Bodleian, and contains several important notes and observations.

Dr. Bernard's own manuscripts in the Bodleian, those are such as are written in his hand and of his own composition, consist for the most part of Adversaria, containing remarks and observations chiefly on oriental subjects. A very large portion of his correspondence with the learned men of his age is preserved also in that library among Dr. Smith's manuscripts, and in the same collection will be found very many of his literary notices and extracts.

In the notes³ will be found an account of the ³ [1697. After the death of the late reverend and learned Dr. Edward Bernard, the university seemed willing to lay out a sum of money in purchasing such of his books as should be thought most necessary for the publick library: and I was ordered to bring unto the reverend Dr. Adams rector of Lincoln college, then vice-chancellor, a catalogue of those books in the said Dr. Bernard's study (being not manuscripts nor collated with manuscripts) which were either wholly wanting in the publick library, or else were of different editions. This list, when finished, was perused by Mr. Vice-chancellor, &c. but thought too large: and I was afterwards required to extract from it a new list of the chiefest books, reduced into their several faculties, which would come to about 150^l leaving out most of the rabbinical authors, because such are, at present, but little used; and also all books printed at the theater, because it might be suppos'd that all such were therein already, at least, they ought to be there.

In this second list, care was taken to secure several scarce editions of classicks, &c. tho' by that means, some books which were not at all in the library, were left out; because these might be easily hereafter bought, or perhaps given: but those in all probability would not be so soon met with.

The university all along declared, that in consideration of the manifold services done them by Dr. Bernard, they would allow the widow a better price than any body else would give, or even than the books themselves were worth; but, in the mean time, desired not to be unreasonably impos'd upon. Mr. Millington, the bookseller, valued them (this second list) at 174:00:00; but the university being minded at that time to part with no more than 150^l the widow had liberty to subduct so many books as came to 24^l; and being desired to consider that many of them were too highly valued, and others unbound, she abated 10^l. The following parcell therefore cost the university 140:00:00 in Sept. 1697.

It may be noted, that

1. Tho' many of these books are over-much prized, yet others are valued too little.

2. That severall books in this catalogue, not subducted by the widow, nor prized to the university, yet being laid out together, came amongst the rest into the library.

3. That when several tracts were bound up together, 'twas sometimes thought advisable to buy the book for the sake of the tract or tracts which were wanting in the library, tho' the rest thereby became duplicates.

transactions between the university and Mrs. Bernard relative to the purchase of Dr. Bernard's MSS.

4. It is found, that some more books there are in this catalogue, which were in the library before: this was occasion'd by the faults in the printed catalogue, by the want of opportunity of comparing the books together, and by the knavishness of somebody or other about Mrs. Bernard, in taking off and changing the numbers of some books bought by the university: as for instance, Plautus of the first edition by Georg. Alexandrinus, Ven. 1472, a fair clean book, in the large paper, had its number taken off, and put upon another edition, whereby we had like to have lost the book; but it was happily with many others secured in the auction, as they were selling.

(Then follows the catalogue of the printed books, from which I extract a few articles with Millington's valuation, which may be curious to collectors of the present day.

FOLIO.

Biblia Heb. Gr. Lat. cum notis Vatabli et Is. Casauboni. Gen. 1586. 2. 0. 0.

Biblia Vulg. cum var. lectionibus et picturis. Lugd. 1526. 0. 8. 0.

Lactantii Opera, Ven. 1478. 0. 10. 0.

Augustinus in Psalmos, vetustae editionis. 0. 5. 0.

Augustinus de Civitate Dei. Lovan. 1488. 0. 5. 0.

Fl. Josephi Opera, Lat. Ven. 1486. 0. 8. 0.

Herodotus, Gr. Ven. 1502. 0. 10. 0.

Demosthenis Opera, Gr. Ven. 1504. 1. 0. 0.

Ovidii Amores, Metam. Fasti. 1472. 0. 10. 0.

Plautus, per Georg. Alexandrinum. Ven. 1472. 0. 12. 0.

Cato, Varro, &c. de Re rustica. Par. 1533. 1. 0. 0.

QUARTO.

Æsopus, Ed. 1. 0. 5. 0.

Sophocles, cum Scholiis, Gr. Flor. 1547. 0. 5. 0.)

The university having purchased the foregoing parcell of books, began to treat with the widow of the same Dr. Bernard, concerning the manuscripts and books collated with MSS. which were in a distinct parcell by themselves. Dr. Bernard, in his life-time, had printed the titles of about 220 of them in the catalogue of his MSS. to which were added, 1. Some other manuscripts which were omitted. 2. His own writings in 60 books; and 3. many other books which were either collated, or had written notes in them, to the number of about 500 in the whole: for which at first, the widow asked 300^l but afterwards came to 250^l which was 10*s.* a book, one with another.

It was considered by the university, on the one side, that

1. Here was many oriental manuscripts for which there was no present occasion in the library.

2. The doctor's own writings were look'd upon as indigested collections, whereof there was but few things finish'd, or what he had put his last hand to.

3. Many of the printed books appeared to be not truly collated, or to have any material notes or observations inserted into them: and consequently, they could not deserve much above the ordinary price.

Nor was it forgotten on the other hand, that

1. Among the oriental manuscripts some were considerable, and highly necessary for the library.

2. The doctor's papers might furnish the student with many good hints, which might be advantageously improv'd.

3. As to the books which were not collated with manuscripts, or not much illustrated with learned notes; regard should be had to them, and also to the oriental MSS. and to the doctor's writings. That is, that not much more should be given for the whole, than if these were not there.

4. It was found that among the manuscripts, many were of great value, and particularly many Latin classics of the best note; of which, there was either no copy at all, or no accurate copy in the publick library: viz. of Virgil, Ovid, Horace, Manilius, Plautus, Frontinus, Nonius Marcellus, and printed books, as drawn up by Humphrey Wanley, and written in his own hand before the &c. Classical authors in manuscript being rare in England, and particularly in the publick library.

5. It appeared, upon inspection, that these printed books, whether collated or not, were of rare and choice editions, and mostly different from what were in the library already.

For which reasons, amongst others, it was resolved by the delegates of accounts, that the books should be bought, as accordingly they were, for the sum of 200^l which the widdow soon after received for them.

Doctor Bernard had been careful to set down the price of each book (either as it cost him, or as he valued it) upon the book, somewhere at the beginning: but many of these prices are (I know not by whom) either torn, raced, or blotted out. Upon perusal of the said books, when I took the following catalogue of them, I put down the price of them, according to the doctor's valuation, viz. of so many as had the prices still remaining upon them, and they amount in the whole to 188: 16: 0. Notwithstanding many considerable books both MSS. and printed be not taken in; as may be easily seen by the following catalogue.

I can't forbear taking notice, that many of these books as well printed as MSS. are (to my thinking) but oddly priz'd, some too high, and others too low: tho' 'tis certain the doctor understood books well.

(It is unnecessary to quote the prices of the manuscripts, since without actual inspection the relative value cannot be ascertained; the valuation of some few of the printed books, with manuscript notes, will be interesting.

FOLIO.

Alexander Trallianus, Gr. Par. R. Steph. 1548, cum castigationibus et Addit. ex MS. 0. 10. 0.

Aristophanes, Gr. cum Scholiis. Bas. Froben, 1547, cum castigat. et notis MSS. 2. 0. 0.

Demosthenes, Gr. Ven. Ald. 1504, cum emendat. MSS. 0. 15. 0.

Hesychius, Gr. Ven. Ald. 1514, cum emendat. MSS. H. Steph. 1. 15. 0.

Ovidius, edit. Bonon. 1480, charta magna. 0. 4. 0.

Ovidius, cum Accursii notis. Ven. 1486, charta magna, ex parte collatus. 0. 10. 0.

Rhetores Græci, Ven. Ald. 1513, cum castigat. 3. 0. 0.

Sallustius, Ven. 1481, ex parte collatus. 0. 1. 0.

Minores Poetæ, Ven. Ald. 1495, cum notis. } 0. 10. 0.

Aratus, cum Comment. Ald. charta magna. }

Suetonius, 1471, cum notis MSS. 0. 10. 0.

Thucydides, Gr. Ven. Ald. 1502. 0. 4. 0.

Vitruvius, &c. Ams. Elzivir, 1649. 0. 18. 0.

Vitruvius, Ven. 1511. 1. 5. 0.

Xenophon, Gr. Ven. Ald. 1525, cum castigat. 0. 10. 0.

QUARTO.

Anthologia Epigrammatum, Gr. litteris majusculis, cum notis MSS. charta mag. 2. 0. 0.

Sallustius, vetustissimæ Editionis impressæ sub membr. et splendide illuminat. This is a noble copy of the Sallust printed at Paris about 1470. See De Bure, 4862, and Dibdin's Catalogue of Lord Spencer's library, vol. ii. page 327. It has no price affixed to it.)

It may not be too much to add, that the addition made to the Bodleian from Dr. Bernard's study was of the greatest importance, and contained many of the most valuable books both printed and MSS. now in the public library. Mr. Thwaites has written an ill-natured story in one of Hearne's pocket books, from which he would lead the reader to suppose that Dr. Bernard resorted to his namesake Dr. Francis Bernard for information as to the value of books at Heinsius's sale, and was moreover guilty of a breach of trust in order to procure the knowledge he stood in need of. But it would be idle to expose a calumny which Dr. Bernard's knowledge of every thing connected with literature, as well as the uni-valuation of the several articles: as well as Hearne's memoranda of this celebrated writer.*]

"ABRAHAM MARKLAND, son of Mich. Markl. of the parish of — in London, was elected from Merchant-Taylor's school a scholar of S. John's coll. an. 1662, aged 17 years, took the degrees in arts, that of master being completed 1669, at which time he was senior of the great act celebrated on the 12th of July the same year. Afterwards he retired into Hampshire, followed the pleasant paths of poetry and humanity for a time. At length entering into holy orders, he was installed prebendary of Winchester on the 4th of Jul. 1679, was afterwards beneficed near that place, and on the 5th of Jul. 1692 was admitted doctor of divinity. In the month of Aug. 1694 he became master of the hospital of S. Cross near Winchester, on the death of Dr. Will. Harison. He hath published,

"Poems on his Majesty's Birth and Restoration, his Highness Prince Rupert's, and his Grace the Duke of Albemarle's Naval Victories, the late great Pestilence and Fire of London."

"Lond. 1667 in 9 sh. and an half in qu.

"Serm. before the Court of Aldermen at Guildhall Chappel, 29 Octob. 1682 on Luke 19. 41, 42."

"Lond. 1683. qu.

"EDWARD WAPLE son of Christop. Waple of London—born in London—bred in Merchant-form integrity of his conduct, sufficiently refute; and it may be sufficient for the writer of these additions to say that the whole tale can be nothing more than an idle fabrication invented probably as a ludicrous imposition on the credulity of Tom Hearne.]

* [Dr. Smith told me the last time he was in Oxford, that Dr. Bernard writ a large learned preface to the catalogue of manuscripts, which he had seen after his death in the publick library; but upon enquiry then for it, I could not find it, nor have I been able to meet with it since, notwithstanding I have carefully look'd over all his papers. v. 60. 1705.

I have been informed, that the notes of the Amsterdam edition of Clements' Epistle which have the letter B. annexed are Dr. Bernard's. The gentleman that related this said he had it from Le Clerk himself, the editor. xxi. 48. 1709.

In the copy of Aratus of the Oxon edition in Mr. Dodwell's study, there is a printed letter prefixed to the notes upon the hymns, from Dr. Bernard to Mr. Dodwell, which I never saw in any other copy. xxxii. 5. 1711.

Mr. Dodwell, in a letter to Dr. (then Mr.) Edward Bernard, in vol. 155 of Dr. Smith's MSS. that I have, insinuates, that the said Dr. Bernard was the editor of the Oxford Aratus, the care of which however is owing to bish. Fell. It is dated from Trin. coll. near Dublin, March 14, 1674. cvii. 61. 1725.

On Friday morn June 19, 1730, died Mrs. Appleby, wife of Mr. Appleby, tallow-chandler of St. Peter's in the east, Oxford, after a long lingering sickness, which ended in a consumption. She was niece of the late learned Dr. Edward Bernard. cxxvi. 98. 1730.

Mrs. Appleby was buried on Sund. June 21, at Holywell in Oxford by her mother, who was sister to Dr. Edw. Bernard. She was buried in Holywell church yard: she was aged 55. Ibid. 100.]

" Taylor's school, elected scholar of S. John's coll. in the latter end of June 1663; art. bach. 7 May 1667, A. M. 15 Apr. 1671, proctor of the university 1675. bach. of div. 10 June 1677. Vid. FASTI 1677. said to be author of a book put out under Mr. Goad's name after his death.

[1086]

" MATTHEW MORGAN, son of Edw. Morgan sometime alderman and mayor of Bristol, was born in the parish of S. Nicholas in the said city, educated in grammar learning under Walt. Rainstrop sometimes fellow of S. John's coll. became a commoner of the said coll. under the tuition of Joh. Rainstrop son to the said Walter, in act or midsummer term, an. 1667, aged 15 years, took the degrees in arts, entred on the law-line, and took the doctoral degree in that faculty in the year 1685. In 1688 he was presented to a good living in Somersetshire, but lost it for not reading the articles in due time. In 1692 he left Oxon, and had a small cure near Bristol bestowed on him, being then in a poor condition. He is the author of

" A Poem to the Queen upon the King's Victory in Ireland and his Voyage to Holland. Oxon. 1691 in 11 sh. in fol. ded. to the lady M. S.

" An Elegy on the Death of the honourable Mr. Robert Boyle. Oxon. 1692 in 4 sh. and an half in fol. It was published in Oxon in the beginning of March 1691, and by the author dedicated to T. N. esq;

" A Poem upon the late Victory over the French Fleet at Sea. Lond. 1692. qu. The said victory was obtained on the 19th of May the same year.

" He hath also translated from Lat. into English. (1) The Life of Atticus, written originally by Cornel. Nepos. Oxon. 1684. oct. It is printed among The Lives of illustrious Men, written by the said author, and done into English by several hands of Oxon. (2) The Life of Aug. Cesar. Lond. 1689, written by Suetonius Tranq. He wrote also the epistle ded. and preface to the first vol. of Plutarch's Morals. Lond. 1684. oct. Among which Morals he hath translated from Greek into English. (1) The chapt. entit. The Tranquility of the Mind. (2) The chap. entit. Consolation to Apollonius. In the said epist. ded. which is to William archb. of Canterbury, he hath these expressions that were excepted against by some persons—that our souls may be with these philosophers (meaning Plutarch and others) together in the same state and bliss. And afterwards—the image of the deity is so closely impressed upon him (king Charles II.) that the idea comes very near the original. This last expression was taken by many as bordering on blasphemy. In the said preface he hath these words—"Tis pity the insect-cabal was not obliged with such an immortal relique, that it might be preserv'd amongst Ashmole's rarities, &c. meaning the pen

" of Philemon Holland, which transcribed all his loads of writings. These words being misliked by Dr. Rob. Plot the keeper of Ashmole's museum, wherein the said rarities are put, and by some others, they complained of them to Dr. Lloyd the vice-chancellor, whereupon Morgan being threatned with expulsion, he disowned the said preface (tho' subscribed with M. M.) and Joh. Gellibrand the bookseller took it upon himself. These things were done about the middle of Decemb. 1683. He hath also translated into English, The Life of Cimon, which is in the third vol. of Plutarch's Lives, translated by several hands. Lond. 1684. oct.

" LAURENCE SMITH, son of Sam. Smith ordinary of the prison call'd Newgate in London, was elected scholar of S. John's coll. from Merchant Taylor's school, in the latter end of June 1674, aged 17 years or more; and being afterwards made fellow, took the degrees in the civil law, that of doctor being compleated in 1687, at which time he was in holy orders. He hath written,

" Conversation in Heaven. Being Devotions consisting of Meditations and Prayers on several considerable Subjects in practical Divinity. Lond. 1693. oct. 'written for raising the decayed spirit of piety.' The second part came out in 1694. oct. containing Sacramental Devotions, consisting of Meditations and Prayers, preparatory unto a worthy Receiving of the holy Communion, as also Meditations and Prayers suited to every Part of Administring and Receiving it. Practical Discourse of the Sin against the Holy Ghost.

" WILLIAM LOWTH, son of a father of both his names of London, was elected scholar of S. John's coll. from Merchant Taylor's school in the latter end of June, an. 1675, aged 15 years or more, afterwards fellow, master of arts, bach. of divinity, chaplain to Peter lord bishop of Winchester. He is the author of " A Vindication of the divine Authority and Inspiration of the Writings of the Old and New Testament, in Answer to a Treatise lately translated out of French, entit. Five Letters concerning the Inspiration of the holy Scriptures, &c. Oxon. 1692. 93. oct.

" THOMAS HOY, son of Clem. Hoy, was born in London, elected scholar of S. Joh. Bapt. coll. from Merchant Taylor's school, an. 1676, aged 17 years, was afterwards fellow, master of arts, doctor of physick, and practised his faculty in and near the antient borough of Warwick. He hath published,

" Two Essays: The former, Ovid De Arte Amandi, or the Art of Love: the first Book.

[1087]

" The latter, Hero and Leander of Musæus from the Greek. Lond. 1682. in 11 sh. in qu.

" Agathocles, the Sicilian Usurper, a Poem. Lond. 1683. in 9 sh. in fol.

" He also translated from Greek into English. (1) A Discourse concerning Bashfulness. (2) Discourse of Hearing. Both written originally by Plutarch, and printed in a book entit. Plutarch's Morals, &c. Lond. 1684. oct. As also from Lat. into English, (1) The Life of Pausanias, printed in a book entit. The Lives of illustrious Men. Oxon. 1684. oct. p. 32. written by Cornelius Nepos. (2) Life of Tiberius Cesar. Lond. 1689. oct. written by C. Suetonius Tranq.

" WILLIAM SHERWOOD or SHERARD, son of George Sherwood of Bushby in Leicestershire, was matriculated of St. John's coll. in act term, A. D. 1677, aged 18 years. He was afterward fellow of this college, and took the degree of bach. of civil law, 11 Dec. 1683. He hath travelled over many parts of Europe, and hath a great character for his knowledge of herbs and plants among all our botanists, especially the learned Mr. John Ray, who mentions him with honour in several of his books, viz. in his Synopsis Methodica Stirpium Britannicarum, &c. Lond. 1690. oct. in appendix, p. 237, 238. 'Stirpium species novæ, hoc est, catalogo nostro non comprehensæ, quas in Anglia aut insulis adjacentibus observavit D. Gul. Sherard,' &c. In the preface to the said book of Mr. Ray, thus.—'Gul. Sherard, ob eximiam rei herbariæ scientiam non immerito celebris & ob suavissimos etiam mores ab amicis nobis commendatus;' and the same Mr. Joh. Ray in his Stirpium Europæ, cum extra Britannias nascentium Sylloge, &c. Lond. 1694. oct. p. 398, 399, &c. 'Supplementum ad catalogum præcedentem stirpium quarundam rariorum, ab eruditissimo viro totiusque historiæ naturalis, sed imprimis rei botanicæ Gul. Sherard, in pergrationibus suis per Galliam & Italiam observatarum,' &c.

" FRANCIS LEE, son of Edw. Lee of Cobham in Surrey, was elected scholar of S. Joh. Bapt. coll. from Merchant Taylor's school, about the beginning of Jul. 1679, aged 17 years or more, took the degrees in arts, became chaplain to John lord Stanwell of Somersetshire, travelled beyond the seas in the latter end of 1691, being then a non-juror. He hath written,

" Horologium Christianum. Oxon. 1689. oct.

" Officium Viri Sapientiæ studiosi. printed with the former book.

" The labouring Man's Remembrancer: or, a practical Discourse of the Labour of the Body, with suitable Devotions. Oxon. 1690. oct. in 3 or more sh.

" He also wrote the epistle to the publisher set

" before a book entit. The Snare broken, &c. written by Zachary Mayne.

" CHARLES BLAKE, son of John Blake of Reading in Berksh. gent. was admitted scholar of S. John's coll. an. 1683, afterwards fellow, and master of arts. He hath written,

" Tres Nugæ Poeticæ. This is at the end of a translation which he made from Greek into Latin entit. Lusus amatorius: sive Musæi Poema de Herone & Leandro. Lond. 1694. qu.

" BEVILL HIGGONS, a younger son of sir Tho. Higg. of Grewell in Hampshire, knight, by Bridget his second wife, dau. of sir Bevill Green-vill of Stow in Cornwall, knight, and sister to John Greenvill the first earl of Bath of his name, became a com. of S. John's coll. in Lent term 1686, aged 16 years, where continuing.....years, went afterwards, I think, to Cambridge. He is the author of " Various poems, as (1) Poem to Sir Godfrey Kneller drawing the Lady Hyde's Picture. (2) Song on a Lady indispos'd. (3) To a Lady, who raffling for the K. of France's Picture, flung the highest Chances on the Dice. (4) On the Lady Sandwich's being stayed in Town by the immoderate Rain. All which are in a book entit. Examen Poeticum: Being the third Part of Miscellany Poems, &c. Lond. 1693. oct. published by Joh. Dryden, esq; (5) A Poem to Mr. Dryden on his Translation of Persius.

" WILLIAM DAWES, son of sir Joh. Dawes of Bocking in Essex, baronet, became a scholar of S. John's coll. in act term 1687, aged 15 years, continued there two years or more, and was made fellow, and soon after succeeded his father in his honour. He hath published, An Anatomy of Atheism: a Poem. Lond. 1694. in 5 sh. in qu. This poem, which was first published in London in the latter end of Aug. 1693, is dedicated to sir George Darcy, baronet.

WRITERS OF JESUS COLLEGE.

" WILLIAM LLOYD, son of Richard Lloyd bach. of div. rector of Sonning and vicar of Tylehurst in Berkshire, by Joan Wickins his wife, was born at Tylehurst in Aug. 1627, and baptized there on the 26th of the same month, educated in school learning under his father, and at 13 years of age understanding Latin, Greek and something of Hebrew, was entred a student in Oriel coll. in Lent term, an. 1639, and in the year following or thereabouts became scholar of Jesus coll. under the tuition of Mr. Hen. Vaughan mention'd among the writers in the third volume, under the year 1661. In Oct. 1642 he was admitted

[1088]

“bach. of arts, which being compleated by determination, he left the university, it being then garrison'd for his majesty's use, and after the surrender of it to the parliament forces, he took the degree of master of his faculty, being then fellow of the said coll. of Jesus. In 1648 he was made a deacon by Dr. Skinner bishop of Oxon, and afterwards being called into the country to be tutor to the children of Will. Backhouse of Swallowfield in Berks, esq; was, upon the ejection of Dr. Joh. Pordage by the commissioners appointed by Oliver, presented to the rectory of Bradfield in the same county by Elias Ashmole, esq; in the latter end of Dec. 1654, he being then lord of that manour in right of his wife: so that being examined by the tryers appointed by the said Oliver, and passed with approbation, yet designs being laid against him by Christop. Fowler and Sim. Ford two presbyterian ministers of Reading (who endeavoured to bring in Dr. Tho. Temple) they supposing that sir Humph. Forster had right of presentation, he thought better to resign his presentation to Mr. Ashmole, than to undergo a contest with those busy men. In 1656 he was ordained priest by Dr. Bröunrigg bishop of Exeter, and in the same year went to Wadh. coll. as governor to Joh. Backhouse, esq; before-mention'd, who was gent. com. there, and with him he continued till 1659. In 1660 he was made prebendary of Rippon, and in July 1666 chapl. to his majesty. In 1667 he proceeded doctor of divinity, became preb. of Woodford and Willsford in the church of Salisbury in Decemb. 1667, and in the year following vicar of S. Mary's church in Reading, and archdeacon of Merioneth in which dignity he was installed on the 13th of June. In 1672, May 3, he was installed dean of Bangor in the place of Dr. Griff. Williams, who had kept that dignity many years in commendam with the see of Ossory, and in 1674 was made residentiary of Salisbury. In the latter end of 1676 he became vicar of S. Martin's church within the city of Westminster, upon the promotion of Dr. Lamplugh to the see of Exeter, and on the third of Octob. in 1680 he was consecrated bishop of S. Asaph at Lambeth (in the place of Dr. Is. Barrow deceased) by Dr. Sancroft archb. of Canterbury, and his assistants, London, Ely, Rochester and Oxford. On the 8th of June 1688 he was one of the six bishops, beside Dr. Sancroft archb. of Cant. that were committed prisoners to the Tower of London, for contriving, making and publishing a seditious libel against his majesty (king James II.) and his government, &c. that is, for subscribing a petition to his majesty, wherein he and the rest of the said bishops shewed the great averseness that they found in themselves, to the distributing and publishing in all their churches his majesty's late declaration for liberty of conscience; where continuing till they were publicly

“tried in Westm. hall for the same, were, to the great joy of the true sons of England, released thence, on the 15th of the same month. In the latter end of 1688 he was made lord almoner to king William III, and about the 20th of Octob. 1692 was translated to the see of Lichfield, vacant by the death of Dr. Tho. Wood. He is a person most indefatigable in his industry, and the most judicious in his observations of any that is known, and is one of the greatest masters of stile now living, as a noted author tells us; to which I shall add, that he is an eminent preacher, divine, critic and historian, a zealous enemy to popery and papists. His farther character you shall have anon, while I tell you what things he hath written and published, viz.

“The late Apology in Behalf of the Papists reprinted, and answered in Behalf of the Royalists. Lond. 1667, &c. in 7 sh. in qu. This was an answer to a pamphlet entit. To all the Royalists that suffered for his Majesty: and to all the rest of the good People of England, the humble Apology of the English Catholics. Lond. 1666. in 1 sh. in qu. This pamphlet, which was published about the 11th of Nov. the same year, was written by Rog. Palmer earl of Castlemayne, with the assistance, as 'twas then said, of Rob. Pugh a secular priest, who being diligently enquired after, but not found, and the printer also fled, the presses were broken by command of the house of commons. Afterward was written by the same hand against Dr. Lloyd's pamphlet entit. The late Apology, &c. another bearing this title, A Reply to the Answer of the Cath. Apol. or, a clear Vindication of the Catholics of England from all Matter of Fact charged against them by their Enemies. This was printed at Lond. in Apr. 1668, but just as it was finished most part of it was seized upon. Soon after the author ordered a re-impression to be made beyond the sea; which, before the end of the year, was publicly sold in London. Dr. Lloyd hath also written

“A seasonable Discourse shewing the Necessity of maintaining the established Religion in Opposition to Popery. Lond. 1674. qu. which came to a fifth edit. in 1673. This was answered by the said Roger earl of Castlemayne, sometime a gent. com. of King's coll. in Cambr. (son of sir James Palmer knight and baronet, of Dorney-court in Buckinghamshire, sometime chancellor of the Garter) in a pamphlet entit. A full Answer and Confutation of a scandalous Pamphlet called A seasonable Discourse, &c. Antw. alias Lond. 1673. qu. This answer containeth 3 sheets, two of which, tho' taken in the press, yet notwithstanding by the 28th of Mar. 1673 they were reprinted. Afterwards our author Lloyd came out with,

“Gilb. Burnet in his preface to the first part of The Hist. of the Reformation, &c. Lond. 1681. fol. 2 edit.”

[1090]

" A reasonable Defence of the seasonable Discourse, &c. Lond. 1673. 74. in 6 sh. in qu. And soon after came out Observations on the said Reasonable Defence, by the said Castlemayne. It is now to be noted that in the third edit. of his (Castlemayne's) Reply to the Answer of the Cath. Apol. &c. published in 1672 in oct. is (besides the Cath. Apology, which is printed before it) incorporated the sum of A full Answer and Confut. &c. of A seasonable Disc. &c.—with Additions. As also all the objections and arguments in the Reasonable Defence of the said Discourse, and at the end of it is made under the name and title of Farther Observations on the Reasonable Defence, &c. a particular re-capitulation of whatsoever is therein; so that the answer presently follows, or the section of the reply is cited; in which matters are more fully cleared. The whole is dedicated to Edw. earl of Clarendon, author of Animadversions on one of Mr. Hugh Cressy's books, to whom also a postscript at the end is directed. Our author Lloyd hath also written,

" The Difference between the Church and the Court of Rome considered, in some Reflections on a Dialogue entit. A Conference between two Protestants and a Papist. Lond. 1673. 74. in 5 sh. in qu.

" Considerations touching the true Way to suppress Popery in this Kingdom, &c. on Occasion whereof is inserted an historical Account of the Reformation here in England. Lond. 1677. qu. The Considerations, as also The Difference between the Ch. and Court of Rome, were severely and particularly reflected on by sir Franc. Winington in his empty flourishing speech made before the lords on the first day's tryal of William viscount Stafford, 30 Nov. 1680, (which day was wholly taken up in proving a plot in general) as treatises purposely and designedly wrote sometime before the discovery of the popish plot, to reconcile us to, and make us easy towards, popery, by way of softning and mollifying preparatories. Our author being sensible of this (tho' his name is not set to the said pamphlets, nor would he then own them) and highly resenting as a public blot thrown on his name and reputation (who always till then stood fair in the good opinion of all honest protestants, by reason of his many and learned books against Rome and its cause) took an opportunity to clear himself to the same persons (the lords) before whom he was charged with a piece of disservice of so weighty and dangerous a consequence in the epistle dedicatory of his sermon to the house of lords preached 5 Nov. 1680, and published just after the said tryal; wherein he saith that that design pursued in the discourse entit. Considerations, &c. was dreaded and feared by

⁶ " See in The Tryal of Will. Visc. Stafford for High Treason, &c. Lond. 1680-1. fol. pag. 11, 12."

" the most knowing and eminent papists, (this he manifests clearly out of a letter of Edw. Coleman; and another of cardinal Howard a little before that time printed) yet he adds, if that project only proposed and problematically commended, had been really (as he doth not yet apprehend it was) pernicious to protestancy, this ought not to be laid to his charge, he being the author only of the Historical Account of the Reformation, which he dares to own as most true, and which is just about half the book. The preface before which, (viz. the said two treatises) gives an account of their respective scopes and drifts, and affirms they were framed by different hands. But this by the way I must let the reader know, that tho' he saith so, and will not own himself in discourse to be the author of the aforesaid 5 treatises (his name being not put to them) yet those that knew him well and are related to him, have affirmed him to be the author in my hearing: and some have verily thought that he wrote Lex Talionis, mention'd in Dr. Herbert Croft under the year 1691. Our author Lloyd (whose several tracts against popery were reprinted in 1689. qu.) is also reflected on by the author of a pamphlet entit. A Dialogue (only feigned) between Le Cheise and four Jesuits concerning their Affairs here in England, upon the account of his being the supposed author of the Considerations touching the true Way to suppress Popery, as also in another book entit. An Account of the Growth of Popery, &c. by Andr. Marvell, p. 22. Dr. Lloyd hath also published

" Several sermons, as (1) Sermon before the King at Whitehall, 1 Dec. 1667; on Joh. 6. 14. Lond. 1668 and 74. in qu. (2) Sermon at the Funeral of John (Wilkins) Bishop of Chester, 12 Dec. 1672; on Heb. 13. 12. Lond. 1673. qu. Ibid. 1678. in oct. (3) Serm. before the King at Whitehall, 6 Mar. 1673; on Rom. 8. 13. Lond. 1674. qu. (4) Serm. at the Funeral of Sir Edmund-Bury Godfrey, one of his Majesty's Justices of the Peace, who was barbarously murdered: preached on the last of Octob. 1678. in the Parish Church of S. Martin in the Fields; on 2 Sam. 3. 33, 34. Lond. 1678. qu. (5) Sermon preached at S. Martin's in the Fields, 5 Nov. 1678; on Joh. 16. 2. Lond. 1679. qu. (6) Serm. before the King at Whitehall, 24 Nov. 1678; on Acts 2. 42. Lond. 1679. qu. wherein is a great deal of good reading shewed by the many quotations. (7) Sermon before the House of Lords, 5 Nov. 1680; on Psal. 124. 1, 2, 3. Lond. 1681. qu. (8) Sermon before their Majesties at Whitehall, 5 Nov. 1689, being the anniversary Day or Thanksgiving for the great Deliverance from the Gunpowder Treason, as also the Day of his Majesty's Landing in England; on Psal. 57. 6, 7. Lond. 1689. qu. therein is a great deal of bitterness against the papists. (9) Sermon before [1091]

"the King and Queen at Whitehall, 12 Mar. 1689,
"being the Fast Day; on 2 Pet. 3. 9. Lond. 1690.
"qu.

"An Historical Account of Church Government,
"as it was in Great Britain and Ireland when they
"first received the Christian Religion. Lond. 1684.
"oct. At the end of which book is a catalogue of "such things that were before written and published
"by the author; among which are those against "popery which he formerly disown'd. See more
"in sir G. Mackensie in the FASTI, the second "volume, an. 1690.

"Letter to Dr. Will. Sherlock, in Vindication of "that Part of Josephus's History, which gives an "Account of Jaddus the High-Priest's submitting
"to Alexander the Great, while Darius was living.
"Against the Answer to the Piece entit. Obedience
"and Submission to the present Government. Lond.
"1691. in 5 sh. in qu. published in Jan. 1690. He "also wrote, as the common report went,

"The Pretences of the French Invasion ex-
"amined, for the Information of the People of "England. Lond. 1692. in 2 sh. in qu.

"Chronologia Universalis, in folio, now in the "press at the theatre.

"He hath translated into Lat. and English, A "Greek Epistle of Jeremy, Priest, Dr. of the "Eastern Church, to Mr. Ashmole, concerning the "Life of St. George, according to the Traditions "of the Eastern Christians. 1133. Bib. Ashm.

"He also formerly took much pains in compiling
"an History of the Ch. of England, but being
"then, and more afterwards, engaged in the service
"thereof in a station that afforded him very little "leisure to finish it, he set⁷ Dr. Gilb. Burnet to "write it, and furnished him with a curious collec"tion of his own observations, so that in some sort
"the work of Dr. Burnet may be accounted his, for
"besides the materials, he corrected it with a most "critical exactness to the last finishing thereof.
"These matters being reported by an author of "note, the reader may be pleased farther to know,
"that one Thom. Harding, sometime fellow of S.
"John's coll. in Cambridge, afterwards one of the "masters of Westminster school (whose proficiency
"in the Greek tongue was so great that he was "commonly called the Grecian) and at length rector
"of Souklern in Oxfordshire for 26 years time,
"where he died on the 10th of Octob. 1648, and "was buried in the chancel of the church of that "place) did with wonderful industry write several "large volumes, especially one Of Ecclesiastical
"History; which, after his death, coming into the "hands of his widow named Joyce, daughter of
"William Stapleton of Litywood in Staffordsh. esq;
"came after hers (which hapned within the precincts

⁷ "See in Dr. Burnet's preface to the first part of the "Hist. of the Reformation of the Church of England. 1681.
"sec. edit."

"of Harthall in Oxon, on the 28th of May 1650)
"into the hands of Mr. John Fell, then lately of "Ch. Ch. and from him to our author Dr. Will.
"Lloyd, who married the daughter of his sister
"Philippa, the wife of Dr. Walt. Jones prebendary
"of Westminster: so that, I presume, with the help
"of that manuscript he compiled the Hist. of the "Church of England, before-mention'd; who also
"(I mean Dr. Lloyd) did afterwards labour much
"in midwiving a book into the world entit. An
"Essay towards a real Character, and a Philoso- "phical Language. Lond. 1668. fol. the author of "which, Dr. Joh. Wilkins, doth in his epistle to "the reader before it, say these things following of "Dr. Lloyd.——'As for the principal difficulties
"which I met with in any part of this work, I must "acknowledge my self obliged to the continual as-
